HSLIC News - LibGuides at University of New Mexico

Coronavirus Resource 3

by Tamara Wheeler on March 20th, 2020 | 0 Comments

HSLIC employees continue to link you to authoritative and current health information during this time of uncertainty.

Our health sciences librarian colleagues at Yale University have developed a guide for researchers and clinicians on Covid-19. It harvests entries daily from PubMed, ClinicalTrials.gov, Disaster Lit, and preprints prior to peer review from bioRxiv and medRxiv. You can access it at:

https://www.zotero.org/groups/2465841/cwml\_covid-19\_literature/library

The sheer volume of over 2,100 entries as of March 20th can be a bit overwhelming so I suggest that you use the query dialog window near the upper right-hand corner.

My HSLIC faculty colleague Kelleen Maluski and I are developing a Covid-19 informational page that will be accessible from the HSLIC homepage. Look for it starting in the middle of next week.
