In the Rito de los Frijoles 10,000 trout will be placed today, and similar numbers in the Tesuque, Cundio and Santa Clara. Those for the Santa Fe were taken from the river last evening by F. P. Sturges, Frank Newhall and W. H. Beacham. Not a fish was lost of the 10,000. Upon the return home the party met with a mishap at the large reservoir, by the team going into the ditch.

Incorporation. Incorporation papers were filed today in the office of Territorial Secretary Nathan Jaffa by the Asscott Valley Land and Improvement Company. The headquarters will be at Socorro and offices will be also maintained at El Paso, Texas. The capitalization is $100,000, divided into 10,000 shares. The incorporators and directors are: E. ## SOLVING THE LABOR PROBLEM

Industrial Department Created by International Paper Company of New York

WILL ADJUST ALL DIFFERENCES

Chairman of State Board of Mediation Placed in Charge.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Another great corporation has undertaken to come into intimate relations with its employees in the matter of wage differences and other grievances. John Lundregan of Buffalo, has resigned as chairman of the state board of mediation and arbitration, to become general superintendent of the industrial department of the International Paper Company at New York. The creation of an industrial bureau where the thousands of employees of a great corporation can have their differences discussed and adjusted, is a novel scheme, and it is believed it will work successfully.

CITY TO START PAVING STREETS.

Santa Fe Will Probably Be First in Territory to Have Such Improvements.

Santa Fe is to have paved streets. It is said that such streets are not to be found in the Territory. But Santa Fe will have one, or more of them.

Councilman Lopez at last night's council meeting read the report of the committee on streets and bridges, and read the petition to have San Francisco street paved from the Plaza corner to the west side of Don Gaspar avenue. This petition was favorably acted upon and the city will pay half and the property owners the other half of the expense. This part of San Francisco street which is right in front of the Claire hotel is a favorite spot for studying mud and its relationship to pedestrians. Last winter a team and a mud plough had to go through it to open up the street to traffic. The new improvement will certainly be a boom. Work will commence Monday, the contract for the work having been let to the penitentiary.

Other Reports. Mr. Lopez reported that during August 5622 square feet of sidewalks were laid and that deeds have been given and full settlement has been made so that Buena Vista and Hancock streets are opened. Mr. Lopez recommended further time for opening Buena Vista street west of Don Gaspar avenue to Cerrillos road. Mr. Lopez asked permission to survey, pave and park either Lincoln or Washington avenue.

Councilman Wheelon reported on the widening of upper Palace avenue. Upon his suggestion the council decided to allow him and the mayor further time to get the consent of all property owners and if it is impossible to get this consent the council will allow condemnation proceedings instituted.

Councilman Baca stated in regard to sewer permits that he had issued one to Attorney General Frank W. Clancy and would see about other permits that are required by law.

All of the members were present at last night's meeting, with the exception of Councilman Gable who was absent on account of business connected with his office as game and fish warden.

The council will meet again on the first Tuesday in October.

PORTER CHARLTON WRITES VERSE

Alienists Therefore Declare His Deep Reflexes Are Exaggerated

INCIDENTALLY MURDERS WIFE

Assassin Is Victim of What is Known as Constitutional Inferiority.

New York, Sept. 22.—According to the report of the alienists who have examined Porter Charlton, the self-confessed slayer of his wife at Lake Como, and which has just been made public at Jersey City, where Charlton is confined, Charlton is of a depraved, mental organization and a victim of what is known to students of medical diseases as "constitutional inferiority." The alienists say that he should be taken to a hospital for the insane and kept therein indefinitely, for he is liable at any time to be a menace to society. Among other charges the alienists make are: "He was fanciful, wrote verse and to a degree is sentimental. His physical conditions reveals nothing but hysterical stigmata. His sense is constricted and his deep reflexes are exaggerated."

FINE TRIBUTE TO SOUTH

Braver Soldiers Never Fought Than Those Who Wore the Gray

VAN SANT LOUDLY APPLAUDED

Increasing Fraternization of the Blue and the Gray Is Commended.

Atlantic City, Sept. 22.—With a fine tribute to the soldiers of the Confederacy, Commander-in-Chief Van Sant today formally opened the business session of the National Encampment, Grand Army of the Republic. The commander spoke earnestly as he expressed his gratification at the increasing fraternization of the Blue and the Gray. The commander was applauded when he said that no braver soldiers were ever marshaled for a conflict than the southern soldier at the present day. The soldiers realized that no men ever made greater sacrifices for what they thought to be right than their former foes.

Los Angeles in Lead for Encampment. Atlantic City, Sept. 22.—There is apparently no doubt that John E. Gillman, of Boston, will be elected commander-in-chief. Los Angeles seems to be in the lead for the 1911 encampment.

Pension of Dollar a Day. Atlantic City, Sept. 22.—The pension committee of the G. A. R. today made a report commending a proposition to Congress to grant each veteran of the Civil War a pension of at least a dollar a day during life. The committee claimed that such pension is too expensive to the government.

Gillman Elected Commander. Atlantic City, Sept. 22.—John Gillman, of Boston, was today elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

SHOOTS WOMAN, THEN HIMSELF

Tragedy in Road House and Jail of Suburb of Cleveland, Ohio

ANOTHER CASE OF DEGENERACY

Left Fortune of Half Million by Father—He Lost His Mind.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 22.—An hour after he had been arrested and confined to jail for shooting and seriously wounding a young woman whose identity was unknown, P. A. Yates, of Detroit, Mich., committed suicide by hanging himself in jail today. The shooting took place at a road house of the suburbs.

Prominent in Business. The man who committed suicide in the Cleveland jail is believed to be Burton W. Yates, a well known business man whose mental condition has been giving his friends considerable anxiety the past six months. Yates was left a fortune of half a million by his father but he had control only of the interest. He was prominent in athletics.

Joy Rides and Wine Rooms. Cleveland, Sept. 22.—The woman was later identified as Mrs. Fred Singer of Cleveland, formerly of Detroit. She will live. The shooting followed a day of automobile rides and visits to wine rooms.

LORIMER BRIBERY INVESTIGATION IS ON.

Arguments For the Defense for Postponement Until After Election Are Presented.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—After hearing arguments for and against postponement of the Lorimer bribery investigation until after November 11, the Senatorial committee adjourned its first formal session today until tomorrow morning without deciding on the question. Judge George Haney, in representing Senator Lorimer in arguing for postponement, said that many legislators who voted for Lorimer are now seeking re-election and to call them from their district to compel them to give testimony will now be a hardship on them and that the testimony will be used for political purposes.

WATSON ADVISES VOTERS TO SCRATCH HOKE SMITH.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 22.—To disregard the nomination of Hoke Smith for governor because of alleged fraud in the primary which chose him was the advice of Thomas T. Watson, one of the candidates for the presidency, in a speech at a mass meeting called by himself here last night.

DIES FROM EATING CANNED SALMON.

Gainsville, Texas, Sept. 22.—Frank Mordah, one of the two farmers poisoned here Saturday by eating canned salmon, died last night. Ben Jones, the other man poisoned, is in a critical condition today, not being expected to live.

CONSTITUTION MAKERS

HON. WINFRED ERNEST GARRISON.

Santa Fe will have another friend "of its own" besides its own delegates, in the constitutional convention when Dr. Winfred Ernest Garrison, who comes from Las Cruces, Dona Ana county arrives here next month.

Only a few years ago Dr. Garrison was head of the high school here and now when he returns and resides in the house of Dr. David Knapp on Lincoln avenue it will be like old times and his host of friends will warmly welcome him.

As an educator, author, tourist and newspaper man, Dr. Garrison is well known, but he probably is best known in New Mexico as the head of its most important educational institution, the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts which is both a federal and a territorial institution.

Dr. Garrison is still a very young man and his achievements are all the more remarkable. Born in St. Louis, October 1, 1874, he will be just 36 years of age when he comes back to Santa Fe. He was educated in the public schools and the high school of St. Louis and in Boston. He spent two years in Southport, England. In 1894 he was graduated from Yale, the university which has educated our president and our governor. From 1894 to 1895 he spent a year in post-graduate work at Yale. Then for two years he was a graduate student at the University of Chicago, studying history and philosophy. He was given the degree of doctor of philosophy by the University of Chicago in 1897.

Turning then to the teaching profession we find Dr. Garrison instructor in the department of history at the University of Chicago from 1897 to 1898.

Travels in Europe. Then the instructor laid down his books and took up his grip and his Baedeker for we see him traveling through Europe, making "la grande promenade" as it should be made. He visited England, France, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Finland and even Russia, Turkey, Greece and then back to Italy. He enjoyed even more thrilling experiences than are usually the lot of tourists through Europe for he was made a member of an exploring expedition through the little known region of Central Lapland.

As the result of his travels Dr. Garrison published a book "Wheeling Through Europe" and from his pen came many magazine articles. Returning to this country he again went to work teaching, this time as professor of history and Hebrew in Butler college, Indianapolis.

Becomes Newspaper Man.

Desiring to study the world at close range the professor left the classroom and entered the throbbing sanctum of a great metropolitan newspaper in St. Louis. He spent three years as a newspaper man and these years were among the most broadening in his career.

Dr. Garrison was recalled to Butler college in 1904 as its president. In the summer of 1904 he visited New Mexico and fell in love with its climate and scenery. He returned again in 1905 and in February, 1906, he visited Santa Fe and made this city his home. He was principal of the Santa Fe high school from 1906 to 1907 and from 1907 to 1908 he was president of the New Mexico University at Las Vegas.

Dr. Garrison has been president of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts since 1908 and has been a member of the territorial board of education since 1909.

STUBBS ATTACKS THE RAILROADS

Scents a Nation-Wide Conspiracy to Advance Freight Rates

COMPLAINS OF DISCRIMINATION

Large Cities Favored at Expense of Small Towns and Country.

Topeka, Kans., Sept. 22.—Governor W. R. Stubbs of Kansas outlined the purposes of the interstate conference in rather a sensational speech at the opening session today. The governor declared that the railroads of the country have combined to advance rates on a scale never before known and said the railroads have opened up the whole question of ascertaining the physical valuation of railroads by the testimony of railroad officials before the interstate commerce commission.

He asserted that the public demands nothing short of bonafide valuation of railroad property and said that Congress should pass a law giving the interstate commerce commission authority to ascertain this valuation. This, he said, should be done before any general advance in rates is permitted. The governor also deplored the tendency of the railroads to favor the large cities in the adjustment of rates.

Colorado Man Chairman.

Topeka, Sept. 22.—McKenzie of Trinidad, Colorado, was chosen chairman of the conference; R. O. McCormick of Fort Worth, secretary.

PLEASURE TRIP ENDS IN DEATH

Thirty-Nine Hurled Into Eternity While on Their Way to Fair

TRAIN CREW TOOK CHANCES

Crashes Into Another Fast Electric Train on Interurban Road.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 22.—With the death of George E. Jones, of Warren, at the hospital here this morning the death list, the result of yesterday's interurban disaster, is brought up to forty. Two others are not expected to live. Most of those killed were on their way to attend the fair.

Some One Blundered.

Fort Wayne, Sept. 22.—Thirty-nine dead is the total estimate for the Fort Wayne-Buffalo Interurban disaster yesterday. Officials of the company refuse to give an opinion as to where the responsibility lies, but it is believed that the crew of the southward train knowing that the limited was ten minutes late, took chances on making the siding and failed. Practically all of the dead were persons living near Bluffton. It was a holiday crowd going to Fort Wayne to attend the fair. Of the sixty passengers in the special, scarcely one escaped injury or death.

BLOW FOR THE RAILROADS

Intimation That They Will Not Be Permitted to Increase Rates.

MUST WORK OUT NEW PLAN

Absurd to Contend That as Traffic Grows Charges Must Be Higher.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner Lane today indicated at the rate hearing in progress here that the railroads would have to meet their constant increasing expenses in operation by some other means than that of the proposed increase of rates. "As the country develops," said the commissioner, "there will be more and more freight delivered to the carriers and by the reasoning of the railroad officials here, that means an increased cost per unit of service upon which they will demand an increasing scale of rates. I regard it as of serious moment to the western country if the rates constantly increase. We must work out the problem on other lines; if not, there will be no time when we can say that the maximum rates will not be increased."

BRIGHT LIGHTS FOR ANCIENT CITY

Ninety Tungstens Will Dispel Darkness During Convention

COUNCIL ACCEPTS CONTRACT

It Will Cost City $600 More a Year But Improvement Is Needed.

When the delegates come to Santa Fe to attend the constitutional convention, they will rub their eyes in surprise, if they arrive at night for the Ancient and Venerable City will be lighted up in new fashion.

So the council decided last night when it accepted the contract between the city and the Santa Fe Water and Light Company for a new lighting system for Santa Fe.

This new system means that 90 62-75 watt street Tungsten lights will burn in the heart of the city and along the main road to the depots, and scattered around the suburbs, so that one may no longer exclaim: "It is as dark as a pocket here."

The contract calls for the installation of these new lights in place of the present feeble ones by November 1, but it is said that Manager Frank Owen has signified his intention of having most of the lights glowing by the time the constitutional convention opens.

This will prove a splendid thing for the city and will doubtless make a favorable impression on the delegates and their relatives and friends who will spend a month or more in the city.

The cost to the city for this improved service will be $600 extra. The city is now paying $2,000 for water and lights so the total cost will be $2,600 per year.

It is agreed that the city will have this service for a year with the option of renewing for another year, if desired.

Said Mayor Seligman today: "We hope that this service will be a vast improvement on the present lighting system and such an improvement is as earnestly desired by the council as by the people of Santa Fe."

After Councilman Alford had reported the proposition of the water and light company the council discussed its provisions and they passed it unanimously.

Besides throwing light on the heart of the city where most of the traffic is, these new Tungstens will do service on the outskirts of the city notably at these points: Washington and Marcy; Washington and Cerrillos; Cerrillos road and Hickory; College and Buena Vista; Washington avenue near the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus G. Morley; Marcy street near Professor J. A. Wood's house; San Francisco street at Mr. Abeyta's house; Montezuma and Hancock and Water and Sandoval streets.

When They Will Shine. These Tungstens "will let their light shine" from 5 p. m. to 5 a. m. in the months of October, to March and from 7:30 p. m. to 4 a. m. the other months of the year.

City Agent Harvey Lutz of the Santa Fe stated today that his railroad now is using Tungsten lamps at the depot and that they are highly satisfactory.

The Santa Fe Water and Light Company is to maintain, and care for the lamps, attending to renewals, etc.

THE RUINS IN AND ABOUT SANTA FE

Places That Have Been Forgotten Except by Historian and Archaeologist—Communal Houses of This Immediate Vicinity.

(By Colonel R. E. Twitchell, in Las Vegas Optic.)

A milestone in the educational advance of New Mexico was set when the School of American Archaeology and the New Mexico Museum were established at Santa Fe. This school and the museum must not be taken and considered as institutions local to the city of Santa Fe. They belong as well to the whole people of New Mexico and to the world, for that matter. Engaged in the material pursuits and occupations of today, the vast majority of New Mexicans have failed to notice or appreciate the great value of these two institutions to our people. To the man who knows, however, and to the individual who keeps step with the educational progress of the times, it is very patent that the establishment of these institutions has given to the people of New Mexico a standing in the world of educational endeavor not heretofore enjoyed by any western or southwestern state, and judging from the successful session of the school, held during the month of August, in the field and upon the scene of the most extensive work of excavation of aboriginal remains yet made within the present territorial limits of the United States, New Mexico will soon see, within its borders, attracted by this school, many men and women of education, wealth and refinement, who otherwise would never have come among us, even for a visit, let alone making this country their homes and becoming citizens.

But New Mexico and its present citizenship, as represented in its legislative assemblies, is entitled to more than passing credit. When by legislative enactment, the people of New Mexico gave the Old Palace over to the Museum and to the School of American Archaeology, and also voted an appropriation in cash yearly to sustain it, there was administered, unwittingly perhaps, to those who have heretofore derided our fitness for full citizenship, a just and most deserved rebuke. This gift of the Palace was but a legislative earnest of the intense loyalty and desire of the people of New Mexico to refute the charges with which they have been assailed—charges made through ignorance and prejudice.

We, of Las Vegas, have a pronounced interest in this school and its work. It is but natural that we should, for it was here that Dr. Edgar L. Hewett, the director of the school, first received the inspiration which brought about his earnest devotion to this line of study and research, and which has already produced such magnificent results to the study of the origin, customs, manners and occupation of the aboriginal inhabitants of this continent. To this day the origin of the North American Indian has been an undecided problem, but I venture to prophesy that within the ensuing years, in a bulletin issued from the School of American Archaeology at Santa Fe, through the efforts of attaches and instructors of that school, it will be announced to the world, and substantiated by proof which will appeal to the students of ethnology and archaeology, at least, that the North American Indian had for ancestors a people who lived in northern Asia.

To a Las Vegas citizen belongs the credit, also, of having made it possible for the museum to establish and restore some of the rooms of the old palace, by contributions which will place the people of New Mexico under lasting obligations to him for his generosity. Beautiful mural decorations in the Puye room of the old palace, depicting the magnificent scenery of localities on the Pajarito plateau, the old communal dwellings, with their almost myriads of rooms, the adobe of the cliff dwellers of prehistoric times, have been installed through the liberality of our fellow townsman, Mr. Frank Springer, a scientist of note and reputation in both America and Europe.

It is of one of these mural paintings that I would speak, addressing myself on the question of historical accuracy, and not claiming that sufficiency of personal or acquired knowledge that would entitle my opinions to conclusive consideration. I only offer my thoughts and what has come to me through personal historical documentary research by way of suggestion so that those whose opinions may be taken as authority may give the matter some further study before installing one of the alleged paintings. Mr. Lofave, the artist, whose brain and brush have been occupied in the production of these pictures, has finished. I refer to the painting which will probably be known as "Prehistoric Santa Fe." Dr. Hewett, in his description, in a recent issue of the Santa Fe New Mexican, of prehistoric Santa Fe, says: "The Tewa name for the site where Santa Fe now stands was 'Kupage' Tewa; the place of the shell beads near the water, and a large terraced pueblo stood on Fort Marcy hill where the military breastworks have long covered its ruined walls. A smaller pueblo, later called 'Analeco' (Analeco; a Nahua or Aztec word, 'atl' water; 'nalli,' the other side; 'co,' on: 'On the other side of the water') stood south of the Rio Santa Fe, on the site of the San Miguel church. * * * We now know that a third pueblo existed in very early times in the valley north of the river. * * * None of these towns were occupied at the time when the Santa Fe valley was first seen by white men. All were in ruins, but the evidences at hand justify the belief that if one could have stood upon the spot where the city now stands, looking east from the site of the Church of Our Lady of Guadalupe, five hundred years ago, here would have been seen on what we call Fort Marcy hill, an Indian town of considerable size, consisting of one large terraced pueblo and one or more smaller buildings nearby, a kiva or sanctuary of the circular subterranean type on the bench half way down the hill side; south of the river on the San Miguel slope, a small pueblo two stories high, and passing back and forth from these two towns to the river, then considerably larger than now, the water carriers with their ollas on their heads. In the foreground, where the historic old palace has undergone the vicissitudes of nearly three centuries, would have been seen a cluster of ruined walls and rounded mounds, the remains of an earlier town, over which some of the earliest houses of Santa Fe were doubtless built.

Such is our conception of "Prehistoric Santa Fe" and for it there is abundant documentary and archaeological evidence. In this form it will be presented by Mr. Lofave in the first of a cycle of paintings now being executed for the historic corridor in the Archaeological Museum in the Old Palace, representing the principal epochs of the civilization of this place."

Now when I read this description, I was taken by Dr. Hewett's definition of the word "Analeco," which he shows is a word of the Uaupia language. I repeatedly asked myself: How does it happen that an Aztec word is used as a name for a New Mexico pueblo—consequently prehistoric, or Spanish at least? During the first years of my residence in Santa Fe, it was my pleasure, coupled, I admit, with a decided curiosity, to make some investigation of the old pueblo ruins in that locality. As time progressed I became intensely interested, owing doubtless to the presence and intimate acquaintance with Mr. A. F. Bandler, the greatest of living archaeologists, who gave me much valuable information, and pointed out to me many valuable "trails" which I assiduously followed in making my amateur investigations and explorations. Bandler never suggested that "Analeco" was a Nahuatl word, in fact I do not believe that it ever occurred to him. He always believed that there was no pueblo on the present site of the San Miguel church or near the so-called "oldest house" nor were there any ruins of an old pueblo at that point when Onate made Santa Fe his capital in 1598. There is no doubt that there was a pueblo on top of Fort Marcy; the foundations and remains of an old pueblo were used in the construction of the fort, at the time of the American occupation, on top of the hill; that is well known, but as to there having been any pueblo remains across the river, I have serious doubts, and I shall give my reasons. Benavides, the historian, in his memorial, written in 1630, at page 26, says of the city of Santa Fe: "Villa de Santa Fe, cabeza de este Reino, adonde residian los gobernadores, y Espanoles, que seran hasta docientos y cincuenta aunque solos los cincuenta se podran armar por falta de armas. * * * a este presidio sustentaba V. M. no con pagas de su caja real, sino haciendo los encomenderos de aquellos pueblos, por mano del gobernador; el tributo que les dan los indios, es cada casa una manita, que es una vara de lienzo de algodón, y una fanega de maíz cada año, con que se sustentan los probes Espanoles; tendran de servicio setecientos almas de suerte, que entre Espanoles mestizos, e indios acreca mil almas." Now Mr. Bandler says that the "servicio" consisted of Mexican Indians, not of Pueblos. The adobes of these were on the south bank of the Santa Fe river, and the Church of San Miguel was the chapel of the Mexican Indians, and not a pueblo church. In another account, a manuscript of August 13th, fifty years later, entitled Diario del Sitio de Santa Fe, we find "Y otro dia por la manana se descubrio el ejercito del enemigo en el Llano de las Milpas de S. Miguel y casas de los Mexicanos saqueandolas." In the Diary of Governor Otermin, being his account of the retreat from Santa Fe, at the time of the Pueblo revolt of 1680, we find the above, and in 1693, Diego de Vargas says: "Pase a reconocer la Iglesia e ermita que servia de parroquia a los Yndios Mexicanos que vivian en esta dha. Ulla con el titulo de la abocacion de San Miguel, el Arcangel S. Miguel." In the Relacion Anonima de la Reconquista de padre 141 we find "Pase a la capilla de San Miguel, que antes servia de parroquia a los indios Tsalcaltecas. Escañante, in his letter to Padre Morfi says: "Dia sitiaron a esta los Tanos de San Marcos, San Cristoval y Galisteo, los Queres de la Cienega y los Pecos por la parte del sur, se apoderaron de las casas de los indios Tsalcaltecas, que vivian en el barrio de Analeco y pegaron fuego a la Capilla de San Miguel."

It is comparatively easy, then, to see where the word "Analeco" came from; it was given to the place by the Mexican Indians, the Tsalcaltecas, who had been brought into the country by Onate when he made his entrada in 1598.

The nearest pueblos, actually occupied when the Spaniards came to New Mexico, to the present city of Santa Fe, were the Tewa village of Tesuque, which was called by the Indians Tzi-gu-ma. It is twelve miles southwest of Santa Fe.

There is no doubt in my mind that the so-called "oldest house" is of pueblo construction, but that does not prove that there was a pueblo building on the spot; it was likely nothing but a detached house, and was two stories high. It was two stories high when I lived in Santa Fe, but was later cut down to one story, as the top walls were crumbling away. The "Mexican Indians" did not build two story houses, nor did they build houses, having opening in the top instead of the sides. The "oldest house" had its entrance in the roof and the doors and windows now appearing are all of very late construction. If the painting, embodying Dr. Hewett's ideas, only shows houses of the detached type, at this point, I think he will be not only prehistorically but historically correct.

The aboriginal remains and ruins in Santa Fe county are so numerous, and to the interested visitor to the capital so little information as to the old sites of pueblos is available, I have thought it well to give to the public and to the good people of Santa Fe, who are directly interested, not from an educational, still from a commercial and material point of view, the benefit of all the information I have upon this most interesting subject.

First, I will give the list of pueblos known to have been occupied when the Spaniards came to New Mexico. These are all of the common pueblo type—the several storied, communal dwellings. Those which were already abandoned, when the Spaniards came were of the type just mentioned and also of the detached family-building, several of which would form a village or settlement.

The first actual colonization of New Mexico was in what are now the counties of Rio Arriba and Santa Fe. Near the mouth of the Chama river, opposite the present pueblo and San Juan, Onate established his capital. In 1598, he called it San Gabriel. Prior to that date the several Spanish explorers, Coronado, in 1540, Chamusca, in 1580, Espejo in 1583, Castano de Sosa in 1590 had traversed Santa Fe county, but there is no documentary proof that any one of them ever came to the site of the present city of Santa Fe until Onate established his second capital there in 1598.

When the explorers whom I have mentioned traversed these areas, there were on the west the "Queres," the "Tanos" in the south, and the "Tehues" in the north and center of the county. The last two named spoke dialects of a common stock language.

The Queres inhabited until after 1680 the site of the Cienega, on the road from Santa Fe to Pena Blanca. Their village at that place was known as Chimu-ra. It was the easterly outpost of the Rio Grande branch of this tribe.

All of the Tanos villages are completely deserted now, because the tribe moved over to the Mogui in Arizona after 1694, and the last remnants who did not go there died of the smallpox just prior to the date of Mexican independence. The ruins of Galisteo—not the present village, but the remains one and one-half miles northeast of it, north of the "Creston," of San Cristoval, San Cazar and San Marcos, also in all probability those at the "Garita" in the city of Santa Fe, belonged to that tribe. No one has ever been able to ascertain the Indian names of these villages, except that at Santa Fe which was Po-ge. The pueblo known as "Tuer-to" near the mountains of that name and that of "Tunque" were occupied in 1598.

Of the Tewa pueblos only one, known in Indian as Ojue-San Juan de los Caballeros, was located on the east bank of the Rio Grande, almost in the same place where we find it today. The village of "Nambu," "Te-sue," "Pojoaque" and "Cuyamungue" were when Onate came, very small affairs, but they grew very much in size up to the revolt of 1680. The main settlements of the Tehues were on the west side of the Rio Grande and consisted of at least ten villages. Only one of these occupies the same place as when Onate came, Santa Clara, which was called "Capo." San Ysidoro; "Ojo-que" is about a mile from its former site when it was called "Bove"—1598. The pueblos of Tiro-ma-xi-quino (Pajaritos) "Camitri," "Quilota," "Axol," "Junete" all ruins in lower Rio Arriba county; so is "Yun-que" which was the exact place of Onate's first capital. The "Tiguas" that is those speaking the dialect of Sandia and Isleta were just on the southwestern boundary of Santa Fe county but there are the ruins of two old pueblos of this tribe, near O. S. Pedro. There was a pueblo of the detached-house type or cluster village near Lamy, the mounds of which have been seen. There is a ruin at Valverde, near Golden. There were four handsome villages five miles south of Galisteo, along the southern Creston. They were "Pueblo Largo," "Pueblo Colorado," "Pueblo de She" and the "Pueblo Blanco." A large ruin lies about two and one-half miles east-north-east of the present station of Domingo, on the A. T. & S. F. railway. On the "Arroyo Honda," five miles south of Santa Fe, there are two, a small one above and a large one below the rocky gorge. The road to Pena Blanca intersects the foundations of a small pueblo six miles southwest of the city of Santa Fe. North of Santa Fe there are three ruins (mounds). East and southeast of Tesuque, towards the mountains there is the ruin of Plo-go. There is also one near Jacoma, and a large mound across the Rio Grande from the present pueblo of San Ysidoro. Up the Santa Cruz river, beginning just below the site of the present church, where there was a pueblo, in a number of places are sites of old pueblos, any of which can be pointed out to the tourist or student.

The greatest pueblo of them all, in the vicinity of Santa Fe, was the settlement known as Cicuye, just on the boundary almost between Santa Fe and San Miguel counties. This is the pueblo of Pecos. It contained at one time not less than two thousand inhabitants, and could muster an army of not less than five hundred warriors. This pueblo died out about five years before the coming of the Americans the last of the Pecos going to their kinsmen the Indians of Jemez.

RAILWAY RATE REGULATION.

It is very likely that the constitutional convention will be asked to act on a proposition to create a railroad commission, which has become a statutory adjunct in a number of states. The following on Rate Regulation in Great Britain, from the New York Journal of Commerce is therefore of local interest:

"Chafing under the deliberate methods of the interstate commerce commission in dealing with the question of railroad rates, our merchants and manufacturers have the dubious satisfaction of knowing that the problem is not handled more expeditiously in other countries. That is to say, when the railroads are not government property, the regulation of their charge by government authority is a very deliberate process indeed. Where railroad management is a government function, there is no delay in establishing rates, but there is also no appeal. In England where government ownership is at least as far off as it is with ourselves, the fixing of railroad rates is recognized as a strictly legislative function, and as such it is exercised by Parliament itself and not otherwise. No provision was made in England for fixing the rates of railroads except the provisions which were in the charters of the various railway companies, until the adoption of the railway and canal traffic act of 1888. What was known as the railway clauses act of 1845 was passed for the purpose of insuring fair dealing upon the part of the railways with individuals. Thus, long before public opinion here had demanded equality of treatment for shippers, the English law provided that railroad tolls should be at all times charged equally to all persons, and after the same rate, whether per ton, per mile or otherwise, in respect of all passengers and of all goods or carriages of the same description, and conveyed or propelled by a like carriage or engine, passing only over the same portion of the line of railway, under the same circumstances and no reduction or advance in any such tolls shall be made, either directly or indirectly, in favor of or against any particular company or person traveling upon or using the railway." The Cardwell act of 1854 was passed to prevent undue preferences and to compel interchange of traffic, so that a great railway company could not make traffic arrangements with any other railway or canal company of a special and exclusive character. As early as the passage of this act, a former chief justice of the court of common pleas said in Parliament that he felt himself incompetent to try a railway case which involved the question of railway charges, and he then urged the organization of a special tribunal for the purpose of examining and trying such questions.

"It was in 1872 that the joint committee of Parliament recommended the organization of a railway commission which, as constituted, became a court with all the powers of a court. That is, the railway and canal commission of Great Britain consists of two appointed and three ex-officio commissioners, and is a court of record. The appointed commissioners assume office on the recommendation of the president of the board of trade, hold office during good behavior, and one of their number must be a man of experience in railway business. The three ex-officio commissioners must be judges of the superior court, one being nominated for England by the Lord Chancellor; one for Scotland by the Lord President of the court of sessions, and one for Ireland by the Lord Chancellor of Ireland; such assignments being made for periods of not less than five years. Not less than three commissioners must attend the hearing of any case, the ex-officio commissioner presiding, and his opinion upon any question which is the opinion of the commissioners is a question of law, necessarily prevails. The main jurisdiction of the railway and canal commission is to hear and determine complaints of contraventions of the railway regulation acts. It may also exercise certain powers of arbitration, and its approval is required to certain agreements between railways or railways and canals. It has also authority to order through rates under certain restrictions provided by law, and it may, when a railway owns a canal order changes in canal rates when necessary to prevent the diversion of traffic from the canal to the railway controlling it. But the commission does not originate complaints; it does not proceed upon its own motion; it is not charged with the duty of enquiring into the management of railways; it has no administrative supervision of any of the details of railway operations; it is not charged with the duty of detecting violations of the law or of bringing about prosecutions for such violations; its duty is to hear the complaint duly brought before it by some proper complainant and to determine what, if any, relief is proper under the law.

"By the railway and canal traffic act of 1888 an extremely careful procedure was provided for revising the rates of carriers through the instrumentality of the board of trade. By that act the carriers were required to transmit to the board classifications and schedules of maximum rates. The railways were to advertise in the newspapers and by posting notices at their passenger stations, the fact of having so transmitted their schedules and classifications to the board of trade. Thereupon the board was to hear all parties whom they considered entitled to be heard, and then if the board agreed with the railways upon the proposed schedules, schedules so agreed upon, or in the event of inability to agree, schedules prepared by the board, were to be transmitted to Parliament, and the board was to procure a bill to be brought in for confirming such order. If any objections were made to the bill, it had to be referred either to a select committee of the House in which it had been introduced, or to a joint committee of the two Houses, so that an opportunity might be given for a hearing. Only when an act had been passed, in pursuance of this procedure, confirming a provisional order, could the rates so designated become binding upon the railways. When the United States senate committee was engaged in the investigation which furnished the basis for the interstate commerce law, a question was asked of Mr. Simon Sterne as to the reasonableness of the rates then charged by railway corporations for local and through traffic. His answer was that if by reasonable it was meant whether rates were low or high, the reasonableness of the rate had but very little to do with the question of high or low rates. He regarded a reasonable rate which is fairly compensating for the work done, but a rate might be unreasonably low and yet be injurious to the community, more so than an unreasonably high one if the unreasonably low one fluctuates and individual in character. In spite of all the legislation which has been passed in the interim, the qualification is still one to be borne steadily in mind."

There is wisdom in the remark of a New Mexico exchange: "There is little use in directing immigration this way unless we are prepared to take care of it." It is the daily experience in Santa Fe, that people arrive with the intention of making good. They look for the free land that has been advertised and find it to be land on which they cannot raise crops without irrigation; they then ask for the big irrigation systems and discover that they are still on paper and that the federal government has tied up all the waters of the Rio Grande and its tributaries; they then ask for employment, being eager to work, and can find no factories or industries. If they have money they may go into business which is already overcrowded; or they may sit down like Micawber, waiting for something to turn up. Advertising of this section, and in the meanwhile, the local commercial organizations should get busy to make available lands, waters and employment for the homeseeker who comes here for other reasons than health or sport.

Porter Charlton who brutally murdered his wife and sunk her body in Lake Como, is excused for his deed by alienists, according to today's dispatches, because he is suffering from constitutional inferiority. Not only alienists but every physician in the course of his practice, notices this constitutional inferiority of many people. Deprived of their birthright, a clean bill of health, before birth, thousands grow up suffering from constitutional inferiority. The causes are well known to physicians, their being being loudly proclaimed even in such goody-goody family papers like the Ladies' Home Journal, but most people still shut their eyes to the law of the physical as well as the moral world, that the sins, the dissipation, the low plane of life of the fathers and the mothers shall be visited upon the children to the third and fourth generations.

The growth of real estate values in western towns is vividly demonstrated in Greeley, Colorado. A lot that in 1860, was valued at $60, is today appraised at $32,000 by a board of appraisers, while the owners want to charge Uncle Sam $50,000 for it as a postoffice site. An increment of 64,000 per cent in fifty years is pretty good interest on an investment. Even here in Santa Fe, property which one day appears on the assessment rolls at $50, is held the next day at $1,200 when the city wants to cut a street through it.

The Cherokee, Oklahoma, Republican, no doubt intends to rebuke its own statesmen when it says: "Amid all the noise and bluster and national discontent, New Mexico has gone Republican and elected 71 Republicans and 29 Democrats to the constitutional convention. It is a safe bet that the constitution will not require a twenty mule team to haul it to the station to ship it to Washington."

The insurgents are no longer insurgents, but they are the party, both on the Republican and the Democratic sides.

NEW MEXICO VS. CANADA.

Dispatches tell of the return to the United States from Canada of thousands of disappointed farmers who went to Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and other provinces in order to make their homes, being lured by cheap lands and stories of big crops. They found that drought and severe climate played havoc with their prospects. If drought and sudden changes in temperature are an attraction, it is not necessary for any farmer to leave the United States, for they can be found at home and even in New Mexico. If free land, absence of severe winters, opportunities to succeed, are in demand then New Mexico can offer these to far greater extent than does the Dominion of Canada. Says the St. Louis Times:

"There has been so much in the public prints on the subject of the departure of the northern farmer from the United States to Canada that it is interesting to encounter a story dealing with the opposite side of the proposition.

"It may have been questioned, many times, how the American farmer has been able to adjust himself to the customs of a country which is monarchical in a remote fashion, and where the stars and stripes are given a secondary place.

"Now comes testimony from a farmer who went from Wisconsin to northern Canada, several years ago, and who has returned to his own country.

"This farmer declares that only three crops out of five on the land in question are profitable, because of droughts. This condition, he says, prevails this season; and he declares that no less than 15,000 farmers from the United States who emigrated to Alberta and Saskatchewan are either now on the way back to America, or are endeavoring to come as soon as they can do so without making too many sacrifices.

"Besides the matter of rainfall, the other difficulties include an extraordinary range of thermometer conditions. Variations in temperature include changes of 60 degrees in two hours.

"The man who longs to be on the move is not, as a rule, a very reliable witness. The new stopping place is always extravagantly praised while it is new, and unduly blamed when it ceases to be new.

"Nevertheless, it may be surmised that a majority of American farmers who have crossed the border may have found no adequate compensation for their move, and it does not seem unlikely that in a majority of cases, the pulling up of stakes means nothing more than yielding to the spirit of wanderlust."

The Tribune Citizen last evening read its party a two and a half column "Mene, mene teke!" It is trying to teach the Democratic jackass to decipher the signs of the times and incidentally confesses that the Democratic party in New Mexico is moribund, has no principles and no standing; it advises its bosses that "they must change tactics," something the New Mexican advised them long ago. It remarks incidentally that the Democratic party has been "taking it out in platitudes" although when the New Mexican during the campaign made a similar criticism it was indignantly denied by the Tribune Citizen. There is nothing so valuable as an honest confession followed by a season of introspection, both for men and political parties.

On August 1, the New Mexican published an article by Editor Claude King of Sports Afield, in which he pleads for the preservation of landmarks and the Spanish language in New Mexico. On September 17, extracts from the same article and comment on it are printed in the Literary Digest having found their way thither by way of the Chicago Inter-Ocean. It is not the first time that articles of interest, printed for the first time in the New Mexican, find a place in metropolitan papers long afterwards.

The Tulsa, Okla., World expresses surprise that the leaders of the Republican party in New Mexico "should have embraced such 'socialistic doctrine' as the initiative, referendum and direct primary." The New Mexican expresses surprise that the Tulsa World should have received such information, for nothing is further from the minds of the Republican leaders or the majority of the people of the Territory than to include the initiative, referendum and direct primary in the constitution.

Republican New Mexico has had a school for the education of its mute and deaf children. To these many years. Democratic Arizona is just awakening to its duty in that respect, and the Arizona Republican advocates the founding of such a school at Phoenix.

Considering population and wealth, there is no state in the Union which is doing more for the cause of education and for the care of its deaf, mute and blind children as is New Mexico.

The story of Kit Carson should be familiar to every school boy. He was the Path Finder whom others followed; though brave as a lion he was gentle as a woman. He lacked the traditional swagger of the frontiersman, and of him it could be truly said that he treated dogs better than some men treat men.

Secretary of the Interior Ballinger says he will not resign but will stick to his job. When it is remembered that this means a sacrifice of $50,000 a year in attorney's fees, Mr. Ballinger's determination to stick to it is commendable for patriotism and usefulness if not for wisdom.

There should be a large turn out of citizens at tonight's meeting of the Board of Trade to consider the entertainment of the delegates to the constitutional convention. It is a matter that is the business of every resident.

CHAUFFEURS! NO! WILL YOU BE GOOD.

power and if you wish, the number of people you have run down. If you have killed any dogs (without license tags) mention the fact.

Summed up, the above are a few "don'ts" that chauffeurs, spending more than ten days in this city and running cars for themselves or others, will do well to take into consideration. At the next meeting of the council an ordinance making these regulations law will likely be passed, for the ordinance was brought up last night, submitted to the council and approved by that body. All that remains for it to become legal is the required 30 days to elapse and the publication of it four times.

The ordinance aroused much interest at the council last night when it was brought up by Councilman Armijo who said that he was able to offer the council the report drawn up by the committee of three appointed by Mayor Seligman to draft a suitable one. On this committee were Dr. J. Standley Small, Prof. J. E. Clark and Assistant District Attorney C. C. Catron.

The various provisions of the ordinance were discussed, Dr. Small explaining why some of them were inserted. One of the councilmen suggested that an age limit be put on chauffeurs. Other suggestions were offered and much laughter followed the remark made by Councilman Baca that chauffeurs ought to pay a higher fee than $2 or $5. "I suggest that those fees be raised to $5 and $10, at least," said Mr. Baca.

In regard to lights on automobiles it was decided that two on the front and one on the rear will be sufficient for the present and they must burn from 45 minutes after sundown to daylight, whenever the autos are standing on the streets or running.

Non-Resident Chauffeurs.

The council courteously extended the freedom (from license) of the city to visiting chauffeurs who will not have to stand an examination or pay any fees, for the period of ten days. After ten days, however, they will go before the committee and prove that they are competent to steer the "lightning conductors" even through Burro alley.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE CONCENTRATED.

No Patch Here and There Plan to Be Carried Out in Future—Montezuma Avenue First.

Mayor Seligman stated today that his policy and that of the council will be to make permanent improvements to streets in Santa Fe and not do a little patching here and there. It was decided by the council last night to macadamize Montezuma avenue from the depot to the capitol and Councilman Armijo was instructed to procure eight or ten convicts to help in the work. Engineer Smythe of the firm of Corbett and Smythe has the engineering work in charge and has made a plat of the work.

There was some discussion at the council meeting about the feasibility of concentrating the work in one given spot, each councilman declaring that there is much need of road or street improvements in his own ward. Councilman Moya and Armijo pleaded for their first ward; Councilmen Ortiz and Alarid for the second ward; Councilmen Baca and Wheeler were equally emphatic about the needs of the fourth ward and Councilman Lopez spoke up for the third ward. It was finally agreed that the mayor's suggestion is the most feasible and in ten years the city will be well equipped with good streets, if this scheme is faithfully carried out.

POSTMASTER GENERAL AT DEMING.

Greeted By Editor W. E. Holt of the Graphic, an Old Friend of the Cabinet Officer.

Deming, N. M., Sept. 22.—Postmaster General Hitchcock and party will arrive in Deming at 6:30 this evening. There will be an informal dinner at the Harvey house attended by various prominent Republicans of Deming and other citizens who desire to pay their respects to the distinguished visitor. Mr. Hitchcock is an old friend of W. E. Holt, editor of the Graphic, and had designed to spend a day with him, but being called back to Washington on important business his stay in Deming will be cut short. Mr. Hitchcock and party will be taken for a short trip in automobiles to visit some of the farms in this vicinity before leaving for El Paso at

SOUR STOMACH

"I used Cascarets and feel like a new man. I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia and sour stomach for the last two years. I have been taking medicine and other drugs, but could find no relief only for a short time. I will recommend Cascarets to my friends as the only thing for indigestion and sour stomach and to keep the bowels in good condition. They are very nice to eat."

night, submitted to the council and approved by that body. All that remains for it to become legal is the required 30 days to elapse and the publication of it four times.

The ordinance aroused much interest at the council last night when it was brought up by Councilman Armijo who said that he was able to offer the council the report drawn up by the committee of three appointed by Mayor Seligman to draft a suitable one. On this committee were Dr. J. Standley Small, Prof. J. E. Clark and Assistant District Attorney C. C. Catron.

The various provisions of the ordinance were discussed, Dr. Small explaining why some of them were inserted. One of the councilmen suggested that an age limit be put on chauffeurs. Other suggestions were offered and much laughter followed the remark made by Councilman Baca that chauffeurs ought to pay a higher fee than $2 or $5. "I suggest that those fees be raised to $5 and $10, at least," said Mr. Baca.

In regard to lights on automobiles it was decided that two on the front and one on the rear will be sufficient for the present and they must burn from 45 minutes after sundown to daylight, whenever the autos are standing on the streets or running.

Non-Resident Chauffeurs.

The council courteously extended the freedom (from license) of the city to visiting chauffeurs who will not have to stand an examination or pay any fees, for the period of ten days. After ten days, however, they will go before the committee and prove that they are competent to steer the "lightning conductors" even through Burro alley.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE CONCENTRATED.

No Patch Here and There Plan to Be Carried Out in Future—Montezuma Avenue First.

Mayor Seligman stated today that his policy and that of the council will be to make permanent improvements to streets in Santa Fe and not do a little patching here and there. It was decided by the council last night to macadamize Montezuma avenue from the depot to the capitol and Councilman Armijo was instructed to procure eight or ten convicts to help in the work. Engineer Smythe of the firm of Corbett and Smythe has the engineering work in charge and has made a plat of the work.

There was some discussion at the council meeting about the feasibility of concentrating the work in one given spot, each councilman declaring that there is much need of road or street improvements in his own ward. Councilman Moya and Armijo pleaded for their first ward; Councilmen Ortiz and Alarid for the second ward; Councilmen Baca and Wheeler were equally emphatic about the needs of the fourth ward and Councilman Lopez spoke up for the third ward. It was finally agreed that the mayor's suggestion is the most feasible and in ten years the city will be well equipped with good streets, if this scheme is faithfully carried out.

POSTMASTER GENERAL AT DEMING.

Deming, N. M., Sept. 22.—Postmaster General Hitchcock and party will arrive in Deming at 6:30 this evening. There will be an informal dinner at the Harvey house attended by various prominent Republicans of Deming and other citizens who desire to pay their respects to the distinguished visitor. Mr. Hitchcock is an old friend of W. E. Holt, editor of the Graphic, and had designed to spend a day with him, but being called back to Washington on important business his stay in Deming will be cut short. Mr. Hitchcock and party will be taken for a short trip in automobiles to visit some of the farms in this vicinity before leaving for El Paso at

It has never been the selling policy of this firm to demoralize QUALITY for price, we have always, held the QUALITY of our goods up to the highest standards of perfection. Our prices are based on the SURPASSING QUALITY of our goods and are as low as GOOD QUALITY will permit.

At the present time when the price of linseed oil is so abnormally high, it is the policy of some houses to slight the quality of their paint, and adulterate them in order to hold to a lower price. WE DO NOT DO THIS. Our Paints have the same standard of QUALITY that has won them their everlasting reputation.

WHAT OUR SCHOOLS ARE NOW DOING

Loretto Academy Has Large Enrollment of Day Pupils and Boarders

NOTED EDUCATOR AT HEAD

Mother Rosine Returns After 36 Years to Note Many Improvements.

Loretto Academy, one of the oldest institutions of its kind in the southwest, has again opened its doors to give another year's training to young ladies from New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, Colorado and other states.

The beautiful grounds of the academy again ring with the laughter of merry pupils at play and the delightful autumn of New Mexico again finds the devoted sisters carrying on their life work of educating the youth of the land.

There have been several changes in the academy and these have been noted by the pupils. First of all the mother superior Mother Barbara has been transferred to Pueblo and Mother Rosine has taken her place at the head of Loretto. Mother Rosine returns to Santa Fe after 36 years' absence and finds many changes in the city and in the convent. Fifteen years of her absence has been spent as secretary general at the mother house in Loretto, Ky. She has been superior of a convent at Las Vegas, at Las Cruces and at Colorado Springs. She is a noted educator and Loretto is fortunate to have such a person at its head.

Large Enrollment.
A new class room has been opened and an extra teacher appointed. This is warranted by the enrollment which already is 42 boarders and over 50 day scholars. Many more will come by October 1 and the convent will be practically filled.

As in former years a thorough course of study will be given and instruction in violin, piano, mandolin and guitar will round out the musical education of those who are musical.

The library has been enlarged and many valuable works placed in it thus affording the pupils a solid course of reading during the winter months when the comfortable atmosphere of the library is preferred to the croquet

"park" or the tennis courts. There are amusements as well as studies, for the sisters believe in reasonable hours of relaxation to promote efficiency in study. Many parties and other social affairs are given throughout the year and several short vacations for the holidays also tend to break the monotony of class room recitations.

The pupils enjoy convent life, however, for they realize what it means to them to get the careful training and fine cultivation given by the Sisters of Loretto in all of their convents.

Mrs. Jacob Wilmet, Lincoln, Ill., found her way back to perfect health. She writes: "I suffered with kidney trouble and backache and my appetite was very poor at times. A few weeks ago I got Foley's Kidney Pills and gave them a fair trial. They gave me great relief, so continued till now I am again in perfect health." The Capital Pharmacy.

TWITTED ABOUT RELIGION SHE ASKS FOR DIVORCE.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 22.—"My husband twitted me about my religion because I happened to be of a different faith than himself," explained Mrs. Georgia Everts to County Judge Dixon yesterday afternoon in asking a divorce from Roy E. Everts.

Mariano Sena Acquitted—The case against Mariano F. Sena in district court, in which he was charged with assault with a deadly weapon on Ramon Jimenez, was dismissed, the prosecution acknowledging that it had failed to make a case, as the evidence showed that the gun in question had been discharged, and that accidentally, by some one else than Sena.

Cardinal "John" Gibbons—Catholics and others in Santa Fe acquainted with His Eminence, James Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore and author of "The Faith of Our Fathers" and a man who is popular all over America are much amused at the October issue of the National Magazine published in Washington in which is a full page picture of Cardinal Gibbons with this legend underneath in bold type: "The Most Reverend Cardinal John Gibbons." It is certain no one will appreciate the joke of naming a new Cardinal in the United States more than will His Eminence.

For the Sick and Aged—Much interest is manifested throughout the Catholic world in the promulgation by the Holy See at Rome of a decree concerning the obligations of fasting imposed on the sick and aged communicants. Heretofore a rigid fast was required from midnight until the hour of communicating except in case of the dying when Holy Communion could be administered as a Viaticum. This rigid rule of course worked quite a hardship on the very sick and aged who had to fast while awaiting the coming of the priest to their home. The church has abrogated this exacting to the extent that in cases of necessity the aged and sick may take some liquid nourishment to sustain them in those cases where they are residing in a house at a distance from where the Blessed Sacrament is kept.

Physicians are Naturally Prejudiced against proprietary or advertised medicines, as the sale of these remedies decrease their incomes.

However, this may be, the general public is benefited by the use of such standard medicines as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, with its wonderful record of thousands of cures among suffering women. We are very glad to say, however, that there are hundreds of honest physicians in the United States who do not hesitate to recommend such medicines.
