ROADS IN BETTER CONDITION

Split-Log Drag of Great Service in Keeping Thoroughfares in Shape—How It is Built.

The use of the split-log drag is important in putting the roads in shape. There are over 2,000,000 miles of earth roads in the country, and the split-log drag is of great service in keeping them in economical repair. The drag is used in many states and in foreign countries. It is used with two, three, or four horses, and is easily constructed.

It is a mistake to construct a heavy drag. A dry red cedar log is the best material for a drag. Red elm and walnut when thoroughly dried are excellent, and box elder, soft maple, or even willow are preferable to oak, hickory or ash.

The log should be seven or eight feet long, and from ten to twelve inches in diameter, and carefully split down the middle. The heaviest and best slabs should be selected for the front. At a point on the front slab four inches from the end that is to be at the middle of the road locate the center of the hole to receive a cross stake, and 22 inches from the other end of the front slab locate the center for another cross stake. The hole for the middle stake will lie on a line connecting and halfway between the other two.

The back slab should then be placed in a position behind the other. From the end at the middle of the road measure 20 inches for the center of the cross stake, and six inches from the other end locate the center of the outside stake. Find the center of the middle hole as before. When these holes are brought opposite each other, one end of the back slab will lie 16 inches nearer the center of the roadway than the front one. The holes should be two inches in diameter. Care must be taken to hold the auger plumb in boring these holes in order that the stakes shall fit properly.

The two slabs should be held 30 inches apart by the stakes. The stakes should taper gradually toward the ends. There should be no shoulder at the point where the stakes enter the slab. The stakes should be fastened in place by wedges only. When the stakes have been placed in position and tightly wedged a brace two inches thick and four inches wide should be placed diagonally to them at the ditch end. The brace should be dropped on the front slab, so that its lower edge shall lie within an inch of the ground, while the other end should rest in the angle, between the slab and the end stake. A strip of iron about three and one-half feet long, three or four inches wide, and one-half of an inch thick may be used for the blade.

An ordinary trace chain is strong enough to draw the implement, provided the clevis is not fastened through a link. The chain should be wrapped around the rear stake, then passed over the front slab. Raising the chain at this end of the slab allows the earth to drift past the face of the drag. The other end of the chain should be passed through the hole in the end of the slab.

Make-Up of Dairy Cow.

A wide, deep and full barrel or side is very important in a dairy cow. She must have plenty of room in which to manufacture milk from food and a large barrel indicates large digestive organs. A wide mouth and long, strong jaws also indicate that Bossy is, like Bill Nye, "fond of food." She ought also to have a large belly and moderately high flank.

"CASCARETS" ACT ON LIVER; BOWELS

No sick headache, biliousness, bad taste or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box. Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and fowl gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cents a box from your store. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipation. Adv.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Don't Look Old! Try Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Gray, Faded, Lifeless Hair.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known druggist says every body uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Adv.

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

They Are Closely Observing Public Health Conditions.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

According to this it would seem that a medicine for the kidneys, possessing real healing and curative properties, would be a blessing to thousands.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., who prepare Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the well-known kidney, liver and bladder remedy, claim that judging from evidence received from druggists everywhere, who are constantly in touch with their customers, and also indisputable proof in the form of grateful testimonial letters from thousands of reliable citizens, this preparation is remarkably successful in sickness caused by kidney and bladder troubles. Every interesting statement they receive regarding Swamp-Root is investigated and no testimonial is published unless the party who sends it is reported of good character. They have on file many sworn statements of recoveries in the most distressing cases. They state that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is mild and gentle in its action and its healing influence is soon noticed in most cases.

Swamp-Root is purely an herbal compound and Dr. Kilmer & Co. advise all readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes—50c. and $1.00. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

PREPARING FOR FALL GRAINS

Getting Moisture into Soil and Safely Stored in Something Often Neglected on Dry Farms.

The most important part in soil moisture conservation, the most important factor in dry farming, and the one which has been most greatly neglected by our western farmers, is getting the rainwater into the ground and safely stored or conserved in the subsoil, where it may be drawn upon by the growing crop, writes A. M. Ten Eyck in Denver Field and Farm. The firming and pulverizing of the soil to restore capillarity and the cultivation to maintain the soil mulch are each without avail unless there has been stored in the deep soil a sufficient amount of moisture to support the growing crop in time of drought. The plan of producing a mulch to conserve the moisture in the soil has been more or less successfully practiced for many years; but in a very dry year this method failed because there was no moisture stored in the soil to be conserved by cultivation.

The moisture should be stored at all times during the season, but especially during the interval between harvest and planting. The plan should be, in the beginning of the preparation of the seed bed, to put the soil in the most favorable condition to receive the rain and carry it downward into the subsoil. This is provided by disking soon after harvest, or late in the fall, or early in the spring. Deep plowing a long time before planting, leaving the soil mellow and rough, enlarges the water reservoir, and favors the absorption of heavy rains. But the best plan of storing moisture is to list the soil in deep furrows and high ridges soon after harvest, or in the fall after the corn or kafir corn is cut. If this work cannot be accomplished in the fall winter listing or early spring listing is desirable.

In preparing the land for winter wheat one plan is to list the ground with the ordinary corn lister as soon after harvest as possible. The lister furrows are run about three and a half feet apart, very much the same as when planting corn. Later when the weed seeds have germinated the soil is worked back into the listed furrows by means of a harrow and disk cultivator. Several cultivations are usually required with the spike tooth or disk harrow in order to leave the field and bring it into good seed bed condition. Once over with the disk cultivator is sufficient to fill the furrows, the further work necessary to prepare the seed bed being given with the common harrow.

DEPTH FOR PLANTING CORN

The moisture content is the greatest of the factors determining the depth at which to plant corn, according to Cecil Salmon of the crops department of the Kansas State Agricultural college. The warmth of the ground and the type of soil upon which the planting is done also help determine the depth at which the corn should be planted. This depth may vary from one to four inches.

As a rule, corn planted early in the season should not be covered so deeply as that planted later. There are two reasons for this, says Mr. Salmon. One reason is that the surface of the soil does not dry out so quickly early in the season, and therefore it is not necessary to plant deeply in order to get the corn in moist earth; the other is that early in the season the soil is not warm to a great depth, and of course it is not wise to plant down in cold soil.

Corn should be planted more deeply in a light, loose soil than in a soil that is heavy and compact. The reason for this is that the light soil will dry out faster and warm up more readily than the heavy soils.

In regions where listing is the general practice, the same rule applies, and the furrows should not be made so deep early in the season as may be done later.

CHEAPEST PAINT FOR FARM

Whitewash May Be Used for Exterior or Interior Surfaces—Recipe for Weatherproof Mixture.

Whitewash is the cheapest of all paints for farm purposes and may be used either for exterior or interior surfaces. It can be made by slaking about ten pounds of quicklime in a pail with two gallons of water, covering the pail with cloth or burlap, and allowing it to slake for one hour. Water is then added to bring the whitewash to a consistency which may be applied readily.

A waterproof whitewash for exterior surfaces may be made as follows: (1) Slake 1 bushel of quicklime in 12 gallons of hot water; (2) dissolve 2 pounds of common salt and 1 pound of sulphate of zinc in 2 gallons of boiling water; pour (2) into (1), then add 2 gallons of skim milk and mix thoroughly. Whitewash is spread lightly over the surface with a broad brush.

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK UGH! IT'S MERCURY AND SALIVATES

Straighten Up! Don't Lose a Day's Work! Clean Your Sluggish Liver and Bowels With "Dodson's Liver Tone."

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. Take a dose of the vile, dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you feel sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store or dealer and get a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful tonight and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it cannot salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

MAY BE COFFEE That Causes all the Trouble

When the house is a-fire, it's about the same as when disease begins to show, it's no time to talk but time to act—delay is dangerous—remove the cause of the trouble at once.

"For a number of years," wrote a Kansas lady, "I felt sure that coffee was hurting me, and yet I was so fond of it, I could not give it up. At last I got so bad that I made up my mind I must either quit the use of coffee or die."

"Everything I ate distressed me, and I suffered severely most of the time with palpitation of the heart. I frequently woke up in the night with the feeling that I was almost gone—my heart seemed so smothered and weak in its action. My breath grew short and the least exertion set me panting. I slept but little and suffered from rheumatism."

"Two years ago I stopped using the coffee and began to use Postum and from the very first I began to improve. It worked a miracle! Now I can eat anything and digest it without trouble. I sleep like a baby, and my heart beats strong and regularly. My breathing has become steady and normal, and my rheumatism has left me."

"I feel like another person, and it is all due to quitting coffee and using Postum, for I haven't used any medicine and none would have done any good as long as I kept drugging with coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious, and cost per cup about the same. "There's a Reason" for Postum.

BROUGHT BACK NATURAL HEALTH

The Facts About an Interesting Case Of Serious Female Trouble Benefited By The Use of Cardui.

Walnut Cove, N. C.—Mrs. E. A. Rothrock, of this town, says: "About two years ago I was in very bad health for three or four months."

At this time I had a serious female trouble, which lasted severely for nine weeks. I got awfully weak and could scarcely go, and my doctor said I ought to be in bed.

My two sisters, who had used Cardui with good results and who now use it as a tonic, recommended it highly to me, saying it is a fine medicine.

I felt if I lived I must have something to help me, and as other medicines had failed to relieve me, I thought I would try Cardui, the woman's tonic. At this time I was almost skin and bones.

I seemed to improve after the use of the second bottle of Cardui. The trouble stopped. I suffered less pain, and began to get back my strength and health. I took five more bottles and got back my natural state of health, also my flesh, and could do my work easily.

This spring I was run down in health; had over-worked myself. I took nearly three bottles of Cardui, as a tonic, and it brought me back to my natural state of health.

Last week I put up 78 jars of fruit, which I could not have done before taking Cardui. I am glad I heard of it, and I hope other women will, too."

Your case may not be as bad as the above, but even if only a mild case, we suggest that you begin today to try Cardui, the woman's tonic.—Adv.

IF BACK HURTS CLEAN KIDNEYS WITH SALTS

Drink Lots of Water and Stop Eating Meat for a While if the Bladder Bothers You.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Speaker Clark Robs Congressmen of Pleasures

WASHINGTON.—"And while the chair is about it, he will suggest that it is a good thing for members to keep their feet down from the tops of the seats." Thus spake Speaker Clark, scolding his colleagues as a schoolmaster chides errant children. Some of the house members were violating house rules by smoking in the chamber, despite the rigorous censorship on smoking upheld by the doorkeeper and his minions. Speaker Clark, himself a strict observer of the house rules in every sense of the word, rose upon the rostrum, gavel in hand, at the close of a vote on one of the bills and said:

"Before taking up the next bill the chair desires to make a statement. The rules of the house prohibit smoking inside this hall. Complaint has been made more than once about the violation of this rule. Now there is plenty of space outside for gentlemen to smoke. "And while the chair is about it, he will suggest it is a good thing for members to keep their feet down from the tops of seats." Thus he robs members of one of the pleasures of legislative life. The seats are comfortable and the back of the chair in front is just the place to rest a pair of No. 11's. Members from the West seem to have taken to the practice of placing feet on the backs of chairs just as readily as they would hang them on the railing of the country hotel back home. People from all over the world have seen congressional feet on the tops of chair seats and have gone away, noting in their travelogue diaries that it is one of the sights of the American legislature. Hereafter it will be a bold congressman (or a new one) who will dare to rest his brogans on the chair of the fellow in front of him.

Little White House Baby Poses for His Picture

ON the day when Francis Sayre, the eleventh baby born in the White House, was a week old he was presented with an effigy of a Princeton tiger, that he might be influenced in his youth toward seeking an education within the institution recently under the guidance of his famous grandfather. Then he was furnished with a neat little pair of boxing gloves, that, as his granddad the president said, he might learn to "strike out for himself" in due season. Next came to the White House a serviceable pair of blue jean overalls that he might ever be reminded that he is to be one of the great mass of working people on whom the welfare of the republic depends. He posed for the camera as evidence that he and his relatives appreciate the fact that he is a real White House baby and that all the people of the United States are interested in him.

These pictures were intended only for distribution among members of the presidential family. When the photographers got their opportunity they took many snaps at the defenseless infant. That's a pretty good record for one week for any baby that hasn't yet learned to make a speech, that isn't yet inured to the customary White House habit of being interviewed regularly, but he's growing. That much may be admitted on no less authority than that of the president himself. Of course the youngster started with a handicap. Everyone thought naturally that he would be named after his distinguished grandfather, but grandfather had something to say about that. He wanted to give the little fellow a "square deal," and start even with the world, so he was finally named Francis Sayre. Though there have been eleven White House babies, all of whom have prospered, there was but one child of a president born within the executive mansion. That was Miss Esther Cleveland.

Secretary Daniels Is Proud of These Five Middies

SECRETARY DANIELS has received from the naval academy at Annapolis a photograph of which he is extremely proud. Those to whom he displayed it at the navy department were willing to bet that the picture represented a quintette of middies at the academy. The secretary admitted that they were middies, full-fledged, and possessed of all the other qualifications and prerogatives of any other midshipmen, and yet they were different, in the sense that these five middies had won their way into the academy by competitive examination from the ranks of the enlisted personnel of the naval service. They were the first five enlisted men to enter the naval academy from the ranks of the navy under the newly enacted law of 1914, which permits 15 enlisted men to enter the academy from the service every year.

The enlisted men who may be admitted to the academy under this law must be citizens of the United States, not over twenty years of age, they must have served at least one year in the navy, and they are subject to the same physical and mental examinations as are required for all other nominees, presidential and congressional. They are obliged to conform to the standards in every respect, and are subject after their admission to the same rules and regulations as apply to all other midshipmen. The naval appropriation bill was not passed by the senate until June 2, 1914. The examinations for enlisted men were held on August 3, 1914, just two months later. In view of the limited time that candidates had to prepare for the examinations, it is regarded as gratifying that as many as five candidates succeeded in meeting all the requirements. By the time the next examination is held, April 5, 1915, candidates will have had additional time in which to prepare, and it is expected that the number of candidates will be greatly increased.

Would Not Break Rule for President's Daughter

EVERY employee and a large number of the members of the house are talking today about the nerve displayed by a capitol elevator man named Kenner in refusing to allow Mrs. McAdoo, wife of the secretary of the treasury, to ride in his car. The elevator runs in a shaft on the outside of which, on every floor, is a sign reading: "Exclusively for members of congress and the press."

Mrs. McAdoo, accompanied by several friends, approached the elevator on the gallery floor and rang the bell. Kenner, the elevator man, pulled the car up from the main floor, but he saw in the group of waiting visitors neither a member of congress nor a newspaper man. "You cannot ride in this car," he said, refusing to open the gate. "Why not?" asked one of the men in the party. Kenner pointed to the sign. "But you don't understand," said the spokesman. "This is the party of Mrs. McAdoo, daughter of the president and wife of the secretary of the treasury." "Yes, I do understand; I know Mrs. McAdoo every time I see her; but my orders from the speaker of this house are to obey that sign." With that he jerked the controller back and the car sank to its resting place on the main floor. Mrs. McAdoo's party then descended in a neighboring public elevator.

CHANGES IN COATS FEW OF LATEST CUT AND DESIGN

ADOPTED STYLES WILL BE CARRIED INTO SPRING.

Separate Wraps Will Rely on Fabrics for Differences in Effects—Serges of All Weaves and Finishes in Favor.

The generally adopted lines of narrow shoulder and wide skirt will be carried into spring, and the separate coats will rely on the fabrics for any change in effect. Which material will you have? There are the new covert cloths that have always stood the tests of time, and return from time to time after a little rest. The suits of this material have been such good friends that the separate coats are to profit from their example. Covert cloths in tan and green will be in vogue. Serges of all finishes and weaves will be in high favor. Those in dark blue and green and all shades of brown will be in order. They will be matched in the color of braid and wooden buttons and trimmed with these practical materials.

Gabardines will also be in good standing for the new coats. This material is good in color, and has a wearing quality that is a desideratum when topcoats are considered. Novelty worsteds and woollens in light weights will be made in sports coats and topcoats for the informal hours. The raglan sleeve and high belt line will be in evidence and will be of leather, suede cloth or soft suede. Checks and broken plaid effects are to be used, and the trimming will be in a color that repeats the shade of one thread in the weave.

Two Costumes in Which Wearer May Be Assured She is Thoroughly Up-to-Date.

Walking Costume.—For fine cloth or serge, our smart model is well suited. It has the skirt made with a plain lower part and deep-pleated tunic. The coat is short and loose-fitting and has the lower part set on with wrapped seam; satin is used to face the collar and cuffs. Hat of straw to match, trimmed with ribbon and little wings. Materials required: Seven yards 46 inches wide, one-half yard satin 22 inches wide, two yards coat lining 40 inches wide.

Tweed Costume.—Gray tweed checked with green would be very useful for country wear made up in this style.

The skirt is a two-piece pattern with wrapped seam at left side front and right of back.

The loose sports coat has Magyar shoulders, with sleeves set into a double stitched seam. The collar is of the same material cut in a different way; it is stitched twice round the edge. Collar and cuffs of plain green cloth; a very large button fastens the belt; smaller ones are sewn on the cuffs.

Gray felt hat, trimmed with green velvet and a small mount. Material required for the costume: Five yards 46 inches wide.

USE ALCOHOL ON THE HAIR

Especially if It is Apt to Get Dusty and Unmanageable Is This Recommended.

If the hair is dusty and unmanageable after a journey of any sort, try using alcohol to make it fluffy. The alcohol will dry in a few moments and the hair will be ready then to arrange. Many women who have taken a railroad journey of several hours' duration to a wedding or dance have found their hair, owing to the heat and dust of the journey, quite heavy and dirty, and have despaired of getting it in shape in time for the festivities. A shampoo takes too long to be indulged in while one is dressing—and sometimes it leaves the hair too fluffy for immediate managing.

To get back to the alcohol treatment. Part the hair and rub a little alcohol on a piece of gauze on the scalp until it is free from dust. Then rub the hair about the brows and ears and the nape of the neck with the alcohol. Of course, it should first have been brushed as free as possible from dust. Then let the hair hang loosely until the alcohol has dried out. The hair will be light and fluffy.

PANTALETS UNDER SKIRT

This striking gown might have stepped from a daguerrotype of the forties, but it will actually be worn at a pre-lenten dance. The skirt, a quaint shirred and twisted affair of gold-colored taffeta with a tucked ruffle, is lifted to show the pantalets of ruffled tulle. The bodice is exceedingly negligible, a wisp of tulle over the shoulder and short puffed sleeves of taffeta being all there is to it.

GOOD USE FOR THE EYELET

May Be Employed Effectively in Many Ways—Example in a Recent Centerpiece.

The eyelet 's quite as accommodating as the French knot, and can be used effectively for so many different designs, varying in size from a mere transparent point to the size of the natural grape, although the necessity for the latter size is rare. An up-to-the-minute art needlework shop recently showed an effective centerpiece of blackberries and their foliage. The blackberries instead of being done in the usual French knot stitch, were formed of eyelets, the tiniest kind. The eyelets changed the centerpiece from a rather commonplace design to one of distinct individuality, and the sales person back of the counter said the store couldn't keep enough of the designs in stock. It is sometimes necessary for the blackberries to have their dots spread farther apart for the eyelets than for the knots, although it must be remembered that the eyelets are of the tiniest and that fine thread and a fine needle are used in the working of them.

The California pepper design is also displayed to best advantage when worked in eyelets instead of solid stitch.

A centerpiece with a grape border is ten times as effective in eyelet work for the grapes as when the grapes are worked in solid stitch or outline. Huckleberries and mulberries should also be worked in eyelets. Remember that if the eyelet edges are worked too heavily the artistic effect desired in such designs is lost. Flower centers may often be eyeleted instead of worked solidly or in French knots, and there are ever so many other designs which eyelets will enhance.

BEST OF BRAIDED RAG RUGS

Good Effect is Easily Attainable by Woman With Skill and Proper Sense of Color.

Everyone would have one or more braided rag rugs if they knew how much they are admired. Braided with four strands, using only two colors, two strands black (old stockings are fine), with two of some color, make a nice rug. To sew, cut braid any length desired and sew with a strong thread to within about two inches of each end, letting this be for a fringe. When sewed together, each color forms a stripe. To make the stripe run one way always begin braiding by putting first strand over; to make stripe run the opposite direction begin braiding by putting the first strand under. Lacking enough of any two colors, use different colors in braids for the outer rows, or if it is hit or miss sew all light ones together and all dark ones together, then use two strands of each. As you work you will be able to plan many ways of braiding the colors that you have.

Interesting Coats.

There are some interesting imported coats made of big shawls or steamer rugs, with fringe around the bottom and edging the cape section that falls over the sleeves, or sometimes edging the wide collar instead.

GET EGGS IN WINTER CAUTION IN BUYING A HORSE

Nothing More Satisfying Than Thrifty Laying Hens.

Fowls Should Be Kept Comfortable and Fed Regularly—Keep Pure Water Before Them Always—Clean Quarters Essential.

(By M. CHANDLER.) There is no profit in keeping poultry in winter without eggs, and nothing that brings more satisfaction, or better returns than good, thrifty, laying hens.

Some seem to have the knack of getting eggs in winter, while others are forever complaining. To be successful, one must use judgment. No fool can succeed in this line of business.

Laying hens should have the best of attention. They should be kept comfortable both night and day, and fed regularly on clean food, and pure water should be kept ever before them. Plenty of fresh air, sunshine, and clean quarters are absolutely necessary to the production of winter eggs.

Many make the mistake of having too many windows. The fowls gather in the sunshine during the day and get too warm, and consequently feel the night chill more. There should be at least one large window on the south side and one in the east side, but it should be so arranged that the fowls cannot get nearer to them than a distance of two feet at least. See to it that there are no cracks to admit the wind at night, but remember that a little outside air, during the day, when the fowls are moving about, is a good thing.

It is an excellent thing to have a gate or lath door that reaches from top to bottom of the doorway, and during the day open the door and set up the lath door, and button it on with wooden buttons.

You will see how quickly the fowls will get to the fresh air and shake out their feathers. It is well to have a good supply of fresh litter with small grain thrown into it, at hand to keep them busy. There is little danger of their getting a chill, even on very cold days.

One of the most essential things I know of for success with winter egg-raising is to have everything perfectly dry. Dampness and thrift never dwell together. Never give water in troughs, for in this manner too much of it gets emptied. The best method for watering fowls that I have ever tried is stone milk crocks.

ENCOURAGE THE HIRED MAN

Harmony Is Best to Secure Best Results From Farm Laborer—Mean Boss Won't Do.

On our farm, where I worked we had 40 cows to milk morning and night. Two of us to do the work under a boss who was mean, fault-finding and dictatorial, and who always thought we were not accomplishing what we should and also always had on tap some work for us to attack before we were properly through with what we were then doing. He watched our every move, routed us out at four o'clock in the morning and saw to it that it was eight or nine o'clock at night before we were through. We were supplied with candles for retfiring, which were usually short enough to burn out within half an hour after going to our sleeping quarters. Indisposition on the part of any workman was no excuse, pay being deducted for time spent on the sick list, and never, while I was there, was there any sympathy shown or any attempt made to help a man recover. Such a boss loses more in consequence through lack of interest and from carelessness in the performance of the work on the part of his help than is compensated by the extra work done for the satisfaction, to him, of having goaded his men as far as lay in his power. The men became listless and shiftless, feeling that no matter how hard or conscientiously they worked the boss was never satisfied. To obtain the best united effort of all the men there must be harmony or the disgruntled ones will soon turn away the man who is a good worker, and who tries conscientiously to do his best.—A Hired Man.

PROPER CARE OF HEN'S NEST

Eggs Should Be Gathered Often to Prevent Chilling and Breakage—Keep Fowls Comfortable.

If the weather is cold the eggs should be gathered several times a day, so there will be no chance of their being chilled, as this would injure their keeping qualities. If gathered often there is also less chance of their being broken and the hens learning to eat them. When the hens are confined in the house and a small yard, they are more likely to quarrel over the nests and scratch them out, and if the nest has several eggs in it they are then sure to be broken.

As soon as an egg is broken the hens will eat it, and after a few times they will have acquired the egg-eating habit. The only sure cure for this is the ax.

Keep the nest clean and supplied with plenty of soft straw or hay. Break up the straw with the hands before putting in the nest. The comfort of the hens should be considered on the nest as well as anywhere else.

Strong Hen Stands Molting.

A strong hen usually shows very little effects of molting. She does not lose as many feathers as a weak one and molting does not leave her weak or emaciated.

Big Mares Are Needed.

No matter how big the jack may be he cannot sire large draft mules from the ordinary run of mares common on the majority of farms.

Take No Man's Word for Worth of Animal—Let Your Own Eye Be Your Sole Guaranty.

If you want to buy a horse, take no man's word for the animal. Your own eyes is your guaranty. Don't buy a horse in harness. Take everything off but the halter and have him led around. If he has any falling you should see it.

Let him walk by himself. If he walks right into anything you will know he has trouble with his eyes. No matter how clear and bright the latter may seem, the animal cannot see.

Back him, too. Some horses show their weaknesses and tricks in that way, when they don't in any other. But smart as you may be, you'll get stuck sometimes.

A horse may look over so nice and go at a great pace, and yet have fits, and there isn't a man who can foretell this. Something must happen to bring it out. Also, he may have a weak back or, if he is balky, off he goes for a mile or two, then all of a sudden stops on the road. After a rest he starts again, but soon stops for good, and nothing but a steam derrick will start him.

ESSENTIAL FOR LAYING HENS

It is of Much Importance That Ample Supply of Grit and Lime Be Kept Before Fowls Always.

A poor hen never lays. She must have surplus fat to make the yolk. The old theory that hens do not lay because they are too fat is no longer believed, as it has been found out that as the yolk is composed of fat, it follows that she must have more fat than she needs to keep up her condition to produce eggs.

But unless you keep them supplied with something with which to grind up their food in order to make it into eggs, all your grain and labor are an absolute waste. They must have grit, good, sharp grit. Keep a box filled and always before them of cracked china, sand and oyster shells, of equal parts.

Lime, too, is quite as necessary, as the shell of an egg is composed of lime. A box of air-slaked lime should be kept always at hand. One should have a barrel or so of it on hand every fall, and use it freely about the hen house. Sprinkle it beneath their perches after cleaning out each morning, and always keep in the nest-boxes to absorb the dampness.

When the nights are very cold, it is a good plan to heat the grain very hot in the oven before feeding, and always remember to feed early enough so that they can see to get it.

A hot mash made of Indian meal and some kind of small grain, and wet up with hot water is good for breakfast now and then. Feed on long boards so that all can get their share. If the hens do not seem to be taking enough grit supply, put a few handfuls of it in the mash; a little red pepper, too, will warm them up.

Remember, the hens are early risers, and do not keep them waiting for their breakfast if you want them, to fill the egg basket. They will repay all such courtesy.

HUNGARY'S GUARDIAN MOUNTAINS

OF the Carpathian mountains and their bearing on the European situation and upon central European climatic conditions, the National Geographic society's bulletin says:

The Carpathians are among the best friends which Hungary has. They stretch in a wide-fung arc around the northern plain of the Magyar, from Pressburg, on the Danube, near Vienna, to Orsova, on the Danube, across from Roumania. Thus they form nearly the entire boundary of Hungary east and north of the Danube, a line of about eight hundred miles in length. The hollow of this arc, as well as its most favorable approach, lies toward Hungary. Troops pressing forward along this whole convex mountain sweep, are facing the least favorable passes and are operating with the least shelter from the biting winter.

Besides having served the peoples who have lived in the Hungarian plain long and faithfully as a first-line defense against the wrath of their neighbors in the north and east, the Carpathians have been just as partisan for the southern plain in times of peace. They shut out the stinging, bleak winds which snap across the steppe wastes direct from the frostiest ice fields of the North. While the Carpathian range is of low average height and has no great peaks, its walls, nevertheless, are lofty enough to catch the Russian ice winds and blizzards, and to deflect them away from Hungary. Again, in summer, the warm southern breezes are caught and broken on the Hungarian hillsides, which thus prevent them from reaching Galicia.

Nearly All in Austria-Hungary. The Carpathians are the eastern wing of the great central mountain system of Europe, and, likely, one of beautiful lakes have been discovered, which the Hungarians have named the "eyes of the sea." The irregularity of cliff and gorge and the beauty of these deep highland lakes are the chief scenic advantage of the Carpathians. There are no glaciers, no patches of perennial snow in the system. However, many of the higher peaks are great, ugly masses of bald rock and rock erosion.

Mecca of the Slavonians.

The National Geographic society gives the following description of Czenstochowa, which has figured in the campaign in Poland:

Czenstochowa, called by the Germans Czestochowa, a city in Russian Poland, is one of the foremost Meccas of the pilgrimage-going Slavonians. More than western Christians of whatever creed go to Jerusalem, more than Roman Catholics go to Rome or protestants to Eisenach and Geneva, do the Slavonians take up the pilgrim's staff and wander to their holy places. These people of the North are akin to the people of India in that force of their religion which drives them from their homes on religious pilgrimage.

Famed throughout Russia, Poland and among the southern Slavonians is the little city of Czenstochowa, wherein is the shrine of the wonder-working Black Madonna. Many a son and daughter of the dreary steppes and of Poland feels that he or she left a torn and harried spirit or some physical infirmity before the magic of this painting.

Czenstochowa is gray in age and gray in stirring history. It is a city on the southwestern Polish plateau, some eight hundred feet above sea level, of 72,600 inhabitants, capital of a country of the same name in the Russian-Polish government of Petro-

U. S. PLAYGROUNDS

National Forests to Be Open to Pleasure Seekers.

Hundreds of Permits Already Granted for Camps and Cottages in the Woods Belonging to the People.

Washington.—To make the national forests with their aggregate area of 187,000,000 acres a vast camping and recreation ground for the people is one of the ambitions of Henry S. Graves, chief forester. Already hundreds of canyons and lake shores are dotted with camps and cottages built on sites obtained through permits of the forest service.

The combined area of the national forests equals that of Chile and is nearly half as big as Germany. While most of the forests are in the Pacific coast and Rocky Mountain states, with several million acres in Alaska, there are acres in various other states. All types of American scenery are included in these forests of the people.

The forests embody the Cascades and Sierras of the Pacific coast, snow capped peaks in Alaska, rugged wild sections of the central and northern Rockies, desert lands in the southwest, the flat lake regions of Minnesota, Ozark highlands, southern Appalachians and North woods of New England.

Special provision is made by the forest officials and rangers for enabling pleasure seekers to get the full worth of their holiday. Four-fifths of the people in the national forests during the last fiscal year were pleasure seekers, numbering over 1,500,000. But they were not a drop in the bucket compared with the number that could be taken care of.

Those who do not care to camp and settle down in one spot may travel from place to place without let or hindrance so long as they observe reasonable caution to prevent fires. Those who want a particular spot for a camp are required to pay a nominal sum for a permit. This enables the forest officer in charge to keep track of them. Forest rangers are under special instructions to assist the tourists and campers in every reasonable way. They can always be depended upon to advise the traveler how best to reach his destination or to direct him to places or trips of special attractiveness, to aid him in an emergency, to procure a physician for him if needed or to give him a neighborly lift.

Straight "sight seeing" in the national forests may be had for the taking. At certain of the ranger stations interesting collections of plant and tree specimens are on exhibition. Special attention is paid to poisonous forage plants, which are a menace to the stockman's grazing cattle or sheep and to the camper's pack animals. Many lines of activity are constantly carried on in the national forests, but they do not in any way interfere with their use as a national recreation ground. Lumbering does not leave such scars on the mountains as usually occur where private timber lands are being logged. The slash and debris of the logging operation is cleaned up as the work proceeds, and later is burned or otherwise disposed of. This reduces the fire hazard, prepares the ground for the reproduction of a new forest crop and at the same time makes the area more accessible and less unsightly.

One of the great recreation attractions of the national forests is hunting and fishing, and numerous camps are maintained for this purpose. The fish and game laws of the particular state in which a forest is located govern the use of the forest for these purposes. Many of the streams, which are very numerous, are kept stocked by the bureau of fisheries.

The spare time of the rangers is spent in building, with other workers, the trails and other permanent improvement in the national forests, and the tyro will find the forest officers ever ready to instruct him in the necessary camp and wood lore.

WORKS AS AUTO MECHANIC

Celebrated Suffragist Hiker Inspired by Ambition to Become Self-supporting Citizen.

Gen. Rosalie G. Jones, suffragist hiker, began on Monday to earn her bread as a mechanic in the Chevrolet

Miss Rosalie G. Jones.

Automobile company's repair shop here, though not without fear that her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Jones, an ardent anti-suffragist, would stop the liberal allowance she has been giving her daughter.

Mrs. Jones inherited $1,147,000 from her husband, Oliver Livingston Jones, who died on August 8, 1913, and is said to have several other millions.

Although Miss Jones is at present learning the mysteries of the carburetor, magneto and other automobile essentials, her ultimate ambition is to be a chauffeur. In this she is inspired by a desire to become self-supporting but she has some doubts of getting maternal approval.

The Chevrolet company furnished her the famous yellow suffrage car from which she spoke throughout New York last summer. She is still living at the Hotel Brocton, 3 East Twenty-seventh street, but does not know how long she can stay there if Mrs. Jones tightens the purse strings. Mrs. Jones lives at the Jones country home in Cold Spring Harbor, L. I.

"I don't know what mother will say," said Miss Jones last night. "She may stop my allowance; people do strange things sometimes. I couldn't prevent her; it's her money. I telephoned her I was going into the automobile business, but I didn't explain. "One has to get down and get under, you know. No, I don't wear overalls. I wear a big apron, which is better than any masculine attire. I hope to get a chauffeur's license and drive a taxicab in the suffrage parade when the amendment passes this fall."

THIS BIBLE IS CENTURY OLD

Published in Windsor, Vt., and Bears Marks of Exhaustive Study by Owners.

Wahpeton, N. D.—E. H. Carter of this city has an old relic of bygone days in a Bible published in Windsor, Vt., in 1812, by Merrifield & Cochran at "The Sign of the Bible."

This book is one hundred and three years old. It was the property of a great uncle of Mr. Carter, who evidently had made an exhaustive study of the Bible as was evidenced by the copious marginal notes and references in old-fashioned handwriting.

WICKED LITTLE GUN

"Minenwerfer" in Action Barks Like Snarling Mongrel.

Description of Deadly Piece of Artillery Used by Kaiser's Troops That Has Played Considerable Havoc in Allied Trenches.

Paris.—In reports on the warfare in the trenches of Flanders reference often is made to a certain supposedly new instrument of destruction which the Germans are using. Lacking an equivalent translation in their own language, the French and Belgians have come to call the weapon by its German name, "Minenwerfer." Many descriptions of this more or less mysterious piece of artillery, which has played considerable havoc in the allied trenches, have appeared in the newspapers, but they have all differed in some essential details.

A contributor to Le Figaro, Paris, who was in Havre about the middle of January, saw one of these "Minenwerfers" there in the yard of the building where the Belgian ministry of war has its quarters. The "bomb thrower," as the weapon might appropriately be called in English, had been found in a trench formerly occupied by German troops.

The writer in the Figaro describes the weapon as "a hideous little cannon with an ugly look about it." It is about 95 centimeters long and has a caliber of 170 centimeters. Its barrel can be swung horizontally and vertically, for the purpose of taking aim. Clutches in the rear and on either side enable the gun to take a firm grip in the soil before it commences to bark, after the fashion of a snarling mongrel.

The gun is mounted on a carriage of steel plates resting on wheels, and the unwieldy little thing weighs about five hundred kilograms without the wheels. The projectile is inserted at the muzzle and is discharged by means of an ignition cap in the breech. When the aiming device is removed the gun does not look more formidable than one of the old bronze mortars at the Invalides, the writer says.

It is not likely that the "bomb thrower" can project a shell farther than 500 meters. To be exact, it does not throw the projectile, but simply spits it out, so to speak. A bronze plaque indicates that the gun came from the Ehrhardt works at Duesseldorf and was manufactured in 1913.

CHOIR FOR THE WELSH ARMY

Will Go to Battle to Sound of Male Chorus Instead of a Brass Band.

Cardiff, Wales.—When the new Welsh army of 40,000 takes the field it will go to battle to the sound of a Welsh male choir, which has been substituted in its regiments for the customary brass bands. The choral organization is known as the "Welsh Army Voice Chorus," and its members include some of the finest singers in the Welsh valleys, men who have competed in the famous eistedfodds, or minstrelsy festivals.

Not His Time to Die.

Mr. Frank Scudamore relates an extraordinary incident which occurred during the Sudan campaign, when he saw an officer, a friend of his, go down apparently shot through the head. "To my surprise," he says, "I met him walking about after the battle, apparently none the worse, save his head was bandaged. Then he showed me how the bullet, striking and deflected by one of the hooks of his helmet chain, had run right round his forehead, cutting a groove under the skin, and had then glanced off the helmet hook at the other side."

Uric Acid in Your Food

Even dogs can eat too much meat. Certainly, many people "dig their graves with their teeth." Few get enough exercise to justify a meat diet, for meat brings uric acid. The kidneys try hard to get rid of that poison, but often a backache, or some other slight symptom will show that the kidneys need help. The time-tried remedy, then, is Doan's Kidney Pills.

An Oklahoma Case

I. A. Milne, 161 Ave. A, Lawton, Okla., says: "A constant strain weakened my kidneys. Pains seized me in my back when stooping and my kidneys hurt me terribly. I couldn't control the kidney secretions and realized that I must do something for relief. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills helped me and two boxes moved all the trouble. I haven't felt a sign of it since."

its parts of most historic importance. They are steep and craggy in their northern exposures, while toward the south they fall away in lesser mountain groups and broken, sloping plateaus. With the exception of parts of the eastern ramifications, which belong to Roumania, this range lies wholly within Austro-Hungarian territory. Its total area is 72,600 square miles.

The Carpathians attain the greatest height in the Hohe Tatra group, near the center of the range and just east and south of Cracow, the chief city of Austrian Galicia. The system also has its greatest width here. Throughout the chain the passes over the mountains vary from 7 to 230 miles. The heights of the peaks of the Hohe Tatra group are 8,000 feet and more. Gerladorfer peak, the highest one in the entire system, reaches 8,737 feet above the sea level. Thus the Carpathian range has no mountain formations to compare with the more majestic Alpine groups or with those of our own Rockies. There are innumerable peaks through this Hungarian line of defense, however, which vary from 5,000 to 7,000 feet in height, and these walls, together with the involved characters of most of the passes, have made the Carpathians a very effective barrier against northern invaders.

People Are Miserably Poor.

These mountains separate Hungary, beginning on the west, from the Austrian provinces of Moravia, Silesia, Galicia, Bukowina, Moldavia and the kingdom of Roumania. Some of the most miserably poor white people in the world live along this range and upon its forest-covered sides. They are mostly Slavs, Polish Slavs upon the bleak, more abrupt northern exposures, while the dwellers of Slovakia, a people almost become subject to the Magyar, live upon the southern mountains.

The Carpathian mountains are richer in metallic ores than any other mountain groups in Europe. Large quantities of gold, silver, copper, iron, lead, coal, petroleum, salt, zinc and other minerals are mined there, and many of the wilder parts of the system have not yet been thoroughly prospected. There are a number of thermal and mineral springs in the mountains which are well known as health resorts.

Among the higher convolutions of the Carpathians a great number of know, and it is situated about twelve miles from the German frontier at Lower Silesia. Czenstochowa lies on the left bank of the Warta, northwest of Cracow, and is an important station on the Warsaw-Cracow railway. It is 143 miles southwest of Warsaw.

Commercially, the city is of no importance. Its business is mostly with the pilgrims, of whom more than four hundred thousand come to its shrine every year. There are a dozen or more factories in the place, manufacturing cotton and woolen stuffs, paper, leather and beer. More important is a publishing house which does a brisk business with the visitors in religious writings and sacred pictures. The sale of amulets, warding charms against each particular evil and against all evil in general, is a significant part of the city's trade.

Black Madonna a Painting.

The Black Madonna, sacred mystery picture, the source of "Black Madonna worship" among the Poles and Russians, is, in itself and in its history, one of the most absorbing of paintings. It hangs in a chapel over the altar, veiled except at the chief service twice each day, when it is shown. It is a picture of the Virgin and Child on cypress wood, black-brown with age, crowned with purest gold and lavishly adorned with a fortune of costly jewels. According to tradition it was painted by St. Luke, came into the possession of St. Helena, passed an adventuresome, beneficent time until brought by Prince Leo to Galicia, and was finally placed in the Pauline monastery at Czenstochowa to protect it from the Tatars in 1382.

The Pauline monastery, home of the wonderful painting, has been the center of Czenstochowa's history. It stands, surrounded by a pentagonal wall, on the rugged Jasna Gora promontory, which dominates the city. All through the middle ages the fortifications of the monastery were added to, and every time hostile armies came that way it was besieged. At one time it was so wealthy that it is said to have owned or held in pledge one-fifteenth of all estates in Poland.

STOLE SON'S WIFE ON WEDDING DAY

Strange Story of Elopement of Father-in-Law Told in Divorce Suit.

ARE FOUND BY MOTHER

Tries in Vain to Induce Her Husband to Let Girl Bride Return to His Son—in Shock to the Bridegroom.

New York.—How, on the very night of his marriage, his own father stole from him his young bride, was told on the witness stand in Justice Co-halan's part of the supreme court, where Franklin D. Wood, a hospital interne, twenty-three years old, asked for a divorce from his wife Lella.

The testimony shows that Wood had scarcely left the altar before he noticed a change in the bride's demeanor. Instead of the laughing, jocular girl he had taken for a wife, he was confronted by a serious-faced woman, unresponsive to love and caresses.

"To make a long story short, she told me that she did not love me at all, but that her affections were centered in an older man," said the interne. "Who this man was she did not say, but she inferred that I ought to know him. I didn't know—in fact, I didn't even suspect."

Then Bride Vanished. That evening the bride disappeared. Wood could get no trace of her.

Henry Jackson Wood, father of the interne, disappeared when the bride vanished, but the son swore that he suspected no connection between the two events. That his wife could have gone away with her father-in-law was beyond his comprehension. If she wanted to leave with him, why did she wait until after the ceremony had been performed? She might just as well have gone before.

However, this is just what did happen, but the fact did not become known until six months later. It would still be a secret had not the elder Wood written to the wife he had deserted asking her to go to Chicago and confer with him over a divorce.

"My husband wrote me he wanted to see me," testified Mrs. Wood, "and I went to him. I was informed that he lived at No. 2228 Milwaukee avenue, and I went to the address immediately I arrived in the city, but I didn't let Mr. Wood know I had arrived. The servant let me into the house and I walked to the bedroom. As I opened the door my husband sprang out of bed, and at the same time Lella, my son's wife, ran to the window."

Refused to Part.

Mrs. Wood said that her daughter-in-law was shrieking, and she demanded what it all meant. Thereupon her husband told her that he loved his daughter-in-law. The wife sat down and talked matters over with him. She argued that he should let the girl go back to his son, but he would not have it. Thereupon the younger Mrs. Wood put her arms about Wood and said she would not be separated from him.

Shortly after this episode Wood and his son's wife left Chicago and went to St. Louis, where they are now living.

The evidence went to show that as soon as the son began courting the girl the father became interested in her and she in him, but the curious twist in misplaced affections was carefully kept from young Wood. Up to the moment of the admissions made by his bride he believed he possessed her heart, and the shock to him was great.

Canadian Wheat to Feed the World

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The war's fearful devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and there is an unusual demand for Canadian wheat. Canada's invitation to every industrious American is therefore especially attractive. She wants farmers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves while helping her to raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands can be bought at remarkably low prices. Think of the money you can make with wheat at its present high prices, where for some time it is liable to continue. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 30 bushels to the acre—many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses, full of nutrition, are the only food required either for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, markets convenient, climate excellent.

Military service is not compulsory in Canada, but there is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government this year is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain.

ROAD BONDS LOSE, IS LATEST REPORT.

As we go to press the latest news by telephone indicates that the election held in this county, Thursday, April 1st, for the purpose of voting $60,000.00 bonds, for the construction of roads and bridges, had lost by a small majority.

The greatest objection raised by the voters of this precinct to the bonds was the fear, that should the bonds carry, this precinct might not get its pro rata share of the $60,000.00

All voting precincts under the caprock gave a majority for the bonds, except three, which include San Jon precinct, No. 12, where 21 votes were cast for the bonds, and 47 against.

Wednesday it commenced snowing about 9 o'clock and continued steady all day, and through the night, putting additional moisture in the ground, and making conditions very favorable for wheat and grass. Prospects were never better at this time of the year for spring planting.

The great conflict which is raging in Europe, (and who can say when it will end) will greatly hamper production of food stuffs in that country, and consequently it behooves the agricultural interests in this country to be ready to supply the demand of the European nations on this country for their supply of food and grain.

Walter Winans, Esq. The most famous shot in Europe with head and shoulder arms.

Two World's Records in One Day with the .22 Savage Hi-Power

At the Bisley Matches of the British National Rifle Association—the biggest rifle match in the world—the .22 Savage Hi-Power rifle and Savage ammunition in the hands of Mr. Walter Winans on July 25, 1914, made the highest possible score on the Running Deer target—six straight 5's. This is a World's record.

On the same day, with the same rifle and ammunition, Mr. Winans made the highest possible score on the Running Wild Boar target—six straight 5's. Another World's record.

This merely clinches what other shooters have proved—that the Imp's wonderful accuracy (25 consecutive shots in a 20-inch circle at 400 yards), tremendous velocity (2800 feet—more than half a mile—a second), long point blank range (200-yard trajectory less than three inches), and trifling recoil (4.6 foot pounds) make it easier to hit moving game with than any other rifle.

And it has killed Alaskan Brown Bear, Grizzly, Buffalo, and man-eating tiger, besides the deer and black bear it was originally designed for.

Write us for particulars about "the biggest little gun in the world."
