ARTHUR GUY EMPEY

MACHINE GUNNER, SERVING IN FRANCE

1917 BY

CHAPTER XXVI—Continued.

Right now I can see the butt of that gun trembling. The Scotch made a complete turn in the air, hit the ground, rolling over twice, each time clawing at the earth, and then remained still, about four feet from me, in a sort of sitting position. I called to him, "Are you hurt badly, Jock?" but no answer. He was dead. A dark red smudge was coming through his tunic right under the heart. The blood ran down his bare knees, making a horrible sight. On his right side he carried his water bottle. I was crazy for a drink and tried to reach this, but for the life of me could not negotiate that four feet. Then I became unconscious. When I woke up I was in an advanced first-aid post. I asked the doctor if we had taken the trench. "We took the trench and the wood beyond, all right," he said, "and you fellows did your bit; but, my lad, that was thirty-six hours ago. You were lying in No Man's Land in that belly hole for a day and a half. It's a wonder you are alive." He also told me that out of the twenty that were in the raiding party, seventeen were killed. The officer died of wounds in crawling back to our trench and I was severely wounded, but one fellow returned without a scratch, without any prisoners. No doubt this chap was the one who had sneezed and improperly cut the barbed wire.

In the official communiqué our trench raid was described as follows:

"All quiet on the western front, excepting in the neighborhood of Gommecourt wood, where one of our raiding parties penetrated into the German lines."

It is needless to say that we had no use for our persuaders or come-alongs, as we brought back no prisoners, and until I die Old Pepper's words, "Personally I don't believe that that part of the German trench is occupied," will always come to me when I hear some fellow trying to get away with a fishy statement. I will judge it accordingly.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Blighty.

From this first-aid post, after inoculating me with antitetanus serum to prevent lockjaw, I was put into an ambulance and sent to a temporary hospital behind the lines. To reach this hospital we had to go along a road about five miles in length. This road was under shell fire, for now and then a flare would light up the sky—a tremendous explosion—and then the road seemed to tremble. We did not mind, though no doubt some of us wished that a shell would hit us and end our misery. Personally, I was not particular. It was nothing but bump, jolt, rattle, and bang.

Several times the driver would turn around and give us a "Cheero, mates, we'll soon be there—" fine fellows, those ambulance drivers, a lot of them go West, too.

We gradually drew out of the fire zone and pulled up in front of an immense dugout. Stretcher-bearers carried me down a number of steps and placed me on a white table in a brightly lighted room.

A sergeant of the Royal Army Medical corps removed my bandages and cut off my tunic. Then the doctor, with his sleeves rolled up, took charge. He winked at me and I winked back, and then he asked, "How do you feel, smashed up a bit?"

I answered: "I'm all right, but I'd give a quid for a drink of Bass."

He nodded to the sergeant, who disappeared, and I'll be darned if he didn't return with a glass of ale. I could only open my mouth about a quarter of an inch, but I got away with every drop of that ale. It tasted just like Blighty, and that is heaven to Tommy.

The doctor said something to an orderly, the only word I could catch was "chloroform," then they put some kind of an arrangement over my nose and mouth and it was me for dreamland.

When I opened my eyes I was lying on a stretcher, in a low wooden building. Everywhere I looked I saw rows of Tommies on stretchers, some dead to the world, and the rest with flies in their mouths.

The main topic of their conversation was Blighty. Nearly all had a grin on their faces, except those who didn't have a single tooth left to grin with.

grinned with my right eye, the other was bandaged.

Stretcher-bearers came in and began to carry the Tommies outside. You could hear the chug of the engines in the waiting ambulances.

I was put into an ambulance with three others and away we went for an eighteen-mile ride.

I was on a bottom stretcher. The lad right across from me was smashed up something horrible.

Right above me was a man from the Royal Irish rifles, while across from him was a Scotchman.

We had gone about three miles when I heard the death-rattle in the throat of the man opposite. He had gone to rest across the Great Divide. I think at the time I envied him.

The man of the Royal Irish rifles had had his left foot blown off, the jolting of the ambulance over the rough road had loosened up the bandages on his foot, and had started it bleeding again. This blood ran down the side of the stretcher and started dripping. I was lying on my back, too weak to move, and the dripping of this blood got me in my unbandaged right eye. I closed my eye and pretty soon could not open the lid; the blood had congealed and closed it, as if it were glued down.

An English girl dressed in khaki was driving the ambulance, while beside her on the seat was a corporal of the R. A. M. C. They kept up a running conversation about Blighty which almost wrecked my nerves; at last soon from the stretcher above me, the Irishman became aware of the fact that the bandage from his foot had become loose; it must have pained him horribly, because he yelled in a loud voice:

"If you don't stop this bloody death wagon and fix this d— bandage on my foot, I will get out and walk."

The girl on the seat turned around and in a sympathetic voice asked, "Poor fellow, are you very badly wounded?"

The Irishman, at this question, let out a howl of indignation and answered, "Am I very badly wounded, what bloody cheek; no, I'm not wounded, I've only been kicked by a canary bird."

The ambulance immediately stopped, and the corporal came to the rear and fixed him up, and also washed out my right eye. I was too weak to thank him, but it was a great relief. Then I must have become unconscious, because when I regained my senses, the ambulance was at a standstill, and my stretcher was being removed from it.

It was night, lanterns were flashing here and there, and I could see stretcher-bearers hurrying to and fro. Then I was carried into a hospital train.

The inside of this train looked like heaven to me, just pure white, and we met our first Red Cross nurses; we thought they were angels. And they were.

Nice little soft bunks and clean, white sheets.

A Red Cross nurse sat beside me during the whole ride which lasted three hours. She was holding my wrist; I thought I had made a hit, and tried to tell her how I got wounded, but she would put her finger to her lips and say, "Yes, I know, but you mustn't talk now, try to go to sleep, I'll do you good, doctor's orders." Later on I learned that she was taking my pulse every few minutes, as I was very weak from the loss of blood and they expected me to snuff it, but I didn't.

From the train we went into ambulances for a short ride to the hospital ship Panama. Another palace and more angels. I don't remember the trip across the channel.

I opened my eyes; I was being carried on a stretcher through lanes of people, some cheering, some waving flags, and others crying. The flags were Union Jacks, I was in Southampton. Blighty at last. My stretcher was strewn with flowers, cigarettes, and chocolates. Tears started to run down my cheek from my good eye. I like a booby was crying. Can you beat it?

Then into another hospital train, a five-hour ride to Palsgrave, another ambulance ride, and then I was carried into Munsey ward of the American Women's War hospital and put into a real bed.

This real bed was too much for my unstrung nerves and I fainted.

When I came to, a pretty Red Cross nurse was bending over me, bathing my forehead with cold water, then she left and the ward orderly placed a screen around my bed, and gave me a much-needed bath and clean pajamas. Then the screen was removed and a bowl of steaming soup was given me. It tasted delicious.

Before finishing my soup the nurse came back to ask me my name and number. She put this information down in a little book and then asked:

"Where do you come from?" I answered:

"From the big town behind the Statue of Liberty;" upon hearing this she started jumping up and down, clapping her hands, and calling out to three nurses across the ward:

"Come here, girls—at last we have got a real live Yankee with us."

They came over and besieged me with questions, until the doctor arrived. Upon learning that I was an American he almost crushed my hand in his grip of welcome. They also were Americans, and were glad to see me.

The doctor very tenderly removed my bandages and told me, after viewing my wounds, that he would have to take me to the operating theater immediately. Personally I didn't care what was done with me.

In a few minutes, four orderlies who looked like undertakers dressed in white, brought a stretcher to my bed and placing me on it carried me out of the ward, across a courtyard to the operating room or "pictures," as Tommy calls it.

I don't remember having the anesthetic applied.

When I came to I was again lying in a bed in Munsey ward. One of the nurses had draped a large American flag over the head of the bed, and clasped in my hand was a smaller flag, and it made me feel good all over to again see the "Stars and Stripes."

At that time I wondered when the boys in the trenches would see the emblem of the "land of the free and the home of the brave" beside them, doing its bit in this great war of civilization.

My wounds were very painful, and several times at night I would dream that myriads of khaki-clad figures would pass my bed and each would stop, bend over me, and whisper, "The best of luck, mate."

Soaked with perspiration I would awake with a cry, and the night nurse would come over and hold my hand. This awakening got to be a habit with me until that particular nurse was transferred to another ward.

In three weeks' time, owing to the careful treatment received, I was able to sit up and get my bearings. Our ward contained seventy-five patients, 90 per cent of which were surgical cases. At the head of each bed hung a temperature chart and diagnosis sheet. Across this sheet would be written "G. S. W." or "S. W.," the former meaning gun shot wound and the latter shell wound. The "S. W." predominated, especially among the Royal Field artillery and Royal engineers.

About forty different regiments were represented, and many arguments ensued as to the respective fighting ability of each regiment. The rivalry was wonderful. A Jock arguing with an Irishman, then a strong Cockney accent would butt in in favor of a Lon-

STORY OF A FAMOUS STATUE

Bronze Piece, Work of Leopardi, Cause of Quarrel Resulting in Its Being Badly Disfigured.

Another statue that has been conveyed by sea and landed safely in Rome is the great equestrian one of the famous General Colonna, which stood on its lofty pedestal in the Camp of St. Giovanni e Paolo. Ruskin says of it: "I do not believe there is a more glorious work of sculpture existing in the world." This statue is, of course, of bronze, and was modeled by the Florentine sculptor and painter Andrea Verrocchio in 1481, assisted by his more famous pupil, Leonardo da Vinci. Rev. Alexander Robertson writes in the Christian Herald. After Verrocchio's death, it was cast in bronze by Leopardi.

There is a story told to the effect that when Leopardi had finished his work, he quarreled with the republic over it. As he could not come to a settlement, he knocked off the horse's head and escaped to Florence. The republic ordered him to return, but he refused, saying: "I have knocked off the horse's head, it is true, but I can put it on again; but if I come to Venice and you take off my head, you could not put it on again." The republic forgave him, assured him of his life and reward, and he returned and finished his work.

don regiment. Before long a Welshman, followed by a member of a Yorkshire regiment, and, perhaps, a Canadian intrude themselves and the argument waxed loud and furious. The patients in the beds start howling for them to settle their dispute outside and the ward is in an uproar. The head sister comes along and with a wave of the hand completely routs the doughty warriors and again silence reigns supreme.

Wednesday and Sunday of each week were visiting days and were looked forward to by the men, because they meant parcels containing fruit, sweets or fags. When a patient had a regular visitor, he was generally kept well supplied with these delicacies. Great jealousy is shown among the men as to their visitors and many word wars ensue after the visitors leave.

When a man is sent to a convalescent home, he generally turns over his steady visitor to the man in the next bed.

Most visitors have autograph albums and bore Tommy to death by asking him to write the particulars of his wounding in same. Several Tommies try to duck this unpleasant job by telling the visitors that they cannot write, but this never phases the owner of the album; he or she, generally she, offers to write it for them and Tommy is stung into telling his experiences.

The questions asked Tommy by visitors would make a clever joke book to a military man.

Some kindly looking old lady will stop at your bed and in a sympathetic voice address you: "You poor boy, wounded by those terrible Germans. You must be suffering frightful pain. A bullet, did you say? Well, tell me, I have always wanted to know, did it hurt worse going in or coming out?" (TO BE CONTINUED.)

VELOCITY OF BIG SHELLS

Geometer Uses Problem of How Long Time Is Required for Stone to Fall to Center of Earth.

Studying the velocity of shells and bullets fired in the war led Maurice Sauger, a French geometer, to turn to the old question of the time it would take a stone to fall to the center of the earth. His conclusion was that it would take about 20 minutes 34 seconds.

Gassendi, who gave the subject much thought in the last century, made the time 20 minutes even. Mersenne on the other hand contended that six hours would be required.

Sauger says that as the stone approached the center of the earth it would be drawn downward by the cor of the earth and upward by the shell which it had already penetrated. The rate at which the density of the earth varies or increases as we penetrate to greater depths is unknown. Sauger's formula is based upon considerations of the moment of inertia of the earth, as calculated from the precession of the equinoxes, which agree with observations on the density of the earth conducted in mine shafts.

If a shaft were driven right through the earth the stone would appear at the Antipodes after 38 minutes 30 seconds and then return to its starting point, at which it would make its reappearance at the end of 1 hour 17 minutes.

The Feminine Ending.

There is quite a campaign afoot against the use of the feminine termination "ess" in words which are purely English, and it is to be hoped that it will succeed in putting an end to such a concoction as "conductress," which is endeavoring to creep in, in spite of the very cold shoulder given of late to "authoress" and "poetess." It is ugly for one thing, and for another, it is bad English. "Ess" should be added only to a word which is a direct importation from the French language. For instance, there is no objection to "abbess" or "duchess;" those words are correct, and have long been sanctioned. It might be said that sanction for "poetess" is to be found in such a master of English as Dryden, for he speaks of Mrs. Anne Killigrew as a poetess. The best reply to this is that, for once, Dryden was wrong, both in his estimate of the lady's literary powers, and in the form of the word which he used to express that estimate.—Christian Science Monitor.

Instinct Stronger Than Reason.

That even in man instinct is sometimes stronger than reason is illustrated by the following incidents: There had been shipped on a Mississippi river steambot a box with a glass cover, containing a very active rattlesnake. Whenever anyone approached the box the serpent would strike the cover. The owner of the reptile challenged anyone to hold his finger on the glass and let the rattler strike at it. There was no danger, and it seemed an easy thing to do. First one and then another tried it, but when the snake gave its vicious spring the finger was invariably drawn back with a jerk. Instinct was stronger than reason and will combined.

WANT WINTER EGGS?—PLAN NOW

The Type of Pullet to Select Now for Winter Egg Production—Strong, Active and Not Undersized.

KEEP ALL EARLY HATCHED LAYERS

Well-Developed Pullets Should Be Selected for Producing Eggs During Winter.

HANDLE ALL FOWLS GENTLY

Much Depends on Method of Changing From Summer Quarters—Special Attention Should Be Given to Making Hens Comfortable.

Pullets that were hatched early last spring and developed properly during the summer should begin laying in October. These are the pullets that should be selected now to make up the flock that is to produce eggs next winter. Whether they continue to lay next season when eggs are high in price depends upon the way they are fed and the method of changing them from summer conditions to their winter quarters. At this season these are the questions that should receive the attention of every poultry raiser. It is desirable that pullets be in the houses they are to occupy during the winter three or four weeks before they are expected to begin laying. However, if pullets are on good range they should not be deprived of this, and may be removed to their winter quarters when good range becomes scarce. The change should then be made gently and carefully, and special attention given to making the hens comfortable and contented in their new home. If this is done the transfer will have only a slight effect on their egg production.

Give Pullets Good Start.

Gentle handling and good treatment will go a long way toward offsetting the unfavorable effects of moving pullets, whether the change to permanent winter quarters is made before or after winter laying begins. Rapid and rough handling should be avoided. A little extra time and care in moving pullets carefully makes a difference of weeks, and sometimes months, in egg production. The new house should be clean, the floor covered with litter, all nests and feeding and water equipment ready for use. A feed of grain should be scattered in the litter and a drinking vessel filled with water before the transfer is made.

When hens are to be changed from one house to another it is best to move them after dark. If only a few birds are to be removed and the distance is short, they may be carried two at a time, not by the feet, with their heads hanging down, but resting in a sitting position on the attendant's hand and wrist. When a large number of birds are to be transferred a convenient box or coop may be used. The birds should not be overcrowded and should be placed in and removed from the box gently.

Laying hens should get a great part of their feed by foraging. When housed in winter quarters the best substitute for this is to make them scratch for the grain in clean litter scattered about the floor. The hens will thus get the necessary exercise which is essential for good egg production. If hens are placed in winter quarters from free range they should be liberally supplied with vegetable feed, which at this time can be easily obtained from the garden. In fact, laying hens should have vegetable or green feeds as much as possible throughout the winter. This makes it possible to feed grain heavily to promote good egg production and yet keep the birds in the best of physical condition.

The problem of feeding is one of great importance, and should be carefully considered, for on it depends to a large extent not only the general health of the birds, but also the economy which promotes success. It is a subject, however, which should be studied with a large amount of common sense, for there are no hard and fast rules which can be laid down as applying to every case. The price of feeds and the general environment should be considered in determining the right rations.

For the largest profit a good proportion of the eggs should be secured during the winter. If two extra eggs per week can be obtained from each hen a good profit will be made, while if the product is increased by only one egg per week in winter, this one egg will pay for all the feed the hen eats. To obtain this greater production not only should the fowls be young and of a good laying breed, but the feeder should have a full knowledge of the proper feed and its preparation.

The nutrient in the feed of laying hens serves a twofold purpose—to repair waste and furnish heat to the body and to supply the egg-making materials. As only the surplus over what is needed for the body is available for egg production, the proper feeds should be fed in sufficient quantities to induce this production.

In supplying feed to fowls there are three kinds of constituents which should be present in certain fairly well fixed proportions if the desired results are to be obtained most economically. These constituents are mineral, nitrogenous and carbonaceous, all of which are contained in corn, wheat, oats and barley, but not in the right proportions to give the greatest egg yield. In addition some animal feed and green feed should be supplied.

TWO WAR-TIME RATIOMS

Green feed, such as cabbage, sprouted oats or any available green vegetables, should be fed with both of these rations. Sprouted oats are also recommended for green feed, but are not as desirable as cabbage or other green vegetables.

The Warhorse and the Miller.
Those who delight in reading about patrioteers of today should enjoy this fable of Ambrose Bierce, written 20 years ago:

Having heard that the state was about to be invaded by a hostile army a Warhorse belonging to a Colonel of Militia offered his services to a passing Miller.

"No," said the patriotic Miller, "I will employ no one who deserts his position in the hour of danger. It is sweet to die for one's country."

Something in the sentiment sounded familiar, and, looking at the Miller more closely, the Warhorse recognized his master in disguise.

Successful Portable Kitchen.

A portable kitchen was used with success in Wilmington, Del., to teach the children how to conserve food. It was transported from school to school as the work required. An exhibition was given of the five varieties of Liberty bread that the children made from conservation recipes in the prize contest conducted by the woman's committee of the state.

It sometimes happens that a handsome woman hasn't brains enough to be pretty.

While the little dog is barking the big dog absconds with the bone.

Another Argument Gone.

Whether it was ever an argument against woman suffrage or not does not matter. It was, at any rate, an argument often advanced, that if women got the vote, that vote would always be cast against war; that women had no idea of big issues, and that foreign politics must necessarily be a field closed to them. One by one, however, all arguments have gone, and so this had to go. And 4,000 girl workers, in a great manufacturing city in Scotland, the other day helped to destroy it. They sent a resolution to the minister of munitions protesting, "with indignation and horror" against a resolution passed by 3,000 men threatening a stoppage of work unless peace negotiations were entered into. It is one of those facts which need no comment. It speaks for itself.—Montreal Family Herald.

Practical View.

"I am so obsessed with my love for you," wrote the sweet young thing to her soldier, "that I cannot eat a bite." "That is the kind of girl for me," said the rookier; "with the price of rats havin' a blue sky limit, I could just about support a wife who didn't eat."—Florida Times-Union.

Many a man who knows that there is room at the top sits down and waits for the elevator.

A girl who never had a proposal is apt to be about nine-tenths curiosity.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gaines, of Ripley, Tenn., say: "We enclose our baby's picture hoping it will induce some poor tired mothers to give your Castoria a trial. We have used it since baby was two weeks old."

Mrs. J. G. Farman, of Nashville, Tenn., says: "The perfect health of my baby is due to your Castoria—the first and only medicine he has taken. He is never satisfied with one dose, he always cries for more."

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson, of Stevens Point, Wis., say: "When our baby was two weeks old he cried so much we did everything for him, then got some Castoria and he is now strong and fat. We would not be without it, and are very thankful to you."

Trimmer—in Corsets.

Steam power was very low on the strifter, so the captain went below and picked out one of the grimy seamen. "What's wrong? It isn't the coal?" "What was your rating when you joined the navy? A trimmer?" "Yes, sir," came the reply. "They asked me my trade and when I said I was a trimmer they shoved me in the stockhold before I had time to explain. I'm not a coal trimmer; my specialty is—corsets."

"Oh, for the wings of a bird!" "Try rubber heels, dear. They are said to be the next best."

Homes of the Old Man.

"If women keep on taking up the essential work once performed by men," remarked a quiet observer "what a grand leading spell father and some of his sons are going to have after the war. The dressmakers and school teachers' husbands used to have a monopoly on that sort of thing, but now we will have the steam riveters, conductorettes, truck drivers and chauffeurs' husbands. It begins to look as if the old man is coming into his own at last."

Five Hundred Pounds Of Clothing Collected

Mrs. Robert C. Pitts, as chairman of the committee during Old Clothes drive, made it a telling device, being well assisted by the Junior Red Cross, and as usual more than "Went Over the Top," the quota being one hundred pounds. More than five hundred pounds were collected.

Typhoid Prevalent

An epidemic of typhoid has struck the town and two deaths have resulted therefrom, both in the McBrayer family. Dr. Hanes and Mrs. Alfred Hanes, both of whom have kept ill with the malady, appear to be safely passing the crisis. There are a number of other cases, but so far as we have been able to ascertain none appear more serious than the last two cases suffered.

For Training School

Louis Adams returned yesterday from El Paso, bearing with him a certificate of admission to the officers' training school at Camp McArthur, Waco, Texas.

Louis was the only one to pass both mental and physical requirements out of twenty applicants. Notwithstanding he weighs 250 pounds, and the authorities said he was the heaviest applicant they had accepted for the officers' training school, he passed every test and expects to be called in about two weeks.

Permits Necessary For All Construction Work

The War Industries Board has designated the State Council of Defense as its representative to pass upon proposed construction in New Mexico, in order that all new construction not essential and not contributing directly or indirectly toward winning the war may be stopped. Henceforth permits from the War Industries Board will be required for construction projects as specified in circular No. 21 of the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board, a copy of which is on file in the office of the Executive Committee of the County Council of Defense in the Exchange Bank, Carrizozo. This plan has been adopted because of the imperative necessity of conserving labor, materials and capital for war purposes.

The Executive Committee of the County Council of Defense has been appointed local representative of the State Council of Defense and the War Industries Board in Lincoln County. This committee will proceed to act along the lines indicated in the following rules of procedure:

"The person, firm or corporation interested in a construction or building project (whether proposed or now under construction), which does not come within the class of projects for which no permit is required, as set forth in the circular above referred to, shall make a full statement of the facts in writing, under oath, and present the same to the Executive Committee of the County Council of Defense, applying to such Executive Committee for its approval of the proposed construction.

"The Executive Committee of the County Council of Defense shall immediately make surveys of all buildings now under construction in its territory which do not come within the classes mentioned in the circular above referred to, and report the same as promptly as possible to the Executive Committee of the State Council of Defense, together with its recommendations concerning the necessity for the continuance of such construction to completion, or the possibility of deferring the same until after the war."

All applications and statements, as provided for in the above rules, must be filed with the committee at once.

Address Executive Committee, Council of Defense, Carrizozo, N. M.

Democrats Nominate Lincoln County Ticket

Democrats from the various precincts of Lincoln county assembled in convention Monday morning at Brocbeck. Frank W. Gurney, chairman of the central committee, called the convention to order, read the call and asked for the election of a temporary chairman. Judge John Y. Hewitt was elected. Candido Chavez was chosen temporary secretary and Harry G. Norman interpreter. Three committees were appointed: credentials, resolutions and permanent organization and order of business. A recess was then taken until 2 o'clock.

Upon reconvening the credentials committee reported the presence of 68 delegates entitled to seats and the report adopted. The committee on resolutions presented the following report, which was adopted.

Report of the committee on resolutions:

"Resolved by the Democrats of Lincoln County, in Convention assembled:

"1. That we cordially endorse the administration of Woodrow Wilson in all his policies as President of the United States, and especially in the management of his administration in the conduct of the great world war now pending. The achievements of the present administration since the declaration of war by the United States have been the wonder and admiration of the whole civilized world, and we congratulate the people of the United States in having selected a man for President who has fully met the requirements of this great occasion.

"2. We fully endorse the Democratic state ticket recently nominated at Santa Fe and pledge the Democrats of Lincoln County to its active, earnest and cordial support."

The permanent organization consisted of Judge Hewitt, chairman; M. B. Paden, secretary, and Harry G. Norman, interpreter. Following these preliminaries, the convention proceeded to the nomination of candidates. For sheriff four names were considered, to wit: John B. Baird, C. W. Hyde, George C. Clements and E. W. Harris. On the first ballot

Harris received 1 vote, Baird 23, Clements 20 and Hyde 20. On the succeeding ballots there was a change from one to another candidate, Baird gaining on each ballot until the fourth, when Hyde withdrew and Baird received the nomination.

George C. Clements was nominated by acclamation for county clerk; Wayne Van Schoyck in the same manner for treasurer and ex-officio collector; so also were Frank R. Miller for assessor and George Kimbrell for probate judge.

A close contest developed for superintendent of schools, J. E. Koonce receiving 34 votes and Miss L. B. Spellman 29. After the announcement of the vote Mr. Koonce withdrew and moved the nomination of Miss Spellman. The withdrawal was accepted and Miss Spellman nominated by acclamation.

B. R. Robinson was unanimously nominated for surveyor.

John L. Bryan and A. S. McCamant were respectively nominated for commissioners from districts No. 1 and No. 2.

In the 3d district four names were presented, viz: W. M. Ferguson, W. I. Broocke, J. H. Jackson and R. H. Taylor. Taylor received a majority of the ballots and was declared the nominee for commissioner from the 3d district.

Neil H. Bigger was unanimously nominated for the legislature from this county.

M. B. Paden and W. O. Notman were selected as members of the state committee. A central committee was appointed, consisting of a member from each precinct, and the committee was organized following the adjournment of the convention by election of M. B. Paden chairman and Candido Chavez secretary.

There were a few contests for the various positions on the ticket, but, taken all and all, the convention did its work rapidly, and concluded its session the same day it convened. The conclusion of the convention in one day marks an era in the history of the Democratic party in Lincoln county, and was an evidence of less friction in its deliberations than usual. It is, therefore, regarded as a good omen, and that the people of Lincoln county will give the candidates a hearty reception at the polls the 5th of next month.

Liberty Loan Train

The Liberty Loan Train will arrive at Carrizozo Saturday night, October 12, at 5:30 and remain over night.

The following is a synopsis of the circular, descriptive of the train, issued by Supt. C. D. Beeth: "Agents at various stations where train will stop should notify local representatives of Liberty Loan organizations, so that crowds may be assembled at designated points.

"The exhibits will consist of war material of various types and will be accompanied by certain persons in charge, and speakers and publicity men. Train will consist of a box car and two flat cars for transportation of exhibits and a tourist sleeper for accommodation of persons in charge. The charge for service, including fares of speakers, attendants and publicity men, will be taken care of by this office. It is the plan to stop this train at sundry points where speeches will be made at railway stations and an opportunity given the public to view the war exhibits."

Linen Shower

The biggest "linen shower" ever attempted started Monday and will run through the week. Every family in every chapter and branch in the Mountain Division of the Red Cross, may be expected to donate at least one article or its equivalent. The following are the articles desired, with their specifications.

Bath towels, 19 by 38 inches. Hand towels, 18 by 30 inches. Handkerchiefs, 18 by 18 inches. Napkins, 14 by 14 inches.

All articles, whether new or otherwise, must be laundered before inspection, sorting and packing.

Those who cannot supply these articles are urged to donate their price in cash, and the chapter or branches will secure the material.

These articles are needed for and to be used for our soldiers in the hospitals in France.

Appointed 2d Lieutenant

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Ulrick received a wire Sunday conveying the news of the appointment of their son, Thomas C. Fitzpatrick to a second lieutenancy. Lieutenant Fitzpatrick enlisted in the army a little over a year ago, and until about three months ago was stationed at Fort Bliss. At the time mentioned he went to Fort Sam Houston to attend an officers' training school, and now as a result of his knowledge and training has been honored with a lieutenant's commission. His parents, naturally, are proud of his promotion and have many friends who share their pride.

BULGARIA QUILTS

The Bulgarian nation is definitely out of the war. Her army is to be demobilized and she agrees to the terms of peace laid down by the Entente, turning over her railroads and permitting the passage of the Allies over her domain. With Bulgaria out, Turkey is cut off from Germany and Austria and neither can render effective service to the other. General Allenby, the British officer in command in Palestine, is finishing the Turks in that section.

Meanwhile the Allies continue to win victories on the western front, from the Alps to the North Sea. The Hindenburg line is broken from one end to the other, the Germans have been driven from a great part of the French territory they formerly occupied and have also been forced to evacuate important positions. Conditions could scarcely be better for the Allies.

DO YOU WANT TO WIN THIS WAR?

Every American citizen has but one duty at this time and that is to probe his conscience in answer to the query as to what he can do most effectively to aid in winning the war and crushing German militarism.

It is not enough that he buy a Liberty Bond, or subscribe to the Red Cross, or the Knights of Columbus, or to the Y. M. C. A. He must support his country with his energy, his enthusiasm, and his will to the highest extent of his ability.

If he does that, his conduct will include loyal support of the President of the United States and his administration in its war policies. President Wilson is charged with the burden of leading and directing the Nation in its fight against the Hun. He is entitled to and receives the loyal and patriotic support of every American who has any conception of his duty.

If YOU want to win this war, let this thought be left with you. It is as important that you vote right as that you talk right. It is as important that you vote right as that you give your money right.

The honest and conscientious American this year will vote as his son shoots.

FAIR FOOD PRICES

A glance at the food prices running in the News shows that the merchants are receiving only a fair profit on groceries. The difficulties lie in the prices our merchants pay for goods. Under these percentages of profit, therefore, if there is profiteering in food stuffs, the blame does not rest with local merchants.

Liberty Loan Appeal

In the name of the quarter of a million men who have left this District to fight for us I appeal to the citizenship of the Eleventh Federal District to subscribe and over-subscribe the Fourth Liberty Loan, and I call upon them to do it quickly.

Let us put away as unworthy of ourselves and of this occasion the usual thoughts of our little, and really unimportant, lives.

Men are fighting, braving, and suffering even death itself for you and me.

As ordinary average decent human beings we should feel that we must support these men and provide them with the minimum amount the government asks of us. As men of pride in our race, birth and nationality, we must do more and make our response both prompt and generous.

To count our money while our sons are fighting for our lives, our homes and our future, is out of place and unworthy.

Conditions in this district of ours are not ideal and the burden of the loan has been most carefully adjusted. Not a single man, not a single community has been asked to do more than is possible or reasonable.

Upon the wealthy men of this community rests a responsibility greater than that ever placed upon their shoulders before. They must lend to their country the accumulated wealth of past years, and we know that they will do it.

Our boys went to our defense fearlessly, courageously and with a smile on their faces. We must all lend as they have given.

J. W. HOOPES,
Federal Reserve Bank.

Fred B. Shields, Wayne Hamilton, Joe Finley and Percy Buchanan returned the past week from Denver. They had gone to that point to enter the aviation service, were accepted and expect to be inducted as soon as arrangements can be made through the local board. Their assignment may take them to San Antonio, Texas, or St. Paul, Minnesota.

Pay Your Road Tax

I have been appointed by the Board of County Commissioners to collect the road tax in this precinct. The tax is $3.00 assessed against every able-bodied man between the ages of 21 and 60 years old. This tax is now due, and prompt payment of the same is requested.

Health About Gone

Many thousands of women suffering from womanly trouble, have been benefited by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, according to letters we receive, similar to this one from Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I could not stand on my feet, and just suffered terribly," she says. "As my suffering was so great, and he had tried other remedies, Dr. — had us get Cardui. . . I began improving, and it cured me. I know, for my doctor knows, what Cardui did for me, for my nerves and health were about gone."

TAKE CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

She writes further: "I am in splendid health . . . I can do my work, I feel I owe it to Cardui, for I was in dreadful condition." If you are nervous, run-down and weak, or suffer from headache, backache, etc., every month, try Cardui. Thousands of women praise this medicine for the good it has done them, and many physicians who have used Cardui successfully with their women patients, for years, endorse this medicine. Think what it means to be in splendid health, like Mrs. Spell. Give Cardui a trial.

U. S. KEEPS TAB ON 7,000 SHIPS

Every Six Minutes a Merchant Vessel Moves at an American Port.

TRAFFIC CHARTS ARE USED

Every Minute of Time and Pound of Cargo Noted and Thus Each Vessel Is Used to Utmost to Speed War Plan.

Washington.—Every six minutes a merchant vessel arrives and another departs from American ports. From north Atlantic seaports there is a departure every eleven minutes—one for Europe every forty minutes. This rate of operation does not include vessels in the service of the army or navy.

The merchant fleet of 1,500 ships under the control of the United States shipping board is run as a railroad, on a time schedule. The duty of measuring ships' performances, with their tanks, is lodged with the planning and statistics division of the shipping board, headed by E. H. Gay, formerly dean of the Harvard Graduate School of business.

Obviously the division must know the tasks in detail, and so it co-ordinates with the war industries and war trade boards in determining and providing for the country's needs from abroad. It works on month to month schedules, or as far in advance as it is feasible or possible to forecast.

Works With All Departments.

In planning the use of ships the division works with the food administration in determining the shipping requirements for food; with the war department in correlating shipping with the requirements of the line of supplies for the western front; with the war industries board in seeking solution of the problem of bringing necessary raw imports into the country, and with the war trade board in preparing the lists of essential imports and exports.

As the country has gone more and more on a war basis, it has been regarded necessary to limit the list of essential imports to less than 100. Data on the ships and their trade provide the basis for operation of the vessels under the shipping board's control. Likewise records are kept of neutral vessels coming to this country or linking up with its foreign trade.

Thus the division checks daily about 7,000 vessels, 1,500 of them being those of the shipping board, 3,000 engaged directly in American commerce and 2,500 scattered over the globe and trading for the most part with the allies or their colonies. Roughly, one-fourth of the merchant ships of the world are watched by the shipping board.

Ship performances against tasks are recorded by "progress charts," which show at a glance what the vessels have to do and how they are doing it. Each set of charts is divided into ten divisions—one each for movements of vessels, turn-arounds, ships' charts of commodities, individual commodity charts, summary of imports, individual trades, summary of trades, ship charts of exports, performances in ports and dock performances. Copies are distributed every ten days to governments which require constant information about the movement of supplies.

By these movement charts any information regarding locations and movements of vessels is accessible, and from past performances one may forecast the time of future voyages.

The summary on shipping and trade, prepared every ten days for the war industries and war trade boards and the food administration, helps shape the larger policies underlying the use of American ships in war time. The charts tell whether the ships allocated to a certain trade are enough, too many or too few; whether they bring in too little or too much; whether they are on time, ahead of time or behind time, and whether the trade movement is too slow, too fast or just right. The charts also serve to guide the ship control committee in the assignment of vessels to various trades. By comparing import requirements against deliveries the charts show when vessels may be transferred from one trade to another or released to the army.

YANKEES VISITING IN BATH, ENGLAND

Wherever American troops set foot on English soil today nothing but kind words and all the comforts of home greet them. Patriotic-minded English men and women arrange excursions and celebrations for them; in fact, everything possible is done to make them feel as if they were back home. This picture shows some Yankees inspecting the old Roman baths at Bath, England, near which city they are stationed.

U. S. WILL ENROLL ALL DOCTORS

Washington.—Dr. Franklin Martin, chairman of the general medical board of the council of national defense, explains the scope and function of the volunteer medical service corps, in which it is proposed to enroll every legally qualified physician in the country, including women, without reference to age or physical disability.

"It is a method of recording all physicians who are not yet in service and of classifying them so that their services when required will be utilized in a manner to inflict as little hardship on the individual as possible," Doctor Martin writes. "It is a method by which every physician not in uniform will be entitled to wear an insignia which will indicate his willingness to serve his government."

"The object of the corps is to place on record all medical men in the United States; to aid the army, navy and public health service in supplying war needs; to provide the best civilian service possible; to give recognition to all who record themselves."

"Civilian service will be supplied under a fixed plan. Every one in the corps will receive proper credit for service rendered, and ample medical attention will be assured for all requiring it. There will be four tentative classes, consisting of fit-to-fight men under forty, reserves under fifty-five, home forces over fifty-five, and ineligible. Reserves may be called on occasion for army, navy, public health and civilian service, the home forces being those able to perform only civilian service."

Service of members of the corps will be called and rendered in response to requests from the central governing board, in which the management of the corps will be vested. State boards will appoint executive committees to receive applications for enrollment in the corps and will make recommendations concerning them to the central governing board.

Daniel Livingstone, ten years ago, when he was fourteen years old, then a resident of Cedar Rapids, while in Davenport on a vacation visit saved a girl from drowning in the Mississippi river. He had never seen the girl before nor since until, as he wrote his cousin here, he met her near the firing line in France. She is a Red Cross nurse. He did not reveal whether or not a sequel is to be expected.

Dump Kaiser in Basin.

Boston.—Students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology nailed an effigy of the Kaiser in a specially prepared coffin and afterwards threw the coffin, Kaiser and all into the Charles river basin. The ceremonies were preceded by a funeral march and a dirge.

Kidd, 106, Works on Farm.

Bellair, O.—William Kidd, one hundred and six, is assisting on the farm work on the Charles Rosser farm and is doing a real day's work every day. Kidd was born during the War of 1812 and served in the Confederate army during the Civil war.

"HAIL, HAIL," GREET YANKEES IN FRANCE

Gary, Ind.—"Hail, hail, the gang's all here!"

Thousands of the 1918 edition American tourists who are daily arriving "somewhere in France" look up, joy in their faces and a warm glow in their hearts, as groups of little French kiddies sing this homely refrain as they line the gangways.

According to a letter received here recently early arrivals of the American expeditionary forces have taught this greeting to the children, who pass it on as each new contingent arrives. "Hail, hail, the gang's all here!"

The remarkable intelligence of the horse is shown by the rapidity with which the animal learns the significance of the bugle calls in the cavalry service.

SAFE, GENTLE REMEDY CLEANSES YOUR KIDNEYS

For centuries GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been a standard household remedy for kidney, liver, bladder and stomach trouble, and all diseases connected with the urinary organs. The kidneys and bladder are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers of your blood. If the poisons which enter your system through the blood and stomach are not entirely thrown out by the kidneys and bladder, you are doomed.

Weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, headache, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, difficulty when urinating, cloudy and bloody urine, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago, all warn you to look after your kidneys and bladder. All these indicate some weakness of the kidneys or other organs or that the enemy microbes which are always present in your system have attacked your weak spots. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are what you need.

They are not a "patent medicine," nor a "new discovery." For 200 years they have been a standard household remedy. They are the pure, original imported Haarlem Oil your great-grandmother used, and are perfectly harmless. The healing, soothing oil soaks into the cells and lining of the kidneys and through the bladder, driving out the poisonous germs. New life, fresh strength and health will come as you continue the treatment. When completely restored to your usual vigor, continue taking a capsule or two each day; they will keep you in condition and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not delay a minute. Delays are especially dangerous in kidney and bladder trouble. All druggists sell GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They will refund the money if not as represented. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They are prepared in correct quantity and convenient form, are easy to take and are positively guaranteed to give prompt relief. In three sizes, sealed packages. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL. Accept no substitutes.—Adv.

Chinese Newspaper Man Returns Divine Manuscript With Greatest Sorrow.

London.—A correspondent of the Daily News forwards to the editor the following Chinese method of refusing a contribution which has been received from a Peking journal:

"We have read thy manuscript with infinite delight. Never before have we revelled in such a masterpiece. If we printed it the authorities would ordain us to take it as a model, and henceforth never to print anything inferior to it. As it would be impossible to find its equal within 10,000 years we are compelled, though shaken with sorrow, to return your divine MS., and for doing so we ask of thee a thousand pardons."

Where in Western Canada you can buy at from $15 to $30 per acre good farm land that will raise 20 to 45 bushels to the acre of $2 wheat—its easy to figure the profits.
