RELICS FOUND IN EXCAVATION

Zuni New Mexico, Aug. 1.—A life size figure of a house priestess, many hundred years old, was unearthed near this place by Frank W. Hodge, who is in charge of the excavation of the ancient village of Hawikuh.

The priestess was found buried under the ruins of the stone walls of the town and was removed with the greatest of care. The head was made of terra cotta and the body of straw, with a covering of baked clay. The figure is being prepared for shipment to the Museum of the American Indian, Heye Foundation, of New York City, under whose auspices the excavations are being conducted at Hawikuh.

Another find uncovered by Mr. Hodge and his associates is two bundles of prayer sticks covered with yucca fibre.

The Zuni diggers helping Mr. Hodge on the work became very much excited about the prayer sticks and said prayers to them. One of the old Indians said a prayer, claiming the sticks were his fathers'. All took pains to breathe in the sacred spirit from the sticks.

These prayer sticks have their prototypes in use in the Zuni village today, and are very carefully guarded by four priests, and are used in their most sacred ceremonies. They are known as "et-onay" in the Zuni language.

Buried in a Sacred Jar

The prayer sticks were buried in a sacred water jar, beautifully decorated and covered with a slat of stone. The water jar had a hole in the bottom, or was "killed" as are many of the jars being unearthed which are found buried with food for the use of the spirit in the next world.

Many hundred bones have been found, some with interesting articles of food and raiment, while all manner of pottery, stone, axes, awls, knives, arrow heads, dishes and utensils are daily uncovered.

In the part of the village now being excavated, many articles of iron, copper, bronze, glass beads, and china plates are found, showing that these ruins were occupied during or after the advent of the Spaniards.

Associated with Mr. Hodge are E. E. Corbin, who is the photographer of the party, and makes careful photographic records of all the findings before and after their removal from the debris of the houses, and Jesse Nussbaum, who uncovered the ancient church and monastery. Nussbaum was especially fitted for this work by his experience in uncovering the old church near Pecos, N. M., not far from Santa Fe.

Buildings Were Burned

The excavating of the church and monastery shows that these buildings were burned, as all the timber of the roof and floor as well as the carved wood beams forming the steps leading up to the altar, are charred and burned.

The monastery was a large affair of many rooms and is supposed to have contained the water supply of the village. The water has not been discovered as yet and its location lies buried in the ruins, perhaps an eternal mystery.

The excavations of the present summer are made especially to determine facts about the structural features of the village. In many places it was verified that there were at least three villages, one built upon the other and separated one from the other in its existence by a lapse of time covering a good many years. In digging down in the houses the excavators have come upon the roofs of previous houses and in the floor depth of these roofs of still other houses have been discovered.

Unable to Estimate Life

Mr. Hodge was unable to estimate the age at the oldest life at Hawikuh or pre-Hawikuh, for that was the name of the village that the Spaniards found there when they came in the sixteenth century. But there is scarcely any doubt about the oldest houses dating back about 1,000 years.

The finding of so many burned houses has verified the Zuni tradition of the place being raided by the Apaches in the seventeenth century. But even though the pueblo was buried and virtually destroyed by the murderous Apaches, the work done this summer has shown that the floor beams, fireplaces and seats, as well as many of their utensils, are still in a good state of preservation.

Hawikuh is closely linked with the early history of this country as the place where Coronado brought his army of young Spanish blue bloods and introduced the first sheep, cattle, goats, and horses to the southwest. The Zunis attempted to kill Coronado here but he was saved from death by Captain Cardenas, who afterwards discovered the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

From this place Coronado wrote his famous description of the people and customs of the Indians to the victory of Spain. Others who visited this region were Custazo de Sosa and Antonio de Espejo in 1583, while Juan de Onate was here twice, once in 1598 and again in 1604 and 1606.

Onate's Visit Recorded

Onate's visit is recorded on the south wall of El Morro national monument, near Ramah, where he left the inscription in which he said he passed by the place in 1605 on his return from discovering the sea of the south or the Gulf of Lower California.

On inscription rock is also recorded the fact of the visit of Don Francisco Manuel de Silva Nieto, who was the governor of New Mexico after Onate, and it was Silva Nieto who took the first priests to Hawikuh and established the mission there in 1629.

There the old church was built and the monastery, the ruins of which were uncovered last summer by Mr. Hodge's party. Friar Martin Arvide and Rogue Figueredo were the first missionaries here. Father Letardo followed them but was murdered by the Zunis on the 22nd of February, 1623, in front of the church when he sailed forth in his priestly robes to chide the Zunis for late attendance at mass. He was shot by their arrows and scalped, and his scalp was worn in their ceremonial dances for many years afterwards.

There is an inscription on inscription rock which bears out the Spanish history on this killing. It is signed by one Lujan, who was sent from the garrison in Santa Fe and relates how he passed the rock on the 23rd day of March, 1625, to avenge the death of Friar Letardo.

Zunis Fled to the Mountains

In 1680 was the pueblo rebellion when all the Indians decided to overthrow the Spanish people and their hated religion. They were fairly successful but the Zunis fled to the top of Corn Mountain, which stands just south of Black Rock Indian Agency near Zuni, and they did not return to take up their abode below or in any of the villages below until they were induced to come down by Antonio de Vargas, who reconquered the entire country for the king of Spain in 1688. His work is also recorded on inscription rock.

Inspection rock lies forty miles east of Hawikuh, but on the old traveled road between the Zuni villages and Acoma which was the closest settlement on the east.

Hawikuh was abandoned after the Apache raids in 1670, but was re-occupied for a time. It is one of the biggest and most important ruins in the country and in uncovering it the Museum of the American Indian is rendering a scientific service of great value to history and archaeology.

This is Mr. Hodge's fourth summer at Hawikuh. His party will spend one more summer on these ruins before a complete report will be made on their findings.

It is a place well worth seeing

A SERMON BY "BROTHER JOE"

A Sermon Delivered by Rev. Joel Frank Hedgpeth, Formerly of Carlshad.

From the Christian Advocate, the organ of the Methodist Church, South, the following sermon, by "Brother Joe," a beloved pastor of the local Methodist church, is taken, and will, no doubt, be read with pleasure and profit by the many friends and admirers of that popular preacher in this city and county:

"I am ready to be offered; and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness."

2 Tim. iv. 6-8.

This is, at one and the same time, an epitome of Paul's life and character, with a concise summary of his conception of life. Having reached the summit, he looks back on the way whither he has come. And the end was vantage point to Paul—not a valley and shadow full of mist, but a serene and sunlit height from which he clearly sees and calmly judges the issues of life. So in this passage, without vanity, without excuse, in a trenchant syllabus he sums up his own life and achievement, then forecasts the struggles and conquests of every brave, true, and struggling one who shall follow this way after him.

To this unique old hero here was not a deathbed adieu submerged in sighs and dripping with tears, but a ringing valedictory on the occasion of his graduation from earthly hardships to that celestial university beyond the veil.

Notice that he says nothing of death; rather does his terse resume throb with the pulsations of a larger life, breaking its bands and scorning its futile limitations. And what we make this a study of life and not death? After all, death is not the wisest study of the wisest heart, but rather the limitless opportunities and potencies of God's unmeasured and immeasurable life both here and hereafter.

Thus looking back on a life marred by mistakes, red with the blood of sacrifice, dim with the tears of suffering, sometimes dark with doubts and fears, the toils and trials of a long, long, trail, Paul tells us of what life means to him. And what did it mean to him?

1. Life is a conflict. "I have fought the good fight," says Paul. Time is the battle field of the eternities. To every one who shuns the wrong and strives to maintain the highest in ideals and conduct life is indeed a combat.

Well sang the sweet singer of other days:

"Must I carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease,
While others fought to win the prize,
And sailed through bloody seas?"

And right heroically does he answer his own question:

"Sure I must fight if I would reign.

Increase my courage, Lord;
I'll bear the toil, endure the pain,
Supported by Thy Word."
Not enmity toward my fellows,
Not hatred of the good, green world that God has made, not pugnacious activity toward those who go wrong. The great field is the inward fight.

Paul had left many a battle field behind, but none where the scars were deeper nor the victory greater than those where he struggled with the forces that raged within. He who conquers self conquers all. When the kingdom of selfhood is won, every principle is won. He who is regnant in will and purpose over the desires of the lower and lesser self, that one is king and ruler indeed, be he ever so poor and unknown. "I'm greater than all outward things."

Would I but claim my own:
Shame on the slavery that brings
My self-reproach and bitter stings
For evil deeds upgrown.

If slave I be, I am self-bound,
To passion, pride or pelf;
No power, the universe around
Hath God revealed or wisdom found.

To do me harm but self."
2. Life is a journey.
You remember some one has said: "Life is a thoroughfare, not a terminal."

"I have finished my course," cries the exultant old footracer as the goal appears in sight. This same Paul wrote once before: "I count not myself to have attained, . . . but forgetting the things that are behind, . . . I press forward." Christianity is not any one experience alone; it is the sum of every experience that reveals God in me, for me, with me, and beyond me. It is not a moment's fleeting impulse; it is the very essence of every impulse and inspiration that is God-born, or that returns God-but strange to say it is visited by very few people. Hawikuh lies on a good road, but twelve miles southwest of Zuni, and close to Ojo Caliente, about forty miles from St. Johns, Arizona, and can be reached easily from Springer, Arizona, St. Johns, Gallup, or Albuquerque.

ward, projected into the continuity of every day's existence. He who can rest in the fading glow of an experience a dozen or score of years gone has but stale bread and stagnant water. It is not alone the princely and pathetic prophet of Nazareth that tears down the kingdoms of evil and ceases the living stone of God's eternal temple into a vital tie. It is that same Christ, dwelling in the hearts, molding the wills, and directing the energies of mankind through all ages, with the same power of love and the same might of godliness that hallowed the hills of Judea and stilled the tempest on Galilee.

"There are so many hills to climb upward,
I often am weary for rest;
But he who appoints me my path-way
Knows just what is needful and best:

And so in his word he has promised,
Thy strength it shall be as the day,
And the toils of the road will seem nothing

When I get to the end of the way."

3. Life is a trust.

"I have kept the faith." Can we say it? Can America, gone wild mad after pleasure, wasting her resources, "spending her money for that which is naught"—can America look up to the Giver of her every good, the Maker of her national greatness and say, "We have kept the faith?" Paul was not referring to some standard of orthodoxy. He laid no claim to perfect agreement in all things with all his brethren. In fact he and Peter, and he and John Mark disagreed most sharply. He was saying: "I have been faithful to the trust committed to my charge." Ah, but how this age and this race needs to realize more deeply, more pungently, more heart-breakingly that time, money, influence, and intellect, are treasures that the King hath given into our keeping. We are stewards of Heaven's highest blessings of time and eternity. How are we who are the sons and heirs of the past inheritors of the greatness of other days—how are we administering this heavenly estate?

4. Life lived as a conflict, a development, and a trust becomes an "offering unto God," and will receive a "crown of life." The mother, the missionary, the preacher, the teacher, are continually offering up their lives as a "living sacrifice," that men may become what God has dreamed. O, but we need more of this kind of "oblations," more pouring forth of all our powers for God and his kingdom.

More personal work, less professional and traditional teaching and preaching. Our work is not a "profession," it is a vocation. We are not mere "professors of religion." There are too many professors of that sort already whose curriculum is one of selfishness and whose graduates are but illiterates in the science of service. The mere repetitions of well-worn formulas, however beautiful, will become lifeless and mechanical unless warmed into life by a burning heart until they shall glow with freshness and ring with truth. Conventional truths may be carved into forms as lovely as a wax flower, but truth, made vital in human hearts and wills, will be as fragrant as a wild rose.

What matters if our stately forms and decent methods be as faultless as a marble shaft? The world needs the truth that shall be as strong as the foundations of the hills. Such a life cannot fail of reward. O, God, give us a Church that is pouring out its wealth, baptized in its own heart blood as an "offering unto God."

And what is "a crown of life?" A crown is a sign of victory, the emblem of royalty; it belongs to him who hath overcome—and here is the kingdom where the "divine right of kings" is recognized, for He hath said: "Ye shall be kings and priests unto God." I do not know all that the Apostle meant by his glowing figure. It will be crown enough for me to see my shattered models made perfect by that deathless Artisan, who left for me an ideal yonder on Calvary. I ask no brighter diadem, no more radiant crown than to have my dreams of God, and Christ, and of heaven and home, come true in that "land of morning dawn." I ask no more regal privilege than to be able to enter into that blessed awakening, when the dream of life is over, and the reality of Christ's unclouded presence shall shine forever on me.

OIL WELL SOUTH OF CITY
HAMPERED IN DRILLING
OPERATIONS.

Work at the Blue Bird oil well No. 1, below town, has been hampered some this week owing to the fact of them having no water. The water in the canal having been turned off the first of the week. However, the company expected to drill a well on its holdings, sooner or later, and this week has started a drill to go after that fluid. It is thought that water can be secured at a depth of about 85 feet, and when the water well is completed the work of drilling will be resumed.

H. B. Johnson, a former business man of this city now living in Roswell, came down from there yesterday on business.

PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR

The unsanitary and unsightly condition of the alleys, vacant lots and many business and resident properties, has been brought to the attention of the City Council by the Carlshad Commercial Club.

The American Legion is making preparations to hold a Carnival during the week of August 17th that will bring hundreds of visitors to our city.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, J. D. Hudgins, Mayor of the City of Carlshad, by authority vested in me by the ordinances of the said city, do hereby proclaim, set apart, fix and designate August 12, 13 and 14, 1920, as CLEAN UP DAYS.

You will, therefore, in conformity herewith, cut and remove all weeds, pick up all cans, paper and other refuse, deposit same in a convenient place in the alley adjacent to your property, where it will be hauled away by the City without charge.

I especially call the attention of the business men to these conditions in the business district.

Let us co-operate for a bigger and cleaner Carlshad, more truly representative of our claim for the CITY BEAUTIFUL.

J. D. HUDGINS,
August 6th, 1920. Mayor.

OTIS LOCALS.

Mrs. Vernon Middleton left Thursday morning for a visit to her father and sisters at La Mesa, New Mexico. She is planning to bring one of her sisters home with her.

Mrs. Helen Cook returned Sunday from her month's visit to her childhood home in Tennessee.

John McCasland and family arrived Saturday at the Nichols' home south of Otis. He expects to locate here.

Allen Tipton and family are moving into their new up-to-date home southeast of Otis.

The Vernon Echols family have moved into one of the DeLotte houses. He will work for that gentleman.

CEMETERY BENEFIT.

A game of baseball is scheduled to be played at the ball park in this city next Thursday afternoon between the Boy Scouts of Troop No. 1 and the Loving baseball team. The game will be called at four o'clock and the business houses are asked to close in order that all may attend. The game will be a benefit for the Carlshad cemetery and for this reason, if for no other should call out a large crowd. Prices will be 25 and 35 cents. Let everybody make it a business to attend the game and help the cause along.

Ned Godby and wife left about noon today for a lengthy tour through the north and east, their objective point being Washington, D. C., although they are expecting to make several visits along the way between here and there.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hays are happy over the arrival of two of their daughters, Mrs. Glennie Hays and daughter, Mildred, and Miss Beatrice Hays, both coming from Kansas City, Missouri. They expect to stay some weeks and their parents have planned a trip to the mountains and other places of interest while they are here.

Paul Reed, of Kansas City, a brother of Mrs. Carl Smith, came for a visit to the home of his sister, near Otis, getting here Wednesday. Mrs. Smith has two sisters, Misses Jeannette and Harriet, who have been spending some time at her home, and the brother will accompany the young ladies on their return. Mrs. Smith will also likely leave for a visit at the same time.

The ladies of the Methodist church will have an old-fashioned spelling match in the near future, which promises to be an occasion of great interest. The church has a number of good spellers among its members and others outside of the membership will be very welcome. No admission will be charged, and an evening of pleasure and profit will no doubt result.

Mrs. Julia Shattuck was able to be taken to the Airdome last Sunday evening for the services which she greatly enjoyed, and was an inspiration to all as she sat in her wheel chair eagerly drinking in the words of the minister, Rev. Givan.

AT DARK CANYON WELLS.

The Woman's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. J. Floyd Hart, at Dark Canyon Wells, yesterday, for an all day meeting. Those who were privileged to attend, tell in a very enthusiastic manner of their reception at the hospitable home, where the host and hostess had made every preparation possible for their reception. A long table was spread in the yard under the trees, and the dinner was eaten in that pleasant spot. The menu comprised everything good and seasonable and with the delicious coffee made a feast of which all speak in the highest terms. The hearty welcome and kind hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Hart will never be forgotten.

After dinner the regular business and devotional meeting of the society was held and many matters of moment to the members were discussed and disposed of. At a late hour in the afternoon the ladies returned to their respective homes. Between twenty-five and thirty were present.

AIRDOME COMMUNITY WORSHIP.

A large and appreciative congregation attended community worship last Sunday evening. The song service, under the leadership of Dr. Lowry is becoming a very popular and helpful feature of each occasion. The special music has been of a high standard and without an exception well rendered. You are most cordially invited to the Airdome every Sunday evening at eight o'clock.

Mrs. Eliza Allen and daughter, from near Silver City, arrived in Carlshad Wednesday evening. The lady is a daughter of J. F. Marlar, who resides west of the city and had not seen her father for twenty years.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Teacher of English Bible in the Moody
Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

LESSON FOR AUGUST 8

THE KINGLY KINDNESS OF DAVID.

LESSON TEXT—II Sam. 8:15; 9:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—David executed judgment and justice unto all his people.—II Sam. 8:15.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Deut. 16:18; Ps. 72:1-7.
PRIMARY TOPIC—David's Kindness to a Cripple.
JUNIOR TOPIC—David's Kindness to Jonathan's Son.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—David Showing Himself Kindly.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Elements of Strength in David's Character.

I. David's Righteous and Impartial Reign (8:15).

When he was established as king over all Israel, he executed judgment and justice unto all his people. In this respect he stands as a type of the Lord Jesus Christ; for when David's greater son, the Lord Jesus, shall reign over all Israel, righteousness and justice will prevail in all the earth.

II. David's Inquiry for Some of Saul's House to Whom He Might Show Kindness (9:1-3).

This story of faithful love to a dead friend is quite refreshing. David experienced great grief when he received the news that Jonathan had fallen in battle. Now when he is made king and success has crowned his efforts in the subjugation of his enemies, he sets himself to make inquiry as to whether there is any one left of Saul's family to whom he might show kindness for Jonathan's sake. When Mephibosheth, Jonathan's son, was found, David ordered him to be brought to him and restored to him his grandfather's estate. Being unable to cultivate it on account of infirmity, he arranged that it be cultivated for him. Not content with this, he ordered that Mephibosheth should eat at his own table as one of his sons. This example of David's nobility teaches us that those who are blessed and prospered should stop to inquire as to whether there are not some deserving ones whom they can help. It may be that children of some old friends who rendered us help in former days need care and help. Then, too, some faithful servant of God could be cheered along life's way. This should not be simply done as an act of charity, but in recognition of some lasting obligation in view of help rendered by their fathers in bygone days. This was the case with Jonathan. He had sacrificed much and endangered his life for David's sake.

The chief value of this lesson will be realized by making it a living story illustrating the plan of salvation. David's making inquiry for some one upon whom he can bestow kindness illustrates God taking the initiative in providing salvation for lost and needy souls. This is clearly suggested in David's expression, "show the kindness of God." Mephibosheth did not seek David's help or sympathy. Quite likely he had a fear and dread for him like the sinner has in many cases for the Lord. Salvation originated with the Lord. He did not make this provision because of man's merit, but out of a heart of grace, for the sake of another, even Christ.

III. Mephibosheth Is Found (vv. 4, 5).

This lame man was found in the house of Machir in Lodebar. This strikingly illustrates the sinner's condition. The sinner is utterly unable to walk uprightly before the Lord. Mephibosheth was in the house of Machir, which means "sold." This is exactly the sinner's condition—sold unto sin and Satan. Lodebar means "no pasture." This, too, suggests the sinner's condition of soul which nothing can satisfy but God. The sinner maimed and enslaved by sin has an "aching void" which only God and his grace can satisfy.

IV. Mephibosheth's Sense of Unworthiness (vv. 6-8).

When he was brought into the presence of the king he reverently fell upon his face. Every sinner in the presence of God feels unworthy of his saving grace.

V. David Restores to Mephibosheth the Forfeited Estate of His Father (vv. 9-10).

He not only restored this estate, but provided a means of tillage. God not only restores us into his family as children and restores to us the estate forfeited by Adam, but provides for its culture and development.

VI. Mephibosheth at the King's Table (vv. 11-13).

This act of kindness on the part of David was done out of the sincerity of his heart. This illustrates God's kindness to us in Christ.

Find Good in Evil.

Train yourself to find the good in what seems evil, to make of disaster an opportunity for your courage, to master suffering by patience, to learn from sorrow sympathy.—G. R. Merriam.

Rooted in Christ.

As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him; rooted and built up in him, and established in the faith as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.—Colossians 2:6 and 7.

HAY TRADE CONDITIONS OF THE WEEK.

The demand for hay is at a very low point as pasturage is excellent and the consuming trade has been well supplied. Markets are congested and supplies that were loaded forward during the high value period continue to arrive. New invoices are small, however, but most markets report sufficient hay in sight to supply the demand for the next thirty days.—Hay Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Snow and daughter, Marjorie, have returned from their visit to eastern points, getting home Sunday. Mrs. Snow and Marjorie were gone eight weeks and spent part of the time at the old home in Southern Illinois and also visited at Chicago and later at St. Louis. They were joined at Chicago by Mr. Snow and visited at the home of his father in California, Missouri, and other places where they had relatives and friends.

June Tulk came in from the Tulk ranch in the Lovington district last Sunday and remained in town until Wednesday when he returned having with him his mother Mrs. James Tulk, and Mrs. John Zimmerman and baby, who will make a short visit at the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Searcy, of Roswell, spent the night in Carlsbad Monday night, enroute to El Paso, for which place they left Tuesday morning.

E. W. Alston, manager for Joyce-Fruit company's dry goods department for the past year and a half, resigned his position with that firm and left Tuesday for Phoenix, Arizona, where he will probably locate. Mr. Alston made many friends for himself and his firm by his unfailing courtesy to all with whom he had business dealings, and in social life was a general favorite with all. Good wishes accompany him wherever he may go.

Judge D. G. Grantham spent Tuesday in Loving on business.

Water was turned out of the canal Monday night and will remain out for a period of five days in order to kill the moss which accumulates in the channel from one summer to another. Carlsbad people took advantage of the water being out to secure a fine lot of fish.

Thomas Pickens and wife and Mr. Hamilton, Mrs. Pickens's father, came in Tuesday from their ranch home on East Chance, and remained here at the home of relatives until Thursday when they returned to the ranch. A. E. Roberts is taking his vacation from the work as manager of the Public Utilities company and is spending the time in the northern part of the state, where Mrs. Roberts and little son have been staying for some weeks.

It is with real grief that the Current learns of the death of Mrs. J. F. Allison, for a long time a resident of Carlsbad and a woman beloved and honored for her nobility of character and real womanly traits, by all who knew her. Her death occurred the last of last week and interment took place Sunday at Rose Lawn cemetery, Artesia. Many here will mourn the passing of this noble Christian woman and while lamenting her many virtues, "Truly, she hath done what she could." The Current hopes to be able to give particulars in next week's paper.

A beautiful summer party was given at the home of H. C. Barr to a few of Mrs. Barr's most intimate friends Tuesday. This is a beautiful concrete structure with all the modern improvements and conveniences and no expense or pains have been spared to make it what it is—one of the best houses to be found in the Pecos valley. The tile roofing is one of the very attractive features, and there are other things that add greatly to its beauty and convenience.

Prof. W. G. Donley and Mrs. Donley have returned from their summer vacation which they spent at their old homes in Virginia and West Virginia, respectively, and are now in their own home in North Carlsbad and Professor Donley is already making preparations looking toward the opening of school.

A meeting of the local school board was held Tuesday night at the usual place and was attended by the entire board, with one exception, Mr. Linn being out of the city. The teachers for the coming school year have not all been elected although the names of several are now under consideration by the board.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Noel and children returned Saturday night from a three week's visit to the Ruidoso country, and were greatly delighted with their cool camp among the pines. They spent the time in the Mesquero Indian reservation and tell us it would be hard to find a more ideal spot as regards comfort, the nights being cool and necessitating the use of sundry blankets to be comfortable and the days pleasant.

WHEN PA IS SICK.

When pa is sick, he's scared to death,
An' ma an' us jist hold our breath.
He crawls in bed and puffs and grunts,
And does all kinds of crazy stunts.
He wails "Doe" Brown, and might-ty quick,
For when pa's ill he's awful sick.
He gasps an' groans, an' sort o' sighs,
He talks so queer, an' rolls his eyes
Ma jumps an' runs, an' all of us,
An' all the house is in a fuss.
An' peace an' joy is mighty scarce
When pa is sick, it's something fierce.

When Ma Is Sick.

When ma is sick she pegs away,
She's quiet, though, not much t' say;
She goes right on a-doin' things,
An' sometimes laughs, or even sings.
She says she don't feel extra well,
But then it's just a kind o' spell.
She'll be all right tomorrow, sure;
A good old sleep will be the cure.
An' pa he sniffs an' makes no kick,
For women folk is always sick.
An' ma, she smiles, lets on she's glad—
When ma is sick it ain't so bad.

Students at Columbia University.
The Current has a very interesting letter from Mrs. Mabel Polk, for some years a teacher in Carlsbad schools, now in attendance at Columbia University, New York. Mrs. Polk and Miss Rebecca Graham, another teacher, are attending this same school which has an enrollment of over 10,000 and is the largest school of its kind in the world. Mrs. Polk tells us that there are 255 enrolled in the same class as herself, and that she likes her work at the university very much. She has visited many places of interest, among others the military school at West Point, and the weather has been cool at Columbia most of the time, with many pleasant showers. The young ladies expect to leave there the 15th of this month via Niagara Falls, and from the falls to Chicago will go by boat over the Great Lakes. Mrs. Polk has accepted a position as teacher of the primary grade in the schools of Livingston for the coming school year and Miss Graham will have a place on the faculty of the local high school.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Laverty have enjoyed a vacation at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hill Perry, at Spur, Texas, returning, yesterday.

A "wreiner roast" at which several of the young ladies of the city were hostesses and the young men were their guests, gave great pleasure to all who were present last Friday night. After a delightful swim in the river near town, the young folk built fires and proceeded to roast wieners and have a general good time. In the party were Misses Marynet Reed, Elizabeth Albritton, Henrita Dilley, Frances Etter, Dorothy Dick; Messrs. Frank Smith, Ned White, David Sellards, Carl Wester, and Glenwood Jackson. The young people were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Dick and Mrs. Allee Moore and after completing their fun on the river bank they returned to the city and spent a couple of hours at the home of Miss Dorothy Dick, where they danced until a late hour.

Miss Vernie Mae Taylor and brother, Cashus, left for their ranch home about thirty-eight miles south west of town Monday afternoon. They were accompanied to their home by Miss Mae Middleton, who spent a few days in that beautiful place.

Senator Fall, of El Paso, Texas, who pretends to be the representative of the people of New Mexico in the Senate of the United States, has rushed to the rescue of his party in this state and is now busy in Santa Fe trying to compose the differences between various factions of his party and is particularly interested in the governor's re-nomination. Senator Fall rightly thinks that Gov. Larrarolo underestimates the strength of the opposition at the coming election, and he is also uneasy about the fate of the republican party in New Mexico. The people are getting tired of the old rotten political bosses who now control the republican party. They also believe that after going to the great expense of convicting guilty persons for all kinds of crimes they should not be pardoned after serving only a few years of their sentence. One would think that the governor of our state thinks he is wiser and more capable of setting out justice than all the judges and juries of New Mexico. Senator Fall will have accomplished a huge task if he succeeds in uniting all discordant factions of his party within the confines of the Sunshine state.

"CLEAN UP," SAYS MAYOR HUDGINS.

The mayor of the city has issued a proclamation which will be found in another column of this issue of the Current, calling on all the citizens of Carlsbad to clean up their premises and has set the date for that work, August 12th, 13th and 14th. It is hoped that our people will now get busy and put the city in shape to deserve its name the "Beautiful". The removal of the weeds that now are seen, waist high, within a half block of the business part of town, and the gathering up of waste paper and other debris that now fills our streets and alleys, will add much to the attractiveness and sanitary condition of our little city and will give the strangers who will be in town during the Legion Carnival a better impression of our citizenship than any other one thing. So let's all get to work and put everything in good shape on the three days appointed by the mayor.

JUDGE BRICE FOR SUPREME JUDGE.

The many friends of Judge Chas. H. Brice in the Pecos valley and especially in Carlsbad, are watching with great interest how the politicians are playing the cards in reference to the nomination for Supreme Judge of the state to be named at the democratic state convention to be held in Las Vegas August 24th. Judge Brice has not publicly announced his intention of seeking the nomination for that office but his closest friends say he will accept if it is tendered him. A candidate for the nomination who will run Judge Brice a hot race is Harry L. Patton who was formerly attorney general of this state and who has announced he is out for a place on the supreme bench of the state.

If Judge Brice is nominated it will be pleasing to the Pecos valley and his conduct of the office of judge of the Fifth Judicial District proves he is capable of fulfilling the duties of any judicial position to the satisfaction of the public generally and to the best interests of the taxpayers.

The democrats of the Pecos valley should get behind those men whom they desire to have a place on the state ticket, see that they are nominated and then give them their full support at the election.

LIFE AT THE SUMMER RESORTS

There is a lot of money in circulation, and the summer resorts are probably doing the biggest business in their history. The automobile crowd may groan at the high prices of the swell hotels. But people of moderate means will often pay high for a brief contact with the idle rich, but they escape as soon as possible with what remnants of cash they may retain.

The natives in such resorts may not do much through the winter, as the spenders of the vacation season are a sufficient harvest. At home you easily tote your suit case to the station, but it is a disgrace at the stylish resort to carry it from the desk to the elevator. So you must pay all along for your temporary fling as a swell.

To some people a summer resort is dull and boring unless it has all the sports and pastimes of city life, with an incessant round of movies and dance halls and trick and novelty shows. Crowds by tens and hundreds of thousands flock to these jazy centers in the vain endeavor to occupy their frequently vacant minds. Everybody visits them to study human nature, but sensible people feel that a very little of that life goes a long way. All over the country you find a third type of resort, where people of quiet tastes can rest from the grind of labor. They find in country life and scenic beauty a healing influence, which quiets the tired nerves, and tones up mental and physical ability. There one meets the people who are doing the finest and most genuine work of the world, and who keep their natures sunny and clean and bracing amid all the false excitement of the times. A vacation spent in such surroundings is a blessed experience and passes all too soon.

New Mexico is very fortunate in possessing many beautiful mountain streams which afford ideal places to spend a vacation and is becoming more popular each year with the tourists of the country.

Buys Wheat Land.

Five sections of choice wheat land on the Bill McLendon ranch fifteen miles northwest of Clovis became the property of Dr. J. T. Slaton of Lexington, Ky., this week, in a deal consummated through G. M. Bryan and Dennis & Son. Dr. Slaton has extensive lands in Curry county at present and is a firm believer in its future. The land purchased is one of the best wheat farms in this section of the county.—Ruralist.

THE OLD SWIMMIN'-HOLE

And the gurgle of the worter round the drift jest below

Sounded like the laugh of something we onc't ust to know

Before we could remember anything but the eyes

And it's hard to part forever with the old swimmin'-hole.

WOULD MAKE EASIER READING

Boston Man Has Idea for Printing Books That is Interesting but Revolutionary.

Why not print all books in such a way that every page is a right-hand page? asks D. L. Winslow of Boston, who claims a patent for his conception of how to do it. He holds that if one has to read pages on one side of a book only, this will be held more easily, the eyes will not wander, there will be no necessity for changing the position of head and neck when passing from one page to another. Thus reading, especially of big, heavy volumes, will be less fatiguing not only to the eyes, head and neck, but also to the arms and hands.

Mr. Winslow's idea is to print a book so that you read straight ahead from right-hand page to right-hand page, these being numbered consecutively; then, when you have read through to the last right-hand page, you turn the book upside down and continue reading as before, what in ordinary books are left-hand pages now being right-hand pages. This, of course, involves printing all left-hand pages upside down and numbering them consecutively from the back of the book. This would easily be arranged by the printer in laying out the forms, though to get the pagination of a large book correct would require some nice calculation on the printer's part.

Hawaii Claims Wettest Spot.

Hawaii now claims the wettest spots on earth. From records covering a long period, Cherrapunji, a village at an elevation of about 4,500 feet in the Khasi hills in India, has established a rainfall average of 426 inches a year, with a maximum of 905 inches in the questionable record for 1861. Short period observations show that Mount Waialeale, the central peak of the island of Kauai, with a height of 5,090 feet, has a yearly average of 470 inches; while estimates for nearby localities for the wet years of 1914 and 1915, when no records were kept, make it appear that the rainfall there must have exceeded 600 inches. Other parts of Hawaii are scarcely less damp. Puu Kukui, 5,000 feet high, on the island of Maui, has had a seven-year average of 369 inches, with a maximum of 502 inches in 1914. At least a dozen other spots, above 1,000 feet of elevation, are reported to have exceeded 350 inches in each of the years 1914 and 1915.

Queen Pleasure's Carnival.

All the Protestant churches acknowledge the continual diminution of their congregations and are earnestly endeavoring to discover why the great majority abstain from public worship, says a Sydney, N. S. W., dispatch to the London Times. Several novel schemes have been propounded to make services more attractive, but the clergy flinch from any startling innovations. Recently Rev. C. Black at a meeting of the Baptist union declared that "Queen Pleasure holds high carnival," and continued: "The churches are unheeded by the mass of pleasure trippers, who patter by with feet tingling with the torch of the tango, ears atingle with the jingle of the jazz, and hearts aflame with riotous passion."

Some persons have laid themselves liable to the law by dynamiting fish in the Pecos river between town and the Hagerman dam and up to this time the offenders have not been apprehended but it is to be hoped they will be found out and punished.

RUSSIAN HERO IN PAJAMAS

Soldier of Denikin's Army, Decorated for Bravery, Attired in Altogether Unconventional Uniform.

The highest decoration for valor that could be given a soldier in Denikin's army was pinned to the breast of a soldier whose uniform ran a close second to that of Kipling's hero, Gunga Din, says a communication from Ekaterinodar, South Russia, to the Stars and Stripes.

The medal was pinned to the soldier's jacket, which was the upper part of a pair of pajamas, and the rest of his outfit was only a pair of British military trousers. He was barefooted and hatless.

The clothing worn by this man typifies the conditions that exist in the army fighting the bolsheviks in that country. They do not have a service of supply and they do not have a regulation uniform.

General Bradoff, who decorated the pajama-jacketed hero, wore the tunic of a British Tommie, and the guard of troops who furnished the background for the decoration ceremonies, wore parts of uniforms from a dozen different armies. With the exception of a group of Cossack cavalry, the decorated soldier was the neatest-dressed man of the lot.

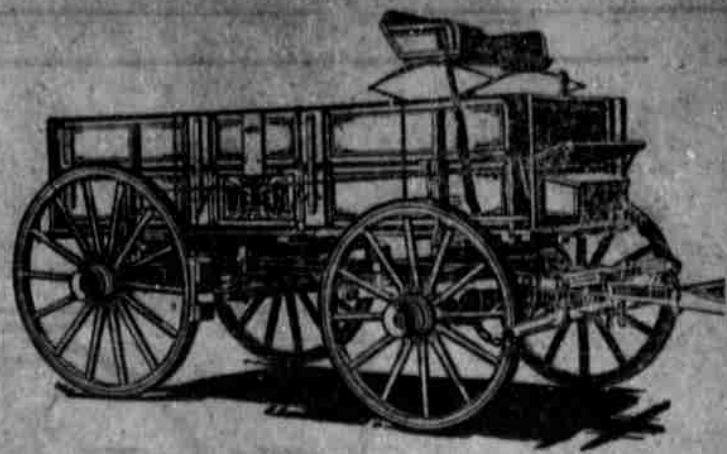

The hero, on his own initiative, led a detachment of scouts in capturing a town from the bolsheviks. He was wounded in carrying out this exploit, taken to a hospital and given a suit of pajamas. When he left he took the pajama jacket to replace his wornout Russian tunic, and he had not been able to replace it.

Chinese Silk in America.

The American demand for silk in China has greatly increased in the last few years until at the present time about 25 per cent of the Chinese silk is sent to the United States. This is the result of American enterprise more than that of the Chinese. The Japanese silks had been in favor for a long time with the manufacturers of this country but it was well understood that the quality of the Chinese was superior, but it was not adapted for use in this country because of the manner in which it was woven. An American manufacturer secured a moving picture reel showing the Japanese methods of manufacture, and as a result the Chinese were induced to change theirs to a system to conform with the demands of the occidental customers, and the industry has accordingly taken a great jump.

Built to Withstand Arctic Rigor.

In a New England shipyard work has been begun on the Howdoin, an auxiliary schooner which in 1921 is to carry a small expedition to the frozen North, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The party, numbering only six, will be led by Donald B. McMillan, remembered as Peary's lieutenant on the expedition that reached the North pole, and will have as its object the charting of the 1,000 miles of unexplored coast line along the western shore of Baffin land. The little Howdoin is to be a modification of the Gloucester fishing type, and will be only 57 feet long. Obviously it will be small for such perilous work. It is being built and equipped, however, with unusual care. The oak planking will be sheathed with ironwood to resist the abrasion of the ice, and will be lined with thick insulating material.

BASEBALL GAMES.

Last Sunday afternoon Carlsbad defeated Artesia on the local diamond by a large score. Pitcher Brown holding the Artesia batters to only 2 scores and that was only after Carlsbad had a long lead and there was no danger of the visitors catching up. A good sized crowd witnessed the game which was full of thrills as the Carlsbad sluggers pounded the ball hard in the first part of the game and ran the bases almost at will.

Yesterday a game was played between these same teams at Artesia in which Artesia got the best of the score, winning by a wide margin. Carlsbad's regular players were out of the game with a few exceptions and Artesia had to loan them one player to finish out the team. Pitcher Brown saved himself for the hard game to be played at Roswell next Sunday.

During carnival week there will be five days of baseball games between the locals and Artesia for two days and Roswell for three.

EX-ATTORNEY GENERAL

HARRY L. PATTON OUT FOR SUPREME BENCH.

The announcement from former attorney general Harry L. Patton that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Supreme Judge at the state convention in Las Vegas, August 24th, will be of interest to the citizens of the entire state.

Mr. Patton has received congratulations from all parts of the state, but it was only recently that he has consented to permit his name to go before the convention. Those wisest in the party councils point out that he is the logical man for the place for various reasons, chief among which are, his experience and success in the general practice of law, and his record in office as Attorney General. He is a strong campaigner as evidenced by his victory over Hon. Frank W. Clancy for the latter office. Mr. Patton is a vote-getter, and vote-getters usually win. He will doubtless go into the state convention with strong support from all sections of the state.

William Reed after a month's visit in Fort Worth and Dallas, with relatives, returned home Wednesday night. William was under the doctor's care while he was gone, but has about recovered at this time.

Mildred Walter, one of Carlsbad's prize girls, and since her graduation a teacher in the schools at Magdalena, this state, was registered at the Comb's Hotel, Albuquerque, Monday of this week. Miss Walter was in attendance at the State Normal at Las Cruces this summer.

Tom Middleton, of Queen, is in town this week from his home.

Red Cross Gives Relief to Flood Victims in New Mexico.

When the recent high water in New Mexico caused an overflow of the Rio Grande and created havoc and devastation throughout the valley, the communities were totally unable to cope with the situation, and the aid of the division office of the American Red Cross was solicited. Shortly after the first report of the serious damage that had been done was received, Division Manager Maurice Willows, a trained field worker; Miss Margaret Reeves, and a public health nurse were on the ground at San Marcial, N. M., where the trouble was the greatest and where the largest number of people had been affected by the water.

A survey of conditions in San Marcial and the surrounding territory was made and it was found that over half of the little town was under water—stagnant and mosquito-breeding—while for miles around the little farms, which meant the livelihood for approximately a hundred families, had been wiped out. Entire crops of beans, chili, alfalfa, corn and vegetables were destroyed. Ninety-four homes were badly damaged or demolished. The inmates of these homes had been pushed from their abodes by the rising waters and were found quartered with neighbors on higher ground, four or five families often forced to live together in two-room abodes.

With an accurate line on the situation the Red Cross through its representative, arranged an interview with Governor Larrasolo, who through Manager Willows received his first report of the flooded areas. At this conference it was recommended that a sanitary engineer be dispatched into the flooded district by the state board of health to drain off the water still standing and which threatened a serious epidemic of typhoid; that the state furnish loans to the farmers with which to purchase seed for re-planting in order that they be made self-supporting as soon as possible; that experts from the state agricultural college be sent into the flooded region to advise the farmers as to the kind of seed to be used and the method by which to get the best results, and that the Red Cross would furnish the immediate funds necessary to give relief to these families until the late summer crops mature.

The Red Cross also offered to furnish financial assistance in the rebuilding of damaged and demolished homes. Immediate co-operation was given by the governor in all respects, except that there was found to be no available state funds for the purchase of seeds for the farmers. While plans for permanent rehabilitation were under way, immediate relief was administered by the Socorro county red cross chapter and branches. The fact that such a comparatively few cases of typhoid have occurred speaks eloquently of the well-organized and well-maintained machinery which the Red Cross, through its disaster-preparedness program, was able to put into the field at such short notice.—Are Rays.

GASOLINE TURNS THE EARTH

Motorboats Are Replacing Gondolas in Venice, and Even the Windmills in Holland Disappear.

Motorboats in Venice, replacing the gondolas are not the only mechanical profanation that is coming in to displace future American travelers in Europe. A letter from Amsterdam tells us that the Dutch windmills are being replaced by mills operated by steam and electric power. Every year some of the old windmills are burned, and they are not re-erected. Time may come when a few windmills will be treasured as relics in Holland; just as similar structures are still preserved on Aquidneck and Nantucket islands for their curious interest, says the Boston Transcript. Already windmills of American construction, with steel fans arranged in wheels, instead of the picturesque old wooden arms, had begun to make their appearance, even in Holland. The metallic windmill with the revolving wheel, is more picturesque than the ordinary steam or water power mill, but it is not so picturesque as the old wooden affair. On our western prairies and plains the tall windmills, with their big metal wheels spinning high in the air, are indeed a fine feature in the monotonous landscape, but even they are in danger of yielding to the process of pumping water by means of gasoline motors. The power of the wind, to be sure, costs nothing, while that of the gasoline motor may cost a good deal, but there are times when no wind blows, and the householder tires of waiting for it to rise. Less and less we are content to attend upon forces of nature. The beautiful sails are vanishing from the seas, to be replaced by belching smokestacks. On land windmills give place to structures operated by steam and electricity. The staid oxen are no longer seen at the farmer's plow; it is gasoline that turns the earth now. Homeward the weary motor barks its way!

Iron Germs

In the same manner that coral is derived from certain minute sea-insects who flourish in the South Pacific, so certain iron ores are obtained from particular microscopic organisms.

That is the latest scientific discovery, which promises interesting developments.

It has been proved that these germs not only aid in the decomposition of rocks and in the formation of chalk and limestone, but play an active part in the forming of iron-ore deposits.

Laboratory cultures have been made of bacteria which deposit iron compounds both in surface waters and in mine water hundreds of feet under ground, and the hard crusts and slimy masses that choke up water-supply pipes have been found to be composed of millions of these "iron bacteria."

What a lot of argument there used to be about a woman driving an automobile

TODAY she can "make a train" or fix a tire as well as anybody.

As soon as a luxury becomes a necessity the point of view changes.

Two or three years ago you would have listened to more varying opinions about tires than you could shake a stick at. Mileages, construction, treads and whatnot.

It's different now. Tire users are working towards a unanimous feeling.

You express it one way—the man down the street another. But sifted down it amounts to this:

That the only way to settle your tire problem is to get a tire of known value and stick to it.

III

We recommend and sell U. S. Tires because their value is known.

There's no guess about it.

It was the U. S. quality policy which led to the perfection of the straight-side automobile tire, the pneumatic truck tire—two of the greatest additions to tire value that have ever been made.

As representatives of the oldest and largest rubber concern in the world, we are in a position to tell you something about tire values. Come in some day and talk to us.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobly.

ROYAL CORD-NOBLY-CHAIN-USCO-PLAIN

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cord.

Five Minute Chats on Our Presidents

By JAMES MORGAN

A MAN AFOOT

1797-1801—Vice president.
1801—Inaugurated third president, aged 57.
1803—Purchased Louisiana.
1807—Enforced Embargo act.
1809—Retired to Monticello.
1826—July 4, died, aged 83.

THE furious storm aroused by the combat between Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton, the greatest gladiators to face each other in the arena of American politics, makes our recent campaigns seem like sunshowers. Hamiltonians scorned to eat and drink, and sometimes even to pray, with the Jeffersonians. To give a daughter in marriage with one of them was almost as abhorred as miscegenation.

Nothing else so stirs the angry passions as a conflict of classes or of sections. This was both doubly bitter. An almost solid South united with the Northern masses in a common dread of a strong government and in a common hostility to the old ruling caste in the middle states and New England. The new parties called themselves Federalists and Republicans.

In the first battle, when those parties fought for the chair of Washington in 1796, the result was so close that Jefferson came within two elec-did his own marketing and went and came like any other citizen. Although no successor has thrown a British minister into a fit of indignation by receiving him in slippers, Jeffersonian simplicity rather more than Washingtonian courtliness remains the standard of presidential conduct.

It was the strange fortune of this most thoroughgoing pacifist to find himself at the helm in the midst of a world at war. When the globe was bristling with bayonets until it looked like a porcupine, he calmly announced that peace was his passion, and started out by cutting down his little army one-half and by talking of hauling up his seven warships. His only interest in the Napoleonic struggle was to keep out of it.

Nevertheless while the military powers were fighting over little islands and provinces and drenching Europe with their blood, this most un military president, without firing a shot, gathered in far richer spoils than the victors in twenty-five years of warfare divided among themselves at the congress of Vienna. As Jefferson's election was a bloodless revolution, his purchase of the immense empire of Louisiana, which doubled the territory of the United States, was a bloodless conquest, the greatest peaceable annexation the world ever saw. Having made it, the flag was no more than hoisted on the farther bank of the Mississippi than he dispatched Lewis and Clark and Captain Pike boldly to spy out the unexplored rivers and mountains of the new soil, so honestly won, and from which so many free states were to spring.

Jefferson is the only president who remained the leader of his party after leaving the White House. Indeed, the Democrats never have ceased to swear allegiance to his spirit.

FAMOUS CHIMES RING AGAIN

Bells of St. Clements, in Old London, Appeal to Children, as in the Olden Days.

"Oranges and Lemons" rang out on the old bells of St. Clements on the last day of March on an evening as fine as any during the finest winter London has ever known. The bells rang, but few heard them, prevented by the roar of the Strand traffic. It was the first time the old nursery rhyme had been rung out from the steeple for a very long while. Some hundreds of school children, who had been invited to attend the church, fled out at the close in small processions, piloted across the streams of traffic by the London policemen. Every child carried an orange or a lemon, a gift which made up to them for the faint tones in which the voices of the old bells reached their ears. Down the streets with the historic names running from the Strand to the Thames, St. Clements' music was more audible, the sound carrying over the noise and roar, and into the offices where anybody, with a turn of mind for antiquity, has but to throw open his window to hear the sound of a bell cast in the year of the Spanish armada.

Unnecessary to Graft Skin.

When much skin is destroyed in burns, a common resort is skin graft, applied either in small isolated patches to grow gradually over the surface, or in pieces up to two or three inches square to cover a large portion or all of the wound. At a recent medical meeting, Dr. E. G. Beck of Chicago called attention to a process of culture by which skin may be made to grow without grafting, even over large surfaces. As the wound heals the granulations at the edge of the spreading fresh skin place an elevated barrier in its way and if these granulations are removed as often as every 24 hours the patient's own skin is given a chance to grow over the entire surface. A protective covering of paraffin often promotes the replacement of skin without grafting.

Thomas Jefferson.

total votes of winning the presidency against Adams. In the second battle, which was waged in 1800, he beat Adams.

Contrary to the familiar story of his hitching his horse to the capitol fence, Jefferson walked to his inauguration and afterward walked back to his boarding house, which was only a few hundred yards away. This man, afoot, dreamer and theorist, quietly ushered in that day a more lasting revolution than a man on horseback could have wrought with a sword and whiff of grapeshot.

Believing that revolutions should begin at home Jefferson revolutionized the White House by casting aside the ceremonial which had been adopted in a feeble imitation of kingly courts. Opening the doors to all, without regard to social classifications and without order of precedence, his rule was "first come, first served." Determined that the president, as he said, should cease to be a personage, he stopped the custom of celebrating a president's birthday, never made a public tour,

Mrs. Weiss came in Wednesday afternoon from her home at Pukwana, South Dakota, and will be here a few days only. She came to look after the sale or shipment of her household goods, which have been occupying the Bock flat. Mrs. Weiss and her daughter, Miss Agnes, have been winter visitors to this city for the past five years, but the young lady's health has become so much better that her physician says she may safely remain at home this winter. During their residence here the ladies made friends of all, both in social and church life, and all are glad that the daughter's health has been restored, even though it deprives us of the pleasure of her society.

Walter Pendleton was in from his ranch a few days this week transacting business.

Miss Willie Harmon and niece, Callie Bartlett, spent yesterday in Loving, attending the Baptist Association.

Henry Dickson has been on the sick list this week at his home west of town, having had a bad case of tonsillitis.

Chris Walter is having his home all fixed up so that a person will hardly recognize the old building on Fox street when the repairs are completed. New floors have been put in and many other alterations made, and among other of the needed improvements, a new foundation will be built under the entire house, and later the house will be painted.

City Attorney Guy A. Reed returned Wednesday from a trip up the road, where he went on business.

Fred Schermeyer is in town this week from his home in the mountains west of town.

"Grandma" Anderson has a picture on exhibition at the Sweet Shop which is receiving a great deal of favorable comment from lovers of the beautiful. The picture was painted for Herbert Potter, of El Paso, and represents the wild flowers of New Mexico. The grouping and coloring of the blossoms is very fine and quite natural. "Grandma" has painted several other pictures for Mr. Potter and expects to begin very soon a companion piece to the one on exhibition, for the same man. When we consider that the artist is over seventy years of age, the work is a little short of marvelous, and Carlsbad is proud of her and of her artistic ability.

Charles Montgomery came in from his vacation spent at the home of his mother at Little Rock, Arkansas, getting in Wednesday night.

Miss Gladys Middleton accompanied her grandmother, Madam Middleton, to Queen, this morning and will remain there until after the camp meeting at that place.

Mrs. Vernon Middleton left Thursday for the home of her father near Silver City and will make a visit there.

Mrs. Henry Robb left this morning for her home in Tyrone, N. M., after a stay of nearly two weeks in the city, where she came for the purpose of shipping her furniture to their present home. It having been stowed here for two years past. Mrs. Robb did not accompany her daughter on the return but will remain in town and take up her residence in Carlsbad to the joy of her many friends here.

Miss Netta Mae Kindel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Kindel, who sang "Evangeline" at the Air-dome last night, surprised and pleased all who heard her. Her voice, while not very strong, was true and sweet and her enunciation good, and her friends here, where she was born and has lived all her life, congratulate her on her first appearance as a singer in Carlsbad.

The firm of Weester & McClure has moved into their new shop in the Smith building and are turning out their commodities at a rapid rate and the public may now depend on getting first class bakery goods at a reasonable price.

Fred West went out to Lovington this morning, taking a casket for a dead body, whose name we could not learn.

M. B. Morfeld has been selected by the firm of Joyce-Pruit company as manager of the dry goods department, taking the place made vacant by the resignation of E. W. Alston. Mr. Morfeld has been a resident of Carlsbad for about a year, coming here from Fort Morgan, Colorado, and during his short stay in Carlsbad has conducted himself in the most accommodating and courteous manner toward all having dealings with him, thereby making for himself many friends. Coupled with a pleasing personality and a desire to please Mr. Morfeld brings to that store a wide experience in that line of work gained by being connected with dry goods stores in places much larger than Carlsbad. He is already installing various changes and improvements in the store which will make for greater efficiency in the handling of business. With an efficient manager who employs metropolitan methods of taking care of the trade this firm expects to do the largest business in their dry goods department this fall ever experienced in the history of that company.

Miss Inez Hatfield spent the day in Carlsbad yesterday and remained for the picture show in the evening, leaving this morning for her home in Malaga.

The exterior of the "Smoke House" has received a new coat of paint and its appearance is therefore greatly improved.

Dr. F. F. Doepp spent Tuesday in Roswell on a business visit.

Tom Calloway was a business visitor to Roswell Tuesday.

L. E. Foster is a visitor to Roswell today, going up on a business visit.

FOR SALE.—A five-room house close in and also close to school. Immediate possession. Address postoffice box No. 652.

The Boy Scouts have received the novelties for their booth in connection with the Legion Carnival. They have a fine lot of things and should make some money by their sale.

R. D. Bule, a brother of M. A. Bule, has taken a position in the Joyce-Pruit dry goods store, where he will assist in the men's furnishing department. Mr. Bule is from Waco, Texas.

Miss Zada Medgett returned the first of the week from Roswell where she had been visiting friends.

MURDERERS RELEASED FROM PRISON IN YEAR.

Eighty-one persons who had been convicted of offenses under the laws of New Mexico were given their liberty under executive orders signed by Governor O. A. Larrazolo during a period of 12 months ending July 1, 1926. This is at the rate of a pardon every four days, exclusive of Sunday. Of these, 22 had been convicted of murder and were serving terms that varied from 10 years to life. There were eight serving 99-year terms, another an 80-year term. These nine persons, sentenced to serve an aggregate of 872 years, served instead actual time of 98 years, or an average of a little less than 11 years. The shortest time served under one of these long sentences was two years. The shortest term served for murder was 15 months under a sentence of 10 years.

Of the total number of releases from prison, 54 were from the penitentiary, which has a population of about 325, 18 from the reform school for boys and 10 from jail. There were releases from the penitentiary two women, one for murder and one for larceny, and two were released from jail. There were six pardons to persons convicted of larceny of cattle, one for larceny of horse and one for obliterating brands.

The number pardoned, and crimes for which convicted, are as follows: Murder 22, manslaughter 1, voluntary manslaughter 1, rape 1, larceny and robbery while armed 1, assault with intent to kill 2, assault with intent to murder 1, robbery while armed with a deadly weapon 1, burglary 2, obtaining money under false pretenses 1, burglary from car 1, receiving stolen property, larceny 4, larceny of cattle 6, larceny of horse 1, obliterating brands 1, crime not given in executive order 3, total from penitentiary 54.

The 17 boys pardoned from the reform school were convicted as follows: Rape 1, attempted rape 3, incorrigible 3, larceny of horses 2, larceny 4, larceny from shop 1, larceny of cattle 1, breaking and entering 2, offense not given in executive order 1.

Since July 1 there have been nine additional pardons issued, in which were included one for robbery, one for attempted rape and two for larceny of cattle.

Steak thieves of the worst kind visited the watermelon patch of Dr. and Mrs. Boatman one night recently and made away with their sweet melons. Mrs. Boatman had cared for the melons and garden herself and was looking forward to having plenty of melons when her daughters arrive which will be in the near future. A number of ripe melons were carried away and the patch practically ruined. The doctor has a very good idea of the ones who committed the depredations and is patiently "biding his time".

PICNIC AT FLUME.

A party of congenial friends and neighbors held a picnic at the flume last Saturday night which was very enjoyable to all present. Arrived at this popular place, fire were built and coffee made and bacon fried and these with other good things in abundance were served. The return home, with the moon showing over the hills, was especially enjoyed. Those present were Mrs. Sarah Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Adams, Miss Mary Usery, Mrs. Alice Patterson, Mr. Morrison, J. F. Flowers and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sellers, L. A. Swigart and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Owen and Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Smith.

W. A. Moore was called to Denver a few days ago where Mrs. Moore and Miss Frances are visiting their father and grandfather, respectively, being called there by a telegram announcing his wife's serious illness.

PICTURES ARE NOT ALWAYS TRUTHFUL

Some Mail Order Houses Find Them Very Useful in Their Business.

CAN "DOCTOR" PHOTOGRAPH

Concerns Can Give Wrong Impressions
With Illustrations While Sticking to Truth in Descriptions.

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)
"Figures never lie." It has been claimed, but this is far from the truth. The defaulter who has "doctored" his books in such a way that he has escaped detection for years, knows that figures can be made to lie. The shrewd politician, who knows how to juggle statistics, knows that they can be made to tell a story that is far from the truth.

But there is another medium of expression which is also supposed to be a stickler for truth, but which is a greater prevaricator than figures. That is a picture. A picture of any person or thing, supposedly, is an exact reproduction of the original, but this is frequently only a wild supposition. The photographer who did not make his picture tell a little fib now and then would soon go out of business from lack of patronage.

Pictures Better Than Words.
Pictures have come to occupy a very important place in the life of the world in recent years. It has been said that for newspaper purposes a picture which tells its story strikingly is worth more than columns of written words on the same subject. Newspapers and magazines have realized the truth of this fact and as a result pictures are used profusely in illustrating the news and fiction of the day.

No one has been quicker to realize the possibilities of the picture when properly used, than the mail order man. He has realized that a picture will do more to sell his kind of merchandise than a column of words and figures. One reason for this is that it is harder to catch a picture in a lie than it is printed words and figures. For instance, if you sell a man a table that it is 48 inches wide and if when the table reaches the customer it is only 38 inches wide, the customer not only has a moral right to kick, but he has a legal right to accuse the seller of obtaining money under false pretenses.

However, if the customer buys a table which looks in a picture to be 48 inches wide, but which proves upon its arrival to be only 38 inches wide, he has no legal grounds upon which to base a complaint if the seller has not told him in so many words that the table was 48 inches wide. Stick to Truth in Figures.

Some unscrupulous mail order houses have taken advantage of this selling power of pictures in a very ingenious way. They adhere strictly to the truth in the actual measurements given in their catalogues of the articles which they have to sell. They may employ descriptions which exaggerate the qualities and appearances of the articles offered, but when it comes down to actual measurements the descriptions given are technically correct. Then these concerns rely upon their pictures to sell the merchandise, realizing that a picture will make a far deeper impression upon the mind of the prospective buyer than the actual figures given. A picture of a wide, roomy bed will attract the eye and the reader probably will not stop to measure off the width of the bed as it is described in the catalogue to see whether it is as wide as desired. Figures, in the abstract, mean little to the average reader and do not convey the impression that is given in the picture.

A former manager of a mail order house tells how his concern manipulated pictures in this way to suit its purposes. It had pictures of its chairs retouched so that the legs seemed to be an inch and a half in diameter, when they were really less than an inch. It made narrow beds appear in the picture to be wide and comfortable. Posts of iron beds that were really an inch in diameter were made to appear as if they were three inches in thickness. These things are easy for any competent artist to do.

Patrons Had No Recourse.
This concern, however, adhered rigidly to the truth in the measurements included in the descriptions. Customers who found, when they received their goods, that they were not what they expected, could kick, but it would do them no good. The mail order house could show that it had set forth the measurements truthfully in catalogues, and there was no recourse for the customer.

There is no question but that pictures will lie, sometimes without any manipulation, and the person who buys an article of merchandise from a picture is taking big chances, even though the picture is not intentionally altered to give a wrong impression. Any amateur photographer knows from experience how the camera often will give a wrong idea of proportions.

The only safe method is to buy from the local merchant where one sees the article itself and not a picture of it. The article itself cannot lie about its dimensions, at least.

THERE was plenty of room at the top for a cigarette of tip-top quality at a rock-bottom price. That's where Spur comes in. And that's where Spur stays. For men who judge a cigarette by its looks, by its blend, by its taste—well, Spur was made for them. Spur's new blend of choicest Oriental and American tobaccos brings out to the full that good tobacco taste. Spur's satiny imported paper, crimped (not pasted) makes an easier-drawing, slower-burning cigarette. Spur's smart brown and silver packet, three-fold, preserves the Spur flavor and fragrance.

This will be Mrs. Kindel's first visit home in about twenty-one years, and her friends here hope she may realize her anticipations and return refreshed and rested from her trip and from her associations with friends of other years. She will likely be gone a month.

PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

AID NATIONAL FOREST ROADS

Secretary Meredith Favors More Liberal Financial Co-operation in Western States.

Speaking before highway representatives for western states, Edwin T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture, stated his belief that in the western states, where large areas of government lands are located, the federal government should adopt a system of financial co-operation more liberal to the states than is the case in the rest of the country.

"I think we must recognize the fact that the existence of these large areas of government lands places these states in a somewhat different situation from the remainder of the country," said Mr. Meredith, "and that it would be only equitable for the federal government to increase its percentage of co-operation over the present basis. I am also heartily in favor of continuing the appropriations for the building of national forest roads. These forests constitute a great natural resource, and their preservation and development is a national responsibility which ought to be met in full measure."

Mr. Meredith advocated active continuation of present federal and state co-operation in connection with state road systems with the systems of adjoining states in order that the working out of an adequate highway program for the whole United States may proceed in an orderly manner. He also advocated the continuance of work now going forward under the federal aid road act.

"As 1921 is the last year covered by the act," he said, "it would be highly desirable, in my opinion, for congress to make another provision as promptly as possible for the continuation of the work under the present system by an appropriation of at least $100,000,000 for each of the four fiscal years beginning with 1922."

MAINTENANCE COST OF ROADS

Ultimate Economy of Concrete Road Depends on the Small Amount Needed to Keep It Up.

The cost of a road involves not only first cost but the cost of keeping it in continuously usable condition. If this were not so, the cheaply built gravel road would be entirely suitable for our main traveled thoroughfares. The ultimate economy of the concrete road depends upon the extremely small amount of money required to keep it in excellent condition. The only maintenance needed on a well built concrete road is that necessary to keep filled with tar the joints and the cracks that may develop. The 1919 report of the state commissioner of highways of New York gives the average cost of maintenance for the three years 1915, 1916, and 1917 as follows: Macadam, $976.00 per mile per year for the maintenance of 2,408 miles; gravel, $824.00 per mile per year for the maintenance of 178 miles; first-class concrete, $124.00 per mile per year for the maintenance of 284 miles.

ROADS AS COMMUNITY ASSET

The Better They Are the More Likely They Are to Prove an Investment to Farmers.

The better the roads are, the more likely they are to prove an investment and consequently stand as a community asset. Without roads that can be used, regardless of weather and season, we might as well be living along the trails that our forefathers used when beasts of burden were literally such and marketing meant almost nothing.

BULLETIN IS OF IMPORTANCE

Useful Contribution From United States Department of Agriculture on Weather.

The highway weather bulletin is an important and useful contribution from the United States department of agriculture, made doubly so by recognition of the fact that the state of the roads is more important than the weather, and that you needn't worry about the weather if the roads are paved.

"WHERE THINGS ARE NEW"

STONES KEEP THEIR SECRET

Restoration of Stonehenge Has Revealed Nothing New of Interest to the Antiquarian.

The restoration of Stonehenge has revealed fresh evidence as to the original building of the famous circle. There are indications that the entire monument was surrounded by a circle of at least 40 stones, not one of which remains today.

The office of works, in conjunction with the society of antiquaries, is overhauling the monument, replacing the fallen stones and exploring the site. Excavations have revealed sockets for a number of stones that are no longer in existence, but history cannot account for their absence.

During the excavations a number of hammer stones, chisels and burnt bones were found, also many articles of more modern origin, scraps of Roman remains, pennies and farthings of varying date even up to the present time. The places where these coins were found are a problem in themselves. Why, for example, should a half-penny of George III be found deeper in the earth than a farthing of James I?

A new map of the monument is to be drawn and preserved in the antiquaries museum, but the object of the excavations, the discovery of the origin and purpose of the famous monument, is still unsolved by the recent work.—London Times.

CENTER OF HUN WAR POWER

Ruhrort, With Its Splendid River Harbor, Really the Most Important City of Germany.

Ruhrort, which had the largest river harbor in Europe, and which included the Ruhr basin, was the power plant of Germany's former industrial machine and mighty war engine.

Between the Rhine and Ruhr is Duisburg, city of rolling mills, foundries and factories. This beehive of industry was once a university town, but the school was supplanted by factories. Duisburg is connected with the Ruhr by a canal.

Farther up the Ruhr is Witten, important not only for its steel, but also for beer, soap and chemicals. The Ruhr basin coal fields not only were important to Germany because of their heavy production, but because they alone were accessible for water transportation of ores. A canal connected Dortmund, a city of the Ruhr basin, with the Ems river, thus affording an outlet to the North sea at Emden. The Ruhr was made navigable from the Rhine to Witten, some 35 miles, by means of locks.

Connoisseur of Feminine Beauties.

An extraordinary request from a professor of anthropology in Vienna was received by the Western Australian minister for education, Mr. Colebatch. This Austrian professor appeals to the minister "as a connoisseur of feminine beauties" for photographs of several hundreds of the most beautiful women in Western Australia. He intends to publish these photographs in an illustrated catalogue of the beauties of all countries. While Mr. Colebatch's sense of humor has come to his assistance and prevented him from sending the extremely blunt replies vouchsafed trade letters from Austria and Germany, it may be understood without fear of contradiction that the Viennese professor will not publish the Western Australia reply. If a selection of press comments on the professor were forwarded to him he would recognize that Western Australia girls have the knack of saying the right thing in the right way at the right time.

It Followed.

When Aunt Helen kept company with a young lieutenant in the army she prevailed on her ten-year-old nephew to wear a soldier's overcoat. The young lieutenant was succeeded by a boy scout executive, and Bobby received a boy scout uniform, which he had to wear to please auntie.

But the boy scout executive and Aunt Helen have disagreed and Bobby has been much interested in knowing who will be his successor in winning Aunt Helen's attentions. The other day he made a discovery, and came running in the house to tell mother about it.

"Oh, mother," he began, "you might as well get me a Prince Albert coat, a white vest and a tie. Aunt Helen is beginning to warm up to the minister."—Indianapolis News.

Glad noted.

Fire runs have always been my pet worry when driving a car, so when I heard the excited clanging of a bell while riding through one of the city parks recently I pulled over to the curb, almost running into a lamp post in my rush. Then I turned around to watch the engines and discovered two small boys on a pushmobile holding the center of the boulevard and working a large bell over time while a Sunday crowd laughed at the joke which was certainly on me.—Exchange.

Aluminium Shoe Sales.

One of the newest uses for aluminium is its employment in making the soles of shoes to be used by workmen employed in wet and damp places. The aluminium-soled shoe lasts much longer than an ordinary shoe, and is sold to be impervious to damp.

JAPAN REALLY BACK NUMBER

Writer Brings Forward Arguments to Prove That the Chinese Are the More Progressive.

It may strike the western reader as simply funny, but more than one Chinese friend has assured me that it is the Japanese people who are really conservative. And they back up their assertion by evidence other than the way in which Japan has clung through all historic vicissitudes, to a primitive theocracy, John Dewey writes in Asia Magazine. They point out, for example that a thousand years ago the Japanese borrowed the present style of clothing and of household furnishings, of sitting and sleeping on mats, from China; that China has changed several times, moving constantly in the direction of practical utility, of ingenious adaptation of means to needs. The Chinese cuisine is another argument. It is doubtless the most extensive in the world in the variety of material employed for food, and also the most varied in its combinations. Academic analysis may dispute arguments drawn from food, clothing, shelter and furnishings. But when one notes the variety and ingenuity of the processes and appliances used in daily life and in the crafts, one is certain that the Chinese mind is naturally observant and adaptive. But it seems unnecessary to labor the question. Many charges have been brought against the Chinese, but no one has ever accused them of stupidity. Their undoubted conservatism is something to be explained rather than an explanation of anything.

TO PRISON FOR WITCHCRAFT

Canadian Authorities Revive Ancient Statute That Will Appear Absurd to Modern Understanding.

It has been a little more than 200 years since anyone was convicted of witchcraft on this continent, says the Columbus Dispatch, and we supposed that there would never again be any more convictions. But it seems that such prosecutions have been revived, for here comes a report from a Canadian court to the effect that a young woman over there has lately been sentenced to prison for "practicing witchcraft," for all the world like the accusations that used to be filed against people in this country.

The young woman in this case claimed to be able to tell who committed a certain theft in her neighborhood. She said a farmer's oats had been stolen by a man and a boy; that they drove a bay mare, and proceeded westward after the robbery, and that they would be found at a certain place, about 40 miles away. The officers found her story to be true, and arrested the parties who, robbed the farmer, but as the young woman who gave the information was in no position to know the facts she related except through communing with "the spirits," people began talking about her being a witch, with the result that an ancient statute was invoked and the girl prosecuted and sent to jail for her pains in aiding the officers of the law. If it were not all duly recorded in the newspapers we could not believe it.

"Rent Free" Houses.

At Llewellyn, Pa., there are 60 empty houses, which for years have stood untenanted, a veritable deserted village in the beautiful valley of the West Branch of Chester creek. Even the war with its demands, failed to repeople the town. About a month ago some of the houses were rented and a jitney line was established between the town and Chester. Still there remained 60 houses that were fast going into decay by reason of not being occupied. The owners conceived the idea of having the properties fixed up by giving them rent free to workmen who would repair them and take care of them. The only stipulations made in selecting tenants are that they be respectable and thrifty people who will take pride in maintaining and improving the houses and that they agree to make all repairs at their own expense.

Perfumed Petrol.

Will motorists in the future perfume our streets with the scent of attar of roses instead of the evil-smelling mixture which offends our nostrils as they pass?

The question is suggested by the statement that a quarter of a million gallons of motor spirit can be produced in the Hyderabad state of India by distilling the flowers of the mogra tree.

Mogra flowers are very rich in sugar, and a ton of the dried flowers produces as much as 90 gallons of 95 per cent pure spirit. They have long been in use for the preparation of a native alcoholic liquor, but only a small proportion of the trees available is needed for this purpose.

Resourceful Prevaricator.

A Lancashire man, who was afraid of his wife, arranged to go to the races with some friends, and explained to her that he was going fishing. On his way he called at a fish shop and asked the proprietor to send some fish home. Fish was very scarce that day, and a lot of cod's heads were delivered. When hubby returned home, after an enjoyable time, he said to his wife:

"Well, lass, did you get the fish I sent you?"

"I got a lot of cod's heads," was her reply.

"Quite right," was the retort. "You never saw such fish in your life as we had to tackle today. Before you could land 'em, you had to pull their bleeding heads off!"—London Answers.

HENRY F. BOCK, PLUMBER

'Phone 189

A visit to the display and work rooms of Henry Bock, plumber, in the new building east of the Wallace shop, on Stevens street, presented many surprises in the way of equipment etc. The display room, 25x40 feet, is well stocked with the latest and best in bath tubs, lavatories, toilets, hot water heaters, kitchen sinks and various other necessities of the plumbing business not generally kept in a town of this size. Among other household conveniences we noticed a number of stationary wash tubs or trays which appeal to any woman who has washing done in the home, as their convenience is realized at a glance. Pedestal lavatories are other things worthy of note. The work room in the rear is well fitted with all conveniences for facilitating the work and it has with it a cabinet well stocked with all the fittings needed in the business, each compartment labeled so no time need be lost in looking for fixtures. A pipe rack for the different sizes of plumber's pipe, occupies one side of the workroom. Ventilators have been installed in both the display room and the work room and these will add very materially to the comfort of both places. Mr. Bock has no superior in his line of work, anywhere, and always guarantees to give satisfaction.

The Kewpies, balloons and other paraphernalia incident to a Carnival, have arrived and it looks now as though the wants of the small boy and girl in that line will be provided for. Work will begin next week on the booths as well as the dance pavilion and everything will be in readiness for the opening date. Hundreds of electric lights will be strung over the grounds, each with a Japanese shade and this will make a fairyland indeed and something entirely new in this part of the country. The boys are expecting and preparing for a good time and a big crowd of people and here's hoping they may realize their expectations.

Frank Davis is expected home the first of the week from Omaha, Nebraska, where he has been under treatment of a specialist for some trouble with his eyes. He will leave that institution and start for home today or tomorrow. From reports received by his parents, his eyes must be much improved and he on the way to a complete recovery. Frank will stop in Wichita for a couple of days' rest with a relative in that city.
