LIFE IS THREATENED.
Omaha, Neb., Oct. 29.—A note threatening death unless he placed $500 on his church steps, was received last Tuesday by Rev. Patrick A. Flanagan, pastor of a local Catholic church, it was learned today. The matter was turned over to the local police by the priest, who said he was not alarmed by the note.

COLORADO U. IS BEATEN, 35-0, BY CHICAGO ELEVEN

Westerners Are No Match for the Heavy Easterners. 15,000 See the Game On a Rain-Soaked Field.

(By The Associated Press.) Chicago, Oct. 29.—The light but plucky University of Colorado eleven of the Rocky Mountain conference, returned home tonight convinced that Chicago's nine to nothing triumph over Princeton a week ago was no fluke.

Coach Stagg's warriors scored a thirty-five to nothing victory over the westerners, on a rain-soaked field today before a crowd of fifteen thousand.

The Colorado eleven, although game and fast, was no match for the heavy Chicagoans, who outplayed the visitors all the way. The only time the Colorado players made first downs was by use of forward passes. Noggle, left end; Franklin, right end, and Muth, right tackle, played brilliantly for Colorado, but were forced out because of injuries. Colorado sent in a new backfield in the fourth period, but the players could not pierce the Chicago line to any extent.

Except at the start, Chicago did not have its full strength on the field. Cole, Thomas and Hurlbut were kept on the side lines and Milton Romney, star quarterback, was taken out after the first half. Stagg had a new team with the exception of McGuire, in the game at the finish.

After scoring two touchdowns in the first period, the Maroons contented themselves with scoring a touchdown in each of the three other periods. Forward passes played an important part in Chicago's victory and the tackling of the Maroons was hard and deadly.

PROTECTION OF FRANCE WILL BE PREMIER'S AIM

He explains, how international pay-ments upset the exchange and tend to defeat their own object, and that the people of France, that politicians who gloss over these considerations are mere demagogues.

Favors Reducing Army.—He announced his straightforward fashion that he favors reducing France's army. It is too big and too costly. It is not popular—the people have had enough of war and soldiers; they want peace and a chance to work.

But to have peace, France must have security. And it is for that that M. Briand is going to Washington. That is the particular question he desires to take up with Secretary Hughes—how France can be assured that if she lays down her arms she will be just as safe within her national borders as she now is.

Treaties of guarantee? It is hardly thinkable that M. Briand will refer to that plan. There are indications that his ideas are broader and deeper than that—they lie in the economic rather than the military field.

In his speech at St. Nazaire the week before the parliament opened, M. Briand laid great emphasis on economic and financial solidarity among nations as the best guarantee of international peace. A nation does not go to war readily.

DYED HER FADED CURTAINS AND A SKIRT LIKE NEW

"Diamond Dyes" add years of wear to worn, faded skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, hangings, draperies, everything. Every package contains directions so simple any woman can put new, rich, fadeless colors into her worn garments or draperies even if she has never dyed before. Just buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then your material will come out right, because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to streak, spot, fade, or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods.

QUEEN FONDLES BABIES BORN AT MATERNITY HOME

Queen Mary and Princess Mary of Great Britain attended the laying of the cornerstone of the new Hemphreys Maternity home. The queen showed a motherly interest in the babies at the home, taking some of them in her arms.

It is realized its dependence on others. It is the egoist, the self-centered and self-sufficient nation that wants to fight.

Briand, then, will presumably propose world trade as the best cure for the present distress and the future menace of war. At present world trade is practically at a standstill. This is partly due to the timidity of credits, partly to tariffs. Each of these three causes has its influence, too, on each of the others.

But all of them are more or less dependent on the phenomena, new to the world, of gigantic international debts. Germany's debt to the allies, the debts of the allies to America. What is to be done about them?

Briand has reached certain conclusions about them—conclusions that he is not yet ready to utter aloud. They would be popular neither in France nor in America at the present moment. But it is likely that he will whisper them into the ear of Mr. Hughes—and that Mr. Hughes will whisper some sort of a reply.

Perhaps Mr. Hughes will just say, "Yes, Washington is a beautiful city, isn't it?" But then again, perhaps—

JAP VESSEL HAS STORMY VOYAGE ACROSS PACIFIC

Steamer Carrying Delegation to Washington Conference Encounters a Cyclone, Then a Strong Gale

(By The Associated Press.)

Aboard Steamship Kashima Maru, Victoria, B.C., Oct. 29 (By The Associated Press.)—The gorgeous autumnal day on which the delegation to the Washington conference sailed from Yokohama to the cozy notes of music and the "banzai" of thousands of friends was not symbolic, as it later appeared, of what was to be, for the voyage across the Pacific on the Kashima Maru which touched today at Victoria, was marked by a terrific encounter with a cyclone. On Monday, October 24, when the cyclone had spent itself, the ship was again struck by a strong westerly gale which sent her reeling.

Forty years ago Admiral Tomomatsu Kato, the ranking member of the official delegation to the conference on armament limitations, coming on an officers' training ship, set foot for the first time on the shores of North America, visiting Victoria as he did later or San Francisco. Not during that long period from midshipman to architect of Japan's great navy did his sailings across the seven seas bring him such a storm as fell to the lot of the Kashima Maru. The ship was badly shaken in the storm but it emerged practically intact.

Distinctly a Man's Party.

Only three women were aboard the first cabin—two Japanese and one American. It was distinctly a man's party. Prince Tokugawa, a member of the conference delegation, who, but for the restoration of the imperial dynasty, would today rule Japan as the sixteen-hundredth shogun; the Kashima bore the most representative gathering of people that ever sailed a foreign land. Almost every sphere of national activity and distinction was reflected—the business world by leaders who are visiting the United States, Canada, and Europe to investigate social and industrial conditions.

The prince bore himself coolly during the storm and moved about among the passengers collecting autographs, but for a foreigner, the storm was a severe test. In the afternoon book of a newspaper correspondent he wrote his name and added the words: "I determine to do my very best for our country and for the peace of the world."

The Kashima Maru was southwest of the Aleutian islands and her course was east. The cyclone struck the ship from behind, and the vessel quivered from the blow. Then she turned and faced the hurricane.

Passengers Struggled.

Passengers struggled to the dining saloon, which was reached with great difficulty. Dishes and bottles clattered to the floor. Representative Talmage of the Seiyu party, who goes to Washington as a party observer, and who weighs 190 pounds, was seen flying across the saloon. His steel attached chair was wrenched from its fastenings.

Captain Iseko communicated with other vessels in an attempt to find the center of the cyclone, so that he could steer to the outer rim of the storm. He kept the vessel pointed almost directly in the wind. The cyclone struck its height at 10 a. m., October 21.

There was admitted danger of the vessel being borne down by walls of water. The water swirled everywhere on the deck. After the storm had abated, Captain Iseko gave a brief talk on the cyclone. He estimated the height of the sea at 120 feet, the velocity of the wind at eighty miles an hour.

ECONOMIC TEAM WORK INDICATES JOINING OF EUROPEAN NATIONS

and lead, and give them to a nation which everywhere has proved inefficient, the continent would deserve the worst of fates and ought to be punished like a perversely child.

But this is not what the league's decision means. Otherwise neither the prudent Lohi, nor the statesmanlike Balfour would publicly praise the justice of that decision. The league in short has recognized Poland's administrative incapacity as already demonstrated in Posen, west Prussia, and the former Russian industrial provinces. Consequently, an attempt at a joint economic control over upper Silesia has been made. To prevent a surrender of vital nerves and veins, while at the same time doing justice to the 40 per cent Polish inhabitants, an economic commonwealth has been decreed for fifteen years, without customs and without a frontier.

The success of this undertaking is doubtful if Poland rules politically over the chief cities, pits, foundries and factories. No honest man can deny that the districts under her rule since 1919 are ruined and dirty and have gone centuries backward. Even the Polish inhabitants of these districts yearn for a return to German administrative order. It was this yearning which induced the league council to introduce the idea of an economic commonwealth in Silesia. Perhaps the Poles, the value of whose money testifies today the deepest financial ruin, will finally comprehend that their country is doomed if instead of allying themselves with German industry and order and creativeness, they turn against both Germany and Russia, and imitating French suspicion, increase their armaments extravagantly.

Scarcely anybody here believes that the scheme of economic co-operation in Silesia was adopted to help Europe but see in it an intention to enrich Poland at Germany's expense. Hence the rather extraordinary readiness to endorse the violent protests which have been made against the decision. These protests while accepting the political boundary as inevitable, reject the recommendations for German-Polish industrial co-operation.

This recommendation of co-operation is the only thing which makes the decision bearable for Germany. If gone into wholeheartedly, the beginnings of a genuine European commonwealth may be made. But with the Wirth government protesting because it had hoped for better results after helping Europe but see in it an intention to enrich Poland at Germany's expense, the decision, peace treaty and with the Berlin edition, showing a strengthening of the nationalist flood, Germany's politics again resemble the darkest days of Versailles, Spa and London.

KING ALEXANDER IS ON HIS WAY TO JUGO-SLAVIA

Traveling Incognito, He Leaves Paris for Belgrade, Accompanied by Two Cabinet Members.

(By The Associated Press.) Paris, Oct. 29.—King Alexander of Yugoslavia, traveling incognito, left Paris today for Belgrade, the Yugoslav capital. He was accompanied by Nikola P. Pachitch, the premier and minister of foreign affairs.

The king and his premier have been in conference daily for a week at Versailles. Today the minister spent the morning with the king and finally obtained his agreement to return to Jugoslavia, after an absence of several months.

Just before leaving, Alexander shook hands with a few friends who were in the secret of his departure, to whom he remarked: "I am very happy to go back to my people."

In addition to Premier Pachitch, he was accompanied by M. Jankovitch, Jugoslav minister of communications.

King Alexander went to Paris from Belgrade early in July. Shortly before then an attempt had been made to assassinate the then prince regent by bomb, but the reports stated he was not injured. At the time of King Peter's death in August, Alexander was said to be seriously ill in Paris, from appendicitis. During his illness he proclaimed his accession to the throne of Jugoslavia.

Quite recently it was reported from Agram that King Alexander in reality was suffering from a wound received from a bullet or a fragment of a bomb.

These men, Secretary of State Hughes and his four assistants, are responsible for the affairs of the state department. While much of the work handled by Hughes' assistants is routine, conditions at any time may make their work of vital importance. Under Secretary Fletcher's intimate knowledge of the Mexican situation, for instance, makes him of unusual value to the state department at all times. The group will be particularly busy during the arms conference.

GOVERNOR PLANS TO BE HERE FOR ARMISTICE DAY

According to reports received yesterday, Governor Merritt C. Mechem will be present at the Armistice Day celebration here. Due to pressing duties, it was at first feared that the governor would be unable to attend, but the final decision was satisfactory in that he will be able to be here. At the meeting of the Armistice Day committee at the Chamber of Commerce last night, it was decided that the parade be as economical as possible, without sacrificing any of the beauty of it. Ten or twelve floats have been definitely planned, the organization furnishing the floats bearing the cost of same. A request for the county and city trucks for floats will be made, as well as application to automobile dealers. A few firms have already offered cars to carry the G. A. R. will be donated, together with cars to furnish transportation for several women's organizations.

The donation of flags for use in the parade will be greatly appreciated by the committee. These flags should be marked, and left at the Chamber of Commerce. Provision will later be made for returning the flags to their owners.

Any society or organization which has not been formally invited to take part in the celebration should make itself known, and co-operate as far as possible with the committee. The services of two bands have been obtained free of charge.

YANKS TO GREET FOREIGN HEROES IN K. C. TODAY

Rain, Recalling Similar Days in France, Greets Delegates to the American Legion Convention.

(By The Associated Press.)

Kansas City, Oct. 29.—Rain, recalling to mind similar days in France, greeted the American legionnaires who arrived today to attend the national convention of the legion, which opens Monday. But the ties of friendship were stronger than mere physical comfort and on dozens of downtown street corners, stood groups of khaki-clad heroes oblivious to the downpour, living again the days of Chateau Thierry and the Argonne. Here and there in the groups were seen men leaning on crutches or canes. To them the tales of thrilling days brought back special memories, and frequently pale faces would light up with animation as one or another would call to mind some feat of heroism performed by "Yanks." Frequently members of a group would crowd their way aside to give a hug and a handshake to a new arrival.

Particularly colorful was a western group of former service men who wore high boots, sombreros and flannel shirts of vivid hue. Each state delegation sought by means of similar dress or ornament to make themselves distinctive.

Tomorrow, the first of the noted foreign military men who will attend the convention are to arrive. They are General Diaz of Italy and General Baron Jacques of Belgium. Elaborate welcoming ceremonies have been arranged.

The company complained it couldn't operate its mills when the Santa Fe made the charge $3.12 1/2 as the result of the blanket increases effective August 26, 1920, and the corporation commission laid the complaint before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

SEVEN DAYS IN L'L OL' NEW YORK

By JESSIE HENDERSON

(Special Dispatch to Morning Journal) (Copyright 1921 by Albuquerque Journal)

New York, Oct. 29.—It would delight the soul of any Turk to go up on the roof of Madison Square Garden these crisp October mornings. Fourteen women, none weighing less than 150 pounds, are making the garden shake with their efforts to reduce. Unfortunately the average New Yorker is not such an admirer of plumpness as is the average Ottoman. Hence these warring armies and kicking legs and panting lungs. Round and round the open air track go some 2,500 pounds of determination, and slowly the waist line grows where none grew before. Another proof, this, of the modern New York woman's determination to keep young and agile. Paris decrees a slim outline. Very well. Slim is the word. A plump beauty has a fat chance of being popular in these aeneic times.

Nor is it only for the sake of style that a New York woman needs to keep lithe and limber. Apparently the burglarious union has not noticed Mayor Hylan's assurance about the end of the local crime wave. More briskly than ever the hold-up man, the apartment looter and the common sneak thief are at work. The only class, by-the-by, with whom business is wholly prosperous. Somewhere in her school days,

Evelyn Taylor, the daughter of a former state senator, had learned the adage about brain being mightier than brawn. "Oh, I'm so glad you're here," she exclaimed when she found a strange man in her apartment the other night. "You're the gentleman from the flat next door, aren't you?"

Then, casting a glance over the disordered room: "When did the burglars leave? It was awfully good of you to come in to investigate. Would you mind going through the place with me to see whether any burglar is hiding in the closet? Then we can go down and notify the janitor—it's mighty nice of you." And so on nervously but bravely until she brought up in the janitor's office and handed the intruder over to that functionary and to the police.

A burglar has to think fast nowadays. But the New York woman is not always to be found among the burgled.

Occasionally she bobs up, smilingly, defiant, among the burgling. Miss Edie Filas and Miss Margaret McGinn have admitted their connection with a $50,000 jewel robbery and are still in process of telling the police about it. The girls who are stylishly dressed—and why shouldn't they?—said that several of their young men friends thought it would be fun to take the gems away from summer people on Long Island, so the girls helped by moral support and by guarding the plunder. The police might not yet have found the culprits if it had not been for a curious bit of psychology on the part of the Filas girl. She loved one member of the gang and resented the advances of another. Therefore, she hurried to the district attorney and told him enough to implicate the undesirable swain and to represent the man of her choice as the whitest white lamb a cruel world had ever wronged.

Nobody dreamed that burglary would be mentioned in the same breath with the Apollo-like Lou Tellegen. But the first broadside fired by counsel for Geraldine Farrar in her soon-to-be-famous divorce suit contained the assertion that once upon a time Lou was arrested in Paris on an accusation of burglary. This starts the suit off splendidly and ringside fans who feared it might be eclipsed by the Stillman case have begun to be optimistic. Yet the recriminatory repartee usual on such an occasion leads to the non-artistic layman wondering why artists don't dig up all these interesting records before marriage instead of afterward. Of course, it is one thing to be accused of a crime and another to be guilty. The vivacious Geraldine herself was accused of assault and battery on art when she bounced an orange or some other knick-knack on the brow of her rival in a riotously realistic interpretation of "Carmen."

SUITS FOR DAMAGES FOR $55,000 RESULT FROM PUEBLO FLOOD

(By The Associated Press.)

Pueblo, Colo., Oct. 29.—Suits for damages totaling $55,000, all growing out of the June floods, were filed in the district court here today against the Denver & Rio Grande railway and the Missouri Pacific Railway company. The suits were filed by persons in the passenger trains that were caught in the flood the night of June 5 and are based on alleged personal injuries suffered when they were washed from the trains. Five suits were filed against the two roads.

The remarkable life story of Henry L. Doherty, who started as a newsboy at ten in Columbus, Ohio, and who now, at fifty-one, is head of a $150,000,000 corporation, and rated as New York's richest bachelor, shows what can be accomplished single handed. His success has been achieved without the aid of schools and colleges, except for the few years of his early youth spent in the public schools at Columbus.

(By The Associated Press.)

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 29.—After fifty-one hours of deliberation, the jury which has been hearing the murder trial of Joe Williams, negro, accused of the murder of Sara Thordahl, Valley Junction school teacher, was discharged here this evening, after failing to reach an agreement.

The vote when discharged stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal.

DUCK SHOOTING ON THE RIVER NOT GOOD YET

But Few Flights Reported;
Stormy Weather Said to Be Needed in Northern States to Start Birds.

Although duck shooting is two weeks old, but few birds have been bagged in this vicinity. Hunters are getting fair numbers, but not so many as usual and are working harder for them. Indications are that the big flights have not yet reached here. Very few geese have reached New Mexico on their way south. Heavy storms in the north-west will be necessary to start the birds this way in any numbers.

G. P. A. officials report that hunters are co-operating with the authorities in respecting the recently established game refuges and that no violations have been reported from this vicinity. From high water bank to highwater bank, the river is closed for shooting for two miles below each of the wagon bridges. Signs have been posted on refuge areas.

Daylight hunting only is permitted and sportsmen should exercise care in the field events. Corral Holcomb headquarters troop, Albuquerque, won the boxing event, knocking out the star fighter of the First cavalry division in the third round of a 12-round bout. The men are highly elated over the victories and stand high with the regulars.

N. M. NATIONAL GUARDSMEN WIN AT FIELD MEET

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 29.—New Mexico national guardsmen won all events at the Fort Bliss field meet Saturday afternoon. Every Army football team defeated the crack team of the First cavalry division, 12 to 6. Jones and Duffy of Roswell started. The battalions are army champions of the southwest.

New Mexico won the silver cup put up by the officers and men of Fort Bliss. Corporal Abbott of Company C, Las Cruces engineers, starred in the field events. Corporal Holcomb headquarters troop, Albuquerque, won the boxing event, knocking out the star fighter of the First cavalry division in the third round of a 12-round bout. The men are highly elated over the victories and stand high with the regulars.

Sunday morning the entire New Mexico national guard will pass in review before General Howze and General Brown and their staffs. Moving pictures will be taken of this event. Immediately following the review the entire command will engage in a field exercise conducted by Chaplain W. H. Ziegler, assisted by Chaplain MacWilliams of the Eighth cavalry and the First cavalry band, the chaplain's altar being set up on an army truck.

All units will leave for their home stations Monday evening. Headquarters troop arrived at Albuquerque Tuesday morning.

TROOP 'A' BOY COPS FT. BLISS BOXING HONORS

Harold "Sailor" Holcomb is bringing home the boxing bacon for troop "A" from the national guard encampment at Fort Bliss. He took it from no less a personage than Bull Mosher, champion of the army camp, on Tuesday night when the champion took the count in the third round of an eight-round bout.

"Sailor" contented himself with body blows during the first two rounds of the meet, but in the third round, he shot a right to the jaw which stretched the camp champion on the canvas for nine counts. A left and a right to the chin put an end to the game after Full had regained his feet from the count of nine.

Nothing slips away so easily as HEALTH. Unless YOU hold fast to HEALTH by your own efforts—by keeping your blood pure, red and rich in iron—the day may come when all you can do is WISH you had acted sooner.

"For want of iron you may be old at thirty, full of wrinkles, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all 'run down', while at 50 or 60 you may be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy."

But be sure the iron you take is organic iron—NUXATED IRON—not metallic iron. Three stars of Yale's eleven. R. E. Jordan, fullback; Cross, husky guard, crouching; and Eli Cutler, right end.

Have Ted Jones and his aides rounded out a team at old Eli that will draw the boys back to the old days of Ted Coy, Pummelly and others? It looks that way. The early games this year have served to prove that Jones has a great defensive team Williams, Bates, Vermont and the University of Carolina failing to cross Yale's goal line. And the driving power seems to be there. Above are three of the men counted on to star for old Eli in the big games with Princeton, Harvard and Brown. Jones' men tackle Brown first, Oct. 29, at New Haven.

WILLIS-OVERLAND OUT FOR BUSINESS IN NEW MEXICO

In carrying out its new policy of intensive development of its wholesale organization, Willis-Overland, Inc., has engaged the services of Frank McDermott as traveling representative for New Mexico.

Mr. McDermott will make his headquarters at Albuquerque and his territory will include practically the entire state.

With Mr. McDermott for a few days are Fred S. Andrews, branch manager of the Denver branch of Willis-Overland, Inc., and H. A. Greer, who was formerly traveling representative for this part of the state, and who was at one time manager of the Overland Auto company with location on North First street.

They arrived late Saturday afternoon in a new Willis-Knight touring car, having driven from Denver and calling on all Willis-Overland dealers on the way down.

Mr. McDermott, commenting on conditions as he found them on this trip, says that it is his belief that the confidence expressed by business men in New Mexico will do a great deal towards bringing about the normal conditions which are in the immediate future.

The Willis-Overland representatives will leave for other important parts of the state early this week and will make their headquarters at the Kistler-Overland company on North Fourth street, while they are in the city.

JONES TO MEET CALDWELL HERE ON NOVEMBER 10

Foed of Old Standing May Be Settled at Armory in Less Than 12 Rounds;
Two Other Bouts Are Up

Gorilla Jones and Walter Caldwell are scheduled for a twelve-round bout to be the main event of the boxing card being prepared by Benny Cordova for the evening of November 10 at the armory. It is understood that the consent of two members of the city boxing commission has been unofficially obtained for the bout and it is reported that all three members favor it.

Caldwell has had the best of Jones in several matches during the past year, but the Gorilla claims he can get the best of him this time and Cordova has signed both the boys up to give him a chance to prove it.

Jones recently put Kid Brown out of the running in the third round of a long scheduled bout at Juarez.

As preliminaries, Jim Flynn, of Albuquerque, will mix with Tex King for a scheduled bout of six rounds, and "Batling" Otero will stage the curtain lifter with Kid Candelaria for four rounds.

Ladies will be admitted free of charge.

"We intend putting on a good clean athletic exhibition," Cordova stated last night, "and we want women to feel they can come and enjoy it the same as the men."

DUKE CITY HIGH ROMPED OVER BY ROSWELL ELEVEN

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Roswell, N. M., Oct. 29.—Roswell high school smothered the Albuquerque high school gridiron squad here today by a score of 39-0. From the beginning of the game to the end the Roswell team had the edge on the visitors. Albuquerque was able to make but very few first downs and these were made entirely on forward passes. However, the score does not indicate the class of game it was, because it was one of the best and cleanest games ever played in Roswell.

The Albuquerque high players played like demons in the face of a lopsided score until the very end of the game. They were simply outclassed by a team lighter than they by a few pounds, but faster and with more good individual players. Both teams showed excellent coaching, each one playing superior football.

Roswell scored with five touchdowns and four goals kicked, a safety, and Fyffe kicked a field goal from the twenty-five-yard line. Albuquerque executed some excellent forward passes, and although Roswell was able to use these, they preferred straight football in which the gains were sure.

CALORIES AND WEIGHT.

A woman wrote to me recently and asked me whether it was necessary to learn the calorie theory in order to reduce. It is not necessary but it is desirable. If you understand exactly the sort of foods you may eat and the quantities, you cannot go wrong.

Another excellent reason is that if you understand this calorie system you will be able to pick and choose your foods, eating the things you like without any fear that indulgence is going to mean more pounds instead of fewer.

This whole calorie system of reduction, which is the new and scientific way, is frequently gone over from one end to the other in this space and tables of calories are published, so that if you read you will have the whole system given to you.

Generally speaking—
A Child, 2 years to 6, requires 1000 to 1500 calories of food daily.
A Child, 6 years to 12, requires 1500 to 2500 calories of food daily.
A Youth, 12 years to 18, requires 2500 to 3000 calories of food daily.
An Adult Woman requires 1500 to 2000 calories of food daily, depending upon the activity of the woman.
An Adult Man requires 2000 to 2500 calories of food daily, depending upon the activity of the man.

To find out more exactly the number of calories of food you need daily you must know your present weight and what you should weigh for your age and height. Most scales have a little card showing the insurance tables of weights and heights. You can get this information most easily that way.

Blue Eyes: Send a stamped addressed envelope for a formula to bleach off freckles. Cucumber juice will help, but the best way is to protect the skin from the direct rays of the sun, which can be done by using a very little cream, wiping off surplus and dusting the face with a fine powder before much exposure to the sun or wind.

M. D.:—I regret there is not space to publish the eyelash tonic at this time, send a stamped addressed envelope for it.

Worried:—The growth of hair under the arms is natural and failing to bathe each day, has nothing to do with it; but, you should bathe the whole body each day and be sure that you do not neglect this part, as the skin is more active under the arms than other places. The odor from perspiration is usually the result of not drinking enough water to keep the system properly flushed.

Contrite:—It should not take you longer than one month to be able to put up the hair after bobbing it. Gather up as much of it as you can to tie it together at the back of the head. Arrange the curl all of the hair that remains and cover the entire head with a net, but keep it loose enough not to spoil the soft effect from the curls.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

By LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

HALLOWEEN FUN FOR THE CONVALESCENT INVALID.

Anybody who has ever been sick in bed knows that the hardest time to bear one's illness is on a holiday—when all the rest of the world is at play. This Halloween there are scores of convalescent invalids who are not able to accept invitations to parties or to enjoy the company of persons outside their own family, yet who would appreciate having their sickroom take on a "Halloween" appearance and would derive much pleasure in celebrating the occasion with some such simple game as that given below, which would not overtax their strength.

The decorations might be hung around the room when the invalid is taking a daytime nap or the invalid's eyes might be bound with a silk handkerchief while the mysterious work of decorating is going on. A few bright pumpkin-faces (such as can be bought at any stationers' store) could be pinned to the window curtains. The lighting should be such as to be really decked with orange and black so that when the lights were on, the room would be colored weirdly. Crepe paper streamers might be festooned here and there; and a real pumpkin, hollowed out, could stand on table or bureau as Jack O'Lantern. If some outside friend of the invalid were to make this Jack O'Lantern, the invalid's enjoyment of it would be doubly keen; for when we are ill we are always pleased to know that our friends think of us.

When the invalid awakes, or when the bandage is removed from his or her eyes, and the decorations have been enjoyed, the following game might be started:

The Witches Answer: From a child's copy of Mother Goose Rhymes trace the picture of an old witch on tissue paper; pin this piece of tissue to a piece of rather stiff cardboard and cut out around the witch figure. You can now color the cardboard with orange and black with a child's set of crayons. Pin this witch on a large circular disc of stiff cardboard, securing the two together by running a pin through the middle of the witch-figure and bending it flat on the under side of the cardboard disc. In this way the witch will whirl around when spun with the finger. On the outside edges of the disc write, at intervals, "Soon," "In Two Weeks," "Good Things Ahead," "Keep Smiling," "Surprise Soon," and "Yes." Now on a sheet of paper write these sentences: "When Will I Get Well?" "When Will I Go to a Real Party?" "Is There Something Unexpected in Store For Me?" (and any other sentences you like). The invalid first reads aloud one of these sentences, and then spins the witch on the dial; the top of her hat points to the answer on outside of the disc when she stops spinning.

Following this game, a Jack Horner Pie, filled with messages from friends, could be "cut" by the invalid.

CHAPTER 126.

In the morning the postman brought Dick a thick letter.

His big serial had been accepted, and a check of some dimensions as made up was his reward.

"Don't you see, Dick, that you never need Juanita or anyone else to make you a success? In fact, I rather think she put you back about a year," I remarked casually as we planned what we would do with the money. "It was perfectly lovely for her to want to help you all along. I wanted awfully to myself. But I felt I would only hinder, so I never offered."

"Just as though you had not helped! Why, Nan, had it not been for you I never could have written anything. You financed the family until I got on my feet."

It had been a long, long time since Dick had said anything like this to me. My eyes misted, yet I would not let him see how childish I was.

"Let us go over and tell Juanita of your success," I suggested. Frequently I urged Dick to go over with me, to go to her, to tell her of his success. Yet I knew that he did go; that her hold was still strong enough to make him long for her, and seek her society.

Mary, Juanita's old servant who had been with her for many years, was in her confidence to an extent not often seen between maid and mistress. When we first met Juanita she had told me that she never had any secrets from this old woman who had been with her since her childhood.

"She knows all my goodness and all my badness," she had said laughing. "I can be quite myself with her."

I never had liked the old woman, although I could give no real reason for my dislike. She was inoffensive, almost servile toward Juanita's guests, but there was something not quite frank I thought, something almost shy about her.

The parlor maid admitted us. She said she would tell Juanita we were there. After a bit she came back and said her mistress was not in, and asked us to wait as she

HAREM ACCURATELY PICTURED ON SCREEN FOR FIRST TIME

Pola Negri and Paul Wegener as they appear in "One Arabian Night."

The interesting and mysterious life of the harem inmates is vividly depicted in the newest German film to be released in this country. The name of the spectacle is "One Arabian Night," and again the fascinating Pola Negri has the starring part.

It is said to be the first time that a serious effort has been made to show on the screen just what a harem looks like, and how the women confined in such an institution conduct themselves. Considerable research work was done by the director, Ernest Lubitsch, in order that the setting and the action would be true to life.

There is one thing about the harem of a mighty sheik—it is a place where there are no great complications about getting a divorce. In the picture Paul Wegener, a Persian sheik, tires of his favorite wife and is captivated by a desert dancer played by Pola Negri. He decides to give her a new object of his affection the place of honor in the harem. To do this he removed a string of pearls from the neck of the erstwhile favorite, places it on that of the usurper and the divorce is complete.

The photographs show Pola Negri as the newly installed harem queen, wearing the pearls, at the side of her lord and master.

ever done nothing to hurt you. We sat in the dining room, the windows of which opened upon the porch. About 15 minutes had passed when we heard voices. Juanita and Mary had paused on the porch, and the windows being raised we heard distinctly. It was Dick's name uttered by Juanita that caught our attention—that kept us silent.

"Now, Mary, you know it won't do any good to urge me," said Juanita. "But Miss Juanita," Mary's voice was stammering. "Master Williams isn't fit to make you act like you do. He ain't nothin' but a poor writer with a wife that he'd have to get rid of before he could marry you and—"

"Marry me? That's right! I don't want to marry him, Mary."

"Then what do you want of him, Honey?"

"I want to make him get rid of her! I want to show her I can! She thinks he cares for her, but she's just a little thing. Why, he's been crazy over me since the first day I met him."

"And you like to show your power over him when you have the others, don't you? But Honey, never mind worryin' about this writer man—let his wife have him."

I listened to the old woman pleading for me with curious mixed feelings. I couldn't have spoken to save my life. So it was to show her power over him that Juanita wanted to take Dick from me, because she loved him.

"I tell you, Mary, I will not give up. I'll make him—make him say he wants me to go away with him. He is the first man who has ever related me so long. I'll prove to you that I can take him from her, the plain, unattractive, working woman."

"But you won't marry him, you never does. Mrs. Williams ain't."

ASK DOC, HE KNOWS!
Paris, Oct. 29.—French champagne and other fine wines are increasing in demand in the United States "for medicinal purposes."

More than 240,000 quarts, valued at 1,572,000 francs, were exported to America during the first six months of this year, according to figures published today by the ministry of commerce.

During the corresponding period in 1920 only 121,000 quarts, valued at 604,000 francs, were shipped to America.

This liquor is all imported into America under license granted by the "prohibition enforcement commissioner," French statistics say.

CITY WATER IS FREE FROM ALL CONTAMINATION

Chlorination Plant Was Put in Operation Monday and Has Proved a Success; Will Be Used Temporarily

The water chlorination plant, which was put in operation Monday, has proved a complete success and the city water is now going to the consumer absolutely pure. The test of the water made yesterday revealed this condition, and the added fact that no trace of chlorine remained in the water after treatment, all of it being used up in the process.

Feeling that the impure condition of the water was only a temporary matter, the city obtained a portable chlorination plant from the public health department at Santa Fe. The plant was installed at the city pumping station and treatment of the water started Monday morning.

It took some time to obtain the proper mixture, but on Tuesday the mixture of two-tenths of a part of chlorine to one million parts of water was shown to be perfect and since that time has been used.

The chlorination process is comparatively simple, the chlorine being contained in a drum and mixed with the water in small quantities continuously before the fluid mixture drops down into the city main.

The chlorination of the water is absolutely harmless, resulting in something like a salt solution. Chlorine is in reality extracted from salt compound by the electrolysis method.

Operation of the plant is figured to cost an average of 45 cents a day. Three pounds of chlorine is used each twenty-four hours at a cost of 15 cents a pound. About a million and a half gallons of water are consumed by the city each twenty-four hours at this time of year.

SAYS EVERYBODY MUST PRAY FOR SUCCESS OF ARMS CUT CONFERENCE

(By The Associated Press.) London, Oct. 29.—Everybody must pray for the success of the Washington conference, said Baron Hayashi, Japanese ambassador, in speaking today at a luncheon to foreign correspondents. He had no suggestion to make as to the course to be taken by the conference on limitation of armaments and far Eastern problems, he continued, but he hoped that only principles of the broad common grounds upon which future relations would be based would be discussed.

NEBRASKA WINS FROM OKLAHOMA ON SOGGY FIELD

Cornhuskers Pile Up 44 Points to the Sooners' None; Preston Puts Up a Wonderful Contest.

(By The Associated Press.) Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 29.—Nebraska romped over Oklahoma today on a rain-soaked football field, winning by a score of 44 to 0 and setting a pace for many of the Cornhuskers' victories. Nebraska won by a diversified battery of straight, hard, smashing football, together with brilliant end runs and superiority in the kicking game. Oklahoma, lighter by several pounds to the man, was handicapped by the muddy field, and was unable to carry out to the limit her undoubted superiority in forward passing. As it was, the visitors in the second period with three successive completed forward throws, Tyler, Hill, Marsh and Hendricks handling the ball, ran down the field fifty yards to the Nebraska 15-yard line, only to be cheated out of a possible touchdown by an uncompleted forward pass over the goal line. It was the only time Nebraska goal was in danger.

Nebraska took the measure of the Sooners almost at the kick-off and scored at regular intervals. Preston played a wonderful game and was the individual Cornhusker star, his returning of punts being as neat a bit of work as ever seen on the local gridiron. Swanson and Scherer were also towers of strength for Nebraska.

CENTRE COLLEGE GRIDIRON SQUAD TRIMS HARVARD

"Bo" McMillin Scores a Touchdown and "Praying Colonels" Defeat the Crimson, 6 to 0.

(By The Associated Press.) Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 29.—Centre College of Danville, Ky., scored a remarkable football triumph in the Harvard stadium here this afternoon, defeating the crimson 6 to 0 as the result of a touchdown made by "Bo" McMillin. It was the first defeat sustained by Harvard in the stadium since the season of 1916.

The Centre College team was a far superior aggregation than the one defeated, 31 to 14, on the same field a year ago. Harvard was generally outplayed by the so-called "praying colonels," but a desperate rally in the final period might have changed the result except for a penalty.

A forward pass, Buell to Churchill, gave Harvard the ball on Centre's three-yard line, but offensive play caused a five-yard penalty and a second attempt from Centre's thirty-seven-yard line was intercepted by Bartlett. The game ended shortly afterward.

WYOMING U AND DENVER VARSITY GAME IS A TIE

(By The Associated Press.) Denver, Colo., Oct. 29.—Fullback Fitzke's toe earned Wyoming university's football team a tie with Denver university here this afternoon, 5 to 5. The big cowboy back drop-kicked three goals, one from the 40-yard line, matching Denver's placement kick and touchdown.

McCaughey, Denver quarterback, kicked a placement from the 40-yard line in the first period. Fitzke came back in the second period and booted a drop-kick from the same distance. He added another in the third period.

In the final period the Denver eleven played a wide open game. Williams throwing a pass to Fike right end, with the ball on the 29-yard line. Fike trotted over the goal line unopposed. Denver failed to kick goal and thus lost what would have proved to be the winning score.

Recovering Denver fumble on Denver's 10-yard line the Cowboys were unable to take the ball over in three downs and Fitzke dropped back to the 15-yard line and tied the score with his third field goal.

During the final minutes of play Denver constantly menaced the Wyoming goal, using forward passes on every scrimmage. Few were successful, however, and the Wyoming backs intercepted passes at critical moments and kicked out of danger. Once again in this period Fitzke got within kicking distance but his attempted kick from the 45-yard line was blocked. Denver recovering.

The Denver eleven outrushed the Cowboys, but lacked the punch within the 20-yard line. Both teams lost opportunities in the first period to score when backs fumbled.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 6, 1921.—In answer to your letter of recent date as to my condition, will state that after having a thorough examination made by a local doctor, I was pronounced strong and well and no traces of T. B. were visible. Not feeling too sure of my condition, I waited several weeks and had another examination made, which has proven as satisfactory as the first. So from these examinations I feel sure that I no longer need to worry about my condition from that point. Thanking you for the interest that you have taken in my case and appreciating the good that your Method has done me, I will close.

Following is an excerpt from another letter received on today's mail: "Precept, Ill., Oct. 8, 1921.—My wife is all right, getting along fine." (She was healed by THE INHALANT METHOD some time since.) COUNTY SCHOOL CHILDREN TO BE IN BIG PARADE

All Pupils From Schools Close to City Will Participate in the Armistice Day Celebration Here.

Plans for participating in the Armistice day parade were made by the county teachers yesterday morning at their meeting at the Old Town school. Practically all of the schools close to the city will be represented in the parade, many of them with their entire enrollment of pupils.

The suggestion that the children dress to represent the various allied nations was discarded on account of the cost of the costumes, but they will all wear red, white and blue sashes. Several hundred county school children will probably be in the parade.

County teachers will take an active part in the state convention to start here November 21, and every teacher in the county will attend all of the sessions. They will also take part in the entertainment of the visiting teachers.

GIRL PUTS CITY BUT 3-1-2 HOURS FROM LAS VEGAS

Three hours and a half from Las Vegas to Albuquerque by auto road. This is the record a girl claimed to have hung up when she stopped at the Chamber of Commerce Friday afternoon to get information on west roads. She expected to reach San Francisco Monday morning and Socorro in about an hour and a half.

The official in charge of the tourist bureau at the Chamber of Commerce listens to all kinds of yarns about motors—but has not yet recovered from this one. He claims auto tales have jumped clear out of the class of fish stories.

Even though there is some doubt as to the possible time which can be made between here and Las Vegas, the roads are in fair condition through the east and west and although they are a little rough in spots, good time is being made by autoists. Both of the roads leading to Arizona are said to be in fair condition.

Tourist travel this week is estimated to be heavier than last week, when more than a thousand westbound cars were checked passing through Los Lunas.

JAPANESE PAPER SEEKS TO CHART BASIS FOR PEACE

Diplomatic Review Lay Down What It Believes to Be Essentials for Lasting Amity.

Tokio, Oct. 29.—The Diplomatic Review in a recent number referring to the Washington conference declares that the following principles are essential to insure the peace of the world on a lasting basis:

That difference of race, religion or nationality shall not be permitted to obstruct or interfere with the freedom of immigration, and a guarantee to that effect shall be given by the powers;

That no cause or reason shall be permitted to stop or interfere with free and unhindered transportation of supplies and raw material; but that economic barriers shall be removed and trade and commerce placed on a basis of equality, fairness and non-discrimination;

That the freedom of the sea shall be guaranteed in times of peace or war, provided the act concerned is not criminal;

That international conference or negotiations, whether preliminary or formal, shall be opened to the public;

That an understanding shall be arrived at among the powers to set a standard of limitation for armament with respect to the extent of dominion or territory to be governed by one and the same sovereign power;

That such colonies or dependencies capable of being independent shall have the power of administration either given or restored to them;

That the armaments of the powers shall be simultaneously removed and the storage of a supply of armaments of war of any form or kind shall be forbidden;

If the powers agreement is secured on those broad principles nothing more need be arranged or agreed to in insuring the peace of the world. The editor, however, is not sure of this and proposes the following which he is inclined to think is more practicable:

Armaments of any kind on the Pacific shall be removed. The fortifications of Guam, Hawaii and the like, which prove to be a menace to the security in the Pacific and the Far East, shall be removed, Japan being expected to do the same.

The armaments not included in the above shall be brought to the standard of strength that existed prior to the beginning of 1913, the powers being expected simultaneously to reduce these armaments to the above mentioned level and standard. Any arrangements or agreement concluded at or before the Paris conference shall not be affected by the results of the Washington conference, in other words, the Washington conference shall have no retroactive power.

BUILDING MORE FORTIFICATIONS WILL MEAN WAR

Japanese Predicts Strife Between His Country and U. S. Unless Work in South Pacific Is Stopped.

(By The Associated Press.)

San Francisco, Calif., Oct. 29.—Unless the United States and Japan stop fortifying the south Pacific, a conflict between the two countries is inevitable, and for the sake of peace and harmony both countries should refuse to spend another cent for this purpose, Kotaro Mochizuki, a leader of the kensetsei party in Japan, on his arrival here today on the Shinyo Maru, which brought several Japanese groups bound for the Washington conference.

"You should destroy your fortifications in Hawaii, the Philippines and Guam, while we in turn should raise curs on Formosa and other island approaches to Japan," he said. "If that is impossible, let us at least stop where we are. God did not make the Pacific to be disturbed by conflict, but to be 'holy water.'"

The call for the Washington conference has made limitation of armaments a practical proposition, according to E. K. Mura, of the Japanese foreign office. Co-operation such as has been effected in the Chinese consortium is the master key to all the problems of the Far East, he added.

EXPERTS EXAMINED IN SOUTHWEST CASE

(By The Associated Press.)

Twin Falls, Ida., Oct. 29.—The trial of Mrs. Lydia Meyer Southard, accused of murdering her fourth husband, Edward F. Meyer, dragged to the close of the fifth week here today.

The day was given over mainly to examination of medical experts called by the defense. Long hypothetical questions were the rule. William F. Dooley, brother of Edward Dooley, whom the state contends Mrs. Southard poisoned, told of the disposal of his brother's body at his home in Keytesville, Mo.

"AND I HAVEN'T FORGOTTEN A SOUL"

I have learned my lesson. It is this: The people who always do the right thing at the right time—these people we come to love for their constant acts of kindness—who are always known for their thoughtfulness—these people aren't inspired. They don't act on the impulse of the moment. They simply use forethought. They are always thinking ahead about ways of showing their good will to others. It was last Christmas morning that this came over me, when the postman handed me dozens of Christmas cards from friends to whom I had entirely forgotten to send cards. I was so mortified that then and there I made a vow, and today, long before Christmas I have made up my list of friends to send cards to this year. Before you realize it Christmas and New Year will be here. How often in former years have you neglected to make your selection of cards in time. This Christmas more than ever before, Greeting cards are going to be in vogue. Send Greeting Cards and send them generously. Bring in your plate and match the type with the sample cards we have to show you.

CANNOT CONSIDER GAS MASKS AS LIFE SAVING APPARATUS, IS RULING

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Oct. 29.—Army gas masks cannot be considered life saving apparatus, it was formally decided by the Interstate Commerce commission today. A southwestern railroad, which held that they were in the matter of fixing freight rates, lost a considerable sum of money.

The Houston (Texas) Chamber of Commerce and the W. C. Munn company, a corporation in the same city, brought the question before the commission by complaining that the railroad which carried a carload of the masks from Camp Logan, were unable to find a specific rate charge covering the cost, and consequently made the charge double first class and classified the masks as life-saving apparatus.

The commission, pointing out that the masks were sent to Chicago for sale as souvenirs, concluded that the rate was twice as much as proper.

FOCH IMPRESSED WITH GREETING RECEIVED HERE

Lays a Wreath on Washington's Grave; Pays His Respects to Harding and Coolidge; Dinner Guest.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Oct. 29 (By The Associated Press.)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, a soldier of France and citizen of the world, today received, through President Harding and other government officials, the official thanks of the American people for having led his sons to victory in the war.

Official Washington also joined in paying tribute to the soldier who declared he was deeply impressed with the warmth of his greeting. Cheering crowds greeted him and there was no mistaking the warmth of the greeting extended the little gray haired man, who humbled the German army. The marshal accepted the homage paid him with becoming modesty. His right hand frequently came to his cap in salute and smiles played across his features.

Late in the afternoon he visited Washington's tomb, where he laid a wreath on the grave of "The Father of Our Country." After laying the wreath on the tomb he stood in silent prayer a few minutes.

Before visiting the tomb the marshal was taken through the Washington home. The original Houdon bust of Washington was pointed out to him and he spent several minutes inspecting it. Then he went upstairs to the bedrooms and signed his name in the official guest book.

He told members of his party that, viewed from the road, the place was like any one of a thousand farms, but that once he was inside the grounds he realized its great attraction.

"It was characteristic of the man himself," he said.

Starting at 10 a. m. the marshal first paid his respects to President Harding, and then was received by Vice President Coolidge, who hailed him as "The Man Who Saved Both France and America." Later he called at the state department where he was received by Secretary Hughes and at the war department, where General Pershing and Assistant Secretary Wainwright greeted him. At the navy department he shook hands with Secretary Denby and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt.

The official party then motored to the home of former President Wilson, where Brigadier General V. B. Connor, who is acting as honorary military aide, was informed that Mr. Wilson was not receiving visitors. General Connor inquired about the former president's health and then left the marshal's car. Inquiry later developed Mr. Wilson had suffered a slight digestive upset.

After a brief rest at his hotel, the marshal returned to the White House for luncheon with President and Mrs. Harding.

Monday evening, tonight was the guest of Ambassador Jusserand at the French embassy, where a dinner was given in his honor.

Theaters Today

"B" Theater—Rebe Daniels, starring in "The Speed Girl," a Realart picture, adapted from an original story by Elmer Harris; also presenting "A Chili Romance," a two-part "Ferdie and Percy" comedy, and a reel or two of "Current Events" pictures.

Larrie Theater—Albert A. Kaufman presents "Courage," a Sidney A. Franklin production; also Buster Keaton, the famous comedian, starring in "The Goat," a two-part comedy.

Pastime Theater—Lewis J. Selznick presents "Conway Tearable in the Great Mystery Play, 'After Midnight'."

THE CAMERA FAILED TO RECORD REAL OF MOTORCYCLE SPILL

The thrill which doesn't show on the screen is frequently felt by the players and staff of a moving picture company. Such an occurrence took place during the filming of "The Speed Girl," Realart's newest picture, starring Rebe Daniels, which will open at the "B" theater today in a run of only two days.

One of the motorcycle officers—formerly employed in a studio as assistant director—entered into the pursuit scenes with a vim that left nothing to be desired. While he was rounding a turn at about forty-five miles per hour, he found himself unable to keep in the road and went off into a stone pile.

He was thrown into the air, and the spectators gasped with horror, thinking him seriously injured, as his machine turned a somersault and landed beyond. Running to him, the other members of the company found that he was only bruised and shaken—nothing broken except the motorcycle, which had its front wheel "jazzed" so that it had been hauled home.

Unfortunately, the tumble, which would have added a great thrill to the picture, happened just outside the field of the lens, and no one was more disappointed than the officer when he was told that his "flip" hadn't registered on the film.

Miss Daniels has an exceptionally good cast with her in "The Speed Girl," which is by Elmer Harris, with scenario by Douglas Doty. Theodore Von Eltz is leading man, and Walter Hiers has a good role.

UNUSUAL MYSTERY DRAMA UNFOLDED IN "COURAGE," NOW SHOWING AT LYRIC

Sidney Franklin's latest special film production, "Courage," which has been for many months in the making with an exceptionally noteworthy cast, will be on the screen offering at the Lyric theater for two days, commencing today.

Naomi Childers, an actress of rare beauty and talent, has the leading feminine role, and Sam de Grasse, equally well known on the screen, has the male lead.

Others appearing in this first National attraction are Lionel Belmore, Adolph Menjou, Lloyd Whitlock, Alice B. Francis, Ray Howard, Gloria Hope and Charles Hill Mailes.

"Courage" was adapted for the screen by Sada Cowan from An-draw Soutar's novel of the same name. It is a gripping story of a young English engineer, Stephen Blackmore, who is imprisoned for a murder he did not commit. From behind his prison bars he secretly directs a great industry through his faithful and plucky little wife. By this method and by his own efforts he wins a war.

The real story, dying on the battlefields, makes a confession exonerating Blackmore. As a result Blackmore is not only reunited with his wife, but the romance of their son is turned from one of sorrow to one of happiness.

CONWAY TEARABLE IN THE GREAT MYSTERY PLAY, "AFTER MIDNIGHT"

Conway Tearable in a new Selznick picture, "After Midnight," will be the attraction at the Pastime theater for several days, commencing today, and it promises to present him in a career that is equal to any of his previous work. The picture is a thriller and plot have been developed to their highest dramatic value and that the picture will be marked by action and more action.

There are some unusually interesting scenes of Chinatown and the underworld of New York that have been worked out to the minutest detail and fairly breathe the atmosphere of the famous Chinese dens. A half a hundred real Chinese play a prominent part in the picture and lend an air of impressive reality to the scenes.

The leading part opposite the star is played by the winsome Zena Keefe, who, during her lengthy screen career, has won a legion of followers. Miss Keefe and Mr. Tearable have played together on the screen before and will be favorably remembered for their work in the Selznick production, "Hearts," which was presented a few months ago. The cast also contains such well known players as Macy Harlan, Charlie Fag and Harry R. Allen.

PROCLAMATION

Santa Fe, Oct. 29.—Governor M. C. Mechem has issued a proclamation declaring Armistice day, November 11, a legal holiday, as follows:

"The fourth anniversary of Armistice day is fast approaching. Of all the holidays set aside by custom or law to commemorate land marks in American history, Armistice day is destined to become the greatest and most significant, for on this day the warring nations of the earth laid down their arms; and the terrific conflict which led up to its birth, the hopes and aspirations that dawned upon humanity on that day, are of vital interest to the wellbeing of mankind now and for generations to come.

In order that there may be no official restrictions upon the proper observance of Armistice day in New Mexico, I, Merritt C. Mechem, governor, do hereby declare and proclaim November 11, 1921, as

"ARMISTICE DAY," and a legal holiday in the state of New Mexico.

"I respectfully suggest that the American legion take charge of the ceremonies of the day; that solemn tribute of gratitude be paid to our heroic dead; that we join with the national government at Washington in mourning at the grave of the unknown American soldier to be buried at Arlington Park, as the unknown youth represents all of our boys who died in the world war, defending our country.

"I trust that all churches, lodges, schools, social and civic organizations, labor unions, brotherhoods, and patriotic societies will assist in arranging suitable and dignified ceremonies for the day."

PALESTINE PAGEANT THIS AFTERNOON IN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The first of the series of Palestine pageants to be given here by Dr. Allen Moore, P. M. S. G. S., will be offered this afternoon in the Presbyterian church. His subject is "The Shepherd of the East."

Several extracts of the Bible will be enacted before the audience by costumed actors, who will illustrate in action the lecture as the doctor proceeds. Several questions of sovereign interest will be answered and fascinating scenes will be described and presented.

The lectures of Dr. Moore are always well attended. It is estimated that his grip pageant in Chicago was witnessed by 500,000 people, while in Gallup last Sunday evening 300 persons were unable to gain entrance because of the crowds.

IS THIS "THE WASTED GENERATION"? STIRS DENIALS

Novelists, Educators and Employers Find No Grounds for the Indictment of the Youth Beginning Its Life Career; Protest That Such a Charge Is Mere Pessimism

IS the present generation wasted so far as carrying civilization on a little further, which, as political economists have agreed, was always the result of every generation. Owen Johnson, a novelist, in his latest fiction declared in the affirmative. Opinions of other novelists, educators and managers of great business on the subject is presented herewith. In the main they take issue with the opening pessimistic view.

Our young man and woman graduates of high schools and colleges of the present year start on the career they have chosen with hope and confidence and, as the writers who follow say, with intellect even more acute than their fathers displayed, while the qualities of ambition and determination are already apparent. Summing up a symposium of criticism it would happily seem that the term "wasted" does not fit the present new generation.

By TORREY FORD.

FOLLOWING along with the "wasted generation" idea, a nickname applied fondly by Owen Johnson to the rising young sons who refuse to rise, reveals several other writers who are not so willing to fall in with Mr. Johnson's mood concerning current society. There are those who hesitate to go on record as believing that the world is headed for the "how-wows." There are even those who persist in the optimistic belief that the world is doing very nicely, all things considered.

In an interview granted to THE NEW YORK HERALD recently Mr. Johnson charged that the sons of successful men in America were failing to take advantage of their opportunities in not assuming their responsibilities. He said that the old American strain was gradually losing its heritage and yielding before another that had not been long in this country.

Mr. Johnson has made this waste of a generation the theme of his latest novel, "The Wasted Generation." He feels that the colleges are partly to blame in failing to inspire men to leadership, and that a characteristic lack of family solidarity in American life is a contributory cause. At any rate, he feels that we are facing a tremendous problem today, one that should almost arouse the instinct of self-preservation.

Several Have Other Views And Express Them Freely

On the other hand, Rex Beach, popular author and playwright, takes a more cheerful view of affairs. He believes that things are running along rather smoothly, strictly according to specifications and nature.

Alexander Black, author of "The Great Desire" and "The Seventh Angel," blends his criticism with a sympathetic appreciation that most of the "giants" have lived in the past.

"It is needless to indicate," said Mr. Black in the September Century, "that art has not always been dying, but that in each season it has just died, leaving a gray waste behind it."

Dr. David Orr Edson, physician and psychoanalyst, author of "Getting What We Want," finds himself too busy conforming with psychological phenomena to rebel against present conditions. He confesses that his mind is more investigative than rebellious. He prefers to utilize facts rather than to protest against them.

Although the returns could hardly be called complete as yet it begins to appear as if Owen Johnson had submitted a minority report, at least as far as circles strictly literary are concerned.

"When a man generalizes on any subject he lays himself open to contradiction," said Rex Beach, when routed out of the study of his hilltop home at Ardley and invited to comment on the generation that is "wasting" its opportunities.

"For every son of a successful man who has failed to carry on you could probably cite another son who has carried on splendidly, in some instances surpassing the father's achievements. Take John D. Rockefeller, Jr. He is carrying on not only the commercial activities of his father but also the moral and philanthropic work. Look at young Morgan.

"They don't get the same amount of publicity that their fathers did. Their accomplishments are not considered so remarkable. They aren't in the spotlight. We are blinded by the spotlight that has been turned on their fathers.

This Girl May Be 1921's Youngest Freshman

BETTY JANE HAMILTON, educational prodigy of New Castle, Pa., who entered Westminster College, at New Wilmington, Pa., as a freshman at the age of 13 years, is probably the youngest freshman to enroll in any college in the United States this fall.

Miss Betty Jane was graduated from the New Castle High School last spring at the age of 12 years, younger by two years than any other student who had ever been graduated from the four year course here. In graduating at the age of 12 and in entering Westminster at the age of 13 she eclipses the record made by her brother Edmund, two years ago, who was graduated from New Castle High School at 14 years and entered Westminster as a freshman in the fall of the same year.

Miss Hamilton, in addition to finishing the high school course here at such a youthful age, found time to indulge in other activities that keep her from being a "book worm." She is quite an able musician, and in addition to her studies she carries on her musical education work.

The school record that she has "hung up" has never been approached in western Pennsylvania.

Alexander Black, whose views on "The Wasted Generation," by Owen Johnson, are illuminating.

declared with enthusiasm. "It was a waste of time."

"Why should a girl know anything about domestic duties other than managing a household? There is no great mystery about running a house. When she has to go into the kitchen and cook, when she has to make beds, she can pick it up quickly enough. Otherwise it is far better that she should devote herself to more useful occupations.

Women of to-day have a far greater comprehension of politics than they had a generation ago. They may not be qualified yet to enter into an active political life, but they are getting there rapidly enough. They're on the way.

"When you go to generalizing about the progress of society," the author concluded, "it all depends on the angle from which you view the picture. Watching the same scene from varying positions, you can get totally different results. Possibly that is why my views do not coincide with Mr. Johnson's."

Alexander Black is more ready to conform with Owen Johnson, although he tempers his judgment with a genial sense of humor.

"The views of Mr. Johnson as reflected in THE SUNDAY HERALD interested me deeply," said Mr. Black. "Each generation needs its jolt, and if Mr. Johnson in his book induces the smug American to look himself over he will have done a good thing.

"The 100 per cent. stodge are vastly in need of illumination. People who think that mere Americanism is going to float them are likely to be sharply awakened. Being a bigoted American isn't a good American. A man sized citizenship doesn't strut about with a label on its chest like a country store manager.

Americanism Never Complete.

In Alexander Black's Opinion

"Americanism will never be finished. It has only begun. The American who doesn't want any more changes is the kind of American who keeps the schools, from kindergarten to university, as they are. The university teacher who tries to meet the new day is called a 'dangerous radical.'"

"I think Mr. Johnson is quite right in saying that the children of the successfully rich do not carry forward as they should. The people who are best at carrying are those who have had to hustle to get something to carry. But I do not agree that this is a new appearance. The world has always been that way. Each generation thinks that it has invented backsliding.

"Plato spoke reverently of the 'ancients.' From the beginning people have thought that there were giants in those days—the days far enough back. Snowstorms were deep when measured on boy legs, and corn cakes were wonderful to young stomachs.

"Wealth is seldom well handled by those who haven't earned it. The father hustles, with the prospective fun of spending. The son, true to form, having the wherewithal in hand, starts after the good time at once. Great families are not built up that way. Neither are great nations. The United States, with a huge inheritance, often seems to be acting like a spoiled boy. That progress has to be earned seldom appears to be considered by the inheritors of a rich past.

"If hustle could be inherited, if we could transmit wisdom, perhaps we should have a lot of supermen and a lopsided world. Maybe this is Nature's way of keeping the balance. Each of us has to grow his own wisdom, such as it may turn out to be. Big men don't drop off family trees ready built. They grow up out of the soil.

"This is one of the reasons why I'm not afraid of foreigners. We're all imported. The Pilgrim Fathers were foreigners to a man. The men who managed to get this country started were all foreigners or the sons of foreigners. If immigrants once represented the pluck to get out of one place and start over in another, I can't see why the same quality shouldn't be recognized today. At precisely what hour did the foreigner stop being new blood and begin to be 'scum'?"

"The club called the United States may be right in limiting its membership and having a waiting list. But I object to insulting the new members. I don't believe Mr. Johnson has any such idea. He uses his argument about foreign born in the hope of injecting a little energy into any complacent older members who may think they can live on an antecedent investment of courage and character.

"As for new generations—well, they have always been disappointing, but chiefly because they have been different. Difference is usually translated somewhere as degeneracy. Our great-grandfathers were accused of illustrating degeneracy. I've said something about this sort of logic in the September Century. Some one will say it better.

"The new generation always needs to be spanked—and I'm glad Mr. Johnson has done it—but spanked generations will keep on growing up.

"Home life is different because homes are. People are more important than the houses they live in. A flat with daughter out working can't be like a vine grown cottage with daughter sewing a sampler. But this new kind may be a mighty fine daughter at that. I've seen it proved. Of course, if she paints her lips she will only get the kind of man that likes painted lips. Each generation has its quota of damfoolishness. After all, no girl can hurt herself so much by daubing her face with colored dirt as her great-grandmother hurt herself with eighteen inch corsets. Considering how our great-grandmother behaved, there really shouldn't be any race here at all. Fortunately few fashions are fatal.

Rex Beach, novelist, who disagrees with Owen Johnson about this generation being wasted.

"Mr. Johnson's strictures as to the unpreparedness of young girls are impregnable. Superficial phrases may be passed over, but we cannot lightly consider the failure to prepare for fundamental, for undebatable obligations.

"Traditional homes may not be imperative. Even traditional marriage may not be imperative. But a society that forgets babies will soon be out of the game. If having babies is to be left to 'foreigners,' to foreigners must go the inheritance. The world belongs to those who take hold of it and who help populate it.

"Lipstick ethics may be against me. Yet if we can't have a census we can't have a history. Despite the gorgeous dream of Mr. Shaw there is no present promise that babies will be born without mothers.

How the Psycho-Analyst Considers the Main Facts

"Of course babies are old fashioned. But so is the North Star."

When the psychoanalyst greets the problem of the wasting generation he gives no thought to protesting against conditions as they are. He accepts them as facts, and promptly uses them in his business.

"These are tremendous facts which Mr. Owen Johnson has presented," said Dr. David Orr Edson. "They make a splendid array of tabulated statistics. But what business have we protesting against axioms? We should be utilizing them, putting them together for some use, instead of standing static and saying: 'Ain't it terrible!'"

"Furthermore, although Mr. Johnson has some wonderful stuff, I do not believe that he is interested in sifting out the truth. He is merely angry at the results. He is reporting in relation to his prejudices, judging the country according to his own standards. While he is splendid in facts, his conclusions give the psychologist access to his stabilized idea of perfection.

"I see no waste in the sons of successful men failing to carry on. I merely set it down that they have the disease of looking for pleasurable excitement. They make room for others to come up instead of sitting back and saying: 'We've got it and we're going to keep it.'"

"In a college the seniors have no business saying: 'Oh, kick out those freshmen.' This is a great country for development where the furnace stoker can become an Andrew Carnegie. Mr. Johnson has his formulas already cast. The world, she do move, and Mr. Johnson wishes to stabilize it as it is to-day. He will have his difficulties.

"People are always complaining about the politician, casting him out for his inefficiency. They haven't the vision to see that politics—even bad politics—forms an essential feature in herd organization. I have a fine feeling of admiration for crowd inefficiency. When the politician pays $4 a day to the man for 50 cents' worth of work I watch the proceeding rather gratefully. I am very thankful that the 50 cent man will accept his $4 and go along on his way without bothering the rest of us.

"Some reformers would throw the 50 cent man out into a vacuum. But still he'd be here organically, the same fourteenth century animal. If you didn't have the government to take up this problem we'd be overwhelmed by the 50 cent man and gradually we would go to pieces.

"I look at these things from an investigative point of view. I am neither rebellious against them nor enthusiastic over them. To a correlated way of thinking, these are labels that are worthy of measurement, not of prejudice.

"Basically a man has two appetites: his body appetite, where he has to have a balanced ration, and an appetite to achieve, to his own satisfaction. The feeding of the psychic self with achievement has got to be done. Mr. Owen Johnson is being great by calling attention to the world of a developing inferiority, but an inferiority according to his own standards."

And then to cap the climax of this far-fetched controversy we have young Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, declaring that the peacetime slacker is as grave a menace to America to-day as was the service slacker during the war.

"The man who sits back now content with the laurels he has won or that others have won for him is a slacker," Mr. Roosevelt is quoted in opening the third convention of the American Legion at Asbury Park.

"Every American citizen should be in close touch with the affairs of his country. America is like a great partnership, and as partners we should work in unison without class distinction as we did in the days of the war. The future of America lies in its children, and to make them good citizens good schools are essential."

"I have never seen any reason to agree with the man of a past generation who thinks that the boys of to-day are not equal in mental and physical points to their fathers and grandfathers. Thousands of the younger generation come under my immediate notice every school year, and I feel justified in saying that, far from being wasters and unable to 'carry on' after their fathers, they are better."

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who recently called attention to the "peace time slacker" of society.

This is the way C. B. Fowler, assistant secretary of the New York University's School of Commerce and Finance in Washington Square, speaks of the generation of young men who are about ready to begin their work in the business world. As he has seen and taken stock of 5,000 who have enrolled this year, and as he has had excellent reports of their immediate predecessors—the recent graduates of the school—he feels that in justice he must speak in the highest praise of the young men of the day.

More Than 100,000 Youths Have Taken the Courses

"Our pupils come from all over the world. San Francisco sends us many, and Western colleges, like the Northwestern University, send us yearly their graduates who want a business course. At least 100,000 young men have passed through this school since it was organized in 1900, and one-tenth of this number have borne off the degree this school offers—B. C. S. Mainly these have specialized in accounting, economics, social and public finance, while others have satisfactorily completed courses in business management, advertising, marketing, etc. All our students are thoroughly grounded in business English.

The regular day scholars are expected to graduate in three years, and the regular night pupils finish the same course in four years; the latter are employed during the day. We have a staff of 150 teachers.

"Of the New York young men who enter from high school or college and who go into business in this city the School of Commerce and Finance is able to keep track to a certain degree. Reports of their energy and consequent success are general. The great majority do well; they are, in fact, noted for their business proficiency. They get good jobs and stand high in the business world.

"It would be a mistake to regard the output of this school as 'wasters.' They are more alert than their fathers were; they have more wants, to be sure, but they go out to succeed, and thus they are enabled to supply these additional wants due to new social needs."

With a force of 6,000 clerks and applications every spring and fall of twice as many would-be clerks, Vice-President W. F. Dobbins of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who is in charge of the personnel department, has a good opportunity to feel the pulse of the new generation. In answer to the main question whether he had found in this generation decadent tendencies which would warrant calling it a waster and unequal to preceding generations this official said:

"Human nature does not change to such an extent even in changing times and altering social conditions. The boys who come to us now out of high schools and colleges measure up to what their predecessors were in intellect, adaptability and application. Sometimes I think the modern boy is superior to his father at the same age. He has to be pretty quick to apprehend and understand, because things go faster in this age than they did in his father's and grandfather's time.

Difference in Amusement Costs, But Does Not Blame Them

"In matters of amusement there has been a great change, but the present generation is not entirely to blame for that. It does spend more money in entertaining itself than it can afford. In my young days we were able to do with simple pleasures. They don't exist to-day, and youth if it has what it calls a 'good time' has to pay for its fun in real money and quite a lot of it. The clerks don't begrudge the money and in that sense and comparatively they might be called wasters.

"We offer exceptional advantages here, which accounts for the multitude of applications for employment; we provide luncheon at no cost to clerks and we look after their health, even sending those who are really sick up to the sanitarium this institution conducts at Mount McGregor. For these and other reasons perhaps we get the cream of youth trying after graduation to place itself in business.

"Among our people the old rules prevail, following those of human nature—we have the clerks who do what they have to do and no more, we have clerks who don't do even that much and we have a few who do 'the other fellow's work and their own too.' In earnestness and application there are varying degrees, but I remember that this has been true always.

"It must be remembered that the younger generation gets into business several years later than the fathers did. It has not yet been possible to put into effect the continuation system of education whereby high school boys will be obliged to keep up their studies, but this system is already working with the graduates of the public schools. We are keen to get hold of the better educated and the high school and college graduates have the best chance of employment here; the public school product is not, I regret to say, very high in quality, but I believe it is improving.

"Now if we compare the best we have in the way of clerks just beginning a business career with the best we used to have when their fathers started, it is my opinion that the new generation brings in equally good quality.

"There are modern conditions, however, which weigh against them and hold them back from becoming householders and fathers of families, but they can't control such conditions. They are endeavoring to meet these by means of a double salary. That is, when a man and woman who have both been wage earners marry the wife does not give up her position, but keeps on working and permits the home—if they start one—to look after itself. The advent of a child changes this, but unless things ease up a bit there will be fewer such advents.

"But that is another and vital theme. It is worthy of considerable thought because of its effect on future generations. We will be content to talk of the existing generation, which, I repeat, is as ambitious and as clever as any preceding generation ever was."

Two Unusual Facts of Modern Science

THE nature of quicksand and the methods of controlling it have been discussed exhaustively recently by a Canadian contractor of thirty years' experience.

Contrary to popular impression, quicksand is not a material, but a condition of a material which under different conditions may possess quite different characteristics. Any granular material may become quicksand if there is an upward movement of water through it sufficient to lift the particles and reduce friction between them. The condition of quicksand will be produced when the volume of the contained water approaches an excess of the volume of the normal voids. Coarse sand and gravel can be quicksand if the water inflow is at a high velocity, but naturally fine grained sand displays the quality of quicksand much more readily.

The remedy for quicksand conditions in foundation work is to restore the ground water to its normal level. Quicksand rarely occurs in nature, and its appearance is almost always due to the ground water disturbance caused by the work, which can be minimized by more scientific methods of handling.

Fine wet sand will carry as good a load as coarse grained sands. The former has a bad name because we usually see it in its abnormal state, since we are obliged to expose and disturb it to examine it. The chief danger in using it under foundations lies not in its natural qualities, but in the possibility of disturbance from future excavations in the neighborhood.

NEARLY all artificial gems, that is, stones which are really made by artificial means, are compounds of alum crystallized under special conditions. The metallic salts that are added during fusion determine whether the stones produced shall be sapphires, rubies or Oriental topazes, amethysts or emeralds.

Early attempts to manufacture artificial gems on a commercial basis failed because of the difficulty in obtaining the tremendous heat necessary, but the oxyhydrogen flame solved the problem, and producing artificial gems is now an important industry.

The basic material is ammonia alum, which is converted into calcined alum by heating it. To that is added the coloring matter in suitable proportions, oxide chromium for rubies, titanate acid for sapphires. The finely divided powder is permitted to trickle down into the oxyhydrogen flame, which attains a temperature of 1,800 degrees. The powder fuses into a pear shaped body that weighs from 10 carats to 200.

LOWER MONEY RATES APPEAR TO BE IN PROSPECT DUE TO EARLY MARKETING OF CROPS

Bond Prices Show Advance; Wall Street Not Seriously Concerned Over Railroad Strike Trouble; Earnings of Roads Improve; Cut in Rates to Follow Quickly.

By Stuart P. West.
(Special Dispatch to Morning Journal.)
(Copyright 1921 by Albuquerque Journal.)

New York, Oct. 29.—Wall Street was never very seriously concerned over the railroad strike order and while relieved at the outcome, is inclined to treat it as something that was quite expected. The price movement of the last week has represented matters of much more fundamental importance than the question of whether or not the railway workers would carry out their threat to strike. It has been a further expression of confidence in the business outlook and in the reality and permanence of the change which came over the situation two months ago.

The public has not come back into the market to any extent. The principal buying has originated with men high up in company affairs who sold out a long while ago, resolved not to buy back again until they were sure that the period of depression was at an end. This repurchasing has been going on all through the strike. It has been supplemented by the revival of activities on the part of the various speculative cliques. But, after all, the speculative element in the recent market has been subordinate to the replacement of so-called insiders' holdings.

Lower Money Rates.
The movement of crops to market, as is well known, has been earlier this year than usual. In consequence the financing of the harvests will have been completed ahead of the customary time. Ordinarily it is not until the end of November that banks in the agricultural sections get through drawing from their balances at the reserve centers. But this year the peak of the crop demands already has been reached at the highest of the case, two developments are indicated in the near future—first a corresponding lowering of money rates in the open market.

Bond Prices Up.
It is plain enough that still easier conditions are in prospect and that the markets are getting ready for them. This is shown by the course of bond prices which stand now at the highest of the year. The fact that the latest issue of treasury certificates was taken at 4 1/4 to 4 1/2 per cent or a fall of 1 per cent under the rate of last spring, is very significant. If the banks are ready to accept as low as 4 1/4 per cent on their money in this form of investment, they soon will be ready to accept a similar reduction in other forms.

On October 22, 1920, the total of bills discounted at $2,043,345,000. On October 26, 1921, this total was only $1,371,000,000. At this time last year, federal reserve notes outstanding were $2,356,000,000. Their present amount is $2,405,000,000 while the reserve ratio has advanced from 42.7 to 70.8 per cent. These comparisons tell the story of the deflation which has occurred and leave no doubt of its thoroughness.

Railroad Earnings Improve.
The September railroad figures have shown as a rule some further slight improvement in gross earnings over August, while the net results have been about the same. Much is still said about maintenance accounts being skimmed, and that it is only in this way that net earnings are able to appear so well. The point missed in this criticism is that the roads can afford to appropriate less this year than last for maintenance purposes, because they are getting so much more for their money in the shape of cheaper and more efficient labor and the lower cost of supplies. However, this does not take away from the essential problem confronting the carriers. They will, of course at once go ahead and apply to the labor board for another 10 per cent wage cut. It will be months before a decision is rendered.

In the meantime, the Interstate Commerce commission, acting upon the principle enunciated in the decision of a week ago, will proceed with its rate reductions and put it up to the roads to offset those by reducing their costs. The probability is thus suggested of a considerable interval during which the companies will be operating under conditions less advantageous than those at present with their revenues cut down with lower rates and yet where they will be enjoined from reducing any rolls until the authorities have had the chance to go exhaustively into the merits of the case. In the meantime there is still the unpleasant fact to face that a number of important roads, even with rates as they are, are unable to cover fixed charges.

THE MARKETS

(By The Associated Press.)
New York, Oct. 29.—Stocks were firm to strong during the day's short session, but the market continued to be influenced by technical considerations. Foreign oil showed some of the recent strength, domestic issues easing under realizing sales. Independent steels and shippings responded to moderate accumulation, the former again owing their prominence to rumors of mergers. Investment falls receded slightly at the outset, hardening later.

Changes among specialties resulted largely from the customary week end settlement of speculative accounts, but gains prevailed at the steady close. Sales, $75,000 shares.

Trading in bonds was light, most of the Liberty issues showing gains while Victory notes established new high quotations for the year. Railroad and industrial bonds were mixed but some of the foreign group, particularly United Kingdoms of 1937 were strong. Total sales, par values, $6,175,000.

Last week's moderate deficit in actual reserves of the clearing house was cancelled by this week's cash gain of $18,900,000 and loans showed a further decrease of $21,888,000, making a total contraction of about $105,000,000 for the past fortnight.

Mercantile agencies reported some slowing down in general business due to unseasonable weather. Better collections ruled at the big distributing centers of trade and banks were offering more freely of funds for commercial users.

LIBERTY BONDS.
New York, Oct. 29.—Liberty bonds closed: 3 1/2s, $92.62; first 4s, $92.10 bid; second 4s, $92.60 bid; first 4 1/2s, $93.15; second 4 1/2s, $92.90; fourth 4 1/2s, $93.02; Victory 3 1/2s, $93.64; Victory 4 1/2s, $93.64.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE.
Chicago, Oct. 29.—A slump in wheat in the final minutes of trading pulled down the entire list today. Wheat and corn closed 3/4c to 1/2c net lower, oats were off 3/4c to 3/8c and provisions varied from unchanged to 7 1/2c lower.

Local professionals ruled the wheat pit through most of the short session. An initial dip and recovery were followed by steadily increased buying when professional sales found offerings were light. This carried wheat to 1 1/4 cents over the opening but when the profit taking started there was a sharp drop, as it developed that the northwest had been putting wheat into the pit on every bulge and there was a surplus.

Some bullish sentiment was created by an estimate that the country's exportable surplus had been reduced to 64,000,000 bushels. To offset this, export and milling demands were slow and there was a report that southwestern mills might shut down because of absence of demand for flour.

Corn was firm early and started to climb with wheat but weakened readily under the week end evening up trade. Private reports on farm reserves, scheduled for Monday, were forecast as showing record holdings. Oats were so dull that they merely followed other grains.

Most of the trade in provisions was in lard, prices weakening to conform to live hog market conditions.

RUSSIA IS WILLING TO ASSUME OLD FOREIGN DEBTS CONDITIONALLY

(By The Associated Press.)
Riga, Oct. 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Official confirmation that the Russian government has agreed, under certain conditions, to recognize the foreign debts of the imperial Russian government, was received here today through the Rosta official bolshevik news agency.

According to the Rosta dispatch, George Chicherin, soviet foreign minister, yesterday dispatched a note to the British, French, American, Italian, and Japanese governments, saying that the soviet government would agree to recognize the old debts, incurred up to 1914, under the condition that "Russia be given certain privileges making possible the practical fulfillment of those obligations."

Soviet Russia's recognition of the debts, Chicherin's note said, is conditional upon the great powers concluding final peace with and recognizing the soviet republic.

ROOT AND HERB OCTOR IS ROBBED OF $29,000

(By The Associated Press.)
Delta, O., Oct. 29.—Four unmasked bandits with faces smeared with grease, invaded the office of S. B. Finney, 75 years old, a root and herb doctor here, yesterday and robbed him of $29,000 after striking him on the head with a revolver and binding him to a chair. They escaped.

Finney, it is said, had an abhorrence for banks and kept his savings in a pocket book which he always carried. His condition is not considered serious.

The New WESTINGHOUSE Electric Waffle Iron

The New Westinghouse Electric Waffle Iron makes them three at a time right at the table.

Waffles baked by electric heat are so light, that each one creates a desire for another. Pour in the batter, pull the handle down and turn on the current and hot, crispy waffles are the results.

At breakfast, luncheon or afternoon tea, and now and then that famous chicken and waffle dinner, the Westinghouse Electric Waffle Iron permits you to add a real treat to your menu. The serving is a delight, and the eating a joy supreme.

LOBOS TO MEET BLISS OFFICERS HERE ON NOV. 12

Varsity's Next Game to Be With Texas Miners at El Paso on Saturday; Three Home Games End Season

One more game has been added to the U. N. M. football schedule for the 1921 season. Coach Johnson having completed arrangements yesterday for a game with the Fort Bliss officers' team here on November 12.

According to report, the officers have an exceptionally good team this year, much of their strength being in the weight of the line. Since the varsity team has been specializing this year in tearing up lines, the game is expected to prove one of considerable interest.

The next game of the varsity will be on Saturday of this week, when it meets the Texas School of Mines at El Paso. Following this will come three home games with the 1921 season. First of these will be the game with Fort Bliss on November 12. Arizona will perform at University field on the following Saturday, November 13, and the Las Cruces Aggies will meet the varsity here on Thanksgiving day. There is some prospect of a post-season game, with Denver university or some other team, but as yet nothing has been definitely arranged.

The varsity and the Indian school will meet Tuesday afternoon in a practice scrimmage at University field.

Two teams of football and basketball were organized at a meeting Friday afternoon. The girls' basketball teams are practicing every day. Two former pupils of the Fourth street school are now on the high school football team.

The enrollment of the school was increased this week to 214 pupils. The following teachers have charge of the school: Miss Bowman, Mrs. Elliott, Miss Sloan, Miss Harris, Miss Leon, Miss Winfrey, Mrs. Brown and Miss Murphy.

HARD TIMES MAY STOP AT COUNTY OFFICERS' DOOR

County officials may have to save up a bit to tide them over the holiday season—for there seems to be a shortage of money in the salary fund. At present there is $4,523.23 in the fund. This will about pay the October and November salaries, but will not stretch to cover December. The county salaries average about $2,000 a month. September they amounted to $2,054.91.

The salary fund was exhausted last month, but approximately $5,000 was transferred from the interest fund. A part of this has now been used.

If tax collection was started in December, the fund would automatically be replenished together with the other county funds, but County Treasurer Edwin Swore announced yesterday that in all probability the collection would not start until January.

Dances and Stunt Parties Feature Halloween Season

HARK up all the old charms, light the candle in the pumpkin head on the hearth and prepare to celebrate the eve of Allhallow's. May be you've been doing it all week and expect the fun to hang until tomorrow evening at least. But before you go out the back door to bring in the garden hose and the door mat, and the front gate, if you own one. Ghosts have taken away.

Dances abound all over the social calendar. There are no less than a dozen large ones over the week-end and another one coming. We refer to that of the business and professional women at the Elks' club on Friday evening, which will be something pleasantly novel in the way of a benefit dance.

AFFAIRS GIVEN FOR VISITORS HERE.

Mrs. A. O. Waha of Portland, Ore., who is spending several months here as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Waha, has been entertained at a number of social affairs during the past week. Mrs. Waha and Miss Grace Borradale, a former resident of Albuquerque, were guests of honor at a tea given by Mrs. Frank C. W. Foster at her home on South Fourteenth street on Tuesday afternoon. About 15 guests were invited to meet the two visitors.

Mrs. James F. Mullen and Mrs. Aldo Leopold were joint hostesses Thursday afternoon at a bridge-club at the Leopold home in a complimentary to Mrs. Waha and Miss Julia Wilson of Chicago, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. G. L. Brooks. Three tables of bridge were played during the afternoon and about fifteen guests came in to tea later. Miss Wilson returned to her home on Thursday after spending about three weeks in the city. Mrs. J. T. McLaughlin is giving an informal afternoon of bridge this week for Mrs. Waha.

COUPLE CELEBRATE THEIR SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Balling of 1315 West Mountain road celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on last Saturday with a big dinner at which twenty-two persons were seated. Many beautiful silver remembrances were received.

Father Mandalar, who performed the wedding ceremony for the couple 25 years ago, was one of the first callers of the day to offer his congratulations.

On Saturday afternoon twenty-five friends of Mrs. Balling gave her a surprise party. The guests were seated at the afternoon and supper was served at 5:30 o'clock.

The guests at the anniversary dinner were Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Balling, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Balling, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Balling, Miss Mary Balling, Simon Balling, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Ramsey, George Snyder, Grant Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gower, Miss Carrie Hochstetler, Miss McLean and members of the immediate family.

WOMAN'S CLUB LEARNS OF CHILD HYGIENE.

Miss Gladys Harris, Red Cross public health nurse, and Dr. J. F. Docherty, city and county health officer, were the principal speakers at the child hygiene program of the Woman's club on Friday afternoon. Mrs. J. F. Docherty presided at the program.

Miss Harris spoke of her work with children of school age and those of pre-school age of which she has carried on a program of physical defects. She described how she had prescribed treatment and correct diets and of the results which she had obtained in bringing children back to normal health.

Dr. Docherty spoke of the child welfare movement and of the work which was being done in this country to lower the infant mortality. Because of the accurate birth records now available it is possible to keep a close check upon the young children, he said. He described the baby clinics which are being held and spoke on the new chlorination plant of the city for purifying water.

A musical program composed of children's songs was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Bradford, musical director of the club. She sang "My Balloon," "The Piano," "Little Picnic Kid" and "Lady of Dreams."

AFFAIRS OF THE WEEK AT THE Y. W. C. A.

The Tuesday evening meeting of the C. U. P. club was well attended and there were one or two guests. Plans were discussed for their share of fun at the Halloween party next Monday evening. If the "audience" feel as much impelled to giggle as the participants in the stunts, the act should "go big."

There were several new recruits at the Tuesday afternoon class for the fifth and sixth grade girl reserves. A misunderstanding about the time when the younger girls were to meet brought them to the association at the wrong time. Hereafter girls from the third and fourth grades will meet Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Girl reserves from the high school freshmen met at the association on Wednesday afternoon. On Monday afternoon the sophomore girls meet with Mrs. Graham at the association rooms.

A short business meeting preceded the sewing with which the upper class girls occupied themselves at their Wednesday afternoon meeting. Their leader, Mrs. Arthur Sisk, read aloud Grace S. Richmond's story, "The Bells of St. John," while they worked. This group plans to dress dolls for the Day Nursery for their pre-Christmas charity work, and after Christmas to do something toward the equipment of the Nursery itself.

Ring games were popular with the Indian school girls, "Cat and Rat," "Name Ball," "Dodge Ball" and "Ball in the Ring," all of which call for much dodging, running and scaling. The cold wind made the side lines unpopular, except when one group decided to play football. A small girl referee called out "Indian ball" or "High school ball," as she thought it should be, and some of the players ardently urged their observers to "Yell for the Indians." It must be admitted that their signals were not always understood, but what's that if you're having a good time?

Ghosts, witches, hobgoblins, phantoms, bogies, bats and black cats met at the Woman's club on Friday evening and groined about among the autumn leaves, corn stalks and jack-o'-lanterns. Each of the weird creatures proved to have nimble fingers and found his way to the piano, to express his spirit in a minor melody. The decorations and costumes added much to the effectiveness of the following Halloween program given by the piano pupils of Mrs. W. M. Combs.

HALLOWEEN DINNER AT P. F. MCCANNA HOME.

Miss Margaret McCanna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. McCanna, entertained at a cleverly appointed dinner on Friday evening at her home on North Fourth street. MISS WAIT IS LEAVING THE CITY TODAY.

Miss Barbara Wait, who was forced to cancel her concert engagement here on Thursday evening on account of illness, is turning today to her home in Chicago, where she will re-enter concert and church work for the winter season. She will be accompanied by sister, Miss Marjorie Wait, who has been with her in Albuquerque for the past several months. Miss Wait's departure will be regretted by the friends she has made here during her residence for the past three seasons by her pupils and by the music-lovers of the city, who were eagerly anticipating her song recital.

THIS COAT SHOWS TO WHAT LENGTHS FASHION WILL GO

If the American women adopt the newest Paris fashion more man and dress reformers will no longer need to worry about the great expanse of silk hosiery to be seen on the avenue. For Paris has decreed that skirts and wraps be ground against the autumn leaves. If the American woman will ever return to the long skirt, but there will be a few fashions who will insist on following Paris' lead. Here is the latest Parisian idea of a stylish coat. It reaches to within one inch of the ground and is made on full lines with a pointed bottom edged in black monkey fur. The wide sleeves and large shawl collar are also edged with the fur. A black and white beaded buckle finishes the crushed girdle, which is used as the belt. The material is gray duvetyne.

A new ready-made trotter frock of navy blue has an elastic at the waistline instead of an ordinary belt, so that the frock fits figures of different sizes without alteration. The skirt is gathered to the slim bodice at either side, but there is a straight, flat line at the back from neck to hem. The front of the frock opens all the way down to show a narrow panel of black, flanked with small buttons. The coat is made of the material called the elastic-run waistline. Ties the elastic-run waistline. Ties the elastic-run waistline. Ties the elastic-run waistline.

Bright red purses give a dash of color to dark street costumes and are in step with the fashion for red in autumn fashions. A bright red leather purse is lined with white faille silk. It opens in envelope style and has flat pockets for vanity outfit, purse and card-case.

Sleeves are evidently growing larger. They no longer hug the arm from shoulder to wrist, and there are hints of an extraordinary bulk. A year ago sleeves changed from long to short, and a year or two before then from short to long; but in the actual shape of the sleeve there was little change. Now a very pronounced change seems imminent, and all sorts of sleeves are being introduced this season.

STOCKS TO CONCENTRATE AT Y. W. TOMORROW.

On the very eve of Allhallow's, when it is scarcely safe to venture out of doors alone for fear of encountering hobgoblins around the corner, several scores of intrepid young women of the city will take their lives in their hands and head to the recreation center of the Y. W. C. A., where the ghostliest gathering of all is scheduled. It is to be the big Halloween celebration of the Adelanto and the C. U. P. clubs for the club members and their guests. The old and clumsy hand will be extended at the open door at 7:30 o'clock. Once inside there will be no escape from the "house of horrors," the witches who hold one's fate in their grasp, and the other shivers that which are inevitable during the evening.

The rooms will be appropriately decorated for the occasion. Miss Florence Adams is in charge of the affair and she is assisted by the following competent corps of spook-wranglers: Miss Julia Johns, Mrs. Anna Wilds Strumquist, Miss Sheridan, Miss Charlotte New, Miss Esther Seal, Miss Selma Anderson, Mrs. Burch, Miss Campbell, Miss Nell Seal, Miss Mary Jardine, Miss Catherine Jackson, Miss Almita Norment, Miss Sue Norment, Miss Unbehime, Mrs. Lehel, Miss Ray Dorfman, Mrs. Eselle Etter and Miss Jeffrie Short, with members of the C. EUREKA!

Indolent young society buds in search of an adventure have found it. Some of the less volatile ones of several years' standing have taken it up, and it is now a place in the heart of the city where one can go and indulge her whims as she would if she were living in almost any other city far from the so-called free and open west.

There are said to be no bans upon a bit of feminine self-indulgence, at least none are offered by the management. And it's said to be perfectly safe, my dear, because surely none of one's friends would be likely to venture there to witness one's holiday. She were on the same plane as bent. In which case, of course, it would be all strictly "just among us," you know, and be well escorted, but not chaperoned, of course, unless you have a one with very liberal views on such subjects.

It's hard to believe, in the heart of the city proper, or proper city, we should say, that one may so quickly and easily surround oneself with local color, local flavor, and a highly foreign aroma, if you please.

Judge W. W. McClellan at the city hall. Mrs. Lehner was formerly an operator at the Taylor Beauty Parlor and Mr. Lehner is an attorney-at-law with offices in the new Armijo building. The couple will make their home here.

U. N. M. SOCIETY.

The sedately married members of the university faculty, and their respective wives and husbands, were entertained at a Halloween party at the women's gymnasium on Friday evening by the U. N. M. Society, of both varieties of the university. The affair was rather a hilarious one, the faculty members taking advantage of the license of the evening. The total absence of students before whom a certain degree of decorum must always be maintained. Carnival stunts prevailed in the entertainment scheme, and refreshments appropriate to the season were served at the close of the evening.

The girls of Alpha Delta Pi sorority held a fudge party at their chapter house on last Saturday evening. Cards were played during the evening. The girls of the sorority and pledges were present for the informal affair.

Georgette blouses held their own for wear with street suits. They come in kimono style with a sash of the material, and in waist-style with sleeves set in armholes and a folded band of the material fitting neatly over the waistline. Brilliant colors and much embroidery of silk and beads make these suits blouses gay and charming affairs.

FRIDAY NIGHT DANCE TO BE REAL FUNCTION.

To build a club house for the Business and Professional Women's club. Yes. But to have a dance at their hands is, perhaps, the first consideration of the dance extraordinary which the club will give on Friday evening at the Elks' club. It's going to be a chance for everybody, whose friends in the club will favor them with an entrance card, to drag out the old soup-to-nuts and step out for a really large time.

The entire club is putting itself out to see that all of the guests will enjoy themselves and the evening. A six-piece orchestra has been engaged to furnish the dance music and a number of feature dances will be introduced by the floor committee. Come take a look at the great Queen and King. And you want to hear all those old Around the campfire's dim, spooky light. You won't want to leave till the end of the night. Of course you will want your fortune revealed. You will learn everything—nothing concealed! Oh yes, and the eats, they'll surely be fine. You're bound to have just a wonderful time. And if you don't come you'll regret it forever. And you should, anyhow, for your Christian Endeavor. Last but not least, please bear it in mind: To bring all the money you're able to find."

PRECEDENCE IS REAL OBSTACLE TO FOREIGNERS

BY BETTIE BAXTER.
(Special Dispatch to Morning Journal)
(Copyright 1921 by Albuquerque Journal)

Washington, Oct. 29.—To disarm or not to disarm? If so, how much or whether the Pacific problem will overshadow disarmament? That is what all serious-minded ones are talking about. But so-called frivolous Washington has a problem all its own, just as much as the Pacific problem. It is the problem of precedence. That is what all serious-minded ones are talking about. But so-called frivolous Washington has a problem all its own, just as much as the Pacific problem. It is the problem of precedence. That is what all serious-minded ones are talking about.

Noah Webster made one great big mistake when he put that word in his dictionary. And, to make matters worse, he gave it nine synonyms, when it has but one. No, I'm sure all the diplomats and members of the cabinet in Washington agree with me that there is "nothing like it" on the surface of the globe. This is especially the view of Robert Woods Bliss and Alvey A. Adee, of the state department.

While his chief, Mr. Hughes, is engaged with weighty matters of world concern, Mr. Bliss, third assistant secretary of state, who, as some officials would put it, is our "official greeter" of all foreign delegates and representatives, is arming himself to the teeth with the etiquette of precedence. And without a doubt, Alvey Adee, oldest of the state department in the service, whose hobby used to be bicycling through Europe in the summer time, will have to polish up his well-known inexhaustible memory.

Yes, but never did such an array of European statesmen as that due on November 11 ever descend upon Washington all at once. That's where the big precedence rub, and all the social rub-dub-dub comes! And you may know that this precedence matter isn't trivial! When the Romans come, you must do as the Romans do, also the British, the French, the Japanese and the Chinese—which is a large order, you must admit.

What is said at the table of a dinner party, and how the wife of some dignitary is greeted by the wife of another, may have much to do with diplomatic results, and diplomats after all are just human. And I'm wondering whether just maybe General Diaz and Jacques, and Admiral Beatty didn't think so, too, and decided in desperation to leave town before the dinner and reception tonight that the French ambassador and Mme. Jusserand gave for Marshal Foch, who arrived on the scene last night, just in time to make his bow, before the curtain goes down on the prologue for the big show.

Yes, they've gone! General Armando Vitorio Diaz, commander-in-chief of the Italian armies, General Baron Alfonso Jacques, commander-in-chief of the Belgian armies and Admiral of the British fleet, Earl Beatty O. M. C. C. B. G. C. V. O. K. C. B. K. C. V. O. D. S. O. M. V. O., and all and everything. They are on their way to Kansas City to attend the big convention of the American Legion which is the why of their visit to America. General Diaz and General Jacques left with their parties on their special train direct for the west and Admiral Beatty with Lady Beatty and probably young Peter Beatty, by way of New York and Chicago to be greeted by the American Legion and friends, before joining the others at Kansas City.

And maybe PRECEDENCE didn't have anything to do with it, but at any rate their leaving answered for everyone else, who was wondering whether they would attend a function given for some other celebrity of the same rank and importance and by so doing, give us a chance to see them all on the stage at once.

Which would have been very grand for us, but not entirely decorous for them.

Because to observe the rules as they are laid down, one celebrity is not supposed to attend a function given for another, unless the guest of honor outranks him.

For instance, the vice president and Mrs. Coolidge can't go to the reception at the Italian embassy Tuesday evening which the charge d'affaires gave for General Diaz, because a vice president can't attend anything given by some one of less importance than an ambassador, the ambassador in the case being still in Europe or on his way home.

The President and Mrs. Harding who are so loath to observe precedence, came to the dinner party, leaving for their southern trip, and returned Friday in time to welcome General Foch and give him a luncheon. Yes, that's precedence! Precedence is an honor which, if given to anyone, instead of giving them more privileges, gives them fewer because you see the more precedence you have the fewer parties you can attend and the more honor you are so loath to be inclined and at the same time important, are in hard luck!

A Good Word for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Those who have used this preparation and know from their own experience that it is a medicine of real worth and merit do not hesitate about speaking a good word for it. Edward Lewis, Minon, N. CURED HIS RHEUMATISM!

"I am eighty-three years old and I suffered for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 50 years ago. I have tried every remedy I could find for 'rheumatism' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change. You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatment supposed to drive the acid out of your blood and body. It took Mr. Ashelman, fifty years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, neuritis, and recover his strength from 'The Inner Mysteries,' no being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of 'The Journal' wishes 'The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism' explained by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to H. P. Clearwater, No. 651-M Street, Hallowell, Maine. Send now, you forget! If not a sufferer, cut out this notice and hand this good news and opportunity to some afflicted friend. All who send will receive it by return mail without any charge whatever."

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Widdows, missionaries to the Philippine Islands, and Rev. J. B. Kelly, native Filipino minister, spent a few days here the latter part of the week on their way to San Francisco, where they will embark for the Philippines in December to resume their work. They are affiliated with the U. B. church, and as representatives of that denomination are on their way to Indianapolis, Ind., last June. Sunday morning the hour for Sabbath school was turned over to these missionaries, who told of their work and of the conditions in the Philippines.

N. F. Golbe, representing the Bankers' Trust company of Denver, spent a few days here last week and met with the local board of education Saturday evening to try to negotiate the sale of the $65,000 school bonds. As he only offered them 88 cents on the dollar they refused to sell.

Mrs. Edgar Floerke of Roy, N. M., who had been making an extended visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Matthews, returned home Wednesday afternoon.

C. L. Fraker, Jr., made a business trip to the Meadow City last week, returning Thursday morning. Mrs. J. R. Aguilar and daughters, Mrs. Corina, Euphy and Amelia Aguilar, returned home on Wednesday from James Springs, where they had spent a few weeks.

A large crowd was in attendance at the piercing north wind which developed into a severe storm. A good sized crowd was in attendance and very liberal bidding was done by the men. Splendid music was furnished during the evening by Miss Blanche Osborne at the piano and P. F. Martinez with the drums. M. J. Fraker auctioned the boxes. The gross receipts totaled $64.26.

J. M. McMath was a Las Vegas visitor last week, returning Friday. J. F. Hargrave, county agricultural agent, and Milton Schultz, Bradley Keyes, Garth Kyler and Horace Dillard left Wednesday morning for Clovis, N. M., where the boys will enter the stock-judging contest.

The Iowa state conservation board has acquired its first woman member in the person of Mrs. Dorothy Deemer Houghton of Red Oak.

VAUGHN

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hoffman and little daughter, Bettie Lou, left Thursday morning for Kansas City to attend the American Legion convention. They will also visit relatives in Kansas.

The musical given by the ladies of the Methodist church Wednesday night in the Electric theater was the best of the season. An interesting program was rendered by home talent and a neat sum realized for the church fund.

Earle E. Michael and family have moved to their new home in Rio Arriba county, going overland via Santa Fe and Espanola.

Mrs. Della Warner, who has been visiting friends in Clovis and Fort Sumner, returned home Wednesday.

Mrs. C. B. Watts of Belen is visiting friends in the city. Mrs. Ayers of El Paso, district president of the Methodist Missionary society, was the guest of the local society Saturday afternoon.

Ed C. LaCoss and family have gone to Waynoka for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harrison have returned from Albuquerque.

Normal University

A feature of the week was the dinner at the department's dinner to the Las Vegas Rotarians Friday evening. Miss Felicitas Kaune, head of the department, planned an unusually fine dinner and together with her class in cooking prepared and served it to that group of business and professional men of Las Vegas whose friendliness and loyalty to the normal has been largely responsible for the present status of the normal.

The old African M. E. church across the street from Springer is being fitted up for manual training. The excellent bench equipment which has been in storage for some time has been gotten out and some classes will be commenced at an early date.

Mr. C. L. Dawson, field representative of the national headquarters of the American legion spoke to the faculty and student body in chapel Thursday morning on the "Aims, Ideals and Accomplishments of the American Legion." As an introduction to Mr. Dawson's talk, the student body joined in singing the national anthem and "Smiles" and "The Long Trail"—two of the old songs popular both in the camps and overseas. Mr. Dawson emphasized the great need existing for better treatment and care of the disabled and told of the part the legion is playing in the work. He was loudly applauded when he told of having found disabled soldiers in asylums for the criminally insane, placed there by governmental carelessness, making the statement that surely the boys who fought for our honor deserved better treatment than that accorded the street bums and dope fiends of a big city.

Numerous Halloween affairs and parties took place Friday and Saturday evenings. The college seniors entertained the juniors at a Spook party out at the Montezuma college, where the beautiful dining hall of the college building was decorated in real old style rustic manner.

Mr. Frank Carroon entertained at her home Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Shank and Miss Harper, both of the Normal, assisted with musical and reading numbers.

Friday night was "Open House" night at the girls' dormitory, Casa de Ramona. The Girls' Friendly society entertained and the building was thrown open to the inspection of the public from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Miss Stewart, registrar, has returned from her vacation, spent visiting at her home in Michigan. Chapel time Tuesday was given over largely to the Tri News. Mr. Forstner, Mr. Barker and Mr. Conway made brief talks and a subscription canvass was made with considerable success. The next issue of the paper will appear Tuesday.

John Sanford is editor. President Wagner went to Los Angeles last week to attend the meetings held in connection with the new agricultural college project. Mr. Wagner was gratified to find among those present many alumni of the normal.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ketchum of Roselle, N. J., were Magdalena visitors a portion of the past week.

Dr. C. H. Woolgar and family enjoyed a visit the past week from his brother, Dr. E. M. Woolgar, and a nephew, Dr. William Woolgar and wife, all of Washington, D. C. The Woolgars were on their way to Los Angeles, Calif., making the trip overland, taking in sights along the way and visiting relatives at Albuquerque and Magdalena.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Medley and daughter Ruth were El Paso visitors on Monday and Tuesday.

W. C. T. U. will meet in regular session at the Rock school building on Wednesday, November 2, at 3 p. m.

On Friday evening Mrs. J. K. Vines delightfully entertained the members of the Bible class of the M. E. church, at her home in the east part of town.

Mrs. George Keith of Socorro was in Magdalena the past week visiting in the Widdows home and attending to business affairs.

Roosevelt day was observed in the high school on Thursday, October 27. A musical program was rendered during the morning exercises. Rev. Glanzer and P. H. Argall gave interesting talks which were enjoyed by the students and teachers.

On Thursday morning Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Abney and children, S. T. Agnes, Mary Lea, Francis and Miss Estelle, left by auto for their new home in Littlefield, Texas, where Mr. Abney has a ranch and will engage in the ranching business.

Calvin Duncan, Jr., is in from the L. V. Medley ranch to visit with his parents for a few days.

Mrs. Lilybelle Burlingame Crawford left on Thursday for Harrisonville, Mo., where she will join her husband and make that place their future home.

Miss Elma McClure of Belen spent Sunday at the Hall home, the guest of Miss Laura Stoneking.

A basketball game was played at the Barrowdale hall last Friday evening between the Freshmen and Seniors vs. the Sophomores and Juniors, a girls' game. Score, 13 to 6 in favor of the Freshmen-Seniors.

Mrs. Vernie Webb Light Keeper

OVER 2,200 years ago, Ptolemy II, King of Egypt, (the King who first had the Old Testament translated from the ancient Hebrew) erected, on Pharos, one of the islands of Greece, the first lighthouse known to history.

Today, there are so many lighthouses, all over the world, that we have come to look on them as commonplace and without much interest. Only the hardy mariner realizes their value, as he strains his eyes to look for the saving light, through the storm and fog.

In 1852, the Lighthouse Board of the U. S. was organized by Act of Congress, and the Lighthouse Service of the United States Government is now a part of the Department of Commerce.

Mrs. Vernie Webb, lightkeeper at the confluence of the Elk and Kanawha rivers, near Charleston, W. Va., is one of the comparatively few women lightkeepers in the employ of the U. S. Government. While on a journey through this part of the country, I made the acquaintance of this interesting woman, and learned many facts about her work and daily life.

Some lighthouse keepers have to live in stern, forbidding, lonely structures, rising perhaps on a rock, out at sea, where fog almost continuously obscures the view, while wind and storm render the lonely spot a true prison, a place where strong men have been known to lose their minds; but this little woman has a pleasant home, nestled on the bank of the river, looking down on a neighboring colony of houseboats, clustered on the stream, in a nearby nook, brightly painted, fitted with lace curtains, comfortably furnished, and decorated with flowers and vines—supplied, in brief, with all the comforts of more solidly built homes.

Into this cozy little nest I was cordially invited by Mrs. Webb, and spent some pleasant hours of bright, cheery conversation with her, taking away with me a vivid remembrance of the personality of one of the most earnest workers and conscientious people with whom I have ever come in contact.

For 11 or 12 years, Mrs. Vernie Webb, who loves the river, has lived here in comfort and happiness, part of this time having been spent in one of the pretty houseboats. The beacon light that she tends is simple but serviceable, being composed of a large lantern, affixed to three floating wooden crosspieces, built V-shape, and anchored near a wall in the river. This wall was built by the Government to deepen the channel and, at times, is hidden by the water, forming a dangerous bar, upon which any ship might easily be wrecked.

To this bar, rain or shine, snow or storm, Mrs. Webb must row from her home up the river, get the lamp and take it home, clean it and fill it, and in the evening take it back, light it and place it in position, as a beacon to river craft, who have come to depend on it for their safety during night navigation at this precarious spot. Formerly this work was done by a man, but when he moved away, Mrs. Webb applied for and obtained the position, which she has now held for over five years.

Floods and storms would long ago have daunted a weaker heart than that of this brave employee of the United States Lighthouse Service, but steadfastly she does her work, and brightly the little light shines every night, as a sign of her conscientious devotion to duty. In the interim she enjoys herself, womanlike, in attending to the household work of her attractive home.

Four years ago, a terrible ice jam occurred on the river, and when the thaw came and the ice broke up, a veritable avalanche of floating bergs and flocs came sweeping down with the flood, tearing boats and barges from their moorings and doing great damage. During this time there was grave danger to the little boat upon which Mrs. Webb depends for earning her salary in looking after the light. Having no one to help her, she, herself, had to protect her boat from the floating ice, and for many hours she had to take her position on the boat, and fend off the grinding ice flocs, which threatened the destruction of her property. Although almost exhausted, she stood fast until the danger had passed, and that same night the light was burning brightly in the spot near the dangerous bar, where it had burned continuously for so many years.

Life in the Webb cottage must be pleasant indeed, when Mr. and Mrs. Webb are both at home. Mr. Webb, however, being a railroad man, is often away, and so two large dogs protect the place in his absence. There is plenty of work for a good home-maker around the little cottage, for Mrs. Webb keeps a cow, grows vegetables and flowers, and keeps everything spick and span, varying her household duties now and again by taking her "John-boat" on a trip to town, where she can do her shopping and perhaps drop in, for an hour or so, at the movies.

Regretfully terminating my interesting visit, I took with me a statement about Cardui, the woman's tonic, which Mrs. Webb gave me, covering information offered by her during our desultory conversation, and before my departure put into the form of a signed statement, with privilege of publication, for the benefit of other women.

Mrs. Webb's Statement

I was taken sick and grew so weak and run down I could not do my work. I got so weak I couldn't row my boat. I was weak and nervous. My work is to light the light in the river to keep the boats off the wall. I could not go out at all. I fretted quite a good deal, so began to look for something to take. Some friend suggested CARDUI, and I found it all it was recommended. I began its use and in two weeks I was back lighting the beacon. I grew stronger. I owe my good health to Cardui. It built me up wonderfully.

PUBLIC OPINION.

The outcome of the strike episode should teach the people of New Mexico a lesson. A crystallized public opinion, boldly expressed, forced the union executives to yield. They frankly give that as the reason for calling off the strike. Public opinion averted a great national calamity.

Thus is exemplified again the power of public sentiment. Aroused and militant, it is the most irresistible thing in the world.

Why then have the people of New Mexico lain supine under the evils which have afflicted them for years? Because there has been no crystallized and militant public sentiment to compel correction. Were the people generally alert to their duty and privilege, the rights of wrongs would occur with astonishing swiftness.

For years the people accepted an unjust mine law as inevitable. Knowing well that the evasions by the mines threw the burden back on the rest of the people, they yet endured it. Only now, under the influence of incessant pounding to arouse public sentiment, is this evil in process of correction.

The scandal of public monies, deposited in banks without interest, went on for years and years. Endless agitation has been necessary to put a partial stop to it, and the evil even now is not entirely cured. Public opinion has held it to be "politics," instead of the crime against the people, which it is.

That the public official who gives, or the banker who accepts, such disgraceful special privilege, is tolerated as a good official or a good citizen, shows the low ebb of our moral public sentiment.

The political manipulation of the land office is another case in point. A sacred heritage for our children, which was accepted by the state as a solemn trust, has been the plaything of the politicians. A sense of public honor and decency sufficient to put a stop to it has not yet been crystallized, although some corrections have been made in response to a growing sentiment.

We might recite instances indefinitely. The oppressors of the people of New Mexico understood the value of publicity in arousing public sentiment. They knew the dangers of that sentiment, if awakened. Therefore they controlled the avenues of publicity in order to keep the public inert.

If the people will only sense their power, through public sentiment, New Mexico will quickly right herself and move on to peace and prosperity. Headway is being made but at a heart-breaking slow pace. A militant courage on the part of the public to speak out would bring a change swiftly.

Why be afraid? The powers which once arrogantly oppressed you and punished you are too far weakened to be aggressive. They are in the last defensive ditch. The people should move up and drive them out. Public sentiment can do it easily.

PERIL IN SAFETY?

It seems like a paradox, but the investigators of the federal bureau of public roads say their records of accidents show that straightaway stretches that have always been regarded as safe are the scene of most motoring accidents.

The explanation offered lies in the tendency to step on the gas when a piece of clear and good road looms up. Around sharp curves, on steep grades, at grade crossings, where danger is naturally feared, the average driver will be careful, but nearly all will fall victim to the lure of a straightaway stretch, which by its inviting sense of security prompts him to take a chance.

Viewed in that light the reasoning seems sound, but unless the records of the federal bureau differ greatly from the records reported in the press, the facts seem against it. Most of the accidents reported have occurred on just such danger spots as mentioned, perhaps because the motoring population is yet far from being perfect in the psychology of caution. The fact of the matter, of course, is that there is no safe place to throw caution to the winds. The driver who does not wish to risk disaster will take no chances, sternly resisting the impulse to speed up on inviting stretches, as well as being careful where danger lurks.

WHICH NOVEL TO READ?

With the definite object of learning what he could from such a perilous undertaking someone has just read 1,000 novels. Contrary to what might be expected from this adventure our voracious reader apparently came through the ordeal in good health.

It will make us somewhat more charitable toward what this individual has to say in the matter of current fiction if we remember that when placed side by side as they are arranged on bookshelves, 1,000 novels will take up nearly 120 feet of shelf. This amount of reading matter, particularly in modern fiction, could easily prove the undoing of the best of us. "Only about 100 of these books," says this devourer of literature, "deserved publication; the remaining 90 per cent were valueless." It might be remarked that some of us who read only 100 books a year have come to the same conclusion, and that we thus spared ourselves the task of reading the other 900. The quandary remains, however, that we are not all agreed on just what sort of book is worth reading.

Until there is more agreement than there is to-day on what books are worth reading, it is rash to say, as this critic did, that only 10 out of 100 books are good reading. Perhaps if he had not read so many he might have had more fun out of a few.

LOST—A BOY.

What would you give to prevent the loss of a boy?—if it were your boy? You should be concerned only slightly less when it is the boy of another. A boy is a boy—in prospect a man—potentially either an asset or a liability to society.

Sentimentally, the loss of a boy is a sad thing. To see one who might have been an honor to his mother and an ornament to society, drift off into the darkness of moral failure, is heart-breaking. It is a calamity. Except in very rare cases it is some one's fault.

Economically, allowing a boy to go wrong is a waste. All boys should be producers. When one fails morally he becomes a waster and a corresponding burden on society. The loss of a boy is bad business.

Morally, the loss of a boy is a crime. There is a way to prevent the sacrifice of a soul. Surrounding by the proper safeguards it rarely would happen.

Boys have not developed the compass of judgment and self-restraint which they must have to guide them. Some one must have their confidence to a degree which will enable him to supply this lack and aid in its development. Force, as a rule, is unavailing. Sympathy and love are the touchstones. Somewhere—perhaps below the surface, but somewhere—is the cord of honor which can be set in vibration by the hand of love.

Men and women who are normal love the boys. If we fail to show that love, we lose something out of our own lives. Our own characters are warped.

The week of November 6-12 is Father and Son Week with the Young Men's Christian association. It will be a time for cultivating a new understanding and contact between fathers and their sons. But the spirit is broader. To develop the father-son instinct toward all boys and an active interest in them is the deeper purpose.

It is to be hoped that the preachers and priests of New Mexico will lead out in having father-and-son dinners. Every town should have such an occasion. If you haven't a boy of your own, go out and find one for this dinner. Then father him afterward.

COMBING THE COUNTRY.

The difference between the alertness of offenders against the law and the police is cuttily illustrated by the story of a young bandit who robbed a mail truck two years ago and spent the time since in burning up the $45,000 he says he obtained by the exploit. Immediately after the holdup in Indianapolis he went to his home in Chicago where he persuaded a sweetheart to elope with him. The pair went to Milwaukee for several days and returned to Chicago. Then a trip to Los Angeles followed, where the youthful travelers were married, the man using his own name under which he was known from that time forward, while the police were theoretically "combing the country" for him.

He spent $25,000 learning to manipulate an airplane and buying three machines. Once he was arrested for speeding an automobile and was much amused to see a big circular with his picture and description on a wall of the police court where he was fined. No one recognized him. The law did not touch him until he returned to Chicago and surrendered—his money all spent. This is almost a match for the story of the New York fugitive who drove his car along a line of 10,000 policemen all supposed to have his face memorized and many of whom knew him. Not one recognized him and he laughingly drove away. It is evident the police do not take the same interest in their work that crooks do in theirs.

PRODDING THE DOCTORS.

The New York Journal is taking to task members of the profession who have neglected to formulate some standards of vaccination. The Journal comments that the average practitioner sees so little of smallpox that he has come to regard it as a negligible danger. Physicians look upon the vaccination task as something unimportant, almost trivial, to be turned over to the office nurse or be hurriedly performed by the doctor himself with a prayer that a bad arm may not follow.

The Journal finds further fault in the failure to establish a vaccination technique; "some scratch, some squirt vaccine beneath the skin with a hypodermic syringe." Doctors are criticized by the Journal for failing to discover some definite rule for re-vaccination, because they have neglected to find a way to diagnose a "take," to be certain about an immune reaction, or a failure.

VERSE OF TODAY

THE PHILOSOPHER
A hundred moving golden lights
That, twinkling, cleave the summer dark;
A breath of flowery beds escaped
From Central Park!

A balcony with yellow glare,
A row of men's broad-shouldered backs,
A crescent moon, that hangs above
Tall chimney stacks!

A glimpse of lights and flowered walls,
Of gowns and dresses diamond-sprayed,
The music of the latest waltz,
Divinely played!

Vague hauntings, sweet and undefined,
Of many a scene when pleasure's guest,
A half-regret, a cynic's smile,
And home—to rest!

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

UNBIDDEN GUESTS AT WASHINGTON.

(From the Omaha Bee.)
When the announcement of Mr. Wilson's "fourteen points" was made it had the unexpected effect of evoking "spirits from the vasty deep," in the form of many long forgotten nationalities. When these had assembled at Paris it gave to the conference there a peculiar color. Instead of a group of great and responsible powers, solemnly endeavoring to formulate a peace that would last, the proceedings partook largely of the nature of a scramble among small and frequently insignificant bodies, asserting national rights and demanding recognition under the magic phrase of "self-determination." Recognition thus afforded has produced further confusion, with slight contribution to the cause of peace.

Now we have the promise that this will be repeated, but in a lesser degree at Washington. Four great powers were invited by the President of the United States to assemble at Washington, for the consideration of the specific topic of limitation of armament; the list was extended to include three other lesser Powers to take part in the discussion and possible adjustment of certain questions dealing with the Pacific Ocean and the Far East. Thus not only the membership but the agenda for the assembly is definitely limited. Not deterred by this fact, the "unbidden" are coming forward.
Korea will ask a seat at the table; at least will expect to have its case reviewed, and undoubtedly will get some attention. South China, quite as much entitled to self-determination as any, wants to be recognized as a separate entity, that its peculiar claims may be treated as a separate docket, and so it goes. These unbidden guests, however, are not likely to have as much effect at Washington as they did at Paris. The conference here will not be so taken up with the delimitation of national boundaries as with the more important things involved in disarmament. The smaller nations will lose little by letting the larger settle some things.

THE HOPEFUL VIEW.

Things are looking pretty black, trouble everywhere we see, and we're prone to cry, "Alack," and to murmur, "Hully Chee!" But there's comfort in the thought that they've looked that way before, and the passing seasons brought all things right side up once more. Now we weep and wring our hands, and denounce the doggone luck, for the people of all lands seemingly have run amuck. Statemen do their little stunts in a rattled, loused way, but the problems they confront will be solved some pleasant day. Crime and license seem to rule, seem to thrive in every town; let us keep our foreheads cool—everything will settle down. But there's nothing new in sight, nothing new in any clime; everything comes out all right if we only give it time. After every three-ring war, every routine thing expires, and the evils we abhor were confronted by our sires. And our fathers doubtless said, as their sons remark today, that all rightness was dead, and the furies were at play. But they lived to see the dawn of a good and wholesome time, when the bogies all were gone, with the seething wave of crime. And, our troubles too will cease as the seasons run their course, and we'll boost the dove of peace, till our larynxes are hoarse.

ONE-SIXTH OF TOTAL TIMBER CUT IN U. S. USED FOR MAKING BOXES; FOREST SERVICE AIDS BUILDERS

Manufacturing of Boxes Assuming Tremendous Proportions; Scientific Federal Employees Have Made Great Strides in Conservation of Both Material and Space.

"Wooden Box and Crate Construction" is the title of an interesting book just received at the local forest service office. This book was prepared by the forest products laboratory of the forest service and published by the National Association of Box Manufacturers of Chicago in the interests of better built and standardized boxes and crates.

Few people realize the importance of scientific studies of box and crate construction, although the large users of boxes have been thoroughly alive to this subject for many years because of tremendous damage to freight shipments due to faulty boxes. When it is found, however, that the amount of lumber used annually in manufacturing shipping containers is estimated at between five and six billion feet or nearly one-sixth of the total lumber cut of the United States and that over thirty different kinds of wood are used, the far-reaching effect of such studies is readily seen. Even in New Mexico and Arizona, where one would naturally suppose that the manufacture of boxes would be very limited, twenty-eight million feet of lumber are annually used in box manufacture. The great importance of the economical use of wood for boxes of proper design, therefore, led to the formation of the National Association of Box Manufacturers in the interests of the wooden box.

Tests Are Made. Commercial research and mechanical tests on containers were begun by the forest products laboratory in 1915 in co-operation with the National Association of Box Manufacturers, the National Canners' association and the National Wholesale Grocers' association. Methods of testing and testing equipment were developed which have since become more or less standard for the box industry. From the data accumulated by the laboratory, the war department prepared, during the war, the general specifications for over-seas containers. At the laboratory in Madison, Wis., many containers to be used for the shipment of war equipment were tested and redesigned along more economical lines, including increases in strength, decrease in amount of material required, decrease in cubic contents and a consequent reduction of ocean freight costs.

Since the war, the laboratory has co-operated with many associations and companies in testing and studying the construction of many different types of containers such as these used for the shipment of electric lamps, cream separators, small tractors, talking machines, boilers, castings, furniture, paints and oils, piano benches, fruit baskets and crates and shoes. Such things as lumber grades suitable for boxes, the effect of changed moisture content of wood, shrinkage and swelling and the proper seasoning of lumber are described. The book tells of remedies for a great many defects and describes proper designs for various boxes and crates. A very important detail of box construction is proper nailing and corner construction. Thus, for instance, it has been found that if cement coated nails are used, 20 per cent fewer are needed. The relative merits of nailed, corner-locked, dovetailed and wire bound boxes are discussed, as are also those of various types of crates and veneered boxes. Interesting chapters on box and crate testing as well as structure and identification of woods add much to the usefulness of the publication.

Box Construction Data. In addition to the text it contains many useful tables and is profusely illustrated to bring out construction details more clearly. In fact the book contains in a general way all the latest and most accurate information available on box and crate design. However, details applicable to different kinds of boxes for carrying special commodities vary with each commodity, hence the application of the fundamental principles discussed in the book must be made by each manufacturer and individual user of such boxes, except, of course, as the principles apply to boxes which have already been standardized as to specifications. There are many of these, however, and others are being studied with a view to standardization. It should, therefore, prove of immense value to box manufacturers and users and of considerable interest to the public as a whole.

About Colds. Just because you have had many colds and always recovered from them, you should not presume that colds are not dangerous. It is not the cold itself but the serious diseases that it leads to that are to be guarded against. Pneumonia often follows a bad cold because the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ which otherwise could not have found lodgment. It is the same with many other germ diseases. You are most likely to contract them when you have a cold. Children who have colds should be kept out of school until they recover. Get rid of every cold as quickly as possible. In other words take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can be depended upon.

LUTHERANS ASK DONATIONS FOR EUROPEAN HELP

Rev. A. M. Knudson Is State Chairman of Campaign to Raise Funds for Reconstruction Work.

Excellent response in New Mexico to the nation-wide campaign of the Lutheran church to raise money for European rehabilitation is reported by the Rev. A. M. Knudson, pastor of the Lutheran church, who is in charge of the World service campaign of the National Lutheran Council in New Mexico. Mr. Knudson with A. E. Johnson visited Belen last week to canvass the Lutherans there, who contributed liberally.

Lutherans throughout the United States started October 15 a world service campaign for $1,450,000 to guarantee another year of rehabilitation work in 17 countries of Europe. The campaign, which is to be continued through the month, is to be presented from the pulpits of Lutheran churches supplemented by thousands of circulars sent out from the Lutheran bureau of the National Lutheran council.

Parting with treasured heirlooms to get the price of bread is a most common and natural procedure in Europe. Even the churches have been brought to it. By bit their cherished possessions have been knocked down under the auctioneer's hammer—orchard lands, fine paintings, market buildings, farms and city lots. Over there the churches had never been reduced to the hand-to-mouth methods that Americans practice.

Miracles come to pass throughout parishes of 17 European countries where the National Lutheran Council of America has been doing reconstruction work among nearly 59,000,000 needy Lutherans. The American dollar supplies the magic. The council's relief funds have saved churches, met emergencies and reinforced neighborhoods from Petrograd to the southern Tyrol, and from Cologne to Constantinople. Churches, schools, hospitals, orphanages, homes and deaconess institutions are built and equipped.

Is your skin pale and sallow?

—How you can rouse it

If your skin is pale and sallow, it shows clearly the need of a more stimulating treatment than you are giving it. A pale, sallow skin means inactive blood-vessels—pores that do not throw off quickly enough the waste matter that accumulates.

Don't let this condition become chronic. To give your skin the soft, clear color every healthy skin should have, follow once a week this special treatment:

JUST before retiring, fill your basin full of hot water—almost boiling hot. Bend over the top of the basin and cover your head with a heavy bath-towel, so that no steam can escape.

Steam your face for thirty seconds.

Now lather a hot cloth with Woodbury's Facial Soap. With this wash your face thoroughly, rubbing the lather well into the skin with an upward and outward motion.

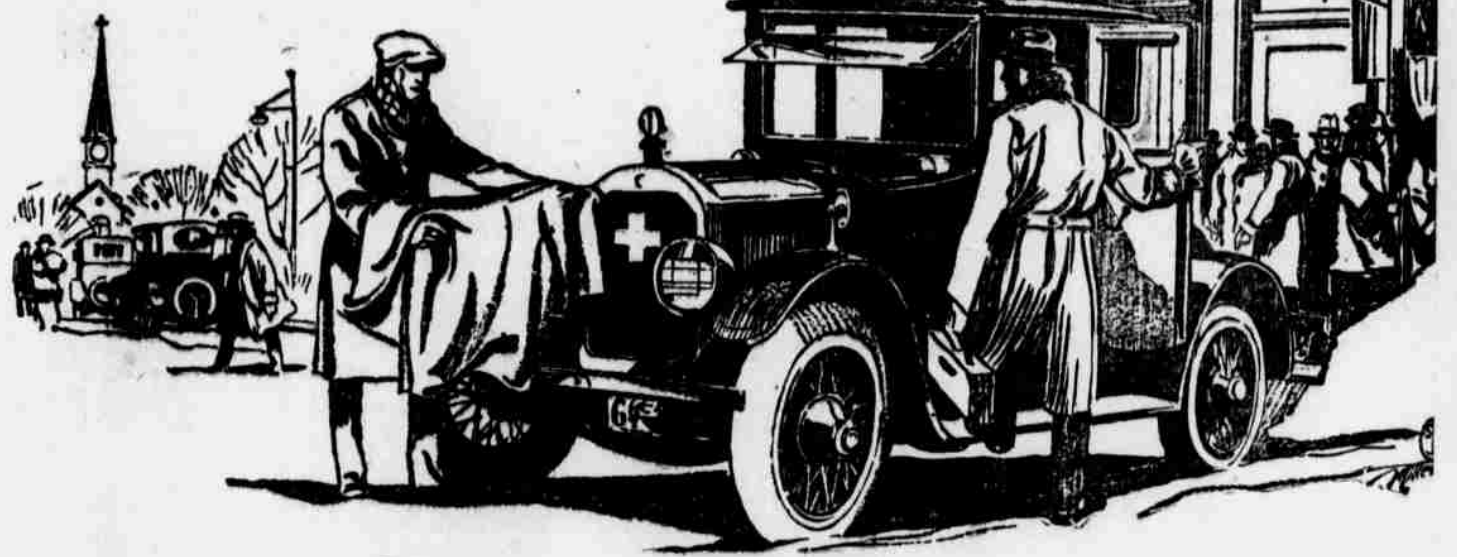

Then rinse the skin well, first with warm water, then with cold, and finish by rubbing it for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.

THE other six nights of the week cleanse your skin thoroughly in the usual way with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water.

Get a cake of Woodbury's today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter, and begin tonight this special steam treatment. A 25-cent cake of Woodbury's lasts for a month or six weeks. The Andrew Jergens Co., Cincinnati, New York and Perth, Ontario

Cold weather pointers for the motorist

How to get quick starting even in cold weather

DON'T think that you have to put up with slow starting just because the temperature is rather low. It is true that some gasoline starts easily enough in summer but gets balky when the air is a little frosty.

Conoco Gasoline vaporizes quickly and makes starting easy whether the thermometer registers 60° or 6°. Of course in those cases where the carburetor has been adjusted to give a very thin mixture for summer economy it is only logical to provide a slightly richer, but not heavy, mixture when really cold weather sets in.

Sluggish and slow burning gasoline is not only hard to start in winter but also falls down in power and mileage. The Continental Oil Company has studied carefully the motoring conditions in the six intermountain states which it serves and Conoco Gasoline is the best that can be produced for this territory the year 'round.

Drive up to a Conoco Service Station or a Continental dealer's pump and get your full requirement of gasoline. You'll find it satisfactory from every standpoint, in cold weather just as in the warmest days of July.

Polarine is the standard oil for motor lubrication. Purchase both of these Continental products with Conoco Coupons, sold in book form.

DODGE BROTHERS ADD NOTABLE REFINEMENTS TO POPULAR SEDAN

Disc wheels, cord tires, the latest custom windows and straight sweeping body lines are some of the features of Dodge Brothers improved sedan, which is now attracting much attention at the salesrooms of J. Korber and company, Dodge Brothers dealers here.

In this unusually attractive car Dodge Brothers seem to have considered the motorist's every desire in design and in comfort features. Cleanly chiseled body lines, which flow squarely backward from the cowl, strike the observer with the simple beauty. The windows are square-cut in design and further enhance the straight, graceful silhouette of the body. Considerably lower, the whole ensemble in its outward appearance immediately impresses one with its dignity and harmony of design.

The disc wheels are done in black enamel with cream stripes and hide from view the springs and other underneath parts. The disc wheels may be removed with facility and are easily cleaned. The brilliant luster of the sedan's exterior finish is familiar to all owners of Dodge Brothers' motor cars.

In the interior appointments the sedan leaves little to be desired. Delicately striped mohair velvet is used in upholstering the wide, commodious rear seat. In front

THE REO'S RECORD IN TRUCK SHIPMENT

According to statistics which have just been released, 60 per cent of all trucks exported into Canada from the United States during the month of August were Reo Speed Wagons. The records of the Reo Motor Car company show that the number of trucks exported into Canada in August this year represented an increase of 150 per cent over the number that were sent to Canada from the United States in August of last year.

is a deep, wide, solid seat with rounded sides, also trimmed in the striped material. The four doors, which permit easy entrance and exit from any part of the sedan, are upholstered with plain gray mohair velvet in a soft fawn-gray. Combined with the heavily nicked handles by which the windows are easily raised or lowered, this adds a richness of tone which can hardly be adequately described.

The windows in the doors and body are furnished with natural black walnut and are of polished plate glass. The body of the car is equipped with Yale locks, affording additional protection against theft and insuring the safe keeping of bundles and other articles when shopping. Handy side pockets, arm rests and windshield cleaner are other conveniences of the improved Dodge Brothers sedan.

CUT DEEP INTO AUTO PRICES IS PACKARD PLAN

Adoption of the "Packard Plan" by manufacturers of this section, as a means of relieving the winter employment situation was advocated today, following the application of the idea in one of Detroit's largest automobile factories. Mr. Sauer, head of the Roland Sauer and company, has received from President Macauley, of the Packard company, a brief outline of the movement.

"The soundness of the 'Packard Plan' commends it to every manufacturing employer," says Mr. Sauer. "It is just this: Cut deep into the price of the most popular product in your line. Thereby you will enlarge existing markets. The public demand for your goods will create a proportionate increase of employment for the workers."

"Buying is stimulated, and the effects of the movement benefit every line of business, every household and every individual in the community."

"President Macauley was moved to this action by the desire of himself and other Packard executives to give employment to the largest possible number of workmen during months that, even in ordinary years, reflects a seasonal slowing up operations. He selected one of the Packard products, the one of widest appeal, and lowered the price on it to a point permitting of the operation of this succession of influences."

"Such a plan needs only the consideration of every manufacturer in this district to insure its success. In every factory where several products are manufactured, one of these units can be reduced in price and so made attractive to the public demand, thereby keeping the wheels of industry turning and a majority of the workers provided with jobs."

"One of the most valuable features of Mr. Macauley's suggestion is that no elaborate machinery is needed to work this plan. No national, state or municipal organizations are required. It can be instituted by any manufacturer. The welfare of the community certainly warrants its consideration."

"Many foresighted business men and economists believe that the general acceptance of the 'Packard Plan' will do more than any measure so far brought forth to combat successfully the widespread unemployment in prospect this winter."

BIG REDUCTION MADE IN ESSEX MODELS

"Keen interest is awakened in the new prices just announced by Essex Motors," says Mr. Lauderdale, "which mark an extreme reduction of $600 on open models since September, 1920, and of $250 since last June."

"The new prices the company makes known, reflect advantages taken of the present and of anticipated market conditions for next year. On open models the present price is $180 lower than the Essex has ever sold for. Total reductions of as much as $795 occur on some closed models."

"Of added interest to the buyer is that these new lower prices apply to a new and improved Essex. The new car contains all of the advantages of its forerunner. In many ways it has been enhanced in qualities that count for smoother operation, greater reliability and freedom from service attention."

"The original appeal of the Essex was to those who wanted large car performance and reliability with small car operating economy at a moderate cost. In that direction it pioneered a new field and gained great popularity. More than 50,000 are now in service."

"Essex established its performance abilities through many notable official tests. It earned for itself a wide reputation through the character of its performance."

"The new prices enlarge the field of its appeal and it is through that that the company regards with confidence its ability to continue the present price-volume alone making it possible."

TIRE SALES SHOW STEADY INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

An Akron, Ohio, dispatch of recent date says: As a striking instance of the distance the rubber industry had swung back toward normal, Edward G. Wilmer, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, stated this week that notwithstanding the fact that sales during the first six months of 1920 had exceeded those of any period in the company's history, there had been more tires sold during the ten months up to October 1, 1921, than in the same period a year ago. In September this company sold 69,000 more tires than in September a year ago, he said.

"Goodyear turned one important corner last May, when its financing program was completed," said Mr. Wilmer, "but an uncertain summer was ahead. There was doubt and confusion. Competition was keen on all sides. Now, however, after five months of efficient sales effort, I feel justified in saying that we have turned another corner."

"Due to overstocks, buying of tires was slow during the fall and winter of last year and spring of this year. But the loss in volume of sales in the first part of the year of 1921 has more than been overcome."

"Despite the pessimism that still exists in some quarters, despite the fears of some that a hard winter is ahead, I feel that here at Goodyear we are going to have a decent winter."

The subsidiary Goodyear companies in Canada and California have likewise come through in good shape and are standing squarely on their own feet, contributing their share to the company's progress, he stated.

THE WILLARD COMPANY TESTING BATTERIES WITH HYDROMETER

"How can that little glass 'do-flitter' tell whether a battery is fully charged or not?" doubtfully queries some fair lady motorist during the day's work at the average battery service station. And many a man would like to know more about the same subject, but he does not like to confess his ignorance—his curiosity is not quite so keen.

The explanation is simple, indeed, and very reasonable when one gives it sufficient consideration. It happens that the sulphuric acid used in a battery solution is heavier than water alone, and the hydrometer used for battery testing merely indicates the relative weight of the solution when compared with the weight of pure water.

When a battery is fully charged, a great amount of the acid in the battery solution has combined with the lead compounds in the plates. Naturally the solution is weak in acid and the float rides deep. But when the battery is discharged and the acid is in the solution—the solution has become heavier—and the hydrometer rides high.

The Willard Storage Battery company and many other manufacturers recommend the regular and frequent testing of batteries with the hydrometer. Unless a battery has been meddled with by some inexperienced person, this makes a reliable test of the state of charge.

THE AMERICAN FARMER WILL BUY AUTOMOBILES THE COMING WINTER

Is the farmer going to buy this fall? As one writer puts it, "many a manufacturer and merchant would sleep better tonight if he knew the answer."

A leading farm journal determined to find out whether the American farmer will be in the market for purchases and, if so, what will he buy? The research department of this farm publication adopted a novel plan to get the right answer. A man named Smith in the research department calculated if he sent his questions to all the Smiths on the publication's list he would get a real line on the farmer's ideas on the subject of fall purchases. So out went a questionnaire to the 12,824 Smiths who were subscribers to the farm journal. The replies, which were heavy, were used as a basis for estimating what the entire 1,100,000 farm subscribers were going to do with the money they receive from the marketing of their products.

One of the most interesting features developed by the questionnaire is that eleven and five-tenths of the Smiths will buy automobiles, making a total of 126,000 cars to be bought this fall by the 1,100,000 farmers. In addition to showing the number of cars for which farmers will be in the market, the answers revealed that 116,200 have already determined upon the make of car which they will purchase.

Of this number 66,000 designated a certain law priced car. Of the remaining 50,200, the figures show, 22,000, or more than 43 per cent, will buy Buick cars. Of all cars specified Buick was second on the list and within its price field led the list by a wide margin. This unsolicited testimonial, representing the prestige of Buick cars among the American farmers, is regarded by the Buick company with a great deal of pride and satisfaction.

B. G. M'INTOSH, OF M'INTOSH AUTO CO., RETURNS FROM EAST

B. G. McIntosh, of the McIntosh Auto company, has just returned from an extensive business trip in the east, where he visited several of the largest automobile cities and reports business to be almost back to normal with the larger dealers of automobiles. The buying public seem to realize that automobile prices are bedrock and several of the larger dealers expect to see a slight advance in prices the coming spring when the season opens up. The dealers also report that they are having little trouble in moving the used cars traded in and the prices are very satisfactory; in fact there is practically no difference in the used car value in the east and the local price when the buyer takes into consideration the difference in the additional freight rates in New Mexico.

ROAD CONDITIONS

The New Mexico Auto club, state headquarters at 210 North Fourth street, this city, has issued the following on road conditions in the state:

The roads throughout all portions of the state are as good as at any time of the year. All roads are passable and there is no sand or mud which will bother the tourist.

All roads are somewhat rough and chunky where they were wet during the fall rains.

The roads and weather are as a rule safe for tourist travel until about Thanksgiving.

The State Headquarters of the New Mexico Auto Club will bulletin any change in these conditions at the club office. Any one desiring information concerning any definite road or roads may have same along with maps by calling at the club office.

THE HARLEY-DAVIDSON AGENT AT LOS ANGELES WINS ENDURANCE RACE

Rich Budeller, Los Angeles Harley-Davidson motorcycle dealer, doesn't believe in confining his activities to merely selling motorcycles. His theory is that the live motorcycle dealer should be able to demonstrate the ability of his machine to travel all sorts of road conditions. That Budeller can do that is proven by his performance last Sunday over the Orange-Santa Ana course.

At midnight on October 16 the annual Orange County Motorcycle club endurance contest was started and Budeller, riding a Harley-Davidson machine that was equipped with Goodyear Cord tires, was the winner of the side-car event after a 17-hour grind.

In this particular contest the regulations stipulated that all motors should be locked and where ever tire or engine trouble was experienced, machine and driver should be promptly eliminated.

The race was scheduled to run over a period of 24 hours, but at the end of 17 hours Budeller was riding alone, all the other entrants having been eliminated.

Mr. Budeller had but recently come to Los Angeles and his business career is indeed interesting. Graduating from college a few years ago he decided to go into the motorcycle business and came to San Diego, where he acquired the Harley-Davidson agency. This was in 1919.

About a year later he sold out this business and took over the Henderson and Excelsior agencies, which he conducted until August of this year, when he decided to move to Los Angeles.

His original investment in the motorcycle business in San Diego was $5,000. The amount he received for his business at the end of a little more than two years was $21,000—showing how he had been able to build up a profitable undertaking on little capital.

Mr. Budeller is now erecting a modern structure at the junction of West Adams and South Main street, Los Angeles, which is especially designed for motorcycle sales and service.

Born and raised a westerner, Mr. Budeller was averse to starting in business anywhere except in the west—and Los Angeles has been selected as his permanent business home.

PREST-O-LITE MAKES BIG CUT IN PRICE OF POPULAR BATTERY

The Prest-O-Lite company, Inc., has made it possible for the car and truck owners of the United States to save perhaps $40,000,000 in the aggregate over what they would have had to pay for the same battery in September, 1920. It has just announced the second drastic cut in price on a model for use on Fords, Chevrolets, Overlands, certain models of Buick and 27 other cars and trucks.

The present trade-in or exchange price on this battery is $23.50 as compared to a price of $31.15 for the same battery as recently as December, 1920. In September, 1920, this battery sold at the trade-in price of $35.90, or a list price of $37.80. The new price of $23.50 is even lower than the 1917 price.

Considering that probably one-third of the ten million car and truck owners in the United States can use this type of Prest-O-Lite, and figuring on an individual saving of $12.40 over the September trade-in price, this totals an aggregate possible saving of $40,000,000 for the motorists of the United States.

The Prest-O-Lite company, through its distributors and service stations all over the country, is making a special drive on the $23.50 battery.

In explaining this second price cut, Prest-O-Lite states that it is "determined to lead the battery business back to normal." Prest-O-Lite has prided itself on the fact that it has always been "the last to raise and the first to reduce." Now, it seems, it is "the first to reduce again." Prest-O-Lite has anticipated certain factory economies and passed them on to car owners at this time. These economies and a tremendous sale of the $23.50 battery are expected to justify the price reduction from the company's standpoint.

The Prest-O-Lite company has tens to assure the public that these are genuine first-quality batteries, every one; that they are all new batteries fresh from the factory; designed by Prest-O-Lite engineers and made under rigid Prest-O-Lite inspection. In other words, they are the genuine Prest-O-Lite article and not a job lot to be worked off on a public hungry for lower prices.

This will certainly be good news for the owners of Fords, Chevrolets, Overlands, Buicks, and other cars and trucks who have been making their present battery "do" in the expectation that prices would come down. Prest-O-Lite, it would seem, has cut its price to the bone, and car owners will gain nothing by further waiting to buy a fresh, new battery to see them through the trying winter months ahead.

Inside the crankcase—that's where the trouble generally starts

How black sediment in ordinary oil damages your automobile engine

MORE and more motorists are discovering that most of their engine troubles start inside the crankcase. And there's a reason for it.

Under the intense heat of the engine ordinary oil forms great quantities of black sediment. Sediment has no lubricating value. It not only destroys the film of oil between the fast-moving parts, but falls back into the crankcase and contaminates the entire oil supply. Friction and wear increase. Bearings become loose and pound. Cylinders and pistons score, carbon forms rapidly.

Troubles caused by sediment can now be prevented

Veedol, the lubricant that resists heat, practically does away with sediment. Veedol maintains the oil film. Excess carbon is prevented, valves need grinding less often, overheating is stopped.

Drop in today and let us fill your crankcase with the proper grade of Veedol. We believe there is no oil like Veedol for reducing repair expenses. The first thousand miles will convince you of the difference Veedol makes in the running of your car.

Every One Has A Kind Word to Say of The Page "Internal" Pile Treatment.

Two Tablets and Back to Work.

"I have been a sufferer from piles of the worst form for the past six years. I had consulted with the best doctors, but to no avail. I had been unable to work for the two weeks previous to the time I sent for your treatment, and suffered terribly, not being able to find a position I could rest in.

The day I received the medicine I took two pile tablets after supper and one pill before I retired. The next day I worked and have continued to work ever since. I feel like a new man.

I have recommended your treatment to a friend of mine who is bothered with itching piles, as I know it will knock 'em out.

Thanking you kindly for the prompt attention given my order, I am, yours for success."

IRA M. SACORA.

Ainsworth, Iowa.

Aged 58—Suffered for Years

"I want you to know what your treatment has done for me. I had suffered with piles for many years and used suppositories and all kinds of treatments, but never got relief until I tried yours. Am now completely cured. Although I am 58 years old and the oldest active blacksmith in Michigan, I feel years younger since the piles left me. I will surely recommend it to all I know who suffer this way. You can use my letter any way you wish and I hope it will lead others to try this wonderful remedy."

J. L. LYON.

Homer, Mich.

Told There Was No "Home Cure"

"Replying to your recent inquiry I am glad to be able to state that the two large-size packages of Treatment I ordered for my son cured him sound and well.

I have tried several remedies but none seemed to have any effect. I was told by some that there was no such thing as a Home Cure for piles. Then by chance I picked up a piece of scrap paper and saw your advertisement. I asked for a free sample, got it, and after I had seen what it had done, I ordered a large-size treatment and it almost completely cured my son. Then I ordered another, and I say I can bless the day that I picked up that scrap of paper and answered your advertisement. I can't say enough for the E. R. Page Pile Treatment. I have recommended it to my friends here and sent some of your pamphlets to friends in other states.

Now you may use this letter or any part of it as you may see fit, to introduce your wonderful remedy. With best wishes for your success, I remain."

Your very truly,

L. M. COPLIN.

Box 124, Deering, Mo.

Suffered 25 Years.

"It gives me great pleasure to write and tell you I am troubled no more with Piles. I am 64 years of age and have suffered for over 25 years; have tried all kinds of Ointment, etc., without success.

You are at liberty to use my name in reference to your Pile Cure and also my photograph, which I am sending you.

With best regards, I remain yours very truly."

Bleeding Piles for Six Years.

"Your Pile Tablets are surely wonderful. I was troubled with bleeding piles, off and on, for six years; couldn't get anything to cure them until I read your ad. in the daily paper. The sample must have cured me—I haven't been bothered since."

Yours truly,

MRS. M. J. MANBECK.

R. R. 2, Box 56,

San Bernardino, Calif.

"Can Not Be Praised Too Much."

"After suffering years with Piles I feel now as if I never had them. Your remedy is certainly a success and cannot be praised too much. Had it not been for running across your ad. in the World Almanac, I suppose I would be still bothered with this awful disease. I want to thank you for your kindness, and if ever I have an opportunity of recommending it I will do so."

Sincerely yours,

E. R. RAYMOND.

Took the Page Treatment 18 Years Ago.

"One of the most grateful letters ever received in our office is dated by Mr. T. H. Quinn. He writes that he used our method for treating piles 18 years ago. He states that he was cured at that time and has never had any return of his trouble. He orders a treatment for his son.

This is a case to be proud of."

Was About to Undergo Operation.

Camden, N. J., 2517 Park Ave.

Mr. E. R. Page,

Dear Sir—

"You will have to excuse me for not answering your letter before, but I wanted to convince myself of the merit of your treatment before replying.

Now in regard to the treatment I cannot praise it too highly.

After 7 months of continual pain I was surprised how quickly your treatment worked.

I tried several different kinds of treatments and I found them all wanting.

I was on the verge of going to a doctor for an operation when I saw your advertisement.

It appealed to me because to cure piles, you have to know what causes them.

It is now 6 months since I have taken your treatment and I have not had any trouble since.

I personally recommend this treatment to all pile sufferers.

Wishing you the best of success, I remain, gratefully yours."

HARRY SCHLECHTER.

Doctors Recommended An Operation.

"I was a sufferer from piles. Two doctors had said there was nothing that would do me any good but an operation. First I tried a sample of your Pile Treatment and was greatly relieved. Then I ordered a regular treatment and now I feel that I am cured. I advise all people who suffer with piles to take the Page Treatment."

Sincerely yours,

J. W. SHORES.

Box 25, Tallahassee, Ala.

Only One Effective.

"I wish to express my appreciation of your pile cure. Have doctored with different doctors but will say have found your cure the only effective one."

Respectfully yours,

HIRSH GRAY.

Remember—That we have not asked you for so much as a postage stamp. We have not asked you to Buy Anything. And what is more, we are Not Going to ask you to buy a penny's worth of anything until After we have sent you a liberal Free trial of this treatment and given you the opportunity to test it and try it. That is our way of doing business. So you are not running any risk when you send the coupon and nothing but Good can come to you from answering this offer.

If you do not happen to be suffering with your piles this moment, but are subject to occasional spells of trouble, send for this Free Trial just the same and keep it at hand for your future help.

If you are not troubled with Piles yourself, but have a friend who is, then send us your friend's name and tell him or her that you have done so.

Coupon for Free Proof Package

Don't put off the matter of sending the Coupon, for it will be much better to have this sure relief right at hand the next time your piles bother you than to hunt around for our address and then wait two or three days for the package to reach you. So send your name and address Now.
