ROY, HARDING COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29th., 1921.

NUMBER 41

DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION FOR HARDING COUNTY AND MESA UNDER HEADWAY

On Monday evening last, a move was set on foot to place this part of the country more before the outside public. A meeting was called at the Roy Theatre for discussion and formulating of the preliminary plans.

Representatives from all parts of the county were invited and many interesting ideas propounded. The meeting was in charge of W. C. Hooper and the opening talk was made by Ray Busey. He told in detail the plans of the men who had called the meeting. He explained to some extent New Mexico's resources and advantages and why this county in particular should be advertising her land and towns. He asked that towns along this railroad forget the animosity that exists between them and get down to a cooperative basis and make the country a bigger and better country. To do this he explained that an organization should be arranged and incorporated here on the Mesa which would be big enough to build houses in the various towns and to sell land locally and through colonization projects. As a means of advertising he suggested that the organization own and publish its own weekly organ which would be a farm paper with a circulation in this corner of New Mexico of not less than five thousand. Through the columns of this paper great things could be done for the state and the land owners of the state.

A friendly spirit between neighbors, communities, towns and counties could be augmented which naturally would be the foundation of increasing real estate values. Then outside advertising would bring families to our country and more residents to our towns.

After his talk, W. H. McCarger discussed in detail the formulation of the company. He told how a few thousand acres of land could be pooled which would form the nucleus of a gigantic corporation which would deal in land and building activities throughout our country and put us really on the map. He told how and why our land is selling too cheaply. He explained how development companies in other states had done business on the same scale and had made wonderful success.

J. W. Thompson of the Brown-Thompson Construction Company made an extended talk on the building end of the deal, and told how the country needed homes, schools, business houses, and buildings in general. He was very enthusiastic over the outlook of the organization and put real life in to the meeting. Other talks were made by Mr. Carpenter, Gladstone, Sol Floersheim, F. S. Brown, W. L. Dunn, Dr. E. P. Brown, S. E. Paxton and others who are real progressive men of this section.

ELECTION TO BE CALLED TO VOTE ADDITIONAL BONDS TO COMPLETE ROY SCHOOL BUILDING.

At the meeting of the School Board last Monday eve it was decided to call an election within the next few days for the purpose of voting an additional bond issue of $15,000 to complete and furnish the Roy Public School Building now in the course of construction. The first bond issue did not bring enough money to complete the building as originally planned but the Board decided to complete the building with the amount given the District in the Harding County Bill but which will not be sold and ready for use for several months if they ever become available, so the Board thought best rather than stop work on the building that a small issue of $15,000 be voted and ready so if the Debentures did not go through then they could go ahead and finish the building anyway. If the debentures are sold then the issue so voted would not be printed or used but would be cancelled and destroyed.

The $15,000 asked for will complete the building and furnish same and give us one of the best buildings in north-eastern New Mexico.

The election will be called by the Mayor and village Board the latter part of this week and will probably be held on November 12th. This issue is absolutely necessary for the completion of the building so that school can be started in the new building after the holidays.

The assessment of School District No. 33 is over $1,600,000 and the school census of the district is nearly 550 or over one fourth of all the school children of the new county and the enrollment of the Public School and the Parochial school is nearing the 500 mark at present which goes to show that we must complete the new building at once and you can do your part by going to the polls when election is called and giving your vote for the extra bond issue and show the Board that you appreciate what they are doing.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McMinimy and babe arrived home Sunday from a several days visit with relatives and friends at Frankfort, and Hominy, Oklahoma.

Invitations were sent to neighboring towns, but weather conditions cut down the crowd. However several men from Mosquero Mills, Abbott and Solano have made agreements as to how much land would be pooled from their respective localities.

Let's get behind the proposition and forget the feeling of dissatisfaction which prevails between the towns of this county, and make it the best spot in the west.

ABBOTT SCHOOL BONDS SOLD.

Contract Let For Fine New School Building.

County Treasurer Parks sold the Abbott School District Bonds last Tuesday to contractors Brown and Thompson at Par who also received the contract for their fine new school building. The highest cash bid was 88 cts. and the County print the bonds but the bid of Brown and Thompson was figured on a 90 cts. on the dollar basis and they to print their own bonds and pay for the printing and other incidents regarding the bond sale. Their bid on the building was $121.00 less than the next lowest bid and the County Board saved the District 3 per cent on the architectural plans and specifications. At this rate it was figured that the district realized around 97 cents on the dollar from their bond issue which is from 10 per cent to 12 per cent more than has been realized from any of the recent bond sales in this part of the State.

The building will be of hollow tile with stucco finish and will be a large two room building with rolling partition to separate the two rooms and which can be arranged into one large auditorium within a few minutes. The building will be of the mission style and of the prettiest and most comfortable small school houses in this part of New Mexico. and one which we are sure the patrons of Abbott District will highly appreciate.

The County Treasurer and County Board of Education are highly pleased with the amount derived from the sale of the bonds as well as the low bid on the contract for the building which was less than $4,500.

JOY BROUGHT INTO HOME

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Restoring Mrs. Benz to Health

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We have had six children die almost at birth. From one hour to nineteen days is all they have lived. As I was going to have another, I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says, 'That is some healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show this letter."—Mrs. C. W. Benz, 131 3rd Ave., Altoona, Pa.

No woman can realize the joy and happiness this healthy babe brought into the home of Mrs. Benz, unless they have had a like experience.

"Every woman who suffers from any ailments peculiar to her sex, as indicated by backaches, headaches, bearing-down pains, irregularities, nervousness and 'the blues,' should not rest until they have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

A Confession.

A little girl whose father is widely known as a writer of humorous stories, was recently approached by a visitor who said:

"It must be nice to have a papa who knows so many fine stories."

"The little girl blushed and hung her head.

"Aren't you proud of your papa?" the visitor asked.

"Yes," the little girl answered, "but I think I ought to tell you something."

"What is it?"

"The stories of my papa's aren't stories at all."

"Not stories?"

"No."

And in a deep hoarse whisper, the child confessed.

"He makes them all up out of his own head."—Youngstown Telegram.

She Couldn't Be Sure.

The rather flashily-dressed woman took her fourteen-year-old daughter to the domestic science teacher. "I want her to learn to cook and sew," she said, "so that she can get a husband."

For one minute the teacher stared at the woman. Then a twinkle came into her eyes. "Oh, I don't know about that being so sure a way," she laughed. "You see I teach both and I haven't yet obtained a husband."

Switching Facilities.

"Did I understand you to say Sena for Sportsworthy has a single track mind?"

"You did not. Judging from the number of times the senator has reversed himself on important questions his mind must resemble a railroad yard."

It's seldom selfishness that prompts a man to keep his troubles to himself.

"What other money?"

"That which is sent from across the water for the cause."

"Oh, I see; there is more coming then."

"Coming, yes; maybe some is here already."

"How much did you owe the bank, Wine?"

"Between eight and nine thousand; it is overdue three months; now I promise to pay it all up tomorrow."

"Oh, you did, hey! out of that stuff, I suppose?"

"Were else I get it, you think? Mein Gott, I have no more."

"Say," burst out Waldron suspiciously, "that's all right, but what bothers me is why this girl should hit you for it at just this particular time. Krantz must have sent her, but what made them think you had money now? It ain't very likely they were just takin' a chance, is it? I believe that is all a d—n lie; they haven't got any more coming. Only—I do think they imagined you might have some on hand."

"How they imagine that?"

"Search me, Wine; only I happen to know there is a h—l of a lot going on under the surface. It don't look good to me, they jumping you just at this time."

"What you mean? You have not spilled nothing?"

"Me!" he laughed roughly. "D—n it, I'm not the spilling kind. There's been plenty o' fellers after the dope, let me tell you, but I've let 'em hunt. Say, I've had to laugh sometimes the way they've been fooled. You know that guy who called himself Horner?"

"Sure—a smart fellow."

"You bet he is; a d—n sight smarter than you think. He ain't Horner at all, if you ask me; his right name was Harris, as slick a crook as ever lived."

"Harris? a crook? What was it I saw in the paper? Wasn't he the same guy what was croaked last night?"

"You bet he was; that's what I'm telling you about; that's why I come up here to get this off my chest. He bluffed this fellow Horner coming over, blew in with all his papers, an' started negotiatin' with Krantz and Alva. He an' Alva got awful thick."

"I know; what was the game?"

"To get that check into cash, of course. He hung around for that purpose for weeks, an' then missed out."

"An' you knew him, an' never said a word?"

"Sure I knew him, first time I got eyes on the bloater; but what was it to me? I'm not in this business for my health, Wine. I never gave a d—n who got hands on that stuff, so I had my grab at it. Harris an' I had it framed; that's why I was out there, waitin' for a signal from him. But when you beat him to it, I'd just as soon be your running mate as his."

"Hush! don't talk so loud! And now you say Harris is dead?"

"As a mackerel; he couldn't be no deader. But that was my house where he was croaked, an' so I got to get out o' town. The police ain't wise so far, but they might tumble if I hang around."

"That why you come here?"

"Exactly; I've got to have some rino right away, and it's up to you to see that I'm healed. You know where the stuff is, and how to get it quick."

"I wouldn't dare use that money yet; I haven't even opened the bag."

"The h—l you wouldn't! You are goin' to cop off enough to pay that note tomorrow, ain't you? That's what you promised the girl. Well, I'm just as important as she is, I reckon, and I'm goin' to have my share, you bet, or else I'll make it hot for you—I'll say that."

"You haven't nothing but your own word."

"Ain't I! Say, Wine, don't be a fool; there are others beside us that's got a nose in this affair. There's a saloonkeeper down on Sixth avenue, named Costigan, who's got all o' Harris' dope, an' he's goin' to keep on the trail. Then there's another fellow who's liable to raise h—l. I ain't got him exactly placed yet, but he's the guy that led up to Harris being killed. I'm the only one what knows that, an' I ain't talked before."

"Who is he—a detective?"

"Maybe; Harris called him Severn. They got the guy down into Costigan's and the three of us slugged him. They patched him up, and then locked him into a back room over in my place. The next morning they was goin' to give him the third degree. Then with him safe, Harris went after this girl, thinking she would be made to talk. I didn't want to trouble with Harris, ner Costigan either for the matter of that—they're both of 'em bad actors."

"Well, then, what happened?"

"That's mostly guess-work. They said this guy Severn locked in upstairs.

He was unconscious when we dumped him there, and later, when my wife got this girl to come over—they was raised in the same town—Harris he turned the key on her. They was a-ning to bring them together the next morning, but somehow Severn must have woke up, an' got out o' the room, for the next thing I know'd he was fightin' Harris out in the hall, an' after that I found the girl had skipped out durin' the fracas."

"They both got away?"

"Clean, leaving Harris behind with his skull busted; deader than a door-nail when I got to him."

"And you don't know who this Severn is or what he is up to?"

"No, I don't, Wine, but he's sure got some game on, an' he's got my goat. He's in with the girl all right, and knows too d—n much. That's what makes me leery about her being here pumpin' you."

"She didn't pump me."

"You mean to say the two of you didn't talk about Alva?"

"We talked about him, of course; we couldn't help it, but she never hinted at nothing, and she didn't ask no questions. Only it seems they've found out one thing that ain't been reported by the police—she knew what he was killed with."

"What's that! She told you what she did?"

"You bet she did; she had one of 'em herself, an' took it out of her hat, and put it right down here on the desk. I thought for a second I was going to keel over, but she didn't notice, just went on talkin'. How do yer suppose she ever found that out?"

"Severn told her, that's how. It was dropped there in the dark. That feller got it some way, and hid it in his valise. That was what made Harris so sure he was in on the job, because he raided the room at some hotel and found the thing."

"You don't imagine the girl is playin' us?"

"I don't imagine nuthin', but I'm playin' safe. I don't know what the h—l either of them are up to, but I figure they know too d—n much, an' I ain't goin' to take any chances hangin' round till they nose out the rest. That's my idea; to skip out while there's some chance to get away. So pony up my share, Wine, an' then you can do whatever you darn please with what's comin' to you. What do you say?"

I could hear the other tramping nervously back and forth across the room. His failure to answer must or shelf, dumping them on the floor. From behind these he had already drawn forth into view a black leather valise, when Wine found voice, uttering a strange cry of terror, which caused him to glance about. He leaped to his feet instantly, his eyes glaring into mine, one hand flung back as though in search of a weapon.

I gave him no time. I leaped straight at him, striking so hard even as we grappled that the blow sent him reeling back against the bookcase. He knew me then, and the recognition brought with it a fury which transformed the Russian into a wild beast. Coward as I felt him to be, now that he was cornered, with the spoils of victory in his very grasp, he became a demon, a mad dog, whose only desire was to kill.

"You're fighting a man this time, yer h—l-hound; not a whiffet like Harris. I'll blow a hole clear through yer! Sneaked in, did yer? Well, ye'll never sneak out again! Say, how do yer like the taste o' that?" He struck with a knee in the stomach, grunting as I loosened my grip on his beard, and tried to butt into me with lowered head. I caught him instantly, with a free fist, rocking his head back and cutting a gash in his cheek from which blood spurted. If he possessed any self-control before, he lost it then, crazed with hate and the desire to kill. He was a barroom fighter, bound by no rules, capable of any ferocity—biting, gouging, using hands and feet, a ruthless savage. It was this which defeated him, for while I was neither cool nor clear of mind, I kept my head sufficiently to remember my training and accept every advantage that presented itself; more than that, the very threats with which he tried to goad me were guides to his own action, giving me the swift hint needed for defense.

Realizing Wine was back of me, I managed to whirl the big bulk of the battling Russian about so as to block any surprise attack from the rear. This movement gave me the support of the wall, and using it as a defense, I resorted to the same tactics adopted by Waldron, assaulting him with feet as well as hands, breaking his strangle hold on my throat and forcing him backward, so that a swift kick sent the fellow stumbling over a pile of books, clawing at the empty air for support. He would have gone sprawling upon his back if Wine had not been directly in the way. As it was, he struck the other, the force of his big body hurling the smaller man heavily against the ledge of the outer window. As the fellow struck, the glass shivered and crashed into a thousand pieces, but before Waldron could regain firm footing, or realize what had happened, I was again upon him, breaking through his dazed guard and driving my fists straight into his face.

The revolver in Wine's hand was discharged, the bullet whistling past me, but even as the report cracked, the pressure of the Jew's body forced the smaller man relentlessly backward over the sill. He gave utterance to one wild yell of fright, releasing the gun and gripping desperately at Waldron's collar for support, then toppled over backward and went down.

We both heard the crash as the splinters of glass gava way, and the dull, dead thud of the body as it struck somewhere far below. The Russian seemed paralyzed with terror, unable to quite comprehend what had occurred behind him. But I had seen the tragedy, and my mind worked like a flash. He made one weak effort to spring aside, forgetful of his own danger, his guard dropped, and I let him have it—straight in the jaw. The clenched fist crunched into his whiskers, and with arms flung up, he went over as if shot, his head striking an edge of the overturned bookcase as he fell, and lay there motionless, a trickle of blood slowly oozing out upon the floor.

I stepped back and leaned out through the broken window; three stories below, on a graveled roof, lay something black, huddled up grotesquely, which I knew was a human body, crushed helpless, its bones broken. I drew back from the gruesome sight, so sickened I reeled dizzily, clutching at the sill for support. As I clung there, uncertain, dazed, my mind for the moment a blank, some one began rattling and pounding against the door leading into the corridor.

I crossed the room, my limbs trembling so I could scarcely walk, my breath coming in gasps. They were kicking against the wood and pounding with fists, seeking to break in the lock. The sight sobered me, brought back my self-control and I threw the door open and faced them almost coolly. There were four policemen, the first a gray-mustached sergeant, revolver in hand, and behind these a jam of excited individuals of both sexes, peering over shoulders to gain view within. The sergeant gripped me by the collar. "Now, you; what's up here? Have you killed somebody?"

"No," I answered, making no effort to break away, still breathing hard, but able to express myself clearly. "There is a man dead, but he fell from a window. I have nothing to conceal, sergeant. My name is Severn, and I am connected with the United States consular service. Give me a chance and I'll hand you my card."

He must have been impressed by the way I acted and spoke, for he released his grasp and accepted the card I flashed out of a vest pocket, holding it up to the light in order to read the script.

or shelf, dumping them on the floor. From behind these he had already drawn forth into view a black leather valise, when Wine found voice, uttering a strange cry of terror, which caused him to glance about. He leaped to his feet instantly, his eyes glaring into mine, one hand flung back as though in search of a weapon.

I gave him no time. I leaped straight at him, striking so hard even as we grappled that the blow sent him reeling back against the bookcase. He knew me then, and the recognition brought with it a fury which transformed the Russian into a wild beast. Coward as I felt him to be, now that he was cornered, with the spoils of victory in his very grasp, he became a demon, a mad dog, whose only desire was to kill.

"You're fighting a man this time, yer h—l-hound; not a whiffet like Harris. I'll blow a hole clear through yer! Sneaked in, did yer? Well, ye'll never sneak out again! Say, how do yer like the taste o' that?" He struck with a knee in the stomach, grunting as I loosened my grip on his beard, and tried to butt into me with lowered head. I caught him instantly, with a free fist, rocking his head back and cutting a gash in his cheek from which blood spurted. If he possessed any self-control before, he lost it then, crazed with hate and the desire to kill. He was a barroom fighter, bound by no rules, capable of any ferocity—biting, gouging, using hands and feet, a ruthless savage. It was this which defeated him, for while I was neither cool nor clear of mind, I kept my head sufficiently to remember my training and accept every advantage that presented itself; more than that, the very threats with which he tried to goad me were guides to his own action, giving me the swift hint needed for defense.

Realizing Wine was back of me, I managed to whirl the big bulk of the battling Russian about so as to block any surprise attack from the rear. This movement gave me the support of the wall, and using it as a defense, I resorted to the same tactics adopted by Waldron, assaulting him with feet as well as hands, breaking his strangle hold on my throat and forcing him backward, so that a swift kick sent the fellow stumbling over a pile of books, clawing at the empty air for support. He would have gone sprawling upon his back if Wine had not been directly in the way. As it was, he struck the other, the force of his big body hurling the smaller man heavily against the ledge of the outer window. As the fellow struck, the glass shivered and crashed into a thousand pieces, but before Waldron could regain firm footing, or realize what had happened, I was again upon him, breaking through his dazed guard and driving my fists straight into his face.

The revolver in Wine's hand was discharged, the bullet whistling past me, but even as the report cracked, the pressure of the Jew's body forced the smaller man relentlessly backward over the sill. He gave utterance to one wild yell of fright, releasing the gun and gripping desperately at Waldron's collar for support, then toppled over backward and went down.

We both heard the crash as the splinters of glass gava way, and the dull, dead thud of the body as it struck somewhere far below. The Russian seemed paralyzed with terror, unable to quite comprehend what had occurred behind him. But I had seen the tragedy, and my mind worked like a flash. He made one weak effort to spring aside, forgetful of his own danger, his guard dropped, and I let him have it—straight in the jaw. The clenched fist crunched into his whiskers, and with arms flung up, he went over as if shot, his head striking an edge of the overturned bookcase as he fell, and lay there motionless, a trickle of blood slowly oozing out upon the floor.

I stepped back and leaned out through the broken window; three stories below, on a graveled roof, lay something black, huddled up grotesquely, which I knew was a human body, crushed helpless, its bones broken. I drew back from the gruesome sight, so sickened I reeled dizzily, clutching at the sill for support. As I clung there, uncertain, dazed, my mind for the moment a blank, some one began rattling and pounding against the door leading into the corridor.

I crossed the room, my limbs trembling so I could scarcely walk, my breath coming in gasps. They were kicking against the wood and pounding with fists, seeking to break in the lock. The sight sobered me, brought back my self-control and I threw the door open and faced them almost coolly. There were four policemen, the first a gray-mustached sergeant, revolver in hand, and behind these a jam of excited individuals of both sexes, peering over shoulders to gain view within. The sergeant gripped me by the collar. "Now, you; what's up here? Have you killed somebody?"

"No," I answered, making no effort to break away, still breathing hard, but able to express myself clearly. "There is a man dead, but he fell from a window. I have nothing to conceal, sergeant. My name is Severn, and I am connected with the United States consular service. Give me a chance and I'll hand you my card."

Mosquero, the County Seat is undergoing quite a boom these days. Several fine new dwellings have been erected recently and several more are planned and work on them will be started soon. The new pool hall and barber shop owned by Trujillo and Keller is finished and is a dandy business building. The Durbin building which will be occupied by the Harding Co. Abstract Co., and the Developer Printing Co., is also nearing completion. We understand a number of other business houses will soon be built and these many changes are making our County Seat look much more dignified than when she first became our County Capital.

CAMILLA KENYON

The talented author of "Spanish Doublets" says of herself: "I was born in San Francisco with a family background of the early days. Ill health kept me from school much of the time and threw me on my books as my only resource. Apparently I lacked all feminist proclivities, for I scorned girls' books and instead, reveled in tales of adventure."
"For sea stories, particularly with a buccaneering flavor, I had and have an abiding love. Perhaps this is because I was brought up on a tale—whether truth or legend I am not clear—of an ancestor, a soldier of fortune, who when business was slack, eked out a living as a freebooter, though of course after the fashion of a perfect gentleman. I sometimes think that the soul of the old adventurer may have ensconced itself by mistake in my earthly frame."
This paper will carry "Spanish Doublets" as a serial. It is a charming tale of adventure and romance in which the principal characters are women, and contains rare humor.

Boys Gladly Stay on Oil Pull Farms
Farm boys are not leaving modernized farms. They're leaving the "drudgery" farms that are still without the many modern conveniences that are at every farmer's disposal and within the reach of his pocketbook.
Probably nothing ties a boy to the farm more firmly than an Oil Pull tractor. It makes fun of hard work. It gets the work done in season. It gets a greater profit from the farm. It entirely changes the average boy's attitude toward farm life. For nowhere else in the entire tractor industry is there a tractor with a record of performance as great as the Oil Pull's. Its record of long life, of dependability and of economy has never been equalled.
Bring your boy in and we will tell him more about farming with an Oil Pull.

Imagine yourself these chilly autumn evenings sitting beside your comfortable fireplace, listening to any of a half-dozen or more concerts by famous orchestras, bands or vocal choirs in divers distant cities. Such a thing is in reality happening in many homes just a few miles from here. Word comes from Tucumcari to the effect that quite a few of the citizens of that place, thru the installation of wireless telephone systems, have been enjoying some very high class musical numbers, such as are sent out nightly by the large transmitting stations at Avalon, Catalina Island; Long Beach, California and Denver, Colorado.

Among those who have installed wireless phone systems in their homes in our sister city of the Southwestern are Supt. C. D. Beeth of the E. P. & S. W., and Conductor E. J. C. Duval. Mrs. Beeth has charge of the distribution of the wireless receiving systems at Tucumcari and he reports many inquires from ones who are interested in the installation of a wireless 'phone' in their homes.

The N. Spears sale will be on the 2nd of Nov. dont forget the date. they have to offer you a nice bunch of cattle, horses, farm machinery and household goods.

RED CROSS RESCUED 600,000 FROM DEATH

Spent $1,200,000 for Relief of Famine Sufferers in China Last Year.

To help overcome conditions of acute distress in five famine stricken provinces of Northern China, where millions of persons were affected by an unprecedented shortage of food, the American Red Cross during the last fiscal year spent more than $1,200,000, $1,000,000 of which was contributed directly by National Headquarters and the remainder by various groups interested in the welfare of China.

Through the wide relief operations thus made possible it is estimated that more than 600,000 famine sufferers were saved from starvation.

In the end that similar prompt relief measures by the organization may always be possible the Red Cross is asking continued support by the American people by universal renewal of membership in the Annual Red Cross Roll Call, November 11 to 24.

The method of relief employed by the American Red Cross in its operations in China was particularly effective, for in addition to saving hundreds of thousands of lives it provided China with more than 900 miles of permanent roads that are sorely needed to prevent a recurrence of famine. At one time the Red Cross employed 74,000 Chinese workmen, paying them in food for themselves and dependents, this food being brought in from Manchuria and elsewhere.

COUNTY SEAT NEWS

The farmers report it very dry and getting no better fast.

The first number of the Mosquero Lyceum course was a jimdandy, a hum-dinger, a go-getter and a number of other kinds of interesting, entertaining, and instructing literary treat.

Mr. Simon Velarde has moved to town and will freight oil cake and other merchandise out to the Mitchell ranch this winter. He has purchased a lot and expects to build on it in the near future.

A jail break occurred at Clayton a few days ago and word was received in Mosquero hat a couple of prisoners were headed this way and Sunday sheriff Spivey hearing that they were in this vicinity started out to round them up. Sheriff Roberts of Union County beat him to it, however, and picked them up out near the Lunsford farm and started back to Clayton with them the same afternoon.

Mr. C. L. Justice, Cashier and manager of the First National Bank of Roy and family and his assistants Miss and Mrs. Bess were looking over the county seat Sunday afternoon and picking out the site of their future home that they would occupy when Roy decided to move down here and up with a "hurd-nuff" town that is genuine all wool, simon-pure yard-wide and a rip-roaring, snorting, ring-tailed tooter of a town.

Stinebaugh Brothers who were drilling the well on the hill east of town for Dr. D. C. Daniels at the new hospital site dropped into a subterranean reservoir of water at something less than a hundred feet that is probably the strongest well of water that was ever encountered on the Mesa. All efforts to lower the water were futile although over forty gallons per minute were pumped from the well without lowering the water an inch. It is thought that a stand pipe may be built on the hill sometime in the near future and the village water-works established there and piped into town.

Ho, ho, hum. What a dreary old existence for a newspaper correspondent these days. We can't get up a quarrel at all. The Mills correspondent ignores us. Brother Ogden is so taken up with the precocious child of his fertile brain the Pantagraph that he won't pay any attention to us and the Clayton News has changed hands and the new owner is a stranger and we are afraid to pick a quarrel in that direction. But the time has arrived when something MUST be done and if we can't start a quarrel with an individual we shall have to take on the whole town of Roy, so here goes. We were in Roy the other day. We envied them their big busy stores their nice new buildings going up in different parts of town and more than all their big, beautiful new school house that is something of which a city many times its size might be proud of. We went over to Father Vachon's and took luncheon with the jolly father and saw the crowd of happy, contented children receiving a wonderful training and education at the hands of the father and the good sister's and we envied Roy more than ever and then we wandered around town a little more and we saw water being peddled around the streets and standing in barrels.

The largest loan recorded in Harding County under the recently enacted law affording loans to the stockmen under the renewed War Finance Board was made through Kansas City to a prominent Texas stockman who has large interests in this county. It was for one hundred thousand dollars and will be used entirely in this county to keep the large number of cattle handled by him until they can be placed on the market at a reasonable price.

A shower party attended by a large number of the Mosquero ladies was given Mrs. Stella Smith on Saturday afternoon when a large crowd of friends gathered at the house of Mrs. J. F. Smith, each with a nice little present and spent the afternoon with her in visiting and the making of candy. As Mrs. Smith was moving to her home on the Rea Smith farm her neighbors thought it a fitting time to see that she was properly "showered" before setting up housekeeping "on her own."

The Wilson Company have erected a nice coal shed on the right of way near the elevator. Unlike most buildings of this class, it is nicely built, nicely painted and so arranged as to improve the looks of the town instead of being an 'eye-sore' as is often the case with such buildings.

We believe that if you could but see yourselves as others see you, which is the object of this little article that you would wake up and secure an adequate water supply at all costs. "If this be Treason" then make the most of it. The writer of this article is for Roy because he believes that Roy is a coming town and that anything that helps Roy helps Harding County and his home town indirectly and while it may hurt somebody's feelings if it serves to wake the Roy people up a little bit that he will have been well repaid for the enemies that he will have made. It makes no difference whether the deep well was drilled to explore for oil or with the hopes of securing water it has failed and other steps should now be taken to remedy this glaring defect.

Messrs Thompson and Green from near Trinidad, Colorado were in County seat at Mosquero Sunday looking for a few hundred head of steers to be shipped to their Colorado Ranch. A buyer was also in from Dalhart, Texas last week looking for steers, while the price offered is not as good as might be expected it is at least somewhat emoney is becoming available for the purchase of stock and that is getting a little livelier, that a return to "normalecy" is actually almost in sight.

Pursuant to our promise in the last issue of the Spanish-American we have been trying to ascertain the probable effect of our withdrawal from the editorial pages of the Spanish American. We asked Mr. Walter Cottingham if he thought that we should resign and he assured us that it would be a grave mistake. "You could not make a worse mistake" he assured us. "We now have a paper in Mosquero," he said, "and the best way to help it out is for you to continue to write for the Roy paper." That will kill it quicker than anything else that you could do. We don't quite see the point but feel sure that he was sincere in his desire that we should continue. We asked Judge Mc Glothin at the post-office what he thought the effect would be if we were to quit writing for the S. A. and he said that it would be something like the effect that would result from the old "irresistible force coming in contact with an immovable body." That there would be an interesting lot of by-products. We don't know just what he meant by that but feel sure that it was something nice about us. We then went to the county superintendants office and asked them as to their opinion and were heartily assured that while they never read our writings that they liked them fine and thought that if they were removed from the columns of the paper that it would die of mal-nutrition, asphyxiation and spinal curvature and a number of other big words whose meaning we did not quite catch. Anyhow they gave us to understand that we should not withdraw from the force, and so we won't.

The old pool-hall building forming a part of the Hotel Mess Building is being remodeled, refinished and equipped with shelves and counters and will soon be occupied by Dr. Daniels with an up-to-date line of drugs, medicines and the usual side lines.

The Wilson Company have erected a nice coal shed on the right of way near the elevator. Unlike most buildings of this class, it is nicely built, nicely painted and so arranged as to improve the looks of the town instead of being an 'eye-sore' as is often the case with such buildings.

We received a copy of the paper published by our old friend Frank Walkowiak away back in Illinois which he had marked and mailed to us. In this paper the recent mail in the Spanish-American about our being unable to do anything without breaking some law. He had given us credit for the mental effort necessary to the evolving of his brilliant genius of thought and we must thank him accordingly. We are especially partial to Illinois as we graduated in that state although considerably south of Chicago where Frank is situated. We are glad to hear from Frank though, even in this indirect way. And judging from the paper that he is putting out we venture to say he is doing well.

Witness our hand this 12th day of October, A. D. 1921. Morey Mercantile Company (A Corporation) By its Attorney, J. B. Lusk.

The Sport of Doers

One of this country's prominent physicians recently probed into the question why men smoke.

He turned a deaf ear to glib prejudices and accepted but half-thought-out notions. He based his conclusions upon a careful study of the use of tobacco by our men during the War.

He diagnosed smoking as being clearly a diversion, which helped rather than interfered with a man's performance of his duty.

Smoking is not a vicious practice but a happy sport. If it were not, this expert declares, men would long ago have begun taking "My Lady Nicotine" in the form of pills or tablets.

That's straight to the point. A man lights up his pipe for a little relaxation, not to interfere with but to improve his work.

He feels in need of a moment's let-up which will add to his power.

Back he throws himself in the most comfortable position in the old chair; he scratches his match slowly, carefully, not nervously; he lights up the fragrant weed in the old bowl not in haste but lingeringly; he watches the smoke curl away from his lips with the same peculiar happiness with which he watched Babe Ruth knock a home run, and then—

"What was that I had to do?" he asks himself. He plans how best to do it.

A good smoke—a good sport. A good sport—a good doer, when things have to be done.

Smoking is the sport of doers.

Of course, a good smoke depends greatly upon having just the right tobacco.

We recommend Edgeworth to you as a tobacco that has pleased many but not all smokers.

It may please you beyond words. It may not.

We would be very glad to have you pass judgment upon it.

Just send us your name and address on a postcard. If you feel like doing us a favor, send us also the name of the dealer to whom you will go for supplies, in case you like Edgeworth. We will send you without charge samples of Edgeworth in both forms—Plug Slice and Ready-Rubbed.

Edgeworth Plug Slice comes in flat cakes, cut into thin, moist slices. One slice rubbed between the hands fills the average pipe.

Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed is simply the same tobacco, rubbed up, ready to go into your pipe.

You're likely to notice how nicely Edgeworth packs. That means that it burns evenly and freely.

Edgeworth is sold in various sizes to meet the requirements of many different customers. Both Edgeworth Plug Slice and Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed are put up in pocket-size packages, in attractive tin humidor, and glass jars and in various quantities in between those sizes.

For the free samples, address Larus & Brother Company, 41 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va.

To Retail Tobacco Merchants—If your jobber cannot supply you with Edgeworth, Larus & Brother Company will gladly send you prepaid by parcel post a one- or two-dozen carton of any size of Edgeworth Plug Slice or Ready-Rubbed for the same price you would pay the jobber.

MOTHER! MOVE

CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Hurry, mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

Christian Name.

In a certain primary class the teacher had been at great pains to explain the distinction between surnames and Christian names. Then she called upon the children to give examples of each kind from their own names and those of other members of their families.

When Charles was asked to tell in one statement the surname and the Christian name of his father, he responded, after some hesitation: "My father's surname is Tompkins, and his Christian name is a Methodist."

GOT UNCLE ON TENDER SPOT

Small Boy's Innocent Repetition of Mother's Remark Not Likely to Promote Cordiality.

Nine-year-old Joe had received a watch of that sort all boys have for a birthday present. With it was a little chain, the whole outfit taken together not costing more than $3. But Joe did not value it accordingly. His uncle, amused at him, told him all the burglar stories he could think of.

But little Joe wasn't awed. Finally, near the end of the week, his uncle asked, "Aren't you afraid burglars will steal your watch, Joe?"

"No, sir," he said, and his eyes shone with pride. "You see me go out to the garage just before dark, Uncle Bob. Well, I hide my watch under the seat of your car. Mother said burglars wouldn't steal it if you gave them a prize for doing it, 'cause it's so rickety."

Sweet Dreams.

Like most three-year-olds, Dorothy Jane is always very insistent on having her own solutions. One evening she decided she must have something to eat before going to bed, and on a survey of the pantry, decided on raw Irish potatoes. However, big sister objected to this choice, saying: "Dorothy Jane, you must not eat raw potatoes before going to sleep; you will have bad dreams."

"Well, then give me sweet potatoes; they make me sweet dreams," argued Dorothy Jane.

The Wrong Batch.

"I never tasted such queer batter cakes."

"Hey, you've fried my home brew."

Being satisfied with yourself is not always a compliment to your taste.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Tall?

An American and an Englishman were discussing the merits of their respective parents.

"Ah!" said the Yankee. "I guess my father was a clever man. He was a chimney-shaft builder, and made himself famous with the last shaft he erected."

"Oh, indeed!" remarked the Englishman.

"Sure thing," continued the American. "It was so high that when the weathercock got stuck, the man who went up to put it right had to take a week's rations for the journey!"

"Oh, ho!" laughed the Englishman. "That's nothing. My father was also a shaft builder, and the last one he built was so high that he had to go up every night and take the top off to let the moon go by."—London Answers.

Lonesome.

"You concede that our city is beautiful, has clean streets, healthful surroundings and good government?"

"Of course," said the former New Yorker.

"You have established a good business here?"

"Oh, yes."

"Then why can't you be happy among us?"

"You have no rush hours."

Case of Demonstratitiss.

"I am thinking of buying a car."

"Why buy? Have you had demonstrations from them all?"

"Not quite, but the demonstrators aren't quite so demonstrative as they were at first. The last one that took me shopping was even more unenthusiastic than the one that had taken me calling the day before. I think he was the one who put the demon in demonstratitiss."—Retail Ledger, Philadelphia.

New Statute Needed.

"Judge, he stays away from home practically all the time."

"That's bad."

"Why, I even have to go out to the golf links when I want to ask him for money."

Drawn Together.

"Mrs. Jilway and Mrs. Gadder have declared a truce."

"What brought that about?"

"Community of envy."

"Eh?"

"Mrs. Gadspar of the same neighborhood has a new car."

Admitted.

Blinks—I read a curious article the other day advocating a tax on beauty.

Jinks—Good idea. They won't have much trouble in collecting it.

He who lives only in future joys will know many present pains.

You remember the story of the Pitcher—

It made a good many trips to the well and it came back in good order.

"I can take care of myself," it said—"they don't need to talk about risks to me."

But it went once too often.

After that it was only part of a pitcher, and they didn't need to talk to it about risks—it knew.

A lot of people won't believe coffee can harm them until it does harm them.

"Nonsense!" they say, "it never disturbs me."

When it does disturb them, then they know.

Often the disturbance which they then recognize is the result of irritations to nerves and digestion which have been going on for a long time.

If you have to lie awake at night and count the clock ticks, after an evening cup of coffee, then you know that it's better to be safe than sorry.

The risk of coffee's harm is gone when the meal-time drink is Postum.

Here's a delightful and satisfying table beverage, with charm for the taste and without harm for nerves or digestion. You know you're on the right road with Postum; there's never the possibility that you'll go once too often.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

Trinidad McGrath and family arrived in Mora this week from mills, with their household goods and a dairy herd of 14 fine little Jersey cows. They are established at present with brother, Assessor Thomas McGrath on the farm adjoining the Mora court house and will feed the herd on the alfalfa Tom has raised this summer. A dairy herd is the best bet in this valley winter or summer and we see where Trinidad is starting right to have a sure income the year round. We are glad to welcome him and trust there will be others to take advantage of our unusual facilities for dairying in these valleys.

R. E. Alldredge, Sam Ratcliff and Jack Mahoney, three members of the municipal school board of Roy, Harding County, drove to Mora Wednesday on business connected with their bond issue for the new school building. No levy was made for the interest fund last year. Meanwhile the interest on the bonds is due and must be paid or severe penalty attaches. It's an awkward position for the school board to be placed in but they will find a way out as they always have.

R. E. Alldredge, manager of the big Floorsheim Mercantile Co., stores at Roy and at Springer, enjoyed the scenery and associations of the Mora valley Thursday morning when she was at her best and declared he would not consider it a calamity by any means if fate decreed that he should spend the rest of his life here. He appreciates the opportunities offered here for development as well as the superb scenic surroundings.
