BE THANKFUL AND GET A MOVE ON YOU

This annual Thanksgiving Day is a worthy and unique American institution. It originated with our religious-minded fathers, who came together in one place, at one time, to thank God that He had averted starvation for their wives and children.

An annual day of thanksgiving—a day when we pause to give special thought to the blessings of the year—is good for our souls' health.

An attitude of gratitude is the attitude of successful living. It implies optimism. One who sees nothing to be grateful for, can be grateful. It implies hope. One who is without hope in the future can be thankful for the past. It implies faith. One who does not believe that blessings will be continued can see occasion for thanksgiving. It implies a willingness to work. The one unwilling to work knows that the future holds nothing for him.

America has reason today to be thankful; the rest of the civilized world stands knee-deep in the wreckage of war. Albuquerque has reason to be thankful today; no city has been less harshly dealt with in the depression. Each individual has reason to be thankful; we probably have fared better than we deserve.

So with faith in ourselves and in the future; with hopes running high; with the will to work vibrating within us, we greet this day. We should be thankful, indeed. This morning the people of Albuquerque have their faces toward the rising, not the setting, sun. We live in the militant present, with our thoughts upon the unborn tomorrow, instead of upon the dead yesterday. We mourn no past; we courageously welcome the future.

How fitting to the occasion is the fact that tomorrow begins the Chamber of Commerce drive for members! What better occasion for drawing a mark between the past and the future. All should greet with enthusiastic applause the coming of the day of democracy in the building of our home city.

Yesterday, those having the reorganization plans in hand decided on a twelve dollar per annum membership fee, paid in advance as will suit your convenience. No one will have more than one membership. Corporations, as such, are barred. This was done that every citizen might have an equal share in the enterprise.

Directors will be selected by mail, by the new members. No nominations will be made. Each will have a complete membership list before him from which to select. No unseen influence can organize this body.

The program for 1922 will be decided upon in the same way. Only that which a majority think can be done, will be undertaken. When the new directors have made a budget of the additional money needed to complete that program, voluntary contributions from those able to give it, will be asked.

Religious, politics and labor questions will be barred. The Chamber will be active only in those things which are of common concern.

Some of us have fought hard to get to this day of a democratized Chamber of Commerce. We have said that every element in our population would rally to the support of such a movement. The Journal's faith is strong that this will occur.

With all conflicting interests in Albuquerque clasping hands, this morning in a pledge of complete cooperation, every citizen has an added reason for thanksgiving. It spells success.

Will we make this plan a going concern in the next three days? We will. But everyone must join in the movement.

NO ONE CAN STOP US, BUT OURSELVES.

CONGRESS QUILTS AFTER HARDING SIGNS MEASURES AT THE CAPITOL

First and Special Session
Adjourns Sine Die, the House at 4:01 and the Senate at 4:37 O'clock.

MANY NOMINATIONS ARE NOT ACTED ON

Among the Chief Bills Approved By President Are Those on Tax Revision and the Maternity Act.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23.—The first and special session of the Sixty-seventh congress ended late today after President Harding had visited the capitol and signed measures enacted in the closing hours. The house was the first to close up shop, adjourning sine die at 4:01, and at 4:37 o'clock the senate quit.

Chief among the measures signed by President Harding today were the tax revision and maternity bills. After finally disposing of the tax bill, the senate turned to clean up some 500 odd presidential nominations. But nearly half of the number were left to die under the law. Most of these were minor postmaster appointments. It was understood attempts to put through the last minute nominations had been blocked largely through charges of several senators that an effort was being made to "railroad" appointments.

Controversy in Senate.
Meanwhile, the house was awaiting announcement that the president had signed the tax and maternity bills and had no other communications and when so informed, adjourned. The senate finished its executive business and plunged into controversy over the resolution by Senator King, democrat, of Utah, calling for an investigation of the activities of interests favoring an embargo on imports of dyes and chemicals in the district court.

Frequent reference was made in the closing debates to the length of the session, which began April 11, some saying that the session was the longest in the history of the republic and some saying that it was the longest in the history of the republic.

Congress will convene in regular session December fifth.

APPLICATION FOR A WRIT OF MANDAMUS DISMISSED BY COURT

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 23.—The application of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain for a writ of mandamus directing the superior court here to restore her to liberty, was dismissed today in the district court on appeal on motion of the petitioner.

Mrs. Obenchain, who is under indictment charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, sought freedom on the ground that she had been held against her will for more than sixty days without trial.

When the writ came up today, counsel for Mrs. Obenchain said that as her co-defendant, Arthur Burch, had gone on trial, and as it had been agreed that she would be tried immediately afterwards, there was no occasion for pressing the application further.

'OPEN DOOR' POLICY MEANS THE OPENING OF CHINA TO FOREIGN ENTERPRISES, BRITISH CLAIM

There May Be a Difference of Understanding Between the Delegations, But Great Britain's Representatives Have Outlined Their Views Regarding the Matter.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Incident to the adoption by the Far East committee of the Root declaration of principles that should govern relations of other nations with China, it developed today that there was an important discussion among the delegates as to just what these principles mean. There may be a difference of understanding between the delegations on this subject, but British viewpoint, as explained was that so far as "the open door" was concerned, that term hereafter will have a very specific application.

It will mean, it was said, equal opportunity for all foreign enterprises in the development in China and the general opening of China to foreign enterprises. The policy of "phases of influence" it was added, has been superseded by one of international cooperation. Under the formula that all nations are to be entitled to the same first-class trade in goods imported into China, it is said by the British that it will be reasonable to expect foreign goods entering China by sea, would pay the same duties as those entering by land. It is understood by the British that the conference has determined that the Likin tax on abolished, if there is to be an in-

Today's game with the Lobos will be a fast and closely contested affair. It is worth the time of all lovers of football. The crowd should be large.

ALLEGED REVOLT CHIEF ESCAPES, FLEES TO U. S.

(By The Associated Press.)
Albany, Ga., Nov. 23.—The farmers of the United States face a serious shortage of nitrates and fertilizers for 1922 and the only way to overcome the situation will be by the importation of that product, unless means are found to remedy the situation, according to the opinion of Chester E. Gray, chairman of the American Farm Bureau federation, expressed in a statement given out here.

Mr. Gray's committee made a study of Muscle Shoals last April and he sees in the offer of Henry Ford to take over the nitrate plant there a blessing to the farmers of the country.

"If Muscle Shoals is not immediately put into operation," the statement said, "it will require either the importation or the going without of about 160,000 tons of nitrogen in 1922."

"At the present time the tender made by Henry Ford is the best plan that presents itself for an immediate and continuous operation of this plant. Undoubtedly the development of Muscle Shoals on the scale that Mr. Ford proposes would be a blessing not only to the states of the south, but to the whole nation. We must get cheap fertilizers and lots of them, which can be done only by putting the plant at Muscle Shoals into operation."

"Muscle Shoals is a Gibraltar to protect American agriculture and a big Berlin to bombard the entrenched interests."

LIBERTY BONDS MOUNT TO NEW HIGH RECORDS

(By The Associated Press.)
New York, Nov. 23.—Most of the Liberty Bonds issued by the United States government to meet expenses of the war mounted to new high records for the year on the stock exchange today, while Victory 4's notes duplicated their recent record of par for odd lots.

Transactions in these issues approximated $10,000,000 par value. The demand evidently proceeded from high financial quarters, including banks, insurance companies and other large corporations.

Liberty 3 1/2's made the greatest gain at a net advance of 75 cents per $100 to $98. The first 4's rose 20 cents to $95.40. The second 4's 34 cents to $95.24 and the fourth 4's 26 cents to $95.54.

PRINCE OF WALES IS PARTICIPANT IN POLO CONTEST IN BOMBAY

(By The Associated Press.)
London, Nov. 23.—The prince of Wales on Monday, the fifth day of his visit in Bombay, participated in a polo match, according to a Bombay dispatch to the London Times. He was to have inspected 20,000 boys and girl scouts but parents in the remote parts of the city were afraid to allow their children to pass through the recently disturbed areas and the inspection was abandoned.

Fears that the day would bring further disorders proved unwarranted.

(By The Associated Press.)
Nogales, Ariz., Nov. 23.—Daniel Vasquez, alleged to have been one of the leaders of a revolutionary government in Mexico, who was arrested in Nogales, Sonora, yesterday, escaped today and crossed across in the international boundary into Arizona, according to an announcement made by Mexican officials. He has not been recaptured.

WAGE INCREASE ASKED BY RAILROAD SHOPMEN

(By The Associated Press.)
New York, Nov. 23.—Wage increases of thirteen cents an hour have been requested of virtually all carriers in the country by the heads of shop crafts unions, representing about 400,000 employees, who have asked the railroad executives for conferences December 20. This action follows the railroads' petition to the railway labor board proposing to cut the wages of shop crafts employees to the "going rate" paid for the same class of labor in other industries.

A decision of the labor board announced July 29, 1920, had declared retroactive to May 1920, raised the pay of boilermakers, blacksmiths, electricians, tinmiths and sheet metal workers from 72 cents an hour to 85. The sixth class of shop crafts workers, the carpenters, received an increase of from 67 to 80 cents an hour.

The general 12 1/2 per cent cut in wages, effective July 1, reduced the wages of the first five classes from 55 cents an hour to 77 cents, the present rate, while the pay of carpenters was placed at 72 cents.

HARDING SIGNS TAXATION BILL; IT BECOMES LAW

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23.—The tax revision bill became law today. President Harding signing it at the capitol during the closing hour of the special session of congress.

The executive signature was attached within less than an hour after the senate had completed enactment of the measure by agreeing to the conference report by 39 to 29. Six republicans, Horah, Ladd, La Follette, Moses, Norbeck and Norris, voted against the report and one democrat, Broussard, voted for it.

Many Taxes Repealed.
This is the bill which repeals the excess profits and transportation taxes, does away with most of the so-called nuisance and luxury taxes, reduces individual taxes all along the line and increases the corporation income tax from 10 to 12 1/2 per cent. Few, if any senators supporting the measure were entirely satisfied with all of its sections, but they took the view that it contained more good provisions than bad ones. The measure is generally conceded to be only a temporary one and the understanding is that a new revision bill will have to be framed within a year or so.

In four hours of debate the bill received much condemnation. Each of the dozen senators who spoke had some complaint to make, while several sharply criticized the bill. Senator Walsh, republican, Utah, said:

"The people from one end of the country to the other are not satisfied with the bill." He declared he thought in 1922, the bill would "be materially amended," because of its "discriminatory" character.

Managers Assailed.
The senate managers were assailed by Senator Hitchcock, democrat, Nebraska, and others who asserted that they represented in their negotiations with the house managers not the sentiment of the majority of the senate, but only that of the "dominant element" of the republicans in the senate.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, inveighed against a system under which, he said, managers of the house and senate, meeting in secret could overturn the expressed will of congress. He warned that if this system was continued, there would be a revolution in the country. Other senators disagreed as to the result pictured, but agreed that the system was faulty.

GRAND JURY INDICTS FORMER POSTMASTER

(By The Associated Press.)
Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 23.—Guy L. Shoemaker, until last July postmaster at Laramie, Wyo., was among those indicted by the federal jury here today. It became known this afternoon. Shoemaker is accused of embezzlement of postal funds while postmaster. About $1,000 was involved in the alleged peculations.

DELEGATIONS OF POWERS DISCUSS LIMITATION OF LAND ARMAMENT

Briland Makes His Last Appearance and Tells Why France Feels That a Large Army Is Necessary

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Facing each other in an executive session, delegations of the great powers exchanged opinions today on the limitation of armaments as it touches Europe, but adjourned without making a joint declaration of policy, either as to Europe or general land armament.

Premier Briland of France, making his last appearance in the conference before leaving, reiterated reasons that move his country to maintain the world's largest army and suggested that the only alternative would be a pledge by the powers to aid France should Germany or any other nation again threaten civilization.

Sympathy for France.
To this representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Italy and Japan replied with renewed expressions of regard and sympathy for France, declaring their governments firmly committed to the defense of free institutions and giving assurance that the French people had the moral support of all the powers in facing their problems.

But no one came forward with a proposal to write such a pledge into a public and joint declaration of policy such as Mr. Briland indicated would be asked to induce France to reduce its army beyond the point already contemplated. Neither was there a move to formulate a comprehensive program for land armament reduction like that under consideration for naval forces and the meeting ended after designating sub-committees to handle collateral subjects like aircraft, poison gases and rifles of warfare.

Briland Well Satisfied.
Tonight Mr. Briland declared himself well satisfied to take home the expression of moral support voiced by the representatives of the powers today and in Monday's open session. There were indications that some of the French had hoped for a formal pledge, but the premier was said to have realized the restraints under which the other national groups found themselves as to the subject.

In any case, he apparently is leaving confident that his principal object in coming has been accomplished and that if any attempt is made to take up in detail the question of land armaments the negotiations will be resumed.

FREIGHT RATE SLASH ON FARM PRODUCTS, WITH REDUCTION IN WAGES, PROPOSED BY CARRIERS

Plan Is Laid Before the I. C. C. as a Substitute for the Order Reducing Charges on Hay and Grain Shipments; Scope of Contemplated Pay Cut Is Not Announced.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23.—A 10 per cent reduction on railroad freight rates on farm products, coupled with a reduction in railroad wages, was proposed by the carriers to the Interstate Commerce commission today as a substitute for the order of the commission dated October 20 reducing rates on hay and grain shipments. The substitute schedule would be effective "for an experimental period of six months."

The commission was asked to reopen its decision of October 20 in order that argument might be given in behalf of their proposal.

The suggested reduction on railroad shipments, it was explained, would cover grains, hay, cottonseed and its products—except meal and oil—citrus and fresh fruits, livestock and dairy products. The scope of the proposed cut in wages was not indicated, the statement merely stating that "the benefit of the reduction thus obtained" from the railroad labor board shall be passed on to the public in reduced rates.

Any reduction in rates made since September 1, 1920, would constitute a part of this 10 per cent, under the railroad's suggestion.

LIMITING NAVY PLAN IS GOING TOO SLOWLY TO PLEASE ENVOYS

Consideration Is Proceeding Smoothly But Is Not Showing Sufficient Speed to Suit Everybody.

TO TAKE A RECESS FOR THANKSGIVING

Far Eastern Situation Is Not Regarded As Settled; Several Clashes of Opinion Have Occurred.

PRESENT TARIFF LEVIES UNJUST, CHINESE STATES

Mr. Koo Outlines His Country's Position Before Committee on Far Eastern and Pacific Problems.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23 (By The Associated Press).—A communication issued today on the meeting of the committee on Pacific and Far Eastern questions said:

"The committee on Pacific and Far Eastern questions met at 2:30 p. m. The topic of discussion was the customs revenues of China. Mr. Koo on behalf of the Chinese delegation made a statement. He emphasized that the Chinese government had no intention of interfering with the administration of maritime customs or with devotion of the proceeds of the customs revenue to the liquidation of various foreign loans secured through the Chinese government. China enjoyed the full right of levying customs duties. In 1912, however, and in the subsequent years after having made treaties with Great Britain, France and the United States a limitation on this right was imposed. The rule of 5 per cent ad valorem was established and the rates were based on customs prices then prevailing. In 1918, as prices began to drop and the 5 per cent actually collected appeared somewhat in excess of the 5 per cent prescribed, a revision was asked by the treaty powers.

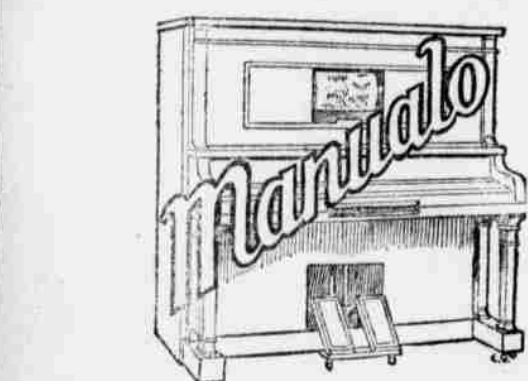

Revision Was Made.
"A revision was accordingly made. Later, however, as prices mounted, no request for a revision was forthcoming and the Chinese government did not press for a revision, seeing that the revenue then collected from other sources was not inadequate to meet its requirements. The customs rate then prevailing was much less than the 5 per cent stipulated for. It was only in 1920 that a revision was made to afford sufficient funds to meet the Chinese obligation arising out of the Boxer protocol. In that tariff the rate was calculated on the basis of the average prices of 1917 to 1919. In 1921 an attempt was made by the Chinese government to have another revision, but it failed, owing to the difficulty of securing the unanimous consent of sixteen or seventeen powers. It was only after six years that in 1918 another revision was effected. The tariff of 1918 yields only 3 1/2 per cent.

"Mr. Koo proposed to restore to China the right to fix and to differentiate import tariff rates, but as it appeared hardly possible to establish a new regime all at once, he said, full autonomy should be restored China after a period to be agreed upon. In the meantime, China would impose a maximum rate and would like to have full freedom within that maximum, such as the right of differentiation among the different classes of commodities. But as the present financial condition of the Chinese government was such as to require some immediate relief, it was proposed that on and after January 1, 1922, the Chinese import tariff be raised to 12 1/2 per cent, as it was stipulated for in the treaty with the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

"Among reasons he alleged in support of the Chinese proposals, the following is the gist:
"The existing customs regime in China constitutes an infringement of China's sovereign right to fix tariff rates at their own discretion. It deprives China of the power to make reciprocal arrangements with the foreign powers. While all foreign goods imported into China pay only 5 per cent, Chinese goods exported to foreign countries have to pay duties at a maximum rate. Examples were given to show this lack of reciprocity.

WOULD PUT FRANCE AND ITALY ON PAR WITH JAPAN ON SEA

A suggestion has been advanced that France and Italy be placed on an equality with Japan in naval armaments, if they so desire. On this basis, the present and proposed strength of the five powers in capital ships and auxiliary surface craft (cruisers, destroyers and flotilla leaders) would stand as follows:

	CAPITAL SHIPS		Tonnage
	Present	Proposed	Present	Proposed
United States	18	15	723,450	500,450
Great Britain	32	10	923,800	604,450
Japan	10	10	359,720	292,700
France	7	7	183,923	200,000
Italy	4	5	158,960	300,000

	AUXILIARY SERVICE CRAFT		Tonnage
	Present	Proposed	Present	Proposed
United States	506,379	450,000
Great Britain	650,976	450,000
Japan	156,328	270,000
France	142,443	270,000
Italy	105,592	270,000

Ultimately the United States and Great Britain would each have 500,000 tons of capital ships and Japan 300,000. The proposed tonnage of auxiliary craft also is to be ultimately allowed, present excess not to be scrapped until replacements begin.

"It constitutes a serious impediment upon the economic development of China.

China's Needs.
"As the system stands, there is only one uniform rate and no differentiation of rates. The disadvantage is obvious because it does not take into account the economic and social needs of the Chinese people. China is in need of machinery and metals for which China would like to impose a tariff rate even lower than the 5 per cent. For luxuries such as cigars and cigarettes they ought to pay heavy tax. If it stands, therefore, the Chinese tariffs are not scientific.

"The present tariff has occasioned a serious loss of revenue upon the Chinese exchequer. The item of customs duties is an important one in the budget of nearly all countries. For instance, Great Britain raises 12 per cent of its revenue from customs duties; France 15 per cent, and the United States 25 per cent before the world war, but the customs revenue in the Chinese budget as it now stands becomes a comparatively insignificant factor.

"The present regime makes it difficult for the Chinese government to meet the Chinese obligation arising out of the Boxer protocol. In that tariff the rate was calculated on the basis of the average prices of 1917 to 1919. In 1921 an attempt was made by the Chinese government to have another revision, but it failed, owing to the difficulty of securing the unanimous consent of sixteen or seventeen powers. It was only after six years that in 1918 another revision was effected. The tariff of 1918 yields only 3 1/2 per cent.

A TEXTBOOK ON P. O. OPERATION BEING PREPARED

Course on How to Use the Mails May Ultimately Be Established in Every Educational Institution.

(By The Associated Press.)

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—A manual textbook dealing with the operation of the entire postoffice department and methods of utilizing the gigantic postal system, is being prepared by a committee of the National Association of Postmasters at Large. The schools of this state with the hope of ultimately establishing this book in every public educational institution in the United States. It is hoped to instruct children in the use of the postoffice, which is the most important part of the government's work.

Philip E. Carlson, of this city, president of the Minnesota Educational association, is head of the committee which is drawing up the textbook. Approval of the undertaking has been given by Postmaster General Will Hays, who after the manual is completed, will give his and the department's authorization to use the book in the public schools, according to Postmaster E. A. Purdy, of Minneapolis, president of the National Association of Postmasters.

The National Association of Postmasters is pledged to the move, the head of the organization announced. Mr. Carlson declared that not enough attention was given to the postal subject at educational meetings, and he announced that at the next annual convention of the organization, this subject would hold an important place.

"Lack of knowledge of how to use the postoffice properly is costing the government millions of dollars," said Mr. Purdy. "The instruction which this book proposes to give, will obviate to a great degree, many of the improperly made money orders, registered mail losses, improperly addressed letters and packages, destruction of merchandise by faulty packing, and the like."

Completion of the textbook probably will be after the first of the year.

DELEGATIONS OF POWERS DISCUSS LAND ARMAMENT

Discussions never will take a trend inimical to the army of France.

Work Here a Foundation.
"Designation of sub-committees to deal with aircraft, poison gas and the rules of warfare bring into the negotiations several new elements. Since it would be difficult for the five powers to make any agreement on any of these subjects without having the sanction of all the other nations, the expectation is that the work done here will be merely a foundation for possible world-wide conference to handle such problems.

Aircraft development as proceeding under the direct supervision of the various governments is accounted universally as giving promise of sweeping effects on the commercial world, and it is taken for granted that no measure will be proposed that would seriously curtail that development. The discussion of use of gases is expected merely to be a beginning for a world discussion and the problem of retaining the rules of warfare must be, in the opinion of the delegates either put later into the hands of a continuing commission or referred to a world tribunal.

condition and of the special needs of the transportation industry, do not believe that any further reductions in rates than those herein mentioned, should be made until there is a reduction in operating costs.

This proposal was made by the carriers, the application pointed out, to aid in the economic readjustment and relieve the "serious economic distress" of the agricultural industry, despite the fact that the financial condition of the railroads does not warrant such a move.

"The net operating income of the railroads in 1920 amounted to $62,000,000, as against a normal in other years of more than $90,000,000," the application said, adding that "even this amount of $62,000,000 included back mail pay received from the government for prior years of approximately $25,000,000, thus showing, when the operations of that year alone are considered, an actual deficit before making any allowance for either interest or dividends."

Germany is consuming much less of certain articles than before the war, the application said, and the sugar per head has decreased nearly nine pounds, and coffee and tea over three pounds.

SANITY OF ROY GARDNER TO BE INQUIRED INTO

Two Indictments, One Containing Four Counts, Are Returned Against Alleged Mail Bandit.

(By The Associated Press.)

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 23.—Two indictments one containing four counts, charging Roy Gardner, escaped convict mailrobber, of attempts to rob the United States mails at Maricopa, Ariz., on November 2, and at Phoenix on November 15, were returned by the grand jury in the United States district court here late today. Gardner pleaded not guilty to both indictments.

Immediately after Gardner entered his plea to the first indictment, his attorney, Carl A. Davis, asked and received permission to file a written motion in which Gardner asked the court to have a jury determine his sanity at the time referred to in the indictment.

"Mentally Unsound."
The written motion, filed by Gardner's attorney, contained a statement by Mr. Davis which declared that the defendant was "not guilty of the offense charged against him, for the reason that at the time referred to in the indictment he was mentally unsound and did not have a criminal intent."

Attorney Davis asked that the case not be set for trial immediately but that a delay of a week or ten days be granted.

"I understand that you desire this delay," said Judge William H. Sawtelle, who presided, "in order to give the presence of witnesses from outside the jurisdiction of this court and for that purpose alone."

"Yes, your honor," replied Mr. Davis. Both cases then were set for trial on December 5. Thomas A. Flynn, United States district attorney, previously had announced that his office was ready to proceed with the cases immediately.

After the cases had been set for trial Mr. Flynn asked that both cases be tried by the same jury at the same time. To this Mr. Davis objected and the court announced that it would rule later on this point.

"The cases involve different characters of evidence, different issues are different, and in every way and should not be tried by the same jury at the same time," Mr. Davis said.

Plea of Not Guilty.
When asked to plead to the second indictment, charging Gardner with having committed the robbery at Maricopa, the defense asked for time to examine the indictment before entering a plea. The court said that a plea of not guilty could be entered today but that it would allow the defense two days to file an answer to the indictment. With this understanding the plea of not guilty was entered. The prosecution was allowed two days after the filing of the demurrer by the defense in which to file an answer.

SLEW SISTER-IN-LAW CHICAGO MAN ADMITS

(By The Associated Press.)

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Thomas Catherswood, arrested yesterday charged with the murder of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Betty Sharples, 22, confessed early today, according to police. Robbery was the motive ascribed by the police when her bank book, which he had obtained $65, was found partly burned in the kitchen stove. Her husband said she had been saving this sum for Christmas shopping. She was found strangled when her husband returned from work. By her side was some fancy work she was making for Christmas presents.

How Miserable This Woman Was Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toomsboro, Ga.—"I suffered terribly with backache and headache all the time, was so weak and nervous I didn't know what to do, and could not do my work. My trouble was deficient and irregular periods. I read in the papers what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to give it a trial. I got good results from its use so that I am now able to do my work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. C. F. PHILLIPS, Toomsboro, Ga.

Weak, nervous women make unhappy homes, their condition irritates both husband and children. It has been said that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous depression, "the blues," irritability and backache arise from some displacement of the rules of a woman's system. Mrs. Phillips' letter proves that no other remedy is so successful as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

IMPROVEMENT OF MRS. HENDERSON TALK OF FRIENDS

"My friends all tell me how well I am looking and I never get tired of telling them about Tanlac. It is such a wonderful medicine," declared Mrs. Mollie Henderson, 349 Third East, Salt Lake City, Utah.

"I was completely run-down," she continued, "and didn't seem to have any strength or energy left. My appetite was very poor and the little I managed to eat seemed to do me more harm than good. Several times I broke down completely and just had to give up and go to bed. I was so weak I just had to drift around all the time, and I worried and worried, for I didn't know where it was all going to end."

"But Tanlac just seemed to be made specially for me and in a few weeks I felt perfectly well in every respect. This was all of three years ago and I have enjoyed good health ever since. Tanlac certainly is a grand medicine and I have across a rule to take a bottle every now and then, and it keeps me feeling well and strong. I am all the time telling someone about it, and every time I do I feel that I am doing them a good turn."

Tanlac is sold in Albuquerque by the Alvarado Pharmacy and all other leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

RESTORE 'PHONE AND PRESS COMMUNICATION

(By The Associated Press.)

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—Telephone and press communication with Portland and points as far north as Montana, cut off yesterday by the overflowing of the Santiam river in central Oregon, was restored today by shooting across the river a weight to which was attached a light wire. A projectile gun picked up in the vicinity was used, according to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company. The Southern Pacific railroad line and state highway were washed out as well as the telephone lines, but telephone company men extended poles from each side of the river up to the main channel, a map of about 400 feet. After ten attempts the wire landed successfully and an emergency cable pulled across.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP WILL GO TO WINNER OF AGGIE-U. N. M. GAME AT VARSITY FIELD TODAY

Invaders, 20 Strong, Arrive Last Night for Decisive Struggle This Afternoon; Aggies to Feel Loss of Two Backfield Men, While Lobos Will Have Regular Line-up.

"Chief" Boone—the husky Aggie right tackle. "Chief" Hare—the Aggie center.

Calkins will be in the game this afternoon from the moment the first whistle blows, which means trouble for the Aggies' ends. Calkins entered the Arizona game in the last quarter and opened up some dashing work, which, for a time swept the Wildcats from their feet. With him again in condition to play out the full game the team will be strengthened greatly.

John Popejoy, who entered the Arizona game a day after he had been confined to bed with illness, will undoubtedly hit the Aggie's line in a damaging fashion. The Lobo line will consist of the same men who fought Arizona, but will not be weakened by the necessity of calling line men into the backfield as was done last Saturday.

Coach Johnson has been giving his men only light practice, consisting for the most part of punting, interference and signal practice for the past three days. One new play which has been developed will be entirely new to football artists in this part of the country, and is expected to furnish lots of excitement for the country gentlemen from Mesilla Park. The interference, which proved a weak point in the Arizona game, has also been receiving much attention and will be improved this afternoon.

The varsity will enter the game this afternoon with the firm intention of proving to the home folk that U. N. M. has a valid title to the championship of the state, and whatever may be the outcome it is certain that the locals will not be outwitted.

Captain Greenleaf and Manager John Fernstrom declare themselves certain of a victory for the Cherry and Silver, and their opinion is enthusiastically endorsed by the fans who have been watching the week's practice from the bleachers. Ticket sales for the game have been exceptionally heavy, according to Manager Fernstrom, and a record crowd is anticipated for the game which will decide the state championship.

A rally to express the confidence of the team in the fighting qualities of the Lobo pack was held last night in Rodey hall, and "Beat the Aggies" proved the popular sentiment. The student body will be present en masse at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon to greet the "varsity with a cheer."

The first whistle will sound at 2:30 o'clock. The New Mexico Aggie football team, 20 strong, arrived from Mesilla Park last night on the 6:35 train from El Paso. Coach Bergman and a number of Aggie rooters accompanied the aggregation. In talking over the game with some of the players it seemed the consensus of opinion that while they did not predict a victory for themselves they intend to give their heavier opponents a hard fight.

The Aggies last year won the title of state champions and will today defend their right to again claim it against their only rivals, the New Mexico university. The team won over the New Mexico Military Institute during the first of the season by a score of 32 to 0, but were the following week defeated by the Arizona university by a score of 31 to 0.

The Lobos played Arizona last week and were only defeated by a score of 24 to 6. This gave the local team some shade on paper, and with the advantage of playing on their own field hope to bring the championship back to University Heights for the coming year. The Aggie line-up is somewhat crippled by the loss of Brookshire and McGary, two of the best backfielders in the southwest. McGary was on the all-southwestern eleven last year, while Brookshire has been the exclusive kicker and passer for the red and white gridirers up until today's game.

The line-up of the Lobos will consist wholly of regulars, for the first time this season. Although two of the pack were severely hurt in the Arizona struggle, they have recovered sufficiently to be able to play their usual game this afternoon.

The greatest improvement will be in the backfield. Walter Hernandez, who was taken from the field last Saturday after a supreme exhibition of gameness, will be back at full play in his usual game. Whitley, who was seriously hurt in the first quarter of the Arizona game, has also fully recovered and has been making an excellent showing in the week's practice.

ALBUQUERQUE IS AGAIN CITY OF E. A. MEETING

Final Business Session of Convention Hears Announcement of Elections and Decision of Location

The last general meeting of the N. M. E. A. which assembled yesterday afternoon in the armory, included in its business the announcement that Albuquerque was again chosen as the convention place for the association for the coming year, and the proclamation of the election of Mrs. Lockard as president.

The first number on the program was a bass solo, by the bass of the Normal School quartette of Las Vegas. This was followed by an announcement by John Milne, urging that more money be pledged toward the paid secretary fund.

"We have gone as far as we can under the present conditions," said Mr. Milne. "We are at the turning of the road. People, it is up to you. It is not for you to ask me what I am going to do about it, it is a matter of what we are going to do about it." He went on to state the financial condition of the association—$1,250 had been pledged. This was not enough. After the announcement by Milne, pledges were collected throughout the audience. The sum was raised to $1,848, which added to the income of the meeting, which was $2,671, would go to make up a fairly large amount.

The speeches of the afternoon were made by E. G. Blair and Miss Agnes Voyce. Mr. Blair spoke well and was enthusiastically applauded. Miss Voyce discussed the country teacher's problems. She said:

"In considering the concrete problems of rural education we must consider first then the general aim of education. What life values does it seek to preserve and emphasize? The first aim of education is to develop capacity. Our recognition of the importance of the child's physical senses should not be less than our vital realization of the value of his finer capacities. It is not more terrible for a child to be blind than for him to be insensitive to spiritual beauty. We must discover the child's finest capacities whatever they are. The development and training of individual capacities is the first step in laying the foundation for life. But in addition to this we must give him a code, a standard, a working manual to influence conduct and in very concrete terms we must help him to decide what things in life are worthy his efforts to attain."

In another part of her address she said: "When we have attained the ideal rural school people will no longer speak of sending children away to get the advantages of a city school, but children will be sent to the country to be protected from the haphazard influence of city life and to enjoy the superior equipment and consecrated school life of the richly equipped and efficiently taught rural school. But it will be several generations before the ideal rural school is attained. What specific effort can be made by the rural teacher today to enrich the environment of her particular school. The fundamental need of the country child is for self expression. The tragedy of uncommunicativeness is indigenous of the rural soil. Folk dancing, pantomime, dramatization, special day programs, are all far more vital to the highest development of the country child than the most rigid and thorough knowledge of text books."

The business session which followed was one of superlative importance. It was announced that Albuquerque was again chosen as the meeting place of the convention, winning over Santa Fe by a majority of nine votes. The results of the election of officers showed that Mrs. Lockard was chosen president, with a vote of 212, Adelino Sanchez was elected vice president by a vote of 249. G. B. Jones was unanimously elected treasurer; E. C. Best was elected railroad secretary, and Mrs. Otero-Warren was elected to the vacancy on the executive committee.

The amendments were all carried except No. 3, which received 185 votes for and 215 against. This amendment provided that the power of choosing the place of meeting of the association should be in the hands of the executive committee.

The reports of the committee on finance, necrology and resolutions followed, and were unanimously accepted as read. Upon the question of President Bickley as to whether the house had any further business to present there was silence. Accordingly, the chairman raised his gavel and proclaimed that the thirty-sixth annual meeting of the New Mexico Educational association was thereby adjourned until next November.

DRAINAGE MEETING HELD BY RANCHERS OF COUNTY VALLEY

A plan for the drainage of the valley lands in the county was discussed last night at a meeting held at the chamber of commerce parlors at the call of County Agent Leo Reynolds. Several changes were suggested in the plan outlined by the county agent and Edmund Ross, county engineer, and these will be taken up at another meeting to be held within a few days. Drainage is one of the greatest questions confronting the valley farmers in the county and the opinion was expressed at the meeting last night that a united effort will bring the much desired drainage activity.

The meeting last night is the first of a series planned by the county agent for the discussion of drainage and the organization of land owners toward that end.

1ST HONORS IN ORATORY WON BY LOCAL SPEAKERS

The final phases of the teachers' convention here were the oratorical and declamatory contests held in the high school and Methodist church last night.

The oratorical contest was held in the church. First came the college section, which was represented by Roy Hickman of the state university, who spoke on "Our Japanese Question," and Tom Fort, of the Agricultural College, whose subject was "The Peaceful Penetration of the Japanese." Both of these young men are intelligent speakers, with easy grace and confidence in presenting their topics. Mr. Hickman, perhaps, was a trifle more natural in his address. He won first place in the college section. The high school oratorical contest followed. There were five entries, all female with the exception of Maxwell M. Merritt, of Albuquerque, who carried off first honors with consummate ease. His topic was "The Question of the Century," and was a logically well-balanced argument on the disarmament question, with some reference to the league of nations. Mr. Merritt's powerful, convincing personality was very pleasingly evinced.

The second place went to Elsie Mills of Springer, who delivered an interesting and amusing essay about "Our Returned Soldiers." She recommended the relinquishing of jobs and sweethearts to the demobilized soldier. Other contestants were Josephine Cannon of Gallup, Catherine Van Stone of Santa Fe, and Dorothy Brooks of Raton. The declamatory contest at the high school was entered by nine contestants. First place went to Mabel Stead of Deming, whose subject was "The Matinee." Second honors were carried off by "The Song of Patsy," given by Mary Hunter of Las Vegas. Honorable mention was made of Leona Hallard of Gallup, whose selection was "The Sign of the Cross."

No One Can Stop Us, But Ourselves

Today We Give Thanks For The Manifold Blessings Enjoyed By Our Community

And On Friday, Nov. 25

We begin to carry out the plan; approved by a mass meeting of business men, and by the officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce; out of which it is expected to create a vigorous, united community effort which will capitalize those blessings of today so that Albuquerque shall realize from them tenfold of cause for Thanksgiving in 1922.

Success for this plan calls for a minimum of 1,500 ACTIVE members in the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce for the year 1922: Not merely members paying monthly, quarterly, semi-annual or annual dues to the Chamber of Commerce to the total of $12.00 each per year; but members who take an active, personal interest in determining what the Chamber of Commerce shall undertake for Albuquerque, in seeing to it that the Chamber of Commerce CARRIES OUT whatever it undertakes; and an active, personal participation in the community effort to that end.

Each member of the Chamber of Commerce will be entitled to one vote—no more. Directors will be elected by the members voting from a ballot containing the entire list of the membership, after the campaign has been completed.

At the same time each member will be asked to select, from a list of projects to be submitted by printed ballot, TEN PROJECTS which he regards as most important for the Chamber of Commerce to carry out during 1922; or to propose others not listed, which may be regarded as most important. The TEN PROJECTS receiving the highest number of votes will constitute the major program of constructive work to be undertaken by the Chamber of Commerce during 1922. Thus the members will determine the work to be done and will elect the men to direct it.

Two hundred workers for Albuquerque have volunteered for the membership campaign. They will assemble to begin their work tomorrow, Friday morning, November 25, at the Chamber of Commerce. Each will signed to a block. Each will solicit every resident of the block assigned to him to become an active member of the Chamber of Commerce. Each will be prepared to explain in such further detail as may be necessary, the plan of the membership campaign, and the tentative plans for more intensive work by the Chamber of Commerce during 1922.

Remember that each of these 200 campaigners is giving his time and effort to Albuquerque, FOR Albuquerque and for the welfare of all of us. Remember that a city of 50,000 in 1927 rests absolutely with OUR WILL TO BUILD IT.

'CANT' GROWERS TELL THE WORLD THEIR POSITION

Issue An Ultimatum to Railway Companies, Commission Merchants and Crate and Paper Houses.

(Special Correspondence to The Journal.) Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 23.—Cantaloupe growers in the Mesilla valley, from Hill, N. M., to the Texas line, have issued their ultimatum to railway companies, commission merchants and crate and paper houses. It came through a joint committee of the Farm Bureau Marketing association, consisting of S. S. Hookland, president; C. E. Locke, secretary; H. H. Brook, president of the Elephant Butte irrigation district; Patrick McElroy, James Quisenberry, N. M. Smith and H. U. McDowell.

The association seeks to place the cantaloupe crop, which promises to be a matter of from 3,200 to 3,500 cars next season, under the farmers' control, so that a reasonable profit on time and capital may result. Briefly, the terms are:

Growers demand a guarantee from distributors over and above other charges 30 cents for each flat crate of Standard and Jumbo to August 11, 1922, and 20 cents thereafter; 15 cents for each flat crate of pony melons to August 11 and nothing thereafter; and 50 cents a crate for Honey Dews for the season. The rate of commission is reduced from 16 to 15 per cent.

The land devoted to melons will be limited to from 1,000 to 1,200 acres, as follows: Las Cruces, 400 acres; Dona Ana, Mesilla Park, Vado, Anthony and Vinton, 150 acres each.

"The committee also recommends," says the report, which was adopted by unanimous vote at a largely attended meeting at the Temple of Agriculture, November 19, "that the growers be shaped up with the distributors on a basis giving the Farm Bureau Marketing association control of the acreage, that the acreage should be signed up by the association in fact, and that the industry be controlled, except in certain details, by the association."

The new contract embodies these demands. Growers are signed up on the understanding that all melons will be handled by the association or not grown. The printed form printed by the organization shows a 1 per cent reduction in commission. The new rate is 15 per cent.

The work of signing up growers is to be continued until the acreage required has been secured. To facilitate this a committee will be appointed for each of the districts in the foregoing.

The matter of signing up Japanese was fully discussed by the committee. And in view of the fact that there is no legislation to enforce the constitutional amendment barring Japanese from ownership or leasing of land," the report says, "the association takes the steps to prevent these people from growing melons or shipping them; but on the contrary, allows them to join the association and signs them up on the same basis as the American growers until the required legislation shall be enacted."

"It was the consensus of opinion on the part of those present that the number of distributors to be recognized by the association shall not exceed three and that the growers' preference as to the particular firm with which they desire to do business be recognized. If the distributor chosen accepts the association's terms, with the understanding, however, that only firms having proper rating and being placed on the accredited list of the association shall secure any of the business."

Continuing, the report says "it is the firm conviction of the committee that no cantaloupes should be grown in the Mesilla valley hereafter until conditions have so changed as to insure the farmers a profit. This means there should be no acreage put into melons unless freight rates are materially reduced and other expenses come down in proportion to the reduction in prices of cantaloupes on the market."

SPECIAL TRAIN WILL BE RUN TO FOOTBALL GAME

(Special Correspondence to The Journal.) Clayton, N. M., Nov. 23.—Interest in the Clayton high school football team has reached the stage where the whole town is backing the school in their Thanksgiving day game with the Raton high school at Raton. This interest was manifested to the extent of hiring a football special train to take the 125 boosters to Raton. This was made possible by the Rotary club, which has been co-operating with the school board and faculty in increasing interest in school work here. Nearly every member of the Rotary club will go with the team. Clayton High school has not been defeated this season.

BOARD STARTS ACTION IN COURT TO GET KEYS TO INSANE HOSPITAL

(Special Correspondence to The Journal.) East Las Vegas, N. M., Nov. 23.—Suit for mandatory injunction requiring Dr. Royal B. Tracy to show cause why he should not surrender the keys to the New Mexico hospital for the insane, has been filed in the district court for San Miguel county, November 30 has been set as the date for the hearing, which will be before Judge J. L. Leahy. The board of directors of the hospital made the complaint.

The complaint sets out that Dr. Tracy was medical superintendent of the hospital prior to November 17, when he was notified of his removal; that he has retained keys, including those to the front door, to the superintendent's office, and to the wards. The request is made that the court compel Dr. Tracy to show cause why a mandatory injunction should not be issued requiring him to surrender the keys and desist from interfering with the management and conduct of the medical superintendent's office.

The suit was filed by Attorneys Charles W. G. Ward, O. O. Askren and Charles G. Hedgecock, counsel for plaintiffs. John D. W. Veeder is representing Tracy.

ELIMINATION OF HALF OF FACTS TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS ADVOCATED

(By The Associated Press.) Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 23.—Elimination of 50 per cent of the facts taught in the grade schools was advocated by Miss Katherine McLaughlin, of the University of California, in an address before the annual convention of the Arizona State Teachers' association here today.

Miss McLaughlin declared that the time so gained in the schools should be devoted to giving more physical training. She especially criticized the present manner of teaching geography in which the pupils are required to learn many facts concerning the boundaries of states, capitals of various countries, and similar subjects, which, she declared, were without practical value to the children in later life.

W. R. Hull, superintendent of schools in Clarkdale, was elected president of the administrators' section of the association today and Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, county superintendent of Yavapai county, was elected secretary-treasurer. The administrators decided to hold their next meeting in Tucson during University week in April.

NORTH DAKOTA'S NEW EXECUTIVE IS ON THE JOB

R. W. Nestos is Sworn In As Governor, Succeeding Frazier, Non-Partisan Leaguer, Recalled.

(By The Associated Press.) Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 23.—R. A. Nestos, an attorney of Minot, was sworn in late today as the thirteenth governor of North Dakota, replacing Gov. Lynn J. Frazier, a non-partisan league state, who was ousted in the October 23 recall election.

With Mr. Nestos there went into office Sveinbjorn Johnson of Grand Forks and J. A. Kitchin of Sentinel Butte, independents, respectively chosen in the recall election to succeed Attorney General William Lemke and J. N. Hagan, commissioner of agriculture and labor, non-partisan league state, who was ousted in the October 23 recall election.

He promised to make a thorough examination so far as possible of every department, industry and activity, for the support of which tax moneys have been used. Governor Frazier, who began his third term last January, will return to his farm near Hoople. Mr. Lemke will return to his law office in Fargo.

EXPECT LARGE CROWD AT PARK CONFERENCE AT LAS CRUCES DEC. 3

(Special Correspondence to The Journal.) Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 23.—Frank T. French, chairman of the local committee of the Southwestern National All-Year Park association, said today that New Mexico, Texas, Arizona, Oklahoma and Kansas will be represented at the mass convention in Las Cruces, December 3.

"The plan to create a new public playground in southern New Mexico seems to meet with favor in many parts of the southwest," Mr. French added. "It appears to be a popular move, especially since it is understood that no forest reservation will be included in the park and that the federal government will not be asked for a penny. In fact, no appropriation will be asked from the government."

W. M. Danburg, secretary of the Santa Fe Chamber of Commerce, says among other things in a letter to Mr. French, after announcing that Ralph E. Twitchell, president of the organization will attend the convention in Las Cruces: "We feel that the establishment of a park at this time will materially help the whole state, and as far as we are concerned we want to suppress any counter movement for the location of a park elsewhere and make it possible to get the one you folks are advocating established at an early date."

Elaborate preparations are being made by the chamber of commerce, the farm bureau and the irrigation district to entertain the delegates and visitors. R. P. Porter, vice president of the Bowman Bank & Trust company, is head of the entertainment committee.

ALLEGED SLAYER IS CAPTURED BY POSSE

(By The Associated Press.) Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 23.—Late today, in an open field south of Cheyenne, city and county peace officers, surrounded Herbert Kinkead, wanted for the killing last night of Jack Goswilder in a West Cheyenne resort. Kinkead surrendered without resistance.

Both Kinkead and Goswilder, according to authorities, were discharged from the military service at Fort D. A. Russell yesterday. Kinkead, it is alleged, was given a dishonorable discharge while Goswilder, who was a corporal in the Fifty-third cavalry, was discharged honorably.

Goswilder died at a Cheyenne hospital two hours after he had been shot in the head.

C. OF C. TO MAKE STRONG BID FOR W. C. T. U. SCHOOL

In view of the fact that the Frances Willard School for Girls is to be moved from Belen, the chamber of commerce committee has decided to make an effort to secure the institution for this city.

About 75 pupils are now enrolled in the school and it is said that at least that number have been turned away this year on account of lack of accommodations to care for them.

The school is supported by private contributions and by state and national W. C. T. U. appropriations. It is planned to expand the school and to locate it in a more central point.

Several New Mexico cities are bidding for the institution and will probably offer inducements to secure its establishment. The chamber of commerce committee is considering offering a site for the building and possibly some other bonus. The expenditures of the school are considerable each year.

The board in charge of the school is composed of women of this state who are active in W. C. T. U. work and is headed by Mrs. Anna Strumquist, president of the New Mexico W. C. T. U.

CORN CLUB BOYS ARE GIVEN THE JOURNAL PRIZES

President H. B. Kent, of the State College, Compliments the Boys on Their Work During the Year.

H. B. Kent, president of the State college, presented the Morning Journal prizes to the 1921 County Corn club winners yesterday at the office of County Agent Lee Reynolds. Cecil Goff received the first prize and Russell Goff and George Carey divided the second prize. All three of the boys are about 14 years old.

Desiring to stimulate the interest of valley farmers in corn production and to develop a better type of corn in the valley, County Agent Reynolds organized a Boys' Corn club last spring and as an inducement, the Morning Journal offered prizes for the best showing made by the boys.

Eighteen boys entered the club and planted an acre of corn with special seed furnished by the county agent. The fields were cultivated under the county agent's direction and in most cases, but for the flood, which washed many of the fields last summer, the results would have been remarkable and would have given a good test of the various types of corn and ways of planting. The flood, however, destroyed many of the crops and after several of the other boys had had hard luck of one type or another, but a few fields yielded good results.

When distributing the prizes, President Kent urged the boys not to be disappointed at the result of their efforts this year.

"It is by experiments such as you have made, that development is accomplished," President Kent told them, "and we want each of you boys to enter the club next year and raise even better corn after the experience you have had this year."

He also pointed out to them that the club work gave them a chance to learn the most scientific methods of farming, so that when they owned farms of their own, they would be able to operate them in such a manner that they would be profitable.

"The services of the state college and the county agent are at your disposal at all times," President Kent told the boys, "and we want you also to get enough experience out of the club work that you can soon operate good farms for yourselves at a profit. We would like to have 50 Bernalillo county boys enter the corn club next year."

A Mother's Recommendation. Mrs. Kate Deets, Mayaville, Mo., recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as follows: "I gave Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to my children when they had croup and whooping cough and I and my husband have both taken it for colds and coughs and it has never failed to give us desired relief. I cannot praise this medicine too highly. This remedy contains no opiate and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult."

NO FRICTION IN JAP RANKS, SAYS PRINCE

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Nov. 23 (by The Associated Press).—Following a public denial tonight by Prince Tokugawa of a rumor that the appointment today of Vice Foreign Minister Hanihara as Japanese plenipotentiary to the conference was due to a disagreement of policy between Admiral Kato and Ambassador Shidehara, an official bulletin was issued saying Baron Shidehara was suffering from inflammation of the kidneys. The bulletin was signed by one Japanese and two American physicians.

Prince Tokugawa criticized the rumor of a disagreement between the Japanese delegates as "silly nonsense." He said that Mr. Hanihara was appointed as fourth plenipotentiary because of the illness of the ambassador placed too much work upon the other delegates.

"Poor Shidehara is in bed," he said. "We have never quarreled and do not intend to do so."

Are You Satisfied With Your Success?

Have You the Necessary Energy and Vitality to Win Out Today? Will You Have It Tomorrow?

The Most Influential Private Citizen of England Says the Greatest Aid to SUCCESS is Good Normal Health.

There never was a more truthful fact spoken. When health fails, most everything else fails. When you feel yourself getting worn-out, run-down, and weak, you know that you can't work and think right. Everything is against you. Before you can attain full success and happiness, you must do something to bring back your vitality—your ability to think straight and to act quick.

What causes so much ill health? Usually it is due to the inability of the system to throw off waste products. The body is continually using up the foods we eat to give strength to our system. There is always a certain amount of waste that ordinarily should be carried off through the pores of the skin, through the kidneys, and through the alimentary canal. When this is not done, waste products get in the blood, and as a consequence, you must suffer with many complaints.

To throw off the waste products, you must use a blood purifier and system builder to clean out the poisons. During the past 50 years, S. S. S. has restored thousands of people to normal health, by relieving them of the waste products which cause impoverished blood and its allied troubles—skin diseases, rheumatism and a lowered vitality.

Don't use butter, eggs or milk in this cake

DELICIOUS cakes can be made very economically if you use in them the richest, highest grade of shortening.

This sounds contradictory, but in the recipe below the extra richness of Crisco makes up for the absence of eggs and milk. Crisco is 100% rich—pure, white vegetable oil hardened by the patented process which prevents rancidity.

Experienced cooks prefer Crisco for delicate cakes because it is tasteless and odorless and permits the use of dainty and unusual flavorings. Fastidious people demand it in all cooking because it makes food taste better.

Try Crisco in this recipe

APPLE SAUCE FRUIT CAKE

- 1 cupful brown sugar
- 1½ cupfuls apple sauce
- 2½ cupfuls flour
- ½ cupful Crisco
- 1 lb. raisins
- 1 teaspoonful powdered cloves
- 1 teaspoonful powdered cinnamon
- 1 teaspoonful grated nutmeg
- 2 teaspoonfuls baking soda
- ¾ teaspoonful salt
- 3 tablespoonfuls vinegar

Cream Crisco and sugar thoroughly together, add apple sauce, flour, raisins, spices, salt, and soda mixed with vinegar. Mix and pour into greased and floured cake tin and bake in moderate oven one and a half hours.

Do you know the knack of successful baking? This book will teach you.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna Kent Forbes.

BADLY SHAPED EYEBROWS

Whether the eyebrows are thick or thin, or whether they are light or dark in color, does not matter so much as most women think. The important thing is the shape of the eyebrows. If they are badly shaped with hairs that grow out at the proper arch of the brow they simply cannot be pretty. And this is very fortunate for the average beautyseeker, because it is difficult to change the color of the eyebrows but not at all difficult to change their shape.

I would not advise you to have the eyebrows shaved. This is a process that was considered fashionable a couple of years ago when eyebrows were only supposed to be the thickness of a pencil mark. It led to a great many otherwise pretty women completely spoiling their appearance by having artificial eyebrows marked on where normal and pretty ones naturally grew.

You can keep the eyebrows perfectly shaped by pulling out all the ugly hairs with a pair of tweezers. There will be surprisingly few that should be pulled out. Half a dozen thick, coarse hairs growing too high or too low will quite spoil an otherwise pretty eyebrow. It is easy enough to pull these out, and when they grow in again, as of course most of them will, to pull them out once more. And here is a suggestion worth remembering: If your eyebrows are very rough looking rub over them with a bit of muscelaine, shape them in the muscelaine dries and let them stay like this all night. This daily treatment will do wonders in training rough or coarse eyebrows.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

By LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

ONE WEEK'S MEALS FOR CHILDREN OVER THREE.

The following menus for a week are suitable for children over three years of age. They are well balanced and delicious.

Sunday—Breakfast: Orange, hot cereal, poached egg on toast, glass of milk. Dinner: Chicken or leg of lamb, mashed potato, spinach, hot "Brown Betty" pudding with hard sauce. Supper: Hot grape-nuts dish, apple sauce, glass of milk. (Recipe given below for this dish.)

Monday—Breakfast: Hot cereal, muffins, stewed prunes, glass of milk (the stewed prunes, being rich in protein, may take the place of an egg now and then). Dinner: Cold left-over chicken or lamb, boiled potatoes, cauliflower, steamed date pudding. Supper: Baked hot cornmeal mush cakes with maple syrup (to make these, boil cornmeal mush, pour it into cup-cake tins to cool and mold, then bake these molds till brown. This takes the place of fried cornmeal mush; for fried foods are not good for children).

Tuesday—Breakfast: Pear, hot cereal, soft boiled egg, milk. Dinner: Lamb chop, baked potato, canned pea creamed, gelatin dessert. Supper: Boiled rice served hot with milk and sugar, cookies.

Wednesday—Breakfast: Orange, hot cereal, toast with peanut butter, glass of milk (the peanut butter is also rich in protein and may take the place of an egg occasionally). Dinner: Vegetable milk chowder (simply boil potatoes, onions, carrots and cabbage, diced, in seasoned hot milk till tender, then thicken slightly with a little flour), bread and butter, prune whip. Supper: Split pea soup, whole wheat bread and butter, cocoa, cookies.

Thursday—Breakfast: Hot cereal, poached egg on toast, glass of milk, apple. Dinner: Lamb chop, baked potato, squash, cornmeal mush with milk and sugar, preserves, muffins.

Friday—Breakfast: Hot cereal, stewed prunes, popovers, glass of milk. Dinner: Baked fresh fish, creamed potatoes, creamed string beans, pudding, supper: Cream cheese or peanut butter, sandwiches, cocoa, preserves.

Saturday—Breakfast: Hot cereal, soft-boiled egg, jam on toast, glass of milk. Dinner: Beef loaf, sweet potatoes baked, boots, custard pudding. Supper: Baked rice and tomato dish, glass of milk, stewed sweetened raisins molded and served with mock whipped cream.

Of course the housekeeper-mother can make changes in this set of menus. For instance, if her child is very active and seems to need even more than these nourishing meals will give him, she may add soup to the dinners. If you have dinner at night and a lunch at noon, just change the menus about, naming the supper "luncheon." These meals may be eaten by the entire family—grown people as well as children—with benefit.

The grape-nut dish mentioned above is made by adding 1 cup of uncooked grape-nuts to a pudding dish in which you have put 1 quart of milk, 1-2 cup of sugar and a pinch of salt. An egg may be added if desired, but is not necessary. The vegetable milk chowder or less sugar may be added if it is desired to have it only slightly sweet. Bake this dish for an hour in a moderate oven and serve either hot or cold.

The steamed date pudding recipe I will be glad to send to any reader upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DR. BURNHAM DEAD. Pomona, Calif., Nov. 23.—Dr. George T. Burnham, 57 years old, a member of the faculty of the University of Cincinnati, died at the home of his sister, here yesterday. Dr. Burnham was known among students of the classics as an authority on Latin and other Romance languages. The funeral will be held in Pomona.

I haven't had a single cake, I am so worried, and I'm hungry and you won't be my Mumsie any more if you do such an awful thing, because I'll run away or take poison or something."

"There, dear, sit up and we'll talk nicely."

"I hate Hortense Thompson! I never shall speak to her again, never, for saying such things."

"What did Hortense say, dear?" Joan stood before Margaret, accusing eyes bent searching upon her. The girl boasted that she could always tell what her mother thought if she looked straight at her.

"She said that Craig—that everyone in town said he was in love with you."

"I can't help that, can I, dear?" Margaret smiled as she replied: "I can't help his loving me if he wants to."

"I don't want him to love you. They said you would marry him. You won't, will you? Hortense said that widows as old as you got married. But then, if they have a little girl to love, do they, Mumsie? You would rather be my Mumsie than anything else in the world, wouldn't you?" Joan asked with the selfishness of youth.

"Of course, dear; now let us go down and get some cakes. Hannah is hurt because you haven't had any after she baked them for you."

"And you won't marry Craig Forrester, Mumsie?"

"Joan, dear, Craig Forrester hasn't asked me to marry him. It is only silly gossip Hortense repeated. Pay no attention, and I don't tell Hortense or anyone that you told me. I should be embarrassed if you did."

"I'm so glad he didn't ask you, Mumsie! Hey, Hannah, I am coming after those cakes now!" Joan called as she ran down the stairs.

"I wonder—if he had asked me if I—" Margaret muttered, as left alone she thought of Joan's resentment.

UNIVERSAL AUNT IS ENTERPRISE OF ONE BUSY LONDON WOMAN

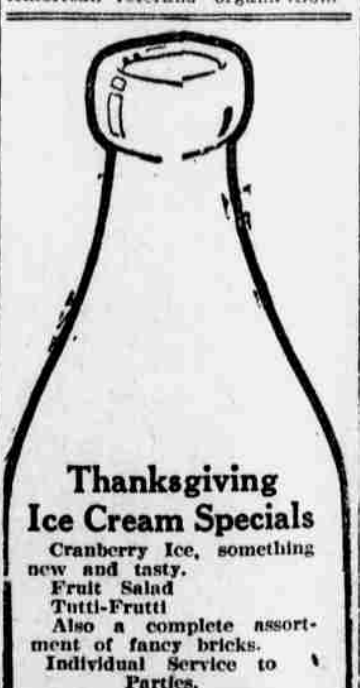

"When the scientific history of this age comes to be written distinguished among the names of great inventors will be that of Miss Port, the inventor of the Universal Aunt," writes from London a woman correspondent of the Manchester Guardian. "Like many great inventions, this had a simple origin. Miss Port was already a multifarious aunt, caring for many nephews and nieces whose parents were abroad. They had to be met and farewelled and taken to dentists and fitted out with clothes. "Like a flash, the inspiration came to her. Why should I not be a Universal Aunt? That was in January of this year. Today Miss Port has an office and enterprise known as the Universal Aunts, and she has on her books eighty assistant Aunts ready to do, in an organized way the hundred and one jobs that usually fall to the lot of the mother's unmarried sisters."

Many a girl who has consulted Miss Port about ways to earn money has been asked the question, "Have you a hobby?" They often have some useful accomplishment that they never thought of turning to practical account. They may be clever dressmakers or know something about house decoration or animals as they are interested in London's history, or they are skilled in cleaning and mending old lace, or they are accustomed to travelers. For each of these and many other gifts Miss Port can find a use, for Aunts are called upon to do everything imaginable.

MARSHAL FOCH SERVES AS LEGION COMMANDER FOR HOUR IN BOSTON

Boston, Mass., Nov. 23.—Marshal Foch served as commander of the Massachusetts department of the American legion one hour during his visit here. He was unanimously elected at a luncheon given for him by legion officials of the state. After his election the French generalissimo issued "general order No. 1" to legion men of Massachusetts. He dictated the order and signed it as department commander. Before his departure for Philadelphia he tendered his resignation and was presented with a jeweled emblem such as the department gives its retiring commanders.

In his order to the legion men the marshal said: "You are a great organization. But you can make it greater and stronger by getting every man who served under the American colors in the struggle against the German enemy to enroll himself under its banner. It owes it to himself and to his nation to be a member of the great American veterans' organization."

MISS HAZEL PAINE AND VICTOR MILLER ELOPE TO SANTA FE

Miss Hazel Paine of Ohio and Victor A. Miller of Havana, N. M., a former student at the state university, eloped to Santa Fe where they were married on Tuesday evening, according to word which reached their friends here last night. They are expected to return here shortly to make their home.

The bride, a pretty young woman with a decided talent for art, has been a resident of Albuquerque for the past two years, earning here from Ohio where she attended college. She has been making her home here this year with Miss Edna Miller, sister of the bridegroom at 1215 West Roma avenue.

Mr. Miller has been employed for the past year in the city engineer's office in the position of assistant engineer. He is a senior in the engineering department of the state university and a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. He has been living for the past three years at the fraternity house on University Hill.

JOAN REPEATS HORTENSE'S REMARKS.

CHAPTER 21.
Slowly, thoughtfully, Joan walked home. Malcolm Frost and Lonnie Carpenter passed her on the opposite side of the street and called their greetings. Joan made no answer, pretending she didn't hear.

"There was a little girl. And she had a little curl, right in the middle of her forehead. When she was good, she was very, very good, and when she was bad she was hor—rid!"

As they sang the darguerl in Joan Joan flung her bobbed head in disdain, and still, not deigning to notice them further, hurried home. She had weightier things to occupy her mind than what two stupid boys might think of her. But she would deal with them later, was her unconscious decision.

"Where's Mumsie?" she asked of Hannah.

"Gone over to Mrs. Thompson's to call, honey." Then noticing Joan's serious face she asked anxiously: "Don't you feel well, honey? I've got some cakes for you."

"I don't want any cakes! Not now, anyway," she amended.

"That child sure am sick," old Hannah mumbled. "When she don't want no cakes there is sure something wrong with her."

Upstairs sitting cross-legged on the broad couch in her mother's room, Joan awaited her return. The thing was preposterous! Her Mumsie never would think of hurting her by doing such an awful thing. Yet in spite of her reasoning, what Hortense's remarks remained uppermost in her thoughts.

"Widow older than your mother or not married?" and "father said it would be a good match." Good match for who?

"Perhaps for that old stiff Craig Forrester!" she said aloud, kicking viciously at a rose colored pillow until it slipped to the floor. "I'm sure it would not be good for me, and so it wouldn't be for Mumsie. Oh, I hate everybody, and everything!" she exclaimed, swinging up and running to the window. "Why doesn't she come? Gone over there so Mrs. Thompson can tell her to marry him. I'll bet."

Angry tears filled her eyes. Then, too, she wanted some cakes. She could smell the delicious odor wafted up stairs from the kitchen. She always ate two or three the days Hannah made them; ate them just as soon as she returned from school. She had been home almost a half hour. It was terrible in Mumsie to worry her, and make her go without her favorite cakes.

When Margaret came in Joan did not hear her, so the mother surprised a tearful child thrown face down on the couch, crying because of her fears that would not be reasoned away; also for the cakes cooling in the pantry.

"Why Joan, dear, what are you crying for? What has happened?" Joan seldom wept, and Margaret immediately pictured all sorts of school troubles.

"Hortense Thompson says you are going to marry that horrid Craig Forrester, and I won't have my Mumsie any more—ever—and

Thanksgiving 1921

NO ONE in the business world has escaped the trials that have marked the course of business during 1921. Yet as we measure the hardships of the American people during this year with those endured by the people of other nations; and as we measure our problems with our blessings we are bound to welcome this great national holiday of Thanksgiving in a spirit of profound gratitude.

We have cause for especial thanksgiving today, because it is apparent that in our nation, and in our state and city, the recovery from uncertainty and fear and the resultant business depression, is right at hand. Our feet are upon the solid ground once more, and we are moving confidently into the future.

We have cause for especial thanksgiving in our own city today, because it brings with it heartening evidence of a revival of harmonious community effort; a strengthening of that fine spirit of co-operation which built this city and which will continue to build it along constantly broadening lines. "No one can stop us but ourselves," is a good slogan because it is true. With this slogan Albuquerque will grow and prosper in 1922; and for that we may well be thankful.

It is the firm determination of Rosenwald's to take active part in applying the principle of this slogan in participation in community undertakings, and especially to the direction of this institution. It is our firm determination to make this department store an example of constantly broadening public service and steadily increasing efficiency of service.

This year has brought us a business triumph and a serious disaster. The triumph was the achievement of the 50th anniversary of the establishment of our business. The disaster was the fire which partially wrecked our store, closed it for many days and disturbed for many more the even course of normal business to which we are earnestly striving to hasten the return.

We enjoyed the hearty congratulations of the people of Albuquerque in our Golden Jubilee observance. We were heartened by sympathy of the people of Albuquerque when disaster befell us. In both triumph and trouble, as well as in the daily course of business throughout this year 1921, we have sensed more strongly than ever before the cordial friendship and substantial support of the citizenship of our home community with whose welfare and prosperity our own is inseparably linked.

For this we are indeed thankful and we take this occasion on the morning of Thanksgiving Day to again express to our friends and patrons our sincere appreciation of friendship and patronage and to assure you again that we will leave nothing undone to continue to merit both, in the policy of this institution and in its equipment for service.

We Wish You, One and All, a Happy Thanksgiving Day.

JAPS TO OPPOSE ANY ATTACK ON TREATY OF 1915

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23 (by the Associated Press).—Any attempt at the Washington conference to attack the validity of Japan's 1915 treaty with China, often called the twenty-one demands, would be opposed by Japan, it was said today, but Japan would not oppose an examination of the treaty which would be based on allegations that the agreement is in conflict with the principle of the open door or equal opportunity in China. In other words, it was intimated Japan would be ready to discuss any charge that the equal rights of other nationals were being interfered with under the 1915 agreement.

It is admitted some inquiry may be caused by interpretations of the nationalities of other powers of the clause under which Japan capitalists may have the first right to make loans to China for the building of necessary railroads in south Manchuria and eastern inner Mongolia. It is said Japan will be fully ready to present her case on this point as well as upon the additional clause in the notes attached to the treaty that the Chinese government when asking for a loan on the security of the taxes in these provinces (excluding the salt and customs revenue) are to negotiate for it with Japanese capitalists.

Still another provision in the general accord of 1915 declares that if foreign advisers or instructors on political, military or police matters are to be employed in south Manchuria, Japan "may be employed first."

Apparently Japanese deem the most vital clause of the treaty that under which the lease of the south Manchurian railway and the Antung-Mukden railway shall be extended ninety-nine years and the lease of Port Arthur and Dairen (Dairen) a similar period. The Kwangtung lease of the railroad with which these concessions are included was one of the fruits of the war with Russia, and Japanese spokesmen insist Japan will never consent to any change or abrogation in the lease of this territory, which they are inclined to regard as practically perpetual.

The difference between the speaker of the English house of commons and the lord chancellor, who occupies a similar position in the house of lords, is that while the speaker cannot take part in the debate, the lord chancellor is entitled to speak and vote on all occasions.

FIXING A LIMIT ON LAND FORCES DIFFICULT, SAYS

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23 (by the Associated Press).—The desire of Italy to participate in the consortium dealing with Chinese fiscal affairs was made known today during an interview by Senator Albertini and Ambassador Ricci. Addition of Italy to those now included, the senator said, might remove some objection indicated by China to the plan.

Predicting it would be more difficult to fix a standard of the limitation of land than naval armaments, the senator said that to reach an understanding over reduction of land armaments the conference must discuss reasons militating in favor or against maintenance of the reduction of land armaments.

The greatest difficulty for the limitation of land armaments, he said, was expressed by Premier Briand Monday when he said France could not accept reduction of her forces unless she received proper guarantees. Declaring Italy and France are on the best terms, he said that the Italian land armaments had been "inspired by the true desire of bringing about in Europe a situation of lasting peace."

"Our strategic position was modified after the war," he said. "Before that we were faced with the dilemma of having to fight either France or Austria. Now we must try to get such a reduction of armaments which will not deprive us of the forces necessary to defend our sea communications. From this point of view Italy is almost an insular power. If our sea communications were cut off we would starve and would be obliged to surrender in a few weeks."

STREET CAR FARES IN CHICAGO ARE REDUCED

(By The Associated Press.)
Chicago, Nov. 23.—The Illinois commerce commission tonight issued an order reducing street car fares in Chicago from eight to five cents, effective Friday. The rate of fare established by the commission follows closely the petition of the Cook county real estate board for a temporary five cent fare, the order not being effective after July 1, 1922, although the commission reserves the right to continue the order after that date.

OPINIONS CLASH IN ARMS LIMIT PARLEY DEBATE

French Ask Chinese Delegates By What Authority They Presume to Speak for the Whole of China.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23 (by the Associated Press).—The attempt to settle specific problems troubling the Far East, led today to the first sharp clash of opinions in the arms conference.

A British view of the concrete application of the general principles adopted, met with a challenge from the Chinese, and the Chinese delegates were pointedly asked by the French to show by what authority they presumed to speak for all of China over protests of the south China government at Canton.

Strangely enough the Japanese, who had been the first to raise objections to the consideration of details of the Far East, came forward with a suggestion that they would not oppose an examination of their famous twenty-one demands treaty with China to ascertain whether it conflicts with the open door.

Root Resolution.

Although the action of the French in questioning the credentials of the Chinese caused a momentary flurry in the meeting of the nine delegations, the divergence of opinion between the Chinese and British over application of the four principles of the Root resolution attracted widest attention because of its possible effect on future negotiations. Should the British view prevail, declared the Chinese, it would mean an internationalization of Chinese economic resources.

The French objection was interposed when the Chinese presented a plan by which China would regain tariff autonomy by a gradual change from foreign control. The Chinese replied to the challenge that they were representing the only government in China, recognized by the powers, and were attempting to help the negotiations by furnishing whatever information they could.

The difference of view between the British and Chinese developed when a British spokesman explained to newspaper men that his government's policy was to apply the principles as meaning acceptance by China of a financial consortium, pooling of the operation of railroad concessions held by foreigners, and continued supervision of China's customs. The Root resolution, according to the British viewpoint, were adopted with acceptance by China of these principles in view by the signatory powers.

Deny an Agreement.

The Chinese quickly sent out word that they had agreed to no such program. While Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese minister to the United States, declined to enter into a detailed discussion of the interpretation in the absence of an official statement, he said that the Chinese delegation declared committee discussion had brought forth no expression by the delegates of the British view, and that China placed no such interpretation on them.

The committee, Dr. Sze said, had not even been mentioned.

According to the Chinese view, the Root resolutions apply to the open door, as embodied in the policy outlined by John Hay, waiving of special rights and privileges, unhampered political and economic development of China, and assurances of her territorial, political and administrative integrity.

The British view, if accepted, Chinese assert, would be tantamount to international fiscal control, which would be a short step to political control.

Notwithstanding these cross currents, the committee considering the Far Eastern situation, with special reference at the moment of China's financial affairs, made progress toward a solution of her customs by the appointment of a subcommittee.

China's Proposals.

Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to Great Britain, and a delegate, presented China's proposal for restoration of her tariff autonomy by three stages.

He asked that from January 1 China be permitted to levy a maximum duty of 12½ per cent, which he said had been stipulated in treaties with the United States, Great Britain and Japan, and to give immediate relief.

Recognizing that it appeared hardly possible to establish a new customs regime at once, Dr. Koo said China should impose a maximum rate with full tariff autonomy in that maximum, including the right of differentiation among the different classes of commodities. Finally full autonomy, he said, should be restored to China after a certain period to be agreed upon.

NEW BEER BILL AN AID TO PRO FORCES—HAYNES

Measure Signed By Harding
—Commissioner Says No Embarrassment in Enforcement Anticipated.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Nov. 23.—Passage of the anti-beer bill which was signed by President Harding today, "marks a new step forward in the enforcement of prohibition," Commissioner Haynes said tonight.

The act, he said, strengthens the prohibition forces in dealing with the alleged medicinal preparation sold on the open market and used for beverage purposes and limits activities of the few physicians "who were issuing prescriptions for liquor" to people not actually requiring it.

"No embarrassment in the enforcement of prohibition," he said, "is anticipated from the provision imposing penal liability upon officers searching dwellings without warrants and searching other property without warrants maliciously and without reasonable cause. The officers are given fair warning that they must not search dwellings without warrants and no attempt to do so will be made."

"It appears that so long as a prohibition officer has reasonable ground for suspecting a violation of the prohibition act he cannot be punished for searching property other than a dwelling without a warrant. No substantial decrease in the activities of prohibition officers is anticipated as the result of the new act and I am confident that the United States attorneys and the department of justice are not going to institute proceedings against officers, except in the case of a willful and wanton search by an officer without reasonable grounds for so doing," he added.

COULD ATTACK BILL
AS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

New York, Nov. 23.—Belief that the anti-beer bill could be attacked as unconstitutional was expressed tonight by W. H. Hirst, general counsel for New York brewers.

A ground for attack, he asserted, was that the law discriminated against beer and in favor of other alcoholic liquors for medicinal purposes.

Moreover, he asserted, the eighth amendment forbids cruel and unusual punishment, and the law discriminated against beer and in favor of other alcoholic liquors for medicinal purposes.

In the third place, he said, provisions of the new law dealing with search and seizure "infringe" the fourth amendment guaranteeing the security of home and person.

"The brewers are not greatly concerned over the ban on beer for medicine," he continued. "It strikes that the court will not permit congress to set itself up as a scientific body for arbitrarily imposing upon the medical profession the congressional decision of what constitutes a medicine. This is a matter for the medical profession."

TO TEST VALIDITY OF THE ANTI-BEER BILL

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—Test of the constitutionality of the anti-beer bill, signed by President Harding, will be begun shortly by the National Brewers' association, it was stated today by H. A. Poth, secretary of the Pennsylvania Brewers' association.

"What form the action will take or how wide its scope will be cannot be determined until there has been a conference of those interested with their counsel," he said.

A SKULL AND CHARRED
BONES OF HUMAN BODY
FOUND NEAR PHOENIX

(By The Associated Press.)
Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 23.—A skull and charred bones of a human body, believed to be that of J. J. Knight, a wealthy resident of Wichita Falls, Tex., who was last seen at Buckeye, Arizona, thirty miles southwest of here, on July 9 of this year, were found twelve miles from Buckeye today. The bones were about six miles from the point where Knight's automobile was found shortly after he was last seen. The discovery was made by Albert Eversold and Tom Houck of Phoenix.

The sheriff's office said an attempt would be made to identify the bones positively by the teeth and by indications of old fractures of various bones.

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT IS WON BY SCHAEFER

(By The Associated Press.)
Chicago, Nov. 23.—Jake Schaefer, Jr., of Chicago, tonight won the world's 18½ ball line billiard tournament, defeating Willie Hoppe, title holder.

Schaefer played out in six innings with a high run of 212 and an average of 83.1-3. Hoppe had a high run of 140 and an average of 69.1-5.

The score by innings:
Schaefer—56; 212; 16; 12; 130; 44—Total, 660.

PRESIDENT OF OWLS IS FOUND GUILTY OF VIOLATING MANN ACT

(By The Associated Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 23.—A federal court jury today found J. W. Talbot of South Bend, supreme president of the Order of Owls, guilty of violating the Mann act. Sentence was deferred by Judge Anderson, permitting the defense to decide whether the case would be appealed. Meanwhile Talbot is out under bond.

The jury's verdict held Talbot guilty under each of four counts, charging violation of the Mann act with each centering around the indictment by Talbot of Pearl Bagley of Topeka, Kans., to go to South Bend.

AN EXTENSION OF CITY LIMITS IS ADVOCATED HERE

As a special Kiwanis committee report made by A. R. Hebenstreit as chairman, it was told how extending the city limits of Albuquerque would affect the people living both inside and outside of the city limits. The report was made before the Kiwanis club's luncheon yesterday noon. The matter of the cost of living both in and out of the city limits was mentioned by the speaker.

Several of the prominent educators in the city for the N. M. E. A. convention were guests of the Kiwanis club yesterday. Dr. P. G. Blair of Illinois spoke on the need for cooperation between business and school teachers.

President Harry Kent of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, and President Chamberlain of the Silver City Normal school were also introduced.

Sidney Well gave a report of the morning's meeting of the chamber of commerce at which it was voted to reduce the membership fees. Ralph Smith, manager of the Harvey curio rooms, was made a member of the club. The attendance prize donated by A. L. Martin was won by Cliff Hayden. John Poon gave the silent boost, salted almonds and mints to go with the old fashioned Thanksgiving dinner was served.

The next meeting of the Kiwanis club will be held at the Santa Fe shops where a buffet luncheon will be served to be followed by a tour of the new building. The annual election of officers will take place at the following meeting.

SUIT FOR PAYMENT OF OCCUPATION TAX

Suits against all persons who are subject to the occupation tax have not yet started. It will be filed Monday, according to an announcement of the city attorney made yesterday. About 270 cases of delinquency will be prosecuted.

There are estimated to be about 300 persons in the city who are subject to the tax, and of this number only thirty have paid their tax. The amount ranges from $5.50 to $50. The delinquents will be given until Monday to pay the tax before action will be instituted.

The occupation tax has been of considerable service in supplying the funds lost when prohibition did away with the retail liquor dealers' licenses.

C. OF C. ANNUAL DUES ARE CUT TO $12 A YEAR

Plural Memberships Will Be Abolished; Membership Rejuvenation Campaign to Start Friday Morning.

Annual Chamber of Commerce membership dues will be reduced from $30 a year to $12 a year and each member will have only one membership. This is the decision of the Chamber of Commerce reorganization committee, which has arranged plans for the membership drive starting Friday morning. The dues will be payable annually, semi-annually, quarterly or monthly at the convenience of the member.

The "Buddy" teams have now reached 100, meaning that 200 Albuquerque boosters will be on the job Friday morning when the three-day drive starts with a parade through the business districts. The committee is anxious that at least fifty more boosters enter the active campaign and form twenty-five more teams.

The committee has been considering the amount of dues and the plural memberships at all of their meetings and it was decided yesterday that Albuquerque ought to be able to support its Chamber of Commerce by single memberships. The dues were therefore cut to the point where every Albuquerquean can well afford to be a member of the chamber.

With the reduction in the membership dues came the necessity to obtain 2,000 members instead of the 1,000 which had been decided upon. Every Albuquerquean will be given an opportunity to enter the reorganized chamber upon an equal footing with every other member.

Business who form the campaign committee will meet at the Chamber of Commerce building Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Headed by a band, they will parade down Gold avenue to First street, to Central avenue to Fourth street and back to the scatter to the various blocks which have been assigned to each "buddy" team. The drive will be carried on for three days, Friday, Saturday and Monday.

DR. DOCHERTY TO BE TRANSFERRED TO S. AMERICA

County Health Officer Receives Promotion By Rockefeller Foundation; Direct Branch Work in Columbia

Dr. J. F. Docherty, county health officer, will leave next month for Bogotá, Columbia, South America, where he will be director of that branch of the Rockefeller Foundation. Dr. Docherty received a wire yesterday from the directors of the Foundation advising him of his transfer.

Dr. Docherty has been connected with the foundation since coming here, a part of his salary being paid by that institution. He has been active in county and city health work since his arrival and is responsible for many of the hygienic and sanitary measures which have recently been adopted by the city and county.

One of the most important city measures which Dr. Docherty sponsored is the new dairy and milk ordinance passed by the city commission several months ago. A great part of his work has been confined to examinations and clinics at the schools, thousands of children having been examined and treated during the past two years.

The health office also operates a number of regular clinics for poor people and makes monthly examinations of the sanitary condition of the food markets and restaurants of the city. It was also active in relieving the impure water situation here a few weeks ago.

Dr. Docherty has been connected with the Rockefeller Foundation for a number of years and has been highly honored by the appointment to the foreign field where the foundation is doing active constructive research and remedial work.

MERCHANTS DECIDE TO ACCEPT CORN AS PAYMENT FOR DEBTS

(By The Associated Press.)
Medalla, Minn., Nov. 23.—Merchants of Medalla have decided to accept corn as payment for debts and for purchases of merchandise. This action was taken yesterday and followed complaint of farmers that they were unable to meet financial obligations. The farmers held the low market price of corn made it impractical for them to haul grain to market.

Merchants came forward with an offer that they will accept corn as payment of debts and for payment of current purchases, giving the farmer 10 cents a bushel above the prevailing market price. The barter system of trade opens Saturday and continues twenty days.

The English section assembled in room 310 instead of in the auditorium, under Dr. Hessler of the university as chairman. Dr. J. W. Clark of the same institution acted as first speaker. His subject was "The Importance of English to the Scientist." Prof. Eyre of the university discussed the engineer's point of view so far as English was concerned. Miss Rebecca Graham, Miss Keith and Miss Katherine Davis were the other speakers.

At the business session following these officers were elected: President, Miss Gertrude Takken of Albuquerque; secretary, Miss Rebecca Graham of Carlsbad; three members of educational council, Mr. Hessler, one year, Miss Keith, two years, and Miss Davis three years.

Brothers, who discussed other phases of the league and its work. The business session of the league had the following elections: President, E. Q. Brothers, Las Vegas; Miss Belle Sweet, secretary; George Mitchell, member of the council for three years.

The athletic-lyceum section assembled under G. B. Jones as chairman. The program as printed in the program booklets was followed without change. Several papers on athletics were given, and intelligent discussions followed. ## BAN IS PLACED ON ORGANIZERS IN STRIKE ZONE

Are Banned From Conducting Meetings of the Miners in C. F. & I. Camps in Southern Colorado.

(By The Associated Press.)
Walsenburg, Colo., Nov. 23.—(By The Associated Press.) Continued improvement in the strike situation was reported today to Colonel Patrick J. Hamrock, adjutant general by company officials and rangers at several properties of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company affected by the strike of miners against a reduction in wages, according to an announcement by Colonel Hamrock. On the other hand, union officials said that the situation was satisfactory from their standpoint.

Colonel Hamrock, in charge of the enforcement of martial law in the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, visited the Lester, Tolson, Berwind, Morley, Sepler and Fredrick mines today to inspect rangers patrolling the company property.

International Union Organizer Cochrane at Trinidad, said today that the situation was satisfactory and that the miners have only begun their strike. When asked whether that meant a spread of the strike to other mines in the district, he said any announcement would have to come from Mike Livoda, secretary of the district union.

Miners organizers have been barred from conducting meetings of the miners in the C. F. & I. camps, by order of the military officials, Cochrane said. Mine superintendents also have been instructed by company officials to keep them out of company property, he declared.

Robert Foster, international organizer stationed here, was ordered out of Lester Camp in Huernam county last week, Cochrane said. Tonight as the second day of the surrender of arms under the proclamation of Colonel Hamrock, the number of weapons turned in was comparatively small. After midnight tonight arms will be confiscated after a search of residences in this district, according to plans made by the military.

No more arrests were made today in connection with the shooting affair at Oakview for which four men were held. Colonel Hamrock said he would turn the case over to the civil authorities, together with evidence collected at hearings this week.

MONEY TRANSFERS TO GERMANY TO BE PAID IN AMERICAN FUNDS

(By The Associated Press.)
Manager M. M. Miesel of the Western Union Telegraph company announces an arrangement, effective November 25, whereby cable money transfers to Germany will be paid in American funds.

The particular value of this arrangement is that it eliminates all questions of exchange and places the payer in a position to take full advantage of the premium on American currency. It also involves refund of the full amount deposited in the case of nonpayment, which is another great advantage in the case of a depreciated and declining foreign currency.

The Western Union Telegraph company believes that the arrangement of this direct money transfer service to Germany on the dollar basis will be of considerable convenience to people desiring to send money cheaply, quickly, safely and directly to their friends or relatives in that country.

Astonishing Gains In Strength and Endurance

Reason Given for Remarkable Increase in Sale of New Product.

For the past several months druggists have been amazed at the way the sale of the product known as Garren's Tonic has increased by leaps and bounds. A thing of this kind is unusual, naturally brings on the question: "What's causing it?"
If you could see and talk with the many people who have derived astonishing gains in weight, strength and endurance from the use of this wonderful new product, you could easily determine the reason for its tremendous sale.

People who had been weak, lacking in energy, nervous, irritable and really suffering are testifying voluntarily every day that Garren's Tonic has put new life, energy and endurance into their weak body, withered tissue and shattered nerves. It is only natural that they are loudly praising this wonderful product to others suffering as they were, and the consequent swelling of its sale.

Garren's Tonic is sold in Albuquerque by Alvarado Pharmacy and leading dealers in every city.

'MISQUOTED' IS CONTENTION OF FRED FISHBACK

Arbuckle's Roommate Claims He Did Not Say "Miss Rappe Appeared to Be in Great Agony."

(By The Associated Press.)
San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 23.—Fred Fishback, who said he invited Virginia Rappe to the party in the room of Roscoe Arbuckle at the Hotel St. Francis, where it is charged, she received fatal injuries at Arbuckle's hands, was a witness in the film comedian's trial today. Another witness was Dr. Asa W. Collins, called as an expert by the defense.

Fishback was Arbuckle's roommate during the period referred to in the trial. He denied that Miss Rappe complained of pain after suffering the injuries and said he had been misquoted in a statement in which he was quoted as saying "Miss Rappe appeared to be in agony."

Fishback said he was out on an automobile drive during the period the party was in progress, and found Miss Rappe on a bed in Arbuckle's room on his return. Dr. Collins testified regarding bladder ruptures. It was an injury of this order that caused Miss Rappe's death, and the prosecution contends that Arbuckle caused it by external force. Dr. Collins cited a number of causes which might produce a rupture of the bladder without external force being applied but said they all were rare.

Dr. Olaf Karboe, called by the defense, testified that he attended Miss Rappe after the party and found her suffering no pain.

Where Will You Be Tomorrow?

SHORT SKIRTS, AID TO HEALTH, MAY DEFY FASHION

By MARTHA COMAN.

UPON the swing of a golf club depends the width of the skirt, a tennis racket decides the type of corset a woman shall wear, while a butterfly dive disposes of all discussion as to the propriety of a one piece bathing suit. Such is the importance of comfort when one is engaged in outdoor sports.

These athletic activities of women, which have become popular within the last decade and a half, have revolutionized the feminine silhouette and changed bonds into freedom. No women in the world are less hampered by their clothes than the American women, and there is no other country where outdoor sports are so generally indulged in as here.

Followers of Sport May Defy

Paris Dress Edict This Year

So devoted have sports loving women become to their comfortably short skirts that when Paris recently decided that feminine ankles were to be shrouded in folds of fashionable material American women openly rebelled. They declared they just wouldn't go back to long skirts, or even to skirts much longer than they had been wearing.

Not one of the dozens interviewed on the subject of whether American womanhood was again to become an adjunct of the Street Cleaning Department and help sweep up curbs and sidewalks favored the ankle length skirt. And invariably each based her objection on the discomfort such a skirt entails when going up and down elevated or subway steps or boarding a surface car.

Sport fashions have been accepted as the daytime dress for the business and professional woman. They all know the comfort of a sport suit and the bloomers and brassiere and pliable corset worn underneath, and to support them in their determination to cling to comfort for working hours they call attention to the trim appearance of women who dress in this style.

Physicians and athletic instructors stand by them in their refusal to permit any radical change in the favored sport dress. Health experts heartily approve the short skirt for everyday wear, both for looks and sanitary attributes. So does Dr. Thomas D. Wood, athletic director of Teachers College, and for the same reasons. Both declared the sensible dress of to-day about as sensible as ever had been achieved by the combined aid of those who design fashions and those who wear them.

An act of Congress, which permitted the late Dr. Mary Walker to wear male attire because she considered it more comfortable and better adapted to her activities than the long, wide, haircloth stiffened skirts and leg o' mutton sleeves in vogue in the heyday of her career, never quite accustomed or reconciled the public to seeing a woman dressed in men's trousers. Yet the recent appearance of young women wearing knickerbockers as they strolled along the avenue caused scarcely a ripple of excitement among the thousands of afternoon shoppers. Sports have accomplished wonders in the metamorphosis of feminine clothes.

At Last Men Are Used to

Seeing Women in Trousers

If the world hadn't grown accustomed to seeing women riding astride in the neatest of breeches and coats, or hiking over the country roads in khaki knickerbockers, or skiing in brother's army togs, or playing golf in the trimmest of bifurcated tweeds, there probably would have been more necks craned to see the fair pedestrians as they proceeded down the promenade. We are getting used to common sense in dress, though the common sense is by no means the ugly thing it formerly was.

The "Rainy Daisies," as the members of that club which instigated the fashion of the short skirts are called, gave a vivid picture of what streets looked like twenty-five years ago, when the feminine members of society were unwillingly enlisted in the street cleaning job. The little movement started then by a group of women shocked the public more perhaps than cigarette smoking or skirts worn up to the knees. And all they wanted was the public's approval of a fashion that lifted hems just a tiny bit above the ground.

Did they get it? Ask any of that little band of "Rainy Daisies" who trotted forth in wet weather and in snow and even in sunshine wearing skirts that measured exactly four inches from the ground? They tell you that instead of approval they were jeered at by men and women, small boys threw stones at them and society women drew aside their own trailing skirts as if there might be contamination in the very presence of a dress so shocking that it showed the wearer walking on a perfectly good pair of feet instead of on stilts or wheels.

Physicians Approve of Women's Demand That Unsanitary, Dust Raising Dresses Be Barred and Reform Gained Originally by Rainy Day Club Be Continued---Sports Responsible

The accompanying illustrations show how the influence of sports has affected woman's dress. Note the one piece bathing suit contrasted with the old time one and the clinging ankle length walking suit with the modern business dress.

And the expressions that these matrons of the unmanicured group wore on their faces would have discouraged, frightened and slain the short skirt wearer if the thoughts behind the expressions could have been realized.

When this first organized group of women decided it was high time to lift the hem of dresses to a decent and sanitary height above the pavements and to put a stop to the carrying of germs from curbs and pavements to hearth rugs all they asked for was a modest four inches to escape, though they voted in favor of a skirt six inches from the floor for those who liked them so astonishingly short. But the club members themselves were satisfied to accept a freedom of less.

And to let the public know that they were in dead earnest, that they stood for a principle, for an advance for women, for greater health and comfort for their own and future generations, and not for a mere fashion, they adopted a uniform and topped it with a blue badge which they wore on one shoulder.

Rainy Daisies Led Van

In Short Skirt Crusade

The movement gained converts. Skirts lost contact with the ground but they won approval in various quarters, and at last dressmakers were compelled to cut their models after the accepted fashion of the so-called rainy day skirt. Dressmakers then, as now, tried to discourage an attempt on the part of women to dictate as to what they should wear. But the women won out and they have continued to hold on to their short skirts ever since.

Periodically these makers of women's garments sought to revive the long, trailing skirt, according to the reminiscences of one of the original "Rainy Day" band, but they met with no success. They would lengthen skirts by an inch or two one season and the public would rebel. They'd try it another season, and the same thing happened. Dressmakers might determine the width of a skirt, but they could never dictate as to its length if they set the fashion for anything beyond a certain height from the ground.

If in those twenty-five years since the first sanitary skirt made its appearance dressmakers have been unable to put women into long skirts what chance of doing it have they now, even though Paris favors the ankle length and is predicting that no matter how much of a hue and cry American women raise against this hampering fashion they will come to it in the end? The "Rainy Daisies" calmly point to the history of their own movement and feel perfectly satisfied that the anti-movement will die a natural death.

A skirt that just covers the knees was the last thing in the world that this club had in mind when it marched forth as a group of protesting women, women bent on abolishing wet, bedraggled clothes, soggy shoes and ankles and dripping petticoats. Never did they expect to see their modest protest so frightfully exaggerated. They frankly acknowledge that the skirt movement has gotten away from them, but they point hopefully to signs that the worst is past and that modesty will again characterize the lower portion of feminine dress. Comfort and wholesomeness was what they worked for, and they feel that both are still possible without sacrificing modesty.

The four inches from the floor skirt was not the only startling change that the "Rainy Daisies" were responsible for. Their dress rebellion was started at the psychological moment, for women were getting tired of their nipped-in at the waist corsets, the diaphragm squeezing bodices, the tight sleeves or the enormous stiffened ones; in fact, the harness that fashion had evolved for one-half of the human race.

It was three or four years later that the straight front corset made its debut and waists began to be let out to something like their normal circumference, while diaphragms and abdomens came in for their share of freedom. The hour glass effect disappeared with the long skirt, and then women started all sorts of freedom and comfort innovations until they have developed a type of dress that is more comfortable and free than men's ordinary clothes. Men's tweeds and soft shirts and collars are almost identical with the costume that the modern woman wears for outdoor activities.

It was an easy and a logical step from the straight front stay, which replaced the old whalebone armor, to something even more pliable and unconfining. By rapid stages there was developed the athletic corset, then came the brassiere, and later women of slender figure abandoned either or both of these very trivial garments and enjoyed an uncorseted existence.

The modern corset is so carefully designed and so unobtrusive as to be a garment that physicians have ceased exhorting women to discard it. The corset for ordinary wear is built on lines that in no way menace health, while the affair of hooks or laces and a few bones to stiffen over so little softly woven cloth, intended for riding or driving an automobile, for golf or tennis or hockey, really makes little difference in the appearance of the wearer. It is usually put on for comfort instead of effect.

School and college girls' track meets are among the most picturesque events of the entire year. The old bloomer costume has been tremendously improved upon and the most fashionable gatherings of this kind bring out groups of girls in washable colored one-piece suits that combine bloomer and blouse in artistic and attractive lines.

It might be mentioned that bloomers, once scorned by the public and once worn almost furtively in gymnasiums, have gone the way of skirts, and now they blissfully encircle the feminine leg several inches above a perfectly bare knee. Freedom of movement is what the style affords, and that's exactly what a track suit should encourage.

The one piece bathing suit is following in the path of the astride riding habit. If it has not already won the right to appear encasing the figure of a feminine swimmer at any and every beach then it will unless all signs fail. Shades of Ocean Grove and Father Bradley! What strides have been made since the days when the Puritan insisted that the most pious looking ocean-going apparel be worn at a seashore resort.

How could any woman hope to learn to swim or actually propel herself in the water, even if she had mastered the strokes, wearing a bathing suit such as was prescribed by Puritans and dressmakers? The old style surf costume bound every muscle that should have had the utmost freedom, and the material was so heavy when it became water soaked that a person could scarcely drag herself ten feet across the sand without dropping in a faint.

The mermaid of to-day is vastly different in every way. She swims and she likes it. And brother does not have a costume any better adapted to the popular aquatic sport than she who has made the one piece affair acceptable almost everywhere. The one piece woolen suit, that is as light as a feather in the surf, sheds water like a duck's back, keeps a bather from catching cold when she sits on the beach, has about everything in its favor, and only the most prudish person, who knows nothing about the sport, could have any reasonable objections to it.

These same clamorers against giving women any chance to expand their lungs and grow healthy and strong from indulging in outdoor sports, are the same who made a fuss about women riding astride. They were horrified when the first breeches riding habit was worn and they said so in the loudest of voices. But about ninety-nine out of one hundred equestrians you see anywhere now have on riding breeches instead of riding skirts. And no one is scandalized at their appearance, and if any one does stop to think about the rider he or she probably says, "What a healthful exercise and how splendid she looks on a horse."

Women tournament golf players apparently prefer skirts to knickerbockers. They are usually pictured in tweeds or jerseys with sweaters or tailored coats. While the fad for playing golf is largely responsible for the adoption of a sane and healthful style of dress for outdoor occasions, it is noticeable that the golf skirt is never worn extremely short. Midway between knee and ankle is a length that offers all necessary freedom, and the width should be ample to permit the player to swing her clubs and follow through without ever having to give a thought to her dress. The golf knicker has arrived, however, and on almost any course near the city you will see women stepping out briskly across the greens in this feminized version of the manish suit.

For hockey and tennis the same unhampered point must be considered. Sometimes it is bloomers that a girl prefers, or it may be a short flannel skirt and sweater. The schoolgirl plays hockey in her "gym" bloomers and a middie blouse, if it's warm enough, and a sweater if it's cold. You can see her almost any day in the park with her hockey sticks. A dozen years ago she would not have dared show herself outside a gymnasium in anything so utterly unfeminine, though necessary from an athletic point of view, as a pair of bloomers. Thus has the sex progressed toward sanity and health in dresses.

Making of Incandescent Gas Mantles

MILLIONS of incandescent gas mantles are used yearly in the United States. The method of lighting in which they are employed is now familiar to every one, although it was introduced only about twenty years ago. Yet very probably there are but few persons who use the mantles who know how they are made or what they are made of. Here is a brief summary:

Knitting. A thread of suitable size is knit into a tubular fabric on a machine modified from those used in knitting underwear. A large variety of stitches is made and designated as single weave, double weave, triple weave, etc.

Saturating. The lengths of knitted fabric are placed in a suitable vessel, and the so-called lighting fluid is poured over them. After the fabric is soaked in the lighting fluid for a certain length of time it is put through an equalizer for the purpose of equalizing the amount of fluid carried by each web. The fabric is then placed upon suitable forms of glass or wood and dried.

Sewing. The fabric is now taken and folded in at one end and carefully plaited and an asbestos cord drawn through to form the head and loop of the mantle.

Modeling. After the head is made the saturated fabric is shaped over a wooden form.

Burning out. The modelled fabric is then hung on a suitable hook and ignited at the top. The thread is burned out, leaving the ash composed of the oxides of thorium and cerium.

Hardening. After the cotton is burned out the soft, flabby ash is placed over a blow-pipe, where the gas and air are controlled in such a way as to blow it out to the form of a mantle.

Dipping. In order to prepare the mantles for the subsequent handling and for shipment it is dipped into a bath of collodion and allowed to dry.

Trimming. After the collodionized mantles are thoroughly dried they are passed to an operator, who trims off the rough edges of the skirt and reduces the mantles to a uniform length.

Packing. Loop mantles are suspended in paper tubes by cords; cap mantles are mounted on supports and the supports are usually fastened to the caps. Mantles are usually packed in cartons of fifty and cased according to the size—being shipped usually in five hundred or one thousand mantles to a case.

In all these details there exists the necessity of avoiding the least trace of mineral impurity, which interferes with the light.

Great Demand for Our Apples Abroad

THE season has just started for shipping choice Newtown Pippins to London, where this famous apple is much in vogue among fashionable English folk. The Newtown Pippin received its formal introduction into high society in England in 1861, when Charles Francis Adams, then United States Minister at the Court of St. James's presented Queen Victoria with a large barrel of the luscious fruit that had been grown in a Massachusetts orchard.

It is an interesting fact that since 1861, when the Royal Mail liner Dee carried Mr. Adams's celebrated barrel of Newtown Pippins to England, the American apple has steadily grown in favor with the British public. Sixty years ago American apples were almost unknown in England; today they are sold in all the English fruit stores. Compared with any of the leading American varieties even the choicest Devonshire apples seem puny and flavorless.

The extent to which the export apple trade has increased can be gathered from the fact that this season the Royal Mail and other steamship lines will carry 500,000 barrels of Eastern apples across the Atlantic to supply the English and Continental markets, each barrel containing 100 pounds of fruit. In addition, three million boxes of apples from the Northwestern States—50 pounds to the box—will be shipped overland to New York and other Atlantic ports for conveyance to European markets.

The Royal Mail liners will not only carry cargoes of Eastern and Western apples to England and the Continent from New York, but the company's new service to Europe from Vancouver and Seattle, via the Panama Canal, will transport this season the biggest apple shipments ever sent from the Pacific coast. No fewer than 800,000 boxes of apples from Washington, Oregon and Idaho have been booked for shipment to England alone.

A large proportion of the apples supplied to the English market come from the Canadian fruit districts of Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, where the harvest of Baldwin's, Kings, Newtown Pippins, Spies, McIntoshes and Russets this season is unusually heavy. With the exception of Maine, however, where there has been a phenomenally large yield, the New England apple crop has been light.

The Western apples, such as Winesap, Oregon Pippin, Spitzenberg and Delicious, figure conspicuously in British fruit shops, the Winesap, like the Newtown Pippin, having won the approval of royalty. When King George, as Prince of Wales, visited Canada about twenty years ago he was so much impressed by this apple that he ordered a case of Winesaps to be sent to Marlborough House every season, direct from the Northwest.

LET US GIVE THANKS.

America this year has real cause for thanksgiving. This past year has been filled with trials and tribulations and what at times seemed staggering problems for all the peoples of the earth. But our difficulties have been the least of all. And as another year draws near hope is raised to a new height in all the nations that the greatest burden of all is about to be lifted, and this, above everything, should be cause for thanksgiving in every American home.

Of all the peoples of the earth the Americans again on this Thanksgiving day appear to be the favored. While famine has stalked through other lands, plenty has ruled in America. Never was there a time in our history when collections had to be taken up in other lands to relieve distress in the United States. Through immigrants helping the folks they left behind and through general benevolence, it has always been a case of aid going out from here.

Today, while there are calls for relief from millions in other countries, the Americans, as usual, are in the midst of plenty. While America is recovering from abnormal conditions of the war, internal and racial strife, disease and famine still beset many a European land. And there is no better way for Americans to show thankfulness for what they have received than to share with those who are in distress.

Observance of the last Thursday in November as "a day of thanksgiving and prayer" is dependent in no degree on the customary proclamation by the president, but we should be sensible of a loss were an executive to omit its issuance. This exclusively American day is, indeed, as firmly fixed as is Christmas. But it is good to have the chief administrative officer of the nation review, if ever so briefly, the blessings which have been so abundantly bestowed upon us. Let us all hearken to the president's call and give thanks for the blessings we have enjoyed.

MONEY NOT CHIEF CONCERN.

Premier Briand, voicing France's concurrence in the principle and spirit of the American proposals, adverted to a sub-topical of the armament discussion that will engage the minds of people generally. The chief of the French ministry inquired, "Is it only a question here of economy?" Rightly he remarked that, "If that were so, if that were the sole purpose you have in view, it will be really unworthy of the great nation that has called us here." All the speeches at Washington have revealed that money saving is not the primary purpose of the conference, but the importance of stopping the waste occasioned by wars and preparations for wars can not be ignored.

A great many people affect to despise trade, holding solitude for it to be unworthy of governments and nations. Billions of words have been spilled, orally and through print, in condemnation of the system that they say, puts care of business above that of human beings. Actually, of course, concern for the people is at the bottom of all activities in promotion of trade. If a country would have no trade it would have no happy people.

Wars of the past were waged in the interest of trade, often. In a sense that was promotive of the welfare of some peoples. We have progressed so far in war-making that it has become overexpensive. There are no benefits to be derived from it. On the contrary, vast injuries are done. The one-time compensations for losses in war can not now be achieved. That is the simple fact of the money side of the war and peace question. We pray for peace, not merely that we may have more money, but that we may have more of the benefits of civilization of which material prosperity is the token. Though we speak of economies to be secured through disarmament and peace, the tangible gain will be better conditions of life for the human family, and that is what everyone wants.

THE SOVIETS FINISH.

Coming from a less known authority than Prof. Paul Milukov, the prediction that the bolshevik downfall in Russia is a matter of months would be greeted with a great deal of skepticism. The longevity of the dictatorship has continued to surprise and puzzle the world, but Prof. Milukov says its end is drawing near and the final blow to the autocracy of Lenin is to be delivered by the famine. The bolshevik came into power through promises and has retained it through making themselves feared. Now famine has come as the culmination of the years of misrule. The people, according to Prof. Milukov, realize that this widespread calamity is not an incident, but a direct consequence of bolshevik maladministration. It can be traced definitely to the confiscation of crops and farm machinery, the discouragement of private initiative and the utter breakdown of the nation's transportation and agencies of distribution.

The people of other countries who have been responding so generously to Russia's need should realize that while the experiment in practical socialism has been terribly hard on that unfortunate land, it has provided an object lesson which should serve as a danger signal to warn others from such a perilous course. It should be a long time before any other country makes such a colossal mistake as that which has ruined Russia.

MERGING TWO HOLIDAYS.

The suggestion that the United States combine Armistice day and Thanksgiving as one national holiday seems worthy of serious consideration. The increasing number of holidays is interfering with industrial and business activities. There is probably not a civilized nation that will not enlist to make Armistice day a peace observance for the world, marking the turning point of international history. Thanksgiving is the one holiday that is designated by proclamation of the president of the United States, and by custom is observed on the last Thursday of November.

One of the arguments produced for the proposed combining of the two holidays is that Thanksgiving day comes so near to the Christmas holidays and merchants find that little holiday trade may be expected until after Thanksgiving. Fixing the latter holiday for November 11 would give business the advantage of about two weeks more. That Armistice day falls near the middle of the month offers an opportunity for a change that would be welcomed by most folk, except perhaps the lazy ones, to whom all-day and half-day holidays are merely an excuse for knocking off work.

ENROLL!

The American Red Cross is the one organization which has never been called upon to make an explanation of its stewardship to the public. Its affairs are conducted in a manner that commands the highest respect and inspires the fullest confidence in its ability to handle economically and effectively any situation which presents itself.

Much of the work which is being done by the Red Cross is for the former service men who are still unable to take up the work laid down to enter the service of their country. This relief work will be necessary until governmental agencies are operating in a more effective way in the interests of the soldiers of the world war.

The American Red Cross is doing a wonderful work in carrying relief and cheer to many thousands in Russia and other sections of Europe. This relief work will be necessary for many months, and American money will be required in large sums if the work is to succeed.

In the interests of the needy who are being sought out abroad by the American Red Cross and for the benefit of those persons at home who are the victims of untoward conditions, the Red Cross makes its plea for re-enlistments in the army of contributors to this glorious work. May it never be said of the Red Cross that it had to beg for the support which should be given freely.

It was the Kaiser who defied limitation of armament at the last Hague conference. Look at him now!

Henry Ford wants to turn battleships into automobiles. Now we may guess where he obtained that ocean-wave effect.

By helping Great Britain to save money on a navy, Secretary Hughes will make it easier for the allies to pay the debt to America.

VERSE OF TODAY

A PEOPLE'S PRAYER.

Not in vain glory, Lord, today
But humbly, meekly, at Thy throne,
Do we accept Thy grace beyond compare.
For though the fields with grain are ripe,
And prodigal its fruit the garden yields,
Still shall we perish if we fail
To grasp the truth Thy love reveals.

Help us to put aside today
The useless haunts of by-gone years;
Help us to BUILD UP—NOT TEAR DOWN—
Help us to cast out deadly fears.

Man must hold close to brother man,
Each must his baser self forever slay;
Tis only so can we attain
—Mabel S. Hilyard.

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

THE STRAIGHT ROAD TO PEACE.

(From the New York Times.)
"The way to resume is to resume"—that was the sound money war cry in 1878 when the resumption of specie payments was the overshadowing topic of the day. The way to disarm is to disarm, said Mr. Hughes to the astonished conference, and the whole world rejoices and applauds.

Since cave men began to make war clubs and fashion stone hatchets there has been nothing like this in all history, save only the Rush-Bagot "arrangement" in 1817, when we agreed with Great Britain that on Champlain and the Great Lakes there should be "on each side" only four vessels not exceeding 100 tons each and carrying one 18-pound gun. That "arrangement" was voluntary, like the program Mr. Hughes now submits to the conference; other ordinances of disarmament have been imposed by victors in war.

This is a culmination of plans of peace long urged and cherished. It is of intense interest, momentous. The hitherto unchanging policy of always bigger ships and heavier guns, of mounting millions to provide unmatchable navies, is to be suddenly reversed by the three chief powers of the sea; building is to cease and splendid warships are to be destroyed. A ten-year breathing spell for Vulcan will leave him little disposed to resume the beating out of armor-plates. If the conference accepts this plan, if the nations agree upon it, even with modifications, a great stride will have been taken toward assured peace.

It is of good augury that the conference welcomed Mr. Hughes' naval holiday program, that government chiefs and leaders of opinion the world over receive it with favor. It should have universal support and advocacy. Friends of the league of nations can not fail to applaud and help on this happy continuation of the work nobly begun in the covenant. What boots it who speeds on with the torch when once it is lighted? Men pass, means serve and are discarded; it is the end, the achievement, that endures.

AS THE PEOPLE VIEW IT

Raton, N. M., Nov. 22, 1921.
Editor, Albuquerque Journal,
Albuquerque, N. M.
Dear Sir:

Relative to the report of my talk before the educational council on last Saturday, as the same appeared in your Journal of November 20th, on page 3, column 1, I note that I am reported as having said that out of eight million acres of school lands which were granted to the common schools, only three million acres have been selected. What I did say was that the eight million acres granted to the common schools of the state as it appeared in the biennial report of the commissioner of public land, (said report ending November 30, 1921), that only three and one-half million of the same had been selected, and less than three million acres had been selected. I am enclosing you this report, marking that portion which was mentioned by me, which you will find on the closing sheet of the report. The report speaks for itself, and it was to this report I referred.

I notice that I am also quoted as having said that lands purchased at $25 per acre have been sold for $250 per acre. That statement is also incorrect. My statement was that land purchased at $5 from the state has been immediately resold for as high as $25 to $35 per acre. I also stated that much of the coal lands coming to the state in school sections 16 and 36, and rat-

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE WASHING.

"Oh, dear! I just can't go! I just can't go!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow one morning after Thanksgiving."
"Can't go where?" asked Uncle Wiggly, as the bunny rabbit gentleman rubbed a bit of orange skin on his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch to make it smell nice. "Is it to the movies you wish to go? If so, I'll take you."

"No, but Mrs. Longtail, the mouse lady, just telephoned over," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "And asked me to come and help her bake a cheese cake for the church social for tonight. I'd love to go and help, but I can't."

"Why not?" Uncle Wiggly wanted to know.
"Because I have to do the washing," answered Nurse Jane. "You know it rained Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and the only time I have to wash the clothes is today."

"What is going on here?"

For a moment Uncle Wiggly was frightened, but when he saw a big white, shaggy fur-covered creature, with a jolly face, the bunny answered:

"Hello, Mr. Whitewash! Come right in, my dear old Polar Bear friend. You may see me wash the clothes." And he told about Nurse Jane going out.

"Ha! I'll be more than you see you wash the clothes!" I'll help you," roared the Polar Bear in his jolly, frosty voice. "Off with your shoes and socks."

"What for?" asked the bunny.
"We'll get right in the tub with our paws and jump up and down on the clothes. That's how I always wash my clothes!" laughed the Polar Bear. "Off with your shoes and socks."

"Up and down we danced!" "We'll get right in the tub with our paws and jump up and down on the clothes. That's how I always wash my clothes!" laughed the Polar Bear. "Off with your shoes and socks."

erled the muskrat lady as she saw the two friends in their bare feet standing in the tub.

"Washing the clothes," politely answered Mr. Whitewash. "I think you'll find them so white as never was," he added.

"Well, so they are," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, as she blued them and hung them out. "But I never heard of washing clothes by dancing on them."

"Oh, that's how I always do it!" laughed Mr. Whitewash, blinking one eye at the bunny. And Mr. Longears tried not to laugh.

But everything came out all right, and if the cabbage cutter doesn't start in the string bean and make a cat's cradle of it, the next story will be about Uncle Wiggly and the alarm clock.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Export sales at the Gulf of Mexico, together with unexpected higher prices at Liverpool and Buenos Aires, had a bullish effect today on wheat here. The close, although unsettled, was at 1c 2 1/2c net advances, with December $1.10 1/2 to $1.10 3/4 and May $1.13 1/2 to $1.13 3/4. Corn gained 3/4c to 1/2c to 5/8c, oats 1/4c to 3/8c and provisions 5c to 12c.

Bullish sentiment as to wheat predominated. With foreign prices going upward the question of whether additional exports from this country would be at the expense of domestic requirements received fresh notice, especially as domestic arrivals remained small.

Meanwhile London reports told of activity in buying by Japanese and of unfavorable crop conditions in Argentina. In addition, there was gossip that all the cheap hard winter wheat at the Gulf of Mexico had been bought for shipment to Europe. Export sales of 400,000 bushels at the Gulf were confirmed.

In this connection, it was said, persistent drought in the southwest had apparently exercised a stimulating influence on demand. The on-backs which occurred in values proved transient, but the December delivery eased somewhat as compared with May, elevator interests announcing the purchase of considerable hard wheat to be brought here from outside terminals.

Corn and oats rose with wheat. For the first time in weeks, December corn commanded 50 cents or more a bushel. Provisions were given a lift by strength in hog values as well as in grain.

Closing prices: Wheat—Dec., $1.10 1/2; May, $1.13 1/2. Corn—Dec., 50 1/2c; May, 55 1/2c. Oats—Dec., 33 1/2c; May, 38 1/2c. Pork—Jan., $14.10. Lard—Jan., $8.82; May, $9.60. Rib—Jan., $7.42; May, $7.80.

C. S. DIRECTORS MAY OUST BOARD MEMBER, RULING

(By The Associated Press.)
Boston, Nov. 24.—The supreme court today handed down its decision in the litigation concerning governing boards of the Christian Science church and its publications. It held that the directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston (the Mother Church) have the power to remove a member of the board of trustees of the Christian Science Publishing society.

It dismissed the bill brought by the trustees to prevent directors from interfering with the affairs of the society.
The decision in other respects confirmed the report of Judge Frederick Dodge, who sat as master in the controversy, except that it made no ruling on the question whether John V. Dittmore, removed as a director by his fellow members, or Mrs. Annie M. Knott, elected to succeed him, was a director legally. The latter question was declared to be at issue in a separate suit. Exceptions to the master's report taken by Mrs. Knott, elected to succeed him, were not considered by the court. The appeals of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Krauthoff of Washington, were dismissed.

In its ruling as to the power of the directors to remove trustees, the court held that the removal by them of Lamont Rowlands, as a trustee was effectual.
The court said that the manual of the church "appears to be a vital part of Christian Science." It found also that since the manual purported to be the work of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the church, "there can be now since the death of Mrs. Eddy, no change in the provisions of the church manual in accordance with terms."

Today's finding came almost a year after the supreme court took the case for consideration following arguments on the master's report. The suit was filed originally on March 25, 1919. Judge Dodge filed his report a year later.

"The Affairs of Anatol"

The greatest picture in cast and rich investiture ever made since the photoplay began.

With due regard to "Male and Female," "Why Change Your Wife?" "Something to Think About" and all the other big DeMille productions de luxe, "The Affairs of Anatol" attains the highest mark yet reached in the blending of life and beauty on the screen.

A vivid, tingling drama of love and marriage. Glowing with luxury. Piquant with gay adventure. Played by stars enough for ten pictures!

All Thankful

Three years ago this Thanksgiving our store and stock was very small. We advertised to divide our profits with our customers. This we did. We soon were forced to move in large quarters—in several months we outgrew the second room. Today we have the largest building we can get—full from floor to ceiling with Del Monte, Heinz, Van Camp's, Beechnut and brands you know and can depend on.

You were without a meat market. We used money and time until we found a meat man who would give you the best of meats at a very small margin of profit. We deliver what you can't carry—something no other cash and carry will do. We are thankful for the wonderful business and you are no doubt thankful to have us deliver at cash and carry prices.
