GREAT BRITAIN SEEKS TO SWING JAPANESE TO AMERICAN NAVAL RATIO

TOKIO'S PROPOSAL FOR RATIO OF '10-10-7' NOT REGARDED AS FORMAL BY ARMS CONFERENCE

New Attempt Made to Settle Shantung Controversy; Not Decided Whether China or Japan Will Make First Move; Hughes and Balfour Try to Bring Agreement.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Dec. 1. (By The Associated Press.)—Great Britain, as the ally of Japan, is using her influence to bring Japanese views in the naval ratio dispute into harmony with those of the United States.

With this development, Japanese plenipotentiaries again have submitted the question to Tokyo.

The nature of the latest move for a solution of the ratio problem is not disclosed but it is indicated that Great Britain has found a double interest in the success of the negotiations, because she has accepted in principle the American five-five-three proposal and because on the other hand she is in alliance with Japan, who asks for a ratio of 10-10-7.

All principles on both sides refused tonight to recognize the situation as a deadlock. The American delegates, it was said authoritatively, were even declining to regard Baron Kato's proposal for an increased Japanese strength as a formal presentation of the Japanese viewpoint. They were confident, it was declared, that the 10-10-7 proportion would be abandoned before the final statement of position is placed before the conference.

It is apparent that if the proposal of the Japanese statesmen is not to be regarded as formal, the American delegates will not be "passed across the table" at a formal session of the conference or any of its subdivisions.

Baron Kato's request for an increase over the American ratio was communicated to Secretary Hughes and A. J. Balfour at a meeting of the three Tuesday. In relating his government's position, the Japanese plenipotentiary touched on the request and asked that the question of national needs be taken into account in determining the new naval ratio.

In response, Secretary Hughes and Mr. Balfour made plain the opposition of the American and British to vitally changing the basis of ratio determination and Baron Kato indicated he desired to go further to communicate again with his government. Conversations are to be resumed when further advice comes from Tokyo.

A new attempt was begun today to settle the long debated Shantung controversy, but in view of the status of the naval negotiations the Shantung conversations were looked upon as a preliminary survey of the main picture. Secretary Hughes and Mr. Balfour, executive their "good offices," met with the Japanese and Chinese plenipotentiaries for a preliminary survey of the main picture.

Secretary Hughes and Mr. Balfour, executive their "good offices," met with the Japanese and Chinese plenipotentiaries for a preliminary survey of the main picture.

The note of optimism over the naval discussions was particularly evident tonight among Japanese. While refraining from any comment on the British position, Baron Kato said he would not regard the situation as constituting a deadlock and another Japanese delegate emphasized that "we are not pessimistic."

Submission of the subject to Tokyo indicates that under the Japanese system it will be considered by the Japanese cabinet as well as by the diplomatic advisory council. Representative Japanese expressed the opinion that to reach a decision every element connected with the subject must be taken into consideration with the result that the exchanges here might be slowed down.

So far as the Washington end is concerned the problem is being narrowed down to direct and personal exchanges among Secretary Hughes and Mr. Balfour.

CLOSING PLEAS ARE STARTED IN ARBUCKLE TRIAL

Court Room Is Crowded for Final Arguments; Prosecution Asserts Neglect Should Convict Comedian

(By The Associated Press.)
San Francisco, Calif., Dec. 1.—The poisoning of Mrs. Irene Morgan, a leading witness for the defense, and the beginning of the closing arguments of both sides were outstanding developments today in the trial of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle.

Leo Friedman, an assistant district attorney, made the first exposition of the prosecution's contention that it has presented an unbreakable chain of evidence to link the comedian with the death of a Rappe, whom it charges is injured at a party in his home at the Hotel St. Francis here.

An McNab began what seemed likely to be the defense's only address, but was interrupted by adjournment of court for the day.

The court room was crowded and many a would-be spectator was unable to get near the center of activities in the corridors of the hall of justice.

Arbuckle appeared indifferent during Friedman's argument, spending most of the time gazing around or fingering strands of hair. Friedman told the jury that "even if Arbuckle told the truth on the stand it would be strong enough to convict him, for he admitted he left Miss Rappe after her injury without calling a doctor or telling any one of her condition."

"Why has not the prosecution presented Bambina Maude Delmont, the complaining witness in this case?" McNab asked. He praised Mrs. Morgan as a "heroine, wounded in battle." Finger prints on the doors of the Hotel St. Francis room used by Arbuckle and said by the prosecution to be those of Arbuckle and Miss Rappe, were called "specks" by McNab. "Arbuckle had but ten minutes in that room with Miss Rappe," he said.

The action of the district attorney in placing witnesses under his custody, the theory that they tampered with, was criticized. Miss Zey Prevost, prosecution witness, was "terrorized," he said, in her appearance before the police and the grand jury, because she would not say Miss Rappe, referring to Arbuckle, exclaimed "he killed me."

Mr. McNab was interrupted a number of times by the prosecution on the charge that he was going on the stand in the case. "Weird, fantastic absurdities were substituted for the testimony of Mrs. Delmont, the complaining witness," he said.

The testimony of both prosecution and defense witnesses was detailed by Friedman. He said that Mrs. Morgan's record as a war nurse as she outlined it on the stand, was subject to attack. Friedman said, "a leading defense witness, was accused by Friedman of having attempted to take the blame of Miss Rappe's injury on his own shoulders."

Friedman's testimony of Dr. Franklin Shiels "blasted the defense's own theory that the bladder rupture which caused Miss Rappe's death might have resulted from sudden immersion in a cold bath. Friedman said, "Dr. Shiels testified that he had no knowledge of a bladder rupturing in this fashion."

AMERICAN ARMS GROUP ACT ON WAR MACHINES

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Dec. 1. (By The Associated Press.)—Four reports dealing with submarines, land armament, aircraft and new weapons of war, including gas, were adopted today by the American arms advisory committee.

Prepared by experts at the request of Secretary Hughes, Chairman Sutherland declared that reports contained much information of vital importance to the problems of the conference. But whatever the viewpoint set down by the experts, Mr. Sutherland emphasized that the committee was not to be swayed by the American naval position.

Adoption today by the American advisory committee of a report on submarine warfare prepared by Admiral Rogers was construed as a declaration of no divergence of view between the civilians of the committee and navy officers as to the legitimate place of submarines among naval weapons.

The navy generally holds that underwater craft are a desirable addition to the fleet and no more subject to misuse than battleships. It is believed that the committee which is representative of American public opinion, endorses this view. Illegal use of submarines, it was said, would be condemned by both naval officers and civilians.

When the question of submarines comes up in the American arms conference, it will have the backing of American public opinion as gleaned by the American advisory committee to support American opposition to any proposal to abolish submarines to limit their size in any drastic degree.

SAVING BY ARMS REDUCTION HARD TO CALCULATE

Closing of Ship Building Plants Might Cause Restlessness Among Workers; Navy to Be Upset.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Dec. 1. (By The Associated Press.)—The report adopted yesterday by the American advisory committee on the economic and industrial questions involved in the proposed ten-year naval holiday, was understood tonight to indicate it is nearly impossible to calculate its effect on tangible factors. The committee concurred in conclusions presented by Rear Admiral Rodgers, of the general board.

The report, presented today to Secretary Hughes, deals chiefly with the American aspect. Admiral Rodgers is understood to have discussed the effect of the sudden stopping of government work in shipbuilding yards now are practically supported by naval work. The report is said to have stated it was difficult to figure how they might fare and the industry in the communities where they are located, if the building of war craft should be halted ten years.

It was pointed out that the effect on labor would cause restlessness and it was urged that the same concerted effort should be made to shift the idle workers into other remunerative lines.

The report is also understood to have pointed out the phasing effect of naval organization. With the regular process of developing new ships abandoned, it was said that the morale of the organization retained would be adversely affected.

In a word it was held that the navy would cease to be a going concern when confined to old ships and repair work and that the end of the ten year period would find it behind its present high mark of efficiency as to personnel.

Taking up costs to the United States alone in scrapping fifteen capital ships, some idea of the expense involved beyond the $355,000,000 on construction was developed. Estimates as to the cost of breaking up ships ranged, it was said, from 10 per cent of the balance required for their construction to 50 or 60 per cent of the balance. This added cost might run as high as $150,000,000.

Haley said he notified the sheriff's office of Burch's movements, and an examination was made of the room. Burch was arrested late the same day at Las Vegas, Nevada, on a train bound for Chicago. A town telegram found in the waste basket of Burch's room was identified by Haley and put in evidence. It was addressed to Burch from Evanston, Ill., and signed Eora M. Burch, the name of the defendant's mother. It instructed Burch to draw on the sender for $100 through an Evanston bank.

The court announced the jury report for the first time today. It said he himself would visit the room occupied by Burch at some time to be fixed later.

PROFESSOR ASKS WOMEN TO KEEP DIRECT PRIMARY

(By The Associated Press.)
Chicago, Dec. 1.—The direct primary has it failed the dire predictions of its original opponents, Prof. P. Orman Ray, of Northwestern university told the National League of Women Voters' institute on efficiency in government here today.

Improvement is certainly possible, Dr. Ray said, and he outlined a plan largely based on the Hughes-Rodgers proposals made in New York a few years ago.

The gist of his recommendations was the elevation of existing party committees into nominating commissions in the hands of the party was reserved the opportunity to substitute through a direct primary other nominations whenever the work of the nominating committee was a failure.

Under this plan the direct primary would be dispensed with whenever nominations were unsatisfactory, thus saving the taxpayer his large expense.

"Experience under the direct primary has not fulfilled all the optimistic predictions of its original advocates, nor on the other hand has it fulfilled the dire predictions of its original opponents," Prof. Ray said. "The main questions confronting the primary today are these:

"It is to be improved as to reduce its cost to the tax-payers and also to insure open, official and responsible party leadership while preserving the ultimate control of nominations in the hands of the rank and file of the party."

"I am confident that both of these questions will be satisfactorily worked out without the creation of new complications."

F. Creller, chairman of the athletic committee of the Tournament of Roses association.

It was believed the extending of the invitations meant their acceptance as the Tournament of Roses officials have made it a practice to learn the attitude of the institutions involved before issuing formal invitations.

INVESTIGATORS URGE SELF RULE FOR EGYPTIANS

(By The Associated Press.)
London, Dec. 1.—A report on the present situation in Egypt has just been issued by five members of parliament—Mr. Harry Barnes, William Lunn, J. Lawson, J. E. Mills and John E. Swan, who visited the country in September and October, as representatives of the Egyptian parliamentary committee.
“In our opinion, the future constitution of Egypt,” they say in their report, “is a matter for the Egyptians to decide and neither for us nor for our government to dictate.”
The solution of the Egyptian question depends, the report states, on the detailed application of the following principles:
“That the Egyptian people have the right to self-determination and complete independence and that any treaty should, while providing necessary safeguards for any reasonable British and other foreign interests, not in any way prejudice that right.”
“That the delegates to negotiate the treaty on behalf of Egypt ought to be selected by the elected representatives of the Egyptian people.”
“That for the securing of the free election of such representatives, martial law and any other repressive measures should forthwith be abolished.”
The members recommend that the British government advise the present prime minister of Egypt that an election be forthwith held in that country.
“To drift is disaster,” says the report. “In the interests of our country we would strongly advise the government to enter at once upon the course necessary to put itself into negotiation with representative Egyptian opinion in a spirit of good-will. We earnestly trust that our visit may help to bring about a settlement in the form of an alliance between two free and independent peoples.”

NEWS THAT UNITED STATES WILL CONFER BOOSTS REMITTANCES
(By The Associated Press.)
New York, Dec. 1.—International remittances were buoyant today on definite assurances that the United States government intends to take part in the conference of Europe's financial interests for the rehabilitation of depreciated exchanges.
Heavy buying of sterling forced the rate for demand bills up to $4.07 7/8 in the later afternoon. This was the highest quotation for this remittance since April, 1920.
French, Belgian and Dutch exchanges were higher by 12 to 37 points and the German mark rallied to .055.

GREEKS REGAIN BRUSA, HELD BY TURK 600 YEARS

(By The Associated Press.)
Brusa, Asiatic Turkey, Dec. 1.—After 600 years of Turkish occupation, Brusa is again under the dominion of its ancient owners, the Greeks. Within sight of the tombs of the first six sovereigns of the Ottoman dynasty, thousands of Greek tombs are quarried, and the old capital of Bithynia has every appearance of a great modern military base.
Trade is flourishing. The hotels are crowded with business men. Living is cheap. The Greek occupation has brought about a distinct revival of local commerce.
The Turkish merchants find the Greek soldiers good customers, and they are waxing rich on them. They have also found the Greek government good buyers. Some of them have closed large contracts for the feeding and equipment of King Constantine's Anatolian army. Others may be glad to see the Greeks go, but not Brusa's tradespeople. They have enjoyed no such prosperity in years. Brusa lies on the slopes of verdant Mount Olympus, fifty miles southeast of Constantinople. It is considered the most beautiful as well as the most healthful city in the Turkish empire. King Constantine of Greece selected it as his home during his recent visit to Asia Minor. It is noted for its mineral baths and its silk products.
According to popular belief, it has a mosque and a promenade for every day in the year, so that one need pray or walk in the same place only once a year.
The city's population, which numbers about 100,000, is a bewildering mixture of Asiatic and European nationalities. It is seen in the public square and the narrow cobbled streets groups of commercial travelers, tourists, holy men, scholars, dervishes, janissaries, eunuchs, veiled women, princes and paupers, millionaires and mendicants, soldiers and spies. The market-place is a babel of tones. Gentle and Jew, Moslem and Greek, Levantine and European rub shoulders and speak other's languages. They care little whether the Greek army or the Turkish army occupies the town; they want to be left in peace and allowed to pursue their wonted course.
The port of Brusa is Mudania, on the Sea of Marmora, an hour's ride by narrow-gauge railroad from Brusa. Mudania is an important military base for the Greeks. Scores of army transports with men, munitions and supplies arrive weekly for the Anatolian front. During the recent operations near Angora, Mudania was the main artery of supply for the Greek troops.
Thousands of Greek and Armenian refugees, fearing Turkish reprisals, have sought shelter within the city of Brusa.
Rumors of Bob Fisher's retirement as Harvard's football coach came very near crabbing the Cambridge Jollification over Yale's defeat.

retary Hughes, Mr. Balfour and Baron Kato.

In sideline discussions today there were further suggestions that the question of naval bases and fortifications in the Pacific might find a place of growing prominence in the naval ratio negotiations. So far as officials have revealed, Japan has not yet formally raised that point but it has been suggested by Japanese not directly connected with the delegation that Tokyo might seek, along with a ratio agreement, a definite understanding as to the American and British bases in Pacific waters.

While coming here the Japanese delegates made known their desire to establish a policy under which Japan would have a navy large enough to meet any force that any other power could send to the Far East. In other words it was suggested Japan must have some assurance that American fortifications in the Philippines and Guam were not to be increased to the point where the entire American navy would be able to use them as bases in an offensive against Japan. As the issue involved is now returned to a question of policy, the suggestion is made that the problem of national defense for Japan is closely related to the question of naval fortifications located nearby. It has also been hinted that the question of strength of navies is linked up in the Japanese mind with the prospect of obtaining a legitimate development in the Far East without a menace from other strong naval powers.

PROHIBITIONISTS TO CONTINUE TO WORK AS A POLITICAL PARTY

Chicago, Nov. 30.—The prohibition party will continue to work as a political party along the same lines as in the past, its national committee decided today.

Sentiment was against changing the party's name and enlarging its issues or for closing its affairs. The committee voted for deportation of aliens convicted of violation of the prohibition laws and disfranchisement of citizens for the same offense.

It called on the government to ask foreign nations to prevent exportation of liquors to be used in the United States in violation of the prohibition laws, and to solicit their co-operation in detecting and punishing such violators.

The next election work the party will undertake was laid out for California, which votes in November, 1922, on a law enforcement measure.

The party decided to get into the fight and to support former Congressman C. H. Randall of Los Angeles for re-election.

Prohibition work that Virgil G. Hinshaw, chairman of the party, did in Austria, Czechoslovakia and elsewhere in Europe last summer, was approved.

U. P. DIRECTORS QUIT.
New York, Dec. 1.—Otto H. Hahn and Mortimer L. Schiff today resigned from the board of directors of the Union Pacific railroad. While no announcement was made of the reasons for the resignations, it was understood in the financial district that they withdrew because of the provisions of the Clayton act prohibiting interlocking directorates.

Talk of organizing a union of pugilists is again heard in New York. The plan is to form an association to comprise both boxers and their managers.

MRS. H. J. TOMPKINS AND MRS. MARGARET F. BARNES LEADING IN RACE FOR JOURNAL AUTOS

Race Is Rapidly Taking Its Place As Leading Topic Throughout State—J. A. Shaw of Mountainair, and Samuel Mann and Miss M. Moore of Albuquerque Are New Entries in the List Today—Biggest and Best Credit Offer of Campaign Ends Next Wednesday Night, December 7th, at 10 O'clock—Sure Way to Success is in Building "Clubs" of $27.00 in Campaign Collections.

Rapidly developing into as pretty a tug-of-war as ever engaged the enthusiastic attention of the people of New Mexico, The Morning Journal Salesmanship Club Circulation Campaign has taken a hold throughout the state second only to the interest displayed in a presidential election or the triumphant tour of Marshal Pech.

Entire communities are coming to the front for their various campaign representatives and the battle of ballots is steaming, piping hot.

The most popular and representative people of the entire state are waging a battle royal for the five automobiles and the thousands of dollars in cash prizes and cash commissions to be awarded as Christmas gifts by The Albuquerque Morning Journal.

The campaign this morning shows Mrs. H. J. Tompkins leading a race wherein the majority of those competing are bunched in a manner wherein, figuratively speaking, "a blanket would cover them."

Mrs. Tompkins, together with Mrs. Margaret E. Barnes, both forge over the 400,000 mark. While Mrs. R. M. Marx does not make any increase in her published standing this morning, she is nevertheless right at the heels of the leading District No. 1, Miss Helen Gurle goes ahead to some extent this morning as also does Charlie Hill Barber, Jr., making just enough of a move to show their friends and supporters that they are much in the campaign and coming right along.

Others in this district remain about stationary this morning but from all reports are coming all with bells on nevertheless.

In District 2 Mrs. Laurence Abreu of Springer is the only one to make a move today. This energetic and popular matron who is representing Springer in the big race, comes ahead with a rush today jumping close to the 300,000. Others in District 2 while not making any move today are, so 'tis said, very much on the job and moving along toward the Kars and Kush.

In District 3 Mrs. L. J. Stone of Clovis makes the banner jump of the day, going from a scant 45,000 credits to 314,000 and establishing herself first with the leaders in the race for the handsome automobiles.

T. H. Bowland of Belen makes enough of a move today to let his friends know that he is not slacking at the switch and at the same time Miss Fannie Frost of Snowflake moves her base of 5,000 nomination credits to up toward the 50,000 mark and is off to a flying start, according to all reports.

In District No. 4 J. A. Shaw of Mountainair makes his debut this morning and his progress will be well watched from now on. Mr. Shaw is well and favorably known throughout the Mountainair country and has a host of friends all of whom will rally to his support in his effort to climb to the top of the list of the five major cars. Here's to you, Brother Shaw.

By the same token Samuel Mann and Miss M. Moore of Albuquerque enter the lists this morning and give every moment of their waking hours to the task of making other look to their laurels.

Mr. Mann is one of the most popular and well known boys in the city and is associated with the Meyer & Meyer well known merchants of Central avenue.

Sam is in the race to win and promises to leave nothing undone to attain that end.

Miss Moore, also well known and popular in Albuquerque, was entered in the race yesterday by enthusiastic friends who promise her every support in the race to victory-land.

With new entries entering the race daily, and with those already entered making a pretty race, the big campaign is booming along on the wings of popularity, and those waging the fight are meeting with wonderful success in their efforts to land in the driver's seat of the prize automobiles.

THE BIGGEST CREDIT OFFER.
Next Wednesday night at 10 o'clock will come the end of the best and biggest credit offer of the entire campaign. Then will come the end of the first period and with it will come the second period and less credits on the subscriptions of friends who are in the race. In this campaign the credit values of subscriptions DECREASE and DO NOT INCREASE, and Club members who hold subscriptions back expecting to receive more credits later on in the race are due for a disappointment.

Next Wednesday night at 10 o'clock—December 7th is the date—the first credit offer will end and our advice to all in the campaign is to make every day between now and next Wednesday count as two. Doing your best on the first period is what will make for success and the prize on which you have set your heart.

BUILD CLUBS.
The way to success in this campaign is building Clubs; $27.00 in old or new subscriptions, for any length of time, constitutes one CLUB—each CLUB earns 100,000 EXTRA credits in addition to the credits on the subscriptions—and that is what spells SUCCESS.

THIRD INSTALLMENT OF INCOME TAX DUE BEFORE DECEMBER 15

Payments of the third installment of income tax for this fiscal year are already beginning to come in to the internal revenue office here, according to H. C. Hernandez, collector for this district.

Payments will not become delinquent until December 15, but many persons have already forwarded to the office the amount of their tax. No computation has been prepared as yet of the total amount to be collected in this installment.

The new list of exemptions, as adopted in a recent bill will not take effect until the next fiscal year, so that everyone who was subject to the tax at the last quarter will still be required to report.

CUT OF $1 A TON IS MADE ON COAL AT THE MINES IN COLORADO

(By The Associated Press.)
Pueblo, Colo., Dec. 1.—A reduction of $1 a ton on lump and nut coal f. o. b. the mines was announced by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company tonight. The reduction is effective December 1 and is in line with the recent reduction in wages at the mines. The company reports gains in the number of workmen employed in the mines following the strike of miners as a protest against the 20 per cent cut in wages. Production also is gaining say officials, and in some of the mines the working force is greater than the average in October.

AMERICANS IN VIENNA HOTELS ATTACKED AND SUBJECTED TO ROUGH TREATMENT IN RIOTING

Wife of Colonel in United States Army Robbed of Furs and Clothing, but Sight of American Flag Causes Rioters to Withdraw From Rooms of Another U. S. Officer.

(By The Associated Press.)
Vienna, Dec. 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—In the widespread rioting which occurred here today many Americans staying at the hotels were attacked and some were subjected to rough treatment. Mrs. Hand, wife of a colonel of the United States army and her daughter were robbed of furs and clothing, but on the same floor, Colonel and Mrs. Miller, U. S. A., displayed the American flag and spoke English, and the rioters withdrew from their room.
The New Bristol and the Old Bristol hotels were partially wrecked and were looted to the second floor.
Inquiries at the hotels disclosed that many guests were robbed of clothing and jewelry, in some instances the jewelry being torn from the ears.
Seemingly the most rowdy elements swept through the inner city; they were joined by the worst criminal classes, committing all kinds of excesses.
At 7 o'clock tonight the streets were quiet.
The Associated Press correspondent asked a policeman, who had watched the wrecking of the hotel Imperial if there were not sufficient police to handle the situation. He replied:
"We are tired of shooting and being shot. These people are hungry and desperate; so are many of us."
Today's disturbances were the most serious since the downfall of the monarchy. In the inner city practically every undertaking window was smashed. All the famous restaurants and hotels frequented

EAST AND WEST MEET AT CANADA'S PACIFIC PORTAL

VANCOUVER HOTEL

Judging by the hotel registers of Vancouver, the whole wide world is contributing to the tide of tourist travel which flows through that western Canadian port. One page of such a register recently had been signed by travelers from Manila (P. I.), London, Boston, Dallas, New York City, Winnipeg, Shanghai, Washington, Yokohama and Yonkers.

The uninitiated who witness one of these daily influxes of tourists, jump to the conclusion that a convention or exhibition must be on tap. But they conclude wrongly. The steady stream of travel has a tide controlled by the arrivals and sailings of trans-Pacific and Australasian liners. Just after the arrival or before the departure of one of these ships, Vancouver presents a truly cosmopolitan atmosphere. Strange tongues are heard on every hand and the not infrequent Oriental garb lends a distinctly romantic touch to the bustling crowds that throng the hotels and streets of this modern Occidental port.

The wise traveler has learned to arrange his schedule so that he may have plenty of time to enjoy Vancouver and its environs. Excellent motor roads lead in all directions and motoring is a year-round pleasure for the climate, tempered by the warm Japan current, keeps roses blooming until Christmas time. One must see Vancouver's roses draping walls and gateways, climbing chimneys, weaving pergolas and filling vast gardens to appreciate real rose beauty and luxuriance.

Stanley Park with its great cedars and three fine beaches is an ideal public playground. The motor road that circles its shore line unfolds a succession of exquisite views. Winding boulevards lined with rose-covered, palatial homes cover Shaughnessy Heights, an exclusive residential section named in honor of Lord Shaughnessy, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the construction of which linked two oceans and saved British Columbia to Canada.

OBREGON UNABLE TO MEET MARSHAL FOCH

(By The Associated Press.)
Austin, Tex., Dec. 1.—President Obregon of Mexico stated he would be unable to accept Governor Noff's invitation to be in San Antonio December 7 to meet Marshal Foch, in a message today. Pressure of official business was the reason given.

GOVERNOR REILLY SEES WEEKS ON ISLAND TROUBLE

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Dec. 1.—Governor E. Mont Reilly, of Porto Rico, conferred today with Secretary Weeks on conditions in the island, the discussions, it is understood including a consideration of charges of maladministration of his office by the United States army and navy. At the same time the Porto Rican commission, which has come to protest against Governor Reilly's administration arrived prepared to lay before President Harding charges and data to support their plea for removal of the governor. Secretary Weeks is expected to report to President Harding tomorrow and pending the conference with the president and final disposition of the trouble Governor Reilly will remain here, it was understood. At his conference with Secretary Weeks today he defended his administration and also suggested the advisability of certain constitutional changes in Porto Rico with respect to the election of members of the legislature.

AMERICAN LUTHERAN MISSION IN PERSIA RAIDED BY WILDMEN

(By The Associated Press.)
London, Dec. 1.—A dispatch to the London Times from Tabriz, Persia, dated Tuesday, says wild tribesmen raided the American Lutheran mission at Sybulak October 8 and tore the clothes of three Americans, the Misses Schenck, Fossum and Gudhard, and brutally handled M. Bachimont, a Frenchman attached to the mission. Mrs. Bachimont was taken two days later in distraught condition, hiding in a ruined house. Five hundred gendarmes who surrounded were stood up in batches and shot down with machine guns. After these excesses the tribesmen withdrew but no Persian troops had occupied the town when the news reached here.

IMPERIAL PARTY STOPS HERE FORTY MINUTES

The band and about 150 members of the local Ballet Alvyed temple, E. T. Chane, potentate, were at the Santa Fe station last evening at 5 o'clock to greet a party of eleven imperial potentates of the Shrine, who were on the way from California to Pueblo, Colo., to conduct a ceremonial there for the Al-Kaly temple.

E. A. Cuts, imperial potentate; Imperial Treasurer Brown and Imperial Recorder Rowley were among the party, which was conducted through the local temple and afterwards driven about the city. The imperial party spent forty minutes here.

ROTARIANS URGE RE-DISTRICTING FOR SOUTHWEST

Seek New Group of Clubs Embracing West Texas, Arizona and New Mexico; Join Southwest League.

Acting upon the recommendation of a special committee headed by Herman Schweizer, the local Rotarians at their luncheon yesterday noon voted to urge a re-districting of Rotary which would place New Mexico, west Texas and Arizona in a special district. The present district includes Colorado and parts of Wyoming.

The club also voted to take out a membership in the League of the Southwest. This follows a similar action by the chamber of commerce.

Dr. R. H. Briggs presented the matter of securing the Frances E. Willard school. A special committee was created to look after the proposition as far as Rotary is concerned, its members being Mr. C. C. A. for new members.

NATION'S UNEMPLOYED IS DECREASED MILLION DURING RECENT WEEKS

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Dec. 1.—The number of the nation's unemployed has decreased by more than a million during recent weeks, according to an estimate of the national conference on unemployment, announced today by Secretary Hoover. He said that while some of the unemployment decrease might be only temporary, reports indicated considerable improvement. Unemployment estimates at the present time were between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000.

BRITISH FAVOR END OF U-BOAT AS WAR DEVICE

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Dec. 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—Abolition of the submarine as instrument of warfare still is regarded by the British delegation as the most preferable decision to be reached by the armament conference when the submarine question is brought up.

While British delegates realize, it was said today, that their views as to the unsuitability of the submarine for warfare might not prevail in the conference, they felt certain it would receive much sympathy in the world at large.

In anticipation of a lively discussion before the conference, a high British authority tonight set out the British attitude as follows:

The submarine can hardly be used without being abused; in the past it certainly was a gross abuse of every rule of war. There might be a legitimate use for the submarine if it could be confined to operations against warships; it could not be used against merchant ships without violation of the rules of war.

Moreover the British spokesman had no doubts seriously whether the submarine really was the weapon of the weaker power against the stronger.

In response to an inquiry as to whether the same objection made to the submarine might not be applied to the use of gas, the dropping of bombs from airplanes, the British spokesman declared there was a great difference.

PAY OF DEEP WATER SEAMEN WILL BE CUT SIXTH ON JANUARY 1

(By The Associated Press.)
New York, Dec. 1.—A fifteen per cent reduction in the wages of deep water seamen will be put into effect January 1, several large steamship owners declared today.

While formal announcement is not expected before a week or ten days, owners said that the proposed reduction had been under consideration several weeks and was made necessary because of the low wages paid by foreign steamship lines. It was alleged vessels flying foreign flags had failed to maintain the established level of wages and were employing seamen at rates approximately one-third of the shipping board scale. The letter ranges from $72.50 monthly for able seamen, to $370 for masters.

SMALL ALLEGES FOES SEEK TO CORRUPT JURY

Illinois Governor Has Newest Political Sensation; Plan Probe of Alleged Effort to "Fix" Jury.

(By The Associated Press.)
Springfield, Ill., Dec. 1.—Illinois' newest political sensation—reports of alleged attempts to corrupt the grand jury which indicted Governor Small last July—probably will be laid before a future Sangamon county grand jury for investigation. State's Attorney Mortimer said tonight.

W. D. "Buck" Evans, member of the July grand jury, today was accused in a public letter to Governor Small by C. H. Jenkins, director of welfare, of offering to trade damaging information against the prosecution for a job under the Small administration.

Reports that Mr. Mortimer planned an investigation of alleged attempts at jury fixing were circulated. Jenkins and the governor said, by the governor's political foes as part of a plot to ruin Small.

Mr. Mortimer in a reply said he told the governor's attorneys three weeks ago of his indignation but that he would take no immediate action because he did not want to be in the attitude of prejudicing the governor's present situation.

UNEMPLOYED CANNOT PARADE IN DALLAS

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 1.—Police today refused to permit a parade of unemployed. About fifty idle men had assembled at city hall when police officers to stop them were issued.

The old English seacoast town of Great Yarmouth contains what is said to be the narrowest street in the world. It is known as Kitty Witches row and its greatest width is 56 inches.

STATE RECEIVES GOOD SPLIT ON ROAD AID FUND

(Special Correspondence to The Journal.)
Santa Fe, Dec. 1.—Highway Engineer Gillett today was notified that the rate at which New Mexico would receive federal aid under the recently passed $75,000,000 highway act had been fixed at $61,508 to $38,492.

This means that the state will get $61,508 of the federal aid allotted to it every $38,492 it puts up.

Previously the state had to put up $50 for every $50 obtained in federal aid, but because of the large area of unreserved public land in the state the state's percentage was cut down.

TORRENTIAL RAINS MAKE FLOOD MENACE IN SEATTLE REGION

(By The Associated Press.)
Seattle, Wash., Dec. 1.—Torrential rains, added to melting snows had caused a serious flood menace today in the country between here and Tacoma. The town of Kent was partially under water with a stream flowing over the main business street and covering the Seattle-Tacoma International bridge.

From Ellensburg, Wash., east of the Cascade mountains, the Yakima river was reported twenty-eight feet up and still rising. The flood stage was expected for thirty hours and might be avoided, it was said, if the temperature should drop sufficiently.

GIBBONS AND KRUG FIGHT TO DRAW IN TWELVE-ROUND BOUT

(By The Associated Press.)
Newark, N. J., Dec. 1.—Getting into his stride after seven rounds, in which he had the worst of it, Phil Krug of Harrison, N. J., tonight fought Mike Gibbons of St. Paul in a fast 12-round draw. They weighed in at 155 and 155 1/2 pounds respectively.

Making good use of his left jab and showing cleverness at fighting, the westerner had left his own way until the fifth when Krug landed a right cross to the head that slowed him down. Again in the ninth the New Jersey fighter landed a vicious right.

MEMBERSHIP IN C. OF C. PASSES THE 1,000 MARK

Rejuvenation Campaign to Continue This Week; Central Committee Confident of Reaching Quota

The chamber of commerce membership passed the 1,000 mark last night at 5:55 o'clock.

Central committee members in charge of the membership rejuvenation campaign expressed their belief that the new goal of 1,200 members could be reached by the end of the week.

The records show that there are well over 200 more men and women in Albuquerque who will undoubtedly want to join the new chamber, but who have so far been unable to do so due to the fact that they have been out of the city; have not been able to interview or be interviewed by the membership salesmen or who, being old chamber members, have been under the impression that the drive was only for new members and that, as present members, they need not sign up now.

A meeting of the central committee will be held at the end of the week and a complete check made and report compiled of the results of the drive. The report will be ready for publication Sunday morning.

"I believe that Albuquerqueans will be greatly surprised when they see the list of names," Sidney E. Well, chairman of the rejuvenation committee, stated last night. "The list will show that almost every family in the city has at least one member, and that, as present members, they need not sign up now."

The great number of workers who have taken part in the drive at various times since it started, has resulted in many persons becoming acquainted in a business and social way who had never before been known to each other.

"If the only result of the drive was this cementing of friendships, the drive would be a success," one of the central committee members declared yesterday when discussing this phase of the campaign.

At the meeting to be held by the central committee at the end of the week, detailed plans relative to memberships, the methods of elections and further suggestions for chamber activities for the year will be arranged and the committee will then turn over the membership list and activity plans to the official chamber, and consider its work completed.

POLICE START HUNT FOR MAN POISONING ARBUCKLE WITNESS

(By The Associated Press.)

San Francisco, Calif., Dec. 1.—Systematic police search was begun tonight for the stranger alleged to be responsible for the poisoning of Mrs. Irene Morgan, Los Angeles nurse and defense witness in the trial of Roscoe Arbuckle. The district attorney announced his entire force would aid in the investigation.

Mrs. Morgan was found unconscious in her hotel room. She told of being accosted last night and again today by a man she had seen during the Arbuckle trial. She said the man had given her candy twice and that both times eating this candy had been followed by illness.

No connection between Mrs. Morgan's experience and the trial in progress has been discovered, authorities said.

Legion Brings World Commanders Together

FRANKLIN D'OLIER, Past Commander of American Legion; HANFORD MacNIDER, Commander of American Legion; ALTON T. ROBERTS, Chairman American Legion Reception Committee.

America has had distinguished visitors since the time of the arrival of Columbus but probably never in its four hundred odd years of existence has it held on its soil such a group as was brought together last month in Kansas City. There, at the annual convention of the American Legion, four of the greatest fighting men of all time were met by a fifth man of arms so that the group comprised Ferdinand Foch, Marshal of France; Generalissimo Armando Vittorio Diaz, of Italy; Admiral Sir David Beatty, First Sea Lord of Great Britain; Lieutenant General Alfonso Jacques, Commander-in-Chief of the Belgian Army, and General John J. Pershing.

When the American Legion was founded in Paris in the days following the armistice, one of the fundamental reasons for its organization was to perpetuate the friendly alliance that prevailed among nations during the war. Therefore, as soon as the military affairs of the world calmed down the Legion invited the commanders under whom the doughboys and gobs had served during the war. In other words each doughboy or gop in the Legion had the privilege of being host to the man who commanded him during the war.

JAPANESE DELEGATE DENIES REPUDIATION OF BARON KANJI KATO

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Dec. 1 (By the Associated Press).—Denial was made tonight by Prince Tokugawa, a Japanese delegate, that he repudiated or disapproved the recent assertion of Vice Admiral Kanji Kato, chief naval adviser to the Japanese delegation, to the effect that Japan regarded a 70 per cent ratio in capital ship tonnage necessary to safeguard the nation's interests.

Vice Admiral Kato declared Japan must have a ratio of 70 per cent instead of the 60 per cent ratio provided in the American proposals. Prince Tokugawa, a day or so later, was quoted as saying the vice admiral's assertion was an expression of "personal opinion."

Tonight Prince Tokugawa made this statement: "What I meant to convey in answering questions of newspaper correspondents concerning the interview given by Vice Admiral Kanji Kato, was that it was the opinion of the Japanese naval experts. I did not mean to contradict the views of Vice Admiral Kato. Some people seem to have interpreted what I said as being a repudiation or disapproval of the vice admiral's opinions but I did not convey any such idea."

"Y" WANTS 200 MORE MEMBERS IN 200 MINUTES

Campaign to Start Tuesday Morning; J. B. Herndon to Have Charge of Membership Sales Force.

"Two hundred members in two hundred minutes" is the slogan of the two-day Y. M. C. A. drive to be started on the morning of December 6.

The entire drive is to be in the form of a membership sale and J. B. Herndon has been named sales manager. There will be five division managers who will have charge of the following divisions: Industry, banks and retail, professional, wholesale and jobbers, and federal employees.

Complete plans for the lighting campaign will be arranged at the supper to be held for the workers Monday evening at the Y. The salesmen and prospects who have been invited by them will meet at the "Y" for a "get acquainted" dinner following the completion of the drive.

"Iron Breakfasts"

—for high-powered men who forge ahead—
delicious, served with cream.

"Big" business men are usually of great vitality, robust and vimful—"Iron Men," so called because of iron in the blood.

Scores of them eat what they call "iron breakfast" every morning to uphold their driving force.

For instance, stewed raisins—the luscious dish that's given to pale, tired, anemic business men at a famous sanitarium in Battle Creek.

For raisins are rich in food-iron which promotes energy and vigor.

Men need but a small bit of iron daily, yet that need is vital. Supply it through raisins.

This is a suggestion to you, madam (if you, too, are reading this). Watch your men's food for that iron content. It's important.

This breakfast-fruit is so well liked that it is welcome daily, and it is daily regularity that counts.

Try tomorrow, learn for yourself how good stewed raisins are, and how the men folks like them.

What Foreign Visitors Think of America

Foch: Tremendous. I see now the reason for the grand scale of your undertakings and the immensity of your successes.

Beatty: My visit as guest of the American Legion has impressed upon me more and more the unanimity of your national effort toward the fulfillment of ideals.

Jacques: Your power—the strength of your country—comes, as I have found it, from your capacity for work and your enjoyment of it.

Diaz: The greatest impression was made upon me by the completeness of your assimilation. I was proud to see former countrymen now as ardent in their Americanism as your native-born.

Rege of being host to the man who commanded him during the war. General Diaz arrived first, on October 19th, and was at once taken under the guidance of the American Legion Reception Committee of which Alton T. Roberts is chairman, and Franklin D'Olier, vice-chairman. Two days later Admiral Beatty reached New York and the ovation tendered to Diaz was repeated for him.

On October 22nd General Jacques reached the United States and hardly had the cheers died down when Marshal Foch came into the greatest ovation ever tendered a foreign visitor. The Allied commander reached New York on October 28th.

With General Pershing these four leaders of men met in Kansas City and there in the parade held before the convention saw men whom they had known in France or on the high seas. When the convention elected Hanford MacNider as commander these distinguished warriors were the first to extend their congratulations.

Through these visitors the American Legion is achieving its ideal—the continuation of the spirit of good will between the United States and the countries that fought with it in the World War. These commanders of foreign hosts are going back as missionaries of the renewed friendship.

RAILROADS AGREE TO END FOREIGN SHIP ALLIANCES

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Dec. 1.—Willingness to abrogate preferential contracts with foreign shipping interests was expressed today before shipping board officials by six of the eight American railroads having such agreements. Two roads which were invited to appear before the shipping board Interstate commerce committee as being party to preferential contracts, announced those contracts which they had held had expired and would not be renewed.

The roads whose representatives agreed to recommend the cancellation were: The Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Central, Southern, Mobile & Ohio and Boston & Albany. The Pennsylvania railroad, according to its general traffic manager, R. C. Wright, had only a business understanding with the International Merchant Marine, which could be easily cancelled if the board desired.

The hearings were adjourned pending the filing by the individual roads of statements as to their intent.

D. O. Wood, general foreign agent of the Grand Trunk, said it would be necessary to discuss the proposed abrogation further with his principals before he could act. The tenth railroad represented, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, offered to cancel its agreement with a Japanese line if the board would guarantee to replace the business which, he said, inevitably would be lost.

TAX PENALTIES TO BE IMPOSED HERE ON FEB. 1

(By The Associated Press.)

County tax penalties will not be charged this year until after a delinquency dating from February 1, according to a ruling handed down in the district court yesterday morning. This gives taxpayers 30 days more than usual in which to pay their taxes, which usually become delinquent January 1.

The order of the court was issued at the request of the county assessor and is caused by the delay in the approval of the county assessor by the state tax commissioner.

Statements will be mailed to taxpayers by the assessor some time this month. Taxes normally become due for last half payment on December 1 and become delinquent January 1.

RAID ON FOREST FOR CHRISTMAS GREENS BEGINS

Only twenty-four more days to our Christmas chopping. No, chopping, Christmas trees, to be specific.

There's apparently some rush about it this year, too, according to the Manzano forest officials who have already had calls for permits to cut Christmas evergreens in the forest land in the Sandia and Manzano mountains. Several permits were issued yesterday.

Free permits are issued to individuals who wish to cut Christmas trees for use in their own homes. For those who go into the Christmas tree business at this season a permit of ten cents a tree is asked. Those who remove trees without permit are subject to fine.

Christmas tree hunters are directed this year to a big pasture near the ranger station at Cedro in Tijeras canyon. The spot is easily accessible by automobile and the trees are just a good size for holiday use. The forest service, furthermore, has decided that this grove can best afford to be cleared out a bit by removing some of the trees.

The trees are young pinon which is highly recommended for Christmas trees. There is said to be no more satisfactory Christmas trees in this country except the white fir which grow only at such high altitudes that it is impossible to obtain them.

Aside from those matinee idols who play athletic parts in pictures there are some real athletes playing leading roles who never have their pictures taken in running trunks, boxing suits, football togs or heavy sweaters. HOUSEWORK AND HANDS.

Yesterday I said something about the value of housework as a beauty exercise. I know many of my readers are going to tell me that, though it may be good for the arms, it is exceedingly hard on the hands.

All this is true enough. But there are many ways of protecting the hands while working and of treating them as soon as housework is finished. First of all, never touch a stove or furnace or ashes unless you have gloves on. Cotton gloves used to be ten cents a pair, now they are twice as much, at least. They are cheap at any reasonable price, however, since they do protect the hands when doing dirty work.

In fact most housework can be done with gloves on. Cotton or canvas gloves are for dusting and sweeping and for tending fires; rubber gloves, which are a little more expensive, for scrubbing and dishwashing. There are only two household duties I know of that can not be done with gloves on. One is making beds, which is a hard job on the hands, and the other is laundry work, which is, but even in laundry work the amount of time the hands are immersed in water is reduced to a minimum by the use of washing machines, wringers and other patent devices to eliminate the old-fashioned scrubbing board.

The new soap flakes and powders are so cleansing in their action that practically no rubbing is necessary while long handled mops and long handled scrubbing brushes save the back and the hands. If the hands suffer from housework, rub them with oil or lard, then wash this off with soap and water.

Miss N. M. M.: The recovery from a sprain is always very slow, even taking years to fully overcome it fully, unless the sprained parts have been given absolute rest until there is complete recovery. Massage the leg regularly and do not overexert it by standing on it for long periods, then some day the entire tendency toward aching will have disappeared.

Estelle: The scars from removing blackheads usually bleach themselves by cultivating a clear skin. If your scars do not, try peroxide of hydrogen on a small piece of absorbent cotton, placing it over the scars at night, leaving it to dry out gradually while it bleaches the skin.

A. H. L.: The lines on either side of the mouth show that your facial muscles are sagging. To remedy this build up the general system and tone the muscles of face and throat by gentle massage with cream, strappings and finally an ice rub.

X. Y. Z.: If the shade of your eyes is really bleaching, you may need to be built up generally, or the eyes may be weakened from straining them. Consult your doctor.

Peggy: X. Y. Z.: I will be glad to mail the formula for the eyelash tonic if you send me a stamped addressed envelope.

HOW TO MAKE ONE OF THE NEW "BUNNY BIRDS."

Isn't it funny how all the world will start making some new thing, then suddenly all the world will become enthusiastic about something else? At the present moment women have gone wild over "Bunny Birds." If you have a baby in your family to wear one of these, you can make one for your neighbor's child—perhaps for Christmas. This is how they are made:

Buy one-half yard of any white or colored material which is coarse enough to put a crochet hook through. You can make two of the birds out of this half-yard of goods—and, for a gift, it is nice to give a pair of birds, one to be worn when the other is in the wash.

The ears of the bunny go around the child's neck and are fastened with a button and button hole on the car tips.

The bunny's round head comes just below the child's chin, and the breast and "shoulders" of the bunny form another circle beneath the bunny's head; two "front feet" are indicated on this lower circle by outlining two ovals (about the size of small eggs), close together at the very bottom of the bib.

It is not necessary to have a picture or pattern to make one of these pretty birds. Any woman can cut one herself out of newspaper, trying it on a small child. She can then pin this home-made newspaper pattern to her material and cut out the bib.

The next step is to crochet an edge completely around the bib. To do this, turn over edge of material nearly and crochet right into it a picot, using colored silk thread or any merzerized cotton. Single crochet one; repeat five times; chain four and join in fifth single to make picot. Continue in this way around the edge of the bib. (A No. 8 needle is about right to use for crocheting this edging.)

If you can not crochet you can finish the edge of the bib by sewing around it a colored rickrack braid or any other machine-made edging which you find in the stores.

The measurements of this bib, when edged, are: Length from tip of ears to end of the large circle which forms the "shoulders" of the bunny and lower part of bib,

WESTERN WOMAN IS SHERIFF, CORONER AND UNDERTAKER

Mrs. Jessie M. Lightfoot.

There are some narrow-minded people who boast that they will not do business with a woman if they can help it. In most cases this is rank injustice, but even the most ardent feminist cannot but appreciate the reason most people would not like to "do business" with Mrs. Jessie M. Lightfoot of King county, Washington.

Mrs. Lightfoot has the distinction of being not only a sheriff and coroner, but she is interested in two undertaking companies. It certainly sounds as if "once she gets you you are done for," as one of her friends jovially remarked.

Mrs. Lightfoot is the first and only woman deputy sheriff in King county with the full power of sheriff. She was the first deputy coroner in the state of Washington. In addition to her duty as sheriff she is secretary of the Young Undertaking company and the Fremont Undertaking company. Mrs. Lightfoot is also an active club woman and is president of the Women's Commercial club of Seattle. She is a life member of the state legislative council of Washington and chairman of the finance committee of the King county legislative council.

GREEK LETTER WOMEN WILL MEET TO AWARD SCHOLARSHIP TROPHY

At the Saturday luncheon meeting of the Women's Pan-Hellenic association of the city at the Alvarado the college Greek letter women will announce the award of a scholarship trophy to the student society having the highest scholastic average for the college year 1920-1921. Money to purchase the silver trophy was contributed by the Pan-Hellenic association last year.

Other important business of the luncheon will be the reorganization of the association on a new basis and the revision of the by-laws and constitution. Mrs. George Anderson will preside over the meeting. All members of women's national fraternities are invited to attend the luncheon which will be served promptly at 12:30. Reservations must be made before noon today at telephone No. 1988-M.

BUSINESS SESSION OF WOMAN'S CLUB TODAY

The nominating committee of the Woman's club will make its report this afternoon of candidates to be voted on at the yearly election of officers to be held in January. The meeting will be called at 3 o'clock.

It is business day at the club and all members are expected to be present. Mrs. Emily Lafelle will conduct the parliamentary drill which is always interesting. Some of the best parliamentarians in Albuquerque are members of the Woman's club.

A short board meeting will be held after the regular meetings. Refreshments will be served at the close of the business session. Many new members are being added every week to the club.

17 inches. Diameter of this lower circle, 10 1-2 inches across the bunny's "breast." Diameter of the bunny's head, 8 inches. (The circle which forms the head, and the lower and larger circle which forms breast and shoulders overlap slightly, so that the neck of the bunny will not be too small. The ears are about six inches long and two inches wide in the middle; they taper near the head and go to a distinct point at the tip.)

Then comes the last step in making the bib—embroidering the face on the head-circle. This consists of two round circles for eyes, each not quite an inch in diameter; and nose and mouth combined in the shape of an hour-glass. From the thin, middle part of this "hour glass," whiskers are embroidered in black on each side. A few black hairs may be embroidered just above each eye also. Pink is a good color to choose for eyes, nose and mouth, or red if preferred. The bunny's chin is then outlined in black, by embroidering a semi-circle (to form "chops") on either side of the hour-glass nose, about mouth, running to the edge of the bib.

THE GOOD EXAMPLE.

Ex-Kaiser Bill has stacks of wood, with royal hands he sawed it, and wise men find his conduct good, and roundly they applaud it. He labors, labors every day, his bones and sinews wrenching; he's tired his gardener, they say, to do some more retrenching. And now with his own princely hands he'll ply the hoe and shovel, and cultivate the fertile lands around his Holland hotel. "That it's a time to cut expense," he says, "is plain to thinkers," and he repairs the garden fence and carries out the clinkers. "It's no use hiring headless men," he says, "I'll do my duty," and he cleans the porkers' pen, and cranks the motor tooty. When'er we hear of exiled

Bill he's doing something useful. He nails a board or saws a sill, or rears a pumpkin juiceful. I use to hate his very name when he was wildly pelting, and putting up his war lord came, all helpful tasks disdaining. But when the Kaiser had to quit, and fold his spangled banner, he took his soup, we must admit, in quite a deal of same manner. He might be scrouching all the time, invoking Mike and Peter, and mourning pomp and state sublime from which he had to teeter. But since he lost his throne and crown he's set a fine example, and he has held his sawbuck down with resolution ample. He piles the stove-wood rank on rank, and when he has a penny he puts it in the savings bank, to shame the thriftless many.

THE NEW GENERATION

By JANE PHELPS

JOAN TELLS OF A GHOST.

CHAPTER 28.
For days Margaret felt the weight of her daughter's displeasure. Neither of them mentioned Craig Forrester's name, but the old familiar "Mumme" was discarded for the formal "Mother," and in other ways Joan held herself aloof.

But somehow Margaret cared less than before. "Of course I should feel awfully silly if Joan knew about my being all dressed up that morning, and about the luncheon," she said to herself. "If I shall have to begin to assert myself a little—as far as my age goes—or Joan will have me laid away on a shelf for the rest of my life."

Then Margaret considered. Should she show the rose and the gray dress? What if she hung it up in the closet with her other clothes and let Joan find it? Craig Forrester had said it was so being coming; he had admired her in it, had declared she looked like Joan's sister. Perhaps it was wrong for her to think herself too old to dress prettily and stylishly, or for enjoyment. She had so enjoyed Forrester's car. The truth had passed so swiftly. And time so often dragged with her. She was alone so much. Joan was so often with her schoolmates.

One morning in an access of independence following a night of almost sleepless thinking caused by Joan's attitude—something she had again said about her mother's age—Margaret took the rose and the gray dress from the closet and hung it in the closet. She put the dainty rose colored slippers in plain sight on the shelf, the stockings in her bureau drawer. When this was done she breathed a sigh of relief. "Please get my sweater for me, Joan," she asked as they sat on the porch that afternoon. Malcolm Frost, Clarence Tobin and Hortense Thompson had walked home with Joan. All four had raised the cake box, and were contentedly munching little frosted cakes.

Joan was gone what seemed an unusually long time. When she finally returned with the sweater, she placed it on the porch and laid it upon her mother's lap without a word. "Thank you," Margaret murmured.

"One would think you had seen a ghost," Joan said with a serious face. "I did see a ghost." "Tell us about it." "It was nothing but the ghost of an old woman trying to seem young. She was all dressed in rose and gray, and she gave me the shivers." The contention which followed illustrated Joan's feeling, although it was an oppressively warm evening.

"How interesting!" Hortense exclaimed. "Do tell us more about it. Where was the ghost?" "Let's all go and see it!" Clarence Tobin suggested.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so softens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufacturer for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—Adv.

FRANCE MAY GIVE TEN BILLIONS OF FRANCS TO ROADS

New Control Bill for Rail Lines Makes Liberal Award But Gives Government Supervision.

(By The Associated Press.)

Paris, Dec. 1.—France, in its new railroad control law, makes the railroads a present of advances, past, present and to come in the next five years, of an amount estimated at least 10,000,000,000 francs. These advances, however, are in large part due to the former agreement with the railroads whereby they had to transport millions of troops and millions of tons of supplies during the war at a rate based on pre-war conditions. The surplus is passed over all these transactions.

The new law, to which the railroads have informally agreed, needs formal acceptance by the corporations but it is expected to become effective early next year.

The government will then have general supervision of the roads through an executive board that will control operation and order improvements. The government will control directly freight charges so that certain industries may be favored if desirable.

The companies will have reduced credit and during five years the government will pay the interest on 6,000,000,000 francs of securities the roads will issue to improve the lines.

A comparative pool of profits is insisted by the law. Railroad earnings show a certain return to stockholders and above interest charges will be paid into a common fund to be used to meet any deficit by other lines. A company, however, that shows a center than normal efficiency in handling traffic or otherwise may retain additional profits, determined by a sliding scale.

There is a provision for labor participation in the various controlling boards and opportunities for profit-sharing.

SALVAGE SHOP'S TRADE EXCEEDS STOCK AT HAND

The Red Cross salvage shop is feeling its first Christmas rush. Unlike the ordinary shop, however, it is almost embarrassed at the extent of its patronage for lack of sufficient articles to sell. The salvage shop maintains its stock of clothing, furniture and toys solely through contributions by persons who can discard possessions slightly worn.

There has been a recent demand among the patrons of the shop for toys for the Christmas season and this is where it hurts the most.

There isn't a doll in the shop! There are only a few toys of any kind, for that matter, some antiquated little sets of furniture unearthed from somebody's grand mother's chest, and an almost loved-to-death bedraggled white "teddy bear" that was snatched up by a little colored girl for thirty-five cents the first day.

Children of more fortunate circumstances who will receive a lot of shining new toys on Christmas are being urged to give up their old ones to the salvage shop where they may be purchased for a small sum to give joy to some other child. Parents are also asked to send to the shop various playthings that their children have outgrown and which are perhaps only collecting dust in the attic.

A Christmas corner has been established in the shop for the holiday season. Here are collected new aprons, caps, slippers, baby clothes and novelties suitable for gifts. Articles for this corner, are being made from new materials furnished at the shop by organizations of women interested in the Red Cross project.

With the coming of cold weather the salvage shop finds difficulty in keeping a stock of warm clothes for men, women and children. Separate skirts, shirts, trousers, coats, hats, hosiery and shoes of all sizes find ready sale. Persons who are willing to contribute used garments to the salvage shop are asked to telephone their name and address at the shop to 33-W in order that articles may be called for.

HINES STUDIES FORD RAILROAD CONTROL SCHEME

Points Out that Detroit
Man's Plan May Not
Work on Large Road;
Ford's Face to Future.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Walker D. Hines, former director general of railroads, and at one time chairman of the board of the Santa Fe railroad, says that it is contrary to the public interest for a large shipper like Henry Ford to own and operate a railroad by means of which he had a powerful leverage for obtaining special consideration from the common carriers of the country.

"But as long as this is permitted by law," he says in the December Nation's Business, "we can at least congratulate ourselves that the D. T. & I. railroad is in the hands of a genius who is willing to turn his railroad into a laboratory for the making of experiments which his resourcefulness suggests. I shall be surprised if some of the experiments do not turn out to be valuable from the standpoint of railroad companies in general."

Mr. Hines points out that Mr. Ford's proposals for operating a large railroad like the Pennsylvania railroad, are both right and wrong. He discusses the reforms suggested by Mr. Ford in an impartial but practical manner.

After explaining that he believes Ford's attitude on railroad problems appeals strongly to the American people, Mr. Hines says that "Ford's face is turned towards the future and he confidently proposes reforms which are in the public interest. Ford has the courage of his convictions, and he does things instead of merely talking about them."

"By purchasing this railroad Mr. Ford has done what was the equivalent of bringing practically every competing railroad system in the country to the door of his factory, and that is an advantage which no competing manufacturing plant enjoys. What he can do through this means in getting for his railroad increased divisions of freight rates remains yet to be ascertained, because it is not at present known, but the impression prevails that he has secured increased divisions. A shipper who does not own a railroad can get in the shape of an increase in the division received by his railroad out of the through rate a concession which is not published in its tariffs or reported, unless in exceptional cases, to the interstate commerce commission. Certainly there is a tremendous inducement for especially large divisions when the shipper can offer to a large number of competing railroads the tempting bait of high-class traffic in railroad lots at regular intervals."

"Mr. Ford states that he has speeded up the movement of traffic on his railroad and that other railroads should do likewise. This brings into interesting relief the fundamental difference between the railroads in general and the D. T. & I. in its new role of Ford plant facility."

The great element in the slow movement of freight traffic is the time consumed in the terminals. It is highly important to reduce terminal work and to cut out delay in the terminals. The United States railroad administration gave special attention to this subject and found the most cordial attitude on the part of railroad officers generally to its efforts in this direction. It inaugurated in September, 1919, special local terminal committees, with representation of the shippers as well as of the railroads, and sought to put into effect all practical suggestions looking to the elimination of factors leading to delay or unnecessary work. Similar efforts have been continued since the resumption of private control.

"Mr. Ford also says that he has been able to speed up the delivery of the traffic from his factories by from seven to fourteen days. He says this enables him to reduce his working capital by about $50,000,000."

"It is clear he does not mean that he has reduced the time of movement over his own railroad by from seven to fourteen days. In fact, this traffic does not move on his own railroad except for a short distance in most cases—say from 70 to 100 miles. What he must mean is that he demands of his connections as the price of giving them his traffic that they speed up the delivery to final destination by from seven to fourteen days. Here again his connections may be willing to do this in order to get his traffic, but it does not follow that they can do the same thing for all of Mr. Ford's competitors or for the public, and the question again arises whether the railroads may not at times be forced to delay other traffic in order to give Mr. Ford the special fast movement which he demands and which his special position enables him to obtain. It is clear that Mr. Ford's railroad does not supply the ideal field for experiment as to fast train movement, because the haul on his railroad is too short and his traffic is too special in character to present the problems which exist on the railroads generally.

"The country will certainly be the winner if Mr. Ford can design lighter locomotives which will do the same work as the existing heavy locomotives, and if he can design lighter freight cars which will do the same work as existing freight cars, and which will be strong enough to be hauled and switched (as they would have to be) in the same trains and cuts of cars with the existing heavy equipment throughout the country, on all sorts of grades and curves and under all sorts of conditions."

"It is not clear what Mr. Ford means by eliminating the unproductive stockholder. I cannot imagine he means the existing stock should be confiscated. If he means that for the future stock should not be issued except for appropriate value which has been or is to be put into the property, that seems to be a desirable thing. It is desirable to encourage the ownership of stock by employees and by people who live in the communities through which the railroads run, that certainly is an ideal which I believe the public and railroad people would like to see realized. The closer we can get to a condition where the people who use and work the railroads themselves own the railroads and help to finance them, the better it will be for the country. If Mr. Ford can develop some methods of accomplishing this result he will certainly render an important service by doing so. It is seriously questionable, however, whether this movement ought to be carried to the extent of promoting the control of common carriers by large industrial enterprises."

"Surely with his remarkable record in economical production and with his extraordinary personality he can impress his spirit and his methods upon 450 miles of railroad with about 2,000 employees so as to obtain substantial economies. Some of them should be practical examples for the 230,000 miles of railroad with their 2,000,000 employees, but his problems are by no means as simple and they cannot enjoy the unique advantages which the Ford railroad enjoys."

OPENING BASKETBALL GAME IS ON TONIGHT AT HARWOOD SCHOOL

The first game of the Albuquerque high basketball season will be played tonight with Harwood school at the Albuquerque college gymnasium. The industrial school has been practicing for some time and are said to have a better team than last year. The fact that the game will be played on their own floor and that the high school basketball team have only been practicing since Tuesday insures it to be an excellent game.

The game will start promptly at 7:30 and will be refereed by L. R. Wilson of the Y. M. C. A. The main part of the Green and White basketball card will not be played until after Christmas and there will be no games held in the gymnasium until after that time. There will be five games facing the local net squad before the main part of their schedule begins. On Wednesday evening of next week they will meet the Good Time club of the Y. M. C. A. in the Y. gymnasium. The Bankers' basketball team will play a game with the local high in the Y gym on December 16. December 16, Menaul and Albuquerque high will meet on the Menaul floor and very probably the Indian school will be the attraction for local fans when they meet the high school on their own floor in the last game before Christmas, December 23.

The lineup that will battle tonight at Harwood school at 7:30 o'clock are:

Albuquerque high school—Hammond, Holcomb, forwards; Behnman, center; Glaseman, Wilson, guards.

Harwood school—Costales, Madrid, guards; Costales, center; Campa, Rohla, forwards.

FAILEN MONARCH FROM CHILDHOOD TO OLD AGE

William Hohenzollern at the age of six, in 1855; in ex-monarch at the beginning of his reign (lower left); snapped in uniform near the front in September, 1917; as he looks today, in exile.

Exiled, friendless and alone, a prey to his conscience, William Hohenzollern, once the mightiest monarch in the world, is spending his last years in a gloomy Holland castle. The pictures show him from childhood to old age. Note the sad expression on his face at the age of six. Did he, even then, have a premonition of the terrible fate that was virtually to overtake him? Since going into exile William Hohenzollern's hair has grown white. He now wears a beard, as the picture at the extreme right shows.

GREAT ARTIST WILL SING HERE UNDER AUSPICES APOLLO CLUB

Mrs. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Contralto.

Mrs. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, prima donna contralto, who is to sing in concert here on the evening of December 26, has a reputation for her powerful voice. She is at home particularly in the magnificent arias of the German opera, with the great Erda scene from "Die Rheingunde," the Waltraute scene from "Gotterdammerung" of Wagner, and the great ballads of Schubert and others.

Mrs. Schumann-Heink made her most tremendous success as leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, where she long held sway over the Wagnerian scores, and in the splendid roles of Fides in Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete," Azucena in "Il Trovatore" and Amelia in "Aida." She belonged to that great school of stars composed of the DeResques, Paj Plancon, Emma Eames, Lillian Nordica, David Braham, Marcello Sembrich and others. Today, she is the sole survivor of that peerless group, and her voice is still as great, as subtle, as overwhelming and as unusual as it was in those days. A critic has said, "Schumann-Heink, at her best is unequalled." Perhaps the only rival is Mrs. Clara Butt, the celebrated English contralto, Matzenauer, who succeeded Schumann-Heink at the Metropolitan, in 1915, a contralto with soprano ambitions.

Now, with the announcement of the great diva's recital here in December, comes the memory of her matchless singing of the Christmas songs, "Silent Night," and the great "Adeste Fideles," which she has recently recorded for the Phonograph company. Although her program has not been announced, music-lovers are hopeful that she will include, along with the usual arias and ballads, these splendid selections.

An interesting incident is told of Schumann-Heink. During one of the Liberty Loan drives in Chicago, a few years ago, the singer was appearing for the benefit of the campaign. Each song was greeted with a stupendous ovation, and the diva was recalled countless times. At last it was time for the concert to be over. She was called back for a final encore. She came upon the stage bearing a huge bouquet of chrysanthemums. As she finished her number, she drew from the center of the bouquet her own service flag, with the four stars on it. The great audience cheered as one and cheered and cried and howled until the rafters shook. They demanded another song. They got it. She sang "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and her voice broke

TEN KILLED AND SIXTY HURT IN PORTLAND WRECK

(By The Associated Press.)
Portland, Ore., Dec. 1.—Ten killed and sixty injured was the toll in human life and suffering taken in a head-on collision of two Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation company passenger trains near Celilo, Ore., early today, according to latest reports. The list of the dead was increased later today from six to ten by the finding of the bodies of four unidentified men in the wreckage. They were said to be railroad laborers.

Company officials said an investigation was in progress to determine the cause of the collision.

Real Rest Depends Largely Upon the Depth of Your Sleep

A warning to "light" or "poor" sleepers

The deeper and sounder you sleep the better you feel. Five hours sound refreshing sleep does you more actual good than ten hours restless, disturbed sleep.

This is because the final conversion of food into vital tissue and nerve cells goes on more rapidly when the physical and mental forces are at rest.

You can't get sound, refreshing sleep if your nerves are agitated with tea or coffee. Both these drinks contain caffeine, which is sometimes very irritating to the brain and nervous system.

If you want to know the joy, vigor and stamina that comes to the person who gets sound, healthful sleep, why not stop taking tea or coffee for a while, and drink delicious, invigorating Postum instead.

Thousands of people everywhere have found that this was the only thing they needed in order to bring about these very happy results.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this delightful cereal beverage of coffee-like flavor, for a week. Perhaps, like thousands of others, you'll never be willing to go back to tea or coffee.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

STRIKE OF 35,000 PACKING HOUSE EMPLOYEES ORDERED FOR DECEMBER 5, DUE TO WAGE CUT

Walkout Expected to Affect 15 Cities Where Workers Are Organized; Union Official Claims All Attempts to Negotiate Fair Adjustment of Wage Rates Have Failed.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, Dec. 1.—A strike of all union packing house employees in plants where wage reductions were put into effect Monday, was ordered for December 5 by the executive committee of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

The strike, which affects all union crafts employed in the packing industry, will involve about 35,000 workers in fifteen cities, according to Cornelius Hayes, president of the butcher workmen's union.

Dennis Lane, secretary of the butcher workmen's union tonight issued a statement saying: "All attempts to negotiate a fair adjustment of wage rates by offering an agreement providing for arbitration between packers and the employees have failed. The joint executive committee representing all international unions affected do now advise in accordance with the strike vote of the rank and file that all packing house employees in all plants where wage reductions were arbitrarily ordered into effect November 25 or any date thereafter, cease all work at 6 o'clock Monday morning, December 5."

Cities where packing house employees are organized are Chicago, Milwaukee, South St. Paul, Sioux City, Omaha, Denver, Nebraska City, St. Joseph, Mo., Kansas City, Wichita, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, East St. Louis, Albert Lea and Austin, Minn., and Cedar Rapids and Dubuque, Ia.

About 40,000 workers are employed by the "big five" packers and about 10,000 union workers employed in smaller packing plants, according to President Hayes. About 30,000 of the union men were in Chicago, he said. According to Mr. Hayes' figures there are approximately 45,000 organized workmen and about 15,000 unorganized employees. The packers have claimed that the majority of their workmen did not belong to any union and have never recognized the unions.

Unions affiliated with the butcher workmen and which are also ordered to strike, include steam and operating engineers, stationary firemen, railway carmen, cooper, carpenters, blacksmiths, electrical workers, steam fitters, sheet metal workers and machinists. There are about 8,000 men in these allied crafts, Mr. Hayes said.

"It has been our experience in past strikes that the majority of the non-union men walk out with the union workmen," he said. "In that event fully 60,000 workmen may be affected."

The strike order issued today brings to a climax a controversy between the packers and union workmen extending over three months.

During the war packing plants operated under the Alschuler agreement, all disputes being referred to Federal Judge Alschuler for arbitration. This agreement was extended for a year after the war and expired September 15.

At that time four of the "Big Five" packers—Armour & Co., Wilson & Co., Swift & Co., and the Uddah Packing company—inaugurated a system of plant conferences and stated their intention of dealing directly with their employees through conferences.

In October the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America took a strike vote because it was asserted that the packers did not recognize the union. A canvass of this vote, according to union officials disclosed that more than 30,000 workmen had voted to strike and 2,000 had voted in opposition.

Last month the four packing companies began holding assemblies in the various plants following which it was announced representatives of the workmen had agreed to a cut in wages and had either fixed the amount of the decrease or allowed the companies to do so. These reductions averaging about 10 per cent, became effective Monday in the four plants affected and Morris & Co. also announced similar reductions.

The unions asserted that the plant assemblies did not represent the workmen and expressed opposition to the action. The last general strike in the packing industry was in 1914.

At the meeting of the Pioneer's Association of New Mexico in the chamber of commerce Wednesday evening, it was decided to have old stories of the state told, and in order to preserve them, they will be taken down by a stenographer at the meetings.

L. W. Galles, state organizer for the association, told the meeting last night that the aim of the organization was to have from 20,000 to 25,000 members by next fall. Associations will be organized in every community in the state as branches of the parent organization in Albuquerque, and the presiding officers of these subordinate organizations will be vice presidents of the mother organization.

THE RIGHT WAY TO GET STRENGTH AND ENDURANCE

Real, Lasting Health, Energy and Vitality Must Be Built Up.

So many folks who are searching for that "something" to revive their wasted strength and endurance often are led to believe that all they need to do is get some one of the many things you hear of and take it a few days.

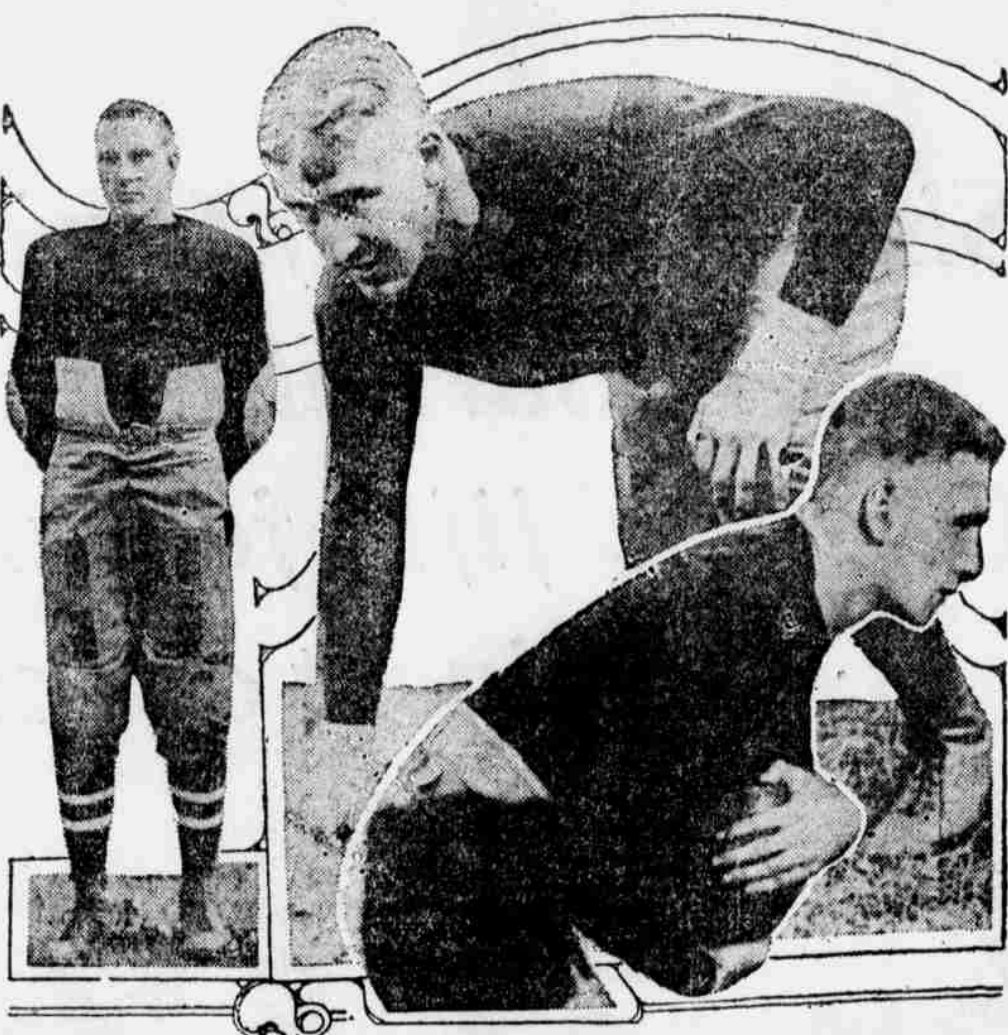

They don't realize that they must get real, lasting strength and endurance by getting their stomach and intestines in shape to get the food and vitamins out of the food they eat.

That's where the secret of health, strength and endurance is. In your food. If your stomach and intestines can't digest, assimilate and eliminate properly the food you eat, you can't hope to regain your health, energy and endurance no matter what you take. Thousands of run down folks are now putting their stomach in shape by using what is known as Garret's Tonic, and soon notice that they can stand longer walks, harder work and more responsibilities. That's because Garret's Tonic causes the food they eat to begin immediately making rich red blood to carry nourishment to their nerves, tissue and brain, and makes them healthy, robust, rosy cheeked and strong.

Garret's Tonic is sold in Albuquerque by Alvarado Pharmacy and the leading dealers in every city.

1921 All-Eastern Grid Team

BY NORMAN E. BROWN.

The choosing of an All-Eastern eleven for 1921 must be an unattractive business, due to the fact that, to my mind at least, only four players stand out pre-eminently in their respective positions. These men are Silvely of Princeton and Munns of Cornell at the ends, Lightner of Penn State at one of the halves and Gulick of Syracuse at tackle. For the other positions it is almost a toss-up between two to half a dozen candidates.

Parr of the Navy is one of the other ends in the east who ranks next to the two stars mentioned. There are four or five who might well appear on such a lineup without drawing adverse criticism. Next to Gulick, Hanson of Cornell and Stanley Keck of Princeton are the most efficient tackles. Into Yale, Davidson of the Army and Parnell of Colgate must be reckoned with, however.

At the guard positions I believe Sack of Pittsburgh and Guernsey of Yale have the edge. Baker of Princeton, Hubbard of Harvard and Barrett of Brown rank at the top, too.

At center, Larson, Navy leader, has the call by a scant margin. Baer of Penn State; Greene, Army captain, and Wittmer of Princeton might challenge his supremacy.

For the quarterback honors this year Louis of Princeton, O'Brien of Yale, Killinger of Penn State and Charles Buell, great drop kicker of the Crimson, deserve consideration. Of the wealth of good quarters this year these four men are the best. To give the honor to Louis is not meant to detract from rich, Lightner, Gilroy and Garrity of Princeton, Kaw of Cornell, Owen of Harvard, Robertson of Dartmouth, Brunner of Lafayette and Erickson of W. and J.

Any two of these men would be stars on any mythical eleven. Aldrich's all-around playing in addition to his punting and forward passing ability, and Lightner's great running and passing give them the call, however. Gilroy and Garrity might be placed third and fourth if a second team were chosen. I hesitate, however, to choose a second team. To relegate many of these stars to third choice by leaving them off a second team would be unfair to them.

Harry West, powerful negro fullback of W. and J., stands out this year as did Pollard of Brown in his day. Jordan of Yale, Paasche of Brown and Sanford of Colgate are other men who starred at full. As I remarked before, had Owen of Harvard played the entire season at full he would have furnished these men competition.

In view of Lafayette's feat in going through the season undefeated—one of four teams to keep their status clean—my failure to place one of that team on the all-star aggregation may be criticized. Lafayette had a great team, a strong line and a well-balanced backfield. But the question is: Outside of Brown, who is there a man who ought to replace one of the eleven men named? We believe not. I cannot conscientiously place a Harvard man on the team either. Owen and Buell are great players, but I cannot rate them above Lourie, Aldrich or Lightner.

Next Dose of Treacherous Drug may Start Misery for You

Calomel is dangerous. It may sicken you and make you suffer fearfully from soreness of gums, tenderness of jaws and teeth, swollen tongue and excessive salivary dribbling from the mouth. Don't trust calomel. It is mercury; quick-silver.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow besides, it may sicken you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tonic you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not sicken.

ROTARY CLUB LAUNCHES PROSPERITY CAMPAIGN THROUGH BILL-BOARDS

The Prosperity Poster Campaign of the International Association of Rotary clubs was launched yesterday in the city. The plan of conveying the message that prosperity is attainable through work, courage and faith, was adopted by the New York club, and has been taken up by many Rotary clubs throughout the country.

Billboard space valued at $1,000,000 has been donated for the campaign, and in this city, the space was given by the Hudson Poster company. The secretary of the local Rotary organization has distributed window-cards to offices and stores. The bill-board space is occupied by a message from President Warren G. Harding, signed in his own hand, and reads as follows:

"The people of Washington and Lincoln are conquering the difficult problems of today, no less worthily, and with the faith and confidence which they bequeath to us. We are sure to find the ways to restored prosperity and our mead of happiness."

IRISH PARLEY NOT TO BREAK BEFORE MONDAY

Sinn Fein Delegates to Devote Week-End to Consideration of New Proposals of British.

(By The Associated Press.)—Indications tonight were that the Irish negotiations, apparently hanging by a thread for two days, would not be finally ruptured before Monday, if at all.

Robert C. Barton is going to Dublin tonight and the other Sinn Fein delegates expect to follow tomorrow.

This announcement was made at the Sinn Fein publicity department today coupled with the statement that the Sinn Fein delegates were summoned to Premier Lloyd George's official residence this evening there probably would be no further meeting with government representatives until Monday.

This was taken to mean that the Sinn Fein delegates would devote the week-end to a discussion of the British government's new proposals to the crown.

It was understood the Sinn Fein delegates would return here Monday to give the government Sinn Fein's decision regarding the new proposals.

The government's undertaking to submit fresh proposals to Ulster before Tuesday is understood to be conditioned upon the acceptance of the new proposals by Sinn Fein and on the question in such possible acceptance of an agreement by the Sinn Fein to swear allegiance to the crown.

Should this agreement not be reached it is understood Ulster will not be approached again and that negotiations with Sinn Fein would terminate.

CANADIAN MIDDLE WEIGHT CLAIMANTS SETTLE QUESTION

(By The Associated Press.)—New York, Dec. 1.—Mike McGuire of New York received the judge's decision over Jeff Smith of Bayonne, N. J., at the end of their 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight. Both were claimants of the Canadian middleweight championship.

McGuire had the Bayonne boxer on the verge of a knock out on several occasions but Smith's toughness enabled him to pull through.

Marty Collins, New York bantamweight, stopped Al Walker of California, the referee halting the contest in the third round when Walker was unable to continue.

Live hustlers have the opportunity these next six days to practically "cinch" the big grand prizes.

For there are six more days of the big votes — six more days that you are given the greatest number of votes for every subscription secured. This means that you must do your "level best" these next six days. And, if you try, you can increase your vote score by leaps and bounds.

Live contestants will certainly make the most of their opportunities now. The wonderful opportunity to "sew up" the big touring cars during these last few days is too good to neglect. Those who do work—the ambitious candidates who use their utmost energy will be rejoicing next month.

The big $8,200 prize campaign is for WORKERS—the big prizes will go to the ones who deserve them. Are you going to be the proud owner of one of these touring cars or one of the other large cash prizes? If you want to win one of the bigger awards—MAKE A WHIRLWIND SHOWING THESE NEXT SIX DAYS.

WIRE SERVICE ON COAST DISTURBED BY WIND AND RAIN

(By The Associated Press.) San Francisco, Dec. 1.—Wire communication between San Francisco and points north and east were interrupted seriously tonight by winds and rain storms.

Trees blown over by the winds broke telephone lines, and the lines of one telegraph company in southern Oregon; rain made some lines in northern California useless and other trees blown over broke the overhead telephone and one telegraph company's wires near Summit, Cal. Wire chiefs spent a busy evening re-routing and diverting traffic to make the most of southern transcontinental lines.

Shipping was reported in a bound of, in a few instances, in trouble. A salvage ship was sent to the aid of the barkentine Simon F. Tolmie, off Neah Bay, Wash. Her steering gear was broken. The United States destroyer De Long, which went ashore a few miles south of San Francisco in a fog last night, was being battered by high seas late tonight.

TRIPLE ALLIANCE MAY FOLLOW SEVERANCE OF BRITAIN-JAPAN PACT

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Dec. 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—Interest was aroused in Japanese circles in connection with Japan's reported desire to see come into existence a triple understanding between Japan, the United States and Great Britain if the Anglo-Japanese alliance is to be discontinued by the issuance tonight of a statement by Representative K. Mochizuki, leader of the Japanese opposition, declaring that in view of the probable success of the conference there was no need of renewing the alliance. He declared that the chief object of the Anglo-Japanese alliance was to prevent Russian aggression towards India, China, Korea and the Pacific. Now that Russia was no longer a cause of anxiety and the Washington conference was about to settle the question of naval burdens and questions pertaining to the Far East, there seemed to him no longer need of the alliance.

COUNTY ROADS COST $1,700 LAST MONTH

In order to complete the work on the Rio Grande boulevard, the county commissioners decided yesterday to amalgamate the funds in several road districts in order to have sufficient money in one fund to pay for the improvement. The boulevard has been graded for a number of miles and will soon be surfaced with gravel. The report of the county road superintendent shows that about $4,500 would be available for the work, which, however, will probably not cost that much.

The monthly report of the road superintendent showed that $1,700 was spent on county roads during November.
