JEALOUSY OF LAD'S ADVANCEMENT, LEADS TO KILLING

With No Crime Other Than That Of Merited Advancement, Schoolmate is Killed To Death. Murderers Have Confessed.

Pueblo Colo., March 17.—Five school boys arrested today in connection with the death of Ted, the 11-year-old son of Mrs. H. A. Kuydendall, confessed according to the police; that they kicked the boy to death this morning because they were jealous of his high standing in the school the boys attended.

The Kuydendall lad, suffering from severe wounds, was found behind a bill board. He died an hour afterward.

Ted, shortly before his death, charged he had been kicked and injured by five boys. Physicians say the lad died as a result of these injuries.

Behind the death of the lad is a school boy feud. Ted's mother is poor. The boy did not wear clothes as good as those worn by other pupils, so the name of "poverty" was given him by his school mates. Despite his handicaps, Ted led his classes. This is said to have aroused jealousy in other students.

Last week the lad resented remarks about his clothes, according to his statement. A fight with two older boys followed, in which Kuydendall bested the other lads. A "gang" of five boys, ranging up to fifteen years of age, waylaid him on his way home from school on Friday, according to his statement. Kuydendall tried to defend himself but he was thrown to the ground and kicked into unconsciousness.

Municipal Surveys and Audits

Santa Fe, N. M., March 18.—The Taxpayers' Association of New Mexico is engaged in making financial surveys of towns and villages in the state. During the past few months, such surveys have been made for Clayton, Belen, Magdalena, Socorro, Alamogordo, Tularosa, Melrose, Fort Sumner, Willard, Mountainair. In addition Mr. Stephens, assistant to the director of the association, has made thorough audits from date of incorporation to the present time in Columbus, Carrizozo, Vaughn and Texico. Such audit will be made this month, also, for the village of Roy. The assistance furnished these municipalities includes suggestions and recommendations for keeping proper accounts, forms for books and records being submitted for consideration.

New Mexico Municipal League urges codification of municipal laws, improved provision for bond issues, real budgets and state supervision of city, town and village accounting methods.

Mrs. Schram, of Chicago, is visiting her brother, Mr. Neighbauer, who is confined in a local hospital.

Mrs. La Fleur Suffers Painful Accident

Last Sunday morning the ladies of the Episcopal Church while at the task of arranging the K. of P. Hall in readiness for the usual Sunday School hour, thought it advisable to change the location of the piano and attempted the change without the assistance of male help, but the rollers in some manner refused to work properly. Thinking the resistance was due to the weight of the instrument, the ladies attempted to force it, whereupon the piano turned over pinning Mrs. La Fleur, who happened to be on that side, underneath and badly breaking the ankle of her right leg.

She was taken to her apartment in the Wetmore building where medical aid was administered and at this writing she is resting as easy as could be expected under the unfortunate circumstances. The accident was a severe one as it is what the medical fraternity terms a "Potts Fracture." The La Fleur family have the sympathy of the entire community.

Are You Interested?

In another column appears the program of the County Teachers' Convention. Four of the leading educators of New Mexico have been secured for this program, and, no doubt, have a special message for school officers and citizens as well as for the teachers. Supt. E. E. Cole, president of the association, urges all persons who are interested in the welfare of our schools to attend every session.

During the convention, the grade rooms of the west side schools will have an exhibit of the art work they have done during the past seven months. This will consist of drawings, color work, raffia work, clay modeling, basketry, etc. Before school began last September, Superintendent Cole requested the teachers to closely follow the course of study laid down by the State Board of Education and prepare for this exhibit in March or April. The citizens of Carrizozo are cordially invited to inspect these exhibits at the close of the half-day sessions of the convention.

Closing Up Fast Boys, Come On

Rapid advancement has been made by the New State Oil & Gas Company during the past week. Some of the biggest land owners in Lincoln county have come across with their leases, showing their confidence in the officials of the company and their faith in the proposition. Now, that the largest land holders have certified their faith in the project, the lesser ones should come quickly, before it is too late. The company secured this week, about 50,000 acres and now as we near the finish, everybody should come, and make the finish a good one. Closing up fast boys, come on.

American Legion Dance Saturday Night

The American Legion will give an entertainment, supper and dance at the K. of P. Hall Saturday night and a record breaking crowd is expected. The invitations were issued the early part of this week, so that people in neighboring towns would be notified of the event and invited to attend.

There will be a short program as a foregoing, followed by dancing and other amusements after which supper will be served. After refreshments are served, the dancing will be resumed. The boys have made arrangements to accommodate a good sized crowd and of course they will not be disappointed. This will be the first affair of the kind given by the Legion and should be overwhelmingly patronized. Messrs. Ferguson, Pitts and Bamberger will furnish the music and if you can't dance you can enjoy the music, which is always of the very best—Let's have a "bouncer" crowd and make the boys feel good.

Signs of Spring

(Alamogordo News)

Alamo Chapter No. 11 Royal Arch Masons, held a conclave at their hall Saturday night and conferred degrees.

There were 25 visiting members from El Paso. In the afternoon at the hall the degrees of Past Master, Master and Most Excellent Master were conferred on L. N. Jones.

Also the Royal Arch degree was conferred upon G. J. Wolfinger, Tom Charles and H. H. McElroy.

At 8:00 p. m. a banquet was served to local members and their guests at Howard's at which 47 were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Holden and Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Woods were up in the foot hills near the Alamo Marble quarry last Sunday afternoon when they ran on to two large rattlesnakes laying out on a rock sunning themselves. It is considered that this is rather early for rattlers to be out and it is possible that their snakeships were merely trying out the weather a little and were to make a report to snakesdom as to the advancement of spring.

The members of the Alamo Band intend to give a dance at the Pavilion on Friday evening, March 26th. If you like to dance to band music don't fail to be there. The grand March will be "Hit the Trail" at 8:30 and the dancing will go on to 12:00. Music for the entire program of dances will be furnished by the band, and music that if you can't dance by, you simply can't dance at all.

A. C. Wingfield has sold his entire meat market equipment to the Cooperative Store of Tucuman and the shipment was made today. Mr. Wingfield is undecided as to what line of business he will follow in the future, but when you engage him in conversation, the atmosphere savors strongly of "oil."

MANSLAUGHTER IS VERDICT IN SCANLAND MURDER CASE

Window Breaking Fiends Begin Their Work

Tuesday night between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, while Mr. Albert Ziegler was looking over the books in his office, some mischief makers broke two windows on the south side of the store. Mr. Ziegler heard the noise and on investigating the cause, found two good sized rocks on the floor and crushed glass scattered over the goods counters. He at once notified Marshal Brady, who hurried to the store but by that time, the offenders had made good their escape. Mr. Ziegler has a knowledge of who the miscreants are and they will save themselves trouble and prosecution if they call and make a settlement for the wrong done. He has the names and will wait for a few days to give the offenders a chance to avoid trouble. Carrizozo should have a curfew law like other places over the state have, to prevent roving bands of boys after the hour of 9, and we would offer this as a suggestion to the incoming council, that some consideration be given to a measure of this kind.

Grateful Poland

When the last shipment of clothing was made by the local Chapter of the Red Cross, Mrs. Daniel Elliott was one of the contributors and when the bundle was packed, Mr. Elliott, addressed an envelope bearing the name of his wife and threw it into the bundle with no thought of ever hearing from anyone who might receive benefit from the contents of the package.

A few days ago, however, Mrs. Elliott received a letter from distant Poland, which while crude in composition, expressed a sense of appreciation that is noteworthy and commendable. We are not printing the letter as it was written, for it would not be properly understood; but in substance and meaning it reads as follows:

Szczuczyn, Poland, 19.1.20.9.7.
Mrs. Daniel Elliott.

Carrizozo, N. M.

Dear Mrs. Elliott:

"I found an envelope in a certain package addressed to you and as I am a member of the Dividing Committee I came across it when the gifts were distributed. I thank you for your good work in relieving the suffering poor of this place." After apologizing for his lack of knowledge of our language, the writer says:

"Please convey our thanks to every one that has contributed to our relief. If you could understand my language, I could express myself in better form."

Yours very truly,
A. MLAWSIKI.

Mrs. R. T. Cribb is visiting friends in El Paso this week.

Jury in Celebrated Murder Episode Returns Verdict After Three Hours Deliberation. New Trial Denied.

The jury in the case of Major F. M. Scanland on trial for murder in connection with the death of John T. Hutchings on November 2, 1920 Saturday night at Las Cruces, returned a verdict of involuntary manslaughter. The penalty is from one to eight years in the penitentiary.

The defense immediately filed a motion for new trial, which was denied by the court. An appeal to the supreme court was granted and the defendant admitted to bail in the sum of $10,000.

The jury retired at 6:30 and it was just three hours when the verdict was returned.

The case went to trial in the District court at Las Cruces on Monday March 8th, the shooting of Hutchings having occurred just inside the lower boundary of Dona Ana county.

The state was represented by O. O. Askren, attorney general of the state, by A. B. Renahan, Special prosecutor, and by H. E. Hamilton, the district attorney from Carrizozo.

Big Time at Roswell

Roswell, N. M., March 17.—In addition to rides through the farms, a review of the New Mexico Military Institute cadets, special entertainment for visiting ladies, and a boxing contest and smoker, all planned by the Chamber of Commerce for the visitors at the annual convention of the New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers' Association here, March 29, 30 and 31, the Elks will have two of their now famous open air dances. These events have proved very popular in the past. However all entertainment features will be so arranged that they will in no way interfere with the regular program of addresses and business of the convention.

Interest is increasing in the address of John T. Atwood, assistant attorney general, on the subject of "The Packers' Decree." This subject is one in which every stockman is interested and it seems probable that Mr. Atwood will not be the only one who will have something to say on the subject.

Eastern New Mexico stockmen are especially interested in the convention, because it is the first one held on this side of the state and it will be the first many eastern New Mexico stockmen have attended.

Mrs. L. B. Crawford is at Roswell attending the bedside of her mother, Mrs. A. E. Lesnet, who is suffering with a sprained ankle, resulting from a fall on a slippery pavement.

White Man

The story of a man and a woman—utter strangers—forced together by circumstances, living in the heart of the African jungle, completely cut off from the civilized world.

CHAPTER I.

Andrea Pellor stood on the edge of the cliff at the back of the Indian Ocean hotel and gazed out across twenty-five miles of moonlit bay. It was not for lack of a partner that she stood alone. She had promised this very extra to four insistent men, but had excused herself to one after another of them. "Just for a moment. Just while I powder my nose."

They had all seen her run up the stairs in the main hallway; they had not seen her travel steadily on through the length of the hotel and come down the ladder-like exit into the garden. Why had she done it? That was a question that she herself could not have answered but that did not occur to her as a matter for solution, so often had a similar impulse snatched her momentarily away from a crowded world.

Andrea had a past, but very little history. She was the only daughter of Lord Pellor of Pellor, a land-poor baron who could distribute five titles among his five sons but very little cash. As a result Andrea had lived the life, if life you can call it, of tabulated impoverished English gentlewomen: Everything that the traffic will bear for the men of the family and for the girl just enough frocks at her coming out to dissemble the bait that clothes the hook that catches the man with millions.

During her first season offers had come to her; not the measured advances of buyers in the marriage market, for about the brow of such budding maidenhood as had been there hangs a guardian halo that blinds the eyes of sane-eyed men, but the overleaping onslaughts of youth-maddened hearts.

It was in her fifth season that the arbiters of her fate raised the shears of destiny and clicked them. He who fell to her lot was a man of humble origin who had reached the ripe age of fifty-eight without ever having had time to marry. His life, with a difference, had been just as narrow, hide-bound and conventional as had hers. The difference was that he had traveled the stereotyped Dick Whittington trail to high finance rather than the social highway. He had started out in Africa with a pack of cheap jewelry, an open mind and an easy conscience, and had emerged after twenty-five years as one of the few Gentiles in the combine that controls the world's diamond output. His wealth was so great that an ultimate peerage was almost a matter of course. But, as usual, an aristocratic marriage had to come first.

The contract was as cold-blooded as any ever perpetrated by a royal house. Allowances, carefully graded, were stipulated to be paid at fixed times to Andrea's parents and to each of her five brothers. She herself came in for a large and inalienable marriage settlement and was further secured in such details as to where the town residence was to be located as well as to the number and nature of the country places which were to be maintained.

When the document was finally completed it was casually submitted to Andrea for approval. Nobody dreamed that she would doubt for a moment that those in family authority were most able to decide what was best for her and nobody was right. She merely skimmed through the typewritten pages of the prenuptial agreement, satisfied herself that a vast sum of money was destined to the upkeep of Pellor, and dreamy-eyed with sudden memories, nodded her adorable head in consent.

All doubtless would have taken its appointed course had not the European war put in its mightily disconcerting finger. Surprising things happened in South Africa. Andrea's affianced sailed on twenty-four hours' notice. The diamond mines closed down, took a short nap, and then suddenly awakened to the fact that America alone was demanding as much of their product as had the whole world before it turned its entire attention to making munitions and paying for them. Andrea's betrothed found himself harnessed to his job, possibly for the duration of the war. As a result it was decided in family conclave that it was incumbent upon Andrea to take advantage of a providential detail of two of her brothers on the Nyassaland expedition, to accompany them, surrendering St. George's chapel for a quiet marriage in the colonies.

It was a blow, but the fact that the entire set of tapered allowances would not start until the sacrificial ceremony had taken place more than offset the loss in pomp. Andrea started for Africa escorted not only by the aforementioned brothers but by old Aunt Gwen, hale and hearty at seventy in spite, or perhaps by reason, of having been frightened out of many years' growth. So here they were, Aunt and she, on the point of parting with the two boys at the last possible port up the coast and whose inhabitants had seized upon the occasion to give a grand ball in the mode of the English, who have ever danced, courted and loved best when on the eve of battle.

Andrea drew a long and quivering sigh. Tomorrow the boys would be gone. Tomorrow Aunt Gwen and she would depart in state in the private car her affianced, too busy to the last for the soft preliminaries of love, had sent down from the high veldt. Tomorrow—tomorrow would indeed mark the beginning of the end. "The end of what?" cried something within her—that same something that had so often spurred her to momentary escape.

She felt a great despondency, a terror of the morrow that would bring the end of nothing but that nevertheless would mark the death of part of Andrea Pellor. Then a more startling emotion seized her. She realized, almost with the sharpness of a recoil, that she was on the verge of becoming forever a woman without a history. She looked back and saw that she had never done one outrageous thing; she looked forward and saw that she probably never would; she looked down and—

At her very feet was the coping that edged the almost precipitous cliff. Upon the pale stretch of sand was a far-away blur, a dark, wide-winged blot. She concentrated her unbelieving gaze upon it until she made it out beyond a doubt. It was an airplane. Two midjet figures moved around it busily.

Andrea watched the midjets dreamily and thought of all the stories she had read about flying machine elopements. As she stood there her diaphanous second-best party dress and her loosened hair stirred by the spice-laden breezes of an Indian ocean dawn and her eyes full of the still, fairy light of a tropic moon, the thing drying its vast wings on the distant sands seemed like a giant moth, strayed from some Arabian Night and sent in answer to the cry of childhood's valiant fancy.

Who were those midjet dots? Were they men or geni? Whence had they come and whither would they go? Did they talk with tongues or like Brownies, with their toes and eyes? Andrea wondered all these things, suddenly stopped wondering, skipped up the ladder-like stair from the garden to her room, snatched up a warm cloak affair which buttoned to a high collar at her neck and that fell sheer in ever-widening folds from her shoulders to her ankles, and in less time than it would take to say Jack Robinson a hundred and fifty times she was slipping and sliding down the path of many slants.

She came upon the airplane so suddenly that she forgot to be disappointed at its gross materialism. It was very real indeed; so were the men who attended it. One was the tallest, blackest, nakedest native she had yet seen, a mighty statue in unimagined bronze, pagani clothed only at the loins with a spotted peit. The other was a white man gone brown in the sun. He was neither very young nor old, he carried himself erect with the bearing of a man who is full-grown and knows it, and when he moved he gave an exhibition of long, thin muscles under a perfect central control. His mouth seemed to be possessed of a smile that never wavered in spite of the fact that he held a piece of wire between his teeth and was otherwise intent on a number of things.

It was the black man who first sensed Andrea's presence and gave warning to his master in a low, guttural, rolling string of flowing vowels. The white man did not look round; he merely shrugged his shoulders and went on with his job. Andrea watched him in silence until she was convinced that everything that could be done to the machine was about to be accomplished and its proprietor on the verge of flying away and then, emboldened by that unwavering smile, she said in such a voice as children use when pleading for cake, "Please, Mr. Man, take me with you."

She knew a good deal about flying machines; she knew they couldn't stay up very long and that if they were worth anything at all they invariably came back to where they started from like well-trained pigeons. She had left her door locked and she figured that she would be back long before Aunt Gwen could work herself up to the point of having it broken in. When her voice rang across the silence of the false dawn, clear and light as a silver bell giving tongue across snow, the white man started and dropped the wrench he was manipulating. He caught it in midair; then let it fall to the ground deliberately and turned to look her over.

She was certainly something to see and to wonder at. Her eyes of Irish blue danced with a light younger than her face—a light that attends the eternal wistful child within us—but beneath their shining gaze were shadows and her cheeks were over-pale. Just to one side of her rounded chin was a bit of black couriplaster, shameful mask of a tiny sign of too much chocolate and too little exercise. She was slim enough to look tall in spite of that cloak-like affair of dark blue glove cloth that fell from her shoulders to her ankles in ever-widening folds.

Through all his inspection the man's face never changed. He looked her over deliberately, judged deliberately, and deliberately let down the little ladder that gave access to the observer's seat. He helped her up without a word, strapped her in and then turned to pour out voluble instructions in dialect to the bronze statue that stood at attention, black eyes fixed on his master's face, red lips repeating like a prompter in a Latin theater all that his master said.

The white man clambered to the driver's seat, placed before Andrea's, and shouted a word of command. The plane away, moved slowly forward, raced fast down the sand and faster, until with a billowy lift it rose straight in the eye of the rising sun.

Andrea started to draw a full breath of absolute joy and instead swallowed an entire gale of wind. It almost burst her open. She had to clench her teeth to conquer it, and with her hands made a vixen for her eyes, a wind mask for her mouth. She wanted to sing, but she was inarticulate in the face of an element at large and sparring for another chance to rush down her throat. She felt the cheated song racing around in her blood, swelling her heart, informing all her limbs with a new joy, a new life.

She swayed this way and that, looked up and down; then she leaned far out to study the rugged brown face of Mr. Man, the face that always smiled. From where she sat at his shoulder the goggles were not so complete a mask. She looked and her eyes became fixed in a fascinated stare. Two deep lines lay like parentheses from the man's nostrils to the corners of his mouth. They made his mouth look as though it smiled, but the man was not smiling. Suddenly she knew that through it all, from the moment he had laid his masked eyes upon her, he had never smiled. Her heart turned cold.

CHAPTER II.

Up to the moment of the sudden chilling of her exultant blood, Andrea had been almost oblivious of the din of the engine. Now she could think of nothing else. The deafening roar that made speech futile was a very real barrier; it imprisoned her, held her like the bars of an iron cage, and even bent her remorselessly with its rapid-fire explosions of defying sound.

She sank back on her seat, panting and sobbing. She was frightened. Never since the day when as a little child a closet door closed and locked upon her and inextinguishable darkness had held her for moments that were such an eternity had she known such terror. The feeling that had come to her then came to her now—darkness, a sinking of the heart down, down through an interminable void and, tumbling after it, body, soul, a leg or two and a clutching hand, all come apart in the maelstrom of fear.

The present nightmare did not last for long. Andrea gradually realized that in fact she was quite grown up, not a child at all but a strong and reasonably healthy young woman who had ridden straight to hounds at many a five-barred gate before which men had often paled. What was she frightened about? A man? Why, in the vulgar vernacular of across the water, men had been her ailment for years! Her backbone stiffened with a snap, she assumed her natural erect and square-shouldered carriage, and, leaning forward from the hips, laid her hand on the man's arm. Gentle action failing to command his attention, she tugged at him, then shook him. He showed no sign and Andrea's lips gradually set in a thin straight line. Doubling up her fists she started to pummel him into submission.

The onslaught was sudden, and it was reasonable to suppose that the man would half jump out of his skin to their mutual peril. She was prepared for that but not for what really transpired. The man merely raised his shoulders at the first blow and paid no heed whatever to the ones that followed in rapid diminuendo, ceasing suddenly when Andrea painfully realized that such fists as hers were never intended for stone crushers. She sat back filled with wonder and a vague admiration for the construction of the male frame.

In the meantime the airplane continued to mount steadily into the chilly morning blue. She looked about her and down. The world was very far away and very small. It looked like something that one might forget and leave behind entirely. She tried in vain to pick out the tiny roof that was sheltering Aunt Gwen through her morning nap. Tears once more came, into her eyes and then receded as a new idea came to the assistance of her hard-pressed determination.

She stooped over, took off one dainty satin slipper, and after a foolish glance upward to assure herself that the man couldn't possibly look, undid certain fasteners with fingers that could see in the dark, and subsequently removed one of her best party, heavy silk champagne-colored stockings. This done, she sat back with the stocking in her lap and stared long and pensively at the man sitting before her intent on the business of going somewhere at the rate of a hundred miles an hour. That thought electrified her. A hundred miles an hour meant fifty for every half hour, and thirty minutes had certainly passed since she had delivered her person into the trap of a kindly smile that was not. She took a long breath, leaned forward, slipped the stocking deftly around the man's neck, tied it in a single slipping knot and pulled.

The results were immediate. The man headed the airplane up for a last grab at altitude, started it on a long, straight downward glide and cut off his engine. The blessed stillness that followed was so ineffably sweet that Andrea had to give vent to one great sigh before she spoke, and while she was doing that the man calmly drew a hunting knife from his belt and severed the restraining strands of a stocking that only a moment before had been almost worthy of the ruche it had clothed and adorned.

"Oh!" gasped Andrea. "Is that all you had to say?" asked the man. Into the vast and rushing stillness his calm voice dropped words as cool and hard as pellets of ice.

Andrea choked with rage. She had to swallow a lump in her throat before she could gasp, "I want to go back—at once."

"You asked me to take you with me," said the man in the same calm voice, "and I don't happen to be going back."

"Not going back!" stuttered Andrea, trying valiantly to appear collected. "I did ask to come, but it's every woman's privilege to change her mind."

"When I first looked at you I saw a smile that was kindly and chivalrous. How could I know that your smile is nothing but camouflage made up of lines of dissipation, and your hideous goggles nothing but a mask for hard eyes? I thought you were a man, but you're nothing but a beast, willing to torment a girl who has foolishly put herself in your power."

"My dear girl," said the man, "you asked me to bring you with me, and like a fool I did. Now, like a woman, you are crying because I didn't bring you and leave you at the same time. Same old story. Women are forever wanting to eat their cake and have it still."

"I am not crying," said Andrea, "and my name isn't 'my dear girl' but the Honorable Andrea Pellor." She paused on that weighty announcement.

"Really?" said the man, unmoved.

"Brother in the Flying Corps. Nice, humdrum noble family, as I remember it. Well?"

"Don't!" cried Andrea. "Don't start that horrible noise again. I want to talk to you. I want to—oh, what are you going to do with me?"

There was a pathetic threat of tears in the question that should have melted the rockiest heart, but it failed. "I have no intention of doing anything with you beyond what you asked for, and no interest," said the man quietly.

He reached once more for the throttle. "Stop!" cried Andrea. "I must know what you mean. How can I talk to you with that awful din going on?"

"Oh, you'll have lots of time to talk," said the man, and no sooner were the words out of his mouth than they were almost wiped off the slate of memory by the sudden roar of the engine.

Andrea sank back in her seat, crumpled up in body and mind, and cried like a baby. Great big sobs came tumbling up and out of her swelling throat. For the first time in many years she felt that she wanted her mother and at once.

"Oh, mummy! mummy!" she sobbed like a little child, and a moment later, just exactly like a little child, she stopped crying, sniffed twice, blinked her eyes dry and presently smiled for no special reason, just as a dawn smiles when its sun breaks out from the dewy clouds of morning. What had happened? Why, a most important thing. She had suddenly realized that no one could hear her crying, not even herself!

"Every person one meets," thought Andrea, following the line of her discovery, "has to be climbed. Some people are insignificant mounds and you just walk over them; others are high cliffs that it takes a long time to climb but that give you fresh and wider views the higher you go. And then there are others," she continued with a vindictive look at the stolid back in front of her, "that are just great round hard boulders."

Her mouth drew down at the corners, but she would not succumb again to feeling sorry for herself. Instead she shielded her eyes once more and took stock of the various handiworks of God. The world was good to look upon that morning. It was twirling by in a strange rotative movement that gave it an illusive appearance. It was like a new toy in the way of panoramas. Things started to come nearer, changed their minds and then swept into the past, lingering long on a steep horizon as though they hesitated before an irrevocable plunge.

Andrea found that by holding back her skirts she could look straight down. She did so off and on for half an hour and the things she saw told her much. Forest and plain, forest and plain swept under and away in an endless gentle undulation cut twice by long, wandering silver bands. From high in the air those bands were nothing—mere strips of ribbon that a child could step over. But down there? She knew that down below they were mighty rivers, doubtless teeming with hippos, crocodiles and snakes!

They arrive at their journey's end. You'll enjoy the next installment.

NEW PROCESS IN SCULPTURE

Invention of Italian Scientist Will Revolutionize Work of Masters of the Chisel.

A process for producing bas-reliefs by photography is the fruit of the invention of an Italian scientist.

The basis of the invention is the property possessed by a film of chromium gelatin of swelling in proportion to the intensity of the light falling upon it. The swelling is greater with a low than with a high intensity, so that the light passing through a photographic negative produces upon a chromium gelatin plate a positive in distinct relief.

The transparency of an ordinary negative, however, is not truly proportional to the relief of the original model, but by an ingenious automatic device involving double exposure this difficulty is avoided and a negative is obtained having its lights and shades correctly graded to produce the effect of relief.

Letter of Merit

Santa Fe, N. M.,

March 15, 1920.

A. L. Burke, Publisher,
Carrizozo, N. M.

My dear Mr. Burke:

I have yours of March eleventh and thank you for three copies of the auditor's statement showing the financial situation in the village of Carrizozo.

The publication of readable, intelligible, financial reports is one of the first duties of municipal officers and indicates a businesslike administration of public affairs.

Very truly yours,
Taxpayers' Association,

Sufferings Ended

Between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock last Sunday night, Andrew Purcella, of Oscura, N. M., met death by his own hand while in a morbid state of mind caused by a complaint from which he could find no relief. According to information from relatives of the deceased, he had been for a long time a sufferer from an intense pain in the head which resulted from an accident received several years ago and frequently mentioned the fact that the trouble increased as he grew older.

Last Sunday night he borrowed a 30-30 rifle from one of his friends saying that he intended going after wood the following morning and would return it when he came home. As the custom of carrying a gun on trips to the mountains is common, nothing was thought of it. Mr. Purcella being in the employ of the E. P. & S. W. at the station, his hours of work were from 3 to 11:30 p. m., at which time Mr. Earl Black, whose duty it was to relieve him, found the work house locked which he thought unusual as his work-mate had always been at his post of duty when the shift came. After Mr. Black attended the incoming of train No. 2, he returned to the work house and passing by the north side he noticed the body of a man lying close to the wall and upon investigating, found it to be that of his friend and fellow workman. Mr. Black notified Dr. Ranniger, who with others soon arrived on the scene and found that the body was still warm, while nearby the man's hat was found containing the major portion of his skull which was blown off by the force of the shot. A letter evidently penned by the unfortunate man during his last hours on earth was found which read as follows:

"Phone Ed Harris, Carrizozo, to go to my wife. She is sick and I am, too. Good-bye to my wife and children. Be good little children; mama will teach you. I cannot stand this pain in my head. I am going mad. Ed, take care of Lillie and the children. Andrew."

The remains were brought to Carrizozo under the direction of Mr. Harris, who was a brother-in-law to the deceased and tender care taken of the widow and children. Funeral services were held at the Kelley chapel on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. L. S. Smith of the Carrizozo Baptist Church conducting the same. His subject was, "Friendship," and his discourse abounded with sympathy and human kindness. The sorrowing wife was unable to attend, being prostrated with grief over the sad affair. Mr. Purcella was well known and had many warm friends in this locality. Before entering the service of the E. P. & S. W. he was a rancher and was employed by many of the leading cattle companies around Carrizozo, from whom he received the highest of recommendations. The Outlook extends its heartfelt sympathies to the surviving relatives.

Sinclair Oil and Refining Company Locate

T. O. Smith is the name of the Superintendent of Construction for the Sinclair Oil & Refining Co., who is engaged in erecting tanks and a warehouse alongside the E. P. & S. W. tracks a short distance below the coal chutes. He is erecting three tanks which will be on elevated cradles and the capacity of each will be 12,000 gallons. Near the tanks a warehouse is being erected 24 by 30 feet all of which are to be made of steel and absolutely fire proof.

Wm. Barnett will be the agent for the new company which will be in readiness for business by the first week in April. The Sinclair Oil & Refining Company lays claim to the fact that there are no "bosses" in the concern, but that it is one big family, to which every new customer is added. They live firmly in the belief that advertising pays and in support of this claim, they are financing a three ring circus which is continually traveling over the country. To every performance the public is admitted free of charge and the company feels well paid for the advertising they receive by this novel, yet expensive scheme. They are not unmindful of the fact that newspaper advertising is one of the main factors in moving the business world, consequently, they make use of the columns of the press to prove their faith. Referring to the family claim again, we wish to say that if all members of it measure up to that of Mr. Smith in size, weight and good nature, they surely must be a family of happy Samsons and lion tamers.

MOTHERS, PREPARE

Kansas City, Kan.—"When I was a girl just coming into womanhood I became all run-down, weak and nervous. I was pale as death; my people became very much alarmed—thought I was going into a decline. My mother took me to our druggist and asked him if he could recommend some medicine that he thought would be good for my case. He told her to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and she did. I had only taken it a short time when I began to improve and it was not long when I was well—in the best of health. I have since taken 'Favorite Prescription' during pregnancy and found it a wonderful help, keeping me well and strong the entire time."—MRS. BELLE GAMMON, 2919 Roosevelt Ave.

WOMAN'S CRITICAL TIME

Omaha, Nebr.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for many years at certain critical times when such a tonic was necessary and it never failed to strengthen and build me up. When I was raising my family I took it and always the results were most satisfactory; then during middle life it helped me to come through in a strong and healthy condition. I am very enthusiastic concerning Dr. Pierce's remedies and have recommended them not only to members of my own family but to many others besides and have never heard one complaint. Dr. Pierce's book, the Common Sense Medical Advisor, has been in my home for 36 years and I know it has saved me many a doctor bill, as well as many of my friends whom I have advised through it."—MRS. THOS. GRAY, 4316 Erskine St.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a remedy that any ailing woman can safely take because it is prepared from roots, does not contain alcohol or narcotics. Its ingredients printed on wrapper.

BILIOUSNESS Caused by Acid-Stomach

If people who are bilious are treated according to local symptoms they seldom get very much better. Whatever relief is obtained is usually temporary. Trace biliousness to its source and remove the cause and the chances are that the patient will remain strong and healthy.

Doctors say that more than 75 non-organic diseases can be traced to an Acid-Stomach. Biliousness is one of them. Indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour stomach, bloating and gas are other signs of acid-stomach. EATONIC, the marvelous modern stomach remedy, brings quick relief from these stomach miseries which lead to a long train of ailments that make life miserable if not corrected.

EATONIC literally absorbs and carries away the excess acid. Makes the stomach strong, cool and comfortable. Helps digestion; improves the appetite and you then get full strength from your food. Thousands say that EATONIC is the most effective stomach remedy in the world. It is the help YOU need. Try it on our money-back-if-not-satisfied guarantee. At all druggists. ## PNEUMONIA LEFT BOY WEAK AND SICKLY Parents Were Almost Hopeless, But He is Now Well and Strong.

"Our little boy's health was so poor we were afraid we were going to lose him. He is ten years old, and has had weak lungs ever since he was eight months old, caused by pneumonia. We have been very careful with him and doctored him continually, but we had almost despaired of ever having a strong, well boy."

"But since giving him MILK'S EMULSION all his trouble is gone, and he is in perfect health."—Mrs. G. W. Smiley, 20 Maple St., Dayton, O.

For restoring appetite, health and strength in sickly children, mothers will find MILK'S EMULSION the thing they have always sought. Most children like to take it, because unlike many emulsions and tonics, it really tastes good.

Milk's Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physic. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a bulkie of flesh and strength MILK'S EMULSION is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened, and is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try MILK'S EMULSION under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.50 per bottle. The MILK'S EMULSION CO., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Fate usually has a finger in the engagement ring.

OUT O' LUCK

Never mind! Just take Cascarets if Bilious, Constipated

Everyone must occasionally give to the bowels some regular help or else suffer from constipation, bilious attacks, stomach disorders and sick headache. But do not whip the bowels into activity with harsh cathartics.

What the liver and bowels need is a gentle and natural tonic, one that can constantly be used without harm. The gentlest liver and bowel tonic is "Cascarets." They put the liver to work and cleanse the colon and bowels of all waste, toxins and poisons without griping—they never sicken or inconvenience you like Calomel, Salts, Oil or Purgatives.

Twenty-five million boxes of Cascarets are sold each year. They work while you sleep. Cascarets cost so little too.—Adv.

No wise man ever gives advice until asked for it.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed up with a cold or nasty catarrh.—Adv.

Never judge a woman's age by her store teeth.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

Leave the latch string out for the first robin.

SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT RATIFIED

WEST VIRGINIA DEADLOCK BROKEN AND VOTE IN SENATE 15 TO 14.

SEN. BLOCH'S VOTE WINS

SENSATIONAL RACE ACROSS NATION BY SOLON ATTRACTS WIDE ATTENTION.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Charleston, W. Va., March 11.—The West Virginia Legislature ratified the federal suffrage amendment. Final action on the amendment was taken by the Senate in adopting the ratification resolution of the House of Delegates by a vote of 15 to 14.

The vote of Senator Jesse A. Bloch of Wheeling, who made a hurried trip from California to Charleston to vote on the amendment, was effectual in breaking the deadlock between pro and anti-suffrage forces. Senator A. R. Montgomery was not permitted to vote, his seat having been declared vacant.

The final vote on the Anthony amendment was taken after one of the most dramatic sessions ever witnessed in either house of the Legislature. For several hours suffrage leaders and their opponents fought in an effort to gain a definite advantage. Each step by either party was hotly contested—anti-suffrage forces determined to offset their opponents' victory in keeping the Legislature in session and the suffragists confident of gaining a majority to ratify by the vote of Senator Bloch, who had rushed across the continent for the occasion.

Crowded galleries were kept in order with difficulty as each phase of the battle apparently swung in favor of one side or the other. At first occupants of the galleries took more interest in Senator Bloch, who was regarded as a considerable sensation by the West Virginians.

Shortly, however, interest in the senator was thrown into the background, due to issues featuring the contest. These included the action of the Senate in declaring vacant the seat of Senator A. R. Montgomery, depriving him of the vote which would have defeated ratification, and the taking up and adopting of the ratification resolution of the lower house, without amending the Senate rules, one week after the Senate's vote defeating its own resolution on the same subject.

Halls and corridors in the statehouse were thronged with spectators, including hundreds of women, many of whom wore yellow flowers as well as men, as a token of their allegiance to the suffrage cause.

A few minutes after adjournment hundreds of men and women started a demonstration in the corridors, many of them having concealed tin horns about their person. Those without the horns added to the din by cheering and whistling.

Twenty Women Hurt at Bargain Sale.

New York.—So great was the crowd on the porch of 523 Madison avenue when the rummage sale of the Visiting Nurses Association started, that it pushed over the stone balustrade and threw twenty women and a policeman into the area next door. Twenty women were injured more or less seriously, several having fractured legs and arms. In spite of police efforts, the women jammed the brown stone stoop leading to the door in frantic efforts to get inside first.

Planes to Carry Ore From Mine.

Vancouver, B. C.—Four airplanes are to be used this summer in carrying ore from mines of the Granby Mining Company, twelve miles to tidewater, at Stewart, B. C., it has been announced. Each plane will carry 1,000 pounds of ore every trip. Freight charges, it is estimated, will be reduced 50 per cent by airplane transportation.

National Guard to Have Thanks.

Washington.—Four light tank battalions are included in the reorganization plans of the National Guard, Major General Carter, chief of the militia bureau, announced. California and Washington are among the states to have tank units.

Arrest 204 Radicals.

Waterbury, Conn.—Federal agents seized much literature and locked up 204 persons in radical raids in this city. The raids were in the quarters of the Communist party, the Union of Russian Workers and the Union Russian Citizens.

BEAR CUBS PROBABLY UNIQUE

New Species the Result of Mating Canadian Black and Russian Brown, in London Zoo.

A "marriage was arranged" in London some time ago between Teddy, the black bear from Canada, and Daisy, the brown bear from Russia. The result is the first hybrid black-brown bear cubs ever born in the zoo—they may even be unique, for nature let alone produces no hybrids. They are a rich mahogany compromise between their parents' colorings, and are doing splendidly. Along with the news comes word that the ugliest beast in the world, the Matamora turtle, another emigrant from the new world, has been on a hunger strike ever since his arrival in London. At home he gets his food in a nasty, treacherous way. He has a shell which looks like a lump of rock on which weed grows freely. He keeps quiet and looks like a pleasant stone for fish to rest under. Round his jaws are a number of long lumps which look like desirable worms. These are his ground bait, and even if the Matamora be asleep a nibble rouses him to snap up a meal.

Record in Dry-Docking.

Dizzy's Rap at His Old Foe.

Dizrael's unpublished novel will be read with eager interest by all who care to learn his view of his great rival, Gladstone, who is therein portrayed as Joseph Toplady Falconet. In denying him any sense of humor the novelist does not exceed the privileges of poetic license, for certainly his model was always in grim, serious earnest. In declaring, however, that he was never seen to smile Dizrael somewhat maliciously exaggerates, for Gladstone's smile was not infrequent, and was among his many personal charms. But it must be remembered that the novel was written when the two statesmen had long been settled and unrelenting foes, and Dizzy was a good hater.—London Chronicle.

The Important One.

A young stenographer was discussing her Christmas shopping with the girl who worked across the hall from her. "I've got something for all my nieces and nephews except the newest one," she said, "and she is only two months old. Can't you suggest something for a baby of that age?"

The other girl smiled. "Why are you going to get her anything?" she asked. "A baby two months old doesn't know there is such a thing as Christmas."

"No," agreed the stenographer—then added wisely: "But her mother does."

A Difference.

Definitely beyond a doubt that PE-RU-NA is what you need. PE-RU-NA may be purchased anywhere in tablet or liquid form.

RUB RHEUMATIC PAIN FROM ACHING JOINTS

Stop "dosing" Rheumatism. It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache and neuralgia.

Limber up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and in a moment, you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.—Adv.

BOTH IN GRIP OF TYRANNY

Parallel in Case of the Farmer and the Unfortunate Lover of the Cornet.

O. E. Bradford of Xenia, the farmer delegate at the industrial conference, said at an Xenia tea:

"A farmer was talking to me the other day about the way the middle-man tyrannizes over the farmer, and he wound up with a story.

"He said the farmer's position reminded him of a cop. This cop saw a fairly well-dressed customer playing a cornet on his beat, and after the man had played three or four tunes he walked up the front steps of a handsome house.

"No, ye don't, friend," says the cop. "Play yer cornet as much as ye've a mind to, but I'll have no beggin' or sollicitin' on this beat."

"Quite right, officer," says the cornetist. "Glad to hear you're so strict. I guess you don't mind my entering my own house, though. You see, wife objects to my practicing indoors."

Talking Back to the Parson. "I fear, doctor, I am not good enough to go to church." "But, my dear madam, it isn't your goodness, it's your desire." "But I'm not good enough to have any desire."—Boston Transcript.

When a doctor uses a medicine himself besides prescribing it to his patients, he must know that it has merit. This is what Dr. J. H. Wagner, a prominent physician of Skaneateles, Kentucky, has to say about Dr. Hartman's well-known remedy, PE-RU-NA: "I have used PE-RU-NA myself for catarrh and have given it to others for catarrh, bloating after eating and other ailments. It has proved a success in all cases with old and young men and women. All speak well of PE-RU-NA. It is the best of all tonics."

Dr. Wagner, out of the fullness of his own personal experience, for the good of all sick and suffering, recommends a medicine which he knows to be good. You may be sure a doctor would not endanger his professional reputation by endorsing PE-RU-NA unless satisfied beyond a doubt of its value.

Whether your trouble be a cough or a cold, or a more subtle catarrhal affection of the stomach, bowels or other organs, give PE-RU-NA a trial. The immediate improvement which you will see will satisfy you beyond a doubt that PE-RU-NA is what you need.

Reminded Him.

A well-known preacher was giving one of his stirring discourses, when he remarked:

"Ah! that reminds me of something I shall never forget."

Then he stopped and thought and, after thinking and waiting a long time, gently to the astonishment of the congregation, he said:

"Dear me, I can't think of what it is!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Feeling of Security

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy. The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.

It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything.

It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

YEARS BUT ADD TO BEAUTY

Particularly Graceful Tribute Paid to the Elderly by Widely Known American Writer.

I have carried these my preferences through life, and I still regard old ladies as angelic, inasmuch that I have never seen one that I did not revere. I do not know when they begin to look old to other eyes, but to mine they never look old, as old men look.

Very likely some of them may once have been silly, and some naughty, but they do not show it, while all the goodness and wisdom of their youth has grown upon them.

I should like to touch here, but barely touch, the thought of the dear and lovely lady which has all this time been in the back of my mind, as a supreme proof of the highest praise that could be given to aging woman, writes W. D. Howells in Harper's Magazine. She was of the finest modernity in her love of the best things in literature and life, and could no more err in taste than in truth or the beauty which is one with it.

She is gone now, who was so lately here in such perfection of mind and soul, that it seems as if she could never have left us who were privileged to share the bounty of her wisdom and grace.

Never judge a man's thoughts by what he says.

Coal And Oil Outlook

(By H. S. HANMER)

Since my absence from White Oaks for forty-two months, I find that our White Oaks coal is being sought for. Before I left here for Mississippi I tapped the second vein of coal on my property and since I left, Sam Wells has opened up the top vein in three places and now we have plenty of coal in sight and it will not be long until I can supply coal to all that come for it.

The Lincoln Light and Power Company operates the Electric Light and Power Plant near the corner of my fence and mines from 80 acres that join me on the south. They are supplying the Plant and selling coal to the trade.

Mr. Alex. Bennett is sinking an incline shaft on coal property west of me near town on Mrs. Barber's holdings.

Our White Oaks coal has the same Government classification as the Cerrillos coal, which is the highest of any produced in New Mexico. All coal from the White Oaks field makes a very good grade of coke as a shipment of 800 lbs was shipped to a coke concern in Alabama which was tested out by a large iron Furnace, with good results.

The prospect for the development of oil in Lincoln county is growing every day. The necessity for this development is also growing rapidly.

We who have always gone to the grocery for our coal oil and the few of us who have bought gasoline for automobiles or gas engines have most usually been able to get what we needed, but in many states in 1918 the supply was so low that fuel administration ordered automobile owners to cease to operate their cars on Sundays, east of the Mississippi river, and this was simply to conserve the supply of oil and gasoline, then almost exhausted.

Practically the same condition exists today. There is barely a four months' supply on hand now.

There are more large corporations prospecting for oil than ever before. There is more than one reason for this activity: First, of course, is to make money. The second, is to save money. To save money in this sense is to keep the refineries going. It takes a lot of money to build a large refinery. The people whom I have had a chance to be associated with, own and operate one refinery and are now planning another one to cost several millions of dollars.

It takes a lot of money to keep a plant of this kind running, hence the continued search for more oil. Since April 1918, eight new oil fields have been brought in. The law of supply and demand has been much in evidence; the supply smaller and the demand greater. The price in crude oil has increased in the last few years from 40c to $3.50 per barrel. It is true that the cost of production has greatly increased, but not so much as the value of crude oil.

The production of crude oil has increased in the last year 24,000,000 barrels, and every effort will be made to make the increase this year much greater, with Europe facing us with a call for almost everything we have to sell and our own America with its enormous added use of oil and its products, we are likely to have a gasoline famine during this coming summer and it behooves all of us to lease our lands or get busy ourselves and drill our own oil well or be lost in the game.

One large oil company has been drilling for many months north of us on the oil field that is traceable from points in Torrance, Guadalupe and Lincoln counties, with a diamond pointed drill and recently as I understand, has capped the well and ordered a number of oil rigs to be distributed along the El Paso and Southwestern and Santa Fe railroads, and this is proof that we ourselves, must get busy, get in line and reap the benefits that is before us.

Service

THERE is undoubtedly no public service that touches directly so many individuals and enters so completely into the social and commercial life of the people as does telephone service. More business is transacted over the telephone than there is through face to face conversations. More social activities are planned, more invitations sent, more engagements made or cancelled by telephone than by any other means.

This places a tremendous responsibility upon those charged with the duty of rendering telephone service. Any failure of the service would have a disastrous effect upon both the business and social relations of a community. A general cessation of the service would cause nationwide confusion.

Telephone employees realize their responsibility and recognize their obligation. It is this loyalty to duty that makes it possible for the Telephone Company to render service even under the most difficult conditions.

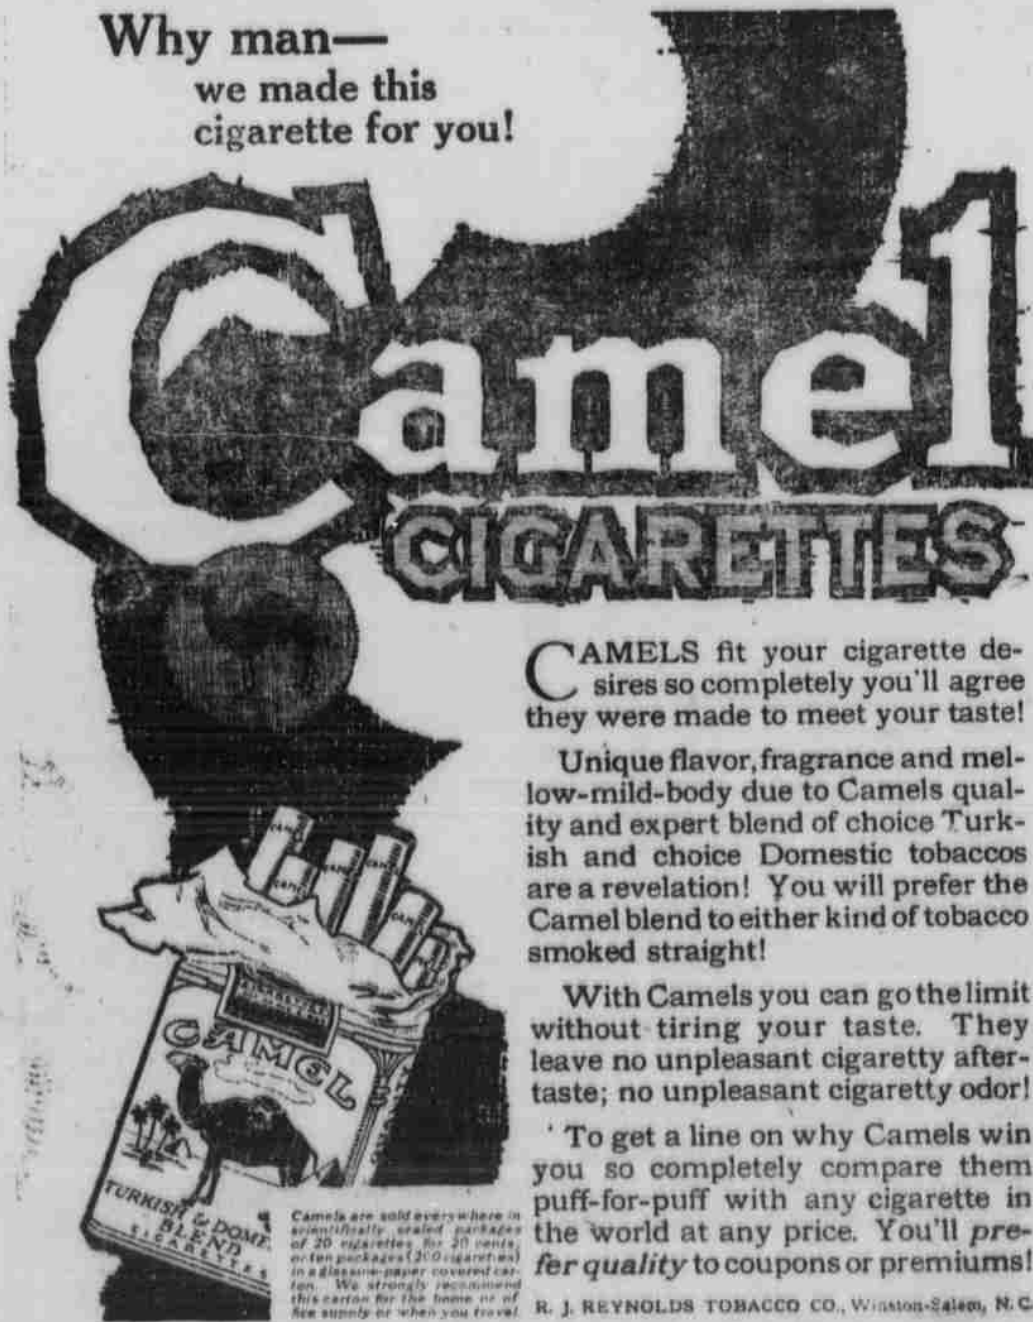

Quite generally there are at this time inadequate facilities causing congestion and confusion, a condition from which there can be no immediate relief. Sometimes the elements rage in a mad fury, but men and women brave the storms that the public may be served. Occasionally a scourge of sickness depletes the ranks, adding to the burden of those who escape, but who perform their more difficult tasks with smiling determination to continue the service.

With such a spirit in the telephone organization, the service will at all times be the best that human effort can produce, in the face of whatever adverse circumstances may prevail.

Jack Arnett has purchased the Cleaning & Pressing of Albert Weinberg and change will be recorded and place since that business made its bow to the public. In fact there has been as many changes in that enterprise as there has been revolutions in old Mexico. Now that Jack has taken the reins, let us express one more hope that he will continue in the business for one week at least. Mr. Arnett will do all kinds of tailoring work together with cleaning, pressing and hat work along the same lines as his predecessor. He solicits the Carrizozo trade.

HAD LOST HOPE

But Doan's Effected a Complete Recovery After Other Remedies Failed. Now in Good Health.

Mrs. J. A. Stittworth, E. Bell Ave., Red Key, Ind., says: "Kidney trouble came on me suddenly and before I realized it I was in a critical condition. My body bloated and my feet and ankles swelled like toy balloons. The kidney secretions burned terribly in passage. My face puffed up and the flesh under my eyes and on my cheeks hung down in folds. I had smothering spells, when I thought I would die. So much water had collected under my skin, I weighed 170 pounds, a gain of 45 pounds. My sight failed and little black specks passed before my eyes. I felt drowsy and was so nervous, I couldn't stand the least noise. Rheumatic pains darted all through me and it felt as if every nerve in my body was affected. Medicine didn't help me and I had little hope or strength left. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they restored me to health. I am now well and strong."

Emil Saegusser, an airplane pilot, and Miss Clara Hart, and J. D. Ratcliff, the latter 11 years old, were killed when an airplane in which they were riding caught fire 500 feet in the air, near Cunningham, Kan., and fell to earth. The cause of the accident is unknown.

Fire which has been smoldering for over a year in the Argonaut mine at Jackson, Calif., has broken through into the Kennedy mine, one of the greatest gold producers in California. Work is suspended. The high cost of flying has gone up a notch at San Francisco. Companies engaged in commercial aviation published a tariff increasing the price of ten-minute "sightseeing" flights 25 per cent to $12.50 and fixing the price of the same period of "stunt" flying at $20. Increased cost of aeroplane parts, operation and upkeep was given as the reason.

The reduced prices, it was declared, would remain effective at least until June 1.

WASHINGTON

Unless provision is made to maintain the efficiency of the present naval reserve force by systematic training, the navy within a few years will be faced with the same lack of potential manpower as when the country entered the war, Secretary Daniels told the House naval affairs committee. In another war, the secretary said, there probably would not be the "same opportunity for preparation."

New Mexico has been authorized by the War Department at Washington to organize a battalion of infantry, a battalion of field artillery, a squadron of cavalry and a machine gun troop as its National Guard quota.

Enactment of legislation authorizing the secretary of war to turn over surplus motor vehicles to the agriculture, postoffice and other government departments has been completed with the adoption by the Senate of the conference report.

URIC ACID IN MEAT
CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW OR SHOULD KNOW

Carrizozo will soon have a swimming pool, if a certain proposition is carried out as outlined by several of our citizens. The pool, which will be large and accommodating, is to be within one mile of business center and will therefore, be in close reach of all. This is something Carrizozo needs badly. The place selected for the swimming pool is near two good deep wells which will give plenty of water for the pool and the waste will be used for irrigation purposes. We would like to have suggestions from all who are interested in a scheme of this kind now that the proposition is before us.

Joe Stratton, one of our prominent cattle dealers has lately graduated from the Carrizozo School of Telegraphy and has under consideration, an appointment by the E. P. & S. W. of chief operator at either of the two places, namely, Temporal or Robsart. The railroad men are jubilant over Joe's rapid advancement in school and congratulate the company on the ready recognition of the merits of the new operator. The short time consumed in his course with such good results is ample proof of his being a diligent and painstaking student.

M. H. Montgomery and family left Thursday for Alamogordo, where they will visit for about one week, after which they will go to Phoenix, Arizona, where Mr. Montgomery will engage in farming. Mr. Montgomery has been employed by the E. P. & S. W. for the past ten years and leaves the company's service with the highest of recommendations. There is an old saying that runs like this, "A railroad man can never feel at home away from the streaks," and he may return after a verification of this saying.

Assessor F. R. Miller and wife returned from Roswell Monday, where they spent Sunday with relatives and friends. At Tinnie they encountered one of the worst wind storms that has visited that section for years. They resisted the wind for some time, but it finally lifted the top from their Essex machine and carried it a good distance from the car. However, "Shorty" says: "It is no more than could be expected of a piece of green tin that a person could get for 350 Arbuckle coffee signatures."

The Womans' Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. R. E. Lemon Tuesday afternoon, March 23. The "Social Service" program will be conducted by Mrs. Hooper. Every woman in the church is invited to be present whether a member or not.

For reason that a survey has disclosed the fact that Robert H. Taylor lives outside the city of Carrizozo, the name of his brother, Julian M. Taylor has been substituted on the Independent ticket, as candidate for the council of Carrizozo.—Adv.

Miss Bertie Murray of Tinnie, came over Saturday and after attending the dance at K. of P. Hall, left for home Sunday morning. While here, she was the guest of the Misses Herndon and Jack Reilly.
