On Feb. 13 in Mexico City, Jose Luis Moreno of the French bank Credit Lyonnais, said that bond issues by Mexican private companies will have only a marginal effect in attracting foreign capital, because they are limited in volume and very expensive. The bonds currently pay 13% annual interest. In the last 18 months, Mexican businesses have floated $3.837 billion in bonds in foreign financial markets. (Source: Notimex, 02/13/91)
