JOURNAL "SALES" CLUB WILL CLOSE SHARP TEN O'CLOCK THURSDAY P.M.

Biggest Circulation Campaign Ever Inaugurated in the State of New Mexico Will Close Promptly at 10 O'clock Tomorrow Night--Studebaker Sedan--Light "6," Wire Wheel Equipped Studebaker, and Three Chevrolets Head List of Prizes--Judges Who Will Count Credits and Award Prizes Announced Below; All Are Well Known Business Men Who Have No Interest in Campaign Other Than to Count the Credits as Cast; Courage and Hustle These Last Few Hours More Than Ever Necessary to Success and a Motor Car.

Hope Now Isn't Knee High To Hustle

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO CLUB MEMBERS
All subscriptions deposited in the sealed ballot box must be accompanied by the full amount to cover. Report sheets must be made out as usual before depositing in the blind ballot box. Personal checks will not be accepted and if any are deposited in the ballot box they will be thrown out and votes will not be issued. This ruling is made in fairness to all club members. Cashier's checks, postal money orders, gold, silver and currency is of course all right in covering amounts called for on campaign reports.

The following well known local business men will act as judges to canvass the finds of the ballot box in The Morning Journal Salesmanship Club campaign which ends at 10 o'clock tomorrow, Thursday night, and will award the different prizes.

These gentlemen are well known in Albuquerque and surrounding territory and the result given out by them will be beyond dispute.

Walter M. Connell, Bond-Connell Sheep Co., Mayor of Albuquerque.

Chas. C. Roehl, vice president, Citizens National bank.

M. P. Stamm, retired citizen.

With the final hour--10 o'clock Thursday night, emblazoned on their minds stirring scenes are being enacted by the club members in the Morning Journal's Salesmanship Club now swiftly drawing to a close.

Aroused to unprecedented opportunities of winning the beautiful Studebaker Sedan, the Studebaker Light "6" with wire wheel equipment, or the classy Chevrolets, three of 'em, and the many other big prizes, each passing hour is instilling new energy into ambitious workers. Everywhere they are swarming in eager and anxious quest for the subscriptions that will win them the big credits--and possibly an automobile.

These workers pay no attention to frequent rumors that circulate with the hope of damaging effect. Misleading stories have one object--influencing some Club Member to retire for the fear of being passed by someone else in the race. Such tales have no foundation whatever. It is obvious that no one can determine the ultimate result of the campaign.

Courage and down-right hustle are the two main things to observe--credits are the one thing that will win the prizes, and every club member should--and for that matter is--taking it upon himself or herself to annex just as many credits as possible between now and the close.

FRANCE BOWS TO AMERICAN PROPOSAL ON FLEET RATIO

view prevail, the British would deem it necessary to seek radical increase in their allotments of anti-submarine craft as a measure of self-defense. That means more light cruisers and destroyers and possibly airplane carriers.

The correspondence between Mr. Hughes and Premier Briand shows Mr. Hughes dealt frankly with the situation created by the French proposal to build ten new capital ships.

"I regret to say," he said, "that after canvassing the matter and taking the best information I can obtain, I am compelled to conclude that it would not be possible on this basis to carry through the agreement."

Mr. Hughes added, after pointing out that the retained fleet agreement between Great Britain and the United States and Japan was contingent on "an appropriate agreement with France and Italy," and that "there will not be the slightest difficulty in making an agreement with Italy if we can reach a suitable understanding with France."

"Then you will observe the attitude of France will determine the success or failure of these efforts to reduce the heavy burden of naval armament."

Land Armament.
He also stressed the view that the premier's statement indicating to the conference "the particular situation of France with respect to land armament" seemed to point to the very genuine possibility of reduction in naval armament.

"At this time," he added, "when we are anxious to aid France in full recovery of her economic life, it would be disappointing to be advised that she was contemplating putting hundreds of millions in battle ships."

"That portion of Premier Briand's reply taken in acceptance of the American 175,000 capital ship tonnage proposal and beyond the strict letter of which, it is indicated, the French group did not go today, reads:

"With regard to the tonnage of capital ships, which is to say, attacking ships, which are the most costly, I have given serious thought to our delegates in the sense which you desire. I am certain that I shall be sustained by my parliament in this view."

"But so far as the defensive ships are concerned (light cruisers, torpedo boats and submarines) it would be impossible for the French government, without putting itself in contradiction with the votes of the chambers, to accept reductions corresponding to those which we accept for capital ships under this formal reserve which you will certainly understand."

Mr. Hughes pointed out that strict application to the French navy of the rule of reduction of tonnage applied in the provisional agreement between Great Britain, the United States and Japan, would bring her capital ship tonnage to 102,000 aggregate. He added that there was every disposition, however, to permit France to keep all her tonnage in draught ships, and even to make an allowance of 70,000 tons over the strict application of the rule of existing strength as was done in the American 175,000 ton suggestion.

"The proposed agreement really doubles the relative strength of the French navy," his message added, pointing out that if present American and British building programs, proposed to be abandoned, were carried out, each nation would have a naval preponderance of more than six to one over France "very shortly."

"And France would not be in a position to better herself, much less by any possible endeavor, to obtain such a relative strength as has been suggested," Mr. Hughes added.

Detailed Instructions.
The French delegation was understood to be in receipt tonight of detailed instructions as to the amount of auxiliary naval tonnage, including submarines, desired under an agreement to accept 175,000 tons of capital ships. Mr. Hughes' message disclosed that it would be possible for France, under that limitation, to build two new 35,000-ton post-Jutland battleships if she so desired.

Roughly, the submarine tonnage, built and building, now possessed by each of the five powers, follows:

United States, 95,000 tons;
Great Britain, 32,000; France, 42,000; Japan, 32,000; Italy, 22,000.

"The maximum of the American tonnage apparently was taken in the American original three power proposal, with 5,000 tons of submarine tonnage to be abandoned. Taking 30,000 as the American allotment, the Hughes plan would give Great Britain the same and Japan 34,000 tons, or a 60 per cent ratio.

Ratio of About 1.67.
The French 175,000-ton capital ship tonnage would mean a ratio of about 1.67 compared to the American and British five and Japan one three. If that ratio were applied to submarines, France would have nearly ten thousand tons more than her proportion and Japan more than twenty thousand tons less.

From what direction it is planned to attack the submarine tonnage problem should the conference fail to agree, as is expected, to abolition of submarines, is not known. There are indications, however, that the American group will be prepared with definite suggestions, both as to submarines and each other auxiliary craft element of the reduction plan when an appropriate moment for presentation comes.

Views of each of the other powers on these points are understood to be in process of development.

So far as the British desire to abolish, or at least closely curb submarine activities, it has been said officially for the British delegation that agreement to the capital ship five-five-three ratio, the ten-year naval holiday and the retained tonnage elements of the American program was in no sense conditional. The British intend, it is understood, to fight the submarine issue out on its merits.

Lines Are Not Clear.
The lines of the contest are not as yet clear, but an intimation came from Dutch circles tonight that while Holland was not concerned immediately in the conference, it was interested in the submarine question and would oppose any attempt by the conference to set a world policy of submarine abolition.

SAW 12 YAKKEES HANGED ABROAD, WITNESS STATES

He Is Unable to Say, However, Whether Any of Them Had Been Convicted By Court Martial.

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Dec. 20.—George H. Taylor of Philadelphia, who served overseas, told a senate committee today that he saw with his own eyes 12 American soldiers hanged around Is-Sur-Tille, France, from April to June, 1918, but was unable to say whether any of them had been convicted by court martial.

One of the soldiers hanged, he declared, was tried for assault on a French girl by a French court martial, at which one American officer was present. Taylor gave the name of the soldier and said he was a sergeant from Detroit, Mich., but the committee decided to omit the name from its records.

Witnessed a Lynching.
Robert A. Harrison of Wilmington, N. C., testified that in 1917 he witnessed the lynching in France of a soldier. The victim was a Mexican from El Paso, Texas, who was charged with a crime against a woman and not tried.

"It was told that the man had to be hanged to save some officers from being cashiered," Harrison declared.

Through a pair of field glasses, Harrison said he saw the lynching in which 30 men took part. He said he saw a "kittie party," he said, "I saw the body later with a rope around the neck."

Saw Two Executions.
Taylor, the first witness, also declared he saw two executions. The first was on April 1, 1919, at Camp Wilson, he said, and the entire command was ordered to the gallows.

"They had a double line of soldiers at the gallows," he said, "and Major Ross was in command. A chaplain went to the scaffold and prayed and then they hanged him."

"Was the man hanged tried by court martial?" Chairman Brandegee asked.

"I don't know," Harrison replied. He told of another lynching after the armistice, which he declared was directed by "Hard Boiled" Smith.

"This was of mine," said Harrison, lifting his left arm, "was broken while trying to save myself from 'Hard Boiled' Smith and a couple of negroes."

The witness said he saw men taken to the firing line without gas masks or guns, as a form of punishment.

Cause of the Lynching.
Pressed as to the cause of the lynching, Harrison said the victim had been ordered by Smith to sweep the stock yard with a tooth brush, and they had a little party when he refused.

"Were you court martialed?" Senator Overman, democrat, North Carolina, asked.

"Yes, the colonel cursed me and I answered him back and he sent me to the firing line after trial. His name? Colonel Holbrook. If I ever get him I'll make him remember me."

"They wouldn't give me a gas mask, and my trouble today is due to gas, the medical record shows."

Questioned by Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia, whose charges that American soldiers were illegally executed in France led to the inquiry, Taylor, the Philadelphia witness, said the evidence in the court martial of the Detroit sergeant given in French, but an interpreter was in attendance. The crime was rape.

"Was the man allowed counsel?" Senator Brandegee asked.

"One American officer was there. He was asked some questions."

Heart and Brain Removed.
After the hanging, Taylor said he saw the man's heart and brain were removed "to see if he was crazy."

"Who did that?"
"A major in the American medical corps."

"Know his name?"
"No."

"Was the sergeant allowed to tell his side of it to the French court?" Senator Watson asked.

"No sir, he wasn't asked to testify, but he did say he wasn't responsible for the death of the girl concerned in the rape charge."

C. & B. & Q. RAILROAD OFFICIAL SUCCUMBS

(By The Associated Press.)

Galesburg, Ill., Dec. 20.—John D. Besler, since 1855 affiliated with the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, died at his apartment here last night.

It was Mr. Besler who, nearly 20 years ago, conceived the idea of planting Catalpa trees along the right of way which he believed some day would supply railroad ties for the railroad. Many of these trees have been used to make fence posts for the railroad.

Mr. Besler was born in southern Germany April 10, 1823. He came to America in a sailing vessel in 1852.

CATCH PRISONER WHO ESCAPED FROM JAIL

Chicago, Dec. 20.—George Rogers, 23, who escaped from jail in Toledo, Ohio, on Labor day in connection with the $1,000,000 mail robbery in Toledo last February, was captured today in Pales Park, a suburb, the police announced.

Postal inspectors caused the arrest by tracing a letter Rogers was said to have written to a woman.

U. S. ENVOYS AND HARDING DIFFER ON NEW TREATY

continued, "has been emphasized as a division between the president and the delegates to the conference in construing the four-power agreement."

The president announced tonight that the difference in view in no wise will be permitted to embarrass the conference or the ratification of the agreement. He had assumed all along that the spirit of the conference contemplates a confidence which pledges respect of territory in every way which tends to promote lasting peace.

"He has learned from the United States delegates that they have agreed to the construction which includes the homeland of Japan in the term 'insular possessions and insular dominions,' and has no objection to that construction."

Discussed in Senate.
The language of the treaty thus brought into question has also been the subject of senate discussion, and in response to inquiries based on the assertions of the opponents of ratification, spokesmen for the American delegation have said repeatedly that the major Japanese group must be regarded as included within the agreement.

When he set forth an opposite view today, Mr. Harding was said by officials to have acted without consultation with his state department advisers and without any definite purpose of announcing the attitude of the administration. It was declared he merely was voicing a personal opinion, and had no thought of precipitating a clash in conference circles.

Effect on Delegates.
The effect on the delegates, however, was immediately apparent. None would comment, but among the Americans, British, French and Japanese there was a desire to have the attitude of the American government clarified at the meeting, and as Senators Lodge and Underwood were hastening to the White House, a British spokesman was telling newspaper men that a view opposite to that of the president had been communicated to the American plenipotentiaries during the negotiations.

Baron Kato, of Japan, was one of those who showed great interest in the president's attitude. A pledge of secrecy, he said, prevented him from divulging whether or there had been an agreement as to application of the treaty to the principal Japanese islands, and he added that "the meaning adopted at the signing might be changed in the future, so I can say nothing at this time."

In British quarters, it was said that it was the British and Americans who took the lead in framing the treaty so as to apply to all the Japanese group, and that the Japanese for a time opposed the arrangement.

Definition of the geographical scope of the treaty is included in article one of the agreement, and follows:

"The high contracting powers agree as between themselves to respect their rights in relation to their insular possessions and insular dominions in the region of the Pacific ocean."

N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE STARTS REFORM MOVE

(By The Associated Press.)

New York, Dec. 20.—Officials of the New York Stock Exchange launched a country-wide reform movement when announcement was made that the stock tickers and other wire connections of a number of non-member, out of town houses had been withdrawn because of alleged "irregularities."

Names of the offenders and the specific reasons which led to this drastic action were not disclosed. In general, however, they were charged with having reported transactions to customers "at prices different from the actual prices at which such transactions took place, to their own profit, and to the injury of their customers."

DUTY ON SUGAR FAVORED, FOUGHT AT SENATE QUIZ

American and Porto Rican Interests Want a 2-Cent Levy; Louisiana Producers 2.5 Cents.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Dec. 20.—American and Porto Rican sugar interests asked the senate finance committee today for a duty of two cents a pound on Cuban raw sugar, while Louisiana cane producers urged that the duty be made 2.5 cents a pound. The rate proposed in the Fordney bill is 1.6 cents a pound, an increase of six-tenths of one cent over the Underwood law duty and the same rate in force under the emergency tariff act.

Spokesmen for the American beet and cane interests, in concluding presentation of their case, declared that their industries were threatened with destruction and would be forced to suspend if the present duty were continued. This would leave the American field open to the Cuban cane industry, they said, adding that events last year when raw sugar went to 22½ cents a pound indicated what would happen if American consumers under such a condition. The witnesses said the issue before congress was whether the American sugar industry, which now supplies half the nation's needs, was to be sacrificed to aid Cuba. They said there was no disposition to injure Cuba and that if production in that country was reduced to somewhere near the present total of 2,000,000 tons, or half of the amount consumed annually in the United States, the Cuban industry would be put back on its feet.

Louisiana producers charged that the American producers in Cuba were the American refiners who always had fought a duty on Cuban sugar.

They and the beet sugar industry spokesmen also declared that the Cuban producers had 1,250,000 tons of sugar from last year's crop which they were threatening to throw on the American market at one cent a pound.

Representatives of the beet sugar industry said the two cent duty was necessary because of the differences in costs in the United States and Cuba.

In a brief filed with the committee, Gray Silver, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, suggested that the maximum rate on sugar be made 1.6 cents a pound, with authority given the president to increase this rate "if it should become evident that American producers were losing ground to the detriment of the country."

LITTLE PROGRESS IS MADE AT PARLEY OF PREMIERS IN LONDON

(By The Associated Press.)
London, Dec. 20 (by the Associated Press).—Not much progress has been made thus far, it was learned tonight in the conversations between Premier Briand of France and Lloyd George of Great Britain on German reparations and kindred questions. The two met again this morning but did not get together in an afternoon.

Talking to the Associated Press tonight, Mr. Briand said he was unable to give any details of the conversations which ranged over a wide field, including reparations and the intentions of France should Germany fail to meet her financial obligations, due January 15. He emphasized that his full agreement with Mr. Lloyd George did not constitute a conference, which could be called only after an accord had been reached in an exchange of views.

MARKET REPORTS BY WIRELESS IN KANSAS PLANNED BY COLLEGE

(By The Associated Press.)
Manhattan, Kans., Dec. 20.—A wireless telephone station in every county seat in Kansas, with which to receive the official daily market reports, is a plan the extension division of the Kansas State Agricultural college now has under way. The report will be read from the college here. The significant telephone market report system will supplant the wireless telegraph system now operative. The telegraph system has been found inadequate because of the lack of operators who can take the report at the various county seats. The county farm agent's office in each county seat will be the receiving station for the daily telephone report.

A high powered wireless telephone plant will be installed at the agricultural college early next year. The wireless telephone service is intended to supplement the market service of the United States department of agriculture.

In addition to the official station there may be several volunteer stations in a county, among them rural school stations, operated under the direction of the Radio Association of the Schools of Kansas. This association was formed at the last meeting of the Kansas State Teachers' association at Topeka.

PLAYERS, "SWAPPED" BY YANKEES AND RED SOX

(By The Associated Press.)
New York, Dec. 20.—The management of the New York American league team announced late today that the club had traded Pitchers William Peryer, Rip Collins and Jack Quinn and Shortstop Peckinpah to the Boston Americans in exchange for Pitchers Joe Bush and Sam Jones and Shortstop Everett Scott.

No cash consideration was involved in the deal, it was said by Colonel Jacob Ruppert, part owner of the Yankees.

The need of strengthening the Yankees' pitching staff by the acquisition of veterans such as Bush and Jones, was made impressive during the last world's series. Quinn is a veteran, while Collins and Peryer are youngsters. Peryer was deprived recently of his world's series money and suspended until May 20, by Commissioner Landis for participating in the barnstorming tour for which "Babe" Ruth was also punished.

CANNOT RECALL WALKOUT ORDER LEADERS CLAIM

(By The Associated Press.)
Denver, Colo., Dec. 20.—Leaders of the local union of packing house employees are without authority to rescind the order instructing the workers to strike, as the order was issued by the national executive board of the union, counsel of three union officials declared today in answer filed in district court to contempt of court proceedings brought by the state industrial commission.

"The local officers did not call a strike; they merely transmitted to the men a strike order of the national general executive board which they have no authority to rescind," the defense counsel contended. It was further stated in the answers that the men "are not members of the union, which comes up before Judge J. C. Morley tomorrow."

The filings are a part of argument of the defense in the trial of three union leaders and 48 other members of the union, which comes up before Judge J. C. Morley tomorrow.

They are charged by the state industrial commission with having quit work at the packing plants without giving the commission 30 days' notice of their intention to do so, as required by law. Subsequently the defendants were cited for contempt of court for refusal to carry out a mandatory order directing them to call off the strike when the commission took jurisdiction in the controversy.

There are approximately 1,200 members of the local butcher women's union, according to President McCreash.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 20 (by the Associated Press).—Otto Boeck, for nearly seven years assistant United States attorney here, has announced his intention of resigning January 1, to enter private practice again. Mr. Boeck was appointed in 1914 by Federal Judge William H. Taft, Jr. and served under several judges. During his term of office Mr. Boeck has handled the federal coal investigations ordered under the Capper-Vesey act, also hundreds of prohibition cases, narcotic prosecutions and cases arising out of violations of the new federal law covering the transfer from one state to another of stolen automobiles.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL.)
Santa Fe, Dec. 20.—State Bank Examiner Read, in charge of the Santa Fe bank, which closed with more than $250,000 of state funds from the state treasurer's office on deposit, has presented to the directors his report on the condition of the institution. Read said the report was conditional, and it has not been made public by the directors.

There is a report current here that a bank of another city is considering the matter of taking over the institution and reorganizing its affairs, which would mean resumption of business under adequate financial aid. No authoritative confirmation of this report is to be had.

CONTRACTS AWARDED BY HIGHWAY ENGINEER

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO THE JOURNAL.)
Santa Fe, Dec. 20.—Three different firms received the contracts just awarded by the state highway engineer for the building of two federal aid projects and one state aid road, the latter provided for by special act of the last legislature.

The New Mexico Construction company, incorporated, of Albuquerque, will build federal aid project No. 61-b, in Bernalillo county. This is the first project in New Mexico to be awarded to this company.

Peterson Shirley & Gunther of Omaha will build the state aid road, 2.14 miles, in Lea county, 14.181 miles on the Carlsbad-Lovington highway. The contract price is $127,262.

Duval, Johnston & Sappington of Roswell will build federal aid project No. 70, in Lea county, 14.181 miles on the Carlsbad-Lovington highway. The contract price is $129,708.75.

ARGUE C. S. PETITION FOR AN INJUNCTION

(By The Associated Press.)
Boston, Mass., Dec. 20.—The petition of Herbert W. Espinosa and Paul Harvey, trustees of the Christian Scientists Publishing company, for an injunction to prevent their removal by the board of directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist (Mother church), was argued in the supreme court today. While Sherman L. Whipple was presenting the trustees' side Judge Crosby remarked that the court has held that the directors have the power to remove a trustee without the assent of the church.

ELKS PROVIDING CHRISTMAS FOR 1500 CHILDREN

Woman's Auxiliary Fills Stockings and Makes Warm Garments for Poor Children of the City.

Over 1,500 bright red stockings full to the hem with nuts, candies and fruits and as many practical gifts for winter comfort are stacked up in the Elks' club building in preparation for the big community celebration about the winter solstice on Christmas day. The giant tree on Christmas day, the woman's share of the work was completed yesterday afternoon.

Sixty women, wives and sisters of Elks, met at the club yesterday afternoon to fill the stockings of red and white net. In about two hours' work 1,517 stockings were stuffed and set aside ready for the poor children who will receive them. Each stocking contains an orange, an apple, assorted nuts and candies.

The celebration will be held at 2 o'clock on Christmas afternoon. All of the stockings and the gifts of toys contributed by the Elks will be stacked on the wooden platform at the base of the big tree. A railroad runway will be built up north and south across the platform so that the children may pass in single file past the tree and receive their presents as they go by. A genial and ruddy Santa Claus will be in charge of the distribution.

Only the toys and stockings will be distributed at the tree. The great quantities of clothing made by the Elks' auxiliary, the warm stockings, coats and underwear will be delivered to the poor children who are known to be in need of particular garments. Baskets containing Christmas dinner supplies will be distributed by the Salvation Army and Bureau of charities to 125 families. Money for this purpose is being collected by the newspapers of the city. Any gifts left over from the Elks celebration will also be contributed to this basket fund.

VOTE IS BEING TAKEN BY SANTA FE SHOP MEN ABOUT A STRIKE FUND

A vote is being taken by the members of the various shop crafts at Albuquerque and along the Santa Fe system on the question of raising a strike benefit fund.

In the event of the vote's carrying, each employee will contribute his wages for one day. Sentiment here is about on a balance, it is stated. The purpose of the strike fund is the combating of the proposed wage cut of shop crafts, by the railroads, should a strike become necessary.

The return was deferred to that date so that witnesses might be brought in from a distance.

SECURITY ISN'T WORTH AMOUNTS LOANED, ASSERT

Finance Corporation Is Stretching a Point to Save the Livestock Industry
From Destruction.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Santa Fe, Dec. 20.—The federal government, through the war finance corporation, is lending more money on livestock than the security is actually worth, in an effort to save the livestock industry from destruction, it was brought out through testimony given at the second day session of the annual conference of county tax officials with the state tax committee. The conference heard both J. M. Haynolds, president of the First National bank of Albuquerque, and Arthur Seligman, who is vice president of the First National bank of Santa Fe, and a director of a loan company organized to co-operate with the government loan agency.

Attitude of Banks.
Ryndall testified as to the attitude of the banks toward livestock loans, explaining that the government agency is lending more money than the banks can afford to lend. Banks would like to help the livestock industry, but cannot do so at the peril of stockholders and depositors.

Seligman said the government is accepting a valuation of $5 on sheep, lending $8 per cent of that valuation while the actual value of sheep is known to be much less. Banks are now calling livestock paper, and loans secured from the government are largely for the purpose of taking up loans at the banks. Seligman said the government is not so much in business as it is trying to render service to the whole public by saving the livestock industry from disaster.

While the government is accepting a value of $5 for loan purposes, sheepmen are asking for valuation of $8 for taxation purposes. The same ratio prevails as to cattle. Testimony taken and arguments heard at this conference will be used by the assessors and tax commissioners to determine values which will be used for assessment purposes in 1922. Power to fix these valuations is vested in the county assessors, who have the power to fix the assessment of grazing lands.

Scale of Valuations.
The conference will end some time Wednesday. Legislation in form scale of valuations will be agreed upon. In addition to the two bankers, several cattlemen with extensive holdings were heard, and a number of assessors and tax commissioners expressed their views.

WOULD PROTECT SONS OF WEALTHY MEN FROM VAMPIRE ACTRESSES

(By The Associated Press.)

New York, Feb. 20.—Legislation by Congress prohibiting marriages for thirty days after the announcement of an engagement "as it will be impossible for an actress to get the son of a rich man drunk and marry him before he gets sober," was recommended by Dr. Wilbur S. Crafts, head of the International Reform bureau of Washington, in an address before a gathering of Methodist ministers. Other plans in a program for the betterment of mankind he said his organization would strive for included:
"An effort to induce the nations represented at the arms conference after they have finished a discussion of war problems.
"The adoption of an amendment to the federal constitution for a uniform divorce law similar to the present New York statute.
"A fight against 'guide' pictures that put beauty above duty," and against newspapers and magazines publishing them, and against publication of racing odds that might encourage betting.
"Regulation of the motion picture industry.
"Another amendment to the federal constitution which will prohibit the giving to Catholic and Jewish institutions public money derived from the taxation of Methodists and members of other denominations."

DISEASED MEN WORK IN PACKING PLANTS, CHARGE OF UNIONIST

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 20.—A committee of three city commissioners was appointed today to investigate a charge by J. H. Davis, district president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's union, that diseased men were being employed in the packing houses to take the place of men who are on strike. Mr. Davis was spokesman for a delegation of women strike sympathizers who marched to the city hall.
O. C. Willis, of Ames, and company, said that physicians examined the employees in packing plants and that the charge of the union head was "absolute rot."

'GANG OF FIVE' DOES NOT CALL FOR THE $5,000

The "Gang of Five," probably one or more boys, threw a scare into the minds of Father Weeks and several other of the Old Albuquerque priests last week through a so-called "black hand" letter. The letter demanded that $5,000 be buried under a bench in Highland park by Saturday night.

If it was not buried there by the appointed time, murder, fire and many other unpleasant things were hinted at.

The jokesters, whoever they were, apparently did not have much faith in the letter being taken seriously, for although the officers of the sheriff's office saw to it that box containing $5,000 was promptly buried, no one has come to collect the forced Christmas present.

The letter follows and was addressed to "The Fathers of the Church of San Felipe." "We are a gang of five; we don't ask nothing from you Fathers, only we are in need of $5,000 each. And you Fathers will come across with the $5,000. If you Fathers refuse to give up this amount of money, all you Fathers will lose your lives. Be sure and don't tell nobody; no police of no kind. This money should be taken to the High Land Park and be set under the first bench only 6 inches deep; if you fathers notify the police and one of the gang will be caught; but if you fathers will be blown up too; from this date of 15 we will give you 48 hours to think of time; remember the place under first bench 6 inches deep between first to legs of the bench at the High Land Park. Now is your time to think. Refuse; you fathers will be sorry afterwards. If you accept you Fathers will be saved from the Gang of Five."

"Sign."

COUNTY TO SAVE A LARGE SUM BY DOING OWN WORK

In spite of the fact that the contractors' bids ranged from $3.50 to $4.50 a yard, the graving of the extension of the Rio Grande boulevard north of Old Albuquerque is being done by the county, under the supervision of the county road superintendent, at a cost of $1.95 per yard.

The road was graded by the county last fall and bids were asked for the graving of several miles of the road. When the bids were opened it was found that the county could not afford to pay such prices as were asked and the matter was dropped for a few minutes. The commissioners while they drew deep sighs of surprise and awe.

The county road superintendent then came to the rescue with the statement that the county itself could do the job at about one dollar a yard. Reluctantly and doubtfully, the commissioners authorized him to start work. A large amount of the road is now completed and the cost for the entire job will not run over $1.95 per yard.

500,000 CHRISTIANS IN BURMA, HALF OF WHOM ARE BAPTISTS

(By The Associated Press.)

Rangoon, Burma, Dec. 20.—The missionary conference, which recently closed its thirty-fifth annual session here, presented statistics to show that there are now about 500,000 Christians in Burma, half of whom are Baptists.

Dr. Joseph C. Robbins of New York, representing the American Baptist Foreign Mission society of which he is foreign secretary for British India, in an address to the missionaries, discussed important problems and emphasized the advisability of new missionaries making a thorough study of the Burmese language in order better to adapt the viewpoint of the people with whom they work. The chief topic of debate was the question of grants-in-aid, which the mission has been receiving from the British government for its educational work. Though many contended that the acceptance of these financial grants is a violation of the historical Baptist doctrine of the separation of church and state, the conference voted that present conditions in Burma justify the continuance of this policy.

The "conscience clause" was another disputed question. Its adoption would mean that in all mission schools attendance at Bible study classes would be optional rather than compulsory. The conference recommended the appointment of an educational secretary for Baptist schools in Burma. Another important action was the decision to establish at Imela a Burmese and Karen language school for new missionaries. At Taunggyi, Burma, a school is being established for the children of missionaries. An American teacher has already arrived and the institution is to open early in 1922.

The report for Judson college, Rangoon, showed that, in spite of the student strike, the total enrollment had increased since December, 1920. During this time there has been a 25 per cent increase in the number of women students.

"B" Theater—"Cappy Ricks" is being repeated today with Thomas Melghan and Agnes Ayres at the head of all-star cast; also repeating the "Travellers" and "Current Events" pictures.

Lyric Theater—Will Rogers, one of the best of the Lyric circuit, is repeating today, starting in "A Poor Relation"; also repeating the "Fox News" pictures and "Current Events" pictures.

Pastime Theater—Barbara Bedford is still at the Pastime, starting in "Cinderella of the Hills"; also repeating the "Fox News" pictures and the cartoons of "Mutt and Jeff."

HISTORIC PIER AT THE BOSTON LANDING PLACE SHOWN IN "CAPPY RICKS"

The historic state pier in South Boston was shown for several scenes of "Cappy Ricks." Thomas Melghan's new Paramount picture which is being repeated today at the "B" theater. It was here that Thomas Melghan, Agnes Ayres, Charles Abbe and other members of the "Cappy Ricks" company played a ring scenes directed by Tom Forman. It was the exact spot where President Woodrow Wilson landed in America on his return from the peace conference in Versailles, in Boston harbor, the scene of the tea party of Revolutionary fame. The rocky coast off the famous summer resort at Bar Harbor, Me., and the Golden Gate in San Francisco harbor are other interesting places which are used as backgrounds in "Cappy Ricks."

"A Poor Relation," the Goldwyn picture starring Will Rogers, which was presented at the Lyric theater yesterday and which is being repeated today, is the photoplay version of the famous stage play of the same name by Edward E. Kidder. For the past thirty-one years, "A Poor Relation" has been successfully played by every character actor of note and in nearly every stock company. The role of Noah Vale, the philosopher-inventor, is ideally suited to the rich, dry humor of Will Rogers. And story seem to have been made for one another. The picture retains the humor and the heart interest that made the appeal of the stage play irresistible and universal. In support of Will Rogers, the Goldwyn company has gathered an admirable cast, including Sylvia Breamer, Molly Malone, Wallace MacDonald, Sydney Ainsworth, and the two remarkable child actors, Robert De Vilbiss and Jeanette Trebbel. "A Poor Relation" was directed by Clarence Manger, who has been associated with Will Rogers in twelve consecutive Goldwyn productions.

NEW FOX STAR WINS IN EXCELLENT PLAY, "CINDERELLA OF THE HILLS"

Barbara Bedford well upheld the reputation of her producer, William Fox, when she appeared in "Cinderella of the Hills" at the Pastime theater yesterday and which is being repeated today, and justified her recent elevation to stardom. Her ability is astonishing, when one considers that she is not yet out of her teens.

The story, by John Breckenridge Ellis, is of a mysterious girl of the mountains, living in fear of her stepmother. One day Claude Wolcott comes to the property of the Gradleys to sink oil wells, and with him is a former lover of the beautiful stepmother, Mrs. Gradley. The engineer is attracted by the mistreated girl, and his companion renews his love making with Mrs. Gradley. Mr. Gradley is made frantic by the actions of his wife. Then follow several complications that lead to the death of the stepmother and to a totally unexpected final climax. Howard M. Mitchell, who has directed Shirley Mason in many of her Fox successes, was the director of Miss Bedford. His long experience is apparent. He knows how to emphasize at every stage the strong points of the star.

The cast includes Carl Miller as leading man; Cecil Van Arker as the "heavy"; Barbara La Marr as the stepmother; Tom McCall as the father, and Wilson Hummel as a village gossip.

CLEVENGER CASE IS DISMISSED BY ARMIJO

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Las Vegas, N. M., Dec. 20.—The case of J. R. Clevenger, Santa Fe engineer, charged with a statutory offense and found guilty last June, and remanded for new trial, has been dismissed by District Attorney Armijo. The ground for dismissal was the supreme court's statement that at the first trial there was not sufficient evidence to convict. The district attorney said he had no more evidence to offer.

THE MAIL BAG.

Margaret: A double chin cannot be reduced quickly, but it can be reduced if you are patient and if you persist. Massage and knead the skin with the hands, using a rather vigorous motion to break up the particles of flesh under the skin, then rub for at least five minutes with a piece of ice.

Discouraged Betty: If your eyes are always bloodshot and red, I am inclined to think it is because they are a little strained. You may need glasses or you may only need a little rest and a general building up. You have cried a great deal for the last three years, you have been in an unhappy and depressed state of mind. This is certainly going to affect you all over and in all sorts of unforeseen ways. The health of the hair is always affected by nervousness and depression, so is the complexion and so are the eyes. I would advise you to rest and to build yourself up and to do everything to make your life happier before you give in to a feeling that your eyes are ruined for life.

Mrs. B. V. W.: The only thing that will permanently remove the growth of hair on the face is the electric needle. To get these treatments you will have to go to an electric needle specialist, who charges by the hour and who can remove quite a few hairs during an hour's sitting. Do not shave, but bleach the hairs with peroxide and pull them out with a pair of tweezers.

Betty D.: Send me a letter with a self-addressed stamped envelope enclosed and I will send you a formula for developing the bust.

Mrs. Fatty: A great deal of dancing, being vigorous exercise, should certainly reduce you, unless you allow the appetite as a result of all this exercise to lead you into over-eating.

B. E. N.: If the growth of the hair on your arms annoys you, do not try to pull out the individual hairs, instead bleach this growth with peroxide.

A girl of 16, 5 feet 3 inches, should not weigh more than 120 pounds.

E. W.: If your skin is too oily use astringents on it. Do not use any cold cream, but wash with hot water and castile soap every day and follow this by an ice rub or by using toilet water or any good astringent.

Corrina: If the hair is curled every two weeks with a very hot iron it is quite likely to stop growing. The curling iron should never be hot. If the hair must be curled, it is much better to use kid curlers. A girl 15, 5 feet 2 1/2 inches, should weigh 117 pounds.

A woman of 40, 5 feet 5 1/2 inches, should weigh 139.

Minna L. H.: You can remove the blackheads from the nose by using the blackhead cleansing powder, a formula for which I will send you if you will mail me a self-addressed stamped envelope. I imagine it is much the same as the powder you mention.

TAFFETA FROCK IS SPRING SEASON'S ADVANCE AGENT

By ELOISE.

The first question of what will be in spring is invariably answered by the rustling of taffetas. Attractive frocks of this material are already being made up for early spring showing. Many of them are trimmed with ruffled tunics, hemstitching, embroidery or Persian colored sleeves. Taffeta is a youthful material which only the slender figures can stand and therefore most of the new taffeta frocks are built on slender lines.

This model is typical of the spring taffetas. It is fashioned of a rich shade of brown. The skirt features a petal tunic edged with narrow ruffles. The bodice is made on the overblouse style, with a plain front and back, and the short taffeta sleeves are cut petal shape and show long sleeves of ruby colored georgette with tiny ruffled cuffs of the taffeta. Such a frock will be sure to find its way into the wardrobe of the school miss who will want some such gown for afternoon teas and informal parties.

1922 CAMPAIGN OF Y. W. C. A. TO OPEN JANUARY 4

The annual finance campaign for the Young Woman's Christian association will be held on January 4, 5 and 6. It was determined at the December meeting of the board of directors on Monday evening. The budget necessary to operate the organization for the coming year has been set at $5,000.

The campaign will be conducted by Mrs. A. B. Stroup, chairman of the finance committee of the board. Members of the board will head teams of solicitors composed of members of all of the committees. The budget set is the lowest for several years, the board having cut its expenses on every hand and placed more of the financial burden of the institution on the cafeteria business.

The board decided to turn in the old automobile which has been used for the hospitality work of the association for the past two years and to purchase a new one. The association automobile is of great service to a large number of convalescent young women of the city who are served by the hospitality department. Reports of all department secretaries were read and approved at the board meeting. Mrs. David Spence Hill was welcomed as a new member of the board.

Reports on the Christmas work indicate that all of the girls' organizations of the Y. W. C. A. are foregoing any Christmas celebration of their own in order to devote their time, money and effort to giving pleasure to the lonely girls and orphan children of the city. Through the efforts of the Adelante club and the Women's Page-Helene association about a hundred individual baskets of Christmas goodies will be distributed before Christmas to convalescent girls. The C. U. P. club is providing clothes and presents for two orphan children and the Girl Reserves are dressing twenty-five dolls for Christmas presents for poor children.

16.39 INCHES OF RAIN FALLS AT MT. WILSON SINCE LAST SATURDAY

(By The Associated Press.) Los Angeles, Dec. 20.—Rain continued to fall today in southern California but reports indicated that the damage would not be as great as had at first been indicated. The precipitation at Mount Wilson continued heavy and since the storm began Saturday 16.39 inches have been recorded. In Los Angeles the fall was 2.78 inches.

CHILD ALMOST STRANGLED. Mrs. G. Grab, 3116 Washington Ave., New Orleans, La., writes: "My child had a cough so bad she would almost strangle coughing. Foley's Honey and Tar relieved her cough, and I recommend it to any mother." Foley's Honey and Tar gets right at the seat of trouble, clears nose and throat of mucus, heals raw and inflamed surfaces, loosens tightness of the chest and checks croup, whooping cough, bronchitis and "flu" coughs. Sold everywhere.

RIPPLING RHYMES

By WAIT MASON.

LONGING FOR PEACE.

I'd gladly see the scraggins of every gun and pike, I'd see no war flags flapping, no legions on the hike; glad days I would be creating if swords made hooks for pruning, or instruments for tuning pianos and the like. I see the big ships lying in San Diego bay, their flags and pennants flying in brigs and brave array; they seem in handsome fettle, but oh, what woes we'd settle, if all their tons of metal were used for moving hay! You cruiser cost a million, that battleship cost four; and I, a mild civilian, am taxed until I'm sore; my burden greater waxes; I'm tired of paying taxes to buy more battle-axes and implements of gore. The man who works for wages soon finds his name is Mud; the tax collector rates for money, in a flood; and nearly every shilling is spent for bygone killing or plans for future spilling of useful human blood. The warships take our cousins, our uncles and our sons, take them away by dozens to shoot off silly guns; and all these boys we're needing, for reaping and for seeding, and not for futile bleeding where some punk ocean ringer. Scrap all the ships and cruisers that loaf along the wave; no nations will be losers when they have found their grave; it is an idle notion to think that ships in motion upon the brinded ocean will make the world behave.

TIMES ARE LEAN FOR LONDON PHYSICIANS

(By The Associated Press.) London, Dec. 20.—Physicians and surgeons have fallen upon lean times, and complaints of dwindling practices are widespread. The other day a doctor from the fashionable Harley street district was sued in the courts for a small debt which he declared he was unable to pay because his practice had "dropped almost to the vanishing point."

Fashionable doctors say that so many ordinary practitioners have had war-time experience in surgery cases that in thousands of instances, they now go their own operating instead of sending their patients to specialists. Another reason is that many formerly well-to-do people who would in other circumstances have consulted a prominent physician now go to hospitals where they obtain treatment at much lower cost. Others say that women now prefer to be attended by doctors of their own sex and that psychoanalysis and various forms of faith healing account for the falling off in the number of patients.

HATCH BANK WILL MOVE. Las Cruces, N. M., Dec. 20.—The Bank of Hatch, located at Hatch, N. M., soon will be moved here. A meeting will be held shortly to elect officers and select quarters.

OPEN AN OLD GRAVE. Aztec, N. M., Dec. 20.—While digging a trench for the gas pipes through his back yard, C. E. Rippey opened an old Aztec grave. He secured the services of Earl Morris, archaeologist, and they took from the grave six pieces of pottery and a skeleton. One piece of pottery was unique in the red color, which has lasted through the ages.

TO TAKE FEDERAL JOB. Las Cruces, N. M., Dec. 20.—J. H. Evans, secretary of the Elephant Butte Irrigation district, will join the U. S. biological survey early next year and devote his time to extending the campaign of rodent extermination in this district. His headquarters will be at Albuquerque.

GIBBONS INJURES HAND. St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 20.—Mike Gibbons, middleweight boxer, injured his right hand in his fight with Mike O'Dowd in which Gibbons won the newspaper decision last week, but plans to go to England for bouts as soon as the injury heals. He will return in the spring, he said today.

THE NEW GENERATION

By JANE PHELPS

JOAN DECIDES TO BE FAIR TO MARGARET.

CHAPTER 44.

It seemed to Joan when her mother discussed age that 20 years back was in the dark ages, that when she was 20 years older she would feel old, and not care to do what young people did. But Mumie let her do as she wanted to, and of course she should allow Mumie the same privilege.

Sometimes she thought of what her mother once had said concerning her, Joan's marriage—that then she would be left alone and lonely. Of course that was all foolishness. Perhaps she would not marry, but if she did Mumie would always live with her.

"I couldn't get along without her," she declared aloud. "I never could in the world." As usual thinking of life, so being unconsciously selfish.

Joan had a capacity for facing facts. She told her mother that really earnest-minded young people always did so instead of evading them as Gloria Freeman and Lonnie Carpenter did.

Joan enjoyed her own youth in such a tense way, self-conscious when she talked in this superior manner, yet not annoyingly so. So now she faced the fact that her mother was not quite happy, and was disturbed.

"I wish to be dead fair with Mumie," she soliloquized, never dreaming how central she was in deciding her mother's life—rather in attempting to decide it. "I'll not say one word—not if she buys clothes all the colors of the rainbow and bobs her hair!" she shook her own bobbed golden curls emphatically. It was decided. Mumie should dress as she pleased.

A feeling of a disagreeable duty well performed possessed her. She had put aside her own feeling for Margaret's sake, although still unconvinced that it was either right or proper. Had it not been for the influence of Ted Walters' mother it is doubtful if she would have decided so emphatically in Margaret's favor.

So Margaret and Mrs. Walters shopped, and planned a gay season in New York when Joan should have entered college, and so Margaret be alone.

Margaret had been a trifle more anxious than usual over Joan's talk of the two boys, her manner of deciding her feeling for them. But she comforted herself by the recollection that Joan had gone through the experiences of her 16 years very successfully.

And, naturally, after this she watched both boys as well as Joan more closely than ever. She knew the feeling of the tide of young who were always in and out of the house in the wake of Joan, who was always their leader. They felt she was monopolizing the two most eligible boys. Ted was a New York boy for one thing which, as Hortense Thompson said, "made him different, and more fascinating than the home boys," although it was unquestioned that Malcolm was both brilliant and good looking.

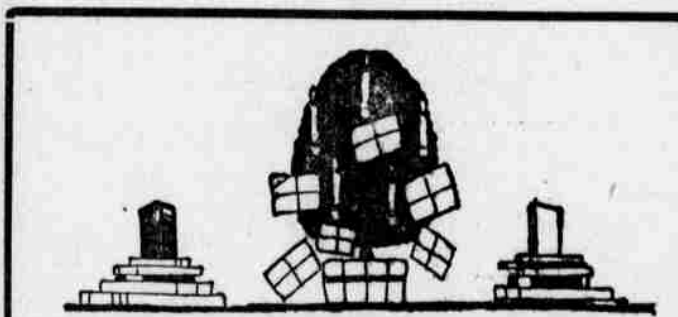

Fathers and mothers liked Malcolm this kind of thing. He was persona grata with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, also with the Freemans. Gloria and Hortense had at times shown a sort of jealousy of Joan because of him, yet enough to lose Joan's friendship. That was one peculiarity about Joan. She held the friendship, the admiration of the girls even while they resented her popularity with the boys, because it invariably eclipsed their own.

Joan was a born leader. Her manner half caressing, half arrogant, the girls found charming. So they were way, when necessary, rather than lose her friendship. Margaret told herself she was silly to worry over Joan's intimacy with either Malcolm or Ted that she was to be trusted to handle her own affairs. But she didn't quite succeed.

"They are nothing but children," she told herself, and tried to find that fact soothing.

The more she watched Joan the more puzzled she was. It seemed almost as if an epidemic of love-making had broken out among the boys and girls of her set. They sat in corners holding hands, or with arms about waists or flung over shoulders, wandered in the early moonlight.

"I shall be glad when vacation is over," Margaret murmured when she saw Joan and Ted silhouetted against the glass, their heads close together.

Read What These Men Say About Building the Hotel

If houses for 5,000 more people can be built in Albuquerque there will be 5,000 more people to occupy them. We have tried and proved this with the sanatoria. Every new sanatorium and every enlargement has been filled to capacity immediately. We have tried and proved this with houses in dozens and hundreds. Why not give Albuquerque a chance to grow in thousands?

What is true of residences and sanatoria will be true of apartment houses and hotels. The more we build the more we will find people. The new hotel is the opening wedge to city building on a larger scale. I regard its immediate construction as vital to Albuquerque.

A. G. SHORTLE

I have stated publicly and do not hesitate to repeat that to send out word that Albuquerque has failed in its effort to build the new community hotel will immediately depreciate the value of every dollar's worth of property in this city by 10 per cent.

The assessed valuation of our city is approximately twenty million dollars. A loss of ten per cent in valuation means a loss to us of two million dollars, in which every property owner will share.

The total cost of building the hotel is $350,000, of which $230,000 has been subscribed. An additional $120,000 will not only build the hotel and avert a loss of $2,000,000, but it will open the way to a growth which can safely be estimated in millions.

FRANK A. HUBBELL

Everybody acquainted with the hotel proposition knows that I am keenly interested in the success of the project. We have subscribed heavily to stock and I have personally given a great deal of time to the work and am prepared to give as much more time and effort as may be called for to insure its success.

My interest in this undertaking is selfish. We want more people in Albuquerque to buy goods. We want growth. Our success demands it. My interest, which is both selfish and practical, is the same as that of every other business man and every other property owner in this city. By building the hotel we will start the wheels of progress turning and new population coming. It is to the selfish interest of every one of us to finish financing the hotel this week, so that construction may start in January, 1922.

D. S. ROSENWALD

It is well known that I favored and worked for a site for the new hotel which I regarded as a better site than the one chosen. I have not changed my view as to that matter. Neither have I changed my view as to the importance of building the hotel. I believe it to be absolutely essential to the growth of business, property values and population here to build this hotel and that it be done during the first half of 1922. To that end I am giving all the time that I can and all the support and encouragement that I can toward finishing the hotel building fund before the New Year. It is to the practical, financial advantage of every citizen to do so.

FRANK H. STRONG

There is no doubt about the fact that most cities can and do date their real growth from the time when adequate hotel accommodations are provided. One reason for this is that proper hotel facilities are necessary to keep a growing city in the growing class. Another reason is that when a city undertakes to provide and does provide ample hotel accommodations it is a sure sign that its people have determined to make growth come instead of waiting for it to come.

I think this hotel is necessary to the speediest development of Albuquerque and that the quicker we complete it the more certain we are to get somewhere in city building.

P. F. McCANNA

I am giving all the time I can spare to the hotel building fund campaign because I am convinced that it is a good investment for me. There is no doubt that the building of this hotel will hasten growth and increase the value of every bit of property in Albuquerque. That means an increase in value of the property I own. It seems to me that the value of this undertaking to our city is so plain that every one of us should see a selfish interest and a personal advantage in helping complete the hotel fund. There is no doubt that it will encourage other important building operations. If we can speed up those operations it is obviously to our advantage to do so.

CHESTER T. FRENCH

It has been urged that large property interests in Albuquerque should subscribe largely to the hotel stock in order that the burden may not fall on small property owners and businesses and that the interests of small stockholders may be protected. As to the first it strikes me that a survey of the subscription lists in the original hotel campaign will show that with one or two exceptions the big property and business interests have already subscribed liberally to this enterprise. There are some large interests that should do more than they have done, but in the main it will be found that the "big fellows" have volunteered their share. As to the second it strikes me that there are safety in numbers. We need not fear lack of wise administration for this hotel company. It is a community trust because of the large number of subscriptions, and as such will be administered with scrupulous care by any board of directors the stockholders may elect now or in the future. I think those of us whose interests are less important, should be just as ready to subscribe, for each of us will get our proportion of the reward.

MARCUS P. SAWTELLE

As a member of the Kiwanis Club, which first proposed the building of the $350,000 hotel as Albuquerque's principal community effort in 1921, I feel that every member of that club and myself as an individual citizen of Albuquerque, is pledged to make every effort to insure completion of the building fund before the end of the year. If we do not complete it we will stand convicted of failure in our main undertaking for this city. The cost of such a failure is too serious to consider for a minute.

Because I feel myself pledged to see this enterprise through, and because I know its great value to Albuquerque I am giving all my time to the present hotel campaign.

SIDNEY M. WEIL

There is not a man in Albuquerque who is earning a comfortable income from business, a comfortable salary or a comfortable wage, and who expects to continue to make this city his home and field of effort, who is not obligated to co-operate with his fellow citizens, to the extent of his means, in building the new hotel. The project is for the common welfare and the rewards will be distributed among us all. We should be ashamed of ourselves to leave the bulk of the campaign work to a bare score of men, and the subscribing of the money to a few hundred men when there are thousands who can afford to subscribe and who will benefit from the building of the hotel.

MRS. A. G. SIMMS IS DEAD AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Invalid Had Been Growing Weaker for a Month; Body Will Be Buried Here Friday Afternoon.

Katherine Mather Simms, the delicate and fragilely beautiful wife of Albert Gallatin Simms, president of the Citizens National bank, succumbed yesterday to a lingering illness. She died yesterday morning at 5:30 o'clock at her home at 211 North Fourteenth street. Her body will be buried here on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Simms, who came to New Mexico for her health eight years ago, became seriously ill over three weeks ago. She was taken to the hospital but when no improvement was shown in her condition she was removed to her home four days ago. Thirty-six hours before death she fell into a state of coma from which she never roused.

Born in Utica, N. Y., on September 12, 1881, the deceased was one of the early presidents of Harvard university. The deceased was educated in private schools in the east. She came to Silver City, N. M., eight years ago, where she met Mr. Simms. They were married on March 14, 1913, and moved to Albuquerque in May, 1914. Since that time they have made their home here where Mrs. Simms has been a popular member of society. Her poor health prevented her taking part in any social activities, however.

Mrs. Simms is survived by her husband, her mother, three married sisters and a brother, all of whom live in New York state. Mrs. Simms made a visit with her relatives back east last summer. She and Mrs. F. L. Lovelace, her mother and brother, and Richard Mather, her brother, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., are on their way to Albuquerque to attend the funeral. The funeral will be held from the Simms' residence on Fourteenth street on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Right Reverend Frederick B. Howden will conduct the services. Burial will take place in Fairview cemetery. C. T. French will have charge of the funeral arrangements.

REALTORS CLOSE OFFICES TO AID IN HOTEL DRIVE

Practically all of the realtors of the city closed their offices yesterday and worked on the Albuquerque hotel drive. With the other workers, they turned in subscriptions for stock which brought the total amount subscribed up to $242,450.

The drive will continue today and the workers will lunch at noon at the Y. M. C. A., where the headquarters of the Kiwanis club. Sidney Weil, manager of the subscription drive, stated last night that no personal solicitations had been made at any of the workers' luncheons and he hoped that all persons who have assisted or are helping with the drive make it a point to attend the daily gatherings.

Since the renewal of the drive a few days ago, $24,450 has been raised by the workers, who have been relatively few in number.

"We intend to put the drive over and to raise the necessary $350,000," Weil declared last night. "I do not believe it will take many more days to complete the task. It is simply a question of arousing public interest to the point where it realizes that the money is going to be raised and the hotel built, and that it is a community enterprise, as much one person's as another's."

ALFREDO VIGIL

One of the old-time superstitions which still exist in France is that fever may be prevented by refraining from eating meat on Christmas day, while a remedy for ulcers can be obtained by those who refuse to eat prunes on that day.

STOP COUGHING AT NIGHT.

When anyone is suffering from a bronchial affliction or has a cough that lingers on and grows worse at night, the loss of sleep tends to weaken the sufferer and grows more serious the longer it is neglected. Mrs. M. Suter, 647 Longbrook Ave., Stratford, Conn., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar has given me great relief from a severe attack of bronchitis." No medicine stands higher throughout the nation as a family remedy for colds, coughs and croup. Sold everywhere.

CHECK WILL BE MADE ON USERS OF STUDENT RATE AT CONCERT HERE

Officers of the Apollo club, sponsors of the Schumann-Heink concert which will be held in the armory here next Monday evening, reported last night that rumors reached them of adults purchasing 75c student tickets for the concert. They wish it to be understood that these tickets will admit students only, and that bona fide representatives of various schools will be on hand at the entrance to see that only students gain admittance with these tickets. Both student and adult tickets may be purchased from members of the Apollo club and at the New Mexico Phonograph company.

SON OF WEALTHY CHICAGOAN GETS $2 AND LEAVES

Ernest de Roo Mitting Borrowed $2 at Y. M. C. A.; Leaves Army Discharge Papers and Disappears.

What has happened to Ernest de Roo Mitting, son of Alfred Mitting of the Alfred Mitting's Berrydale Gardens, Chicago and San Francisco, since he came to the Y. M. C. A. November 20 and borrowed $2 to get a meal and left his army discharge papers and his army insurance policy as evidence of good faith.

Or was it Ernest de Roo Mitting who borrowed the $2 and if it was not, how did he get the discharge papers and when and under what circumstances and where is Mitting?

These are questions which have been puzzling Lynn H. Fox, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., for a number of days and which have finally led to a police investigation regarding the whereabouts of Mitting.

A short, dark haired, pleasant appearing man about 30 years old came into the Y. M. C. A. on November 20 and asked for the secretary.

It was late in the afternoon after banking hours.

He explained who he was to Secretary Fox, showed letters, a catalogue of the Alfred Mitting's Berrydale gardens, several other identifying papers and his army discharge papers and insurance policy.

After showing these things he stated that he was driving overland from Chicago to San Francisco and that he had expected to arrive in Albuquerque in time to get money from the bank but had been held up by tire trouble. He asked for a loan of a couple of dollars to get his supper and breakfast the next morning and upon receiving the loan, left his papers with Mr. Fox, saying he would return the next day. He has never returned for them.

He signed a due bill for the $2 and the signature corresponds with that on the discharge papers.

WIDOW SUES THE OCCIDENTAL ON $5,000 POLICY

Olive Jones Claims Husband's Policy With Occidental Life Insurance Co. Had Not Lapsed.

Olive M. Fleming Jones, widow of the late W. A. Fleming Jones, who died November 24, 1917, started suit in the district court yesterday against the Occidental Life Insurance company seeking to recover insurance claimed by her to have been carried by her dead husband in the company and which she alleges the company has refused to pay, claiming that the policy had lapsed through non-payment of the premiums.

The amount of the insurance said to have been carried by her husband is placed at $5,000 in the complaint filed in the court yesterday.

The complaint filed by the widow recites that her husband took out an insurance policy with the Occidental Life Insurance company for $5,000 on October 18, 1909, and that the annual premium amounted to $204.45.

She states that her husband died November 24, 1917, and that on December 12, of that year, she notified the company of the death and that the defendant company claimed the policy had lapsed and been cancelled for non-payment of premiums and interest on a loan made on the policy, and there denied liability.

It is claimed in the complaint that the policy has not lapsed and that deducting the loan and the 1916 and 1917 premiums, there is now due on the policy $4,109.50. In a second cause of action which is incorporated in the complaint, substantially the same charges are made together with the statement that no part of the principal sum of $5,000 has been paid and asking judgment for this amount with 6 per cent interest since December 12, 1917.

our ships to this extent proves that there is a satisfactory future for the enterprise if conditions are made suitable.

The falling freight rates and other causes to which the board refers as contributing to the decline of American cargoes for American craft signify the increase of competition, which will grow as foreign merchant fleets depleted in the war are restored to normal numbers, and navigation laws are made more favorable for competing carriers.

Old Glory having been made familiar in every port of the globe the peoples of the world should not be permitted again to forget what it looks like.

A CENSUS IN 1925.

Secretary Hoover presents in his annual report good arguments in favor of not waiting until 1930 to take the next census, but instead gathering population figures within a few years as a substitute for those collected last year, which reflected abnormal conditions. Mr. Hoover suggests that the enumeration might be made in 1925, and it is interesting to learn that the house census committee is considering legislation having that in mind.

When the people of the United States were counted in January, 1920, the manufacturing industries were in full blast, wages were high, and prosperity was widespread. The cities were thronged with country folk, who had left the farms temporarily to accept the attractive jobs that were to be had in the urban communities. Since then there has been a movement in the opposite direction. Business has slowed down, factories have suspended operations, wages have been cut, men thrown out of employment, and the persons belonging to the rural regions have returned to the farms and hamlets. The census figures of last year, therefore, do not represent present conditions. Mr. Hoover says the shifting of population from the country to the city, which the 1920 enumeration showed, affected the totals of certain states and influenced the apportionment of representatives in congress. In the interest of accuracy a new count is desirable.

The question arises if it would not be well to make the federal census regularly a quinquennial instead of a decennial affair. Conditions change so rapidly that much of the information of the census is stale and more or less useless long before the 10-year period between enumerations has expired.

One argument for the aerial mail appears to have been overlooked. It might keep the mails out of the reach of bandits.

Secretary Mellon says business needs a substantial cut in taxes, but at that, business has nothing on the private taxpayer.

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

IS THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE DETERIORATING?

(From the Minneapolis Tribune.)
Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, voices, in the current issue of "The Independent," an expression of alarm over the degradations creeping into the English language. In the current newspapers and magazines he observes "a deplorable tendency to the use of slang and abbreviated words. The telegram, with its charge per word, and the condensed headlines in newspapers tend to produce another deterioration in the English language. Display advertisements with their exaggerations and superlatives inflict other kinds of damage on English speech in street, shop, and market. I am told that similar injuries are inflicted by some of the best sellers of the season."

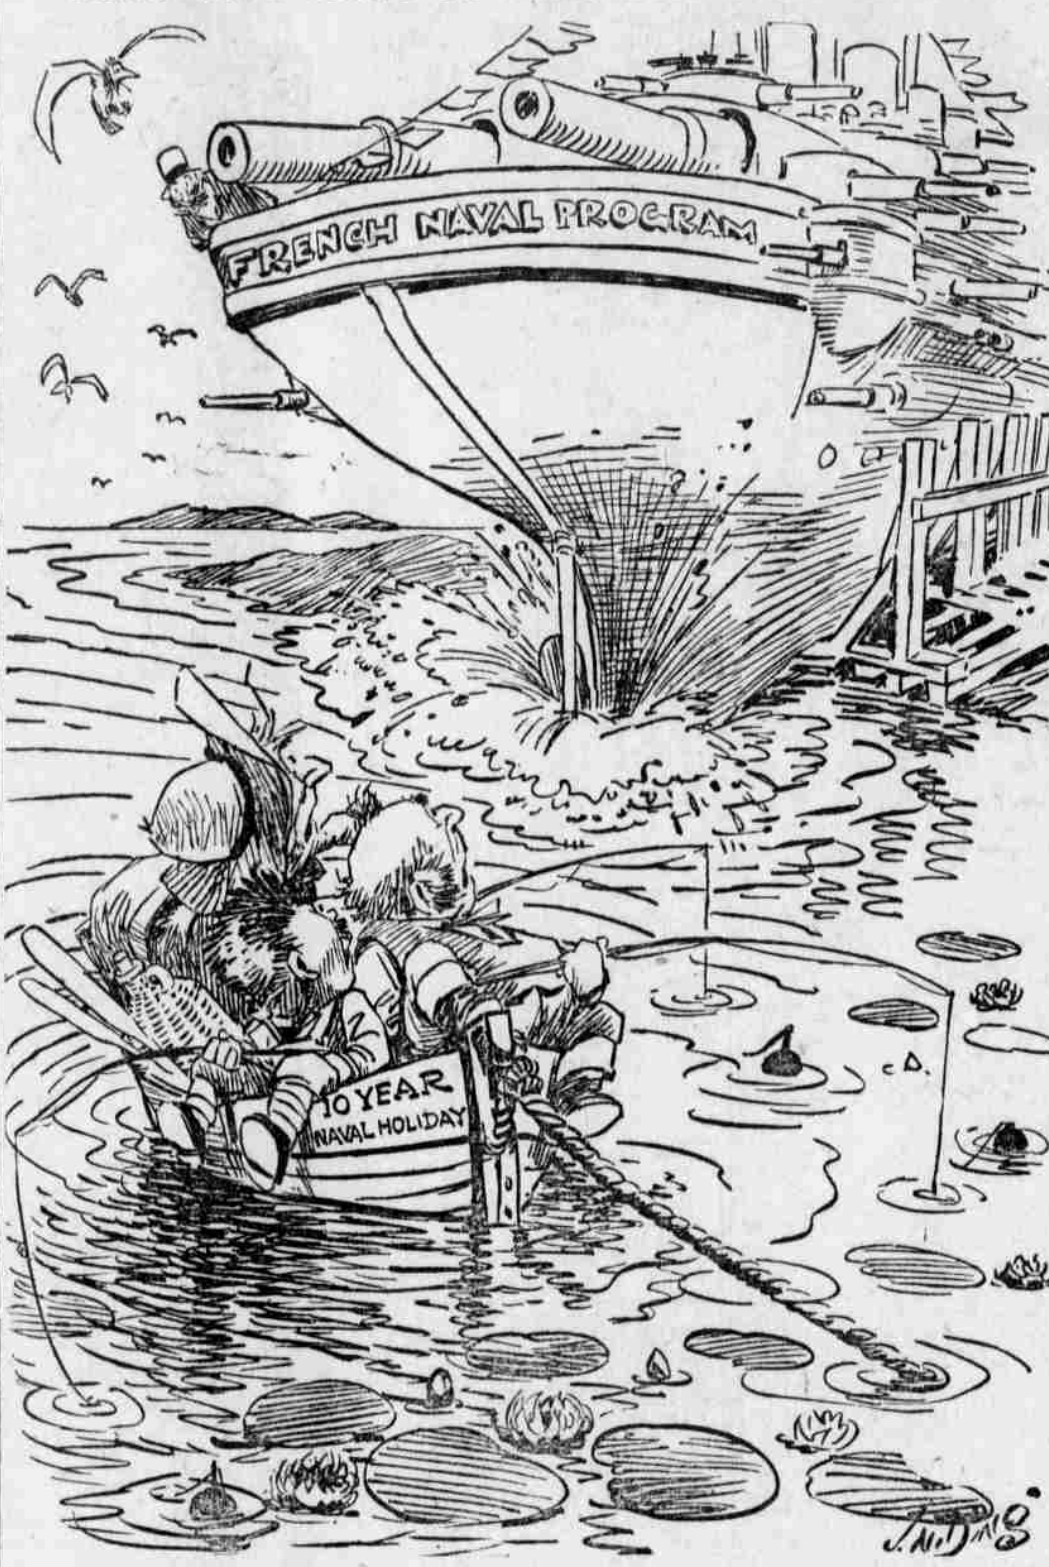

One may agree with Dr. Eliot that it is quite impossible to expect literary finish in telegrams, newspaper headlines, or bill posters, but a concession of that point represents no occasion for alarm. Headlines and telegrams, in particular, must be forced through an unnatural process of condensation, and bear scarcely more comparison to normal American writing than shorthand does to longhand.

It is a blessed thing for the reputation of the past that only the best of its products survive. The imperfections of the present are always visible while the imperfections of the past have been mercifully buried in oblivion. There have always been evil tendencies at work, threatening to damage the English language. Yet the language has met them each generation without suffering any apparent damage, or, seemingly, without being much the worse for the struggle. It is altogether likely that there are more people living today who may be described as possessors of a civilized knowledge of the English language, who may be looked at in another way, as guardians of the English language, than at any time in history. Worry over Dr. Eliot's point would, therefore, seem a trifle gratuitous.

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE CHRISTMAS HOLLY.

"How many more days until Christmas, Uncle Wiggly?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning, as she gave the rabbit gentleman his breakfast in the hollow stump bungalow.

"Um, now, let me see," said Mr. Longears poured some carrot maple syrup over his turnip pancake, and counted on his paws. "It is now Wednesday," he said, "and Christmas comes on Sunday. That is five days more, not counting today. But I guess we will have Christmas on Monday, instead of Sunday, so that makes it six. Why did you ask, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy?"

"Because I think it is almost time you brought home the holly," said the mischievous housekeeper. "That's very true! I had better hop off in the woods and get the holly for Christmas," spoke Uncle Wiggly.

"Take thick gloves with you," advised Nurse Jane. "Oh, it isn't so cold as all that," Uncle Wiggly answered.

"No, but don't you remember," went on Nurse Jane, "the green leaves of the holly plant have sharp stickers on them, and they'll prick you."

"That's so," agreed the bunny. "I was thinking so much about the pretty red berries on the holly that I forgot about the prickly green leaves. I will wear gloves, Nurse Jane."

So after breakfast, taking with him a basket in which to carry the Christmas holly, Uncle Wiggly started to hop off through the woods.

Holly, you know, grows on a bush, and sometimes the bushes grow into quite large trees. The leaves of the holly are a bright, glossy green, and on each leaf are many sharp points, almost like thorns. Growing in clusters amid the green leaves are pretty red berries. And I suppose the holly has prickly leaves to keep people from taking too many of its red berries.

But in spite of this, much holly is gathered for Christmas, and so is mistletoe, which has white berries, without any stickers. I'll tell you a story about the mistletoe tomorrow night.

"But I don't need to be afraid of the prickly stickers," said Uncle Wiggly, as he hopped along with his basket and an old knife.

Nurse Jane had given him with which to cut the holly. "I have thick gloves for my paws, I would know off the holly branches with my teeth, only I might get a sticker in my pink, twinkling nose."

Uncle Wiggly soon reached that part of the forest where the holly grew. He saw the green, glossy leaves with their sharp points, and he saw the sun gleaming on the clusters of red berries. In a short time Uncle Wiggly had filled his basket.

"Nurse Jane will make holly wreaths and hang them about the hollow stump bungalow," said the bunny. Just then he heard a rustling in the bushes, and away he ran as fast as he could hop, taking the basket of holly with him.

I guess maybe that was the Woods Wolf or the Fuzzy Fox, said Uncle Wiggly, his heart beat.

"I-I went to lie down an-'an-' something bit me!" she sobbed. "Uncle Wiggly raised the dining room curtain to let in more light. Not a fox or a wolf was there, but on the couch was a pile of stickers. Christmas holly. Baby Bunty had tried to go to sleep on the pile of prickly holly!"

"Oh! I wondered where I left it when I came in," said the bunny. "I couldn't think where I put it."

"But I found out when I tried to lie down on it, didn't I, Uncle Wiggly?" laughed Baby Bunty. "I found the holly for you, didn't I?"

"You surely did!" laughed Mr. Longears. "And I'm glad it was the holly instead of the Fox or the Woods Wolf, for the holly doesn't bite very hard." Then Nurse Jane took the holly down cellar and Baby Bunty went to sleep, to dream about Santa Claus. And if the door knob doesn't try to creep through the keyhole and lock the mat out on the front steps, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly and the Christmas mistletoe.

"You surely did!" laughed Mr. Longears. "And I'm glad it was the holly instead of the Fox or the Woods Wolf, for the holly doesn't bite very hard." Then Nurse Jane took the holly down cellar and Baby Bunty went to sleep, to dream about Santa Claus. And if the door knob doesn't try to creep through the keyhole and lock the mat out on the front steps, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly and the Christmas mistletoe.

IN MEMORY.
 There are gains for all our losses—
 There are bulms for all our pains;
 But when you, our dream, departs,
 It takes something from our hearts,
 And it never comes again.

Something beautiful has vanished.
 And we wish for it in vain;
 We behold it everywhere,
 On the earth, and in the air,
 But it never comes again.
 —A FRIEND.
