The volume of money in circulation was never so great per capita as today. We declare our steadfast opposition to the free and unlimited coinage of silver. No measure to that end could be considered which was without the support of the leading commercial countries of the world. However firmly the republican legislation may seem to have secured the country against a

Digging Copper Near Santa Rita.

Carl Sabers, of Santa Rita, N. M., says that the development of the Organ district, known as Chamberlain's, is a copper producing district and is developing with remarkable rapidity, large numbers of prospectors being at work, and many good finds being made.

The district is not a new one, considerable mining having been done there for more than 40 years, the output being practically all lost and silver. It is only recently, however, that it has come into notice as a copper producer, through the operations of the Nevada Mining company, a Chicago corporation, who has opened a group of a mine that are now producing a large amount of a good grade of copper ore. On the eastern slope of the Organ mountains several claims producing gold and silver have been opened and a small mill has been erected in Terra canon, twelve miles southeast of Organ. The development of the copper mines of the district has been making considerable headway, and soon for the construction of a railroad from Las Cruces to Organ, the location of the Torpedos mine and thence by the way of Argentine pass to a connection with the Pecos Valley & Northeastern railroad.

Mr. Sabers says that there is no set up in the Santa Rita district, the boundaries of which are being enlarged by new discoveries almost daily. The entire country in that vicinity seems to be in a mineral formation and the daily shipments from both the Santa Rita and Hanover districts are steadily increasing.—Denver Republican.

RETURNED FROM CHINA.

Graphic Account of the Chinese Trouble by Former New Mexico Residents.

Rev. Fisher, a Quaker, a frequent visitor to New Mexico, who has been here was head of the Presbyterian school for Indians at Albuquerque, and having many friends in the territory, returned from Francisco a few days ago from his trip to China. He is accompanied by his wife. They were in the thick of the recent Chinese troubles, and escaped amid many distressing circumstances. Their son, Dr. Robert Fisher, was in the country many years, and has served as physician to Li Hung Chang. He and his family were left at Peking.

"I do not know," said Mr. Fisher, "I dare not say. If my children are asked, they did prepare, for they were good Christians," said Mrs. Collyman to a reporter. "When we were visiting in Peking, I told me there were about three hundred foreigners in the city. Minister Conner told us that we need not be alarmed, and might remain for some time without fear of attack. Mr. Robert told me that he was certain of the protection of the emperor's daughter. Such a nice old lady she was, he said. She hasn't done much to protect the foreigners. I don't know," said Mr. Fisher, "but his answer showed the danger of the situation. It was very critical, he said, but all had hope of the cloud blowing away."

"If he said he would join us as soon as he could get out, but, in the light of later events, it would seem that he never got the chance. His children were, I think, six in number: Robert, aged 16; Albert, aged 14; Charles, aged 10; Mary, aged 6; William Patrick, aged 4 months.

"Robert was already fitted for college with us, and was very prominent with us. My daughter, Jennie, remained at Shanghai, but I think that danger threatens Shanghai. I hope she has gone to Japan or started home."

"We were in Peking from Pien Tien to Pien Fa was very trying. We were in open cars and knew not what moment a volley would come from some hidden spot. True, we were protected by guns pointed at us, but I don't know. The thought of this only served to make us more nervous."

"Our experience in this was nothing but a comparison to the bombardment of Taku. We expected very much to be hit. The Monoway was to our left. She had on board a number of refugees, and the forts fired at her repeatedly, and, once, she knew, she was hit. We shot from our own steamer."

"With all the noise of firing, with shells bursting over us and around us, we were not very nervous. I don't know of the question. It was as dangerous below as it was on deck, and, I fancy, I was less nervous out in the air where I could see everything that was going on."

"I was awful to think what execution those shells were doing, but it was grand to see them. They burst over us, in front of us and all around us, and we were not very nervous. I don't know of the question. It was as dangerous near us, but without doing any harm. Most of the people on our steamer were Chinese, but there were three American women, wives of the pilots. One was a nurse, and saw her home being burned."

IS IT RIGHT

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C.

It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as preventative of suffering, is it a right to - a good word for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, or Chamberlain's Kidney and Bladder Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of Chamberlain's Kidney and Bladder Remedy is all that is needed to cure suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Kidney and Bladder Remedy is on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. As a matter of fact, from our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by all druggists.

TELEPHONE VAGRANT.

Former has Superseded the Latter to Some Extent on the Santa Fe.

The telephone has superseded the telegraph to a certain extent on the Santa Fe. The Santa Fe has been making an operation on the Chicago market, and the Santa Fe division a private telephone system connecting the majority of the black signal stations, and the passage of freight and mail trains. The Santa Fe has been making an operation on the Chicago market, and the Santa Fe division a private telephone system connecting the majority of the black signal stations, and the passage of freight and mail trains. The Santa Fe has been making an operation on the Chicago market, and the Santa Fe division a private telephone system connecting the majority of the black signal stations, and the passage of freight and mail trains.

However, the management of the road believes in the telephone as a means of communication, in railroad work only to a limited extent. Simultaneous with the establishment of the system an order was issued prohibiting absolutely the use of the telephone for the transmission of freight orders.

The question of substituting the telephone for the telegraph in railroad work is one that is now being earnestly considered by railway managers. The Pennsylvania officials have gone so far as to make a comparison of the cost of operation of the system with the telephone, and so far the experiment is said to be a success. It is believed by some may be greatly increased by the use of a telephone. The only difficulty to be considered in the matter is the frequency with which the average telephone gets "out of order."

If interest in the telephone as a medium of telephone service is maintained, the Santa Fe will probably decide upon a more extended use.

With it, ice cream can be made in a few minutes. Many wonderful improvements are being discovered that it brings into prominence any institution that remains unchanged. Such an example is Russia's success in a few minutes of a well-known remedy for weak stomachs. Fifty years has seen no change in it. While many imitations have risen and fallen, this excellent medicine has remained unchanged and is still the best for indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia and biliousness. It is unequalled. An important mining deal was made recently by a local firm. James Martin sold his half interest in the mine that he has worked so successfully for some time, which is situated in the Trees Hermanas range, to his partner, A. J. Clark, of Silver City. This is a good paying property, and the work done in the past has proved, and Mr. Clark is to be congratulated on his purchase.

Last Sunday afternoon the house and all of its contents, belonging to M. C. Weaver, of El Paso, were burned. The house was destroyed by fire. How the fire originated is not known.

William Waddle, who resided in Albuquerque several years ago, who was sent to the Texas state penitentiary some months ago for the alleged theft of a horse, has returned to his home at El Paso, has been pardoned by the governor and returned to that city.

The news says much surprise was caused by the fact that Waddle was convicted and given a sentence of one year and ten days for such a trivial offense, and a great many people were perfectly willing to sign a petition for his pardon, and were perfectly willing to grant after he had investigated the merits of the case.
