It was 2:30 p. m. when the convention was again called to order.

W. B. Walton stated that the three minority members did not sign the report, namely, C. R. Brice, James I. Hinkle, and W. B. Walton. When he came as a delegate to the convention it was with the firm purpose to write a constitution acceptable to the people. Voting only his own sentiments he was up to last evening disposed to support the adoption of the constitution. He objected to the unlucky senatorial district No. 13, and because it included the county of

REVISION COMMITTEE BUSY

Constitutional Convention Is Drawing to a Close With Its Labors.

The Republican conference last evening at an animated session came to an agreement on the apportionment as well as on the matter of giving women the franchise at school elections.

The prohibition hearing in the Council chamber last evening was well attended. E. A. Miera presided, impartially and ably. Strong addresses favoring state-wide prohibition were made by Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. S. C. Nutter, Mrs. E. E. Friday, E. S. Stover, R. W. Hefflin, W. E. Garrison who favored separate submission, M. D. Taylor, and other speakers. There were some questions by M. L. Stern, Venceslao Jaramillo, F. E. Wood and others.

Forenoon.

At 10:50 a. m. President Charles A. Spies called the convention to order and Rev. Julius A. Hartman pronounced the following poetic invocation:

Lord, Who giveth strength to the weary and increaseth force and might to them who labor and toil, confirm on the last days of our journey our souls with special strength from above; give us manly courage which shrinks from nothing; perseverance which goes forth heroically and self-denyingly to its end. And now, that the light-house of hope looms before us and land is in sight, steer the barge of our constitution in its onward course securely into a safe harbor. Amen.

Petitions for and against prohibition were presented and referred to the Committee on Liquor Traffic. A telegram to the Bernalillo county delegation demanded positive action either for or against prohibition.

E. S. Stover presented a file, written originally by Senator Root and embodied in the New York constitution. It refers to the penitentiary and convicts.

The Committee on Revision reported the articles on Agriculture and Conservation, Executive Department, Compact with the United States, Public Lands. The Committee on Judicial Districts and district attorneys.

W. E. Lindsey introduced Resolution No. 26, authorizing Territorial Secretary Nathan Jaffa to employ a competent proof reader and providing for the distribution of the printed copies of the constitution.

The Preamble and Article I, Name and Boundaries, as reported from the Committee on Revision were adopted. They read as follows:

Preamble.

We, the people of New Mexico, grateful to Almighty God for the blessings of liberty, in order to secure the advantages of a state government, do ordain and establish this constitution.

ARTICLE I.

Name and Boundaries.

The name of this state is New Mexico, and its boundaries are as follows: Beginning at the point where the thirty-seventh parallel of north latitude intersects the one hundred and third meridian west from Greenwich; thence along said one hundred and third meridian to the thirty-second parallel of north latitude; thence along said thirty-second parallel to the Rio Grande, also known as the Rio Bravo del Norte, as it existed on the ninth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and fifty; thence following the main channel of said river, as it existed on the ninth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and fifty, to the parallel of thirty-one degrees forty-seven minutes north latitude; thence west one hundred miles to a point; thence south to the parallel of thirty-one degrees twenty minutes north latitude; thence along said parallel of thirty-one degrees twenty minutes, to the thirty-second meridian of longitude west from Washington; thence along said thirty-second meridian to the thirty-seventh parallel of north latitude; thence along said thirty-seventh parallel to the point of beginning.

Printing of Constitution.

Nestor Montoya moved that the Lindsey resolution providing for the printing of 100,000 copies of the constitution, the proof reading and the distribution, be adopted. The resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Committee on Franchise reported a substitute for part of Section 1, of its report, modifying the provision as to extending the right of franchise to women at school elections.

Upon petition of 50 per cent of the qualified voters of any school district, the right of women to vote at school elections may be suspended, while a similar petition would restore it.

J. W. Childers offered an amendment to Section 7, that the legislature enact a direct primary law. A. B. Fall offered to amend that nothing in the constitution shall prevent the

TRAGIC END OF TWO LIVES

Count Tolstoi and Wife Are Both Reported to Be Dying

SACRAMENT ADMINISTERED

Aged Reformer and Author Lies in Miserable Railroad Hut Near Tulsa.

Tula, Russia, Nov. 15.—The condition of both Count Leo Tolstoi and the Countess are reported today to be critical. The Count appears to be succumbing to a fever brought on by mental distress and exposure incident to his voluntary exile from home, while his deserted wife is dying of broken heart. The mind of the great Russian scarcely could have conceived a more tragic ending of two lives which have been interwoven for half a century. Tolstoi was overcome with fatigue while attempting yesterday to continue his pilgrimage to the monastery at Shamardino in the Caucasus, where he had hoped to spend his last days in the Tolstoin colony on the shores of the Black sea.

Dying in Miserable Hut.

Tulsa, Nov. 15.—Tolstoi lies in a miserable hut at the railroad flag station of Astapova, to which he was removed from the train when his physician and companion Dr. Makovsky realized that the continuance of the journey would result in death. Today the condition of the aged man is most serious. On the Tolstoi estate at Yasnaya, Polana, the countess today received the last sacrament. When her husband disappeared Thursday she twice attempted suicide. Since then, she has not touched food and she is prostrated mentally and physically.

Those in touch with the novelist say that Tolstoi felt the approach of death and his disappearance from home was influenced by the desire to spare his family the pain and complications that might ensue regarding his funeral because of his excommunication from the Greek church.

Family Joins Tolstoi.

Tula, Nov. 15.—This afternoon the countess astonished her physician by demanding that she be taken to her husband, and later in the day she was taken to Astapova accompanied by her two sons.

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—Governor Hadley of Missouri addressed the convention of the American Federation of Labor today on "Workingmen's Compensations." President Gompers continued the reading of his annual report. Before the convention ends, according to the leaders, the delegates will have to decide for or against Socialism. Victor Berger of Milwaukee, Congressman-elect, and Max Hays of Cleveland, are leading in the struggle to have the convention declare for Socialism.

GIFFORD PINCHOT MAY PRESENT HIS BRIEF.

He Feels That Interior Department May Patent Cunningham Claims in Alaska.

Washington, Nov. 15.—President Taft, responding to the request of Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester and his brother Amos Pinchot, for permission to submit a brief on the question of issuing patents in the Cunningham Alaskan Coal Land claims, has informed Mr. Pinchot that he may submit such brief. The President's letter is in reply to a recent letter from Mr. Pinchot expressing the fear that the Interior department will recommend the patenting of those claims.

BRITISH POLITICAL CRISIS PUT OFF ONE DAY.

Parliament Reassembles Today and Awaits Decision of Cabinet Which Is Divided.

London, Nov. 15.—Parliament reassembled today, but the political crisis was delayed until tomorrow. By that time Premier Asquith will have seen King George and laid before him the decision reached by the cabinet at today's session. The cabinet is believed to be divided on the question asking the House of Lords to accept or reject the veto resolutions before the dissolution of parliament.

Adjourned to Friday.

London, Nov. 15.—Parliament adjourned until Friday, thus postponing the inevitable crisis over the government's plans.

MAYOR ARTHUR SELIGMAN, FINANCIER, MERCHANT AND DEMOCRATIC LEADER.

Mayor Arthur Seligman is a Democrat, he is a Democratic leader, the New Mexican fought him tooth and nail this spring when he made the race for mayor of this Ancient City. He was elected, he has made good and Santa Fe sat up with a jerk when it realized that it had at its helm a man who was determined to force the Ancient City to trot to the head of its class in the Southwest. In a few months, he paved with brick part of San Francisco street, he has installed a new lighting system which was much needed, he has cleaned up the town from one end to the other, he is forcing the collecting of the road tax, is macadamizing Montezuma avenue and doing so many other things that old timers deemed impossible that even the police force is taking notice and is patrolling the city much more vigorously than ever before. If Santa Fe does not line up with Albuquerque and Roswell within the next few years it will not be Mayor Seligman's fault, but must be ascribed to the lack of financial means although it is remarkable, how much he has accomplished with limited funds in so brief a time. Being mayor, is not an easy job, it means sitting on a lid that is constantly trying to blow up, it means few hours of day or night which are not given to public grievances; as the office is purely an honorary one without salary attached to it, and Mr. Seligman's time is worth money and a good deal of money, many people wonder why he is bothering with it at all. But it is love for the old town, patriotism and a spirit of duty. Mr. Seligman, who will next year reach the forty years' mark in age, has been in public life a good deal. As chairman of the board of county commissioners he gave the county a model administration and placed its consumptive finances in the convalescent ward; he has been secretary of the territorial irrigation commission, accomplished much work for New Mexico as member of the Pan-American Exposition and the St. Louis World's Fair Commissions, he is the present chairman of the Democratic county central committee and is a Democratic senatorial possibility, he is an Elk and has traveled the degrees in the Masons of which order he is one of the mainstays. He is a financier who is an authority on taxation, assessment and bond matters; he is an enthusiastic good roads advocate, he is a prominent businessman, a member of many organizations and yet finds time to be a good fellow.

ARMED CONFLICT IS FEARED

Mexicans Reported to Be Marching on Rock Springs, Texas

DENIED BY LATER DISPATCH

Cowboys and Ranchers Arm Themselves and Go to Meet Imaginary Foe.

Rock Springs, Texas, Nov. 15.—As the result of the report today that 400 armed Mexicans are marching upon this town, cowboys and ranchmen of the surrounding country, armed with rifles and revolvers, are pouring into Rock Springs this morning. The ranch people of this section are so anxious for a combat with the Mexican band that they probably will start on a march this afternoon to meet the alleged invaders.

Report is a Canard.

San Antonio, Nov. 15.—There is no truth in the report that armed Mexicans are marching on Rock Springs, Texas, where Antonio Rodriguez was supposed to be a Mexican, was recently burned at the stake.

Prepared for Any Emergency.

San Antonio, Nov. 15.—A telephone message from Sheriff Pope of Edwards county stated that he had an armed force ready to meet any hostile movement that might be made by the Mexicans. He said that there is no indication of any such movement at Rock Springs but nevertheless he has made preparations to meet any emergency. "Everybody is on guard and not a Mexican in sight," is the way he describes the situation. The sheriff at Del Rio has heard nothing of any suspicious movements.

NEGRO ACCUSED OF MURDER SUBMITS ALIBI.

Asbury Park, N. J., Nov. 15.—Following the threats by a mob to lynch Thomas Williams, the negro suspected of the murder of nine year old Marie Smith, the prisoner was removed early today from the local jail to the county jail at Freehold. The mob has been scattered and the streets are comparatively clear. Williams denies all knowledge of the crime and from official sources it is learned that he has apparently established a good alibi.

Price of Fresh Meat Takes a Tumble in Big Markets of Country

BEEF AND PORK GOING DOWN

Turkey Veal and Mutton Will Rapidly Follow This Example.

New York, Nov. 15.—Reports come from various parts of the country, indicating a fall in the prices of meats and are reflected by similar reports from local dealers. One of the leading dealers said that sirloin steak is now selling at 22 cents, a decline of two cents, and porterhouse is off three cents. Fresh pork products are off four cents, roasts are selling at 18 cents. Market men attribute the relief from high prices to the enormous corn crop and consequent low prices of cereals.

A Drop in Turkey.

Denver, Nov. 15.—The Thanksgiving turkey bird will be secured by Denver housewives this year from three to five cents a pound lower than last year, if she buys it in time. The retail markets say that turkeys will retail at Thanksgiving time at about 30 cents a pound, and chickens are two to three cents a pound lower. There is no reduction so far however of the price of beef and pork.

Missouri.

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 15.—Retailers announced a reduction in pork of two and a half cents a pound today. Beef prices are unchanged, but a slump is predicted.

Kansas City.

Kansas City, Nov. 15.—A reduction of one to two cents a pound in the retail price of the cheaper grades of beef was announced here today. You may look for cheaper prices of all kinds of meats," said one of the leading dealers. "Fancy beef will be next to come down."

Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The Chicago prices of beef, pork and mutton, are falling. Within the last week, beef has declined four to five cents a pound by the packers. Pork has fallen about three cents from the price of 18 and 20 cents ruling a week ago and wholesale dealers say that mutton, veal and other products will take a downward turn within a few days.

Omaha.

Omaha, Nov. 15.—All fresh meats have dropped about two cents a pound in this market and a further decline by January 1 of at least five cents on pork and almost as much in other fresh meats is predicted. The prices of cured meats has not materially changed.

St. Louis.

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—Fresh meats are two to three cents a pound cheaper than a year ago.

SALT LAKE CITY DOES NOT REACH 100,000.

Baltimore is Taking Census of Its Own Because Uncle Sam Has Refused to Do So.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Salt Lake City has a population of 92,777, according to statistics of the thirteenth census made public. "This is an increase of 39,246 or 73.3 per cent over 53,531 in 1900. The population of Salt Lake county, Utah, is 131,426 compared with 77,725 in 1900.

Baltimore Dissatisfied.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15.—Attempts by the mayor to have a recount of Baltimore's population by the federal census bureau, having failed, the police today began a second census. In his request the mayor represented that the federal census taken last April was incomplete. He believed enough people had been missed to have kept Baltimore in the sixth place in point of population.

ELECTION RETURNS DID NOT AFFECT WOOL MARKET.

Heavy Shipments are Being Made to Factories From Boston and Prices are Maintained.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15.—Heavy shipments of wool to the factories and a fair volume of trading continue in the wool market with values holding firm. The Boston wool merchants generally believe that the election will have no effect on the market. It is certain that schedule K of the tariff bill, which applies to wool cannot be changed to affect the present clip. A good demand for half blood fleeces is reported, and 30 cents has been paid for Ohio, with Michigan at 29 1/2. Heavy transfers also have been made in Montana clothing at 60 cents scouring basis. The best fine staple is quoted at 65 cents and pulled wool is moving fairly well with 52 to 56 for a supers.

RIVER SEINE IS STILL RISING.

Paris, Nov. 15.—The river Seine rose at the rate of half a centimeter an hour today. The official statement that the flood maximum will be reached Thursday has not reassured the riverside dwellers of this city and the suburbs who fear another disaster.

SALOONS WIN IN ARIZONA

Will Not Permit Initiative to Apply to Counties on Question

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE DEFEATED

Over Zealousness of Advocates Has Caused It to Be Tabooed By Law Makers

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 15.—In Arizona the liquor question is a big issue and is growing larger each day. Several sections, including the whole of the Gila valley, are now dry. The constitutional convention delegates are pledged to separate submission of a state-wide provision for prohibition at the same time the constitution is submitted for the people's votes. If this carries it becomes part of the constitution. On the other hand county option is looked upon by the drys as a sheet anchor, for no one suspects this state-wide provision to carry. Therefore the drys, of which there are many, insist that the convention provide initiative for counties. This, the convention refused to do, holding to the old theory of home rule for cities. In this it was backed up by a resolution passed at a special meeting of the Phoenix city council.

THE DAILY ROUND UP.

THE PURPLE MIST.

By Josephine Foster.

The day slips from sight o'er the hill-top
And the mist like an evening caress
Folds soft her dear arms 'round the valley
And the dews lie asleep on her breast.
She comes on the zephyrs of twilight
In amethyst draperies pale
Sowing with banishing fingers
Gems for the morn to unveil
Silence precedes her and hushes
To tenderness sounds of the day,
And night wraps her close on her bosom
Lest out in the darkness she stray.

Returned Pocketbook With $400—A New Yorker, en route to El Paso, lost a pocketbook containing $400 and other valuables on the depot platform at Las Vegas. When he discovered his loss he was wild. A laboring man on his way from Chicago to Los Angeles, found the wallet. He at once began searching for its owner, asking several people if they had heard of a pocketbook being lost. Just then the New Yorker came up. He identified the book as his own and it was given to him. The laborer was given no reward.

There are times when it is necessary to raise the temperature quickly or to keep the temperature up for a long period. That can't be done by the regular method of heating without great trouble and overheating the rest of the house. The only reliable method of heating such a room alone by other means is to use a Prohibition Up in Court—Two of the cases in which there are alleged to have been violations of the Roswell city prohibition ordinances were argued before Chief Justice William H. Pope, holding district court in chambers. One case was against D. R. Patrick, in which the search and seizure phase of the law was attacked and another was in the case of L. T. THIRTY-EIGHT INDICTMENTS BY CHAVES COUNTY JURY.

The Chaves county grand jury returned nine more indictments and three more "no" bills Saturday morning and the parties that have been arrested were arraigned. This makes a total of 38 indictments and six "no" bills by the grand jury to date, and the jury is still working. The three "no" bills were in the cases of O. D. Edmondson, who had been charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. Charles Ayres, who was charged with horse stealing and V. L. Mabry, who had been charged with malicious threats. The parties arraigned on the new indictments were as follows: V. C. Musgrave, horse stealing; Lee Smith, alias W. H. Barker, for sending L. L. Johnson a malicious threat through the mails for the purpose of extorting money. Howard Howell, the boy charged with setting fire to the Clem house; Jim Walker, charged with stealing neat cattle; Harry C. Elrick, charged with selling liquor on election day, pleads guilty; Wilson F. Smith, same charge and same action.

FROM THE SUNNY SOUTH LAND. Among the many gifts that Nature has lavished on the South none is more valuable than her gift of the cotton plant. In the soil, warmth and sunshine of the South, the cotton plant attains its highest perfection. Formerly, only the white, downy lint of the cotton boll was preserved, but today, from the kernel of the cotton seed is pressed an oil which, when refined, compares favorably with the purest olive oil. From the choicest of this oil of the cotton seed is made a cooking fat called Cotolene. In efficiency, purity and wholesomeness, Cotolene far exceeds the fat of the hog, and it has well been named, "Nature's gift from the Sunny South."

Santa Fe people endorse this. Read a case of it:

Hilario Baca, Delgado St., Santa Fe, N. M., says: "About two and a half years ago I gave a public statement, telling of my experience with, and opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. They completely rid me of pains in my back which had troubled me off and on for months. When I stooped or brought any strain on my loins. I suffered severely and there were various other symptoms that my trouble came from disordered kidneys. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills and they brought prompt relief. I continued taking Doan's Kidney Pills and it was not long before every symptom of my trouble disappeared. The fact that I have had no return attack, warrants me in giving Doan's Kidney Pills my re-endorsement."

FAIR INTERFERES WITH CONVENTION

Democratic Delegates Could Not Resist Horse Races

BUT LITTLE PROGRESS MADE

Radical Measure to Keep Foreigners From Working in Mines Voted Down.

(Sunday's Phoenix Republican.)

The half day session of the constitutional convention Saturday was devoted almost entirely to cleaning up and throwing into the discard, constitutional material believed to be useless or worse.

The most interesting event of the day was the drawing of a fairly distinct line between the ordinary progressives and the extreme progressives, some times called the socialists and some times the labor Democrats. It indicated that since the aid of the extreme progressives have got through all the matters that they set out to get, they believe now, that the limit of foolishness has been reached, it is well to come to a halt and let the socialistic element shift for itself.

The test came in the committee of the whole which had under consideration the judiciary committee's recommendation for indefinite postponement. Mr. Feeney's bill of rights calculated to legalize boycotting and picketing.

A Precaution Against Judges.

When this order was reached, Mr. Feeney rose in defense of his measure which he said was not calculated to give labor any right that did not belong to it. Labor, he said, had never suffered from legislation. Its troubles had always been with judges-made laws and it was desired to put this proposition into the constitution, so plain that courts could not misinterpret it as they had been misinterpreting legislation from the time of Pontius Pilate down to Recorder Goff of New York.

Legislation favorable to labor had been a door to freedom but the door was always locked. Here was a key to open it.

There were no speeches in opposition and the matter went to a vote on a motion to adopt the report of the committee, resulting as follows: Ayes, 27. Nays 16.

It is not meant that all of the gentlemen who voted in the negative are socialists or of socialistic tendencies, but as this was about the most radical measure that had been presented, the votes of all could not doubt be counted upon in support of the other propositions which have been brought in, supposedly in the interest of labor.

Seven Republicans voted with the majority and four were absent. Five Democrats were absent.

Another Test Coming.

A more rigid test will come, it is expected, on the proposition of Mr. Kinney to prevent the employment in the underground workings of mines or in other hazardous tasks where large numbers of men are employed, more than twenty per cent of laborers who cannot speak the English language.

Members of the labor party in and out of the convention are supporting this measure more earnestly than any other which has been presented in behalf of labor. There is an organization in the territory for the purpose of putting it through and the members of the convention have been deluged with petitions from every mining camp. It is claimed by the opponents of the proposition that if it should be adopted and the territory should be admitted to statehood, every large mine in the state would be closed.

A Military Visitor.

When the convention opened Saturday morning Major General Thomas who had been voted the privilege of the floor took a seat for a short time beside President Hunt. In behalf of him the president extended his thanks to the convention for the signal honor which had been accorded him and which had been extended to no other man in the course of the session. The general remained for only a short time.

The Judiciary System.

The morning business having been disposed of, the convention went into the committee of the whole with Mr. Osborn in the chair. The first thing on the calendar was the substitute for proposition 52 providing for a complete judiciary system. The proceedings were begun with a motion by Mr. Cunningham for a postponement of the consideration of it until Monday. Most of the members, he said, were not familiar with it and as it was a necessarily complicated measure it was desirable that members be given an opportunity to study it.

Mr. Cunningham, chairman of the judiciary committee who has been trying to prod the convention into excessive activity for the last week, said that it was now four days since the substitute had been reported and he believed that if it had not been for the fair, members might have acquainted themselves with its provisions.

Judge Doe believed that further time should be given. He and the other members of the committee, he believed, understood it but evidently many of the members did not. It was proposed in the measure to revolutionize the judicial system of Arizona and he believed that the subject was of sufficient importance to merit some contemplation.

Mr. Franklin opposed the motion to postpone. He did not believe that the committee should take decisive action at this sitting but he knew of no better way for the members to become familiar with the proposed system than by a discussion of it.

Mr. Cunningham still insisted that the need of long discussion was imaginary. It was no new and untried thing that had been proposed. The system was taken in part from the long established system of Washington and in part from California.

Finally the motion to postpone went to a vote and was carried 24 to 20.

Abolition of Fee System.

Next in order was proposition 62 as it had been amended by the legislative committee. This measure related to the compensation of county and state officers and provided that all should receive fixed salaries, though sheriffs should retain such fees as they received for their services in civil cases. The committee amendment did not alter the proposition materially. It cut out what seemed to be purely legislative matter. Objection was raised to allowing sheriffs any fees at all and that was eventually eliminated.

Mr. Ingraham feared that it would be interpreted to mean that notaries public and school trustees should receive salaries in lieu of such fees as they now receive. Mr. Short replied that he had been a school trustee for many years and he wondered if he had missed anything. He had never received fees and he had not heard before that it was possible for a trustee to get fees.

Judge Baker threw some light on this discussion by his definition of county and state officers as officers whose jurisdiction was co-extensive with the county or the state. Notaries public and school trustees were therefore not county or state officers.

Mr. Orme offered an amendment, putting justices of the peace and constables on a salary basis. Mr. Ingraham offered an amendment leaving fees to precinct officers in precincts having a population of less than 400.

Mr. Kingan offered a substitute in twenty words which it was thought would cover all the ground desired. But one amendment after another was offered to it until it was built up to the original unwieldy proportions. Mr. Franklin offered one essential amendment which was readily accepted, to prevent legislatures from grafting a fee system, as they could have done under the original bill.

Two propositions then came up which had been marked by the executive committee for indefinite postponement. They related to state and county officers. Final action was not taken on the report but it was reserved to be taken up in connection with substitute proposition 23 which deals more fully with this subject.

The Whirling of Time.

The ensuing proposition and the discussion of it was the most complete vindication of the course of the Republican minority in the last legislature in opposition to the act repealing the public examiner law.

Proposition 125 which had been presented by Mr. Orme provides for the establishment of the office of state examiner. The committee had recommended the adoption of the proposition. Mr. Orme in speaking for it said that it had been observed that public officials had been less diligent in making reports since the abolition of the office of public examiner, and that the surety companies, or some of them had abandoned their business in the territory after the abolition of the office.

No opposition developed to the proposition but several amendments were offered and finally the proposition was referred to the committee on executive to be considered along with the amendments and another measure dealing with state officers generally.

In the case of Mr. Colter's equal suffrage proposition the report of the committee recommending its indefinite postponement was adopted by a vote of 31 to 8. The same thing happened in the case of Mr. Kinney's proposition making one of the qualifications for United States senator a residence of five years.

Mr. Cunningham's proposition relating to the property of married women was provocative of a long debate and it was finally indefinitely postponed on the ground that it was rather legislative matter and partly on the ground that the subject was already

CONSTITUTION MAKERS

HON. NEPOMUCENO SEGURA.

Delegate in the Convention From San Miguel County and a Noted Prohibitionist.

Hon. Nepomuceno Segura, delegate from Penasco Blanco, San Miguel county, was born in Santa Fe, N. M., August 4, 1855.

His father was Simon Segura one of the oldest, most respected and best known, though not wealthy, families of Santa Fe. His mother was Altagracia Dominguez and was also a Santa Fean.

Mr. Segura was educated in St. Michael's college and after leaving college he became a telegrapher and received the first dispatches from the wire flashed to Santa Fe.

He remained a telegrapher for seven years, and in 1873 he moved to Las Vegas to engage in the printing business. He published a paper called "El Nuevo Mexicano" which ran for a couple of years. He then went to Colorado and engaged in the printing business for a short time. He decided to become a lawyer and entered the law office of Yeaman and Jones where he read law. Mr. Segura remained there until 1876, taking a very active part in the campaign when Colorado was seeking admission as a state. He translated the first statute laws of the state of Colorado as also the first session laws. He then came to New Mexico, returning to Santa Fe on account of the illness of his mother and then went back to Las Vegas where he established his residence. In 1881 he was made deputy sheriff and two years later was admitted to the bar of New Mexico of San Miguel county. In 1890 he was elected county assessor of San Miguel county.

Mr. Segura has been interpreter in the courts for nearly a quarter of a century and at present he is the interpreter of the district court of the fourth district. Mr. Segura has been a staunch Republican and has been energetic and successful as a lawyer. Mr. Segura is particularly interested in prohibition and believes in securing total prohibition for the new state. Mr. Segura made one of the notable speeches in one of the night sessions of the convention at which the report of the committee on legislative department was adopted.

During the last campaign in San Miguel county he worked hard against the initiative clause. Mr. Segura's main strength in that county is with the masses and is everywhere well received and regarded as their friend, for in press and on the platform he has always defended them and sought legislation to protect their rights and interests.

fully covered in the statutes.

Mr. Cunningham contended that his measure was proper constitutional matter inasmuch as the constitutions of sixteen states contained the same provision. As a part of the constitution it would add security to the rights of women whom he desired to serve, not by granting to them a toy or acknowledging a whim such as equal suffrage. But he desired to benefit them in some practical manner.

Whereupon Mr. Ingraham was led to remark that it seemed to him that the gentleman from Yavapai having got in bad with the ladies the day before in the equal suffrage matter was now trying to square himself.

One more proposition, relating to minor offenders had been recommended for indefinite postponement. That was taken up, but midway in the consideration of the report, the committee agreed to rise and report progress.

When the committee had resolved itself back into the convention there was a weak attempt, a bluff so to speak, to adjourn until two o'clock in the afternoon. A motion for such an adjournment was smothered and the members went to see the last dog hung at the fair.

WESTERN UNION AND ENGLISH CABLE COMPANY.

Report That Negotiations Were Pending to Form a Combination to Buck U. S. Concern.

New York, Nov. 15.—Mr. Clapper, vice president of the Commercial Cable said: "I have read the replies of both Mr. Vail and Colonel Clowry to my statement that Mr. Vail was in Europe last summer and Mr. Hall is now in Europe for the purpose of combining the Western Union with the two English cable companies. Mr. Vail, says I am incorrect, but Colonel Clowry, does not wish to be drawn into a controversy.

"As to the combination, I quote from the official report of the meeting of the Anglo-American Telegraph Company's shareholders, held in London on July 29th last, when the chairman said: 'It is possible that if we succeed in identifying our interests with that of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, we may participate more largely henceforward in the growth of the cable business.'

"I wish to add that all this last summer and fall the English newspapers have been full of articles discussing this proposed combination of the Western Union with the English Cable Companies and it is a well known fact that the Western Union has practically arrived at an arrangement with the Anglo-American Telegraph Company but is meeting with obstacles in the direct United States Cable Company. I guess that no one on the other side of the water would care to defy that Mr. Vail and Mr. Hall had been in Europe for the purpose of bringing about that combination in opposition to the Commercial Cable Company. Mr. Vail's proposed combination has been the common talk of financial London for nearly six months last past."

CUT OUT LEGISLATION.

Of advice New Mexico Constitution makers have had a surfeit. President Taft's advice, however, should have been heeded and has been heeded in New Mexico although not in Arizona. Ex-President Roosevelt's advice was heeded in the latter commonwealth but not here. But outside of these two voices, the advice did not come from authoritative source but much of it was well meant and much of it was good. The advice, for instance, to make the constitution brief, to cut out all legislation that might as well be left to future legislatures may with profit be carried even into the last days of the convention when the constitution is being revised. The Philadelphia Bulletin which has watched the reports from Santa Fe and Phoenix, says:

"New Mexico and Arizona are hard at it making Constitutions which are, in fact, legal codes. It is believed that Arizona will make Oklahoma's celebrated document seem conservative unless there is a brake applied to the convention of fundamental law-makers. But New Mexico is not going quite so far, for she remembers that Constitutions must be passed on, and she is so anxious to be admitted to statehood that she will agree to almost any concessions. It is therefore not expected that every thought and deed, actual or potential, on the part of any citizen of the coming state will be defined, prescribed, codified or elucidated in New Mexico's fundamental law.

"Professor Stimson, in his recent work of law-making, calls attention to the fact that we are the greatest law-enacting country in history, whereas Great Britain has made comparatively little law. It was there hundred years after the British Parliament met before it undertook to make a law. All it did in the meantime was to declare what was the law, or the immemorial custom. The laws of Edward the Confessor were clamored for by the people and not new statutes, and the common law grew out of these immemorial customs, so that Parliament did comparatively little until the last century. It is said that five volumes contain all the statutes of England up to the time that steam began to figure in commerce.

"But every year our own Congress passes a lot of laws; every two years the legislatures pass their quotas, not to mention city ordinances. The citizens of Pennsylvania are supposed to know all the laws which affect them; ignorance is no excuse for their violation. Yet, if a man were to sit down and read all the statutes of Pennsylvania, of the United States, judicial decisions constraining the ordinances of the city and the treaties which he is bound to obey, he would require months, and then would know little more than he did at the beginning.

"It is thus that we have an enormous bulk of statutes and not all of them are laws. The fundamental principles which govern enlightened mankind are not many, but in these days many of us are trying, not to make law conform to custom or what should be the best practice, but to lay down a lot of rules which it is almost certainly known will, in many instances, be ignored either wholly or in part.

"The best Constitutions in the country are the briefest, and these New Mexico and Arizona would do well to copy rather than to try to get up an elaborate scheme for legislating a man into the kingdom of Heaven or setting up the millennium.

AEROPLANES IN WAR.

Of what value is a high power rifle to a man set upon by a swarm of enraged hornets? How effective are the long horns with which nature has provided cattle for their defense when they flounder in a swamp or stream to escape a cloud of mosquitoes? These questions Victor Loughheed suggests in the December Popular Mechanics while defending the aeroplane against the aspersions cast upon its usefulness in fighting battleships, by Captain Richmond P. Hobson in his article in the August number of this same magazine. An authority on flying machines, Mr. Loughheed minces no words in his discussion of the effectiveness of aerial weapons. The price a nation pays for a battleship will purchase two thousand aeroplanes and the question of cost of defense means much in summing up its usefulness. Effectiveness of a plane, resources have always played an important part in war, the nation possessing the longest purse having that much advantage over a less favored people. Mr. Loughheed classes battleships as "extraneous and follies which are sure to recede into the limbo of forgotten things by the development of aerial craft." He writes: "In appraising the menace of aeroplane versus battleship, it is neither logical nor reasonable to consider the problem so simple as the mere attack of one aeroplane upon one battleship. Battleships, as Captain Hobson points out, cost as high as $12,000,000, and are still rising. The best modern aeroplanes, cost on an average not to exceed $6,000 each, and their cost is rapidly lowering. Two thousand aeroplanes, therefore, cost no more than one battleship—besides which they require few more men to operate them than is required for the crew of a single vessel.

"The prospect, then, becomes one of cost against cost, of national resources pitted against national resources, the vital difference being in the particular weapons of defense and offense on which each nation may elect to make the expenditures. And for the one that chooses the flying machine there impends a prospect of success that is not so much comparable to the suggestion of a single 'eagle attacking a lion' as it is to that of smaller winged animals in swarms attacking a creature perfectly capable of making effective resistance to a few of its enemies, but helpless against them in numbers.

"To assume that the 'offensive power' of the aeroplane . . . is almost negligible is to court an obsession with the present status that will defeat even a most moderate insight into the future. All the probabilities are that the offensive power of the aeroplane of the future, and even of the present, is as much underrated as the defensive and offensive power of the battleship against aerial craft is overrated."

THE DEMOCRATIC WAY.

Even the Democratic press in Arizona is becoming disgusted with the action of the Democratic majority in the Constitutional Convention at Phoenix. The Arizona Republican says:

"Our neighbor, the Democrat, which was an ardent supporter of the Democratic ticket in the late campaign, lost patience with the constitutional convention, and is roundly scolding the delegates whose persistence in radicalism is certain to defeat statehood if their policies are carried out. The Democrat is telling the delegates that the people of Arizona want statehood, and will visit their wrath upon the men who may be responsible for the loss of statehood.

"Our guess, is, however, that the Democrat is wasting its valuable space. The radicals are in control, and propose to stay in control. They are not amenable to the will of the great mass of real Arizonians—the men who have built in the desert a great commonwealth—for these delegates think they are wiser than their fellow men. Quite several of them have no permanent interests in the territory—not a few of them could store all their possessions in their gripbags and get ready to leave Arizona in an hour. Men of this class, if they can get applause from the galleries, are convinced that they are statesmen.

"One of the greatest troubles with the Democratic party is that it will not nominate its ablest and most representative men for office—the fellows who make the most noise are chosen for preferment, as a rule."

A MAGNUM OPUS.

The New Mexican was privileged to examine the manuscript of the ambitious history of New Mexico to the preparation and collection of material for which Colonel Ralph E. Twitchell has devoted much of his life time. The preliminary volume, "The Military Occupation of New Mexico," has been from press for some time and met a hearty reception but it hardly gives a hint of the scope, thoroughness and magnificent character of the volume now ready for the printer and which will be received with acclaim by critics as well as the public. It covers the early history of the southwest and in wealth of illustrations, maps, charts, original material gathered from all corners of the earth, it has not been approached and is not likely to be surpassed. In the opening chapters the archaeology of this region is treated and the pictures that will accompany this part of the work will be of special interest in Santa Fe, although, as a fact, nearly all of the early history of New Mexico as well as the later, centers about this ancient city.

The Democratic constitutional convention at Phoenix, gave the privilege of the floor to a brigadier general of the army, the only outsider to whom this honor has been thus far extended. The Republican convention at Santa Fe gave the privilege of the floor last Saturday evening to the representatives of organized labor, having conferred this honor upon no one else. It is a sidelight which reveals to some extent the real attitude of the two parties in the two territories toward the laboring men.

A war with Mexico, as events of the past few days have demonstrated, is not an utter impossibility. If the republic to the south is a little quicker at mobilizing than is Uncle Sam, it may even happen that Mexican troops would be in Santa Fe two days after war is declared. Uncle Sam ought to establish several big army posts in the southwest and no place offers a better strategic and climatic location than Santa Fe.

IN A DILEMMA.

Arizona, confident that it will not be admitted to the Union at this time because of the crazy constitution it is formulating, is wondering how it will tide over financially until a regular session of the legislature. New Mexico, being sure of having a state legislature in session before the next fiscal year expires, November 30, 1911, which will provide for the financial exigencies, is not worrying about this. Says the Biebee Daily News:

"The expected announcement has come from Phoenix that the territory will be out of funds next June for carrying on the government. The current appropriations were provided by the last legislature to cover expenses up to June 30, next, only, it being supposed that the following legislature would provide for expenses after that date. But the enabling act changed all that, and now it is up to Governor Sloan to devise means for carrying on the government when the present fiscal year ends. According to information from Phoenix, Governor Sloan is preparing the necessary data touching on the subject and in two or three weeks will leave for Washington to present the matter to the proper authorities. It will be within the province of Congress to appropriate funds for the territorial institutions for the extra year, but it is understood the governor is contemplating an entirely different plan, one that will meet with hearty disapproval of the various county officials who now see an extra year in office staring them in the face.

"The plan Governor Sloan has hit upon is to secure the passage by Congress of an act authorizing a general election in Arizona, this election to be called by the governor upon his return to the territory from the east and to cover all elective positions in the territory, including members of the legislature, whereupon an extraordinary session will be called to meet the financial demands of the territory."

LET PATRIOTISM RULE.

In view of the meeting of the Democratic central committee meeting in Santa Fe on Friday, it is to be hoped that patriotism will prevail over partisanship. The campaign for the approval of the constitution should be conducted jointly between the two parties. It should be a non-partisan movement which would result in an almost unanimous approval of the constitution. Says the Taos Valley News: "Is it not about time that the bitter partisan spirit displayed by the New Mexico press, abated, and that the making of a state be from now on the main consideration? It is a pity that no provision, no matter how fair, how patriotic, how valuable how much in the interest of good government, is incorporated in the constitution, but it must be accused of having a 'joker,' of being in the interest of corporations, of possessing the mark of bossism. It is folly, now with the prospect of full development of our resources, and the opening of our great possibilities, with the goal for which we have been struggling, just in sight, to let petty partisan bias hold back this territory for a quarter of a century more. Let us boost for the advancement, the growth, the prosperity of New Mexico. Let us do it among ourselves, through our own efforts and our own methods, without the advice of impertinent outsiders, who come into New Mexico to instruct us how to conduct our own affairs and how to build our foundation for a state. After all, prosperity and growth for New Mexico is what all its people want. Why not forget bitter and prejudiced partisanship, give credit where credit is due, and all boost for the best state in all the west."

How the financial leaders of the United States regard New Orleans' ability to hold an international exposition is shown in the editorial attitude of "The Wall Street Journal." New York, the mouthpiece of American finance, which printed the following terse statement in its issue of October 27th: "The recent failure of the city of New Orleans to sell $7,000,000 4 per cent 18-32 year bonds is now regarded as almost assuring the Panama exposition for California. On November 23d New Orleans will vote on floating $6,500,000 in aid of the exposition. Strong opposition is at work, the opponents of the plan claiming that the city is already taxed and bonded to the limit of endurance. Recent figures show the present bonded debt of the city as $32,521,040 which with the $7,000,000 and other debts would bring the total indebtedness above $40,000,000."

Oregon, where the initiative and referendum flourish, has made a new record. During the past year, more violent deaths have occurred in that state than in any other registration area of the census bureau. Whether the initiative and referendum have anything to do with this, of course, cannot be established, but it is certain that where men think with certain forms of government they loosen the bonds of law and order.

The Constitutional Convention is approaching rapidly the end of its labors. It has worked hard and labored sincerely and effectively and it seems certain that the fundamental law they have formulated will be approved by the people at the polls.

The Thanksgiving proclamation issued by Governor Mills yesterday not only departs from hackneyed precedents, but is also classic in construction and breathes a true spirit of patriotism and devout gratitude. The Pueblo Indians are exempt from taxation but Game Warden Thomas P. Gable is seeing to it that they contribute their share to the territorial treasury nevertheless.

QUEEN OF NIGHT TO PASS UNNOTICED.

Attention: By Scientists to "King of Day Will Not Be Repeated for Her Majesty."

Although local weather experts spent many hours in wearisome scientific observations when Old Sol, the king of day, went into eclipse a few months ago, tomorrow night when her majesty the moon will give a similar performance for the edification of her nocturnal court, the scientists will take an evening off and pay no attention to the moon nor to the man in it.

"It is quite true we are aware of the eclipse tomorrow night," said Weather Observer Linney today, "but we shall make no observations. There was something to be learned from the solar eclipse a few months ago and many observations were taken but we fail to see any need of observations in this lunar eclipse."

The eclipse will be partially visible in this section of the country. People in the western part of the United States and Canada will be more fortunate, and will see the entire phenomenon. West of the center of the continent, as far as the Pacific coast, the people will see it in part because most of it will be before sunset.

Enters Shadow 3:45 p. m.

The moon enters the shadow of the earth at 3:44 p. m., mountain time. The immersion will last from 4:55 to 5:47, so that the eclipse will be three-fourths over by the time the moon rises above the horizon here. It will not entirely leave the earth's shadow until 6:58.

ERNEST L. BLUMENSCHN
RETURNS TO NEW YORK.

He Spent Several Days in Santa Fe Recently. Says Picture to Booth Tarkington.

"Ernest L. Blumenschnein who has been spending the summer months in Taos left on Monday for his home in New York. Just before leaving he received the very pleasing news that one of his paintings on exhibition in St. Louis, and entitled "The German Tragedian", had been purchased by Booth Tarkington for $1000. The work done by Mr. Blumenschnein should be most satisfactory to himself and should catch the fancy of art lovers and those who appreciate that peculiar fine touch which makes a picture a delight.

Some of Mr. Blumenschnein's small bits of scenery are especially winning. They are views about Taos and have the atmosphere that is well nigh perfect. One of his larger pieces is an Indian child and aside from the excellence of the figure, the coloring and background were masterly. Two pictures covering the sage brush landscape with an Indian figure on a pinto were very strong. They were the same subjects, but depicting different hours of the day and the artist brought this out with remarkable fidelity, the shadows and atmosphere telling their own story. An Indian netting fish, was a fine piece, the action of the human finger being especially true. It is to be hoped that Mr. Blumenschnein will be with us again, next summer and put some more Taos scenery on his speaking canvas."—Taos Valley News.

SENATOR GALLINGER'S SON STABBED BY MANIAC.

Ralph E. Gallinger Figures in Tragedy at Concord, but it is Thought His Injuries Are Slight.

The news has been received here that Dr. Ralph E. Gallinger son of U. S. Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire and uncle of Mrs. Sylvanus Griswold Morley of this city had a narrow escape from a violent death a few days ago while walking in a corridor of the state prison at Concord. The physician was accompanying the deputy warden when a half crazed prisoner whose real name has never been known attacked both men, inflicting serious injuries on the deputy warden and slashing Dr. Gallinger in the wrist.

Newspaper accounts in the Concord and Boston papers seem to indicate that Dr. Gallinger's wounds are not very serious but the affair may cause Senator Gallinger to postpone his trip to Santa Fe for several days or weeks. He expected to leave Washington Monday November 21 and Mr. and Mrs. Morley had planned to give a reception here in his honor Monday night November 28.

CURE OF ECZEMA AND DANDRUFF

By One Box of Cuticura Ointment and One Cake of Cuticura Soap. Head Perfectly Clear.

"I am pleased to inform you that I have been cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Since I was a boy I have suffered with dandruff, not only from the itching but from its disagreeable appearance in a scaly form all over my head. I had to brush it off my clothes all day long. I used every kind of preparation supposed to cure dandruff, also soap and shampoo, but it seemed to me that, instead of improving with these remedies, the dandruff increased, even my hair began to fall out and the result was that two months ago eczema developed on my scalp.

"I suffered so from this that as a last resource I thought I would try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. They had the most gratifying results for I had used only one box of Cuticura Ointment and a single cake of Cuticura Soap when I was cured, the eczema and dandruff were gone and my head perfectly clear.

"I can assure you that so long as I live no other soap than Cuticura will be used by me and all those near to me. I will also add that I will always use Cuticura Ointment as a dressing for the hair. How a Studebaker Saves You Money

There is no figure to the cost to you of a wagon, a carriage, a buggy or a set of harness— it is to figure the cost per year as long as you use it.

If a farm wagon, for example, that costs you $200 lasts 20 years and requires only $2 repairs, the cost to you of that wagon is $10 a year.

If another wagon costs only $50, and lasts 10 years, and requires $10 worth of repairs, the cost to you is $6 a year, at least.

Which is the cheaper?

There is no doubt about the lasting qualities of Studebaker wagons, carriages and harness.

It's the material that goes into them—plus the way they are made.

Studebaker farm wagons have axles 5" inch deeper than others, made from selected bent-cut black Hickory—air-dried from 3 to 5 years.

The axles are also re-finished with a special bar of steel running from the heel of one skein to the other.

The Studebaker Patent Truss Spleins are made from cast iron having a transverse strength of over 3,000 pounds to the square inch—25% greater than the requirements of the United States Government—and probably 30% greater than the ordinary wagon.

The Studebaker hubs are large in diameter—furnishing a proper foundation for the spokes. They are treated with a secret solution which greatly adds to their weather resisting qualities.

The Studebaker scope-shoulder spokes—one of the greatest improvements ever made in wagon building—carry the largest amount of wood into the hubs. They are stronger where other spokes are weakest.

The Studebaker patented round-edge tires are oil-sealed and cold-set. That's why they never loosen.

And so on—point by point—feature by feature—noting that will add to the durability and long life of the Studebaker is overlooked.

Do you wonder that it is the wagon with a reputation behind it?

You cannot afford to buy a "cheap" wagon, when you can get the best for so little.

It is poor economy to be constantly paying out money for repair bills.

Get a Studebaker and save money. Come in and let's talk it over.

NOT SO EASY NOW

MANY REQUIREMENTS NECESSARY IN STARTING BANK.

Controller Murray Wants to Know All About It, and Rigid Examinations Are Now Made of All the Applications.

For 50 years the government, while supervising existing banks with more or less zeal, has paid little attention to the character of new banks.

So easy has it been to organize a national bank that certain firms and corporations have made a business of it, operating chiefly in the east, and it is partly through the activity of such agencies that the country as a whole is over-banked today.

Heretofore the application blanks forwarded to the controller of the currency in Washington by the promoters of a new bank have required only the names of the prospective shareholders and their financial standing. The men named might or might not become officers of the bank. In fact, many in many cases it has been found after the bank was organized that the men who promoted it held only five or ten shares in the final organization or had got out altogether.

In accordance with an order recently issued, the application blanks henceforth must state the names of the proposed officers of the bank, nor will a charter be issued to a group of apparent shareholders who will not later furnish the management from their own number.

In addition, the correspondent who transacts the business incident to the promotion of the proposed bank must be a resident of the place in which the bank will be started. He cannot be a firm or corporation making a business of organizing banks throughout the state.

When an application for a bank is made, the proposed shareholders must undergo no less than five examinations before the charter is issued. Under a new system introduced, the names are now sent to the state superintendent of banking for his investigation.

Lawrence O. Murray

tigation. The weakness of the old system has been that however thorough the personal investigation might be, the bank when fully organized might be owned and managed by a wholly different group of men from those who applied for the charter.

Controller Murray will back up his new order with three new rulings. The first will require that the proposed stockholders shall be able to respond to the double assessment to which all national bank stock is liable. In the past the government appears to have been indifferent, in a large degree, to the financial responsibility of the applicants.

A second ruling aims to break up the practice whereby the professional bank promoter, finding the stock subscriptions going rather slowly, subscribes for the balance of the stock himself and then peddles it out to individuals at his leisure. The controller will require, before granting a charter, that all stock of the proposed bank must be placed with individuals and that these individuals, in turn, are wealthy enough to enable them to pay double the amount of their stock subscriptions in case of failure.

By a third ruling, the correspondent who attends to the preliminaries of organization must be not only a resident of the town but a prospective director. Of course, after a bank is organized, the treasury department has no control over the distribution of national bank stock, but Mr. Murray believes that if a community needs a bank badly enough to conform to his requirements regarding organization, the abuses of the past will not be continued and the banks so organized may command public confidence from the start.

The bureau has on record the names of all persons who have applied for national bank charters and reports of their character and standing. It has the records also of all officers and shareholders of failed banks. Through the co-operation of the controller's office with the state banking officials, instituted by Controller Murray, the bureau will now be placed in possession of the names and records of men of unsavory reputations in the state banking field.

With the application blanks showing officers as well as shareholders, it will be possible to check up the name of every man who will be identified with the new bank. Hence, if any of the professional fly-by-night attempts to enter or to re-enter the national banking field the fact will become known and the controller can act understandingly.

THEORY AND PRACTICE

Benny lived in the land of 'Don't Touch'. By experiment persistently and shrewdly conducted he had found it was a land bounded by the universe, being absolutely inclusive.

Toward not one of the innumerable bewildering and alluring objects he was daily discovering could he stretch out his fat, pudgy hands without the voice of fate—otherwise mother or nurse girl or father—singing out that pestiferous refrain, "Don't touch it!"

The worst of it was that whoever sung it out always meant it. If the temptation was stronger than his common sense he grabbed the object. Then his hands were slapped as a reward for his spirit of investigation. At first he had resented the slappings because he had not learned to correlate cause and effect, but now he was three years and a month old and he had grown philosophical. Some things were not to be touched and others were not. So he continued to investigate with a charming indifference to the painful results.

"I cannot understand it," Benny's mother declared, tragically and often. "He is a child of even more than average intelligence—I don't care if he is mine, he is awfully smart—and he can say little sentences and he understands every remark made to him. Yet after I have shrieked 'Don't touch!' at him till I am weak from lack of breath he calmly goes ahead and handles everything and breaks it. I think it must be natural depravity. Maybe he'll turn out a criminal."

"Natural fiddlesticks!" snapped Benny's youngest aunt, who knew more about golf than she did about babies and therefore felt qualified to pose as an authority. "It's all your own fault and that poor, abused little angel is simply oppressed and browbeaten. Why do you leave things around? Why don't you fix the house so it is a real home for your son instead of a regular Tantalus chamber of forbidden sweets?"

"I refuse to upset my whole life and the lives of all my family for the whim of a three-year-old baby," said Benny's mother, grandly. "That would be acting on the wrong principle."

"Pooh!" said Benny's aunt.

When chance gave into her hands for one whole day the house and her nephew she rose to the occasion with a gleam of heroism in her eyes.

"Cheer up, Benjamin," she said soothingly to that personage, who was watching her gravely as she moved about the rooms putting the painted jardiniere on top of the piano, making a wall of fragile vases, books and inkstands on the high mantel and otherwise putting Satan behind the small sinner. "Cheer up! This is a red-letter day! Not once shall you hear the slogan, 'Don't touch!' Your intelligent aunt has removed all the untouchables. Frolic and enjoy yourself and rejoice that you have one relative with a spark of justice in her make-up. Go ahead and see how you like it! Kiss me, angel, for being good to you!"

But Benjamin drew the line at that. For a long while he sat and eyed the admirable things far beyond his reach and then he started on his usual prowling. Aglow with satisfaction, his aunt buried herself in a book.

The unusual silence aroused her finally. Search revealed Benjamin seated happily in the middle of the bedroom rug swallowing the last drop from a bottle of hair tonic. His frantic aunt wildly swung him by his heels until she remembered that was the remedy for choking instead of poisoning. Then she flew to the telephone to consult the doctor. Rushing from that instrument to see if Benjamin was already curled up in convulsions, she found him in the kitchen with all the burners of the gas stove turned on and himself a fair example of incipient asphyxiation. In tears of fright she grabbed him and carried him out on the porch.

"Please walk, Benny, dear!" she begged. "It's for your own good."

But Benny saw no object in walking, so he sat down flat. She carried him back and forth to provide him with as much fresh air as possible. In the midst of it he pulled a sharp pin from her hair and stabbed himself within a fraction of an inch of his eye.

"Don't you dare move and don't you dare touch a thing till I come back!" she warned him, hysterically, as she left him and went to hunt the court plaster.

When she returned Benny had pulled a whole row of books off their shelf, torn some of them and cut a hole in a lace curtain with her embroidery scissors. With it all he still maintained an unruffled, cheerful demeanor and seemed in his usual state of health. He was still looking for more things to investigate and she had no doubt that he would find them. She gave it up as hopeless and sat down to guard her prisoner.

Benny's mother coming in quietly heard a pathetic "Don't touch!" It was followed by a peremptory "Don't touch!" This in turn was followed by a sharp snap on Benny's naughty hands.

"I am surprised at you," said Benny's mother to Benny's aunt. "I thought you considered that command foolish and unnecessary. I understand that you advocated moral suasion and a house denuded of bric-a-brac as I see you have denuded this."

"Well, so I do!" declared Benny's aunt, valiantly though wearily. "But you see—that is—Benny is an exceptionally stubborn child!"

Greatest Strength.

There is perhaps no strength so great and abiding as that which follows from a resisted temptation. Every dangerous allurements is like an enchanted monster, which, being conquered, loses all his venom and changes at once into a king of great treasure, eager to make requital. John Oliver Hobbes.

Good Horses Scarce. Good horses are mighty scarce and very high in price. There are plenty of plugs yet, always will be we presume. So long as poor stallions are used anyway.

LEGALLY BETTER OFF.

The creditors of the ancient king had become so unpleasantly insistent that he resolved to put them through they could trouble him no more. So he invited them to a great banquet. And when they had feasted and drunk of his prepared wine he instructed his servants to convey them to his deep dungeons. And the next morning, when he went down to learn whether his servants had done his bidding, his creditors raised their voices and entreated to be set free. But he remonstrated with them, saying:

"My friends, you have no just cause for complaint. Are you not better off in the eye of the law, than ever before? Any lawyer will tell you that a secured creditor has an exceptional claim." Then he left them and went on his gladsome way, happy in the knowledge that he could at last go through his dominions without being dunned.

Slow Chap.

"Yes," laughed the girl with the pink parasol, "he is the slowest young man I ever saw."

"In what way, dear?" asked her chum.

"Why, he asked for a kiss and I told him I wore one of those knotted veils that take so long to loosen."

"And what did he do?"

"Why, the goose took time to untie the knot."

Guy—So I hear. How is he getting on with the bungalow he has been building?

Gunner—It's hard to say. He has been correcting it every week.

Guy—H'm! When he gets it finished it will be a sort of a "house of correction," won't it?

Kitchen Conversation.

The pot had just called the kettle black.

"I'll bet I'm not," retorted the kettle.

"I'll take the bet," hotly replied the pot. "Who'll keep the money for us until we decide the bet?"

"Let the skillet. It's the only steakholder around here."

Our Puzzling Language.

"I cannot understand ze Engleeshe language," said the desperate Frenchman. "I learn'd to pronounce the word 'hydrophobia' and zen I learn'd ze doctors pronounce it 'fatal.'—Scrap."

Keen Judgment.

"Who do you think will win the big fight today?"

"That's easy."

"Oh? How do you figure it out?"

"The one who knocks the other out."

Both Busy.

"We were sweethearts once. I have always intended to marry that girl."

"And why haven't you?"

"Well, so far, we have never happened to be unmarried simultaneously."

Cheap Blowing.

Rodrick—Why was the count so anxious to blow the horn when invited on the coaching trip?

Van Albert—Why, that's the only way he could blow himself without spending any money.

In Gay Parade.

Hodd—Can you conceive of any situation where you would want to be separated from your wife?

Todd—Yes—in Paris.—Town and Country.

This is Rather Neat.

An English critic of American social conditions says that men in this country are too much inclined to put women on pedestals. The only answer to such criticism is pity for the nation that has not such a beautifully decorative use for pedestals.

His Consolation.

There is no denying that an invalid gets a good deal of consolation in telling of the great things he would do if he were well.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

HOME MAKING WOMAN'S ART

She Can Add to Husband's Comfort by Having the House Attractive and Hospitable.

The birds find sources of exultation in the building of their nests, and you can discover that they are house furnishing by the joy of their songs. It is the natural instinct of love and life to make a place to dwell in. To the woman who can devise a beautiful gown, the arrangement and decoration of a room is the expansion and tenfold higher use of her art. To the woman who would endear herself to her husband, a guarantee might be offered that if she can keep within the limit of his means and yet make for him a lovely, comfortable, appropriate abiding place, in which he has room for the development of his own tastes and opportunity to bring about his friends in hospitable fashion, she will have endeared herself inexpressibly to him and increased his pride in her tenfold. Let the good order and beauty and contrivances for his individual comfort be sufficient to make his friends envious, and ready to say that his home tempts them to marry, and the wife becomes lovely in his eyes, in a far more flattering way than because she is pretty and well dressed. To become the source of a husband's comfort and rest is to have placed yourself beyond the fear of losing your complexions or ceasing to be his ideal of a pretty girl. It is also to rise from the position of a dear pet to a useful, important partner, without whose clever brains and wise direction his life would cease to be a success.

Home-making is not easy work, but the married woman who sets aside her kingdom for lack of courage and energy to rule it, is but a disinherited princess who has lost the greatest joy of life when she abdicated her throne.

WAS GENEROUS TO A FAULT

Story of Statesman Who Voted for Anything That Would Force Treasury to Pay.

There are innumerable stories about Mr. Brownlow, who recently died, his manners and methods. His colleagues never tire repeating his reply to the representative of an uplift magazine who was in Washington years ago interviewing members on the principles that actuated them in the performance of the public duties.

"Mr. Brownlow," said this uplifter, "you have been in congress a good many years and are known as an organization, or machine, Republican. But have you no faith, no principle, no creed that guides your conduct outside of party lines?"

"Young man," replied Mr. Brownlow in his rumbling voice, "I have the proud record of never having voted against any proposition to take money out of the federal treasury."

The uplifter gasped, and Mr. Brownlow smiled on his way. His friends say his statement was almost literal at that.

Ingratitude Mr. Brownlow considered the one inexcusable crime. He never was guilty of it himself. One day a man who had done a favor for Mr. Brownlow asked him to vote in committee for an increase in salary to an official in one of the government departments.

"Why, Mr. Brownlow," he said, "let me tell you something. This is the most meritorious case—"

Mr. Brownlow interrupted with a snort. "Do you want me to vote for an increase to this man?" he asked.

"Indeed I do," said the friend.

"Then," said Mr. Brownlow, "that's enough. Never mind about that meritorious business."

"Are They Pittsburg Aldermen?"

A member of Pittsburg commandery had a somewhat embarrassing experience during the Templars' visit to Chicago. He had been introduced to a young woman at the reception given by the Pennsylvania grand commandery at the Hotel La Salle, and chancing to meet this same young woman, she impulsively asked:

"You are one of the 'Millionaires' commandery, aren't you?"

He pleaded guilty, and she asked how many of those in Chicago are plutocrats. He told her that about half of the 250 members at the convocation were worth millions, and she asked how they made it.

"Mostly steel," was his reply.

"Ooh," said the young woman. "Are those the Pittsburg aldermen?"

Curtain.

Vain Attempt to Show Off.

A youthful masculine, scarce three years old, was listening to a story by his mother, but despite his devotion to her stories, kept making unaccountable excursions to a clear space on the park lawn and solemnly airing his sole physical accomplishment of a neat somersault. The mother wondered, but asked no questions. Presently, however, the mystery was explained. Another boy, seated near the open space with his parents, rose and walked away. The little acrobat sighed sadly. "I guess he never even saw me," he remarked.

Rubber Planted on Waste Land.

The wide reaches of waste lands on the island of Singapore, which have been of no use since the culture of gambier, coffee, and pepper was given up, are now the scene of great activity. Rubber plants are being set out over these wastes and seem to do well. In the suburbs of Singapore city a considerable area of swamp land has been drained and converted into a nursery for Para rubber plants, which are sold at a good profit to the planters.

Explanation Wanted.

"Oh, you are Mrs. Blizzer?" asked the vivacious and beautiful woman, on being introduced to her. "I have often met your husband. I must congratulate you. He is always such a happy-looking man. I have noticed that particularly every time he has chatted with me." That evening Mrs. Blizzer says calmly, but sternly to her husband: "Will you be so good as to tell me what makes you look happy when you are talking to other women?"—Judge.

Women's Influence on the Drama.

Further, there are the women to be considered. Here you have a tremendous asset and one to be increasingly reckoned upon. Today woman's position is very different from what it was 20 or 25 years ago. She is a free agent. She goes where she will, seeks diversion in whatever quarter she may please; she is no longer dependent upon man's advice or man's protection. Examine any first-night audience and you will find—I am speaking chiefly of the occupants of the cheaper parts—that women constitute quite 50 per cent. of those present, and that they have secured the best places for themselves. It is for us to provide them and their comrades with the fare they want.—George Alexander in a London Interview.

Weather Forecast.

"I do not think," says Edmund Yates in his book, "Recollections and Experiences," "I ever met a man more hopelessly deaf than Charles Kemble at seventy. Some of us were sitting one afternoon at the Garrick club, when a tremendous thunder storm broke over the house."

"It raged with extraordinary fury, one clap exploding with terrific noise immediately above us like a volley of artillery."

"We looked round at each other almost in horror, when Charles Kemble, who was calmly reading, lifted his eyes from his book and said, in his trumpet tone: 'I think we are going to have some thunder; I feel it in my knees.'"

Scores Defense of Criminals.

In a letter published in the Syracuse Post-Standard ex-Ambassador Andrew D. White speaks vigorously on the subject of "the chicanery, peevishness and folly in the defense of criminals." He says that "homicides have increased within fifteen years from 2,000 a year to nearly 10,000, placing us by far in the lead of all civilized nations in this respect," and that there were capital convictions in only about seventy cases last year. "The immediate cause of the whole of this state of things, with constantly increased respect of law, is, in my opinion," adds Mr. White, "a kind of sickly sentiment pervading the whole country on this subject."

Electric Sterilizing of Wounds.

Electric sterilizing ovens, at first used only for the sterilization of dental and surgical instruments are now used to some extent to sterilize stubborn wounds or ulcers. The heat penetrates the tissues in a way that surface antiseptics cannot, and even though the temperature is run up to 500 degrees F., which is nearly 300 degrees higher than the boiling point of water, the skin is not scorched. As the heat increases in the oven, the skin of the patient protects itself by throwing off a profuse perspiration, which prevents scorching.

How the Cat Does It.

My method of producing literature is on the "spur of the moment" order, and resembles a cat having a fit. A cat hardly ever plans out a fit very carefully. When it gets ready to have a fit it goes ahead and has it; sometimes it is a good fit, and sometimes it turns out to be a mere fizzle, and sometimes the cat thinks it is having one of the best fits it ever had, and then the fit critics say it is a mighty poor fit.—Ellis Parker Butler, in New York Times.

A Secret Tragedy.

An Atchison woman called up a friend over the telephone this morning, and when she heard a response asked, "Is this Mrs. A.?" The answer was inaudible. "I want to tell you a great secret, Mrs. A.," the woman said, and for the next 15 minutes she poured out her heart. Then when she stopped to get her breath a reply came over the line: "This isn't Mrs. A. I will call her."—Atchison Globe.

True Road to Happiness.

Whenever unselfish love is the mainspring of men's actions; wherever happiness is placed not on what we can get for ourselves, but on what we can impart to others; wherever we place out satisfaction in gratifying our fathers and mothers, our brothers and sisters, our wives and children, our neighbors and friends, we are sure to attain all the happiness which the world can bestow.

Making Land Pay.

"Intensive cultivation," so-called, has reached its highest state of perfection in the market gardens lying about Paris, where land rent runs to $250 an acre or more a year, and four crops are taken from the soil between February and November, and on the island of Guernsey, in the English channel, where farming land is valued at $1,200 an acre.

Explosions in France.

During the 14 years preceding the Courrières mine disaster in 1906 there was not an explosion in France in which there were more than nine men killed; in the Courrières explosion nearly 1,200 men were killed.

Corn Fodder to Cows.

The feeding of the late corn fodder to dairy cows should be continued just as long as the corn is at all green. It is a splendid supplementary feed with the short autumn pasture grass.

Electricity to Season Wood.

Wood is seasoned in France by electricity.

Inspiration in Dreams.

Colderidge must be added to the list of authors who have found inspiration in dreams, for he himself told us that he composed over 200 lines of "Kubla Khan" during a sleep of three hours. On awaking he wrote down the fragment now existing, but the interruption of a visitor banished the rest from his mind. The first idea of "The Ancient Mariner," too, was suggested to the poet by a dream of his friend Cruikshank. And Kipling's "Greatest Story in the World" was but the half-remembered dream of a commonplace young man.

ABSENT-MINDED CLERGYMAN

Forgot Having His Key and Climbed to the Street in His Canonical Robes.

Some years ago a minor canon of Norwich (the Rev. Ordis Lindley) met with an amusing experience. On a certain day he was to preach in the cathedral. He was aware of his own infirmity of absent-mindedness, and therefore gave the key of his study in the close to his landlady, with instructions to lock him in and to let him out just in time for service.

She did not wish to take responsibility, and finally gave him back the key, but he remained under the impression that she took it as he desired.

He read his sermon over until the bells began to ring. Then he put on his surplice and waited. Of course, no landlady came to release him. He grew uneasy as he saw the congregation assemble. Then the great bell began to toll for the assembly of the dean and chapter. Still no one came to let him out.

At last, in despair, Mr. Lindley threw open a window, and by the help of a water-butt and spout he climbed, in his full canonical robes, into the street. Fortunately for his dignity, it was so late that almost everyone was in the cathedral and few saw him, but the two or three privileged ones who witnessed it enjoyed the performance hugely. On his return home Mr. Lindley mechanically put his hand in his pocket for the key, found it, and had opened the door of the room before he realized that his difficulty had been imaginary.—Sketches of Old Times and Places.

THE SURPRISE IN THE BOX

Two Discoveries by Brother Claude in a Single Afternoon—Summer Hat Not Bass Drum.

"I have seen some strange things in our city street," said Brother Claude, "but never until today had I seen anybody carrying a bass drum in a box, and yet here this very afternoon and in my own block I met just that, a boy carrying a bass drum enclosed in a monstrous pasteboard box."

"Why should anybody want to put a bass drum in a box? What was there about this particular bass drum that required such tender care? Why should anybody put a bass drum in a box? Really it was most extraordinary, but a greater surprise awaited me."

"When I got home at night I saw that identical bass drum in the same box in the room of my sister Belinda."

"And why, I said to her, 'why do you want a bass drum? You play the harp and the zither, the mandolin, the guitar and the piano; why, under the blessed canopy, Belinda, why do you take up the bass drum?'"

"Whereas Belinda was duly bewildered, and"

"Wha—wh—at, Claude," she said, "is the matter with you?"

"Whereupon I pointed at the big bass drum right there in the box before her, and at that her smile came back, and then much slyer laughter."

"Why, that, Brother Claude," she said, "is my new summer hat."

Aged Explorer.

Sir Clements Markham is regarded as the grand old man of British geography and exploring enterprise. His official connection with the Royal Geographical society has lasted for nearly half a century, and when he retired from the presidency in 1905, he had held that post continuously for twelve years. His interest in the society and in geographical science generally has not abated, in spite of the claims which historical and antiquarian research have upon his time. On the eve of his eightieth birthday he gave the clearest proof of his dauntless energy by giving a remarkably interesting and suggestive lecture on the "Land of the Incas" at a recent meeting.

Charge of the Fish Brigade.

A curious scene was witnessed at Bezhil-on-Sea (Eng.) one afternoon lately when a stretch of water close to the shore suddenly became dark and cloudy for some hundreds of yards. Upon inspection the patch was seen to consist of myriads of tiny fish and a little further from the shore were shoals of mackerel. The smaller fish apparently were fleeing from the mackerel and from time to time, as the mackerel charged the small fry, many of the latter got among the tiny breakers and were thrown in hundreds upon the shore. This went on for several hours in the view of many spectators.

U. S. Furnishes City Water.

The town of Carlsbad, N. M., will receive its water supply from the irrigation system of the Carlsbad project. A contract for five years, which has been approved by the secretary of the interior, provides that the town is to pay the government at the rate of $1.25 per acre foot, which is the price at which water was rented to agricultural lands within the project. This represents a net annual income of eight per cent on the construction charge investment.

Democratic party from holding direct primaries.

The amendments were laid on the table.

The Article on Elective Franchise was adopted as amended.

W. B. Walton announced a conference of the Democrats immediately after the forenoon session.

The convention then took a recess until 2 p. m. at which time the Revision Committee's report on executive department is to be taken up.

by Congress and will never approve it himself, because he will not want the judicial ermine to be placed in a position to be dragged in the mire by politicians or corporations who may be hit by some judicial decision which they don't like.

For the initiative, the convention has fixed upon 10 per cent, for the referendum five per cent, and for the recall a petition hearing 25 per cent of the names of the voters in the district affected, be it township, district, or state. The reason for the recall must also be stated. Recall as well as other elections under this measure must be held within 60 days of the filing of the petition.

While the constitution does not represent altogether his ideas, yet it represents the ideas of no one man, it is a compromise measure, and it is a document that he can vote for without violating his conscience and one that can be submitted to the people in good faith and it is a constitution that makes out of this commonwealth a state and he would vote for the constitution.

G. A. Richardson said he had been working energetically in season and out of season for statehood for New Mexico since 1888 and it would have to be an exceedingly bad constitution that he would not support. It will take the united efforts of both of the great parties to secure the adoption of the constitution by a respectable majority.

Valencia, did not look particularly good to the Democrats.

The minority therefore demonstrated with the members of the majority and these conceded the point and inserted in the place of Valencia, the county of Grant. The Democratic delegates therefore in caucus assembled, decided not to bring in a minority report. As a matter of fact, the Republican members have taken only a slight advantage of the Democrats and if the situation were reversed, Mr. Walton was inclined to believe a Democratic majority, would have done likewise. Considering the report mathematically, the Democrats lost only one senator in the shuffle, but it might have been a good deal worse. The Democratic party does not say it is right but is thankful for the favors received and the minority delegates would not oppose the report even though it does not vote for it. "So far, so good," said Mr. Walton, "the constitution as far as drafted has my support, but the Committee on Miscellaneous Provisions may bring in several sandbaggers that may cause me to change my mind."

E. D. Tittman said: "You have treated us in this matter as if we had a little privilege any way, even if we have no rights. I am opposed to 'floating' districts, but find they could not well be avoided."

C. R. Brice said that last evening the situation looked hopeless and he felt as if he would be constrained to oppose the constitution. "I came here for the purpose of helping to make a good constitution. There are many things in it that should not have gone in, some things were left out that should have been included, but it is not so bad that I would oppose it. But we will meet you at Phillips."

H. M. Dougherty said that although not born in New Mexico, he came here so young that he has become thoroughly identified with the ambitions of its people and their greatest ambition is to come into the Union as a state and this is the real first opportunity the Territory has a real chance to come in although it has had many narrow escapes. He came to help formulate a constitution such as the people could accept and vote for without sacrifice of any principle. He feared for a time that the convention would sail into breakers, but he now believes that the last of the breakers, that of an unfair apportionment, has been safely passed.

While the constitution does not represent altogether his ideas, yet it represents the ideas of no one man, it is a compromise measure, and it is a document that he can vote for without violating his conscience and one that can be submitted to the people in good faith and it is a constitution that makes out of this commonwealth a state and he would vote for the constitution.

have suited altogether all of my friends. But the people of the imperial county of Chaves will vote for this document and if nothing worse is put into the document than is contained in it now, I will be at the polls working for its adoption. I want statehood and so do all the other delegates and it will take our united efforts to secure the ratification of our work."

C. M. Compton thanked the minority for their cool and calm acceptance of the apportionment and the fairness of the majority in conceding to the request of the minority. He expressed himself pleased with the spirit of the convention and pledged himself to work for the acceptance of the constitution by the people. He complimented the majority for its consideration of the minority.

Roosevelt county, the strongest Democratic county in the Territory will support the constitution. The convention has done the best it could.

A. H. Hudspeth told an anecdote of the collector who after passing the hat, and not finding a penny in it, said: "I am d—n glad to get my hat back."

J. W. Childers said that he was thankful to both Republicans and Democrats. He said he could not pledge himself to vote for a document he had never seen and before he would say that he would follow it whole, grease or no grease, and recommend to the people of Curry county to vote for it, he would have to examine it section for section and sentence for sentence.

H. B. Ferguson said he is not ready to say what he will do when the constitution goes to the people. He compared the convention to a masked ball and he has seen masks removed; that he has felt himself a persona non grata.

Apportionment Carried.

The apportionment carried by a vote of 67 to 20, many of the Democrats voting with the Republicans.

As the New Mexican went to press the love feast, which augurs so well for the adoption of the constitution was still in progress.

STRIKE BECAUSE PRICE OF MEALS IS RAISED.

Five Hundred Men of Western Federation Employed on Los Angeles Tunnel Quit Work.

Los Angeles, Nov. 15.—About five hundred miners and muckers employed on the tunnels of the Los Angeles $28,000,000 aqueduct have struck for an increase of wages to cover the advance in the price of meals charged the men. The strikers are members of the Western Federation of Miners, and the officials of that organization announced at Denver today that the Federation would back up the strikers. The price of meals was recently raised by the eating house contractors from 25 to 30 cents.

CLARK MAY NOT DRIVE MULES UP PENNSY. AVE.

Washington, Nov. 15.—It is by no means certain that the Missouri statesman Champ Clark, will be the speaker of the next House of Representatives. It looks now as if the probabilities were against his election. There are fifty-two Democrats from the north in the present House who have been re-elected and fifty or fifty-one other northern Democrats have been added to their number. The northern Democratic membership of the next House will be 102, or within two or three of that figure.

Some thirty of the re-elected northern Democrats have started a movement in behalf of a good, conservative, capable Democratic member to beat Champ Clark. They are active and have taken steps to get into immediate correspondence with their newly elected Democratic brethren.

Adamson is a well-known newspaper man. To accept the position in the finance department he resigned as city editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, upon which paper he has been employed in various capacities for ten years.
