DRAFT OF THE PROPOSED FOUR-POWER TREATY IS LAID BEFORE THE ARMS CONFERENCE BY LODGE

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE IS SUPPLANTED BY NEW AGREEMENT

Action Paves the Way to Acceptance of the American Proposals for Reduction of Naval Armaments and in a Large Measure Is Expected to Contribute to Settlement of Perplexing Chinese Questions.

Washington, Dec. 9. (By the Associated Press).—The Anglo-Japanese alliance, long regarded with apprehension by the American people, passed into history today when spokesmen of both nations at the arms conference accepted in its stead a new four-power agreement for preservation of peace in the Pacific to which the United States and France become parties.

This action, with fulfillment of details to follow, paves the way to acceptance of the American proposals for reduction of naval armaments and in large measure is expected to contribute to settlement of the Chinese questions.

Island Possessions. Provisions of the agreement, which is in the form of a ten-year treaty, are confined to the "region of the Pacific ocean." The four powers are to respect each other's island possessions and to meet in consultation if a dispute arises or if the rights of any of the four are threatened by any other power.

The announcement was made by Senator Lodge at a plenary session of the arms conference and was followed by expressions of approval by the plenipotentiaries of Great Britain, France, Italy, China and Belgium, The Netherlands and Portugal.

To be binding on the United States the treaty must be ratified by the senate. Open war was declared on it by some "irreconcilables" of the Versailles treaty fight in the senate, but republican leaders and some democrats declared ratification was certain.

Signatures Not Affixed. Signatures of the representatives of the powers have not yet been affixed, and the treaty will not be affixed until the expiration of the treaty.

The naval situation remains unchanged pending word from Tokyo, but there is a general confidence that the approval of the American 5-5-3 plan will be made unanimous in the very near future.

In lieu of signature, principal delegates have put their initials on the official copy of the treaty and Senator Lodge said this act was to be interpreted as meaning that the document has been "approved to all intents and purposes."

The agreement is expected to hasten decision not only on the naval ratio, but on all other issues. A British statesman went so far tonight as to declare that the agreement was "practically the break-up of the conference" so far as the major considerations are concerned.

One of the first impulses of some nations was to compare and contrast the treaty with the league of nations covenant. By an official American spokesman it was pointed out that a feature of the league covenant is omitted from the four-power peace agreement. In Article X of the league the members agreed to "respect and preserve each other's territorial integrity," but in the new treaty the pledge is to "respect" territorial rights in the Pacific.

Omission of the guarantee to "preserve" the integrity of foreign nations is declared by the American delegates to constitute an all-important distinction between an

At the U. S. on Mandates Has Been in No Way Modified By the Treaty, Spokesmen State

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Dec. 10. (By the Associated Press).—In presenting the four-power treaty to the arms conference today, Senator Lodge said it had been accepted by the United States subject to a satisfactory conclusion of the negotiations proceeding over Yap, and also with reservations relative to the mandated islands south of the equator.

It was explained by American spokesmen later that the attitude of the American government upon the mandates has been in no way modified by the treaty.

The conference also gave formal approval to several resolutions on Chinese problems adopted by the Far Eastern committee of the whole. The four points of Eilhu Road, the declaration on extra-territoriality, and the agreements relative to China's neutrality and future treaties affecting her were included in the resolutions spread formally on the record.

Shantung Negotiations. Although the plenary session occupied the attention of the delegates until afternoon the Japanese and Chinese met and reported considerable progress in the Shantung negotiations. Next week the Far Eastern committee will resume its deliberations and it is possible another plenary session will be held early next week to record the agreement on naval ratio.

The hour devoted by the conference to the four-power treaty constituted a memorable chapter in the history of diplomatic relations. It was the first time since the signing of the Versailles treaty that the plenipotentiaries of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, China and Belgium, The Netherlands and Portugal met in a single hall.

Senator Lodge's address was delivered with an emphasis which kept delegates and spectators hanging on his every word. Rene Viviani, premier of France, voiced the devotion of his government to peace and concord, and his passages so eloquent that, although he spoke in French, the hall was swept repeatedly by applause.

The clear style so strongly characteristic of British oratory, A. J. Balfour related why Great Britain was ready to lay aside her alliance with Japan to accept a place in a broader circle of friendship with the United States and France.

D. S. Cohan, state supreme court justice, who was elected permanent chairman, received an ovation when he declared Irish in America would never be satisfied and would never cease work until Ireland was granted a government "with the same institutions and the same freedom that America has."

He also attacked British influences which, he said, were seeking to control American opinion.

"We give notice to England," he declared, "that Mr. Harding and Mr. Hughes are not going to be able to have their present scheme of alliance put through any more than we are going to have their League of Nations."

AMENDMENT ADOPTED. Toronto, Ont., Dec. 10.—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada adopted an amendment to its rules today which will prevent any but Canadian citizens from competing in future Canadian track and field championships. The object is to encourage Canadian athletes.

Turning to the Anglo-Japanese alliance, Balfour said that Great Britain was well aware of the suspicion in America because the two-power agreement had been continued after causes for it had disappeared in the collapse of Germany and Russia. But the associations of twenty years, he continued, were not easily broken, and that break was compensated only by the merging of the old relationship into one of broader import which would bring satisfaction to every part of the empire.

"All Japan," Prince Tokugawa said, would likewise rejoice of the new arrangement, although he added the Japanese reciprocated the British expressions of appreciation over results of the old alliance. Representatives of the other nations confined themselves to simple declarations of approval, except in the case of China. Minister Sze adding that it was to be supposed the treaty would "supplement" by a further convention to which all the powers, including China, will be parties.

Scope of Agreement. In outlining the scope of the four-power agreement, the speaker emphasized that "it applies only to the Pacific islands and in no way to China or any other part of the Asiatic mainland. In the view of some American delegates it applies not only to Hawaii, but to the American mainland because it is a vortex of the Pacific 'defensive triangle' but also to all of the islands which make up the Japanese empire."

A British spokesman said that although the Japanese group was to be regarded as joining the provisions of the treaty, those belonging to The Netherlands were not to be considered as coming under the agreement, because the government was a party to it. In the same way, this spokesman said, the minor islands under Chinese sovereignty lay outside the treaty stipulations.

Arms Delegates See Advantage of U. S. in Air in Future Wars

The navy blimp C-7, flying over Washington, and a close-up of the cockpit, showing Lieut. Com. R. F. Wood, altitude pilot, smoking a cigarette, and another member of the crew smoking a pipe within a few feet of the inflated bag.

Washington, Dec. 10. (Special.)—It has been brought home forcibly to foreign diplomats attending the arms conference here that America be one of the parties in a future war the U. S. can be expected to take the lead in the air fighting. For at the close of a recent session of the conference these foreign visitors saw in flight the navy dirigible C-7, inflated with the new gas which promises to revolutionize the use of such craft in coming wars.

The gas, helium, is non-inflammable and non-explosive. And the United States possesses the only source of supply of this gas in the world, as far as is known today.

Government officials point out that the value of helium can be readily seen by the layman when it is stated that a dirigible inflated with the gas would be explosion-proof and fireproof against aircraft guns of the enemy. Dirigible bags filled with the present form of gas used for balloons are easy prey for enemy planes and anti-aircraft guns. Experts are agreed that the new war, should one come, would be fought mainly in the air.

Helium was first listed as a new element when a bright yellow line observed in 1868. The gas is now extracted from natural gas in the vicinity of Fort Worth, Texas, where the navy maintains a production plant. It is escaping into the atmosphere now in a volume estimated as sufficient to inflate four balloons of the size of the C-7.

Several attempts to interest congress in taking steps to husband the supply have failed, experts say.

'FAGGED' YANKS SHOT IN FRANCE WATSON IS TOLD

Senator Continues to Press Charges That American Soldiers Were Executed Without Proper Trials.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Dec. 10.—Names of more than 100 former service men were presented today to a senate committee by Senator Watson, democrat, of Georgia, who asked that they be brought there to testify in the investigation of his charges that American soldiers had been put to death in France without right of trial.

There was no intimation, as to how many would be summoned. Assurance, however, was given Senator Watson that every person would be called if he believed they were prepared to give testimony directly bearing on the charges.

Reads From Letters. Senator Watson read extracts from many letters in which soldiers declared they knew of numbers of illegal executions. One soldier wrote that on a transport going to France four men were drowned for no apparent reason.

The senator undertook to show, and indeed announced he would prove, that the war department list of eleven executed soldiers, which he had obtained from the war department, included all men illegally hanged or shot by order of superior officers.

A picture of what seemed to be a gallows in France, on which a rope was being hoisted and a neck of a condemned soldier, with several officers on the platform and scores on the ground, was presented by the senator, who testified that it was taken by a colonel, now in the service.

The officer's name was not revealed.

Picture Is Held. Senator Watson stated that he desired to return the picture tonight but by direction of Senator Shields, democrat, of Tennessee, it was retained for the record, although Mr. Shields declared it was not worth while as evidence if the man who made it could not be found to testify.

Colonel W. E. Bethel, assistant judge advocate general, from whom the committee obtained the list of the eleven legal executions, was instructed to check over the Watson list and see if any were the same.

Senator Watson's letter from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt denying he had first hand knowledge of the killing of a soldier by an officer and the subsequent transfer of the officer to another command, Senator Watson explained that use of Mr. Roosevelt's name was due to a blunder. The letter was written by Colonel William Hayward, federal district attorney, of New York, and a former officer overseas.

"Raps" American Legion. Quoted from his letter to Chairman Brandegee, the senator said it was no surprise to him that the American legion, "composed principally of the officers who organized themselves in France to protect a militarism in this country, should whitewash themselves."

The commander of a legion post at Westville, Oklahoma, the senator said, had sent him the name of a man ready to testify that twenty-one Americans were executed in France without trial. Another soldier wrote that more than six hundred had been illegally killed in France.

"Did these men tell you why the soldiers were killed?" Senator Brandegee asked.

"Each case of ruthless killing," the senator replied, "it was stated that men were shot down because they were fagged and unable to walk."

MRS. DELMONT PLEADS GUILTY TO BIGAMY

(By The Associated Press.) Madera, Calif., Dec. 10.—Mrs. Basma Mado, a woman who swore to the San Francisco police court complaint charging Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle with murdering Virginia Rappe, pleaded guilty to bigamy today, and asked probation. A decision on her request will be made later.

The complaint Mrs. Delmont swore out reduced to one of manslaughter by the police and the jury which tried Arbuckle on it failed to agree.

GUILTY OF BOTH COUNTS: guilty of one count and not guilty of the other; not guilty of one count and guilty of the other; guilty of both counts. Either of the last two verdicts, he explained, would grant Gardner his liberty so far as the charge concerning the Maricopa robbery was concerned.

Gardner, however, already is under sentences totaling fifty years for two mail robberies. He was serving them when he escaped from Maricopa in September.

The maximum penalty for the offense with which Gardner was charged in the present trial, the court informed the jury, is a fine of $2,000 or five years in jail.

Gardner still is awaiting trial on a charge of growing out of an attempt to rob a mail car here, in which he was captured by Herman F. Underhill, clerk in charge of the car.

TAKE CHRISTMAS TO NEEDY VETERANS AND CHILDREN, IS ADVICE

(By The Associated Press.) Boston, Dec. 10.—Mrs. L. F. Hobart of Cincinnati, national president of the women's auxiliary of the American Legion, in an address yesterday before the Massachusetts auxiliary, urged that energies be expended in actual relief for needy nurses and war veterans instead of in the erection of memorials.

"Look out for the children of veterans in hospitals and veterans out of work," she said. "There will be many heart aches among these children at Christmas time unless we seek them out and take Christmas to them."

It was announced that every disabled veteran in the state would receive on Christmas day from allied organizations a gift stocking accompanied by letters from President Harding, Governor Cox and Mayor Peters of Boston.

PACT WON'T GET THROUGH SENATE WITHOUT BITTER FIGHT, FORECAST

"Treacherous, Treasonable and Damnable," Declares Senator Reed of Missouri of New Agreement.

BORAH DECLINES TO MAKE A STATEMENT

Republicans Generally, However, Predict Ratification By an Overwhelming Vote in Upper House.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Dec. 10. (By the Associated Press).—Indications of opposition in the senate to ratification of the four-power Pacific treaty developed today shortly after the new pact was announced at the arms conference.

Senator Reed, democrat of Missouri, an "irreconcilable" in the long fight against the treaty of Versailles in a statement announced the new understanding as "treacherous, treasonable and damnable" and predicted "there would be a fight and a hot one."

Other senators of the irreconcilable group, for the most part, withheld comment but, speaking privately, indicated an unfriendly attitude toward the treaty. Senator Borah of Idaho, leading republican (irreconcilable) was one of those declining to comment.

Republicans generally, however, predicted ratification by an overwhelming vote and in this prediction were joined by a number of democrats, including leaders on that side of the senate. Many senators refused to commit themselves, declaring they wished to study the pact.

Democratic senators in a number of instances said they did not attach the importance to the document as a peace measure that was claimed in republican quarters and as having a great similarity to the league of nations covenant.

Some democrats pointed to Article II, which binds the signatories if the rights in the Pacific islands are threatened by the aggressive action of any other power, "to communicate" with one another fully and frankly in order to arrive at an understanding as to the most efficient measures to be taken, jointly or separately to meet the exigencies of the particular situation.

This they said, differed but little from Article X of the league covenant, which the republicans found most objectionable.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi, one of the democratic spokesmen in the senate, in his comment on the treaty, said that the provisions taken from the league of nations covenant.

One of the principal effects of the treaty, both republicans and democrats agreed, would be its termination of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

"The real purpose of the treaty is cunningly masked by fine phrases," Senator Reed declared. "It is a verbal photograph of Eilhu Road, but notwithstanding its sugar coating, it is no more or less than a quadruple alliance between Great Britain, France, Japan and the United States by which they mutually bind each other to exert their joint power for the control of the Pacific and for the maintenance of the rights of each in the Pacific islands and in the region of the Pacific ocean."

"If we sign this treaty we bind ourselves to go to the assistance of Japan in the event that their insular dominions in the Pacific are threatened. I have quoted from the preamble, but the purpose is plain. The treaty means that these powers will assemble and will agree on the methods to be employed, which of course means that they will jointly go to war if necessary, or by their combined power of threats intimidate other nations."

"It is not only an entangling alliance, but it is an alliance which

HARRINGTON BOUND OVER TO THE GRAND JURY IN KEMPENICH CASE BEFORE HE HAS TOLD HIS STORY

Justice Delivers Rule on Case Instead of On Motion; Tondre Says Harrington Was Arrested Because He Withheld Information; Three Men Implicated in Death Mystery.

Justice of the Peace A. Archuleta, acting as preliminary trial judge at the Los Lunas hearing of Lucy Harrington, who was arrested on a charge growing out of the mysterious death of State Highway Commissioner Eugene Kempenich, sprang a surprise last night when, instead of giving a ruling regarding the case, he dismissed it.

At the completion of the state's case, proceeded to bind Harrington over to the grand jury on a charge of being an accessory after the fact and to fix his bond at $2,500.

"Do I understand that we can not give testimony?" Felix Baca, one of the attorneys for the defendant, asked as he sprang to his feet. "That you bind him over to the grand jury without even hearing his testimony?"

Justice of the Peace Archuleta stated that as they had been arguing the case, he took it that he had no testimony to offer and that he fixed his bond at $2,500.

Mr. Baca said for his bondsmen to step forward and in spite of efforts of District Attorney Fred Nichols to steer the proceeding back into normal channels, the bond was drawn and signed by Harry Davis and W. E. Harrington and A. L. Johnson.

Following the closing by the state of its evidence in the charge against Harrington of being an accessory after the fact, the defense moved that the case be dismissed for the lack of evidence.

as between themselves to respect their insular possessions and dominions in the region of the Pacific and that if any controversy should arise as to such rights all the high contracting parties shall be invited to a joint conference looking to the adjustment of such controversy.

"They agree to take similar action in the case of aggression by any other power upon these insular possessions or dominions. The agreement is to remain in force for ten years and after ratification under the constitutional methods of the high contracting parties the existing agreement between Great Britain and Japan, which was concluded at London on July 12, 1911, shall terminate. And that is all. Each signer is bound to respect the rights of the others and before taking action in any controversy to consult with them. There is no provision for the use of force to carry out any of the terms of the agreement and no military or naval sanction lurks anywhere in the background or under cover of these plain and direct clauses.

"The surest way to prevent war is to remove the causes of war. There is an attempt to remove causes of war over a great area of the globe's surface by reliance upon the good faith and honest intentions of the nations which sign the treaty, solving all differences through the processes of diplomacy and joint consideration and consultation. No doubt we shall hear it said that the region to which this agreement applies is one most unlikely to give birth to serious disputes and therefore an agreement islands in the southwestern Pacific are little known, there still lingers about them the charm so compelling and so fascinating which undiscovered country has for the sons of men who travel the main traveled roads and the cramped highways of trade and commerce which cover the surface of the patient earth.

"Upon these islands still shines the drama of romance in the stories of Melville and the writings of Robert Louis Stevenson, to whom the South Seas gave both a grave and a monument imperishable as his own fame. But the Pacific Islands are much more than this. They possess certain qualities other than natural beauty and romantic charm, which to many minds are more enticing. The larger ones are rich in many ways, fertile in the gifts of soil and climate, and in other forms of riches desired by men, which extended from the untold mineral resources of Australia to the pearls which are brought from the depths of the ocean. There are among them all great areas of forest and of plain fit for the support and prosperity of civilized man. In a word there is a very great material value, largely undeveloped and where this condition exists the desire of men will enter and conflicting human desires have throughout recorded history been breeders of war. Thus far the wastes of the Pacific ocean with all the crowding islands, except on the edges of the continents have not been the scenes of the great wars, and not many years have passed since three great nations sent their warships to Samoa because there was a dispute in regard to those distant islands. Thereafter an agreement among the nations controlling these islands has a very serious importance to the peace of the world.

"We make the experiment here in this treaty of trying to assure peace in that immense region by trusting the preservation of its tranquility to the good faith of the nations responsible for it. The world has just passed through a war, the very memory of which makes us shudder. We all believe deep in our hearts that this hideous destruction of life, this suffering and ruin which still beset us must not be permitted to come again. If we can prevent it, if the nations of the earth are still in the innermost recesses of their consciousness planning or dreaming of coming wars and longing for conquests, no treaties of peace and no alliance can stay them; but if, as I firmly hope, the world has learned a frightful lesson from the awful results of the great war of 1914, that we must appeal in order to prevent wars in the future must be to the hearts, the sympathies, the reason and the higher impulses of mankind.

"Such an appeal we make today by this agreement among four great nations. We rely upon their good faith to carry out the terms of this instrument, knowing that by so doing they will prevent war, would controversies arise among them. If this spirit prevails and rules, we can have no better support than the faith of nations. For one I devoutly believe the spirit of the world is such that we can trust to the good faith and the high purposes which the treaty I have laid before you embodies and enshrines. Agreements of this kind I know have often been made before, only to fail. But there has been a far-reaching change in the mental condition of men and women everywhere. That which really counts is the intention of the nations who make the agreement. In this hour of trial and darkness which has followed the war with Germany the spirit of the world is no longer the same. If we enter upon this agreement, we rest only upon the will and honor of those who signed it, we at least make the great experiment and appeal to the men and women of the nation to help us sustain it in spirit and in truth.

"And yet the region through which they are scattered is so vast that the idea of Greece and the Aegean sea so famous in history and poetry could easily be lost therein and continue unnoticed except by wandering seamen or stray adventurers. They range from Australia, continental in magnitude, to atolls, where there are no dwellers but the builders of the coral reefs or lonely rocks marking the peaks of mountains which rise up from the ocean's floor through miles of water before they touch the air.

"Although to the western and eastern world alike, most of the islands in the southwestern Pacific are little known, there still lingers about them the charm so compelling and so fascinating which undiscovered country has for the sons of men who travel the main traveled roads and the cramped highways of trade and commerce which cover the surface of the patient earth.

If this spirit prevails and rules, we can have no better support than the faith of nations. For one I devoutly believe the spirit of the world is such that we can trust to the good faith and the high purposes which the treaty I have laid before you embodies and enshrines. Agreements of this kind I know have often been made before, only to fail. But there has been a far-reaching change in the mental condition of men and women everywhere. That which really counts is the intention of the nations who make the agreement. In this hour of trial and darkness which has followed the war with Germany the spirit of the world is no longer the same. If we enter upon this agreement, we rest only upon the will and honor of those who signed it, we at least make the great experiment and appeal to the men and women of the nation to help us sustain it in spirit and in truth.

"And yet the region through which they are scattered is so vast that the idea of Greece and the Aegean sea so famous in history and poetry could easily be lost therein and continue unnoticed except by wandering seamen or stray adventurers. They range from Australia, continental in magnitude, to atolls, where there are no dwellers but the builders of the coral reefs or lonely rocks marking the peaks of mountains which rise up from the ocean's floor through miles of water before they touch the air.

"Although to the western and eastern world alike, most of the islands in the southwestern Pacific are little known, there still lingers about them the charm so compelling and so fascinating which undiscovered country has for the sons of men who travel the main traveled roads and the cramped highways of trade and commerce which cover the surface of the patient earth.

WESTERN GOVERNORS TO ASK I. C. C. FOR A FREIGHT RATE CUT

(By The Associated Press.) Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 10.—The governors of Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, Montana and Arizona, will meet in Salt Lake City the latter part of this month to frame a petition to be forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission praying for a reduction in freight rates, according to a dispatch to the Telegram from Washington, where Governor Charles R. Fisher, of Utah, is said to have made the announcement.

PACT WON'T GET THROUGH SENATE WITHOUT FIGHT

entangles us in the orient, compels the United States to support Japanese or English or French claims if the majority of the four powers shall so determine. It is an entangling alliance against our friends, the Chinese and against our friends, the Russians; it has all the inequities of article ten of the league of nations and none of its virtues, if indeed that article possessed any virtues.

"I will never give my consent to submit any question vital to the United States to the arbitrament of a tribunal in which we have one vote out of four, particularly when all the foreign powers are very likely to have interests inimicable to the United States. Moreover, I will never give any consent that the vote of Japan shall ever determine an American policy. I can never give my consent to a treaty whereby three foreign powers outvoting the United States can call on us to sacrifice the blood of our sons and our treasures in controversies thousands of miles from our shore.

Will Be Repudiated.

"The proposed treaty is, in my judgment, treacherous, unreasonable and damnable. It will be repudiated by the American people when it is understood. This conference was called for the alleged purpose of agreeing on limitation of armaments and, therefore, met with the good will of all lovers of peace and of America, but it has hatched an adder's egg. If it is sanctioned by President Harding, then it has repudiated all his public declarations during the campaign. The American people in due course will know how to deal with that kind of perfidy."

Sterling, republican, South Dakota, predicted the vote for ratification would be "overwhelming."

Great Step Forward. "This is a great step forward," he said. "It does not provide for an alliance and does not entangle us. We have removed considerable danger by entering into this treaty because our insular possessions might become objects of serious disputes."

Senator New, Indiana, a republican member of the foreign relations committee, said that the treaty was "a most complete and satisfactory assurance of peace and the greatest security of further economic stability that could have been devised."

Senator Morris, republican, Nebraska, said he did not attach as much importance to it as Secretary Hughes does, yet "I think it is a valuable step toward peace."

Senator Jones, republican, Washington, praised the treaty as "a great achievement which will be very effective in making for peace in the Pacific."

The Turkish peasantry in Asia Minor believe in keeping out the heat as well as the cold, and it is not uncommon to see in many parts of the country people wearing huge bearskin coats in the midst of summer, with the thermometer standing at one hundred degrees.

PACKING PLANT STRIKE CAN'T BE SETTLED BY ARBITRATION, ARMOUR VICE PRESIDENT SAYS

Government Agents Seeking to Settle the Walkout Are Told Plainly That the Packers Take the Attitude That There's Nothing to Arbitrate; Most of the Employees Are Loyal.

(By The Associated Press.) Chicago, Dec. 10 (by the Associated Press).—The strike of packing house employees cannot be settled by arbitration, Arthur Meeker, vice president of Armour & Co., declared tonight in a statement outlining the situation.

He declared that the packers had agreed with their employees over wages through the employe representation plan and that, consequently, there were no differences between the packers and their men.

"The few workers who have walked out can do as they please," he said. "The great bulk of the employees are well satisfied and have remained loyal. These are the men we are interested in and, since there is no need for arbitration where there is no dispute, naturally we are not seeking an arbitrator."

Mr. Meeker was approached today by government agents seeking to settle the strike. They were plainly told that the packers took the attitude that there was nothing to arbitrate.

"There is no occasion for discussing arbitration between meat packing concerns and those few of the men who have left their jobs," said Mr. Meeker's statement. "Our plants were able to operate at about 80 per cent normal during the past week and there is no indication that the public will be seriously inconvenienced. It is our expectation that we will be operating at normal capacity by tomorrow."

The inquest is set for Monday. The body was viewed by large crowds this afternoon.

EMMA GOLDMAN DECLARES SHE LOVES AMERICA

Her Stay in Russia Has Convinced Her That Anarchy Is the Only Sound System, Says Statement

(By The Associated Press.)

Riga, Dec. 10 (by the Associated Press).—Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, whose presence in Riga became known yesterday, today told the Associated Press correspondent they were "not going to America immediately," but hoped to travel in Europe soon.

Miss Goldman declared she still loved America because it was her country, but she had not changed her opinions. They said they hoped ultimately to reach the United States and fight in the supreme court to establish their American citizenship. (They were both deported to Russia from the United States in the winter of 1919).

"I am not returning to the United States as a prodigal daughter, throwing myself upon its mercy," said Miss Goldman. "While in some cases I have disagreed with the soviet government, my stay in Russia has only served to convince me that I have always been right and that anarchy is the only sound system."

Miss Goldman said she still loved America. She said she was making no comparison between Russia and America but she announced emphatically she was "not going back to Russia."

When she was asked why her only answer was "because America is my country."

She declined to reveal her immediate destination, but it was understood she hoped to go to Berlin.

She appeared thin and visibly aged. Miss Goldman was surprised at the discovery of her whereabouts and he jumped like a startled deer when the correspondent rapped on her door and addressed her in English.

She indicated she had no hope of being permitted to return to America for a long time.

Soon after the piano was installed and the tuner had finished going over it, Mrs. Harding came in and played several selections. She was so well pleased, that she sent for the president and had him hear her new piano. FORM CLUB WITH VIEW TO ENDING PACKING STRIKE

Dold Packing Company Representatives and Employees Organize at Omaha to Settle Controversies.

(By The Associated Press.)
Omaha, Neb., Dec. 10.—Organization of a club of employees and company representatives for adjustment of wage and other controversies was announced by the Dold Packing company of Omaha today through its general manager, Ralph Dold, who stated yesterday the company hoped through this organization to end the packing strike so far as it concerns the Dold company.

All employees who joined the club at its organization meeting have been working during the strike, but invitations to striking company workmen to become members have been sent out and Mr. Dold said he "expected to hear from them." Opposition to the Dold scheme, however, was expressed last night by the striking meat cutters and butcher workmen union through J. W. Burns, strike committee secretary, who referred to it as nothing more than a plant conference on a "fifty-fifty" basis. Mr. Dold said, for appeal in case of disagreement to a shop committee consisting of employees from each department and for final decision by a jury of six workers and six employer representatives in the event the committee cannot effect a settlement.

HARRINGTON HELD AS ACCESSORY IN DEATH OF EUGENE KEMPENICH

reasons that no evidence connecting the defendant with any crime had been produced; because it has not been proved or shown to the court that a crime had been committed and because no principal had been produced with or to whom Harrington could be an accessory.

The motion was argued by both sides, J. C. Espanosa closing the argument for the defense. It was then that the court issued its order binding Harrington over to the grand jury and fixing his bond. After the pandemonium had slightly subsided, the justice over-ruled the motion. In expressing his surprise at the court's action, Felix Saca stated that the defense had several witnesses in court ready to produce, but that the court order having been declared, the defense would rest and furnish the bond.

Several weeks following the finding of the body of Eugene Kempenich on the floor of a bed room at his Peralta home with a head wound through the chest, Lucy Harrington was arrested in the mountains by Valencia County Sheriff J. F. Tondre without a warrant and taken to the Los Lunas jail. The next day a warrant was issued charging him with being an accessory after the fact in regard to the death.

A motion made at the start of the trial by Felix Saca asking that the case be dismissed on the grounds that the complaint did not constitute an offense against the state laws as no crime or principal was proved, was over-ruled by the court. The connection which the state was trying to prove between Harrington and the Kempenich death became partly apparent when the first witness, Mrs. Jenny Kempenich, mother of Eugene Kempenich, took the stand.

Harrington Offers Aid.
She testified that a few days after the death, Lucy Harrington had come to her home at Peralta and told her that he knew the men who had killed her son.

"He said he knew who had killed Eugene and would tell me if I would pay for the information," Mrs. Kempenich testified. "I told him I would pay for such information but wanted to consult some friends," she added. A meeting was then arranged at the Kempenich home at which several friends, including Sheriff Tondre took part. Mrs. Kempenich's memory, she stated, was poor and she did not testify as to what was said at the meeting.

Implicates Two Men.
Sheriff Tondre stated that Harrington had asked if there was any reward offered for information and that upon being assured that he would be reimbursed for any direct information, Harrington stated that John Shubert and William Mangum had killed Eugene Kempenich.

According to the sheriff's testimony, Harrington connected Shubert with the crime by relating a story of an event which took place some time ago when Mangum and Shubert were passing the Kempenich store.

"Mangum wanted to go into the store," the sheriff stated. Harrington said, "but Shubert didn't want to. I owe Kempenich a bill and he thinks I am dead. Shubert is quoted as saying, 'Let him think I'm dead. I'd kill him rather than pay the bill.'"

When asked why he did not arrest Mangum and Shubert, the sheriff stated that sufficient developments had not taken place to warrant such an arrest. He admitted that he arrested Harrington without a warrant.

"I arrested him because I believed he was withholding important testimony," the sheriff stated. "because I believed he told that story to shield Jack Carter and because his story of where he was and other stories did not connect well."

Jack Carter, who lives at Hell Canyon, denied that he had stated that if he went to Arizona on a pending business deal he would be brought back for the murder of Eugene Kempenich. He denied that he and Harrington had laid a trap for John Shubert and Bill Mangum. He denied that he had even known Kempenich and stated he did not know anything regarding his death.

Tondre stated that he suspected that there was a principal, but that he did not know his identity.

Another Reason.
"This man (indicating Harrington) was arrested because he told so many conflicting stories," was Detective Ben Williams' reason, as given in his testimony, why Harrington was arrested.

According to Williams, Harrington told him that Bill Mangum was guilty of killing Kempenich and was trying to unload it on Jack Carter. He also claimed that later, Harrington stated, he thought Carter was guilty and that he wanted to help him out. Williams, when asked if he suspected John Shubert, stated that he had no particular reason for connecting him with the Kempenich death.

Put on the stand by the state, Shubert was asked questions regarding his whereabouts October 6. He was not particularly questioned regarding the death, neither was Bill Mangum, who was only asked a few questions.

More Conflicts.
More conflicting testimony was brought out when Mrs. Ida A. Lowden, who lives six miles south of Albuquerque, stated that she had never talked about the Kempenich death with Ben Williams and that she had not said that Mrs. Carter, Jack's mother, had told her she could tell more about it if she wanted to.

"I was talking about cattle stealing," Mrs. Lowden declared. "I supposed that was what Mr. Williams was talking about—though I don't really know what he was talking about."

Deputy Sheriff Charles Banghart, testified that he was present at the conversation between the two and that they had talked about the Kempenich death and that she had said that Mrs. Carter had told her that she "knew a whole lot about it but wouldn't tell."

"Cattle stealing was not mentioned in the conversation," the deputy sheriff stated.

POWER OF ASSESSING STOCK NOW RESTS IN COUNTY ASSESSORS

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL.)

Santa Fe, Dec. 10.—As the result of the presumably accidental repeal of the chapter giving the tax commission the power of assessing livestock, which automatically returned this power to the county assessors, the county officials, when they hold their conference here December 19-21, will be asked to enter into an agreement to insure uniformity. This power originally was taken from the county assessors and given the tax commission to get uniformity. Cattle, horses and other livestock were over-assessed in some counties and under-assessed in others and to prevent this condition arising again the county assessors will be invited to agree upon minimum figures for livestock for all counties and to use these figures as the basis of their assessments when they return home.

THE NEW GENERATION

By JANE PRELPS

JOAN COMPLIMENTS HER MOTHER.

CHAPTER 36.

Margaret Hayden looked at her reflection in the small mirror atop the old-fashioned bureau in the bedroom. As she had before, she now quivered with delight at what she saw. Her hair softly curled, little tendrils curling in her neck and about her face. Her shining eyes, the flush coming and going in her cheeks, intrigued her. Then her dress! Neck and shoulders, white and smooth as a young girl's, rising from the soft rose chiffon and airy lace of her gown. "Forty isn't old—very," she said, smiling at her image, then laughing aloud as it smiled back.

If only she could escape before Joan came in! But—

"I won't be a coward—I'll wait for her," she declared, sitting down by the window through which she could see the path to the ocean.

She had turned out the light and was alone. She found herself dreaming as she looked out at the stars and the young moon just coming up. Dreaming of what life might have been had she married a young man instead of an old one like John Hayden. If she had married him and he had lived—they had lived their lives together! Suddenly she realized keenly that she had missed not only companionship but love. She blushed at the thought. She knew that in the accepted meaning of the word she had missed it always. That love between man and woman was now, always had been, a sealed book to her.

"Shall I never know?" she murmured, covering both her hot cheeks with her hands. "Must I always be satisfied to go on like this?"

A quick step, an outflung door and Joan was in the room.

"Hello! What you sitting in the dark for?" she called.

"Waiting for you, dear. I dressed, then it was such a lovely night that I put out the lights so I could see the stars. Come here—see that moon. It is like some young, beautiful girl growing up, but just in the half-way stage, so white and innocent in its half-grown state."

"It is lovely! I saw it down on the beach."

"Did you have a good time, dear?"

"Lovely! Ted Walters—that's that blonde boy you saw in the water—asked me to play tennis tomorrow morning."

"Fine!" Margaret said with enthusiasm. "I do so love to have you enjoy yourself," she added. "If there was a bit of diplomacy in her enthusiasm it could not be wondered at. 'You play very well, Joan.'"

"Yes, my game is a fair one. He's awfully nice."

"He—who?" Margaret's thoughts had strayed.

"Why, Ted Walters, of course!"

"He would be nice or you would not have cared for him? Again diplomacy might have been suspected."

"I like him almost better than any boy I know—unless it is Malcolm Frost. He isn't a bit foolish. One of his chums is, and I don't like him a bit. Always trying to say smart things, and acting up."

Margaret knew Craig Forrester was waiting, wondering why she did not come down, but she would not disturb Joan's confidences.

"Was that his mother, that pretty woman in pale lavender I saw talking to him?"

"Yes, isn't she lovely? She looks like a piece of Dresden china. I said so, and it tickled Ted to death."

"Children usually like to hear their mothers praised," Margaret remembered, and she hoped Joan did also, the night when Gloria Freeman and Malcolm Frost had told her she looked lovely in Joan's rose sweater. "Time to go. I asked the maid to stay with you until you were in bed, and then to remain outside until I came up."

"Oh, I forgot! It's the ball."

"Yes. Tell me if I look nice—as well as Ted Walters's mother will? I expect she will look wonderfully young and lovely. She did even in her beach dress."

"It's that ghost dress, isn't it?" Joan queried soberly.

"Yes. Do you like it? Do I look nice?" The yearning in Margaret's voice must have reached Joan.

"You look perfectly beautiful, Margaret. Better than Mrs. Walters—and that's going some I'll tell the world."

"Thank you, Joan. I would rather you would compliment me than anyone in the world," Margaret meant it. And she forgot to notice the slang in which the compliment had been couched.

SIMPLE EVENING FROCK HAS ODD SIDE TRIMMING

BY ELOISE.

The name of this simple little evening frock is "Bacchanale," although why such a very modest little garment should boast such a gay name is not apparent. The only real excuse there might be for it is the color of the frock which is a rich violet. It is the type of frock which is suitable for all slim line figures of any age.

Violet, charming, is fashioned into a straight-line chemise frock which hangs over an orchid-colored georgette slip. Scores of long strings and gold beads form an unusual side ornament which makes the gown distinctive. The strings hang like heavy fringe far below the skirted age.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Mrs. W. E. G.: "Please publish a recipe for chicken jelly loaf?"

Answer—Jellied Chicken: Select a good sized fowl and cut it up as for fricassee. Put it in the kettle with 1-2 of cups' onion, stick it with a clove, add 1 stalk of celery cut small, and cover with boiling water; let simmer until the meat falls from the bones, adding 1 teaspoon of salt when half done. Then remove the chicken and cook down the liquid until you have a generous pint of it left; dissolve in this 1-2 package of gelatin. Line the bottom of a buttered mold with sliced hard-boiled eggs, add the chicken (from which bones, fat and skin have been removed) and add the liquid with the gelatin in it. Set in cool place to harden. Serve turned out onto a platter.

A. P.: "You recently stated that alum water is used to remove old wall paper. What proportions of alum and water are combined?"

Answer: Dissolve a lump of alum the size of an egg in one gallon of boiling water, and spray this on the wall paper while the water is still hot (you can do this by dipping a whisk broom into it and shaking it at the wall). When the hot alum water has softened the old paper, scrape off the paper. You can buy a lump of alum at any drug store.

F. B.: "Kindly tell me how to care for a gas range? Mine is white and gray enamel with nickel trimmings."

Answer: The ordinary gas stove without enamel finish needs to be washed frequently with soap and water or with soda and water if very greasy, then wiped over with kerosene oil to keep from rusting. Enameled gas ranges, however, need only washing in lukewarm suds, then in clear water. The tray under the top burners should be taken out often and washed.

To clean the burners of a gas stove, detach them from the stove, put them in a large pan, and cover them with a solution of washing soda and water—using not quite a pound of the soda to a gallon of hot water. Being the water to the boiling point with the burners in it, and let boil till the grease and dirt fall away. Then wipe the burners with paper or brush with a clean brush, rinse them in clear hot water and dry in a warm spot.

The nickel parts of the range should be kept free from rust with a little kerosene oil applied frequently; you may also polish it with a little whiting mixed to a paste with either alcohol, ammonia or water, wiping it dry. Keep the oven clean, too, taking care to wipe up all food particles which may be left in it after baking, and to clean the grease from the broiling pan after using that compartment.

Old Housekeeper: "I have always used the same stove blacking my grandmother used before me, but now a friend tells me that some women use kerosene mixed with something else. What is this 'something else'?"

Answer: Some women declare that there is nothing like a mixture of kerosene and turpentine for their gas ranges; perhaps it is this that your friend refers to? Use two parts of kerosene to one part of turpentine. But for a coal range the majority of housekeepers nowadays use stove polish mixed with a little turpentine instead of with water; when mixed with the turpentine the polish is glossier and destroys rust.

F. E. W. SCHOOL BOARD TO MEET HERE TOMORROW

An important meeting to consider the best location for the F. E. W. Memorial School for Girls and such other business relative to the establishment of the school as may come before the members will be held here Monday and Tuesday. The meeting was postponed from Saturday.

Mrs. Edgar Hewitt of Santa Fe, Mrs. Minnie Byrd of Oklahoma City, Mrs. F. W. Seery of Belen, and Mrs. A. E. Austin of Clovis will be out-of-town members. The meeting was postponed from Saturday to Monday so that Mrs. Byrd could be present. Mrs. Luna, now in California, can not be present. Local members are Mrs. D. A. Porterfield, Mrs. Thomas Harwood, and Mrs. N. J. Strumquist.

Besides considering all inducements of various communities and the fostering influences of each community in the future, applications for faculty members will be considered and likely the superintendent will be appointed. Another Tennessee college woman is being considered favorably by several of the members as superintendent. Other members of the faculty are to be appointed with the approval of the superintendent.

The superintendent of the school last year was most efficient, Miss Sallie Bryant of Portales, who came from teaching in Tennessee to take the position. Miss Bryant is now engaged in similar work in Missouri. She has sent her hearty commendation of the school and good wishes for its success, pledging a gift from herself and sister, Mrs. Kelsey, who was teacher of needlework in the school last year.

A proposition for a cottage system of institution with a central assembly hall and recreation room, which has been submitted to the board members by Miss Mary Disette of Santa Fe, will be considered.

The Albuquerque Elks have tendered the use of their lodge room for the meeting of the school board.

Dalton, who refused to consent to a divorce. The first mate had received allowances from her husband each week for twelve years to the time of his death.

LEAH BAIRD FORMS HER OWN COMPANY

Leah Baird.

Leah Baird, who recently formed her own producing company, has just produced "Don't Doubt Your Wife," a drama of domestic misunderstanding. She is now preparing to start a second feature within the coming week or ten days. There will be six features in Miss Baird's first series under her own banner and all will be released through Pathe.

In "Don't Doubt Your Wife," Emory Johnson and Edward Pell appear in leading support, the cast including only the three principals, and being unusual in that it contains no "heavy" role. The original story is by Miss Baird herself. Miss Baird was last seen in "The Heart Line," a Pathe picture.

In "The Woman He Married," now being made at the Mayer studio under Fred Nibbel's direction, Anita Stewart is starred in the role of an artist's model who refuses a standing offer of marriage from a young millionaire until he has proven himself able to do something besides spend money and smoke gold-tipped cigarettes. Darrell Foss supplies the heroism, which more than offsets the low schemes of Donald MacDonald in the play. Shannon Day as a petite French maid is behind more than one complication in the story. Others in the cast are: Charlotte Pierce, Charles Belcher, William Conklin and Frank Tokunaga.

ADDRESS OF H. J. HAGERMAN

President of Taxpayers' Association of New Mexico at the Meeting Held in Albuquerque, Monday, December 5th, 1921.

Mr. Asplund's paper is a fair and comprehensive resume of the activities of the association since its organization. There is little that I can add to it except to more fully explain the motives, which as I conceive them have mainly controlled our activities. It is impracticable in any great degree to separate the activities and policies of the association during the past two years from those of the special revenue commission appointed in 1920. For most of that period the association's resources were largely devoted to the work of the commission. This was done with the full approval of the directors of the association. The policies decided upon by the commission were in the main similar to policies which have all along been advocated by the association. It is right that these two bodies should in public esteem stand or fall together. This is said with full appreciation of the cordial co-operation of all the members of the revenue commission.

Of the objects of the association, as stated in its articles of association, the first may be said to have had a controlling motive in both the association and commission activities. This was to aid, encourage, and promote the observance of economy in administration of public business, in the state of New Mexico, and in the counties, cities and other political subdivisions thereof.

I know that we have been sometimes criticized for dwelling too much upon the matter of economy in the administration of public affairs, and that it has been thought that this idea of economy has in our minds too greatly overshadowed other considerations to the exclusion of any well rounded conception of governmental functions. This criticism has, however, been in no unfriendly spirit, and is probably due to the misconception of our idea of what the term economy, as related to public affairs, means. I submit that there is no other single phrase so safe to use as an expression of what we are looking for in connection with government as conceivable that in a narrow sense the term economy may imply niggardliness and inefficiency, but in a broader sense its use in connection with general government involves much more than a mere conception of careful expenditure of public monies. It involves ideas as to the equitable assessment of property for taxation, fair tax levies, efficient tax collections, necessary legislation, honest and effective administration; it involves all that we are accustomed to group together under the term of "good government." No one can rightly be said to be a tax payer or a more idealist because of his insistence that real economy in the administration of public business is not only desirable but necessary in any government if that government is to long survive.

The present state of government the world over seems a sufficient demonstration of this fact. This nation is so far ahead of all other nations in the world, that we are in a position to say that our present situation is enviable, but if we compare this present situation with our pre-war status it is for the moment far from reassuring. The problems which confront New Mexico differ only in degree from problems which confront other states, and in some respects the nation as a whole. It is due to that fact, perhaps, that the work which has been going on here in New Mexico has excited some interest among outsiders who are concerned with the study of similar situations quantitatively, and in some cases qualitatively. What we have been doing here is in no sense regarded as negligible by those who are working upon taxation and revenue questions elsewhere. It is in fact so much to say that the questions of taxation, and retrenchment of public expenditures, the very questions with which we have been so closely concerned here in recent years are already the paramount political as well as economic issues in every state of this nation, and in the nation itself, and are destined to remain such until clear solutions to them are found. They cannot be sidetracked or camouflaged, they are vital and pressing, and go to the very essence of governmental activity everywhere.

It will be difficult for any party to succeed in such a task courageously face them. It will be difficult for any man to stand for public office who fears to declare himself on the main problems they involve.

But it is said that the theories of taxation are in themselves so complex and intricate, and still so shrouded in the mists of controversy that no formula capable of general application can possibly be reached. To a great degree this is undoubtedly true. There are certain fundamentals that are generally conceded to be almost axiomatic, although many phases of the problem will long remain subjects of academic discussion.

We have all along proceeded on the assumption that we should seek a solution of our tax problem which will result in placing each economic interest in the state in the same position as other economic interests—not in a better or worse position. That is, perhaps, a broad generality, but one as nearly approximating a formula for consistent endeavor as any that can be defined. At any rate, it is upon this basis that the work of the Taxpayers' association and the revenue commission has been largely predicated. Equally firm has been our position that no intelligent conclusion as to what are the best methods of taxation can be reached without the fullest inquiry as to our revenue needs, and of the capacity of the state and the people to meet these needs. There have been some of our friends who, in the past, argued that these questions were entirely separate and distinct—questions calling for separate investigations by different groups—that they are only remotely associated. I am sure this viewpoint has generally been abandoned. Very recently a gentleman, who has been for years the confidential adviser of the secretary of the treasury on taxation matters, said in effect that the real problem of taxation was how to raise the money to pay necessary taxes without unduly burdening the taxpayer. After all that is the gist of the whole business. You cannot get away from it.

Then, in a general way, have been the controlling principles which have guided us in both the association's and the commission's activities. It could have been quite out of the question to accomplish anything valuable in the face of the opposition which we have periodically encountered unless some continuous, consistent policy had been adhered to. We are not disposed to find fault with any person or group of persons for at times opposing the association and the commission, but we do feel that the beginning that whatever position we might take on special questions would call forth criticism and antagonism from some one. There has been merely the question of membership of the association has been unanimously in accord with the revenue commission was concerned it was created because the legislature could not agree about the income tax and other taxes. As for the association, its organizers doubtless had in view the creation of a continuing body with a definite policy, which would last through various legislatures and serve as a stabilizing and helpful force to our many conscientious citizens who are sincerely desiring accomplishment. This it has certainly done in no small degree, but in doing so, in maintaining anything like a consistent and determined attitude we have often run counter to the temporary interests of some group or individual. It would have been quite impossible for us to have done anything worthwhile by playing off one set of prejudices against another, or equivocating because some of our members disagreed.

There has been amongst some of the association because of the fact that it has been mainly supported by large corporate taxpayers—railroads and mining companies. It is true that the association has been largely sustained by these corporations—and simply because they are far the largest taxpayers in the state. We have no apologies to make, and nothing to explain away because of this. There have frequently been sharp disagreements between these corporate members as to the policies of the association; and there has been amongst some of our own directors and individual members, but no action of the association has been dictated by any member, or group of members, nor adopted unless we were honestly convinced that it would be beneficial to the whole body of taxpayers—large and small—corporate and individual. I am sure the general public is now convinced that this is true. We have many members who are small taxpayers, and we have always desired and urged a large membership. The association has demonstrated its usefulness, and deserves more general support.

It would be ungracious to refrain from paying tribute to the generally courteous attitude of public officials to the association's representatives. Not only have they not treated us with any lack of cordiality—or as intruders—but almost every administrative official, state, county and municipal, has gladly welcomed the association's co-operation. That this co-operation has resulted in great good, especially as regards levies and budgets, they now generally admit.

With all we have tried to do, with all the legislature and the governor and the newspaper have tried to do, we have managed to cut taxes and costs, the glaring fact remains that our present status is far from reassuring. In order to present this to you as graphically as possible, we have prepared a number of charts.

The first chart shows the percentage increases in taxes levied, and in various governmental expenditures for the decade of 1910 to 1920, as compared with the percentage increases in our population and wealth during the same period. The population, which was 327,000 in 1910, and approximately 350,000 in 1920, increased only 10 per cent. Our wealth, as assessed valuation of all property at these two periods—about $175,000,000 in 1910 and $405,000,000 in 1920, an increase of 130 per cent. It may be properly maintained that the assessed valuation is not an adequate measure of our wealth, but it is the only approximate measure available to us. Anything that errs in favor of property in 1920, which more nearly approaches its actual value than it did in 1910. Our next line shows the increase in total bonded indebtedness, state, county, school district and municipal, which in 1910 was approximately $5,500,000, and in 1920 reached the rather appalling sum of $15,525,000, an increase of 180 per cent. Our average rate of 5 1/2 per cent this indebtedness now calls for an annual interest charge of $825,000. I am sure these figures will astonish you. The people and the taxpayers are not aware of this. They will approximate about $3,000,000. Mounting up in our cost scale we find the taxes levied in 1910 approximately amounting to $3,400,000, and in 1920 to $11,250,000, an increase of 231 per cent. So it is fair to state that in the ten-year period the tax levies increased twice as much as the total wealth of the state. The total state expenditures in 1920 increased by 473 per cent over what they were in 1910; namely, from $901,734.10 to $3,167,069.95.

The state educational expenditures in 1910 were $231,533.72, and in 1920 these same expenditures amounted to $1,477,540.62, an increase of 538 per cent. This group of expenditures does not include school revenues derived from county levies, district levies nor the earnings of institutions, in regard to which we have no data available for this whole period.

Our second chart for the decade and is a more complete analysis of state disbursements during these ten years. This shows that the total state disbursements between 1910 and 1920 were in almost constant increase except for the years 1914 and 1916, when they showed a slight decrease, but that the rate for the last five years has been decidedly marked.

Our line for highway expenditures in 1910 showed the expenditure of $76,819, which annual expenditure did not materially increase until 1915, from which year it has advanced rapidly. In 1920 it reached the sum of $2,245,000. General government expenditures, which are, after all, the last item in the total burden of governmental costs, increased from $165,000 to $265,000 in 1920.

Our third chart shows certain cost data for the years 1915 to 1920, for which data are not available prior to 1915. This shows that the state's expenditures for the decade of 1915 to 1920 were $509,000 in 1915, and $1,250,000 in 1920. The cost of maintaining state institutions increased from $688,554 in 1915 to $1,671,577 in 1920. Other expenditures for state purposes amounted in 1915 to $1,457,000 and in 1920 to $3,391,000. As for county costs, they aggregated in 1915 $3,702,716, and in 1920 to $6,096,553. The broader line which indicates a rise in the total cost of government is, as you see, so startling as to be almost unbelievable. It is to be regretted that we have not similar data for the years prior to 1915. In 1915, however, the total aggregate of all government costs in the state was $6,348,832, and this mounted up in 1920 to a total of no less than $12,009,469.

The fourth chart shows, in other form, the striking increase in total levies for all purposes from 1910 to 1920. What this chart particularly emphasizes, and what I wish to bear in upon you is this—that whatever the cause, whatever the reason, whatever the excuse, whoever the fault (if it be a fault)—whether the legislature's, the people's, or the administration's—the burden of taxation on the taxpayers of the state as a whole is constantly growing at an ever-increasing ratio, quite out of proportion to our increase in population and wealth, and that this burden has already reached proportions which are almost unbearable. We shall not again go into an extended analysis of our conception of the cause of or the cure for this condition. No one can more fully realize the complexities of the problem. So far as the association and commission are concerned, their conclusions are embodied in the commission's report, which proposes a comprehensive, consistent plan or administrative reorganization, and is the only plan which has so far been presented. With all its shortcomings it deserves the further consideration of the people and their representatives now, and at future legislatures.

It is no consolation or palliative, as far as the individual taxpayer is concerned, to say that our condition is no worse, perhaps not as bad, as it is in some other states. It does not help us much to know that in Maricopa county, Arizona, they are planning to spend $5,000,000 on roads, or that in New York state the tax burden on real estate has increased from 4 1/2 to 21 per cent of the net income in the last decade. It does not help much to tell him that the doubling or tripling of his tax bill is due, not so much to the increasing cost of general government, as to the increasing school and road expenditures. What he has to face is the problem of getting the money to pay the taxes in spite of no markets for his cattle, sheep, alfalfa, and over again. And still over and over again we encounter these very pleas, pleas that so confuse and so perplex the bewildered taxpayer that he finds himself entirely at a loss and votes for measures, which, too late, he wakes up to find are specious and unsound and have only resulted in further enslaving him in chains of indebtedness. That, in my humble opinion, was the situation in regard to some of the amendments submitted to the people at the recent election. It is our duty, as a relief to our already over-taxed people, but which were rejected by the voters.

One of these amendments provided for tax-levy limitations, and among other things, permitted a 15-mill school tax levy. This amendment was defeated because of the strong opposition of certain of the school people. They resented the plan that school levies between 10 and 15 mills should be submitted to an intermediate checking authority. It was favored by the Taxpayers' association on the ground that it should be as carefully guarded and as economically spent as any other public monies, and that waste and extravagance in their disposal is fully as reprehensible as extravagance in school expenditures. We advocated the amendment because we believed material savings in school expenditures could, by the method proposed, be effected without in any way interfering with school efficiency. I believe that a good many people have since the recent election come to the conclusion that these views were correct, and that the amendment which was urged would have had a wholesome and beneficial effect.

This whole matter of school costs is one which merits the most careful public scrutiny, for there is no branch of governmental activity that so closely touches the average citizen as education. There is no public charge generally so gladly accepted as the tax for schools, and when the tax burden is so overwhelming, as at present, the citizen is beginning to demand that he know how wisely these school funds are being used. He begins to ask what, in fact, our program of public instruction actually is. He finds that there exists much confusion in the public mind as to the real situation. He is not sure that the public opinion is being represented by the individuals and groups who are devoted to the cause of education. He finds that much of the data which enter into existing conclusions as to educational costs are not reliable. And if he goes deeper he will find many cases of high cost in both personal and material items for purely adventitious activities, which represent the caprice of individuals rather than the consistent part of an orderly and authorized program. He will demand what the legitimate cost of fully and properly carrying out a legitimate program, premising competent teachers and other officers should be. He will inquire deeply into the relation of the cost of school services to the services, and try to definitely conclude whether it is economically possible to afford a continuance of the present program.

Furthermore, attempts are now being seriously made to disorganize the educational system at different levels—to the individual from its value to society at large. The whole program of free education is predicated on the assumption that the social advantages of education predominate over the individual advantages. Whether this is actually the case is a very pertinent inquiry, especially in view of the opinion that the public mind is being misled by the propaganda of a few individuals who should be judged from a different angle from other government costs.

So with the matter of highway expenditures, which have for a long time been the subject of more or less acrimonious discussion. The recent election demonstrated the fact that the public generally is strongly favorable to good roads. It is a universal admitted. The question as to how far we are justified in going in view of our economic condition in the building of new roads remains unanswered. We all want all of them that we can afford to pay for and maintain. I think a fundamental error in our conception of the matter is that we have all along maintained—that we have become accustomed to regard road-building finances from the standpoint of capital costs rather than from that of carrying charges. We figure too much in the terms of construction and too little from the standpoint of maintenance—and our highway budgets are generally too vague as to how the roads built are to be maintained. Doubtless the higher the initial cost the less the ratio of subsequent annual maintenance cost. But even that formula is subject to question, for the unit cost of construction and maintenance may be much less than with the top-notch highways. Now that the whole road program for the state has been definitely settled for a period of years, it would be well for all of us to start anew on a careful and frank inquiry as to what the future can reasonably promise from this point of view. We are entitled to definite information as to the matter of maintenance costs.

Distinct advances have of late been made toward adjusting various important matters which have been subject to general controversy and of considerable comment on the part of the Taxpayers' association.

Under a recent opinion of the attorney general the commissioner of public lands has turned into the state treasury about a half million dollars held for some time by the land department. Most of this was money advanced on oil leases. The commission still holds on deposit some $160,000 heretofore advanced on lease and purchase contracts. This he is quite ready to turn into the treasury so that it will be available for school funds, and that they are drawn in the most judicious manner. It is sure that the attorney general's opinion applies to these as well as to oil lease funds. When this is done one of the main causes of controversy as to the administration of that office will have been removed.

The passing of these and other funds into the treasury's balances only emphasizes the position we and others have long held, that a far sounder system for the central control of state revenues and expenditures than now obtains should promptly be inaugurated. There is not time to go into this matter in detail; suffice it to say that nothing that has occurred since the adjournment of the last legislature can in any sense be regarded otherwise than confirmation of the recommendations made by the revenue commission in this regard. Two members of the state board of finance are alive to the public demand that all state funds should actually be under the control—both as to custody and disbursement—of an efficient, trained, industrial official, the whole of whose time is devoted to the duties of his office. The present laws governing this branch of our government are not what they should be, but that makes it all the more necessary that the unit be strictly enforced. Some method whereby satisfactory periodic audits of all state as well as county fiscal offices is not only generally demanded but absolutely necessary. The equipment now available for such audits is entirely insufficient.

The employment of Mr. J. R. Finley by the state tax commission in 1921 was a move which has resulted from the law enacted by the recent legislature is an event of outstanding importance. There is no better equipped man than he is anywhere for this task, and his findings are bound to be accepted as a controlling basis for mines' valuations for some years. The law as finally passed is far from clear, especially as to how the 1921 assessment is to be made, but that is a question that can be fairly settled. The fact remains that through the code provisions of 1921 we have arrived at the method of adjusting a long standing controversy which has for years been the source of bitter feeling and much inharmonious. It is going to require still further patience and the cordial co-operation of all concerned to reach this adjustment, but it can be done. The taxable net production of producing mines, as arrived at by the state tax commission for 1921, was $15,655,000, and for 1920, based on the three-year average, $16,810,000. This was exclusive of the value of the surface and improvements, which in each year was some $12,000,000 more. The copper mines of the state have been closed down entirely for about a year.

In conclusion I wish to say, personally, that I am very appreciative of the uniform courtesy that has been extended to me as president of this association for the past six years, by the governors, administrative officers, members of the association, and the press. There has been little that has been unsatisfactory about the work, as I have felt at all times that it has been useful. It has always been absorbing, and often entertaining.

Taking Desperate Chances.
It is true that many contracts are made and recovered from them without taking any precaution or treatment, and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It should be borne in mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding attack and paves the way for the more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such desperate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of bad colds may be had for a trifle?

ULSTER PLEADED OVER BREACH IN SOUTHERN RANKS

No Striking Developments In Irish Affairs Are Expected Before the Middle of the Present Week.

(By The Associated Press.) London, Dec. 10 (by the Associated Press).—No striking developments in Irish affairs are expected before the middle of next week. The premier had no further meeting today with Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, who will report to his cabinet in Belfast Monday.

In the meantime nothing is likely to be known of Ulster's attitude, more especially since the revelation of the split in the Sinn Féin, which was received with a show of satisfaction in Ulster.

The most significant news was the convening of the meeting of the Catholic hierarchy in Dublin Tuesday which, in view of the opinions expressed by the bishops, is expected to make a decided pronouncement for the treaty.

About 120 members of the daily council will attend the Wednesday meeting and of these at least eighty, according to the estimates of Arthur Griffith and his followers, will vote for the treaty.

There was much unofficial discussion among the members of the daily council in Dublin today but whatever differences of opinion prevail they do not disturb the good feeling and there seems to be a determination on the part of both Sinn Féiners and the government that the treaty shall not be violated.

This desire to preserve the good feeling was emphasized by Michael Collins in a statement to the Associated Press.

The belief seems to prevail in Belfast that should the disagreement in the Sinn Féin result in the retirement of Mr. de Valera, bringing Mr. Griffith to the premiership, with Mr. Collins as finance minister, a convention between the north and the south would prove easier.

FOUND NOT GUILTY ON A CHARGE OF MURDER

(By The Associated Press.) Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 10.—Maude Moore, who was arrested several months ago in Tacoma, Wash., after a nation-wide search, was today found not guilty of the killing of Leroy B. Harth here in September, 1919.

When the verdict was announced the defendant and her mother rushed to the jurors with outstretched hands, while the crowd cheered and threw their hats in the air. Judge Nelson hurriedly adjourned court and left the bench.

The defendant announced she would leave immediately to join relatives in Tacoma. Evidence was introduced by the state showing that she had shot Harth in self-defense, although the state contended she had shot him in an attempt at robbery.

View of part of the wreckage. Note too wall of the cut at the left, against which two women passengers were pinned by coaches.

Railroad and other authorities are probing the cause of the collision of two trains in the New-branch of the Philadelphia and Reading railway, sixteen miles north of Philadelphia, Pa., recently, which resulted in the death of fifteen persons and serious injury to twenty-five others.

The trains crashed on a single track road at a point where the track runs through a cut thirty-five feet deep and where the walls are but a few feet from the tracks. The wrecked engines and cars were hurled against these walls, adding to the horror of the wreck. Two women passengers were found literally pinned to one side of the cut by debris.

CHARGE 2 WERE BRIBED IN THE STILLMAN CASE

Two Canadians Were Paid to Testify Against Wife and an Effort Was Made to Corrupt Two Others.

(By The Associated Press.) Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 10 (by the Associated Press).—Accusations that two Canadians had been bribed to testify against Mrs. Anne U. Stillman and that agents of James A. Stillman attempted to corrupt eleven others into giving false testimony, opened a fresh counter-attack today upon the banker in his divorce suit.

The charges were made in open court before Supreme Court Justice Morschauer by J. F. Brennan, chief of Mrs. Stillman's counsel, and John E. Mack, guardian ad litem for her 3-year-old son, Guy, whose legitimacy the banker impugned.

Mr. Brennan presented an affidavit signed by himself, outlining the allegations and explaining that they would be borne out by the testimony of witnesses to be called at Montreal beginning January 11.

The testimony in connection with which the charges were made was that Mrs. Stillman violated her marriage vow in her conduct with Fred Beauvais, Indian guide, accused by the banker of being the father of Guy.

Mr. Brennan told the banker's lawyer, Outerbridge Horsey, that agents for Mr. Stillman who sought to corrupt witnesses were J. Albert La Fontaine and Francois Lajoie, and added that there were others who were guilty.

Eleven witnesses named in the affidavit would, Mr. Brennan stated, swear that agents for Mr. Stillman sought to bribe them "with considerable sums of money if they would falsely swear" they witnessed the marriage.

ERBSTEIN WITHDRAWS FROM THE DEFENSE OF MADALYNE OBENCHAIN

(By The Associated Press.) Chicago, Dec. 10.—Charles Erbstein, Chicago attorney, today announced he had withdrawn from the defense of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, under indictment at Los Angeles in connection with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy.

Mr. Erbstein explained he had taken this step because he believed his continued connection with the case might be prejudicial to the interests of the defendant.

Assailing District Attorney Woolwine of Los Angeles and former State Attorney MacKay Hoynes of Chicago for the verbal attack which was made on him in the Los Angeles court when he first appeared in Mrs. Obenchain's defense, Mr. Erbstein announced he would seek to have both indicted for libel.

FOREIGN POWERS OWE AMERICA 11 BILLION DOLLARS

Funding of the Obligation Would Be Authorized Under a Bill Approved By Senate Committee.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Dec. 10.—Funding of the eleven billion dollar debt owed the United States by foreign governments into obligations maturing not later than June 15, 1947, and bearing interest at not less than five per cent, would be authorized under the funding bill as approved today by the senate finance committee.

Chairman Penrose announced that these and other provisions written into the house bill had been agreed to by Secretary Mellon and the democratic members. He added that the re-written bill would be reported to the senate on Monday and called up Tuesday.

Interest on the new obligations would be paid semi-annually and the minimum rate which would be permitted—five per cent—is the rate on the existing obligations.

Under another amendment four of the five members of the commission which is to conduct the funding negotiations would have to be confirmed by the senate.

All of the changes in the house measure, it was explained, were in line with those proposed by Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the finance committee.

Parts of the house bill approved would provide that:

No part of either the principal or interest could be cancelled.

The bonds of one government could not be accepted in payment of the debts of another.

The authority of the commission expires in three years and that the commission make annual report to congress.

The total owed to the United States, principal and interest, by the foreign nations is $11,329,281,228.

TOWN MEETING DRAWS A LARGE CROWD; ENTHUSIASM REIGNS AS VIGOROUS SPEECHES ARE MADE

Sidney M. Weil, O. N. Marron, H. B. Henning and Carl Magee Deliver Talks; Albuquerque Has Larger Chamber of Commerce Than Any Other City Under 50,000 Population.

With enthusiasm stimulated by the Indian school band, a nine-piece orchestra and vigorous direct talks, the town meeting held last night in the Crystal theater was a great success.

After an overture by the orchestra, Chairman Arthur Prager introduced Carl C. Magee, who spoke briefly on "Co-operation." Mr. Magee illustrated by comparisons what can be done with co-operation.

The audience and Apollo club next sang "There's a Long, Long Trail," after which H. B. Henning addressed the meeting on the "Future." Mr. Henning pointed out in his introductory remarks that Albuquerque's future could not be adequately discussed in five minutes. However, his speech outlined many needed improvements.

"The Viking Song" was then sung by the Apollo club, under the direction of Mr. Geake.

O. N. Marron had as his subject for a five-minute talk "The Why and Wherefore of Getting Together." Mr. Marron was well applauded, and his talk was very sincere and forceful.

The audience was next favored by George Geake, tenor, who sang "Little Woman of Mine," which received much applause. He was recalled twice for encores.

Sidney M. Weil was next introduced. Mr. Weil spoke generally on "The Chamber of Commerce of 1922." He outlined in broad terms the possibilities and resources of Albuquerque, and continually urged complete faith and confidence in the enlarged chamber of commerce, in order to gain the best possible results. He warned the meeting that if they did not take fullest advantage of the new chamber of commerce, that within a short time the city would possess no more active and valuable organization than they had before the membership drive. Mr. Weil said:

"I think we all have faith in Albuquerque and its surrounding tributary region. Without such faith we would not be here tonight in this magnificent first annual town meeting to get together and talk of nothing other than community co-operation, than which there is nothing more important."

"Without faith in Albuquerque deeply grounded in the hearts of citizens it would have been impossible to have recruited here in a brief two weeks, as has been done, the largest chamber of commerce membership possessed by any city in the world of less than 50,000 population."

"Without faith in our city and its future it would have been impossible to have routed out of their lurking places within this past two weeks, as has been done, needless and trivial differences of opinion, minor antagonisms, friction and faction, which, while each was insignificant in itself, formed in the mass an obstacle to co-operation the removal of which was necessary before we could hope for progress."

"These things have been routed out, my friends, not by any one man, or by any group of men, but by the united power of the community desire for their elimination."

"And so the way is clear for the chamber of commerce and for Albuquerque in 1922 and it remains for us to apply our faith and build from the planning of our dreams in a sober persistent fashion that will first give birth in our own hearts and minds to an absolute faith in our ability to accomplish the things we undertake."

"With that faith we will find no difficulty in creating confidence in the minds of those we seek to assist in our work, as citizens, investors and city builders."

"Do you know," Mr. Weil continued, "that tonight we are celebrating the completion of a chamber of commerce membership larger than that of any other city under 50,000 inhabitants in the union? We shall send out tonight, over the wires of the Associated Press, the news, to every city with a morning paper, that Albuquerque has done this great thing."

In closing, Mr. Weil said: "You will soon vote for the projects which you regard as most important for this city in 1922. Then ten projects receiving the highest number of votes will be made the major program of the community for 1922. You will then choose, by popular vote, the fifteen men charged with the executive duty of carrying out those projects. I have every confidence that the choice of the majority both of its objectives and of its leadership, will be practical and wise. I know that whatever the projects chosen, twelve hundred members of the Chamber of Commerce working in harmony, in sympathetic understanding and with confidence in themselves, in each other and in our community and its resources, will carry that program through to victory."

"And that, my friends, is what I think about and hope for most in connection with the Chamber of Commerce in 1922; that we work together and refuse to let any force or influence deter us from that cooperation and unity of purpose and effort which is irresistible—no matter how far it may determine to go.

Chairman Prager next invited anyone who had not yet joined the Chamber of Commerce to sign an application after the meeting. The meeting closed with another community song.

LANDOLFI GIVES UP VACATION TO MAKE CONCERT A SUCCESS

Ernest F. Landolfi, treasurer of the Apollo club, who has been given full charge of the ticket sale for the Schumann-Heink concert to be held at the armory on the evening of December 26, has decided not to go to California on his vacation, but spend it here in Albuquerque and devote all his time in helping his committee in making this concert a great success.

Mr. Landolfi states that the music lovers of Albuquerque have so far responded nobly, but he wishes it understood that the house is by no means sold out; there are still quite a number of seats to be sold. Mr. Landolfi also states that everyone holding a ticket will be assured of a seat, as only as many people as can be seated comfortably in the armory will be sold tickets.

The price which the Apollo club has made for this concert is within reach of everyone, and the public should take advantage of this opportunity to hear the wonderful contralto, Madame Schumann-Heink.

HOUSE DEBATES BILL TO CREATE 22 JUDGESHIPS

Amendment to Prevent Judge From Accepting Other Employment While on the Bench Is Ruled Out.

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Dec. 10.—An amendment to the Walsh bill to create twenty-two additional federal judges, which would have prevented any judge from accepting other employment while on the bench, was ruled out today in the house on a point of order.

Representative Moore, democrat, Virginia, who offered the amendment which would have affected Judge Landis, commissioner of professional baseball, appealed, but the house, by a vote of 59 to 51 sustained the ruling.

Creation of the judgeships was advocated by Chief Justice Taft, Attorney General Daugherty and a group of federal judges and district attorneys which made a survey to determine the causes and extent of docket congestion in various districts and the means of expediting the handling of cases. Districts to which new judges would be allotted under the bill include:

Montana, Arizona, northern California, southern California, northern Texas, Middle Tennessee, and southern Florida, one each.

The bill also provides for the holding annually of a conference.

EXPECT SEVERAL STATES TO QUIT LEAGUE OF S. W.

The Future Existence of the Organization Is Problematical; Conference Accomplishes Nothing.

(By The Associated Press.)
Riverside, Calif., Dec. 10.—The special session of the League of the Southwest called to consider matters connected with flood control, irrigation, development and power development of the Colorado river ended tonight without any action having been taken.
The negative outcome of the conference was due to a demand from western states, other than California, that they be given an equal voice in the league's affairs, regardless of the number of delegates they sent to meetings. Delph E. Carpenter of Denver today was credited with arranging a withdrawal from participation in the league's decisions on the part of these states. The withdrawal developed yesterday in the course of an address by Judge Reed Holloman of New Mexico.
The adjournment came at an hour when a committee representative of each of the states was in session at morning to arrange resolutions which could be presented to the league with some hope of attaining general approval. It was moved by a member from Los Angeles and though there were few dissenting voices many seats were vacant when the action was taken. It followed close on the heels of an unofficial report that the committee actually had reached an agreement.
Committee members said they had understood the league would remain in session until the committee report and declared adjournment probably would widen the breach they had hoped to close. The future existence of the league is problematical, delegates said.
Many of the here for the meetings have gone to San Diego to attend a hearing Monday before Secretary Fall of the interior department on the petition of residents of the Imperial valley that steps be taken to safeguard that section from floods in the Colorado.

WORLD IN NEED OF AN OPIATE, JUDGE DECLARES

Churchmen Are Begging Parishioners to Turn the Church Into a Vaudeville to Attract Worshippers.

(By The Associated Press.)
St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 10.—The world "is in a disturbed psychological state" and needs an opiate to steady its nerves, Judge R. S. Galor of Mount Pleasant, Ia., president of the Universalists general convention, asserted tonight at the opening session of the three-day convention of the National Federation of Religious Liberals.

"There are no longer any orthodox theories in political economy," he said. "Consistency of opinion has vanished. Stiff conservatives are advocating the widest radicalism in their soul to stay the rising tide of socialism. Staid high churchmen are begging their parishioners to turn the church into a vaudeville to attract worshippers. Forms of worship that answered the deep cry of the human soul in vanished centuries are quietly laid away. Sanctity no longer rules rebellious hearts and the cross is scarcely more than a symbol of a beautiful but fading idealism."

"Such conditions constitute a fertile soil in which grow profusely all kinds of noxious as well as useful plants."

The duty of the church is "to hold fast to that which is good" and to serve as a balance wheel amid the factions that sweep society," he said. The practical man who sees visions and yet keeps his feet on the ground is the real benefactor of his kind.

WHITE WINTER USHERS IN SEASON OF SPORT IN CANADA

The white season is with us again and is no country is it more eagerly welcomed or more generally enjoyed than in Canada. Young and old of city and hamlet, east and west, participate in beautiful winter sports. Every hill is a potential toboggan slide and where nature has failed to place a hill, man constructs a slide.

Skiing, ski-luncheon and ski-trotting with more and more devotees each season and the list of snow-shoe clubs grows longer and longer. Lacrosse, ice hockey and curling have each their host of adherents. The St. Lawrence held each winter in Winnipeg lasts for many weeks and is participated in by hundreds of skiers for skating in the open and men who are as fond as long as weather permits while others reach high tide during the winter sports season.

One of the most important hills in the St. Lawrence is the "high-roller" and is the center of attraction for winter sports who far outnumber the summer sports each winter. Among the Laurentian Mountains of Quebec are many delightful resorts, each with its special sort of attractions. Montreal has that wonderful playground, Mount Royal, for ski-ing, tobogganing and sledding with Fletcher Field at its base for skating and ice games. Winnipeg, Calgary and a score of other western cities have their complete ice-ockey and lacrosse seasons. Winter in the prairie cities is lived by keen contests between rival sports teams by skating contests and local sports features such as horse racing on ice in one locality and ice boating in another, with dog races in a third.

THREE-DAY BATH IN SAN ANTONIO FLOOD TEST FOR DODGE CAR

With the excitement and turmoil of the recent San Antonio flood at its height, D. B. Spillar, of the Exchange Savinelli Sales company, recalled that he had left his Dodge Brothers car in a storage garage—and they had placed it in the basement only the night before. As the flood grew worse, and the car had been submerged for three days, Spillar made up his mind that there was nothing left for him to do except smile stoically and bid his roadster a fond farewell.

A sorry-looking sight, soaked with grease and mud as well as water, the car was finally dragged out into the light of day. As he found that the expense of cleaning and reassembling the car was comparatively small, however, the owner took the chance. To his surprise, after a thorough cleaning, the car was as good as before the flood, and the roadster ran like a new car.

Of 40 or 50 cars in the same basement, the Dodge Brothers car was the only one which did not require repainting. As Mr. Spillar says, he feels that he now has "a car that has stood the acid test."

JAPAN EXPECTED TO ACCEPT U. S. NAVY PROPOSAL

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Dec. 10 (by the Associated Press).—Naval officials believe adjustment of the question of the Japanese battleship Mutsu will follow quickly the acceptance by Japan of the 5-5-3 naval ratio proposal. As that acceptance is held to be foreshadowed both here and in Tokyo dispatches, they are considering modifying details of the American proposal should Japan present formally a desire to retain that ship.

In the opinion of some naval experts adoption of the 5-5-3 ratio will clear the road to adjustments on the Mutsu. It would be possible then, it was said, to scale upward in the list of ships to be retained on the basis of the ratio, merely making the immediate cut in naval forces less drastic than the American proposal contemplated.

DIES AT AGE OF 107.
Avon, Conn., Dec. 10.—Chester Randolph Woodford, aged 107, died today of pneumonia. He was born in homestead in which he died. In 1838 Abraham Lincoln, as his lawyer, won a case for him in the Illinois courts.

In the event that Japan does desire to retain the Mutsu, it was pointed out, the United States could retain the Colorado and Washington.

The most troublesome feature of such an agreement it was said would be to provide for a proportionate British increase in retained fleet strength, as no capital ships actually are under construction for Great Britain.

Retention of the Mutsu without sacrifice of any ships now on the lists of retained ships would bring the Japanese capital ship tonnage up around 320,000 aggregate, while retention of the Colorado and Washington would raise the American aggregate from around 500,000 to more than 560,000.

Old Resident Given Up By Physicians

"Given up by five doctors, my only hope an operation. I rebelled on cutting me open, as I am 75 years old. A neighbor advised trying May's Wonderful Remedy for stomach trouble. I got relief right away. I had not eaten for 10 days and was as yellow as a gold piece. I could have lived only a few days but for the medicine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale by Briggs' Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.

GUARDSMEN HUNT FOR 9 MEN WHO KILLED A YOUTH

Boy Loses His Life and Two Women Are Probably Fatally Wounded in An Attempted Jail Delivery.

(By The Associated Press.)
Jackson, Ky., Dec. 10.—A detachment of national guardsmen from Whitesburg and Hazard arrived here tonight en route for the Lost Creek section of Breathitt county to join a sheriff's posse in a search for nine men who killed one youth and probably fatally wounded two women in an attempted jail delivery here.

The guardsmen were ordered out after a band of mountaineers had attacked the county jail in an effort to liberate prisoners they thought incarcerated. The prisoners, three under life sentence, had been removed.

Appearing at the jail residence early today the men demanded the prisoners. Oscar Allen, deputy jailer, answered by throwing the jail keys into a dark room and dropped when the invaders started firing.

Without making an attempt to search the jail, the band departed. Mrs. Allen is in a critical condition. Her sister-in-law is suffering from four bullet wounds.

INJUNCTION SUIT IS WELCOMED BY BOARD

(By The Associated Press.)
Chicago, Dec. 10.—The injunction suit of the Pennsylvania Railroad company against the United States railroad labor board is welcomed because it will decide the board's powers and the manner in which its decisions can be enforced, Judge Barton, chairman of the board, said in a statement tonight.

The injunction, issued yesterday by Judge Lankford and enjoining the board from handling down a decision in disputed shop crafts cases affecting the Pennsylvania, expired today and was not continued when the board promised to hold its decision in abeyance pending a hearing December 21.

COLLINS WITHHOLDS COMMENT ON TREATY

(By The Associated Press.)
Dublin, Dec. 10.—Michael Collins informed the correspondent of the Associated Press today that he did not feel justified in honor in saying anything before the meeting of the daily council.

"However," he added, "I signed the treaty and my attitude is well known."

Asked whether he was pleased with Cardinal Logue's pronouncement he answered good humoredly that he thought the question was an unfair one but remarked: "The point is that whenever we have had a controversy in Ireland in the past we always went in for abusing each other. I want to show everyone that we can conduct this controversy without resort to such tactics."

GERMANY CANNOT MEET REPARATIONS PAYMENT

Paris, Dec. 10 (by the Associated Press).—Germany has filed to pay 190,000,000 gold marks due during the first two weeks of December under the schedule of payments, calling for 24 per cent of her exports, and certain portions of her customs duties, it was learned today. Germany has informed the reparations commission that the tremendous decrease in the value of the mark makes impossible the conversion into gold marks of the fund of paper marks accumulated to meet these payments.

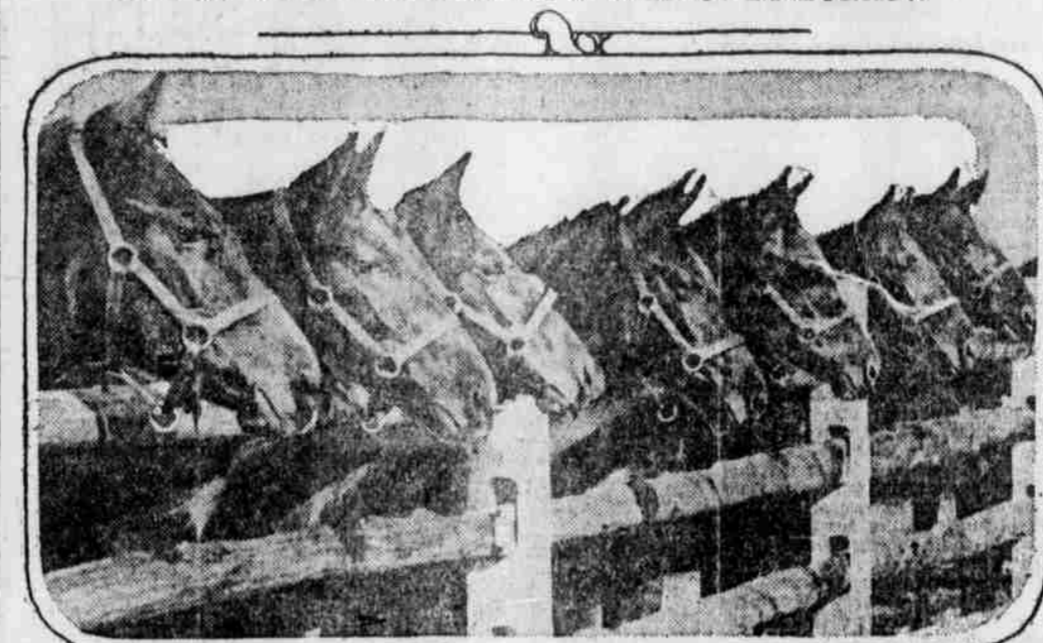

The reparations commission has not yet taken any position on Germany's failure to meet the bills. Observers here say there is nothing to be done in view of the exchange crisis in Germany.

England and France have decided to take no independent steps in the reparations situation, as a result of the visit of Minister of Devastated Regions Loucheur to London.

PICKETING IN FULL SWING.
Calcutta, Dec. 10 (by the Associated Press).—The picketing campaign of the non-cooperationists in furtherance of the boycott planned in connection with the visit of the Prince of Wales, who is due to arrive Christmas eve, is in full swing. More than 100 picketers were arrested yesterday, and 160 more today.

MEXICO SEIZES U. S. FISHING SCHOONER MABEL

Boats Flying the American Flag Are Engaged in Gun Running, Is Claim of Mexican Foreign Office.

(By The Associated Press.) Mexico City, Dec. 10.—The American fishing schooner Mabel, now being held by the Mexican authorities at Ensenada, was described in a foreign office statement today as a carrier of contraband arms. The charge was also made in the statement that other boats flying the United States flag were engaged in gun running. The statement follows:

"The Mexican consul at San Diego, Calif., on December 3 reported that the fishing schooner Mabel and Yukon had left for Mexican waters without fishing permits or consular clearance papers, saying publicly that they were going to San Geronimo and San Martin, Lower California, for the purpose of fishing. They stated they were not disposed to pay the corresponding harbor fees, but that they had armed themselves with rifles and a large number of cartridges in order to protect themselves against the fishing patrol boat Tecate. This conduct has been followed by other boats and, besides, it is suspected that while fishing they carried contraband arms.

"On December 7 the same San Diego consul reported that the schooner Mabel had been captured in Mexican waters because of the lack of a fishing permit and consular clearance papers and was being detained at Ensenada in consequence of instructions from the proper authorities.

"As contraband fishing is generally followed by various American boats which devote themselves in an alarming manner to clandestine fishing in Mexican waters, the proper authorities are using energetic measures to prevent the abuses which have hitherto been committed in various forms."

The foreign office statement is the first official mention of the Mabel incident, which it is known, has been the subject within the last few days of several inquiries by George T. Sumner, American charge d'affaires here.

Fishing off the Lower California coast is carried on under concessions and vessels operating in these waters, it is said, commonly arm their crews as protection against other fishing schooners.

14 AUTO RACERS CONTEST TODAY IN CALIFORNIA

(By The Associated Press.) San Francisco, Calif., Dec. 10.—Fourteen automobile race drivers, most of them prominent nationally, will compete on the new San Francisco speedway at San Carlos near here tomorrow, in a 250-mile international sweepstakes for the Golden Gate cup and $25,000 in cash prizes.

Tommy Milton and Roscoe Searles, who are leading in the race for points toward the 1921 national championship, are entered. Milton has 1870 points to date and Searles 1850. Tomorrow's winner will be credited with 500 points, second place 250 points, third 150 and fourth 80.

Jimmy Murphy of San Francisco, who won the French race, the Grand Prix last August, is entered. Other drivers to compete are Ralph de Palma, Bonnie Hill, Eddie Hearne, Jerry Wunderlich, Harry Harts, 30, Chicago, Art Klein, Eddie Miller, Joe Thomas, Don Fretwell and Frank Elliott. Barney Oldfield, veteran driver, will appear in a one lap exhibition in his famous old car "999" in commemoration of the twentieth anniversary of his first race. This automobile is said to be Henry Ford's first car. Before the main race there will be a 25-mile feature race, in which several automobile firms will enter their stock cars.

The international sweepstakes event will dedicate the new speedway which has just been completed. The circumference of the new track is one and one-quarter miles and the stands will accommodate 32,000 spectators.

FILM SMILES

FILM MOBS
TRAVEL CHEAPLY
IN FILM CANS

EVERY new foreign film claims an increased number in the cast until the boldest advertise 10,000 with nobody interested enough to count them. An investigation might develop that immigrants are using films as a means to enter this country after the quotas are filled.

Conway Tearle, the Seznick star, is back on the stage playing "The Mad Dog" with "The Wild Cat" his opposition at another Manhattan theatre. Somebody must be feeding New Yorkers raw meat.

"All for a Woman" seems to be a distribution of spoils that would turn argument into monologue.

"You and I in Six Parts," makes a staggering electric sign.

Elaine Hammerstein's "Why Announce Your Marriage?" will not register with couples that expect to start housekeeping with the presents they hope to receive.

"The Home Stretch" is where the slipper hovers aloft.

"A Scream in the Night" is a timely title in the present open season for porch climbers.

"Love Never Dies"—especially in the movies.

Film "Don't Be a Fool" for Hubby "Don't Doubt Your Wife." "Don't Neglect Your Wife." "Don't Change Your Wife." Also, don't forget you have a wife.

Large "galleries" follow the game the photographs.

"The Spite Bride" doubtless "got even" with both herself and her husband.

"Four Horsemen" for the price of one might be considered a movie bargain.

"Why Girls Leave Home" is something else again.

COTTON GROWING IN EDDY CO. PROFITABLE

W. T. Reed, editor of the Carlsbad Argus; Sheriff George Bratton of Eddy county, and F. E. Wilson, assistant district attorney, were in the city Friday night and Saturday forenoon, on their way to Carlsbad from Santa Fe. They had taken William Murray to the state penitentiary to begin serving a life sentence. Murray was convicted on a charge of murdering his brother and sentenced to die, but Governor Mechem commuted his sentence.

Mr. Reed gave a glowing account of conditions in Carlsbad and vicinity. The cotton crop in particular, Eddy county alone this year had 700 acres in cotton, which produced an average of three-quarters of a bale to the acre and is selling for from 17 to 20 cents.

An oil mill is being installed at Carlsbad to utilize the cotton seed. The mill is expected to supply "cake" for all the cattle in the southeastern part of the state.

This was Mr. Reed's first trip to Santa Fe and Albuquerque in about thirty years.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

New York, Dec. 10.—Former Governor Francis Burton Harrison of the Philippines, who is now in Spain, called friends here today announcing the engagement of his daughter, Virginia Randolph Harrison, to Christian Gross of Chicago. They will be married at Algeciras, Spain, next year.

STINE IS RELEASED.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 10.—Mike Stine, wrestler and hotel clerk, arrested Thursday night as a suspect in connection with the Wall Street explosion September 16, 1920, was released from the city jail today on his own recognizance after the department of justice notified police that he was not wanted by federal authorities.

THE MARKETS

(By The Associated Press.)

New York, Dec. 10.—Opinion in trading circles was rather mixed at the opening of today's brief session but the market soon turned strong to the active close. Copper, equipments and oils were features at gains of one to three points. Motors, shippers, rubbers, tobaccos and miscellaneous stocks of the more speculative variety followed leaders at less substantial gains.

Rails alone were sluggish, many representatives remaining unquoted. Their backwardness was attributed to official reports disclosing an increase of idle freight cars. Sales, 450,000 shares.

Sentimental factors in the day's movement included the strength of foreign exchanges, some of which were at maximum quotations since the signing of the armistice, and announcement of the terms of the "four-power" treaty.

The November tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation showing a small decrease in bookings, compared with the previous month, and weekly reviews of trade conditions by the mercantile agencies comprised the other developments.

Trading in bonds was broad but changes were irregular. Liberty issues again dominated, realizing for profits, while transportation reflected pressure in the share list.

Total sales, par value, $10,875,000. Actual decrease of $3,600,000 in clearing house discounts and discounts by the mercantile agencies comprised the other developments.

SCOUT NOTES

By the Scouts.

Troop No. 3.

Hello scouts.
We have lots of good news today, but we can only tell part of it. The Wolf Patrol announces that hereafter they will be called the Silver Fox Patrol. We are to have a new system of meetings soon. Last time the air was full of mystery, and we soon found out several scouts were passing tests.
Our meeting was attended by the usual number of scouts. We did not play as many games as usual because of the tests we had.

If a person should get in a mess, A scout will help him out of distress.

If you are a boy or a scout, join our troop.

TED MAGEE, Scribe.

HERREIRA BOOKED TO MEET BENNY HERE ON FRIDAY

Mike Baca Cancels Match On Account of Sickness. Trinidad Boy Looks Like Harder Man for Cordova.

Mike Baca, who was scheduled to meet Benny Cordova at the Crystal opera house on the evening of December 16 in the main fifteen-round bout of a boxing card being arranged by Dan Padilla, will not be able to keep the appointment. He was taken sick with a severe cold yesterday and his manager will not allow him to go on with his training.

Not wanting to disappoint the fans, Padilla wired to many of the larger cities in the west and south-west and at 8 o'clock last night signed up Frank Herrera, of Trinidad, to meet Benny here in place of Baca. The contract was completed by wire.

While Herrera has not been seen in action in Albuquerque, he has been taking Colorado by storm and is credited with wins over some of the best boys boxing in the Rocky mountain region. Denver, Colorado Springs and Trinidad have been the cities where he has held some of his main bouts during the past few months.

"I would have liked to have met Baca," Benny stated last night, "but with Herrera I believe he will be a harder one. I believe he will be the hardest boy I ever went up against. We all know him, at least by reputation."

Another Trinidad boy will meet Young Jim Flynn on the sixteenth in a ten-round go, Benny Gallardi, the fighting Italian, has been signed up for Flynn and is expected to give the Albuquerque boy the fight of his life.

Neither of the Trinidad boys have ever been in the city before and in them, local fans will see two of the best of the Rocky mountain states have to offer in their weight class. Both of the boys will arrive tomorrow night and will start training at Moose hall during the evenings.

Benny, Young Jim Flynn, Kid Anya, Eddy Lewis and several other boys are working out with Benny at the Moose hall this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The fans are invited to drop in and look them over. Public training will be held by both camps each evening at the hall starting about 7 o'clock.

FOREST SERVICE MEN DISCUSS RESULTS OF EXPERIMENTAL RANGE

The second session of the forest service grazing conference held yesterday afternoon in the federal building was devoted largely to reports from the different grazing inspectors on the results obtained on the two experimental range reserves in this state and in Arizona.

Plans for the further development of the two range reserves were discussed, but no definite program will be adopted until the final meeting of the conference next Monday.

About twenty members of the forest service, including officials of the district forester's office and grazing inspectors from both states were present at the meeting.

PORTALES

A great spirit of co-operation is being manifested here among the churches in so much that all the other churches have dismissed all their services excepting Sunday school and the Sunday morning service, and the ministers, four of them, are attending and helping in the Methodist evangelistic services which have been held during the past two weeks. There has already been about 40 accessions to the different churches. During the past week Evangelist R. B. Freeman has had seven services held each day, preaching each morning and at night at church and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at some store up town; three prayer meetings at the different homes at the same hour, and at 6:30 young people's meeting at the church. On Sunday afternoon, as one of the revival services, a meeting was held at the church for men only.

W. E. Lindsey was a visitor in Albuquerque on Monday. He attended the meeting of the Taxpayers' association.

Prof. J. S. Long was called to Sapulpa, Tex., last week on account of the serious illness and later the death of his brother-in-law.

The Rev. Dr. Ray was an over Sunday visitor in Portales and on Sunday morning filled the pulpit at the Baptist church. Although the Rev. Ray has been blind since ten years of age, he is a graduate of the School for the Blind, also of the State University of North Carolina, Harvard university, and received his D. D. degree at the Theological college at Louisville, Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McDonald and sons, Howard and Harold, left Wednesday for Dallas, Tex., where Mr. McDonald has purchased a grocery store.

Mrs. Joseph Lang, who has been visiting her daughters, Mrs. S. A. Morrison and Mrs. Mattie Mitchell, for the past three weeks, left Tuesday for El Paso, where she will remain during the winter.

Thursday afternoon the chain of prayer meetings that have been held on each afternoon met at the Methodist church and after prayer service the missionary society took charge, and it being the time to elect new officers for the ensuing year the following officers were elected: Mrs. Clara Jones, president; Mrs. Walter Krattl, first vice president; Mrs. Henry Denison, second vice president; Mrs. W. H. Daniels, secretary; Mrs. Monroe Compton, treasurer; Mrs. Bees Dehoney, press reporter.

Temple Melhart, retired postmaster, with his wife and daughter, Mozelle, left Monday in their car for an overland trip to California, where they will make their future home.

Wednesday afternoon the Baptist missionary society met at the country home of Mrs. M. B. Jones. A splendid talk on the year's lesson was given by Miss Ruelah Fonville, matron of the Baptist orphans' home, to the 32 ladies present. During an after social hour the hostess served cherry pie with whipped cream and coffee. A son was born on December 5 to County Superintendent and Mrs. R. A. Palm.

S. N. Hancock received notice on Monday of his appointment by Gov. M. C. Mechem to the state board of optometry, to succeed the late R. J. Taupert of Las Vegas, who was president of the board. Dr. Beck of Oklahoma is in Portales and while here will select a site on which to build a sanatorium.

The Parent-Teachers association held its regular meeting at the high school auditorium on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. An interesting program was given, and splendid talks by different ones.

Word has just reached here of the recent death of Mrs. Jessie Claudell, a former Portales girl, at a hospital in Texas. Mrs. Claudell was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Carroll, who were residents of Portales for many years.

The Rev. J. C. Jones, presiding elder for this district of the Methodist last week.

Portales was visited on Friday by three notable people—Dr. C. C. Drummond, who, after 20 years service as a medical missionary in India, is taking a much needed rest; Mrs. Terry King, general field worker of the United Christian Missionary society, which was formed by the union of six great national organizations, and Mr. C. L. Dean, regional secretary for the Rocky Mountain district of the Christian church.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sander have been entertaining for some time as house guests their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnston, who left overland Saturday for Mexico City, and will visit several other towns along the way as they are en route to their home in Los Angeles, Calif.

Mrs. C. W. Carroll, a former resident of Portales, came in Wednesday from Gainesville, Tex., for a visit with her daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. Alec McCall, and many other friends.

LEVY

John Swahn of Trinidad, Colo., spent a few days in this vicinity visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schmidt and other friends. Mr. Swahn was a former resident here. Mrs. Willis has returned to her home in Fort Worth, Tex., after a two months' visit in the home of her sister, Mrs. M. T. O'Laughlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Simms and son of Nolan spent several days last week visiting in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Simms and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Simms.

Mrs. R. J. Julian, who has been visiting the past month in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cook Ely, has returned to her home on the McNeerney ranch near Las Vegas. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Libby and Miss Inez Christman of Nolan were guests Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bolt.

Mrs. C. H. Hanke and Alfred Schipman visited Miss Elsie Noble in Wagon Mound on Sunday.

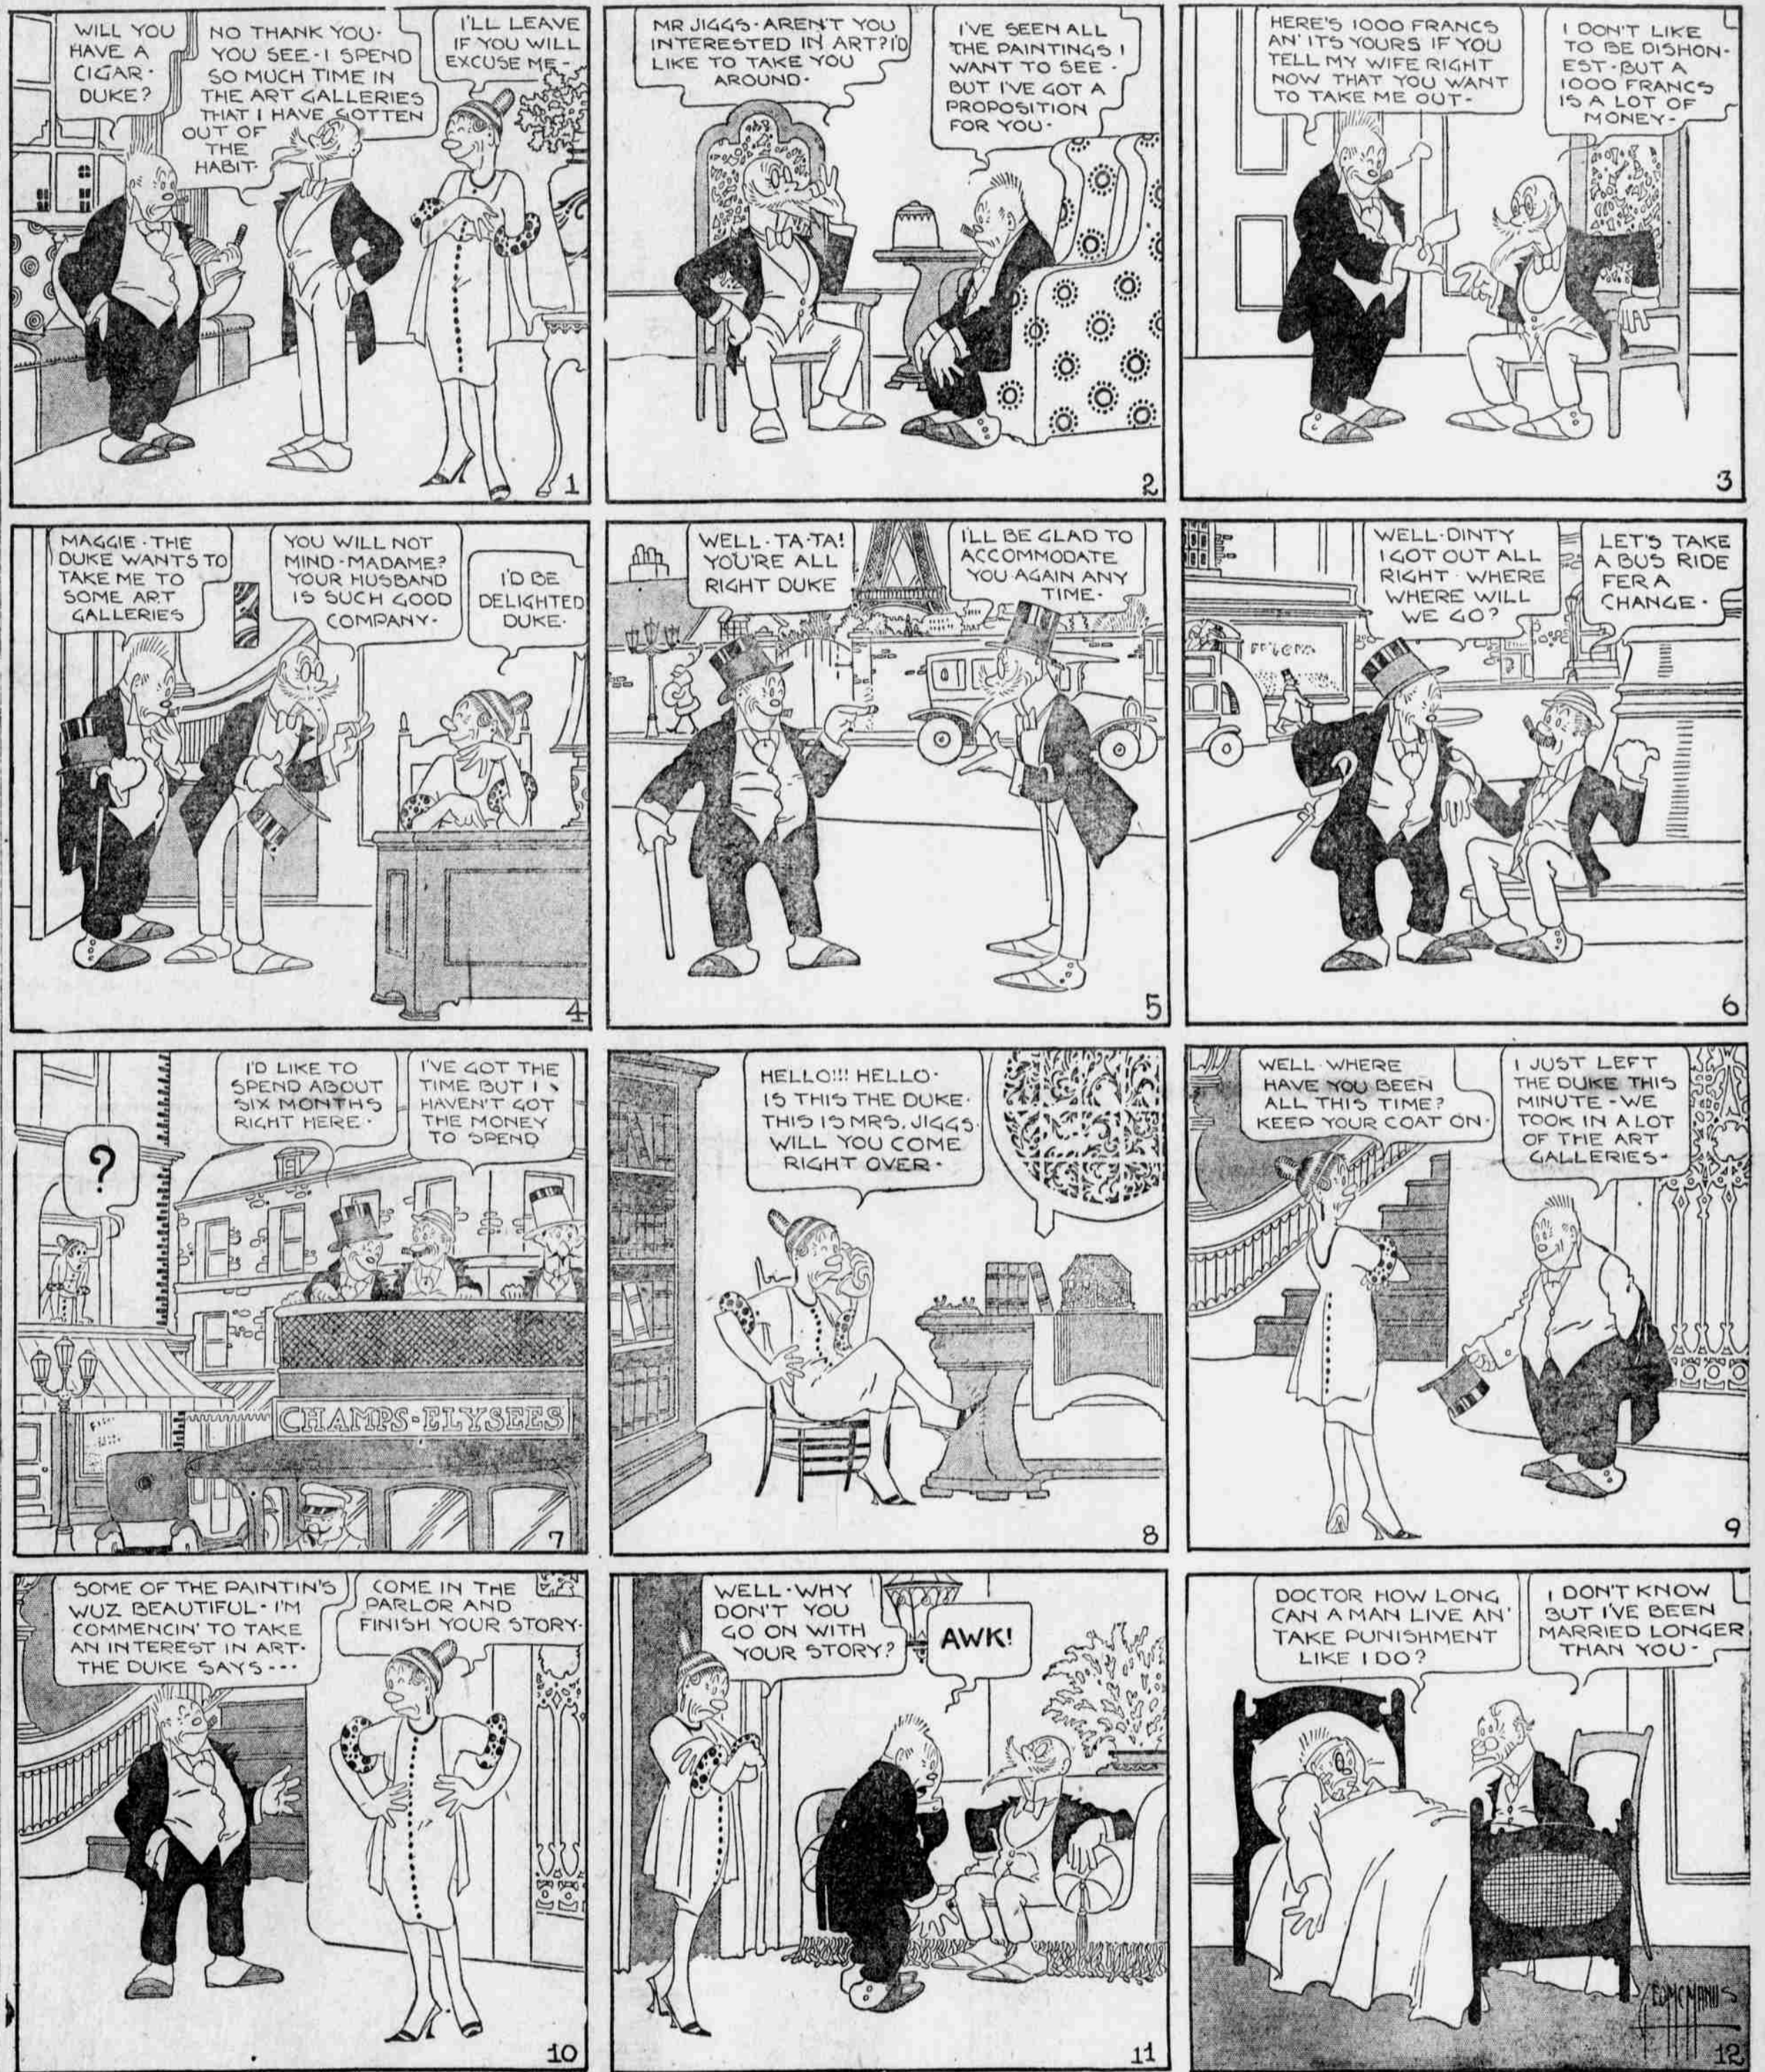

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt and M. L. S. Henton of Colmar attended the Daniels closing out sale Tuesday. Mr. Henton recently returned from Oregon, where he spent the summer with relatives.

Christmas programs are being prepared by the schools at Levy, Fairview and Arkansas Valley. Christmas trees are also planned.

ROSENWALD'S MEN'S SHOP

ALBUQUERQUE GOES TO A PLAY OR TWO; SCHUMANN-HEINK COMES NEXT; CHRISTMAS CHARITY IS THE PREVAILING VOGUE OF SOCIETY MATRONS

FOLKS, we are almost tempted to start a theater column. With three plays and a coming concert by a real prima donna to think about this week, it looks as though the theater season in Albuquerque had begun. An unusually long life to it! One of the three was Spanish; another, high school amateurs in "Peg O' My Heart" next Friday, but the third was legitimate. It was very jolly, as Little Rollo says, to see May Robson (herself) again. The town thoroughly enjoyed turning out to a regular show once more, although it was so out of the habit as to be about 50 per cent late for the first act.

Christmas plans are monopolizing practically all of the present day conversation and a good share of the time. People profess to be "not doing very much, really, this year," but they are giving generously of their time and money to make it a "Merry Christmas" for those less fortunate. Several hundred women are making clothes for poor children for the Elks' big celebration, others are sending contributions to the Empty Stools, and still others are rummaging in their cellars and attics for articles to make up the bundles for the poor which will be collected from the front door step this afternoon by the Elks.

MESDAMES REYNOLDS TO GIVE BIG BRIDGE.

Invitations are out to a big bridge party to be given by Mrs. J. M. Reynolds at their spacious home on South High street on next Wednesday afternoon. There will be twelve tables.

LUNCHEON SHOWER GIVEN FOR MISS CARR.

Miss Virginia Carr, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Clark M. Carr, whose marriage to Theodore Van Hook, former Albuquerque artist, will take place here on December 28, was guest of honor at a luncheon given by Mrs. Henry Rolf Brown at her home on Copper avenue yesterday noon.

The guests were seated at two tables which were beautifully decorated in pink and white. Pink candles in crystal holders shed their soft light over the center bowls of pink and white sweet peas. Bows of pink mulline and trailing smilax gave a most bridal touch to the tables. The place cards were also in pink and white. The heart motif was carried out through the menu of the luncheon. A handkerchief shower for the bride-elect was a feature of the affair.

Mrs. Brown's guests were Miss Carr, Mrs. G. Brooks, Mrs. H. B. Jamison, Mrs. Robert E. Dietz, Mrs. Leopold Meyer, Mrs. Kenneth C. Beals, Miss Lorna Lester, Miss Katherine McMillen, Miss Evangeline Perry, Miss Esther Howden, Miss Angelica Howden, Miss Florence Weiler, Miss Erna Ferguson and Miss Mildred Harris.

MILDRED BOTTS GIVES SPECTACULAR RECITAL.

For the first time in Albuquerque's musical history was a recital given by a nine-year-old child when little Mildred Botts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Botts, presented a piano program last Sunday afternoon at the studio of her teacher, Miss Louise M. Nichols.

The little girl played ten numbers from memory, displaying a surprising adaptability to the moods of the various pieces and an unusual command of pianistic resources. Her tone is round and full, her rhythm well marked and her technique adequate to the demands of the compositions she played.

She was assisted in the recital by Elizabeth Pale and Robert Nordhaus, interesting young violinists, both of whom exhibited marked improvement in their art. Miss Dorothy Cameron played sympathetic accompaniments. The first and second grade music pupils, and parents and friends of the performers, composed the audience at the recital.

FOREST SERVICE DANCE FOR NEWLAWS.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Chapline, soon to be "of Washington, D. C.," were guests of honor last night at a pleasant dance given by the forestry men at the Woman's club. Mr. Chapline, who was recently married, is well known in this district, where he has spent considerable time on grazing work. The marriage took place in Phoenix, Ariz., on December 7, the couple coming directly to Albuquerque, where they are spending a week. Mrs. Chapline was Miss Eva Telen of Phoenix. The romance began several years ago in Flagstaff, Ariz., when Mr. Chapline was detailed on the Coconino national forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapline will go to Nebraska to visit Mr. Chapline's parents before returning to Washington to make their home. Mr. Chapline is inspector of grazing with headquarters in the national forester's office at Washington.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON TEA AT EL MIRAMONTES.

Tea served around the great double fireplace by the light of great candles in copper holders in the main building at El Miramontes is a most pleasant Sunday afternoon occupation. The young owners of the place, Miss Winifred Shuler and Miss Irene Fisher, entertained a party of town people last Sunday in honor of Miss Frances Bothwell of Dallas, Tex., who was spending the week here.

Arriving at Miramontes on the Mesa is in itself something of an adventure, especially since tea time is after dark these days. The roads are not actually bad, just a little wayward, and the ways are quite uncharted. The cordiality of the hostesses, the entertainment of the attractive young men who make up the hotel guest list, music and conversation by the fireplace combine to make a tea party as a tea party.

FORTNIGHTLY ADOPTS A NEW CONSTITUTION.

One of the most interesting and probably most profitable meetings held in the history of the Fortnightly Music club was that of Tuesday evening in the Woman's club. There was a large attendance of members and a lively discussion over the proposed changes in the club constitution. One of the most important changes was the adoption of a new constitution, which provided for the election of a new board of directors, and the election of a new president. The new constitution was adopted by a vote of 10 to 2.

The constitution was adopted with changes. These changes elevate the standard of the club, and include for membership those who can contribute to the work and literary and musical departments. The club's purpose is to be promoted as one of the important branches of the Fortnightly.

The coming concert of Virginia Rea, coloratura soprano, January 6, was spoken of in several speeches the members reviewed the splendid achievements of the club in the sponsoring of the artists' courses year after year and filling auditoriums with people who are becoming music enthusiasts. The superior local concerts by professional clubmen, and the student programs by coming musicians whose talents are being fostered and developed by the club. The meeting resolved itself into a happy family gathering, bound closer together by free discussion, all renewing loyalty to the organization. A social hour and refreshments concluded the business meeting.

Capt. J. C. Peters is expected back in the city from Tucson for the holidays.

RACE FOR GOTHAM'S SOCIAL CROWN BETWEEN TWO WOMEN

shown any disposition to make a contest of the kind. She was the shy little girl of the social set, and everybody recalls how she lived as a simple country maiden on the big estate adjoining the Astors' Rhinecliff property up to the time that it was announced that Helen Dinwiddie Huntington was to marry Vincent Astor.

Then everybody said that it was a matter of course; that they had been sweethearts all of their lives, and that nothing else could possibly happen. The war came soon after their marriage and Astor went to the navy, while she became engaged in all sorts of war work. She also took up the idea of Americanization and did a great deal toward promoting the education of the foreign born.

But it was only recently, when she came back from Paris with a new wardrobe that was really interesting to the fashionable world, that the signs of the winter conflict began to include her.

It is the first real rivalry since the war for the Who's Who population to enjoy.

Mrs. Marshall Field. Perhaps for the reason that it is the newest, the western invasion is taking more of the fancy of those who watch, and those who take part in, the whirl that one designates by the collective title of society. The Marshall Fields are here from Chicago, ready to push Mrs. Field's ambitions for the leadership of the younger set to the prominence that only millions and determination could hope to attain.

Mrs. Field is well fitted for the fight that is being made for her. She was Evelyn Marshall, daughter of the late Charles W. and Mrs. Marshall. Her mother's side of the family is related to the old Lenox and Backs families, all identified with the early history of Gotham. The Marshall family home is at 6 East Seventy-seventh street. As a matter of historical interest, her grandfather was the founder of the Lenox library.

Queenly honors would sit with grace upon the head of the young wife of the Chicago man. She was educated abroad, and passed the major portion of her girlhood in Europe. London, Paris, Nice and Berlin all know her as a social light. She is four years the senior of Mr. Field.

There is considerable contrast between Mrs. Field and Mrs. Vincent Astor, who is the second of the aspirants for leadership. It is only recently that Mrs. Astor has

U. N. M. MUSIC STUDENTS TO GIVE RECITAL.

The first semester recital of the department of music at the university will be given next Friday morning at the 11 o'clock assembly hour. The program will be given under the direction of Mrs. D. W. Faw and John Lukken and will include numbers by some of the best talent in the city. The public is invited to attend the concert.

DANCES.

Owen Marron entertained at a dancing party at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Marron on Friday evening. His guests were members of the high school set who manage to have the best time in the world on all occasions. Punch was served throughout the evening, and refreshments were served near home-sweet-home time. The guests were Misses Rosemary Hovgan, Helen Stevens, Clara Stevens, Helen Grunfeld, Marcella Matson, Rosalie Furry, Helen Snyder, Virginia McLandress, Eleanor Davis, Josephine Milner, Messrs. Joseph Benjamin, Charles Dearing, Hoyt Eiler, Maxwell Merritt, Stanford Noble, William Bacon, Charles Barber, Frederick Ward, Otto Beber and Malcolm Long.

The first of a series of Friday night dances at Tamarisk Inn, south of the city, was held last week by the Tally Ho Dancing club. The affair was attended largely by high school and university students. The Inn has announced the inauguration of Sunday afternoon tea with orchestra music from 4 to 6. The Tally Ho dances will be held each Friday evening. The Inn is a delightful place for parties, either winter or summer, and is particularly adapted to dances.

The Good Time club held its December dance at Colombo hall on Friday evening with a large and lively crowd present. The affair was a Christmas party with appropriate arrangements.

The state auxiliary of the American Legion gave a benefit dance last night at the Armory to raise money for their Christmas work among the children of disabled soldiers. Fortune telling booths and other entertainment features were provided during the evening. The auxiliary is receiving Santa Claus letters from children of sick soldiers all over the state and will see that each child is remembered.

HOW THEY ARE BROUGHT OUT IN NEW YORK.

That the rules and regulations for the bringing out of a debutante in Gotham are as strict as in any other variety of contest is intimated in the following society editorial from the New York Herald.

This is how it's done among the four hundred:
Although there had been numerous entertainments for debutantes since the early part of November, their real campaign was started last Friday night with the first of this season of the junior assemblies, which was held at the Ritz-Carlton.

"The gathering was the largest in the history of that organization and the demand for invitations was greater than the number allotted. The second-year girls, whose mothers, fathers or other relatives are subscribers to these dances, have to go to them on the status of a debutante, and it is rarely the case that a subscriber's name appears for more than two years in succession, unless it happens that there are other girls in the family to be introduced to society."

"The members of the permanent committee of these dances were most generous in their disposition of extra invitations for last Friday night, but there is a limit to generosity when the dimensions of even a big ballroom are to be taken into consideration. It was a most successful dance, the spirit of youth predominating. Coming at the end of the week as it did, there were plenty of college men for partners. The dates for the other dances of the subscription are January 6 and February 3."

"Mr. and Mrs. Payne Whitney have sent out invitations to the ball they are giving in the new ballroom of the Plaza on the night of December 20 to introduce their daughter, Miss Joan Whitney. This entertainment will not be restricted to the debutante element, as Mr. and Mrs. Whitney are including their older friends from distant cities as well as from New York. In advance of the dance Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Hinsham, who live at the Plaza, are having a dinner of forty for their young relative, Miss Whitney."

HIGH SCHOOL TO GIVE "PEG O' MY HEART."

"Peg O' My Heart," a delightful comedy, "Peg O' My Heart," is the play to be presented by the junior class of A. H. S. next Friday evening, December 16. The Junior play has become an annual event in high school dramatic circles and the class of 1933 is ambitious to present a production which will be worthy of the class and of the cast as well.

"Peg O' My Heart" offers exceptional opportunities for character work and serious study. The entire story of the comedy is built around the character of "Peg" and her personality is the predominant element during the entire three acts. Needless to say, it is a high-class play in every detail and one that will demand real acting if it is to be a success.

Realizing that they have a real task before them the juniors have been working daily to make the performance a success. Rehearsals are under the direction of John D. Burton, supervisor of dramatics at the high school, and the competition for parts is keen.

The advance seat sale will be launched at an assembly Monday morning, and the final rehearsals will be used to finish the play for the public performance on Friday evening.

WEDDINGS.

Turpin-Tillman. Word has been received from El Paso of the recent marriage of Miss Phyllis Turpin, formerly of this city, and W. J. Tillman of El Paso. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. E. Miller of 615 South Arno street. She has been employed as a long distance telephone operator at El Paso. Mr. Tillman is a brakeman on the Santa Fe.

Westerhausen-Diekmann. The elopement of Miss Irene Westerhausen and Bruno Diekmann to Bernalillo last Saturday was one of the most interesting events of the past week, no plans for their marriage having been intimated to their friends.

The couple were accompanied to Bernalillo by Miss Anna McGuire and Leo Murphy, who acted as bride's maid and best man, and by the Rev. Thomas Calkins, who performed the ceremony. Mrs. Diekmann is the daughter of Charles T. Westerhausen of 329 West Iron avenue. She was a high school senior who had been employed in Mr. Diekmann's office on Gold avenue for some time. Mr. Diekmann is a university alumnus, a Pi Kappa Alpha and is graduate manager of athletics for the university. He is one of the leading realtors of the city. The wedding party returned to Albuquerque on Saturday night and the newlyweds left by train for a honeymoon trip to Texas. They will make their home on University heights, where Mr. Diekmann has built a bungalow.

With Rabbi Bergman on the program as a speaker and George Geake, tenor, for musical numbers, the next meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club at the Dorris tea room on Tuesday evening promises to be one of the most interesting of the winter. A linen shower for the day nursery rooms which are being furnished to rent will be held at the dinner. All members of the club are asked to answer to the roll call with a dressier scarf, a sheet, or some (Continued on Next Page.)

four to revise the constitution. After the business session the hostess served her guests delicious refreshments. Those who attended the meeting were the Misses Clarita Sanchez, Virgie Romero, Mels Sedillo, Beatrice Candelaria, Lupita Montano, Margaret Castillo, Gertrude Sedillo, Josephita Armijo, Marian Sanchez and Mrs. Andres Vigil.

The Sew and So club was entertained on Wednesday afternoon by Miss Minnie Diehl at the home of Mrs. Walter Noneman on North Sixth street. The afternoon was spent with hand-work, conversation and the reading of New Mexico history. Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the afternoon. The club will postpone its regular meeting on the third Wednesday of December until December 28, when it will meet at the home of Mrs. E. B. Garcia.

ORGANIZATIONS.

P. E. O. met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. J. Horle at 401 Luna boulevard. The afternoon was devoted to the study of the national constitution of P. E. O. The roll call was responded to with Christmas recipes, which were recorded in gay little books prepared by the hostess. Guests for the afternoon were Miss Van Atta, a member from Salt Lake City, Miss Groudy and Mrs. Hayes of Noblesville, Ind., and Mrs. Horle. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. L. Horle at 828 North Fifth street. It will be a Christmas party.

The Spanish drama, "Juan Jose," which was presented by the Club Progresista and the league of the Sacred Heart church on Monday evening at the Crystal theater, drew a large house. The audience was composed chiefly of Spanish-Americans with a scattered few students of the beautiful language. The play went off smoothly, the actors carrying their parts with considerable feeling. The audience, however, seemed to consider the piece, which was of a serious nature, as highly entertaining, and applauded the actors enthusiastically at the most dramatic moments of the play. Juanita G. de Gonzales as Rosa made a pretty and vivacious heroine. Guadalupe A. Contreras in the title role played a heavy part with dramatic ability, and Jose Rangel as Peco, the villain of the piece, was a very handsome and engaging villain. Other members of the cast were Miss Melita Sedillo, Miss Silviana Vigil, Antonio Higuera, Alfredo Baca, Pablo Garcia, Magdalena Gonzales, Herman Tenorio, Feliciano Chavez, Manuel C. Garcia acted as prompter. A. Contreras was the director. The proceeds of the play will be used to install a heating plant in the new church of the Sacred Heart.

The election of officers and a track meet were the chief events at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening. A crowd of about 50 was in attendance. John D. Burton was re-elected president of the organization and Addison Moore was made vice president. John McD. Ogilvie, Horace Moore and Miss Mary Webster were re-elected secretary, treasurer and pianist, respectively, and James Burton and Hugh Cooper were chosen as ushers. When the track meet began the members were divided into groups representing such colleges as "Hard Knox" and "Doolittle." Medals were given for records in the "standing broad jump," "high backward jump," "shot put" and other track events. The loving cup, a tin can was presented to the winning college by Mr. Moore. The entertainment was arranged by the social committee headed by Miss Florence Moore. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

The regular monthly business and social session of the Phillips Bible class of the Lead Avenue Methodist Sunday school will be held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Whitesides at 521 South Walter street. All women members of the class have been asked to come at 8 o'clock in the afternoon to help the other members of the class. Another of the famous pot-luck suppers will be served at 8:30 o'clock.

The Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church met on Friday evening and elected the following officers: N. W. Pratt, president; J. S. York, first vice president; W. A. Field, second vice president; Gordon Halliway, third vice president; J. S. Dodson, secretary-treasurer; G. D. Shull, reporter. The class meets every Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building.

The annual Christmas tea and bazaar of the guild of the St. John Cathedral church will be held on Wednesday afternoon at the Hat Shop on South Fourth street. The affair is always notable as a successful social function and a successful sale, the accessibility and attractiveness of the shop drawing large crowds. All sorts of fancy work and home-cooking will be on sale. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. C. O. Clark, Mrs. L. H. Chamberlin, Mrs. L. B. Hessler, Mrs. J. D. Clark, and Mrs. Charles Quier. The tea will be open from 2 until 6 o'clock.

Election of officers of the Women's club of the Congregational church took place at the meeting at the home of Mrs. J. H. Collister on Thursday afternoon. The new officers are: Mrs. E. E. Coons, president; Mrs. S. L. Hernandez, vice president; Mrs. M. L. Laws, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Ernest Smith, financial aid; Mrs. H. L. Snyder, auditor; Mrs. R. W. Ellis, missionary. A social hour followed the business meeting.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. E. D. Sisk on North Twelfth street on Thursday afternoon. Remnants of the bazaar were sold and further plans were made to raise money for the new church annex. Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

In honor of the visiting members of the Frances E. Willard school board there will be a buffet lunch at the Y. W. C. A. recreation rooms Monday evening, tendered by a committee of local white ribboners. The sessions of the school board will be held afternoon and evening, and the dinner hour will be a refreshing recreation session. Guests will be by invitation and preparations made for 25 ladies. The committee in charge is Mrs. H. F. LaBelle, Mrs. R. C. Bangs, Mrs. Albert Morris and Mrs. H. L. Gales.

The Women's Missionary society of the church likewise held its election on Thursday afternoon, which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. C. A. Barnhart; vice president, Mrs. M. Johnson; secretary, Miss Lotta Petersen; treasurer, Miss Florence Olson. Miss Olson led the study hour.

U. N. M. SOCIETY

The Sigma Chi will hold "open house" this afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock on University hill. Their guests will be the faculty members, the fraternities and the dormitory students. Music, smokes and refreshments will be served to the guests. The Sig house has recently been redecorated.

Miss Edna Miller gave an informal tea yesterday afternoon to the Phi Mu pledges and active members at her apartment on West Roma avenue. The affair was scheduled for last Saturday afternoon, but was postponed on account of the mock football game. The Phi Mu girls are planning a unique Christmas party which will be given at the chapter house just before the holidays.

Plans for the annual Christmas tree frolic which will be staged by the student council in Rodney hall on December 17 are being completed rapidly. Each fraternity, sorority and dormitory will stage a stunt on the entertainment program. The Christmas tree will bear gifts to be distributed among the students and an all-university dance will follow the program. Rivalry among the several groups on the program for the best act is said to be high.

The co-eds of the university gave a dance last night at the girls' gymnasium, dispensing entirely with the masculine element. Half of the girls "went as" boys, calling for their ladies and making the dance programs. Women of the faculty were also guests present, some of them, it is rumored, dressing like men. Everything from golf knickers to swallow tails were in evidence among the escorts. Refreshments were served late in the evening. Miss Blanche Guley was in charge of the party.

The Alpha Delta fraternity gave a dance at the Masonic temple on Friday evening, about 60 couples being present. The ceiling of the big room was festooned in crepe paper streamers of blue and gold for the occasion. Dr. and Mrs. John D. Clark were the chaperones.

Y. W. C. A. CHAPLAIN CHRISTMAS PLANS.

The sophomore girls reserves met at the association rooms last Monday with their leader, Mrs. Graham. The story, "When Elizabeth Went Home," was read by Mrs. Graham and commented upon by the girls. Afterward plans for their Christmas party were discussed and the girls drew names for their gift-giving.

Tuesday afternoon Miss Seale met the fifth and sixth grade girls and supervised their play hour. Later in the evening the C. U. P. girls met for supper and heard the committee's reports on Christmas plans.

The Rose Garden girls came to the gymnasium on Wednesday afternoon and began work on a special drill which Mrs. Gekler is keeping for them especially. It may later be worked into their ceremonies.

The youngest girl reserves met on Thursday afternoon. The had weather with its accompaniment of cold kept some away, but the few had a good time anyway.

The usual play hour at the Indian school shows ball games to be the most popular.

After their usual supper at the association on Wednesday evening the Adelante club members decided to fill baskets for sick girls as their Christmas contribution.

Miss Knox, of the hospitality department, will attend to the distribution of these gifts.

After the club the Young Women's Council held its monthly meeting. Various club activities were discussed and plans made for the new year.

William and John Menaul and John Glessner entertained a large party of friends at a stag supper at the Menaul ranch on last Saturday evening. An oyster supper was served to the guests, after which talks were given by County Agent Reynolds, Reuben Perry, E. H. Becker, J. A. Glessner and Mr. Young. The guests were Roy Campbell, Mr. Bruner, James Beckwith, Albert Skinner, E. H. Becker, William Swayne, E. M. Hall, Fred Paige, George Rowland, E. H. Fee, H. A. Bassett, Victor Gilmore, Fred Eakes, J. P. Jacobson, Ned Robertson, Charles Shirk, W. G. Dorff, Albert Matthews, Mr. Coleman, Walter Girth, R. L. Fitzgerald, Robert Pomeroy, Henry Pomeroy, Mr. Lurch, Reuben Perry, H. A. Robinson, E. E. Booth, J. H. Waller, J. B. Reynolds, George Blumenshine, F. H. McMullen, Joe Yott, Laurence Philbrick, Paul Moxley, Garfield Smith, Charles Trimble, Ed Steiner, E. Hunt, Frank Shultz, C. M. Forsaker, Walter Pomeroy, J. Yount, Robert Dietz, Mr. Sells and Mr. Zeigler.

Miss Evangeline Perry entertained at a Sunday afternoon tea at her home north of the city last week. A dozen or more of the young society maids and bachelors were her guests for the most pleasant social time of the week.

Miss Elizabeth Kistler entertained at a bridge party at her home yesterday afternoon. Three tables of the young devotees of the high school society set were her guests.

FASHION NOTES.

The new long-waisted and full-skirted frocks, a la Espagnole, are rather unbecoming to most figures unless bodice and skirt are softened by drapery. One of the most trying yet particularly smart models has a bodice, plain as an underdervest in shape, and made of gold cloth. To this flat, straight bodice is attached below the waistline a very full skirt.

Some of the new fashions have paired sticks of amber, Rose and blue, gold and green are laid over the amber in the finest tracery of flowers and leaves.

Brown seems to be the flapper's own particular shade this season. A pretty little boarding school miss will wear for her campus togethery a salmon sweater of tan wool, with one of those distracting little cap-hats of stitched felt, with a long tassel—in tan to match the sweater—a skirt of brown and cream-checked worsted, brown woolen stockings, with brown calf sport shoes and a blouse of brown and white striped handkerchief linen. The final touch is a brown grosgrain neck ribbon, on which hangs the inevitable girl's charm. Just now the charm seems to be an ivory elephant.

Little Miss Six-year-old, who has to go out in all sorts of weather—to kindergarten, you know—has a cunning umbrella as gay in color and as ornamental of handle as her mamma's. Red is the color she prefers for the cover and the handle of white pyrograph has a bracelet ring at the end. Another smart style has a leather cover and carrying-strap, and the little umbrella may be furled smartly into a silk case.

Jade, teak and ivory, worn not separately, but altogether, are the Paris fancy now. When Miss Mary Graham arrived from Paris the other day she wore a mole-skin coat and cap and ornaments of jade, teak and ivory in the shape of bracelets, earrings and strings of beads around her throat. The combination of green jade, creamy ivory of rich dark teak is very beautiful.

Velvet wraps are fashionable this winter, and they come in semi-coat styles with soft silk linings and loose sleeves that do not crush the frock beneath. A wrap of this sort, of black velvet or of maroon velvet, with collar and cuffs of dark fur, will be practical and sumptuous, too. Still more practical are velvet or duvetyne wraps, which are correct for formal afternoon wear, but not so good for evening occasions, unless one has the excuse of having to travel in a train to get there.

WELL COUNTRY CAMP.

Albuquerque, N. M.

The friends and co-workers of the founder of Well Country camp have called a meeting to organize a Larry Glessbrook club to honor his memory and to carry out his plans. The camp will be built up as he planned it and will be a monument to him. It will be a work of love and will make a fitting monument for him who gave his life to make it into an institution for alleviating the condition of those suffering from tuberculosis.

Already there is a program being carried out to enlarge the camp, so there will be something concrete to bring before the newly formed club. There is immediate need for enlargement as the camp is full to overflowing with a long waiting list of patients eager to enter. Also with the present limited capacity the overhead per patient is unduly high.

Joe Golub has been confined to his bed for the week.

Misses Eusebia Johansen and Margaret Belstow were the supper guests of Paul Stephens and Kenneth Veitch at the camp on Thursday evening.

The three new additions to the circle around our fireplace are Henry Kelley, Burge, Wyo.; John Koston, Jackson, Mich.; and Joseph Gervacio, Albuquerque.

William Hanlan, Michael V. Balough, L. F. Childerson and A.

Gibson were visitors at the camp during the past week. The camp has been entertained during the past week by selections from Aldo, El Trovatore and Pagliacci by Joseph Gervacio. Mr. Gervacio is an Italian tenor from the Chicago Grand Opera company.

STATE COLLEGE

(Las Cruces.)

The freshman hop will be given Saturday evening in the college gymnasium by that class. Plans are being made by them to make this one of the most enjoyable occasions of the year.

Although in a cold drizzling rain the student battalion of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts went in open trucks to Las Cruces on Tuesday to see Marshal Foch when the Pennsylvania special stopped at the Las Cruces depot. Nearly all of Las Cruces turned out to the station and greeted the marshal. He came out on the platform of the train and said, "I am glad to see you all here today and I wish to thank you for your good work during the war. I also see many ex-servicemen here and I wish to thank them also." Dr. Robert Middlebrook of the college boarded the special and went into El Paso at the invitation of a member of the party.

A very enjoyable evening was had at the St. James parish house in Mesilla Park on Saturday evening when several of the young ladies of the community gave a dance. A goodly number of the college students attended.

A bazaar was given by the ladies of the Episcopal guild in the parish house in Mesilla Park on Saturday afternoon and the money made at the sale was for the college fund.

Plans for the Christmas entertainment have been made at the Mesilla Park Presbyterian church and practice is being held regularly. A big program will be given Saturday evening, December 24.

An attempt was made Monday evening to steal the automobile of Miss E. Bent from her garage in Mesilla Park.

Mrs. H. A. Yeast, stenographer in the extension department, was painfully injured when she was run down by a car on the camino real south of Mesilla Park on Wednesday evening. The two cars were passing and the lights of one car blinded the driver of the other so that he could not see and he ran into her. She was thrown from under the car and escaped being run over. At present she can not walk, but it is thought that she will recover.

School will close next Friday for the Christmas holidays so the boys and girls will have time to get to their homes before Christmas.

Miss Lucille Charles, formerly a student in the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, was married last Friday at her home in Alamogordo to Kenneth L. McClellan of Las Cruces, N. M., who is now working for the Westinghouse Electric company at East Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Chadwick of Mesilla Park have announced the birth of a son, James Earnest, at their home in Mesilla Park on Wednesday, December 7. Mrs. Chadwick is a graduate of this institution, class of 1919, and Mr. Chadwick is in training here under the auspices of the veterans' bureau.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy, snapped at the end of their jaunt.

James Kennedy, ninety-year-old Civil war veteran, and his sixth wife, a "mere girl" of twenty-six, have reached Kennedy's home at Dayton at the end of their novel honeymoon. The veteran's age did not prevent him and his bride from walking the 400 miles from her home in Wynona, Tenn., to Dayton after their marriage. Kennedy had been an inmate of the soldiers' home at Dayton with a pension of $50 a month. At Stearns, Ky., the couple were hit by a train as they sat down on the track to rest, but were uninjured.

The library benefit show given at the high school auditorium last Friday evening was attended by a very large number of Artesia people. About one hundred dollars was realized by means of this home talent vaudeville show. The troupe, consisting of Fred Cole, Alma Norton, Eunice Wells, Inez Morris, Phyllis Polk, Una Hutchins, Ethel Bullock, Regina Christopher, Lois Muncy, Emily Skeen and Loretta Linell, was directed by Mrs. Ruth Skeen. A large number of school children have been "shot" in the arm as a preventive against diphtheria. Several new cases have been reported during the past week among the school children.

In Hungary a belief exists that a fire caused by lightning can only be extinguished with milk; consequently the peasantry will allow houses and stables to burn to the ground rather than use water to put out the blaze.

Las Vegas

The wedding of Miss Nelle Parnell and Henry E. Blattman was solemnized on Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Parnell, on Seventh street. They were attended by Miss Elizabeth Parnell, sister of the bride, and Clarence Blattman, brother of the groom. Reverend Father A. Rabeyrolle performed the ceremony in the presence of only a few intimate friends. Before the ceremony Mrs. Frank Strass sang Gounod's "Ave Maria." The wedding march was played by Mrs. Colbert C. Root. An informal reception was held immediately after the wedding. The young couple left for Denver for a honeymoon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Parnell are popular here. A musical program is not complete unless her name is on it both vocal and instrumental, and Mr. Blattman is a promising young lawyer.

Mrs. John York and Miss Anne Matthews gave an informal bridge at which they announced the engagement of Miss Annie J. Carlson, a teacher in the city schools, to Lester Bush of San Francisco.

The Kiwanis club held its weekly luncheon meeting on Wednesday noon at the Castaneda hotel. The affair proved to be a "tin shower" for the president, Henry E. Blattman, who was to be married that evening. After a short musical program was given by Dr. Henry and Dr. Pittman, Mrs. Colbert C. Root played a wedding march and a bride was daintily put on the table in front of Mr. Blattman. THE MAN OF GALILEE.

It seems especially appropriate, as the season approaches when we will celebrate the birth of the Man of Galilee, that the wonderful picture of that title should be available to us here in Albuquerque. It may be seen at Strong Brothers' furniture store.

The emotional effect upon the reverent witness of the agony of Gethsemane is remarkable. One feels himself alone with the Savior, a sole witness of the agony of that night.

A narrow gulch, with steep and rocky walls, creates the impression of seclusion—of hiding His grief for the world, from the world. There, alone, except for you, He pleads with the Father for His fellow man. As you look down the gulch, past His kneeling body, you look out through the steep canyon upon the plains beyond. The great world is only a step away from all this solitary grief.

The Master kneels before a great rock. His body is thrown forward upon its flat table. His arms are extended full length upon its surface. His gripping, clasped hands show the intensity of His emotion. The veins of His arms, standing out like whipcords show the agony of His soul. His head, sunk low between His arms, shows the abandon of His grief. His white shoulders show the depth of His dejection. The folds of His white robes emphasize the effect of the scene. His tangled hair shows His forgetfulness of all save His heart-breaking problem.

In silence and sympathy the onlooker gazes, with a sense, almost of guilt, at the infringement upon the privacy of the Master's grief. Instinctively the departing tip-toe their way out, that this prostrate figure may be undisturbed.

It is a wonderful picture.

NOT TRUE.

The Nation's Business carries a graph in a recent issue, illustrating in black, the areas in the United States where economic conditions are the worst. It includes Albuquerque in the dark area.

This is untrue. While the cattle and sheep men of New Mexico have been the greatest sufferers from existing conditions, and our agricultural regions have received the same blow suffered in the agricultural regions of the United States, the fact still remains that Albuquerque has felt the effects of the depression as little as any city in the United States, unless it be a city on the Pacific Coast.

Our banks have but a small per cent of their deposits tied up in agricultural or livestock loans made direct to the producer. Most of the paper of this class carried here is re-discount paper, carried as an accommodation to small country banks. While this assistance "freezes" a considerable amount of assets, it does not involve a direct responsibility.

The Agency of the War Finance Corporation is procuring the assumption by the corporation of money of these loans, thereby gradually improving the money situation.

Albuquerque is dependent but little upon these industries. The effect of their troubles upon us is rather reflex than direct.

While we have a few less healthseekers here this winter than in usual, the decrease is not serious. The sawmills are in operation; the Santa Fe is gradually filling its shops, and the new shops are nearing completion. The Santa Fe has told Albuquerque that 800 additional houses will be required for the homes of the new employs brought here for the new engine-repair shops.

While it would be insoucious to insist that Albuquerque is as well off as during the high tide of prosperity, the truth is that we are comparatively well situated, with conditions certain to get better rapidly.

There is every reason for optimism about the present and the future. Albuquerque is due for a big move forward. The man who sacrifices now in order to get from under will regret it greatly in the months just ahead.

MAIL EARLY!

The approaching holiday season is heralded by the usual request of the postoffice department that the public do what it can to aid in the prompt handling of mail matter which will be increasing in volume each day from now until Christmas.

In sending gift packages two things are important if disappointment is not to be invited—careful wrapping and mailing as soon as possible. Holiday package mail may be marked to indicate it is not to be opened until Christmas, and this permission should result in an increase in early mailing.

It is a mistake for any person to feel that the small amount of mail which he sends does not delay the transmission of mails, but the aggregate of mail matter in a community severely tests the facilities of the postoffice for each holiday season.

Even if an individual does not take the broader view of making his contribution toward the handling of mail, he should think of the personal advantages in obtaining the best results in his own shipments by turning them over to the postal force early enough to avoid the inevitable rush of the holiday season, thereby having reasonable assurance of prompt delivery.

USE OF SLANG.

The tendency with which some school teachers look on the use of slang, as reported in various interviews, may shock those of an age to have obtained their idea of correct English from the McGuffey series of readers. It is true that the selections composing those readers was of an era where in the language was at variance with what is heard today. It may have been stilted but it did not corrupt the mind of the pupil. In fact many persons got from the old Fifth and Sixth readers their knowledge of good literature. There was not a word resembling slang in the books. It is true that slang is expressive. That is why it is used. Yet much of it quickly passes out of use because it is overworked.

It is stated that "cut it out" carries more meaning than to say "stop" or "desist." Much depends on what language one has been hearing. If one has been reared on slang it will convey a meaning that better English will not have. Great proficiency in the use of slang may be entertaining in a sense, but it will not be an indication in itself of profound knowledge. While many slang words find a way into the language those which have real merit will force their adoption without due encouragement. Slang words and expressions are sufficiently numerous without production being stimulated in the schools. But all of us use more or less of it.

THE MORE REASON.

Albuquerque may possess less current funds this winter than last. The people may be forced to spend their money a little less freely this Christmas. In contemplating your curtailments you should not begin by cutting off your Christmas charity toward those worse off than yourself. Talk it over in the home. Bring each to a state of mind where he will accept cordially a little less this Christmas. Then help those needing help out of the saving. This is the decent attitude. Let us have no grist-stricken child in Albuquerque on Christmas morning because of an empty stocking.

Old clothes can take the place of much money. What is given cuts down what must be purchased. Be sure and have your package on your doorstep by 1:30 this afternoon. The Elks' club has 39 automobiles to make the collection of these packages. A little financial tightness is the more reason for unusual thought and sane liberality.

Lenine says he will not be bound by anything the conference on the limitation of armaments does, but we fail to see what difference it makes.

A GOOD AMERICAN.

It has long been apparent that Ferdinand Foch is a good Frenchman, but it only now comes to light that he is a good American, too. At least he is teaching the best kind of Americanism. Note what he said by way of advice to French war brides who called upon him in St. Marie, Idaho, the other day:

"You must never forget France, but you must love your new home and honor your husbands."

That is the thing which has made of many foreign-born men and women the most stalwart of Americans. They have remembered their old homes and have loved their new, and loving their new homes they have given it all the devotion that America requires of those who would call this land their own.

There is not even the hint of a hyphen in the advice of this eminent Frenchman to those of his nationality who have adopted the United States as their home. How different it is from the mouthings of those pestilential parasites of the Germany underclass type who caused such a disturbance a few years ago.

ONE CAUSE OF FAILURE.

The Helsingfors correspondent of the London Morning Post sent his paper a bit of Russian news which is far out of the ordinary, and without a word of comment, which is unusual in foreign journalism.

The news may confirm the popular impression that the soviet government is far too crude in its ideas of practical politics to hope for success in competition with more enlightened nations. The Morning Post's correspondent reports the sentence at a trial just concluded in which 51 attaches of the state funds department were the principals charged with the theft of state property. All were found guilty and 19 sentenced to death by shooting. The others, one a former president of a revolutionary tribunal, were sent to prison for varying terms, some long, some relatively short.

Citizens of advanced nations will smile at the primitive notions of the soviet authorities who seem to expect that men selected for public service must be honest enough not to steal the public's property for private gain. This may be excellent in theory but can not be expected to contribute to the upbuilding of successful governments based upon the principles of practical politics.

If this idea runs very far into the soviet system of administration little else would be needed to account for the lack of success, according to western opinions.

VERSE OF TODAY

A MAN GOES BY.

Where his sure feet pass
The crowds are strangely thinned—
They are the furrowed grass
And he is the wind.

Many go with the thought
Of their footfall's little beat,
Wearing their own lives caustic
Like shackles on their feet.

But he is disinterested
In feet and their fevered way;
There is motive in his tread
That was not shaped from clay.

Thresholds may make him small,
But the wind is in his feet—
Dominant, impersonal—
As he walks upon a street.

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

DO IT NOW.

(From the Cincinnati Enquirer.)
Christmas is rather near at hand. Here is the annual admonition: Do your shopping now. If you have not already done so, begin to make your purchases today. The pleasure will be greater and you will assist to keep business moving. That is a material consideration this year.

It is more comfortable to shop during the early days of December than during the mussy, grab-all days just before the great festive day. Stocks are fresher, clerks more efficient and helpful.

The dealers are ready. They are telling you through the papers and window displays what you should most wish to know. Steady, normal business makes everybody content and happy. It helps the merchants and the salespeople. It helps every citizen.

With Thanksgiving and its pleasant memories and associations out of the way the entire Christmas world is ready for the greatest festive week of the year. All the nations go happiness hunting through the pre-Christmas days. Buy and lay away your remembrances. Begin today. Keep it up every day. The offerings this year certainly should carry a wide appeal. Everything useful and beautiful is here in abundance. Prices generally are reasonable. Business should be good. Help make it good during the next few weeks.

CANNED KINGS.

The man who's once held down a throne is good for nothing else, and wears a brass, machine-made hat! Oh, no one can be safe and sane, and long to hold a job like that. Once kings could sit around in state and watch the palace footmen scurry, but that bright day has pulled its freight, and monarchs now are cheap as dirt. Once kings were proud and haughty gents, with courtiers kneeling at their feet, but now they look like thirty cents, and wish they had enough to eat. Far better say five cords of elm, with molasses on the real brown, than try again to rule a realm, the way all kingdoms stack up now.

RATON

The annual meeting of the City Federation of Women's clubs, which was held in the public library last Thursday evening, was very interesting and successful. The meeting was called together by the president, Mrs. Pearl Kellogg, and there followed interesting reports of the year's work from the officers and heads of departments. Plans were discussed for future work and it is hoped to make this a most profitable year. The appointments of heads of departments and committees will be made soon and the program planned for the coming year. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Pearl Kellogg, president; Mrs. Paul Myers, vice president; Mrs. E. E. Thaxton, secretary; Miss Evelyn Shuler, treasurer; Miss Clara Coulter, corresponding secretary.

Thursday's meeting of the Rotary club of Raton it was decided to pay a Christmas call on the boys of the State Reform school at Springer in recognition of last year's holiday remembrance. Each boy will be the recipient of a personal gift from some Rotarian. The visit will be made on Christmas eve. Last year's visit resulted in much good to the lonesome lads.

A report received concerning Billie Beck, who for the past many months has been under treatment at the Mayo Brothers' hospital in Rochester, Minn., is very favorable. He is feeling fine and recently walked the distance of six hospital beds on his crutches, with some support from the nurses on each side, holding the crutches and helping him to balance. Beck was shot in the back while trying to prevent a holdup in one of the local pool rooms.

The junior and senior classes of the Colfax county high school will give a play entitled, "A Pair of Sixes," at the Shuler auditorium on Thursday, December 15. The proceeds are to be divided among the two classes.

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. I. H. Callahan and Miss Marion Littell entertained at auction bridge at the Seaboard hotel. The rooms were beautifully decorated with red and green, suggestive of the Christmas holidays. Nine tables were occupied and a very pleasant afternoon was spent by the guests. A two-course luncheon was served late in the afternoon. The favors were rosebuds filled with nuts.

Miss Elvie Fraser, teacher of the Arabian class of young married women of the Baptist church, delightfully entertained them at her home last Saturday afternoon. One of the features of the program was a Christmas tree on which was a gift for each guest. Each guest contributed a present of toys or other gifts which will be sent to the Baptist Orphans' home at Portales. The ladies had a social hour playing games and visiting during the time they were enjoying refreshments.

The Men's Bible class of the Methodist church will be held in the basement of the church Wednesday evening at 7:30. L. S. Wilson is teacher of the class. A program has been arranged and after it there will be refreshments. A very cordial invitation is extended to all men members and friends of the church to attend and enjoy a good time.

The general aid of the First Methodist church will meet in the basement of the church on Wednesday afternoon. Division No. 2 will serve refreshments. All members of the various divisions are invited and urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Shaw entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner party Sunday afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Yates and daughter, Mary Jane, who left for Kansas City, where they will make their future home. Mr. Yates has been county agricultural agent for the past year. Others who enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw were Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hughes.

The Latest Essex —The Coach

Five Passenger

$1495

F. O. B. Detroit

Closed Car Comforts Open Car Performance

All men who have not felt able to afford closed car comforts will welcome the Essex Coach. We are showing it today.

Come see how well it meets your desires. It is a new type. It has beauty, utility and a price attraction such as no closed car has ever had.

Ideal for Business and Family

It is light and compact. Business and professional men will appreciate its ease of driving and economy of operation. It is also amply large to meet the family need in both city and country service.

In the city it is ideal for shopping and in making calls where a car easy to handle, easy to turn and easy to park is important. Women admire it for those qualities as well as for its beauty and the high standard of its comfort and fittings.

In the country it may be driven over rough roads the same as an open touring car. It is sturdy in chassis and body. Squeaks and rattles are not likely to develop. Door squeaks are prevented by four hinges and fittings for each door that hold them tight and solid at all times.

On the New and Improved Essex Chassis

The new Essex is a smoother, better car in many ways than those earlier models men praise so highly. In addition to the ease with which it carries the Coach body, it also assures long service practically free from annoyance and maintenance expense.

The Coach was built for those who demand such qualities. You will be pleased with it.

ROAD CONDITIONS

The New Mexico Auto Club, state headquarters at 210 North Fourth street, this city, has issued the following on the road conditions in the state:

The Santa Fe Trail from Raton Pass to El Paso is in very good travelable shape, a little rough in the vicinity of Wagon Mound and Glorieta. Between Santa Fe and El Paso, the road as a whole is fair to good.

The two roads west from Los Lunas, one via Gallup and the other via Socorro and Springville are about on a par, some features in favor of one and some of the other, but travel need not hesitate going either way until the winter storms break, which is usually about December 1st, after which period, travel can take the southern route and avoid all snow.

The east and west road from Amarillo and Roswell to a connection with the northern and southern highways are all very travelable and now at their best and will be until the winter storms set in.

Quite considerable new road work is being done on these main state roads and which at times require short rough detours, but by careful driving should not inconvenience any one.

The New Mexico Auto Club will always bulletin any definite road conditions at their headquarters office and are also prepared to answer telegrams or letters from all portions of the state.

AMERICAN RACING MOTORCYCLISTS SCORE VICTORIES ABROAD

Now that the motorcycle racing season is in full swing abroad, American made machines are coming in for their usual share of the victories. In the Webb Memorial Reliability trial, an annual affair of great importance in South African motorcycle circles, American machines took the first three places, the Harley-Davidson winning first and third and the Indian, second. The trial was a very difficult one, being held over 250 miles of the worst roads in the country. The course extended from Johannesburg to Rustenburg and return.

American machines scored another big victory in South Africa when the Harley-Davidson captured first, second and fourth place in both the solo and sidecar classes in the strenuous 202-mile race held recently from Cape Town to Salthanna Bay and return.

THE TIRE INDUSTRY WILL ADOPT NEW ADJUSTMENT PLAN

The Rubber Association of America, Inc., announces that a movement is well on the way to adoption throughout the tire industry to eliminate the chief evils which have for years caused loss to consumers, dealers and manufacturers through improper claims for adjustment, and manufacturers and dealers are working in harmony to produce the desired result.

Hereafter manufacturers will consider alleged defective tires only on the basis of general appearance and the condition in which they are returned by the customer. No claims will be considered unless a standard claim form is executed by the tire owner.

A warranty is to be printed on price lists, tags and stickers accompanying tires, etc., much in the same manner as the former so-called guaranty was used. That portion of the warranty that covers the change in policy toward adjustments reads as follows:

"We do not guarantee automobile tires for any specific mileage, but every pneumatic automobile tire bearing our name and serial number is warranted by us to be free from defects in workmanship or material."

"Tires claimed to be defective will be received only when all transportation charges are prepaid, and when accompanied by this company's claim form duly filled out and signed by owner."

If, upon examination, it is our judgment that the direct cause of the failure of the tire to render satisfactory service is attributed to faulty material or workmanship, we will, at our option, either repair the tire or replace it for a charge which will compensate for the service rendered by the returned tire, based upon its general appearance and condition."

BATTERY "DOPES" OF GENERAL INTEREST

There are so many wonderful things being done every day that when a man says he has a solution of very, very secret nature, with some peculiar metal in it, which puts new life into a battery, nine out of ten people are ready to believe him without question.

The whole scheme of battery doping seems so plausible that dozens have been led to start in business manufacturing "dopes" of various sorts.

Some of these battery medicines are really harmless, and the worst that can be said about them is that they do no good—except that they relieve the car owner of five or six dollars which he might invest in gas, tires, oil, or something else more useful to the car. There are others that do actual harm by taking active material away from the battery plates and by introducing foreign substances into the battery solution.

As a result of a recent checkup on the subject of battery dopes, the Willard Storage Battery company found that all makers of standard well known batteries are agreed upon the fact that the only satisfactory battery solution is diluted pure sulphuric acid of the proper density. Emphasis should be placed on the word "pure" for any foreign substances are liable to cause trouble in the battery. There is nothing, say these manufacturers, that will improve upon the pure solution that is put into the battery by the manufacturers and their authorized service stations.

LAUDERBAUGH GIVES HIS VIEWS ON THE GOOD TIMES COMING

High in the ranks of optimists during this reconstruction period, Guy Lauderbaugh of the Hudson-Essex Motor company, says: "The handwriting on the wall indicates better business every day."

"Judge for yourself," he continues, "by our sales during the past few weeks, which include Essex touring cars to Arthur Prager, Ludwig Hild and D. D. Miller; Essex roadsters to E. J. Butler and Mr. Atchison, an Essex cabriolet to Ed T. Chase and an Essex sedan to L. C. Hild of Las Vegas. We also sold two Hudson seven-passenger touring cars. The purchasers are V. P. Harrington of this city and Tony Yurlec of Gallup."

"In our used car department we are rebuilding many cars, taken in exchange for new ones, and our personal guarantee of satisfaction finds a ready market for them."

"The so-called 'good old days' are with us, and our only problem is to take advantage of the business waiting for live wires to take their share of it."

HOW TO BUY A GOOD USED CAR; ONE SHOULD KNOW

With the dollar buying more automobile value in used cars than ever before in the history of the industry and the market well supplied with rare and tempting bargains, the prospective purchaser will undoubtedly welcome a few words of advice on how to select a used car.

"There are just a few facts for the motorist to remember if he is to take full advantage of the extraordinary buying opportunities the used car market now affords," says Harry M. Jewett, president of the Palace-Detroit Motor Car company. "While it is generally known that now is the time to buy used cars because the values offered are the greatest ever known thanks to pre-war conditions and price readjustments, yet disappointment will result unless the purchaser remembers three things

"First, the car selected must be one made by a reputable manufacturer whose product can be relied on. It must be a good car in its class. Second, the condition of the car must be known. The purchaser must be sure of what he is buying and whether it will operate. Third, and perhaps the most important

Who will be the winners in The Journal's big gift-giving campaign? Who will ride in the handsome motor cars? Who will be presented with the beautiful Studebaker Sedan? These questions are the principal topic of interest in Albuquerque and vicinity. Only a few more days and the questions will be answered.

Scores of predictions have been offered—palmists and exponents of the occult science have been consulted by some in an endeavor to obtain some inkling of what the outcome will be. But the final result is as much in doubt as ever.

In frenzied effort to eliminate as much of this doubt as possible, candidates all over the Journal territory are scouring the communities ceaselessly. From the waking hours of morning until the day is done, these ambitious candidates are fighting the battle courageously, never pausing but keeping busily at it so that the tide will sweep toward them.

Such stirring scenes as this, with such eager candidates filled with the spirit of conquest, have never had their equal in this section. The race for supremacy is rushing forward nip and tuck.

Many of those who apparently have little chance, if they are to be judged by their present vote standing, promise to spring such surprises at the end, as will send the too confident ones down to defeat. Over-confidence is the biggest handicap under which a candidate can work. This unwelcome handicap causes more regret than anything else in a campaign of this kind. The only way to be sure of winning is to spend every minute scouring for subscriptions. Perseverance is the only winning quality. And see what there is at the top of the "ladder of success" for the plucky ones—luxurious automobiles worth as much as $2,295 and hundreds of dollars in gold and silver. These prizes will make their owners proud. No luxury compares with the delight of a really fine and costly automobile and these dandy cars that will be given away stand out with radiant splendor.

The big schedule of credits in effect until Saturday night, Dec. 17, and the 100,000 EXTRA FREE VOTES offer coupled with the second payment schedule, makes a rapid rise in votes easily possible. One candidate said yesterday that she was making a thorough canvass of every subscriber she had previously secured and thus far her returns averaged better than fifty percent.

Determined methods are being brought into play to make an exhaustive "clean-up" of the territory. Candidates are darting hither and yon, ever in quest of votes. Make these days the most active of any that have gone before, that VICTORY may crown your efforts. The BIG CREDIT SCHEDULE points the way—to delay is to lose the splendid chances that are now yours. The time is short—only eight working days until the end of the "second period"—any candidate can make himself a sure winner in that time. Get started early tomorrow morning and when the sun sets on the final day you will be able to say that your work was a mighty effort, well put forth.
