AMERICAN LEGION DANCE SATURDAY NIGHT A SUCCESS

Crowds Gather at First Affair of a Public Nature Given By The Boys Who Fought Our Battles. Successful Event Lasted Until a Late Hour.

Last Saturday night the local American Legion gave its first public dance and entertainment which will be remembered by those who attended as one of the most successful of any given in Carrizozo. Many people motored over from neighboring towns and incoming trains brought others, all of which added to the large number from our home town, crowded the K. of P. Hall to its full capacity.

The local dancing orchestra was assisted by Messrs. Weigle of Alamogordo, McNeff of Fort Stanton and Stickwell of Tucuman, the first named gentleman assisting Mr. Pitts on the violin, the last two mentioned, performed on saxophones. The music was great; so was the crowd; so was the enthusiasm. The hall was beautifully decorated with the National colors and a decidedly military and patriotic spirit abounded. At 10 o'clock a bounteous supper was served during a portion of this period Master Raymond Lackland entertained everybody by singing "If I Had Life to Live Over," "I'd Live It All For You."

After supper was served, the dancing continued until the hands of the clock grew tired and weary, then the guests with one accord pronounced the event one of, if not the most enjoyable of the season and the good natured crowd dispersed. Many attended from neighborhood towns, Corona, Ancho, White Oaks, Lincoln, Tinnie, Oscuro, Hondo, Capitan, and some from Alto and Ruidoso in the White mountains. The neat dancing feats performed at different intervals through the evening by little Miss Jean Reilly and Master Raymond Lackland furnished a good amount of amusement for the older guests, who were glad to admit that the juvenile pair "had it on em." Summing up everything, the event was doubly successful and in the future if you want an affair to win, get the soldier boys at the head of it. Some boys, those soldier boys—Eh! boys!

Roswell, to Get New Sugar Beet Plant

Roswell, N. M., March 25.—Roswell is to have a sugar beet factory which will be completed in time to take care of the large sugar beet crop which is to be planted in the Pecos valley this year. Pecos valley farmers have agreed to plant enough sugar beets to insure the factory a running capacity for six months.

Mrs. Lola Rowden arrived Sunday from Jacksonville, Texas to accept a position as nurse at Dr. Woods' hospital.

The Aurora Borealis

Monday night we were treated to a brilliant spectacle in the northern skies. It was the Aurora Borealis which danced and beckoned to civilization from far beyond the habitations of mortal man. Along the border, heavy disturbances were experienced with telephone and telegraph while along the Atlantic seaboard no instruments were found strong enough to measure the voltage in the electrical current.

The American Telephone and Telegraph companies and the Western Union, reported service demoralized during the display and wireless systems were also out of commission. Forest rangers on the mountains where the view was better, report strange sights during the existence of the phenomenon. Waves of light closely resembling flames of fire, flashed and danced in the northern sky like visions of the fiery regions. At midnight the service over the country became normal and the display vanished.

Deals Made and Pending

Wm. Barnett is about ready to make shipment of his fine cattle which are now ready for the market. There are 25 in the herd; 13 bulls, 7 stags and 5 steers all of which are in the pink of condition. Mr. Barnett has several good offers and will close with the firm offering the highest figure which presumably will be the Peyton Packing Company of El Paso.

Stratton, Reilly & Harris made the following stock sales this week: 80 heifers and 163 steers to A. J. Stover; string of cows to John Townsend; string of cows to T. A. Spencer; string of cows to Ira Johnson; 100 steers to S. B. Moss; steers formerly belonging to Fount Miller, to E. O. Finley.

Convicts Attack Guards And Flee

Houston, Texas, March 23.—One hundred and twenty-five convicts at the Texas state prison farm overpowered their guards, seized their guns and escaped this afternoon, according to a dispatch from Huntsville. Soon after the break, the dispatch says, 35 of the men returned. Stragglers continued returning until this evening, when all but four were accounted for. There was an unconfirmed report here that two of the men had been killed and a third wounded in a fight.

J. Ney White, nephew of I. O. Wetmore, arrived by motor Thursday from Miami, Arizona with his family. They will visit here for a few days after which they will go to Roswell to visit with Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Wetmore and other relatives.

Lincoln County Teachers' Convention

The Lincoln County Teachers' Convention met this morning and carried out that portion of the program arranged for the first morning session. As we go to press, the afternoon session is in progress. There are many teachers here and Carrizozo homes have been thrown open for their accommodation. Mrs. M. L. Blaney, County School Superintendent has worked hard to see that none lacked for attention and accommodations and in an article on another page of this paper she thanks the people for their kind responses to her request in behalf of the teachers. As the convention closes tomorrow, a full account of the proceedings will appear next week. The Outlook welcomes the teachers to Carrizozo and expresses regret that their stay will be so short.

Deer Falls Through Roof of House

Lenox, Mass., March 25.—The recent thaw has made it possible for snow bound farmers to get into town and tell some marvelous stories of deep drifts. Edward Witherow, a farmer on October mountain, says his house was covered from doorstep to roof with snow and that he tunneled to his barn from a second story window to save his stock from starvation. One day a deer, trying to cross the drift which covered his home, fell through the skylight into the house, and Witherow says the family had fresh meat for the first time in several weeks.

Stockmen Smile

Following the almost unbearable dust storms of Monday and Tuesday, came a blessed rainfall; a rainfall that performed its work in good fashion. In fact, we could not have placed our order for a more timely one nor one more effective, for it was a quiet downpour that soaked into the ground just as it should. This was followed by a good snow which melting as it fell was equally as welcome as the rain. "Welcome as the Flowers in May" was the united chorus of the residents of this section. Stockmen are easier to approach since the rain, and in fact, everyone is happy for the rain means money to the interests of Lincoln county. The range will now abound with songs of the coming spring and the tender blades of grass will "Come Creeping, Creeping Everywhere."

Building Talk

Many Carrizozo residents are contemplating building and now is the time to start the work. Call your contractor and let him draw your plans—Begin with the spring time.

C. H. Haines, of the Pure Food Bakery will soon install a larger oven for his bakery, to enable him to better supply his fast increasing trade.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE ISSUES GRAZING PERMITS

"The Talkative Trickster"

Mr. Laurant & Company will be with us at the Crystal Theatre Tuesday evening, March 30th, 8:00 P. M. which completes a series of five entertainments staged by our citizens through "The Redpath Lyceum Bureau." The entertainments have all been good, but Mr. Laurant & Company bid fair to excel them all. He is the Master Juggler, and Magician of his time. It is a very simple thing for Mr. Laurant to pull a Jack Rabbit from your pocket, or find your diamond ring in the yolk of an egg, and many other wonders that will give you an evening of entertainment which you will long remember.

The management urges the good citizens of Carrizozo to respond to this last call and help fill the Crystal Theatre, Tuesday evening to overflowing.

The other numbers have not quite paid for themselves but with your support we can pay for this number and clear away the deficit, thereby putting Carrizozo on record as having put over five of the best entertainments on the Lyceum platform today.

Admission 50c and $1.00

Big Attendance Assured

Roswell, N. M., March 24.—Reports from over New Mexico and west Texas indicate a large attendance at the annual convention of the New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers' Association which begins here next Monday. It is expected that the attendance from eastern New Mexico will be especially large.

Everything is set in Roswell for the opening of the convention. New features have been added to the entertainment program and not only will the visitors have a profitable session of the association to enjoy but there will be something of interest every day aside from the convention. Rooming headquarters will be established during the convention at the Chamber of Commerce and those who are not provided for at regular rooming houses and hotels will be taken care of in private homes.

The program is now complete and is the best the association has ever presented.

Mission Holy Week

The Episcopal Church will begin a series of meetings on Monday evening which will continue throughout the week. Good musical program at each meeting—you are invited.

Roadmaster, "Billy" Ferguson, put his Fordson Tractor and plow to work this morning and found the streets in good condition to grade as a result of recent rain.

Millions of Livestock Will Be Grazed On New Mexico and Arizona Forest Ranges This Coming Season, Beginning April 1, 1920.

Albuquerque, N. M., March 25.

—The secretary of agriculture has authorized the grazing of 901,550 head of sheep and goats, 541,750 head of cattle and horses and 3,355 head of swine on the Arizona and New Mexico national forests for the grazing year beginning April 1, 1920. These stock are divided between the two states as follows: Arizona, 352,200 cattle and horses, 365,500 sheep and goats, 1,855 swine, and New Mexico, 189,550 cattle and horses, 536,050 sheep and goats, 1,500 swine.

The number of stock actually grazed will be much greater than the number shown in the above figures, as according to the national forest regulations stock under six months of age at the beginning of the grazing season are neither counted nor charged for. The above numbers of stock are owned by about 3,700 cattlemen and 800 sheepmen. By the estimate of forest service officials, the owners will derive gross revenue in beef, mutton and wool next fall amounting to over $15,000,000.

The bulk of the time of the field force of the forest service in the two states is now engaged in considering grazing applications, the allotment of range on the basis of the applicant's qualifications, and issuing grazing permits. Within the next few days the summer ranges will be open. Counting the stock as it enters the forest, directing the permittees to their allotments, supervising the use of the range so to cause the least possible damage to the forage crop, directing the movements of stock so as to secure an even utilization of the range and increased carrying capacities through proper distribution of range improvements will be among the major projects of the forest service during the coming summer.

Wife Beater Whipped With His Leather Belt

Warren, Ohio, March 23.—George Belley probably knows what his wife suffered when he beat her with a heavy leather belt. On order of Judge Lionel Pardee, of the municipal court, a court officer today stripped Belley's back of clothing and applied a series of lashes with the buckle end of the same belt with which the wife had been beaten. Mrs. Theresa Belley caused her husband's arrest and told the court of the beating he had given her with the belt.

Division Supt. J. W. Kimbell and wife were here for a few days this week, leaving on No. 3 today for their home in Douglas, Arizona.

WHITE MAN

WHITE MAN IS SOME PERSONAGE.

Andrea Pellor, handsome daughter of Lord Pellor, impecunious aristocrat, is doomed to marry an illiterate but wealthy middle-aged diamond mine owner. She disconsolately wanders from her hotel in South Africa and discovers an aviator about to fly from the beach. Impulsively, of course imagining that the trip will be merely a pleasant excursion, and a welcome relief from thoughts of her loveless marriage, she begs to be taken for a flight, although she does not know him. He somewhat unwillingly agrees, and they start. When she realizes her unknown aviator is not going back Andrea in desperation tries to choke him with one of her stockings. He thwarts her and they sail on into the very heart of Africa.

The engine missed fire—once, twice, Andrea would scarcely have noticed the fact had it not been for its extraordinary effect on the man. All his pose dropped from him. He became galvanized into nervous life and did several things rapidly with twitching fingers. The engine missed again, and he half rose in his seat, craned his neck, turned his face to one side and looked down. In the glimpse she caught she saw that the lines around his mouth had suddenly deepened incredibly. His eyes seemed to fix with a certain relief on a spot, a clearing, far ahead. He settled back tensely and made for it. The engine back-fired with the rippling report of a gatling gun, coughed and stopped. The man gripped the steering gear tightly and tipped the machine's nose down for a long, reaching voyage. On the backs of his hands Andrea saw little gleaming bulbs, of sweat. Swerving to escape the crest of a tree, he made a reasonably successful landing. In spite of his agitation, the airplane took the ground in the wide beaten, circle of a native's camp, shot across it and then came to a violent stop with wings buried in the mud-plastered walls of two separate huts.

The shock cast Andrea forward; instinctively she threw her arms around the man's neck. She felt the quivering of his whole body as though it were shaking with an ague. To her astonishment he became for an instant almost pitiable. But only for an instant; then he nerved himself, climbed out of the machine and helped her down. She gave a long sigh of relief and looked up at him with a half smile on her face. He had taken off his goggles. His eyes were gray and large. They stared at without seeing her and in them was a visible trouble as of some deep and hidden struggle.

Andrea gazed at him, her lips parted in wonder. At last he felt her eyes upon him and a deep flush mounted from his neck and swept upward, lighting the tan of his face with a subdued glow.

"If that happened to me," thought Andrea, "I'd be as red as a field of poppies."

"I—I beg your pardon," stammered the man and started walking up and down with quick strides. Andrea knew instinctively that he was warming up muscles that had been suddenly frozen, standing shaking knees and shaky heart.

She turned her eyes from him and gazed around to get her first glimpse of the real Africa. From the very start it left her puzzled. She stood at the far side of a great circular court, beaten hard and swept clean as a floor. Within its bounds were two acacia trees, thickly fringed, wide-spreading. Around the court, thirty high-peaked huts stood like sentinels. Behind the huts other but far smaller structures swarmed—chicken houses, strongly walled, granaries on four stilts, pigeon coots, a stockaded cattle corral and a smaller goat fold.

But what puzzled her were the Africans themselves. A flying machine had dropped in their midst and discharged two fair if not exceptional specimens of a white and dominant race, yet the blacks continued their various occupations and disoccupations apparently unperturbed. Whatever their occupation they made no sudden move of variation; even their tongues kept still.

In the shade of one of the vast acacias there was a veritable concourse of men. They sat for the most part on their heels smoking white, slow-burning cheroots. Two only could be said to be working. They were very old and sat with their backs against the trunk of the tree, their legs stretched straight out before them and at their sides neat bundles of stripped palm leaves. They were weaving baskets. The men at loom were not tongue-tied. They seemed to be going through some oral ceremony. First one and then another would take the other from his lips and make a single remark; then the rest would all come in unison and with a deep-chested expelling of all the breath in their bodies that gave almost the effect of an explosion.

It annoyed Andrea that her companion seemed to share the stolid calm of the natives in what to her mind ought to have been an occasion of such excitement and chatter. It never occurred to her that he was unmoved because he could understand what the men were saying and was merely bored.

At the moment the wheels of the flying machine had struck the ground the apparently interminable and, to Andrea, meaningless chant had been started by the native chief, a wizened figure distinguished in dress from his companions only by the ebony-black ring of polished wax that he wore like a halo of darkness on his close-cropped and grizzled head.

The white man threw up his head and clapped his hands once. The chief grunted; silence fell. He spat to one side and spoke deliberately. "Let us arise to greet the master."

They came forward and stood in a long file. The chief took one step in advance, raised his right hand and fastened his gaze on the white man's face. His own seemed to be working in a sudden excitement. "Bai-ye-te!" he roared, and there followed, so quickly that it seemed but another syllable of the salutation, a mighty grunt from the depths of thirty chests. "Huh!"

In a moment the whole scene underwent a startling transformation. The file broke and became garrulous. Children stopped their play and ran to join in the rabble. The men dropped their work and crowded into a compact group from which came suddenly a cry that startled Andrea and jerked her around to face it as though she had been yanked by a string.

The cry was shrill, high, continuous. It was produced by rounding the open mouth and working the tongue laterally in a vibration as rapid as that of a serpent's. It was ghastly to watch, incredible in the rapidity of the vibration, but once heard, unforgettable. It lasted much longer than Andrea could have held her breath, let alone used it, and ceased as suddenly as it had begun.

"All very interesting," said Andrea turning to her companion, "but why didn't they do it before?"

He looked at her absently. "There is a ceremonial," he said, "a dignity, about the African that is absurd till you've known it for years."

"For years?" repeated Andrea. "It is this your home?"

He shook his head. "No, Africa—this sort of thing—is never home to a white man. It's a place where he goes to forget his sins. I've been using it—whenever life has given me a chance—as a sun bath for the soul."

Andrea stared at him, a puzzled frown on his brow. She wondered why his bluntness did not offend her, wondered if it would ever fall to her lot to hear him say a senseless thing or laugh aloud. While she still wondered he turned from her and began calling out meaningless words: "Shilling! Five! Tin hut! Bathub! Overcoat!"

At each name, for names they were, a native stepped forward. They were all bright-faced youngsters, fourteen or fifteen years of age, and their garb, made up of a clean cloth bound tightly around slim hips and falling to the knees, and a red fez with tassels intact, marked them as hot-blooded, trusted pickaninies who alone had the right to enter the white man's quarters and were collectively his recognized mouthpieces in conveying orders.

"Bathub!" repeated the white man. A youngster quickly saluted and stepped out of the line, grinning from ear to ear at being distinguished even for a moment above his fellows.

With a jerk of his head toward Andrea the white man began to talk rapidly. Bathub's eyes rolled from his face to Andrea's and back again. They widened, they narrowed, and, each of the three times the white man said "Bathub" with a peculiar emphasis, they seemed to wince.

Andrea interrupted. "What does 'Bathub' mean, please?"

"It means a whip of raw rhino hide," said the man. "An implement that draws blood with a whisper."

Andrea went white; her eyes blazed. "So you whip your servants?" she said with curled lips.

"I have whipped a boy once," answered the man coolly. "They have never forgotten." He turned to her. "This boy, Bathub, is yours. If he ever falls, you I shall thrash him with an inch of his nine lives." He dismissed the boy with a nod.

Bathub stepped before his mistress, saluted, grinned the broadest, most friendly grin Andrea had ever seen, and without waiting for the smiling answer of her eyes was off like an arrow.

So taken up was Andrea with watching the white man as he issued a rapid fire of orders to his remaining lieutenants that when Bathub returned, saluted, and led her beneath the lesser of the acacia trees she could not believe her eyes, for they showed her a canvas wash basin on a stool, a clean towel laid over the back of a chair, another chair before a camp table laid with a clean cloth and burdened with two sizzling fried eggs, hot toast, marmalade, a pot of tea and an absurd squat bottle with the stems of wild flowers rammed down its throat.

She took off her cloak and Bathub promptly hung it to air over a low branch of the tree; then, while she bathed her face and hands, he stood by with the towel, and when she was through with that he drew her chair for her and poured her tea. Children began crowding around. He drove them back, and, dragging his toe, marked a wide circle on the ground with the table as center.

Up to that mark and no farther came the children and squatted in a staring but silent ring. Andrea sat down and gazed over their heads at the kraal in general and at the white man in particular, for from him radiated an activity incredible in comparison with the languor that had preceded it. Her eyes fell to the table and she realized two things: she was unusually, marvelously hungry and the table was set for one.

"Doesn't your master eat?" she asked of Bathub.

"My master makes ready call for mussels."

"What is 'calla'?"

Bathub frowned in an effort to catch up with a word that was on the verge of escaping from his meager vocabulary. "House!" he suddenly exploded and grinned with satisfaction.

Andrea lowered the fork that was half way to her mouth. "Makes ready a house—for me?" Her eyes narrowed. "I will not need a house. Tell him."

Bathub's grin broadened. "Sorry, Missis," he said, "law like that; every Missis one hut, every hut one tax."

Andrea stared at him open-mouthed and then blushed furiously. "I mean that I will not stay here," she explained angrily. "Tell your master I wish to speak with him—at once. Wait a minute. You call him M'sungu. What does that mean?"

"White man," said Bathub, and departed to call his master.

The white man gave a last order and then obeyed Andrea's summons. As he stepped into the shade of the acacia he took off his hat and mopped his wet brow. "Too bad we can't keep cool, like the morning," he said.

"I didn't send for you to talk about the weather," said Andrea. "You have been raining orders; now let me give just one. You are to get that machine in shape and take me back now—today."

The man's eyes met her gaze steadily but gradually his body began to tremble. He put one hand out to the square chair as though to steady himself. "I want you to believe me," he said in a low voice, "when I tell you that what you ask is impossible."

He turned as though to leave her. "Wait," cried Andrea. There was something in the way he spoke that even went beyond persuasion and robbed her of her mainstay—her anger against him. "But—" she stammered and stopped. "Oh, what is to become of me?"

"If I could take you back I would—now," said the man dully. "When you asked to come with me I knew of course that you were unaware of the fact that I was not returning. An impulse drove me to grant your request on the grounds that it is really of very little consequence what happens to any given individual. Impulses pass but decisions are often irrevocable; this was one of them."

"Why?" asked Andrea earnestly, and then repeated more urgently. "Why is it?"

The man's eyes wandered toward the airplane but he did not answer her insistent question. "No real harm will come to you," he said instead. "But even so I am sorry. Logic is a treacherous thing," he added absently "when applied to humanity. I told you that I didn't deal in personalities. I lied. There is something about the warmth of an individual person that melts cold reason."

He left her abruptly and disappeared within a near-by hut. She watched him go with a feeling of partial desertion that gradually was absorbed by a sensation that was new to her—a consciousness that when this extraordinary man spoke he left his words behind him, not as transients but as permanent guests of the mind. There was something stark about his frankness as though it had been caught in some whirlwind of life and been stripped of conventional clothes in the way of meaningless phrases, but for all its nakedness it inspired not fear but a rebellious trust.

CHAPTER III.

Andrea swallowed a lump in her throat. "I won't—I will not cry," she said aloud. "I shall never cry again. I'm really having a good time. I've always been bored and I'm certainly not bored now, and only a fool would cry over that." She settled down to her breakfast in earnest, forgot that she detested eggs fried, ate every scrap of the toast, most of the marmalade, and drank three cups of tea. Then she sat back and let her eyes amuse her.

The kraal's activity had centered about the newest and smartest of the huts. Around it many men were working, some digging trenches, others cutting an extra door in its side. Presently still others began to arrive in a seemingly endless procession, bearing posts, stripped of their bark and cut to uniform length, and great bundles of withes and thatch grass.

She watched them work with a wonder at what they were doing that grew vaguer and vaguer until she dozed and finally dropped sound asleep in her chair. She awoke two hours later to find the white man standing before her, clean shaven, clear eyed, smelling of soap and looking almost dapper in khaki helmet, shirt, breeches and puttees.

"Well, Mr. White Man?" said Andrea.

He smiled a slow smile of relief as though he had been dreading her first words. "Will you come now?" he asked.

She arose, started to follow him and stopped with a gasp. "Why?" she exclaimed, her eyes fastened on the hut that had been the scene of labor. It was transformed. Before it now stood a veranda with a thatched roof, enclosing the veranda, the hut and a tiny garden at its back was a mighty stockade, each post of which was sharpened to a needle point. From the extra door ran a covered way as strongly built as the stockade and which connected the hut with its neighbor—that into which the white man had disappeared.

"Will you come?" repeated the man. Andrea followed him, only to stop again when she reached the veranda. It was carpeted with a long grass mat of vivid colors and on the mat stood chairs and a table. On the table was a hand sewing machine and from corner-to-corner post swung a hammock. She had to stoop very low to enter the hut itself, and once within had to wait a long time for her sun-filled eyes to accustom themselves to the kindly gloom. The man grew impatient and struck a match. By its light Andrea saw a vision of comfort. The room was circular and uncelled, so that one could look up and up into the very depths of its tapering peak. From that height dangled a wire and on its end hung a lantern. The man lit it and showed her how it could be carried to any desired point on the circumference of the room and hooked there.

On one side stood a cot already made up; beside it a small camp chair. On the other side was a long hammock chair, and close to it stood a curved tabouret piled high with books. Over a small table hung a foolish little mirror. The walls were wainscoted with a woven mat of golden reeds. The place smelled clean, was clean. Andrea had come into the room on a sudden idea, and that was to determine the why and wherefore of the covered passage leading to the next hut. She failed to discover its entrance until her companion drew her attention to a door, wainscoted like the walls but crossed by a sturdy bar pivoted at one end, the other sinking into a deep socket.

"It occurred to me," said the man, "that perhaps you would be afraid at night unless you were sure of sleep. Listen." He raised the bar, and as he did so the hidden door flew open and a gong sounded in the next hut. "The bar cannot be lifted from my side of course," he added.

Then he led her out through the veranda into her private garden and pointed to a quite new and tiny hut. "Your bath and washroom," he said. "You must have no water in the hut you live in, not only because its floor is of mud but principally on account of the mosquitoes."

"Live?" said Andrea. "My dear White Man, you are mad. I'm not going to live here, no matter how horribly I'm tempted by all this thoughtfulness of yours and—mine."

He looked questioningly at her face. "Will you dine with me," he ventured, "at half past five? It's the best hour on account of daylight and only two meals a day. Will you? After that we'll talk it out."

Andrea nodded and dismissed him with, "Till half after five, then."

Things had moved so fast through the day that she had had no time to mark more than their general course. Now she settled down to a deliberate survey. She went back in her mind to Aunt Gwen, to her brothers and to the public at large as represented by the colony dance. She imagined their consternation at her disappearance, visualized the efforts that even at this moment were being made to trace her and the full force of their inevitable facility.

The searchers would have nothing to go on. There was only one chance as far as she knew and that was a slim one. In the general excitement the native whom the white man had left behind might chatter his way into sufficient prominence to get himself called as a witness. But she set small hope on such a solution, for the last few hours had taught her that the author of all her troubles was more than White Man to those under him—he was master.

Then her thoughts turned to the man she was to have married. Of course, and whatever happened from now on, that—deal—was off. She puckered her brow, puzzled that such a conclusion brought no great shock with it. Last of all, she thought of herself. What was the meaning of this day to Andrea Pellor, to that girl whom she had curiously watched, studied and dreamed over during very nearly a quarter of a century? Unconsciously she faced the problem from the standpoint into which she had been bred alone—measured it by the cold rule of convention and society usage.

"I'm done for," said Andrea to herself. "Yesterday I was a pearl of great price in the marriage market, and now everything in the way of cash that offers will come from the music hall! Your last day, Pellor," she added aloud, giving a deep significance to the use of the old family name alone. Her lips curled and her eyes hardened rebelliously as she added a final murmur, "But it's been a hammer!"

"Scoff ready, Missis."

She jumped erect with a startled cry. "Plenty hungry, eh?" said Bathub with his usual grin of pride at his powers of deduction.

Andrea wants to go back.
Does she go?

Phonograph Repeats Record.

When the needle comes to the end of its travel and the music ceases the owner of a phonograph equipped with a new attachment, says Popular Mechanics magazine, takes no heed, and a moment later the machine is playing the same air over again. This interesting result is achieved by means of a metal arm pivoted at a point outside the turntable; its inner end resting upon the projecting tip of the spindle. At the end of the record the traveling sound box engages a trigger which actuates a vertical screw, and the metal arm rises, lifting the needle from the record. The sound box slides back along the inclined arm to its starting position, the descending arm replaces the needle accurately in the outer groove, and the music goes on.

Unatlyish Duds.

"Do you know how to make a pair duds?" asked her husband. It was too good an opportunity to let go by. "Certainly," she replied. "All I have to do is to dress the man in the kind of clothes you make me wear."

Only Thing to Do.

Doctor—You are all run down. You ought to quit business entirely. Patient—If I'm run down I suppose I'll have to wind up.

SCHOOL NOTES

(By Supt. E. E. Cole)

On Monday morning of last week, Supt. Cole announced the valedictorian and salutatorian for the graduating class of 1920. Miss Hilary Cooper wins the first honor of the class and will be valedictorian. Linza Branum wins the second honor and will be salutatorian.

These honors are given for scholarship. The congratulations of friends are due. The following students were neither tardy nor absent during the school month of March:

Primary, Miss Ivy Lindsay: Marjorie Rolland, Mildred McCall, Talbert McLean, Beatrice Pino, Preciliano Pino, Julia Romero, Julian Taylor.

First Grade, Miss Neff: Sue Bacot, Catherine Patty, Atila Vega, Alvin Carl, Alexander Chapman, Lester McLean, Arcadio Brady, Woodrow Clements.

Man Made Ten Commandments

(B. Y. Heck.)

Thou shalt not kill (time) in making inquiries concerning thy neighbor's cellar, for thy neighbor keepeth unto himself the things that are forbidden.

Thou shalt not bow down and worship the container which resembles in form that which at one time held all that was dear to the festive "bar fly" for behold! it hath no percentage of the "kick" that would cause thee to climb a telegraph pole.

Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor, neither shalt thou criticize him by accusing him of having a beer in his pipe, for this is not numbered (as yet) among the things intoxicating.

Thou shalt not touch the first fruits of the oil well, for it containeth a "kick" equal to 3½ per cent beer and will be considered an intoxicant at the next session of the law makers.

Thou shalt not commit the adulteration of Jamaica ginger, hops, ether, lemon extract, or any like preparation whereby the same may be made into "old hen," "mule," or any modern mixture, which is prohibited.

Thou shalt not call for a "drink" on entering thy neighbor's drug store, but thou shalt say: "a small, mild selection of a very soft nature, please."

Thou shalt love the sunshine, but abhor the "moonshine" neither shalt thou permit the same to enter thy parlor. "Pull down the blinds."

Thou shalt not covet thy El Paso neighbor's passport to Juarez, for behold! he goeth into a far country, to waste his earnings in riotous living and returneth empty in pocket, with many bumps on his bean caused by foreign police who "clouteth" him thereon.

Thou shalt not eat mince pie, until assured by thy baker, that the same containeth no cider nor anything that might have even the shadow of things on the prohibited list.

When thou dost "shuffle off" this mortal coil, thou shalt not lie on thy "bier" but thou shouldst "dry" up and blow away with all things mortal.

Waiting until it thunders before starting to save for a rainy day, gets many good people into deep water.

ALLIES OCCUPY TURK CAPITOL

CONSTANTINOPLE IN HANDS OF
ALLIES UNDER BRITISH GEN-ERAL, SIR GEORGE MILNE.

BRITISH LAND TROOPS

CITY UNDER HEAVY GUARD;
TURKS MAKE VERY LITTLE PROTEST.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Constantinople, March 18.—Constantinople is now occupied by allied forces under Gen. Sir George F. Milne of the British army. This long-looked-for military demonstration by the allies against Turkey was carried out with only one untoward happening, a serious clash at the war office, where the Turks resisted the allied troops. An exchange of shots resulted, in which several panjabs of the British East Indian forces and a few of the Turks were killed.

The excitement caused by the occupation quieted down before darkness, which brought absolute calm.

The landing of occupation forces was carried out under guns of the formidable allied fleet anchored in the Bosphorus. The British dreadnought Benbow was moored at the Galata quay, her guns trained on Stamboul. Another man-of-war faced the arsenal in the Golden Horn, while all other warships in the Bosphorus were standing by with their decks cleared for action.

Except in the instance stated, however, there was no resistance to the allies. The population, in fact, showed little alarm.

The allied high commissioner here has issued a statement declaring that the allies have no intention of destroying the authority of the Sultan but wish to strengthen his power. It also says the allies will adhere to their intention not to deprive the Turks of Constantinople but that they may be compelled to modify their decision if massacres and disorders continue.

Notification of the occupation of Constantinople was given the grand vizier in a formal letter signed by the French, British and Italian high commissioners.

The allies have occupied the ministries of war and navy and assumed control of the posts, telegraphs and telephones, which have been temporarily suspended. Shipping also has been suspended.

There was no sign of panic except in one section of Stamboul, as commanders of the allied troops brought their forces ashore.

These forces included 4,000 blue-jackets and marines from British warships, and contingents from all the allies represented. Indian detachments having Moslems on their coaters were among the troops taking part.

Comprehensive military and naval plans have been made to carry out the allied measures and precautionary steps taken. A number of Turks and other persons regarded as possible disturbers of the peace were arrested, including the commander of the Tenth Turkish division.

The dead walls of Constantinople were placarded with a proclamation by Maj. Gen. Henry F. M. Wilson of the British troops, declaring anyone committing any act that threatened the safety of the allied forces would be tried by court-martial.

Wants New Jersey Action Dismissed.

Washington.—Dismissal of New Jersey's original suit in the Supreme Court to test the validity of the prohibition amendment and portions of the law enforcement act, was asked in a motion filed by Solicitor General King, contending that New Jersey's complaint did not present matters of adjustable character. Arguments upon the motion have been set for March 29.

Find $100,000 Loot.

Chicago.—Liberty and other bonds, valued at $100,000, were discovered in a water-soaked gunnysack which was dug from a pigsty on the farm of Guy Wadsworth, a former policeman of Dalton, by detectives from State Attorney Hoyne's office, who were seeking evidence against Wadsworth, held as the head of a band of thieves.

Swiss Train Caught in Avalanche.
Bern.—A train was overwhelmed by an avalanche in the Bernina pass at an altitude of 10,000 feet. Seven men of the crew of the train were killed. None of the passengers was injured.

Facts for Sick Women

Reliable Information

All American women know of the great success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in restoring to health women who suffered from ailments peculiar to their sex, yet there are some who are skeptical and do not realize that all that is claimed for it is absolutely true—if they did, our laboratory would not be half large enough to supply the demand, though today it is the largest in the country used for the manufacture of one particular medicine.

The Facts contained in the following two letters should prove of benefit to many women:

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I suffered with organic inflammation and displacement. When lifting I had such pain and bending down that I was not able to stand up, and it hurt me to walk or go up or down stairs. I was going to a doctor without any results and he said the safest thing would be to have an operation. I met a lady who told me she had three operations and was not well until she took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I felt relief after taking two bottles of Vegetable Compound and I kept on with it until I was cured. I always use Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and they are fine. Everything used to turn sour on my stomach and the Liver Pills relieved that."—Mrs. A. Rogers, 603 Fargo Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Sacramento, Calif.—"I had organic trouble and had such terrible pain and swelling in the lower part of my side that I could not stand on my feet or even let the bed clothes touch my side. I gave up my work thinking I would not be able to go back for months. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had saved her life at one time, and it put me in a wonderful condition in a couple of weeks, so I can keep on working. I work in a department store and have to stand on my feet all day and I do not have any more pains. I surely recommend your Vegetable Compound to all my friends and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—HARRIET J. PARKER, 3320 M St., Sacramento, Calif.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

How About Your Catarrh? Do You Want Real Relief?

Then Throw Away Your Sprays and Other Make-shift Treatment.

Why? Simply because you have overlooked the cause of catarrh, and all of your treatment has been misdirected. Remove the cause of the clogged-up accumulations that choke up your air passages, and they will naturally disappear for good. But no matter how many local applications you use to temporarily clear them away, they will promptly re-appear until their cause is removed.

S. S. S. is an antidote to the millions of tiny Catarrh germs with which your blood is infected. A thorough course of this remedy will cleanse and purify your blood, and remove the disease germs which cause Catarrh.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J.
 Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system.
 They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Hondo Notes

Hondo will soon have a brand new postmaster, Esquipula Gonzales, has been appointed postmaster to succeed C. S. Osborn, resigned, and will take over the office as soon as his bond approved.

A very large meteor—or something else—was seen Monday evening about 9 o'clock, by a number of folks in the valley. From the description of the phenomenon, at least two persons say that it appeared to be a "ball of fire" about as big as a full moon and that it crossed the southeastern horizon quite low, at least three times, swinging back and forth like a huge pendulum, stopping suddenly at each end of the swing and finally disappearing to the northeast.

Apricot, peach and plum trees are coming into full bloom in the Hondo valley this week; let us hope no late frosts will come to injure them.

Note—A portion of Hondo notes omitted for want of space.

Take Aspirin With Water

If your Aspirin tablets have the name "Bayer" stamped on them, they are genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," proved safe by millions of people. The name "Bayer" identifies the true world-famous Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years.

Always drink one or two glasses of water after taking the tablets. Each unbroken "Bayer package" contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, and for Pain.

Always say "Bayer" when buying Aspirin. Then look for the safety "Bayer Cross" on the package and on the tablets.

Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost but a few cents. Drug-gists also sell larger packages.

Aspirin is trade mark of Bayer Manufacture Monocetate of Salicylic Acid

"When I got home tuther evening," related a citizen of Sandy Mush, "I found a couple o' dozen of my acquaintances and several fellows that I'd never heered of before, setting on my porch and otherwise hanging around, waiting for me."

"What was coming off—a surprise party, or something that-a-way?" inquired the neighbor to whom the incident was being related.

"Nope; nuth'n' specially surprising about it, considering that some infernal liar had told 'em I'd been norat'ing around that I recollected when the courthouse in Tumlinville was built a bottle of fine old hicker was put in the corner stone. They wanted to know which corner."—Kansas City Star.

NOT SO HARD TO UNDERSTAND

After Experience With Truthful Parent, Teacher Got Great Light on Johnny's Case.

A teacher who believed in co-operating with the parents of her pupils called at the house of a small boy whom she had caught in a number of falsehoods in order to take counsel with his mother.

"I can't see how you can say that," the boy's mother objected. "John never tells me lies. I'm mighty particular about it myself. He's out in the yard now. Annie," she said to his small sister, "you go out and tell him to come right in this minute!"

Annie went, but in a few minutes she returned without the small prevaricator. "He won't come," she announced proudly. "He says he won't."

"Did you tell him who was here?" inquired his mother.

Annie shook her head.

"All right," said the truthful parent. "Go back and tell him his grandmother is here and has some candy for him. That'll bring him!"—Youth's Companion.

A force of twenty-five men started work on the improvement and rebuilding of the road to the Rito de Los Frijoles, which will cost $8,500, eliminate the dangerous Ancho cañon crossing, greatly reduce the running time of cars between Santa Fé and the Rito and constitute one of the most important road improvements for years in the vicinity of Santa Fé.

In a report of the federal grand jury at Phoenix it was recommended that no more federal prisoners be confined in the Maricopa county jail "until or unless the same is made more sanitary and the directions of the United States marshal are observed and followed out in the matter of safeguarding prisoners and the permitting of visitors under proper surveillance."

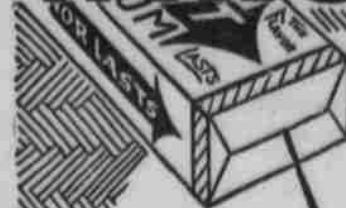

A ninety-day extension of time in which to file plans for a union station or for two individual stations affording adequate facilities for Phoenix has been granted in an executive session of the Arizona Corporation Commission. The Arizona Eastern and Santa Fé, Prescott & Phoenix railroads recently asked the extension in order to ascertain definitely their condition.

Fourteen prisoners at the Bernalillo county jail made an ineffectual attempt to escape by sawing through the iron bars of a window with saws smuggled in by two men named McManisters and Baker, held for highway robbery. All the prisoners were long term federal prisoners or men awaiting action of the grand jury. Four of the bars had been sawed through before the attempt was discovered.

Developments on the property of the Boras Lumber Company at Bisbee, Ariz., have not only proved the value of the mine beyond question, but indicate that another big producer has been developed and that the southern end of the camp is as good as the older properties. A drift on the 600-foot level has opened up the same ore body on which the company has been working 100 feet above, but the ore is of much higher grade, running about 20 per cent copper.

An increase in tax collection in New Mexico is shown for 1919 over 1918 in a statement issued by the State Tax Commission. The percentage of collection for the first year was 86.87 and for the last, 89.30 and, the statement adds, it is hoped that the general average throughout the state will reach 95 per cent, through the effort of special counsel. The tax commission's records show that in 1918 the tax rolls totaled $6,103,529.71 and the taxes collected to November 30 of that year amounted to $5,302,589.13, 86.87 per cent. For 1919 the tax rolls totaled $6,697,115.97 and the collections to November 30, $5,994,680.47, 89.30 per cent.

Will He Make It?

If So, Why And How?

The sensational trial of Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan, charged with corruption, bribery and vote buying, has finally terminated by the Honorable Senator with 16 of his associates in the game being given nice terms in the penitentiary and a modest fine attached to his own sentence of $10,000. Now comes the jury that returned the verdict of "guilty," with the statement that the Government had a weak case and offers the hint, that another trial would result differently, yet they admit that the testimony introduced by the defense, was the principal factor in bringing about the verdict that caused sentences to be pronounced upon the 17 men.

Judge Sessions has announced that he would allow the defense 90 days in which to perfect an appeal which will give rise to speculation as to what the defense will base its appeal on, inasmuch as said defense convicted itself, by admitting Paul King's testimony to the effect that he told Newberry that the campaign would cost $50,000 and the introduction of letters which the defense admitted were true, showed conclusively that the Senator personally directed nearly every important move that was made. In the face of these facts, it would seem that as the statement of the liberated jurors is that the Government won "only by a hair," that said hair must have been quite long when we consider the fact that all the evidence offered by the defense went to the strength of the prosecution.

The only plea in the motion for an appeal it would seem, would be for the defense to discredit its evidence in the trial which would convict somebody for perjury and in the face of all this, the Senator says: "I am proud of the fact that the record in this case contains nothing of which I need be ashamed." This statement was followed by another from one of Newberry's attorneys who with tears in his eyes said: "The finding of the jury was a great shock to me." The Senator says, he has no desire to crowd himself into the Senate, but he will continue to represent his state unless that body should ask him to retire, which it will probably do, in short order, and a new election held unless the state is willing for him to represent it through the prison bars of the penitentiary.

Mr. Henry Ford, who was Senator Newberry's opponent at the last election will hardly repeat the attempt, as he expresses himself as being thoroughly disgusted with the political arena. The entire matter summed up causes considerable speculation, but to return to the one thing paramount just now, we repeat: Will He Make It? If So, Why, And How? To say the least, the outcome of this celebrated trial will serve as a warning to evil designing politicians, who may in the future, seek to gain their elections by bribery, corruption and fraud.

The President says he is not willing to trust the counsel of diplomats to work out the salvation of the world. No, we should think not, considering how they trimmed him when he sat in the game in Paris. That little session with the Japanese diplomats over Shantung, for instance.—Ex.

Notice of Election

Official call of the regular biennial village election in and for the Village of Carrizozo, State of New Mexico and notice of the appointment of a Board of Registrars and Judges and Clerks of said election.

Official notice is hereby given that the regular biennial election of the Village of Carrizozo, for the purpose of electing a mayor, four other trustees and one clerk of the Village of Carrizozo, to serve for the term of two years, is called and will be held on Tuesday the 6th day of April, 1920 as required by law. The place of voting shall be at the County Court House between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 6 o'clock p. m.

The following board of registration has been appointed to register the qualified electors of said Village, at said election: M. B. Paden, Claude Pitts and R. T. Cribb, which said board of registration will sit at the Lincoln State Bank in Carrizozo. The registration books shall be opened for the registration of voters, beginning on the 16th day of March, 1920, at 9 o'clock A. M. at said Lincoln State Bank and shall remain open each day thereafter until the 26th day of March, 1920; said books shall remain open until 6 P. M. of each day above specified.

A certified list of all the registered voters will be posted and remain posted for six days following March 26th, 1920, at the Court House, Post Office and the Carrizozo Eating House, and any person seeing that his name had not been registered and who is a qualified elector, may apply to said board of registration and have his name added to the list of qualified electors; or he may have the name of any person who he may know to be a qualified voter added to said list. The name of any person who may have illegally registered with said board, may be stricken from said list by said registrars.

Notice is hereby given that the following persons have been named as judges and clerks at said election: Judges A. C. Wingfield, B. F. Goff and A. L. Burke; Clerks: S. G. Anderson and C. A. Perkins.

By order of the Board of Trustees of the Village of Carrizozo, State of New Mexico this 2nd day of March, 1920.

F. J. SAGER,
Acting Mayor of the Village of Carrizozo.

Attest:
M. B. PADEN, Clerk.

Work that really tests your overalls

WHEN you're doing real work—climbing, stooping and bending—

That's when you find out what your overalls are good for—how strong the cloth really is—

That's when they bind if they're not made right.

It's hard work like this that really tests your overalls. And it's for just this kind of hard work that Blue Buckle Overalls are specially made.

"I wear Blue Buckles on every run. They're tough as raw hide and fit easy all the time."

Joe McElrath
Engineer of the Rock Center Limited

The toughest, longest-wearing denim goes into every pair—with wide double-stitched seams that don't rip. They are big and roomy with extra wide suspenders. Every detail of Blue Buckles has careful workmanship—a solid back-band, best quality brass buckles and loops, raglan sleeves in the coats, big convenient pockets, and every pocket is reinforced.

Next time you buy overalls ask for Blue Buckles.

What Makes a Bank?

Well, our answer to that question is that it is the men behind the bank, the men interested in its management, the men who stand for business integrity and square dealing.

The officers of our bank are accommodating and willing to extend you every courtesy. Our directors are not figure-heads, they actually direct the affairs of the bank and know how its business is conducted. Our stockholders are among the solid men of the community. These are what it takes to make a good bank, in our judgement, a safe place for you to do business. We invite you to join us.

A WELL-KNOWN INSTITUTION.

Probably no institution in America is more widely known than Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. Although established many years ago it is today a modern sanitarium, having all the latest facilities for the correct diagnosis of diseases and their successful treatment through medicine or surgery.

It was Dr. Pierce, its founder, who over 50 years ago gave to the world that wonderful stomach tonic and blood purifier, "Golden Medical Discovery," and that famous non-alcoholic medicine for women, "Favorite Prescription."

In his early professional career, Dr. Pierce realized that every family, but especially those who live remote from a physician, should have at hand an instructive book that would teach them something about First Aid, Physiology, Anatomy, Hygiene; how to recognize different diseases, how to care for the sick, what to do in case of accident or sudden sickness, etc., so he published that great book, the "Medical Adviser," an up-to-date edition of which can be procured by sending 50 cents to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y.

Later, Dr. Pierce added another link to his chain of good works by establishing a bureau of correspondence to which any one can write for medical advice, without any expense whatever, and if necessary, medicines especially prepared in Doctor Pierce's Laboratory will be sent by parcel post or express for use at home, at a reasonable cost. Thus those who have symptoms of disease need not suffer mental agony fearing that they have some serious ailment, but can have a diagnosis made free by a physician of high professional standing. Write to Dr. Pierce relating your symptoms if you need medical advice for any chronic disease. All letters regarded as confidential.

Catarrh is a local disease, usually caused by constitutional weakness. It therefore requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the bladder. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE destroys the foundation of the disease, gives the patient strength by improving the general health and assists nature in doing its work. $1000 for any case of Catarrh that HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE fails to cure. Druggists or Postmaster free, P. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

DOCTOR ADVISED CHANGE OF CLIMATE

Run Down and Lungs Hurt—Stayed Home and Gained 22 Pounds.

"In November, 1911, I had a severe cold and a grippe, which left me with a bad cough. My lungs and shoulder blades hurt so I couldn't sleep and I finally had to give up my job and was ordered to change climate. In April, 1912, I began taking Milk Emulsion. On the second bottle I could see a change. My appetite was better and I commenced to gain strength and weight. Now (August 23, 1912) I have used 25 bottles, have increased 22 pounds in weight and believe I am permanently cured."—W. F. Bourland, Route 5, Wolf City, Texas.

Mr. Bourland was fortunate in commencing to use Milk Emulsion when he did. A run-down system invites disease. Milk Emulsion costs nothing to try. Milk Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physica. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength Milk Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened, and is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Truly wonderful for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milk Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if Kidneys feel like lead or bladder bothers.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulates them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

CREAM FOR CATARRH OPENS UP NOSTRILS

Tells How to Get Quick Relief From Head-Colds. It's Splendid!

In one minute your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh will be gone.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed up with a cold or nasty catarrh—Relief comes so quickly.—Adv.

A doctor who tells you your symptoms before you can tell them wins your eternal faith.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Bairo Compound, and 34 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

It requires some thoughtfulness to even send "best regards" to other members of the family.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BOWEN

BIG ELANDS.

"We're the big elands and we're as large as any antelopes going," said Mr. Eland.

"Are we as large as any antelopes standing still?" asked Mrs. Eland, grinning at Mr. Eland.

"Now, Mrs. Eland," he said, "you know what I mean and you can't deny it."

"Ah," said Mrs. Eland, "we might be very much smaller when we were still. We mightn't spread our wings so much, so to speak."

"I'm glad, Mrs. Eland," said Mr. Eland, "that you said 'so to speak,' for you might make people horribly confused who didn't know much about elands."

"Are there such people?" asked Mrs. Eland.

"Of course, there are," said Mr. Eland, "and they're really bright people in every other way."

"It's hard to believe," said Mrs. Eland.

"Well, look at it from your standpoint," said Mr. Eland.

"What's my standpoint?" asked Mrs. Eland.

"A hind foot or a horn or what?"

"Your point of view," said Mr. Eland.

"My view isn't pointed. My view is nice and round or square or something—but it's not pointed."

"I mean," said Mr. Eland, "that you should look at the fact that people don't know much about elands from the way that elands don't know much about people."

"Oh, yes, that is so," said Mrs. Eland.

"And so some people mightn't know but what elands had wings."

"Gracious!" said Mrs. Eland.

"Wouldn't they know I was only joking and that, of course, we hadn't wings, that we were great, big, beautiful animals and not birds at all?"

"I think they would," said Mr. Eland.

"But it's well not to joke and make folks not understand at all what you mean. Of course, you did say, 'so to speak,' and that was a great help."

"Well," Mrs. Eland said, "I'm glad to hear that much. Anyway, as you say, we're the big elands and we're as large as any antelopes going—that's a great help." She grinned at Mr. Eland.

"You're such a tease, Mrs. Eland, such a tease. Especially today. Something must have gotten into you."

"Something did," she said. "My food!"

"One thing," laughed Mr. Eland, "is that what I've been saying you can't deny."

"Just what do you mean when you say I cannot deny it?" asked Mrs. Eland.

"I mean," said Mr. Eland, "that you can't help but say that you know what I mean."

"Oh, yes, perhaps that is so," said Mrs. Eland.

"Perhaps?" questioned Mr. Eland.

"Dear me, how fussy!" said Mrs. Eland.

"Then I will say it most certainly is so. I do understand you. There, how does that suit you?"

"To perfection, absolutely and entirely," said Mr. Eland.

"You use three words where one would do if you were thinking of saving time," said Mrs. Eland.

"I'm not thinking of saving time," said Mr. Eland. "Time makes no difference to me."

"My meals are given to me when I am hungry and so I needn't worry. They say we're rare now and they like us and take good care of us, though I will say that they even do that about cren-ires not rare at all. I am from eastern Africa and you are from southern Africa, and that's finer than to be home products!"

"But to return to the words I used. They're friendly, clumsy words, they are. And they don't mind doing a favor for me like that and making my sentence very fine."

"Oh," said Mrs. Eland, "how nice of them."

People You Know or Should Know

Little "Twinkles"

Little "Twinkles", was not a child. Far from it; he was only a pet rabbit, but he had won the affections of a large number of little girls in the neighborhood of the Carrizozo schools. On February 27, a joint birthday party was arranged for the little Misses Carol Wilson and Lorene Stimmel and among the presents for Miss Carol was a small white rabbit which was christened by the children as "Twinkles." His bunnyship grew rapidly and at the same time fastened himself on the affections of the children, but on Tuesday, he died.

As a fitting evidence of their love for the little white rabbit the children gathered and gave the tiny, downy, body a respectable burial. They sang songs and performed ceremonies over the little heap of clay that held the bit of rabbit dust that in life had been the means of much pleasure and amusement for the children.

On March 19, the Supreme Court reversed the decision of the lower court in the case of Dr. J. N. Newman, a prominent physician of Alamogordo, who was convicted of murder in the second degree on evidence that was purely circumstantial. The defense was conducted by W. C. Merchant of Carrizozo and Lee Strong of Alamogordo. The case was appealed after terminating in the conviction of the defendant, April 10, 1918.

Miss Brandiger, local agent for the Western Union Telegraph company, left for El Paso Thursday, where she will attend a conference of agents of that company Friday and Saturday. She will return to Carrizozo about Sunday, but only to attend to some minor business matters, as she has accepted a position at Telluride, Colorado, which is her home town. She will start for that place next Monday.

Messrs. Gilchrist and Culbertson, prominent business men of Silver City, motored over from that city last week and spent several days in consultation with Carrizozo business men. Mr. Gilchrist is vice president of the American National Bank and Mr. Culbertson is president of the New Mexico Cattle & Horse Growers' Association.

The following named ladies and gentlemen from Corona, attended the entertainment given by the American Legion Saturday evening: E. L. Moulton and wife, P. H. Kersey and wife, W. R. Lovelace and wife, Mrs. John Queen and Louis Adams. They left for home Sunday, some of whom motored over while others took train No. 4.

Dr. Carl E. Freeman, Carrizozo's Western story writer has had notice of the acceptance of several of his latest stories which will soon begin in the Country Gentleman and other publications in the east. Among those mentioned are, "Code of the Cow Country," "Cow Brands," "Congratulations and Maud," "Star Johnson" and "Gwynne's Disappointment."

Mrs. M. McCarty, of Tyrone, visited for several days last week with the B. J. McCarty family of Carrizozo, staying over on her trip to Strawn, Texas, where her husband is manager of a large grocery store for S. G. Casey, formerly of Tyrone and who is now operating four stores in the neighborhood, of which Strawn and Ranger are the principal towns.

Revival meetings will begin at the Baptist Church on Sunday, April 5, at which the Rev. G. C. Linn of the Government Hill Baptist Church of El Paso, will conduct the services. The meetings will continue for two weeks.

Elmer (Red) Eakers returned from his vacation Saturday accompanied by his brother Pink and the two brothers are now employed in Rolland Bros. Drug Store. They met in Ranger, Texas. Pink found "Red" just in time to prevent the latter from buying some valuable oil stock.

Quality First—Is the word all over our store. You will be delighted at the display of spring coats, suits, and dresses at the Carrizozo Trading Co.

Paul C. Wilson, former stockman of Roswell is now located at his new home near Jicarrilla. Mr. Wilson, we are glad to say, is now a resident of Lincoln county and we may expect more frequent visits from himself and family in the future.

FOR SALE—My entire flock of Plymouth Rock chickens, 32 in number. A bargain to party who will take the flock as a whole.—Mrs. Frank Lesnett. tf Albert Ziegler and wife left for El Paso Tuesday. Mr. Ziegler returned Wednesday, while Mrs. Ziegler will remain for the weekend to visit former Carrizozo friends and neighbors.

The best dressers come here for their clothing and furnishing goods, because they always find quality in everything that's new.—Carrizozo Trading Co.

We are still doing business at the same old stand. Bring your clothing to be cleaned and pressed. If we please you, tell your friends; if we do not, tell us.—Carrizozo Tailoring Shop.

H. P. Clarke and wife of Glencoe came over Tuesday, attended "Our Mrs. McChesney", at the Crystal Theatre that evening and left Thursday morning for their mountain home.

Elvin Harkey, who has for some time been in the employ of A. J. Rolland in the drug store, left for El Paso Tuesday to pay a visit to his mother.

The best investment today is an all-wool "Quality First" Kuppenheimer suit for Easter. Only high-grade clothing will be shown at the Carrizozo Trading Co.

Mrs. Wm. Reilly entertained the Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal Church Thursday afternoon with a social session at which refreshments were served.

Miss Margie Branum has accepted the position of bookkeeper at Ziegler Bros. store left vacant by the resignation of the former Mrs. McLaughlin.

Miss Jesse Ramsey spent Sunday in Alamogordo with friends and relatives.

N. B. Chatelle of Joplin, Mo., who is a cousin of Mr. Ernest Prehm stayed over Tuesday on his way to the Pecos oil fields.

H. S. Hanner of White Oaks made a business trip to El Paso, Monday.

Mrs. George Benson, who has been on the sick list for the past ten days is rapidly improving.

Allen Johnson and wife came up from El Paso Sunday and are spending the major portion of this week with relatives and friends.
