LET'S TIE OUR STICKS IN A BUNDLE

Every one is familiar with the old story of the father who took his son into the yard and, handing him sticks, one at a time, asked him to break them. When all were broken the father took an equal number of similar sticks and tied them in a bundle. Handing these to his son he said, "now break these." The boy was unable so much as to bend them. "In union there is strength."

After the signers of the Declaration of Independence had attached their names to that immortal document, Benjamin Franklin said, "Now gentlemen we must all hang together or we will all hang separately." He was pointing to the same truth which the father exemplified with the sticks.

Time was, perhaps, when Albuquerque practiced this great principle—but not of late. Each has gone alone. We have even broken each others sticks. Jealousies, rivalries, quarrels, have prevented us from binding our interests together. One by one our plans have been broken.

Was there ever greater folly than this? The strong have said that they needed no support. The weak have felt that none was available. Albuquerque has grown very slowly as a result.

We are all selfish. But there is a benighted selfishness which makes us seek personal advantage through injuring or destroying others. There is an enlightened selfishness which leads us to see that in the advantage of all lies our greatest personal advantage.

We have rivalries in private business. But the field of conflicting interests is very narrow. Beyond that point is that great field of a community of interests where the common good produces what is best for each individual.

If 25,000 people can be added to Albuquerque the increased volume of business will produce for each more profit than we can take away from each other by "strong arm" methods.

It has been said that "when thieves fall out, honest men get their dues." It is also true that when honest men fall out, thieves get their opportunity.

If Albuquerque can learn this great lesson and men can bury that worst of enemies, malice, and can go forward in community cooperation, nothing can stop her.

All right! We are agreed in principle. Now, how shall we apply that principle to the problem in hand—that of stimulating the development of Albuquerque? A plan has been made; let us carry it out. A drive for memberships in the Chamber of Commerce will occur on Friday, Saturday and Monday.

There are five cords which we can use to bind our bundle of sticks. Without these cords, tied energetically, the sticks will not remain bound.

The first cord is team-work in the drive. Workers are needed. Call the Chamber of Commerce today and say you will help tie this cord.

The second cord is at least one membership in the Chamber for every man and every business woman, in the city. When the solicitor calls, tie a knot in this cord by joining your neighbors in community effort.

The third cord is to take an active interest in the election of a new board of directors to aid in getting our best men pressed into our service. This election will be held by mail, after the drive is over.

The fourth cord is a thoughtful vote by every member on the ten most important things to be done by the Chamber this coming year. A program for the year will be decided upon by a majority vote.

The fifth cord is the decision to lay down our personal ideas after this vote is taken and to join enthusiastically in bringing those ten things to accomplishment in 1922.

By this method this city can tie its sticks so tightly that no power can break them. The absence of one stick will weaken the bundle. Do not be silly and disloyal enough to hold aloof. Join your fellows in this supreme effort to put across a program of city building in Albuquerque.

To the degree in which we succeed in binding our sticks together with these cords, we will succeed in our plans. Without plans, well conceived and intelligently pressed, no city can grow as it should.

5 OFFICIALS OF SANTA FE MEET DEATH IN ACCIDENT

William Mathie, Superintendent of the Albuquerque Division, at Winslow, Is One of the Victims.

4 OTHER PERSONS REPORTED INJURED

An Automobile Inspection Car Overturns Near Wickenburg, Ariz., Close to California Border.

(By The Associated Press.) Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 22.—W. H. Oliver of Los Angeles, chief engineer of the Coast Lines of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, and four division officers of that railway were killed when a motor inspection car turned over three miles north of Wickenburg, Arizona, 40 miles northwest of here.

In addition to those killed, several persons were injured, some of them seriously.

The other dead are: WILLIAM MATHIE of Winslow, Arizona, division superintendent.

H. C. STOREY of Prescott, Arizona, assistant division superintendent.

WILLIAM BOWMAN, road master.

J. A. JAGER, assistant division engineer.

The accident happened, according to those on board the car, as the car was rounding a curve. As the car went over the side of the road, the front truck broke, they said, and the car plunged down an eight foot embankment, turning over at least once.

The four division officers were instantly killed but Mr. Oliver died later on the train that was bringing the dead and injured to this city.

STOREY'S WIDOW AND CHILD IN PASADENA

Prescott, Ariz., Nov. 22.—H. C. Storey of this city, assistant division superintendent of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway, who was killed in a wreck near Wickenburg, this afternoon, had been connected with the railway during the twenty-five years that he lived here. He was superintendent of the division before a recent reorganization of the road when this portion of the road and another division were combined to form the present Albuquerque division.

Mr. Storey came here from California where he was connected with the coast lines of the railway. His widow and daughter, Mildred, now are in Pasadena, Calif., where the latter is attending school. Mrs. Clarence McNell of this city is another daughter of Mr. Storey.

Jack Jaeger, who was engineer of the old Prescott & Phoenix railway, was made assistant division engineer under the reorganization. He had been with the Santa Fe system since 1898, coming here from Colorado. He was born in Jackson, Mo., and is survived by a

POLICE FORCES NOT A NUCLEUS FOR ARMY, SAY GERMAN CHIEFS

Government Takes Issue With the Charge of Premier Briand of France in His Washington Speech.

ADDRESS IS BRANDED AS "FLAT FALSEHOOD"

His Attitude May Undermine and Nullify the Whole Effort Toward Disarmament Papers Fear.

(By The Associated Press.) Berlin, Nov. 21 (by the Associated Press).—In a statement to the Associated Press today, the German government takes issue with the charge of Premier Briand of France in his address before the Washington conference that the German police forces and the reichswehr constituted a nucleus for a future German army.

It declared M. Briand's assertion that the reichswehr is composed exclusively of officers and non-commissioned officers of the old army is incorrect, and says that the bulk of the reichswehr is made up of youths between the ages of 19 and 21, recruited since the war.

The statement says that the "protection police" created at the bidding of the entente, and adds:

"The reichswehr is wholly unaffiliated with the schutz polizei, which took the place of the security police when the entente ordered the latter's dissolution.

"The schutz polizei is primarily an agency to maintain law and order. It takes orders solely from the civilian ministry of the federated states. Its numerical strength and its composition with reference to the ration of officers and men are designated and supervised by the entente control committee."

Arms Surrendered.

"The number of rifles and small arms is permitted to have as specified. It does not possess heavy caliber arms, the machineguns, or civilian guards, referred to by M. Briand, have been dissolved, and their arms have been surrendered and destroyed."

The statement disputes M. Briand's assertion that Germany will possess numerous arsenals equipped to turn out war materials, and asserts these plants are limited to two or three required to keep the German army supplied and that their output is supervised by the entente control committee.

The government's statement refutes the French press to the address from the throne in which King George of England declared satisfactory progress had been made by Germany in execution of her financial and disarmament obligations.

Newspaper comment generally characterizes M. Briand's speech as "flat falsehood," but most of the journals express fear that America may believe what he said. The opinion generally expressed was that his attitude was likely to undermine and nullify the whole effort toward disarmament.

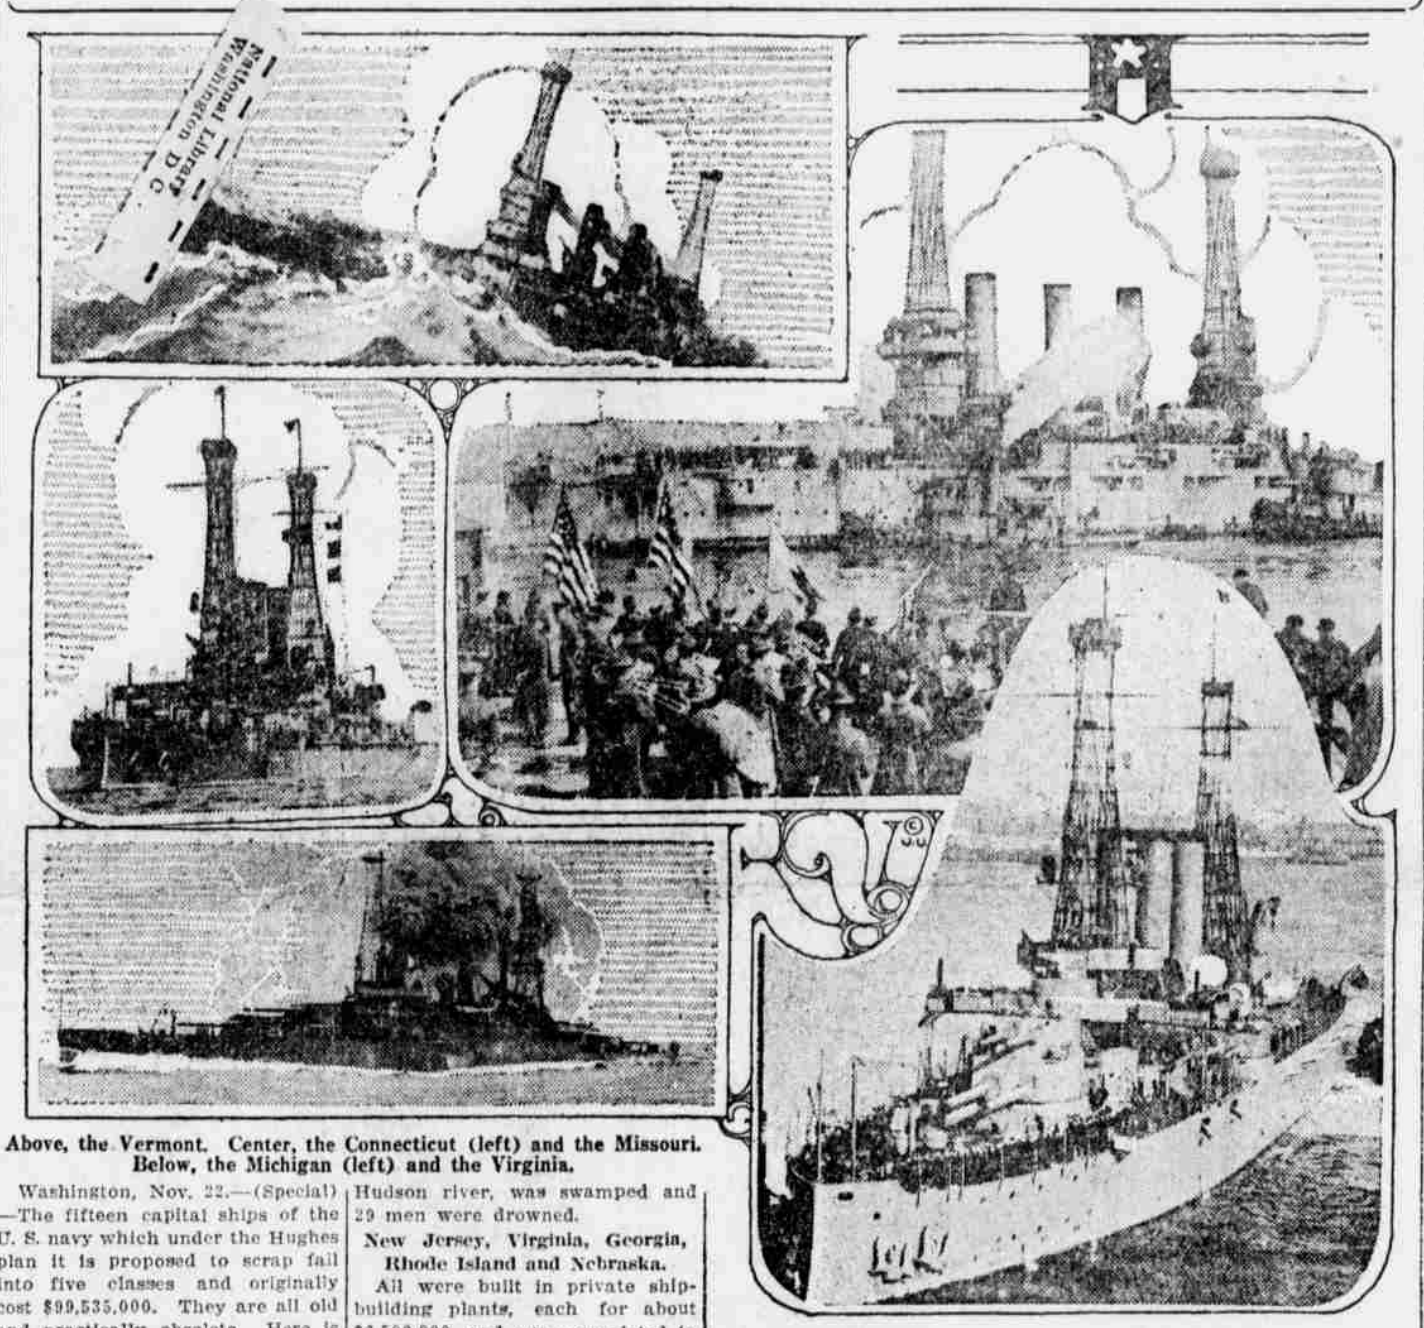

C. M. & ST. P. RAILWAY, ACTING INDEPENDENTLY, CUTS FREIGHT RATES AS MUCH AS 40 PER CENT

(By The Associated Press.) Chicago, Nov. 22.—The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, acting independently of other lines today announced freight rate reductions ranging as high as 40 per cent in some cases on certain commodities shipped from the middle west to the Pacific coast and destined for the Hawaiian Islands. The reductions are made to meet Panama canal shipping competition and will cover shipments from the east so soon as arrangements can be made with eastern roads. It was announced.

The road's announcement listed the following as examples of the reductions:

Commodity	Present Rate	Reduced Rate
Cotton piece goods	$1.75 per 100 pounds	$1.00 per 100 pounds
Iron bar plate	$1.50 per 100 pounds	$1.00 per 100 pounds
Iron—nails	$1.50 per 100 pounds	$1.00 per 100 pounds
Tobacco, smoking, plug	$2.75 per 100 pounds	$1.50 per 100 pounds
Paints	$1.50 per 100 pounds	$1.00 per 100 pounds
Soap	$1.50 per 100 pounds	$1.00 per 100 pounds

U. S. Proposes to Scrap These Five Types of Capital Ships That Cost $99,535,000

Washington, Nov. 22.—(Special.)—The fifteen capital ships of the U. S. navy which under the Hughes plan it is proposed to scrap fall into five classes and originally cost $99,535,000. They are all old and practically obsolete. Here is the list:

Connecticut and Louisiana. These are sister ships, each of about 16,000 tons displacement, and were completed in 1906. The Louisiana was built by the Newport News Shipbuilding company, costing $7,196,846. The Connecticut, which cost $7,360,709, was built in the Brooklyn navy yard. The Louisiana was used by President Roosevelt when he made a trip of inspection to the Panama canal in 1906. These were the first two of five 16,000-ton battle cruisers to be added to the new navy.

Kansas, Vermont, Minnesota and New Hampshire. Known as the "Kansas" class, these vessels, averaging in cost about $7,150,000, were all built in private shipyards, and all completed in 1907, except the New Hampshire, which was not finished until 1908. The four ships averaged from 13.5 to 18.2 knots an hour on their trial trips, the Vermont being a few points faster than the others. The New Hampshire and Vermont took part in the taking of Vera Cruz in April, 1914.

On the night of October 2, 1910, a liberty party returning to the New Hampshire, anchored in the Hudson river, was swamped and 29 men were drowned.

New Jersey, Virginia, Georgia, Rhode Island and Nebraska. All were built in private shipbuilding plants, each for about $6,500,000, and were completed in 1906, except the Rhode Island, which was not finished until 1907. They range in speed from 18.2 to 19.2 knots. They are of 14,918 tons displacement. Of the five, three, the Rhode Island, New Jersey and Nebraska, were at the capture of Vera Cruz.

The explosion of two 100-pound charges of powder in a superimposed turret of the Georgia, on July 15, 1907, caused the death of one officer and seven men and the injury of a score of others. The accident happened while the Georgia was cruising off the coast of Massachusetts. On September 23, 1910, one of the forward 12-inch guns of the Georgia burst, but no one was injured.

On the night of October 2, 1910, a liberty party returning to the New Hampshire, anchored in the Hudson river, was swamped and 29 men were drowned.

RESOLUTION TO ADJOURN PASSED BY THE SENATE

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Nov. 22.—A concurrent resolution was adopted by the senate late today to adjourn sine die tomorrow night after a vote is taken on the tax bill. The resolution now goes to the house, where it is expected to be acted favorably upon.

The senate in executive session tonight endeavored to clean the slate of presidential nominations and more than 200 were confirmed.

Nomination of Henry Lincoln Johnson, negro, and republican national committee man for Georgia, to be recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, was rejected.

Plans for the adjournment of congress tomorrow virtually preclude any action on passing a resolution to order work on battleships stopped while the arms conference is in session. Senator King, democrat, Utah, today sought to obtain committee action on his resolution to this effect and was prompted by Senator Page, republican, Vermont, chairman, that a vote of the committee would be taken to determine whether the question should be taken up. Republican leaders declared an adverse decision was certain.

REHABILITATION OF AFFAIRS OF CHINA IS BEGUN

Customs and Tax Restrictions Imposed by the Great Powers Will Be Probed by Sub-committee

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Nov. 22 (by the Associated Press).—With the first step by the Far Eastern committee of the conference taken today toward rehabilitation of China's internal affairs through appointment of a sub-committee to examine customs and tax restrictions imposed by the great powers, one of the most important phases of the Chinese problem has been reached, from the Chinese viewpoint.

China lost control over her maritime customs in 1842, following the opium war with England, when it was declared, she was to be opened to foreign trade on a uniform 5 per cent duty both for imports and exports. This was extended to virtually all other nations having treaties with China. Through pressure, restrictions were placed on land customs, as well as the maritime, whereby Russia obtained a land rate reduced to two-thirds of the general tariff. France and England received a reduction to six-tenths and seven-tenths of the maritime rate, respectively.

According to the Chinese delegation, the following tariffs are in effect: Maritime, 5 per cent; land frontier, about 3 1/2 per cent; and transit dues 2 1/2 per cent. China was gradually induced by treaty, it was explained, to grant the nationals of the powers this rate of 2 1/2 per cent in addition to the export and import duties in lieu of all internal tariffs. Thus, the Chinese say, native merchants are penalized as compared with foreign traders since the internal customs rate is invariably higher than 2 1/2 per cent.

SENCE IS COMMUTED.

Washington, Nov. 22.—President Harding has commuted the ten-year sentence of Emil Herman, confined at McNeil Island, Wash., to expire December 24, it was said today at the department of justice. Herman was convicted at Seattle in June, 1918, for violation of the espionage act.

REDUCTIONS IN NATION'S TAX BILL FOR NEXT CALENDAR YEAR

Surety bonds stamp taxes, $2,000,000. Art works, $200,000. Electric fans, $300,000. Thermos bottles, $200,000. Total, $835,200,000.

FOCH IS INVITED TO WHIPPLE BARRACKS

(By The Associated Press.) Prescott, Ariz., Nov. 22.—Patients at Whipple Barracks here today sent an invitation to Marshal Foch, while in Arizona in order to see how America is caring for its disabled veterans here. The invitation was sent by the patients' organization at the hospital.

Maj. B. E. Hedding, who has been executive officer at the hospital for the past three years, has been ordered to take command of the hospital at Fort Bayard, N. M. Major Hedding will leave tomorrow to take up his new duties.

Joquim Perrazas, Mexican consul in this city, who uncovered the alleged plot and caused the arrest of the three men, said that he believed the proposed revolution was connected with recent disturbances in Lower California.

The three arrested here today were E. Amavizca, who was a colonel in Sonora while Governor Maytorena was chief executive of that state; a civil engineer named Vasquez, and a third man whose name was withheld by the authorities.

Amavizca participated in the revolt led by Governor Maytorena against former President Carranza in 1914. Maytorena later fled from Mexico and now is reported to be living in Los Angeles, Calif.

ENVOYS DISCUSS DETAILS OF FAR EAST AND ARMS CUT PROPOSALS

Negotiations Move More Slowly as the Delegates Get Down to Serious Consideration of Problems.

BRIAND'S PLEA FALLS ON SYMPATHETIC EARS

Committee of the Whole on Land Armament Will Meet Today; French Premier is to Speak.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Nov. 22 (by the Associated Press).—Negotiations relating to both the Far East and armament limitation moved more slowly today as attention of the arms delegates passed from general policies to details.

The long argument continued between delegates continued between the appointment of a sub-committee of representatives of nine nations to study the subject of administrative autonomy for China with particular reference to tariff and tax restrictions.

The long argument problem also was considered at informal conferences and a meeting of the armament committee of the whole was called for tomorrow, with the expectation that Premier Briand, of France, would say a last word as to his country's attitude on armament.

On the side of naval armament, informal discussions continued between delegates and naval experts with an air of growing confidence that details of the American plan would eventually bring all the powers into agreement on the whole, but the naval plan may receive some consideration at tomorrow's meeting of the five delegations which constitute the armament committee of the whole.

Whether the other delegations will be willing to take formal action of that character, is uncertain, although it is taken for granted that at tomorrow's meeting there will be many general expressions of appreciation for the reasons which impel France to maintain the largest army.

Land, naval and Far Eastern negotiators were talked over by Secretary Hughes today with the American advisory committee of 21, and after he had presented a report sub-committees were instructed to prepare reports for the American delegates on details. The submarine issue raised by Great Britain will be one question to be investigated and another, whose inclusion was expected, forecasting a new angle of the negotiations, will be the use and legitimacy of new weapons of warfare. Thus far that subject has not been mentioned in the conference.

Chinese Autonomy. The sub-committee on Chinese administrative autonomy authorized today by the full body of delegates of the nine nations, sitting as a committee of the whole on the Far East, is expected to find its chief task in an attempted re-arrangement of the customs arrangements which have kept China from imposing a duty of more than five per cent on her imports. In addition, there is expected to be an inquiry into the international agreement from which certain specified items of the republic's tax returns must be turned over immediately for payment of foreign obligations.

All of these restrictions the Chinese declare, have resulted in such a curtailment of national revenues as to make economic progress impossible. The Chinese delegates have emphasized the tariff autonomy principles as one of the most important she wished to establish, and there are said to have been indications in today's discussions that this view has met with much sympathy among other delegations.

The sub-committee was authorized at the suggestion of Senator Underwood, of the American delegation.

Progress Is Encouraging. Although the delegates have not taken up some of the most troublesome questions involved in the Far Eastern situation, the progress made thus far was described in official circles tonight as highly encouraging. So rapidly and

TAX CONFERENCE CALLED TO MEET ON DECEMBER 19

County Assessors and State Commission Will Discuss Assessment Laws Passed By Last Legislature.

(Special Correspondence to The Journal)
Santa Fe, Nov. 22.—Owing to the many changes made in the assessment and taxation laws by the fifth legislature the county assessors and commissioners conference, which opens here December 19, will be the most important called, says the official call sent out today by J. E. Saint, tax commission chief.

The text of the call:
"To All Assessors:
"You are hereby notified that the state tax commission has set Monday, December 19, as the date for the next annual tax conference with the assessors and county commissioners. This session will probably last from 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the 19th to noon of Wednesday, the 21st.

"Owing to the many changes affecting assessment laws and the assessors of the state, made by the last legislature, the commission feels that this meeting will be the most important of any of the sessions heretofore held. The repeal of chapter 115 regarding the assessment of grazing lands, placing grazing lands on the county assessor will be one of the main questions for discussion; also the repeal of chapter 54, section 4 of the laws of 1915.

"The last session of the legislature repealed the entire chapter 54 and made no provisions for the tax commission fixing the value of assessment purposes in the month of November for sheep, cattle and other livestock as provided in this chapter. Fixing the value of livestock will be one of the questions to be discussed at this conference. Under the new law assessors are required to make personal inspection of all property assessed and the allowance of $2,400 for additional deputy to the amount of $1,200 and $1,200 for traveling expenses, will be a matter for discussion.

"It might be well in this connection to say that the tax commission does not believe that it is policy for the assessor to employ a deputy for a whole year at $1,200. The commission members feel that greater economy and efficiency can be created by employing three or four deputies during the first three or four months of the year. These are matters that will be discussed at the conference and we want each and every one of you to be prepared to give the tax commission your ideas of value on land and livestock and your proposed method of administering the new law.

method of administering the new law.
"Under an opinion of the attorney general given for former conferences you will be allowed your traveling expenses and hotel expenses by your county for this trip."

smoothly have the negotiations moved that some of the proposals connected with the American delegation are predicting that the conference will go a long way toward clearing up the Far Eastern tangle.

The probable procedure with reference to Chinese and other Far Eastern and Pacific questions was forecast today in authoritative quarters. The Root resolution, adopted yesterday by the Far Eastern committee of the whole, together with any adopted in the future, it was said, would be brought before a plenary session of the conference for final discussion and adoption. Another resolution on Pacific and Far Eastern questions is said to be in prospect.

Root Resolution.
Adoption of the Root resolution by the committee, American officials said, was a far step toward protection of China, even should it not be taken before a plenary session as is planned.

Publication of the Root resolution as an expression of policy by the powers, it was asserted, carried with it a promise of future action with respect to China territorial and political sovereignty.

The subject of future procedure on other Chinese questions is to be developed further at another meeting of the Far Eastern committee of the whole tomorrow. It was learned that a suggestion for a general sub-committee of two experts representing each of the nine powers was rejected at the suggestion of Senator Lodge, who was said to have argued that Chinese questions were not matters for experts and that the representatives of the powers were responsible directly for any action taken. His objections were said to have been supported by Mr. Balfour and Premier Briand.

Questions relating to Shantung, Manchuria and foreign treaty and other concessions in China, it was said, probably soon would be reached by the committee. It was said that so far no hint as to the "Chinese attitude regarding Shantung" had been received by American officials, although intimations are made that the Japanese were disposed to insist on retention and protection of their rights and privileges in Manchuria.

CITY MARSHAL SHOT, SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

(By The Associated Press.)

El Centro, Calif., Nov. 22.—City Marshal C. T. Disney of Imperial, near here, who was shot and seriously wounded while attempting to arrest a man known as J. D. Bryer, said to be wanted in Texas on a charge of passing fictitious checks, is resting easily at a hospital here. Marshal Disney was operated on today and three bullets were removed from his body. Bryer who fled following the shooting, is still at liberty.

COLLEGE COURSE BEING TAKEN BY MARRIED WOMEN

Ten Are Enrolled as Students in the University of Akron: One is the Mother of Four Children.

(By The Associated Press.)
Akron, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Ten married women, including Mrs. Lydia Kolbe, wife of Dr. Park H. Kolbe, president of the institution, are enrolled as students in the University of Akron. Another is Mrs. Louise Copp, who has a son attending the engineering college at the university. Mrs. Mary E. Edna Kneale, the mother of four children.

Asked why she is going to college now, Mrs. Kolbe said: "It is a woman's duty to learn how properly and economically to run her home and that is what I am doing, as well as completing an interrupted college career." She is studying for a degree of bachelor of science in domestic science. This is her second year as a university student. "I want a college degree; I want a better foundation for my home management; and I want a useful and profitable way of spending my spare time," is the answer of Mrs. Copp. Mrs. Copp and her son can be seen going to school together almost every morning. "No one must underestimate the value of learning. I believe in getting all of it I can," said Mrs. Mary J. Rothrock. She is attending Buchtel college of liberal arts. Her husband is studying for a degree in medicine.

Mrs. Vera Howard Blaxill, formerly of Reading, Pa., is taking courses both in the engineering college and in the college of business administration. She is working for a degree in business administration after which she expects to study in France.

Mrs. Mina Frens is completing a normal course in the teachers' college which she began at Ohio university. Mrs. D. E. Carson is taking a post-graduate course in the teachers' college. She received her A. B. degree at Miami university and is now working for a degree as a professor of education.

CHRISTINE NILSSON, THE SECOND SWEDISH NIGHTINGALE, IS DEAD

(By The Associated Press.)
Copenhagen, Nov. 22 (By The Associated Press).—Christine Nilsson, the noted operatic soprano, died here this morning.

Christine Nilsson was one of the brightest luminaries of the operatic stage of a generation ago. Called by many the "second Swedish nightingale" as a fit successor to the marvelous Jenny Lind, she won triumph after triumph in the famous lyric roles of her day, both in Europe and America, being a frequent visitor to this country from 1870 to the time of her retirement in 1890.

Born in Stockholm in 1843, she made her debut in Paris in 1861, as Violetta in "Traviata." Mrs. Nilsson married August Nordström of Paris, in 1872. He died ten years later and in 1887 she married Count Casa Di Miranda.

WOMAN KILLS HER SON THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

(By The Associated Press.)
Irwin, Ia., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Dye Lettetter, 33, wife of a farmer living near Irwin, yesterday killed her seven-year-old son and then committed suicide. The double tragedy was not discovered until her husband returned from the corn field. The woman is believed to have been violently insane. It is said three of her near relatives committed suicide.

Representatives from Jerusalem and Pekin are in this country applying for charters for American Legion posts.

OHIO MAN IS HELD ON A CHARGE OF MURDER

(By The Associated Press.)
Wilmington, Ohio, Nov. 21.—Oliver Vandervort was held in jail tonight on a charge of murder, following statements by his ten-year-old son, Oliver, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Jeff Whitlow, that he fired the shots which killed three persons at Cuba, near here, Saturday night.

Besides Mrs. Whitlow, who died shortly after making her statement, the other victims were Bertha Vandervort, 30, twice divorced from Vandervort, and Howard Foster, 24, said to have been calling on Mrs. Vandervort.

Vandervort continued to deny any connection with the shooting.

croquette and salad for lunch. On top of this a soda confection is apt to add to the indigestion. It is a good rule to follow each meal with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet to avoid dyspeptic results due to eating and drinking. Should the stomach sour, with water-brash, biliousness, and the peculiar nervousness due to indigestion these tablets bring relief because they supply the alkaline effect to the stomach and thus offset the acidity of such dyspeptic conditions.

It is well to know this and not deny yourself the pleasures of the good things to eat and drink through fear of indigestion. You will find Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on sale in all drug stores at 60 cents a box.

BENNY LEONARD WINS ON POINTS OVER FRIEDMAN

Lightweight Boxing Champion of the World Is Awarded Decision at the End of Eighth Round.

(By The Associated Press.) Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—Benny Leonard, lightweight boxing champion of the world, outpointed Saul Friedman of Chicago, in an eight-round no-decision bout tonight. Both men entered the ring with the lightweight limit and the championship was not at stake.

In a bout preliminary to the Benny Leonard-Saul Friedman contest here tonight, George Eastle of California, Eddio Wagon of Philadelphia in eight rounds.

Benny Valger, 132 pounds, of New York, outpointed Tommy Cleary, 134 pounds, of Philadelphia, in an eight-round no-decision bout.

The Chicagoan was game and took the offensive in many rounds. Leonard, the better boxer, withstood his assaults and found that he must pile enough points to win a popular victory. Friedman staggered the champion several times with hard punches to the head, but Leonard smiled and gave three or more blows in return.

The champion did most of his fighting in the seventh and eighth rounds and at one time appeared to have his opponent in a weakened condition. In the eighth round they met in the center of the ring and there carried on a slug fest in which Leonard delivered the strongest punches.

Nathan Lewis, Friedman's manager, said that Friedman felt, by his showing tonight, that he deserved to be given a chance at the title at the lightweight limit in a 15-round decision bout.

Friedman entered the ring at 10:30 and Leonard followed five minutes later.

Their weights were announced at ringside as Friedman, 149 pounds, and the champion, 138 3/4. Both being above the lightweight limit, the championship technically was not at stake. The fight by rounds:

Round Two—Leonard missed a right to the head. Friedman countered with a left to the jaw. They boxed swiftly and Leonard landed a right and left to the jaw. He sent Friedman to the ropes with a right to the head. Leonard caught Friedman on the jaw with a hard right, staggering him at the bell.

Round Three—Friedman took the offensive and landed rights and lefts to Leonard's body and head. Leonard countered with a right to the stomach. Friedman sent two short lefts to the champion's jaw. Friedman sent a right to the stomach. Leonard missed a right swing at the bell.

Round Four—They sparred and exchanged rights and lefts to the head at close quarters. Both missed swings for the head. Leonard caught Friedman with two hard rights to the jaw. There was little fighting in this round.

Round Six—Leonard countered a straight left to the jaw with a hard uppercut. The champion missed repeatedly. Friedman hooked the champion with a left to the jaw. They exchanged light body blows at close quarters and in the breakaway Leonard sent a left to the chin at the bell.

Round Seven—The fighting became fierce, with Friedman as the aggressor. He sent hard rights and lefts to the champion's head and body, forcing him to the ropes. Leonard sent a straight right to the jaw. They started slugfests and both took hard body punches. Leonard forced Friedman to the ropes, appearing to be trying for a knockout.

Round Eight—Leonard staggered Friedman with rights and lefts to the head, and Friedman fought back viciously. Leonard's punches seemed to be wearing down his opponent. They continued to box at a fast pace, and Leonard forced Friedman into his own corner at the bell.

At the first general session of the N. M. A. convention, when the meeting was thrown open to invitations, representatives of Albuquerque, Santa Fe and Las Vegas made speeches asking the teachers to hold their convention in their respective cities.

Arthur Prager made the invitation on behalf of this city, pointing out for consideration Albuquerque's size, location and accommodations. Judge C. J. Roberts of Santa Fe extended that city's invitation. W. B. McFarland offered the teachers Las Vegas as their next meeting place. Later, however, Las Vegas withdrew her offer, and instead, invited the teachers to come there in 1923.

The nominations for the various offices of the association were decided upon at this meeting, and the ballots were open yesterday from 9 to 12, and will be open this morning during the same hours, at the Y. M. C. A.

The nominations are as follows: For president, Luella Clark, Hidalgo county; Maude J. Blaney, Carrizozo; Josie Lockard, Raton; for vice president, Filadelfo Baca, El Alto; Adeline Sanchez, Valencia; for treasurer, G. B. Jones, Las Cruces; railroad secretary, E. C. Best, Santa Fe; for member of the executive committee, Mrs. Nina Otero-Warren.

Primary department children are enjoying paper cutting for busy work and making turkeys and pumpkins, that lend an air to Thanksgiving day.

First grade pupils who have had perfect attendance since the fall opening are: Nicolas Sanchez, Victor Mora, Ramon Garcia and Mabel Pederson.

High first grade: Pupils who made 100 per cent in arithmetic all month are: Vidal Miraval, Frank Duran, Peter Nunez and Cristov Romero.

Second-third grades: The pupils from this room take the banner this month. Those having "E" in arithmetic every day are: Jake Bugar, Edna Stener, Iris Pickens, Placida Montoya, Lena Baca, Solomon Griego, Margaret Martinez, Henry Hernandez, Mike Garcia and Louis Serna.

Fourth grade: Miss Gould has been absent the last three days and Mrs. Kahn is taking her place.

Fifth grade: Marie Armijo was promoted from the "B" arithmetic class to the "A" division.

Sixth and seventh grade had tests in geography and history. Many pupils received the much coveted "E" on their papers.

The eighth grade monthly paper, "The Old Town Monthly," made its debut Thursday. This paper shows clever and original stories, jokes and news items. Kenneth Miller and Juan Nunez, reporters.

The teachers of Bernalillo county and also the visiting teachers at the convention, are cordially invited to attend the Old Town Parent-teachers' association dance on Monday evening, November 21, at the Colombaro hall. There will be extra fine music by the Lightning Harmonizers, a recently organized orchestra who render excellent dance music. Everybody is assured a real good time.

DANGER OF DELAY—

During the last three years the Equitable has paid five hundred death claims in cases where the insurance had been in force less than twelve months. Some of these policy holders were old, but a large proportion of them were young. Death is no respecter of persons; hence the danger of delay.

During the last three years the Equitable has declined to issue insurance on the lives of 24,000 persons, most of whom could have obtained insurance if they had applied for it when they first made up their minds to insure.

You believe in life insurance—and some day when you have more leisure you intend to give the subject careful consideration. Don't delay a moment longer. Write now for full particulars and sample policies.

POSTOFFICE WILL NOT MAIL TINSELED CARDS

Peaceful Thanksgiving and Merry Christmas post cards decorated in tinsel will be stacked up at the local postoffice until the sender takes them back and mails them in envelopes. It was announced yesterday by Postmaster B. Spitz. None of these will be mailed because of the danger of poison to the clerks feeding them to the cancelling machines.

Several hundred of these cards have already accumulated in the postoffice among the Thanksgiving greeting messages. The public is advised now against sending similar cards for the Christmas season. Cards bearing cloth pennants of Albuquerque are also held for additional postage. These can not go for 1 cent since they are considered as advertisements of the city.

MISSOURI RIVER BEING TAMED BY U. S. ENGINEERS

Task Is to Coax it Out of Its Old Custom of Changing Its Channel Whenever the Whim Moves It.

(By The Associated Press.)
Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 22 (By the Associated Press.)—Taming the Missouri river, outflow among American rivers, is the task of the United States army river engineers, whose headquarters are here. Their sector is the Missouri river from Fort Benton, Montana, to a point opposite Alton, Illinois, where the Missouri, with a roar and a rush joins the Mississippi, and thereafter sweeps with some degree of calmness to the Gulf of Mexico.

The task of the river engineers is to persuade and coerce the Missouri river into "staying out," and to coax it out of its long-time custom of changing its channel whenever the whim moves it.

This may sound like an exaggeration but to anyone who has spent a day on the river with the army engineers, and has seen the Missouri eating away at a corn field with wicked energy, swallowing up earth, corn, weeds, fences and trees, it seems sometimes as if the river actually had a personality, and an outflow one at that. And while carrying away farm land from one bank, somewhere else it is equally busy, piling up sand, mud and driftwood, making land out of what was river a few days before. Then, too, the river has a habit of occasionally clogging its own channel by building sand bars so long and so high that it must needs become broad and shallow in order to continue its restless course.

It is a constant struggle, but it is not a hopeless one, and the engineers point with a measure of justified pride to those places along the stream where they have built dikes, which resulted in the making of land, to the concave bends where revetments have stopped the river from cutting its bank. Given a dike on one side and a revetment on the other, and constant diligence, so that small breaks may be repaired before they become serious, the river engineers say they can keep the stream fairly well anchored.

Fifty years ago, before the coming of the railroads, the Missouri was the great western artery of commerce, and steamboats plowed its waters as far as Fort Benton, Montana. Knowing how difficult it always is for the railroads to handle great wheat harvests, one wonders why it is not possible for the river to handle some of this traffic.

The engineer, quietly tells you that it is possible, then he goes on and explains the two general reasons why it is not being done. One is that there is now very little money for improving and keeping up the river.

The other reason is that many mistakes have been made in the type of towboats used. Boats designed for any other river in the world but the Missouri, have been

PIRATES READY TO TRADE FIVE PLAYERS; SEEK STOCK

That the Pittsburgh Pirates will figure in the first big trade of the baseball stove league season is the well defined rumor running about. The said that Barney Dreyfuss is willing to part with five players in deals and that one of the men he seeks is Milton Stock, Cardinal third sacker. The five men mentioned are the veterans Catcher Walter Schmidt and Outfielder George used, and because of the shifting depth of the river have failed. With all its diadema tages, there is a good deal to be said, according to the engineers, for the old paddle wheel steamer, side wheeler, or stern wheeler, that draws little or no water, which condition is ideal for service on the Missouri.

Whitted, Third Baseman Clyde Barnhart, Pitcher Jim Zinn and Second Baseman Cotton Tierney. Elimination of temperament and a desire to further strengthen the club are given as the reasons for the move by the Pirate heads.

The river is navigable, say the engineers, and with sufficient time and patience, it can be made manageable.

"A great game if you don't weaken," one says to Major Wilkes, in charge of the river work, and his aides.

"You can't weaken," they assure you. "You just keep after it, for the river itself never weakens."

PERSONAL NOTES OF THE STATE

STATE COLLEGE

The annual dance of the preparatory department was given Friday evening in the college gymnasium. Decorations were in the school colors, red and white and the effect with the colored lights was beautiful. The Super Six jazz orchestra furnished the music. The dance was chaperoned by Professor and Mrs. C. T. Hagerly. Refreshments were served.

A number of the young people of the community gathered at the home of the Rev. Ira H. McClymonds Friday evening and made candy. Those in the party were Peggy Stauffer, Edith Bell, Dora Latham and Cora La him, J. Wilbur Vaughan, Jim H. Hudson, Norman S. Hookland, Edward Edgerton, Wiley O. Edgerton, Heichel Bell and Thomas Bell.

The "Bulldogs" of the Las Cruces high school held the El Paso high school "Tigers" to a score of 9 to 6 on the Cruces field Friday. The "Bulldogs" were outwashed about 25 pounds to the man but they put up a real fight against the "Tiger" team.

Major and Mrs. J. T. Waterman entertained at a ball at the community house Thursday evening in honor of Major Morrow, who was here to inspect the state college reserve officers' training corps. The officers of the battalion were present and a few of the young ladies in the institution attended.

The infantry branch of the United States army is considered the nucleus and the most important branch of the service.

GUNSHOT WOUNDS PROVE FATAL TO A DENVER YOUTH

(By The Associated Press.)

Denver, Colo., Nov. 22.—Livrado Orozco, 22 years old, died early today of gunshot wounds received last night after Orozco had shot and killed one of two masked men who attempted to hold up him and his sister. The second bandit was wounded by shots fired by a policeman but the man escaped.

The shooting occurred in the lower part of the city. Orozco and his sister, Mrs. Euphelia Espinosa, were accosted by the two men, one of whom drew a revolver and pressed it against Orozco, according to his sister.

Orozco, she said, pulled his gun and shot dead the robber. "The other man pulled a gun and shot three times," said Mrs. Espinosa. "My brother fell." All three bullets took effect, physicians attending Orozco last night said.

A half hour later Patrolman Charles Harold saw a man who tallied with the description of the missing bandit. He ignored the officer's command to halt and disappeared into an alley, shooting as he ran. One of the bullets passed through Harold's coat sleeve.

Another patrolman, E. F. Ripberger, heard the shots and leaped to the running board of an automobile to go to the assistance of Harold. As the machine turned a curve he was thrown to the pavement and badly hurt.

Patrolman Ripberger was assisting federal officers in making a raid on an alleged narcotic rendezvous when he heard the shots. Six prisoners were taken in the raid. The body of the dead bandit today was identified as that of Bernardino McLendrea, 25 years old.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

R. C.: You should weigh 120 pounds. A diet chart will be mailed to you if you send a stamped addressed envelope. A clear skin is the result of good health, especially that of the digestive organs.

Peggy: The lines you speak of are only temporary, due to the fact that you are about ten pounds underweight. A tablespoonful of olive oil, taken in the same amount of grape juice, three times each day, will give you this needed weight and also build up your general health.

A. L. D. A.: As you did not give me the height of the boy and girl, I cannot compute their respective weights.

U. V. E.: White spots on the nails come from poor circulation, which causes these little deposits of lime to collect. They will bleach off if you rub into them a paste made from equal parts of pitch and myrrh. These ingredients are blended by heating them slightly. Brucine: A dermatologist will remove the pits from smallpox. Cocoa butter massaged gently into the tissues each night will nourish and fatten the bust.

Helen: There is not space at this time to publish the cucumber formula. I will be glad to mail it to you if you send a stamped addressed envelope.

Dot: A girl of 16, height five feet two inches, should weigh about 110 pounds. To increase your weight, follow the advice given to Peggy in this column.

Brunette: To remove these shafts from the hair, use a very fine toothed comb, which is kept wet with vinegar. If there are any vermin they should first be destroyed by soaking the hair with kerosene and tied up overnight. In the morning shampoo thoroughly.

Mabel: The bleach made from peroxide and ammonia will not hurt the skin; however, it will not be necessary to use it often than needed to bleach the hair.

Peggy: A course in elocution will help your voice. You should weigh 130 pounds.

Reader: Massage the scalp each night until it glows from increased circulation and if the hair continues to fall out, send a stamped addressed envelope for future information.

M. P. M.: The tonic I am suggesting above will also help you case, curing the dandruff and restoring the color to the faded hair.

J. P.: Bitter aloe applied to the tips of the finger nails frequently breaks up this habit of biting them.

Bright Eyes: Send a stamped addressed envelope for the cream formula and a bleach for those blotches. Cucumber juice will also do this.

Reader: If you use the white of an egg as an astringent it should be in the proportion of one part egg to six of water. Such an astringent is only used when giving treatment and applied to skin after it has been thoroughly cleansed with cream and removed with hot damp cloths. After applying the astringent lie down and give it about 20 minutes to work. Remove and proceed with treatment, using more cream until the pores have taken up all they need. Remove surplus cream and rub the skin well with ice.

THE NEW GENERATION

By JANE PHELPS

HORTENSE'S GOSSIP ANNOYS JOAN.

CHAPTER 20.

It is no wonder that Margaret occasionally had misgivings concerning the wisdom of her plans for Joan, yet on the whole it had worked out remarkably well enough so that never once had she considered making any significant change in them. That the child's future was pregnant with possibilities because of her upbringing, Margaret fully realized; possibilities of both right and wrong; of happiness and unhappiness. Yet she had the faith in ancestry, in blood, in the inherent probity, descended through generations of right-living forebears, to believe that Joan would come through clean.

Joan also had something else. Margaret herself was a constant influence—through her conversation, her ideals, her reading—she proved a wholesome guide to right thinking on the part of her child. She met all the problems connected with Joan in such a spirit of fairness (her influence was so tactfully concealed) that Joan felt it was she herself who decided what was right and what was wrong. She never dreamed that she had decided through her mother.

The relations between Margaret and Joan at this time were peculiar to themselves—perhaps in a way unlike customary relationships existing between mother and daughter.

Margaret loved Joan intensely. But added to that mother love was the feeling of responsibility for her unique bringing up; the intense following of Joan's mental processes; the teacher-like attitude—camouflaged.

Joan, too, loved her mother devotedly. Yet she had adopted an air of criticism, of superiority because of her non-reined youth and a feeling that her mother was "too old" too much behind the times to understand what was really suitable for her; and who often mistook her place in the world.

"My mother doesn't butt in!" she often said to the girls, yet she had felt of late that Margaret desired to "butt in" that she must be careful or her "Mumie" would do something foolish, or that would look foolish in one of Mumie's age.

Soon after Craig Forrester left town Hortense Thompson said to Joan: "How did you like Craig Forrester?"

ter, Joan?" "Oh, I don't know! He is all right, I guess. Why?" Then retelling that he had been Mrs. Thompson's guest she added: "He seemed nice at times."

"He liked your mother pretty well."

"Everyone likes Mumie."

"Oh, I don't mean like that—same as everyone does."

"What do you mean then?"

"I heard him telling mother that she was the most charming woman he had met in a long time."

"Of course she is!" Joan returned emphatically. "There isn't anyone in this old town like her, not even your mother, though, perhaps, you think your mother is all right."

Joan happened to think just at this instant, of the conversation she and her mother had had a few days previous regarding Hortense and her mother in which Margaret had said:

"Hortense probably loves her mother just as much as you do me."

"You are a dumb-head, Joan Hayden, for all you are so smart in some things."

"Dumb about what? If you've got anything to say, spit it out!" Joan herself never "boast about the bush" in her talk. Often she was a bit cruel, but she was always honest.

"Why, everyone in town knew he was in love with her. I expect you will soon have a new father."

As she made the last remark, Hortense edged away a bit as if she feared Joan's anger might lead to personal conflict.

"How dare you, Hortense Thompson! I never shall speak to you again! Never as long as I live. My Mumie would never do such a thing. Never treat me so badly. Anyway, she's too old!" Joan finished as if in spite of her brave words she needed some reassurance.

"Mumie! Lots of women, widows, older than she is, get married. And you needn't get so nasty about it, either, because I heard mother and father talking only this very morning at breakfast about it. Father said it would be a good match, so there!"

Without a word Joan turned away from Hortense and crossing the street, went on home alone, regardless of Hortense's call to "come on and walk home together."

She felt she needed to be alone to think. Then, too, she didn't intend to be friends with Hortense any more.

NEW COAT FROCK IS VERY SWAGGER

As the season progresses coat frocks become more popular than ever. They will continue good even until spring for many dress manufacturers are making coat frocks for early spring showing. The winter models are very swaggy affairs made in velvet, duvetyne, tricotine or serge. Some of them boast an underdress of silk or crepe and others have nothing but the coat effect with perhaps a gilet or vestee of lace or white crepe or flannel.

This frock pictured here is very effective in its simplicity. It is fashioned of navy blue tricotine and trimmed with stitching in maroon colored silk. This stitching appears on the sleeves, collar and skirt. A round, fancy bone button of great proportions serves as well.

This frock will be found comfortable under the fur coat when a suit may feel burdensome.

OVERWORKED BLESSINGS.

The greatest boon becomes a bore when it's not wisely handled; and now my head and heart are sore, for I've been Gothed and Vandeled. I like the tuncful phonograph when cultured people grind it, and long I lean upon my staff and bless the guys who wind it. I love to hear it sending out its songs of sense and feeling, composed by some accomplished scout, ere jazz bands broke the ceiling. I like to hear it in the dusk, its strains are most consoling, before the watchman, grim and brusque his curfew bell is tolling. When curfew rings I go to bed, as do a seemly number, and, with a pillow neath my head, invite refreshing slumber. Then all the phonographs on earth proceed to make night horrid, and, lying sleepless in my berth, I hand out language torrid. I hear the awling swish and swash of jazz strains most befegging. I hear the whine of Uncle Josh, who's busy monologuing. I hear the counter-tenor speak as though his voice needs rescuing. I hear the high soprano shriek, and thus it goes, unceasing. And when the hour of midnight's struck, the racket's still proceeding; what wonder if I run amuck, and leave some victims bleeding? There is a time to dance and prunch, remarked the wise apostle, and there's a time to can the screech of every human throats.

Me and Puds Simkins was having a catch out in the street with a base ball, being agent the law if a cop sees you, and Puds threw the ball so high it went away over my head and rolled down the street and around the corner, me saying, Hay, why don't you provide a step ladder with every ball you throw? And me and him had a argument about whose fault it was, me saying I was no giraffe and Puds saying it wasn't his fault if I was sutch a short reetcher, and we settled the argument by arbitration and both wawked down after the ball and wen we got around the corner there was no ball in site and Platfoot the cop was standing there like somebody trying to look innocent, saying, Hello boys, its a nice day, izent it?

Which me and Puds had a consultation, me whispering, I bet he's got it, and Puds whispering, Sure he's got it. And he said to platfoot, You didnt see a ball come around heer enywhere, did you? A ball, sed Platfoot with a expression like somebody trying to think, saying, Let me see, was it a hard round ball feet about the size to go into somebodys parlor window pane?

We was just kind of examining it and it slipped and rolled down heer, I sed.

Well, well, you must of examined it awfull hard, sed Platfoot. Not saying whether he had saw it or not, and me and Puds started to have another consultation, me whispering, I bet a thousand dollars he's got it all rite, and Puds whispering, I bet a million he has, too.

PROSECUTION IN ARBUCKLE TRIAL RESTS ITS CASE

Hotel Rooms Where Miss Rappe Is Said to Have Been Fatally Injured Will Be Inspected Today.

(By The Associated Press.)
San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 22.—The prosecution rested its case in the manslaughter trial of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle at 2:30 p. m. today, reserving the right to examine Dr. George R. Divan of Los Angeles tomorrow and later to question experts appointed to examine the bladder of Miss Virginia Rappe, whose death brought about the trial.

The court directed an examination tomorrow by court counsel and jury of the rooms of the Hotel St. Francis in which Miss Rappe is alleged to have been fatally injured by Arbuckle.

Prof. E. O. Heinrich, criminologist, was the last prosecution witness.

Adolph O. Juel, police finger print expert, identified the right hand print and finger prints of Arbuckle and the finger prints of Miss Rappe.

Prof. O. E. Heinrich, criminologist of the University of California, was next called.

The hotel doors were introduced for identification. Finger prints on the doors showed plainly. Evidence of the witness regarding finger prints was related by the defense, but the objection was overruled.

Heinrich said he was not called to examine the doors until eleven days after the Arbuckle party. Under direct examination Heinrich testified that the finger prints were those of both a male and female.

The imprint of one female hand was surrounded by the imprint of a male hand, Heinrich testified. The prints on the door were those of Virginia Rappe and Arbuckle, according to the police comparison, he said.

Opens for Arbuckle.

After the prosecution had closed its case late today in the manslaughter trial of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle, after reserving the right to introduce further testimony tomorrow, Gavin McNab, chief counsel for the defense made the opening statement for Arbuckle.

"The state has miserably failed to prove its case," McNab said. This line of argument was ruled out by the court and he was instructed to "state what he intended to prove."

"We will prove that Arbuckle was not in the Hotel St. Francis

Miss Alice Blake Show Girl Who Testified Tuesday in the Arbuckle Case.

Arbuckle is accused of having inflicted fatal injuries on Miss Rappe, a motion picture actress, in his rooms in the hotel September 5.

George Glennon, house detective of the St. Francis, was the first witness called by the defense.

The court ruled out McNab's attempts to have the witness detail a conversation he had with Miss Rappe following her alleged injuries at Arbuckle's hands.

Before the trial the defense announced that Glennon made a statement to the district attorney that he had seen Miss Rappe in the hotel room with Arbuckle.

WITNESSES DESCRIBE PARTY IN THE HOTEL

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 22.—The details of the fatal visit in September of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, to San Francisco from Los Angeles, were related today by Alfred Semmacher, manager for Miss Rappe, in the manslaughter trial of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle.

Miss Rappe's death, following a party in the hotel St. Francis attended by Semmacher and others was made the basis of the charge against Arbuckle.

Semmacher said he brought Miss Rappe and Miss Bambianna Marie Delmont, a mutual friend, to San Francisco, in his automobile September 3, and that they attended the party together September 5.

He testified to the finding of Miss Rappe in Arbuckle's room, apparently in an intoxicated condition, after she had been alone for a time with Arbuckle.

He met Arbuckle the next day, he said, and "all said we believed Miss Rappe was intoxicated."

Semmacher refused to repeat a word he said was used by Arbuckle in relation to the attempt by guests of the party to relieve Miss Rappe. He wrote the word out for the stenographer.

Miss Rappe had torn off her clothing on various occasions, after drinking liquor, he testified, but the manner in which she tore it on such occasions was different from the manner she used after supposedly having been injured at the party.

Miss Alice Blake, show girl, was the first witness today. A statement made by her to the police was introduced. It described the party in Arbuckle's rooms in the Hotel St. Francis, in which Virginia Rappe is alleged to have received fatal injuries at Arbuckle's hands.

The statements said that Miss Blake first saw Miss Rappe nude on a bed in Arbuckle's room and suffering great pain. It continued that Miss Blake and other guests of the party assisted Miss Rappe.

The court room was crowded and there were many others in the outside corridors seeking admission.

Another statement given by Miss Blake to the district attorney was ruled out on the ground that the defense had been given no opportunity to examine it.

The next witness was Joseph Rideaux, physical culture trainer of Los Angeles, who treated Miss Rappe for being overweight. He went through the exercises he was given by Miss Rappe, Rideaux said he tested Miss Rappe's strength. She appeared healthy and was stronger than most women he had instructed.

Harry J. Boyle, assistant manager of the Hotel St. Francis, the next witness, testified to having been called to Arbuckle's room in the hotel immediately after Miss Rappe was supposed to have been injured there, and of having questioned Arbuckle.

Arbuckle started to carry Miss Rappe to another room on the same floor and became exhausted and Boyle assisted him, he testified.

STATE P. T. A.'S HOLD MEETING AND LUNCHEON

Are Guests of Local Group for Enthusiastic and Helpful Discussion After Regular Meeting.

The state parent-teachers' association through the hospitality of the North Fourth street association, was able to continue its brief morning session over the noon recess yesterday. Members of the state association were guests of the local group at lunch at the Central Avenue Methodist church.

At the sectional meeting the group heard an address by Jonathan H. Wagner on "The Great Objective of Life from the Parents' and Teachers' Viewpoint."

Reports from the several branch associations were discussed and decided upon.

Mrs. Ruth C. Miller was re-elected by acclamation as president of the state P. T. A. Other officers were elected as follows:

Mrs. E. L. Lusk of Roswell, first vice president; Mrs. William Menaul of Albuquerque, second vice president; Mrs. Katherine Sheffield of Ramah, third vice president; Mrs. C. A. Moxley of Albuquerque, recording secretary; Mrs. J. W. Reed, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. A. Woodworth of Albuquerque, treasurer; Mrs. W. A. Wilson of Roswell, auditor; and Mrs. J. W. Wilson of Albuquerque, historian.

About fifty parent teachers' association representatives attended the luncheon which was presided over by Mrs. C. M. Foraker of the North Fourth street association. The program of talks was on the subject "Ideals to Be Obtained by Parent-Teachers' Associations." This subject was discussed from several different viewpoints.

Miss Marie Balling, principal of the Old Town school, spoke of the value to the teacher of contact with parents in binding the home and school together. Mrs. William Menaul of the North Fourth street school association spoke of the community and spirit and neighborliness engendered by the association. Mrs. Maud L. Blainey, county school superintendent from Carrizozo and Miss Irene Burke, Bernalillo county superintendent, spoke of the benefits to the schools in their counties as a result of P. T. A. cooperation.

Theaters Today

"B" Theater—Repeating today the Cecil B. DeMille production "The Affairs of Anatol," with an all-star cast; also repeating the "Current Events" pictures. The De Mille picture is a wonderful screen feature and continues to draw large crowds at each show.

Lyric Theater—Patrons of this theater will have the opportunity of seeing "Nastimov" in "Camille," as the picture is being repeated today. Also repeating "Ninety Days or Life," the interesting, laughable comedy of two reels.

Pastime Theater—Repeating today Eileen Percy, the Fox studio favorite, as the leading character in "Maid of the West"; also repeating the "Mutt and Jeff" cartoons, and the "Fox News" pictures.

SLOAN'S RELIEVES NEURALGIC ACHES

DEMAND OUSTER OF GOV. REILY OF PORTO RICO

Thirty-nine of the 59 Members of the Assembly Request Harding to Take Action Immediately.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Nov. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Senator Felix Cordova-Davila, resident commissioner from Porto Rico, was instructed by a cablegram received to day from San Juan to request President Harding to remove Governor E. Mont. Reily, immediately from office. The cablegram set forth specific charges which were to be preferred with the request. It was signed by 39 of the 59 members of the Porto Rican assembly.

Senator Davila announced he would see President Harding and Secretary Weeks at the "earliest opportunity."

Declaring Governor Reily had come to the island "with deep rooted prejudices," the cablegram asserted his actions since then had indicated he lacked "judiciousness and discretion." He embarked on "a policy of aggression against Porto Ricans not personally addicted to him."

Among charges against Governor Reily enumerated in the message were:

He publicly declared himself leader of the insular republican party and the "friend of the socialist party."

He removed judicial officers without stating the cause and threatened removal of others being obliged to "confess the injustice in both cases."

Annulled the "moral power" of judges by announcing they would be removed if a decision was rendered "considered by the governor unjust."

Pardoned criminals "to please socialist leaders," and these criminals immediately committed new crimes.

"Directed or permitted" police to break up receptions organized to greet Antonio Barcelo, president of the senate and leader of the unionist party, "later promoting the police officer who broke up the demonstration."

Encouraged and rewarded all who offended the majority party.

Senator Davila denounced as "driven," the charge that Porto Ricans had been responsible for the fire on the steamship Tanamo on which Governor Reily and other officials of the island administration reached New York Sunday.

"Reily made a land tour through the island," he said, "which was a prelude to this trip to sea. It was characterized by the same bombast and exaggeration and it was on the land trip that he displayed an utter unworthiness for the office he holds and showed his gross and indecent nature by referring to the Porto Rican flag as 'that rag.'"

"The governor is looked upon as a camp follower, as incompetent, as an ingrate, as a charlatan and by reason of his indecent reference to the flag of Porto Rico as a creature whose continued presence there is an affront to our people."

ROCKY KANSAS GIVEN THE DECISION OVER JOHNNY MENDELSON

(By The Associated Press.) Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 22.—Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, light-weight, was given the newspaper decision over Johnny Mendelson, Milwaukee, in a ten-round bout.

Kansas was credited with outpointing Mendelson in several rounds while the latter held Rocky even in about five periods. Mendelson's best round was the sixth.

Earl McArthur of Iowa suffered a technical knockout by Frankie Schnitzler, Milwaukee, bantam-weight, in the fourth round. McArthur claims he did not hear the count, the crowd hooting the referee.

During the World War the Canadian expeditionary force served in France, Macedonia, Palestine and Russia.

FAST BOXING IS SEEN AT LOCAL TRAINING CAMPS

Permanent training quarters for the boxers who will take part in bouts in Albuquerque have been established at the Palace and the Ringling Brothers' billiard halls. The balcony is being used at Ringling and one of the tables has been moved at the corner of the Palace. Weights, a punching bag and other paraphernalia will soon be installed at the Palace.

Benny Chavez, who will box the main go with Sallor Gonzalez at the Armory Monday night, has established himself at the Palace billiard parlors. With him are Kid Anaya, who will share the second main go of the evening with Johnny Corona; Benny Cordova, Toby Montoya, Young Al Chavez and Ed Lewis. They will all be in action to the public each evening this week starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Sallor Gonzalez and his crew have established training quarters at Ringling Brothers' billiard parlors and operations each afternoon this week will start at 2:30 o'clock. Johnny Corona, who arrived here from Stockton, Calif., a few days ago to start training for his bout Monday night with Kid Anaya, is home at Ringling and so is Young Herrera and a few more of them.

Benny Chavez took on Benny Cordova for a couple of rounds at the Palace last night. Forget it—Benny Cordova isn't in the cards by a long shot. If you think he is, go over and watch him for a few minutes. He is carrying a bit of fat, but he's got all his former speed and plenty of punch.

Ed Lewis, the middleweight who arrived here from New York a few days ago, is about the huskiest boxer that has been seen in Albuquerque for some time. He fights at about 155 and will probably meet some one here next month. Although he has only boxed a little here for fun with boys who were used to stand up to him, he looks good. He's fast and must carry a wallop that's a bruiser.

In Johnny Corona, fans are of the opinion that Kid Anaya will have the toughest fight of his boxing career. The California boy has not yet become used to Albuquerque altitude, but he performs in a credible manner. He expects to get his wind in a couple more days. He's got speed and science and puts up a good training bout with Sallor Gonzalez. He weighs 122 to Gonzalez' 123.

Kid Anaya seems to have taken on a bit more muscle without dropping any speed. Fans are saying that the Anaya-Cordova bout will be the equal of the Chavez-Gonzalez affair. All four of the boys are about the same age, only three or four pounds being between any of them.

Sallor Gonzalez claims he can turn the trick again with Benny—But Benny claims he can't.

When Benny Chavez quits boxing, some theatrical manager will take him on. There's a future for him on the stage as a laugh getter.

Escorted ladies will not be charged admission at the armory Monday evening. Neither will they be required to pay war tax. Special sections will be reserved for them.

FISHING SMACK TANO SUNK IN COLLISION

(By The Associated Press.) San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 22.—The steamer Harvard of the Los Angeles Steamship company sank the fishing smack Tano in a collision at the entrance to the harbor early tonight and three men on the Tano were reported missing, according to advices received by the marine department of the Chamber of Commerce. Three others were reported rescued. The Harvard was on its way to Los Angeles.

France now has a standing army consisting of 40,550 officers and 840,700 men.

NAVAL EXPERTS OF 'BIG THREE' WORK SILENTLY

It Is Believed That a Plan Will Be Agreed on That Will Not Vary Widely From U. S. Proposals.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Nov. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Delegates of the naval experts of the "big three" in the arms conference remain wrapped in mystery so far as any official word of what is transpiring goes. Unofficially spokesmen in some cases give hint that reveal little but involved technical questions which only serve to confuse the layman.

In the American viewpoint there is no good reason to bring into public view all the almost incomprehensible discussions of the experts. What is in progress, it was pointed out today, is a conference of equals, of which the only product can be a unanimous agreement and there is every reason to expect such an agreement is to be reached soon that will not vary widely from the American naval proposals.

In shaping their suggestions the American delegation took into consideration many things besides the mere question of capital ship tonnage. Estimates of the whole situation of each, of its whole building program, of its financial ability and mechanical equipment to execute and building program it might desire.

The "3-5-3 ratio" of the American replacement scheme to end competitive building and all its evils and the fleet strength that would remain under the proposed immediate reduction on the eve of a ten-year complete building holiday, both are understood to reflect this summary of matters, not susceptible of mathematical treatment.

So in the American view the question understood to have been raised by the Japanese as to the state of completion of the battleship Mutsu, which Japan would be called on to scrap as a part of her abandoned program, is immaterial. If it is insisted that she should be retained, her equivalent must be retained by the United States and Great Britain. For each of those powers it would mean more than an additional ship.

The United States has three ships which this would be retained, is contented. If the proposal of Secretary Hughes to cut the knot of competitive building at the line of November 11 is to be abandoned, it is argued, all of these three might be retained by the United States for they ranged on November 10 from 83 per cent complete for the Colorado to 64 per cent complete for the West Virginia.

And the American or British equivalent for the Mutsu would be more than one ship each, if ratios of existing strength are to be followed.

It is because of these considerations that American officials appear hopeful that in the end the work of the experts will come out at practically the place the American plan did, the November 11 "zero hour" for the out.

GRADUATE NURSES FORM ASSOCIATION

The New Mexico Graduate Nurses' association was formed yesterday at a meeting of forty graduate nurses at the Presbyterian hospital. Several cities of the state were represented at the meeting.

Miss Teresa McMenamin was elected president of the association. Other officers are Mrs. Blanche A. Montgomery, first vice president; Miss Catherine Taylor, second vice president; Miss Bertha C. Rowe, secretary, and Sister Frances Dechantel.

The first annual meeting will be held next spring at St. Joseph sanatorium during the meeting of the state health officers and the public health nurses.

BOMB BLAST IN BELFAST KILLS 3, INJURIES 18

(By The Associated Press.) Belfast, Nov. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Two bombs were exploded in a tram car full of shop yard workers here this afternoon, killing three of the occupants and injuring eighteen others. At least six other persons were shot to death today in rioting that attended the first day's actual functioning of the new Ulster government created by the home rule act of last spring.

With the cessation of work at the big shipyards and warehouses this afternoon, firing became fierce in the Ballinacaret district. Police and military were rushed to the scene. The bombs were thrown from a crowd of men. The car was packed. Confusion followed. The men who threw the missile fled, and the uninjured workmen on the car ran away, panic stricken. Finally when the confusion had ceased somewhat the injured and dead were taken from the debris. Tramway service was suspended in the district around the York street tram mils.

There was shooting during the day near the labor exchange, where a clerk was killed and another man so badly wounded that he died later. The remainder of the staff of the exchange fled in panic.

NON-PARTISANS HIT THE SKIDS IN N. D. TODAY

Court Refuses to Prohibit Canvass of the Ballots; Recalled Officials Must Step Out of Office.

(By The Associated Press.) Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 22.—The North Dakota supreme court today denied the application of taxpayers for a writ prohibiting the canvassing board from canvassing the vote cast at the recall election, October 28. Inauguration of R. A. Nestos, Sylvan Johnson and John A. Kitchen, elected governor, attorney general and commissioner of agriculture and labor, respectively, will take place tomorrow.

The last full day of the administration of Governor Lynn J. Frazier, Attorney General William M. Lemke, and J. N. Haden, commissioner of agriculture and labor, the recalled officials, was accompanied by excitement not unlike a legislative session.

After hearing argument on the taxpayers' petition, in the suit of taxpayers to break the present bond sale contract, the supreme court refused to deliberate on the recall nullification.

It was announced that the "majority of the court had denied the application" without a comment. Justices Robinson and later all five justices were against granting the injunction. He also asserted affidavits of alleged wholesale fraud in obtaining signatures to the recall petitions were not considered true.

The industrial commission, composed of the three recalled officials, who relinquish office tomorrow, today signed it was announced, a contract with Spitzer, Rorick and company of Toledo, Ohio, for sale of all the remaining authorized state bond issues. This contract, it was stated, replaced the present contract which has resulted in a law suit in the supreme court, and provides that all bonds not yet issued be sold at par.

England has organized a museum in which will be displayed models of famous and historic aircraft.

MRS. HILL IS DEAD. St. Paul, Nov. 22.—Mrs. James Hill, widow of the late James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, died at her home here this morning, following a long illness.

TUBERCULOSIS

Can it be cured? Dr. T. F. Glas has positive proof that it can. His remedy is used at home in any climate, with no return of the disease.

His files, with letters being daily received from hundreds of people who now use and who have used the remedy, are open to investigation. His records show that nine out of ten users of this remedy who are faithful with it have recovered or are recovering. It is strictly a home remedy.

The following excerpt is from just one of many letters being received daily.

"Humansville, Mo., Nov. 7, 1921.

Dr. T. Glas: I will write you a few lines today, as I am sending you money order for two months more of your medicine. I am feeling better at this writing than I have for some time. I have tried several doctors but have gotten more results from you than all the other medicine I have taken."

Our Conception of Service

A corporation that grows up with a community owes the latter a distinct measure of service in return for the patronage that it receives. It is the aim of this company to render the highest possible calibre of service to each of the six states in which it operates.

This service, we feel, should be and is absolutely impartial, with favoritism toward none and courteous, above-board methods of fair dealing for all.

Experience has shown time and again that the mere size of a concern is no insurance against failure. Large and small organizations alike are affected by the stern law of supply and demand; there are no exceptions. The status of any company depends in the long run upon the value of its products to the community and the attitude of the public toward the company.

The deciding factor in the success of any corporation catering to a restricted territory is public opinion. And public opinion, this company realizes, is moulded largely by service. The Continental Oil Company—and we believe all persons who think for themselves—attributes its success to the high standard of quality of all its products and their indispensable value to every community.

The directors of this company are always striving to improve, if possible, the measure of Continental service. They have co-operated liberally in making possible many projects of local and interstate importance. By installing Conoco Service Stations wherever the demand for them exists, the company has endeavored to make motoring increasingly convenient and pleasant.

Thousands buy their supplies of Conoco Gasoline and Polarine with Conoco Coupon Books. Are you one of them?

FRANCES E. WILLARD SCHOOL FOR GIRLS WILL SEEK BIGGER CITY; MAY BE PLACED HERE

Santa Fe Has Bid for Location of Institution Offering Ground and Bonus; School Designed to Aid Girls in Poor Financial Circumstances But of Good Character.

The directors of the Frances E. Willard school for girls of the state Woman's Christian Temperance union have voted to locate the school in the larger cities of the state. This was decided at a special meeting of the board of directors held Saturday evening at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Thomas Harwood.

In an interview, Mrs. N. J. Strumquist, chairman of the board, said:

"The school had a most successful year, operating in a small way in a rented building last year, and the directors had expected to erect a large mission style building on the 20-acre farm donated for the purpose by the community. When the building was constructed there was also a gift of five thousand dollars from the citizens as an endowment of the building.

The experience of many who were planning to build last year was the experience of the F. E. W. school board—bids ran too high and the plans drawn by architect E. B. Christy were set aside for a time till prices declined. When the school board was again considering the construction of a building, there came to Mrs. Byrd, a member of the board, whose home is in Santa Fe, the notice of an opportunity to secure a splendid building ready to house 75 students at a remarkably low price. This was the Staab residence in Santa Fe. Before negotiations for the property could be made into, the place was sold.

Then came from several sources the plea to purchase a building ready to move into and defer the construction of the mission style school for a year or two. When the state constitution was adopted, the school was to be located in Santa Fe. The attorney general of the state was consulted, and his opinion certified that it is the right of the directors, or corporation, incorporated to operate schools and industries anywhere in New Mexico, to establish the school in any community at this time and to establish branches where desired.

"The Santa Fe Chamber of Commerce then offered a bonus of $5,000 and a building site to the school board if Santa Fe were selected for the permanent site of the school. Over 100 citizens were made and a number of organizations pledged support for the school that promises to develop into an institution that will be an asset to any community. The Santa Fe Chamber of Commerce has offered a scholarship to the student who is best at keeping a model four-roomed home as a 'home' in best condition with best cooked food for a certain period of time.

"The offer has been accepted by the board and the communities were spoken of as certain to be received, and without any thought other than doing what seems in every way best for the school. The board of directors decided to consider their propositions when presented, and in order to do so, voted to return the land at Santa Fe to donors because that was given conditioned on the construction of a school building, and to be ready to receive the propositions of other communities."

The school is designed to educate girls who are poorly situated, but girls of good moral character. Domestic science, especially cooking, will be stressed in the training, and the Spanish language work and drawn work will be taught and the products marketed in Washington D. C. and other eastern cities through the W. C. T. U.

Besides the initial endowment of the school by the national W. C. T. U., they have come contributions from seven other sources—W. C. T. U. organizations and local chapters—and from many women's clubs and all chapters of the W. C. T. U. in New Mexico and representatives of every church denomination in the state. SUBS NECESSARY FOR DEFENSE, IS ITALY'S CLAIM

Washington, Nov. 22 (by the Associated Press).—Submarines are necessary for the defense of Italy, it was stated today by an Italian delegate.

Italy's exposed coast line, he said, necessitated reliance to some extent on the submarine as a defensive weapon. It also was asserted her financial situation made it difficult to build expensive capital ships.

The delegates will not at this stage undertake to fix any figure for the tonnage of naval strength to be assigned to Italy by the conference.

Members held that she must have a navy equal to that of any other Mediterranean power, not classing Great Britain as such.

WORK BEGINS ON CHOOSING JURY IN BURCH CASE

Seven Women and One Man Are Passed Temporarily to Try Alleged Slayer of J. Belton Kennedy.

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 22.—Seven women and one man were passed temporarily today as jurors in the trial of Arthur C. Burch, indicted jointly with Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain for the alleged murder of J. Belton Kennedy. Another woman was under examination as a prospective juror when court adjourned for the day and two other women and one man were in the box awaiting questioning.

Judge Sidney M. Reeve sustained the defense's challenge for cause of Mrs. Martha J. Clark, who stated she had a pre-conceived opinion about the case which would require evidence to dispel. The exclusion of three women and a man who announced they had scruples against capital punishment, constituted the remainder of the day's work with respect to the jury drawing.

Coach Moore's pupils have practiced every morning and afternoon this week in preparation for the Turkey day contest. As strong a lineup as has ever represented Albuquerque high on the gridiron this year will face the Gate City players. This game will be one of the most closely contested of the season and will be the last chance of each team to fight for their school on the gridiron this year. Both teams are doing their very best to make their final game a grand success.

The El Paso schedule has been much the same as that of Albuquerque in that it has been full of disappointment. Last week El Paso and Las Cruces played through a tight game to a 9-9 tie. However, the Texas city boasts a stronger team and expect to give the Duke City team the stiffest tussel on their card. This game will be the connecting link between Albuquerque and many other schools and will be a direct comparison with Las Cruces high school.

A large majority of the team will stop off at Las Cruces to attend the Y. M. C. A. conference being held there on their return to Albuquerque. The rest of the squad will return home the last of the week.

The lineup that will very probably go up against El Paso Thursday is: Foraker, L. E.; Wilson, L. T.; Marron, L. G.; Dinelli, R. G.; Coen, R. T.; Holcomb, R. E.; Long, G. B.; Glassman, L. H. B.; Hammond, F. B.; Roybal, R. H. B.

SPEAKERS POINT OUT PROBLEMS IN EDUCATION WORK

Blair and Wilson Speak Again to Large Audience; Bickley and Conway Start Actual Subscriptions.

The second general session of the Teachers' convention assembled at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the armory, to listen to addresses by Dr. Wilson, and Mr. Blair, and to attend to business matters.

The meeting opened with two vocal solos by Ada Pierce Winn, whose magnificent voice was well suited to her songs. She sang "Maid of Cadiz," by Delibes, and Lohr's "Where My Caravan Has Rested."

The other musical number was a duet by Messrs. Luiken and Calkins, of the state university.

Mr. H. B. Wilson spoke on "Checking Ourselves Up." His talk was a comparison of the methods of efficient business with the methods of education. He insisted that the old, time-worn and inefficient methods used in teaching must go, just as the faulty, careless methods of business are not tolerated.

"We must bring our schools up to twentieth century standards, use twentieth century methods, and help to solve twentieth century problems," he stated. "In modern business the practice is to weed out that which is obsolete, and add that which is progressive. Modern business does not trouble with worn out methods, when they have better ones at their command."

Mr. Blair, of Illinois, discussed "From Chance to Certainty in Education."

He brought out the necessity of eliminating all kinds of chances from the art of teaching. He grouped the method of insuring this under four heads:

"First," he said, "was the movement which brought about the taxation of all property and all people for the support of common schools. This eliminated the element of chance which had formerly confined education to the wealthy few.

"The second step was the most automatic step ever taken by a democracy, the compelling of children to attend schools. The compulsory school laws did away with the chance of parents keeping their children out of school through prejudice or for other reasons. It made it certain that every child would attend school.

"The third step was the improvement of the course of study, to the extent that every child was certain of getting something out of school which would fit him or her for life. The old method followed closely the classical lines and made education a luxury. Now courses have been so broadened that they include many useful as well as cultured subjects.

"The fourth step is the one we are now taking. It is the improvement of our teachers and the raising of standards in the teaching profession. It insures the child that its teachers will be well fitted for their task, and he need have no fear of their incompetency. As yet this phase is a gamble."

President Bickley made a stirring extemporaneous appeal for immediate action on the matter of securing a paid-secretary. John V. Conway, state superintendent, carried on the idea, and after an eloquent harangue, he turned to the secretary and pledged twenty-five dollars toward the fund for paying the secretary. Teachers went up and down the aisle, collecting pledges, and a generally good response was made. For about five or ten minutes, the subscriptions poured in. President Bickley assured the teachers that in the event of there being enough money in the treasury to pay the secretary, the pledges would be cancelled.

Last night, a concert, followed by a dance was held in the armory. The soloists were Miss Grace Storz, soprano; David Marcus, violinist; George Geake, tenor, and Charles McKean, baritone. The accompanist was Miss Norma Williams. Miss Storz sang "The Dainty Little Damsel," by Novello. The closing number was a trio, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," with a violin obligato by Mr. Marcus.

The armory was decorated with rows of Japanese lanterns, strung with electric lights and an excellent jazz orchestra furnished the music for dancing. The dance was well attended.

Do as millions have done—make this ten-day test. See how film removal beautifies the teeth. Learn how it makes safer teeth. Brush your teeth in the modern way and watch all the good effects.

Film makes teeth dingy

That viscous film you feel is the teeth's chief enemy. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Old brushing methods did not effectively combat it. So very few people have escaped discoloration and decay.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Two ways to fight it

Dental science has now found two effective ways to fight film. They are combined in the new-day tooth paste—Pepsodent—made to meet modern requirements.

Each use of Pepsodent brings five effects which dentists now desire. It attacks the film. It keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

It increases the salivary flow, which is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That to digest the starch deposits which otherwise may form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Thus Pepsodent is bringing to millions whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. Leading dentists everywhere are now urging its adoption.

Results are delightful

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

All the effects are delightful. All are now considered essential. See and feel them for awhile. Read the reasons for them in the book we send. Then decide for you and yours between the old ways and the new. Cut out the coupon now.

BEAUTY IS HARMONY

There can be no harmony, and therefore no beauty in a home in which the wife and mother is cross and irritable and dull-spirited. Often as not, disease is at the bottom of such a condition.

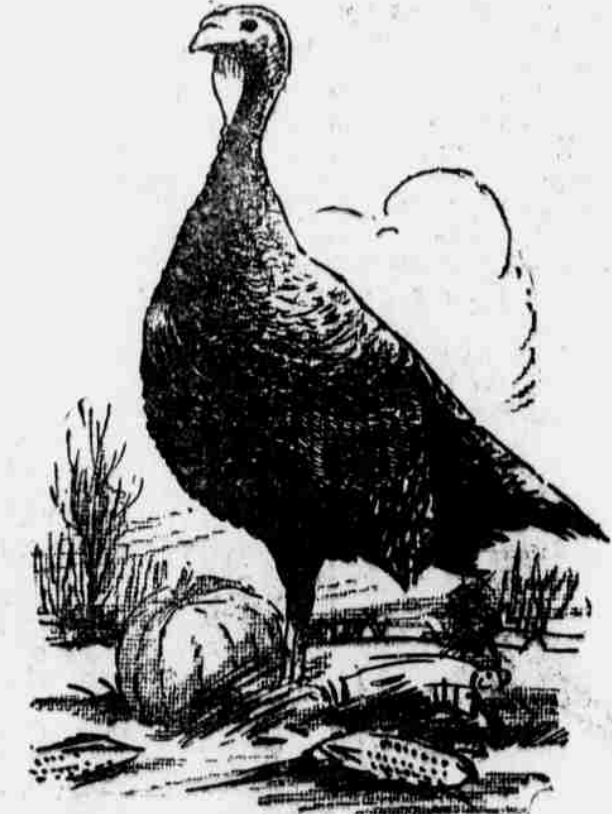

Let the woman who is always tired and who suffers from low spirits and mysterious aches and pains, only try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She will then see that the beauty and harmony will be restored to her home with the return of her health and good spirits.

AIRPLANE MAY SMASH ROUND THE WORLD RECORD

From London to Bagdad in Six Days Suggests Possible Lowering of Time for Journey Made Classic by Jules Verne

By TORREY FORD.

THE world has two great passions. One is seeing records made and the other is seeing them broken. From pie-eating contests to parachute jumping, the world loves anything that has a flavor of sport.

When Jules Verne conceived his purely fictional venture, "Around the World in Eighty Days," he established what he considered an international record. Others might vie with the figures, but the accomplishment of Phileas Fogg was calculated to stand firmly throughout the ages.

But M. Verne reckoned without the contrivance of Man or the spirit of his sportsmanship. Merely seeing a record hung on the wall is not enough for most persons. Immediately it has to be broken. And by today Phileas Fogg's record has been broken so many times that only a few persons remember "80 days" as anything more than an abbreviated jail sentence.

Back in 1889 Nellie Bly started the opposition by clipping 7 days, 17 hours, 45 minutes and 46 seconds off the record of the redoubtable Phileas. Others kept plugging at the mark until 1913, when John Henry Mears set up a new figure of 35 days, 21 hours, 35 minutes and four-fifths of a second for his round the world excursion.

Record of 1913 Unchallenged As War Prevented Interest

This record has stood unchallenged since 1913. World touring as a sport was abandoned during the conflict at arms. After the filing of the peace treaties world touring continued to lag behind in the renaissance of other sports. Conditions in Russia and the Soviet schedule of running trains on the Siberian railway probably have had much to do with the lack of enthusiasm among the sporting globe trotters.

Last spring three Brooklynites set out to row themselves around the world in an open boat, but this was not regarded as a serious attempt to lower the time record for the complete circuit.

Recent reports from England indicate that the Siberian hazard may be eliminated, that a hitherto scorned route may come into favor with those who would take off a few more days—not to mention a few more hours, minutes and seconds—from the almost obliterated record of Phileas Fogg.

A British officer of the Royal Air Force, proceeding home from Mesopotamia in the ordinary course of duty, traveled from Bagdad to London in six days. He used two days in flying from Mesopotamia to Egypt over a route which has been opened by the Royal Air Force for the carriage of official mails. The rest of the journey to England he made by sea and rail.

Regular Air Service Used To Carry Official Letters

The flight was arranged to make a quick connection with the steamship Vienna, sailing from the Alexandria dock. Within forty minutes of the officer's arrival at Aboukir he was on board the Vienna, sailing out of the harbor. He arrived in London at 8 o'clock on the evening of September 21, 6 days and 14 hours after leaving Bagdad.

The ordinary passage from Bagdad to London has previously taken from sixteen days to three weeks.

The air route linking Palestine with Mesopotamia was surveyed and organized by the Royal Air Force in June of this year. A regular fortnightly service by air for the carriage of official correspondence was started on August 1.

Several more links in the chain will have to be established before a speedy around the world trip can be made via the Orient. Bagdad is hardly at the back door of Yokohama, but it is on the way. With Bagdad only six days from London, it seems entirely conceivable that the rest of the trip to Yokohama can be crowded into a week. The best time that has been made between London and Yokohama is fifteen days.

Mears, the record holder, took sixteen days for that part of his journey.

So in spite of the rampant Reds in Russia and the deunct Siberian transportation system it doesn't appear necessary to call on indefinite halt in the race to beat the old records. With the aid promised by modern aviation in all parts of the world it should be a comparatively simple matter to make the thirty-five days of John Henry Mears appear a ridiculously high figure.

Mears used the airplane only once during his record breaking trip. He made a fifteen mile flight in a hydroplane over Puget Sound to Seattle from a yacht off Victoria. After completing his trip he said that he thought in order to break his record it would be necessary to resort to the use of an airplane from Fishguard to London and from Dover to Moscow.

Mears, serving as a special correspondent of THE NEW YORK SUN, left New York July 2, 1913, at 12:45 P. M. He sailed on the Mauretania, carrying with him a light suitcase, a camera and a light overcoat. He arrived back in New York on August 6 at 10:20 P. M.

Average of 24½ Miles Hourly For Round the World Trip

He had made the world trip of 21,066 miles in the official time of 35 days 21 hours 35 minutes and four-fifths seconds. He had travelled at an average speed of 537 miles a day, or 24½ miles an hour.

His itinerary follows:

Left New York	July 2
Berlin	July 9
Petrograd	July 12
Harbin	July 21
Yokohama	July 24
Victoria	August 2
St. Paul	August 5
Chicago	August 6
Arrived New York	August 6

During the entire trip Mr. Mears slept in a hotel only once, and that was only for a two-hour snooze in London. He had plenty of time for sightseeing and recommended the schedule for other tourists. Except for a washout in Siberia that delayed his train some eighteen hours and a close call at Seattle, where the train was held fifteen minutes for him, he had no cause for rush or worry.

John Henry Mears, holder of the record for around the world journey, arriving in New York city after his memorable trip.

The most perilous part of his trip came at the very end of his journey, when he made an eight minute taxi cab ride from the Grand Central Terminal down to THE SUN office, on Park Row.

The financial accounting of the trip was even more astounding than the time schedule. The entire cost was less than $800, including tips (described as "liberal") distributed along the way and the money paid as a straight bribe to a pirate crew on an engine of the Siberian railway.

Mears bettered the old record of Andre Jaeger-Schmidt by 3 days 22 hours 37 seconds.

Andre Jaeger-Schmidt, a correspondent of the Paris Excelsior, made his record-breaking trip in 1911. He traveled 19,390 miles in 39 days 19 hours 42 minutes 57 4/5 seconds. He averaged 480 miles a day, or twenty miles an hour. Except for a few minor changes his route was much the same as followed by Mears.

Jaeger-Schmidt's record reads:

Left Paris	July 17
Moscow	July 20
Omsk	July 22
Irkutsk	July 25
Harbin	July 28
Vladivostok	July 29
Yokohama	July 31
Vancouver	August 12
Montreal	August 18
New York	August 19
Arrived Paris	August 26

The trip cost $1,426. Of this amount only $596 was spent for railroad fare and transportation, while $800 went in tips and gratuities.

Comparison of the Trips Shows Few Minor Differences

Comparing the two records, it may be seen that Jaeger-Schmidt required only fourteen days from Paris to Yokohama, while Mears took fifteen days between Berlin and Yokohama. On the other hand, the French correspondent caught a slower boat across the Pacific and used up a full week in the trip from Vancouver to New York.

Mears came across country in four days. These discrepancies may partly be accounted for by luck and partly by the varying equipment for travel of the two men.

Jaeger-Schmidt spoke three or four languages, while Mears spoke only English. This may have accelerated the former's speed through foreign countries, but when Mears landed back in America he fell into a groove that shot him toward Park Row without any unnecessary delays.

Before Jaeger-Schmidt, Colonel Burnley Campbell had held the record for four years. In 1907 Colonel Campbell made a complete circuit of the globe and reduced the time to 40 days 19 hours 30 minutes.

The first record-breaker to make use of the Trans Siberian Railway was Henry Frederick. He made the circuit in 1903 in 54 days 7 hours 29 minutes, thereby lowering the record at that time by nearly six days.

Before the Siberian railway was in service Charles Fitzmorris of Chicago held the record for only two years. He was one of the contestants in the schoolboy race in 1901, exploited by the Hearst papers. Boys were started both East and West from the Chicago Examiner office and the progress of their journeys was recorded in the newspapers.

Charles Fitzmorris came under the wire first in the elapsed time of 60 days 13 hours 29 minutes 42 2/5 seconds. His schedule ran:

Left Chicago	May 26
New York	May 27
Berlin	May 30
Moscow	June 1
Irkutsk	June 10
Sryetensk	June 13
Blagoveshensk	June 21
Vladivostok	June 27
Yokohama	July 5
Victoria	July 16
Arrived Chicago	July 26

Fitzmorris experienced most of his difficulty in the land of the busy consonant. After using up ten days between Moscow and Irkutsk he took another seventeen days to reach the Manchurian seaport and eight more days to get booked for an American passage.

Looking over the record, the Chicago schoolboy seems to be the only world tourist who passed through Blagoveshensk and had the nerve to write home about it. Unbiased judges are of the opinion that this should deduct at least ten days from his record.

George Francis Train's Trip Cut Time of Nellie Bly

No other record-breaking tours are registered until back in 1890, when George Francis Train made the trip in 67 days 12 hours 3 minutes. A few months previous Nellie Bly had accomplished the journey in 72 days 6 hours 11 minutes 14 seconds.

She left New York on November 14, 1889, and completed the circuit January 25, 1890.

And that takes the story back to Phileas Fogg, the man who started the argument and defied the world.

Daniel B. Bidwell is the only tourist to claim the championship by the westward route. In 1911 he made the trip in 47 days 22 hours, via Montreal, Vancouver, Yokohama, Vladivostok, Moscow, Dover and back to New York.

Besides these followers of the demon Speed, there are many others whose one claim to fame is a successful journey around the world using some freak method of transportation. Only last winter a Dutch painter passed through New York, painting his way around the world.

He was two years out from port and still had three more years in which to finish his stint and earn a large prize. He was handicapped by certain restrictions, which required that he could pay his way only by money gained from selling his canvases.

On July 23, 1911, a bicyclist named Pankratov started on a trip around the world from Harbin, Manchuria. He finished the trip on August 10, 1913, having ridden around the world in 2 years and 18 days.

The number of professional and amateur vagabonds who have worked their way around the world would probably reach an astounding total. The amateurs are by far the more interesting brand of the species. Generally they are college students, who are given to making hasty wagers. Sitting around with a group of fellows some quiet evening, when there isn't much to talk about, one of them breaks out with:

"Well, I guess I'll start around the world to-morrow."

Modern Contestants Often Stop at Hoboken, N. J.

He takes all wagers and resigns from college the next morning. If he passes Hell Gate on the fly, he is good for the entire circuit. More often he comes to his senses before reaching Hoboken and all bets are off.

The Giants and White Sox once staged an around the world barnstorming tour that broke several records that had formerly been regarded as sacred. About the same time the automobile industry staged a world race that gave the newspapers a running story for several weeks. As we remember the latter event, it developed chiefly into a snow-shovelling party through Siberia.

The aviation industry has yet to announce the details of its first "As the Crow Flies Contest." But this is the race that will ultimately bring down the figures, let the days fall where they may.

Meanwhile there is the chance for any enterprising citizen to locate Bagdad on the map and start for Yokohama, using Mesopotamia as a pivot. It might work and it might not. At least the venture would provide thrilling details for a world that never tires of holding the stop-watch.

Pathetic Pen Pictures of Life in Vienna

Special Correspondence.
By STEFFA GAYDUSCHEK.

VIENNA, Saturday.
WHERE black chimney pots of factories gaze into a black sky and dirty muddy streets are enveloped in a dark veil there stands a block. Children are playing in front of it. They are jumping about in the mud and enjoying themselves on the rubbish heap.

Before the house sits an old blind man. Among the noisy, playing children is also his grandchild. She was two years old, this pale faced little Viennese girl, when tuberculosis took away her mother; her father she has never known.

Now she is older in knowledge and misery, but still young in years. Never in her life has any one stroked the pale girl, combed her hair, entangled hair, or understood how to look into the love hungry little heart.

At the midday hour she stands, where ladies, wrapped in precious furs and rustling silk, promenade and glance down with scorn when her rags touch by chance their fine dresses.

From 11 till 2 o'clock every day she runs up and down the "Kärntnerstrasse" calling out with thin, clear voice "Midday newspapers." One day she is no longer at her place and a dirty limping boy, her comrade, relates: "Yesterday, when the great storm raged, a gust of wind tore the newspapers out of poor little Anne's hand. As she chased after the papers and caught a part of them, she ran straight into a motorcar and all was over!"

They carried her into a house but the doctor of the ambulance said: "There is no more help for her!"

The place of the runaway child is taken up by another girl—with unnatural red cheeks and big, hungry looking eyes.

In the newspapers which she sells there is a paragraph which says: "The day before yesterday, about 12 o'clock, a little seller of the Midday Post was run over by a motorcar and killed."

"Midday's newspapers" it sounds with a low, whining voice through the lines of the newspaper.

Far away, on the border of the large city, in a dark house, a poor, weakly young woman gave birth to a child.

Nearly breaking down in pain and weakness a poor workman's wife had found her lying on the cold, stony steps of a dark doorway and taken her to her lodgings.

She pined this miserable creature! She knew the feeling of a mother's heart! She had herself four undernourished little worms, which were sitting with big astonished eyes in the cold, dark kitchen, when mother brought in the groaning woman and had laid her, with the help of a neighbor, in her bed.

Little Charley ran for the midwife and late in the night a little baby boy entered the gray, ugly world.

The pale cheeks of the young mother became one shade paler.

Once more she opened the eyes and threw a last look at her helpless baby, and then closed them forever!

Desperate the two women stood at the deathbed.

The poor orphaned baby touched with his tiny pink hands the blue, cold face of the mother and began to cry.

Later on the midwife took her big, black bag, wrapped the baby in her gray cloak and took it with her.

Where the child's mother had come from, or her name, nobody knew, and the midwife called the little one "Franz".

Little "Franz" lived on sugar water and very watery condensed milk which a good-hearted neighbor gave him.

But the midwife could not provide for the baby. So she put an advertisement in the newspaper: "Little boy, born on 29th of December, is to be given away. Information at Mrs. Sor, Vienna, XII district, X street."

Poor little boy! Nowadays horses, oxen, poultry, food, antiques and jewels are sold at the highest prices.

Little "Franz," you have not even the value of an Austrian crown in Zurich! Not even 0.52 centime!

This sad story happened, according to an advertisement in a Viennese newspaper of January 14, 1921.

A man was to be given away!

In the "Kärntnerstrasse" a film is to be taken up by a film company. "From mouth to mouth the news spreads."

It is summer! Summer it is on the rosy faces in the shop windows and in the hearts of the flirting, laughing, well nourished idlers. And the gay and varied colors of the newest summer fashions, the glittering, pretty stones in the ears and on the necks of the elegant ladies are sparkling in the warm, golden sun.

In a scarlet red motor car, which flies the Stars and Stripes, stand two figures in uniform, and one of them turns the wheel of the apparatus. The film is to be called "Viennese Life," and is intended to show to rich, strange countries the glaring contrast between luxury and misery that exists in post-war Vienna.

The promenade stops. Everybody stands and stares. The ladies smile and wave their fine little gloved hands. All are laughing. The streets, the people, the shop windows . . . all Vienna's most fashionable quarter. In the outskirts of the town, in the streets of misery, where only very seldom a friendly sunbeam shines, one sunless morning the scarlet motor car drives up.

There is to be found the real Viennese misery and dreadful distress!

All those men in dingy, torn clothes and gaping boots, with gnawing hunger and wasting illness tormenting their thin bodies; all those women, with their staring sad eyes; all those faded, little plants out of the marshy ground of the large city, with their bent, thin, fleshless limbs, their big, unnatural stomachs and sad, questioning, complaining look . . . they can tell of the terrible cold, of the awful darkness, of the long prowls in the streets and in the tormented hearts, of hunger, of the daily deaths, of the ravages caused by tuberculosis. They can tell of the struggle for the poor, bare life of hunger!

Rags are there the newest fashions. Luxury is a sack of wet wool which father has carried from the Viennese forest, or a piece of horse flesh!

Bitter misery, hunger, illness, hatred against destiny are to be found outside of the first noble district.

"Pictures of misery and luxury of a dying town" the film should be called!

The film company has the contrast it requires ready to hand!

SECOND MEETING OF SECTIONS IS HELD TUESDAY

Subjects Pertaining to the Welfare of Education Are Discussed and New Officers Are Elected.

The following sections of the educational convention met yesterday morning at the high school, and the members discussed various phases of pedagogical matters. The members of the city superintendent's section met in room 302 and were addressed by F. G. Blair, whose speeches are a popular feature of the convention. Superintendent Pope, of Roswell, spoke on methods of encouraging the progress of the P. T. A. Dean Caroon, of Las Vegas, discussed at length, "The Use of Intelligence and Achievement Tests in the Elementary Schools." The discussion was continued by G. B. Jones, of Las Cruces.

The election of officers took place as follows: E. L. Enloe, representative in the educational council; Superintendent Martin, of Deming, president; Professor J. F. Bentley, Albuquerque, vice chairman; Miss Lelia Manville, Silver City, secretary.

The history section, presided over by J. H. Vaughan, listened to papers and discussions by Miss Julia McCoy, Clark Purcell, Dr. Coun, Lansing Bloom, and others. Mr. Bloom's talk was "West of the Cultural Area," which was prepared by him for the School of American Research.

The following officers were elected: Clark E. Percinger, chairman; Professor J. F. Bentley, secretary; Lansing Bloom, Santa Fe, member of the council. The elementary section was addressed by Mr. Blair, of Springfield. His talk won hearty applause, and was listened to by several hundred teachers. Miss Valynn Gabley, of the Albuquerque schools, spoke on "Arithmetic Drills in the Fourth and Fifth Grades."

The business meeting resulted in the election of the following officers for the 1922 session: Miss Mary Oliver, of Silver City, president; and Miss Helen Callins, secretary. The morning session concluded the sessions of the elementary section.

The first session of the county superintendent's section met yesterday morning, and was addressed by Mrs. Urna M. Steed on "The Value of Consolidation." C. C. Hill, on the plans for the coming year, and Clark Purcell, on the amendments. Discussions were led by Miss Ogden, Miss Hennigan and Mrs. A. T. Thomas.

The section will meet tomorrow for election of officers, and to listen to a talk by Superintendent Conway.

The Indian school section held its session in the library building against Reuben Perry, of the Indian school here, spoke on the teacher's attitude toward his work. Miss Wyland, of Pogue school; Fred W. Canfield and Leo Crane made very interesting and instructive talks. They were enthusiastically applauded.

The officers for next year are: Reuben Perry, president; Mrs. Mary Johnson, chairman; S. E. Beahm, vice chairman; H. H. Kramer, secretary.

The industrial section, which was to have met at the Central Avenue Methodist church, did not assemble, due to misunderstanding of directions. The occurrence was a disappointment to many, who were deeply interested in the section. The New Mexico Association for Science met in the chemistry building of the state university yesterday morning, and the following officers were elected for next year: Dr. John D. Clark, of the state university, was re-elected president; Robert Ellis, professor of geology in the university, was re-elected secretary; K. M. Chapman, of Santa Fe, was named vice president, and A. E. Wells was elected treasurer. Dr. Clark addressed the assembly on "American Chemistry, and the Safety of America." Professor Robbins, of the agricultural college, spoke on "The Knowledge of Man's Worth." Dean Frank Caroon, of Las Vegas, took as his subject "The Intelligence of High School Students."

The Spanish section in its meeting yesterday morning, ruled that all meetings would thereafter be conducted in Spanish. There was an order of program yesterday, and merely a round table discussion was held, under Mr. Baca as chairman. The officers chosen for next year were: J. C. Espinosa, president; Miss Helen Callins, secretary; council members are: Felipe Quintana, one year; J. C. Espinosa, two years, and Mr. Alvarez, three years. The high school principals' section met for its first session yesterday morning, and was presided over by J. H. Tanner. Dr. D. S. Hill spoke of the relation of the secondary school to the university. Mr. Jones, of Roswell, spoke on the various methods of making the teacher happier in her work. "The High School Library" was the title of a talk by Miss Wilma Shelton. Mrs. E. M. L. Bar spoke on the "High School Assembly."

The section will hold its business meeting today.

WINSLOW INDIANS TO PLAY LOCAL SCHOOL TEAM HERE THURSDAY

A Thanksgiving day football game has been scheduled to be played here between the local Indian school and a team of Indians from Winslow, Ariz. The game will be played on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at Washington Park.

The Winslow team is made up of shop men who are old Carlisle and Haskell football heroes. It is expected that they will put up a good fight. The Albuquerque Indian team is said to be in a bad shape with a number of bruised and injured players as a result of the recent high school game here.

LEAGUE OF THE SOUTHWEST WILL MEET ON DEC. 8

Over Three Thousand Organizations Will Be Represented at Conference to Be Held at Riverside.

(By The Associated Press.) Riverside, Calif., Nov. 22.—One of the most momentous Colorado River conferences ever held, international in its scope, will open here December 3 for a three day session under auspices of the League of the Southwest. Over three thousand organizations in Arizona, California, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, Oklahoma and Texas will be represented and governors of all the above states have promised to attend, according to Arnold Kruckmen, secretary of the league.

Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, has provisionally accepted an invitation to participate, and O. C. Merrill, of the federal power commission, will speak. Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior, and Arthur P. Davis, secretary of the reclamation service have signified their intention to attend.

Canada will be represented by Sir Adam Beck of the Hydro-Electric Corporation of Ontario. Canada, the public power development on Niagara Falls which furnishes light and power to almost three hundred communities. President Obregon of Mexico has been invited to send representatives, and the governor of Sonora and Lower California, Mexican states, have been invited.

The Water Power League of America will be represented by its secretary, Frederick L. Long, of New York. The power industry will be represented by Samuel Insull, president of the Commonwealth Edison and Peoples Gas company of Chicago.

The American Mining congress has organized a delegation composed of W. J. Loring, San Francisco; Bulkeley Wells, Denver; R. S. Billings, Kingman, Ariz.; George Dorn, Salt Lake City, and Governor Emmet D. Doyle, Reno, Nev. The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce will send a delegation representing the Mississippi valley, and the Chicago Chamber of Commerce will send a delegation from the Great Lakes region. Other organizations of prominence to send delegates include the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the National Agricultural society, the Farm Bureau Federation, the Farmers Educational and Cooperative union, the Farmers

National congress, the National Board of Farm Organizations, the National Civic Federation, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the National Economic League, the National Electric Light Association, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the United Engineering society, the National Association of Manufacturers, the General Federation of Women's clubs, the Mining and Metallurgical society, the American Institute of Mining Engineers and other organizations.

CONVENTION NOTES.

More interest seems to be evidenced in the location of the next convention than in the results of the voting on candidates and amendments.

John Milne received a letter yesterday from E. W. Bowyer, who was elected president of the association last year but who resigned when he moved from the state, expressing his best wishes and congratulations to the convention. It was he whom Mr. Bickley succeeds. The forest service, the biological survey and County Agricultural Agent Reynolds have placed on exhibition in the armory some very interesting specimens and artistic charts. The various types of predatory animals are exhibited, and one little animal of interest is a kangaroo rat, captured near the Sandias mountains.

The dance at the armory last night was attended by a huge crowd. The favors consisted of paper streamers, confetti and other fun-makers. Beside the dancers there were scores of on-lookers.

AMERICANS CAPTURED BY MEXICAN BANDITS

Washington, Nov. 22.—Four Americans were captured late yesterday by Mexican bandits at Santa Eulalia, 22 miles from Chihuahua, the state department was advised today. After being held for ransom, the party was released at the end of a four hour period when no ransom was forthcoming.

THE GOVERNOR DEFENDS THE PAST.

In a great many respects Governor Mechem is making a successful administration. He has never fought militantly for any part of the progressive program which he announced, although he has made progress in some of those plans. While the governor has sometimes compromised with expediency, he has been guilty of no personal acts as governor which reflect upon his integrity of purpose.

The governor has always been rather forward-looking in his political views. This adds to the mystery of the governor's passion for defending the past record of his party. He seems unwilling to admit that mistakes have been made in the past. An intimation to the contrary brings him militantly to the defense of that record, while he shows so mild an interest as to things which are in front of him instead of behind him. This unaccountable mental characteristic cost the governor the support of the Journal last fall after it had announced its support of him.

Just why the governor insists upon his party carrying all the excess baggage of the past is beyond our comprehension. There is much in that past which cannot be defended. To confess faults and correct them is the route to public confidence.

Before the Schoolmasters' Club at its annual banquet Monday night the governor defended the school book adoption with great vigor. Yet this adoption is entirely indefensible. The mistake should be admitted. The governor did not make it. It was done before he came into office. Why he burdens his administration with its defense it is difficult to understand.

New Mexico was in the midst of a terrible financial depression at the time of the adoption. The state was full of second-hand books which had accumulated in the hands of patrons of the schools. A re-adoption of the old books, even at increased prices, would have necessitated the purchase of less than one-third of the quantity of new books which became necessary under an entirely new adoption. Families having discarded books could have supplied poor families with their needs. As it was, everyone was compelled to buy new books, causing an unnecessary outlay in the state of at least $150,000. Even today thousands of children in the state are unable to buy books and the schools are being retarded by bookless pupils. Yet the governor assumes the responsibility of defending this folly.

In his address the governor took a sideslap at the Journal for its audit of the educational department. He bravely announced that the department had been properly conducted and said that his administration was "ready to meet" all criticisms. Why did his administration assume the burden of defending the acts of other administrations? Why did he assume that everything is all right in the educational department when he did not know whether it was or not?

The governor should have denounced instead of defended the present laws governing audits in this state. He knows that it is impossible, under the present law, to procure an audit of officials handling public money, as often as once in ten years. He must know that laxness and waste result from such a system. His reasoning processes baffle us. The governor said too much money was being raised by taxation for the schools. He inferred that the quality of the schools should be lowered in the interests of economy. Yet he defended a system which results in the waste of twenty-five per cent of the money raised by taxation in the state; he takes little or no interest in bringing property which is now escaping its share of the taxes onto the tax rolls; he defends the incompetency of the land office which deprives our schools of possible aid funds. The Journal would like to be fair to Governor Mechem. It would like to understand him. We frankly do not. We will defend and support him whenever we can.

The notion that the welfare of the party demands a defense of its errors seems foolish to us. To admit and correct the mistakes of the past would bring restored confidence among the people.

THE TRUTH WANTED.

With over 3,000,000 soldiers in France drawn from every walk of life it would have been nothing less than a miracle if all had been exemplars of virtue. There were summary executions, but there has been no reliable evidence presented that any were carried out other than in military form.

It is altogether probable that of the great number of minor officers whipped into shape in such a brief time some were arrogant and capricious. It would be strange had there been no abuse. With so large an alien population, too, it would have been remarkable had there been no traitors in the army. In war, an army is not conducted with entire regard for personal preferences. It is not a place for individual desires in conflict with authority to get much attention. Given an instance in which the punishment is visited summarily it is more than likely that many rumors in regard to the case would gain credence. Here at home there were many weird tales afloat that were believed by many yet were baseless. Under military discipline there would not be the opportunity for learning the truth that we had, and it was difficult enough to combat rumors.

If any soldier saw executions without warrant of military law certainly there was nothing to prevent him from telling about it when he was discharged from the army. That there have been no such charges in volume by reputable soldiers casts discredit on the alleged exposure made by Senator "Tom" Watson. He gained his knowledge second hand. The American people will demand the proof before they will believe that outrages were committed in the degree charged by the Georgia senator. Nevertheless, nothing should be "hushed up," if unjustifiable rigor or military lawlessness existed, it should be cured.

GERMANY WITHOUT CURRENCY.

The German mark has reached a point where the daily fluctuations are not important. It matters little whether 200 or 300 may be exchanged for a dollar. The point has almost been reached where the more one has of the marks the less of value one has. Because of the state of the mark there is talk of Germany being bankrupt, yet that is beside the fact. So long as Germany has productive farms, well-equipped mills, productive mines, skilled labor, the nation is not bankrupt, provided the assets amount to more than her liabilities, measured in coin.

The mark is worth little, if anything, but that is only the standard of the medium of exchange in name. The gold mark is worth as much in the markets of the world as it ever was. It is the paper substitute that is valueless. Were Germany to abolish the paper mark as currency it could do little harm, and it might open the way to the foundation of a stable system. In fact that is about the only method she can pursue to get on a sound basis, for the redemption of the vast mass of paper marks at their face value, or at a point anywhere near it, is absolutely hopeless. Better that she resort to barter than attempt to continue business with a currency so unstable and near valueless.

The United States had in early days experience with fiat currency that did not guarantee much, yet the United States was not bankrupt in the days of state bank issues. The sound basis resided in tangible property. Only the circulating medium was bad. Germany can regain a stable position by producing a currency of a character and in a volume that will make it worth par. And that is what nearly every nation in Europe needs to foster prosperity in full measure returns. America found no way to resume specie payment after the civil war, but to resume. If that can not be done in Europe she needs a bonfire.

"TURKEY DAY" DINNER.

The intimation that although the market will be well supplied with turkeys this year the cost of the Thanksgiving dinner will be scarcely less than it was last year is disappointing; yet it will not greatly surprise those who have made a study of the retail market for foodstuffs. For it seems as if in the case of certain commodities the ordinary laws of supply and demand do not apply. The fault probably lies in the system of distribution. It is not the material itself, but the expense of handling it, that frequently makes up the larger part of its cost. It has been said that if wheat should be sold for next to nothing it would be still impossible for bakers to make a sharp reduction in the price of bread without incurring a loss.

It may be that the maintenance of high prices for turkey can be explained in some such manner. The only other possible explanation, it seems, that dealers, especially in large cities, propose to profiteer. The Thanksgiving feast is hardly complete without turkey; but sensible people will put sentiment aside if it entails an expenditure that they can not afford, and will eat chicken instead.

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

THOSE WHO LIVE BY WAR.

(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.)
Just now the forces and the interests that live and profit by war are doing well. Resting from the tremendous impact of the American proposals. The white-hot enthusiasm with which the world is welcoming the proposed destruction of existing armadas and the ten-year armistice has covered the globe. They have bowed to the whirlwind that swept out of Washington recently, but—

These proposals of America strike at jobs and careers, at dividends and industrial dreams, at great plants and winters on the Riviera and at mighty yards and mills and shops and at private yachts drifting under Caribbean moons. They will wipe out men's future and dwindle fortunes made or in the making. In them there will be a far-reaching adjustment of many of the world's greatest industries and the disturbance of ancient and vested interests. For these proposals will cut through one of the oldest, thickest and deepest of the taproots of war. Carried through to their logical end, they will make old institutions and ancient crafts no more than a song that is sung or a tale that is told.

These vested interests and their allies will fight. If the more impressive and powerful machinery of war at sea is to vanish it will because the vested interests of war cannot hinder its going. The men who lay keels, forge rifles, roll armor plate, and hammer out gun turrets cannot be expected to welcome the ending of their day. Nor can the men who point these guns and command these crews. The mingled forces of reaction, selfish and unselfish, are many, and they are strong enough to make themselves felt. It will not be long until their countermeasures are exploded and their poison gas attacks begin to roll in upon the conference. In ways direct and indirect, tipped with venom and directed by greed, fear and hatred, they will take their course.

The friends of arms' limitation, of peace and of that disarmament that is beginning to loom upon the horizon must be ready, anxious, even eager to meet and shatter these attacks and arguments and choke these certain intrigues. It may as well be fought out now. There never was a better hour and place for the Armageddon of armaments than today in Washington.

UNCLE WIGGLY'S THANKSGIVING.

"Oh, joy! Oh, joy! Tomorrow is Thanksgiving! We shall have some jolly times, and plenty of good living!"

This is what Uncle Wiggly heard Curly and Floppy Twinstail, the two piglets, singing one day as they hopped along through the woods.

"Hum!" thought the bunny rabbit to himself. "Even though Thanksgiving comes but once a year, bringing with it much good cheer, those little chaps ought not to think so much about eating. I must speak to them."

But before Uncle Wiggly could do this he heard Jackie and Peetie flow woe, the puppy dog boys, barking to one another about the holiday.

"We're going to have grilled bones, fried bones, stewed bones and soup bones," said Peetie.

"Oh, I'll eat so much as never was!" whined Peetie. "I'm so glad Thanksgiving is almost here."

"Dear me," whispered Uncle Wiggly, "one would think Thanksgiving was made only to see how much one can eat and be thankful. I suppose that they are not made to be thankful by the time."

"And Uncle Wiggly did. With the help of Nurse Jane, his muskrat lady housekeeper, he carried it out. The day before Thanksgiving all the animal boys and girls received invitations to come to the bunny's hollow stump bungalow.

"Oh, what a feast there will be! Such cream pies!" moved Tommie Kat.

"And what lovely papers off tin cans to eat!" bleated Billie Wagtail, the goat. "And paste candy! Oh, yum!"

"And I know I'll have bushels and bushels of candy nuts for us," chattered Billie and Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrels.

So each animal boy and girl was quite excited, waiting for the time to come to go to Uncle Wiggly's Thanksgiving party.

"I hope he gives us a surprise," cackled Arabella, the chicken.

And there was a surprise, but not just the kind the boys and girls counted on. For when they rang the bell and Nurse Jane let them into the hollow stump bungalow there were no smells of good cooking. No roast turkey, cranberry sauce, celery, pie, cake and cookies. Uncle Wiggly's bungalow didn't smell at all of good things to eat. The bunny came out into the hall to meet his guests.

"Walk right into the dining room," he invited.

"Now for the good things!" whispered Sammie Littlebit, "Cabbage turnovers and turnip short-cake! Yum! Yum!"

"And I guess chocolate pudding and some milk custard," grunted Floppy Twinstail, the little pig.

Well, you can imagine how surprised those animal boys and girls were when they reached the dining room and all they saw on the table was just the cloth. Not a thing to eat—not even a plate, knife or fork!

"Sit down, my friends," said Uncle Wiggly. "I have something to say to you."

With wondering faces the animal children sat down to the empty table. The bunny took his place at the head and said:

"That's right!" cried every one. And then such a feast as there was. Not too much, but just enough, and the Fox, Bear and Wolf had to chew dried leaves.

But if the condensed milk doesn't roll down the ironing board when it is trying to slide to first base under the gas stove, the next story will be about Uncle Wiggly's washing.

Buying of the junior rails was stimulated to an extent by the reorganization of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad and was accelerated by unconfirmed reports that other roads recently under receivership are contemplating reorganization of dividends. Missouri Pacific, one of today's most active stocks, owed much of its prominence to such rumors and others of the same class were favored by pools and speculative interests because of their better earnings.

Independent steels were sustained by circumstantial gossip of prospective mergers for further advances in prices of crude and refined products accompanied the accumulation of oils.

Call money's rise from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent in the final hour was made the occasion of a selling movement in which the tobacco, Anaconda, Copper, United Fruit, Sears Ro-

Uncle Wiggly and the boys and girls came out from under the table, where the bad animals had not seen them.

"As I was saying," began the bunny, "we should be thankful for being alive. If I had had a big dinner today the Fox, Wolf and Bear would have invited themselves, and very likely have eaten us as well as the meal. So we should be thankful, should we not?"

"Yes! Uncle Wiggly!" chorused the animal boys and girls; but there was a hungry look about them. Then the bunny laughed. The kitchen door opened and in came Nurse Jane and some animal ladies with the nicest Thanksgiving dinner you can imagine, from celery to cranberry sauce.

"I just wanted you to know," said the bunny, as the animal boys and girls began to eat; "I wanted you to know that there are things to be thankful for besides good food."

"That's right!" cried every one. And then such a feast as there was. Not too much, but just enough, and the Fox, Bear and Wolf had to chew dried leaves.

Oh, wow!" howled the Wolf.

"Today is Thanksgiving. We should first of all be thankful that we are alive and—"

Just then there was a noise out in the hall. A shuffling, skuffling sort of a noise, of long, sharp claws scraping over the floor. And there was the sound of sniffling and sniffing and growls.

"Quick, children!" whispered the bunny. "Hide under the table! Some one is coming!"

Under the table ducked all the animal boys and girls. And no sooner were they safely hidden from sight than in stalked the bad Bushy Bear, the Fuzzy Fox and the Woolly Wolf.

back and Western Union were most affected. Sales, 700,000 shares. Dullness and a lower trend ruled in the principal foreign exchanges, sterling easing with francs and most other European bills. The Greek rate weakened on cables indicating that Athens had failed in its efforts to secure financial assistance in London.

The broad demand for bonds, especially underlying railway issues, continued with strength on other domestic issues and several of the foreign division, especially French municipals. Total sales, par value, $18,250,000.

Chicago Board of Trade.
Chicago, Nov. 22.—It was a typical scalping market today in wheat. With no big dominating factor, bulges brought out selling but the buying power increased on declines. Closing quotations were steady at the same as yesterday's: 1 1/2c higher, December $1.09 1/2 to $1.09 3/4 and May $1.11 to $1.11 1/2. Corn finished 1/4c to 1/2c up, oats off a shade to 1/4c and provisions unchanged to 1/2c higher.

At the start bulls in wheat had a slight advantage, owing to scantiness of offerings, especially in December. Too much rain in Argentina and excessive heat in Australia were reported, and there was still uneasiness over drought in the southwest. Absence of export demand, however, and a forecast of snow or other moisture for all states where dry weather has been a drawback tended to weaken the market during the middle of the session. On the whole, shorts were more disposed to cover in the late dealings, lightness of receipts drawing attention to possibility of a squeeze in obtaining supplies for ready settlement of December contracts here.

Food export and industrial demand gave firmness to corn. Oats were relatively dull, although for the first time in months some oats were sold here to go south.

Buying of lard, presumably against sales of cotton seed oil, appeared to have considerable to do with upturns in provisions.

Closing prices:
Wheat—Dec., $1.09 1/2; May, $1.11 1/2.
Corn—Dec., 49 1/2c; May, 54 1/2c.
Oats—Dec., 32 1/2c; May, 37 1/2c.
Pork—Jan., $14.00.
Lard—Jan., $8.00; May, $8.25.
Ribs—Jan., $7.50; May, $7.67.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York and Chicago Has Nothing On Albuquerque

We have first of the season, Southeast Texas, new crop wax beans, direct by express, fresh and brittle, pound 20c.

We were lucky, two barrels of cranberries received last evening—Nile white cauliflower, Express California lettuce, slicing tomatoes, cucumbers—Arizona and navel oranges, just did get here—four sizes.

And more of those nice large Roman Beauty apples at $3.50 a box.

Red Emperor Grapes, Bartlett Pears.

Just a few pounds of the extra nice fruit cake left. Plum Pudding, Fard dates, Diomedea dates, first imported figs received for many a day. Extra large and very nice, lb. 50c. Of course you will come to headquarters for green or ripe olives, sweet or sour pickles.

Those Monarch extra small sweet peas and Monarch corn are just the cream of the pack.

Don't overlook the cider.

Again today our special on Chocolate Candy at 59c for a pound box.

UNIVERSITY HEIGHTS DOINGS

Many of the visiting teachers took advantage of the weather yesterday and visited the Heights. They were astonished at the growth and character of homes built up there in the past year.

The first section of the new water extension throughout the western half of the Addition was completed Saturday night. Over 12,000 feet of pipe line has been laid in the last two months.

One of the business lots was sold to a well known Albuquerque merchant last week.

The building of fences across the "short cut" roadways has been a success. Delivery drivers are now keeping on the streets which adds materially to the appearance of the Addition.
