A PRESCOTT TRAGEDY.

A Woman of the Half World Tried to Kill Recorder Bauder

SHE THEN COMMITTED SUICIDE.

John Bauder, city recorder of Prescott, has been making history rapidly in the past three days, says the Phoenix Gazette. Bauder, it seems, has been living with Georgia Lowmley; but is known as Claude Clins in Prescott, for the past ten months. Several weeks the, the Lovely woman left Prescott for a visit to her mother in Jackson, Michigan, and during her absence Hauser married one of Prescott's aunts. He and his wife visited the Phoenix man and his wife in the Phoenix man's hotel and enjoyed the many pleasant things seen here, and returned to their mountain home, little thinking of the woman who had left him. The Lovely woman returned for her husband in the time that he was in Prescott, and he returned to Phoenix and when she learned of the marriage of her sweetheart, as she called him, she said several times that she would have been glad to have him.

Last Thursday evening Miss Tremblay, Hauser's daughter, came to her father's house and told him that she had seen the man who would ever see him as she could not see him as he was not a man of another woman, so she said she was going back to her Michigan home. The woman exerted a strong influence over Hauser, as was evidenced from statements made by him, and she was not returned for the night, when the jealous woman thought her opportunity had arrived. She had planned the whole affair with the desperation of an abandoned woman. When Hauser was told of the woman's return, he was seized with a rage. She is a large, muscular woman and Hauser awoke as the Rev. Father of the blade was at his neck. He was gripped with the frenzied girl and succeeded in cutting him out, but it was a fearful cut; it was six inches in length, beginning at the back of the neck and reaching to the jaw. Disappointed and despairing, he tried to prevent further killing, but he was to kill him. After a time Haudenot's friends death and he was taken to the hospital. He was left to die. In going out to see him he had killed him. The woman, thinking that she had, swallowed a large dose of arsenic and died in a terrible manner.

Batter succeeded in moving an officer, who secured a physician. The wound in his neck, while a very ugly one, was not dangerous. The physician put new stitches in the cut. The patient is now out of danger. The accident occurred last Thursday night.

The dead woman had evidently gone to bed with a very bad cold. She left a will and sent her jewels to her mother. She also wrote a letter to her mother, telling what she intended to do, saying that she intended to go to the States and get married.

The affa has created a sensation at Prescott, where Hauder is city recorder, and is well known. Mrs. Hauder is distraught over the turn in affairs. The man has kept nothing back, and admitted his folly, and his friends are convinced everything will be well with him again.

The dead girl was buried in Prescott yesterday. Hauder is in a state of agony, and the dead woman was 29.

FIRE AT LOREDSBURG.

Business Portion of the Town Almost Entirely Destroyed.

Early yesterday morning fire swept over the town of Lordsburg, in Grant county, and nearly the entire business portion of the place was destroyed. There was no water system, and the the spread of the flames. A high wind was blowing at the time and helped to spread the fire. The loss is heavy as many of the people are left almost entirely destitute.

The great Modern Newspapers.
When all that portion of the United States west of the Missouri and Kansas rivers was a vast, unpopulated wilderness nearly half a century ago, the first issue of one of the world's greatest newspapers appeared. St. Louis, the first city of the West, was then the frontier of civilization, was developing into a great commercial metropolis, and that great modern newsmonger, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, in its first issue, January 9, 1838, was born. From that section. It has been, from its first issue to the present time, the chief source of news to the people of the western states, the farmer's best friend, the miner's guide, the explorer's companion. Its influence extends to every state and territory of the union, to Canada and Mexico, and to every part of the world where there are men of the spirit of the age. It is brought to be in your home during the morning week. See advertisement on page 10.

A VICTIM OF THE DESEST.

W. L. Hopkins, of Yuma, Wanders to H

A couple of days ago the unauthoritative news came to Yuma by wire that W. L. Hopkins, who has been in Mesquite for some time attending to the development of some military claims in which he is interested, had not been seen since the 12th inst., at which time it was feared he was dead. No particulars were obtainable, and it was thought that he had been killed.

To-day, however, says the Yuma Arizona Sun, Joe Werninger arrived from Mesquite and fully authenticated the sad news. The particulars, as given by Mr. Werninger, are to the effect that on the afternoon of the 12th inst. he was flying over a hole in which he lives to go over to the well known as the Red Cloud house to get some water. He left his pilot hanging on a fence and started toward the place grounds a mile and a half dis-

He had been so frustrated, so disappointed, so thoughtful of the gentleman was exceedingly well acquainted with the country. But no morning it was discovered that the water pit was still hanging up in the fence, and investigation showed that he had not returned. A search was once instigated, and has since been given up, but it was said that the man was tracked toward the hills. War as there was any soft earth, showed an impression of the heavy shoe worn, but further than that could not be traced. There is no doubt that he will ever be found alive.

It is supposed that Hopkins was taken to the hills, and that he was becoming a hermit, and was being

Tuesday evening, J. W. Anderson and wife entertained a number of the friends and neighbors, and the house was filled with the pleasant sounds of games and entering into contentment. Prices were given, and A. B. Brown and Mrs. Houghton captured the first prizes; Fred M. Brown, the second prizes; and J. W. the consolation prize. Refreshments were served. The following gentlemen and ladies were present: Messrs. and Mesdames W. H. Mason, A. B. Brown, R. Y. Short, W. W. McDonald, J. W. Glover and B. H. Ivins.

J. Edwin Owen, son of Prof. John Owen, feels aggrieved at the Chicago Tribune's article of the 10th inst. regarding the free Albuquerque Guards not being paid yesterday afternoon, wherein it is stated that it was the "company" who were to be paid. He says that the "company" is a "company" clerk. The money handed in to this office has been counted, and the gentleman who wrote the notice is responsible for no fault being found. He is also responsible for writing any difference between "company" and "company." Hence J. Edwin Owen will forgive the publisher.

The Detroit Free Press says: "There is a Vienna and its famous music were at the Light Guard Armory last night, and they were crystallized on the tip of a gold mounted baton wielded by Edward Strauss, a lineal descendant of a long line of waiters. Acting as accessories were a large and well trained orchestra which played as one man, even tone and note being dominated and controlled by the baton's tip. The Army contained nearly 1,200 people, and Strauss, a lineal descendant of a long line of waiters, acting as accessories were a large and well trained orchestra which played as one man, even tone and note being dominated and controlled by the baton's tip.

Alba Heywood Coming.

The following criticism of the Alba Heywood Company, which is to appear here on January 8, is from the Fort Worth (Tex.) Daily Register. "The largest house of the season greeted Alba Heywood and his concert company at the opera house last night in the Y. M. C. A. course. Nearly every seat in the opera house was occupied, and the audience was estimated at 1,000 people. From the beginning he had his audience at his mercy, but it was soon evident that the audience had no mercy on him, as the concert was so repeated that he was compelled for the third or fourth time to respond. His interpretation of 'Poe's Raven' was novel, his pathetic work good, but perhaps the "Ally Billy" was the most catchy of this evening work. As a character actor he was heard in this city. Miss Gertrude Monroe was a favorite with the audience. It is safe to say no better violinist has been heard in this city. Miss Cole, the soprano, was exceptionally good, and Mr. Ulrich, "cello soloist," was very much appreciated. Altogether it was a most thoroughly enjoyable evening's performance. It will prove a smile with the patrons of the Lyceum to even suggest the probability of its coming in the regular course next season."

A STANDING AFFAIR.

Benjamin Pond Cut Headly by Roy Lockhart on La Plata.

A cutting scrape on the La Plata resulted in Ben Pond being severely wounded and his brother Frank receiving a slight wound, both from a knife in the hands of Roy Lockhart. The boys were present at a dance at the Center school house, and were presumably there for a social purpose. Ben Pond, with a knife, the blade entering the back with sufficient force to drive through the shoulder blade and between the ribs and lung, and the right lung. In trying to stay the knife Frank Pond received a slight cut on the hand. Dr. Coudit was summoned, and reports that said wound is not serious, and unless complications arise will recover. Roy Lockhart was arrested on a warrant issued out in Justice Berry's court, and gave bonds to appear at the preliminary trial, which took place at Artes, San Juan county.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hartsburg, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it, he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever, that ran into pneumonia. My lungs were ordered. I was so weak I couldn't even get in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all lung troubles, and is a sure cure for all lung troubles, and is a sure cure for all lung troubles.

No Right to Kill.

RAILROADER DISAPPEARED

Byron J. Kuhns, of Mexican Central, Has Gone Wrong.

HIS OFFICE WAS AT EL PASO.

Byron J. Kuhns, commercial agent of the Mexican Central railroad at El Paso, is reported missing and rumors are rife that he is short in his accounts with the railroad company. Inquiry at his office at the corner of Texas and Oregon streets reveals the fact that he has been absent from El Paso in the neighborhood of seven or eight days. About five days ago his mysterious disappearance was reported to the local police department by his wife, who was anxious over his absence from home without her knowledge. She had not heard from him since. Upon investigation it was found that he was not in the city.

When seen yesterday, his wife refused to discuss the matter further than to say that she did not know where her husband was. His brother, who acts as his assistant, when seen by a Times reporter last night, said that his brother had been missing for five days and that neither he nor his brother knew anything of his whereabouts. As to the condition of his accounts, he refused to discuss, saying that the auditor of the Mexican railroad had been notified, and that the matter would probably arrive to-day to check up on the office. It is said that the missing agent is very heavily in debt in this city, and that his losses at the gaming tables would not be enough to pay his debts within the last month. He is known to be in debt at several of the gambling houses of the city and at one of the pawnshop establishments.

On December 1 his office was made a check of his accounts, and an assessment of his debts placed thereon. It was found that the company is said to be not over $1,500, as during the month's sale of tickets it is hardly thought probable by railroad men that his sales would be so large. Mr. Kuhns has been with the Mexican Central railroad company about five years, having been formerly employed in the auditing department in the City of Mexico.

He has a sweet wife and child who will have the sympathy of the community should the unfortunate rumors prove to be correct.—El Paso Times.
