$50,000,000 LIVESTOCK POOL NOW READY FOR STOCKMEN

When the War Finance Corporation put a few million dollars at the disposal of southern planters, cotton came back with a bound. Prices doubled.

The War Finance Corporation has now put a billion within reach of agriculture. What's the stockman going to do with his share?

Live stock markets are coming back. Prices probably will not be doubled. There's a difference between cows and cotton. But values on hoof are at their extreme ebb. It would be a phenomenon if they dropped further when every sign points to an advance.

Inquiries have reached the Record Stockman regarding the procedure to obtain a share of the War Finance corporation's big loan fund.

Here's the process in brief:

1. Make application thru a live stock loan organization or thru your bank. C. Lee Wood, secretary 315 U. S. National Bank building, Denver, will supply application blanks for the Colorado and Northern New Mexico district. These forms also may be had from local banks or they will be sent direct from the War Finance corporation at Washington, D. C.

These are filled out by a bank or cattle loan association, and when approved by the local committee, are forwarded to Washington, again inspected and if approved, the money is telegraphed at once to the individual borrower thru his bank or loan association.

3. Interest rates will not exceed 8 per cent. The government charges 6 per cent, and the local bank or loan agency thru which the money is obtained may charge not to exceed 2 per cent more than the government rate.

4. Loans are made for a period of six months to one year, with privilege of renewal for the second and third years.

5. Amount of advances is limited to the aggregate of all outstanding advances made by borrower for agricultural purposes, including discounts and rediscounts of agricultural paper.

6. Loans are not made upon real estate, but real estate security may be offered to supply a margin for advances.

Engene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the War Finance corporation, assures stockmen that each loan will be put thru promptly with a minimum of red tape. The government, Mr. Meyer says, is anxious to loan the money.

On his return to Washington after a recent trip thru the West, Mr. Meyer made a report in which he said in part:

"The livestock situation is the big one insofar as credit is concerned. Adequate financing of the stockmen involves not only the live stock industry but also the market for grain—particularly corn and forage. I found the west full of feed. The best way to market it is through live stock. I found bankers discouraged and growers discouraged, but I met them, analyzed their problems, and I believe left them confident that we have found the way out. Farmers and bankers have been worrying over real troubles, but I told them that we had ample funds to save the situation. It is now time to look forward rather than backward; things are getting better. The live stock market has shown improvement and I look for still further rises.

I have tried to sound the following keynote under which all committees have been instructed to work: Do not worry over the exceptional and difficult cases but go out and look for the places in which to put our funds. Put a million here and a million there. That will relieve the situation; that will prevent young stock from going to market prematurely and breeding stock from being sold to endanger future supplies.

In the range country our loan committees are actively at work. We shall lend through live stock loan companies, and through country banks. We are empowered by law to relieve the situation considerably. We lend money through the country bank, and the banker knows that it does not have to be repaid in 90 days, or six months or even a year. Loans from the War Finance corporation may be rediscounted for one year, again for another year, and again for the third year. This will permit the producer to move his stuff to market in an orderly fashion. It will bring about a more comfortable situation in the country bank and will restore confidence all along the line.

There are two fundamental troubles in the live stock industry as I see it. 1—Lack of money. 2—Lack of confidence. The War Finance corporation has a good deal of both.

I disagree with the opinion that the live stock market is bound to go lower. I know that feeders must act promptly if they are to secure the benefits of the expanded credit which the War Finance corporation will provide. I believe that the only thing to do now is to feed live stock, and to buy feeders quickly.—Denver Daily Record-Stockman.

Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. Will to Here in 1922

Clayton, by concerted effort on the part of the various secret and business organizations, was successful in landing the grand lodge session for 1922 of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. From the reports brought back by the Clayton delegates who attended the meeting of the grand lodge at Tucumcari this week, the contest was very spirited. Vaughn, Clayton and Albuquerque were in the race, with the odds in favor of Albuquerque, owing to its geographical location, and the extra expense incurred should the meeting be brought to Clayton. The vote looked as the Clayton would lose, but at an opportune moment telegrams, seven in number, were received from the K. of P., the Masons, Clayton Agency, Modern Woodmen, the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and City of Clayton, and showed the enthusiasm of the town in the matter, and the next vote changed in Clayton's favor, winning by three votes.

The Clayton lodge is already laying its plans and arranging to finance the meeting properly and when next year rolls around everything will be in readiness to show the Grand Lodge real entertainment.

Lee Byrne, Grand Master, was elected as delegate to the Sovereign Grand Lodge for a two year term.

ROY LACKEY IS SHOT ON RANCH AT LOGAN

Tucumcari, N. M., Oct. 4.—The body of Roy Lackey, a pioneer rancher of the county, was brought here today. The Lackey ranch is near Rama, N. M., forty miles from this place. He, with Boss Jackson, a well known ranchman, Jack Lewis, known as "Texas Jack" and Brent Cosner, a hand on the Jackson ranch were rounding up cattle on the Boss Jackson ranch Sunday, twenty miles from Rama, over the Texas line.

Some of the party returned to the Lackey ranch Sunday afternoon. Lackey failed to show up. Fearing something had befallen him a searching party was started on a hunt for him Monday morning.

His horse was found about 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. An hour later his body was found on the Mann school section about one mile south of the tank. Indications were he had been killed Sunday afternoon.

A coroner's inquest resulted in a verdict that Lackey came to his death from a gunshot wound fired from hands of an unknown party. A cut above the eye indicated that he had been struck with a revolver.

He is survived by a widow and two children, a son and daughter.

Mr. Lackey is a brother-in-law of John C. Hill, and is one of the pioneers of Union county. He was well known to all of the old-timers of Clayton. Mr. Hill left for the Lackey ranch upon receipt of the message apprising him of the death.

UNION COUNTY PIONEER CROSSES GREAT DIVIDE

One of the real pioneers of New Mexico, Francisco Miera, died at the St. Joseph hospital, on Sunday, October 2nd, at the age of 69 years. In the passing of Francisco Miera, Union county loses a man who has figured prominently in the making of the county's history, and also that of the state. He was prominent in political circles, being one of the most influential democrats in the county. He has served in various county and state offices, being the first county clerk of this county and also served in the state senate.

Mr. Miera was born in New Mexico on November 2, 1852. He came to Union county in 1875, and since that time has been engaged in ranching, owning a large ranch near Miera. He leaves a wife, seven children and two brothers to mourn his loss.

Miss Edna Pumphrey, who is attending school at Dalhart, Texas, made the home folks at Otto a short visit Saturday and Sunday.

CLAYTON ROTARY CLUB DINES IN HONOR OF DR. H. R. MILLS

One of those enjoyable occasions, which imbed themselves in human memory to be recalled in years to come, was held last Thursday evening in the basement of the Methodist church by the Clayton Rotary Club. This meeting or banquet, as it should be properly called, was a combination affair. It was the regular monthly banquet, at which time the Rotarians entertain, and was also a farewell to one of the members, Dr. H. R. Mills, who is leaving to take up his work as pastor of the Methodist Church at that place.

At 7:30 the Rotarians and their guests, and last, but by no means least, the Rotarians, gathered around the banquet table, laden to its capacity with the good things to eat, and proceeded to enjoy life. But President T. H. Rixey immediately took up the program, as he had a good deal of business to transact. The program was an imitation of a convention, and as each town in District 21 was called, some member of the local club responded and in a neat speech detailed the work being carried on by the club. All the speeches were good, and if the work as outlined is being successfully carried on, Rotary is doing some great work in this district.

After the convention reports were over, Judge Toombs was called upon and made a splendid speech on the subject of Dr. Mills as a citizen. The Judge's remarks were well chosen, and he paid a splendid tribute to Dr. Mills for the work that he had been doing and the good he had accomplished for Clayton along civic lines. Judge Toombs was followed by H. H. Errett, who made a splendid talk on Dr. Mills as a man. Mr. Errett combined the work done by Dr. Mills in both civic and religious work in this community and spoke of the transformation that has been worked out in the religious circles of the town, since Mr. Mills came here five years ago.

After Mr. Errett concluded his speech Simon Herzstein arose and in a very appropriate speech presented Dr. Mills with a certificate of honorary membership in the Clayton Club. Dr. Mills responded with a splendid talk in acceptance of the honor.

Mrs. Herbert Hammond, Jr., representing the Rotarians, made a short but impressive talk, paying a tribute to Mrs. Mills for her work here, and Mrs. Mills replied with a speech in acknowledgement of the tribute paid her.

The entire program was interspersed with songs by the members, and some special selections rendered by a quartet of ladies, and a sextet of men.

This meeting was one of the most enthusiastic that has been held by the local club, and one that will be remembered with pleasure by all who attended.

WORLD'S SERIES HOLDING ATTENTION OF BALL FANS

As we go to press the fourth game of the world's series is on, and the eyes of the sporting world are centered on New York, where for the first time in baseball history two New York teams are battling for supremacy in the baseball world. Of the three games already played, the New York Yankees of the American League, have won two games, each by the score of 3 to 0. But yesterday the Giants, of the National, came back with a vengeance and defeated the hard-hitting Yanks by a score of 13 to 5. The Yanks have been the favorites in the betting owing to their famous heavy hitters, with "Babe" Ruth, the king of home run hitters, heading the list. Carl Mays for the Yanks, and Douglas for the Giants, hurled in the first game, and in the second game the star pitcher for the Giants, Neff, was pitted against Waite Hoyt. In each of these games the Yanks had the best of the argument. In yesterday's game in the third-inning Shawkey was pulled from the mound and before the game ended four pitchers were used by the Yanks. The Giants also pulled Toney in the third inning and Barnes finished the game.

In Clayton the center of attraction is in front of the City Drug store where the score is being posted. Betting is ver ylight and each team has its followers here, who show their enthusiasm this year by cheers, more than money. Before the next issue the games will be over, and another world's series will have become baseball history. Below we are giving the names of the teams which have participated in world's series since 1903:

1903—Boston, A. L., 5 games; Pittsburgh, N. L., 3 games.

EDITOR ENJOYS A BIG WATER MELON FEAST

The editor of the News had the pleasure of the first real water melon feast of the season, on last Sunday, at the home of Mr. A. B. Christerson, at Sedan. We accepted an invitation from our genial C. & S. agent, Harry Farber, for a drive over the new south highway and we drove out to Mr. Farber's ranch and then back to Mr. Christerson's. Mr. Christerson took us across his field to the water melon patch, and then O! Boy! Just think, five acres of the finest melons and lying just as thick as the ground would permit. We just "bust" them open and ate until the inner man began to growl. Harry Farber was like a country boy at a "corn husking"—he was always looking for a larger melon. After eating melon, Mr. Christerson filled the car with fine melons and this whole week has been one continuous melon feast. We are sure strong for Mr. Christerson and are ready to go back any old time we can. Mr. Christerson has one of the finest farms in Union county, and his big fields of grain and herds or hogs and cattle bespeak prosperity. His is an ideal farm, and shows what real business farming will produce.

Such people as Mr. Christerson and his family are the kind that build up communities worth living in.

Uncle John Sydel of Moses was visiting in Clayton this week, and while here taking in the fair he informed the reporter he was getting a nice start in the hog business and is getting to be a bigger hog crank every day. All right, Uncle John, Union county has lots of other hog cranks and they seem to be getting along better than the straight crop farmer.

Charley Johnson, Clayton wrestler, was in town Wednesday, and said he had a match at Des Moines on the 29th of this month, with R. Creswell. Charley is now working with the U. S. Biological Survey, exterminating rodents.

K. OF P. WILL CELEBRATE ITS 21ST BIRTHDAY

Next Wednesday night will mark the twenty-first birthday of Triangle lodge No. 16, Knights of Pythias in Clayton, and the lodge is going to see that this anniversary is fittingly kept. A committee is at work making arrangements for the feed and also the program which will consist of music and addresses by several of Clayton's best orators.

The Clayton lodge was organized on October 13, 1900, and since that time, like all other orders, it has had prosperity and reverses. At the present time the lodge is progressing at a rapid rate and is one of the substantial lodges in this domain. Jas Deam, who is one of the charter members, is now Grand Prelate, and it is expected that within two years Clayton will have a Grand Chancellor. All Knights are requested to come out and help Clayton lodge celebrate.

Rev. J. W. Nunn and family of Perino, were in Clayton Tuesday and J. W. was telling the reporter he had just dug 3/4 of an acre of spuds that made 70 sacks, and brought along one load that netted him $96. Now talk about a place to invest your money in land that is a paying proposition. You cannot beat this in the world.

RED CROSS CONVENTION
SOUTHWESTERN DIVISION

The delegation from the Southwestern Division of the American Red Cross to the National Red Cross Convention at Columbus, Ohio, October 4th to 8th, inclusive, will be headed by the former manager of this division, Geo. W. Simmons, of St. Louis. Mr. Simmons has returned recently from Russia and will join the present manager, James L. Pieser, in representing his former division at the convention.

Prominent among the speakers at the convention will be a number of Southwestern Division Red Cross workers. Dr. A. Ross Hill, former president of the Missouri State University, now director of foreign operations of the American Red Cross will be one of these. General John J. Pershing, ranking general of the United States army, who is a Missourian, is another. Stanley Stoner, of Colorado Springs, formerly director of military relief of the Southwestern division and later a member of the Palestine Commission, is still another.

The convention will be the largest gathering of Red Cross workers ever held in the United States outside of Washington. It will give an impetus to public health and welfare work, especially in connection with the disabled ex-service men, which will result, it is believed, in redoubled efforts on the part of communities having Red Cross chapters to give these men the care and attention which their service to their country deserves. In the opinion of the leaders of the convention program this convention also will present the peace time program of the Red Cross to the public in a much more concrete way than it has been shown heretofore, and the public will be enabled to see the necessity of maintaining the work of the organization in peace as in war.

The most distinguished speaker scheduled for the convention is the president of the United States. Others of national and international reputation who will address the sessions are Herbert Hoover, William Howard Taft, General John J. Pershing, Mrs. August Belmont, Dr. Livingston Farrand, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Major General John A. Lejeune, Dr. William A. Evans, and others. General Pershing, who is now in France to present the Congressional Medal of Honor to an unknown French soldier," in recognition of the valor of France in the late war, is expected to return in time to speak on the "veterans' night" program. This will be October 5th.

The convention will open Tuesday afternoon, October 4th, and will close with the presentation of the Pageant of the Red Cross on Saturday evening, October 8th. Plans are on foot for a special train to carry the division delegation starting from St. Louis on Sunday evening, October 2nd.

ALBUQUERQUE ILLITERACY

Washington—The Census Bureau reports that in the population of Albuquerque, New Mexico, as enumerated in January, 1920, there were 588 persons ten years of age and over who were illiterate in the sense of being unable to write, including 403 native whites, 168 foreign-born whites, and 8 negroes. The percentage of illiteracy in the total population ten years of age and over is 4.8, which shows a slight increase since 1910 when it was 3.7. For the native white the percentage is 3.8 and for the foreign-born white, 12.3.

PERPLEXING PERENNIAL PROBLEMS

II. The Federal Revenue

Since the beginning of civilization the problem of taxation has been a live issue. Everyone wants the protection and benefits of government but no one is especially eager to pay the price of government. Everyone is willing and so far even seem eager for the other fellow to pay all the expenses. The result has been that no system of taxation that is both scientific and just has been developed. The aim has been to get results without too much antagonism.

In our own country, in the raising of federal revenue, two ideas have been quite prominent. One idea is to tax the other fellow as generously as can be conveniently done, and the other is to camouflage the tax to such an extent that its true character is unsuspected.

When a boy I was generously fed up on the doctrine of the protective tariff. I devoured the doctrine greedily and have not yet gone back on my early political training. I still believe in a protective tariff worked out on a scientific basis and consistently carried out. But that old camouflage "The foreigner pays the tax." Weren't we chumps to swallow the sugar coated bait? And that other camouflage "To protect our infant industries"—we should have seen through it all, and understood that it was nourishing our giant trusts. I do not object to raising revenue by a protective tariff, whether the foreigner pays the tax or not, and I do not object to the trusts if they are compelled to serve the people, but I do object to the sort of political dishonesty that resorts to trickery in order to accomplish its purposes.

But our federal revenue raisers shine most conspicuously in the wonderful art of shifting the tax burden to the other fellow's shoulders. When we stop to think that the history writers tell us that the chief cause that led to the Revolutionary War was "taxation without representation," we cannot fail to see the joke. "Taxation without representation"—isn't that the kind we usually get? Haven't you noticed that the interests that are well represented at Washington are not burdened with excessive taxation? What do you think of the repeal of the excess profits tax and the lowering of the income tax on millionaire incomes?

Of course, we like these conditions. Most of us do not take the trouble to go to the polls to vote. It really is hardly worth while to go and vote unless we have first taken the trouble to organize so that we can arrange to give ourselves a chance to vote for some one to represent our interests. If we farmers will only perfect our organization we can count any and all the political parties to nominate men who will give our business a square deal. Do you think the Harding administration gave the farmer a square deal? Do you think the Harding administration is going to give the farmer a square deal? Do you think a Debs administration would give the farmer a square deal? No! No! No! only as we organize and demand a square deal. I believe federal revenue laws on a Republican protective basis could be so manipulated as to give the farmer a square deal. I believe federal revenue laws on a Democratic "for revenue only" could be worked out to give the farmer a square deal. I wouldn't like to say that the federal revenue laws put on a Socialistic basis could not be manipulated to give the farmer a square deal. Anyhow, I am in for organizing and going after the square deal no matter what political party is in power.

One of the curious features of our federal revenue system is the agencies used in gathering in the shekels. One of my neighbors says he likes good booze, and perhaps regrets that he cannot get it, but he says he is ASHAMED to think that our government was until recently in partnership with the booze business. And aren't we all just a little ashamed when we remember that for a share of the profits our government once licensed men to wreck their fellow men—body, mind, and soul? Are we proud of our government when we remember that today it is in partnership with the tobacco business? We may differ in opinion as to whether the tobacco habit is a virtue or a vice, but it will do no harm to think the matter over. If tobacco is an evil, let's stamp it out, not license it. If tobacco is a comfort and a necessity, let's remove the tax.

I didn't intend to say so much about tobacco; here is what I started out to say: Just as we are all ashamed that our government once shared in the profits of the booze business, so will we some day be ashamed that our government once shared in the profits of the profiteer business. Don't get frightened. I am not preaching "Socialism," although it may sound "socialistically inclined." I am just preaching some good Democratic doctrine that isn't lived up to. I have forgotten whether the anti-profiteering law was a Democratic law or a Republican law, but I haven't forgotten that it was so unanimously obeyed that there is still room in the penitentiaries for political prisoners! Thirteen thousand new millionaires and not one of them guilty of violating the anti-profiteering law! If we farmers could only attain so high a standard of moral excellence!

My point is this: Instead of allowing Big Business to rob the people and then boast of their generosity because it turns a small part of the plunder into the federal treasury, in the form of a moderate income tax, why not compel Big Business to operate in the interests of the people, then the people could pay the tax direct to the government? Personally, I consider Big Business a rather high-priced tax collector.

I am fond of honey, but when I eat a spoonful, I wonder how many thousand hours of bee labor are represented in that one bit of honey that gives me exquisite, though momentary, pleasure. When the government compels drug clerks to put a 4-8 ct stamp on a little package of medicine and compels the holder of 10 per cent money to dig up a little more to pay for a stamp, etc., etc., and when vast sums have been exacted by means of this taxing tribute from the poor, now it is in for hot air, or useless battleships, or let the grafters gobble it up, if reminds me of robbing the bees. As long as Big Business and the officials look upon us common people as honey gatherers, while they look upon themselves as the only legitimate honey consumers, we may expect these annoying and unjust conditions to continue.

An income tax that takes 80 per cent of the big incomes, as I understand the English revenue law does, an inheritance tax that causes the major portion of big fortunes to revert to the state, a tax on imports worked out by statesmen, not politicians, development, and justice—these, together with a tax on tobacco and such articles, if this seems best, ought to be made to produce revenue enough, and could be justly distributed. All of us like to do our share toward paying the expenses of "our" country, but we do not like to have Big Business own the country while we pay the expenses.

I think the main trouble with our federal income and expenditures is the fact that we send about five hundred politicians and ten statesmen to Washington to look after these matters. If we would leave the five hundred politicians at home and send only ten statesmen we might hope for better results. Of course this is only a dream. The cold fact is, we must either take what we get and quit growling, or get busy and get representation and then get what we want.

PRESIDENT WILL TRUDGE AFOOT IN SOLDIERS MARCH

Washington, Oct. 4.—Plans for the solemn ceremonies of armistice day, when the nation will pay highest honors to its unknown dead of the great war reached a climax today when President Harding and his cabinet decided to trudge afoot up Pennsylvania Avenue at the head of the funeral cortege.

By presidential proclamation the business and pleasure of the nation will stand at rest two minutes on that day in tribute to the dead as the body from a lonely, nameless grave in some great struggle of the war is carried to its last rest in the peaceful Virginia hills that look down across the Potomac on the nation's capital.

Not since President Wilson led a preparedness march of the great avenue in 1916 has the chief executive appeared afoot in any parade in the capital and never previously has any President set for himself so long a trip as President Harding will undertake.

FOUR SUGGESTED AMENDMENTS CARRY

MILLION DOLLARS LIVE STOCK LOANS APPROVED

Applications for more than $1,000,000 government loans to Colorado stockmen have been approved.

The Agricultural Loan agency of the War Finance corporation for Colorado and Northern New Mexico put its O. K. on the first batch of Colorado applications, Monday. The loans will be made under the Finance corporation's billion dollar loan plan for putting farmers and stockmen on their financial feet.

Not one application was turned down. Every one of the seven forms in each application was found to be properly filled out, the collateral and indorsements satisfactory.

Within twenty-four hours after the applications reach Washington and depending on the approval of the main board, the money should be on its way by telegraph back to Denver. It will probably be in the hands of the borrowers before the first of next week.

No Delays or Red Tape

The local committee, consisting of Albert A. Reed, W. B. Morrison, Lou D. Sweet, Denver; G. E. Trotter, Pueblo, and D. T. Stone, Grand Junction, will act on applications as fast as they reach the office of Secretary C. Lee Wood, 315 U. S. National bank building.

"Monday's approvals were merely a starter," says Secretary Wood. "If necessary we will work night and day to keep up with applications. We have assurances from the War Finance Corporation at Washington that the loan board is holding two daily conferences to act on applications, and that night sessions will be held if necessary. The corporation regards this work as an emergency, and will not permit applications to pile up. Official red tape has been minimized. We expect the money to be telegraphed back within a few hours after applications reach Washington."

Washington's approval of the loans is merely a formality, as any paper approved by the local committee is certain to meet with favorable consideration by the corporation, Mr. Wood says.

Banks to Find Relief

Banks which have borrowed and loaned to their legal limit may obtain a share of the billion dollar fund, it developed at Monday's committee meeting.

The War Finance corporation act authorizes the corporation, in exceptional cases, to purchase from domestic banks, bankers or trust companies their notes, drafts, bills of exchange, or other instruments of indebtedness secured by chattel mortgages, warehouse receipts, bills of lading, or other instruments in writing, conveying or securing marketable title to staple agricultural products, including live stock.

An application to sell agricultural paper under this plan must set forth circumstances showing that an "exceptional case" exists, within the meaning of the act. The Board will consider applications for the sale of paper of the character above described only in cases where it is affirmatively shown that the applicant is under some statutory or other legal disability to apply for and obtain an advance pursuant to the provisions of the act.

GENERAL WOOD RESIGNS AFTER 36 YEARS' SERVICE

Washington, Oct. 5.—Major General Leonard Wood retired Wednesday from active service in the army to accept appointment as governor general of the Philippine islands, thus terminating voluntarily more than thirty six years of distinguished military life. His retirement was caused by insistence of administration officials that he accepted the new post and the removal of congress to permit him to do so while continuing his active army status.

In announcing the general's retirement, Secretary Weeks said he would select a vice governor for the islands and expected immediately to commission General Wood to duty as governor general. General Wood began his army career as a surgeon in June, 1885, immediately entering service with troops in the Apache campaign in Arizona and northern Mexico. As commander of an infantry detachment in that campaign he was commended "for gallantry and hazardous service, courage and energy," and later was awarded the congressional medal of honor, the highest compliment the nation has to give, for distinguished conduct in the Apache campaign.

When the Indians were pacified and their leader, Geronimo taken, the surgeon dropped his fighting weapons temporarily and returned to the practice of medicine and surgery at army headquarters in Arizona. When the Spanish-American war was declared in 1898, he re-entered combat ranks, organized and commanded the first United States volunteer cavalry (Rough Riders) and later was transferred to command the Second brigade, cavalry division, in the Cuban campaign, in which capacity he entered the fight at Las Guasimas and at San Juan.

When the Spanish forces surrendered the general was appointed military governor of that province and military governor of the Island of Cuba. He turned the government of the island over to Thomas Palma, first president of the republic of Cuba, in 1902, and returned to the United States.

About a year later he was ordered to proceed to the Philippines as commander of the department of Mindanao.

He also acted as civil governor of the Moro province and in other administrative work until 1908. The experiences and understanding of natives thus gained and later as a member of the special commission sent by the president to investigate conditions in the Philippines undoubtedly were responsible for his selection for the new post.

His record in the World war began with his assignment to select for the war department the sites of the great majority of the training camps for national guard and national army troops in the southern department, which he then commanded.

Later he was assigned to Camp Funston, Kansas, to organize the 89th division. With other division officers, he went on a preparatory inspection trip to France while the American army was in the making and was injured there by a bursting of a French gun.

On his return to the United States General Wood completed the training of the 89th for battle, but got no chance to serve with it abroad, as he was relieved on the eve of embarkation, precipitating a controversy that raged in the press for months, even during General Wood's campaign for the Republican nomination for the presidency.

An achievement for which General Wood has been praised greatly was the development of the idea of the "Plattsburg idea" of civilian training camps evolved as a measure of preparedness before the United States entered the World war.

OFFICIALS END COLORADO TO GULF HIGHWAY INSPECTION

C. H. Walker, president of the Colorado to Gulf Highway, returned to Dalhart Tuesday night by rail from Brownsville, where the official inspection tour of the highway ended September 30. Captain McMahon, field director, will return in about three weeks in the official car.

The party, which at times included a number of distinguished road enthusiasts, was well received at every stop, and made their schedule without a hitch. From Ft. Worth south to Galveston and Brownsville, the party was met at each stop by large enthusiastic crowds who were eager to learn of the publicity plans of the organization, and promised their moral and financial support. At Alvarado, in Johnson county, the party was met by 102 automobiles, decorated floats, and a brass band. At every stop from that place on, delegations consisting of mayors, county judges, and others, met the party from time to time and piloted on for varying distances. Dinners and banquets were the order of the day throughout South Texas, where more enthusiasm was found than on any other section of the highway. At Corpus Christi a dinner was given by the Commercial Association, which was attended by distinguished visitors from a great many south Texas points. At Waco, a banquet was given by the Young Men's Business League. At Houston, Galveston, San Antonio and Brownsville, and intermediate stops, large crowds erected the visitors. At times adjournment had to be taken to the open, where addresses were made to hundreds of people from improvised platforms.

The members of the party were agreeably surprised at the large amount of highway construction now going on. According to a mileage table kept enroute, of the 1750 miles of the Colorado to Gulf Highway, more than 900 miles are now hard surfaced, and 60 per cent of the rest is under construction. It is thought that a very few years more will find the entire highway from the Gulf to the mountains a finished road. According to Capt. Fountainroy, federal agent in charge of the expenditures of federal money on roads in Texas.

The Colorado to Gulf inspection trip has done more to stimulate highway construction in Texas than anything that has ever happened.

Hon. D. K. Martin, member of the State Highway Commission, met the party at Fort Worth, as a personal representative of Governor Neff, and piloted on to South Texas.

At San Antonio, the party was met by Major O. N. Powell, engineer in charge of building the $300,000 causeway at Corpus Christi, and who superintended the building of 2,500 miles of roadway in France. Major Powell piloted the party to Corpus Christi, and through his courtesy the official car claims the distinction of being the first to pass over the causeway, which will be officially opened next Saturday.

As one result of the trip it may be expected that thousands of tourists will visit the mountains next year over the Colorado to Gulf, as no opportunity was passed to impress upon the thousands that listened to the speakers that the Colorado to Gulf is the shortest and best route from the Gulf to the mountains. Hundreds of inches of front page publicity appeared in daily and weekly papers, that could not be bought with money, and this will give an impetus to travel heretofore unknown.

PARENT-TEACHER BODIES DOING EXCELLENT WORK

Washington, Oct. 6.—The beginning of the new school year throughout the country has marked the beginning also of activities on the part of Parent-Teacher Associations which, to a marked extent, have aided in making the public schools more successful. It is being pointed out in the public press and by individuals whose business it is to promote the best interests of the schools that it takes the hearty cooperation of patrons to make the schools a success. It is here that the Parent-Teacher Associations, which have grown steadily in numbers and influence since the first one was established, are proving their worth.

By working in close cooperation and sympathy with the teaching staff, the principals and the board of education, says an observer, the Parent-Teacher Association members may do much toward keeping up a full attendance of pupils, encourage application to studies at home on the part of their children, discourage truancy, and aid in ironing out troubles between instructors and pupils that since schools existed have cropped up on occasions.

The Parent-Teachers Associations, it is pointed out, serve a fine purpose in stimulating interest on the part of elective officers, state, county and city, and the public generally, in the schools and the work which the latter are doing, as well as encouraging the development of a fine American spirit in the children who make up the school attendance. Beginning in a small way, the Parent-Teachers Associations now cover the country.

DEATH ANNOUNCEMENT

FROZEN CREDITS ARE THAWING OUT

J. Ogden Armour is quoted as saying in a recent address, that the tide of business has turned, at last, for the better. This also seems to be the prevailing viewpoint in Metropolitan banking circles. Credit is once more being made available on terms attractive to business, and the whole country is definitely easing up from its long spell under "frozen credits" on fundamentally improved conditions that are positive evidence that we are approaching very much better times, writes Sugarman's Indicator.

Ford

Announcement!

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, makes the following announcement:

"We are making another reduction in the prices of Ford cars and the Ford truck, effective today. The new prices average $70.00 under former prices, and are the lowest at which Ford cars and trucks have ever been sold. List prices, F. O. B. Detroit are now as follows:

	New Price	Old Price	Amount of Reduction
Chassis	$295	$345	$50
Runabout	325	370	45
Touring Car	355	415	60
Truck	445	495	50
Coupe	595	695	100
Sedan	669	760	100

"This is the third price cut during the past twelve months. On September 22, 1920, the price of the Ford Touring Car was reduced from $575 to $440; June 7th to $415, and now to $355, making total reductions in this type of $220, or 38 per cent. The same proportionate reductions have been made in all other types. One year ago the price of the Ford Sedan was $975; today it lists at $660 with the same equipment.

"We are taking advantage of every known economy in the manufacture of our products in order that we may give them to the public at the lowest possible price, and by doing that, we feel that we are doing the one big thing that will help this country into more prosperous times. People are interested in prices, and are buying when prices are right.

"The production of Ford cars and trucks for August again broke all previous high records with the total reaching 117,696. This is the fourth consecutive month in which our output has gone over the hundred thousand mark, the total for the four months being 463,074, which has gone a long way in making possible the present reductions. June this year, with an output of 117,247, was the previous record month.

"One noteworthy feature of our sales is the increased demand for Ford trucks and cars for salesmen. This class of commercial business has been gradually increasing the past sixty days and we interpret it as a very good sign of improvement in general business.

"No reduction has been made in the price of the Fordson tractor, and none is contemplated."

Go over these new prices. See how little it costs to become the owner of a Ford car or a Ford truck. Can you really afford to do without one any longer?

Let us tell you more about it, and advise you regarding the delivery of the particular type of car in which you are interested.

ROTARIANS AND LADIES ENTERTAIN HIGH SCHOOL

With one hundred and thirty Senior High School students and thirteen High School teachers as their guests, the Rotarians and Rotariannes gave a picnic on the Perico at the Otto ranch Thursday of last week.

Thirty cars picked up the crowd at the High School at 3 o'clock and sped to the picnic grounds, arriving at 4 o'clock. Dr. Hurley with a truck full of watermelons, brought up the rear. While Bob Turpin, Dr. Olbeter, and Dr. Kiser helped the ladies prepare the "eats", John Hill, Dr. Hurley, A. L. Tarlton, T. H. Rixey, and H. H. Ercil directed the play of the boys and girls. Races and every kind of spirited contests were pulled off in rapid fire fashion until sundown. Dr. Olbeter then commanded the bunch to get ready for supper, whereupon everyone got his cup and took his place in line. As the line moved forward, each of the party was given a generous serving of coffee or cocoa, hot waffles, sandwiches, and watermelon.

After supper the Rotarians gave their yell and the students responded with several school yells. After this, the crowd formed in two big rings and, after circling the prairie a few times, a halt was called, and the informal speech-making part of the program was called in. The students hoisted the Rotarians, one after another, into the air and supported them while they addressed the crowd. Mrs. Olbeter was escorted into the circle, and everybody sat down at attention while she addressed the students in behalf of the Rotariannes.

About nine o'clock the return trip was begun. The gleam of headlights marked a line nearly two miles long. Upon reaching town the cars encircled the flag pole, and the members of the jolly crowd gave yells and sang a few familiar songs, after which "goodnights" were said and each departed his several ways feeling:

"Life holds no greater joy, my son, Than work that has been truly done; No happiness is quite so sweet As that which comes from tasks complete—

There is no pleasure to excel The pride of doing something well."

Annual Roll Call Nov. 11-24, 1921

To bring before the country in visual form the vast problem it is helping to solve, the American Red Cross has prepared for its Annual Roll Call, Nov. 11 to 24, a poster showing how rather than diminishing the total of World War veterans entitled to Federal aid continues to grow. Red Cross Service to these men is costing $10,000,000 a year.

RED CROSS STILL ON THE JOB

Thousands of ex-service men throughout the United States, ill from the effects of the war, are expressing their gratitude to the American Red Cross for its help in obtaining medical and nursing care, for placing them in hospitals or for assisting them in getting their compensation, sometimes long overdue. This statement was given out last week by Edward H. Orr, Director of Post War Service of the Southwestern Division of the American Red Cross. The Southwestern Division alone, Orr said, has had hundreds of such letters.

One man dying from tuberculosis in a hospital in one of the states of our division, sent the Red Cross a contribution of $100.00 in recognition of the cheer and comfort which he had obtained through its workers. Another, who was a "mental" case and who had forgotten practically all he ever knew, when taken in hand by the occupational therapist who helped to bring back the activity of his war-weakened mind, wrote a pathetic and like letter to the chapter chairman in the section where his case was cared for. This case was at one time recommended for admission to St. Elizabeth's at Washington, an asylum for the incurable insane. That he was able to write at all spoke volumes for the progress made in his case.

Another case in the same locality was that of a soldier, who went to the chapter chairman with an allotment case just prior to being admitted to a hospital for treatment for tuberculosis. He had failed to make an allotment on entering the service and was afterwards compelled to make one. His pay was withheld, his wife was living with her mother in a distant state, there was sickness in the family, a young baby, and no money. This matter was taken up with the Red Cross and the difficulty was adjusted.

Another case was that of a man who, because he was sick and unable to work and had not received his allotment, had become estranged from his wife. This case was also straightened out by the Red Cross and the family brought together.

Jobs without number have been obtained for the unemployed ex-service men, sometimes loans are made to the men and in practically all the cases are repaid as soon as the man obtains work. One letter along this line received by the Sebastian County Chapter at Fort

Smith, Arkansas, is particularly interesting. It follows:

"To the Lady of the Red Cross:— We are doing fine and the baby is grand and doing well. We hope some day you will pay us a visit if you happen to be close to us. I have a good job and hope to make good. We are sending you $5.00 this time and will send more on my pay day. I want to thank the Red Cross again for your kindness. Love from me, my wife and the baby." This man had had trouble in getting his allotments. The Red Cross took care of that, furnished a layette for the new baby, and saw to the care of the mother when the baby arrived.

These are just a few examples at random from the numbers of such letters we receive. The Red Cross is greatly interested in its post war work and keenly sensible of its responsibility and the obligation of the nation to the former service man.

CHAPLIN PROVES GOOD "MOTHER" TO THE KID

Star vs Story has been a real live issue for many years in the motion picture industry, many producers holding to the theory that the public will pay to see the actors or actresses rather than go to see a production of real interest played by an unknown cast. It has been a drawn question between the two factions, for some time, because each has perfectly good grounds to offer as to why one or the other policy is the best.

The whole question, however, was raised anew with the release of "The Kid," the six-reel Charlie Chaplin production for Associated First National Pictures, Inc. Charlie Chaplin has always been the shining example of those who supported the star system. They pointed out, and rightly, that he had attained a popularity unequalled by any other picture star through the medium of production which lacked stories entirely, or if one was present it was the faintest sort of a frame work, merely to support the comedian in new, made stunts.

With the release of "The Kid," which will be the attraction at the Mission Theatre, on Sunday and Monday, the supporters of the theory that stories are the main requisite of successful pictures receive entirely unlooked for aid, because "The Kid" is as dramatic a story as has ever been produced in a motion picture.

Chaplin is there with the same make-up and the same characteristics that have made him the most famous comedian in the world. But the film does not revolve around Chaplin; it concerns a foundling baby, its growth to boyhood, and his final coming into his birthright. Charlie's part is that of foster father to the boy, and in the role he commits the most delightful humor and ludicrous comedy that he has ever given to the screen. But there are no shifts away from the plot to give him a chance merely to do some trick. Every laugh—and the story forms with them—is caused by a step onward in the career of the Kid.

While supporters of the story hail "The Kid" as a sign of the conversion of the comedian to their theory, friends of Mr. Chaplin know that for many years he bewailed the fact that the public would not let him play dramatic stories. To produce "The Kid" he voluntarily relinquished work on a contract paying him $1,000,000 a year in order to devote his time to the production, the story of which he wrote himself. The fact that it took him nearly a year to make it runs the money cost up, in figuring what he might have earned, to a frightful extent, but to the comedian it is a justification of the idea that, given the role, even a clown can be human in a logical way.

The American Red Cross has turned over more than $700,000 worth of medical and hospital supplies from its European stocks and from stores on this side of the Atlantic, which are not needed at home, to be used in the famine districts of Russia, as the initial step of the Red Cross to provide medical assistance so sorely needed in that section. Four tons of medicines and drugs, thirty-five cartons of hospital clothing, valued at $630,000 are from the European stocks of the Red Cross, according to cable advices received at the National Red Cross headquarters in Washington. Other shipments include $50,000 worth of towels and blankets for hospital use, and thirty-five cases of surgical dressings.

HIGH SCHOOL TRIMS PICK-UP TEAM

The Clayton High School registered their first victory of the football season here on Thursday, when they defeated a team composed of several men who are working on the state highway, and some of the town boys. The score, 31 to 0, was so decisive that there could be no dispute. The School boys' work was that of a well trained team and shows that the coach, Ben Terill, is going to have a team that will make all the schools in this part of the country look to their laurels. The high school lineup is extremely heavy, both in avoirdupois and head work, and we look forward to a very successful season on the football field this year.

HOW COTTON SAVED THE SOUTH THIS YEAR

The year 1921 will long be remembered as the season in which Nature went out of its way to decrease the yield of cotton. Fortunately, the very large carry-over of something like 7,000,000 bales from previous seasons was instrumental in saving the farmers throughout the South from very hard times. The reason for this is that the sensational rise in price from 12 cents to 22 cents per pound was not brought about by business inflation and industrial expansion, which was the primary uplifting power of 1918, 1919 and 1920, but the 1921 rise was due to a crop shortage.

Hence, the 10 cent per pound upturn might have meant little if production was about cut in half had there not been a big carry-over. There is no profit even in selling for twice the price if one holds but half the quantity. One outstanding feature of a crop calamity is the manner in which Nature, the original fatalist, skips here and there, cutting down the yield in one field and for no apparent reason increasing the yield, or at least allowing a normal yield in another. Some communities are blessed and others follow into disfavor.

With strange human perversity the average farmer, when cotton prices were around 30 cents last year, refused to bring his crop to market in the expectation of even higher prices. We all know what happened. Cotton futures dropped like a plummet of lead in the briny deep, and this season the average farmer thought that there would be no bottom. This caused a heavy "to market movement," but fortunately the carry-over of 7,000,000 bales proved so large that it could not be brought to market fast enough to be sold before the big recent upturn in price. That is why the recent big advance in cotton has been the financial salvation of the South. It came as a big surprise but, nevertheless, was most welcome, notes the Sugarman's Indicator.

It is important in the individual, in the home, in the community and in the church. We are expecting a real Rally Day.

The Christian Endeavor will meet at 6:45 p. m. and the pastor will preach again at 7:30 p. m. We are a small church with a big task, and a hearty welcome for you. Be our guest at all of these services.
