ROOSEVELT RECEPTION TO BE NON-POLITICAL.

Ex-President Will Arrive in This Country on June 18—Official Welcome by Mayor.

New York, May 28.—The reception to be given Colonel Theodore Roosevelt upon his return to this country, June 18th, will, it has been decided, be national in scope as well as non-political. Cornelius Vanderbilt, chairman of the committee, therefore announces to the country at large that any organization in good standing will be given a position along the line of march. Applications should be made immediately to Captain A. F. Cosby, secretary of the committee, and addressed to No. 146 Broadway, New York.

Colonel Roosevelt will arrive on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and will reach Quarantine on the upper bay at 9 o'clock and will leave the steamship for a revenue cutter which will lead the welcoming flotilla to the battery. Here there will be brief exercises and an official welcome by Mayor Gaynor. The procession will then proceed up Broadway to Washington Square, through the Square to Fifth avenue and up Fifth avenue to 59th street. The entire route will be decorated with the national colors and lined with thousands upon thousands of admirers of Colonel Roosevelt.

As the hotels are already booking many guests, the committee advises that reservations be engaged without delay.

REVOLUTION IN NICARAGUA APPEARS TO BE CRUSHED.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, May 28.—The government forces under cover of the fire of the gunboat San Jacinto, routed the insurgents and captured Bluefields bluff. The loss to the Estrada forces probably ends the revolution.

Death of Sister Mary Pauline.—Sister Mary Pauline, a well known Sister of Charity, for nearly a half century a teacher and charity worker in Old and New Albuquerque, died at 6:20 o'clock last evening in her room at St. Vincent's academy, Albuquerque.

RACE FROM PHILADELPHIA TO HAVANA.

Yachtmen's Power Boat Berneyo Wins Contest, on a Time Allowance However.

Havana, May 28.—The Berneyo, owned by S. W. Granby of Brooklyn, won the yachtmen's power boat race from Philadelphia to Havana. The Berneyo arrived here later than the Caliph, a Scotch boat, but earned the victory on a time allowance.

NO MORE DELAY AT ENGLE

Secretary of Interior Gives Orders to Begin July 1, 1911

WILL BE MARVELOUS WORK

The Largest Artificial Body of Water in the World.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—The preliminary work in connection with the Rio Grande irrigation project will be inaugurated at once by the reclamation service in accordance with instructions from Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. The plan contemplates that actual construction on the foundation of the great Engle dam, the most important engineering feature of the project shall be begun by July, 1911. The Rio Grande project will provide for the reclamation of 180,000 acres of land lying in New Mexico, Texas and Mexico. It is estimated that the entire project will cost $9,000,000. The Engle dam will be one of the most remarkable structures of its kind in the world. It will have a maximum height of 265 feet and the length at the crest will be 1,400 feet. The reservoir will be the largest artificial body of water in the world.

AN EXAMPLE NEW MEXICO SHOULD FOLLOW.

Montana Appoints Committee of Five to Prepare for Irrigation Congress at Pueblo.

Pueblo, Colo., May 28.—Governor Edwin L. Norris of Montana has adopted a plan at the suggestion of Secretary Arthur Hooker of the National Irrigation Congress, that will be highly beneficial to the eighteenth sessions, Pueblo, September 26-30, and to the state as well, and one that Secretary Hooker believes might well be employed by other state executives.

Governor Norris has appointed a special committee of five members to be known as "the advisory committee of the state of Montana." This committee will co-operate with the officers of the National Irrigation Congress in making that great event a complete success, and will, at the same time, be of material assistance to the state of Montana.

This special advisory committee of Montana consists of: R. A. Carnochan, Butte; C. B. Witter, Helena; W. W. Withee, Conrad; James Glass, Big Timber; W. A. Clark, Virginia City.

This committee will go actively to work, and the chances are that it will promote the greatest activity in the state relative to the irrigation congress, attendance at it, participation in the irrigation exposition, and the utmost extraction of benefit from such participation.

Governor Norris, who has been active in the work of both the National Irrigation Congress and the National Dry Farm Congress, writes Secretary Hooker, in conclusion:

"Please convey to President Fowler and Chairman Insinger my cordial appreciation of the invitation to attend the eighteenth congress. If my official duties at that time will permit, I shall be very glad to avail myself of the opportunity of attending."

L. Newman, Havre, Montana, is third vice president of the congress and also very active.

Secretary Hooker, referring to Governor Norris' action, said:

"This idea might very well be utilized by other states. It helps the congress and it helps the state. The mutual contact, the exchange of ideas the strengthening of program, and the advertisement the state secured are things to be considered. I hope other governors will follow the lead of Governor Norris."

The board of control of the Eighteenth National Irrigation Congress—the local body that is making the plans for the congress and for the state entertainment of the visitors—has applied this same idea to localities and sections throughout the state of Colorado with great success. The five principal sections of Colorado are well organized, and in nearly every town of consequence, there is a special committee of the commercial body working actively in behalf of the congress and itself at the same time. It is doubtful if the organization for any irrigation congress has been quite so thorough and systematic as in the case of the eighteenth congress, Pueblo, September 26-30.

INSPECTOR SCHEURICH DIES FROM INJURIES.

Fell Down the Shaft of Mine at Kelly and Fractured His Skull.

Albuquerque, May 28.—A. B. Scheurich, inspector at the Kelly mine at Socorro, died in the hospital here this morning from the effects of a fractured skull received in a fall in a shaft.

MALEVOLENT VOCIFERATION

Attorney Vertrees Coins New Phrase in Scoring Pinchot Crowd

GUGGENHEIM A BOGIE MAN

He Built a Railroad Without Issuing Bonds or Stocks.

Washington, May 28.—Attorney Vertrees, representing Secretary Ballinger, made his argument before the investigating committee today. He referred at length to the land laws of Alaska and said Mr. Ballinger had come into the office when the Cunningham claims had been advanced nearly to completion. He had no interest directly or indirectly in any of these claims. He entered the office with the single idea to discharge his duty. If the committee should decide against Secretary Ballinger, said Mr. Vertrees they would have to cast an imputation upon every man of the interior department who had anything to do with the Cunningham claims. The testimony against the secretary was termed "Malevolent vociferation" the attorney declaring that there had been no substantial charge against the secretary. "Guggenheim seems to be the bogie of the west," said Vertrees with emphasis. "I assume he is like other men, he has his virtues and faults, he built a railroad in Alaska without any stock or bond issue, and with his own money, and that seems to me to be a good thing."

Lawyer Withdraws Remarks.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Oscar Lawler, assistant attorney general, for the interior department, today said that he had sent to the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee and Christopher P. Connelly and James B. Connelly, a letter disavowing any intention of doing Messrs Connelly any injury in his testimony before the committee and withdrawing his remarks with an apology.

Lawyer Sued for Libel.

Washington, May 28.—Christopher P. Connelly, a lawyer of Montana and New York, and a well known magazine writer filed a slander suit in the supreme court in the District of Columbia, against Oscar Lawler, assistant attorney general for the interior department. Connelly asks $20,000 damages. The suit is the first of the threatened legal proceedings growing out of the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry.

SCRAP OVER SPECIAL AGENTS

The Western Representatives Want to Reduce Appropriation for Them

FROM $1,000,000 TO $500,000

Tawney Opposed by Mondell, Chairman of Committee on Public Lands.

Special to the New Mexican.
Washington, May 28.—Representative Fitzgerald objected to repeating the appropriation of last year of a million dollars for special land agents. He is being joined by many western representatives in the effort to cut down to $500,000. Representative Tawney in charge of the sundry civil bill read the land office statement of prosecutions, fines and convictions in land, timber and illegal fence cases. Mondell, chairman of public lands opposed Tawney.

DEVASTATING FIRE AT MINNEAPOLIS.

Four Large Implement Houses and Sixth Avenue Hotel Destroyed.

Minneapolis, May 28.—A fire started early this morning in the warehouse of the Great Northern Implement Company, was not placed under control for several hours and destroyed four large implement warehouses and other property. The loss is about a million dollars. The warehouses burned are those of the Rock Island, the Great Northern, Western and Northwestern. The Sixth Avenue hotel was practically destroyed. One man was fatally burned.

PROF. ROBERT KOCH DIES OF HEART FAILURE.

Baden Baden, May 28.—Professor Robert Koch, the famous bacteriologist, died there from a disease of the heart. He was born at Klausthal, Hanover, December 11, 1843.

SENATOR LORIMER DEFENDS HIMSELF

Chicago Tribune Lied and Knew It Lied He Says

PLOT TO KILL NEW BANK

Concocted With Deliberate Purpose to Destroy Venture.

Washington, May 28.—Strenuous denial of the charge that he had obtained his seat in the United States senate through bribery and corruption was made before that body today by William Lorimer of Illinois. His statement had been eagerly awaited by his colleagues, and the senate was crowded. Concluding, Mr. Lorimer offered a resolution calling for a senatorial investigation of the charges against him.

Senator Lorimer with increasing vehemence asserted that the Chicago paper "lied and it knew it lied." In charging that money was used to purchase his election. "Not one dollar was paid a single member of the general assembly for his vote for me!" he declared.

Mr. Lorimer detailed the facts of the publication in the Chicago Tribune on April 1, of the story over the signature of Charles A. White, a member of the Illinois legislature in which it was alleged that Mr. Lorimer had secured a seat in the senate through bribery and corruption.

"The story," he said, "was timed and published with the deliberate purpose to destroy a new banking association in Chicago which I have been organizing with some of my friends."

Mr. Lorimer defended Lee O'Neil Browne, the Democratic leader of the Illinois House of Representatives through whom it was alleged the bribes passed as entirely above such proceedings. He declared that Medill McCormick of the Tribune, had declared that the bank never should open and also asserted that White did not write the story published, but "it was the work of a trained newspaper hand, skilled in the art of creating scandal out of lies, when it is thought necessary to blacken the character of one whom the newspapers cannot control." He asserted that Representatives Link and Beckmeyer had not made confessions as had been charged, but on the contrary said: "The charges stand as they stood April 30, uncorroborated lies of the Tribune, supported only by the bought signature of their weak tool, White."

Mr. Lorimer traced his breach with Governor Deneen, whom he charged with personally advising as the preparation of the White story, largely to the difference of opinion between the two as to the wisdom of depending upon the action by the national government on the twenty million dollars pledged by the state toward a deep waterway to the Gulf, a project which the governor favored and he opposed. He said: "The governor joined in this campaign of slander because he saw an opportunity to throw dust in the eyes of the people. He used the conspiracy to defeat those who stood for federal co-operation in expending twenty million dollars, and to secure control of the next legislature. Why he persists in his efforts to get control of twenty million dollars, when he well knows that it is itself is not sufficient to construct a waterway, is a mystery I cannot fathom." Concluding, Mr. Lorimer said the Tribune had dogged him all these years because it had not been able to lash him into submission.

Resolution Referred.

Washington, May 28.—Senator Lorimer's resolution for investigation of his election was referred under the rules to the committee on contingent expenses.

TOM LAWSON'S PLANT IS UNDER THE HAMMER.

San Antonio, Texas, May 28.—Tom Lawson's cinnamon reduction plant at San Geronimo near Guadalupe, Mexico, will be sold at public auction in a few days. Other holdings of the Lawson Mexican Development Company in the state of Jalisco will be disposed of in the same manner, the concern having failed some time ago. The property is valued at $429,100 Mexican, and a minimum bid of $28,607 has been fixed by the Mexican courts. The enterprise came to grief because the ore available was of too low a grade, causing Lawson to withdraw his support.

PERU AND ECUADOR READY TO FIGHT.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Official advice to the state department from both Lima, Peru and Quito, Ecuador, indicate that the warlike preparations between Peru and Ecuador are being rapidly pushed forward and that a conflict seems inevitable.

CORPUS CHRISTI CELEBRATION

Rare Ceremony Will Be Witnessed at Eleven A. M. Tomorrow

HUNDREDS WILL BE IN LINE

Procession Will Move From the Cathedral and Last an Hour.

The procession in honor of Corpus Christi, or the Body of Christ, and which is a beautiful devotion carried out in Catholic countries, but rarely seen in the United States, will take place tomorrow morning from the Cathedral.

This procession, as explained by the Very Rev. Father Fourche, the vicar general of the archdiocese, is for the purpose of allowing the faithful to give testimony of their faith. It is not considered by Catholics an ostentatious declaration of faith but is looked upon as a beautiful ceremony in which the Sacred Host is carried through the streets for the adoration of the believers in the real presence of Christ in the Blessed Sacrament.

The procession, in which many will take part will leave the Cathedral at 11 o'clock and consume about an hour. There will be two pauses in the march at altars arranged for that purpose. One altar will be in the home of Francisco Delgado on Canon road and the other in the house of Mrs. J. M. Luna on Palace avenue.

At these altars a special service or benediction takes place and the faithful on bended knees receive the blessing. The procession finally returns to the Cathedral where the host is replaced in the tabernacle.

The order of the procession is announced as follows:

Order of the Procession.

The Cross and Acolytes.

The children of Mary of the Cathedral.

The young ladies of Loretto Academy.

The children of St. Vincent.

The girls of the Parochial school.

The children of St. Catherine school.

The ladies of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

The ladies of the Cathedral.

The Association of St. Joseph.

The men of the Cathedral.

The Alumni of St. Michael's College.

The little girls with flowers.

The guard of honor to the Blessed Sacrament, being the following gentlemen:

A. L. Morrison, Frank Gormley, Antonio Jose Rael, Manuel Sandoval, Simon Vigil, Juan Miguel Valencia, Jose Medrano, David Rodriguez, Julio Sena, Juan Jose Rodriguez, Cosme Alarid, Octaviano Rodriguez, Jose Manuel Gonzales and Gavino Ortiz.

The Blessed Sacrament, Celebrant and priests.

The choir.

The Pallium bearers, being the following gentlemen:

Trinidad Alarid, J. B. Wood, E. F. Coard, Charles Abreu, E. P. Davies, Telesforo Ribera, Manuel Baca y Campos, Carlos Digneo, Higinio Martinez, Benito Rodriguez, Jose Dolores Garcia and Luis Moya.

Directors of the procession:

Nicolas Sena, Hilario Garcia, Hilario Baca, Ceferino Alarid, Manuel Delgado, Agustin Delgado, Gregorio Rael, Adelardo Martinez, Enrique Alarid, Charles Creamer, Adolfo Alarid and Luis Lujan.

DISTRICT COURT MATTERS AT THE DUKE CITY.

Decree of Foreclosure Entered in Case of Henry Estate vs. John H. and Sarah Hughes.

Albuquerque, N. M., May 28.—A decree of foreclosure was entered in the district court yesterday in the case of the estate of J. A. Henry represented by Martha E. Hart, administratrix, vs. John H. Hughes and Sarah Hughes a judgment having been rendered on notes for $2,200 with costs, secured by a mortgage on lots 7 and 8 in the Otero addition, Block 4.

Judge Abbott yesterday afternoon, sustained an order to strike out certain testimony in the case of I. H. Cox vs. the estate of O. E. Cromwell, deceased, the case resulting from a sale of property owned by Mr. Cromwell during his life time, near Second street and coal avenue. The testimony indicated that the agent for Mr. Cromwell sold the property to Mr. Cox for a stipulated price, after which the same agent found that the tenant of the property was willing to pay a larger price than that paid by Mr. Cox, rather than vacate. The agent, it was charged, then approached the tenant, in the interests of Mr. Cox and succeeded in re-selling the property. Mr. Cromwell, then attempted to have the sale set aside, as regarded Mr. Cox, alleging that his agent should have represented his interests solely.

AN INTERESTING EXHIBIT

Collection of Ceremonial Objects From the Puye to Be Displayed

PIECES OF POTTERY INCLUDED

No One Should Fail to Visit the Old Palace Next Week.

There will be an exhibition next week, at the Museum of New Mexico, a collection of ceremonial objects from the Rio Grande valley, chiefly from Puye. The most interesting piece perhaps in the collection is an anthropomorphic statuette, one foot in height. Originally this had been painted red, but most of the coloring has now disappeared. In spite of the crudity of its workmanship, this statuette is unique, in that it is the only likeness of the human form in any material that has been discovered up to the present time at Puye. This specimen has been in the national museum at Washington for the last ten years, but upon the opening of the museum of New Mexico it was returned to the territory.

In order that visitors to the museum may see from just what part of the ancient community house at Puye this specimen was taken, the position of the room, where the statuette was found, has been marked by a red flag on the model of the South House, which stands in the hall of the museum at the entrance to the Puye room.

In addition to the above there will be exhibited a series of small oblong box-like pieces of pottery. The use of these has not, as yet, been definitely determined, but their small size, and beauty of execution would seem to indicate that they were ceremonial objects rather than every day utensils. There are strong indications that they were receptacles for the sacred prayer meal which still plays such an important part in the life of the modern pueblo Indian, as it doubtless did, in the life of his ancestors. But that this could not have been their only use is also clear from the fact, that at least, one of these pottery boxes has red paint inside on the bottom. These specimens probably were more or less sacred objects used in the ceremonies of the long forgotten race, who once peopled Puye.

A larger piece of the same shape from the ruins of Perage will be exhibited for comparison. Perage is the ruined pueblo on the west side of the Rio Grande river, through which the Denver & Rio Grande railroad passes, some six miles south of Espanola. The San Ildefonso Indians say that this was their home before the coming of the white man, but that when the "oakwood stone" men came and drove them from their home to the Black mesa, not once but many times, they decided to abandon Perage and build a new home where the present pueblo of San Ildefonso now stands.

By the "oakwood stone" men the Indians mean the Spaniards. Having no word for metal in their own language, they could not describe the armor of the Spanish soldiers, other than by likening it to the toughest and hardest substances with which they were familiar, oak wood and stone.

The word stone is used today among the San Ildefonso Indians in speaking of the metals.

In addition to the foregoing there will be exhibited other stone and pottery material from Puye. The medicine bag and its contents, loaned by H. C. Yontz, will be on exhibition also in the hall of the museum from now on.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT DEMING LAST NIGHT.

Deming, May 28.—The school term of the Deming public schools closes today. The commencement exercises were held at Clark's opera house. Most of the teaching force will leave Deming for the summer. Miss Decker, the teacher of English in the high school, will go to her home in Roswell. She has accepted a position in the Roswell schools for next year. Miss Bergen will go to Indiana, Miss Wadick to Iowa, Miss Ede to Silver City, Miss Rogers to Iowa, Miss Kelley to Tennessee, Miss Iverson to California, Miss Bonham to Oklahoma. Mrs. Stocker has obtained a leave of absence for a year and will spend this time in the University of California. Miss Gertrude Webb, the kindergarten teacher, will return to her home in Chicago. Miss Anderson will go to Denver, where she is to be married to James D. Funk, a prominent ranchman of Hayden, Colo. Supt. Dederer will remain in Deming during the summer.

The Deming Ice and Electric Company have received all of the equipment for building their power line and installing motors for pumping. They expect to have all the motors contracted for in operation inside of a month.

THE DAILY ROUND UP.

NOONTIDE.

As in some old and simple village street
Where all day long the lazy shadows lean,
And the soft sunshine sifting in between feet,
Where overhead the arching branches meet,
Holding me close with walls of cloistered green
Where scents come homeward clover-like and keen,
And ways are homely, and the long hours sweet.

So ever at a moment's thought of you
Amid this noon, I seem again to stand
In an old lane where we were wont to pass—
Afar the hum of bees is wafted through,
The sleepy pastures smile on either hand,
And life lies dreaming in the langed grass.

Death at Las Vegas—Romualdo Montoya, aged 65 years, died at Las Vegas. He was a widower and was survived by several grown up children.

Painting the Railroad Property—A force of painters is busy at the Santa Fe round house, freight depot and other property giving everything a new coat of paint. The Santa Fe has been the only corporation to comply with the city ordinance requiring the painting of the telegraph poles.

New High School Principal for East Las Vegas—B. S. Hales has been elected principal of the East Las Vegas public schools to succeed Miss Muriel Hill resigned. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. Miss Helen Hodgins of Yuma, Arizona, was appointed instructor in Latin.

District Court at Las Vegas Busy—Judge Frank W. Parker is moving things in district court at Las Vegas. Charles Williams was found guilty of the embezzlement of $30. Tomas C. de Baca pleaded guilty to assault with a weapon and was fined $50. Alejandro Gallegos was indicted for petit larceny. Amelio Garcia pleaded guilty to the larceny of a horse. Harry Russell, Grover Clark and Henry Train were indicted for breaking into a Santa Fe freight car.

Democrats of Curry County Organize—The Democrats of Curry county have followed the example of those of Bernalillo county and have organized a club. Charles E. Dennis has been elected president; Charles E. Duffin, first vice president; E. J. Howard, second vice president; Luther Spalding, secretary; and T. J. Mabry and H. Armstrong, assistant secretaries.

A Pitiful Case—Says the Raton Range "An elderly woman named Stahl was taken in charge this afternoon by the authorities that her sanity may be tested. Mrs. Stahl it seems has lived here some time and is now living alone across from the city building on Clark avenue. She has spent most of her time lately wandering aimlessly about the streets. She is pleasant when spoken to and seems interested in all she sees. She has had most narrow escapes from engines in the yards recently, and the local engineers live in terror of running over her. Only this morning she was barely snatched from death from in front of an engine. She seems incapable of comprehending danger though quite bright in many ways. It is said she lost a son at railroad work, and haunts the yards because of this memory. Her case is apparently a pitiful one, as she seems to be alone with no one to look after her. Report has it that she owns a farm in Missouri from which she derives a living."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Maximum Was 77—The warmest day of this year in Santa Fe was yesterday, for at 3:50 p. m. the maximum of 77 degrees was reached. People looked at one another and said "Hot, isn't it?" just as they do in those sweltering cities in the east and middle west. But it wasn't hot, just "nice and warm." There was excuse to sit in the park and many pretty damsels in white dresses contributed to make the park a place of interest. The light colored gowns contrasted prettily with the rich green of the park and all that was needed to complete the attraction was soft music. The minimum yesterday was 47 degrees and the relative humidity was 35 per cent. The temperature at 6 o'clock this morning was 60 degrees. A year ago today the maximum was 73 and the minimum 51 with 87 per cent of sunshine. There was a sand storm to make the weather more interesting. It was classed as a "very disagreeable day."

Death of Septuagenarian—John Jackson of Springer, Colfax county, aged 79 years, died while he was being taken from a Santa Fe train to a hospital at Trinidad, Colorado. He was a Civil War veteran and at one time conducted a hotel at Springer and later at Baldy, Colfax county.

EVER WATCHFUL

A Little Care Will Save Many Santa Fe Readers Future Trouble.

Watch the kidney secretions. See that they have the amber hue of health; The discharges not excessive or infrequent; Contain no "brick-dust like" sediment.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do this for you.

They watch the kidneys and cure them when they're sick.

Alberto Garcia, Galisteo Street, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "I deem it a pleasure to corroborate the public statement I gave in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills about seven years ago. I found them to be an excellent remedy and I have never hesitated to vouch for their merit since then when an opportunity has presented itself. For two years I was in bad shape from backache and kidney trouble and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice, I resolved to try them. I procured a box at Stripling, Burrows & Co.'s drug store and they not only drove away the backache, but regulated the passages of the kidney secretions and toned up my entire system. When my back has bothered me during the last two and a half years, I have at once taken Doan's Kidney Pills and they have never failed to bring the desired relief."

WOULD PUT OVERALLS AGAINST CAP AND GOWN FOR SUCCESS

Dr. Garrison Tells High School "Grads" Life's Battle Is Won Not by Good Looks or Genteel Speech But by What One Can Accomplish—Presentation of Diplomas.

Declaring that he would put overalls against a cap and gown as symbols for success in life's battle, and that the education which teaches a person to accomplish something worth while is what counts with the world and not sweet speech and soft garments were declarations of President W. E. Garrison of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts who delivered a stirring address last night to the graduates of the Santa Fe high school.

The high school auditorium was literally packed with the relatives and friends of the graduates and other pupils. Many persons stood on the stairway outside and blocked the doorways to try to catch the words of the distinguished orator of the evening or to endeavor to get one more peep at some "sweet girl grad."

And the girl "grads" were sweet and good to look upon.

Masses of flowers, including many beautiful deep red roses remained in an adjoining room for presentation to the graduates and stacks of books and other presents were there too.

Seated on the platform were the ten graduates, the eleventh being Jake Safford, who is in Annapolis taking an examination for midshipman in the navy. On the platform sat also Superintendent of Schools J. A. Wood, Mayor Sena, president of the school board and Dr. Garrison.

Exercises Begin.

The exercises which will prove such a memorable event to the boys and girls who received their diplomas last night, were auspiciously begun by the glee club singing that stirring air "Estudiantina." The sight of so many pretty girls in dainty frocks standing together and singing in perfect unison was inspiring and the audience applauded enthusiastically. Miss Alonso, directress of music in the schools wielded the baton and she merited the congratulations she received afterward for the good work of that Glee Club. The club, by the way, wound up the exercises with another song and again received the plaudits of an admiring throng.

Another feature of the musical portion of the program was the violin solo, the Mazurka of Miyarski, played by Rogers Fiske accompanied by Mrs. Bean on the piano. The young violinist played with such expression and depth that there was a storm of applause and he was compelled to respond with an encore. He chose Paderewski's ever delightful Minuet and at its conclusion was again warmly applauded.

Professor Wood made several announcements, especially emphasizing the importance of youngsters in the room maintaining perfect quiet during the speechmaking. He also called attention to the school exhibit and said that the display of the Second Ward school is an excellent one and may be seen from 2 to 4 p. m. He then introduced Dr. Garrison who was warmly applauded as he arose to speak, for Dr. Garrison formerly taught here and was personally known to hundreds in the room.

His Address.

Dr. Garrison said in part: "My friends, it is a pleasure for me to be with you tonight. I note with satisfaction that your superintendent did not announce my subject neither did he ask me what I would talk about. This was eminently proper for after all there is but one commencement address. Commencement addresses are always the same no matter what you call them. They remind me of the story of the woman who went into a toy store and saw the same old round of toys; the same old dolls, tops and wheels. She said to the clerk: 'Are there never any new toys?' and the clerk replied: 'No, Madam, but the children are always new.' (Laughter.) 'It is the same with the graduates. They are always new. When a young man speaks to a young lady on a delicate, tender subject of the heart, none would pretend that there is anything very new about what he says or what she hears. (Laughter.) But the girl, my friends, is new (more laughter) and yes, perhaps the man is new. (Applause.) Then take the case of the mother, talking baby talk. There is nothing new about that kind of talk, but it is new to her and is therefore very pleasing."

"So the same old things have to be said and will be new to the graduates. And I might say these graduates are my class. I came into this building at the same time. I think we put in some of the furniture together and the paint was scarcely dry when they came here from the eighth grade. I came as a recent tenderfoot from the east. This was a good class then as now. (Laughter.)

"I feel that they are my own and coming to Santa Fe is like a home-coming to me. I came out here with no friends west of Kansas City but soon I found many friends in Santa Fe and it was Santa Fe that gave me the meaning of the west.

Proud of the West.

"I hope that every boy and girl here tonight feels proud of the west! (Applause.) Some one said and I think it was an eastern man who said it: 'I would rather be a post hole in the west than a flag pole in the east.'"

"My friends, there can be no doubt but that we live in the high places of the earth. (Laughter.) We think we live on a high plane and we ought to have lofty ideas and aspirations. New Mexico makes me think it is the most western of any part of the country. Ask an easterner which seems more western to him, California or New Mexico, and I think you will invariably find that he will say that New Mexico seems farther away. That is because the idea of New Mexico is farther away from the eastern people who have read and talked more about California, although that state is still west of us.

Characteristics of West.

"Now let me add that if there are any characteristics of the west we certainly have them and in abundance. No one but an ignoramus thinks that because the population of this territory is not so dense as that of eastern states that the people are 'dense'. I once heard a man say, after seeing some of our red soil, that he would not give a quarter of a section of Ohio land for all he could see in New Mexico in a day's ride. That man reminded me of the chap who had been elected to Congress. He rushed around and asked what the people said about it in his home town. And some one replied, 'Oh they didn't say much of anything; they just laughed.' (Applause.) Yes, and any one hearing that Ohio man talk that way would not say much in New Mexico. He would just laugh at that man.

What is the West?

"Let me ask you what does the west stand for, if it stands for anything? Why, to me the west means two things, opportunity and development. They form the keynote of this country. The west develops a remarkable type of man. Not that type of man conspicuous for his clothes, the clothes one sees on the eastern stage when a westerner makes his entrance. But the west does make a certain type of man that is called, 'The Westerner.' You would know him anywhere because he has alertness and adaptability. He has to have both of these qualities for conditions out here change and a man has to be ready to adjust himself to them. It is new today and it is new tomorrow. Only the man with his eyes open and standing on his toes is ready to move with the shifting scenery, only that kind of wide-awake man, up and ready, can adapt himself to the situations which daily, aye hourly, confront him."

Training vs. Education.

The speaker then dwelt on the value of training and of education and rapped the machine man who does not mix brains with his work. He continued: "There is a great difference between training and education. You can train a pig, but you cannot educate one. You can teach him to do certain things that other pigs do not do, but you cannot educate that pig. You can train a man to do routine work, but such a routine-trained man is lost when he is confronted by a change. That is the real reason why a sudden improvement on a machine may throw hundreds of routine-train-

A SINGLE SET OF CUTICURA CURED HIM

"I feel it my duty to let you know with what success I have used the Cuticura Remedies. When our baby was seven weeks old he broke out with what we thought was heat but which gradually grew worse. We called in a doctor. He said it was eczema and from that time we doctored six months with three of the best doctors in Atchison but he only got worse. His face, head and hands were a solid sore. There was no end to the suffering for him. We had to tie his little hands to keep him from scratching. He never knew what it was to sleep well from the time he took the disease until he was cured. He kept us awake all hours in the night and his health wasn't what you would call good. We tried everything but the right thing. Finally I got a set of the Cuticura Remedies and am pleased to say we did not use all of them until he was cured. We have waited a year and a half to see if it would return but it never has and to-day his skin is clear and fair as it possibly could be. I hope Cuticura may save some one else's little one's suffering and also their pocket-books. John Lenson, 1403 Atchison St., Atchison, Kan., Oct. 19, 1909."

ed men out of work. Such men are like a man on an ice float; they never know where they will have to jump."

The speaker then gave an illustration of the paper feeding device of a printing press and told how at first when two sheets instead of one were grasped the machine was tied up with torn paper and it required the skill of a fine mechanic to readjust it. Then he said a patent clutch was made so that the machine simply came to a full stop when two sheets were taken hold of. This at least prevented much trouble. "There are men, too," he continued, "who, like the machine either are all muddled up when a new problem confronts them or they simply have to throw up their hands and stop, awaiting for the educated man to help them out of the hole."

What is Education?

"And now what does education mean?" asked the speaker. "Education means culture and skill. Culture! That is a word I almost dislike to use for it is such an absurd term. Well, we realize today that success is not so much looks, or clothes as 'delivering the goods.' That's what the world wants, accomplishments. Right here I want to say that a great symbol for success is found in the apron and the overalls and I'll put the overalls any day against the cap and gown as a symbol for preparation for the world." (Prolonged applause.)

Work Not a Curse.

Discussing further the meaning of culture, the speaker alluded to work and said: "I beg leave to assure you, my friends, that work is not a curse. The human race is blessed, not cursed, by work."

"It has been said and said truly that there is no joy like work. Under certain conditions that work to be a joy must be hard work. I do not see why any one should enjoy any other kind of work, such as easy work. Don't you believe that the real delight is found in effort? If you don't believe that, why do you boys like to play foot ball in which so much hard work and earnest effort has to be put for success? Boys like that game because it is hard work and hard work feels good to them. Then if you would live, work; if you would enjoy life to the fullest, do hard work; put your soul in it and reap the delights of earnest efforts." (Applause.)

Dr. Garrison concluded with a few words of advice to the graduates whom he congratulated on their successful work.

Then followed the presentation of diplomas by Mr. Sena. And then was witnessed the same scene of many a

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

ONE MILE OF NEW ROAD A DAY.

It was the successful experiment of New Mexico employing convict labor in building the Scenic Highway up the Santa Fe cañon and into the Pecos national forest, that led Colorado to employ its convict labor on good roads work. Colorado has learned what New Mexico has not heeded, that convict labor is most profitable if employed near the penitentiary—that is, near its base of supplies, and on roadwork in the mountains rather than over the plains. It is the heavy rock work that otherwise calls for a disproportionate expense in labor that should be assigned to convicts in order to make the greatest saving for the commonwealth. It is for that reason, that Colorado, after building part of the Santa Fe Trail from Trinidad to Raton pass, put its convicts to work on a scenic highway from Canon City, where the penitentiary is located, to Colorado Springs. This highway does not follow the beaten paths of travel, for Colorado holds sensibly that ordinary commercial highways should be repaired or built by the counties they traverse or the communities they serve, and that the commonwealth should only build such roads as would otherwise not be constructed at all, which open undeveloped territory and can be used as pleasure roads through the mountains and forests. Such a road the Scenic Highway from Santa Fe to the Pecos, almost finished, and thence to Las Vegas, also partly finished, is sure to be, and Governor Mills and the territorial good roads commission of which he is the chairman, are to be commended for determining that the Scenic Highway across the Pecos reserve, so well begun, must be pushed to completion beginning with this summer and the good roads engineers cannot get to work too soon on this magnificent project beside which all other good roads propositions seem insignificant and unimportant, for they simply fix up highways that prosperous communities have been using for a century or more, but have been too lazy or too thrifty to maintain for themselves, while the Scenic Highway is an undertaking worthy of a great commonwealth. This week, the Denver and other Colorado papers, were full of laudations of the beauty and value of the new Scenic Highway now under construction between Canon City and Colorado Springs and the Rocky Mountain News was not exaggerating when it said in its introductory lines:

"When at noon today Governor Shafroth broke the beautiful chain of roses, columbines, carnations and forget-me-nots that stretched across the western end of the new Colorado Springs-Canon City boulevard at Dead Man's canon, he inaugurated a new era in the good roads movement of Colorado.

"Warden Hyman of the state penitentiary, said he is already working fifty-two per cent of his prisoners on the highways of Colorado, mostly in the three camps of El Paso, Pueblo and Fremont counties, and that he hopes to increase this number as fast as possible, and that one year hence he would be building one mile of improved highway per day.

"Governor Shafroth was the principal speaker, and although threatening rain caused him to curtail his address, his remarks created the most intense enthusiasm.

"The state might well feel proud of the achievement of building this road," he said, "and when it is fully completed from Colorado Springs through Canon City and on to the Royal gorge and the world knows about it, it will bring thousands of people to our state. The tourist is about the best travel the state can get. Switzerland, a mountain republic of 3,500,000 people, is supported almost entirely by tourists; and likewise the city of Los Angeles has little to support it outside the tourist business.

"There is also a moral aspect to the building of this roadway that some of you might overlook and that is the benefit that comes to the seventy-five convicts who did the work. It has developed the good qualities in these men and will eventually make many of them good citizens. Prison life in the open, under these circumstances, is much different from what it used to be, when there was no reformation of prisoners under those conditions.

"I do not believe in pardoning prisoners, but I do believe in reforming them. I believe in shortening their terms as a reward for good behavior and work well done, and I believe in ameliorating their conditions whenever possible. I would advocate a philanthropic society for, or better still, a state institution, whose duty it shall be by correspondence and solicitation, to find a place of honest employment for every prisoner released."

"Charles A. Johnson of Denver, chairman of the Rocky Mountain Highway Association, spoke on the education of the people for good roads. He said that the highway just completed was essentially an automobile boulevard and as there were 400,000 automobiles in use in this country, Colorado should attract as many of them as possible.

"Dr. Bartlett, president of the Denver Chamber of Commerce, who has been taking a deep interest in the good roads movement, said the present accomplishment was but the beginning of many similar enterprises which would result eventually in making Colorado famous for its splendid highways."

GET BUSY!

The Democrats of Bernalillo county and of Curry county have each organized a political club for the campaign anticipated this fall, or in case of statehood, for the first statehood campaign. There is not much significance in this, for it is easy to get half a dozen men together at any point and organize a club for almost any purpose. Nevertheless, it behooves the Republican party leaders to get busy and prepare for a strenuous year or two of campaigning. The announcement of the census results will be followed by reapportionments in every section of the country and it is very likely that a new apportionment in New Mexico will not make the legislature so overwhelming a Republican proposition as it has been in the past twelve years, although there is no doubt that New Mexico is Republican by almost 10,000 votes. It is also quite certain that the next election will show 70,000 votes cast, or 15,000 more than were ever cast before at any election in New Mexico. How these 15,000 voters will vote is the problem that will determine results and these new voters should be looked after. The Republican party is in good shape for any campaign that may come, except that financially it must strengthen itself for campaigns cannot be run without money now-a-days as legitimate expenses eat up considerable revenue. It is also a business certainty that money cannot be secured for campaign purposes except through systematic effort, and it is to that problem that the Republican central committee and the other leaders should set themselves without much delay if they want to avoid unlooked for trouble in the heat of a great campaign such as the first statehood or the last territorial campaign is certain to be.

"Lost we forget," Memorial day is observed annually. This is a materialistic and selfish age in many respects and the sacrifices made less than half a century ago that the Union might be preserved seem so remote at times, that even the marching by of the tottering veterans to decorate the graves of their comrades, does not seem sufficient to keep people from desecrating the day with sports and amusements that detract rather than add to the honor the nation owes to its offenders. Still there will always be a large number of patriotic people who will take the celebration of Memorial day as a solemn duty, who will not forget what those days of gigantic struggle meant to millions of homes both North and South. And the New Mexican hopes that there will always be found enough men and women in Santa Fe to decorate the graves of the veterans on each Memorial Day even after the last of these heroes has responded to final taps.

The first year of the Spanish-American Normal School at El Rito has been a success. The fact, that with a very limited appropriation the institution was maintained and had in excess of the minimum number of pupils prescribed by the legislative act, is nothing short of a marvel. The commencement exercises held this week demonstrated that the school is doing good work. From the very nature of the want it is intended to fill, it can not as yet aspire to the high grade of scholarship that is required by some of the other higher institutions of learning but it is already filling in part the want for Spanish speaking teachers well equipped mentally to take charge of a rural school in a Spanish speaking district. There is only one regret, that the New Mexican can express, and that is there were no Spanish-American names on the program of exercises on commencement day.

SETTING THEM RIGHT.

Recently one of the leading newspapers of Italy printed what purported to be a description of Liberal an anarchist settlement in New Mexico. The description would have turned an American yellow journalist green with envy and Governor Mills wrote the following letter to the editor of the paper, which has just published it, both in English and Italian, in order to set New Mexico right before its readers:

William J. Mills, Governor, Territory of New Mexico, Office of Executive, Santa Fe, April 23, 1910.

Dear Sir—Your letter addressed to Mr. George Curry, Governor of New Mexico, has been opened by me. I having assumed the duties of that office on the first day of March, Governor Curry having resigned.

I read with much interest the piece you had marked in the paper you forwarded. I beg to assure you that no one who lives in this Territory has ever heard of any such town as Liberal, nor is there any postoffice of that name in New Mexico. I expect that some person desired to write a somewhat sensational article, and picked out New Mexico as the proper place in which to locate the scene.

I beg to assure you that the people of New Mexico are honest, law-abiding and have as much respect for God as any people in the world. Of course like in all communities there are some atheists and some agnostics, but fortunately their number is very small. You can deny that there is any town in New Mexico named Liberal, and you can also affirm that if any such town was started and conducted as set out in the article the authorities would quickly take notice of it and the offenders would be speedily brought to the bar of justice. I also beg to assure you that there are no colonies of socialists or anarchists in New Mexico.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM J. MILLS.

PLEASING APPRECIATION.

Professor H. R. Pattengill of Michigan, who has just completed a tour of the Territory with Superintendent of Public Instruction James E. Clark, writes in "Moderator Topics," of which he is the editor:

"Does it begin to dawn on Moderator-Topics readers that New Mexico is a land of permanent settlers, happy and beautiful homes, wide-awake people, good schools, plentiful resources, and a worthy applicant for a star in the blue field of the best and handsomest flag on earth?"

He says further of Saint Michael's College in Santa Fe:

"We had a most enjoyable visit to St. Michael's College, the pioneer school for higher education for young men in the great southwest. It was established in 1859. It is in charge of the Christian Brothers. Brother James, president. It has academic, commercial and collegiate courses. The following quotations from one of the 'folders' issued by the school indicates the spirit of the management: 'There is no place for you in the business world unless you are prepared to do the work the world wants done.' 'Never in the history of civilization has there been so great a premium placed on well trained minds.' 'The young man of today must be able to do the work required of him or give way to those who can.'"

"All the students, 250 in number, were gathered in the assembly hall for a speech from the visitor. The school orchestra rendered some invigorating selections, the boys sang 'New Mexico,' and Brother James introduced the speaker. He never had a more attentive or more appreciative audience. It was hard to tell which enjoyed it more, the boys or the brothers, their teachers. Most of the boys are Spanish-American, but they are taught English in the school, and they caught every word."

It is wonderful growth that building and loan associations have made in this country the past few decades. There are now almost six thousand of them with assets that are nearing the billion dollar mark. The building and loan association is the wage earner's opportunity to own a home and to invest his scanty earnings at the largest return that safety will permit. Thousands have received their first financial start through paying a few dollars each month into some sound building and loan association and discovering that even small amounts regularly saved will in a few years amount to handsome sums. It speaks well for Santa Fe that it has a prosperous, well-paying building and loan association. It is conservatively managed and yet pays handsome dividends to its shareholders besides furnishing thousands of dollars annually for the upbuilding of the city.

Complaint again reaches the New Mexican that employees of the Santa Fe railway, on the main line, urge travelers not to come into Santa Fe from Lamy explaining to them that the trip is tedious, that hotel accommodations are poor and that the attractions of the old town are not worth while. The New Mexican was also shown a map of the Santa Fe system printed in one of its folders which fails to show the town that gave the system its name. Small villages are named on the map and other branch lines are shown, but no branch line from Lamy to Santa Fe. The New Mexican takes this means to call the attention of the officials of the system to these facts, knowing that these inconsistencies will be remedied, for of late, the Santa Fe has advertised this town widely and it is to its interests to feature Santa Fe as a tourist and climatic resort.

Two welcome items of news comes floating from Washington today: That there is to be no further delay in constructing the Engle dam and that the reclamation service has about decided that New Mexico is right in protesting against an embargo on the waters of the northern Rio Grande and its tributaries. Both items mean that the upbuilding of New Mexico is to go on without interruption.

SPANISH AMERICAN NORMAL SCHOOL

First Annual Commencement
Exercises Were Held
This Week

L. B. PRINCE MADE ADDRESS

Papers of Local and Historic Interest Read by the Pupils.

The first commencement exercises of the Spanish-American Normal School at El Rito, Rio Arriba county, passed over very satisfactorily on Thursday, May 26. Exactly 50 students have been enrolled during the scholastic year, but of them no less than nine were called away to take charge of schools before the end of the session. Nearly all of them expect to return next session to improve their grades.

At the appointed hour, 2 o'clock, all of the students with visitors who occupied every available space gathered in the assembly hall and the trustees, principal and others who were to take part in the ceremonies, entered in procession. The trustees were represented by the president, Hon. L. Bradford Prince, and the secretary and treasurer, Colonel Venecio Jaramillo, the president in the gown and hood of the LL. D. degree, with the colors of Colorado college.

The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Joseph Pagot. Then came the program of exercises by the students, which included original papers on New Mexico, the March of Coronado, Espejo's Expedition, Our Territorial Institutions, Rural Schools of New Mexico and History of the Spanish-American Normal, by members of the graduating class, interspersed with music and brief recitations. At the conclusion of this part of the program the exercises continued as follows:

Address on Behalf of the Trustees, by Colonel Venecio Jaramillo.

Address by Hon. J. M. C. Chavez, county superintendent.

Address by Hon. Antonio De Vargas, ex-county superintendent.

Address by Sixto Chavez, director of El Rito school.

All of them expressed in glowing terms high appreciation of the Spanish-American Normal and of the admirable work of Mrs. Dixon during the past year.

The commencement address to the students was then delivered by Hon. L. Bradford Prince. At its conclusion the beautiful certificate of attendance, printed in maroon, was presented to the students, together with the official certificates of the passing of the eighth grade.

Two important announcements were made. One by the trustees that Mrs. Dixon would continue her services to the institution during the coming year; and the other, by the County Superintendent J. M. C. Chavez, that the Rio Arriba Teachers' Institute would be held at the Normal School for four weeks beginning on July 5. The exercises then closed with the benediction.

Many of the visitors inspected the building, which is a model of neatness and careful administration from top to bottom. Everywhere were displayed school colors, which are blue and gold representing the azure of the New Mexico sky and the gold of the sun of the Sunshine State.

Several of the graduates were from Santa Fe and Torrance counties, which sent many students during the session to join those of Taos and Rio Arriba.

PROBING CUSTOMS HOUSE SCANDAL AT LAREDO.

San Antonio, Texas, May 28.—That the world moves some without changing much of its identity would be the opinion of Cuattemoc, last of the Aztec emperors, could he see one of his descendants busy probing a modern customs house scandal, a task now devolving upon Lie. Lopez Mottezuma, claimed to be a scion of the last Aztec dynasty. Judge Mottezuma at present is trying to find out just who got away with $150,000 of the Mexican government's money at the customs house in Nuevo Laredo, across the Rio Grande from Laredo, Texas, and at other times holds down the job as attorney general of the National railroads of Mexico. He is claimed to be one of the best lawyers in Old Mexico, and wears the judge's robe with as much dignity as did his ancestors the imperial cloak of feathers.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

THE LITTLE WOMAN.

"One of the little Women, she came up to Heaven's gate;
And seeing the throng was pressing,
She sighed that she fain would wait.
"For I am not great nor noble," she said, "I am poor and plain;
And should I go boldly forward,
I know it would be in vain."

She sat near the shining portal, and looked at the surging crowd
Of them that were kings and princes of them that were rich and proud,
And sudden, she trembled greatly, for one with a brow like flame
Came to her, and hailed her gladly, and called her by her name:
"Come, enter the jeweled gateway," he said, "for the prize is thine;
The work that in life you rendered was work that was fair and fine;
So come, while the rest are waiting, and enter in here and now—
A crown of life eternal is waiting to press thy brow."

Then trembled the little Woman, and cried: "It may not be I,
Here wait they that wrought with greatness, and how may I pass them.

I carved me no wondrous statues, I painted no wondrous things,
I spoke no tremendous sayings that rang in the ear of kings;
I toiled in my little cottage, I spun and baked and swept;
I sewed and I patched and mended—oh lowly the house I kept.
I sang to my little children, I led them in worthy ways,
And so I might not grow famous, I knew naught but care-bound days.

So was it by night and morning, so was it by week and year;
I worked with my weary fingers through days both bright and dear;
And I have grown old and wrinkled, and I have grown gray and bent;
And I ask not for chants of glory, now that I have found content."

"Arise," cried the waiting angel, "Come first of the ones who wait,
For you are the voices singing, for you do we open the gate;
So, great as has been thy labor, so great shall be thy reward."

And he gave to the little Woman the glory of the Lord.

An Appeal From a Drinker.

(From the American Magazine.)
"I want to just say 'thank you' for the good things you have been furnishing me with the past year. I especially appreciate your articles on people's personal experience with liquor drinking, as I have had some experience in that line myself."

"About seven years ago I had a wife and one child, and held a civil service position which would have insured me a good salary the rest of my days. If I had not gone to drinking, I lost my position on account of drink, was suspended from my lodge for misconduct while drunk and finally got to where I could not get work even as a common laborer."

"I tried to reform, but found it impossible if I stayed in my home town; I tried to persuade my wife to move somewhere else, or let me go and then come to me after I had become established some where else. She refused to leave or to let me do so, and finally I ran away from them in order to get away from them and in order to get away from the drink."

"I have been spending the last three years in the 'backwoods' sections of this state (Florida), guarding prisoners on turpentine farms, and absolutely away from all liquor—yet when I had occasion to make a short trip to one of our larger cities a few weeks ago, it was one tremendous and continued struggle to keep out of the bar rooms, and I hope never to again be obliged to spend 24 hours in a 'wet' town."

"This was the situation after three years' trial at over-coming the liquor habit. My wife secured a divorce as soon after I left home as possible, and at 25 years of age, I am obliged to stay out in the woods, cut off from everything that I consider makes life worth living, following an uncongenial occupation, and afraid to go among the people I was used to, for fear of again falling."

"If you can through your magazine, create a sentiment that will make this country safe for those of us who have fallen, it will certainly be appreciated by me at any rate."

This is a plea from the "drinker"

THE SHOE FOR REAL MEN—

No better than many other shoes, except:

- 1—The leathers are selected, tested and proved by experts.
- 2—The trimmings are likewise.
- 3—The shoemakers are tried out before being employed and make nothing but these shoes.

These are but three points of excellence which make it THE Man's Shoe. There are more.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

The seat sale for Faust opened this morning at Fischer's drug store and it is thought that there will be a big house Wednesday night, June 1, when Sanford Dodge and his company come here after playing in the Duke City.

In the range of the drama there is no feminine character that can excel in beauty, simplicity and yet with all in wonderful dramatic intensity, the role of the wronged fate stricken beautiful Marguerite, Miss Adelle Nickerson gives this role all the simple dignity, the careful reading, the heart-breaking pathos the dramatic intensity and the wonderful physical beauty that the character requires.

The role of Marguerite has been played by such actresses as Sarah Bernhart, Ellen Terry, Florence Roberts and many others equally famous. Miss Nickerson not only possesses all the dramatic power of those mentioned, but she also has the youth and beauty required by this role, qualities older actresses of course could not possess. Marguerite's logic and philosophy of life was simplicity and beauty itself after all her wrongs and trials, just before her death when her reason which had been dethroned once again regaining for a flash the force the souls flight its supremacy when begged by Faust to forgive him for all the awful troubles he had caused her without an instant's hesitation her answer came, "Forgive thee, why Faust I love thee!" Miss Nickerson portrays this role with a wonderful

Why stock is sold.

Creation of wealth is very different from transfers of wealth. Tradesmen and shopkeepers and brokers do not add a dollar to the world's wealth. Producers do. Tradesmen, etc., are just transferers. They are merely consumers. It is much nicer to be a producer.

A producer needs capital, needs a medium of exchange, the medium called money.

It is necessary for a great expenditure of money to drill oil wells, the larger the expenditure the more oil; the more oil, the larger the profits; the larger the profits, the greater the dividend.

From all general appearances, the California-National Crude Oil Company will be one of the largest producers in the state. We have the land, now all that is necessary is the development.

Remember that mining for oil is different than mining for gold. It takes years to develop a gold mine, while it only takes days to drill an oil well.

Stock is now selling at 50 cents. Take advantage of the price before it takes another raise.

Former District Clerk A. M. Bergere left for Albuquerque last evening on a business visit.

Mrs. Mills and her daughter, Miss Madeline Mills, will leave tomorrow for New Haven, Conn., to visit friends and to attend the commencement exercises of Yale University where Mrs. Mills' son graduates. In June, Mrs. Mills intended to leave for the east this morning but was somewhat indisposed and decided to postpone the trip until tomorrow. Governor Mills will leave later for Yale and expects to be there by June 18, when the exercises begin.

Ex-Governor Otero returned yesterday from Roswell, having accompanied a large number of students at the New Mexico Military Institute to their homes or at least part way. Among those from this city and north of here were Messrs. Closson, Creamer, Luna Bergere, Archuleta, Garrett, Martinez, Hubbard, Townsend and his own son, Miguel. Governor Otero speaks in enthusiastic terms of the work accomplished by the institute. Millet Clancy of this city was the valedictorian and his oration was a brilliant effort. He, together with First Sergeant Miguel A. Otero, were members of the company that won the prize in drilling.

"Many Roswell ladies called at the home of Mrs. W. S. Prager on South Hill yesterday afternoon to meet Mrs. Robert Smart, wife of Col. Robert Smart, M. D., of Albuquerque. Other visiting ladies present were Mrs. Frank Clancy and Mrs. A. S. Brookes of Santa Fe, wives of the Attorney General and Adjutant General of New Mexico. The Prager home was tastefully decorated for the afternoon. The front parlor was in red, the flowers used being sweet peas and American beauties, palms and ferns. The library was in white carnations, sweet peas and roses and the dining room in pink. La France roses and sweet peas. With the hostess and visiting ladies a score of Roswell's ladies welcomed the callers and entertained them during their call. Mrs. Fritz Brueggeman and Miss Irma Totzek served punch and in the dining room Mrs. Henry Swartz and Misses Saunders, Maud Lewis, Bean, Prager and Carson served pink and white ice cream, cakes and mints. Cook's orchestra furnished sweet music through the afternoon, which was a most happy one for all."—Roswell Daily Record.

High School Girls' Club.

Under the capable direction of Miss Alonso, supervisor of music, the High School Girls' Glee Club is improving with each public appearance and it is a musical organization of which Santa Fe is justly proud. During the commencement exercises at the high school last night the girls sang their sweetest and looked their prettiest in dainty white summer frocks. While there may be no embryo Melbas or Schumann-Heinks among them, their voices blend pleasingly, with the freshness and flexibility of youth, and it is certainly a treat to hear them.

The club is composed of some thirty girls, all of whom are students of the high school. Miss Hazel Sparks is the accompanist and in spite of her tender years is a pianiste of more than ordinary ability. The other members of the club are Misses: Anita Baca, Grace Beacham, Consuelo Bergere, Miriam Cartwright, Sophia Creamer, Josephine Cunningham, Claribel Fischer, Nellie Friday, Myrtle Gilderleeve, Emma Goebel, Gertrude Gormley, Dorothy Griffin, Nellie Harrison, Eleanor Jaffa, Pauline Kinsell, Lena Krick, Jean Law, Jessie Law, Marian Law, Edna Lutz, Ruth McBride, Caroline Michael, Lola Michaelson, Mabel Palmer, Maude Palmer, Blanche Roberts, Dorothy Safford, Opal Sanford, Daisy Schrausky, Lillian Schrausky, Charlotte Weintge, Helen Winter.

Miss Alonso intends to keep the Glee Club intact during the ensuing school year, it having proved a pleasing feature for the various school entertainments.

To Young Men Who are About to Graduate.

You don't graduate very often in this world; some of you only once, perhaps. It's an important event every time, no matter how many times you graduate; it means a good deal to you now and in the future.

For these reasons you want to be especially well dressed for it; you want to look as well as you can for your own sake and for the sake of your friends who will sit in front to see you. They want to see you looking your best.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes are made for the purpose of helping a young man to look his best; they're the kind of clothes that are themselves an educational force in good quality. The fabrics are all wool; the clothes are perfectly made; they're stylish and they fit right.

We have special models for young men; not small men's sizes, but clothes designed for young men to wear; the kind that bring out and emphasize the strong, athletic lines of the figure. We'd like to have a hand in getting you ready to graduate; we'd like to see you wearing these clothes; we'd be proud of you as our representative, just as your friends will be proud of you as theirs. Blue Serge suits, self striped and plain, black and Oxford gray suits, a great range of fancy weaves. Suits $20.00 to $27.50.

STERS ARE POORLY PAID IN UNITED STATES.

Average Monthly Salary is Only $55.25—Census Bureau Makes Interesting Report.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—The average annual salary of a minister of the gospel is but $663, in all the denominations represented in the compilation on this subject in Part I of a report on the Census of Religious Bodies for 1906, which is now being prepared for its submission to the United States Census Director and to Secretary Nagle of the department of commerce and labor. The report was compiled under the supervision of Mr. William C. Hunt, chief statistician of population in the census bureau, and the statistics were collected by correspondence and partly by special agents.

Official Statistics Concerning Pay of Ministers.

It is pointed out in the introduction to this is the first time an attempt has been made in a United States census to secure official statistics concerning salaries paid to ministers. It is stated that the results of the census are not entirely satisfactory on account of the failure of some ministers to report their salary and others to report with sufficient clearness. Of the grand total of 186 denominations in continental United States, the report states that 15 have no regular ministry and 69 either pay no stated salaries or made returns which were not sufficiently complete to warrant tabulation.

Of the 201,351 organizations composing the 102 remaining denominations, there were 164,229, or 81.6 per cent, which made returns to the census inquiry and the report states there is reason to believe that these are substantially complete and accurate, and it is thought that they embrace a sufficient number of organizations of the respective denominations to be fairly representative of conditions as to the average salaries paid to ministers. The figures in the tables are for continental United States, for each of the four principal classes of cities—that is, those having a population of 25,000 to 50,000, of 50,000 to 100,000, of 100,000 to 250,000, and 250,000 and over, and for the area outside of them.

Unitarians Show Highest Average Salary.

The denomination showing the highest average is the Unitarian, with $1,653, while the denominations next in order are the Protestant Episcopal church, $1,242; the Universalists, $1,238; the General Convention of the New Jerusalem in the United States of America, $1,233; the Jewish congregations, $1,222; the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, $1,177; the Reformed Church in America, $1,170; the United Presbyterian Church of North America, $1,096; the Congregationalists, $1,042; the Christian Catholic Church in Zion, $1,037; and the Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church of North America, $1,008.

Among the denominations showing an average salary considerably lower than the general average for the United States are the Advent Christian church; all the Baptist bodies except the Northern Baptist Convention; the Christian Union; the Christian (Christian Connection); the Church of Christ, Scientist; the General Eldership of the Churches of God in North America; the Society of Friends (Orthodox); the colored Methodist bodies; the Methodist Protestant, Wesleyan Methodist, and Free Methodist churches; the Salvation Army; and the Volunteers of America. In the case of most of these last-named bodies as shown by the report, many of the organizations reporting are outside of the principal cities, and many of them are doubtless in rural regions, and this fact accounts largely for the comparatively low average salary. The low average shown for the Church of Christ, Scientist, is said to be due to the fact that most of those who serve as ministers, or readers, are persons having other vocations and not dependent on the salaries paid by the churches. In the case of the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America the allowance made for the officers serving at the various posts is usually based upon their probable expenses, and is practically limited to these expenses.

The average salary shown for the large cities is considerably higher as a rule than the general average for the denomination, while for the area outside of the principal cities it is usually somewhat less. Moreover, the average salary generally corresponds to the grade of the cities. For all denominations together it ranges from $1,223 for cities of the first class to $1,110 for those of the second class; $1,063 for those of the third class; $972 for those of the fourth class; and $73 for the area outside of the principal cities.

In individual denominations the conditions vary. In the Northern Baptist Convention the average for cities of the first class is $1,580; of the second class $1,420; of the third class $1,381; of the fourth class, $1,248; and for the area outside of the principal cities $683. The figures for the Disciples of Christ show a regular gradation from $1,326 per minister for cities of the first class to $1,250 for those of the fourth class; for the Methodist Episcopal church, from $1,422 for cities of the first class to $1,187 for those of the fourth class; and for the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, from $2,169 for those of the first class to $1,524 for those of the fourth class.

In the Southern Baptist Convention, the average of the first class to $1,358 for those of the fourth class, and among the Congregationalists from $1,938 for cities of the first class to $1,512 for those of the fourth class, but in the case of both these denominations the average for cities of the third class is a little larger than for those of the second class.

Among the Lutheran bodies there is considerable difference; some, as the General Council, show a regular gradation; others, as the United Norwegian, show larger averages for cities of the third and fourth classes.

Unsalaries Ministry in Mission Churches.

The lower average salary shown by some denominations for a higher class of cities than for a lower is in most cases due to the existence in the higher class of cities of an unusually large number of weak or mission churches. For example, in the case of the Southern Baptist Convention, which shows an average salary per minister of $1,595 for cities of the third class and only $1,490 for cities of the second class, the churches in the third class have an average membership of 472, and in the second class of only 362, indicating that the churches in the third class are also financially stronger on the average than those in the second class.

In the Protestant Episcopal church the average is from $1,873 in cities of the first class to $1,517 in those of the fourth, there being but little difference in the figures for the second, third and fourth classes of cities.

Roman Catholic Denomination Pay Like Salaries for Cities and Rural Districts.

In the case of the Roman Catholic church, the figures show but little difference between the general average and that for the various classes of cities or for the area outside of the principal cities, the reason being that in this denomination the salaries are fixed for the diocese, being in general the same for the rural districts as for the large cities.

Of the 24 ministers reported by the four organizations of the Christian Catholic Church in Zion, for the area outside the principal cities, 21 are reported at Zion City, and are probably connected with the headquarters of the denomination at that place.

Among the denominations included in the report with those not paying regular salaries to their ministers, and hence not represented in the table on the subject, there are several, as for example, the Free Will Baptists and the German Baptist Brethren church (Conservative), in which a considerable number of the organizations pay stated salaries, although it is not a general custom. Some of these denominations, among which are the ones mentioned, appear to be in the transitional state from the unsalaried to the salaried ministry basis.

SORDID ROMANCE OF AN ENGLISH NOBLEMAN.

Married a Negress in Mexico Who Now Lives in Style in the Pass City.

San Antonio, Texas, May 27.—The sale of the 110,000 acre Ojitos ranch in northern Chihuahua, Mexico, for $199,000 may be looked upon as the last chapter in a fervent problem romance. Just as the problem novelist would not have it the hero is dead and the heroine now lives in comparative splendor in a fine brick house on South Campbell street, El Paso, Tex.

A little over twenty years ago there put in appearance in Chihuahua, a young Englishman who seemed anxious to get away from something. This something ultimately proved to be nothing less than London's drawing room atmosphere. Lord Delaval Beresford, brother of Admiral Lord Charles Beresford of the English navy—for such is the identity of the hero—had grown tired of sugar-coated civilization and for this reason had gone into the wilds. His own kind no longer appealed to him. Miles away from any railroad then, there was the Ojitos ranch at fifty cents an acre and plain Delaval Beresford, as he was known, bought it and stocked it with cattle. Nobody knew who he was. He received no mail that might have given the game away and wrote only business letters as far as his intimates knew. That he was English he could not deny, but unlike the typical English remittance man he was a rough-and-ready fellow—one who knew a joke when he saw it and could endure himself to the vacuero and even his family. Lord Beresford was democratic if anything and very fond of the small saloon and the low dive. Although his brother cattlemen in those days were frequenters only of the classy gambling houses and flashy booze emporiums, such as El Paso boasted then, Beresford had a taste only for the lower variety of joy parlor.

But the nobleman "incog" came to understand the cattle business from

A to Z and did well financially. Socially he would have been as great a success had he willed it. But society was the thing he was tired of and to make himself socially impossible Lord Beresford fell in love and lived with a very comely negress, who afterward became known as "Lady Flo." At first "Lady Flo" was only the cook, but when Beresford went as far as to apply for a room at one of the leading hotels in El Paso for "Mr. and Mrs. Delaval Beresford," things reached the breaking point.

It was during a typical Beresford buccanal that the identity of the lord became known. The negress had been imbibing heavily during the revelry and began to prattle. "Sho," she said, "I'm Lady Flo. My husband is the brother of Lawd Beresford of the English navy, an' 'ese gwine back to ole England, an' 'Ise gwine to see de queen; she has to see me 'cause 'Ise the wife of a lawd." Beresford had reached a level where he did not mind such trifles and the fact that he and the negress were spoken of as "Lord and Lady Flo" did not concern him much. He showed a singular affection for the woman and at all the stores in El Paso and Chihuahua she had charge accounts which were always promptly met by Beresford.

For years the lordly cattlemen had been in the habit of selling his steers in Canada and while returning from a trip there in the spring of 1907, his train ran into the ditch near Medicine Hat. Among those that were killed was his name. The news had no sooner reached Lady Flo than she assumed mourning and proceeded to claim the property of her "husband." All went well until a will was found in which Lord Beresford left his property to his "legal heirs," save $5,000 which were to go to "my faithful housekeeper Flora." The genuineness of this document has been doubted by many although the courts do not seem to have questioned it. Lady Flo began to show spite and promised to drag the case through every court in Mexico and the United States, when a personal visit from Admiral Beresford set the matter right. How much the negress received for relinquishment of her claim is not known, but at all events she lives today in a fine brick house in El Paso and on her carriage step appear the words "Lady Flo." Moreover she is quite a land-lord.

IRRIGATION ENGINEERING BUILDING AT FORT COLLINS.

It Cost $80,000 and is an Indication of the Importance of Reclamation Work in State.

Pueblo, Colo., May 28.—The new civil and irrigation engineering building at the state agricultural college at Fort Collins, Colorado, recently completed and occupied, is the second building of the kind in the United States and the only one occupied exclusively for these purposes.

These facts are of great pride not only to the old established irrigation district of Colorado, but to the entire state as well.

The statement concerning this building and its conspicuous points is made on no less an authority than the man in charge of this fine new building—Professor L. G. Carpenter, in charge of irrigation engineering at the college and director of the state experiment station. Professor Carpenter is a former state engineer of Colorado, and is a member of the board of control of the Eighteenth National Irrigation Congress.

The building cost $80,000 and has only recently been occupied by the college. It is not yet fully completed and probably will not be until after the session of the legislature, when some further appropriations are necessary.

The building, arranged according to Professor Carpenter's plans and especially designed for hydraulics, excites the commendation of all who see it. Constructed of beautiful native material, four stories in height, arranged with all appliances and equipped to the highest degree, the building stands today as probably the finest of all the fine group at the state agricultural college.

It is coincidental that this building should be in the hands of Professor Carpenter, and that the only other similar building, at Cornell university, Ithaca, New York, should be in charge of his brother.

Northern Colorado, destined to become probably the richest section of the state, the pioneer in irrigation, and having systematized the economical use of water, is enjoying greater promise than ever just now because of extensions being made through that district by the Burlington Union Pacific, and Denver, Laramie & Northwestern railroads. New territories will be opened up, and new progress made. It is estimated that there is left in northern Colorado, tillable land to the extent of 100,000 acres, for which there is practically no irrigation at present. Great new projects are also in process of completion.

The north Colorado district, known as much as it does about irrigation and the value of the National Irrigation Congress, is strongly back of the Eighteenth National Irrigation Congress, Pueblo, September 26-30, and is organizing to make a demonstration as a section at that event, as well as to have a powerful instrumentality when the congress is over, for the benefit of the section.

FAN-FOOD.

Peerless Blues in Albuquerque—Salmon Grays at Home—A Timely Tip to the Fans.

Manager Neils of the Peerless team has just completed the final arrangement with Ban Padilla of the Albuquerque Grays for games in the Duke City on May 29th and 30th. While it was originally planned to play a series of three games with Padilla's bunch, there will be only two in the coming series, Saturday in Albuquerque, not being a day that has proven a money maker. With games on Sunday and Decoration day, however, Padilla is sure to draw a couple of good crowds as the fans of Albuquerque have not seen the Peerless team in its full playing strength this season, and have shown that they want to see the team that hung it onto the Grays here last Sunday.

On Sunday, May 15th, the Peerless bunch were scheduled to wet their new uniforms in Albuquerque for their first game of the season, and the game was advertised extensively in the local and also in the Albuquerque papers. What happened there on the 15th every lover of the sport in Santa Fe remembers. The Taos Indians forced several of the Peerless players to abandon baseball and rush to suppress the "blood thirsty head-hunters" of Taos who proved to be very docile after all and whose only damage was done in keeping several of the boys from Albuquerque on that memorable day. Rather than disappoint the fans who had been wrought up over the coming of the Ancients, by cancelling the game, Manager Neils gathered together a team and went to the Duke City. He was forced to shift Keefe from left field to the third corner and Stanton from center to first, and use substitutes to fill in the outfield. The firm from whom the uniforms were ordered failed to live up to their promise to have the uniforms on hand and the team had to go on the field arrayed in a bunch of clothes that would have made a greater hit in a circus.

The team was naturally upset and the Grays had no trouble whatsoever to take them in tow to the tune of 15-0. It was a sad, sad bunch that returned to Santa Fe that night to face the town that had expected so much of them. After playing the game over in their daily practice at the College grounds, they corrected their mistakes and determined to give the Grays a hard run for it when they came back for a return game in Santa Fe. To those who saw the game at the college last Sunday went the assurance that things were not any where near their normal state in Albuquerque the Sunday before and the Peerless team in the bright new white uniforms turned the tables on Dan and handed him a 4-to-3 package. Truly it was a grand game all throughout the ten innings it took to decide the contest and local fans could ask no more for their money in any town. The spirit of the team must be commended upon as they did not lose heart for a single moment nor let up in their aggressiveness when it seemed that Albuquerque had won in the first half of the tenth inning. The boys knew that it was up to them to win the game if they were to expect any patronage, and the way they fought for that victory will not soon be forgotten by those who witnessed the maiden essay of the team that has set itself up in the face of much opposition and many set-backs. But it is a comer and will come with a shout that will reverberate through the staid hills and fertile valleys of the territory.

Clancy's three base hit and Moore's sacrifice fly to center in the local's half of the tenth last Sunday tied the score for the third time during the game. Then Stanton who had played a brilliant game in the field singled. Pete Berardinelli's terrific smash to right when the game was at its most exciting point, scored Mike with the winning tally, and brought the laurels home in spite of the many who were rooting against Santa Fe. Only one man was out when the winning run was scored.

The fans here who show the spirit of loyalty towards the home team are not many and Sunday's game was marked by the hooting of the home players by home fans. The ball player on the field is not very susceptible to the cheers or jeers of the mob in the grand stand for he realizes that a baseball crowd is the most fickle of all crowds, but he does at least hope for a square deal from the fans of his own city. He realizes that the world loves a winner and despises a loser and consequently he takes the praise showered on him when the team is winning with a grain of salt, as he does the howls of disapproval when luck is against the team or when the team is outclassed. Paid players know the fickleness of the baseball throng much better than the player who plays for the love of the game and for the purpose of giving his town the very best that is in him every time that he steps on the field and hopes only that his team may win—that his town may be pushed to the front. But when he goes onto the field and delivers the best that is in him, plays spectacular baseball against odds, and his team does win, he thinks of the stings that the town he is giving his time and devotion to, has given him. For it must be known that the teams in Santa Fe are not being paid for their services in advertising throughout the greatest medium known to the nation; the players on the teams are giving their spare time and energy towards the building up of a team that can win games in the name of Santa Fe; there is nothing that the players make in the way in a monetary consideration, that they should be hooted and jeered when they are playing winning ball. One would not think of going to a theater when the people of the town have billed a performance by amateurs for the benefit of some worthy cause, and there hoot and hold up to derision the people who have given their time and talents toward the success of the performance. Yet these same people who would be shocked at a show of indecency as described above will go to a ball game and do all in their power to knock the greater institution of the two—namely the superiority of the town over any one of its numerous institutions. Now then brother Fan when you go to a ball game in Santa Fe, where either of the Santa Fe teams is a participant, forget whatever personal feeling you may have toward any of the players and boost for the home team. It is your town as well as your neighbors and if a visiting team comes here and hears the anvil chorus at work as they were last Sunday, ask yourself what their conclusions in regard to the town will be. Some day you will have a paid baseball team here and be in a league where your team will try to defeat all the other teams in the league and win a pennant for you. If you were a ball player, would you want to play in a town where your every effort would only invite ridicule? Would you feel like doing your best to win for a town that would not give you a hand when you had done your work well and deserved it? Would you, I ask you, Brother Fan? Your answer is "No." A little application of the Golden Rule here as well as in other places goes well.

On next Sunday morning at 8 o'clock the Peerless team will leave for Albuquerque and play there on Sunday and Monday. If there are any of the fans who would like to make the trip with the team, Manager Neils has informed the writer that rates will be given by the Santa Fe railroad to parties of ten or more. If, however, the parties are not in groups of ten, whoever desires to go along can get in on the party ticket of the team. A large delegation to the Duke City would look well for Santa Fe as there has always been a keen rivalry between these two towns on the ball field. All the players are in good condition and the games in Albuquerque are being anxiously looked forward to by the whole bunch to further prove to the local fans that that first trimming was a mistake.

On June 5th the Salmon Grays will open the new park in Las Vegas, known as Amusement park and an excursion rate of $2 for the round trip has been announced by the management of the Grays. The first regiment band will accompany the team to Las Vegas.

Now, fans, you have two ball clubs this year to bring joy to your hearts and you owe it to the town to get out and hustle for Santa Fe all the time. There is no animosity between the two teams and both are out for the good of the town. At least twenty-five men out for Santa Fe on the ball lot and it's up to the fans to make them a success. Get the idea, Brother Fan?

As a practice game the Salmon Grays will play the team from the Indian school at the college Sunday. The game will start at 3 o'clock. Hightower and G. Parsons will be in the points for the Grays.

JAILS FILLED WITH SMUGGLED CHINESE.

Seems to Be an Important Industry Along Boundary Line of Mexico in Texas.

San Antonio, Texas, May 28.—Although a bunch of 50 was deported only a few days ago, jails along the border are again being filled with Chinese who have made their entrance into the United States illegally. Already seven have been captured at El Paso and a like number at points between there and Laredo.

Most of the Celestials gain admission to this country by swimming the river at places difficult to guard. Generally this is done under cover of darkness and with the aid of men said to make the smuggling of Chinese a regular business. Any price from $300 up is charged the Chinamen for this service. On reaching American soil they are kept in hiding until an opportunity presents itself for their transport to the larger cities, usually effected by means of box cars. It is claimed that collusion with American freight trainmen makes the latter phase of this illicit traffic possible. A box car intercepted some time ago contained nine Chinamen fully fitted out for a trip to St. Louis, Mo., to which point the car had been billed. The efforts of the immigration authorities to break up the combination making the practice possible have so far not been successful.

Commander Julius A. Pratt Post No. 143, Dept. Ill., G. A. R.

Mr. Isaac Cook, Commander of the above Post, Kewanee, Ill., writes: "For a long time I was bothered with backache and pains across my kidneys. About two months ago I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and soon saw they were doing just as claimed. I kept on taking them and now I am free from backache, and the painful bladder misery is all gone. I like Foley Kidney Pills so well that I have told many of my friends and comrades about them and shall recommend them at every opportunity." Sold by Stripling-Burrows & Co.

IT'S KEEPING THE BOX MAKERS BUSY.

More Than Ten Million Fifty Pound Receptacles for Shipping Required in Northwest Alone.

Spokane, Wash., May 28.—Mills in Spokane and throughout the Inland Empire are working day and night on apple, peach, cherry, plum and berry boxes, more than 10,000,000 of which each holding 50 pounds, will be required to pack the fruit crop in eastern Washington and Oregon, north and central Idaho, western Montana and southeastern British Columbia the coming summer and next fall. Packed with fruit these packages would fill 15,675 freight cars, or 625 trains of 25 cars each. The value of the crop is estimated at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 and may reach a higher figure because of the shortages reported in middle-western states.

Fully 3,000,000 boxes will be delivered to orchardists in the Wenatchee valley in central Washington and it is predicted that not less than 2,500,000 boxes will be used in the Yakima valley. Walla Walla and Okanogan valleys will take up to 1,500,000 boxes while the berry and tree fruit growers in the upper Columbia country say their orchards will run at least 500,000 boxes. A million boxes will be delivered in the Palouse district in southeastern Washington and western Idaho, the Blue mountain country and the Spokane and St. Maries valleys and other nearby points. Other belts in Washington and Oregon have orders in for 1,500,000 boxes.

Reports from the fruit belts in the Clearwater country, in northern Idaho and the Bitter Root country, in western Montana, are that the outlook is bright for record yields of apples and other fruits and predictions are made that the apple crop this year will be the largest in the history of the country, also that records will be made in peaches and cherries. Growers in the southeastern part of the province of British Columbia report that every indication is that the apple crop will be larger this year than ever before in the history of the industry.

WILL LINE GREAT ROAD WITH FRUIT TREES.

Washington Adopts German Idea in Constructing a Thirty Mile Highway 60 Feet Wide.

Spokane, Wash., May 28.—Work has been started on the great Apple Way between Spokane and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, through the Spokane valley, 30 miles, and J. A. Perry, secretary of the Spokane County Good Roads Association, which is doing the building in conjunction with the Commercial Club of Coeur d'Alene, says the new highway will be completed early in September. The road will be 60 feet wide and lined on both sides with apple and other fruit trees, interspersed with English elm trees and a fountain for men and beast at intervals of a mile.

The preliminary work on the road will cost $1,500 a mile or about $300,000 when macadamized. The last named pavement will not be built until there is need for it, as the highway is a natural one and may not require artificial paving in the next 10 years. The fruit trees will be cared for by residents in the valley under the direction of a competent orchardist and the water will be furnished free of charge for irrigation and fountain purposes by companies operating in the district. The road has been designated a state highway, so it cannot be crossed on grade by railroad companies seeking entrance to the two cities mentioned.

CROP OUTLOOK IN SOUTHWEST TEXAS BETTER THAN EVER.

San Antonio, Texas, May 28.—With practically a week's rain in the ground crop prospects in southwest Texas are the best in twenty years. It has been ascertained that the hailstorm that visited the San Antonio country was not as severe as was believed at first, the damage done by it being confined to small localities. A bumper crop in everything is assured and the railroads are even now making arrangements for the many cars that will be needed. The rains in some parts of the country reached the tremendous volume of 8.2 inches in five days.

TRUTH NO. 18

Day has dawned! Everything is booming
The day has been set for a new age

THE way of the world is to throw up its greasy nightcap for the fellow who wins, but never to help him win—to down him if possible—rather like the genii in the Arabian tale, the world will make a slave of you unless you make the world your slave. But mark! when the world makes its slave it destroys you: when you make it your slave, you make your fortune! Now make the world your slave by making it produce oil, California oil, for you. Isn't this the wisest plan ever suggested?

We call your attention to a fact of signal importance to yourself. There are two positions in life for you.

You must follow your own dictation and be independent, or you must follow the path laid before you by some member of the old school and follow the old rut, and mayhap still drive a delivery wagon.

Knowing as we do, that you are to be independent is our reason for addressing you. Listen and we will tell you how to gain that independence. First, make your money work for you.

Second, save from the money that you earn from the money that works for you, and make that work too.

Third, save from the savings from the money that you earn from the money of that money that works for you and make that work also.

Everyone knows that very little can be done from the interest that one receives from the savings banks. Therefore a better means of investment. Something that is safe yet earning large dividends.

And it is of this that we are about to talk.

Surely you wouldn't care for a better investment than California Oil.

Investors in the East derive the paltry sum of three and one-half cents on their hard-earned dollar for its use for one year, while the stockholders in the same bank paying 3 1-2 per cent to the depositors receive no less than 140 per cent on their dollar invested in the stock of the bank, during the same year. These figures are taken from the actual report of the directors of one of the wealthiest banks in New York City, and any one who wishes to know the truth of it can easily enough determine it on the commercial sheets when the dividends are declared. And the dividends so declared are largely derived from money invested in California; more often than not in the oil industry of the so-called "Golden State." Being interested almost solely in oil, from which vast fortunes are realized yearly, we would like to make a statement of the reasons why we believe that oil affords today greater chances for gigantic, legitimate returns on investments than any other industry.

In the first place, oil is the great fuel of the Pacific Coast. Two and one-half barrels of oil are equal of one ton of coal in thermal units. In other words, the same amount of heat can be obtained from 2 1-2 barrels of oil as can be obtained from one ton of coal. But the difference in price is very great. Coal, producing the same amount of heat per ton as 2 1-2 barrels of oil, costs anywhere from $6 to $8 per ton wholesale. Two and one-half barrels of oil figured at the market delivery price of $1 per barrel, costs $2.50—a saving of from $3.50 to $5.50 on every ton of coal displaced by oil. Under the circumstances it would be impossible that any other fuel could be obtained which could displace oil, and, such being the case, we have a guaranteed consumption from every railroad on the coast as long as the oil fields hold out. From government reports we may not expect exhaustion until some future generation. Here is the firmest kind of foundation upon which an industry could be laid; an absolutely assured consumption.

The wheels of industry must turn, and at the lowest possible cost, with point, economy is the utilization of labor leads us to the next consideration, namely: Money saved commercial companies in wages, which would be necessary with the use of any other fuel.

Experiments have demonstrated the fact that it costs four times as much to load a car with coal as it does to fill a tank car with oil. Probably 75 tons would be a very high average car load of coal; fifty tons would be nearer the general average. It requires two tons of coal to do the same work as one ton of oil. At this rate it has been figured out that it would take six car loads of coal to do the work of one car load of oil! So much for space.

The advantages of the uses of oil have been so greatly appreciated that within the last very few years, in Los Angeles county alone, over 5,000 factories have adopted it. As coal consumers they could not possibly have existed.

In Northern California the use of oil is becoming more and more general. Flats, apartment houses, homes, business blocks, hotels, factories, mills and power houses use oil for fuel. Its cleanliness, its economy in the matter of space, its actual dollar-saving capacity, combine to make it the ideal fuel of fuels.

A general demand is being felt in all of the fields for enough oil to supply the foreign as well as the home markets. Russia is a large consumer of oil. Japan is reported to be about to remove the duty imposed over a year ago on our oil and by that means to revive a very fair-sized foreign market. In China, our oil, in a refined state, is very largely used, indeed. An official of the Standard Oil Company recently informed the writer that the high-grade light oils of Sumatra were cutting into our Mongolian trade very considerably on account of their market for it; but the American oil consumed by China is an enormous quantity.

Our own provinces consume a great deal of the product, and with oiling stations for the navy, we may expect an unprecedented activity among producers to supply our distant oiling stations, as they can barely keep up with the demand now.

For four thousand miles and more up and down the Pacific Coast line California oil is transported and burned. From Nome to Valparaiso and from as far east as the Rockies, west to ultimate Siberia perennially clad in snow and ice, as well as from the southern runs of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe Railroad Companies to the palm isles of the Orient, more California oil is carried for consumption. To be financially interested in the oil business is to have an added prestige given you by business men the world over, and is just cause for pride in one's common sense.

In the matter of intelligence used by those interested in the oil business was recently said by a writer in the Petroleum World (London) that the greatest aggregation of brains ever got together was behind the oil industry. The constructive genius of the officials of the great Standard Oil Company was held up and lauded, and the business methods of a great British enterprise suffered severely by comparison.

The richness of the industry in California is rarely appreciated by the outsider who carelessly reads an article like the present one. There are several reasons for this, among them being the magnitude of the industry, the millions upon millions of dollars invested and the general inability to grasp what has not been seen with the eyes. He has not viewed the oil fields; he has not seen the remarkable forest of derricks at steady old Kern River, nor driven down the country road in "Wonderful Coalinga;" knows little or nothing of marvelous Midway, with its gushers, and has probably evinced little interest in the other fields of the state, although people are so clamorous for news of the oil world today that the most phenomenal boom in oil in the history of California is in progress now.

A sight of the million dollar refineries, of the miles and miles of pipe lines which discharge oil drawn from the fields at tidewater, and a knowledge of the engineering feats performed for this transportation; a few views of great storage tanks and pumps would probably revise a few notions of the uninformed on the oil situation in California.

It is most probable, however, that a glance at the dividend sheets which appear with solar regularity every month, showing that nearly a million dollars is paid out, while some companies do not make public their dividends to swell the amount, would doubtless quicken the appreciation of the uninterested man and would tend to show him what the oil business of California means to those financially interested.

It means, if interested, in a good company whose stock is handled by reliable financial agents a steady income; oftentimes a thousand per cent on the original investment. This amount of money has been realized by no small number of men in this state, and outside of this state, men interested in California's oil fields have done as well. The trouble is, generally, that it is almost too good to be believed, and skeptical persons lose the chance of a lifetime merely because they will not take the trouble to investigate. "Merely another California tale," is the way they put it. And they are right—it IS another California tale, with millions of dollars to prove its truth.

In closing we wish to say that we believe the time will come very soon when oil shares will be at a premium and that the boom now started will sweep the whole country. While not in the predicting business, it is easy enough for us to speak what is an undoubted fact.

The California National Crude Oil Company owns several thousand acres of oil lands in the wonderful Coalinga District, which they will develop and are selling stock at 50 cents per share to carry on the developing work.

This Company is organized on a sound basis, with 80 per cent of the stock in the treasury. You have seen the stock advance from 40 cents to 50 cents, why wait until it advances again, buy this stock now and save money. Don't wait until tomorrow. DO IT NOW. You can easily see the reason why you should invest in an oil company. Now the question arises: Which Company? Well, the company that should interest you is the California National Crude Oil Company.
