La Junta, Colo., July 29.—Lightning which struck the opera house here early this morning, started a fire that destroyed that building and two adjoining structures. It caused a panic among three score lodgers on the upper floors of the Pierce block and injury to half a dozen persons. One of these is seriously hurt. For a time the whole city was threatened, but a deluge of rain which followed the lightning enabled the firemen to confine the flames to three buildings. The loss is about $50,000.

BRUTAL MURDER AT SOCORRO

Emil Katzenstein Falls Victim to Bullet of an Assassin

JEALOUSY WAS THE MOTIVE

Sheriff and Mounted Police in Pursuit of Murderer and His Brother.

"Watch out for Frank Conway, five feet eight inches tall, blonde, brown hair, elongated face, and his brother, Sam, tall, delicate looking, a blonde, blue eyes." This was the message received today by local authorities from Sheriff Geronimo Sanchez of Socorro county. The brothers are wanted to explain the killing of Emil Katzenstein, last night at Socorro. The murder occurred near the Richards hotel at 8:45 p. m. Katzenstein was 22 years old and had lived in the Gem City the last sixteen years.

The victim died half an hour after the shooting, a revolver bullet having entered in front at the left side two inches below the heart, penetrating the body. The Conways had been employed for the past three weeks as cook and dish washer respectively at the Richards hotel. Sheriff Sanchez, Probate Clerk Sweet, Charles Stewart and L. R. Lewis started on after the murderers, but owing to the darkness could make no headway. A coroner's jury has been empaneled to investigate.

The dead man was manager of the Socorro Bottling Works, held in high esteem as an energetic young business man and was active in the promotion of the new Socorro county athletic league having been out playing baseball with the boys the afternoon before his death.

When he was shot it is said the deceased was accompanied by Miss Amanda Montgomery, an employee of the hotel, and the murder is believed to be the outcome of jealousy. As far as can be learned Katzenstein was unarmed and quite unprepared for any murderous attack. The father and mother and two brothers of the deceased left here about a year ago for Las Cruces where they now reside and he also leaves a sister, Mrs. Papiachi at Kelly, this county.

The sheriff has organized a posse to go in immediate pursuit of the murderers and every effort will be made to capture the perpetrators of what appears to have been an extremely brutal crime. The co-operation of the officers in adjoining counties is earnestly requested in running him down.

Conway is described as five feet eight inches tall, fair complexion, face rather long with a nervous affection of the lower jaw; weight 160 to 180 pounds, age between 35 and 40. He has served in the army and has a military carriage. Katzenstein was unmarried. His tragic death has roused the greatest indignation in Socorro.

SPAIN FACING ANOTHER CRISIS

Rupture Between Government and Vatican Seems Imminent

IT MAY MEAN REVOLUTION

Display of Insignia of Non-Catholic Societies at Church Is Offensive.

Madrid, July 29.—Ominous reports are heard following the publication of the news that a rupture between the Spanish government and the Vatican is imminent. At San Bestian, Don Jaime, the Spanish pretender, has issued a manifesto in which he says he will lead the Carlists in the battle, which he intimates may be coming soon. It is expected that Premier Canalejas will ask King Alfonso to set the stamp of his approval on the course the premier has adopted. The Vatican has declared that the negotiations looking to the revision of the concordat cannot be continued until the imperial decrees permitting non-Catholic societies to display their insignia at public worship have been withdrawn. Canalejas has responded that he cannot cancel the program the government has announced.

King Alfonso Supports Minister.

Madrid, July 29.—In some quarters it is believed that the Holy See counts on the fall of the government. Canalejas, however, is said to have had the assurance of the king's support at the time he determined on his plan for religious reforms.

Precipitating a Conflict.

Madrid, July 29.—El Mundo, discussing the threatened break between the Spanish government and the Vatican over the refusal of Premier Canalejas to rescind the imperial decree which permits non-Catholic societies to display their insignia for public worship, says: "The Holy See has no reason to feel offended. It is heading deliberately toward a rupture which will precipitate the opening of a rapid and energetic anti-clerical campaign."

The robbers did not touch the mail pouches and after robbing the women immediately fled to the mountains.

NEW PRESIDENT FOR ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE.

Brother Edward Succeeds Brother James Who Was Only Recently Appointed Head of College.

To the surprise and regret of his many friends, Brother James Walter, president of St. Michael's College, has resigned his position. It is said that ill health has made it necessary for him to seek another climate. Brother James was only recently appointed president of the college, succeeding the late Brother Hermes who died here this winter. While president, Brother James is said to have shown executive ability of a high order and the energy of a young man who had enjoyed exceptional educational advantages and who had a practical business training besides.

The successor of Brother James is Brother Edward who comes from St. Louis and is said to be a man of scholarly attainments and ripe experience. He was principal of St. Vincent's school in St. Louis and has enjoyed the confidence of his superiors.

PRESIDENT RAWN SHOT HIMSELF

Whether Death Was Accidental or Suicidal, Jury Does Not Say

CARRIED $110,000 INSURANCE

Question of Intent Will Be Fought Out Between Companies and Family.

Chicago, Ill., July 29.—The coroner's jury which has been inquiring into the death of Ira G. Rawn, late president of the Monon railway, returned a verdict early this morning that Mr. Rawn died from a shot received from his own weapon by his own hand. "But whether this was accidental or with suicidal intent, this jury is unable to determine except that the location of the wound and the type of the revolver, rendered the accidental theory less probable." The verdict is so worded as to show that the jurors believed Mr. Rawn was responsible for his own death, but left the question of accidental or suicide to be fought out by the family and insurance companies. Mr. Rawn carried $110,000 in accident insurance.

THE WAY DENVER TREATS ITS PARASITES.

Compelled to Work on the Streets in the Boiling Sun—No Mercy For Them.

Denver, Colo., July 29.—Under the direction of Chief Armstrong eight macquereaux, whose proudest heretofore has been that a woman bought their clothes, have exchanged their fancy hosiery and pink embroidered shirts for the blue denim overall of commerce, and under the supervision of a policeman are engaged in shoveling sand in the bed of Cherry creek. Eight long hours they labor, and their reward at the end is a piece of stale bread and some black chicory. Then they are permitted to stretch their sun-blistered bodies of the rude benches in the "bull-pen" and rest preparatory to another day of toil.

"Sun-blisters" is the word, too, for the young men who have been compelled to live on the wages of women's shame, knowing nothing of work under the boiling sun, took off their shoes and socks and rolled up their sleeves the first day they were taken out. As a result the sun soon burned them the color of parboiled lobsters, and the next day they were unable to get their shoes on.

Their condition won no sympathy from their taskmasters, who hustled them out and made them work right through. This under instructions from Chief Armstrong, who says that while the macquereaux law may be void, he does know that he is able to work them in the chain gang without danger of damage suits.

"Maybe I can make men out of some of them by giving 'em a taste of hard work," he said, "and if I can't, why, when they serve out their time in the sand they will be glad to take their coffee-colored skins out of Colorado."

There are thirty men in the chain gang now, and they are working in the creek near Logan street. The majority of them, according to Policeman Hendricks, who guards them, need little urging to work, preferring the air and sunlight to the dark "bull-pen." He has several "trusties" whose special duty is to act as "straw bosses" over the macquereaux and see that they have no respite. They perform their duties well, too, for they have no love for the parasites.

KING MUST DECLARE HE IS FAITHFUL PROTESTANT.

House of Commons Passes Bill Eliminating From Oath Phraseology Offensive to Catholics.

London, July 29.—The bill modifying the declaration of religion required by the king upon his accession passed the House of Commons on the third reading today, by a vote of 254 to 42. The bill not only eliminates the phrases offensive to the Roman Catholic subjects of his majesty but also makes it acceptable to the non-conformists by striking out the proposed statement of adherence to the established church. King George is now required to declare merely that he is a "faithful Protestant."

JUDGE MOODY WILL RETIRE

His Health Is Improving But Duties Will Be Too Arduous

HUGHES FOR CHIEF JUSTICE

President Will Have Two Vacancies to Fill on Supreme Bench.

Magnolia, Mass., July 29.—Associate Justice William H. Moody of the United States supreme court, has definitely stated that he will announce his retirement from the bench before November 15, when an act passed in his behalf by the late Congress expires. Justice Moody's health is improving but he feels he is not strong enough to undertake the arduous duties of the coming term. The President now faces the responsibility of appointing two associate justices and to designate a chief justice. Governor Hughes of New York, undoubtedly will be the new chief justice.

Dr. Hawley Crippen and His Affinity Are Expected to Arrive at Quebec on Sunday.

Father Point, Quebec, July 29.—The steamer Montrose believed to have on board Dr. Hawley Crippen, and his typewriter Ethel Clara Leneve, steamed through the Strait of Belle Isle this morning. The Montrose is expected to reach here on Sunday morning. Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard, traveling on a faster steamer, has outstripped the suspects and will be at Father Point when the Montrose reaches here.

Dr. Crippen is on Board.

Montreal, July 29.—The Montreal Star prints the following from Captain Kendall of the steamer Montrose: "Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve, I am confident, are on board. He is still shaving his mustache and is growing a beard. Dr. Crippen has no suspicion of his identity being suspected. Miss Leneve refrains from talking. The pair have no baggage. Dr. Crippen says regarding his companion, who is disguised as a boy that he is taking her to California."

WANTED TO BLOW UP DAM WITH DYNAMITE.

Drought in Imperial Valley Threatens With Destruction $1,500,000 Worth of Crops.

Imperial, Calif., July 29.—As the result of the desperate situation of the Imperial valley, which is threatened with the destruction of a million and a half dollar worth of crops by drought, a number of men carrying a large quantity of dynamite made a quick run down the river last night, intending to blow up the dam of the California-Mexico Land and Cattle Company which has been accused of diverting the supply of water from the valley. It was found, however, that the company was using only the water which it is entitled to and the party returned. Feeling continues high among the residents of the valley and court proceedings of some form are expected today in an effort to relieve the situation.

MUST STOP SALE OF LIQUOR TO THE INDIANS.

Washington, July 29.—Aroused by reports that liquor dealers in several sections of the country recently have been prying upon the Indians as soon as they receive their annuities, selling them intoxicants in contravention of federal and state statutes, and sending them home penniless, the bureau of Indian affairs took steps to bring about more rigid enforcement of the law. Second Assistant Commissioner Hauke issued instructions to the superintendents and agents of the Indian service, calling their attention to the federal statute. Indian agents were advised also that it was within their power to change the places of paying the annuities in all cases where they fail to secure the necessary co-operation from the local officials in the matter of the sale of liquor to the government wards.

SECOND FIRE SWEEPS ESTANCIA

Business Square in Ashes and Residence of Mayor Destroyed

LOSS RUNS UP TO $20,000

Conflagration Started in Bakery at Nine O'clock Last Evening.

Following close upon the fire that recently destroyed the temporary court house, a hotel and several stores at Estancia, the county seat of Torrance county, eighty miles south of Santa Fe, and while the insurance adjusters were still in town, fire which started last evening at 9 o'clock in a bakery, destroyed a goodly portion of the business section that had been left unscathed by last week's fire. Among the buildings destroyed is the residence of Mayor George H. Van Stone who with his family moved into the house only a short time ago from Santa Fe. The abstract office of Mrs. Nora Brumback was among the buildings destroyed. The loss is estimated to be $20,000 and the insurance $14,000. Estancia has no water supply except from wells and no water was available last night with which to fight the flames.

The buildings destroyed are the City Hall, and restaurant, Mrs. Booth's rooming house, the offices of Mrs. Brumback and Earl Scott, the City Bakery, the City Meat Market, Burrows Brothers' grocery store, a building formerly occupied as a hardware department by the Hughes Mercantile Company, but recently vacated, Sam Jensen's pool hall and the residence of George H. VanStone, the mayor. The only buildings in the entire block that remain are the store of the Hughes Mercantile Company, of which George VanStone is the manager, and a cement block building in which a salon is located.

SANTA FE RAILROAD TIED UP INDEFINITELY.

Twelve Miles of Track in Arizona Washed Out and Trains West of Ash Fork Are Canceled.

Prescott, Ariz., July 29.—A succession of cloudbursts has washed out twelve miles of track on the Santa Fe railroad extending from Crookton, eastward. All trains west of Ashfork have been suspended indefinitely.

East-bound trains will be detoured for the present via the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix lines. An army of workmen has been rushed to the scene of the latest disaster and repairs will be made as fast as possible. The local Santa Fe officials could get no estimate last night of the time it would require to open up the line again.

East-bound trains will be detoured point of the washout east of Holbrook, several carloads of perishable goods being in the wreckage. A gang of laborers was sent to clear away the debris and build a shoo-fly around it. One of the cars contained beer, another oranges and several of them contained automobiles.

Spokane, July 29.—A hundred men are fighting today to save the town of Wardner, Idaho, from a forest fire which has eaten its way to within a mile and a half of town, and this distance is timbered. Dispatches from Wallace, Idaho, say that heavy winds the last few days have spread the flames rapidly and enormous damage has been done. Along Pine Creek, men fighting the fires are dropping exhausted and their places are being taken by their wives.

CHACUN A SON GOUT.
"Oh, Wilderness were Paradise now!"
So sang old Omar, specifying how He'd like some food and friendly company.

Had Omar tried it? Well I wonder now!

I'll tell you, Omar, how the thing would be:

You settle down beneath your shady tree.

Open your Book of Verses and begin—

But oh, the chiggers! Ah, what misery.

Time for your lunch; ants on the Loaf of Bread.

And floating in the Jug of Wine, instead

Of foam and bubbles sparkling in the light.

The grisly corpses of the insect dead.

Your love begins to sing, and sitting there

Beside her, now, as last, does life seem fair.

Alack! The song breaks off with dismal shriek—

There is a caterpillar in her hair!

At length, with thankful heart, at day's decline,

You hasten home to bathe and dress and dine;

And, seated in the candles' golden gleam,

Swear stoutly, "No more Wilderness for mine!"

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Santa Fe People.

Thousands who suffer from back-ache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Santa Fe.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Miss Adela Arias, 106 Griffin St., Santa Fe, N. M., says: "There is no praise too strong for me to give Doan's Kidney Pills. The splendid results I obtained from their use several years ago has been permanent and for that reason, my confidence in them has increased. I suffered from a dull, heavy ache in the small of my back and was subject to headaches and dizzy spells. I always felt tired, had no ambition and was poor in health when I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. It did not take them long to cure me and from that day to this, I have been free from kidney complaint. I willingly confirm the public statement I gave in January, 1907, telling of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THE SANTA FE IN NEW MEXICO

How Many of the More Familiar Stations Received Their Name

RICH IN STORY AND ROMANCE

Historic Trail That Was Route for Commerce for Many Decades.

Chalmers L. Pancoast, who recently visited Santa Fe, tells the following interesting story in the Santa Fe Employees' Magazine as to the origin of a number of familiar station names in the southwest:

The New Mexico division of the Santa Fe system, rich in stirring history and romance, begins at La Junta, Colo., which is but a short distance from the ruins of Bent's Fort, one of the bloody arenas in the days of the old Santa Fe Trail. Some of the most interesting history of the west has been made since the old wagon trail was replaced by the iron trail of the Santa Fe. In 1880, when the first train over the Santa Fe arrived in ancient Santa Fe there began the interesting story of the iron trail—a story of progress and development—and at that time the blood curdling and turbulent history of the old wagon trail was closed forever.

The iron trail of the Santa Fe has become a route of commerce which will remain forever a monument of success. The railroad men who have given their services faithfully in building and maintaining this pathway, which was to replace the old trail, deserve a place in modern history. However, it is impossible to name all the men responsible for the excellent organization on the New Mexico division, because thousands of men have put forth their best efforts in the maintenance of this well operated section of our great system.

One of the most interesting points about the Santa Fe is the derivation of the names of the towns. The New Mexico division has especially interesting history concerning its many stations.

After leaving La Junta, so named from the junction of the Mora and Sappio rivers, the first station is Ormea, a name taken from the Spanish and meaning "ant." Benton was named in honor of Thomas H. Benton United States Senator from Missouri, who was prominent in securing the annexation of the Territory of New Mexico. Timpas was named after the stream, Timpas, which runs into the Arkansas. The station of Ayer honors a division superintendent of the Santa Fe. Symons was named in memory of a former master mechanic on the New Mexico division. One of the big cattle men of the southwest, whose name was Bloom, founded the station of that name. Delhi is one of those stations whose names seems to know why it became so called. West was named for Ed West. The station of Thatcher was named in honor of Judge Thatcher of Pueblo, Colo., now deceased.

There are many historical spots along this part of the railroad that are full of thrills and which appeal to the imagination most forcibly. Simpson is just such a spot. It was named in memory of George Simpson once a noted mountaineer and trapper in the days of the great fur companies. On the summit of a rock-ribbed elevation, in view of the railroad at Trinidad, the shaft of an obelisk marks the grave of the old trapper. The peak is known as Simpson's Rest and is one of the notable landmarks of that rugged country.

The name of the next station, Tyrona, is from the Spanish word meaning "mud dried bricks." Poso means "a hole in the ground." The reason for the naming of Earl and Kadrew can not be learned. It is supposed the names were selected because they were short and not similar to the names of other stations. The station of Hoehnes takes its name from the man who owned the land in that section. El Moro is a Spanish word meaning "the Moor." The city of Trinidad, whose name is taken from the Spanish word meaning "trinity," marks the beginning of adobe architecture and Mexican settlements. It has been prominent in the making of railroad history, because of its large coal, coke, iron and wool industries.

Vice President W. B. Jansen of the Santa Fe, is responsible for the name of the station called Jansen. Gallinas is a Spanish word meaning "chickens." Morley was named after W. R. Morley, one of the engineers who directed the course of the strips of steel through New Mexico. Morley is said to have been responsible for the original survey of the New Mexico division. But more of that later.

The next station was named in honor of Uncle Dick Wootton, the veteran mountaineer, whose generous spirit enabled the Santa Fe to enter New Mexico at the only feasible point on the north. Dick Wootton had more to do with the making of railroad history in the southwest than he has ever been given credit for. The greatest obstacle to overcome in the building of the New Mexico division was getting over Raton Pass and the Glorieta mountains. Many veteran railroad men in New Mexico remember when the old "switch back" was used on Raton Pass. Even now, with the two tunnels at the summit, the grade up Raton Pass is remarkably steep, and two powerful mountain engines are required to haul the train at a pace hardly faster than a walk. The bold and rough scenery of the famous old pass has inspired railroaders with its grandeur, as it did the early frontiersmen. It was on top of this same lofty plateau that caravans and pack trains rested their tired animals. But in those days it was an arduous struggle of several hours to reach the summit. At the time Uncle Dick Wootton operated his tollgate Raton Pass was known as the gateway into New Mexico, just as it is today. The ruins of an old toll house—an abandoned and dismantled dwelling—stand today a short distance east of the summit. Uncle Dick Wootton always favored the coming of the railroad. He was so liberal in his concessions of a right of way through the historical pass that his name is deserving of a prominent place in the history of the New Mexico division.

Raton.

Raton is named from the Raton mountains. It is a name given by the early Spaniards to this range, meaning both mouse and squirrel. It had its origin either in the fact that one of its several peaks bore a fanciful resemblance to a squirrel or because of the immense number of the little rodents found in its pine forests. The tunnel at Raton Pass opens into an old world of wonderful historical interest, and yet I found the men of the railroad world more interesting than those I met in books of history. The engineers, conductors, brakemen and switchmen, and all the men who serve the iron horse, aroused in me an admiration that is usually felt for men who are doing a great work. (In my enthusiasm over men who are loyal to railroad I have drifted from the story of the naming of the stations.)

The station of Dillon was named in honor of Judge Dillon, a prominent lawyer in New Mexico. Otero was so named to keep fresh the memory of M. A. Otero, former delegate to Congress from New Mexico and who was active in giving assistance to the Santa Fe in securing a right of way into New Mexico. He was the father of ex-Governor Otero. Dorsey was named after Senator S. W. Dorsey, who owned a large cattle ranch east of the station. Schomberg was named after C. A. Schomberg, an officer of the Maxwell land grant. Maxwell City marks the center of the Maxwell land grant, a rich empire of two million acres, along the eastern edge of which the Santa Fe line is built for sixty miles. The Maxwell land grant, which was at one time the largest land grant on this continent, is now divided into farms, ranches and mining properties. Maxwell City derived its name from Lucian B. Maxwell. The station called French was named in honor of Captain W. S. French, who was an officer of the Maxwell concern.

Gato is a Spanish word, meaning "cat." Toril is a Spanish name given to the station because of the cattle raising industry in that section. Frank Springer, former solicitor for the Santa Fe and president of the Maxwell land grant company, gave the name Springer to the station so well known as a shipping point. The station of Rayado got its name from a mountain stream near by. The name of Colmor was taken from Colfax and Mora counties. The station is located on the boundary line between the two. Nolan is a station named after the president of the Nolan land grant. Levy was named in honor of J. Levy, a veteran contractor on the Santa Fe at the time of the construction of the New Mexico division. Wagon Mound which is named from two mountains in the vicinity of the station, is one of the interesting landmarks of the dangerous days of the old Santa Fe Trail. The Comanches and the Utes were there because of the basal deposits in the mountains, and it was naturally a dangerous point.

George W. Bond, for whom the station of Bond was named, was a prominent merchant of the territory. Tip-ton got its name from an American family, the descendants of which still reside in that vicinity. Captain Shoemaker, for whom Shoemaker station was named, was a popular officer at Fort Union in the early days. Watrous was named in honor of a prominent old Spanish settler and ranch-

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. Ford, 2207 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge.

man who was well known in the old Santa Fe Trail days. In the early days Watrous was immensely wealthy. He rendered valuable service to the Santa Fe in getting a right of way through that section. At the present time Mr. Watrous resides in Las Vegas, and in his old age he has had the misfortune to lose his eyesight. The station of Kroenig's got its name from an old settler who was a heavy landholder. Onava is an Indian name of doubtful origin. Azul is a Spanish name meaning "blue." Arriba means "above." The station is on an elevation above the beautiful and growing city of Las Vegas. Las Vegas was named "The Meadows" by the early Spanish explorers. There will be a greater significance to the name "The Meadows" when the large irrigation project now being carried through it put into operation. This is a story in itself and will be treated as such. Las Vegas is the home of railroad men who have shown great civic pride in their city. This is the reason it has always been a popular division point. The station Romero derived its name from Don Trinidad Romero, who was a former member of Congress. Ojita is a Spanish name meaning "little spring." Judge Sulzbacher, for whom the next station was named, formerly lived in Las Vegas; later he was a United States judge in Porto Rico and Indian Territory, but he now lives in Kansas City.

The line from Las Vegas climbs the Glorieta range of the Rockies through the Glorieta Pass, at an altitude of 7,453 feet. The next station in the upclimb is Chapelle, formerly known as Bernal, an interesting point because it is the nearest station to Starvation Peak, which in early history was known as Bernal Hill, the boundary line of four large land grants. A great many tragic legends exist regarding Starvation Peak. One is that a band of Mexicans were surrounded here by Navajo Indians at the time the Santa Fe was being built and were starved to death. Others say that the cross on the summit was placed there by the Brotherhood of Penitents. The peak has always been a prominent landmark, and the existence of an historical name makes it more important. The station of Chapelle was named in honor of Archbishop Chapelle, of the see of New Mexico, who afterward went to the Philippines and then to New Orleans where he died a martyr to the cause of driving out the yellow fever plague.

Blanchard was named in honor of Judge Blanchard, a pioneer now living at Las Cruces. Ribera, formerly known as San Miguel, was named from an old Spanish family, a large number of the descendants still living near the station. George E. Sands for whom Sands was named, was at one time superintendent of the New Mexico division, later general superintendent of the Santa Fe, and then general superintendent of the St. Louis Bridge and Ferry Company. The station of Glise was named for Cassius C. Glise, a prominent citizen of Las Vegas, now deceased. Rowe was named in memory of one of the early civil engineers working on the construction of the railroad, the man who supervised the building of the bridge over the Colorado river.

Pecos was so named to mark the crumbling ruins of the old Pecos church, the most venerable pile of ruins in New Mexico. The ruins are four miles from the Pecos station but are in plain view from the railroad. This spot is said to mark the site of the Aztec city where Montezuma was born and lived. The ruins are said

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

GUARANTEE OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY TO THE PEOPLE OF NEW MEXICO.

The pledging of all delegates to the constitutional convention, elected from the ranks of the Republican party, to the adoption of a safe, sound and fundamentally simple constitution, which will guarantee and preserve to all the people of the proposed new state all of their civil, political and religious rights, and which shall be sufficiently broad, expansive and flexible to authorize and insure legislation necessary to secure the best welfare of the people of all classes and conditions.

LET US NOT BE FOOLISH.

Under the above heading, the Arizona Republican of Phoenix, reads Arizona a lesson that applies just as strongly to New Mexico. It says:

"An Arizona contemporary, in a spirit of defiance, exclaims:

"The people of Arizona will write and adopt a constitution to their own liking and Congress can do what it deems best. This constitution is to govern the people of Arizona and not Congress, and we will do our duty as we see it, and let Congress take the responsibility."

"Now, do not let us be foolish about this thing, and we have faith enough in the citizenship of the territory to believe that nothing foolish will be done at the constitutional convention, though, doubtless, it will be attempted."

"It is true that our constitution will be for us and not directly for Congress, but then, Congress has the concluding and deciding word in any controversy that may arise between us and Congress as to what kind of a constitution we shall have. The suggestion to let Congress take the responsibility of turning down any constitution we may send for its approval is hardly necessary. Congress stands ready to take that responsibility. Its readiness in that respect is fully apparent in the statehood bill."

"From the beginning we have heard a great deal of this defiant talk. Much of it is bluff, but some of it is genuine, though it is not expressive of any considerable part of the sentiment of the territory—of either Republicans or Democrats."

"There are persons, though not a great many of them in ratio to all the voters of the territory, who would like to have a constitution which Congress and the President would not approve. They would like to have a constitution which the voters of the territory would refuse to ratify. They would welcome any sort of intervention that would prevent statehood."

"There are people in Arizona who have never wanted statehood. There are others who, for one reason or another, do not want statehood now."

"No man who is honestly for statehood is going to risk a hopeless quarrel with Congress and the President over the question of the constitution. Every such a man, whether or not he likes the constitution which the convention may adopt, will be willing to trust to the future for such a constitution as may meet his views, for he understands that unless Congress approves the constitution there will be no constitution for a period so indefinite that the end of it cannot be guessed at."

NEED OF GOOD ROADS.

B. F. Yoakum in an address yesterday at the Good Roads convention at Niagara Falls asserted that poor roads cost the farmers of the United States something like $225,000,000 a year, an average of more than $2 for every man, woman and child in the United States. New Mexico's share of that unnecessary expense exceeds half a million dollars, in fact, probably reaches a million dollars. Mr. Yoakum says that the only way to get good roads is to fight for them. It is to good roads that this country must look largely for its future growth and development. He quotes the splendid old town of Fredericksburg in Texas, which for some years has had a purse of $100,000 hung up for any railroad that would build to it, but has found no takers. It is only fifty miles to the big city of San Antonio and the people of Fredericksburg have now decided to put the money into a first class highway over which automobiles and traction engines will give them the same service as a railroad. It is a good example for New Mexico towns to follow, for next to a railroad, a good road furnishes the best outlet for home products and at the same time attracts visitors and settlers.

THE DANGER OF CORPORATION BAITING.

"It is popular with a certain class these days to howl against Corporations," says the Democratic Bisbee Review. The pin-headed politician, the demagogue and the socialist agitator, when all other efforts fail, revert to the old stock hue and cry against Corporations.

"In Arizona we have the usual selection of corporations composed of commercial, mining, railroad and municipal. These corporations are necessary to carry on our big industrial enterprises. The capital necessary for these industries has only been secured by the forming of corporations and Arizona today is in need of more corporations with large capital to continue the development of our mines, build more railroads and erect factories, thereby adding to the wealth of the new state of Arizona."

"Arizona will receive a severe setback if the impression is permitted to go abroad that the new state of Arizona is opposed to corporations, for it is only through the employment of corporate wealth that our greatest advancement will be made."

"In Colorado county we have our usual quota of corporations. Some are small and financially embarrassed; some are great and wealthy; some are engaged in commercial pursuits, others are developing our vast mineral resources, and the greatest of all is the railroad corporation. The Review is quick to admit that corporations, controlling public utilities, are proper subjects of legislation and control; also corporations which band themselves together into trusts and monopolies must be regulated for the general welfare of the people. The United States has made a long stride forward in trust legislation during the past five years and more will be accomplished in the desired direction in the future but it is time that the average citizen draw the line between trusts, monopolies and grasping public utility corporations and those corporations which are engaged in industrial enterprises, the same as any individual, only on a larger scale. We fail to see any difference whether the Imperial Copper Company is owned by a corporation or an individual. We fail to see that it makes any difference whether the Arizona & Eastern Railway Company is a branch of the Southern Pacific corporation or is owned by an individual. Both the Imperial Copper Company and the Arizona & Eastern Railroad Company are doing great things for the development of Arizona and the men at the head of these corporations are to be congratulated and encouraged rather than abused and criticised. Our anti-trust laws, will take care of these corporations and individuals who seek to exploit the people. This continual howl against the Corporations in general is silly. At least let us ask the agitators, the demagogues and the small bore politicians to be a little more specific in their utterances. If persisted in Arizona may be avoided by legitimate capital much needed for our more rapid development."

MAN'S BEST FRIEND.

The dairy cow, if able to express herself in a way which the human family would comprehend, might lay claim to being man's best friend. She might establish such a claim by calling attention to the fact that from her product and from her carcass man manufactures more of the necessities of life than from any other similar source. She furnishes these necessities to him from infancy until such a time as temporal things are no longer associated with his existence, and she does it ungrudgingly and constantly. In addition to contributing to man's necessity and his pleasure, the prosperity of an agricultural community is more closely identified with her than with any other of the domestic animals. The horse is quite essential in tilling the soil, but where necessity requires it the sturdy son of the cow can take his place, as he has done in every agricultural section on earth. The horse can only furnish labor and can only return a profit to his owner when conditions are right for return in satisfactory grain crops. It is a well known fact that the dairy cow is the salvation of the farmer in times of poor crops as she is able to convert the rough crops which are never a total failure, into dairy products which always have a cash value.

In addition to this she furnishes skim milk and butter milk for the calves, pigs and poultry and fertility for the soil, without which a farm becomes less valuable each year and the whole country less prosperous. The elimination of the dairy cow would necessitate an almost revolutionary readjustment of man's tastes and requirements. It would mean untold suffering and hardship. Of course she will not be dispensed with but her value can perhaps best be appreciated by contemplating such a loss.

She will continue to be man's best friend as long as the human family exists and will keep on supplying him with his greatest needs just as she has done through all the ages.

Few people have any idea of the enormous amount that it costs to run the larger municipalities and even the smaller towns of the United States. There is probably no town in the United States one-half as large as Santa Fe that gets along with so little income. People here consider the debt of Santa Fe county an enormous burden, but it does not reach $100 per capita, while the per capita debt of the municipality of New York alone exceeds $127.74. Even Cincinnati has a debt of $128.63 per head; Boston of $119.48; Galveston $113.07; Portland, Me., $107.41; Newton, Mass., $106.13; Pueblo, Colo., $104.61, and Pawtucket, R. I., $103.78. Of the large cities, Detroit has the smallest indebtedness, $26.02 per capita, a mere bagatelle, compared with New York's burden, and yet, a similar per capita debt for Santa Fe would net this city $130,000, or more than enough to give it the much to be desired sewer system, a boulevard or two, a municipal building and still leave a nest egg for future needs.

Congress is not trying to buy New Mexico with a mess of pottage. New Mexico does not need to be bought to favor statehood, but President Taft and Congress insist on a safe, sane constitution, a fundamental law which will leave mere legislation where it belongs, with future legislatures. Not that it makes any difference, personally, to the President, or any member of Congress, but that they have the welfare of this commonwealth at heart. The gift of lands which will increase the endowment of this territory, if it adopts the right kind of a constitution and is admitted as a state, to 13,159,794 acres, is worth at the minimum price $50,000,000, and will assure an income for schools and institutions of $1,500,000, which is more than the entire tax income of New Mexico now. It is not a bagatelle to be thrown aside lightly because of immature notions about unsound things that some may desire to have written in the constitution.

There are some things that Denver has that Santa Fe hasn't. But it costs Denver $24.44 for every man, woman and child, to run its municipal government. At the same rate of expenditure, it would cost Santa Fe $120,000 or more a year for its city government. As it is, Santa Fe gets along with less than $12,000 a year. And life in Santa Fe is quite livable. Despite its large police force, there are more murders, hold-ups, robberies and other crime per capita in Denver than in Santa Fe. Despite large sums expended for street lighting, there are dark alleys and streets in Denver. Despite the thousands spent on the streets, there are thoroughfares in the Queen City of the Plains worse than the worst in Santa Fe. Not that Santa Fe couldn't and wouldn't spend $120,000 a year if it had it, but that it can get along with one tenth as much and still be comfortable.

The New Mexican agrees with the Las Vegas Optic in its attitude against inserting into the constitution mere legislation that ought to be written in the statutes, and in keeping out their best are only in the experimental stage and have not been sufficiently tried out. As to what ought to go into the constitution, it also agrees with its contemporary, that one of its clauses should provide for the limitation of the public debt, especially county debts, and is willing to go as far as it, in advocating that counties should be prohibited altogether from incurring debt for any purpose whatever, especially since the enabling act lifts the present indebtedness from each county.

The citizens of Farmington and vicinity, more far-seeing than was Santa Fe recently, have voted by decided majority for a Greater Farmington. It means the addition of considerable population and of $300,000 worth of taxable property. When it is considered that the assessment of the city of Santa Fe is only twice $200,000, it can readily be understood that from now on, Farmington is on the map of the big towns of the territory and may in ten years pass Santa Fe in population, just as it already has passed this city in taxable wealth.

The heat is not modified any by the many important political conventions that are in session one after the other. This is considered an off year politically as far as the nation is concerned and it is an encouraging sign that a healthful public interest is maintained in the meetings of party conventions in states and congressional districts. Sharply defined issues are again before the people and the battle to be fought is the world old conflict between conservatism and radicalism with the Liberals holding middle ground.

The zeal with which certain Democratic newspapers have been urging railroads to come to their towns, even offering large subsidies, makes it difficult to explain, why these same newspapers should now be ranting against railroads and other corporations. Men are queer animals and newspaper editors are merely men.

The New Mexican seconds the motion of the baseball fans in a communication yesterday that the two or more local baseball teams get together and organize one good team from the material in both. It will be lighter on the local purse and better for the sport.

In this day of political mutations, it is rather extraordinary that so high and lucrative an office as that of the clerk of the supreme court should be filled for twelve consecutive years by one man. Judges have come and judges have gone but Hon. Jose D. Sosa stayed on his job. It speaks volumes for his efficiency and integrity that such is the case.

Weather Observer Linney Observed Thief Making Off With the 'Cold Wave.'

Will the robber who stole the two gallons of vanilla ice cream from the kitchen of the manse adjoining the

First Presbyterian church last night kindly return the container?

This is the query and request of members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church which met last night on the manse lawn for an ice cream social. The query is prompted by the act of some man in an ice cream suit who stole the ice cream making the ice cream social much like the play of Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

Said one of the young folks at the social in discussing the affair today: "Of course we purchased more cream, I should say two gallons or more, when the discovery was made. It appears that C. E. Linney, the weather expert, caught sight of the thief departing through the window and tracks were found afterward. There can be no doubt that some undesirable person took the cream and there is no use crying over spilt milk or melted ice cream. We would like that container returned, however."

The ice cream was left in the kitchen adjoining the manse and the thief evidently entered a window while the young folks were outside anticipating with pleasure the taste of the vanilla flavored delicacy.

IN NEW MEXICO'S POLITICAL PASTURES

This evening a Republican rally will be held at the court house at Las Vegas. A Republican club of several hundred members will be organized at the same time.

John W. Poe, of Roswell, has formally declined to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination from Chaves county for a delegateship to the constitutional convention.

The resignation of Hovel A. Smith, of Bisbee, Ariz., as chairman of the central Republican committee of Arizona has caused much comment. Attorney Albert A. Sames, of Douglas, has been elected as his successor.

"Attorney Jennings came up from Willard last evening. We understand that he is the Democratic candidate for delegate to the constitutional convention from that part of the county and will likely be nominated."—Willard Record.

"The Spanish-American Republican Club voluntarily is aiding the deputies appointed by the county recorder to make a new registration of voters. Each voter can materially assist in this work by seeing that his name is on the great register."—Tucson Citizen.

"The address of Ralph C. Ely at the Armory last night was a refreshing presentation of the real citizenship after the flood of sociopopocratic ideas that have turned loose during the past few weeks. It was the same view of a most important question and very naturally made a deep impression upon the hundreds of voters present, even among the considerable number of Democrats, not all of whom are in sympathy with the revolutionary lines followed by the majority of the party in the Pecos valley."—Roswell Register Tribune.

The Democratic Jeffersonian Club at Roswell voted down the following resolution: "Resolved, That the Democratic central committee will put upon the official ballot the names of all candidates for the nomination who will file with the secretary a petition or endorsement signed by fifty Democratic voters, and sign these resolutions, which shall stand as an agreement between all of the candidates to use no money in canvassing for any purpose whatever, to spend no money during the campaign except the necessary announcements in the newspapers, to hire no vehicles on primary election day, and to seek no influence in no wrongful way the votes of any person whatsoever. The purpose of this is to allow many worthy men who would make excellent delegates to run on the same basis as the candidates who would spend money freely, perhaps with a knowledge born of experience in such things. It is democratic to treat all candidates exactly alike, and it is to give them all the same rights that these resolutions are submitted. No candidate who refuses to sign these articles shall be certified or otherwise recognized by the central committee."

This is the way that the Silver City Independent, of which W. B. Walton, Democratic territorial chairman, is the editor, figures it out:
 "It is just as impossible to tell how the 100 delegates in the New Mexico constitutional convention will be divided as it is to name the next president of the United States. It is not very difficult to figure out the result in twenty of the twenty-six counties, but the result in the doubtful counties may upset the best calculations. There are eleven counties, with 31 delegates, that the Democrats are reasonably certain to carry; and there are nine counties, with 42 delegates, that are nearly as safely Republican. The remaining six counties, with 21 delegates, constitute the battle ground. Using this as a basis, and placing the counties in the three columns where conditions seem to indicate they properly belong, we have the following result:

Republican.			Democratic.			Doubtful.			Rep. Dem.
Bernalillo	8		Chaves	4		Colfax	6		3	3
McKinley	1		Curry	2		Dona Ana	4		3	1
Mora	5		Eddy	2		Guadalupe	4		3	1

Santa Fe	5		Otero	3

"The figures to the right in the doubtful column indicate the possible result in the doubtful counties. This seems to be a fair estimate, and if the calculation hold good the total result would be: Republican 55, Democrats 45. If the Democrats carry Colfax, as they did two years ago, and secure the entire delegation, the representation of the two parties would be almost equal. If the Democrats succeed in Rio Arriba—they carried that county two years ago—the Republican majority would become a minority. At all events it means a close, hard fight, with a minority in either case sufficiently strong to command attention."

Says the Roswell Register-Tribune: "In this issue we print the announcement of the first two Democrats to declare their willingness to serve the people as candidates for delegate to the constitutional convention. The first of these is Mr. J. S. Kirby, city editor of the Register-Tribune. Mr. Kirby was the first of all in the field, and the people will find that he is in the race all right. He is running on his own motion. For nearly two years we have tried to show him that it was a mistake for so good a man to be a Democrat, but it was no use. He was so grounded in Democracy back in Missouri that he is forever wedded to his idols apparently. For twenty years he has been voting the ticket early and often, loyally supporting its candidates and accepting whatever mess of principles they might dish up. He has never been an applicant for office. What strange impulse leads him to want this job passes our understanding, but he does want it, and if any Democrat gets it, he would be a safe man to have it. He is not a lawyer, but he is long on horse sense and good business principles, and would have no part in any freak business. A constitution to get his vote would have to be a safe and conservative one. Whether the Democracy wants that kind of a man rather than a wild-eyed theorist, remains to be seen. The other patriot who is willing is Green G. Patterson, mayor of the town of Patterson up in Township 23. Mr. Patterson is the official candidate of the Farmers' Union, having been instructed to sit in by that body, and is presumably a favorite with the labor element. He is not without experience, having had a powerful hand in rodding the formation of the Oklahoma constitution. He was the state organizer of the union up there in the Gore country, and was the means of seating forty-three delegates in that body, preferring so to do than to be a delegate himself. Naturally he had a strong influence in the formation of the constitution, and is one of those who insist that it is the best charter attached to any American state. Patterson is a fluent and powerful speaker of the granger type, and his campaign may be expected to be full of meteoric spots, as he intends to visit every cross roads in the county, and to give much of his time to street-corner work in Roswell. He will travel by broncho back and carry his own chuck outfit, and may be expected to carry the outskirts all right. Just what the unwashed of Roswell will do with him is another question. As a rule the Democrats of Roswell insist upon naming the men who shall be elected. It may be that he will be able to make a fighting treaty with the ruling classes here, and so be able to get in among the sheep, but so far it is not recorded. The reigning family are not overly fond of him, as was proven when by a clever gerrymander he was removed from the commissioner map. It may be that they want to use him now they will moderate their attitude toward him, and if they do, the nomination will come near his grasp. If they don't he will mix-it with them on their own ground, and has the grit, the gab and the general knowledge to make things interesting for them all."

One of the most interesting developments in the study of the early railroad history of New Mexico is the formation and growth of the various places. Albuquerque is the city it is today because of one man's ignorance of the permanency and importance of the Santa Fe railway. Albuquerque would be nothing more today than an adobe settlement had it not been for this man's mistake. When A. A. Robinson, chief engineer of the construction of the railway into New Mexico, reached Bernalillo he selected that place for the division point. He went to Jose Leander Perea, who owned the desired land, and asked for enough land to establish a terminal. Per-

Sweet Peas, any shade at a popular price, McConvery, 415 Palace Ave.

Don't Fail to See how that poor girl wins her sweetheart after receiving "Her Uncle's Will." It's at the Elks' tonight.

Excitement Over a Copper Mine.—There is a great deal of excitement over the copper prospects located a few miles from Buchanan, Guadalupe county.

Death of Centenarian.—The oldest El Pasano is dead. Simon Hernandez, aged 105, died Wednesday evening at his home in El Paso, Texas, 1007 Hill street. He was a widower, who lived alone.

Should Be Filled Up.—Several holes on the west side of the plaza are filled with stagnant water that is beginning to smell like a sewer. The city authorities should have them filled up with dirt.

Archaeological Society Meeting.—Tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock, a meeting of the Archaeological Society will be held in the rooms at the west end of the Old Palace. President John R. McFie urges all members to attend.

Matt Smith Released on Bond.—Matt Smith, who has been confined in the county jail at Alamogordo charged with holding up train No. 2 on the night of June 9, was released from custody on a $5000 bond. Smith has gone to Carrizozo.

Lincoln Highway Badly Washed Out.—A cloudburst in the mountains above Lincoln washed out four miles of the county road between Lincoln and Capitan, and did considerable damage to the farms along the creeks. It will take several months to put the road in good condition again.

Back From Fishing Trip.—Probate Clerk George W. Armijo, County Treasurer Celso Lopez and party have returned from a successful fishing trip on the upper Pecos, twenty miles east of Santa Fe. Friends of the above named county officials are smacking their chops today for tonight they will have trout for supper.

Special Indulgence.—On the feast of St. Francis, a special plenary indulgence may be gained by Roman Catholics who conform to the usual conditions of confession and communion, and praying for the intention of the Pope. The feast is the feast also of the Cathedral parish and will be observed here with great solemnity.

Improved Mail Facilities.—From August 1 on, the Santa Fe postoffice will make up a lock pouch for Santa Fe train No. 1, to carry mail to Albuquerque. This additional service was secured through the efforts of Postmaster E. C. Burke and the business community should appreciate the improvement in the local mail service.

Supervisor Makes Them Work.—George S. Nutt, recently appointed road supervisor in the southern part of Luna county, has created considerable consternation by making every one in his district use a pick and shovel for three days or pay in $3. There have been more roads built in that section since he took charge than at any time in the history of the county. Incidentally there are many blistered hands in the vicinity of Columbus.

Lighting Struck Here.—Shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon there was a vivid lightning flash in the sky, followed immediately by a terrific thunder clap which alarmed every one. It was feared that lightning had struck some building in the city but as far as could be ascertained this afternoon this was not the case. Several persons with telephones in their houses said that the instant the lightning was seen a great blaze also made its appearance around the telephone. One person thought his house was on fire. Rain followed shortly afterward and at 2:15 p. m. the welcome shower was still doing its good work.

Burglars Busy at Roswell.—Roswell had another burglary when the barber shop of William Hughes on Fifth street was entered and all of the razors and strops stolen. This is the third burglary in the past three days, and it is said that the business men and merchants will hire a private night policeman to aid the regular police department. James Black, who was arrested by deputy sheriff Fred Higgins on the charge of stealing a watch and $10 in money from Chester A. Dorsey, was released from jail without hearing, it being said that there was not sufficient evidence against him to warrant a preliminary hearing. He has instituted suit for damages against Dorsey alleging false arrest and imprisonment.

ENORMOUS INDEBTEDNESS OF LARGE CITIES.

New York Alone Has $684,000,000 Outstanding—Detroit Has Smallest Amount of Obligations Among Big Towns.

Washington, D. C., July 29.—Payments on account of outlays for new properties, or new work, by the 153 largest cities in the United States, each having an estimated population of 30,000 or more in 1908, amounted in the aggregate to $275,003,695 for 1908, compared with $244,117,293 for 1907, according to the census bureau's annual report on the statistics of cities, now in press.

Nearly one-third of the total or $83,417,149, was paid by New York City; Chicago spent $18,093,986; and Philadelphia, $14,473,184. Cities of less than 300,000 inhabitants with the largest payments for outlays were: Los Angeles, $8,259,800; Seattle, $6,485,567; Portland, Me., $4,536,993; Denver, $2,760,902; and Portland, Ore., $2,644,727. Nearly one-third of all outlays, or $80,260,139, was spent on public-service enterprises, nearly one-half of the outlays by New York City being of this character. Nearly another third was spent for highways, and more than one-seventh went for schools and other educational objects. Most of the outlays reported for Portland, Me., were for the purchase by the water district of its water-supply system, and New York City spent more than $10,000,000 in the extension of its water system.

Net Indebtedness of Cities.—The indebtedness of cities is evidenced by such forms of debt obligations as general bonds, special assessment bonds, outstanding warrants, mortgages on real property, and outstanding judgments. The "net" debt is the same as the gross debt, less the sinking fund assets. For purposes of comparison the net indebtedness is of much more significance than the gross indebtedness.

The total net indebtedness of the 153 cities at the close of 1908 was $1,718,000,000, and of this amount $684,000,000, or 39.8 per cent is credited to New York City alone. That city had more than seven times the indebtedness of any other city, and more than one-half of the total of the 29 largest cities of the country. The per capita net debt of New York City was $157.74, and the only other cities having a per capita net indebtedness of over $100 were Cincinnati, $128.61; Boston, $119.48; Calveston, $113.07; Portland, Me., $107.41; Newton, Mass., $106.13; Pueblo, Colo., $104.61; and Paytucket, R. I., $103.78. Of the cities of over 300,000 estimated population, the city having the smallest per capita net debt was Detroit, $26.02. Of the cities having a population of from 100,000 to 300,000, those with the smallest per capita net debt were Indianapolis per capita net debt $17.43, and Scranton, $19.82. Of the cities having from 30,000 to 100,000 population, those having the smallest per capita net debt were Joplin, $8.89; Erie, $10.88; Johnstown, $11.10; Newcastle, $12.45; Terre Haute, $12.56; Davenport, $14.16, and Peoria, $14.59.

The Increase in Net Debt in 1908.

The increase in the net debt for the fiscal year 1908 was $185,877,856, as compared with a similar increase for 1907 of $120,930,631, more than three-fourths of which increase is credited to the 16 largest cities, and nearly one-half of which is credited to New York City.

The only cities of less than 300,000 population increasing their net debt by more than $2,000,000 were Los Angeles, $6,395,254, and Portland, Me., $4,210,922. In the latter city most of this debt was incurred by the water district.

During the year 35 cities reduced their net indebtedness, compared with 42 cities for 1907.

The only cities of over 100,000 population reducing their net debt in 1908 were Washington, D. C.; Kansas City, Mo.; Paterson, N. J.; and Cambridge, Mass.

The report states that in any discussion of indebtedness it should be remembered that the value of public improvements, and especially the amounts expended on public-service enterprises, should be taken into consideration. Many cities own their waterworks, some their lighting plants, and a considerable proportion of the indebtedness of such cities may have been incurred in the purchase or construction of such plants. Thus in New York City 36.9 per cent of the total debt, a much larger percentage than that for most cities, has been issued for the acquisition and extension of such public-service enterprises as the water-supply system, toll bridges, etc., which enterprises are self-supporting.

MOST REMARKABLE WRECK ON D. & R. G. NEAR PUEBLO.

Pueblo, Colo., July 29.—A wreck on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, a few miles north of here, will go down as the most remarkable in the annals of Colorado railroads. While going at a high rate of speed, the engine and every one of the eight cars composing westbound passenger train No. 15, left the rails, and ran along for a considerable distance on the ties and yet not one of the cars turned over and so far as learned not a passenger aboard received so much as a scratch, although all were severely shaken up. The track for several hundred feet was badly torn up.
