Pro Enforcement In Chicago Is a 'Joke' Fitzmorris Asserts

Federal Officials Start An Investigation of Police Department, As a Result of Chief's Appeal.

HALF OF POLICEMEN BOOTLEGGERS, SAYS

Indictments of At Least Seven Members of the Force, Four of the Commanders, Expected.

(By The Associated Press.)

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Federal officials tonight had started an investigation of the Chicago police department as a result of an appeal for aid made last night by Chief Charles Fitzmorris, who declared that in his belief "half of the city's 5,000 policemen were bootleggers, plying their illicit liquor operations much more industriously than they watched over the city."

Federal indictment of at least seven policemen, four of them commanders, may be expected shortly, District Attorney Clyne said tonight in a letter to Chief Fitzmorris, promising that every effort would be made to break up the alleged relationship between liquor rings and the police force.

Chief Fitzmorris' statement that many of the men under him were bootleggers was made in a letter to Mr. Clyne, seeking aid of the government officials in a general house cleaning of the department, which was started today with a reassignment of every police district and transfer of several hundred members of the force.

In a supplementary statement tonight, Chief Fitzmorris declared prohibition was a failure in every city of which he had knowledge.

"In Chicago there is more drunkenness than there ever was—more deaths from liquor than before prohibition—more crime attributable to the use of liquor than in the days before the so-called prohibition laws became effective," he said.

"Prohibition enforcement in Chicago is a joke. Thousands of Chicagoans are interested in violating the prohibition laws every day. The only way to make prohibition actually here or any place else is to stop liquor at its source."

The statement also charged that several city officials outside the police department were implicated in the police booze ring and that preparations had been made to discharge half the force if that should be necessary.

DETAILS OF THE ARBUCKLE PARTY TO BE TOLD AT HEARING TODAY

Women Witnesses Are Expected to Reveal What Happened in His Suite at the St. Francis Hotel.

RELATIVES CALL ON 'CUSED COMEDIAN'

Defendant Has Not Indicated It Is to Combat the Atimony Already Offered By Prosecution.

(By The Associated Press.)

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 25.—James C. Arbuckle, film comedian charged with murdering Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, spent a quiet Sunday in jail while the district attorney prepared a list of witnesses for examination when the police court hearing is resumed tomorrow.

Arbuckle had his visitors relatives who are in the city and under his attorneys' orders refused to discuss publicly the charge against him.

The first complete story of the party in Arbuckle's suite in the St. Francis on Labor day, which was charged by the death of Miss Rappe four days later, is expected to be told at the hearing tomorrow when the prosecution calls Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont, who preferred the charge against Arbuckle; Miss Alice Blake and Miss Zeh Prevost, who attended the party. The order in which the witnesses will be called was not announced.

The defense has not indicated how it is to combat the testimony so far offered by the prosecution. The only witness who has been cross examined, and he only briefly, was Alfred Semmacher, who yesterday testified for the prosecution, but as a "hostile witness," according to the police judge. The police judge is to decide whether Arbuckle is to be held to the superior court and if, whether on the murder charge or on the grand jury indictment, which charges manslaughter.

The defense had made no attempt to check the prosecution in the questioning of witnesses, taking advantage, it was said, of the opportunity to learn the state's case against Arbuckle afforded by the hearing.

FIFTY YEARS IN ONE CONFERENCE PARSON'S RECORD

Rev. William Christie Smith, Iowa, Has Preached More Than 7,500 Sermons; Saw 2,500 Converted.

(By The Associated Press.)

Dedham, Mass., Sept. 25.—Fifty years in one conference, during which he preached more than 7,500 sermons and saw 2,500 persons converted and taken into his church, is the record of Rev. William Christie Smith, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church here.

Rev. Smith, who is 76, recently returned from the Des Moines conference having made the 150-mile trip with his wife by automobile. At the conference he preached his semi-centennial sermon.

Next to driving his automobile, Rev. Smith takes most delight in walking a tight rope, a survival of the days when he longed to become a circus acrobat, he says.

The veteran's first sermon was delivered at Perry. His salary at that time was $300 a year.

He came to Iowa from Coshocton, O., with his parents in a prairie schooner in 1856, and settled on a farm twelve miles from Des Moines. He was a student in the public schools, a member of the second graduating class at Simpson college, Indianola, Ia., and was the first editor of the Simpsonian, college newspaper.

During the first forty-two years of his ministry he delivered three sermons each Sunday.

The credit for his half century of work in the ministry is due to his wife, Rev. Smith declares, adding, "she is as able to fill the pulpit as I am, and has served as superintendent of the Sunday school, chorister, pianist, teacher, and leader in the missionary societies."

The couple have been married forty-six years, and of their six children, five are college graduates, four alumni of Simpson college and one of Missouri State college.

WIFE OF FORMER SERVICE MAN IS SUICIDE SUNDAY

Ends Life By Drinking Strychnine at Rooming House; Said Husband Failed to Treat Her Right.

Mrs. Virginia Jones, wife of a vocational training student here, William Jones, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by drinking a strychnine solution. She took the poison at about 5 o'clock and died at 6:10.

The suicide occurred at the Woodworth rooms, 319 South Third street, where she had been employed. People there testified that she had been an excellent worker and had been well liked.

Her husband was with her shortly after she had taken the poison. When he became acquainted with the fact, he called for help, stating that his wife had attempted to kill herself. Attendants report that she cried as she was dying.

"I'm not going to live. I don't want to live. My husband doesn't treat me right."

There was no other explanation of her act.

Physicians were unable to prevent her death, although part of the poison was removed from her system. She died at a local hospital. Strong Brothers were placed in charge of the remains.

Information of the death was sent to relatives last evening and the mother of Mr. Jones has started for Albuquerque. The former home of the couple was in Hagerstown, Maryland.

FINAL ATTACK ON THE BATTLESHIP ALABAMA MAY BE MADE TONIGHT

(By The Associated Press.)

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 25.—The final attack on the old battleship Alabama, battered to the water's edge by the rain of bombs from army airplanes, probably will be made tomorrow night, according to officers at Langley field.

Fire broke out today on the battleship, presumably as an aftermath of the 300 pounds demolition bombs which found their mark during the assault last night. Mine sweepers fought the fire back into the holds.

ATTEMPT MADE TO ASSASSINATE 2 HUNGARIANS

(By The Associated Press.)

Budapest, Sept. 24 (by the Associated Press).—An attempt on the lives of Count Julius Andrássy, former minister of foreign affairs, and former President Rakovsky, of the national assembly, was made from the galleries of the national assembly chamber today, five shots being directed at the pair. Neither was injured, although one bullet pierced Count Andrássy's clothing.

Thaddeus Kover, a former lieutenant, was arrested on a charge of firing the shots. He gave evidence of insanity but police declared he was sane, assuming they had discovered a wide-spread plot to murder leaders of the movement to restore former Emperor Charles to the throne.

The shooting marked the stormiest session of the assembly since the war.

EXPECT A TRUCE IN CLASH OVER ANTI-BEER BILL

Hostilities to Be Suspended Until the Tax Revision Bill and Peace Treaties Are Disposed Of.

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Sept. 25.—Formal declaration of a truce in the senate fight over the anti-beer bill, and its search and seizure clause, is expected tomorrow. Suspension of hostilities is to last a few weeks, according to the outlook, or until the senate disposes of the tax revision bill and the German, Austrian and Hungarian peace treaties.

When the bill is called up tomorrow, Senator Charles McNary, republican, South Dakota, in charge of the anti-beer measure, plans to give way with announcement of his understanding that the "dry" bill shall be given right of way after action on the tax measure and the treaties. Meanwhile the treasury department is counted on by dry leaders to withhold regulations permitting manufacture and physicians' prescription of beer.

W. J. Bryan today issued a statement denouncing the alleged filibuster against the beer bill.

"A filibuster by a minority," he said, "to prevent enforcement of a constitutional provision is about as undemocratic procedure as could be imagined, especially a constitutional provision which outlaws a criminal traffic."

He commended the search and seizure clause in the conference report. Search warrants for private dwellings should be required, he said, but automobiles, he declared, should be subject to search without warrants.

"To require a warrant before searching a private auto," he said, "would practically nullify the law."

INFORMATION BUREAUS FORMED IN 17 STATES BY UTILITY CONCERNS

(By The Associated Press.)

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Information bureaus have been formed in seventeen states by public utility concerns in the last two years, it is reported by the Illinois committee on public utility information, originator of the plan. The move is a new one in this field. Utilities co-operating include electric light and power companies, gas and telephone industries.

These state committees on public utility information aim to develop public appreciation of the services of the utilities and public confidence in them.

"In the early days of the public utility industry it was blessed with plentiful engineers and many lawyers," according to J. J. Mullany, director of the Illinois committee, "but with a few who would tell the public about these services in the language of the laymen. It has been found that the 'illinois idea' of the establishment of value in bringing about better understanding, such as will permit of greater growth."

Committees have been established in Indiana, Ohio, the New England states, Alabama, Colorado, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, Wyoming, Minnesota, Georgia, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma.

SUGGESTS CANCELING DEBTS OF ENGLAND, FRANCE AND ITALY IF THEY WILL CONSENT TO DISARM

Executive Chairman of the Committee of 48 Writes President Harding Recommending That Proposition Be Put Up to Leading Nations at Washington Conference.

(By The Associated Press.)

New York, Sept. 25.—A suggestion that American spokesmen in the limitation of armaments conference be authorized to offer to cancel the indebtedness of France, England and Italy in return for agreements by those countries to disarm, is advanced in a letter to President Harding, made public today by its author, J. A. H. Hopkins, executive chairman of the committee of 48.

Mr. Hopkins advised submitting to the three great powers in the form of an "ultimatum" the following statement:

"We will not cancel your indebtedness gratis, nor are we content to postpone longer the payment of the overdue interest. But if you and the Japanese delegates will agree to disarm or agree on a uniform and progressive ratio of disarmament, America will join with you in so doing and will cancel or reduce your indebtedness to the American people to the same extent and in the same ratio. There is, however, no other way in which the American people will consent either to cancel or reduce your financial obligations."

LONDON OPINION IS HOPEFUL FOR CONFERENCE ON IRISH PROBLEM

Several Members of the British Cabinet Have Not Yet Conveyed Their Views to Lloyd George.

(By The Associated Press.)

London, Sept. 25 (by the Associated Press).—Several members of the British cabinet, who are said to have studied Premier Lloyd George's reply to Eamon de Valera, have not yet conveyed their views to the premier, and it is regarded as not unlikely that the premier's note will not be ready before Tuesday or Wednesday.

Opinion seems to be hopeful that the note will be couched to accommodate the position of the Sinn Fein leaders, and enable them to come into another conference. Meanwhile, disturbing reports of new provocative acts, alleged to have been made by black and tans, in Cork and elsewhere, are causing apprehension among those hopeful for a settlement.

Developments in the internment camp at Spike Island, where prisoners are reported to be carrying out reprisals for alleged rough usage by British troops, and the new developments in Belfast add to the disquietude.

In the light of these occurrences, significance is attached to a statement made in Dublin by "Irish authority on the government side," that "peace wreckers" again are at work.

REPUBLICANS CALLED "IRISH SWINE," CLAIM

Cork, Sept. 25 (by the Associated Press).—According to reports made by republican liaison officers in Dublin on Saturday night and early today reminiscent of conditions that prevailed prior to the truce.

A party of citizens are reported to have been halted in McCurtain street, and roughly treated by members of the British constabulary. Women of the party, terrified, fled.

A police patrol of five men was accosted on St. Patrick's bridge by a large patrol of British police. The republicans are alleged to have been questioned and called "Irish swine," and assaulted with batons and revolver butts. One man was stabbed in the arm.

AMENDED COMPLAINT IN LIBEL SUIT ON JOURNAL BY RAYNOLDS IS BLOW AT FREEDOM OF PRESS

Pleadings Now Cover Nearly a Year's Time of Editorial Utterances; Trial Will Be Result-ingly Lengthened and Will Be Productive of Added Expense.

The Journal is presenting today to its readers the amended complaint in the libel suit of J. M. Reynolds against Carl C. Magee and the Journal Publishing Company, defendants. Although the document is long, the Journal feels that the people of the state should be fully familiar with the matter involved.

Attention is called to the manner in which interest is focused on the entire fight which the Journal has been making for better government in New Mexico. It will be seen that the plaintiff has gone far afield from an original intention to try the case upon the statements with reference to the management of the Holbrook State bank, which failed. The revised complaint brings into the litigation Albert B. Fall, now secretary of the interior, and should make the trial a matter of national importance, possibly with the result that interest may be drawn from a probe into the past affairs of the Holbrook State bank.

Following is the full text of the document:

J. M. Reynolds vs. Carl C. Magee, et al.

Amended Complaint.

The plaintiff for his amended complaint alleges as follows:

1. That plaintiff is a resident of the county of Bernalillo, New Mexico; is a banker by profession, and at all the times hereinafter mentioned was president of the First National Bank of Albuquerque, N. M. That Carl C. Magee is a resident of Albuquerque, N. M., and during said times was the editor and publisher known as "Albuquerque Morning Journal." That the defendant Journal Publishing Company is a corporation organized under the laws of New Mexico, with its principal place of business in the city of Albuquerque, N. M., and is and during said times was the owner and publisher of said paper known as the "Albuquerque Morning Journal."

2. That said Albuquerque Morning Journal is a daily newspaper printed and published by said defendants in the city of Albuquerque, N. M., and has a large circulation in said city and state and elsewhere among the reading public.

3. That heretofore the First National Bank of Albuquerque by A. B. McMillen, its attorney and vice president, brought its suit against Carl C. Magee and Journal Publishing Company as defendants in a certain cause in the district court of Bernalillo county, No. 1237 on the docket of said court, to enforce the payment of a promissory note dated April 1, 1921, for the sum of $15,000, signed by said Carl C. Magee and said Journal Publishing Company by Carl C. Magee, its president.

4. That prior to the publication of the matter hereinafter mentioned and complained of, the defendant, Carl C. Magee, had written and published in the Albuquerque Morning Journal a series of articles and editorials charging in substance and effect that a number of individuals, including the Hon. Albert B. Fall, now secretary of the interior, conspired and confederated together in the state of New Mexico for the general purpose of cheating, defrauding, deceiving and oppressing the people of the state and corrupting its government and public officials, and to keep its citizens in ignorance.

fight against the financial and political combine that has ruled the state with an iron hand. The hardness of the times has been their ally. When the times are better there will be no trouble. But if I lose, I lose. I will be but another victim to their long list.

Now is the time to bring in your suit. You are not a fool and you pile them up until independence is proven unprofitable and every editor made afraid to call his soul his own.

We invite it. It helps the people and myself to classify the interests which would crush me. "By their works ye shall know them." Let them all come now. It's their last chance. They cannot handle me singly. Let them try it in one grand assault and see if they can win by combination.

Because I demand, these and other things, I am not a fool. I must be out of business. The public must, somehow, be made to feel I am unworthy of support.

5. That the said articles were so published upon the dates and among other things contained the specific statements as follows, to-wit:

(a) On July 22nd, 1921, the following:

"The First National Bank of Albuquerque has brought suit against me for $17,233.95. This is for money borrowed to pay Mr. Fall, Mr. Sully and others the purchase price of the Journal, except the $1,100 note due a day or two ago which was a private transaction."

"The bank has exercised its right to call the loans and I must pay them in the next twenty days, even if I am forced to sell the Journal in order to pay."

"I could have arranged this matter by surrendering my freedom. I would not and I will not."

"If I could get the Journal bonds into the hands of the bankers and into the hands of the public I would be free to devote myself to the battle for decency in the state."

Whether or not I will try to do this will be announced soon. I will run the Journal as I think wise, in the public interest, or I will quit. Coercion will not alter this decision."

(b) On July 24, 1921, the following:

"The 'gang' is busy. They feel that now is the time to 'get me.' I think so, too. If they fail to 'get me' now, I will be free forever to continue the Journal's open policy. I have no personal grievances. I perfectly understand that the 'gang' is fighting for its life and I do not expect any quarter."

So far as the bank is concerned, it had a perfect legal right to sue me if it desired to do so. I do not condemn it. If they sued everyone who could not pay at maturity, would have plenty of good company. But they have the legal right to sue whom they please, for whatever reason may appeal to them. I am willing to allow them to run their business as they see fit. Of course, they have no desire to interfere with the policy of the Journal."

(c) On July 25, 1921, the following:

"A newspaper which will attack wrong where it is found and try to force its correction, is the only real friend of the people."

The party leaders do not care for such a newspaper. It annoys and embarrasses them and compels them to be decent as a concession to public opinion. The special beneficiaries of an established system abhor it because it threatens the overthrow of their unrighteous advantage."

(d) On July 26, 1921, the following:

"The 'gang' is after me—and after me right. I accept the issue. With no one behind me but the people, and with my back to the wall, I fight in the fray. If they can force me out of the Journal I will go with a smile. I have fought a good fight against the financial and political combine that has ruled the state with an iron hand. The hardness of the times has been their ally. When the times are better there will be no trouble. But if I lose, I lose. I will be but another victim to their long list."

"This 'hoodoo' is to be extended now to the United States senatorship. All men are to be taught that it is suicidal in any way to oppose the interests of the Public men must be frightened into submission to it."

This 'gang' has been the curse of New Mexico for years. They have had no purpose but to exploit her."

The 'hoodoo' is to be made to apply to independent editors also. It must be shown that such a move cannot be made. Editors must be disciplined until no one will dare try it again. Editors must look for peace and prosperity with the gang or for trouble and adversity outside it."

(k) On August 2nd, 1921, the following:

"To the First National Bank: No, gentlemen, I'm not going to Mexico, head and heels, to expect me to do now. I decline to say the things that you and some of your affiliated concerns which you are trying to force me into saying. I do not care to jeopardize my position in my bond sale by giving you an excuse for bringing a libel suit you couldn't win."

I fear that if I go out of the Journal, New Mexico is due for a relapse into the lethargy to which the sleeping potion given here has reduced her. If I am forced to control probably will be unable to control who goes in. This is the situation."

(l) Again on the same date:

"The man who protests is a 'maverick' and must go. He is a 'maverick' because he refused to belong to the gang. We are understanding the facts. Do not believe this to be wild and irresponsible. It is far less than the truth. Not all public men or bankers are corrupt in New Mexico, but those who are not do not belong to the 'gang' which has run New Mexico for many years. Those who 'stand up' have a rocky road to travel."

On July 29, 1921, the following:

"If the public really understood these things no man who had a conscience would dare walk the streets of our New Mexico towns. They 'put over' all these things by suppressing the truth. Not all public men or bankers are corrupt in New Mexico, but those who are not do not belong to the 'gang' which has run New Mexico for many years. Those who 'stand up' have a rocky road to travel."

On August 9th, 1921, the following:

"I surrendered the easy path and chose the hard—but if I go where is another to take up the fight for decency and a square deal. Who will have the courage to try to give battle for the people. My fate will stand as an awful example to those who get off the easy path. The First National Bank is rich and powerful and has the resources of the whole gang behind it—Shall we fight or shall we not? I know the jeopardy of saying the things above written in a state controlled by this gang."

6. That the plaintiff further shows that thereafter and on or about the 9th day of August, 1921, the defendant, Carl C. Magee, composed, wrote, published and both said defendants procured and caused to be published and concerning the plaintiff in the Albuquerque Morning Journal the following matter, among others, to-wit:

"Tomorrow is the twentieth day since the First National bank sued me. J. M. Reynolds procured the signature of the Journal Publishing Company on this note by deception. Ninety days ago he suggested that the company endorse it. I permitted it on the understanding that the Journal would not be 'called' on in the near future. When the note was due the Journal was sued. It was a part of the conspiracy to 'break me.' When I protested, two small notes of the Journal were sued on. My newspaper company was promptly advised of the suits. The printing press company was notified by this bank of sundry suits against me. A couple of local creditors in small amounts were advised to side with the bank and to sue me in 'full swing.' These people deny an effort to crush me. Mr. McMillen (meaning the attorney and officer of the bank in bringing said suits) and the associate of this plaintiff in conducting and directing its business is indignant that he is classed as one of the gang. But he wants his pound of flesh while I water down from his pores."

7. That because of the statements and matters previously published and communicated and known to the public, as set forth in paragraphs numbered five, six and ten, the defendants meant and intended by the language set forth in paragraph eleven to charge this plaintiff with having entered into a conspiracy and combination with the aforesaid evil minded persons denominated the 'gang' for the purpose of crushing, ruining and destroying the defendant, Carl C. Magee, and driving him out of the state, and out of the control of said newspaper, because of his conduct in having published and exposed the wicked acts and purposes of the 'gang' as above outlined; and that in pursuance and furtherance of said conspiracy and evil purpose, and to accomplish its objects, this plaintiff had procured by deceit and fraud the signature of the Journal Publishing Company on the note of the defendant, and then brought suit on that note and other notes and endeavored to induce other persons to bring suit against the defendant, not in good faith, or to collect its debts, but to destroy and get rid of the said defendant, Magee, in furtherance and pursuance of the said conspiracy, and to accomplish or further its evil purposes, and thus to protect and assist the gang in exploiting, looting and oppressing the people, and keeping them in ignorance of its evil acts and designs."

12. TILDEN BEATEN BY AUSTRALIAN TENNIS PLAYER

Chicago, Sept. 27.—William T. Tilden II, national tennis champion, playing the deciding match of the east-west championship series today, was defeated by J. O. Anderson of Australia, in a spectacular contest.
The match went five sets, the final set saw-winning until the thirty-sixth game was reached before victory came to Anderson and the western continent. The score: 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, 1-6, 19-17.
Previous to the final match, the east-west divided the four matches of the day and evened up the series four matches apiece.
Summary of other matches:
Singles: S. Howard, Voshell, Brooklyn, defeated Willis Davis, San Francisco, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2.
Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, N. Y., defeated J. B. Hawkes, of Australia, 6-4, 6-0, 6-4, 6-5.
The Tilden-Anderson contest was the feature and darkness was hovering near when Tilden netted the ball for the point that gave Anderson victory.
In the first set the champion appeared to be in fine form. He dropped his opening service and the next game, but settled down and capped the next four. He then took the set 6-3.
Anderson started the second set by winning the first three games. While the champion managed to defeat the set, Anderson's placements proved the deciding factor, and he evened the match by winning the set 7-5.
In the third set Anderson captured four games before Tilden took any. The Australian dropped the fifth, but then won the set 6-1.
With the sets two to one for Anderson, Tilden squared the match on the next set without much difficulty, 6-1.
The final set proved to be a fitting climax. Anderson's service, at the opening and Tilden then did likewise. This procedure was followed until the set had been deuced many times, but as Anderson had first served the frequently had the game advantage and it was not until the twenty-ninth game, when, with the score 14-14, that Tilden broke through and won Anderson's service. Anderson, however, returned the compliment and won Tilden's service. From then on, the players repeatedly won each other's service.

OLD TOWN STARS LOSE TO GRAYS BY 5 TO 0 SCORE

Dan Padilla's men had little trouble in disposing of the Old Town Stars yesterday afternoon, shutting them out completely while the Grays romped around the sacks fifteen times.
Gomez, the Santa Fe Importation, did not have to extend himself, and allowed only four hits. He was never in danger of allowing a score on the part of the Stars, only one man reaching third.
Gomez made good use of his famous fast ball, using it throughout the game with the exception of three or four times when he essayed a curve. He struck out sixteen men.
The Grays played errorless ball throughout, while the Stars committed only two errors marked up against them.
Alvarez, pitching for the Old Town Stars, performed nicely until the sixth inning, when the Grays began to hit him heavily, and he retired in favor of Lucero. Lucero allowed three hits in the two innings which followed.
The feature of the game was Gallegos' base-running. In one inning Teen exhibited his speed by making his way unassisted from first to second, and later on to third.
The Grays will close their season this week, probably playing a series here with the Westerners. Padilla is corresponding with the Wichita, Kans., Western league team, and it is possible that this team may stop off here for a game either this week or next, while on their way to the coast. No definite arrangement has been made as yet, however.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Red Thomas, Chicago's recruit outfielder from Henryetta, Okla., was the hero in the double victory of Chicago over Boston today, each game going twelve innings. Thomas' single in the last inning of the initial contest sent two runs home for a victory, and he started the rally in the last inning of the second contest with a double, and scored on a single by Keleher.

NEW YORK'S TEAMS POSSESS THE EDGE AS THE FINAL FULL WEEK OF THE SEASON IS USHERED IN

Indians Must Win Today or Give the Yankees a Lead That It Will Be Difficult to Overcome; Giants Tighten Their Hold; Pirates Have Only a Slim Chance of Winning.

(By The Associated Press.)
New York, Sept. 25.—New York's teams possess the advantage as the final full week of the major league baseball season begins. The Yankees' victory over Cleveland today makes it imperative for the Indians to turn the tables tomorrow or give New York a lead that will be difficult to overcome. The Giants increased their lead to three games today, and Pittsburgh has only a slim chance of capturing the honors.
Records of the New York and Cleveland American teams last week reveal that in six games each team scored thirty runs on fifty hits. The New York pitchers were a trifle harder, Cleveland may have an opportunity to make up ground after the New York series when four contests are played with Chicago.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25.—Putting with magical skill, and playing most of his other shots almost perfectly, Jesse Guilford, "The Boston Siege Gun," superseded Charles Evans of Chicago as national amateur golf champion as a result of his victory over Robert Gardner of Chicago, here yesterday, 7 and 6.
Guilford's string of birdies, which was broken at the tenth cup, is believed to be a record. He unleashed some wonderful playing on the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth holes, scoring four birdies. His play all day was marvelous.
Gardner's long drives lacked accuracy. The former title holder's work was weak, and his play on the greens ragged.
A huge gallery followed the match.
Details of a clever joke were told at the golfers' party last night. During the tournament, it was announced that "Miss Dorothy Chambers, woman champion of Ireland," would be seen on the links in a mixed foursome.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna Kent Forbes.

SLIM LOOKING ANKLES.

Slender ankles are so much sought after that beauty shops in London and Paris actually have machines for making the ankles slender. It is done by some sort of baking process which melts the superfluous fat from the ankles, but it doesn't sound the least bit comfortable. The ankles usually will grow slender as the body grows slender, though this is not an invariable rule.

The continuous wearing of high heels will quite often make the ankles thick with a strain on certain little muscles along the sides and lower part of the leg. Moderately low heels are always the best choice. High shoes will sometimes wear away a deposit of fat around the ankles, but on the other hand they have so many disadvantages that they should never be worn when a low Oxford can be worn instead. Thanks to the recent fashion for wool hose Oxford can now be worn far into the winter months.

Silk stockings will make the ankles look slim because the weave of the silk shadows the outline of the ankle and makes it look more slender. Black stockings will make the ankles look slender because black has this effect, while white will make them look thicker.

Leg developing exercises also tend to reduce the ankles and to round out the calf of the leg, and a vigorous massage of the ankles with the hands has often done wonders in breaking up a deposit of fat around the ankles. There is no special massage motion required. It is merely a vigorous rubbing to break up the fat particles that form an undesirable layer round the lower part of the leg.

Blue Eyes:—A girl of 15 years of age is not too young to enter high school. She should weigh about 110 pounds.

Worried Blonde: If you cannot keep from growing round shouldered and feel that you must retain the present proportion, you should join a gymnasium and learn all the exercises that will counteract this tendency. The greatest danger here lies in the fact that in taking

ENERGY SPENT IN HOUSEWORK IS MEASURED

Dr. C. F. Langworthy and H. G. Barrett of the office of home economics, United States department of agriculture in Washington, have recently concluded a series of experiments with a woman subject in connection with a respiration calorimeter to measure the energy expenditure in doing household work.

An important feature of the device is a chamber with air-tight and heat-proof walls. Several small openings in the walls provide for the passage of air pipes, water pipes and wires for wiring the current. The circulation of air within the chamber is maintained by a rotary air pump driven by an electric motor of 1-8 horse power.

The government tests revealed that less arduous tasks such as sewing, darning, knitting evolved an expenditure of nine calories an hour in excess of the heat output when the subject relaxed in a chair. The heat output when the subject rested formed the basis of comparison. More laborious activities of household work required increased expenditure of energy.

Sweeping was done on the bare floor of the chamber with a broom thirty-eight complete strokes being made each minute. In the floor washing experiment a dry cloth and empty pail were used while the woman on her knees did the work by the old method, making eighty-five short runs of the cloth on the floor in 50 seconds, wringing the cloth in the pail for 10 seconds. Forty calories an hour were used for this work alone, proving that this form of work is greater in expenditure than sweeping or darning. Moreover the use of water lifting and wringing a wet cloth would mean an increased energy expenditure.

"Fatiguing toil" is the correct classification for doing laundry work by old methods as the energy output in washing hand towels, wringing them on a scrub board and wringing each one for 15 seconds, called for 49.6 calories per hour.

WALLY IS A BIG FELLOW AND AS HANDSOME AS THEY COME

The artist's impressions of Wallace Reid.

Wallace Reid, the man who can make any girl forget for a couple of hours the fellow who pays for her movie tickets, is hard to interview. It is not because he is temperamental, far from it, nor because he is averse to interviews. It is just because when you meet "Wally" you don't care about how old he is or where he started or when or how or what is his favorite color tie, or how he eats his spaghetti. Instead you meet a handsome man who starts in being so very amusing and clever and you just sit back and let him entertain you as he will.

But, of course, with such an informal meeting as Wally stages one can't help but glean a few real facts about him. He is a huge man, and looks much larger off the screen than on. He is six foot two without bedroom slippers, and weighs 202 in a gladiator's costume. The only time he ever complains of his height is when he travels in Mr. Pullman's cars.

He has had a varied career and after he told of his experiences as a reporter and cartoonist, the interviewer and artist begin to feel as if he should really "do" his own assignment. When you get ready to ask him to do a sketch or write

HOME LIGHTING GETTING MORE CONSIDERATION

Electrical trade men see indications that the subject of lighting the home is coming into its own. Much more attention is now being given this question, illuminating engineers say, than was ever before the case. So widespread are the evidences in question that the prediction of some remarkably attractive dwellings within the next few years when building is again universal, is considered amply justified.

Just as it is now a foregone conclusion that a goodly percentage of new homes built during the coming decade will be of the all-electric type, so it is also believed the lighting of these new homes will produce astonishing and artistic results.

Meanwhile, experts are pointing out with new vigor the importance of adequate lighting, the delight of artistic lighting, and the ease with which both may be obtained in these days of highly efficient electric lamps. A common belief of the public, that to properly light a house by electricity is very expensive, is shattered by an analysis of the matter.

It is shown that a moderately large house can be finely lighted for a sum varying from 5 to 10 cents a day. It is also declared that those who build their own homes can both install and maintain an ideal lighting system for 10 cents a day—less than the price of a cigar and particularly less than the cost of an ice cream delicacy at the fountain.

The Young Mother

Youth with its vitality makes for the young mother's health and happiness. But later maternal experiences bring a different result. The care of a family, multiplied household duties, and very often the weakness caused by womanly disease, tend to prolong the suffering and to make convalescence a slow and weary process. Many women—perhaps your own neighbors—have had beneficial experience with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which prepares the prospective mother. It promotes the appetite, ends nervousness and sleeplessness, and gives a consciousness of buoyant health. It is unexcelled as a strength-giving tonic for mothers during the period of convalescence. This Favorite Prescription was used by Dr. Pierce with great success over 50 years ago. It's still good today. Ask your neighbor!

San Antonio, Texas.—"One of my daughters has two 'Favorite Prescription' babies of whom she is very proud. She was in very poor health for eight years—could scarcely get around and was not able to do her household. Doctoring did not seem to help her. Finally she started to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and that medicine restored her to perfect health. The babies are fine and healthy and she had practically no suffering. Best of all she is in better health today than ever before, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription." MRS. SARAH WHITLEY, 307 Shaver St.

JOURNAL WANT ADS BRING QUICK, SURE RESULTS

To the Public of Albuquerque

An old, vacant, decaying church building is no advantage to any city. A live, working, growing church, in a neat, presentable building is an asset to any community. Such a scene as the former has greeted our eyes for a number of years on North Third Street. The Nazarene Church is buying this property and we plan to convert it into a place like the latter within a few weeks.

We are getting this church building and four lots at less than it would cost to erect the building alone. Our Church is entering into this with a heroism and sacrifice seldom seen. We could finance this without help if we had time; but it is a cash consideration, and we only have until November 6th to put it over.

Many of our friends are giving us a helping hand, and in as much as other churches of the City have at some time been before the public for aid, and since the rehabilitation and improving of this property will be an asset to the City, we are also coming to you.

We shall greatly appreciate any assistance you may give us at this time, and pledge to the community the very best service we can render in every way.

DICK TALKS OF SENDING JUNIOR AWAY

Chapter 97

I entered upon my contract with Mrs. Hilbard with delight. Not even Dick's indifference could take away the joy I felt in being able to earn so large a sum toward my new home. I then I loved the work, the rich dainty stuffs, the mingling of colors to get certain results. It was often like painting a picture.

Then she was so enthusiastic over everything I did. And she made things very easy for me. The days I spent in her home were invariably sent her car for me, and always had me driven home. Thus the Spring days passed.

The house was well under way. We had adhered to our original idea of a modest but convenient home. The only change had been of my making, and that a simple one—a large bow window in Dick's study. He was to have the sunniest, pleasantest room in the house in which to write his stories, and then his novel, which he had long planned, should be written when he could afford to take the time.

Like most wives I had unbounded faith in his ability to succeed. We were very first married I had used to complain because he didn't make money fast enough. I had learned my lesson, that he would have been successful had I allowed him to be even mean. Perhaps it gave me even more confidence in him now. But be that as it may, I was sure that his unwritten novel would, when it appeared, be the best seller of the year.

So I was pleased when he said the plans for the house suited him even though we might have been a bit more extravagant. I could have written the time when his novel would be written by taking more work, and saving the money against that time when no stories would bring occasional checks, because he would use the time for his book.

All this while Juanita was on intimate terms with us. She came over nearly every day. I had walked home with her, and sometimes would remain for an hour or two. They also took long walks, just as they had the year before, but now I was seldom alone to accompany them. If I gave it a thought it was to blame myself because my invariable reply had been: "You run along! I'm too busy."

Yet I sort of missed not being asked.

It was the sort of a feeling I once heard a woman speak of—"I know it is foolish to love my husband to compliment me, say I'm pretty and all that, when I know I am not. But it gives me such a nice warm curly feeling around my heart I can't help wanting him to do it."

I was slowly missing that "warm cuddly feeling around my heart" without knowing what it was I missed.

I had grown very self-deprecating when Juanita was around. She and Dick seemed to have so much in common. I would sit quietly at times and listen to their talk of books and people who had written them, but often I left them alone. They didn't seem to need me.

Juanita continued to dress with varied, but always bewildering achievement. Whatever else one did, the never could ignore Juanita's

AN ELECTRIC MEAL

Puffy Omelet with Asparagus Tips
Cuban Salad
Tea Dainties
Puffy omelet: Two eggs, salt and pepper to taste, 1 tablespoon water, 1 teaspoon butter.

While one pint of water boils on high heat, the omelet is prepared by beating egg yolks, adding seasoning and water. Beat egg whites, add the yolks, turn the mixture in hot buttered sauce pan. The pint of water boils in 15 minutes, then the cooker is put on medium or half heat. The principle of egg cookery is slow cooking at moderate temperature, but this two-egg omelet will cook in five minutes. It takes just 21 minutes to serve this luncheon to make tea and cook the omelet; the salad should be made beforehand and peeled and sliced chilled bananas into a glass bowl. Scatter chopped peanuts and bits of tart jelly over the fruit. Make a syrup of two tablespoons each of lemon juice, sugar and grape juice, pour over fruit and set in refrigerator until needed. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

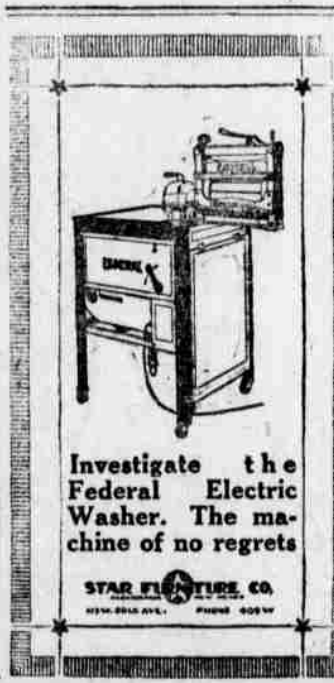

Tea dainties in electric oven: Two cups of flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cupful milk, 4 tablespoons fat, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Sift all the dry ingredients together and put in fat and the milk and stir very gradually. Place 1 teaspoonful of mixture in bottom of small gem pan. Then add 1/2 teaspoon marshmallow paste, 1/2 stoned date and a few chopped walnuts. Over this drop 1 teaspoonful of the dough and bake in small electric oven 12 to 15 minutes.

"Have you heard about this new word 'elexits'?" inquired Mrs. Blake of her husband. "I just had to buy a center fixture for the living room of the house I rented for the summer, so I got one of those new ones with a deflector that sends light rays upward and a disc below that protects the eyes from glare. I had no idea there was so much glare in the average home until it was demonstrated to me. This new fixture eliminates glare but still I didn't want to spend money for a fixture that

A CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT

The decision of the chiefs in the recent senatorial election to conduct a campaign free from the use of improper money, was a long step forward in civic decency. Not only was it better morals but it proved the more effective method of campaigning.

However, isolated cases of improper methods come drifting to the Journal's ears. Many of them not entitled to belief; some have a coloring of fact; a few seem susceptible of proof.

At Santa Fe, some local group raised a considerable sum of money and spent it improperly. Just who is responsible can not be stated.

A few cases of improper methods in the use of money emphasize the need of a real corrupt practices law in New Mexico. There should be a prompt and effective way to reach the culprit and land him in the penitentiary. The use of state property for private purposes should be a proper cause for prosecution.

In some precincts democrats were not allowed to sit on election boards. This was a clear violation of the law. Yet the law was so formed that no penalty attaches to its violation. This was a deliberate and designed omission, of course.

The republican campaign committee had no hand in these things and discouraged their use.

The platform at Santa Fe commits the party to honest elections. If it means what it said that party will pledge itself specifically to a corrupt practices act which will put an end to election frauds.

AN OLD-FASHIONED MAN

In these days of frenzied criticism of women's clothes, men's habits and a general spirit of intolerance about trifles, it is more than merely refreshing to find a man in a responsible position whose feet are firmly but not stubbornly planted upon familiar ground. It is inspiring. The superintendent of public schools of York, Pa., has been petitioned, perhaps besieged and nagged by excellent people of good intentions to banish from schools all girls whose ultra-modern dress and tonorial ornamentation have shocked the more elderly and staid. He remains unmoved.

He says that the girls may wear their dresses as high at the bottom and as low at the top as they please. They may roll down their stockings any distance, so far as he is concerned. And they may paint and powder their faces and bob their hair to suit their tastes. That, said the superintendent, is a matter between the girls and their parents. If the parents are satisfied, that makes it satisfactory to him.

School authorities, he explains, have no business to interfere with any manner of dress and no right to interfere with parents' prerogatives—one of which is the right to dress their children as they want them to be dressed. The school superintendent at York is probably old-fashioned enough to believe his neighbors can attend to their private affairs without orders from his office. Moral sanction used to improve pupils' ideals is the only remedy. Force will not help conditions.

MIGRATION FOR TWO PINTS

A Mediterranean steamer out of New York, it is reported, has on board several passengers who are going to live in Central Europe for a year by order of their physicians, who stated that it was essential for the health of their patients to have at least two pints of good beer daily.

The departure of this handful of thirsty exiles need not give those of us who stay at home any great cause for worry. We shall probably be able to keep the country going without them.

It is even doubtful whether the nature of the malady which demands a tribute of two pints of good beer daily will arouse general interest, except perhaps for the purpose of finding out what it is, so that this disease may be better avoided. But the destination of these victims of a disease which demands a libation of two pints of good beer daily gives cause for reflection. One is justified in the opinion that the treatment is more terrible than the malady. A year in Central Europe even with a generous measure of malt and hops as counter-irritant is a sentence not to be taken lightly. For a patient who needs rest and quiet and moderate allowance of substantial food Central Europe makes no appeal as a desirable retreat.

There is too much brewing over there of things that are not to be quaffed. There is too much stirring in the political atmosphere and too much in the industrial field. In the weird succession of social upheavals and disturbances it is doubtful whether one could even be sure of his two pints of good beer daily. And even with the two pints it is a strange mixture of fears and forebodings which Central Europe has to offer these unfortunate exiles from America.

In sober truth it must be admitted that as between Central Europe with its two pints and America with its soda pop the majority of us will prefer the latter.

MEXICO'S INDEPENDENCE

Mexico is celebrating the centennial of her independence from Spain. What a hundred years it has been! Twice the country has been ruled nominally as an empire, and as a republic the greater part of the time the government has not been more stable. Often its presidents changed with the frequency of the moon. It has been a turbulent century and the last decade was not less so than any that preceded it.

The conditions in Mexico under the Spanish dominion were the same as prevailed in other Spanish-ruled lands and under independence they did not improve. The Mexicans always have had an affinity for trouble, and if that spirit seems a bit dormant there is no assurance it will not awake again. How much of the responsibility for the internal dissensions which have characterized the people are due to misgovernment and how much to the natural liking of the people for trouble may not be accurately determined. However, it is clear that the people have not learned the lesson of yielding to the majority and the majority has not learned to consider the rights of the minority.

Under the rule of Diaz the government was despotic, yet it may be that such is the only kind for which the Mexicans are at present fitted. It is certain that while there were great abuses of power under the Diaz regime there was order and the nation progressed with great rapidity. Had it been a more benevolent despotism it might not have been succeeded by the turmoil that ensued.

Yet the internal disorder which has marked the hundred years of independence is not surprising when the mixed character of the population is considered. Three-fourths of the people are of Indian blood, either pure or mixed. Naturally ignorance prevails. Yet the natural resources of the country offer great possibilities. The centennial celebration marks more the lapse of time than great political advancement, though progress commercially has been made, of course. It is to be hoped that entrance on the second century will usher in an era of stability and quiet.

A cessation from revolution and a turning toward industry would make Mexico's second hundred years greatly in contrast with the first.

PROTECTION FOR THE GENEROUS

Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, reformer, says that promoter and solicitors of many "anti" societies have mulcted thousands of dollars from people scared by "futurist paintings of dreadful laws" and kept a good deal of the money. Probably he is right. The land is full of gullible people. But not all of them are "liberals" who empty their purses to fight "blue laws" that threaten only in the minds of the collectors. Americans are such free givers to all kinds of causes that they may be victimized right and left, often, though not dishonestly, by people actually concerned for conferring benefits on the needy of one kind or another.

A stop should be put to haphazard movements calling for money donations. They are fruitful of waste and extravagance and sometimes of graft. There can be no more legitimate objection to an organization to combat "blue laws" than to one to promote them. People who support either are entitled to protection against predatory beings who capitalize the fears or the hopes of citizens to their own benefit.

It is said to be costing the princess of An-nastasia the sum of $1,000,000 a year for her title. A person in moderate circumstances hardly could afford one of those and a second-hand automobile, too.

VERSE OF TODAY

ONCE WHEN WE WERE BOTH TOGETHER

Once when we were together, Spring came to our courtyard,
"Let me in," he cried,
He had brought for us in whispers secrets of his gladness.

Lyrics of new leaves,
I was busy with my fancies, you sat at your spinning,
He went back unheeded,
Suddenly we started when we saw his parting shadow,
And his remnant roses.

Now you are away, beloved, Spring comes to our courtyard,
"Let me in," he cries,
He brings for me fitful shivers of the noonday shadow.

Dove's unmeted comings,
I sit idle at the window and a phantom spinning,
Spins to me sad dreams,
Now that Spring has for his gift the gift of secret sorrow,
He has doors all open.

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

A CLEAR SKY TO PORT

(From the Minneapolis Tribune)
It is an old saying that the House writes the revenue laws and the Senate revises them. Precisely that process is going on now, with the Senate committee on finance doing the preliminary "editing" for the Senate body.

There are members and pruners and amenders at work. The final aggregate of their industry is likely to be considerable, but one thing seems to stand out as certain to pass muster in the Senate committee and on the Senate floor just as it passed muster in the committee and on the floor of the House. That thing is of special interest to the man whose income is called a moderate salary and the man who is in business and makes a limited yearly profit. It is this: Five hundred dollars is to be added to the present $2,000 exemption for the married man, and the exemption for each of his dependents is to be doubled, going up from $200 to $400.

A provision of this kind will affect agreeably hundreds of thousands of both men and women to whom the problem of living has been a trouble-some one in these days of high prices and high taxes. A married man having no children or other dependents, if he has a gross income of $3,000, will pay under this provision an income tax of $20, or 4 percent on $500, which would be the difference between his exemption and his gross income. Under the present schedule he would pay $40. This takes no account, of course, of additional exemptions of money paid as interest on debts or in state and local taxes.

Many other proposals for tax revision are in for jostling and buffeting in committees, in conference and on the floor of the two houses, but the particular one here referred to bids fair to have clear sailing into port. When the anchor drops on it unnumbered hearts will be gladdened.

STINGER AND STUNG

A merchant prince can sting me once, but one time will suffice; and I would be the premium dance to let him sting me twice. When I receive my monthly bills I'm charged for boots or beeyax pills, which I never bought. "Some error of a clerk," I say, and journey to the store, where things are straightened right away, and no one's head is sove. All honest men may make mistakes, which they in haste retrieve, and even I have made one. But if my grocer represents their stand as being pure, and no cheap sugar with it, I discover when I try to sweeten up my tea, the sand's been sugared on the sly—such methods sicken me. And if the dairyman would blithely "Avant!" You try to sell me jugs of milk, when water's what I want. I faint would have my fevered brow with water, ere I dine, and you produce an antique cow, and say it's juice is fine. Of ghoulish tricks the world is full, and fair-ers snick and laugh; they sell us shoddy rags for wool, and per-haps as calf. And over, as I sing and dance, I hand out this advice: the same man shouldn't have a chance to sting the voter twice.

Change political methods and conditions, and eliminate those responsible therefor, in New Mexico. The graveyard is simply full of those who have undertaken and perished in similar attempts. Better luck to you. All fair minded citizens should be interested in and heartily join you in your efforts to bring about better political conditions, for such is our only salvation, but will they? Moral cowardice should no longer continue. The strong should help the weak. The oppressed need an aggressive advocate and quick relief. With Magee and his Journal as the advocate and the masses of the people thoroughly aroused, as they can be, relief will be swift and sure with some and for some.

OBSERVER.

True.

Editor Journal: Was glad to see the Journal again take the lead and come out as it did on the morning after the late senatorial election in advocacy of the reorganization of both the republican and democratic parties, but are left to wonder why he made no mention of the independent republican party. Both of the old parties need a thorough "house cleaning" and there is no better time to do it than right now for just after an election there are so many evils fresh in mind that it is easier to arouse and determine against them in the future than if you wait until the eve of another campaign, as seems the custom in both parties.

Political methods and conditions are simply intolerable in this state to the self respecting and those whose interests are discriminated against for political reasons.

The Journal seems to have had a fair measure of success on other lines so why not keep constantly after both parties until they will be forced to place men in charge thereof who cannot be cast aside or swerved from their duty towards the right and the best interests of the masses of the people, for if right and the greatest good to the greatest number does not prevail party success should fail.

If we will only put our citizenship above our partisanship, which should unquestionably be done, the rest would be easy. It is time to adopt a new slogan in New Mexico and let that slogan be "Right makes right," for it never was the case that "might makes right." "Might" frequently prevails but not "rightfully."

Long live the Journal in its fight for political righteousness in this state, for the people are unable to make such a fight without such leadership and publicity. If the searchlight can be held on certain individuals place methods constantly enough the needed change can be brought about.

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE MOLASSES.

"The rays are getting shorter, the nights are growing cold. Some leaves have turned to crimson, while others shine like gold!"

Uncle Wiggly, the nice bunny rabbit gentleman, was singing that song one afternoon as he hopped down the steps of his hollow stump bungalow to look for an adventure.

"That's just right!" said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, his muskrat lady housekeeper as she heard Mr. Longears singing. "And if you want something warm to eat these cold nights just bring me some molasses from the five and ten-cent store."

"Right gladly will I bring you molasses, Nurse Jane," spoke the bunny gentleman with a low and polite bow of his tall silk hat. "But how will molasses keep me warm?"

"I'll use it to make a carrot ginger cake," was the answer, "and you know how hot ginger is, Uncle Wiggly!"

"Indeed I do, Nurse Jane! Very well, please hand me the molasses jug and I'll get some molasses."

Off started the bunny over the hill and dale, across the fields and through the woods to get the molasses. And though he did not know it, a Fuzzy Fox was watching Uncle Wiggly.

"I'll just sneak along after Uncle Wiggly," whispered the Fox to himself. "I'll wait until he gets that jug filled with molasses. It will be heavy then, and hard to carry, and I'll have no trouble catching him and nibbling his ear!"

Yes, that's what I'll do! I'll wait until he is on his way back with the molasses and then I'll get him!"

Uncle Wiggly, knowing nothing about this, hopped on to the five and ten cent store, singing his song about the nights that were cold and the leaves turning gold.

"But I will not be cold when Nurse Jane makes the hot carrot ginger cake!" thought the bunny. It did not take Mr. Longears more than two minutes to buy his jug full of molasses. Then, singing it over his back, away he hopped toward his hollow stump bungalow, thinking how good the molasses ginger cake would taste.

All of a sudden, just as Uncle Wiggly was remembering that he must save a piece of the cake for Nurse Jane, a group voice cried: "Stop!"

And there was the Fuzzy Fox! Think of it!

"What did I stop?" asked Uncle Wiggly, and he shivered and trembled so in fear that he shook the cork out of the molasses jug.

You must stop so that I can eat up all the molasses in that jug," said the Fox, "and then I want a few nibbles off your ear!"

"Oh please don't nibble my ears!" begged the bunny.

"Yes, I shall!" growled the Fox. "If I save you five cents would you let me alone?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Would let me alone for ten cents?" asked the bunny.

"No, and not for fifteen cents either," snarled the bad animal. "Set your price, now. I'll nibble your ears first and eat the molasses afterwards."

"Or, dear!" sighed Uncle Wiggly, he set down his jug of molasses with the molasses jug, from which the cork had fallen, beside him.

"No use saying 'Oh dear!' for it will do no good," snarled the Fox. "Now I'll just sit down beside you and see which ear I shall nibble first!"

So the bad Fox sat down beside the bunny gentleman. And then Uncle Wiggly looked, and when he saw some of the thick, sticky molasses pouring out of the jug, over the leaves near where the Fox was sitting, the bunny's pink nose twinkled as fast as a lollipop.

"You shall not nibble my ears!" suddenly cried Uncle Wiggly.

"Yes, I shall!" snarled the Fox, pushing the bad chap rolling over and over in the leaves on the ground. And by this time the leaves were all covered with sticky molasses that had run out of the jug.

The leaves stuck fast to the Fox. Over and over he rolled, and more and more leaves sticking fast to him all the while, until at last he was all stuck up like a piece of molasses candy that has fallen into a feather bed.

"Now, wow!" howled the Fox, when he found he could hardly crawl, much less run, after Uncle Wiggly. "What has happened to me?"

"Leaves and molasses is what has happened to you!" laughed Uncle Wiggly. "Leaves and molasses! Goodbye!"

Then the bunny ran away, with still enough of molasses in his jug for Nurse Jane to make the ginger cake, which she did, and it was very good.

So everything turned out all right, though it was a week before the Fox had washed off the leaves and molasses. And if the piece of sheik doesn't draw a funny picture on the black board to make the spelling book laugh I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly and Billie's whiskers.

SYNOD CLOSSES
SESSION HERE

One of the most successful synodical meetings ever held in the state by the Presbyterian churches will close today with a short business meeting. The visiting ministers will leave today for their homes in the various parts of the state.

Yesterday was a busy day with church services in the morning and evening and with the dedication of the new building at the Manual school in the afternoon. The chief speaker at the dedication services was the Rev. Hugh A. Cooper, Dr.
W. S. Holt, of Philadelphia, and the pulpit in the morning and talks were made in the evening by Dr.
Duncan and Dr. Caughy.

A report on the Presbyterian sanatorium here which was made on Saturday by the Rev. Hugh A.
Cooper stated that the past year was the best in the history of the institution. The annual income of the sanatorium is about $100,000, according to the report, the net profit of which is applied to improvement of the plant. During the past year 695 patients have been treated. The property investment is $162,000 with $144,000 in additional investments and improvements.

BERNALILLO MAY LOSE TERMINAL
OF NEW RAILROAD

Land Owners Outside of Town Block Grant of Right of Way; History Is Repeating Itself.

That Bernalillo may lose its chance to be the terminal for the lower end of the Santa Fe and Northwestern railroad which is to be built into the Caba country, was indicated last night upon the return of Sidney Weil, promoter of the road, from a trip to Bernalillo.

Mr. Weil stated: "It looks as if Bernalillo is going to refuse a gift upon a silver platter."

At a meeting yesterday, Mr. Weil presented the proposition of the railroad, stating that no houses were asked, merely that right of way be granted across the lands.

This request met with some hostility, a few of the land owners feeling that the people of the town should buy their affected lands and then donate the narrow strips to the railroad.

Mr. Weil insisted that the benefits more than offset the slight loss in acreage and this view was also urged by Father Lammett. Some people expressed a view that they didn't want the railroad to enter the town at all.

The affected districts inside the town were not belligerent; it was largely people outside of town. In four instances, the road crosses alfalfa land, but the Santa Fe and Northwestern feels that the benefits of adjoining acreage will offset any losses of ground sustained by the owner in granting right of way.

Curiously, it appears that history is repeating itself. It is claimed that forty years ago, Bernalillo was offered a division point for the Santa Fe if it would give up depot and shop grounds. The town refused and the division point was moved to Albuquerque where New Town was started.

Had Bernalillo accepted the Santa Fe and Northwestern railroad, it would probably have received a lumber mill of 250,000
board feet, capacity, a news print paper mill, a furniture factory, a sash and door factory, a shingle mill and a box factory, as well as the office arrangements for handling 5,000 tons of coal a day.

POOR CROWD AT RODEO SUNDAY;
PROMOTERS LOSE

Although a special Sunday show was staged by the rodeo promoters in an effort to make their enterprise break even, the crowd which turned out was disappointingly small and not much money was realized. It was stated last evening that the Tucumcari men, Garrett and Woolsey, who staged the rodeo, probably lost some money on the venture, although the disabled Soldiers' league made a handsome profit.

By the terms of the contract given the league, they received a fourth of the gross revenue. This protected them, should any loss occur. As a result, the league will have a substantial fund with which to defray expenses at the national convention here.

ROTARIANS BACK
FROM A MEETING
HELD IN DENVER

Boundaries of Twenty-First District May Be Changed to Take in Arizona and Part of Texas.

Kenneth J. Baldrige and O. I.
Lewis, representatives of the Albuquerque Rotary club, have returned from Denver, where they attended a meeting of the club executives from District 21. It was a 100 per cent meeting as each of the twenty-six clubs in the district was represented. A two-day program was crowded full of important discussions.

The next district conference is to be held at Greeley, Colo., on March 23 and 24. This conference is prior to the convention of International Rotary at Los Angeles on June 4 to 9 and is for the purpose of preparing the Rocky mountain district and its delegates for the international meeting. F. B.
Choate of the Union Pacific railway was appointed chairman of the transportation committee for the district and there are indications that the attendance from
"21" will be large.

The delegates report that the redistricting of Rotary is being planned by international officers.
It was the belief at Denver that this is done in the western portion of the district will be sub-divided to make Colorado Springs the northern boundary of a territory which will extend as far south as El Paso, taking in the western portion of Texas and all of Arizona.

The delegates were entertained by the Denver Rotarians, particularly by trips to points of interest in and around the city.
