STATE W. C. T. U. CONVENTION AN EPOCHAL EVENT

State President Returning From Santa Fe Meeting Gives Account of Sessions at Capital.

The thirty-eighth annual convention of the New Mexico Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held in Santa Fe last week, was one of the epochal conventions in the state organization, according to Mrs. N. J. Strumquist, state president, who returned from the convention this week.

Assembled to administer affairs of the organization and particularly to launch a vigorous campaign for law enforcement, and a program to promote "public interest" in universal peace and the conference on disarmament of nations, also to consider methods of conducting the Frances E. Willard school for girls on larger scale, the conferees at the convention had the time crowded with business that kept the sessions till midnight several evenings.

Speakers of note on the convention program were: Attorney General Harry Bowman, who discussed law enforcement; former Lieutenant Governor Pankey, who also discussed on law enforcement; Judge Reed Holloman, whose theme was "The Disarmament Conference"; and also "Law Enforcement"; Dr. Edgar L. Hewitt, head of the American School of Research and the state museum.

State superintendents of the W. C. T. U., who made impressive reports of work accomplished the past year, were: Dr. Evelyn Frisbie, department of health; Mrs. R. P. Donohoe, department of legislation, assisted by Miss Stella Sloan of this department; Mrs. C. W. Dishman, department of prison reform; Mrs. Hattie Merz, state vice president, elected to department of Americanization on the merits of her mission school and W. C. T. U. "neighborhood center" conducted by W. C. T. U. of Carlsbad for Spanish speaking women and children, most of them recently arrived residents from old Mexico; Mrs. W. E. Lindsey, an excellent report on anti-cigarette activities under child welfare department; flower mission activities of the Ilaton union and social morality and other lines of work by Clovis union; law enforcement help by Magdalena union; generous support of Frances E. Willard school by Clovis, Santa Fe, Elgin, Raton, Tucuman; in fact, all unions of the state in this last branch of work proved remarkable activities throughout the state.

To Carlsbad the banner union membership went first honor for members and work. Santa Fe union has the credit of doubling its membership since February. The state organization has more than doubled membership since January 1.

Reports of Frances E. Willard school board brought enthusiastic applause. Mrs. D. A. Porterfield, treasurer of the Frances E. Willard school, received public and private praise for able accounting of finances, that show gratifying status of affairs of the institution, that operated last year in a small way in a cottage at Bolon. Reports show there are 31 girls applying for admission to the school; that contributions are being received from all the state chapters, from individuals or state unions of four states besides New Mexico, and from individuals or societies of every denomination in this state.

where the big four thought they could find a way out with them. "We put the question up to them: 'If we go along with you, does it mean that there won't be any settlement until the settlement is satisfactory to all?'"

"The brotherhoods answered that we couldn't expect them to do that and when they got a satisfactory settlement they would return to work. When men sit down at the table with you and look you in the eye and tell you that when they get their terms they'll leave you and let you go your own way, then I tell you, you and better go your own way first."

"The brotherhoods counted on our trade-union spirit to go along with them. But when their co-operation in that spirit fails to go beyond their own group, then we must take care of ourselves."

"We felt the injustice of a wage decrease without a corresponding reduction in rates; that is profiteering at the expense of our living standards, but the pending question of rules is of even greater importance."

S UNIONS REFUSE TO JOIN WITH "BIG FIVE"

Chicago, Oct. 22 (By the Associated Press).—Officials of unions with more than half of the rail employees of the nation in their membership tonight announced that they will not be authorized to join the "Big Five" organizations in the strike called for October 30 in protest of wage cuts.

Announcements that they would not join in a walkout came from eight of the eleven "standard" rail unions which for a week had been withholding final strike decisions, although in most of them the members had voted overwhelmingly to quit work rather than accept a recent 12 1/2 per cent wage reduction authorized by the railroad labor board. Only one of these eleven groups now is determined to stand by the "Big Five," it was announced, but two other have not yet taken final action.

Following announcement by heads of the six shop crafts organizations controlling 600,000 men, that they would not sanction a walkout, leaders of the 375,000 maintenance of way employees and the 25,000 stationary firemen, at an executive meeting, voted to withdraw their authorization of a walkout, leaving only the 75,000 railroad telegraphers positively with the "Big Five." Chiefs of the 350,000 clerks will make their decision tomorrow and the signalmen, 35,000 strong, also are yet to act.

Action of the clerks said tonight they probably would not authorize a strike at their meeting, scheduled tomorrow, thus indicating, union leaders said, that a walkout, if it materialized, would affect less than one-fourth of the country's railroad employees, being confined to the switchmen, conductors, firemen, engineers, trainmen and the telegraphers. The organizations which decided not to join an immediate walkout will take new strike votes after an expected labor board decision in regard to rules and working conditions, it was said.

Action of these organizations was said by labor leaders to be the most serious anti-strike blow yet given the "Big Five" unions, which have called a strike. It came with bomb-like intensity when it had been believed that the eleven groups would follow in with the big four brotherhoods and the switchmen, although several leaders were counseling delay.

The maintenance of way union and the stationary firemen's organization took action following the announcement by the shop crafts. Timothy Healy, president of the stationary firemen, met with E. F. Grable, maintenance of way president, and B. M. Jewell, shop crafts head, and informed Mr. Jewell they would back their men pending the labor board rules decision.

The action was said by the chiefs to have been almost a personal victory for Mr. Jewell, who has been fighting a walkout for a week.

It also was said to preclude the possibility of the American Federation of Labor taking any serious part in the proposed strike, the "standard" unions belonging to the federation while the brotherhoods are independent.

The anti-Tammany campaign managers are laying great stress by the women vote. They believe the women of the city generally are against Tammany, but the Tammany men say that for every lone woman vote that comes from a Fifth avenue mansion for the coalition ticket, they will get eight from each teeming democratic home in the Bronx. Mayor Hylan has made a special and direct plea to every foreign element in the city. He has for four years been welcoming all the foreign visitors to America. To Jew and gentile, to Italian, Spaniard, Frenchman and Englishman, he has donated the keys to the city. He has welcomed the first timid travelers from post-war Germany. He is in the movies every day and every time he is shown upon the screen he gets an ovation.

All of which makes the betting on Hylan three and four to one, with no takers.

Richard Croker, old Tammany chief, was in the city this week and predicted Hylan's election by a bigger majority than the 160,000 he received in 1915. But one of the coalition papers, recalled that Boss Croker's last prediction of William Jennings Bryan in 1916.

We have made no threat of any strike, for the Plumb plan. After we have waited a reasonable time to see what congress does, then if there is no constructive plan put forward, I think we will be able to formulate a plan for the railroads."

Congress was considering at the time the Esch-Cummins bill under which the railroads are now operating, Mr. Stone protested.

"I think the time has arrived," he said, "when the government should take over the railroads and I think any other plan which proposes to turn them back simply means financial panic and chaos."

At the close of his discussion of the unrest in labor and the failure of the government to check the high cost of living, Chief Stone issued this warning to congress in 1919:

"I want to say this to you and it is not in the spirit of threat that I make the statement, that unless congress or some one finds a solution of this problem within the next few months—and I do not mean in two or three years but within the next few months—you are going to see the worst time that we have ever seen in this country, because the people are not going to fold their hands and sit themselves down while starving, but they will die fighting."

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO TEAM DEFEATS DENVER

Eleven Shows a Reversal of Form and in Final Period Carry Ball Across Line and Score a Touchdown.

(By The Associated Press.)

Denver, Colo., Oct. 22.—Outplayed by Denver university in the first half, the University of Colorado team showed a reversal of form in the final period of play and executed a series of forward passes that carried the ball across Denver's goal line for the winning touchdown. Colorado's margin of victory, 19 to 7, was Halback Quinlan's placement kick in the first period. Denver university scored a touchdown in the second period, carrying the ball from its sixteen-yard line on a series of line smashes in which Williams, D. U. halfback, was the principal ground gainer. Here a penalty on one-yard line from where Williams plunged over.

Colorado's heavier line failed to stand up against the off tackle smashes of Williams, who repeatedly found gaping holes through which he plunged for ten to fifteen-yard gains.

Muth, Colorado's big tackle, was called behind the line in the second half and the Boulder team Muth passed to Willard behind the Denver goal line but Willard fumbled after making a spectacular catch. The winning play came when Colorado had the ball on Denver's eighty-yard line on the fourth down with four yards to go. Muth shot a short pass to Franklin, right end, and he eluded a Denver tackle and dashed across the line with the winning scores.

Heavy penalties handicapped the Denver team, whose players showed a tendency to hold and be off-side. The game was marred by costly fumbles on both sides. In the first period after Denver had carried the ball to Colorado's thirty-yard line by a series of line smashes, Fullback Alsworth fumbled. Colorado recovering. Several Colorado passes were incomplete when the receivers fumbled.

Mr. Lamont is en route to New York City, and it is said, he has no evident intention to return here immediately.

It was learned by the Associated Press that Mr. Lamont would report to a group of American and European bankers about October 30.

having been duly taken note of by the Chinese government, they are deemed to be fully cognizant of the effects produced by the Versailles treaty. It will be remembered that the Chinese declaration of war with Germany was made in August 1917, when more than two years had elapsed since the transfer of former German rights to Japan had been fully recognized by China in virtue of the China-Japanese treaty concerning Kiaoo Chow and other matters.

"The Chinese contention, therefore, that the rights of lease expired entirely as a natural consequence of the Chinese declaration of war against Germany may be said to be tantamount to wholesale abrogation of treaties in existence as well as of all established facts."

Japan, while entertaining no intention of operating the railway exclusively by herself in any manner, is unable, in view of the railway conditions obtaining in China, to concur in the suggestion that the railway management should be left entirely in the hands of the Chinese government."

"It is to be observed that the reparation commission, after having duly appraised the value of the Shantung railway, together with the appertaining mines, placed it to the credit account of Germany with a view to setting it off against the indemnity to be paid by that power. It is, therefore, inadmissible for China to claim to retain one-half of such railway properties in her hands without conditions."

LEE ENUMERATES CAUSES FOR THE RAILWAY STRIKE

Wage Reduction of July 1. Proposed Further Reductions and Elimination of Rules Are Assigned.

(By The Associated Press.)
Cleveland, O., Oct. 22 (by the Associated Press.)—Causes for the strike of railway workers set to begin in general at 6 a. m. October 30, were enumerated by W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in a statement to the Associated Press today.

The statement was issued, Mr. Lee explained, because "the public is rather confused" as to its causes, some believing it is for higher wages.

Three causes were ascribed by Mr. Lee:

The wage reduction of July 1. Proposed further reductions. Proposed elimination of rules which would make still further reductions.

Proceed With Strike Plans.
Three local brotherhood chiefs, Mr. Lee of the trainmen, Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Engine-men, while preparing to obey the citation to appear before the labor board in Chicago next Wednesday were also going ahead with plans to carry out the strike.

L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, arrived last night.

Mr. Lee's statement as to the causes of the strike, follows:

"The public is rather confused as to the causes for the railway strike. There is a belief on the part of some that the strike is for higher wages and is not understood to be a demonstration against a wage reduction to which has been added propositions further to reduce wages and eliminate rules which would mean still further reductions."

"Railroad transportation employees even when peak wages were paid, did not receive advanced wages in keeping with the increased living costs. The daily rate paid transportation men was fixed for all classes in the United States in 1913 and regardless of the increased cost of living, there were no increased wages for these employees until January 1, 1918, and only then after a most searching investigation had been made by the Lane commission."

"A Princely Wage."
"The rate of a freight brakeman between Chicago and New York was $2.57 a day, which was referred to by the railways in their publicity campaigns as a princely wage. Until January 1, 1918, $2.50 was the princely wage some fifty-odd thousand railroad men received in what is known as the eastern territory. Other wages were in proportion to the wages of the freight brakemen."

With the reduction in wages of July 1, 1921, the present wage of this employee is $13.44 for thirty days in the month, and he is fortunate indeed if he is able to make every day in the month. There are comparatively few men now making full time. It is true that the railway companies show amounts than those quoted, but they do not tell that the higher months represent full time and overtime.

Unfair Propaganda.
"The railroad companies have not been fair in the propaganda against the employees, and it is to be hoped that before the trouble is over, the prejudiced misstatements will understand the exact wage that may be earned through the normal day's work."

"The railroad companies have not been fair in the propaganda against the employees, and it is to be hoped that before the trouble is over, the prejudiced misstatements will understand the exact wage that may be earned through the normal day's work."

"A Princely Wage."
"The rate of a freight brakeman between Chicago and New York was $2.57 a day, which was referred to by the railways in their publicity campaigns as a princely wage. Until January 1, 1918, $2.50 was the princely wage some fifty-odd thousand railroad men received in what is known as the eastern territory. Other wages were in proportion to the wages of the freight brakemen."

With the reduction in wages of July 1, 1921, the present wage of this employee is $13.44 for thirty days in the month, and he is fortunate indeed if he is able to make every day in the month. There are comparatively few men now making full time. It is true that the railway companies show amounts than those quoted, but they do not tell that the higher months represent full time and overtime.

Unfair Propaganda.

CUT ORDERED ON GRAIN AND HAY FREIGHT RATES

Roads Must Make a Reduction Throughout the Western Half of the U. S. By Nov. 20, I. C. C. Instructs

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Oct. 22.—In a sweeping decision involving the entire railroad situation, wage scales, depression in industry and finances, the Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered the freight rates on grain, grain products and hay throughout the western half of the United States reduced by an average of approximately 16 per cent.

Notice was given the carriers that the commission expected the reductions to be put into effect immediately and by November 20, at the latest, and that the low state of railroad earnings, which led to the increases in 1920, should hereafter be rectified by reductions in wages and prices and that downward tendency should set for their rates.

Holds With the States.
Anticipated by statements in official quarters bearing upon the strike of the railroad brotherhoods, the decision was rendered in the case brought to the commission September 3 by twenty-four western state and agricultural organizations. The commission unanimously held with the state petitioning for reductions, though conceding the difficult financial situation of the railroads.

The decision removes from wheat and hay one-half of the increases given the railroads in 1920 and on all other grains fixes the rates at 10 per cent below those on wheat. The commission further ordered a new relationship built up in the rates on grain products, including flour and other commodities, to agree with the lower level on the raw material.

The increases given in 1920 gave the carriers a 35 per cent advance in the Mississippi valley and western territories, and the high advance on commodities moving across the division line, of which half is now taken away.

Expenses Lessened.
Dealing with the financial situation, the commission pointed to the railroad labor board's decision of July reducing wages about 12 per cent and to changes in labor rules and working conditions accomplished by the labor board which have lessened expenses to the carriers. These, the commission estimated, will produce a saving of about $425,000,000 per year.

"The fact that many railroad charges are still levied at the wartime peak," the commission declared, "is a cause of discouragement to the producer who has been unable to maintain his prices and to the employee who has experienced a reduction of wages. The really vital concern of the carriers is to promote the return of what may be deemed normal traffic and anything which will help toward this end is greatly to be desired."

As a tendency downward in their rates can be induced, and so far as reductions in wages and prices, which have been made effective, can be converted into rate reductions, we are assured that the full return of prosperity will be hastened for both industry and labor. The carriers have, we feel, senselessly manifested a realization of this in the substantial reductions on rates which they have voluntarily made."

B. OF L. E. CHIEF IS PESSIMISTIC AS TO OUTLOOK
"There Is No Question in My Mind That the Men Will Go Through," Warren S. Stone Says in Statement

(By The Associated Press.)
Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 22 (by the Associated Press.)—Following a practically all-day session of four of the "Big Five" railroad brotherhood leaders here, which adjourned late today, Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said:

"There is no question in my mind that the men will go through, no matter what insidious forces get."

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who also attended the conference, said:

"As per orders of the railroad labor board, the strike situation, as far as I am concerned, is status quo. I am obeying the board's instructions and issuing no further orders for the men to leave the service."

HIGH SCHOOL IS BEATEN 15 TO 0 BY 'U' SECONDS

Fighting an uphill battle the Albuquerque high school gridmen went down in defeat before the University of New Mexico second squad at the varsity field yesterday afternoon. The high school men fought hard from the kickoff until the last play but were beaten by the playing of the university men.

At one time during the game a score seemed certain for the younger pluckier artists when Nathan Glassman made a long run for thirty-five yards and Malcolm Long followed on the very next play with an end run for twenty yards and on another play Wilbur Wilson went through the university line for fifteen yards.

On the kickoff the varsity men received the ball on their 35-yard line and plunged the high school line for gains. They made a fumble but recovered it about five yards in advance. They were then held for downs within five yards of the high school goal. The high school then attempted to punt the ball back but the kicker was downed behind the goal line which was safely against the high school, putting the score at 2-0 for the varsity. When the ball was put into play on the 20-yard line Glassman Long and Wilson made their long runs but after attempting two forward passes the high school failed to make the goal from the 10-yard line. The university then punted back and the quarter ended with the ball near the middle of the field.

As soon as the second quarter started John Venable punted for the high school to within a few yards of the university goal. The varsity men ran the ball back a short distance. When the high school gridiron men again got it, Glassman made a gain of eight yards but it was lost on the next play by a wide end run. After setting the high school punt which Venable sent to them a varsity man made a 25-yard gain. The university then fumbled and the high school got the ball but punted back immediately. The varsity made a first down and punted just before the end of the half.

At the first of the second half each team exchanged punts and the Albuquerque men were downed for a big loss when the center passed over the head of the man who dropped back to kick. Here Charles Deering and supplied for Long and Tomel for Glassman. After pushing the high school men back down the field when they got the ball, the university came near enough to the Albuquerque goal to enable Popejoy, the varsity quarter back, to make a touchdown. The university failed to kick goal. When the ball was put into play the older football men were thrown for a ten-yard loss but the two teams were on about even terms in regard to ground when the quarter ended.

In the last quarter the Wilson-Holcomb combination made two successful forward passes and gained some territory. However, the university men started a march down the field that resulted in a second touchdown for them when Wilfley, who was substituted for Graham earlier in the game, crossed the high school goal line for another touchdown. This left the score 15-0.

The high school lineup was: Joe Benjamin lb; John Venable, lt; Cuyler Ferrusson, lg; Crayton Forsaker, c; Lynn Hammond, rg; James Roybal, rt; Glen Holcomb, lb; Malcolm Long, qb; Nathan Glassman, lb; Wilbur Wilson, fb; Charles Renfro, rrb.

The University second team appeared on the field as follows: Mapes, lb; Cartwright, lt; Jelp, lg; Grueter, c; Russell, rg; Berger, rt; Moore, qb; Popejoy, qb; Dow, lb; Gilbert, fb; Graham, rrb.

Substitutions: High school—Marl, for Venable; Deering for Long; Tomel, for Glassman; Noble, for Marl. University second: Angle for Berger; Stinnett for Russell; Cooper for Gilbert; Corner for Moore; Wilfley for Graham; Graham for Popejoy and Jelfs for Stinnett.

Officials: Moore and Johnson, referees; Johnson and Moore, umpires, and Szanzini, head linesman.

YOUR WEIGHT AND DIET.

The man of woman who is considering dieting to reduce—or to grow fat, for that matter—must think not only of the amount of food to be eaten, but also of the kind.

There was a very busy man who asked me seriously the other day whether he could not live by taking half a dozen raw eggs in milk every day—six eggs, six glasses of milk, taken two or three hours apart. "Saves so much time dining and sitting around tables talking," grumbled this exceedingly busy person.

I hope I persuaded him that splendid as raw eggs and milk were, he needed a more varied diet to work and live on.

The average fairly active woman needs 2,500 calories of food per day. A scientist would divide this up so:

10% Protein 250 calories
25% Fat 750 calories
65% Carbohydrates 1,500 calories

Of course you must know a lot about food to know the percentages of these in each article of food. The diet above would have 10 ounces of fish, fowl or lean meat, or nine eggs to supply the protein, and five fair-sized pat of butter for that much fat. Your tastes are a fair standard to go by, plus your common sense. But you should not get all your protein from eggs nor all your fat from butter. You need variety in your diet.

Maria! Yeast cakes that are made by any reliable firm are the kind to use, only be sure they are fresh, as stale yeast will be more disturbing to the digestive organs than stale food. Consult the doctor about these hot flashes. If you are eating much meat, especially red meat, this will aggravate such a condition, also.

BROCADED SATIN AND FRINGE IN SPANISH EFFECT

By ELOISE.

The Spanish influence in fashions cannot be too strongly used if mildy is to be up-to-the-minute in her wardrobe. Hats, hair dresses, gowns and wraps all hint strongly of the ladies of the land of bull fights and toreros. Genuine Spanish shawls are appearing for evening wear and while they will seem a bit out of place on a dashing blonde debutante with a baby stare still she will be fashionable, even if not "a bit of true Spain" when wrapped in a gorgeously fringed and embroidered shawl.

If mildy does not care for a genuine shawl she may choose a wrap like the one pictured. It is made of satin brocade in gold, silver and red trimmed with four rows of deep fringe of the same thread. A collar of gray chinilla which combines well with the various colored cape completes the wrap which is somewhat like the Spanish shawl in effect.

to hang down like a cape. These actors will take turns standing between the light and the back part of the sheet and distorting their facial features, doing with their hands whatever he or she pleases. The more grotesque the shadow on the sheet appears, the better. The audience must guess who it is behind the sheet. When all have had their turn, then the other half of the crowd must be the actors and the first actors must be the audience and do the guessing.

This game proves so much fun that it could easily be continued by donning old-fashioned clothes (high "steeped" hats for the men and hoop-skirts, "perky" bonnets, etc., for the women). I would advise you first to play it as witches, then start all over again and play it with these old-time garments.

THE WOMAN HE MARRIED

By JANE PHELPS.

GOSSIP IS RIFE.

CHAPTER 120.

Should I tell Dick of this gossip? I decided I would speak of it, not as hurting him but as injuring Juanita. So I said: "Dick, we are both too intimate with Juanita to want harm to come to her through us."

"What do you mean?" "People are talking about her, saying that you visit her too often. Too much gossip for her reputation not to suffer, now that you are no longer working together!"

I thought I'd better tell you for her sake. Of course, we both know it is all right, but people will talk, you know. If they imagine there is anything out of the way."

"Damn the gossip! A friendship between a man and a woman seems impossible to the old cats. I expect some woman has been talking to you."

He had seemed to be very indignant, but I noticed with some satisfaction that he went a little less often to see Juanita, and that he came home earlier when he went in the evening. I flattered myself I had handled him rather cleverly when I pretended it was for Juanita's sake I had told him.

Yet it made neither the luncheon, or the pitying looks easier to bear, and although I said nothing more to him the gossip still persisted. Once I overheard a conversation between two women who did not know me. It was in a shop where I was buying materials for draperies.

"Juanita is up to her old tricks, I hear," one remarked.

"You mean with that writer?" the other asked.

"Yes. If he is as attractive to know as he is to look at, she will perhaps get him in the end. I am rather sorry for his wife. I never have met her, but I have heard she is a good sort."

A good sort hasn't a ghost of a show against Juanita. She is the most fascinating creature to men—I ever knew. Even women get under her spell at times. Well, it is none of our business, but if she took it into her head to vamp my husband I'd take him out of her reach pronto," and laughing gaily they passed out of the shop.

It was the same story with all Juanita's fascinations were irresistible.

Often I wanted to give up, to cry out my heart to Dick, beg him to love me, to be true to me. But always—knowing him as I did—I stifled the longing. Neither did I allow myself the relief so many women do when in the same trouble. I never wept, never allowed Dick to see me anything but cheerful. He hated tears. Most men, I think, do. My quiet cheerfulness would make it harder for him than any weeping could possibly have done. Harder to tell me harder to hurt me. But it required constant effort to do this, and at times it seemed well nigh impossible to go on.

Dick had also developed an insatiable thirst for making money. He talked of the prices he hoped to get instead of the success he hoped to attain as a writer. It was evident that the mere earning of his living was not the problem. But to make a lot of it and make it quickly—that was his idea. Was it to be used to pacify me?

I knew perfectly well what you think about me," he said in a hard, cold voice that, of itself, would have hurt me dreadfully. "And if it is any satisfaction to you I'll admit I have been rather neglectful of you at times. But," he stopped as if he wanted to say more and couldn't.

I made no immediate reply. I wished passionately he had either said more, or not so much. I dropped my handkerchief, then stooped to pick it up and so gave him time to recover.

"You have been a bit neglectful of me, Dick. Suppose we go out together often. It will give the gossip something to talk about. I really must have heard something to cause his hesitating apology—or sort of an apology."

"That's a good idea. We'll start tonight. I'll telephone and ask Juanita if she would like to make a third. Then it will give them something to discuss."

I felt like screaming at him not to ask Juanita to go with us, but to take me alone. It had been weeks since we had been out together, and now he would ask Juanita! But I said nothing, and while these thoughts ran through my head he had called her and she had declared herself "delighted."

"She said she'd rather be the third than not to go at all."

"Perhaps she was hoping I would not go, then she could be."

"Don't be a fool, Nan!" Dick interrupted harshly. "And do look as well as you can. Juanita is always so stunning and you dress so plainly."

I am flattered that even you notice my plainness when she is around. I would not tell him that I dressed as I did for two reasons. One for economy's sake; the other to make more distinct the difference between Juanita's bizarre dressing, and my own simple attire.

Charles McKean, accompanied by Miss Norma Williams, sang with passion and incomparable voice, the boldly realistic love song from the Italian opera, "The Jewels of the Madonnas." His score, "The Turnkey's Song," from Rob Roy, was equally well received and displayed the deep basso range of Mr. McKean's fine voice.

Miss Barbara Wait told in a delightfully informal way, the old and ever-absorbing story of the great lovers, Anthony and Cleopatra. The whole world still loves a lover and Miss Wait's analysis of Massenet's great opera, "Cleopatra," with the particularly vivid and poignant illustrations given in Miss Wait's full, dramatic voice, brought grand opera right to her audience. No one of her listeners but felt that music was something more than a thing to be absorbed, but a thing to make one feel and think.

Mrs. Bradford followed this number on the program by an illustrated talk (with the phonograph) on Puccini's opera, "Madame Butterfly," the opera that always brings a crowd in America and which makes one cry, because of its pathos in story. As a finale to the tragically and opera, Mrs. Bradford and Mrs. C. D. Bailey, with Miss Helen Gurule in exquisitely beautiful voices, the lyric quality of each, blending in perfect harmony. The opera day music closed with "The Bohemian Girl," admirably sung by Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. Grace Winfrey and Louis Hesselton, Miss Gurule accompanying.

A short business session preceded the program during which Mr. Chase made a brief appeal to the club in regard to the controversy between the musician's union and the Sanatorium jazz band. The president, Mrs. J. C. Gould, directed the secretary to read from the minutes of a previous board meeting the following decision of the club, to-wit: "It is not in the province of the club to dictate to those to whom the club is rented where they should employ to furnish music or for any other service."

Mrs. W. C. Thaxton was elected to the board to fill out the unexpired term on the philanthropy board. Mrs. D. R. Boyd, resigned. OPERA DAY AT WOMAN'S CLUB ENTERTAINING

By KORA HENRY-MEACHAM.

When you add music to a beautiful thought, you have enhanced its beauty, hence grand opera is not an artificial performance, as has been claimed by some, but a truly artistic and satisfying thing, as its long years of representation to the public proves, said Mrs. E. A. Bradford, speaking before a large audience that filled the auditorium at the Woman's club, Friday afternoon, on opera in America.

She outlined very interestingly the evolution of American opera. The first opera in this country was called, legend or ballad opera, and was more like the English than the original Italian opera. New Orleans had the first opera house and is still a strong center of music. The Wagnerian opera, "Parsifal," presented by Heinrich Conrad, managing impresario, was a great success in New York.

Grand opera in English has been tried by several companies here, but the foreign tongues are still the favorite, with most audiences. Americans have not as yet composed any noteworthy grand opera, although Cadman has excelled all others in this field thus far. Many of the most successful foreign operas were a long time in gaining their proper appreciation and there is yet time for a great musical success in American grand opera to come into its own, said the speaker.

Charles McKean, accompanied by Miss Norma Williams, sang with passion and incomparable voice, the boldly realistic love song from the Italian opera, "The Jewels of the Madonnas." His score, "The Turnkey's Song," from Rob Roy, was equally well received and displayed the deep basso range of Mr. McKean's fine voice.

Miss Barbara Wait told in a delightfully informal way, the old and ever-absorbing story of the great lovers, Anthony and Cleopatra. The whole world still loves a lover and Miss Wait's analysis of Massenet's great opera, "Cleopatra," with the particularly vivid and poignant illustrations given in Miss Wait's full, dramatic voice, brought grand opera right to her audience. No one of her listeners but felt that music was something more than a thing to be absorbed, but a thing to make one feel and think.

Mrs. Bradford followed this number on the program by an illustrated talk (with the phonograph) on Puccini's opera, "Madame Butterfly," the opera that always brings a crowd in America and which makes one cry, because of its pathos in story. As a finale to the tragically and opera, Mrs. Bradford and Mrs. C. D. Bailey, with Miss Helen Gurule in exquisitely beautiful voices, the lyric quality of each, blending in perfect harmony. The opera day music closed with "The Bohemian Girl," admirably sung by Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. Grace Winfrey and Louis Hesselton, Miss Gurule accompanying.

A short business session preceded the program during which Mr. Chase made a brief appeal to the club in regard to the controversy between the musician's union and the Sanatorium jazz band. The president, Mrs. J. C. Gould, directed the secretary to read from the minutes of a previous board meeting the following decision of the club, to-wit: "It is not in the province of the club to dictate to those to whom the club is rented where they should employ to furnish music or for any other service."

Announcement

Friday night, with the smoke of the fire still in the store, the work of cleaning up started. It will be continued day and night without a pause until the re-opening.

As soon as the insurance adjusters have completed their work, new stocks which have already been ordered by wire from our New York office, will be moved in by express.

Plans for reconstruction have been laid. The interior of the third floor, to which the good work of the fire department confined the flames, must be entirely re-built. Reconstruction and replacements will be necessary throughout the store. Our steel and concrete building, built as fireproof as a building can be made, was not damaged in a single structural unit. It stood the test. But inside the store we face a rebuilding job throughout. It will take time. We will rush the work. We promise you a bigger, more attractive, more efficient store.

We wish to publicly thank the fire department and city and county police for their courageous work; and also those hundreds of friends whose messages of regret and offers of material aid give us courage.

The fire is out. It is a closed chapter in our history. We face the future with determination stronger than ever to merit the confidence Albuquerque has placed in Rosenwalds.

WHEN SPEED IN BUILDING IS DESIRED

Atlas Board can be applied in a few hours when it takes days to finish with plaster. Not only that, but the man who applies Atlas Board is a carpenter. The minute he has put up the studdings, he can start work with Atlas Board, nailing the big panels in place. You do not need to wait for the plaster to come.

Every house owner, every business man, every man or woman connected in a large way with community activities, often has building work to be done which must be done quickly. A committee which has to build a fair booth, a temporary triumphal arch, a hall for community meetings, will always have a friend in Atlas Board, because it lends itself so readily to every kind of construction, and is so quickly applied.

Being fibre-sized and dip-primed, Atlas Board is ready for the second coat, we gave it the first.

AMERICAN NAVY TO RANK SECOND IN IMPORTANCE

Great Britain Leads With an Aggregate Tonnage of 1,860,480; U. S. Second With 1,289,463.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Oct. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Latest statistics of the naval establishments of the world's leading maritime powers compiled by informed officials here, indicate that the American navy still will be second in importance in second place when present building programs are completed.

According to the tabulation of fighting ships, Great Britain leads with 535, with an aggregate tonnage of 1,860,480; the United States has 464 ships of 1,289,463 tons, and Japan 39 of 525,889 tons. France and Italy hold fourth and fifth places with tonnage totals of 462,000 and 275,000, respectively.

Completion of present programs will add seventeen ships to the British navy of 592 tons, six to the American of 734,925 tons, and eighty-five to the Japanese of 605,188 tons, exclusive of a special submarine program comprising 120 submarines.

Lacking definite information as to speed and gun power of some units included in latest authorized naval programs, experts pointed out that a comparison of "battle efficiency" was difficult, if not practically impossible.

Comparing heavier fighting ships, the tabulation shows Great Britain excels in battle cruisers, having six of the first and four of the second line, while Japan has four of the first line, and the United States none. In battleships Great Britain still leads, with twenty-six, while the United States has eighteen, Japan six, France seven and Italy four.

Great Britain has six second line battleships which she is said to be ready to sell or scrap, while the United States continues to hold fifteen, Japan four, France seven and Italy five.

In light cruisers, Great Britain has forty-five, aggregating 198,945 tons; the United States none, Japan nine, totaling 43,850 tons, France four, and Italy five.

The United States leads with destroyers, having 292 of the first line to Great Britain's 237 and Japan's 217. In submarines Great Britain leads, she has sixty of the first line and fifty-nine of the second, compared with fifty-seven and forty-four on the American naval list.

Great Britain has the only naval aircraft carriers, but the United States is remodeling a ship to serve in that capacity.

Is Your Blood Starving FOR WANT OF IRON?

Iron Is Red Blood Food—It Helps Put Roses Into the Cheeks of Women and Give Strength and Energy to Men—Why Nuxated Iron so Quickly Builds up Weak Nervous, Run-down people

Thousands of men and women are impairing their constitutions, laying themselves open to illness and literally losing their grip on health, simply because their blood is thinning out and passively starving through lack of iron. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of the virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into a neurotic, cross, nervous and irritable.

Iron is absolutely essential to enable your blood to transform the food you eat into muscular tissue and brain. It is through iron in the red coloring matter of the blood that life-sustaining oxygen enters the body. Without iron there is no strength, vitality and endurance to combat obstacles or withstand severe strains. Contrary to general opinion, lack of iron in the blood does not necessarily mean you do not have enough blood, but it means your blood is not of the right kind. To help make strong, keen, red-blooded people there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Unlike the other iron compounds, Nuxated Iron is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. No matter what other tonics or iron remedies you have used without success, if you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets

BEAUTIFUL HOME BUILT WITHOUT WALLS OR DOORS

Berkley, California, Lawyer Has Unusual Dwelling; Wall-Less Home Not Mere Makeshift.

A spacious and handsome house, without any walls or doors, is the extraordinary dwelling which serves as a home for a Berkeley, Calif., lawyer and family. It is described in the November issue of Popular Mechanics Magazine.

This wall-less house is no makeshift dwelling built substantially and artificially built according to the special design of the mother of the large family who felt that all concerned would live more natural and healthful lives if untrammelled by walls and artificial protection. The home is so unusual that it is not easy to describe it in ordinary architectural terms. It consists essentially of a long concrete floor protected by a roof of corresponding shape and size, supported by beautiful Corinthian pillars of concrete, nearly 18 feet high. The roof is shaped like a turtleback and is pierced by a series of circular skylights, set with transparent glass. These lights are particularly useful when rain or wind requires the letting down of canvas curtains on one or more sides of the house. Taut wires strung vertically either side of each pillar, serve to hold these curtains in place when unfurled.

each edge being set with eyelets through which the wires pass. As has been stated, the floor is of concrete. This is laid over a network of hollow tile which lies only a short distance below the surface. This hollow tile is connected to a hot air furnace located in a basement occupying a portion of the area beneath the house. The passage of air through the hollow tile serves to keep the floor warm, and so supplies heat. The home is, in effect, one large veranda. While there are no partitions, there has been constructed at one side midway between the ends, a series of booths or recesses, two tiers high, with openings at the front across which hang heavy curtains. These are the dressing rooms for the entire family, and here are dressers, mirrors, and other necessary conveniences for making one's toilet. Only one of these compartments has four walls and a door. This is the bathroom. Stairs lead to the second tier of dressing rooms, along the front of which runs a picturesque balcony. The entire family sleeps on divans or couches, which constitute the principal articles of furniture at one end of the home, which end, in the daytime, might be compared to the reception hall or living room.

A large high-backed settee at the opposite end of the house is another important piece of furnishing. The back of this settee is fitted with sinks and the toilet, and the end of the house is divided into numerous cubboards, where dishes and a small electric stove are to be found. The end of the structure comprising the dressing rooms, next to the settee, is fitted with sinks and the toilet, and the end of the house is divided into numerous cubboards, where dishes and a small electric stove are to be found. The end of the structure comprising the dressing rooms, next to the settee, is fitted with sinks and the toilet, and the end of the house is divided into numerous cubboards, where dishes and a small electric stove are to be found.

That the members of this household may enjoy the benefits of an open fire, a crude fireplace has been dug out in the rocky side of the hill, only a few feet from the end of the wall-less house, and here, amid the shelter of trees and shrubbery, the family often gather on cool evenings. Another retreat, popular with all the family, is a cave in the hillside protected by a heavy door, where the family library and the art collection that need protection from the weather are housed. All the furniture used is finished to withstand a degree of exposure.

LOWER TRIBUNAL IS REVERSED BY SUPREME COURT

A. J. Evans Loses Suit to Compel Land Commissioner to Issue Him a Deed to Land.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL.)
Santa Fe, Oct. 22.—The supreme court today reversed the Santa Fe county district court in the suit brought by A. J. Evans to compel Land Commissioner Field to issue him a deed to land bought from the state without the mineral reservation clause.

The district court in a peremptory writ directed Field to issue the deed as desired by Evans.

Directing that this writ be discharged, the supreme court said: "Mandamus will not lie against the commissioner of public lands to compel him to issue a deed conveying public lands free from the reservation of minerals therein, which reservation was contained in the contract of sale, because it is in effect an action against the state."

This was one of the suits which involved the land commissioner's right to issue oil leases on land sold by the state and the first decided by the appellate court.

The supreme court also reversed the Chaves county district court in the case of Jesse Morehead against the Santa Fe railway on the ground that Morehead was guilty of contributory negligence when his automobile was struck by a train at a crossing in Roswell.

Morehead, who looked and listened fifty-seven feet from the crossing, according to his testimony, but the supreme court held he should have exercised these precautions nearer the crossing.

Morehead, who was injured, was given judgment for $466 in the lower court.

NEBRASKA LOSES TO NOTRE DAME; SCORE, 7 TO 0

Offensive and Defensive Work of the Victors Stands Out; Cornhuskers Get But 3 First Downs.

(By The Associated Press.) South Bend, Oct. 22.—Notre Dame earned a seven to nothing victory over Nebraska in one of the most stubbornly contested football games of the year. Offensive and defensive work of the Notre Dame line stood out. Nebraska never was within scoring distance and did not make a first down until the third quarter. The cornhuskers made but three first downs during the game.

Notre Dame made thirteen first downs and kept the ball in Nebraska territory most of the game. The local team gained 196 yards from scrimmage and completed one pass for eight yards. Nebraska made 54 yards from scrimmage and completed two passes for a total of 21 yards.

Notre Dame's gains resulted mainly from short, but consistent dashes by Mohardt and Wynne.

Notre Dame threatened in the first period but fumbles lost the opportunity. Early in the second quarter Rockne's men forced the ball to the one-yard line but Nebraska's line held and forced a pass which was incomplete. Shortly afterward Captain Anderson went down under a punt and tackled Lewellon who fumbled, and Anderson recovered the ball. Wynne rushed the ball to the six-yard line and Nebraska was penalized three yards for off side play. Mohardt went over for a touchdown and Shaw kicked goal.

THE ALBUQUERQUE BOY, EDMUND F. COBB, IN "WHITE RIDERS OF RANGE"

Edmund F. Cobb, the movie picture star, who was born in this city, is at the "B" theater today as the leading character in the main attraction, "White Riders of the Range." Edmund Cobb has achieved fame as the man who really "knows" how to play the cowboy and do the "daring" as cowboys really did in the early eighties of New Mexico, because in his younger days he watched them and even imitated them in the back yard of his parents' home or in their photo studio, and his mother, Mrs. E. H. Cobb, still conducts a studio at 210 West Gold avenue. His father, W. H. Cobb, deceased, was in those early days an inveterate hunter, and the young son, now the movie star, was always his companion in his hunts; therefore the thrilling and daring acts he is capable of showing in his pictures, are natural. Go and see the Albuquerque products, Edmund F. Cobb, at the "B" theater today.

AL MATHIEU AND DODSON ANSWER PROGRESS CLAIM

Reply to Statement of Geo. Roslington With Reference to Trackless Street Car Fight.

In a statement made to the press Al Mathieu and R. L. Dodson answered the inference of George Roslington, president of the City Electric company, that they were restricting the progress of the community by their acts to require the city trackless street cars to carry motor licenses from the state.

Following is their statement: In the Herald of the issue of the evening of October 21, 1921, there was printed a letter or advertisement signed by the City Electric Company, George Roslington president, in which Mr. Roslington infers that the writers are hindering the progress of our community. We desire to state to the public that we are in favor of anything that will benefit our community; we are so much in favor that we are ready and willing to go into our own pockets if necessary, but we are not willing to allow Mr. Roslington or anyone else to operate a concern for profit, using our streets and our county roads without paying the just tax required by our city ordinance and our state laws.

As to Mr. Roslington's projects benefiting the community, let us not lose sight of the fact that Mr. Roslington is not promoting any projects solely for the benefit of our good community, but for the benefit of George Roslington and his associates. The Fourth street bus line is not only to help the school children nor the residents of North Fourth street to reach our city, but in order to help Mr. Roslington to sell his lots which he has on North Fourth street and incidentally to make some money out of his bus lines. We are in favor of Mr. Roslington's street car lines and improvements, or any bus line that he desires to put on, but we insist that he pay the taxes required by our law.

Let us see whether we are correct. If Mr. Roslington's contentions are true, that he is operating under a franchise and not operating a bus line or motor vehicle, how does he pay the federal tax on passenger automobiles required by our federal law? The honorable internal revenue collector of our district informs us that this tax has been paid by Mr. Roslington. Second, why did he secure driver's licenses as required under our city ordinance if he is running these bus lines under his so-called franchise? Would not his franchise excuse him from these driver's licenses as well as our motor vehicle license which he is now trying to evade?

Mr. Roslington admitted in a conversation in the police court room the other day that he was instrumental in passing ordinance No. 560, which requires every motor vehicle that runs upon a regular route, charging a stipulated fare, to pay the city $60 a year for each car and to furnish a bond of $2,000 for each car. Mr. Roslington has been notified by the city clerk to pay this license which he has so far failed to do. If the buses which have been run on Fourth street are not motor vehicles, what are they? and we can see no reason why Mr. Roslington should be permitted to run a jitney line and not pay the license called for, the same as our taxi men are required to pay a license for doing business. We have no quarrel with Mr. Roslington except that we are going to protect our rights against any intrusion by him. He is not running a charitable institution but an institution for profit and should be compelled to pay his taxes on the same basis as any other corporation or as any other citizens of the state of New Mexico.

Yours truly,
AL MATHIEU,
R. L. DODSON.

HEALTH OFFICE DOES BIG WORK IN PAST QUARTER

Three hundred and nine cafe, store and market inspections were made, together with seventy-nine dairy inspections.

In the laboratory, 132 milk and 81 water samples were examined. In diptheria cultures, the number of releases was 34; Widal's, 2; feces and urine, 17; Wasserman, 13; Smears, gonococcus, 10; spunt, 17.

BAD CHECK ARTIST LANDS IN CITY JAIL

Robert W. Dickson, bad check artist, is back at the city jail for an indefinite stay.

Dickson was released from the county jail in Old Town a week ago. The afternoon of his release, he wrote a worthless check for $15 and passed it at the Washburn clothing store.

He was arrested and placed in jail yesterday. Nye G. Martin and Don Cavanaugh identified him as the "James Hollingsworth" whose check they had paid.

Dickson will probably be arraigned Monday.

GARRETT SECURES WICKED HORSE TO AID SHOW TODAY

R. D. Garrett, who is staging a rodeo and a sport carnival at the Baracas ball park today, announced last night that he had secured the notorious Powder river horse for the cowboys to ride. Garrett insists that the horse is plain "wicked" and that there is likely to be plenty of excitement when he is turned loose.

The full program of sport is to be given. There will be two amateur boxing matches, a baseball game, races and other events. The rodeo will feature twenty riders, many of them men who competed in the rodeo here last September.

OLD TOWN SCHOOL NOTES.

The total enrollment of the Old Town school is 255. The eighth grade is composed of fifteen pupils. Eight teachers form the faculty: M. G. Bailey, principal; Stella Farrell, Ellen Arledge, Alice Gould, Stella Duran, Angela Sanchez and Lorena Wells.

The Old Town pupils are being served hot lunches each school day at noon. The lunches are very economical, each dish costing only 3 cents. The menu for the past week was: Monday, Lima bean with tomato sauce; Tuesday, vegetable soup; Wednesday, baked potatoes and cheese; Thursday, potato soup; Friday, hot chocolate. The lunches are under the supervision of Miss Halling, whose cooking is very satisfactory.

A debate between seventh and eighth grade pupils is the cause of much interest and excitement. The debate will be held next Friday afternoon.

Columbus day was celebrated by the upper grades with a history test and a spelling match. Miss Farrell, teacher of sixth and seventh grades, has returned after a week's absence because of illness.

The Old Town Parent-teachers association held their monthly meeting on Wednesday evening, October 19. The last year's officers were re-elected for the coming year. Plans for a benefit dance and carnival were made at the meeting. The affair will take place at the Columbian hall during the teachers' convention.

EVANGELIST STEFFAN MAKES STIRRING TALK

A highly inspiring talk was given last night at the Gospel hall on North Fourth street by Evangelist

U. J. Steffan, the "converted convict." He spoke of the necessity of mankind's attention to the Bible, saying that the universality of sin made the preaching and believing in God as a personal saviour, a duty. Mr. Steffan will be speaking throughout the conference which is to be held in Gospel hall from October 23 to 29.

OPTIMISTS HAVE HAD CALL IN FIGHT OVER STOCK PRICES ON WALL STREET FOR PAST WEEK

Skeptics Cannot Overlook Advances in Crude Oil Prices, Boom in Steel Making and Operation of Textile Mills at Full Capacity Which Were Shut Down Last Year.

BY STUART P. WEST.
(Special Dispatch to Morning Journal)
(Copyright 1921 by Albuquerque Journal)

New York, Oct. 22.—The Wall Street movement this week has been a contest between two opposing views of the business outlook, in which the wide of optimism has had a decided advantage. Those who are skeptical regarding the future do not dispute that there have been any signs of a turn during the last two months, but they cannot ignore the five successive advances in crude oil prices, the increase from less than thirty to well over forty per cent in steel production and the operation of the textile mills at full capacity. These mills a year ago were shut down.

They attempt to maintain, however, that all this is a recovery of a transitory sort, and that no sustained improvement can be looked for while things in Europe are so bad. They stress the slackness of the export trade and the handicaps which American firms are encountering when competing against the British, who are assisted by powerful support of government credit, and against the Germans who are buying their labor and supplies in a vastly depreciated currency.

Bear Sentiment Decreasing.
To what extent are these latter opinions held throughout the business and financial communities? The writer believes, from all he can gather and observe, that they are the views of a small and constantly dwindling minority, and that the greatly predominant sentiment was fairly expressed in the stock market for the past week, which has resulted in the rout of the Wall Street "bear" party and the complete discrediting of much of the propaganda upon which this party has depended. The majority attitude, replying to the pessimists, taking its stand on the ground, first, of the restoration of a thoroughly sound credit position, with the entire liquidation of the last three years in loans and note issues wiped away, and with the federal reserve issue back to where it stood in 1917. Secondly, it maintains that in all periods of depression overproduction accompanying inflated prices has been the essential cause. The turn is reached, they assert, when surplus stocks in the hands of merchants and manufacturers have been worked off, when inventory losses have been fully absorbed, and when an equation has been achieved between supply and demand.

Solid Basis for Recovery.
This stage was unquestionably arrived at last July. The recovery occurring since has been a real one, because it has been based solidly on the fact that production and supplies have been brought down below normal. Shelves had to be replenished and this is what has been going on for the last month or more. The conviction has been firmly established in the minds of buyers, that the bottom of prices has been seen. An object lesson has been given in the oil trade, which may readily have its effect in other lines of what it means to delay purchases too long. As for Europe and the export trade, the main thing here is for American farmers to have an outlet for their surplus production.

The facts are that, despite Europe's supposedly weak buying power, the upward movement of the last summer and autumn, has been an exceptionally heavy one in the case of wheat and a movement above the average in the case of cotton. The foreign demand for manufactured products is small but then our manufacturing industry before the war always rested mainly upon the home market. The export part of the business was often taken, as with steel at reduced prices—at prices which yielded little profit. The phrase of "dumping ground" as applied to the foreign markets for an undesirable home surplus, is historic.

End of Reasonable Profit.
Very true, our domestic manufacturers cannot look forward to any great amount of expansion without a revival in Europe and without better credit facilities to place at the disposal of foreign customers. But they can look forward, through a slow but steady growth in the home markets, to a period of moderate but reasonable profits such as characterized the normal years previous to 1914. On the subject of foreign competition, it is easily possible that the picture of American helplessness has been painted altogether too dark.

Certainly two striking instances have come to light very recently, where American companies bidding for South American contracts have been successful against British and German competitors. The first of these cases was the one noted several weeks ago, of the Chilean State railway. The other reported this week was a like success obtained by the Baldwin Locomotive and a subsidiary of the Standard Steel Car, which were awarded a thirteen million dollar equipment order, for which two German concerns also were bidding.

heard was recorded but the east sold December and this was taken as an indication that the hedges were being restored.

Trade in coarse grains was light and mainly local. Cash houses bought some December corn early but shipping sales were not impressive and in view of the general situation corn turned weak and followed in the trail of wheat, dragging its tail with it.

Provisions averaged higher under lessened pressure. The rail-road situation was the governing influence. It checked rising sales as packers were cautious about offering October and November deliveries for fear of the strike. Another effect was the packers' demand for hogs for fresh meat with which to meet emergency orders in the event of a strike. Live hogs were consequently higher at the yards and this was reflected on the board. October hogs closed 25c higher, the other options being 7 1/2 to 12 1/2 c higher; ribs unchanged to 10c higher and pork unchanged.

A Good Word for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Those who have used this preparation and know from their own experience that it is a medicine of real worth and merit, do not hesitate about speaking a good word for it. Edward Lewis, Minoa, N. Y., writes, "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for many years and it has never failed to cure me. It is by far the best cough medicine I have ever taken."

Automotive engineers say that at least 80% of all motor repairs are preventable.

Most Piston Ring Replacements can be Avoided by the intelligent use of the right kind of oil

Practically every motorist realizes that the average motor is a complicated mechanism. When properly cared for it will serve for several years at a comparatively slight upkeep cost to the owner.

The tendency seems almost universal, however, to neglect motors that are apparently in good condition. One of the most common ways is to ignore the matter of quality when buying motor oils.

The life of your motor depends upon oil

Trouble not only with the piston rings but with a score of other parts can invariably be traced to faulty lubrication.

Poor oil may look exactly like good oil and yet not possess that vital essential of a motor lubricant—the ability to resist heat.

Use Polarine and be sure

Protect the vital bearing surfaces of your motor by using the proper consistency of Polarine Oil. It is sold in three consistencies to meet the various requirements of different motors and seasons.

Get your Polarine Oils and Conoco Gasoline with Conoco Coupons, sold in book form for your convenience.

WORLD FIGURES ADD LUSTER TO CAPITAL WHIRL

BY BETTY BAXTER.
(Special Dispatch to Morning Journal)
(Copyright 1921 by Albuquerque Journal)

Washington, Oct. 22.—Reminiscence of other days are these harbingers of the armament conference who will honor Washington with their presence tomorrow: General Diaz, commander-in-chief of the Italian army; Admiral Lord Beatty, admiral of the British fleet; and General Bange, commander of the Belgian army. They are all men who figured prominently in the war and are being received with all the interest and all the pomp of the war heroes who came here with the various war missions. Not since those days has such enthusiasm been shown about the arrival of any distinguished visitors and when Washington does not receive a great compliment for we are inclined to be very blasé about such matters as we are more or less surfeited with notables, don't you know, but Washington is all ready to give them a rousing welcome and various functions, formal and informal, are being planned in their honor. They will be here the greater part of this week and will be constantly on the go, eight-seek and attending parties.

They have come primarily to attend the general convention of the American Legion to be held in Kansas City the last of this month but are coming on here after a cordial welcome to President and Mrs. Harding, who undoubtedly will entertain in their honor either here or upon their return after the close of the convention or both times.

They will all call upon the president tomorrow and the British, Belgian and Italian embassies will all entertain for them at least once if not more often. There is to be a dinner at the British embassy Tuesday evening, not a large party but a very select one and there will be a musical program. The same evening the Italian embassy will be the scene of a reception and the Belgian ambassador, who will get here some time tomorrow from Europe, will make plans immediately to have at least one large function at the Belgian embassy.

The following week Marshal Foch will be here for two days—October 31 and November 1—before going on to Kansas City. He and this week's guests will all return here on November 16 to attend the ceremonies to be held on the eleventh at Arlington in honor of the unknown American soldier and to "be in on" the conference which will open the same day.

By that time all of the great men expected to be here and the eyes of the world will be in Washington for a while.

Coming even earlier than the armament conference next month are making themselves felt in various ways. The arrival of some of the delegates to the conference makes me realize that the eleventh of November is scarcely more than a fortnight off.

Today finds all of the wives of cabinet officers back at their homes. Mrs. Weeks, wife of the secretary of war; Mrs. Fall, wife of the secretary of the interior; and Mrs. Hoover, wife of the secretary of commerce, being among the last to return. Miss Alva Mellon, who will be the chaperon of her father's home, will return in about a week and her arrival is being awaited with special interest for it is believed that shortly after she gets here there will be an announcement of the date that she and her father, the secretary of the treasury, will entertain at dinner for the president and Mrs. Harding. Several of last winter's dinner clubs like the One Hundred club are now making their plans for this winter and fashionable quietness is being arranged—for example the Concerts Diplomatique, which will be held every other Tuesday afternoon at Rauscher's—and several other things of the same sort that remind one that the season is about to begin.

Tailors may be divided into two classes: the long and the short jackets. The long jackets come almost to the hem of the skirt and if severely tailored and straight are decidedly good; this is where complications set in, for the longer sections are apt to be very uneven in hem line; longer back and front or dipping down at either side, there is a pleasing uncertainty as to where to expect the gored to be.

Mrs. Thomas Danahy entertained her bridge club at her home on Friday afternoon.

Albuquerque Society

Albuquerque. More than a hundred persons have already signified their intention of joining the association. A meeting is to be called soon for the adoption of the constitution and by-laws.

The first of a series of community dances of high standard to be given by the Business and Professional Women's club of Albuquerque will be held on Friday evening, November 4, at the Elks' club building. It has been announced by the entertainment committee of the organization. The dances will be given to swell the building fund of the club and at the same time to provide an opportunity for dancing that is not otherwise possible in the city. Tickets to the affair are only obtainable from members of the club and there will be no admission without card at the door on the evening of the dance.

The annual home-coming social of the Presbyterian church was held on Friday evening. The affair is an annual one at the beginning of each winter season. Games and contests were played during the evening, and refreshments of rumkin pie were served. There was a large crowd in attendance.

RECREATION ACTIVITIES

OF WEEK AT Y. W. C. A.

A report of the activities of the department of physical education and recreation at the Y. W. C. A. for the week is made as follows by Mrs. W. A. Gekler, head recreation secretary:

On Tuesday afternoon the fifth and sixth grade girls reserves met for the first time with Mrs. Gekler. This group will shortly elect its officers and plan its work for the year. A part of each hour will be taken in the gymnasium with games, marching, physical drill and folk dancing.

There are one or two other groups of girl reserves which have not yet been reorganized. These groups will get together with their new leaders in the near future.

The other activities of the department are picking up nicely. The play hour for girls at the Italian school on Friday afternoon is well attended, and if equals are any indication, "a good time was had by all."

Registrations in the gymnasium department now number fifty-eight. The Thursday evening class for women and the Saturday morning classes for children are well attended. More women would be welcomed into the Wednesday morning class, which comes at 9:30. If there are enough registrations to warrant it, another class in dancing will be formed for children six to eight years old.

The swimming for women will hereafter be on a different basis—cash—50 cents a swim, and the pool will not be opened to women unless a sufficient number signify their intention to attend. A refund will be made to those who have paid for the season privilege. Please phone either the association or Mrs. W. A. Gekler whether or not you wish to swim, then watch the papers for announcements as to when the pool will be open.

SANTA FE ENTERTAINERS

W. C. T. U. VISITORS.

Reports of the hospitality that was extended with characteristic Santa Fe spirit to the delegates to the state W. C. T. U. meeting there last week are brought home by the Albuquerque representatives who attended the convention.

There was an inter-club function presided over by Miss Stella Sloan, president of the Santa Fe W. C. T. U., at the Parrot Shop on Saturday at 1 o'clock. After luncheon the speakers were: Mrs. Francis Wilcox, representing the Woman's club of Santa Fe; Mrs. Rapp, representing the Woman's Board of Trade; Mrs. Thomas Harwood of Albuquerque, introduced a "song whose name is written into the history of New Mexico schools"; Mrs. Edgar Hewitt of the School of American Research, who spoke on "Ancesta of Santa Fe"; Mrs. N. T. Strumquist, representing visiting W. C. T. U.

A delightful motor drive provided by the Chamber of Commerce to visiting delegates was the event of Sunday's entertainment. Historic places of beauty and interest were visited, the environs of the "Ancient City" shown, and an inspection of the exterior and interior of the new administration building of Summit sanatorium ensued.

The first lady of the state was hostess to the W. C. T. U. delegates at a function in the executive mansion Saturday evening, when 73 ladies enjoyed Mrs. Mechem's hospitality.

U. N. M. SOCIETY

Professor L. B. Hessler, head of the department of English at the university, gave a smoker last night at his home on Columbia avenue for members of the Pipe and Pen club. This social organization of men students at the university is founded on the ambition of ten or so to write. It is composed chiefly of the staff of the U. N. M. weekly.

The Eugenophila club, the organization of residents at the girls' dormitory on the campus, has planned a big Halloween party for the latter part of the month. The affair will be a dance and carnival in the girls' gymnasium.

Members of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority went scorching on the university campus on Monday evening following their weekly meeting. Ukelele accompaniment to the various college and fraternity songs combined to make very effective music in the moonlight. Mrs. E. H. Kellogg and her mother, Mrs. Q. E. Fall, Kappas from Iowa, were visitors at the Kappa house last week.

Alpha Chi Omega sorority celebrated its founder's day with a banquet at the chapter house on last Saturday evening. Pledges active and alumnae were present to enjoy the jolly evening.

Those present for the banquet were Miss Florence O'Hara, Miss Dorothy Stevenson, Miss Clyda Wilson, Miss Helen Jackson, Miss Mariette Lamb, Miss Juliette Fleischer, Miss Flora Chess, Miss Josephine Cobb, Miss Louise Wilkerson, Miss Hortense Switzer, Miss Vera Kiech, Miss Mary Anne Clark of Illinois, Miss Lucy Jane Clark of Oklahoma, Miss Carol Wilson, Miss Frances Andrews, Miss Constance Walter and Miss Margery Cleve.

A new club, the "Tri-S," was organized under the auspices of the hospitality department of the Y. W. C. A. on Friday afternoon. The club will meet every two weeks, alternating social and business meetings. The members will take charge of the magazine table at the Y. W. C. A. recreation center. They have planned a picnic for the first pretty day this week. The officers and members of the new club are Miss Jean Stall of Philadelphia, president; Miss Glinne Lovelace of Tulsa, Okla., secretary-treasurer; Miss Grace Clough, Miss Mary Harrison, Mrs. Bob Evans, Miss Ruth Mount, Mrs. Frances Miller, Miss Florence Knorr, Miss Evelyn Blahaur, Miss Sarah Fly, Miss Constance Price and Miss Dulce Knox.

In Finland many women are employed as stenographers and caretakers. Indeed there is hardly any kind of manual labor that a Finnish woman will not turn her hand to, or any profession from which she is debarred.

Argentina has nearly a million women wage earners.

Looking into her mirror she sees the tell tale streak of gray. Age has set its seal upon her, though in all other respects she possesses the spirit and charm of youth.

CREATIVE SERVICE.

Man was made to render service. From maturity to old age we must serve, whether we will it or not. It is for us to say whether we shall serve well or ill; whether we shall "serve God or Mammon."

Some people serve without a thought to the ideal of service. Such serve blindly—by instinct. The task is set before them and they do it doggedly, perhaps sullenly. They force their service ill. The unwilling servant is always an inefficient one. Some serve gladly, and the touch of gladness is a touch of love which exalts the service, however menial be the task.

What the world needs is a consciousness of the privilege of service. We need to know that we are serving and to be glad of the opportunity to be of use.

Real service must be of the head as well as of the heart—and of the heart as well as of the head. Both qualities are essential to intelligent and creative service. The heart supplies the love which is the creative dynamics of the universe. The head gives direction to this impelling power and makes the task done a thing of value. To love to serve will make us active, but useless or ridiculous in the effort. To will to serve will make us cold in our tasks. But when love and will and mind move in concert, the result will be a creative and valuable service.

Out of this will come the real joy of living; the consciousness that life is worth while.

"DEFLATION"—WITH A VENGEANCE.

The Journal has criticized with some severity the methods of the Federal Reserve system. At its door is to be laid the responsibility for the policy which brought a too-rapid and lop-sided deflation, which ruined the agricultural and stock-raiser.

But while this deflation was going on it was wholly objective. The figures disclose the fact that was sauce for the goose of business was not sauce for the gander of bank officials. The Federal Reserve Board of New York increased the number of employees in 1920, over 1919, by about 10 per cent. During that time the salaries increased 50 per cent.

While they were "deflating" the rest of us, the salary of Benj. Strong, governor of the bank, was inflated from $30,000 to $50,000; that of Pierre Joy, from $16,000 to $30,000; that of J. H. Case from $20,000 to $30,000, and so on down a list of twenty-four officials to R. M. O'Hara, from $1,500 to $7,500.

All this happened while the board was publicly demanding retrenchment and curtailment on the part of the public. Their bad faith is transparent.

The Federal Reserve Boards were not intended as money-making affairs. They have been converted to such a purpose by the men in charge of them. Profit, instead of service, has come to be the guiding influence. Then they distribute some of the profits in increased salaries for the money-changers.

If congress fails to take this thing in hand the conduct of the Federal Reserve system will become the scandal of the Harding administration. The entire personnel of the system needs overhauling until a spirit of service to the country can be made to permeate it.

CORRECTING HISTORY.

One by one our beliefs are shattered. From the time we are told that Santa Claus is a myth to our old age what we rely upon as facts are from time to time dumped into the discard. Some one has said that history is made up of lies agreed upon. There is some evidence of the truth of the statement, for are not what we believe truths exploded now and then?

William Tell may be a wholly imaginary character and not a champion shot at all, while Baruch, Freitrich did not defy the rebel army. Now we are told that it was not Mrs. O'Leary's cow that started the Chicago fire. It seems a bit late to discover the truth, if such it is, but in the latest pronouncement on the subject put out by the Chicago fire department we are informed that the impression hitherto held that the cow kicked over the lamp and started the blaze is incorrect. Mrs. O'Leary was in bed when the fire started and while her stable was the theater of the inception of the conflagration Mrs. O'Leary and the cow are exonerated from blame after half a century.

Truth should prevail and it is not too late to proclaim it, though why the myth should have been permitted to persist uncombated for 50 years is not explained. It is just possible with this as a precedent that when five decades have elapsed following the San Francisco earthquake it will be discovered that it was not an earthquake that was responsible for the fire that devastated the city, but that the blaze had some other origin and that there was not enough of a quake to be noticed.

ARE HOUSEWIVES SPENDTHRIFTS?

Government agents who have been investigating the living costs of wage-earners report that Europeans are more thrifty than we are. We have been told that before, but it is rather surprising to find them placing a large share of the blame on American housewives, whom they accuse of lacking the spirit of thrift. In support of the charge various traits alleged to be characteristic of American housewives are cited. One which seems especially worthy of consideration is that Americans are willing to pay whatever is asked for an article, but Europeans will not pay more than in their judgment the article is worth.

It is repugnant to our self-respect to haggle with shopkeepers. In many parts of the Old World, especially on the continent, dealers customarily ask more than they expect to receive, and prospective purchasers offer less than they expect to give; dickering then ensues until a bargain is struck. Perhaps this system is more productive of thrift than ours; the fixed price plan probably does conduce to make us pay, without question, whatever is asked.

"Take it or leave it," is the shopkeeper's ultimatum, and if we want the article badly we are tempted, perhaps, to give more than we can afford. But there is an alternative; we can go to other shops and see if the article can be procured more cheaply. And probably it has been most persons' observation that women, and especially housewives, are more accustomed to doing this than men.

It is a good plan to compare prices, either by visiting the shops or by studying the advertisements, before making a purchase. Considerable variation will be found not infrequently.

POPULAR OPINION LEADS.

The public mind in Great Britain shows some signs of getting in front of official action in the matter of a decision in the armament conference called by President Harding. Popular opinion and that judgment spoken by men of some prominence in the social as well as political world seems to be pronounced in favor of a decisive limitation in armament as the only certain means of formulating a program to rescue the wreck of civilization.

The bishop of England, speaking in the name of religion and ethics, publicly pleads with England and America to strike hands and salvage the little that is left of civilization. He sees no other solution. Lord Crewe, leader of the opposition party in the house of lords; Lord Buckmaster, former lord chancellor; Lord Shaw, official of the league of nations; Admiral Sir Cyrran Bridge and Maude Royden, one of England's greatest women, variously express the same thought.

Only among the veteran politicians of Europe is the Harding conference regarded slightly. All others frankly proclaim the belief that this meeting is one of the few remaining hopes of civilization. If it fails they confess to a conviction that one more step has been taken toward a condition which brings a shudder to the thoughtful. Evidently the inadequacy of statesmanship is beginning to be feared in the place where confidence was strong and somewhat serene. Behind a bankrupt statesmanship lie dangers not yet fully appreciated.

WORKING HIS WAY THROUGH.

Years ago the chap who worked his way through college was considered a sort of seven-days' wonder. The fact that he shook down a furnace at night to pay for his room rent gave him, in the eyes of the world, a standing similar to that which a presidential candidate used to acquire by having been born in a log cabin. If in addition to his evening performance at the furnace he waited on table at a student boarding house for his meals, it was admitted that some day this young man would get into the president's cabinet. That, however, was before table-waiting and furnace-shaking became so popular among college students as these honest and lowly endeavors are today.

The point is that if any young man or woman considers a college education of sufficient value to be willing to put in anywhere from one to four hours a day at remunerative work to help pay college expenses, there isn't the least doubt in the world that such a student will appreciate his college work. For it is as true of education as of anything else in the world, that we value most what ever has taken us some little effort to acquire.

OUR WINTER.

"What sort of a winter are we going to have?" the average family man is asking anxiously, mindful of shoes, clothes and other necessities. Nature is said to be the best weather prophet, and if this holds true the outlook for Mr. Average Householder is sad indeed, for a long, hard winter lies before us. Note the following signs and prepare accordingly:

Fur on wild and domestic animals is unusually heavy; ants have gathered their winter supply of food early and stored it far below the surface of the ground; cockle burs filled out and ripened early; corn husks are extremely thick; nuts and acorns are plentiful and are being stored unusually early by squirrels, chipmunks, jays and woodpeckers; wild geese have big bones and heavy feathers; woman—lovely but irrational woman—is wearing her waist lower and has discarded the heavy furs she has been wearing all summer.

So there is no joy in the average home for weather-wise folk all agree that the prospects are for a "real, old-fashioned winter."

VERSE OF TODAY

THE CLOUD.

He was a pilgrim pale and tired,
He stopped a passerby:
"I seek a taxless spot," he cried,
"To rest before I die.
My house and lot and car are taxed;
The things I wear and eat
And buy and sell, alas! as well
As water, light and heat."

"Is there a place where I can dwell
From all taxation free,
Where what I own and what I earn
Alike belong to me?"
The man accented pointed up:
"Right there is your location
On yonder cloud—one dollar, please,
My charge for information."

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

UNGRATEFUL AND UNREPENTANT.

(From the Cincinnati Enquirer.)
The bolshevik leaders in Russia announce that while they permit the distribution of the charity of "capitalist" countries they are not to be turned from their crusade to sovietize the world.

They do not utter a word of thanks to show any token of appreciation for the relief extended. Rather they openly accuse the donors of "seeking for the suppression of any revolutionary demonstration that may be instigated during the distribution of the alms."

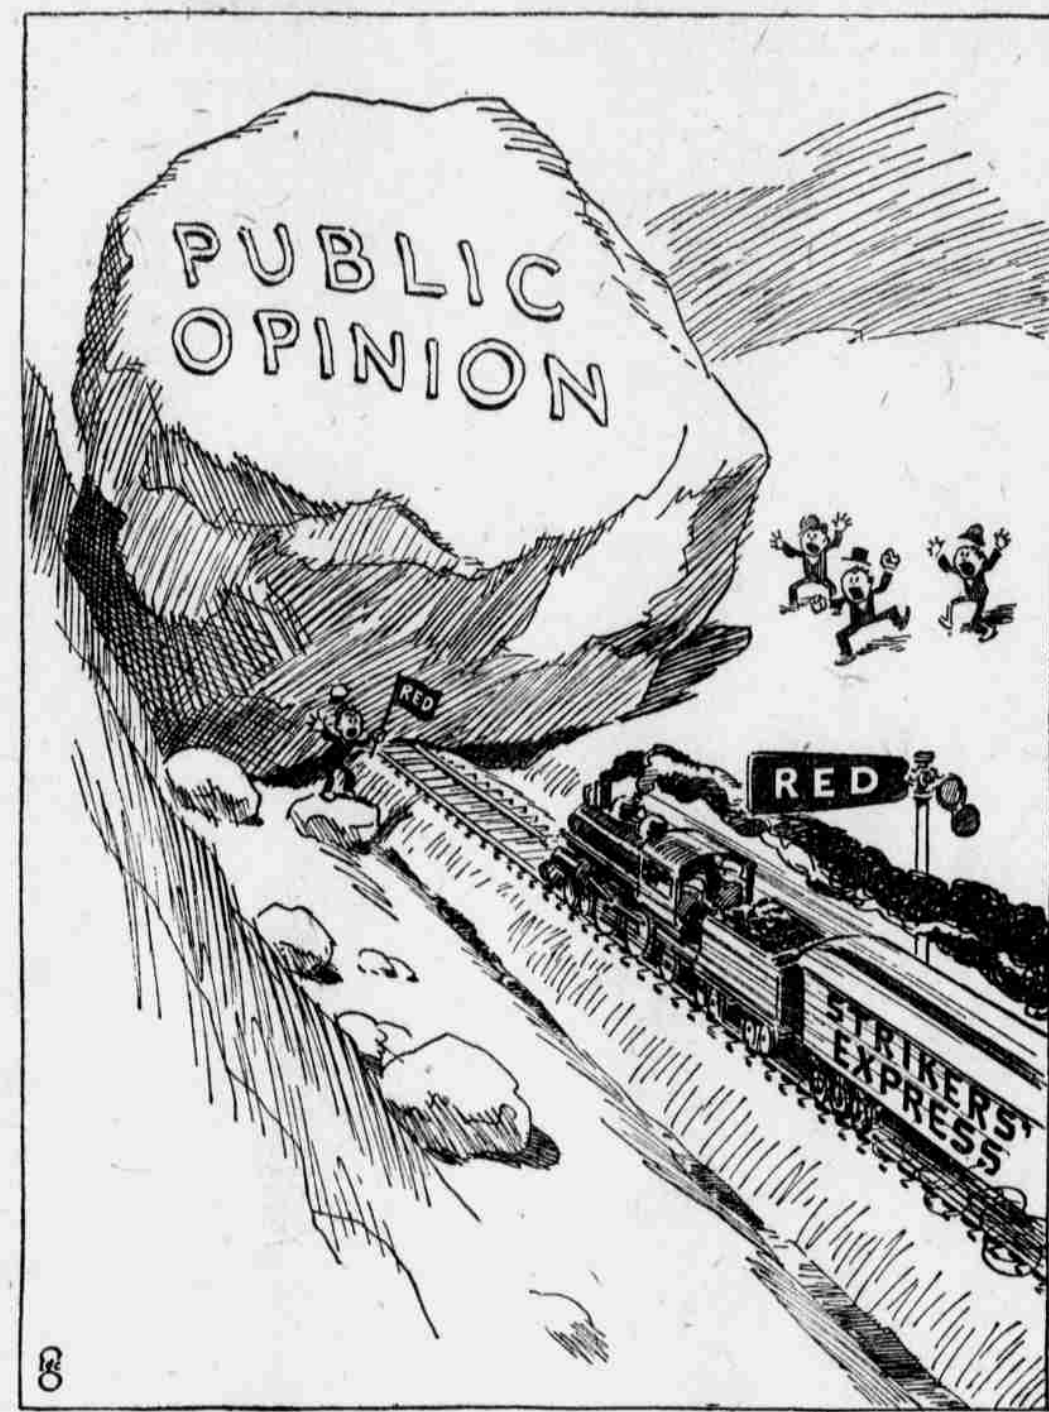

They admit that the present situation with millions starving is the result of "a collapse which has penetrated all sections of the soviet economic system." But they announce the suspension of their international work "only while the difficulty exists."

They declare their purpose to use the interim—while America distributes relief—to reorganize their forces and to hold their well-fed army garrisons ready for the suppression of any revolutionary demonstration "that may be instigated during the distribution of the alms."

They admit the sheer failure of their theory of government when applied to practical life, and with sneers for those who carry food, declare their intention to continue to use the military, which they have fattened with the food that should have been shared with the poor, to hold the people in subjection and to defend and maintain the "violet oligarchy." They stand stubbornly unrepentant in their failure to make a success of sovietism in Russia, unyielding in their blind fanaticism.

WELL, THEY CAN'T SAY THE SIGNAL WASN'T WORKING.

THE MOVIES.

A million children, every night, behold the movie actors; in education, wrong or right, the films are mighty factors. And so the famous movie folk have influence unmeasured; their every move, their every joke, in youthful hearts are treasured. So they should make their lives so clean they'll sparkle in their beauty, and not seem angels on the screen, and all the frenzied parades. My little Willie goes tonight to see a movie story; the heroine is blithe and bright, all smiling in her glory; but someone whispers to the lad, "She goes her gaudy courses as though she hadn't whipped her dad and gained fourteen divorces." And Willie in admiring mood regards the hero's capers till Whispers says, "He's often stewed—I read it in the papers." Then little Willie, toddlers home, his sentiments unspoken, but mournful thoughts are in his home—his idea have been broken. The bluebird door has been unlocked, one glance therethrough; and little kids should not be shocked by tales of tawdry vices.

TIRE ESTABLISHES A NEW RECORD

The best fully authenticated record ever made by automobile tire was recently reported to the United States Tire company by the Kansas City branch office of J. D. Adams & Co. of Indianapolis, manufacturers of road building machinery.

"We are just abandoning a United States Royal Cord Tire, size 34 by 4," says their letter, "after it has performed a phenomenal service of 66,000 miles on a Buick car, and has never had a repair."

"We bought this tire during 1918. It did two seasons' service on country roads in northeastern Missouri for one of our salesmen canvassing a territory. In September, 1919, the car was moved to Kansas City and has been used daily within the city ever since. Just now this tire is being removed and discarded. We are going to present it to you that you may examine it."

"It will further interest you to know that at the time this tire was put in use, a mate to it was put on the other rear wheel. The latter has never blown out and is now being carried for a good spare."

About Colds.

Just because you have had many colds and always recovered from them, you should not presume that colds are not dangerous. It is not the cold itself but the serious diseases that it leads to that are to be guarded against. Pneumonia often follows a bad cold because the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ which otherwise would not have found lodgment. It is the same with many other germ diseases. You are most likely to contract them when you have a cold. Children who have colds should be kept out of school until they recover. Get rid of every cold as quickly as possible. In other words take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can be depended upon.

Appetizing Biscuits

There's nothing finer—nothing more palatable than hot biscuits—made with Calumet.

When you put them into the oven you have a feeling of assurance—you are positive that they will "turn out" all right—and they always do—because Calumet never fails.

You are assured of the same success, no matter what you bake—doughnuts, muffins, cakes, everything in which you use Calumet.

The dependable uniform quality of Calumet is one reason that it received highest awards at the World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago, Paris Exposition, Paris, France.

Calumet is not only the most dependable of all leaveners—it is the most economical, because it is moderate in price—has more than ordinary leavening strength, therefore you use less.

Don't tolerate the disappointments and failures that come from unreliable baking powders any longer—forget baking powder worries—buy and use Calumet.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

FAKERS SELL OPTIONS ON DODGE BROS. CARS AND THEN DISAPPEAR

Although a number of arrests have been made as a result of the fraudulent practice, the war department reports that persons in various parts of the country are still being deceived by individuals who pretend to be able to obtain Dodge Brothers motor cars from the government at bargain prices. The usual method, it is said, is to sell "options" on the cars, which are represented as being still in the original shipping crates, the war having ended before they were used. Once the "option" price is obtained, of course, the "agent" never reappears.

As Dodge Brothers motor car was selected by the government as the official car of its class for service with the army during the world war, an enormous number of these cars were equipped for the American training camps and expeditionary forces. At the conclusion of the war the various branches of the army had fully 20,000 Dodge Brothers cars and almost immediately it was run down at ridiculously low figures by the government. It was a great opportunity for crooks. They went from town to town, pretending that they had acquired options on large stocks of the cars, all in first-class condition, and were prepared to sell these options for $25 or $30, sometimes more. The result was that both Dodge Brothers and the war department were flooded with inquiries as to when and where the cars might be obtained. Warnings were issued, arrests were made and for a time the fraud died out.

Recently, however, it seems to have been renewed, as Dodge Brothers say they are constantly receiving letters and telegrams on the subject. The matter was taken up with the military intelligence division of the war department. A letter just received from this division by Dodge Brothers includes the following definite statement:

"I am informed by the director of sales of the war department that no sales of Dodge Brothers cars have been made by his office. He also informs me that arrests have recently been made in Philadelphia and New York by the department of justice of individuals who were fraudulently attempting to sell options on government cars."

As a matter of fact, the great majority of Dodge Brothers cars acquired by the army have been apportioned to various branches of the government service. A few auctions have been held at some of the army camps, at which government cars which had seen hard service were disposed of by individual bidding, but there have been no options and anyone representing himself as in a position to obtain government cars should be reported to the authorities for investigation.

THE REO CAPTURES BEAUTY PARADE AT WICHITA WHEAT SHOW

Taking prizes in a beauty contest is a new and rather unique role played by the sedan and touring car. But this is what happened at the International Wheat show in Wichita, Kans., the other day, and a description of the beauty parade has just been received by B. M. Brittain, Jr., of the Paulin Motor company, local Reo distributors, in a letter from the Wichita distributor.

The Reo touring car was entered in the $1,000 to $2,000 class, and the new sedan was entered in the $2,000 to $3,000 class. The points upon which the judges based their decision were appearance, smoothness of operation and ease of control. The Reo sedan took first prize and the new Reo light seven outranked everything in its class. The automobile fashion parade and contest were features of the wheat show in Wichita. More than 100 cars of different makes were entered in the show.

According to reports and newspaper comments from Wichita, the Reo passenger cars which were exhibited during the fair attracted unusual attention. Particularly the new Reo Light Seven was an object of considerable interest among the auto enthusiasts. During the exhibit every car entered in the beauty contest was put through its paces the same as at a horse show and both the Reo sedan and the new Reo Light Seven surpassed the other entries in point of appearance, both models scored heavily in regard to smoothness of operation and ease of control, and established the new Reo line of passenger cars as the most beautiful in America.

ROAD CONDITIONS

The New Mexico Auto club, state headquarters at 210 North Fourth street, this city, has issued the following on road conditions in the state:

The roads throughout all portions of the state are as good as at any time of the year. All roads are passable and there is no sand or mud which will bother the tourist.

All roads are somewhat rough and chunky where they were wet during the fall rains.

The roads and weather are as a rule safe for tourist travel until about Thanksgiving.

The State Headquarters of the New Mexico Auto Club will bulletin any change in these conditions at the club office. Any one desiring information concerning any definite road or roads may have same along with maps by calling at the club office.

REDUCTION OF $150 IS ANNOUNCED ON NASH FOUR, NOW $1,045

Coming as a distinct surprise to those in the automobile industry most familiar with motor car values is the announcement of the Nash Motors company of a sweeping reduction in prices of all models of the Nash Four. The five-passenger touring car has been reduced $150.

When the Nash Four went into production a little over a year ago the touring car was priced at $1,355, the coupe sold for $1,555, and the sedan for $2,185. From the moment the car was introduced its value was unquestioned and it won immediate favor with the public.

So great has been the demand for four-cylinder cars that the Nash factory never has been in a position to fill all orders. This demand has steadily increased with a resultant volume in production.

"I believe I am entirely safe in saying that at its new price the Four represents by a big margin the greatest automobile value in the history of the motor car industry," said Charles B. Voorhis, vice president and general sales manager of the Nash Motors company.

"The Nash factory in Milwaukee, where the four-cylinder car is built, offers every facility for production on a basis of quality as well as volume. The plant is equipped with the finest and most modern machinery and the methods employed are those that have been used by Mr. Nash in his 25 years of manufacturing experience. In short, there is every reason why the Nash Four should stand entirely in a class by itself; there is every reason why this car at its present price should make an overwhelming appeal to the buyer."

Toney Chisum, of Amarillo, Tex. was an Albuquerque visitor last week. Mr. Chisum is general distributor for the Hudson and Essex. He reports business to be very good throughout his territory.

UTILIZING SHELL OF SPARK PLUG

The shell of an old spark plug in conjunction with a tire gauge makes a very handy compression tester. The porcelain of the plug is removed and a washer is fitted at the bottom. The gauge is next inserted and the packing is tamped in around it. The packing nut forces the packing down around the base of the gauge until a perfectly tight joint is made. This instrument is screwed into the spark plug hole, and when the engine is turned over by hand the compression is registered in pounds.

DEPENDABILITY AND BEAUTY HAPPILY SHOWN IN CADILLAC SEDAN

The beauty of the new Type 61 Cadillac is particularly marked in the sedan, which has met with nation-wide approval in the first weeks following its presentation.

This popular type of enclosed car emphasizes the buoyant, floating qualities for which the Cadillac has long been celebrated.

The lowering of the center of gravity, with no lessening of road clearance, contributes to a greater comfort in riding. The new carburetor, thermostatically controlled, provides greater power, and very easy starting, no matter what the temperature may be.

While the distinctive Cadillac characteristics have been retained, the design of the sedan is strikingly new and beautiful.

At the rear is an arrangement for carrying luggage, an added convenience and a mark of beauty. Also plates have been placed on the dust shields at each entrance.

The upholstery, of course, is in thorough keeping with the Cadillac standard and is extremely rich, refined and comfortable.

The Cadillac enclosed cars are remarkably beautiful also, and each has a distinct place in the Cadillac line.

Harry Harrington, of the Hudson-Exeter agency, was in El Paso the first of last week.

SMALL CUTS CAUSE SERIOUS TIRE INJURY

It is advisable to keep a sharp watch for breaks and cuts in the surface of tires. A few minutes spent in examining casings will prove a profitable investment of time to the car owner. Cuts seemingly superficial may actually penetrate one or more layers of fabric, thus weakening the entire structure. A blowout is the result if such is neglected. A small cut, if not repaired, permits sand and moisture to work in between the rubber tread and the carcass and causes tread separation. If this condition develops a tire soon goes to pieces.

A late Savage Tire service bulletin contains this information and further states that, when once the inner fabric is disrupted or cut and it is not immediately repaired properly, the damage is apt to increase and before long what was at first but seemingly a superficial cut becomes an irreparable injury. A wise precaution is always to carry a spare so that an injured tire may be taken off and relieved of duty until repaired.

Some may think that the motorist who is watchful of the little injuries and who attends to them carefully is "fussy," but the quack of time he thus spends saves him a pound of tire expense and perhaps considerable delay and discomfort.

RELIN HAND BRAKE WHEN IT RATTLES

When rattles develop in the hand brake there is only one sure cure—to have the brake relined and drawn up tight. If it is not possible to do this at the moment it is possible to help matters by the use of small coil springs hooked in such a way as to take up the slack. The springs should be light, so that they will not cause friction, but strong enough to support the weight and hold down the band, which has been jumping and causing the clattering.

ANOTHER DECLINE ON THE ESSEX

Guy Lauderbaugh, of the Lauderbaugh Motor company, announced on last Thursday another decline on the Essex. The touring car dropped $200, which is a new low price record for the Essex.

Mr. Lauderbaugh says that he does not see how manufacturers can turn out the quality of cars they are today at the prices when one considers the present cost of labor, material, freight, etc., which enter into the cost of a car.

"TOMMY, THE TODDLER," TO DO THIRTY DAYS; WAX MAIDS WERE COLD

New York, Oct. 22.—Tommy Parry, from London, invited two wax models into Thirty-fourth street for a dance.

When they registered chagrin he put his foot through the department store window and dragged them towards the Waldorf Astoria.

About this time Policeman Mulhall arrived and Tommy changed partners.

At the lookout he gave his occupation as "a toddler, Old Top, a toddler."

A suite at Blackwell's Island has been reserved for him for the next thirty days.

In the early days of baseball, when batting was regarded as almost the only feature of the game, the mending of a lively ball—ten inches in circumference and containing over two ounces of rubber—to the outfield for home runs was considered quite a feat. In the decade from 1857 to 1867 the scores were gradually increased until 1867, when the general average of the scores of the leading clubs of the period was fifty runs and over.

During the past hundred years, ever since the substitution of the cue for the mace, the game of billiards has been played much in the same way as it is today, the chief alterations being made in respect to the size of the balls and table.

MANNERS AND CUSTOMS HAVE CHANGED WONDERFULLY; AUTOMOBILES USED NOW AS MUCH IN WINTER AS IN THE SUMMER

During its youthful days, and up until just a few short years ago, the automobile was considered as only a summer vehicle, something to be put away about the first of October and to remain carefully enveloped in protecting blankets until about May the following year.

But times and manners and customs have changed wonderfully; automobiles have just about reached the acme of perfection; roads building has progressed to a point where one may travel far and wide without discomfort; and the people generally have learned much regarding their health, how to build and how to keep it. Hence autumn, with its undertone of the frost to come and its rain-bow robes of matchless beauty, is now considered the most delightful and healthful of all the touring seasons.

This applies chiefly to short distance trips. According to the touring bureau of the American Automobile association, which annually route countless thousands of motorists to and fro across the land, the spring season produces the greatest demand for long-distance or transcontinental information, while mid-summer callers want the shortest and best route to either mountain or seaside, using the car solely as a means of transportation. It is during autumn that the health jaunts are taken.

In the fall nature assumes her most brilliant garb; the foliage that has covered the hillsides with a uniform green all summer now blazes forth in a thousand shades of orange and yellow, crimson and purple. And the air, frequently sultry and often uncomfortably hot during July and August, is delightful cool, the sun not blazing and blinding, but welcomed for his genial warmth, a clear and bracing atmosphere replacing the frequent showers of midsummer.

Just as automobile manufacture and roads construction has progressed in the past twenty years, so, too, has the A. A. A., which, after all, is not a commercial enterprise but now a full-grown organization of those generous motorists who long ago banded together for their mutual welfare—to get roads built; to have them sign-marked and charted; to combat collectively unequitable legislation. Today A. A. A. members are followed to the remotest points reached by highway, trail or path. This service is one of the blessings of the modern motor world and, moreover, either direct or through an affiliated club, it is accessible to every person who owns a motor car.

So much, incidentally, for a worthy institution. The main theme of this article is, if you want to forget that there is strife in the world, fill up the old car, accept the welcome of hospitable hills and woods, step hard on the gas, and leave your troubles to the wind and trees. There you will find neither irritating headlines, talk of treaty, clamor of war, investigation, profiteering nor politics. Nor will you be vexed by delayed mail, telephone calls, crowded cars, liars or hays.

Just now autumn's gay robes are fading. Gold and scarlet are turning to lemon and brown. The great beeches are already bare, but the reveal oaks still flaunt their crimson vestments. White caravels sail in the sapphire sky. Listen and the whispering leaves will tell you of peace. The sunbeams will dance in the shadowy meads to convince you that life—real, free, fresh open-air life—is still filled with rapture. Your eye will sparkle and your heart beat higher. The air has the rich fragrance of sun-kissed, purple Burgundy. The October tonic is a sovereign specific for all the ills of mind and heart. The cool breezes will smooth the wrinkled brow and quiet the feverish brain.

Go out into the autumn and stay with her until the west burns with the sunset and she will give that without which ambitions, attainments, life itself, is empty—a fine, healthy full-grown appetite.

Far from the madding crowd, among the hills, listening only to the winds whispering among the trees, there will be no crowds, no haste, no worry. And best of all—no cure, no pay.

DAYTON RUBBER CO. OPENS DISTRIBUTING BRANCH, ALBUQUERQUE

J. H. Redfern of Denver, western manager for the Dayton Rubber Manufacturing company of Dayton, O., spent last week in Albuquerque completing the details for the opening of a distributing branch here.

The Albuquerque Foundry and Machine works has been appointed the distributors for the Dayton line.

Mr. Redfern stated that their business in New Mexico and Arizona had grown to such an extent that it was necessary for this arrangement if they kept up their high standard of service to their dealers. The local distributors will carry a stock sufficient to supply the demands of this territory.

Mr. Cameron, of the Albuquerque Foundry and Machine works, says that his company is in a position to give good service to the dealers and that if at any time any dealer had any adjustments to make that they could be made through the Albuquerque office.

THE AUTOMOBILE OF THE PROGRESS AND SERVICE

There is an analogy between the selling of the Ford car and the service which it gives.

The world over the Ford has won a reputation for its ability to "take you there and bring you back." Where roads deny traction to other cars, the Ford rolls on. It mokes the mire, meers at snags and heads no hills. Few natural obstacles can check its persistent progression.

Similarly the selling of Fords cars finds few hindrances to its progress.

Daily thousands of cars roll from the Ford plant to find a ready market, and whether in the metropolis or the village, the Ford sales room generally is a place of activity.

Rumors of business depression seldom disturb Ford selling or its associated lines. Like the car, they keep moving.

He chooses well who seeks the Ford, as his vehicle or his business.

The chief cause of engine trouble—sediment in inferior oil

OUR experience has been that practically every engine trouble a motorist has is due to faulty lubrication. Under the intense heat of the engine ordinary oil forms great quantities of black sediment.

Sediment has no lubricating value. It keeps the good oil from the fast-moving surfaces. It causes premature wear which will cut the life of your engine in two.

Sediment is reduced 86% when you use Veedol. With Veedol most serious engine troubles are eliminated. Cylinder grinding, bearing wear, carbon, valve troubles are all held down to a minimum.

Drop in today and let us fill your crankcase with the proper grade of Veedol.

Normal University

(Las Vegas.)

The first issue of the Trigonian News was out Tuesday and free copies were distributed to the entire student body at chapel. Several hundred copies were sent to high schools and exchanges and prospective subscribers throughout the state. The first issue is a creditable one and presents an orderly and pleasing appearance. A few typographical errors and misplacements in makeup are noticeable, but are due to the hurried work of the printer and will not be present in future issues, so the editor, John Samford, promises. Other members of the staff this year are: Assistant editor, Pearl Campbell; business manager, Carrol Conway; assistant business manager, Louise Ackerman; faculty representative, Clark E. Persinger. A "culum" called "The Ruler" is a new feature, and double leads on the front page instead of long single liners give the paper a more journalistic appearance. The Trigonian News was issued Tuesday in the future instead of Friday as heretofore.

A recent visitor of note here was Prof. Caldwell, head of the department of history in the University of Nebraska. Prof. Caldwell was the guest of Clark E. Persinger, with whom he collaborated several years ago in writing a series of school histories which have proven very successful.

A full supply raffia for basket weaving has been received by the art department. This department has a large enrollment and is doing a great variety of excellent work under Miss Brandenburg.

Miss Sena, professor of Spanish, who was ill for some time, has returned to her class.

F. Otto Riley, one of the soldiers in training here, has been ill for the past week.

The report cards for the first six weeks came out last week. Good many tears were shed, but a noticeable tightening up in effort seemed to result. The new system provides three cards—one for office record, one for the student, and one for the parent.

President Wagner went to the State intercollegiate college Friday to attend what is known as "pep day" in that institution.

The Union County Teachers' association meets November 4 and 5. Sedan, Miss Marie Myers, county superintendent, has invited the Normal to send some one to the meeting and the invitation will be accepted, either President Wagner or one of the deans probably being sent.

There is constant danger in an oily skin

If your skin has the habit of continually getting oily and shiny—you cannot begin too soon to correct this condition.

A certain amount of oil in your skin is necessary to keep it smooth and supple.

But too much oil not only spoils the attractiveness of any skin by giving it an embarrassing shininess—it actually tends to promote an unhealthy condition of the skin itself. A skin that is too oily is constantly liable to infection from dust and dirt, and thus encourages the formation of blackheads, etc.

You can correct an oily skin by using each night the following simple treatment:

WITH warm water work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap in your hands.

Apply it to your face and rub it into the pores thoroughly—always with an upward and outward motion.

Rinse first with warm water, then with cold—the colder the better.

If possible, rub your face for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.

GET a cake of Woodbury's today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter—give your skin its first treatment tonight. A 25-cent cake of Woodbury's will last for a month or six weeks of this treatment, and for general cleansing use. The Andrew Jergens Co., Cincinnati, New York and Perth, Ontario.

NOTE:

The tremendous grain crop that has been produced and raised in this state, the farmers will be forced to face this new crisis, of which many are still unaware. The foreign demand has decreased to such an alarming extent with the new Argentina and Australian crops coming upon the market, which will dominate the foreign market and which will force the farmers of this country to sell their wheat and crops at very low prices. Further they will not be able to transport any large quantities to eastern markets, due to the fact that eastern markets are fully and well filled with grain from closer points.

It is up to the consumers of this state to do their share to consume local products as much as possible, which will be great relief to this condition, and aid to the New Mexico farmers.
