STRANGE FREAK OF LIGHTNING AT CLOUDCROFT.

Set Bed on Fire on Which Girl Was Sleeping But She Escaped Serious Injury.

Cloudcroft, N. M., Aug. 24.—During a severe electric storm Monday night lightning struck the top of a big spruce tree near Charles Stevens' cottage and, part of the electric charge deflecting, went down the stove pipe into the room of Miss Wiegant and straight through the bed on which she was sleeping.

Holes the size of a small pencil were bored through the blanket and heavy mattress and comforts on top of the bed, and the bedding was set on fire. Mrs. Stevens saw a bluish flame in the girl's room and ran in and extinguished the burning bed clothes with her bare hands but was uninjured. When she first saw the bed it seemed to be covered with a thin sheet of blue flame like sulphur. No damage was done to the house and nobody was hurt, but the shock was felt by all in the surrounding houses and a shower of chips and pine cones fell on the roofs.

A remarkable detail of the young woman's terrifying experience was the bending and twisting of two metal hair pins in her hair as the bolt went through. She was lying not four inches from the place where the clean hole was bored through the bed. The crash sounded like a bursting bomb.

Colonel Prichard and A. B. Renshan Will Also Speak to Republicans Tomorrow Night.

Governor Mills has accepted the invitation of the Young Men's Republican club to deliver an address to the club tomorrow night at Republican headquarters. Other speakers include Colonel George W. Prichard and Attorney A. B. Renshan.

The club will then be formally organized and Temporary Chairman Charles Fairfield and members of the committees appointed Monday night are hard at work to get a large attendance at tomorrow night's meeting.

"The need of a young men's Republican club has been recognized in Santa Fe and now is the time for the young men to show that interest that will make the club a success," said one of the young Republicans today.

SNOW PUTS OUT FLAMES

Rain in the Valleys Extinguishes Fierce Forest Fires

MANY BRAVE FIGHTERS DEAD

Storm Extended Over Area of One Hundred Square Miles.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 24.—A heavy fall of snow in the mountains and rain in the valleys have done much towards bringing the forest fires under subjection. The storms extended over an area of 100 square miles, going as far east as Helena and taking in the Couer d'Alene district where the fires have been fierce.

All Rangers Safe.

Wallace, Idaho, Aug. 24.—All men on the list of government foresters employed in Idaho have reported to the supervisor or are known to be safe.

Eight Miners Perished.

Wallace, Aug. 24.—All rangers are known to be safe with the exception of Joseph P. Halm, deputy ranger who has performed excellent work and was last seen with his crew north of the Big Fork of the Couer d'Alene river in the district that burned over Saturday night.

Deputy Ranger Edward C. Pulaski of Wallace, whose name has been frequently mentioned for bravery in fighting fires lies on a cot in a hospital blinded in one eye and severely burned on face and on hands. A party of rangers are opening the road from the Bullion mine to Wallace in order that the bodies of eight men who perished at the mine may be brought to Wallace for burial.

Loss of Life Exaggerated.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—Fifty-four persons are known to have perished in the forest fires in Idaho, Montana and Washington. A government crew working on the Big Fork of the Couer d'Alene river has been lost, it is feared, and some government rangers in Montana, brave and resourceful men, are still in the woods, but there is no warrant for the reports of the loss of hundreds of lives.

Washington Free From Fires.

Spokane, Aug. 24.—Washington may be taken from the list of fire-afflicted states. Clayton was saved yesterday after the flames reached the edge of the town, the new part where six persons perished, is out of danger and various small towns that were fighting the fires won the victory. The fires on the Colville reservation are of minor importance.

Twenty Suffocated and Charred.

Avery, Idaho, Aug. 24.—The bodies of twenty employees of the United States forest service were found within a radius of one mile on Setzer creek yesterday by searching parties headed by Deputy Sheriff Charles J. Sullivan, and Edward Bassett. It is expected that other bodies will be found when the trail is opened to Avery, so that more searchers can be sent out. It was known that a party of forest rangers and guards had been in camp and fighting fires on Setzer creek and a flying column of eight men was made up here to seek them. The unfortunates had died where they fell of suffocation and the bodies were charred beyond recognition. No trace remains of the rangers' camp. All the fish in the creek were killed by the heat.

More Fire Fighters Dead.

Avery, Idaho, Aug. 24.—Two Japanese railroad laborers emerged from the woods near Avery last severely burned, and stated that they are the only survivors of a party of 12 engaged in fighting forest fires in an effort to save the property of their employers, the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railway, the others having been burned to death. Four negro soldiers of Company "G," 25th infantry, who went into the woods to fight the fire last week and have not since been heard from, are believed also to have perished.

Fire Fighters Scarce.

Redding, Calif., Aug. 24.—Forest fire near Minerville, Trinity county, has approached to within five and a half miles and has burned its way into a belt of magnificent timber. Every able-bodied man in Lewiston has been drafted to aid the forest rangers to fight the flames. Two other fires are raging in Trinity county, which is sparsely settled and there is difficulty in securing men to fight fires.

Much Roast Mutton.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—The most unpleasant news today came from Sand Point, Idaho, to the effect that the fires at the upper edge of Pend Oreille lake were increasing. The fire on Independence creek is approaching Athol which is also threatened from another direction. Destructive fires prevail in the mountains and there will be much mutton roasted un-

FATAL DUEL OVER WIFE

Californian Killed by Paragon of His Unfaithful Spouse

DISCOVERED UNFAITHFULNESS

Deadly Duel Ensued In Which Woman and Her Father Were Wounded.

Greenfield, Calif., Aug. 24.—During a desperate duel last midnight, in which Frederick W. Becker and N. F. Tognazzini, well-to-do residents of King City were the principals and a shotgun and a rifle were the weapons, Becker was killed and Mrs. Becker and her father, W. D. Fowler, were wounded. The tragedy occurred in a cottage in which Tognazzini and Mrs. Becker were discovered asleep. Becker began shooting, the fire being returned by Tognazzini. Many shots were exchanged, the cottage being riddled with bullets. Becker was fatally wounded dying in a short time. Mrs. Becker was wounded over one eye and, Fowler who accompanied Becker, was shot in the arm. Tognazzini was the only one of four not wounded. He was arrested and charged with murder.

RINGLAND BACK FROM CON-FERENCE WITH GRAVES.

Met Chief Forester and Representative Robert Parsons at Grand Canon, Ariz.

District Forester A. C. Ringland was in the city today on his way to Antonio where he has some forestry matters to look after. Mr. Ringland has just returned from the Grand Canon, Arizona, where he had a conference with Chief Forester Graves. Mr. Graves accompanied by Representative Robert Parsons of New York, made the trip from Utah to the canon and saw some pretty rough country. At the canon Mr. Parsons was met by Mrs. Parsons who recently visited Santa Fe and who rode horseback to Taos.

Mr. Ringland expected to have a lengthy talk with the chief forester but this was impossible as the chief received telegrams from Washington changing his plans. Returning east by way of Albuquerque the chief forester exchanged greetings with Secretary Hitchcock from the rear platform of the train.

"What are you doing out here?" shouted Mr. Hitchcock with a grin.

"Just seeing the landscape," replied Mr. Graves, "and what are you doing, Mr. Secretary?"

"On my way to kill bears," replied the secretary, with another grin seeming his countenance.

Mr. Ringland expressed alarm at the forest fires which have raged for some days and said that the foresters dreaded to look at the monthly bulletins announcing deaths among the rangers. The dispatches received this afternoon, however, will allay the district forester's fears in this regard.

EX-SENATOR WILKINSON CALL IS DEAD.

Died of Cerebral Hemorrhage at the Emergency Hospital at Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—Cerebral hemorrhage was the immediate cause of the death at the emergency hospital here today of former United States Senator Wilkinson Call of Florida. Senator Call was stricken at his Washington home on Saturday. He became unconscious and was conveyed to the hospital where he remained in comatose state until death today.

less the sheep men can drive their great flocks to safety.

More Calls for Troops.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 24.—District Forester W. B. Greely, who for the last ten days has been supervising the fire fighting on the Flathead national forest, is here organizing an expedition to take relief to the burned districts. He said when he left Kallispell, yesterday that there is no danger to the town and settlement of that district. Three companies of soldiers are working on the Flathead and one on the Blackfoot reservations. Repeated requests are being made by Greely for the available soldiers of the northwest. Governor Norris, of Montana, advised Greely that more companies of state troops will be sent immediately to the Couer d'Alene district.

Another Town Destroyed.

Wallace, Idaho, Aug. 24.—J. A. Baylond, who arrived at Wallace today, says that Saltese, Montana, a town of 1,000 was destroyed by fire yesterday without the loss of a single life. He says he saw the fire.

NONE ASHAMED TO PRAY

Some Had Not Done So Since Days of Their Infancy

24 IMPRISONED IN TUNNEL

Sixteen Were Rescued Alive While Other Eight Were Suffocated.

Wallace, Aug. 24.—When 24 men imprisoned in the Bullion mine tunnel abandoned hope of escape, they prepared to die manfully. They changed shifts so that some might hold a blanket over the mine hole while the others prayed for forgiveness of their sins, and wrote farewell messages on scraps of paper to loved ones. All prayed, though some had not done so since infancy. The letters written by eight men who succumbed will be sent to the persons to whom they were addressed. The notes written by the survivors have been returned to them.

FIG GROWERS HAVE TONS GOING TO WASTE.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 24.—Hundreds of tons of figs are going to waste in southwest Texas because preserving plants cannot take care of them. The fig crop has been unusually good this year and moreover the acreage of orchards has been added to considerably. Owing to the fact that the fruit cannot be transported in its raw state any great distance, growers depend entirely on the local market and the preserving plants. While the latter have increased their capacity during the last two years by at least 200 per cent, they have been unable this season to take up more than about three-fifths of the crop.

One of the largest fig packeries in this country will be erected on the Alameda property during the coming year and a number of others will be needed in other parts of southwest Texas. The fig raised principally in these parts is the Magnolia or red fig, though the blue fig is also grown. Certain varieties of the former provide two crops a year, the first one reaching the market about June and the second about the end of September.

HOKE SMITH IS THE VICTOR

Will Succeed His Rival, Joseph Brown as Governor of Georgia

CANNON RULES CAUSE DEFEAT

Two Old Congressmen Repudiated at Primaries for Their Stand.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 24.—Hoke Smith, of Atlanta, probably will be the next governor of Georgia. Two of Georgia's oldest congressmen in point of service, L. F. Livingstone and William M. Howard, were defeated for renomination in campaigns in which their alleged support of the so-called Cannon rules at the organization of the House last winter, was made the principal issue. These were the most notable results of yesterday's Democratic primary.

THIS MINISTER KNOWS VALUE OF ADVERTISING.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—"Ge It Out O' Doors," followed by the words, "Restful, Refreshing Religion, Served on the Cool Comfortable, Capacious Lawn," is the heading of announcements in newspaper and big signs placed by officers of the Dean Avenue Christian church of Spokane, to attract people to a series of popular sermons by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Bruce Brown, who is an advocate of the liberal use of printer's ink. Dr. Brown is assisted by a choir and a male quartet. The first Sunday evening service on the lawn of the Bryant school, where Dr. Brown preached upon "Popular Fancies, Fads and Follies," was so well attended that the congregation has decided upon open air meetings the rest of the summer. It may be added that Dr. Brown, who worked in a printing office when a boy, has converted many of his congregation and others to the value of advertising. He believes that the newspaper is the greatest and best medium to reach the masses, and in proof of this he points to the crowds at his meetings at a season when many prefer to pass the week-end in camps and at lake and forest resorts.

KILLED BY 500 VOLTS

Two Miners Meet Death Through Touching Electric Feed Wire

OTHERS WERE INJURED

Accident Was Caused by a Cave-In at the Newhouse Tunnel, Colorado.

Idaho Springs, Colo., Aug. 24.—Coming in contact with a heavily charred electric feed wire, which had been carried down by a cave in, Thomas Steimark and Daniel Regan, each 32 years of age and single, were instantly killed early this morning in the Newhouse tunnel. William Galligan and Victor Biddle were slightly shocked but not seriously affected. The men were employed as muckers and were coming off the shift. They were riding out of the tunnel on a flat mucking car drawn by a mule. The mule was killed by the shock. Five hundred volts passed through the bodies of Steimark and Regan.

THIS WRIGHT FLYER CERTAINLY HAS WHEELS.

Can Travel on Earth When Aerial Navigation Becomes Tiresome—Foulois is a "Man Bird."

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 24.—Fort Sam Houston's government Wright flyer now has wheels and at a pinch may be used as an automobile. In case Lieut. Benjamin D. Foulois should now decide to elude the enemy on terra firma he can do so. Ever since he asked the permission of the war department to equip his aeroplane with rubber tired wheels, he has been obliged to stand for a great deal of good-natured, albeit pointed, joshing. Fact of the matter is that army officers, though keeping a straight face as per regulations, chuckle inwardly whenever somebody in word or print mentions the aeroplane as the great kill of future wars. Although they have had the best flyers, such as Hamilton and Curtiss, show them that the things really will fly, they are yet very pessimistic as to how the aeroplane will behave with a shower of shrapnel sizzling around it.

In view of the fact that Lieutenant Foulois is still waiting for the contrivance that is to muffle the motor of his machine, there is an inclination at Fort Sam Houston to sneaker when ever the Wright machine, or any other for that matter, is mentioned as a scout or appendix to the intelligence department. The explosions of the motor and the buzzing of the propeller are now loud enough to reveille a whole army corps.

For this, however, it is not to be inferred that Lieutenant Foulois is not able to coax the best there is in the "kite." The very fact that he has been spinning around in the machine for the last six months without adding to the aerial scrap pile, is ample evidence that he knows how to fly. True, now and then, there have been splinters, but splinters are liable to come in the way of even the best manbirds as witness the performance of the experts. In the meantime his maneuvers are a great attraction to the tourists and visitors of San Antonio. Local publications are most generous in giving space to announcements of the flights and whenever one of them comes off everybody piles out to see free show.

Although the Wright specifications allow for no wheels for the aeroplane of that type, and consequently no brake, Lieutenant Foulois, has attached a brake to his machine and found it to be a most useful thing. Directly he strikes the ground now, the contrivance is set and in this manner tree stumps and other obstacles may be avoided with dexterity. But the great question is: Will the aeroplane ever be an agent of war?

CARTOONIST OUTCAULT HAS BECOME ORCHARDIST.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—Samuel Berry of Spokane, who is associated with R. F. Outcault, cartoonist, and Charles W. Crewdson, author, in an irrigated project near Bridgeport, Wash., where 70,000 one and two-year old apple trees have been planted on 1,000 acres of land during the last 12 months, has added 1,000 acres to his holdings there, making it the largest single orchard in the Pacific northwest. Planting on this new acreage will begin the coming fall, and it is expected to give employment to 60 men throughout the year. The irrigation system employed to water the land includes seven miles of flumes and more than 20 miles of laterals. The pumping plant, taking water from the Columbia river, has a capacity of 6,500 gallons a minute, two-thirds of which is required to supply moisture to all the lands during the growing season. The first orchard of 1,000 acres will come into bearing in 1915.

STANDING ROOM AT A PREMIUM

Genuine "Capacity House" at Concert at Elks Theater Last Night

SINGERS ARE GIVEN OVATION

First Regiment Band Also Scored—A Splendid Program

For the first time in the history of the Elks' theater in Santa Fe, those in charge of the box office had to close the window, turn out the lights and declare that even standing room was unobtainable, so great was the outpouring of Santa Feans to the concert given last night for the benefit of St. Vincent's new sanitarium. The program was certainly worth the small price of admission and even the best known habitués of moving picture exhibitions, declared that, apart from the musical numbers of the program, the "picture show" was equal to any that had ever been given in this city.

The young ladies who had worked so hard to get up the concert are certainly to be congratulated and the trio of fair singers who "voiced" in sweet notes their appreciation of a good cause, are to be praised for their ready response to the invitation to assist. The First Regiment Band also shared honors and Manager Stanton of the Elks' theater merits applause for securing such interesting pictures and turning over his house to the delight makers.

The term "delight makers" sounds appropriate, considering the pleasure all Santa Fe derived from last night's concert.

The First Regiment Band, in neat, new uniforms, started the music fest with an appropriate selection, which was so well received that an encore had to be given and Director Ramirez in a graceful bow, acknowledged the plaudits of the vast throng of music lovers.

Then came a moving picture that was funny and after a short interval of darkness, the bright lights announced the first vocal solo. It was by Miss Cheshire who sang "Sing Me to Sleep." Miss Cheshire has a voice that is sweet and well controlled. The ease with which she sang was agreeable to the eye as was her voice to the ear, and she was again called before the footlights. Miss Brown lent sympathetic support as piano accompanist.

There were more pictures, exuberantly funny, and then Miss Hildred Hanson of Chicago, sang a cycle of sweet songs well adapted to the sweet mezzo-soprano voice which she possesses. The applause was prolonged after each selection, and Miss Hanson sang a fourth song which struck a popular chord. Miss Mary McFie accompanied Miss Hanson on the piano and showed brilliant execution.

After another "entree" of pictures, the music fest continued, Miss Mary McFie appearing in the role of vocalist. Miss McFie sang one song after the other, and it was at once clear that she was in even better voice than at the outdoor concert given at the Elks' recently. It was an artistic and personal triumph for her and she was compelled to respond to two encores. Her rendition of "Las Palomas", in giving which she accompanied herself on the piano, produced a veritable storm of applause.

As a final selection she sang "The Rosary", and she sang it in a truly devotional manner.

Miss Marion Bishop was Miss McFie's piano accompanist and well discharged the duty that was given her, at all times keeping the instrument subservient. Miss Bishop illustrated the careful training she has received at the famous Boston Conservatory of which she was a pupil in vocal and instrumental music for the past year.

During an intermission former Mayor Jose D. Sena thanked the public for the large attendance at the benefit concert.

HER HAND AND ARM BURNED AND ITCHED

Could Hardly Sleep at Night for About 11 Months. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was Completely Cured.

"My mother had a red spot on her right hand which began to grow worse rapidly. The neighbors said it was a tetter. She got some medicine from a doctor, but it did not do any good. In about a week the tetter began to break out on her arm too. She used five or six different kinds of liniments and three different kinds of salves. Not one of these did her a particle of good. Her hand and arm could hardly sleep at night. Her hand as that way for about eleven months. Finally a friend of ours recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to us. We bought some immediately and began to use it. She washed her hand and arm with Cuticura Soap and arm water. Then she applied the Cuticura Ointment and bandaged her arm up. The next morning we all noticed a great improvement. Before she had used a half of a box of Ointment and a very little Soap her hand was completely cured. Now her hand is as well as ever. I think Cuticura Soap and Ointment is the greatest skin remedy ever discovered. C. E. Canady, San Leandro, Cal., Mar. 7, 1910."

Cuticura Remedies afford the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. MINOR CITY TOPICS

Denver, Colo., Aug. 24.—The forecast is fair weather in the south portion, with showers in the north portion; tonight and Thursday cooler.

Phone, send or write for prompt delivery. The Capital Pharmacy.

Is It an "Angora" Dog?—Among the dog fanciers who have visited the dog pound this week there is much speculation as to the ownership of a peculiar looking canine that has long black hair and looks like an "Angora". He has not yet been licensed and probably never will be, as the "dog curfew" rings tonight.

From 59 to 83 Degrees—That was the variation in temperature yesterday and the average relative humidity for the day was 50 per cent. The temperature at 6 o'clock this morning was 60 degrees. Yesterday was partly cloudy with showers in the distance in the afternoon and at night. A year ago today the maximum was 78 and the minimum 55 with a precipitation of 0.11 of an inch of rain. There were showers and thunderstorms at night.

Thought He Was Adam—A crazy man was taken from the El Paso Santa Fe train at Albuquerque yesterday. He imagined he was Adam and divested himself of all his clothing in the Bastille and therefore could not be arraigned in police court as he refused absolutely to put on a stitch. He will be held to determine whether he is merely drunk or really has lost his mind.

Deaths at Albuquerque—Mary Mueller, aged 15 years, died at Albuquerque of typhoid fever. She formerly lived at Santa Fe. The funeral of the late Henry Springer a well known resident of the territory, took place yesterday at Old Albuquerque. Mayor Has More Trouble—Mayor Seligman is a man of many troubles. He also is getting requests for exchange postal cards and the latest is from an Illinois young lady. The mayor is requested to turn the card over to some one who will send an exchange for it, if he does not care to do so. He will probably hand it to the postal officials who are growing accustomed to such requests. "Bobby" Stevenson of the postal force is said to be quite willing to exchange cards, provided no photographs of men are sent as an inducement, as was recently the case.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From the Experience of Santa Fe People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Santa Fe residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Albino Ortega, College St., Santa Fe, N. M., says: "I am very grateful for the benefit I have received from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. For several years I had trouble from my back and kidneys. It was hard for me to do work on account of pains in my joints and any sudden movement aggravated my trouble. My rest was disturbed by a too frequent desire to void the kidney secretions and the passages were scanty and painful. Public statements given by local people who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with benefit, induced me to try them. I found relief at once and by the time I had used one box, my back was free from pain. My kidneys are now normal and I feel better in every way. I have great faith in the curative powers of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

RAILROADS CONTROL RATE SITUATION

State Regulation Is Welcomed by Interests to Be Controlled

CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS

Fever Hay Fever Patients in Chicago Than Usual at This Time.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 24.—Increased railroad rates west of Chicago that will add many millions to the revenues of the railroads at the expense of the consuming public in western states but with favors to Chicago, this is the program said to be accepted by the controlling factors of the shippers' committee which is ostensibly fighting the rate increase. By agreement which will benefit rates to Chicago but add to the cost of goods distributed from Chicago the great demonstration against the railroad rate advance has been quietly hushed up, this is accepted now as the situation. Western jobbing and shipping interests seem likely to find their guns spiked when they are ready for battle. When the Chicago Association of Commerce took over the Traffic Club it was agreed that the control of railroad traffic affairs of the association should be retained by certain large importing and merchandising interests which had maintained the Traffic Club before. Therefore when the shippers declared war on the rate advance and joined forces with the Chicago forces the control of the whole situation by railroad influences became possible. Presently the loud outcries against rate advances were hushed and now the outcome is thought to be so well arranged that railroad securities have risen in New York and Chicago markets and cheerful optimism prevails in the councils of railway presidents. President E. P. Ripley has written letters urging that the name of J. V. Farwell, Jr., chairman of the traffic committee of the Association of Commerce be recommended to President Taft as a proper representative of shipping interests on the court of commerce.

Uniform Bill of Insurance.
State regulation welcomed instead of opposed by the interests to be regulated, this is a situation which has developed in affairs of fraternal insurance societies, the action of the National Fraternal Congress in endorsing a proposed uniform bill of insurance commissioners having disclosed remarkable facts. Actuaries' figures have shown that the amounts collected by many societies were not enough to pay the expenses and the death losses as they would be sure to come in. However, the membership of many societies have been educated to believe their rates were high enough, that any higher ones would be too high and naturally have refused to consent to larger assessments. Consequently the active steps of the Insurance Commissioners' Convention to bring about readjustment of rates have been welcomed by the National Fraternal Congress and it only remains for the Associated Fraternities of America to do so for the proposed measure—to compel delinquent societies to get upon a solvent basis—to become the unanimous wish of those most responsible for the soundness in the congress already voluntarily have readjusted their rates and have built up assets of over $60,000,000 for reserves. The unanimous acceptance of the proposed bill by the congress was announced in a statement which added: "This congress welcomes the regulation which has been proposed, embodying principles which the Congress long has advocated and will convey this knowledge to the Associated Fraternities with the hope that that body will interpose no obstacle to the proposed safeguard to members numbering millions which alone can block reforms needed."

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—coarses blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effects are charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain your? Of course it does, it's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Political Headquarters in Chicago. Both Republicans and Democratic headquarters for the congressional campaigns have been opened in Chicago, and from both the outpourings have begun of the brand of optimism which political campaigns always create in quantities to suit. Simultaneously the messenger boys rushed out of Suite 1314 in the congress with Democratic dope and out of the Auditorium hotel headquarters of Republicanism with Republican dope which on comparison had a remarkable similarity. Both predicted victory great and overwhelming. "Democratic prospects never looked better," said Chairman Lloyd with Democratic ardor. The he added: "Conditions were never better or more hopeful than at present. Few dissensions are heard of within the Democratic ranks and a reunited harmonized party will be seen working out victories in the fall. In every state in the union the Democrats are stronger than they were two years ago, with the possible exception of Tennessee, where local conditions are off color. The Republican party is split from coast to coast and this is going to help the Democrats immensely." Then hear what Secretary Hayward, across in G. O. P. quarters had to say: "They talk about the split in the Republican party, but I tell you there is no split. In some sections of the country the people want men of the progressive type and in other sections they want the conservatives, and each section will pick out the men it wants and will send them to Congress. But they will all be Republicans and will stand together on the big party measures and will support the party platform."

Hay Fever Exodus.
The hay fever exodus through Chicago to the upper lakes and Georgian bay this year for some good reason is a reduced and subnormal exodus for hay fever is less. Whether the unusual drouth of the season has done it or the recent rains or the comet or the activity of a Japanese volcano there are fewer hay fever passengers on the steamers bound for Mackinac than usual. Some of the regular members of the hay fever colonies are going away as they have done for years. A trace of disappointment instead of hay fever to be noted in the voices of some as they exclaim: "Someway I haven't had a symptom of it this year." However, the summer travel includes but a comparatively small number of the "hays" and the total travel never was so great. Vacations are in growing favor in the west and prosperity helps the inclination as witness reservations of boat state-rooms and sleeping car berths days and even weeks ahead. New lines of steamers down the lakes and the St. Lawrence this year makes an all-water route from Chicago to Montreal, thence by the Royal line of steamers to England a novel possibility. The Royal Edward and Royal George to Bristol now hold the Canadian records for speed across the Atlantic. Notwithstanding the heat and dust the trains east and west, north and south from Chicago are crowded and belated vacationists are leaving for lake and mountain, seashore and farm and even for hurried trips to Europe.

LOCAL FANS EXPECT LOTS OF FUN.
Are Preparing for Interesting Game Sunday With Dan Padilla's Mighty Cohorts.
Dan Padilla will bring his team to Santa Fe Sunday to try to recover the laurels recently lost in the Duke City, but Manager Mackie, of the Peerless, says that Dan will not even do so well here as he did Sunday. Mackie is trying to have Dan come up for Saturday afternoon and Sunday too and it is very likely that Santa Fe fans will have the chance of seeing two exciting games here on next Saturday and Sunday. If Dan does come up Saturday, Ed Safford will pitch the Saturday game and Joe Gagliano will be pitted against Weeks for the big show on Sunday afternoon when Mackie expects the entire town to turn out to see the battle.
Las Vegas will send her team here for the following Sunday and Monday. Vegas has a fairly good team and as they were lucky enough to beat the Peerless team early in the season, thinks that the feat can be accomplished again. At any rate the games will be played here and every one will have an opportunity to compare the two teams.
Practice stunts will be the program billed for the entire week on the college campus. Everyone who is interested is invited to come out and look the bunch over.

IN NEW MEXICO'S POLITICAL PASTURES

The Democrats of Bernalillo county held their convention today at Albuquerque.

Judge E. A. Mann, of Albuquerque, made a forcible and convincing address before the Las Vegas Republican Club on Monday evening and was tendered an ovation. He spoke at Raton last evening.

Three of the nine delegates who will represent San Miguel county at the constitutional convention will be Dr. J. M. Cunningham, Harry W. Kelly and S. B. Davis, Jr., of East Las Vegas.

A committee of Commercial Club members was today soliciting funds among local businessmen for the support of the Democratic ticket and the initiative and referendum. They met with rather a cool response all along the line.

At the primaries at Magdalena, Socorro county, the Republicans named Jose y Aragon, Lorenzo Garcia, Jack Foss and Ben Beagle as delegates to the county convention at Socorro. The Democrats selected Luis McRae, Justiliano Baca, Flavio Vigil, Dr. M. McCreary and William Borrodale.

At the Democratic primaries Saturday in Eddy county, C. R. Brice, of Carlsbad, and M. P. Skeen, of Artesia, were elected delegates to the constitutional convention. Brice has 250 over his opponent, Woodwell. Sween received almost the entire vote, about 1300. There is no Republican ticket.

The Republicans at Roy, Mora county, have split on account of their municipal squabble. The bolting convention named the following as delegates to the county convention: Leandro Archuleta, Dr. M. D. Gibbs, Francisco Sanchez y Medina, F. H. Fester, Ignacio Maestas, J. D. Medina, Aniceto Gomez, Juan A. Bernal, Arinidat Lucero, A. S. Buschkevitz, Guadalupe Garcia, Frank MacDonald, Juan Navarro, James Proctor and Thomas McGrath.

The Roy Republicans sent the following delegates to the county convention of Mora: Elmer Evans, Samuel Bland, C. C. Harper, Vidal C. Martinez, C. E. Munsey, O. H. Kerns, J. L. Swain, Clem Williams, Vicente Gomez, Charles Kidd, William Hill, T. J. Cress, F. S. Brown, Roy S. Wood and R. A. Pendleton. The Democrats named the following delegation to their convention: J. R. Melton, E. F. Ivey, V. W. Sturgis, Louis Branch and Adolfo Montoya.

"The Curry county constitutional delegate campaign holds some very interesting coincidences. The oldest and the youngest of all the aspiring candidates in the county before the nominations were made are on the Democratic ticket. The mayor of Clovis is on the Republican ticket the mayor of Texico on the Democratic ticket. One candidate is a college man, and one is a soldier. None of them are wealthy, yet none of them are day laborers. Only one has been actively engaged in politics in earlier years."—The Clovis News.

MORE CHINKS TO BE DEPORTED.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 24.—That some Chinamen will do almost anything to gain admission into this country is amply demonstrated by a new ruse employed by them in their attempts to cross over from Mexico. The average Celestial thinks more of his queue or "pig tail" than anything else mundane, but thirty-two of them just caught had sacrificed this hirsute ornament in order to disguise themselves as Mexicans. However, the Mongol slit-eye, not to mention their ignorance of the language of Castille as spoken in Mexico, revealed their identity to the immigration officers. It is thought, though, that a number of them succeeded in eluding the watchful eye of the authorities. Mexicans of southern Mexico, or the Mayas, of more or less Aztec extraction have physiognomically a great deal in common with the Chinese. With the skin rouged up a little, a knowledge of Spanish and the Mexican dress it would be extremely hard to detect a good many.

Those caught by the immigration officers will be taken to San Francisco for deportation.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

AN UNDISPUTED AUTHORITY.

There is a sense of security in finding one's own opinions fortified by the expressions of impartial men of science and leaders of public opinion. The New Mexican, is therefore pleased to quote from Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, the famous president of Cornell University, an endorsement of the various arguments it has put forth of late against an unlimited initiative and referendum. In fact, he quotes the very examples of ancient governments gone wrong on the subject that the New Mexican and Judge E. A. Mann, used in arguments weeks ago, and gives qualified approval of such strictly limited form of initiative and referendum as has been given by the Republican legislatures of this commonwealth in the herd law, in the school bond and school tax rate questions, in municipal extensions, in local option, in municipal improvement district matters and various other phases of local self government affecting a limited constituency, and which need no enactment in a constitution. In speaking of the arguments of Doctor Schurman, the New York Sun says:

"Mr. Schurman spoke first of the direct government of the Greeks and Romans, which he said 'led in Greece to destruction and in Rome to despotism. The salvation of both might have been found in the adoption of representative government.'"

"He passed then to discussing the agitation for direct government in the United States raised by 'zealous and enthusiastic agitators ignorant alike of the theory of government and the teachings of history and selfish and dangerous demagogues ready for any change that will throw power into their own hands.'"

"The history of the republics of the ancient world demonstrates conclusively that government by the people directly, legislation and administration by the people themselves (and not by representatives elected by the people), is the sure way to despotism and destruction. The safety of our country lies in its representative institutions. The reason why the people cannot take the place of their own representatives in legislation and administration is that there are far too many people to act and far too many and too complicated affairs for this multitudinous population to attend to. In America, as in Rome, the end would be a paralysis of public business from which the demagogue would emerge a dictator or despot. The sure way to breed a Caesar or a Napoleon on American soil is to abrogate the American system of representative government."

"Mr. Schurman said the Oregon experiment was a failure because next fall the voters will be called upon to vote on thirty-one measures which only a parliamentary assembly has time and opportunity to dispose of."

"Then Mr. Schurman said:

"Direct government by the people is possible only for localities in which the people are not too numerous to come together. The town meeting is the natural organ of such direct popular government. When other localities are concerned, and especially when the state as a whole is involved, direct government is impossible; government by selected delegates or representatives becomes absolutely indispensable."

"What is true of the people of the state as a whole is true of that large portion or moiety of them which forms a political party. The party business of a town or village or district of moderate size may be transacted directly by the local members of the party, and they may also make direct nominations for local offices. But when the party business or the party nominations concern the state as a whole the matter must be referred to a general assembly or convention composed of delegates elected by members of the party in their several localities. If, for example, nominations for state offices were made by the people directly each locality would naturally have its own favorites, there would be no concert of action and the result would be confusion."

"The historic American system of party conventions provides for deliberation, conference and concert of action. It is true that under the malign influence of an entrenched boss it may at times outrage the sentiments of individuals and localities. But this evil would be reduced or even averted if the party members in their respective localities would attend the local primaries, make their sentiments known and get delegates elected in sympathy with them. I would urge and exhort every citizen of our state to attend the primaries of his party. This is the beginning and end of all party reforms. This is the point which should be constantly emphasized. The members of a party have its destiny and doings in their own hands. If others usurp their functions it is only because they neglect them."

"After discussing and rejecting the ideas of nomination by petition and nominations by party committee, Mr. Schurman ended by saying:

"Direct primary nominations for local offices are possible and even desirable in towns and villages and other limited districts where people know one another. They may be made at general meetings of voters. These nominations are very different from nomination by petition or committee for state officers. For nominating to state offices no organ has been devised superior to the historic American party convention."

ADVERTISE.

The success of last evening's entertainment at the Elks' makes a good story—with a moral. Many merchants think that advertising does not pay, that it is money thrown away, and their goods will be sold any way. The entire success of the show last evening was due to newspaper advertising as there was not a line of any other kind of advertising put out, no hand bills, posters or anything of the sort. Nor can the success be laid to the cause, for though the cause was excellent, the people would have known nothing about it but for the advertising. The attractions were very good, and in this there is also a moral, if a merchant has good goods, at good prices, and by that we mean reasonable prices, and will let the people know it, the result cannot help being satisfactory.

It takes constant advertising, the impressing firmly upon the people's minds, what you have to offer so that when need comes for anything in your line, your name will at once be associated with that want.

If the manufacturers of gum, an article selling for one cent, can afford to pay from three to six thousand dollars for a page advertisement in a magazine, in order to impress their particular brand upon the people's minds, how can any merchant say advertising does not pay?

All the best business men, the keenest minds of the age, who have anything to offer to the people, advertise. Not just now and then, a little advertising, but every day and every year they are talking to the people through the papers.

The small merchant, who does not advertise, will go along for years in a rut, never getting out of it, never increasing his business, but remaining at a standstill. It takes the aggressive and progressive merchant to get the business in these days of competition. The moral is: Advertise—Advertise—Advertise and keep everlastingly at it. Not in a haphazard way, but systematically—offering good goods at right prices and living up to the letter of your advertising.

Get the people to watching for your advertisements—get them into the habit of going to your store and the size of the town will not be a limit to your success.

The Democratic organ at Albuquerque holds out small comfort to the Democrats of Santa Fe county for it says editorially: "Thomas B. Catron, who wants no 'hybrid, nondescript constitution' in his—that is, no initiative and referendum provisions—will represent the Republicans of Santa Fe county in the constitutional convention." "The Republican caucus of the party in the territory is going to be dominated by men like Catron." What stronger arguments can be presented to the people of Santa Fe county, than to urge them to elect men to the constitutional convention, who will be leaders instead of mere "me too" statesmen?

Three important papers in Union county have changed ownership lately and in each case for the better. The Des Moines Swastika, which came dangerously near being socialistic under its former editor, is now safe and sane, and none the less interesting for that wholesome change. The Clayton Citizen is growing to be one of the best weekly papers of the southwest, and the Amistad Tribune-Herald, is one of the neatest and most complete papers for neighborhood news that comes to the New Mexican's exchange table.

County conventions remain to be held in Bernalillo, Sandoval, Socorro, Valencia and San Miguel counties. In five counties, Otero, Lincoln, Sierra, Rio Arriba and Socorro, there will be no contests by agreement of both parties. In two counties, Eddy and Sandoval, there will be no contests because the Republicans in the former and the Democrats in the latter, will not nominate tickets. These seven counties will send to the constitutional convention 13 Republicans and 10 Democrats. In the counties of Grant, Luna, Chaves, Roosevelt, Curry, San Juan and Quay, the Republicans will probably elect 6 and the Democrats 15 candidates. In the remaining counties, the Republicans will elect all their candidates, but conceding the Democrats 6 delegates, there would still remain a more than two-thirds majority for the Republicans in the convention. The Democrats would not even have thirty delegates but for the fair mindedness of the Republicans in Socorro, Otero, Lincoln, Sierra and Rio Arriba counties where Democrats were given places although those counties would have been solidly Republican on election day. But a strong minority will not be altogether an evil, especially since most of the Democrats nominated are of the conservative type and not in sympathy with the radical elements of the party.

A rather significant item in the El Paso Herald says that mayor-elect C. E. Kelley, who is also the Democratic loss of the city, has given orders to the purchasing department of the city to buy no more supplies from his drug store. The Herald states the surprising fact that the city purchases annually from $2,500 to $3,000 worth of supplies from that store. In other words, the municipality of El Paso spends for drugs as the city of Santa Fe spends for water and light; or to put it differently, the amount that El Paso has been spending at the drug store of its Democratic political boss, is equal to one half of the revenue from direct taxation of the city of Santa Fe. The mere mention of these facts should set the tax payers of this city to pondering.

A Democratic leader, high, very high, in the councils of his party, confided to a friend recently while in Santa Fe, that he is opposed to initiative, referendum and recall; that he knew them to be impractical but that he advocated them because the Democrats needed an issue to attract attention, an issue that would divert the minds of the voters from the real purpose and problems. "A can of dynamite intelligently exploded," he said, "will get more headlines and editorial comment, than all the railroad trains of the country carrying all the products of the farm and factory to market." This explains why the Democrats are playing with dynamite.

Eddy county Democrats have nominated Hon. C. R. Brice of Carlsbad, and Dr. P. M. Skeen of Artesia, for the constitutional convention. Both are conservatives and will vote with the Republicans on all important propositions. It is unlikely, therefore, that the Republicans will put up a ticket in this overwhelmingly Democratic county. Mr. Brice, who is an efficient railroad attorney and won laurels in the last legislative assembly, will be the minority leader in the constitutional convention and will work with the majority on all non-partisan propositions, just as he did in the last legislative House.

To the conscientious voter, who really believes in the socialistic doctrines set forth in the Democratic declaration of principles, the New Mexican would advise to vote for the socialistic candidates. The Socialists are sincere and consistent in advocating these measures, for their honest intention is to destroy the executive, legislative and judiciary as they exist at present, to overthrow the representative form of government. With the Democratic leaders, however, the advocacy of these measures is only expediency which they hope will help them ride into office.

The Republican majority of the constitutional convention will favor a sane, non-partisan constitution. It will not insist on any proposition to which the Democratic minority can object. In fact, it is unlikely that any clause which the minority as a body opposes will be written into the fundamental law. This is conceding more than a Democratic majority would. In fact, the Democrats, if they had the power, would write their "isms" all over the fundamental law.

If there is any real demand therefore, the Republican majority of the constitutional convention, may not be averse to submitting a properly safeguarded initiative and referendum proposition to the people separately. The Republican objection to those features lies in the danger of confusing them with the constitutional issues proper and thus forcing upon the people an "ism" they do not want, or defeating the entire constitution and with it statehood.

The Albuquerque Morning Journal is frantically calling for Mr. Bursum to come to Albuquerque and help. Yet, only a short time ago, the Journal, tried to make its readers believe that Mr. Bursum is of no consequence and should efface himself. If the Republican party in Bernalillo county is not in fighting trim, no one is to blame but the Journal and its friends.

MOGOLLON ROBBER SUSPECT PASSES THROUGH MOGOLLON.

Mounted Policeman John W. Collier on Way to Socorro With Him—Personal Items From Deming.

Deming, N. M., Aug. 24.—H. A. Gallegly, of Dacey, N. D., has bought the desert claim of Lee O. Lester, one mile west of Deming, and will shortly begin the development of the same. A water right under the Wamel ditch was transferred with the place. Mr. Gallegly will put down a big well, so as to be entirely dependent upon the ditch for water for irrigation.

A thirty horse power motor was substituted for the twenty horse power motor at the Young plant when it was found that the smaller motor was not of sufficient strength to handle the water. With the big motor, the well tested one thousand gallons of water per minute, and a long enough run was made to demonstrate that the well is permanently of that capacity.

J. A. Hickman, manager of the Rickford ranch up the Mimbres, fell from a wagon and broke two ribs. He is in Deming now for treatment.

R. C. Ely went to Albuquerque last night on business.

Frank Coon, cashier of the First National bank of Lordsburg, passed through here last night en route from Silver City to El Paso on a business trip.

Mr. H. T. Dugger, recently night operator for the Santa Fe at Deming, has been relieved by Operator Crawford of Dincon. Mr. Dugger has gone to San Marcial for a new assignment.

Lew Carr returned to San Marcial last night.

H. G. Bush made a short business trip to El Paso Saturday, returning Sunday.

Owing to the fact that many families are coming in from the mines and ranches to send the children to school, there is a scarcity of dwellings in Deming.

W. B. King left today for a visit to his old home in Danville, Va.

John Collier, territorial mounted policeman, arrived here today, having in custody William Day, alleged to be one of the robbers who held up the Mogollon stage recently when the driver Dominguez was killed. Mr. Day was born in the vicinity of the robbery and a well-acquainted with the country around there. Day will be taken to Socorro immediately where his hearing will be had.

John Brown, of Lordsburg, is in Deming today on business.

Mrs. Leota Gadbury went to El Paso today.

WILL FENCE IN UNITED STATES.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 24.—The longest fence in the world and the queerest artificial boundary established between two countries anywhere will be in the near future separate the United States and Mexico. According to a dispatch in the Mexico Record, a final agreement to that effect has been drawn up between the two governments and the fence will be built in the very near future. It will be constructed of stout posts, possibly re-enforced concrete, and five strand, steel-tight barbed wire. In all places where the United States government owns the land the fence will be set up 20 meters or about 60 yards to the north of the true boundary line and where the ground is owned individually the fence will stand on the exact border. Mounted Mexican rurales will patrol the fence on the south and United States rangers will do the same on the north.

The immediate purpose of the fence is to prevent cattle from the two countries from straying onto foreign soil. It will also be useful in the prevention of infectious diseases among cattle, especially the tick. However, the fence will have usefulness in other directions. It will render smuggling and the illicit immigration of Chinese and others into this country more difficult than they are now. About 1,000 miles of fence will have to be erected.

WILD ALFALFA MAY SOLVE GRAVE PROBLEM.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—Experienced farmers in Spokane county believe that the discovery of wild alfalfa, known to botanists as "medicago falcata," in Bonner county, Idaho, by W. H. Heideman, superintendent of the sub-experiment station, conducted by the United States government at Clagstone, Idaho, will solve the problem of dry land forage crops. The plant, which thrives in arid districts, where others die from heat and lack of moisture, is similar to tame alfalfa. The blossom is a pinkish white and resembles the plant brought to this country from Russia by Professor Hanson of South Dakota, who was sent abroad by the government to find a plant adapted to semi-arid districts. The pods are the same size and shape as those of tame alfalfa. Mr. Heideman found the plants in the Hoodoo valley, formerly given over to placer gold miners, in a spot where there is no chance for even nature to sub-irrigate plant life and where all vegetation is practically dead. Professor Heideman has sent specimens of the plant to prominent botanists for examination and identification. Experts say the plant has been searched for all over the world the last 10 years.

GOING TO A WEDDING

"Did you have a good time?" asked the bookkeeper.

The young woman stenographer dropped her heavy suitcase. Having assured herself that the manager had not yet reached the office that morning, she turned upon the bookkeeper a severe countenance.

"You are the most tactless man I know," she declared. "Did you ever hear of any one having a good time at anybody's wedding?"

The bookkeeper shook his head. "That's the point of my subtle joke," he said.

"Well, it sounded to me like an ordinary foolish question. I am a little peevish, I think, for I am trying to count up how much the wedding cost me."

"I thought you liked to spend money."

"I do, when I have some chance of getting a fair return for it. But what pleasure do I get out of this? Not any."

"First," went on the stenographer, bitterly. "I had to forfeit a day's salary for a substitute stenographer; then, in order to catch the six o'clock train I had to hire a taxicab. Next I had to say good-by to six perfectly good dollars for my railroad ticket."

"When I reached the town my thirteen-year-old nephew pushed me into a cab as if I were a bag of meal. Then he disappeared bashfully into the darkness, leaving me alone in the cab with a nice-looking young man who was going to the same place. All the romances foisted on the girl and the man meeting on the way to the house party flashed through my mind and I began to think that perhaps the wedding wouldn't be such a bore, after all."

"I didn't know before that you were so dependent on a mere man for your happiness," said the bookkeeper. "You are always bragging about the good times at your club."

"A girls' club is a jolly affair in itself," explained the stenographer, "but a church sociable or a wedding needs some foreign element—for example, an interesting man—to make it endurable."

"And this particular man?"

"His name was Smith. His wife and his small son were waiting for him at the house."

"Love's young dream blasted!" murmured the bookkeeper.

"I had one stroke of luck," said the stenographer. "The house was so full of relatives that I had to go to a neighbor's to sleep. I thought how lovely it was that I would not have to get up at seven o'clock in order to get to the office on time. They called me at six o'clock."

"After breakfast I helped make all the beds and then I sneaked off into one corner of the library and began to read a book. Unfortunately, my brother-in-law saw me and my reposeful attitude seemed to irritate him, for he asked me to get up and dust a picture frame."

"It was selfish of you to shirk—"

"Young man, don't you know that one of the greatest lessons in life is to learn one's own responsibility and let other people's alone? The caterers were there to cater; the decorators were there to decorate; the bride and the bridesmaids were in the hands of the hairdresser. I think it was nice of me not to go rushing around yelling 'Isn't there something I can do?'"

"I got even with my brother-in-law, however. All of his personal property that was downstairs I carried up, and anything I found of his upstairs I took downstairs. They will have to clean house again before he finds his things."

"Of course we had a stand-up lunch in the butler's pantry—and my suit will have to go to the cleaners."

"Two hours later the wedding march began. Then the procession came in, everybody counting four on each foot and all wishing they were well out of the whole business. Then during the ceremony there were some unostentatious tears shed. The man who wrote 'Merrily the Wedding Bells' certainly had a wonderful imagination. Next came the refreshments and the showering of rice."

"Well, this morning I crawled out at 4:30 and caught the train back to Chicago."

"But you had a visit with your relatives."

"I didn't. Besides, the trip cost me ten dollars, without counting the present."

"You could have gone to a lot of matinees for that."

The stenographer nodded. "Without anybody's being tired out or sick from overwork," she said. "I know one thing. If ever I get married I'll put a standing advertisement of it in the newspaper. That will do away with addressing and stamping invitations. Then we will walk over to the nearest minister's."

"Hush!" warned the bookkeeper. "Get busy! Here comes the boss."

A Good Reason.

"I want to thank you," said the orator, "for the manner in which you gave attention to my remarks. Your attitude was gratifying different from the others."

"Yes," replied the auditor; "but I don't want any credit that is not due me. I have had insomnia for weeks."

CHARACTER READING

"I thoroughly believe in physiognomy," said Bartlett to Standish, as they smoked their cigars in the billiard room of the Oakhurst club. Standish was a new member and Bartlett was trying to make it pleasant for him. "The deductions are well-nigh infallible," ended Bartlett.

"It is an interesting study," replied Standish. "Though I should hardly attach great importance to its teachings. I've doubted it in myself."

"Oh, have you? Been at it long?"

"I took it up about two years ago. A work on physiognomy started me."

"Of course you are aware that physiognomy is but one department of physiognomy. The figure, the carriage, the habits of the man, the evidence, say, by his clothes, his neatness or the lack of it and so on, all must be taken into account in forming a judgment of character."

"I quite agree with you," said Standish. "To a certain extent these appearances may guide one in making an estimate. And yet mistakes are likely to occur."

"For instance," said Bartlett. "Give us your reading of that big fellow playing pool at the second table."

"Well," said Standish, "to begin with, like most large men, he is lazy, lacks ambition, sleeps a good deal, is a sort of muttonhead. His wit is slow and his perceptions are dull. He's a heavy eater—a glutton, I might say. He's a poor money getter, because he's too stupid to be shrewd. On the other hand, that thick neck and those heavy eyebrows denote temper and brutishness. I think he beats his wife!"

"Humph!" ejaculated Bartlett, dubiously. "How about the young fellow he's playing with?"

"Sort of a saphead. Low brow and cigarette indicative of deficiency in intelligence. Judge from occasional remarks which float this way that he's a little shy on good breeding. Snobbish and conceited air shows him to be a cad. Tastes probably coarse and he's likely to play the prodigal son later on in life. He may be like a ginger cat—better than he looks—but I should classify him as small potatoes and few in the hill. Wonder how near I've hit it. Do you know them?"

Bartlett winced and looked somewhat embarrassed, as he said:

"I am on speaking terms with them. They are my brother-in-law and his son, my nephew."

Standish laughed heartily. "Well, I did put my foot in it that time. But of course I didn't know."

"Of course not," said Bartlett, apparently ruffled by Standish's amusement.

"To be sure," said Standish, "the tendencies, as plainly indicated by the facts of physiognomy may be modified by what one might call the accidents of education and all that; so one's judgment may be at fault."

"I don't think you need apologize," said Bartlett. "If I feel any annoyance I've brought it on myself."

"Would you say that my inferences were improperly drawn?" asked Standish.

"Oh, I guess not. Ah, I see there are ladies present."

"Where?"

"Over there talking to Sanderson."

"Oh, yes! That's—By the way, old man, do you know them?"

"No," said Bartlett; "strangers to me."

"I was about to ask you," said Standish, quickly, "to let me hear your analysis of character from outward appearances. You're an expert and I should like to learn. Here's a chance. How about them?"

"Well," replied Bartlett with a little laugh, brightening up, "I rather flatter myself on my success in deciphering lovely woman by the rules of our science."

"Now," he went on, "this is a case of mother and daughter. The resemblance is very striking. Mother rather dowdy. She has a poor dressmaker, denoting false economy in the matter of expenditures. Probably she's a poor housekeeper. Head small, excessively vain. Manners evidently affected, indicating desire to break into a social set where she doesn't belong and can't remain if she gets in. On the whole, a member of the vulgar middle class."

"And the daughter—"

"Well, she's modern. Mother's traits will be toned down by environment, which is plainly that of well-to-do people. Don't think her taste in dressing shows much refinement. Rather a good-looking child, but not an intellectual face by any means. Wonder who they belong to. Friends of the Stewards, probably. They're coming this way!"

Standish, whose sense of humor seemed to be decidedly elemental, roared with laughter. "I wanted to give you a chance to get square with me," he said, "and you certainly did. My dear, this is Mr. Bartlett. He's been telling your fortune."

For a second time Bartlett's face was a study.

Lift Up the Heart.

Lift up, lift up, O heart of mine, Thy face unto the King; And let the glory of his sacred light, Shine in, shine in.

And let the darkness of thy deep despair, Thy grief, thy sin, Like shadows of the night before the day, Flee from within.

—Mrs. Will E. Wallis.

THANATOPSIS.

(By William Cullen Bryant.) To him who in her visible forms, holds Communion with her visible forms, she speaks A various language; for his gayer hours

She has a voice of gladness, and a smile And eloquence of beauty, and she glides

Into his darker musings, with a mild And healing sympathy, that steals away

Their sharpness, ere he is aware. When thoughts Of the last blither hour come like a blight

Over thy spirit, and sad images Of the stern agony, and shroud and pall,

And breathless darkness, and the narrow house, Make thee shudder, and grow sick at heart—

Go forth, under the open sky, and list To Nature's teachings, while from all around—

Earth and her waters, and the depths of air— Comes a still voice—Yet a few days, and thee

The all-beholding Sun shall see no more In all his course; nor yet in the cold ground, Where thy pale form was laid, with many tears, Nor in the embrace of ocean, shall exist

Thy image. Earth, that nourished thee, shall claim Thy growth, to be resolved to earth again,

And, lost each human trace, surrendering up Thine individual being, shalt thou go

To mix for ever with the elements, To be a brother to the insensate rock

And to the sluggish clod, which the rude swain Turns with his share, and treads upon,

The oak Shall send his roots abroad, and pierce thy mould. Yet not to thy eternal resting-place

Shalt thou retire alone nor couldst thou wish Couch more magnificent. Thou shalt lie down

With patriarchs of the infant world—with kings, The powerful of the earth—the wise, the good,

Fair forms, and hoary seers of ages past, All in one mighty sepulchre. The hills

—the vales Stretching in pensive quietness between; The venerable woods—rivers that move

In majesty, and the complaining brooks That make the meadows green; and poured round all

Old Ocean's gray and melancholy waste— Are but the solemn decorations all

Of the great tomb of man. The golden sun, The planets, all the infinite host of Heaven, Are shining on the sad adobe of death, Through the still lapse of ages. All that tread

The globe, are but a handful to the tribes That slumber in its bosom. Take the wings

Of morning, piece the Barcan wilderness, Or lose thyself in the continuous woods

Where rolls the Oregon, and hears no sound, Save his own dashings—yet the dead are there;

And millions in those solitudes, since first The flight of years began, have laid them down The flight of years began, have laid them down In their last sleep—the dead reign there alone. So shalt thou rest, and what if thou withdraw

In silence from the living, and no friend Take note of thy departure? All that breathe

Shall share thy destiny. The gay will laugh When thou art gone, the solemn brood of care Plod on, and each one as before will chase

His favorite phantom; yet all these shall leave Their mirth and their employments,

And make their bed with thee. As the long train Of ages glide away, the sons of men,

The youth in life's green spring, and he who goes In the full strength of years, Matron and Maid, The speechless babe, and the gray-haired man—

Shall, one by one, be gathered to thy side, By those who in their turn shall follow them. So live, that when thy summons comes to join

The innumerable caravan, which moves To that mysterious realm, where each shall take His chamber in the silent halls of death,

Thou go not, like the quarry-lave at night, Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave, Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

MAKE REMARKABLE FIND AT SAN MIGUEL AMAXTLA RUINS.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 24.—A beautiful clay butterfly, indicating that at one time the ancient inhabitants of Mexico followed a more aesthetic form of worship than that of the Aztecs with its human sacrifices and lenient form of cannibalism, has been found in the ruins of a teocalli at San Miguel Amaxtla, recently discovered. The object is fashioned of burnt clay, finely tinted in glazed colors, and bears the emblems used by the ancient Mexicans to represent the sun god, immortality and disinterested love. The head of the butterfly is distinctly human and its entire surface is covered with hieroglyphic characters. A Mexico City scientist is now trying to unravel these. It is of interest to note here that the butterfly with nearly all the ancients was a symbol of transfiguration and metempsychosis, especially is this true of the ancient Egyptians with whom the ancient Mexicans are claimed by many to have been related. Psyche, the principle of immortality and love with the ancient Greek was also a butterfly but is usually represented as a human form having wings.
