HELD ONLY BRIEF SESSION

Constitutional Convention Met for An Hour This Afternoon

EMPLOYEES QUESTION SETTLED

Committees on Corporations and Legislation Announced Public Meetings

The convention was called to order by President Spies at 2:45 o'clock. Prayer by Chaplain Hartman. Minutes by Chief Clerk George W. Armijo.

Samuel Eldred was excused for a few days on account of an urgent business call.

President Spies in urging the representatives of the minority, J. H. Crist and H. B. Ferguson, to attend the meeting of the committee on rules, of which they are members, stated that it is the desire of the majority of the committee to so frame the rules as to give the minority every opportunity "to make medicine." J. H. Crist remarked that he noticed that the number of medicine men is constantly on the increase to which President Spies retorted that the majority is willing to give the minority the monopoly of the medicine making.

The committees on legislation, A. B. Fall, chairman, and on corporations, H. O. Bursum, chairman, announced that they would hold public meetings, the former on Tuesday and Fridays, the latter on Mondays and Thursdays. Those having matters to present are urged to appear before the committees. President Spies asked the press to make announcement of these public meetings to which every one will be admitted.

The committees on elective franchise, on irrigation, on schedules, on state, county and municipal indebtedness and the sub-committee on bill of rights met this afternoon. The latter invited the delegates to attend the meeting.

The convention adjourned until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

An animated caucus of the Republican majority was held this forenoon in the council chamber at the capitol and was presided over by H. O. Bursum. The employees' question was again gone over. There was not only a disposition to be economical but to be parsimonious, not only to do without unnecessary employees, but to cut them all off, a procedure that would have cramped the work of the convention. The Republican majority regards the appropriation of Congress a sacred trust fund which is to be expended economically and carefully. One county delegation after another offered to withdraw its candidates for positions and counties like San Miguel stated that its delegation needed no interpreters and no translators. Charles A. Spies, A. B. Fall and others led in the fight for economy which prevailed. The list of employees was cut down materially, so that the total is only about thirty. Almost one-half of whom are much needed stenographers, while most of the others are committee clerks who must be able to translate into both Spanish and English. The customary host of doorkeepers, messengers, etc., was cut off. The number of each class of employees was decided upon and a committee of five recommended the persons to fill the places.

WOMAN BEATEN TO DEATH

Police of New York Baffled by Another Murder Mystery

ELEVATOR BOY IS ARRESTED

Body Found in Court Yard of a Fashionable Apartment House.

New York, Oct. 7.—The mysterious murder of an unidentified woman of refined appearance in a fashionable apartment house on Riverside Drive, is puzzling the police as few recent crimes have done. The woman's body was found in the court yard and gave every indication of the victim having been beaten to death. The fact that the body was covered with bruises and lacerations was apparent and one thumb was bitten nearly off. The clothing is of the best quality but nothing gives any clue to her identity. The negro elevator boy of the apartment house, Clarence Holcomb, who said he admitted the woman to the building, was early today arrested.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., HAS DECLINED IN POPULATION

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—Population statistics as enumerated in the thirteen census were made public yesterday for the following places: St. Joseph, Mo., 77,403, a decrease of 25,576, or 24.8 percent over 102,979 in 1900. Shawnee, Okla., 12,471, compared with 3,462 in 1900.

DETROIT HURRIED TO LISBON

Associated Press Directly Notified of Establishment of Republic

JESUIT CONVENT IS ATTACKED

Several of the Inmates Were Killed by the Revolutionists.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Associated Press this morning received from Lisbon a dispatch from Senor Bernardino Machado, minister of foreign affairs of the newly constituted provisional government of Portugal, in which he sets forth the purpose and aims of the present government.

New York, Oct. 7.—"The provisional government," he says, "has in effect the country to make over. We will endeavor to put in operation the program of the Republican party. All existing national elements will be respected and the friendly relations of all other states are desired. The freedom of the press will be assured and all secret camera and oppressive laws will be abolished. Public instruction will be completely realized and relieved from religious control, and the religious congregation are to be suppressed. We plan the establishment of a broad system of public instruction under government endowment. The financial budget is to be equalized in the general interests of the country and will be made up with honesty and fairness."

Cruiser Des Moines Sent to Lisbon. Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—The cruiser Des Moines has been ordered to sail immediately from Gibraltar to Lisbon to represent the United States government.

Jesuits Killed by Revolutionists. Paris, Oct. 7.—A special to the Journal says that a party of revolutionists yesterday attacked a Jesuit convent at Campolito and that several Jesuits were killed.

RESTORING QUIET

Lisbon, Oct. 7.—The new ministers of the Portuguese republican government effectively posted their ministry at five o'clock last evening, and order is being rapidly restored to the official routine. Nearly all bank and commercial houses together with customs houses have re-opened. A large force of volunteer soldiers which was recruited at the beginning of the uprising is being disbanded. The revolutionist leaders were doing the utmost to earn the support of the people of all sections of the country. One of the first acts of the federal committee was to send supplies by train to all points. The republicans appeared to be absolutely in control within a radius of fifty miles of Lisbon but Lisbon says that the final success of the revolutionists depends upon the attitude of the provinces. The proclaiming of republicanism in Oporto greatly lessens the doubt of the success of the revolution.

Flight of Royal Family

Lisbon, Oct. 7.—The capital, a republican newspaper, gives the following account of the flight of the royal family: "Between five and eight o'clock Wednesday morning, the Duke of Oporto embarked on the yacht Amalia and sailed for Ericeira, a fishing town 22 miles from Lisbon. At the same time the Queen Mother, Maria, left Cintra by automobile for Mafra. She was followed an hour later by the dowager queen mother, Maria Pia. King Manuel, after escaping by a rear door of the palace during the bombardment, went to Cintra and thence to Mafra. Escorted by twenty cavaliers the royal family proceeded to Ericeira. At three o'clock in the afternoon they embarked in fishing boats which put out to sea and at some distance from the harbor were transferred to the royal yacht Amalia."

King Manuel Will Reside in England

London, Oct. 7.—King Manuel of Portugal with others of the royal family are now under the protection of the British government at Gibraltar. The general expectation is that they will find a permanent residence in England, where the Duke of Orleans and the queen mother's and sister reside.

Royal Yacht at Gibraltar

Gibraltar, Oct. 7.—The royal family of Portugal today remained on the Royal Yacht Amalia, which arrived here at 11 o'clock last night.

Republic Proclaimed at Oporto

Oporto, Oct. 7.—The Republican government has been definitely established here without a struggle. The populace received the proclamation enthusiastically. The general commanding the local division of troops obeyed the orders of the provisional government.

Casualties Number Three

Lisbon, Oct. 7.—The casualties in the recent fighting are placed at 3,000.

Bloody Battle Fought

Paris, Oct. 7.—A special to the Temps from Madrid says that a report of a battle has been received from Setubal, Portugal, between infantry that had gone over to the revolutionists and cavalry that remained loyal. The casualties estimated at 900.

DEMOCRATS MEET IN CONVENTIONS

In Massachusetts They Engage in Public Row in Assembly Hall

FIGHT OVER NOMINATIONS

In Michigan They Engage in Favorite Pastime of Denouncing Republicans.

Boston, Oct. 7.—Although the Democrats of Massachusetts after a stormy thirteen hours convention today nominated Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston for governor, they probably will have another candidate in the coming campaign. Mansfield's election was a temporary expedient when agreement over the two candidates before the convention became impossible. It was intended to fulfill the legal requirement that the nominee's name be filed with the secretary of state by 5 p. m. today. It is generally understood that Mansfield would withdraw to make way for the candidate chosen by a committee appointed for that purpose. The struggle between the Foss and Vahey leaders was a bitter one and only when the police cleared the platform was order restored.

Strong on Denunciation

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 7.—Denunciation of the Payne tariff bill and of the Michigan congressmen who aided in its passage, is probably the strongest feature of the platform to be adopted today by the Democratic state convention. The promise also will be made of a bipartisan appointive board and commissions by the state convention in case of Democratic victory.

Taylor Nominated for Governor

Nashville, Oct. 7.—United States Senator Robert L. Taylor, three times governor of Tennessee, and whose term in the United States Senate does not expire until 1912, was yesterday nominated for governor by the regular Democratic convention.

Governor M. R. Patterson was nominated several months ago to succeed himself, but his nomination caused a split in the party and he withdrew, hoping thereby to unite the party.

Senator Taylor Accepted the Nomination

Senator Taylor will be opposed by Captain B. W. Mooper, the Republican nominee. Many independent Democrats are pledged to the support of Hooper. The convention declared that the temperance question should not be an issue in the campaign.

Republicans Renominate Draper

Boston, Oct. 7.—Precedent ruled the Republican state convention here and Governor Eben S. Draper was named by acclamation for a third term. It has been many years since a Republican governor has been re-elected a third nomination in this state.

All other state officers selected were re-nominated with the same unanimity.

Platform Adopted, Besides Favoring a permanent tariff board, strongly approved the administration of President Taft and favored the conservation of natural resources and closer trade relations with Canada.

280 BUSHELS OF WHEAT RAISED PER ACRE

Astonishing Success With Egyptian Variety in Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Austin, Texas, Oct. 7.—Extensive experiments in the Lower Rio Grande valley with Egyptian wheat, concluded during the past nine months, bring out the astonishing fact that the average yield has been 280 bushels per acre. This is the statement issued by Prof. F. W. Malley of the state department of agriculture who made a personal investigation of the crop.

This yield was obtained from three cuttings of the grain. Owing to the mild climate the grain grows practically all the year. Although called Egyptian wheat the plant bears little resemblance to the ordinary wheat, it resembles Kaffir corn, milo maize or sorghum cane in the general appearance of its head. The grain is small and light in color and is said to contain greater nutritive than the other grains and to be more delicate. The foliage makes fine fodder and the grain when ground into flour makes excellent bread.

Egyptian wheat has been raised in the United States before but never on such an extensive scale. The rich valley of the lower Rio Grande very much resembles the Nile in depth of soil and fertility and accounts for the success of the experiment.

BANKERS URGE PASSAGE OF REFORM LAWS

Los Angeles, Oct. 7.—Today was the closing session of the American Bankers Association. The report of the federal legislative committee urged the bankers throughout the country to insist upon the reforms in the banking laws as proposed in Congress.

ELEVEN NEW CASES OF CHOLERA AT NAPLES

Naples, Oct. 7.—Eleven new cases of cholera and six deaths occurred in this city yesterday and today.

CONSTITUTION MAKERS

HON. THOMAS BENTON CATRON. (By courtesy of Hon. B. M. Read.)

The constitutional convention, upon motion of Hon. Jose D. Sena, yesterday congratulated Hon. Thomas Benton Catron, the Nestor of the New Mexico Bar and the dean of the convention, upon his seventieth birthday anniversary. It came as a surprise to many of the delegates, who judging by appearances, had gauged Mr. Catron to be a much younger man, for his sturdiness and aggressiveness, have already marked him for leadership in the convention in various ways. Like the president of the convention and several other leading and political lights of the Territory, Mr. Catron is a Missourian, having been born in Lafayette county, Missouri. He is a veteran of the Civil War having served in the Confederate Army and shortly after the war came to Santa Fe. It was in Dona Ana county, however, that he was admitted to the bar. As partner of Stephen B. Elkins, later U. S. district attorney for New Mexico and now United States Senator from West Virginia, Mr. Catron forged rapidly to the front as an attorney as well as an astute politician, and it is very likely that he will shake hands with his old partner at the national capital as the first Senator from the State of New Mexico. He was appointed by the governor district attorney for the third judicial district and in the fall of 1883 he returned to Santa Fe as member of the legislature from Dona Ana county.

While in the legislature Mr. Catron was appointed attorney general of the Territory and held that office for three and a half years. President Grant appointed him United States attorney for New Mexico, and, after holding that office for six and a half years, he resigned.

He served as New Mexico's delegate in the Fifty-fourth Congress. He served several terms in the legislature and political honors are heaped upon him at frequent intervals. His aggressiveness has made him enemies, but even his enemies admit that he is one of the greatest and brainiest men of the Territory. He served in the constitutional convention of 1889 and is one of the few veterans of the convention, who are again bent upon the task of formulating for New Mexico an ideal fundamental law. Last evening a congenial company gathered at his palatial home on Grant avenue to celebrate his birthday anniversary. The New Mexican joins with other in extending congratulations.

DELUGE IN OHIO VALLEY

More Rain in One Hour Than at Santa Fe in One Year

INNENSE DAMAGE IS DONE

Five Hundred People Homeless Boonville and Crops are Destroyed.

Louisville, Oct. 7.—Almost unprecedented rains have fallen in the lower Ohio valley the last three days and as a result the Ohio river threatens to reach flood stage. The river has risen more than six feet in the last 36 hours at Paducah, Kentucky, and is still rising. At Evansville, Indiana, the rainfall has totaled eleven inches in forty-eight hours. At Louisville and other points in Kentucky, and at Boonville and other points in Indiana, the rain has caused much damage. The bridges and railroad tracks have been washed away, and crops destroyed. Five hundred people are homeless at Boonville. In six counties of Kentucky the damage is estimated at $500,000.

RAILROADS MUST SPEND $50,000,000 FOR APPLIANCES.

Definite Standards Are Adopted After Third of a Century of Wrangling.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Definite standards of safety appliances to be applied to railway cars and to locomotives have been agreed upon after nearly a third of a century of effort. The estimated proposed changes in equipment will cost the railroads about $50,000,000.

TAX QUESTION DISCUSSED AT ALBUQUERQUE TODAY

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 7.—The mass meeting of commercial clubs and chamber of commerce delegates from all over New Mexico to discuss the tax question was called to order at 10 a. m. today in the Commercial Club building with delegates present from all over New Mexico, many municipalities who have no commercial organizations also being represented.

SENATOR LAFOLLETTE'S RECOVERY IS ASSURED

Rochester, Minn., Oct. 7.—Senator LaFollette passed another restful night, and according to physicians his recovery is assured.

MANY LIGHTS ARE YET TO SHINE.

Old Santa Fe looked new and joyous under a new lighting scheme last night.

It is true that only the plaza and a part of San Francisco street were really resplendent, but the impression was given that the heart of the city was lit up in the most improved fashion. However a large portion of the city is yet to be visited by the Tungsten dispersers of darkness and Mayor Seligman was informed today that probably only a dozen of the ninety lights the city is paying for have been erected.

It appears that the Water and Light Company have put up numerous lights on San Francisco street near Don Gaspar avenue to serve as illustrations of what can be done in the lighting line and if approved by the merchants these lights will be left at the expense of property holders, it is said.

The plaza was lighted by eight Tungstens of 75 candle power and looked very pretty. The lights were placed around the square and did excellent service, especially at congested corners.

The city, however, is yet to see greater brilliance for many streets have not yet been touched by the electric wand. Work is going steadily on, however, and it is expected that by the end of a week new blazes of glory will welcome property owners other than those who live right down town.

ONLY ONE ENTRY FOR LONG FLIGHT.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—There is but one real starter in the Chicago-New York aeroplane "race" scheduled to begin here Sunday. It is announced today that Eugene Ely will attempt to go the route, but Wilbur W. Post and McCurdy will make merely a technical start. The aviators at a meeting this afternoon decided to delay the Ely start until Sunday.

Two Jurors Discharged—In the morning mail of Judge A. M. Walthall yesterday was a note reading, "Some juror in the case now being tried, is trying to get something." The note was signed, "Fair Play." The case in question is the damage suit of J. R. Daniel versus the Southern Pacific railroad for $50,000 for personal injuries received in an accident while the plaintiff was a timekeeper in the Southern Pacific yards at Lordsburg. Immediately upon opening court Judge Walthall ordered the sheriff to take charge of the jury, and then adjourned court. An investigation followed with the result that two jurors were excused. The case will be continued with ten jurors. The incident caused a sensation at the court house. It is expected that arrests will be made tomorrow.

HAD HARROWING EXPERIENCE IN LOS ANGELES.

Miguel Ortiz of Santa Fe, Was Rooming Near Times Building When It Was Dynamited.

The advantages of the "restful atmosphere" of this part of the southwest was forcibly impressed upon a Santa Fean recently in Los Angeles. The person was Miguel Ortiz, the well known merchant on Agua Fria street and who has just returned from a trip to the coast.

Mr. Ortiz had the mishap to take a room in a hotel near the site of the Times building and when the great explosion came at night he heard it. "It was terrific," said Mr. Ortiz today, "and I think fully 20 buildings in the neighborhood of the Times' building were damaged."

Mr. Ortiz said he had otherwise enjoyed his trip to the coast very much and that at this season California is very attractive.

LOST MINE IS REDISCOVERED

Forgotten Santa Teresa Mine Again Located Near Cananea

TWO SKELETONS IN SHAFT

Mexican Government Is Making Arrangements to Take Charge of Workings.

Bisbee, Ariz., Oct. 7.—Mexican officials at Cananea yesterday announced the discovery of the old Santa Teresa gold mine, one of the really "lost" mines of the southwest which was worked by the Spanish more than a century ago and which had been lost since 1830. Two skeletons were found at the bottom of the shaft. The location of the mine had become a mystery. The Mexican government is now making arrangements to take charge of the mine.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—Sir Evelyn John Ruggles-Brice, K. C. B., of London, was today elected president of the International Prison Congress. London was chosen as the place of meeting in 1915.

ASSESSMENT AND TAXATION

Resume of Recommendations Made by Traveling Auditor Charles V. Safford

EXCELLENT SUGGESTIONS

They Will Be Considered by the Commercial Convention at Albuquerque.

Territorial Traveling Auditor C. V. Safford has compiled and prepared the following data to lay before the tax convention of New Mexico's commercial bodies at Albuquerque today:

The problem of securing to the individual, the large and small holder of property, whether real or personal; the corporation with its large holdings; the investor in certain classes of securities which are intangible—equal taxation, in this territory is indeed a serious one, and to be successful must be met in a practical way by the strict enforcement of whatever method of system that may be decided upon, instead of hoping to secure the desired result by the passage of some legislative act without providing means to secure the compliance with the provisions thereof.

Inequalities Under Present Conditions

Reviewing the assessments and returns of property for taxation purposes, throughout the territory, for the past few years, one cannot help but admit that gross inequalities exist.

The same class of property of the same value approximately, in one portion of the territory will be found to be assessed at merely a nominal figure, and in another portion of the territory at a high per cent of its actual cash value. This is practically true with reference to all classes of property.

It is a fact that in any tax suit—a county—that where any particular property interest outside of railroads, which are assessed on the same basis throughout the different counties, the predominating property interest seems to escape taxation to a greater degree than the combined smaller interests.

HON. C. V. SAFFORD, Traveling Auditor.

In counties where stock interests predominate, the return on this class of property, in proportion to its value as compared with other classes of property, the result is far from equal.

In other counties where landed and mineral interests predominate, such interests are apparently favored as against other tax payers.

In counties where the major portion of the wealth consists of valuable city property, the injustice is also apparent.

It is only in counties or communities where the wealth is represented by diversified interests, and in something like equal proportions, that equality in taxation is more nearly obtained.

Primary Steps to Secure Desired Result.

It is expected that this is one of the problems that will in some way be solved by the constitutional convention, and as to what will be the best course to pursue in order to obtain something like the desired result will be a matter of much discussion and research by members of that body to whom is delegated the action on this important subject.

Doubtless many different methods and lines of action will be suggested, and each will be advocated and supported by those believing in the particular solution offered, but it is safe to say, that no matter how many modes of procedure are advanced that the majority of those who have given thought to the subject, will meet on the common ground that, that the primary evil lies in the failure of the taxing authorities in the several taxing districts or units, to secure from the tax payer a true and correct list of property subject to taxation, such as is now required under our present laws.

If this is true, the first steps towards the desired results will be to put in force methods that will secure these lists in the future and to eliminate the cause of the failure to secure such lists in the past.

Where does this fault lie? We all know that our present laws are sufficiently stringent to require this information to be furnished and

More Good Crops—D. M. Burt and son, of Progresso, were in town Saturday and brought with them a sample of native corn which shows that they are no amateurs in the farming lines, although a number of their friends advised them that they were only wasting their time working their crops while others were sitting around waiting for the rains. Mr. Burt has 20 acres of this native corn which will average 25 bushels per acre, he also has several other crops such as spuds, beans and stock feeds which have all done well. Some of our would be farmers would do well to pattern after these kind of men.—Willard Record.

Little Minnie Returned—There was great rejoicing with Mrs. Maud Corn and her little daughters, as well as with a number of their friends, Wednesday night, when little Minnie was returned to her by Dr. C. E. Lukens, proprietor of the Children's Home Society. Little Minnie, who was taken by Dr. Lukens nearly a year ago, was a hopeless cripple, being afflicted with double club feet, and she is now returned to the arms of her mother bright and happy, with her feet straightened, and is able to walk, run and play like other children. The thanks, not only of Mrs. Corn and her family, but of this entire community, are due Dr. Lukens and the Children's Home for the wonderful change wrought in this little three-year-old girl, who never would have walked and played like other girls had not Dr. Lukens taken pity on her helpless condition and placed her in the Home and had experienced physicians treat her for her deformity. We visited her at Lakewood hotel yesterday and found her surrounded by loved ones and friends and playing, cheerful and happy.—Lakewood Progress.

Archer-Duer—Ross G. Archer and Miss Jennie Duer were united in marriage Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents at Estancia. Rev. Randolph Carver officiated and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Tuttle acted as best man and matron of honor.

Railroad to Taos—"All this dope about the Santa Fe purchasing the Rocky Mountain is another pipe dream of the dreamers sort. The Rocky Mountain people are in the market for the Santa Fe branch into Van Houten and will not only purchase that branch but will extend on to Taos as soon as a deal is concluded with the Santa Fe for a timber haul from their great area of forest lands southeast of Taos."—Cimarron Citizen.

Drilling a Hole Through Baldy—It takes a day or two this week is one of the men who is drilling a hole through Baldy Mountain for the purpose of seeing if there is pay streaks of gold somewhere in this big rinkle of the earth. This work has been going on for some years at intervals and the tunnel we are informed is now about 1900 feet into the mountain. There are very rich placers at Elizabethtown north of Baldy and any number of prospects around the mountain that show gold values and some of them are paying very well in development work that rich gold veins will be uncovered that will pay to mine more extensively with modern machinery."—Cimarron Citizen.

20 YEARS AGO TODAY
From the New Mexican of this date 1890.

The special election for the adoption or rejection of the state constitution is proceeding very quietly today. No disturbance of any kind took place at the polls.

The leaders of the local Democracy have shown their true hand and are working against the constitution with all their might, the local politicians, especially those controlling the county, having hired every public hack and carriage in town and decorated them with banners reading "Against the Constitution," "Vote Down the Constitution," etc.

Yet, notwithstanding this opposition, a very large vote in favor of the constitution is being brought out.

As matters look at this writing, the constitution has probably carried in Santa Fe county.

In the city up to 3 p. m. over 1,000 votes had been cast, and the probability is that the city vote will probably reach 1,200.

BRYAN TURNS FROM POLITICS TO FIG FARMING.

Houston, Texas, Oct. 7.—Instead of raising a presidential boom this year word has been received from Wm. J. Bryan that he and his family will in a short time move to Texas for the winter and raise Bermuda onions and fruit. He will be located on his farm near Mission in the lower Rio Grande valley. Mr. Bryan bought this place about two years ago and is cultivating it on the tenant system. He is raising oranges, figs and dates and lemons successfully.

The Doctor's Question

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Reckall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Reckall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children weak persons or old folks. Two sizes 25c and 10c. STATEHOOD DAY DRAWS CROWDS TO ALBUQUERQUE.

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 7.—Albuquerque day at the fair saw tremendous crowds and today, Statehood Day, it is believed will break all fair records for attendance. The Montezuma parade yesterday over a mile in length was witnessed by five thousand people and the street cars could hardly handle the traffic to the fair grounds. With the governor and staff and many convention delegates here today Statehood day will be a great occasion. The big floral automobile parade at the fair grounds will be the main stunt of the afternoon program.

SUPREME COURT MEETS MONDAY

Constitutionality of the Employers Liability Act to Be Passed Upon

CASES OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Tremendous Amount of Work Awaits Supreme Tribunal at This Term.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—The supreme court of the United States will convene next Monday at noon for one of the most important sessions in its history. During the coming eight months it will have to pass upon cases profoundly involving the industrial and business life of the nation, and this fact adds importance to the pending charges in the personnel of the great court occasioned by the death of Chief Justice Fuller and Associate Justice Brewer and the expected retirement of Associate Justice Moody. Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York has been confirmed in the place of Justice Brewer, and there appears excellent reason to expect that he will be named in place of the chief justice, although Associate Justice Harlan, the senior surviving member of the court, has been much spoken of for promotion to the chief justiceship. In any event, including Justice Hughes, there will be three new men on this bench during the coming session.

President Taft has said that he will make no recess appointments to the court; this means that the chief justiceship and the place of Justice Moody probably will remain vacant until the regular session of Congress begins in December. It also means undoubtedly that the three great corporation cases upon which the expectancy of the business world is centered will not come up for re-argument at least until after the Christmas recess of the court. Of these cases two, the Standard Oil case and the so-called Tobacco Trust case, were set for re-argument on November 14. The series of corporation-tax cases were merely restored to the calendar for re-argument. In ordinary circumstances, this would throw them over for a year or more. The general expectation is that none of the three cases will be taken up until all the vacancies in the court have been filled, and that then the corporation tax cases will be advanced, and with the other two cases mentioned, will be set for dates relatively early in 1911.

Aside from these celebrated causes, a tremendous amount of work awaits the court at the beginning of its session. Upwards of forty cases, many of large import, have been assigned for arguments next Tuesday, or as soon thereafter as possible. Ordinarily, each justice delivers about 30 opinions during a year; hence if one member were to undertake to cover all of next Tuesday's docket, he would not be through with it until far into 1912.

Unbroken custom reserves the first day, Monday, theoretically at least, to paying the respects of the court to the President of the United States. Before the time of Cleveland, it is said, the court had practically never failed to adjourn immediately upon convening on the second Monday in October, to go in a body to the White House. Once or twice Cleveland was away from the city, and Roosevelt even more frequently. Nevertheless the call of the docket of cases to be argued has never been taken up on the opening day. Even if the President is not in town, the court adjourns after receiving motions, until the following day. This year, President Taft will be at Beverly; the fact will be announced by Justice Harlan presiding, and the court will adjourn. Largely on account of there not being a full bench last term, many important cases were set for argument, out of their turn, for Tuesday. The continuing vacancies may cause the further postponement of several of them. The death of Solicitor General Bowers may also result in the postponement of a number of government cases.

The first big case set for argument is the dispute between the state of West Virginia and the commonwealth of Virginia as to the amount of money the former owes the latter by reason of the formation of separate governments. Charles E. Littlefield, special master of the court, last spring reported that the amount varied from about $3,000,000 to about $9,000,000, according to the basis that might be accepted for a settlement. Some of the most prominent lawyers in the country will appear before the court to argue on exceptions to the report, which will be preparatory to final judgment in the case.

Immediately following the Virginia case, the court will hear the famous peonage cases from Florida. Only the favorable action of the supreme court, it is said, can now save several men from going to the federal penitentiary for alleged violations of the laws against compulsory service. W. S. Harlan, general manager of the Jackson Lumber Company, with big mills near Lockhart, Ala., has been sentenced to serve eighteen months at hard labor in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., and to pay a fine of $5,000; Robert Gallagher, logging superintendent, to fifteen months and a fine of $1,000; C. C. Hilton and S. E. Huggins, employees, to thirteen months and a fine of $1,000, all for having conspired to commit the offense known as peonage. The accused are seeking to be released on writs of habeas corpus, the claim being that the sentence to hard labor was illegal, and that the trial court had no jurisdiction and that the grand jury was not constituted according to law.

Scarcely of less interest in the labor world will be the cases involving the constitutionality of the Employers Liability Law of 1908. This law was passed by Congress to take the place of the act nullified by the supreme court because it applied to intra-state commerce as well as to interstate. The present law has been attacked along the same lines.

Of even greater interest is the case involving the contempt proceedings against the officials of the American Federation of Labor; Samuel Gompers, president of the federation is under sentence to serve twelve months in jail; John Mitchell, formerly president of the United Mine Workers, nine months, and Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, six months, all for alleged contempt of the supreme court of the District of Columbia in that they disregarded the injunction to cease interfering with the business of the Buck's Store & Range Company, of St. Louis, which had brought suit against them to prevent them from boycotting it. All the points in the controversy are to be laid before the court for final decision. The Missouri two-cent passenger rate law and the maximum freight rate law of that state have been set for argument after the contempt cases. The constitutionality of these laws is attacked. Owing to the veto by Governor Hughes of the New York two-cent rate bill, his attitude as a member of the court toward the Missouri cases will be watched with interest.

The court was to have given a second hearing at the beginning of the term to the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern railroad cases, involving the question as to what should be the unit for the assessment of penalties for violations of the twenty-eight hour law, governing the shipment of livestock. Last year the court stood four in favor of holding the train-load to be the unit and four in favor of making the unit the separate shipments. In view of the tie vote, it is now believed the case will await the filling of the vacancies.

A case involving the constitutionality of the California law of 1906, providing for the quieting of title to real estate in case of the loss or destruction of public records, as by earthquake, will be heard according to present arrangements early in the term.

A long list of prosecutions under federal laws were also put forward at the head of the calendar for the coming term. Among these are the appeal of the government from the action of the New York federal courts in setting aside the indictment against F. Augustus Heinze on charges of intent to defraud the Mercantile National Bank of New York City, of which he was president; the appeal of the government from similar treatment of the indictment against George Kissel, a New York broker, and Thomas B. Larned, of Philadelphia, on charges of having conspired with the American Sugar Company to restrain interstate commerce in violation of the Sherman antitrust act by preventing the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company from doing business; and several cases involving prosecutions under the pure food and drug act.

The last of the advanced cases is the so-called world libel suit. The government has appealed to the supreme court from the action of the New York federal court in quashing the indictment against the Press Publishing Company, publisher of the New York World, on a charge of libel. It was alleged that articles were printed defaming William H. Taft, William Nelson Cromwell, Douglas Robinson, Theodore Roosevelt, Charles P. Taft, and others in connection with the purchase of the Panama canal.

TRINIDAD LEADS IN BASEBALL TOURNAMENT.

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 7.—Trinidad climbed to the lead in the territorial fair baseball tournament yesterday afternoon by winning from Roswell by the score of 8 to 1. Despite the appearance of the score, the exhibition was a splendid one and the Apple Knockers never gave up until the last ball was pitched. With Cavet for Roswell and Red Toner for Trinidad the game was pretty much of a pitchers battle. Cavet fanned thirteen and Toner five and were let down with five hits apiece. Toner was invincible in the pinches and pitched great ball with men on bases. With a mouthful of slippery elm, Red worked the "spitter," overtime and sent the pill where it would do the least damage. Loose fielding was in the main responsible for the defeat of the Apple Knockers.

But five errors were made by them, but they came at critical times and the Coloradoans made the most of the opportunities. Roswell had chances to score in the first, second and third innings, advancing men each time as far as third. Toner, however, tightened up and prevented any scoring in the early rounds.

Trinidad made their initial run in the second inning when Powell got to first on an error by Brown and stole second. Woolums singled and scored him. Two more Trinidad men went home in the fourth. With one out Koerner drew a pass and Powell reached first on Shea's error, Koerner going to third. Koerner and Powell scored on Crawford's error at third. In the sixth Trinidad garnered three runs on a hit, a pair of errors and a fielder's choice. Koerner walked, Powell went to first on Shea's error, and advancing Koerner to second. Owens singled, fanning the bases. Woolums was thrown out at first, Koerner scoring. Owens made second and Powell and Owens scored when Shea juggled the ball. Two hits and a sacrifice fly netted two more for Trinidad in the seventh. Craig doubled and Metz hit for three bases to center, scoring Craig. Koerner fanned and Powell hit a long sacrifice fly to center, scoring Metz.

Roswell's one score happened in the fourth. Lyon and Kelly singled, Lyon going to third. Kelly made second on a passed ball. Reynolds popped to Caldwell. Ware drew a pass, filling the bases. Gavett hit a sacrifice fly to Koerner, scoring Lyons.

Two Games Scheduled to Be Played Today.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

THE DIFFERENCE.

There is quite a contrast between the way that the constitutional convention, dominated by the Republicans, is getting down to business, the earnestness and energy with which it works and the fairness with which it treats the minority, and the spirit that prevails in Democratic assemblies such as that of Colorado which has been in session thus far just 60 days, which has cost the Centennial State thus far $16,000 for employees, $41,000 for the salaries of ninety-nine members at $7 per day, and more than $6,000 for printing. Here is the word picture drawn of that Democratic body which after sixty days has passed only one law, and that merely a law providing for the initiative and referendum, which truly reflects the character of the legislative gang:

"It is high treason to attempt the transaction of business. It might disturb the sunniness that cloaks the grave senators. Half their time is spent in mumbling of adjourning; the other half is adjournment. Along one side of the Senate chamber, on up hoisted seats that skirt the wall, women clerks and stenographers hold informal receptions. From an opposite side rises the low buzz of a few drowsing Senators in an informal caucus. It now is popular for every man to have a caucus; they are as common as pre-election promises. Speaker Lubers, with his good-natured smile, languidly drops his gavel, or tells the sluggish representatives to 'go as far as you like.' One of the representatives trots a year-old baby on his knee. A perennial humorist moves that when they adjourn they adjourn for two days, or even three. Who cares? The people pay the freight. The house in its purity blames the Senate caucus for its inaction. But on the chaotic forenoon of the House also is the mark of a caucus. It has met in the rooms of Judge Hicks. It has ruled House affairs with a strong hand. On the first floor of the statehouse sits Honest John. At his tumbled hair clutches the old man-of-the-sea—the extra session. The rough-and-ready governor session is for the weight. The extra path, 'a fly in his ointment.' It was a wise political move for candidates on the state Democratic ticket to wash their hands of the extra session. It leaves them prepared to answer questioners that they did all in their power to force the legislature to act. But the legislators are determined not to kill the golden goose. A political campaign must be financed. Those who pay for it demand some thing; perhaps the slaughter of a few proposed laws. And Governor Shafroth has found out that one mistake may bring a shoal of worries. He has learned something. The people pay for his experience."

The Pueblo Chieftain throws further light on the subject when it says:

"Some persons find it difficult to understand why the Democrats of the general assembly continue to refuse to keep the promises made to the people in the state platform of 1908, preferring to admit the charges of political dishonesty and bad faith rather than to pass the laws demanded by the people and repeatedly promised to them."

"But the reason is not hard to find. The Democratic party in Colorado like the Democratic party in most of the northern states, finds its chief support and its real master in the corrupt political ring of a large city."

"The Tammany organization of Denver would much prefer to see the Democratic ticket beaten rather than to lose its control of the Democratic organization, for the same reason that New York Tammany invariably knifes the ticket when it cannot control the selection of the candidates."

"The Democrats of the assembly are therefore confronted with the alternative either to repudiate party and personal pledges or to condemn themselves and their party to inevitable defeat as the result of disobedience to the Denver machine."

"Not only that but the main sources of financial aid and comfort are to be found with those Denver corporations whose alliance with the Democratic machine is open and notorious. Those corporations are interested in politics only for the selfish advantage they gain from that interest, and a progressive Democracy, keeping its promises and passing the laws that are desired by the people, would very quickly find itself deprived of the financial means of winning elections."

"Even Governor Shafroth, who in spite of all his protestations has accomplished nothing tangible in the cause of reform, cannot afford to antagonize those upon whom he must rely for his campaign support and without whose active support he cannot possibly be re-elected."

"It is unquestionably true that every day the assembly continues its futile session costs the Democratic party hundreds of votes among the citizens of Colorado that are disgusted with its perjury and dishonesty, but it prefers to risk the votes of honest citizens rather than to lose the support of the Denver machine and the contributions of the Denver corporations in politics."

MARKING THE TRAIL.

The New Mexican and thoughtful people are pleased to learn that the Daughters of the American Revolution have undertaken the work of placing granite markers along the Santa Fe Trail in New Mexico. Kansas and Colorado have already done so and New Mexico should not lag, for the Santa Fe Trail is destined to a revival as a great automobile and tourist highway and here at Santa Fe, the historic terminal, that long planned arch, which has the endorsement of legislative action and which would be a fitting monument to the pioneers who blazed the Trail, should be constructed with the advent of statehood. The New York Sun dwells in reminiscent mood on the subject when it says editorially:

"The west beyond the Missouri is reviving, establishing and correcting its early history. In days of rapid changes there was little time for reflection on what was taking place; the leisure that has come with accomplishment has brought a desire for systematic research and the preservation of points of historic interest. The romances and stories of the prairies and the Rockies and the growth of the country followed in a great measure the slender threads of travel, the trails, that bound the unknown land to the east. In identifying these lines of communication, in gathering the statements of participants in the early struggles and marking the scenes of the main incidents, the western people hope to preserve both the facts and legends as to this history."

The first step was made in tracing the greatest of these early overland routes, the Santa Fe Trail. This has been marked through Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico. Much of the way has been designated by stone tablets and in one part of it has been made an automobile highway, which is likely to be continued eventually throughout its length. The same scheme of marking is about to be undertaken along the Oregon trail. In Oklahoma the traces of the old Texas trail, over which passed great herds of cattle from Texas and the southwest, have been almost obliterated by the territory and of the Cherokee Strip its line, marked by the tread of a million hoofs, was clearly discernible and many a cowboy could tell a story of hardships or point out the scene of a frontier tragedy or Indian warfare in every mile of its course."

The overland stage routes are a study of Colorado. Much history was made along these old prairie and mountain ways. When the North Platte was abandoned on account of the depredations of the Indians the transcontinental business was carried on along the old Cherokee trail, the Colorado division headquarters being at Virginia Dale, where the notorious Slade made his home. Many a volume of stirring adventures could be written on this Slade division. The Cherokee trail, like the Smoky Hill trail is now almost forgotten, but as the Denver Republican says:

"These trails should not be permitted to pass into oblivion. If the states through which they pass will do nothing to meet them, the matter should be taken up by societies or individuals as a matter of local pride."

The sifting of facts and romance has had a tendency to establish new estimates of many of the characters that guided the early traveler, trader and soldier over these trails. There were men such as Baker, Bridger and Beckwith who loomed large in those written history of the west, whose names are now scarcely ever heard. Others, passed over at the time, posterity has been glad to honor. There is perhaps no more striking instance of this than Kit Carson. General Fremont in his journals writes of La Junesse, not Carson as "my favorite man." No one hears of La Junesse today, but time has shown how wise were Carson's advice and counsel."

The work of trail marking, besides its importance to the general history of the country and to the development of local records, has considerable practical value in creating improved highways and better means of communication in the land of the old trails."

THE REFORM SCHOOL.

The first annual report of the New Mexico reform school is at hand and its appearance indicates that it was printed at the institution itself. The report is brief but it shows that the school has been fairly launched and with the small appropriation available is doing the work for which it was created. The total expenditures for the fiscal year were $12,313.93 of which more than one-half was for permanent improvements, repairs to the main building and furniture. The total salaries paid amounted to only $1,625.63, and it is to be doubted whether any other similar public institution is run at so economical an expenditure. The institution farm of twenty acres has been under cultivation but owing to inexperience the result has not been what it was hoped. The Superintendent John W. Kirkpatrick says:

"The rules and regulations to govern the institution have been made as liberal as could be done and every effort has been put forth to deal with these juvenile prisoners as kindly and liberally as possible and at the same time make them realize that they are being punished for the crimes committed by them respectively. At first it seemed that because of some of the bad leaders among the prisoners the kind, humanitarian treatment extended, could not be further extended and that more severe discipline would have to be resorted to. But, the bringing into subjection of some of the more incorrigible leaders, has had the effect of bringing all under a nice, obedient discipline, so that these young offenders, when set at liberty, should make good citizens. There is a time set apart for work, a time for school duty, a time for recreation and play, and as well a time for rest and there seems to be very little unrest and discontentment at this time with any of these prisoners. No complaints have come either from the prisoners or their parents or guardians or anyone else, complaining of any ill-treatment by the officers of the institution. Your board of trustees, along with the superintendent and his assistants, feel gratified that they have been as successful in the improvement of the grounds and buildings of the institution, with the small amount of funds at their command as are shown by the institution building and grounds themselves, and all take special pride in the successful manner and deportment of these young prisoners with their disciplined improvement at this time."

"The small confinement cells that many similar institutions have adopted to close up the inmates after certain hours, as is done at penitentiaries, restraining the prisoner from his liberty, have not so far been adopted and it is not proposed to adopt them, if it can be avoided. The philosophical question of how far the severe methods of punishment should go and where the more benign treatment should begin, is not so easy to determine, and the question is more or less experimental with us at this time. But your board of trustees is harmonious in the theory that these young offenders are not only sentenced under the law to remove them from society and punish them for crimes committed, but also to elevate them to a higher plane of education and moral standard, and better fit them to become prosperous and exemplary citizens of society after they are released from their sentence of confinement."

"We are striving to reach this end with high ambition and aspiration and our officials in charge have the institution disciplined, operated and handled along these lines. At first we were somewhat discouraged in our success, but more recently these methods seem to be achieving better results, and we feel safe in saying that the New Mexico reform school is successful within the line of advanced thought of modern ambition in this respect."

At first we were somewhat discouraged in our success, but more recently these methods seem to be achieving better results, and we feel safe in saying that the New Mexico reform school is successful within the line of advanced thought of modern ambition in this respect."

SHALL WE DISAPPOINT OUR FRIENDS?

The friends of New Mexico look to the constitutional convention to prove their assertions that New Mexico is sound to the core; that it is conservative, safe and sane; that it has not fallen victim to the blandishments of the socialistic will of the whip that for the present has put up as its most alluring fata morgana the initiative and referendum as the infallible instrumentality which will make the people wise lawmakers and will restore to them the God-given powers of self government which the wicked United States constitution wrested from them. Said the Denver Republican recently:

"It will be a splendid thing, and there is good prospect that it will turn out so, if the constitutional convention in New Mexico frames a distinctly safe and sane constitution for submission to the people of the proposed state."

"In some parts of the east there is a more or less prevalent belief that New Mexico is to be feared, that it may do something radical. Evidently this was the opinion of Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, who so vigorously opposed the admission of New Mexico several years ago. But this same little senator from Indiana may have an example of conservatism set him in New Mexico which he will do well to emulate in his own state. It will be recalled that Senator Beveridge is one of the insurgent leaders, and that he has almost set the Taft administration at defiance."

"The friends of New Mexico will derive much satisfaction from it if the constitutional convention of the new state demonstrated that the people have more common sense and are more to be trusted than the Indiana senator who criticized them and on, the alleged, ground of their unfitness for statehood used his influence in three or four sessions of Congress to keep them out of the Union."

"Judging by expressions of sentiment coming from Santa Fe, it will be as sober and sane a body of that kind as the country has seen in many a year. The lams and fads and the follies of Populism will find no favor with a majority of the delegates, who seem determined to frame an organic law for the new state which will serve as a model for many of the older and far more populous states."

When a city administration gives such tangible evidence of its efficiency, as the paving of part of San Francisco street and installing street illumination such as the Plaza and San Francisco street had last evening, it is worthy of commendation. To those who know the financial difficulties under which this municipality works, will appreciate the more these modern improvements. With a revenue only one-half that of Raton or East Las Vegas, or one-third of Roswell or one-eighth that of Albuquerque, the city administration is giving the city every possible modern convenience and improvement, something which in the past was deemed impossible.

"IT WAS NO MISTAKE TO SHOW THOSE PICTURES."

Declares Mayor Seligman of Jefferson City, Mo., after seeing the fight pictures at the Elks'.

"I am not at all sorry that I gave a permit to display the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures at the Elks' theater last night. They were intensely interesting and I think the public will say the same."

This was Mayor Seligman's comment on the fight pictures which were displayed before an audience that practically filled the Elks' theater for an hour and a half while six reels of pictures, taken at the enormous expense of a fifth of a million of dollars enabled Santa Feans to see Reno on July 4, when only bulletins were visible here of the great battle.

The pictures were decidedly clear and realistic. The first three reels showed Reno and its inhabitants on July 4. The faces of noted sporting men and noted sporting writers were easily recognized. The pictures of the ring were then displayed and former pugilist after pugilist was introduced. One could easily recognize among them Jack O'Brien who recently was in Santa Fe.

John L. Sullivan looked the same old idolized John except that Father Time had dulled that fighting eye, and

BLOOD DISEASES

CONTAGIOUS TROUBLES

Contagious Blood Poison more thoroughly permeates the system than any other disease. Its infectious virus contaminates every corpuscle and tissue of the circulation, and for this reason its symptoms are of a varied nature. When it enters the blood it is but a short time until the mouth and throat begin to ulcerate, the skin becomes spotted, rashes and eruptions appear on the body, sores and ulcers break out, the hair falls, and frequently nails on hands and feet thicken and come off. Mineral medicines which simply shut the poison up in the system should be avoided, for when such treatment is left off the old disease will break out again, often worse than before. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison permanently, and it does so because it thoroughly purifies the blood. S. S. S. goes into the circulation, and drives out the last trace of the destructive germs, adds richness, and vigor to the circulation and restores the body back to health. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, without a particle of mineral, and its vegetable ingredients always hasten the cure by toning up the stomach and digestive members. Home Treatment book and any medical advice free to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

The fight itself was intensely interesting to those who know anything of the science of boxing. It must be admitted that many in the Elks' theater last night deplored the fact that Jeffries had had to fight a man not of his race to try to wrestle the championship but whatever prejudice there may have been against Johnson he was admired for his panther like suppleness, his wonderful cleverness "on his feet" and the almost superhuman power of a man who could lock one of Jeffries' arms under his own in a clinch and punish the great giant with the very apparatus that were prophesied by so-called wizards in the sporting world as the knockout medicine that Johnson himself would have to take.

And the knockout, it looked as though it were a gentle tap on Jeffries' shoulders, but one that sent a man already dizzy to his knees. The final knockout blow seemed also quite unnecessary. The whole contest looked like a tired old man pitted against an athlete who actually waited around him.

The fight seen last night was evidently what Jack McCarthy of this city declared it looked like at Reno—"more of a farce than a tragedy."

CATHOLIC CHURCH, SILVER CITY, NEW MEXICO.

Rev. Father Aug. Morin, Pastor.

"I am Anti-Saloon. I have been so for forty years. I am a total abstainer. Rum ruins the family. I consider the saloon a pest."

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

We shall give from time to time the attitude of the various moral and religious leaders on the saloon question.
Of course they are a unit against the evil. We give the oldest utterances first.

Rev. Fr. E. P. Baron says a manifest duty was emphasized, not a new obligation imposed, when Catholic archbishops and bishops, assembled in the third plenary council of Baltimore, in 1884-85 declared: "It is from the priests of the church that we especially hope for assistance in this work. Let them never cease to cry out boldly against drunkenness and whatever leads to it." And again, relative to Catholics engaged in the saloon business: "If they can, let them embrace a more honorable way of making a living."

Eighteen years before this, in 1866,
the prelates at the second plenary council had said: "We exhort pastors and we implore them for the love of Jesus Christ, to devote all their energies to the extirpation of the vice of intemperance." So stands this great church. Here are utterances from a few of the leaders:

Archbishop Ireland on Drunks.
"The great cause of social crime is drunk. The great cause of poverty is drunk. When I hear of a family broken up, and ask the cause—drunk. If I go to the gallows and ask the victim the cause, the answer—drunk. Then I ask myself in perfect wonderment, why do not men put a stop to this thing?"

Pope Euthychianus.
"All Christians must guard themselves by all means against the great evil of drunkenness, from which all vices emanate."—Council Eccl.

Archbishop Keane.
"Unfortunately for the liquor saloon and for the saloon people, it is not in our power, as Americans, to consider their business as one promotive of public morality and religion, but on the contrary; not as a business tending to the greatest good of the greatest number, but they very contrary;
not as a business that should be fostered and favored by legislation, but the very contrary; not as one that should be granted special privileges on Sunday, but the very contrary; not as a public work of necessity or charity, but as a public curse and scourge and menace."

Archbishop J. J. Glennon.
"Sometimes the total abstinence people are credited as bordering on fanaticism, but that is not true. You cannot be too enthusiastic in legislating for yourselves and your homes.
An evil is knocking at the door of society—a great evil—and to repel its attacks requires enthusiasm and energy."

Bishop Conaty.
"Where saloons are licensed, how many live up to the law? Not one.
Vested rights? Has the community no rights? There is no reason for the existence of saloons. Blot them all out, and what harm?"

Bishop Monaghan.
"I am in hearty sympathy with the present movement for no-license, because I believe it is calculated to lessen the evils of intemperance among our people."

Very Rev. A. P. Doyle, C. S. P.
"The law can restrain the vicious and can take away the stones of stumbling from the pathway of the weak. Though it may not make a people sober and legislate drunkenness out of existence, yet it can remove far from man the temptation to drink, and thus allow himself to sober up. It can cripple, and even entirely destroy, the agencies that make a people drunk. The providence of the law is to protect the weak and keep the vultures from swooping down on those who have fallen by the wayside."

Father McGuire.
"The modern American saloon, with its gambling den, wine room, and back parlors, is nothing more or less than a living part of hell. It is the 'hangout' for all loafers, toughs, sapheads, and would-be sports in town. The policeman in every town will tell you that murders, suicides, robberies, thefts and all crimes, originate at the saloon bar."

Rev. Daniel Hughes.
"Statistics claim that as things have been recently every fourth boy grown to manhood today, is doomed, while 100,000 are each year marching steady-ly to a drunkard's grave. A business so prolific of evil, carried on as a rule by the worst element of society, conducted frequently in opposition to human and divine law, backed by wealth and ungodly politicians, has driven the God-fearing citizens of our country to unite, that by combined efforts they might withstand this avalanche of iniquity that threatens modern civilization."

Rev. Joseph McNamee.
"We think without the saloon the community would be more prosperous, more respectable, more refined and more religious. We want to get rid of it, and we believe that those who are working to accomplish this purpose are performing a great task for God and country. Saloon keepers should not consider us their enemies. We hate their business, as we are Christian people, but we are bound to love themselves, their children and their future prosperity. They, before all others, should vote against it, because to them in the end it does most harm."

Rev. Father James M. Cleary.
"The best thought of our country is pledged to sobriety and uncompromising hostility to saloon control."—
Rev. James M. Cleary, vice-president of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

There is More Than Cloth and Lining in a HARVARD Overcoat

It's not only the parts you see, but the parts you don't see that make HARVARD Overcoats fit, wear, drape, and feel as good as they look.

The way a garment wears and holds its shape, depends on how it is made up; on the workmanship that is put into it.

When you buy HARVARD Clothes, you have the guarantee from Daube, Cohn & Co. of Chicago, the makers, that they will hold their shape and color. Nothing but the best materials are used in making.

Together with the best materials and best workmanship, HARVARD Overcoats possess an individuality that makes them "classy."

ASSESSMENT AND TAXATION.

that severe penalties are provided for, to be imposed upon officials of local taxing districts who fail to perform duties prescribed and it would seem that it was not the fault of legislation but the result of the failure to enforce the law.

If our present laws in this regard are not enforced there must be reasons and either one of two suggest themselves. The first, that officials are wilfully negligent of their duties and the second, that requirements are such that they cannot be complied with.

It is the belief of those who have given this matter thought and personal investigation, that to a large extent the latter is the cause; that by reason of the large area of our tax districts, the scattered population and the inconvenience and time consumed in traveling over the districts that it is absolutely a physical impossibility for an assessor to fully comply with the provisions of our statutes during the time allowed for making the assessment.

It is true that deputies might be employed, and are in many instances, but owing to no provision for the payment of same and the assessor having to meet all expenses arising from the employment of such deputies, and naturally being loath to pay out from his salary any more than is absolutely necessary, incompetent deputies as a rule are employed who will work for small wages and whose services are dispensed with at the earliest possible moment, and the result incomplete and faulty lists.

Experience of Taxing Authorities in Other States.
The cause of the failure to secure equal taxation as mentioned above, by other states has been by their experience, found to be the one great obstacle and the remedy applied by such states, where conditions formerly existed as now confront us—where the duties imposed by its laws were such that they could not be complied with, either through lack of time or large volume of business—to increase the force.

In the older states in order to secure thoroughness in the matter of assessment of property for taxation purposes, you will find that the size of the tax district or unit has been decreased to such an extent that the principal can handle the business of the district without the assistance of deputies.

Suggested Remedies to Better Conditions in New Mexico.

If the units are too large in our territory, why would it not be the proper method to create out of the present unit, say three tax districts, based upon county commissioner districts, and providing that as the county grows in wealth and population and the duties of the assessor in any single district becomes too heavy to perform that additional districts be created?

It would certainly seem that this would be the better plan than to have just one district in each county, with only one assessor and a field so large that he cannot possibly cover it as now required by our statute.

In order to further insure the securing of true and complete lists of all property in the respective districts thus created, the assessor of each tax district should be supplied with what might be termed "tax maps" of such districts upon which each separately assessed parcel of land should be shown, its boundaries and area as well as the name of the owner.

Thirteen states have provisions by statute for maps of this character and thirty states have even though not required by statute have put them in use.

In such states where these district tax maps are authorized by statute, the expense of same is as a usual thing borne equally by the states and the county.

To still further insure the full lists of all property, the local officials performing these services should be supervised by some central taxing authority; either in the shape of a tax commission or some state official, whose representatives would during the time allowed for making assessments, March 1, to June 30, spend at least one week or more where conditions required, with each of such district assessors, instructing them in their duties, passing upon their qualifications and requiring that they perform their duties as provided by law.

Objection to the increase of the number of assessors and the supervising agents will be made on account of the increased expense but if given a fair trial it is almost certain this increased expense would be insignificant as compared to the great benefits that would be derived in the way of increased revenue that would be realized by reason of the listing of property that now escapes taxation entirely and the equalizing and return under proper classification of all property.

In addition to the objection on account of expense, the question might also be raised that it would be an almost impossible undertaking to organize and train the assessors under the supervision of a central taxing authority but while it would take time to do this it could be accomplished and improved conditions would doubtless become apparent during the first assessing period after a systematic method was put in force. It would not be entirely in the shape of an experiment as it has been demonstrated under the traveling auditor act, that county treasurers can be organized, uniform accounting established, prompt settlement made with the territory and a greatly increased percentage of taxes collected and no money lost to tax payers, through dishonest or incompetent officials.

Following the securing of the listing of all property subject to taxation would be the question of valuations, and over this there is a great difference of opinion, not only between the tax payer and the present taxing authorities, but also between the taxing authorities of one county and the adjoining county were values and conditions are the same.

To avoid this difference of opinion and to secure uniformity in this direction, it would seem desirable that a scale of values on all classes of property should eliminate from only one source—a tax commission, the board of equalization or some similar body.

On personal property such as live stock, bank stocks, collateral and securities of various kinds, railroads, telegraph and telephone lines, certain classes of lands, the output of coal mines, the production of minerals, lumber and etc., such a scale of values fixed and certified to local assessors, by some central taxing authority would insure a just and equitable assessment on by far the larger portion of the taxable property of the territory if such values were extended upon true and correct lists obtained in the manner as before referred to.

On other classes of property, where values depend largely upon local conditions, a somewhat more elastic provision would have to be in force.

For instance as in the case of agricultural lands, which although of equal productiveness, yet by reason of location, railroad facilities, etc., would result in a difference as to actual value.

This would also be true as to the value and real worth of city and town property, but it would seem that these obstacles could be overcome by the "central taxing authority" fixing minimum values at which these classes of property should be returned for taxation, and especially so with regard to agricultural lands.

In sections where values were greater than the minimum, so fixed the extent or amount of such greater value to be determined by the local taxing authorities, under the supervision of a representative of the General Taxing Authority.

Should the methods as outlined be put in effect it would result in an equal and just assessment of not less than 90 per cent of the property of the territory.

The scale of values of the different classes of property could be placed at full valuation, which is considered by many as the best plan and which is in accord with our present laws, or at a per cent of the actual value and rates of taxation would automatically raise or lower without effecting the equality of the assessment as between different classes of property or different sections of the territory.

It has been thought by many and argued by not a few, that the subject and easiest way to secure equal taxation is by a limit to be placed upon the levy for state, county, municipal, school district and other purposes, and if the limit so fixed be a low one, in order to secure sufficient revenue it will force all classes of property to be returned at corresponding increased values. This is true and levies should be limited, but without first having a true and correct list of all property subject to taxation and some system by which uniform values can be placed on property of like value and character, no difference where located in the territory, the doubling or tripling of such values, based on imperfect lists and on values not uniform, would in no wise result in equal taxation. It would only look better but not better the condition.

This is easily demonstrated; Say that a certain class of property, merchandise for instance, in one section of the territory is returned at 10 per cent of real value, in another at 20, in a third at 30 and in still another at 40 per cent and on which taxes are collected for territorial purposes at 11 mills levy, our rate at the present time, and if by authority of the Auditor for next year the rate should be reduced one-half and it would become necessary to double the assessment in order to secure an equal amount of revenue. The result would be that in the first instance of instead of a 10 per cent valuation the assessment would be on a 20 per cent basis, in the second instance on a 40 per cent, in the third 60 per cent and in the fourth an 80 per cent basis and while the rate would be lowered the same inequalities would still exist.

EDUCATION AND CULTURE MAKE WOMEN BEAUTIFUL.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 7.—Denver physicians and educators do not wholly agree with the proposition that it should be a statutory crime for a woman to have more than two children, which was put forth by Dr. Rose D. Howe of Chicago—that is, they do not agree with her theory entirely. "Absurd," say some; "ridiculous," declares others—while still others speak of the matter in even stronger terms. However, Dr. Howe did strike one happy note when she said that education and culture make women beautiful.

He was found dying by hotel attaches after the door to his room on the second floor had been forced.
