SANTA FE.

From the New Mexican.
Mrs. R. J. Felen returned from a two weeks' visit to relatives in Denver. Miss Felen will remain in the Queen City of the Plains for some weeks yet.

W. B. Platt of St. Louis, one of the postoffice inspectors of that city and who has been here for several days inspecting the local postoffice as well as the action of Postmaster Walter in asking for the resignation of George W. Armijo, who for some time has been assistant postmaster here, after finishing left this morning for the east.

B. J. Bamer and George K. Kaseman returned from Madrid, where they were on business connected with the Capital coal yards. They have secured a good supply of both anthracite and bituminous coal for the trade of this city and there will be no scarcity of the black diamonds for domestic use this fall and winter. The coal furnished by the Capital city coal yards is of superior quality and gives great satisfaction.

The quarterly conference of St. John's Methodist Episcopal church held its regular business meeting and elected the following trustees for the ensuing year: W. J. McPherson, N. S. Lutz, George Kinsell, Wilbur DeWalt, S. N. Fuller, W. N. Kennedy, F. Frazer and Miss Francis Carville were elected stewards. The board unanimously requested the return of the pastor, Rev. W. A. Cooper, for another year.

LAS VEGAS.

Mrs. W. B. Bunker, who has been seriously ill since Sunday, is reported better.

Dr. B. A. Bonheim has left for Chicago to attend the "Brimble" or naming of the little son of his cousin, Frank Bonheim.

Francisco C. de Baca has entered suit against Cipriano Ortiz to replevin certain cattle and recover damages to the amount of $100.

A. S. Moya and Nick Hilgers have joined forces in the transfer business. Mr. Moya has bought big draft teams of Hadley & Hallett and of Enoch Rogers and the firm is ready to handle all the hauling of the town.

Mrs. George Lewis, wife of the popular diner and plumber, returned from a visit of several weeks' duration to Downs, Kansas, where she visited her mother, who is 94 years of age. Miss Pearl Goodall, of Hutchinson, Kas., a friend of the family, returned with Mrs. Lewis and will remain here.

The people of the Upper Gallinas had a meeting on Sunday to protest against the condemnation proceedings of the Agua Fria company and to take steps to oppose the proceedings. They are actuated by a natural desire to retain the right of the canyon road, over which they have been traveling for generations.

Attorney Geo. P. Monev, in behalf of the board of trade, has written to Congressman W. R. Hearst inviting him to pay a visit to Las Vegas while on his western tour. Mr. Monev also wrote to Judge De Armond and other friends of his own in the congressional party, requesting them to urge Mr. Hearst to schedule a stop for Las Vegas.

Mr. White and son, father and brother of the Miss White, of Newport, Ky., who died so suddenly after being carried from the train here, several days ago, arrived last night from Phoenix. When the young lady became seriously ill on the train, the family, all of whom were bound for Phoenix, decided to stop off here for a time, hoping the invalid's condition might improve. The son went on to Phoenix to prepare a home for the others. When Miss White died the father not being able to reach his son by telegraph went in search of him, leaving the mother here. The mournful journey back to Kentucky was to have begun at once, but all the trucks of the family have gone astray and the start will be delayed until they have been found.

A PAYIG CONCERN.

Representative of Albuquerque Woolen Mills Tells of the Success Achieved.

Herman Hase, representing the Rio Grande Woolen Mills at Albuquerque, is here on business with the city merchants, says a Las Vegas Exchange. Mr. Hase has just returned from an extensive trip, which took him to El Paso, thence over the Rock Island to Tucuman, Santa Rosa and other towns, then to Trinidad and Raton and down to Las Vegas. The gentleman reports splendid success on his trip. He placed many big orders for cloth from the mills.

Speaking of the factory, Mr. Hase says it is manufacturing blankets and men's and women's dress goods of excellent quality. While a ready market in the southwest has been found, a still better market has been established in New York cities. The mill has been able to fill all the eastern orders. When spoken of to the oft repeated objection that mills so far away from market cannot compete with those close at hand, Mr. Hase said that the fact that the Albuquerque mills were doing it was the best proof of the feasibility of such a competition. Asked how it could be done, he said that in the specific case the mill company was able to buy wool to excellent advantage, that every particle of it was utilized, that it was washed, scoured and put through every operation to prepare it for the loom right at the home plant, and that the finished product could be shipped east cheaper than could the wool. If the eastern manufacturer did as the western ones—buy the wool direct from the back of the sheep—he has to pay the freight on a lot of dirt and refuse. If the wool were scoured in the west he had to pay the cost of the scouring. Mr. Hase produced figures to prove that the cloth could be placed upon the New York market in competition with any eastern factory. For the blankets there is already demand, and as the best experts declare the clothing stuff is equal to the best, there is no difficulty in placing all the goods the mills can turn out.

Fact is better than theory, and the fact that the ownership of the Rio Grande mills is vested in two or three people and that there isn't a dollar of stock for sale, discounts any fine theories that such a mill can not be made to pay.

SANTA FE.

From the New Mexican.
Miss Anita Armijo of Albuquerque is the guest of Mrs. A. M. Bergere.

Miss Marguerite Geimer, stenographer in the office of Territorial Secretary J. W. Reynolds, left for Denver on a pleasure trip.

Captain E. C. Austin of Las Vegas, president of the cattle sanitary board, has returned to the Meadow city from Denver, where he has been on business connected with his position.

Mrs. F. A. Kuhns and daughter, Winifred, of Washington, D. C., have arrived in the city and are guests of Judge and Mrs. J. R. McFie. They are en route from San Francisco to their home in the national capital.

The Santa Fe board of trade should take prompt steps to invite Congressman W. R. Hearst and his party to visit the capital, while on their tour to New Mexico. If proper action is now had it is believed that Mr. Hearst and party can be induced to come to Santa Fe and remain here several days.

Quirino Sedillos, 39 years of age, who was fatally injured two weeks ago at the Lamy coal chutes, died last night at 9 o'clock at his home on the south side. The funeral services will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday morning at the Guadalupe church. Interment in the Guadalupe cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew H. Blake of Omaha, Neb., have taken up their residence in Santa Fe. Mr. Blake is well known here having spent a year in Santa Fe and vicinity for his health and having been a clerk for a short time in the Santa Fe postoffice.

Arthur Boyle, chairman of the committee on Santa Fe county horticultural exhibits for the St. Louis exposition and which exhibit is also to be used at the Albuquerque fair, is at work gathering fruits and vegetables for the purpose. Every farmer, fruit grower and horticulturist in Santa Fe county, who has choice specimens of fruits or cereals grown in this county, should immediately send them to Mr. Boyle, who will prepare and ship them to Albuquerque with the Santa Fe county exhibit.

LAS VEGAS.

H. M. Young, salesman, formerly with Calisher's California store in El Paso, has accepted a position with Fox & Harris.

Wednesday afternoon while Dr. J. A. Roils was in the city he measured strength at chess with the Las Vegas expert, C. C. Colby. Mr. Colby, who has defeated all the best chess players of the southwest, won from Dr. Roils.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ragan and two children left on No. 2 for Waterloo, Iowa, where they expect to make their future home. Mr. Ragan will continue to engage in the stenographic business, which he has successfully pursued in Las Vegas for the past five years.

Edward Henry is still improving slowly, but steadily, and the chances of his complete recovery are getting brighter every hour. This is good news for the gentleman's friends, not only in the city, but in every part of the territory.

J. E. Pauley, the piano tuner, who rides the $225 Mitchell motorcycle, which was in the smash-up a few days since, was much pleased to find that M. Biehl could repair the damage to his machine and give it back to him "as good as new" the day after. Mr. Pauley has ridden on this wheel 100 miles with one change of a gallon of gasoline.

Dr. F. B. Romero, assisted by Dr. Mueller, successfully performed a delicate and difficult operation known as laparotomy, the patient being Mrs. F. S. Ortega of Wagon Mound, who came to this city to secure the services of Dr. Romero. She withstood the ordeal and is doing finely with every hope of complete recovery, although her affliction was one of long duration.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Reynolds returned recently from Boston, Massachusetts. Mrs. Reynolds spent the greater part of the last year in Europe. After reaching Boston, she remained for a few weeks to visit her daughter, Mrs. Dudley Dean. Mr. Reynolds went east two weeks ago to accompany his daughter, Miss May, who is attending college in Boston, and to return with Mrs. Reynolds. On their way west they spent a day or two at their old home in Canton, Ohio.

MINERAL EXHIBIT.

San Miguel County Will Have Display At The Fair.

San Miguel county's mineral wealth will be fully represented at the territorial fair at Albuquerque and at the Louisiana purchase exposition. Nearly all the mining men in that county have been enlisted in the undertaking and an effort will be made to secure specimens of all the minerals found in the county.

H. E. Blake has agreed to take charge of the matter of arranging and classifying the display. Mr. Blake will also attend the fair and furnish information regarding San Miguel county mines and minerals. The world's fair commission will defray the expense of transporting the exhibit to Albuquerque. Among the minerals that will be displayed may be named gold, silver, copper of many grades, coal, iron, mica, turquoise, lead, zinc, marble, and a number of varieties of the best building stone to be found in the southwest.

Miss Maud Radcliffe, Miss Watson, Mrs. Gaudin and Mrs. Snamer form a corps of new clerks at the Golden Rule dry goods store.

Richard B. Harrison, the reader and entertainer, who will give a recital at the African Methodist Episcopal church Monday evening, will entertain the guests of the Alvarado hotel Saturday evening.

INDIAN HOGANS.

They Are Now Deserted, Occupants Leaving for Reservations.

TOM AND ELLE.

For at least thirty days and probably sixty the industrial rooms of the Alvarado curio will be silent and devoid of activity and the little Pueblo of tepees near the railroad at the corner of Tijeras road and First street will be uninhabited and lifeless, with the exception of a big brown, bald eagle, which paces up and down in his cage in a relentless, persevering manner, seeking freedom, yet daring approach of all that is human; even does he defy advances made by his friend and benefactor, Herman Switzer, Navajo Tom and his faithful squaw, Elle, and his silent band of followers, who have become closely identified with the interesting things of the Alvarado curio and seemingly a part of the institution and lives of the Alvarado curio corps of employees, left last night for the Navajo reservation and their native environments.

It has been many months since Tom and his band left their tepees on the reservation and came to Albuquerque, and for weeks they have been talking of returning and what they would do when they do return.

They came through the influence of J. L. Hubbell and Mr. Hubbell returned with them. Mr. Hubbell has a large number of the tribes' people making blankets for him at his trading post at Granada. Navajo Tom is one of the most trusted Indians in Mr. Hubbell's employ, and for twenty years carried the United States mails or horseback across the reservation. His squaw, Elle of Grande, is a blanket weaver of great fame. She wove a very beautiful Germantown yard blanket, which now adorns the Indian room of the White House and was made a present to President Roosevelt by the Albuquerque Commercial club, when the chief executive visited here May 6. At that time and immediately after Elle was pictured and featured in the popular magazines and newspapers of the country, acquiring great notoriety. Elle's latest accomplishment is the weaving of the largest blankets ever woven in Albuquerque. This blanket is 20x20 feet and of native wool. The design is red, white and grey, and a work of the highest degree in Navajo blanket weaving art.

Coal is arriving in the city in large quantities, several trains arriving each day. A citizen reporter this morning counted thirty-eight cars of coal in a train of fifty-eight loaded cars, coming in from Thornton.

Roy Stamm, who has had charge of a general merchandise store at Moriarty, on the Santa Fe Central, will reach the city in a few days, and will accept a position at the wholesale commission house of the Bitner-Stamm Fruit company.

Mrs. Sarah D. Ferguson, while coming west yesterday morning on No. 1, was stricken with paralysis while the train was leaving Trinidad. She continued to grow worse during the day, so that it was thought best for her to leave the train at this point. She was taken to the St. Joseph sanitarium, and died there early this morning. Mrs. Elsie Hawks rendered the afflicted woman every assistance possible on the train and accompanied her to the hospital. O. W. Strong's Sons, at

TERRITORIAL FAIR NOTES.

Everything Seeping Itself for a Big Success.

GOOD HORSES ARE HERE.

It is just ten days to fair time and things are seeping themselves beautifully—the fair will be a grand success. The program was published in The Citizen yesterday and looks like there would hardly be a single moment during the fair that there would not be something doing.

The amusements discount those of any previous fair by far and not a single detail of any of the attractions is being slighted in the preparations. Even the trees in the grounds, where the carnival company will hold forth are being trimmed into symmetrical proportions.

A. A. Trimble, superintendent of the fair grounds, has finished whitewashing the fair grounds buildings, and repairing the fair grounds fence. The base ball diamond has been cleaned off and the holes and low places in the meadow field have been leveled. The high board fence corral, where the steers and catlaw bronchos are to be confined, has been cleaned up and strengthened. The cowboys—ropers and broncho busters—who are to take part in the cowboy tournament, have begun to arrive.

James Miller, of Tucuman and Charles Conrad of Willard, N. M., arrived yesterday morning, bringing eleven horses. Two of them are jumpers and will be entered in the running events, and the others are cow ponies, four of them expert at roping ponies.

At the fair grounds forty-seven horses—runners, harness and cow horses—are stabled and every day they may be seen exercising on the track.

George Ogden's El Paso horses, seven in number, arrived last night, and among them are entries for the 2:13 and 2:17 harness races, for which are hung up the Edgewood and Bull Durham stakes.

Secretary McCanna this morning received a letter from Richard Wetherill, the Indian merchant, trader and scout. He writes that the Indians here last year received such good treatment that they are desirous of coming this year and will. The number will not be as large as last year, but the class will be better. They will be all young men, and will come without their wives and families. They are young bloods and great horsemen. They possess a large amount of jewelry, and with 500 yards of bright colored ribbons furnished by the association, their dances will be most spectacular.

The ballot boxes for the queen contest were distributed around the city last night and today the voting began. These boxes may be found at the Central drug store, J. H. O'Reilly & Co.'s drug store, O. A. Matson's and Newcomer's book stores and at the Alvarado Pharmacy. The votes will cost 5 cents each.

WANTS VINDICATION.

Dismissed Surveyor General of Arizona is Going to Washington to Fight.

Lugh H. Price, lately dismissed from office as surveyor general for Arizona, has returned to Phoenix, after several months spent in California for the treatment of failing health. He absolutely denies wrong-doing in office and announces his intention of going to Washington and fighting for vindication. Specifically, he was removed for accepting extra pay for work done in his office after office hours, rushed at the request of persons willing to pay doubly for speed.

In answer to this, Mr. Price quotes an authority section 10 of an act of June 7, 1900, which provides that "when the work in the surveyor general's office is congested, the clerks can perform work out of office hours." He insists that "We simply tracked the law and followed the precedents of my predecessors and of every other surveyor general in the west. The same policy has been followed in Arizona for years." He claims there was a "dirty game of politics" played in order to get him out of the way.

Mr. Price takes all the blame upon his own shoulders and from those of W. E. Murphy, who had been his chief clerk and who was summarily dismissed before final action was taken upon his principal. Mr. Murphy seems to look upon the matter calmly and will let it drop. He was on the point of leaving the government service when dismissed. He is a democrat, entering the service from Georgia at the time Hoke Smith was secretary of the interior.

Mrs. Sarah D. Ferguson, while coming west yesterday morning on No. 1, was stricken with paralysis while the train was leaving Trinidad. She continued to grow worse during the day, so that it was thought best for her to leave the train at this point. She was taken to the St. Joseph sanitarium, and died there early this morning. Mrs. Elsie Hawks rendered the afflicted woman every assistance possible on the train and accompanied her to the hospital. O. W. Strong's Sons, at whose embalming parlors the body is cared for, have been wired to ship to Marion, Ohio. The remains will be sent tomorrow morning, O. W. Strong's sons having received a telegram from the family to that effect.

FLAGSTAFF'S FALL CARNIVAL.

Everything Went Off Nicely—Large Crowd in Attendance.

The weather Friday and Saturday was ideal for a carnival or anything else. People were here from the different towns of the territory, and all seemed to enjoy the sports. It was not an elaborate affair, but it was demonstrated that Flagstaff is the best place in the territory in which to hold an entertainment of this kind. Next year we can and will do better. We will have more time in which to prepare for the event, and more money to carry it out. Besides we have a stock of experience that will be worth a great deal to us.

Our limited space will not permit us to give a detailed account of the carnival, but it is fact that it was a success beyond the expectation of all concerned. The committees were handicapped for the want of time and money, but H. C. Hibben, Harry Conrad and Harry Hoxworth worked with such a zeal that they made a success out of what others predicted a failure. —Flagstaff Gem.

Of the 280 children at the local government Indian school, 257 are said to be full blood, while in a short time fifty full blood Navajos will be added to the number, running the attendance considerably over 300. This makes the largest percentage of Indian children attending the school for many years.

Has Made 2:09 Twice.

It has been inadvertently omitted that Birechtwig paced a mile in 2:09 at the fair grounds. The warming up heat was 2:11, and then he paced a heat in 2:13 flat, which was published, but he paced 2:09 flat afterwards in a heat with a running horse, Constantine, who was driven by Billy McCloud. Birechtwig was driven in all three heats by his trainer, E. P. Harris. Some time watchers claim he paced it in 2:08½ flat, but the official time is 2:09—Atoswell Record.

WASTE OF ENERGY.
The Prescott Journal-Miner, republican, says:
"Mark Smith, the Tucson Citizen and some other democratic papers seem unduly excited for fear Arizona will be admitted as a state at the next session of congress with New Mexico annexed to it. There is no danger whatever of such a thing happening or of Arizona's admission in any shape, manner or condition at the next session of congress, so do not worry, gentlemen. The democrats will have a chance of making at least one more campaign in this territory on the statehood issue as they have done for the past dozen years or so—ever since their campaign motto was 'Mark Smith, sorcerer and statehood.'"

COAL MINING.
The Denver Republican says that it is fortunate that there is no danger of a coal strike tying up the production of coal in the four Rocky mountain states and territories—Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.
Of the 22,000 coal miners in the section in question only about 2,000 are members of unions, and those who are not members will not be swayed by the unwise counsel of labor agitators and leaders who thrive most when laboring men are in the greatest trouble. Men of this class have caused practically all the trouble in which the laboring population of Colorado and neighboring mountain states have been involved, and it is lucky both for the public and the miners that their influence in coal camps amounts to almost nothing at all.

WICKEDNESS OF THE WORLD.
It is getting quite common for some prominent man to kill the woman he had loved and then commit suicide. Such tragedies always bring to light a fearful scandal, which had never been suspected. How many other scandals are there which never come to light? Still we are told the world is growing better. When the last trump sounds and men stand before their Maker to be judged, how many shocking revelations will there be. For not one hundredth part of the wickedness of the world is ever known to the inhabitants thereof. Some of the large cities where the money god rules supreme are said to be hotbeds of vice and crime, where "wealth accumulates and men decay" and where the rugged virtues of the fathers no longer exist.

WILL URGE STATEHOOD.
When the question of admitting to statehood Oklahoma, Indian Territory, New Mexico and Arizona is brought up at the next session of congress it is probable the larger railroad systems entering the rapidly growing southwest will exert their influence to have the territories included in the union.

It is a matter of vital interest to the roads, and it is said that the officials of the Rock Island, Santa Fe, Missouri, Kansas & Texas and other large systems entering the territories directly or connecting with the centers of traffic there will co-operate with the people to bring about recognition. After the question of statehood was taken up for consideration at the last session of congress those who favored the move professed to feel certain that the next session would act favorably on it.

NO JOINT STATEHOOD.
Arizona and New Mexico object to joint statehood for many reasons, says the El Paso News, but one of the chief reasons is that the representation in the United States senate could be reduced.

Former Delegate M. A. Smith, of Arizona, explained the situation the other day while talking in Washington. He said:
"My successor in congress, J. F. Wilson, will introduce a bill in the house on the first day of the session providing for statehood for Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, but I do not believe the bill will pass, as it is evident that the republicans do not propose to take any chances of defeat in the coming presidential election. I believe the bill would have become a law last session but for that sort of fear."

"Our people will never consent to the consolidation of New Mexico and Arizona. It is a proposition from New England to give four United States senators to all that territory between the Gulf of Mexico and the Gulf of California, a stretch of country as long as from New York to Florida. We would prefer to remain a territory fifty years rather than to unite with New Mexico in this way."

COWARDLY AND CRUEL.
Chief Justice Lore, of Delaware, declares that all lynchings are murders, even if they pretend to believe that they are doing the duty that somebody else has failed, or will fail, to do.

But the justice might have added that the mob murderer, generally speaking, is one of the worst kind. Ordinarily it requires some courage to attack a man's life. While you are trying to kill him he may kill you. Then, you are likely to be punished, either by hanging or imprisonment for life, if you kill him.

But the lyncher feels that he is safe. The man who is to be lynched is usually unarmed and helplessly pent up. The lynchers are a hundred, a thousand, or ten thousand, to one. The weakness of our government has given the strongest assurance that nobody will be punished for a crime that is committed by so many.

Remembering, too, that in the annals of other kinds of murders in this country, while the lynchings of late years have in many cases abandoned themselves to the ecstatic joy of burning men at the stake, may it not be justly said that lynchings are among the most cowardly and cruel kind of murders?

DEMAND FOR A SIX HOUR DAY.
A cablegram from Sidney, in far off Australasia, points out in a clear light to what the contentions of organized labor for an eight hour day are leading. At a general conference of the labor leaders in Sydney the president of the federation, in his opening speech, referred to the steps that ought to be taken, now that the eight hour day had been firmly established in his judgment agitation for a day of six hours should be begun. All the labor leaders assented to this, but no action was taken to start the movement.

Revolutions never go backward, hence in a few years the clamor for a six hour day will be ringing in the ears of the world. When that is secured, if it can ever be secured, the four hour day and a full holiday on Saturday will be worked for. Finally there will be only the two hours of toll which the political economists declare would be sufficient to sustain the world in comfort, provided that everybody would work as he should work. There's the rub! And that is always the rub! It is the problem before us now, when the eight hour day is so general, and is so generally followed by a reduction in the output. The golden age would be open if everybody labored, and no toiler be required to devote a part of his earnings to the support of the idle and the vicious, after providing for the sick and the helpless.

FUTURE OF IRRIGATION.
Elwood Mead, the irrigation expert of the department of agriculture, has not always displayed the best judgment in dealing with some phases of irrigation in the west, says the Phoenix Republican, but in predicting a great expansion of the irrigation industry in the next few years he is on a sound footing. It is his belief that there are few sections in the United States which would not be made more prosperous by irrigation at certain seasons of the year, and in the middle states and in the south he looks for quite as great an advance as has been witnessed from a trip abroad a few days ago, and speaking of what he saw and of the future of irrigation, he said:
"I am coming home strengthened in my belief that irrigation has a wide field of usefulness in the eastern part of the United States, and that it will be adapted wherever water can be had and distributed at reasonable cost. Especially is this true of the southern states, with their long, hot summers. In Italy $6,000,000 has been spent on one canal system to water a country where the irrigated fields are as green and luxuriant today as the prairies of Iowa and Illinois. But they are not nearly so opulent in vegetation as the irrigated fields near by. The crops grown are corn, wheat, hay and mulberry leaves, all except the last the products of our middle state farms. It pays. The irrigated farm is far more valuable than the unirrigated one."

IRRIGATION PLAN.
Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock says of the workings of the new irrigation law: "The plan is for the government to develop the water supply, which will be rented to landholders. When the system of watering is completed, the improvements will be sold to the landholders according to the cost. The money appropriated for the work will thus be turned over and over. As soon as one district is provided with irrigation facilities the money realized from the sale of water rights will be used in improving another district." Of all economic conceptions this is unquestionably one of the most important and promising.

LAW AGAINST BOYCOTTS.
The effort being made in Alabama to enact a state law against the boycott, by construing it as conspiracy, is bound to attract much attention in both labor and capital circles. The lower house of the legislature has already passed the anti-boycott bill by a vote of 60 to 32, and it is believed that the senate will sustain the measure. This action itself is one of great importance, and if it reaches conclusions against the weapon so long used by labor in its coercive movements, the results will be awaited with much interest.

The action of the Alabama legislature will not arouse the opposition among labor organizations that it would have provoked some years ago. In the first place the bill that makes the boycott conspiracy also prohibits the making and distribution of "blacklists." The latter prohibition on the whole is in favor of the labor unions. On the other hand, the most influential labor leaders, and some of the great organizations, have already declared against the principle of the boycott, more especially the indirect retaliation.

European nations go right on extending the canal systems within their borders because water transportation has demonstrated that it is economical. The only reason canal construction in this country is so seriously hampered is because the railways fear the water competition.

The enormous quantity of water raised from the mines of the United States figures largely in operating costs. There has never been any estimate made of the quantity of water raised annually in mines of the west, but probably a half billion tons would be an excessive estimate, and at a cost approaching quite near to $15,000,000.

Telluride, Colorado, miners are coming to a realization that walking delegates do not walk in their interests. The miners were satisfied with working hours and wages but the fellows who work their jaws decided that it was time to call a strike in the Telluride camp. The union miners hearing of it posted five men on the trail to the mine in order to prevent the strike committee from approaching it to call out the men. The strike was called in opposition to the wishes of the men affected by it, and the latter refused to leave their jobs.

WINSLOW KILLING.
W. J. Egan Dead, But Who Fired the Deadly Bullet?

About 6 o'clock Sunday morning the report of a pistol in the Monarch saloon brought Officer King Henley and others to the scene, where, stretched out on top of the bar and suffering intense agony, they found Wm. J. Egan with a bullet hole in his back, says the Winslow Mail.
Dr. Hathaway was sent for, a stretcher procured and the wounded man removed to his room. An examination showed that the bullet had entered the lower part of his back, just where the buckle on his pants had been; the buckle was torn away by the bullet, but the doctors could do little for Egan; his wound was fatal, and medical skill could not save him.

Egan sent for Father Connolly in the afternoon and the dying man received the last sad rites of the church.
Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock, Wm. J. Egan's life departed from his body.
A coroner's jury was summoned, and after the examination of the doctors, who attended the man, and those who were in the saloon at the time the shot was fired, the following verdict was rendered:
Territory of New Mexico,
County of Navajo, ss.

We, the undersigned coroner's jury, empaneled September 20, 1903, to inquire into the cause of the death of Wm. J. Egan, find that the deceased who died about 7 p. m., September 20, 1903, came to his death from the effects of a gunshot wound from a .45-caliber revolver; the said wound being made about 6 o'clock a. m., September 20, 1903.
From evidence produced, we find the gun was fired by some party at present unknown to this jury.
Signed: Freeman Stewart, foreman; Mike Duffy, S. P. Middleton, H. Greeninger, Mark Nunnally, and Cormack Kennedy.

Mr. Egan's folks were telegraphed to at St. Paul, Minn., and, upon instructions from them, Undertaker W. A. Parr prepared the remains for shipment.
The funeral services were held at

The Catholic church Tuesday afternoon Father Connolly officiating, and were attended by the Order of Railway Trainmen, of which the deceased was a member, the ladies' auxiliary of that order and many friends.
Tuesday night's train carried to the eastern home as that was mortal of Wm. J. Egan.

It was found that Egan had been drinking heavily. Saturday night he was looking after the Monarch bar and enjoying himself with friends in the saloon. In the morning he laid down on top of the bar and went to sleep. Others were also asleep in the saloon; the shot woke them up. Those that were awake in the saloon were not paying any attention to Egan until the pistol shot was heard. Egan was shot from under the bar. The gun, a .45-caliber revolver, lay on the workbench. The bullet had gone through the top of the bar, hitting Egan in the back.

Mr. Egan was an old time railroad man and lately a passenger brakeman on the Santa Fe. He was a man in the prime of life, a fine specimen of manhood and the possessor of a cheerful and generous nature. That a man like Egan should meet death as he did is sorrowful in the extreme. He was well liked by his fellow employees, friends and acquaintances, and was a man possessed of no traits that would make him disliked by his fellowman.

POLICE COURT.
A motley crowd of defilers of the law lined the benches in Police court this morning. From the generous number Chief of Police McMillan and his men must have been kept very busy since the Saturday morning session of the court.

Maudie Knoke was found guilty of disturbing the peace and will serve a term.
LIVELY SCRIMMAGE.
Takes Place on the Frisco With a Cattle Rustler.

At a round up of cattle on the range of Tom Stockton, an old timer by the name of "Big Joe" Roberts was discovered in the act of skinning a yearling that belonged to the range. The cowboys attempted to arrest Roberts and a lively encounter took place. In the mix up Roberts got away but had his horse taken from him, says the Solomonville Bulletin.
The next day Officers Bob Bailey and Ranger Wilson went up the Frisco to arrest Roberts for illegally killing cattle. Roberts was notoriously guilty and a desperate man and the officers armed themselves to the teeth, knowing that he would not be taken without a struggle. About thirty miles up the Frisco they struck Roberts' trail and followed it to a house that the outlaw had entered to secure something to eat. They stationed themselves at advantageous points outside the house and called upon Roberts to surrender. It was night and very dark, and instead of surrendering, Roberts rushed out with his Winchester, firing as he came. The officers then began firing, and in all fourteen shots were exchanged. Roberts fell once but got up again almost instantly and continued his fusillade and fight, therefore it was not known whether he was hit or only stumbled.

Roberts succeeded in making his escape and has probably left the county. The officers were uninjured.
UNIVERSITY NOTES.
The assembly exercises on Tuesday was in charge of Mr. Asplund, who talked on the subject of "History in Words." On Thursday, Miss Parsons gave a graphic description of the Grand canyon.

On next Saturday, the Varsity football team will play the Minors at the ball grounds. The line up will probably be as follows: Center, Mayo; guards, Aldrich and Crawford; tackles, Irwin and Pratt; ends, Sebben and Luse; quarter back, C. Heald; half backs, Cannon and Bean; full back, Decker.
A dozen new football suits have arrived and a hard week's practice is now possible, as well as necessary, for the boys feel that they will have hard work to do in their game next Saturday.

The reception given the students of the University and High school last night was well attended by the young people of both schools. An interesting literary and musical program was given. The Baptist church and its genial pastor certainly deserve credit for providing such a pleasant evening.
A letter written by President Tight on July 29 reached Albuquerque today. It told of the difficulties encountered and the delay necessitated by various conditions. But President Tight has evidently made good use of his opportunities for Geological and climatological investigations. By this time, of course, he is well on his way toward New York, where he will arrive next Tuesday.

Robert F. Smith of Montclair, New Jersey, is the latest accession to the register of students.
Professors Hertzog and Krebs visited the Varsity and took dinner at the College club today.
Next Wednesday Mr. Krebs will begin a course of weekly talks and lessons in music at the assembly period.
Director Hertzog has sent out letters to last year's patrons of the school of music, calling attention to the opening of the various departments. An invitation is also extended to those interested to become members of the Choral society, which will meet for reorganization next Monday evening.

San Juan County.
It would be a mighty good thing if San Juan county should walk over and win that $500 purse at the Territorial fair in Albuquerque offered for the best county fruit exhibit. There is still time enough to do it. The fair opens October 12, and the fair this year is going to be worth going to. We have received a telegram from Colonel Sellers stating that he had secured the best space in the big pavilion at the Albuquerque fair. We wish to urge upon the fruit growers the necessity of delivering fruit at McJunkin's lumber yard by next Wednesday. This is important and should be attended to.—Farmington Times-Herald.

SCHOOL OF MINES NOTES.
From Socorro Chieftain.
Glover Mayo expected to return this year, but finally went to the territorial university, because his parents went to Albuquerque to reside.
John A. Hunter is now chemist for the El Paso Smelting company at El Paso, Texas. He writes that he is "all O. K." doing well, and making eighty determinations a day.

Dr. Bag's singing of the offertory at the Episcopal services was a revelation to most members of the congregation. The doctor has a tenor voice of rare excellence and he has evidently given it the very best of training.
W. E. Homme, who left before the expiration of last year's work to accept a position with an English mining company in Australia, has since had a varied experience. In Australia he suffered an attack of pneumonia. After recovery he went to Hong Kong, from Hong Kong to London, from London to Sweden to visit relatives and from Sweden he was called to his home in Wittenberg, Wis., by the death of his father.

DELEGATE YEARS AGO.

New Mexico Represented By Col. J. Francisco Chaves in Congress.

IT WAS FORTY YEARS AGO.

Life in congress as a delegate from New Mexico, two score years ago, during the reconstruction period.

The central figure in this chapter of the official history of the territory of New Mexico, was Colonel J. Francisco Chaves, the present territorial superintendent of public instruction, and the veteran member of the council of the legislative assembly from Valencia county, who has nine times held the presidency of that body.

Colonel Chaves was elected as delegate from the territory of New Mexico to the Thirty-ninth congress in the fall of 1866, just at the close of the civil war. Prior to this, he had been a member of the house of representatives of the legislative assembly in 1861, and at the outbreak of the civil war was commissioned a major of the First New Mexico volunteer cavalry, by the first martyred president, Abraham Lincoln, and Secretary of War Cameron.

Colonel Chaves was subsequently promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel of his regiment, which consisted of twelve companies, the total strength of the organization being over 1,200. He and his regiment participated in the battles of Valverde and Peralta, and also in the skirmish at Albuquerque.

Upon his return to civil life in 1864, he was considered as a desirable delegate to represent the territory in the lower house of congress, and at the convention which was held on April 12, 1865, the day that President Lincoln died, he received the nomination as delegate from his Republican followers and supporters.

The life of Colonel Chaves as a delegate to congress from New Mexico, which was during the reconstruction period was an arduous one. The delegates from the territories at that time were on none of the committees, while today the territories are represented on the committees on appropriations, Indian affairs, territorial affairs and military.

The legislation during the Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Forty-first congresses, during which period Colonel Chaves represented New Mexico as its delegate, was all directed to reconstruction. Congress was settling the financial affairs of the country, discharging volunteers and reorganizing the army, and with the immense war debt money was not available for appropriations save for any special purpose and the actual requirements of the territorial government.

At the same time Colonel Chaves as delegate was confronted by a large number of meritorious officers, who had done good service during the civil war, and whom the government desired to reward. This resulted in their being appointed governors, secretaries and office-holders in the territories, regardless of the fact of their being non-residents. For example, General H. B. Mitchell of Kansas, was appointed governor of New Mexico; General George P. Estes of Ohio, received the secretaryship, while the United States marshal was Captain John Pratt of Massachusetts, who had been aide on the staff of General Mitchell during the war. And so on, all down along the line, the appointments were made.

To attempt to get an appropriation for a road or anything else in the territory, Colonel Chaves had simply the privilege of introducing the bill, for it died in committee. During the Thirty-ninth congress he introduced an enabling act, granting to New Mexico the sovereignty of statehood. It received favorable report from the committee on territorial affairs, but was never taken up in the lower house of congress.

In the Fortieth congress, Colonel Chaves only succeeded in obtaining the right to his seat as delegate to New Mexico, eleven days before adjournment, having contested Charles A. Clever, who received the certificate as the result of a fraudulent vote.

During the Forty-first congress Colonel Chaves re-introduced an enabling act for statehood for New Mexico. It went in turn to the committee on territorial affairs, of which the present United States Senator from Illinois, Mr. Cullom, was chairman. This bill was also reported favorably but no action was taken in the house.

The anti-peonage law was passed during the Thirty-ninth congress, pursuant to a bill introduced by Colonel Chaves, which was first passed in the senate on the endorsement of Senator Henry Wilson of Massachusetts, and received favorable action in the lower house near the close of the session.

Colonel Chaves was nominated to serve as delegate in the Forty-second congress, but owing to the double dealing of political opponents he was defeated by J. M. Galleago, the democratic nominee. Major J. D. Sena, now deceased, who was a member of the republican convention that nominated Colonel Chaves, made a speech before that convention in which he declared he would support the republican candidate. Notwithstanding this two weeks after the convention was held, he came out as an independent candidate, which resulted in a democratic being elected.

Dawson Mine Burning.

The fire in the burning coal mine at Dawson is still burning fiercely. A big force of workmen is within fifty feet of the fire but it is believed that the choke damp will prevent a nearer approach to the tomb of the three workmen, as several of those working to reach the fire have already been overcome by the damp. United States Coal Mine Inspector Joe Sheridan is directing the efforts.—Huron Gazette.

A Busy Man.

Jenne, who came up from El Paso to his former home, for the purpose of moving the Lead avenue Methodist church parsonage, has taken seven other contracts for removals, since arriving in the city. Mr. Jenne has purchased an outfit for moving buildings, which he will keep stored in this city, so that when hereafter he may be wanted in the moving line by his Albuquerque friends and acquaintances, the needed appliances will be already here. Mr. Jenne says that he has a number of contracts in El Paso which are demanding his attention down there.

THREW SCALDING WATER.

A Girl Used it to Punish a Man's Horse.

An assault occurred near the Copper Queen store, the cause of which has not been made clear to anyone aware of it. Fred Wendel is the name of the party who was assaulted, and Ben Klepper, a teamster, committed the act. Klepper at once went to the office of Justice Brown, told of the occurrence and paid the fine which was imposed by the court, amounting to $5. In the meantime, Wendel had gone before Justice McDonald and swore to a complaint charging his assailant with a misdemeanor. Wendel claims that the assault was absolutely without provocation, while Klepper has stated that it is the result of a family difference which he does not care to make public. He gave as his immediate reason for the assault that one of the female members of the Dobson household threw hot water on one of the horses of the Brophy Transfer company, which team Klepper was driving. The act seemed to be particularly pleasing to Wendel who indulged in a laugh at Klepper's expense. This aroused the anger of Klepper and the assault followed.—Huron (Arizona) Review.

Brakeman Robbed.

A bold and daring robbery was committed last night about twenty miles this side of Las Vegas, when two men, supposed to be hoodes, held up Brakeman Dickson, who was discharging his duty on a train en route. The robbers secured a watch and a few dollars in money.

FAIR EXHIBITS.

Superintendent Larnard Says His Department Will Be Great This Year.
George P. Larnard, superintendent of exhibitions, was interviewed on the subject of displays for the territorial fair, today.

Mr. Larnard is very enthusiastic over the manner in which his department of work is developing. Letters are being received daily from every part of the territory, requesting information as to rules regulating displays, space at the disposal of exhibitors, etc. His many correspondents manifest so much interest that same forms the basis of Mr. Larnard's belief that this year's displays at exhibition hall will far surpass in variety and quality all previous efforts along this line. Among the many who have already applied for space we mention a few who may be depended upon to make record displays: Albuquerque public schools; W. C. Butman, photographic and art subjects; Rio Grande Woolen Mills; C. C. and Blad Jones, paint pigments and products of new brick plant; Rio Grande Tobacco company; Swift & Co., meats and packing house products; carload space for exhibit from Las Cruces and two carloads space for exhibit from San Juan county.

Notes from Correspondents

ALGODONES TOPICS.

What the People of That Town Are Talking About.

Special Correspondence.
Algodones, N. M., Sept. 28.—No frost yet had and everybody is pleased with the outlook. Alfalfa cutting has commenced on the fourth crop. The fruit crop is not as good as hoped for. Apples are a good crop, so are late peaches. Melons, beans and other produce are all safe.

Tomorrow will be the feast of August and everybody is looking forward to have a big time.

The Algodones smelter outfit seems to be very quiet. A. J. Frank, the main person of the business, has got nothing to say.

We will have a railroad in here in a short time. The Santa Fe Central has got to build to Hagan, the coal camp, which is but six miles from here. Then ladies will pop if we don't get a switch into this place. If the Santa Fe don't build we will put on an express outfit for ourselves, if it is nothing more than bus.

Jacobo Perea lost one of his mules yesterday. It got drowned in the acequia, but Jake is not one of those people who get downed on a slight mishap. He is on deck the same as ever and is making things hum. He has now close on to 200 tons of alfalfa baled and has yet another cutting to bale.

Juan Pablo Gutierrez, the general merchant here, is doing a first class business and deserves his good luck. Ignacio M. Perea is another merchant here who has the good wishes of everybody, and of whom nobody has one word of fault to find. He is the prince of good fellows.

O. P. Hovey, our probate clerk, has gone into the merchandise business and will no doubt succeed, as he is an earnest worker and an honest man and deserves success.

Everybody here is talking fair and you can count on this place sending almost the entire population to see the big show.

Palmer Ketter Will Go Visiting—Gallup Public School.

Special Correspondence.

Gallup, N. M., Sept. 28.—Rain, rain, rain! Gallup has no lack of moisture of late.

Frank Swartz and father went out to Jesus lake a few days since for a day's hunt, but found that on account of the heavy fall of rains the quantity of water collected had burst the dam and evidence of the outburst of water could be seen for five miles down the valley. No ducks, of course.

Palmer Ketter has rented his residence on Artee avenue to Mr. Hudson, who will take possession shortly. It is said that Mr. Ketter contemplates a visit to Salt Lake in the near future. Mrs. Ketter and children have been there a greater part of the summer. Salt Lake City is one of the most beautiful cities in the United States and offers a close second. One of the most delightful summers of my life was spent in the latter city.

Miss Flora Richardson, from Lees, Kansas, is teaching in Clarkville, and is to have an assistant as soon as the enrollment necessitates the addition. Miss Dedrick, a young lady from the old home, arrived last week to fill the position. Miss Jennie Caretti is home from the coast and her many friends are anxious to welcome her to her old place behind the counters of the Caledonian store, as soon as her health permits.

A number of Gallup's most interesting young ladies have gone to Albuquerque to attend school and several families will move to the Duke City in a short time.

Miss Beatrice Mulholland will accompany her sister, Mrs. Jack Bowie, to Albuquerque, where Mr. Bowie has secured a house and remain with her several months.

Mrs. Emma Bocklett will remove to Albuquerque as soon as she completes some business transactions. Then Gallup will be without a millinery store.

The family of M. Wyper are settled in the Jack Sharp cottage on East Artee avenue. Three of the boys are at railroad work and two in school.

Mrs. W. W. Rison has been selling out the furniture of the brick cottage on Warren avenue and with her daughter will leave Gallup soon to join Mr. Rison in Albuquerque, he having leased the house which Mr. Tilton is completing on Tijeras road.

Much petty thieving has been done lately. Mrs. Otto Mann's refrigerator was visited and a quantity of edibles taken.

Mrs. R. Lannigan's clothes line was lightened of several garments. Mrs. Frank Dugan lost a nice carpet, left out on the line over night. Mr. Ransom suffered the loss of a lot of feed. A carpet was also taken from the Rison residence. Several had been on the line outside all day, but at night they were taken down and all but one taken into the house. This one was put into a store room opening on the back porch and in the morning it was gone.

Messadams Tamoney and Brady are serving excellent meals at the new restaurant on Railroad avenue. They also make and keep for sale bread, cakes, cookies and just such pies as your "mother used to make."

Who was married on the 12th of August in Gallup this year? Any one know?

Gallup citizens are felicitating themselves and congratulating the school board on the choice of so excellent a principal for our city schools. Prof. Decker is the right man in the right place, strict without severity, earnest and thorough, cheerfully assisting them in difficulties, sympathizing and encouraging, making each pupil feel that he or she is there for a purpose, and that the chief end and aim of the professor's life is to assist said pupil in accomplishing that purpose. No foolishness, no "dilly-dallying," no wavering or hesitating, no evading of duties, prompt and energetic. Prof. Decker is filling a long felt want and the public schools of Gallup promise to be better than ever in the coming year. Miss Reynolds, his assistant, is an able successor to Miss Josie Hawes, whose resignation was received with so much regret. Miss Reynolds is from Manhattan, Kansas; a teacher of undoubted ability, possessor of a winning personality, a good disciplinarian and a fine musician. School opened with an enrollment of nearly 250, which has been largely increased. There are eleven members of the graduating class of 1904. This is the second year for Miss McAllen and Miss Blake, the fifth for Miss McIntire, the fourth for Miss McAllen and the twelfth, we believe, for Miss Ella Smith, of the first primer, many now in the upper grades having begun school in her rooms. Miss Dyrart, in charge of the sixth and seventh grades is from Missouri and with Prof. Decker and Miss Reynolds form the addition to the corps of Gallup teachers. Miss Dyrart is from Columbia, Mo., coming well recommended; a teacher of ability, who is also a fine musician.

Fred Finger died Monday night after an illness of three weeks. A fever of some kind.

Miss B. H. Brainer and Henry Gentch of Covington, Kentucky, visited Hillsboro last week. Both gentlemen are interested in the Proper mines at the Placers.

Gangs of men are at work on the fair grounds, painting fences and buildings white, leveling and smoothing the baseball field and the tournament enclosure, and putting the racing track into apple-pie order.

While opening a box, J. C. Mount of Three Mile Bay, N. Y., ran a ten penny nail through the fleshy part of his hand. "I thought at once of all the pain and soreness this would cause me," he says, "and immediately applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and occasionally afterwards. To Great British Soldiers.

Boston, Oct. 1.—The members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of London, who are due to arrive in Boston tomorrow on a fraternal visit to their namesake organization of this city are assured of such a welcome as never before was accorded British soldiers in the "cradle of the revolution." They will be met on their arrival by representatives of the state and city, delegations of patriotic and other societies and the entire Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston. The period of their stay in Boston will be marked by a continuous round of banquets, receptions and other forms of entertainment. Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worst stomach of the overfed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaires unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. The report for the year ending August 1, 1903, of the condition of the schools of Otero county, which has just come to hand in the office of the territorial superintendent of public instruction shows marked progress, and is a sufficient guarantee of the flourishing conditions in that section of the territory.

the average daily attendance for the period was 1,220. The total population of persons of school age in the county was 2,396. The school buildings number twenty, and a force of thirty teachers is employed.
The total receipts from all sources for the year were $36,897.19 and the expenditures $30,097.43, leaving a balance on hand, August 1, 1903, of $6,799.76. The total valuation of the school property in the county is $27,550, which includes the property of the Baptist college at Alamogordo, which has a student body of 108 in the various classes.

Do You Want to Yawn?
Feel cold shiverings, aching in the bones, lack of energy, headache, and great depression? These symptoms may be followed by violent headache, high fever, extreme nervousness, a condition known as malaria. Herbine cures it. Take it before the disease gets a fair hold, though it will work a cure in any stage. J. A. Hopkins, Manchester, Kan., writes: "I have used your great medicine, Herbine, for several years. There is nothing better for malaria, chills and fever, headache, biliousness, and for a blood-purifying tonic, there is nothing as good." Fifty cents at J. H. O'Reilly Drug Co.

Gained Forty Pounds in Thirty Days.
For several months our younger brother had been troubled with indigestion. He tried several remedies but got no relief from them. We purchased some of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and he commenced taking them. Inside of thirty days he had gained forty pounds in flesh. He is now fully recovered. We have a good trade on the tablets—Holly Bros., Merchants, Long Branch, Mo. For sale by all druggists.

POLICE COURT.

The mourners' bench at police court was well filled this morning. The following included defilers of divers city ordinances.
One man, of the name of Chavez did a brotherly act when he struck his near masculine relative a terrific blow in the face, peaking it in a place as big as a Mexican dollar. He was fined according to the offense, which was $10 or ten days.
Louis Hogan is a boy 17 years of age. He said his home was at Port Huron, Mich., but he didn't like to say it. Louis was found to be without any means of support, and was given over to the fatherly care of Street Commissioner Martin Tierney to await a ten days' investigation. The court surmised that some one might be looking for Louis.
One white man was fined $5 or five days for being drunk.
Two natives paid $5 each for being disorderly.

For forty years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been curing summer complaint, dysentery, diarrhoea, bloody flux, pain in the stomach, and it has never yet failed to do everything claimed for it.

Woman's Unique Will.

"God may spare my life, I've had 2 child, and had a good deal of pleasure."

This is the opening statement in the will of Eleanor S. Hartwell, which has been filed for probate. Her estate is small, consisting of about $1,000 in personal property. She died on August 15 last. Practically all of her property, consisting of diamonds, bric-a-brac, ornaments, clothing and other effects, is to go to her sisters, Elizabeth A. Manny and Isabelle Wickes, who reside at No. 415 West Twenty-second street. Her clothing is to be sold for the benefit of the sisters, one-half of the proceeds to be used to procure a home with the Good Samaritans, at No. 414 West Twenty-second street, for her sister, Elizabeth A. Manny.—New York Herald.

Joplin to Pittsburg.

The Santa Fe railroad is preparing to extend its line into Joplin from Pittsburg, Kansas, a distance of about thirty miles. A survey is now being made and it is said the line will be constructed at once. The immense business done by the "Katy" new line into Joplin from Parsons is said to have caused the Santa Fe to look toward the mining district.

ALBUQUERQUE EASTERN.

Work Will Soon Commence, So Says General Manager Hopewell.

NOW PUSH MATTERS.

W. S. Hopewell, general manager of the Albuquerque Eastern and Santa Fe Central railroads, said this morning before departing for Santa Fe, after a stay of a couple of days in the territorial metropolis, that either today or tomorrow at Santa Fe the Pennsylvania Development company would officially transfer the Santa Fe Central to the operating department, and that he would then concentrate his efforts in the building of the Albuquerque Eastern.

This is certainly gratifying news, and is the declaration the people of Albuquerque have been waiting for some months. But it was not unexpected. When, a few days ago, Mr. Hopewell, bought a residence in Albuquerque and when W. H. Andrews, president of the new road, was in the city looking up and inquiring about office rooms, the situation was easily summed up and the meaning of these doings prophesied.

Although Mr. Hopewell did not give this information to a newspaper man, it came from a very authentic source.

Dieting Invites Disease.

To cure dyspepsia or indigestion it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to disease. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by B. H. Briggs & Co., and S. Vann & Son.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Albuquerque Citizen is Followed.
A woman's back has many aches and pains.
Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really a kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.
Many Albuquerque women know this.
Read what one has to say about it: Mrs. J. Pall of 519 South First street, says: "One of my daughters suffered from backache for about eight months or a year. Sometime it was so bad that she was completely prostrated for a day or so at a time. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills in our Albuquerque newspaper and thought if they only performed half what they promised they might help my daughter and we went to the Alvarado Pharmacy for a box. In a remarkably short time the medicine took effect and a continuation of the treatment a little longer stopped the backache. We are pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

BOYS' BRIGADE.

National Encampment of the Evangelistic Organization.
Baltimore, Oct. 2.—About one thousand delegates and several times that number of visitors are gathered in Baltimore for the annual national convention and encampment of the United Boys' Brigade. Today was devoted principally to the reception of the visitors. There was an excursion down the bay for the visitors and in the afternoon a program of athletic sports was pulled off at Paterson park. The regular program of the convention will be inaugurated tomorrow. In the forenoon there is to be a business meeting of the officers, followed by a big parade in the afternoon. The proceedings will close Sunday with monster rallies and religious services in churches and halls throughout the city.

The United Boys' Brigade is an evangelistic movement conducted on lines similar to the Salvation Army, and like the latter organization, it was founded in Great Britain, the first society having been founded in Glasgow. In recent years the movement has spread until it now embraces all of the United Kingdom, the United States, Australia and South Africa. Charles M. Schwab, late president of the United States steel corporation, is one of the national trustees of the Boys' Brigade and he is expected to be present one of the days of the convention and deliver an address.

CANADIAN CAMPAIGN.

Close of Exciting Political Contest in Canada.
Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 2.—The provincial campaign, which, though short, has been one of the most interesting in the political history of British Columbia, closed today and the people are looking forward eagerly to the election, which takes place tomorrow. A careful canvass of the situation leads to the conclusion that the present liberal-conservative government will probably be sustained by a small majority over its liberal opponents. The socialists and the labor party may return five or six members to parliament between them, leaving a small working majority for the McBride conservative government. The latter's railway policy, which is an important issue of the campaign, is understood to be distinctly favorable to the Great Northern extension by way of counterpoise to the Canadian Pacific monopoly.

SENSATIONAL ESCAPE.

Naval Deserter Assailed to Liberty by Young Girl.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 2.—Carl Treischmann, alleged deserter from the cruiser Topeka, escaped from a cell in the city jail in a sensational manner. The prisoner darted out and escaped. Miss Treischmann and her father were locked up for assisting a government prisoner to escape.

The spiveys confessed today that they had been in shooting scrapes before, having served terms at Frankfort for shooting to kill. They ascribe their present trouble to drinking which not only caused the disturbances in the saloon, but also the resisting of the officers on the street.

SYNOD OF NEW MEXICO.

Presbyterians Representing Churches of Two Territories to Meet.

WILL CONVEY THIS

The Presbyterian synod of New Mexico, representing the churches of New Mexico and Arizona will meet in Santa Fe this evening for a four day session. The meetings will be held in the first Presbyterian church.

The number of churches in the synod is sixty-four with forty-six pastors and home missionaries and fifteen local evangelists. There are over 400 Sabbath schools and Endeavor societies. Over 400,000 has been spent during the past year in the erection of new churches and $80,000 for the salaries of pastors, missionaries, evangelists and teachers.

The Sunday school members number 4,000, and the church members 4,200. Nearly $10,000 has been contributed for benevolence, that is for the work of the church in other localities outside of the two territories.

At Albuquerque, a new school building is in process of erection at the manual school for Mexican boys. The Allison school in Santa Fe, has opened most auspiciously under Miss Leaning's management, with upwards of eighty students. The other schools for Indians and Mexicans are so full that hundreds of applications have been declined for want of accommodations. In the near future, a large school for boys will be erected in Santa Fe for the enlargement of the church's educational work.

The present synod brings together about fifty pastors and other workers for the discussing of new plans, a review of the work of the last year and other matters of business. The service this evening at 7:45 will be the first and the Rev. L. A. McAlfee, pastor of the largest church in the synod, situated in Phoenix, Ariz., will preach. His church membership is 431.

Massachusetts Republicans.

Boston, Oct. 2.—The Republicans of Massachusetts assembled in state convention in Tremont Temple this morning and were called to order shortly after 10 o'clock by Samuel J. Powers of Newton. After roll call the usual committees were appointed and adjournment taken to permit the committees to prepare their reports. The convention will name a full state ticket, headed by W. Curtis Guild, the present lieutenant governor, to be voted for in November. Former Governor W. Murray Crane is chairman of the committee on resolutions. The report of this committee will strongly endorse the Roosevelt administration. The republican convention nominated the following ticket today:

Governor: John L. Bates, renominated; Lieutenant governor, Lieutenant Governor Gild, renominated; secretary of state, Wm. N. Olin; treasurer, Edward Bradford; auditor, Henry E. Turner; attorney general, Herbert Parker.

A complaint reached The Citizen office today to the effect that a certain stranger, who solicited advertisements for blotters and in many cases received money in advance, has been noticed hoarding quite regularly since his arrival here. The complaint came from a business man, who stated that he feared subscribers will get nothing for their pay, and he would advise those who have not already advanced money to keep the funds in their own pockets. This is another warning to the merchants to seek the columns of the newspapers when desiring to do advertising, as there are "fake" solicitors for all kinds of "fake" advertising schemes afloat working in the southwest. Beware of them.

Somewhat Disguised.

George Leeper and A. J. Hays, two hard working and industrious employees of the local railway shops, became this morning too intimately acquainted with John Barrymore. So they came up town cutting a wide swath along the sidewalks, and using rough language which could be heard a block or more away. Policeman Joe Salazar undertook to remonstrate with them, and at once they wanted to fight. Marshal McMillin appeared at this juncture, as he has the habit of doing at critical moments, and gave them all the fight they wanted and a little more, too. They were soon subdued and went quietly to the lockup. This occurred a little before noon.

Going Home.

THE HEARST PARTY.

Short Biographical Sketch of the Members.

The following is a short descriptive sketch of the members of congress who will be in the Hearst party:

Hon. John A. Moon (democrat) of Tennessee: Head of the minority on the committee on territories in the last house; made one of the strongest fights on the floor of the house for the admission of the territories; and is without question one of the best friends the territories had on the floor; he is recognized as one of the ablest men belonging to his party in the house.

Hon. Henry C. Loudenslager (republican) of New Jersey: Has served in five different congresses; is one of the ablest men on the republican side in the house; has often been talked of as a candidate for the United States senate, and as a candidate for vice president of the United States.

Hon. Frank D. Currier (republican) of New Hampshire: One of the brightest and most able men on his side of the house of representatives; was a friend of the territories in the last congress; in spite of the fact that he is from New England, and helped us in every way he could; he made several speeches that gave him a national reputation.

Hon. Edward L. Hamilton (republican) of Michigan: Made a speech on the floor of the house in the last congress that was scattered all over the nation as a campaign document; he is universally recognized as one of the ablest men in the republican party anywhere. He will be head of the committee on territories in the next congress; he fought for the admission of the territories last time, and it is presumed he will do so again. He is the man of all men whose good graces the territories ought to court at this time.

Hon. John A. Sterling (republican) of Illinois: Has not heretofore served in congress, but from his biography in the Congressional Record appears to be a scholar of no mean order, and a man of uncommon ability.

Hon. H. T. Rainey (democrat) of Illinois: According to this young man's biography in the Congressional Record, he is a scholar of high order, and has had vast experience in the politics of his state. The Fifty-eighth congress will be his first term.

Hon. M. E. Benton (democrat) of Missouri: Has served three or four terms in congress; a man of unquestioned ability and favored the admission of the territories in the last congress.

Hon. Charles H. Welke (democrat) of Wisconsin: The Fifty-eighth congress will be his first term; from his biography published in the Congressional Record, it is learned that he has taken a large part in the politics of his state, although this is the first time he has been successful.

Hon. J. A. McLaurin (democrat) of Mississippi: He is the colleague of Senator Money; is a man of large experience in politics in his state; a scholar of a high order; has served as governor of his state; his term of office will expire in the senate in March, 1907.

Hon. John Sharp Williams (democrat) of Mississippi: Will probably be the leader of the democrats on the floor of the house of representatives in the coming congress. He is a very able man; was a friend of the territories in the last congress, and took part in the debate favoring their admission.

Hon. Charles A. Culberson (democrat) United States senator from Texas: A very able young man and a lawyer of the highest attainments; favored the admission of the territories in the last congress.

Hon. Dennis T. Flynn (republican) of Oklahoma: For many years delegate in congress from Oklahoma, and one of the ablest men in the house of representatives in either party; well known in New Mexico.

Hon. Marcus A. Smith (democrat) of Arizona: Well known in New Mexico; a very able man and a lawyer of unquestioned ability; corralled the entire democratic vote in the house and senate for the omnibus bill in the last congress.

Samuel Powell (republican) of Indian Territory: Spent the entire session of the last congress in Washington, favoring statehood for the territories; is a newspaper writer of more than ordinary ability, and understands the conditions of the territories before the national congress better than the average man; has written a great deal for the Oklahoma and other papers, and will probably spread his views of New Mexico broadcast through the press after visiting us.

Hon. Bird S. McGuire (republican) of Oklahoma: Present delegate in congress from that territory. A young man of unquestioned ability.

Hon. J. F. Wilson (democrat) of Arizona: Present delegate in congress from that territory; a lawyer of high attainments and a man of vast experience in the west.

Besides the above named members of congress, Hon. W. R. Hearst will have with him a full corps of newspaper writers, and photographers, so that the territory can expect to get the biggest piece of advertising and widest writ-up it ever received in its history. If New Mexico had to pay for the advertising it will get through this trip of Congressman Hearst's, which does not cost the territory a cent, it would bankrupt it to pay it. Therefore, the territory should feel grateful for this courtesy on the part of Congressman Hearst in thus favoring us.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERIES.

Robbers Endeavor to Get into the Stores of Mendelson and Carey.

and as Sunday night was the first night he has failed to sleep there in a long time, it is believed that the attempted robbery was made by someone familiar with the institution and the movements and habits of those connected with it.

That there is a band of robbers at large in Raton there can be no doubt, and the city demands better police protection without delay.—Raton Range.

TRIAL OF STRIKERS.

Workmen Arrested at Morenci Will Appear in Court in October.

On October 5 the regular fall term of the district court for Graham county will convene at Solomonville, Arizona, and the Morenci strike cases will come up for trial soon after.

As the outcome of the miners' strike at Morenci, last spring, twenty men were arrested, charged with rigging, and have been confined in the county jail all summer.

Miners all over the country have contributed to a defense fund and the leading firm of criminal lawyers in the country has been employed to defend them. The cases will be warmly contested on both sides.

F. J. Cutler, an expert mining man of the Rociada district, is in Las Vegas. The gentleman brought with him some ore remarkably rich in copper. Mr. Cutler says there is plenty of such ore where the specimens he shows comes from. Certainly, if there is, there will be some fortunes made in the Rociada country ere long. Considerable activity in the district is reported. Steady work is being done in the mines, the showing being better all the time and the harvest has been abundant.

GALLOPERS HERE.

Seven High Class Runners and Pacer Laura Spur Arrive.

Last night a car of seven first-class gallopers, and Laura Spur, a famous Colorado pacer, arrived from Pueblo, Colo., and were assigned comfortable stalls at the fair grounds. They are accompanied by owners and trainers, and will be in fine condition for the fair races.

Error Corrected.

By an inadvertence, an article in yesterday's Citizen was made to say what would be laughable were it not so absurd. The pressure of the air at sea level is a fraction less than fifteen pounds to the square inch. The 1,000 pounds mentioned applies to the body of a medium sized man, or any object of similar size.

Southern New Mexico Mines—The Ready Pay mines of Sierra county are reported looking better than ever. There is a large amount of ore on the dumps ready for treatment.

John Gardner is doing some development work in the Bertha mine, near Hillsboro. He is at present running two cross cuts to tap the vein. The Bertha lies between the Empire and Garfield mines. He expects to open up something good one of these days.

Herbert Dawson has a large crew at work on his lease on the Chino property, Santa Rita, and is at present working south of the old Chino shaft. He is making regular shipments of good grade ore. Mr. Dawson is also washing the flue ore, which he ships in the form of concentrates.

Machinery for the South Percha mill, in Sierra county, is arriving. The mill will be erected as soon as possible. The mines of the South Percha Gold Mining and Milling company are looking extremely well, and it is expected that they will pay a good dividend from the jump.

AT FORT BAYARD.

The Government Is to Make Extensive Improvements.

The government has decided to in the near future erect another group of ten buildings at the sanitarium at Fort Bayard.

The work will be let just as soon as the appropriation can be made. The new buildings will consist of two new brick buildings to be used as wards, that will cost about $20,000 apiece, as well as numerous other expensive buildings in the way of quarters for the fast increasing number of patients that Uncle Sam is treating for consumption and like troubles.

FARMINGTON.

From the Times-Hurster
John Tibbs who has clerked for the San Juan Stores company for the past six months, left for his home in Oklahoma.

Geo. Bryan, formerly of Taylor, Ariz., brother of Tom Bryan of Fruitland, whom he recently bought out in the mercantile business, arrived last week and took possession.

The many friends of Mrs. L. A. Johnson will be pleased to hear that her health has very much improved at Pagosa springs where she has spent the summer. She will return to her home in Farmington about the last of this month.

J. C. Livergood, who was to have charge of the southern half of the Navajo reservation, will be transferred to another place and another man will be appointed to his place in the meantime. Major Hazett will remain in charge.

The school here has selected Prof. Frank E. Hatway principal of our schools. Mr. Hatway is at present a resident of Michigan, but he will be here in a few days to take up his work. He is a man who has had an extended experience and comes highly recommended by leading educators.

George Allen's fruit evaporator was partly destroyed by fire Tuesday night. Mr. Allen was absent from home, but by the timely assistance of neighbors, the fire was extinguished, when only the tower was consumed. The greatest loss is being deprived of the use of the evaporator during the fruit season.

Onyx from the quarries near Mayer, Arizona, is being shipped to London, England. These are the quarries that the late "Buckey" O'Neil first brought to prominent notice.

INTERESTING FAIRS.

Big Events Held at Roswell and Durango.

EXCITING ROPING CONTEST.

A special dispatch to the Denver News from Roswell, dated September 25, says:

The big fair here has closed and the last day attracted larger crowds than ever to this city. The exhibition was pronounced by visitors as the best event in this line ever attempted and carried to a successful end in New Mexico.

The parade of the premium stock at 1 o'clock showed some of the finest animals in the United States. Slaughter's prize Hereford bull, Sir Bredwell, and Milne Busch's royal imported bull, as well as the finest grade cattle to be found in the country were in the parade.

In the ladies' riding contest there were six entries and Mrs. G. W. Crozier won the prize, a handsome saddle. There was some graceful riding. The $500 burro race, half-mile dash, was a feature of the afternoon.

The dress parade and drill by the cadets of the New Mexico Military Institute was fine and highly appreciated by the big crowd.

The roping contest was the feature of the day. There were twenty entries, with McGonigal, Joe Gardner, Edmon Carroll and Ed. Pride the choice against the field. A great deal of money changed hands as the favorites went down in defeat. The score is as follows:

Abe Wilson missed the first throw. Time, 48 1/2.

Spence Howell, time, 58.

John Tyson threw both steer and horse, broke rope. No time.

Clay McGonigal missed the first throw and could not hold steer on ground. No time.

Gordon Smith caught the first throw, hard to down. Time, 1:41 1/2.

Joe Harmon, lost tie rope. No time.

Ed. Pride broke rope. No time.

John Wilson, fine roping, had to throw steer three times. Time, 5:14.

Ace Draper, missed first throw. Time, 52.

Edmon Carroll, had to throw steer twice. Time, 1:14.

Rus Lovelace, made a fine throw, hard to keep the steer on the ground. Time, 1:00.

Cliff Patton, missed his throw, steer got away.

Red Browning, missed first throw. Time, 55.

Karl Carroll, fine but slow. Time, 1:43 1/2.

Joe Gardner, fine throw, hard to keep steer down. Time, 55 1/2.

Dan Sie, missed first throw, hard to keep steer down. Time, 2:42 1/2.

W. Garrett, missed throw, steer left running. Time, 1:27.

Jug Moore, bad throw. Time, 50 1/2.

"Rooster", Gardner, missed two throws. Time, 1:11.

Jim Brown, missed first throw, slow. Time, 1:32.

One of the helpers roped a man and caused considerable excitement.

Another contest to decide the match is arranged for tomorrow at 2 o'clock, in which each contestant will rope two steers.

Colorado-New Mexico Fair.

A dispatch to the Denver News from Durango, Colo., dated September 25, says:

The last day of the Colorado-New Mexico fair and race meet was the gayest in the history of Durango. In a grand stand of 3,000 seating capacity and 500 standing and a half mile of carriages two and three deep, with the track fences covered, 6,000 people saw the track sports and most of them walked home.

In the half-mile dash, Temple Maid won (time, 52), beating Gracie, Chester J. Follow Me and Billy White.

In the five-eighths relay race the Arrington string won against the Short string. The horses were about equal, but Arrington was the faster in changing saddles.

The Indians' sports were the best. In the half-mile race, no limit to entries, Broncho Bill was first, Pouch second and Sipper third.

The potato race, on horses, by Indians, each riding at break-neck speed with an oak spear picking potatoes from one box, riding, fencing and fighting to land them in another box 100 yards away, put the chariot race out of sight. There were fifteen contestants. Only Indians could enter into the desperate abandon of today's contest.

The chicken pulling was declared off, probably intercepted by the humane society.

Silverton and Durango played ball for $450 and played fast enough to keep 2,500 people in the grand stand until dusk. Durango won 9 to 6. Durango's catcher passed a potato over third base when Silverton men were on second and third, and the fielders failing to recover the ball, the base runners ran in and the catcher touched them out with the ball. As only the pitcher is required to give a ball, the umpire was doubtful when he put the basemen back. Under the rules they were entitled to the run.

The squaw and buck foot races were exciting and interesting. The Indians are sport lovers and will stand for nothing but a square deal.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Young Man at Las Cruces Blows His Brains Out.

From Las Cruces Progress.

Donald MacLennan is dead—a suicide.

This morning at about the hour of 1:30 o'clock, the young man placed a 45-caliber revolver in his right temple and pulled the trigger. The leaden ball cut through the brain and came out of the left temple, leaving the unfortunate man a senseless heap on the floor for just an instant, and then the spirit took its flight.

Mr. MacLennan was only 21 years of age, and his home was at Washington, D. C. He had been here for a short time, and with a friend was occupying rooms in the eastern part of town.

No cause is assigned for the rash act. The young man had seemingly been in his usual good health and spirits yesterday and up to the hour of retiring last night, and it is unknown why he suddenly resolved to end his earthly career.

His parents at Washington have been notified of the sad occurrence, and will probably wire what disposition to make of the body.

John A. Creel feels reasonably certain that he has in sight from 2,000 to 3,000 tons of ore in his copper mine at Terrazas, Mexico, that will run 6 per cent nickel. He is going to send some of the ore to Germany for further investigation. He also thinks that he has a good chance for much more of the same kind of ore. It exists in an upper blanket ledge that runs low in copper. Mr. Creel has closed down his smelter until more ore can be accumulated. About 3,000 tons have been smelted.

A. E. Digneo, stone work contractor for the Santa Fe Central, went down to Estancia Sunday evening.

TEAM MEETS TEAM.

Opening Contest in Bowling League's Series of Announced Games.

The Albuquerque Bowling league gave their first matched game last evening, at the Railroad avenue alley, which was crowded with friends of the contestants and members of other teams. Those who participated were the Chicots and the Colts, as was previously announced by The Citizen. The former won in two games out of three.

The Score.

Chicots: Bennett—180, 166, 133; S. Benjamin—154, 181, 120; Clark—165, 171, 164; Weiler—180, 119, 81; Campbell—125, 179, 163. Totals—757, 816, 661.

Colts: Albers—150, 154, 114; H. Benjamin—145, 177, 99; Ashton—160, 152, 177; Anderson—143, 162, 149; Dame—129, 137, 155. Totals—711, 782, 694.

The Chicots won the first two games by 46 and 34, respectively; the Colts won the last game by 33.

Some more fine ore was brought in to Las Vegas from the Azule mine at Colorado Saturday. The shaft is now sunk to a depth of 150 feet, and they are drifting a tunnel along a six-foot vein with a two-foot streak of exceedingly high grade peacock ore.

DISTRICT COURT.

The territorial grand jury is still in session, and this afternoon returned several indictments, but whether they are politicians, preachers or newspaper men, the court did not give out, none of the persons against whom the indictments were found being in custody.

Yesterday several indictments were returned, among them that of Juan Felipe Montoya. Montoya is an Indian and was indicted for killing an American Indian at Santa Fe last spring while a participant in a drunken row.

Messrs. Meschober and Baker returned from Mineral Hill to Las Vegas bringing with them specimens which discount anything previously uncovered in that vicinity; the main shaft of the Albatross has now reached the depth of about forty feet.

LIEUTENANT DRUM.

He Will Be Married to Miss Mary Reame, of Indianapolis.

When General Levi A. Baldwin was in Albuquerque recently, he had with him Lieutenant J. A. Drum, as aide-de-camp. The lieutenant met many Albuquerque friends, and they will be pleased to read the following announcement of his approaching marriage, the article being clipped from the Denver News:

The engagement of Lieut. Hugh A. Drum and Miss Mary Reame of Indianapolis is announced. Since he has been in Denver he has been exceedingly popular in the social world and his engagement will be a matter of general interest to members of the younger set.

Miss Reame is a young woman noted for her beauty. She is said to be one of the Indianapolis "beauties."

The wedding will take place Oct. 14, in Indianapolis. It will be a smart military affair, and will be attended by well known army officers.

The bride will be given away by General Baldwin. Both Gen. and Mrs. Baldwin will attend the wedding. The ceremony will take place in one of the large churches of the city and none of the impressive features which attend a military wedding will be omitted. Lieut. Drum and his bride will take a short trip and will then return to make their home in Denver until further orders from the war department.

THE WORLD GROWS BETTER.

In an address before the national conference of Unitarian and other Christian churches, recently in session at Atlantic City, Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor, delivered an interesting address on the subject: "Some Evidence of Growth of Practical Religion."

Mr. Wright took the optimistic view and controverted the statements of those who say that there is decadence in the true religious spirit, says the Richmond Times. He declared that the public conscience today was more acute, more sensitive than at any time in the history of mankind, and we quite agree with him. Never before was there so universal a demand for justice to all, for the maintenance of individual rights, for morality in high places, for pure politics and honest government. Never before in the history of the world was so much done for popular education,

AN OYSTER SUBJECT.

American Oyster Carrier Company Objects to "Embalmed Goods."

PRESIDENT BROOKS' CARD.

Last Friday's issue of the Denver Republican contained the following article of local interest:

G. L. Brooks, agent of the American Oyster Carrier company at Albuquerque, N. M., in a letter to Mrs. Wright, state dairy commissioner, yesterday, asked if there was any state law against shipping "embalmed oysters" to Colorado. He did not mince matters. After asking some questions concerning the license for his shipping fish into the state, he wrote:

"We particularly want to know whether it (the statute) in any way regulates the interstate shipment of oysters containing chemical preservatives, that is the so-called 'embalmed' oysters."

Mrs. Wright has consulted the attorney general, who is going to look up the law on subject and give her an opinion.

Mr. Brooks' Reply.

Feeling positively certain that the letter of Mr. Brooks had been misquoted, and that the Republican's article did an injustice to a well known local concern—a company that stands high here for its honest dealings—a Citizen representative consulted with Mr. Brooks, and the gentleman, as the outcome of that consultation, concluded to forward a letter on the subject to the editor of the Denver Republican, with a request that it be published. The letter reads as follows:

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 26, 1903. Editor Denver Republican, Denver, Colorado:

Dear Sir:—The paragraph in your issue of the 25th inst., headed "Wants to Ship Embalmed Oysters Into This State," is damaging to the American Oyster Carrier company, which I represent, and is wholly untrue, as your informant could have easily ascertained by reading the entire letter referred to instead of the small part you quote, when it could have been seen that we had no intention of this kind and sought for no privilege of this nature. Our object was directly the opposite, controlling, as we do, a system for the carrying of oysters long distances and keeping them for a long time without other preservatives than ice refrigeration, and knowing this to be impossible with the ordinary method of shipping in tubs and pails to a region so far from the coast as Colorado, we made inquiry as to the law in order to be able to show Colorado dealers that we were in position to provide them with a carrier system by which they could handle and sell fresh oysters without having to resort to boracic acid, formaldehyde, preservative or any other embalming method.

Had you been properly informed you would have known that during the past two years we have been making a strong fight against the common practice of shipping oysters in tubs and pails where the oysters had first been subjected to some form of chemical preservation.

As your former article unjustly misrepresented us, we have no doubt that in the spirit of fairness, which characterizes the policy of the Republican, you will print and give special prominence to this communication that it may receive the same wide circulation as your paragraph in yesterday's issue. Respectfully,

AMERICAN OYSTER CARRIER CO., By G. L. BROOKS, President.

Santa Fe Pointing for La Plata County.—It is reported here that President E. P. Ripley and a party of ten other officials of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway are making an extended tour through the Taos valley visiting Twining, Taos, Red River, Glenwood, and other points of interest, says a dispatch from Tres Piedras to the Denver N. W., dated September 24. They have a party of surveyors and are examining the different proposed routes and passes from Raton across the Taos range of mountains. They will cross the range near Elizabethtown through the Taos valley, then cross the Denver & Rio Grande lines at Tres Piedras pass, Hopewell and Tierra Amarilla, having Durango for their objective point. The party were entertained by the people of Taos at a well appointed banquet the menu being chili con frijoles a la carte.

Fatal Accident.—Wednesday morning about eight o'clock an accident occurred at Bellmont, which cost a Mexican named Jesus Savallas, his life. He was employed by the Santa Fe railroad as flagman, and was going to his work when the accident occurred. A freight was there doing some work and in stepping from one track to get out of the way of an engine, he stepped on another track in front of a string of moving cars. He was knocked down and several cars passed over him, horribly mutilating his left limb and both arms. He also sustained injuries about the head and face. He was brought to this city, where he was attended by Dr. D. J. Brennan. Everything possible was done for him, but he died at 11:30 Wednesday morning. Acting Coroner Quinan impaneled a jury and an inquest was held, a verdict of death by accident being returned. Deceased was 56 years of age, married and a resident of Old Mexico.—Flagstaff Sun.

A Sudden Call. Foreman of Big Contracting Firm Stricken Down by Apoplexy.

John McCallum, of Strong City, Kansas, general foreman of the big contracting firm of B. Lantry Sons, died in the Hot Springs canyon, San Miguel county, at 10:30 Friday morning. He was a strong, active man and was apparently in the best of health at the close of work Thursday evening.

During the night he was stricken and when medical aid was summoned at the earliest possible hour he was unconscious and very low. Dr. Shaw, who attended him, came back into Las Vegas to arrange for accommodations for the stricken man at the sanitarium. When he reached town he received a telephone message that Mr. McCallum was sinking rapidly and before he could reach him again he had breathed his last.

The deceased had been prominently identified with the big contracting firm for a number of years and was well known in railroad circles throughout this part of the country. He had active charge of the extensive operations on the Belen cut-off until the suspension of the work there, and was in charge of the operations of his company in the Giliinas canyon when he finished his last day's work Thursday night. He was called away in the prime of life. Thursday one would have little thought that the course of his life was so nearly run. The deceased leaves a wife and family at the home in Strong City, Kansas.

SLEEPING CAR THIEVES.

They Are Now Operating With Success on the Santa Fe.

Sneak thieves who work in the Pullman cars on the Santa Fe railroad, while the occupants are asleep in their berths are receiving the concentrated attention of the detective force of that road, but with no apparent results. As yet the thieving is being done by a person or persons operating on the lines southwest of Newton. No unusual trouble of that sort has been reported from any other part of the road. The cases reported are being kept secret.

Some very bold thefts are said to have been effected on the trains of the Santa Fe. In the most frequent cases the thieves have gone through the car and taken valises left standing in the aisles beside the berths which the owner occupied. But other thefts have been reported where purses, watches and garments have been taken from the berths, the thief reaching over the prostrate form of the possessor or taking the article from under the very pillow where the owner slept. Such information as the detective service is possessed of indicates that most of these thefts have been done while the train was stopping at a station or in a yard, when the officials of the train have been occupied away from the cars.

As these thefts have occurred at night they have generally not been discovered until the following morning and it is very difficult to ascertain at what point upon the road they were done. It has been suggested that in some cases employees of the road may be guilty of working in collusion with persons on the outside, the property stolen on the train being transferred to the hands of outside parties while the train was stopping. Very little positive evidence has been secured which would incriminate any railway employees and, as most of them are men who have worked up in the service to their present positions and are trusted, the railway officials are not inclined to consider this theory tenable.

Robberies done upon railroad trains are very hard to trace. Other railroads and the Santa Fe, on previous occasions, have had experiences with them which promise that these robberies are going to be hard to follow up. No information about the details or amounts of any of the numerous thefts, that have been perpetrated below Newton have been given out by the Santa Fe officials, who fear that they will give the road a bad reputation.

True in This Territory.

The New Mexican says: "The difference between a journalist and a newspaper man out west is that the former thinks he knows it all, while the latter is willing to learn as he goes along."

PRODUCE EXHIBIT.

Plea for a Good Representation at the Territorial Fair from Santa Fe County.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

Sir—A short time ago you justly remarked in your editorial columns that Santa Fe county ought to send a good horticultural exhibit to the Albuquerque fair, October 12-17, and although it is late in the season for the best Santa Fe county fruit, and although there is a very small and poor crop this year, nevertheless by united effort a very good showing can be made.

It would be very unfortunate if Santa Fe county produce were not in evidence at a fair that is likely to attract larger crowds from states and territories than any previous occasion and I hope that all persons will help to the extent of their ability. Seeing that this ought to be a county exhibit and that there is not any one grower who, this year of crop failure, could make a creditable display by himself it would be better to have all exhibits sent to some place in Santa Fe and thence shipped all together in one consignment to Albuquerque.

I shall be pleased to aid in every way I can and if fruit for exhibition and competition is sent to me I will see that it is properly packed and displayed at Albuquerque. The premium offered for the best county exhibit is $150, for the second best $50, and there are premiums for the best collections and best plants of apples, peaches, pears, plums, vegetables, etc. Can we not again try to carry off some of the first premiums from all competitors as we have done on previous occasions?

Yours truly,

ARTHUR BOYLE.

USE OF OIL AS FUEL.

Santa Fe as Far East as Kansas City To Be Equipped.

So successful has the Santa Fe been in its experiments with oil as fuel for its locomotives on its western lines that another purchase of oil lands is being made, and it is estimated that a saving of fully $1,000,000 in the cost of fuel will be shown in due time on the books of the company.

The company made its first experiments with oil several years ago, and extensive purchases of oil lands were made in Texas and California. Many of the locomotives in service west of Albuquerque, N. M., were fitted out with oil burners at considerable cost, but the saving in the cost of fuel fully warranted the expenditures. A company was formed at that time and the Santa Fe received unlimited quantities of oil in territory where the scarcity of coal made the operating of locomotives a matter of great expense.

It was announced a few days ago, says the Chicago Chronicle, that the company had decided still further to equip its engines with oil burning devices, and it is probable another company will be formed for the purpose of purchasing and operating extensive oil wells adjacent to the lines of the Santa Fe system.

For several weeks, W. C. Nixon, one of the executive officials of the Santa Fe, and Mr. Goodrich, its oil expert, have been engaged in examining oil lands in the vicinity of Ardmore, I. T. They are negotiating for 1,000 acres of this class of property and will sink wells to obtain the oil. At the present time, the roads will purchase only improvements on the land and secure mineral and agricultural leases until the land is placed on the market. The officials say that the oil product will be used for fuel.

When the Santa Fe first entered the oil fields of Texas and California and supplied its locomotives with oil burning devices it was stated that nearly $1,000,000 would be saved in fuel on the lines west of Albuquerque, a territory in which coal is exceedingly scarce. It is now believed that the company will make use of oil as fuel on its lines east of Albuquerque as far as Kansas City. It is not improbable that in the course of time the locomotives on all the lines of the system will be equipped with oil burners. While the work of remodeling is decidedly costly, the saving in fuel more than offsets the outlay.

As the saving in the cost of the fuel, the use of oil on a locomotive is a great advantage to the engineer. When coal is used on heavy engines such as are used on the Santa Fe most of the time of the fireman is taken up in keeping the firebox properly filled, and for this reason he is unable to be of much assistance to the engineer in looking for signals. On some of the coal burning roads a third man has been supplied to assist the engineer in looking out for signals.

TEST THE ORDINANCE.

Santa Fe Will Back Up Conductor Watkins' Fight.

The Santa Fe company will make a test in the arrest of Conductor John Watkins, who was arrested and fined $25 not long since for leaving his train standing on street crossings longer than the limit, says the Emporia, Kansas, Gazette.

On account of the long trains, caused by virtue of the heavy traffic, the company thinks that the court will not stand for the action of the local authorities at Emporia, and a test will be made.

Damaging Frost on Gila.

Jose Monter, who is ranching on the Gila in Silver City yesterday. Mr. Monter brought in a thousand pounds of potatoes which he is disposing of to the local dealers. He says a heavy frost on the nights of the 16th, 17th and 18th did severe damage to corn, beans and melons on the Gila.—Enterprise.

MINE OPERATOR.

Col. J. A. Wood, of Golden, Is in the City Today.

Col. J. A. Wood of the Gold Bullion Mining company, operating at Golden, is in the city today on business. This company recently purchased the Monte Cristo Mining company's properties, and intend to develop the mines, which they now control, thoroughly from now on. The following gentlemen are associated with Col. Wood as officers and directors: Samuel Jaros and R. S. Baldwin of New York; Gov. Thos. W. Waller of Connecticut; ex-Governor L. Bradford Prince and General Chas. F. Easley of Santa Fe. The colonel is here today on important business matters. He will return to Golden tonight.

The Music at St. John's Church.

The music committee of St. John's church have been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Krebs, who is at the head of the vocal department at the school of music. Mr. Krebs will act as organist and choirmaster, a position he has successfully filled for many years in different churches throughout the country. Mr. Krebs held his first rehearsal with the choir Friday evening. Church goes and members of the church may feel satisfied that for the future, their choir will be one of the musical features of our city. Next week a boy choir will be organized, and an hour appointed during which Mr. Krebs will test the voices of any young men or boys who wish to join the choir, and thus avail themselves of this fine opportunity for instruction and training, under so able a choirmaster. Tomorrow morning the choir will be a volunteer one, composed of some of the best talent in the city.

KILLED THREE BEAR.

Las Vegas Hunters Get a Mother and Two Cubs.

B. F. Forsythe and W. G. Gregg have returned to Las Vegas from a duck hunting expedition. They may not have brought some specimens of the web-footed fowl, no one thought of making inquiry. Such a trivial conversation was forgotten when it was learned that the hunters brought in three bear. A mother and two cubs.

The hunters were in the vicinity of San Geronimo when they saw the bear emerging from a corn field. They were provided with bullets as well as duck shot and had no difficulty in dispatching them all. The mother is a small cinnamon bear, probably less than two years of age. The cubs had lived more than four months. They would have been worth a big lot of money, if they could have been taken alive, but this proved impossible, as they were as speedy and active as their ma.

The remarkable feature is that while one of the cubs shows every mark of a pure blood cinnamon, the other shows not a trace of cinnamon appearance. It is as pretty a black bear cub, with a coat of silky ebony hair as can be found.

What the cinnamon mother was doing with a black bear cub is more than the nimrods can say.

A. G. Kennedy, chief engineer of the Santa Fe Central, is down the line on company business.

INSPECTED NEW ROAD.

St. Louis Capitalists Looking Over New Mexico and Pacific Surveys.

A party of St. Louis capitalists interested in the newly incorporated New Mexico and Pacific railroad are in the field making a personal inspection of the new road, which, according to its incorporation papers, is to run between Raton, N. M., and San Diego, Cal. The line as surveyed begins at Raton and runs through the famous Cimarron canyon, the only canyon that has not already been gobbled up. After leaving the canyon it runs through the Moreno valley; thence northwardly to Elizabethtown, over the giddy heights of Taos pass, through the ancient pueblos of Taos and thence through the valley of the Rio Grande to its western destination.

The party interested in the new road is composed of Thomas B. Harlan of St. Louis, president of the company and its chief promoter; Henry Koehler of St. Louis, president of the Germania Trust company; Dr. Karl Volmer, A. W. Lambert and Captain F. S. Carroll, all of St. Louis, and O. H. R. Turner, chief engineer, of Raton, N. M.

The party expects to complete its inspection and return to Raton, N. M., by October 15, when contracts for the construction of the road will be let.

BROAD GAUGE SHORT LINE.

Officials of the Denver & Rio Grande System Have the Matter Under Advise.

While the establishment of a standard gauge road into Santa Fe by the Denver & Rio Grande system would mean much for the Capital city of New Mexico and admit of a through Pullman service from Denver to El Paso via Santa Fe, operating the Santa Fe Central and El Paso & North-eastern trackage from Santa Fe to El Paso, it is not very probable that the present narrow gauge that enters the city will be made standard gauge, as it is the consensus of opinion of the powers that be of the Denver & Rio Grande, that a shorter and more desirable route than that traversed by the narrow gauge can be had to Santa Fe—a route that would result in greater traffic, both freight and passenger, than could possibly be afforded by the narrow gauge route, says the New Mexican.

Things, however, are looking upward along the narrow gauge system. At Servilleta a new depot has just been completed, and was opened on Saturday. The erection of the new depot at this point has resulted in the establishment of a stage line between Servilleta and Taos, the stage meeting the up and down train daily.

At Truchas a spur has been put in to the plant of the Truchas Lumber company, and a number of car loads of dressed and rough lumber are shipped daily north and south from this point to the Denver and eastern markets.

Between Antonito and Chama the Utah Improvement company has a large force of men at work putting in new bridges and strengthening the grades.

Although no survey has as yet been made for the establishment of a standard gauge railroad by a shorter route to Santa Fe, the officials of the Denver & Rio Grande have the matter under advisement and a surveying corps may be sent into the field at any time.

NO. 7 TO STOP AT CERRILLOS.

Fast Train on the Santa Fe Railway to Put Off Passengers There.

Some weeks ago A. R. Gibson, as chairman of the committee on railroads and rail transportation of the board of trade, addressed W. J. Black, general passenger agent of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway at Topeka, Kas., representing that it would be for the benefit of this city and of the citizens of Cerrillos if train No. 7 on that road, could be scheduled so as to stop at Cerrillos in order to put off passengers from the north at that town, says the New Mexican.

Mr. Black took the matter up and evidently considered it favorably, as his letter to Mr. Gibson publicized herewith shows:

"Topeka, Kas., Sept. 23, 1903.

"Mr. A. R. Gibson, Santa Fe, N. M.
"Dear Sir—Again referring to yours of August 24th in reference to stopping at Los Cerrillos.

"I am pleased to advise you that arrangements have been made to stop No. 7 at Cerrillos whenever they have any passengers for that point. We will not of course stop train mentioned to pick up business at Los Cerrillos destined to territory south. I imagine, however, you have no interest in this last mentioned feature.

Yours truly,
"W. J. BLACK,

AT NOON OF LIFE.

An Untimely Death of a Promising Young Civil Engineer.

There occurred a very sad death at Belen yesterday. Wayne R. Jacobs, a young man only 24 years old, who had been suffering for several days from peritonitis, died at 5 a. m. He was very popular in the out-of-town city, and at the time of his death, was acting as bookkeeper for the John Becker company, but formerly was an engineer for the Santa Fe on the cut-off.

His home was formerly at Pueblo, Colo., where his parents still reside. They were notified of his serious condition, and the mother started immediately to this city. She arrived too late, however. O. W. Strong's Sons were telegraphed to come down and take charge of the remains, and F. H. Strong started on the first freight. After an all night trip, he returned on this morning's passenger with the remains.

The mother had been stopped here and awaited the arrival of her son's remains. The body was removed to the parlors of O. W. Strong's Sons and preparations completed for shipment to Pueblo tonight.

The deceased had served his country in the Cuban war and with the army in the Philippines. Mrs. Wm. Radcliffe came up from Belen to meet the bereaved mother and tell her of the illness and the last hours of the son. The remains were accompanied to Pueblo, last night, by Mrs. Belle H. Reid, the mother of the young man, whose untimely death is much regretted in this city, where he had made many friends.

SOME CURIOUS COMMENT.

Made on Plain Statement of Facts About New Mexico Atmosphere.

A certain writer on a Las Vegas paper, comments on Delegate Rodey's assertion, on one occasion, that he had traced the stars in their courses with his naked eye from the streets of Albuquerque, with better vision than when he looked through Boston's great telescope; and in his comment the Las Vegas man declares that Mr. Rodey intentionally used hyperbole, and to prove it gravely informs the public that through the telescope referred to, the moons of Jupiter look brighter than Jupiter ever looks to the naked eye.

Does the young fellow really suppose that Jupiter is a star? Probably he does, as he caps the climax by speaking of Jupiter as "her." And yet in the very article commented on, the error of confounding the stars and planets was guarded against, by allusion to the fact that the most powerful telescopes can make no more of the stars than points of light.

The writer of that article did not introduce the mountain facts and the Las Vegas incidents to strengthen Mr. Rodey's statement or the writer's own argument, other than so far as it referred to the ignorance in the East concerning New Mexico's atmospheric conditions.

It will take more than the unsupported statement of the Las Vegas writer to convince any one that during more than 160 days of each year Venus can be seen at noon, but a short distance from the sun, by an observer's naked eye, looking from the observatory of the great telescope. Of course, when Venus shines in the evening sky as the sun goes down, or in the morning sky before the sun appears above the horizon, any one can see the planet with his naked eye, if he has a mind to look for it, but to see it at noonday, when it is passing from one of these positions with reference to the sun to the other, is not given to anyone to see more than 100 days in a year.

In the present year, for instance, Venus shone in the evening till September 17, and will shine in the morning for the remainder of the year. The fact is that the recent Las Vegas, in his mad haste to find some thing over which he may spit and sputter at The Citizen, will some day butt out his well whatever in him fills the place where brains ought to be.

Frank Adams and J. S. Fitzhugh have come to the conclusion that they are good things. They went on the bond of Mart Stanley, who was trying to beat his board bill at the Missouri hotel, and who, when released on bond, signed by the above gentlemen, concluded that his system needed a change, and took it. Up to date he has not written to these gentlemen enclosing the $50 bond forfeited, but it is doubtless owing to the pressure of other business, and will be attended to as soon as Mr. Stanley finds time.

Experiments with Egyptian cotton at the place of F. G. Tracy in La Huerta give promise of brilliant success. The fibre is very long and fine, and a sample plant counted had 300 perfect bolls. This means close to two bales an acre of a kind of cotton that leads the markets of the world. The Egyptian plant is a little earlier than the other varieties and many bolls have already opened. The seed from this tract will be carefully preserved and next year there will be a heavy acreage planted. Reports from other cotton fields are equally encouraging.

The El Paso Herald says: A bulletin in the Gulf Houston dispatcher's office shows that during the month of August 100,772,504 tons miles on 20-187,142 pounds of coal were made by the freight engines in service on this division of the line, which gives an average of 4.99 tons miles per pound of coal. This is not as good a showing as was made during the month of July, as 5,133 tons miles was made per pound of coal.

Stewart Bradford Sues the Southern Pacific for $10,000.

A rather peculiar case of damages was filed by Stewart Bradford against the Southern Pacific company in the district clerk's office, says the El Paso Times.

The plaintiff sues for $10,000, which amount, he claims is due him for alleged humiliation and shame as the result of being put off a train after the conductor had taken up his ticket.

Bradford lives in San Francisco. He claims that on August 2, at Los Angeles, he purchased a ticket from Los Angeles to El Paso. He avers that when he had gotten on the train defendant's agent and ticket collector demanded in an insolent and insulting manner that he write his name. This he did and the agent refused to return the ticket, ordering him to pay another fare or get off the train. This he refused to do, because he did not have necessary funds. He informed the conductor that he was a member of the Elks and of the Travelers' Protective association. He informed him of the importance of his business interests which demanded that he go on to El Paso at once. But all to no avail. The alleged train conductor refused to grant a ride and the plaintiff claims that he was ejected from the train in the presence of many ladies and gentlemen to his shame and humiliation. He boarded the train again, however, and with the aid of some friends rode as far as Grana, where he was forced because of lack of means to remain over twenty-four hours. For this humiliation Bradford sues the road for $10,000.

WIFE ONLY IN NAME.

Enrique Sosa Deserted One Wife and Deceived Another One.

The career of Enrique Sosa, who recently sold his interests in the Spanish paper, La Heralda de Oro, and who was before the court on three indictments, has been somewhat of a peculiar one.

He lived near Zaratecos, Mexico, his family consisting of a wife, two sons and two daughters. About twelve years ago he left there and came to New Mexico, and his family never heard of him for many years, but supposed him to be dead. His wife was mourning for him to the time of her death, twenty-six months ago. About two years ago, one of the sons saw his father's name in an El Paso paper, and supposing that it might be that of a relative wrote to him. He then sent for the boys, recognized them as his sons, but required them to pass themselves off as his nephews.

Both of the girls having married, Sosa requested the husband of one of them to let her pay him a visit. She arrived and was instructed to pass herself as a niece. One day he began abusing his dead wife, calling her opprobrious names, and when the children resented his language he drove them all out of the house.

The daughter and the boys went before the grand jury and gave information against their father, for the purpose, as they stated to The Citizen's informant, of vindicating the name of their mother, who had cared for them after the father's desertion.

Sosa pleaded guilty to the least of fence with which he was charged, and the judge fined him $50, at the same time requiring him to marry his present wife, by whom he has five children, but whose marriage to him at Las Cruces some years ago, was illegal, as at that time his wife was yet alive.

TO AID CRIMINALS.

Society for the Friendless to Be Established in the Cities of New Mexico.

Rev. Edward A. Freudenhausen, general superintendent of the Society for the Friendless in Topeka, Kansas, who spent the past two days in Santa Fe, with a view to establishing an organization in the cities throughout the territory of New Mexico, has the work fairly under way in the capital city. He left Wednesday night for Topeka, en route to the meeting of the National Prison congress, at Louisville.

During his stay in Santa Fe, Rev. Freudenhausen interested the following representative citizens in the work, and the co-operation of many more will be sought upon his return here: Judge J. R. McFie, William P. Clarke, E. P. Field, F. E. Dunlavy, Frank Dietert, James H. Nicholson, John P. Victory, N. B. Laughlin, A. B. Renahan, J. Sparks, E. C. Abbott, W. R. Price, W. J. McPherson, A. R. Gibson and E. L. Critchlow.

The foregoing form the nucleus of a New Mexico Society for the Friendless, which will be managed by board of prominent men within the territory. Pending the organization of the society at Santa Fe, the Christian Endeavor work will be continued at the penitentiary, under the direction of President J. E. Wood, of the prison league, and Mrs. Wood, who will be the matron of the temporary home. Several rooms will be fitted to care for the boys when they leave the prison, and as soon as possible a field superintendent will be secured to carry on the work in the territory.

TRIAL OF MINNS ENDS.

Colored Man Who is Accused of Killing the City Marshal of Raton in a Drunken Spree.

A special dispatch from Raton, dated September 30, says: The case of William Minns, colored, was handed to the jury this evening at 6 o'clock. Judge Mills finished his instructions at that time, and at exactly 6 o'clock the last jurymen entered the jury room.

Minns is charged with the murder of John Jones on the night of June 10, 1903, in this city. Minns was a porter for the Paiman company, and his car was detained that evening by washouts. He and two friends started out and rounded up in the Jones saloon, owned by a brother of the murdered man. They became boisterous, and John Jones, who was night marshal, attempted to quiet them, when trouble broke, which ended in Minns killing the marshal.

The defendant and his companions narrowly escaped being lynched on the night following the murder, and were spirited out of town and taken to Las Vegas. There is great interest shown in the pending verdict, but very little excitement, and it is not probable any attempt will be made to lynch Minns should he be acquitted or receive a light sentence.

At 9:30 o'clock tonight the jury is still out. It is believed that their verdict will be murder in the first degree.

THE PACE THAT KILLS.

A tragedy in Fort Worth led the Telegram to picture the life of a boy surrounded by all the good influences that home can bring—a loving mother, devoted sisters, and every pleasure provided. Refinement, duty, fear of God, thrift and morality are taught him in that home, and he has every opportunity to follow the path that leads to happiness and long life. Away from the home over influences are brought to bear. As a child he is encouraged to forget that which is told him at the mother's knee, and when he turns when out of hearing of mother's counsel and a vice, he is urged to those things which are foreign to the lessons of the family fireside. As he grows older year by year, the outside influences become stronger, and he is swayed by the apparent glitter of the pace that kills and forgets that which is told him at home. He follows the jack o' lantern of the fast life, he becomes fascinated by it, and deeper and deeper he looks into it. As the child begins with delight at the movement of the myriad of colors which are manipulated as the kaleidoscope is turned, so this young man chooses with pleasure at the dazle of the life by which he is attracted. The cold peering into the kaleidoscope sees the pretty colors only, and does not reckon that they are made to look pretty and attract, and that when taken from the setting they lose their charm. The young man watching the changes of the colors in the kaleidoscope of life sees only the brilliancy, and looks not beyond. He follows the brilliancy from day to day, year by year, until at last there is an end, and that end is a tragic one. As he follows the delights of that life, he is lost to shame, to dignity, to refinement, and to morality. He is surrounded by the associates of his early life, by the friends of his family, and finally by the family itself, and lower and lower he sinks, reaching finally the level which that life will surely bring. At times it is the drunkard's grave, again it is the gambler's end, possibly he has a lucid interval when he sees the depths which have been reached and remorseful for a moment he finishes it by morphine or bullet, and occasionally he takes one or more of his companions in sin with him. Such a man born into the world of sin, seeks not to raise himself to that height where salvation which is promised may be reached, but allows fate to lead him in his ruin.

COAL OUTPUT.

A preliminary statement showing the coal production of the United States has just been issued by the geological survey. It shows that for the first time in the history of the United States the production of coal has reached a total of over 300,000,000 short tons, the actual showing being 300,930,659 tons, valued at $372,143,843.

The output of anthracite coal is amounted to 34,876,710 long tons (equivalent to 41,299,695 short tons), a decrease of 29,376,850 long tons, or almost 40 per cent. from 1901. This decrease was due entirely to the suspension of operations by the strike in the anthracite region. The value of the mines of the anthracite product in 1902 amounted to $81,016,937, as against $112,504,929 in 1901.

The average value of the marketed coal sold during the year at the mines was $2.50 per ton (long); the value in 1901 having been $2.05.

The output of bituminous coal amounted in 1902 to 259,641,964 short tons, valued at $2,113,396, as against 225,826,849 short tons, valued at $26,496,449 in 1901.

BENEFICIAL ORGANIZATION.
The New Mexican says: "A large number of business men of Albuquerque have organized a 'Citizens' Alliance' for the better protection of the interests of employers. The objects of this alliance as set forth in the resolutions adopted at its organization are beneficial and will, if properly carried out, subvert the public good. Employers and employees should work in harmony and union, should be fair to each other and the just rights of each other should be respected by the other. The people as a whole will not stand tyranny and despotism under any name or form, or from any source. There was evidently good reason for the organization of the 'Citizens' Alliance' and the New Mexican hopes that Albuquerque will be benefited thereby."

SIMPLE JUSTICE.

There are petty persons who are forever snarling at the cost of pensions, says the Globe-Democrat. The United States is paying pensions to nearly a million citizens as an act of simple justice, not of liberality. Pensioners embrace men who responded in their early manhood, to the government, call for soldiers to save the union. They succeeded in that large undertaking, taking all the risks of four years of war in its deadliest forms. No pension will ever require them. Their monthly stipend will add something to their comfort in old age. Over 200,000 of the pensioners are soldiers' widows or minor children. Let those who begrudge it growl unanswered. They are not worth answering. Pensions are an instance of decent gratitude, not of generosity.

HAPPY GIRL.

Marriage of Miss Ruth Bryan on Her Birthday.

Lincoln, Oct. 2.—This was a happy day for Miss Ruth Bryan. In the first place it was her 18th birthday, the day on which she becomes her own mistress, and naturally day of rejoicing for any young woman. But a still more potent cause contributed to the happiness of Miss Bryan. It was the eve of her wedding day, for tomorrow she is to become the bride of William Homer Leavitt, an artist who came out from the east and won the heart of the fair western girl while painting the portrait of her father, Colonel Bryan.

The happiness of Miss Bryan is not lessened in looking forward to the felicitous event of tomorrow, by contemplating what might have been, for, as has become publicly known, both Colonel Bryan and Mrs. Bryan were at first opposed to their daughter's wedding, and in fact, stoutly refused to give their consent. The principal cause of their opposition was the youth of the bride-to-be. But Miss Bryan inherits the strength of firmness and character possessed by her father and after vainly trying to get her parents' consent boldly announced to them with or without it she was determined to marry the man of her choice on the very day she became her own mistress.

But the determination of the young woman was not to be put to the supreme test. Both Colonel Bryan and his wife relent and after a few more importunities from their daughter and from their fiancé the parents decided that they were not at all opposed to the match and in fact would gladly bestow the parental blessing on the couple. This is why Miss Bryan is so happy today. Surrounded by relatives and friends, who have gathered from far and near she is celebrating her birthday in the midst of a great preparation for the wedding day. The ceremony is scheduled to take place tomorrow noon at Fairview, the home of the Bryans. The Rev. Dr. Swearingen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Bryan is a member, will officiate.

FAIR MINERAL EXHIBIT.

A. R. Gibson, Who Has the Matter in Charge, Waiting on Prospective Exhibitors.

A. R. Gibson, chairman of the committee on mines and minerals of the board of trade, is anxious that prospective mineral exhibitors at the coming territorial fair from Santa Fe, the New Mexican.

Specimens of lead, zinc, copper, gold, silver, coal, gypsum, mica, fire clay, brick and marble, in numbers that will make a creditable if not a better showing than the other counties of the territory are desired.

PRISONER RELEASED.

President of Miners' Union at Cripple Creek Turned over to Sheriff.

Cripple Creek, Oct. 2.—Charles G. Kennison, president of district miners' union No. 1, who has been a prisoner in the military guard house for fifteen days, was escorted by troops to the county jail today and delivered into the custody of Sheriff Robertson, who served on him a capias charging him with carrying concealed weapons. Hall had been placed at $500 and he will be released on furnishing bonds. Heaving in the district court on application for a habeas corpus writ for Kennison was deferred this morning until the afternoon as General Chase did not produce the prisoners in court.

There will be rooms for all the crowd who may visit the territorial fair. A committee is listing all the rooms in the city, and visitors will be protected from extortion.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.

John Doe was brought into police court this morning, and found guilty of stealing coal from the Santa Fe. A $10 fine was assessed against him.

Colonel George Neher is having the exterior woodwork of the White Elephant brightened up with fresh coats of paint. His popular resort will look nice to fair visitors.

G. B. Williams, druggist on Railroad avenue, northside, east of Second, has had his store painted a deep but brilliant blue. This is trimmed in aluminum, which looks like silver.

Col. J. Franco Chaves, superintendent of public instruction for New Mexico, came over from Santa Fe on some legal business, and has been a visitor to the court house today.

Superintendent Allen of the local Indian school has gone to Haskell, Kansas, with twelve Pawnees, who have finished the course here, but desire more advanced instruction.

The reports from Kingman, Ariz., represent some five miles of the Santa Fe track washed away near that place, as the result of a cloudburst in the mountains. Train No. 2, which was on the west side of the washout, did not reach this city till about 3 o'clock this morning.

The government Indian school has some long needed improvements under way. The superintendent's cottage has been enlarged, a five room cottage for the assistant superintendent is building, and new walks have been constructed about the ground. A new laundry is still badly needed.

Ivan Grunfeld, of the wholesale dry goods firm of Grunfeld Bros., has returned to the city from a business trip along the Santa Fe Pacific. He met with success in taking some big orders. Mr. Grunfeld says a big crowd of people from the western Arizona towns will attend the fair.

Yesterday afternoon George Abell, who is engineer at the Southwestern brewery, while standing on a car and engaged in work on some exterior parts of the brewery machinery, slipped and fell to the ground, striking on his side and injuring himself painfully but not seriously.

The St. Elmo will certainly be a magnificent blaze of light when the nearly 200 electric lamps, which adorn the front, shall be turned on in full blast. Mr. Barnett was today receiving some unusually fine cut glassware for his new bar.

J. K. Montgomery of company K, First regiment, died on the Short Line today while being brought from Cripple Creek to the Colorado Springs hospital. The cause of death was not ascertained.

Extradition Case.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 2.—In extradition case of Leopold J. Stern of Baltimore, wanted in Washington in connection with postal frauds, Justice Winchester today directed that Stern be delivered over to the United States authorities for trial on the charge laid in the information.

HE ABUSED HIS WIFE.

And Was Fined $10—Discharged by His Employer.

Herman Soltwedel, who lives with his wife and little girl, of six or seven years of age, on South Broadway avenue, was called into Justice Crawford's court this morning, and fined $10.

The offense of which Soltwedel was charged, was a very serious one and he made haste to plead guilty and receive a light sentence.

A neighbor living in the same house with Soltwedel, filed the complaint and charged the accused with maliciously abusing his wife, who, by the way is an invalid. The complainant said that Soltwedel called his wife abusive names, swearing at her and on one occasion struck her, and threatened to do worse things.

Soltwedel was employed at Pratt's grocery store and was summoned to the court by telephone. When he arrived and was confronted with the evidence, he wilted and plead for mercy. His late employer promptly discharged him from his employment.

DISASTROUS COLLISION.

One Passenger Killed and Twenty Injured on Southern Pacific.

Beowawe, Nev., Oct. 2.—A disastrous head-end collision occurred last night on the Salt Lake division of the Southern Pacific at this station. The first section of train No. 6, Atlantic express, from San Francisco, collided with section No. 219, a westbound freight train. One passenger was killed and twenty injured.

Dead: Allen Harper, aged about 34, of Pocatello, member of the Order of Railway Conductors and a Knight Templar.

Among the most seriously injured was E. Thorne of Evanston, Wyo., whose right leg will have to be amputated, and Rev. George Comfort of Lamborg, Pa., who will lose his right arm.

The second section of No. 219 came down the main line here to allow the freight to pull out. Conductor Dorsey, in charge of 219, saw what No. 6 was doing and as No. 6 was about due, sent a man ahead to flag it. It was on the curve and the engineer could not see the lag in time to prevent the collision. The engine crews jumped and both engines were demolished.

THE BLACKDOW TOWNSITE.

Exclusive Negro Settlement to Be Located in Chaves County.

READY FOR BUSINESS.

A town and settlement exclusively for negroes is being organized in the southern part of Chaves county, within the artesian belt, some few miles from the Pecos valley railroad. The promoters of this settlement expect to settle 10,000 people at one time, so as to avoid the enactment of a special law by congress, debarring anyone but colored settlers from certain townships.

The settlement promoters style themselves the Blackdow Townsite company, and May 1, 1904, has been decided upon as the opening day. The officers of the company which is capitalized at $100,000, are F. M. Boyer, A. M., president; Rev. I. N. Jones, vice president; Professor D. G. Keyes, secretary, and Burrell Dickerson, treasurer. The address of President Boyer is Dexter, N. M.

While artesian wells are to form the basis of the water supply for the townsite, the company expects to operate a large number of irrigation pumps, with pumping systems in charge of expert mechanists and engineers.

The president of the company has written to the secretary of the bureau of immigration asking for 500 or more of the Chaves county pamphlets. He also wishes information regarding pumping systems, and the pumps best adapted to irrigation in New Mexico.

The company is also desirous of securing concessions from the railroads on which their colonists will have to travel. Most of the colonists will come from the south, and bring with them cattle and swine. A canning factory is also to be erected on the Blackdow townsite.

Cases Dismissed.

Denver, Oct. 2.—Contempt proceedings against Police Captain Dan Delaney and six election judges were dismissed in Judge Carpenter's court today, on motion of the prosecution. It is understood that the men will be proceeded against through the grand jury.

City Engineer Pitt Ross returned last night from an extended drive in western Valencia and Socorro counties, where he did considerable surveying. Mr. Ross says that the country west of Datin in the Datin mountains, is fresh and green, having been blessed recently with a bountiful downpour of rain. The fresh water lakes are all full of water and abound with ducks. Stock everywhere in the districts visited by Mr. Ross is looking fine.
