Conducting Exams.
The department of education is sending out today the questions for the eight grade examinations in the territory with the following letter to the county superintendents:

Gentlemen:—We are today sending you questions for the eighth grade examinations to be held April 25th and 26th, according to directions of the county superintendent.

Please note rules for conducting these examinations and follow them carefully. I especially call your attention to the collection of a fee of fifty cents from each applicant which is to be paid to the superintendent out of the proceeds of the examination. Note also, that for each applicant the general average for the year in each subject should be sent in. I believe that you will find all the needed instructions and regulations on the slip headed rules for conducting examinations. Place one copy of these rules in the hands of each applicant and call attention especially to the instructions to the examinees.

District Attorneyship Contest.

The question as to whether E. A. Mann or G. S. Klock is entitled to the office of district attorney for the Benallillo-Sandoval-Valencia county district will be argued before Judge Ira A. Abbott in the district court at Albuquerque at 10 o'clock Friday morning. Klock filed an application for a rule in the district court yesterday seeking to have E. A. Mann show cause why a writ of quo warrantum should not be issued against him, compelling him to go into the merits of the case. The rule, which was issued, was returnable at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mann declared no objections to the issuance of the writ of quo warrantum at the court issued such a writ, returnable at 10 o'clock Friday morning. In instituting quo warrantum proceedings, Klock sets forth that he was duly appointed district attorney in 1909 for two years; that he has not resigned; not abandoned the office, and that he is entitled to the office under the terms of the enabling act, providing for statehood for New Mexico, under the clause that all territorial and county officers shall hold over in office until the formation of the state government. Mann will now be called upon to prove that he is legally entitled to the office and entitled to qualify for the same.

Mr. Chavez Gets Report.
Insurance Commissioner Jacobo Chavez has received the minutes of the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners, which met in Chicago April 7 and 8 and which Mr. Chavez attended.

There were representatives from 14 states and this territory and the meeting was called to order by President Button.

Commissioner McMaster of South Carolina raised the question of Life Insurance companies advertising estimated dividends in the future. After considerable discussion it was voted to refer the matter to a committee of five to report in June in New York.

The examination of the Modern Woodmen of America was reported on and the association was found in first class condition. Mr. Howell of the Inter-Insurance Association of Kansas addressed the convention and stated that Inter-Insurance companies desired to come into the different states and be under the supervision of the Insurance Department. He stated that the companies came into existence by necessity and had their birth in the trade organizations and said that his association organized two years ago. Various other mat-

AGUA PRIETA IS EVACUATED

Rebels Silently Steal Away and Leave No Trace of Their Whereabouts

CRISIS SEEMS IMPENDING

But Washington Gives Assurance That There Will Be No Intervention.

Douglas, April 18.—The rebels evacuated Agua Prieta secretly during the early morning and the federalists occupied the city at dawn.

Sixth Cavalry to Douglas.
Des Moines, April 18.—The Sixth Cavalry, Lieutenant Colonel Charles O'Connor in command, will leave here late today for Douglas, Arizona.

Crisis is Imminent.
Washington, April 18.—The Mexican situation which is fast approaching a crisis in its international aspect was the principal subject of consideration today at the cabinet meeting. With the declaration by the President that no American soldier will cross the border without the consent of Congress, it seems almost certain that the problem will soon reach the halls of Congress. The interest of official Washington is keyed to the highest pitch and every bit of information, official, or unofficial, received over night, was rushed to the White House for the perusal of the President. After a conference with the President this morning, Chairman Culom of the Senate committee on foreign relations, announced that there will be no meeting of his committee to consider the Mexican situation at this time. According to Senator Culom, the President is optimistic today and apparently believed the situation at Douglas is improved. The Senator said he could see no reason for intervention.

Rebels Badly Demoralized.
Agua Prieta, April 18.—Later developments showed that the rebel army to be badly disrupted. Its leaders gave up the fight and the men in the ranks fled in all directions, choosing Colonel Medina, jefe politico of the town, to assume command of the rebels last night. He came to the American lines before dawn and surrendered to the United States troops. He was placed under guard. The victorious federal force which occupied the town this morning numbered about 1,200 men. Lieutenant Colonel Renald Diaz is in supreme command.

Juarez Next.
Washington, April 18.—An attack on Juarez, Mexico, is momentarily expected according to a telegram from United States Consul Edwards received at the White House this morning. Edwards reports that he has asked Colonel Sharp to keep Americans from crossing the Rio Grande during the battle.

Scenes of Bloodshed.

Agua Prieta, April 18.—The government losses in yesterday's fighting may never be known. The federalists declined the assistance of the Red Cross today stating that the army would care for its own wounded. During yesterday's fighting, the federalists removed the killed and wounded to the rear. It is understood that the dead are buried on the field. Several bodies of dead rebels were seen in the streets of Agua Prieta by the Associated Press correspondent this morning. At the bull ring there is evidence of desperate fighting. The main towers were literally shot into sieves by the federal machine guns. At the entrance to the first story of the tower there is a rivulet of drying blood which had poured out through the doorway. Sitting against the wall heavily guarded and bound was an American who had failed to get away. "They are not going to shoot me, are they?" he asked. He said his name was Thomas Sullivan from Connecticut. He said he had come to Douglas from Bisbee, had crossed the line yesterday and was arrested by the rebels who had robbed him of a hundred dollars and driven him into the fighting line. The rebels evacuated Agua Prieta because they had exhausted their ammunition. This is apparent from the stories of one or two who did not flee and by the federalists who entered the town. Great piles of empty cartridge shells are lying in the trenches. The federal army was amply supplied and kept up their firing until three o'clock this morning for the purpose they say of provoking a reply and exhausting the rebel's supply of cartridges.

Mexico Reassures Uncle Sam.

Washington, April 18.—Definite assurance has been received by President Taft from the Mexican government that affairs like that at Agua Prieta will not be repeated. Announcement was made at the White House that Mexico had given assurance of a definite restrictive policy on the border.

Rebels Have Vanished.

Agua Prieta, April 18.—The rebel army after almost eighteen hours of continuous fighting yesterday in defense of Agua Prieta, quietly evacuated the town during the night. It moved out silently and when the day broke was nowhere to be seen. The Mexican troops entered the city at dawn, encountering no resistance. The federalists came on cautiously, expecting to encounter an ambush of some kind at any moment, but the rebels had vanished and there is no indication even of the direction they had taken. The reason for their desertion of the city after an all day

PRESIDENT AT TABLET DEDICATION

Erected by Sons of the Revolution to Memory of French Patriots

AMBASSADOR WAS SPEAKER

Unknown Soldiers and Sailors Who Laid Down Their Lives in 1781.

Annapolis, Md., April 18.—A bronze tablet erected by the General Society of the Sons of the Revolution to the memory of the nameless French soldiers and sailors who in 1781 laid down their lives in the cause of American independence was unveiled on the campus of St. Johns college here today. President Taft and French Ambassador Jusserand delivered addresses.

ARGUMENTS ARE UNDER WAY IN MURRAY CASE.

Each Side May Speak Seven Hours or About 84,000 Words Each, and Mr. Pearce Has Begun.

The testimony in the New Mexico Central receivership case has been on the boards before Judge John R. McFie in district court the past week, is all in. Each side asked for eight hours in which to argue its points and Judge McFie granted each side seven hours. Sessions of the court are being held from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and by tomorrow evening it is expected that the case will be in the hands of the court for his decision.

What the Judge Will Hear.

Each side will speak seven hours. It is estimated a lawyer (not necessarily from Philadelphia) familiar with his theme can talk 200 words a minute. That would be 12,000 words an hour or 84,000 words in seven hours.

Double this to get both sides and it is readily seen that the judge and court will have the privilege of hearing 168,000 words of legal English before the case goes to the court. Attorney Pearce of St. Louis spoke for three hours this morning. He was not "all in" after it, either, which shows the wonderful result of training of the speaking voice.

HAD RIGHT ARM CRUSHED OILING JUMP.

Roswell, N. M., April 18.—Joe H. Clements, aged 60, and twenty-five years a Roswell resident, had his right arm mashed off at the elbow at his sheep ranch forty miles southwest, while oiling the engine to pump water for his sheep. His sleeve was caught in the cog, drawing in his arm. He was brought to his home in Roswell and the arm was amputated above the elbow. His age and the great loss of blood makes his case critical. He is a prominent wool grower, having 7,000 sheep.

Threaten to Return.

Agua Prieta, April 18.—As the rebels passed out of the city to the westward, one or two called across the line to the American troops: "We are going into the mountains to return when we get some cartridges." At 10 o'clock this morning the custom house at Douglas reopened.

No Immediate Danger at Juarez.

El Paso, April 18.—Out of a score of conflicting rumors of firing near Juarez last night and the reports of several hundred insurgents now at Juarez twelve miles from Juarez, there appears but one concrete fact this morning. That is that there is no prospect of a battle around Juarez for a day or two. Half a dozen shots were fired by American sentries near the El Paso smelter early this morning. An unexplained cause gave rise to the reports that the insurgents are close to Juarez and that a battle is imminent. Federal officials at Juarez this morning admitted that there are 800 insurgents at Baucha and dispatches show that the remainder of the rebel forces under Madero, Orozco and Blanco, are either at Sapello, 23 miles south, or guarding the Mexican National railway to prevent federal reinforcements from coming from Chihuahua. The federal fortifications at Juarez are now complete.

No Excitement at Washington.

Washington, April 18.—The advice that Agua Prieta has been evacuated by the rebels did much to relieve the tension at Washington, but that the situation is not now regarded as acute, is evidenced by the fact that the leaders of both Houses of Congress after conferring with the president declared that there is no action contemplated by congress at this time. Mr. Sulzer of New York intimated however, that the establishment of a neutral zone five to ten miles wide along the boundary line is being considered. There is some apprehension over the Juarez situation, but in official circles, confidence is expressed that Mexico will make good her promise to keep the federal troops away from the border.

Rebels Handicapped.

Agua Prieta, April 18.—Later developments showed that it was only the rebels in the outer trenches that fled in disorder, the main body of the insurgents retreating with their arms and in good order. Lack of provisions as well as ammunition severely handicapped the rebels.

DEMOCRATS WILL FIGHT STATEHOOD

Playing Evident Game to Delay It Until After Presidential Election

FINAL HEARING ON FRIDAY

Post Office At Moriarty Will Retain Its Name, Curious Developments

Can This Be True?
Special to the New Mexican.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—H. B. Ferguson, J. D. Hand and A. A. Jones protested against the approval of the New Mexico constitution, hoping that their attacks will prevent New Mexico statehood until after the presidential election. They pleaded for postponement until next Tuesday for the arrival of others of the Democratic committee and also the arrival of progressive Republicans, including H. J. Hagerman, R. H. Hanna, B. Viljoen and Levi A. Hughes. W. H. Andrews, A. B. Fall, George Curry, and F. W. Clancy protested against the delay to next Tuesday. They said that they are ready to refute any statements made, as they had done in the convention and before the people, being sustained by 18,000 majority. The committee refused to postpone action any longer than to next Friday when a vote will be taken. Judge John R. McFie is expected to arrive here on Friday afternoon to help in the fight for statehood.

Name Remains Moriarty.

Washington, April 18.—The name of Moriarty, N. M., will not be changed, according to Delegate Andrews, although efforts have been made to that end. It was proposed to call it Garden City, but apparently the postoffice department and Mr. Andrews decided otherwise for it is said no change will be made.

The following postmasters have been named in the southwest:
New Mexico—Charles R. Irvin, Yankee, Colfax county; Wm. H. Parker, Fort Sumner; Wm. A. Joy, Progreso, Torrance county; Louis H. Miller, Pendleton, San Juan county.

Chamberlain Defends Territories.

Washington, April 18.—Contending that the constitutions of New Mexico and Arizona are in accordance with the constitution of the United States, Senator Chamberlain of Oregon delivered an argument in the senate in support of the Brown resolution approving the two instruments. He said there is no reason why members of the judiciary should not be subject to the will of the people as much as other officials, and that such a law would have no tendency to deprive that branch of the government of its independence. Mr. Chamberlain made especial reference to the initiative, referendum and recall provisions in the Arizona constitution, urging that they did not depart from the constitutional guarantee of a Republican form of government. He also pointed out that the constitution was similar to the systems of Oregon, Oklahoma, Montana and South Dakota.

Mr. Chamberlain defended the provision for the recall of state officers, including judges, contained in the Arizona constitution. He said there is no reason why members of the judiciary should not be subject to the will of the people as much as other officials, and that such a law would have no tendency to deprive that branch of the government of its independence.

Republicans Against Reciprocity.

Washington, April 18.—After a thorough canvass of the Republican membership of the House I can say positively a substantial majority of the party will vote against the Canadian reciprocity bill," said Representative Dwight of New York, the Republican whip, tonight. The bill is to be put upon its passage this week.

This will not prevent its passage, even though several Democrats vote against the majority of their party. When the reciprocity bill passed the House in the last session a majority of the Republicans voted against it, but the Democratic majority in favor of it has greatly increased in the new congress.

NO ELECTION FOR SENATOR IN COLORADO.

State Senate Passes Bank Guaranty Bill and Takes Another Step Toward Socialism.

Denver, April 18.—Former Attorney General John T. Barnett and Speaker McLachlin each received votes in today's ballot for United States senator but there was no election. The Senate today passed the bank guaranty bill.

PROHIBITION MAIN ISSUE IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 18.—The cities and towns of South Dakota are today holding municipal elections. The liquor question is the principal issue in ninety-seven municipalities. No material change in the present alignment is looked for.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION COURSE

First Lecture and Entertainment Will Be Given On Saturday Evening

WOMAN'S BOARD OF TRADE

Subjects Will Be Literary, Scientific, Popular and Interesting.

A series of lectures will be given in Santa Fe by the members of the faculty of the University of New Mexico on Saturday evenings, beginning next Saturday, April 22. These lectures will be held under the auspices and for the benefit of the Woman's Board of Trade. Judging from the number of tickets subscribed for, the lectures will be well attended. It is quite evident that the people of Santa Fe are as ready to take advantage of opportunity for culture as for amusement. The first lecture will be held at the auditorium of the high school beginning at 7:30. The second and third lectures will be held at the library hall.

From the program printed below, it will be seen that there will be readings and music each evening in addition to the lectures. Miss May Ross, instructor in oratory at the University and graduate of prominent eastern schools of education, will be present the first and last evenings. The intention is that this course shall furnish entertainment as well as instruction. On the first evening, John D. Clark, associate professor of chemistry at the University will lecture. Interesting experiments and a popular manner will make this an interesting lecture. The program for the three evenings follows:

April 22.

Recitation—Richard Harding Davis, Miss Civilization, Miss May Ross. Lecture—The Chemistry of Commerce Prof. J. D. Clark.

April 29.

Recitation—Selections from Shakespeare, E. McQueen Gray Lecture—Eugenics, Prof. J. R. Watson

May 6.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE MENACED ENTIRE BLOCK.

Prompt Work of Fireman and Lots of Water on Water Street Extinguished it, However.

Fire was discovered at 3:45 o'clock this morning in some frame sheds on Water street and brought out the volunteer firemen from their warm beds and their prompt work and the heavy water pressure prevented what might have been a great conflagration. The sheds were situated opposite the jail and were owned by Miguel Chavez. The blaze they made attracted the attention of Sheriff Closson and his family who turned in an alarm.

There are strong suspicions that the fire was due to incendiary origin and prosecutions may follow.

Eating their way through the wooden side of the shed the flames attacked a big adobe wall on the west side with such persistence that a quantity of hay was ignited. The hay was in the feed house of the Morgan livery stable successor to Williams & Rising. There were at least six tons of baled hay in the house and only the prompt work of the firemen saved it. The fire might easily have spread to the stables which are of wood and in which there are $10,000 or more worth of horses and carriages, harness, saddles, etc. The fire was extinguished by 4:10 a. m.

VICTIM OF SUICIDE PACT DIED TODAY.

Miss Bovee, His Adopted Daughter, Whom He Shot Three Times Will Recover.

Los Angeles, April 18.—S. L. Dania Taylor, who was wounded in a revolver duel with George Koerner two weeks and nine days ago, and in the hospital shot himself with a revolver, brought him by Eva Bovee who claimed to be his adopted daughter, died last night. Dania attempted to carry out a suicide pact with Miss Bovee at the hospital by shooting her three times before shooting himself. She probably will recover.

YOUNG MAN KILLED BY FALL FROM HORSE.

Raton, N. M., April 18.—Talbot Sergeant, an unmarried young man who has been working on the ranch of W. H. Smith on Johnson's Mesa, was found last evening between 5 and 6 o'clock lying upon the ground near the Smith cabin in an unconscious condition. A doctor was immediately summoned from the city and everything done to revive the injured man but to no effect, death occurring at 11 o'clock this morning. All evidence points to the fact that the young man was thrown from a horse upon his head sometime during Saturday evening and that he had laid out on the prairie all night and all next day until Sunday evening when he was accidentally discovered by someone going to the Smith cabin. The exposure to the freezing night air, combined with the shock from the wound to the skull, was such as to make all efforts of medical skill futile.

IS TRACHOMA PREVALENT HERE?

Sensational Statistics as Result of Examination by an Expert

CLEANLINESS IS COUNSELED

Local Physicians However Largely Discount the Alarming Figures.

Santa Fe is the worst infected town with trachoma in the country. That is the inevitable conclusion from the statistics given out by Dr. A. H. Dunn, specialist and expert on the disease, who has been sent to the southwest by the Bureau of Indian Affairs to stamp out the disease in this country and especially among the Indians. Dr. Dunn, yesterday and today examined the pupils in the public schools and the result is disquieting, not to say startling, for the inevitable result of trachoma is blindness, unless the disease is checked. It attacks first the interior lining of the eyelids; its cause is dirt, carelessness and infection of those who are healthy using towels, or even pencils or touching those who are affected and then involuntarily touching their own eyes. The great number of cases of blindness among the Indians are due to trachoma and the disease is spreading to the white people of the southwest with rapidity.

Of the pupils examined in the second ward school on the southside, 100 per cent have trachoma. In most of the cases, it is only in its incipency and can be easily checked by cleanliness and washing the eyes with boracic acid; in a few cases an operation will be necessary to save the eyesight.

In the high school of 184 pupils examined yesterday, eliminating all doubtful cases, 80 per cent have trachoma; of 139 pupils examined today 90 per cent have trachoma. A trained nurse from the U. S. Indian School assisted in the examination of the eyes of pupils and the community owes a debt of gratitude to Dr. Dunn for calling attention to the grave danger.

Local physicians today, when questioned, declared that while they do not dispute the diagnosis of Dr. Dunn, they would want to examine the eyes of the pupils themselves before giving their assent to his figures. One physician, an eye expert, said that he had the first case of trachoma to find among white people here and he has examined a good many eyes. He said that at this time of the year, on account of wind and dust there is a good deal of conjunctivitis among the people of the southwest, as well as granulated eyelids caused by dirt and lack of cleanliness or infection, or because themselves with glasses. However, they all counsel cleanliness and the use of separate towels by those under suspicion, as well as the application of an antiseptic eye-wash. If nine out of every ten children in Santa Fe have trachoma, the proportion of those afflicted among the adults must be even greater.

An Alarmist.

One physician stated this afternoon that the figures given by Dr. Dunn are ridiculous, that he is an alarmist, that he is a young man who sees trachoma in every eye that is slightly inflamed. He said that there are a few cases of trachoma in every place of the southwest, but in very light form. He added that Dr. Dunn is anxious to secure federal and state legislation and therefore is unduly alarming people.

However, that may be, the local board of health and board of education will ask two physicians, men of experience and maturity, to examine every pupil's eyes in the public schools and thus check up Dr. Dunn's figures.

WOOL CONTINUES TO MOVE VERY ACTIVELY.

Holders Are Generally Willing to Accept Low Prices for Fear Something Worse.

Boston, April 18.—Wool continues to move liberally on Boston market and holders are generally willing to accept the low prices in order to do business. Fleeces wools seem to be more in demand than territory. Montana fine staple sells at 57 cents cleaned while a fair movement of twelve months Texas is reported at 47 to 50 cents scoured. Interest in the new clip is increasing and advices from Nevada report sales at 12-1/2 to 13 cents. Pulled wool is fairly active.

FELL WITH AEROPLANE AND WAS KILLED.

Versailles, France, April 18.—Captain Carron of the French army aviation corps fell with his aeroplane from a height of 250 feet today and was crushed to death.

Good Roads Boosters.—Through the efforts of Land Commissioner Ervin, I. Sparks and Mr. Stephens of Santa Fe, a meeting was held at both Farmington and Aztec this week and arrangements started that will result in forming a good roads association here. Details will be given in all the county papers next week.—Aztec Index.

A. B. FALL IS INTERVIEWED

Statehood Issue Depends Entirely on Attitude of President Taft

OUTLOOK NOT YET CERTAIN

Raft of New Mexico Measures Introduced by Delegate W. H. Andrews

Washington, D. C., April 18.—The Committee on Territories of the House, which has the statehood matters for New Mexico and Arizona in charge, has very clearly defined its position, which is in line with the program of the Democratic caucus. The majority membership in their deliberations decided that joint action upon the matters of the two territories would be pressed, and Chairman Flood of the Committee on Territories has introduced a bill seeking independent action upon the matter of the territories. The territories committee has named some of its members to consult with President Taft for the purpose of ascertaining whether the suggestion which emanated from the citizens committee of Arizona to the effect that their resolution be so amended as to make the Executive approval unnecessary, would be acceptable. The position of the President in relation to this has been defined, and while Mr. Taft is entirely willing to have the controversy thrashed out in Congress, he does not propose in the meantime to lose any of his rights, when it comes to finally passing on Arizona matters. The territories committee at their meeting on Thursday, decided that they would take up no other subject than that of statehood for the two territories, which means that a large volume of legislation that has been proposed will have to remain over until the regular session next winter; and if the disposition shown by this committee is adhered to by other committees of the House, the probabilities are, that the session will not be a long one. It may terminate by the first of July. The plan for statehood now seems clearly defined, and well informed statesmen are hardly able to figure out how the affairs of New Mexico and Arizona can be separated. This means a bitter fight on the recall provisions of the Arizona constitution and unfortunately affects New Mexico; but the result in the House is easily foretold, while there are many who predict the Senate will finally pass the measure and that the President will not withhold his signature after Congress shall have acted favorably in the interests of both territories.

Interview With A. B. Fall.

The Honorable Albert B. Fall of Three Rivers has given an interview to a Washington newspaper upon the statehood matter in which he says: "Whether New Mexico will be admitted separately or jointly with Arizona at this session depends upon the president, in my opinion. Should Mr. Taft arrive at a conclusion as to the Arizona constitution that would be satisfactory to the members of Congress, there should be no difficulty in the passage of a resolution admitting both territories. Naturally the Democrats want Arizona admitted along with New Mexico, as the latter probably will send two Republican senators and the former two Democrats. It seems that Senator Owen of Oklahoma, is opposed to the New Mexico constitution. I presume it was following Senator Owen's suggestion that Mr. Davenport introduced his resolution in the House. If Senator Owen would study the New Mexico constitution and not rely upon suggestions made to him by others, I believe he would conclude that some of his objections are untenable. New Mexico in adopting her constitution acted upon the theory that it was a fundamental law, as distinguished from statutory laws enacted by the legislature, or, as in the case of Oklahoma constitution recognizes this difference. New Mexico sought to provide a progressive, up-to-date fundamental law, and to leave to the legislature the enactment of ordinary legislation."

Andrews Praised.

Delegate Andrews has been given three first-class committee assignments in the new House. These places are territories, agriculture and public lands. No member has served better than the New Mexico representative. Perhaps no single act on the part of Leader Mann has done more to bring the party together than his make-up of the Committee of Rules. In this arrangement of this committee the old time regulars have been entirely satisfied, while at the same time the insurgents have been given two members, being Madison, from Kansas, and Lenroot of Wisconsin. The insurgents say that if the Democrats remain consistent to the position they have taken in the affairs of the House, that the insurgents' idea as to the manner of the dispatching of public business can at last be obtained through the co-operation of the progressive Democrats and the insurgents. Or in other words the insurgents claim control of this great committee of the House.

THE DAILY ROUND UP.

The Graveyard Serenade.

(By Hugh M. Ferriss.)
In the graveyard, dark and wan,
Once there dwelt the skeleton
Of a stately Spanish Don
Of the old mediaeval day;
Every night he'd creep to where
His light love lay sleeping fair,
And with manner debonaire
He would sing his ditties gay.

In her graveyard grotto,
He would sing of love staccato
As he strummed an obligato
On his thigh bones with his wrists;
And her bones that slumbered there,
Hearing such a jaunty air,
Rose to meet him, and the pair Kept their cryptic, bony tryst.

Perched upon her marble stone,
In a lovely monotone,
He would tell her, bone for bone,
How he thought her form divine;
He would dwell upon her skull
With a pathos beautiful,
And, with gesture lovable,
Idolize her graceful spine.

He would sing, "O, I am faint
Of your empty, windy brain,
All my joints with lyric pain,
Thrill beneath your soulless eyes;
I'm enamored of your shin,
And your tibia, so thin,
And you set and brittle grin—
Bony bits of Paradise!"

But his fancy broke his heart,
And he plucked himself apart,
Bone by bone with solemn art,
Sad, detached, laborious care;
Never skeleton had died
In such stately suicide,
And the winds from far and wide,
Caught and blew him everywhere.
—Washington University "Student Life."

Died of Typhoid Fever—Emilio Ramirez died at San Miguel, Dona Ana county, of typhoid fever.

Curry-Kedcham—James M. Curry of Senorito, Sandoval county, and Miss Madge Kedcham of Espanola were married at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of the First M. E. church in Albuquerque. Rev. C. O. Beckman officiating.

Three Brother Arrested—Three brothers named Barela from Barela, were in justice of peace court at Albuquerque, for taking joy rides on a bicycle, which they claimed some one had mysteriously placed into their front yard. They were let go with a reprimand.

Civic Spirit at Las Palomas—Even old Las Palomas in Sierra county is feeling the civic spirit and the people are planning improvements. Frank Worden has just erected the first windmill in town which pumps water for a public trough for horses, which he has placed in front of his store.

Boy Scouts at Las Cruces—The Boy Scouts at Las Cruces have organized by electing Dale Lane, patrol leader and Cyril Kennedy, corporal. Professor J. H. Wagner of the public schools is the scoutmaster. The boys are planning a twoday hike to the Organ Mountains on June 1.

Fighting Smallpox in Union County—Since New Year, 412 cases of smallpox have been reported in Union county. County Physician Edmondson vaccinated 1,800 persons in that time. One man who refused to have his child vaccinated was fined and given 100 days in jail. He paid his fine, and having his child vaccinated promptly the jail sentence was remitted.

Big Timber Contract Closed—The forest service has closed a contract for the cutting of 3,333,333 feet Board Measure on the James forest west of Santa Fe and adjoining the Baca Location grant. About 100,000 ties will be cut and the forest service receives $2.50 per thousand feet. Twenty-five per cent of the proceeds, a little over $2,000 will go into the school and road funds of Sandoval and Santa Fe counties.

Miss McFie Ahead in Contest—Miss Amelia McFie, who is well known in Las Cruces, her parents having lived here 13 years, is the leader in the contest of the Rock Mountain News of Denver, in the New Mexico field. Miss McFie has now several thousand votes to the "good" but her friends realize that she is likely to need many, many more to win eventually. Twenty girls will tour Europe as the guests of the News and Miss McFie will surely be sent by her friends. Las Cruces is far south to receive the News but nevertheless friends of the McFie's are sending in subscriptions and are taking pride in this daughter of New Mexico, highly educated as she is and a representative western girl securing this very desirable trip to Europe. Miss McFie is a teacher in the schools of Santa Fe and as you all know is the youngest daughter of Judge McFie and Mrs. McFie—Rio Grande Republican.

Asks $1,500 Damages—Charles Fowler filed a suit in the district court at Albuquerque, asking judgment against the Continental Casualty company of Indiana for $1,500, alleged to be due on violation of contract. Fowler claims he had an accident policy with the Continental company; that while working in the local Santa Fe shops he sustained injuries which disabled him and that he is entitled to $1,500 under the terms of his policy, which the company has failed to give him.

Same Old Story—Gustave Thibault about 39 years of age, was instantly killed at Mary, Arizona, by the accidental discharge of a shotgun. In attempting to get out of the boat, which he and a companion had occupied while hunting, the boat rocked. In some manner the hammer of the gun caught and the weapon was discharged. The full charge entered the back of his head and tore away the lower portion.

Carved Each Other While Drunk—As the result of a drunken row at San Jose, Bernalillo county, on Sunday morning, over a woman said to be named Acosta, Crescencio Mesa is lying in a precarious condition in the Albuquerque hospital, having a deep knife wound in the stomach and Antonio Ortiz is in jail, also cut, but not seriously. He tried to get away but was arrested at Isleta. He blames strong drink for the affair.

CLERGYMEN AND LAYMEN ENDORSE TUBERCULOSIS DAY.

Chap Clark, Dr. Cadman, Bishop Scarborough and Others Approve of the Movement.

Statements of opinion approving Tuberculosis Day, which will be observed on or about April 30th, from prominent clerical, medical, and lay authorities were issued today in the form of bulletin by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. Among those who have endorsed the movement are His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons and several Roman Catholic Bishops, many prominent bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church, several denominations and interdenominational societies, Doctor S. Adolphus Knopf, and Lawrence F. Flick, Hon. Chap Clark, many prominent clergymen and others.

Chap Clark in a letter to the National Association says: "I am in deep sympathy with the movement which your Association is doing so much to forward. We cannot learn too much about the dread scourge, for we cannot intelligently fight that which we do not thoroughly understand. Knowledge is power."

Rev. S. Parker Cadman of Brooklyn says: "I sincerely trust that your war on tuberculosis will prosper. It is a real war and should have the support of every right minded citizen and of all of our churches of every kind. We remember with great pleasure and equal profit the tuberculosis day of 1910."

The Right Rev. John Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey of the Protestant Episcopal Church commends the movement and speaks of the literature prepared for the use of clergymen in these words: "I am greatly interested in the effort to check the spread of tuberculosis by using the 'ounce of prevention' in time. Your circular of information is so admirable that I want every clergyman in the diocese of New Jersey to receive one."

The Right Rev. W. H. Moreland.

JUST HALF IN BED.

Clyde, Ky.—Mrs. I. A. Decker, writes from Clyde: "I recommend Cardui, the woman's tonic, to any woman in need of a remedy. For five years, I was unable to do my own work. Half my time was spent in bed. At last I tried Cardui. Now I am well and happy, and can do my own work." Don't suffer pain, headache, backache, and other womanly miseries, when your own druggist has on his shelf a remedy for such troubles—Cardui. Get a bottle for your shelf. As a general tonic for weak women, nothing has been found for 50 years that would take its place. Try it. It will help you.

Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Sacramento writes: "I pledge my hearty support and that of all the clergy of this diocese in the movement for the prevention of tuberculosis."

Dr. S. Adolphus Knight of New York, the well known authority on tuberculosis, in a statement issued for the occasion says: "I venture to say that not in a few instances, as a result of tuberculosis sermons having been preached by pastors, priests, rabbis, or even only physicians, much good has resulted, not only because of the education of congregations in the preventative measures, but because of the interest aroused for the consumptive poor. I know that many an unfortunate sufferer is indebted for the amelioration of his condition or for his cure to a sermon preached on tuberculosis."

Dr. Lawrence F. Flick of Philadelphia, the widely known Philadelphia expert on tuberculosis, says: "The work of stamping out tuberculosis is in such perfect harmony with the spirit of religion that it is but natural to ask the ministers of religion to co-operate by giving the use of their church organizations for the educational part of the campaign. Not until all the people have gotten a clear conception of what tuberculosis means and of what is necessary for its extermination will it be possible to inaugurate measures for prevention which Science has demonstrated as practicable and feasible. Knowledge must come before action is possible and there is no agency on earth through which knowledge can be so quickly and so efficiently extended to all the people as through the churches."

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis will furnish free of charge material for preaching on tuberculosis to any clergyman applying at its office, 105 East 22nd Street, New York.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

JUST A LITTLE SAND AND AIR.

The Albuquerque Evening Herald rushes valiantly to the defense of the famous Albuquerque sand storms which no one ever forgets after having enjoyed one. Santa Fe occasionally catches the tail end of these diurnal zephyrs as they swirl their tail around the base of the Sandia mountains and understands well that the sandstorm is in need of a champion, of some one to defend it. The work is done elegantly and convincingly by Editor Brogan as follows and the defense deserves a place alongside the Philippines of Demosthenes:

"Now and then some thin-skinned resident of the sunshine land utters a heart-breaking wail when New Mexico indulges in one of her time-honored sand storms. True, these sand storms never do anything worse than to pile up a little sand on the parlor carpet and make it necessary to shake the lace curtains or hang them on the clothes line for a few hours.

"But the other day they had a little wind storm through Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Arkansas and a section of Oklahoma. After it was over the greatest news-gathering agency in the world, the Associated Press, variously lumped the damages at some millions of dollars, which was probably several millions too small, the loss of life at 25, with some hundred districts still to be heard from, and failed entirely to mention the fear and anxiety created by the catastrophe.

"In view of these facts, the occasional wind storm in New Mexico should be given the real glad hand.

"The storm in Kansas and Missouri was a mild one compared to the twisters they generally have in that region. New Mexico winds blow—there is no gainsaying the fact. They move the sand hills around with considerable vigor and make new hills where there were none before.

"But when we have a sand storm it is a pretty wobbly sort of a house that is damaged and it is so seldom that anyone is ever killed in a sand storm that the date of the last case has been forgotten.

"In Kansas a farmer digs a cyclone cellar before he builds a house, and his family frequently becomes so timid that the members sleep in the storm cellar every time a cloud appears on the southwestern horizon.

"A man may start for town on a bright and shining day and after one of those Kansas storms has passed upon its way he is likely to awaken in the next county, astride the roof of a farmer's barn, or buried up to his neck in the pasture creek.

"Sand storms may be disagreeable, but on the whole it is better to thresh the parlor carpet now and then than to call in the undertaker and, after the funerals are over, to spend a week looking for the residence site on the old homestead."

NOT RIVALS BUT FRIENDS.

The good will of Albuquerque toward Santa Fe manifested by recent visits here of Albuquerque good roads boosters, and the encouraging words that are frequently finding their way lately into the columns of Albuquerque papers, are all appreciated in Santa Fe. There is no reason why the two cities should not work hand in glove, for while they are neighbors as much as two towns almost a hundred miles apart can be, they are not necessarily competitors. Each city has a field of development of its own. Yet, what helps one, is apt to help the other. Take for instance, the matter of healthseekers. If Albuquerque attracts healthseekers it does not hurt Santa Fe, for sooner or later, some of those that went to Albuquerque will come to Santa Fe, and the same way tourists and healthseekers are attracted to Santa Fe will some time or other visit Albuquerque. Says the Albuquerque Journal:

"It is becoming evident that the civic awakening in Santa Fe is nothing evanescent, but a permanent development in the progress of the building of the new Santa Fe. The president of the Commercial Club of this city on his return from a trip to the capital fully corroborates previous reports of the landing of the ginger germ in the midst of the Ancient City, which after standing still for a century or so has started to move and will keep on moving. The boosting spirit has hit Santa Fe and has come to stay. Albuquerque is glad of it. The interests of the two cities, now becoming next door neighbors by reason of the good roads movement, are to a large extent identical; closer acquaintance is bound to be of mutual benefit and it will be good for Albuquerque to have a friendly rival at her door; each may stimulate the other and set the pace for New Mexico.

"One thing is certain: Santa Fe has waked up and shows no signs of going back to sleep again. It will pay to watch her."

A million people will visit the Pacific coast in 1915, according to the prediction of Passenger Traffic Manager Black of the Santa Fe lines, and it is none too early for Santa Fe to get busy to persuade at least one twentieth of these people, who are naturally well-to-do, to stop over and see the sights of Santa Fe.

WHY TRAINS ARE LATE.

Santa Fe's experience with late trains has been such for thirty years that the average traveler will not take kindly to excuses. It is a fact that many waits of weary hours at Lamy are inexcusable but there are occasions when the railroad employees are not to blame and of such a recent circular tells:

Train No. 2 on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, was held ten minutes at Streator, Ill., a few days ago for a doctor on account of a dying child. At Emporia, recently, a train lost five minutes while the trainmen assisted an old lady who was crippled and partially blind to gather her belongings together and get out of the coach. At Osage City another train lost five minutes because the town cut-ups followed a newly married couple into the car to give them a rice shower. The train pulled out, and had to stop to let the cut-ups off.

There are scores of similar causes for delayed trains which the traveling public does not always take into consideration. The man waiting at the station for a delayed train probably would not be impatient if he knew that the delay was caused by a funeral party, or a sick man. It is not always possible for him to ascertain at the time why there is delay, but if he cares to investigate, he will find that there is a legitimate excuse for nearly every belated train. The operating department makes strenuous efforts to have all trains on time but as the trains are run for the accommodation of the public, time cannot always be followed to the dot.

Humanity dictated the delay at Streator when the child required attention, even if the delay had disrupted the service of the entire division. Sometimes a rush of business at a small station will cause a delay of several minutes in handling baggage. The train can't pull out and leave a lot of trunks on the platform, just to keep the schedule. The rights of the people at this little station must be considered, although the company may be subjected to criticism at a dozen stations on account of late trains.

Trainmen have their troubles, same as other folk, and they ask the traveling public to be patient when the train happens to be late, for there generally is a good reason for not making the schedule. Think it over, Mr. Traveler, maybe you have delayed a train, by arriving at the depot with your baggage after the train pulled in. You are human. So is the railroad man. You and the railroad man should understand each other better. Be calm, therefore, both of you.

THE WAY IT'S DONE IN NEW YORK.

The Tammanyites, and that means the Democratic majority in the New York legislature, has given New Mexico an example how not to do it when a Senator is elected to the new state.

Assemblyman Henry A. Holtman of one man in New Mexico could dictate as one man has done in New York, even though there are only one twenty-fifth as many people in the Sunshine Territory as there are in the Empire state. Says a recent dispatch:

Assemblyman Henry A. Holtman of Nassau, it is charged, was offered $10,000 if he would vote for William F. Sheehan for United States Senator and later $10,000 if he would enter the Democratic machine caucus two weeks ago last Monday night and support the Murphy favorite.

"Another legislator, it is charged, was offered $10,000 to desert the insurgent combine and support Sheehan.

"Senator Franklin D. Roosevelt, leader of the insurgents, it is said, was offered his choice of any place excepting governor on the Democratic ticket next year and assured if he would move from Dutchess county to New York that he could have anything politically, financially, or as a professional lawyer that Tammany hall could bestow.

"Assemblyman H. J. Friedman of New York was offered a municipal justiceship if he would quit the insurgents and cast his vote for Sheehan, it is charged.

Of course, as long as New Mexico remains Republican, such conditions will not be tolerated here and the day when it will be Democratic is so many years away that there is no need of worrying about it.

The Outlook for March 25, has a beautifully illustrated and well written article on the School of American Archaeology in Santa Fe and the summer camp in the Rito de los Frijoles, in the cliff dwelling region, just west of the city. The article is written by Eleanor Hope Johnson, who attended the summer school last year. The pictures are easily recognized as those taken by Jesse Nusbaum, of the faculty of the school. The Denver & Rio Grande railroad and the chamber of commerce should have the article printed in folders for general distribution, for it is mighty fine advertising.

A MASTER BUILDER.

The man without the creative instinct merely cumbers the earth. To sit about and vegetate, to live upon the substance that some one else has provided, to go through the world without any definite object, is the worst kind of irreligion and blasphemy a human being can commit. To strive merely to accumulate wealth, or to satisfy low instincts, appetites and passions, merely to have fun and to slide through life as easily as possible is the mark of the degenerate. It is the man who labors to achieve the betterment of humanity or to serve, or to build that which is noble, or beautiful, even though incidentally he accumulates wealth or acquires power or enjoys the material things of life, is fulfilling the only mission for which mankind was created or exists. For that reason the manner in which Daniel K. Pearsons, the Chicago philanthropist, has carried out a difficult program extending over many years, is worthy of study.

Dr. Pearsons was a multimillionaire who entertained and entertained, strict views as to the duties of those who have a great deal of money.

He regarded himself chiefly as the trustee of the fortune which has come into his possession, and it has been his leading aim in life to discharge the duties of his stewardship in the most creditable fashion possible.

It is, of course, impossible for any man to give away large sums of money without being caught at it; and so it became known, long years ago, that Dr. Pearsons meant to die poor. It was also generally known that he intended to give the larger part of his money to schools and colleges.

When one comes to think of it, there can scarcely be a more difficult task set any man, than the giving away of millions, in a world where those who are in need generally make a great effort to conceal the fact, while those who are merely hungry for more are greatly skilled in the gentle art of begging.

We find, however, that the Chicago philanthropist has managed to cut his cloth with remarkable precision. At the age of 91, the other day, he gave the last of many gifts, and now finds himself not only at an age which surely will not offer many more opportunities for the carrying out of any plans, but also announces that he has reached the end of his fortune.

It seems to us that there are many kinds of skill, developed to the highest degree, in the history of Dr. Daniel K. Pearsons of Chicago.

THE SMUDGE POT WINS.

The smudge pot has won another victory. At Grand Junction, Colorado, the smudge pot brigade has put in three night shifts and succeeded in raising the temperature of orchards from five to ten degrees each night and saving 60 per cent of the peach crop and all of the pears and apples. But the thought intrudes itself, that if it pays to go to all that trouble and expense each spring to save the fruit crop at Grand Junction, fruit growing in this favored climate should be a paying proposition. The fact that it has not been in the past in this vicinity is not the fault of soil or the climate but because those who went into the trade did not co-operate, or did not understand the business, or worked it as a side issue to some other trade or occupation. Fruit growing on a commercial scale by those who know and are not afraid to make the effort, would pay bigger in the Santa Fe valley than it does at Grand Junction or anywhere else in the temperate zone.

Whenever a case of typhoid fever is reported, whenever a person dies of that disease, it is an indictment against a whole community. Typhoid fever is as preventable as smallpox and it should be made a capital crime to empty sewerage into a running stream. Every incorporated community that neglects to put in a sewer system and to enforce sanitation, should have one-fifth of all its income held out by the state until a sufficient fund has accumulated to enable the state to build a sewer system for the town and to enforce sanitation. It is only in uncivilized countries now-a-days, where the emptying of sewerage into running streams is permitted. Even in Panama, in Porto Rico and in the Philippines, wherever Uncle Sam took hold, or in Korea where the Japanese are masters, the first steps taken by those in authority was to stop the pollution of streams and to construct sewer systems.

OKLAHOMA AS A MANUFACTURING STATE.

Oklahoma is agricultural, the beginning of manufacturing does not date back more than ten years, and yet, Oklahoma in 1909, according to a census bulletin issued today, produced eight times as much manufactured goods as did New Mexico. It had 2,400 establishments which employed more than 14,000 hands. The products were worth $55,000,000, or just about as much as the total assessed wealth of New Mexico. Something like $10,000,000 of capital was invested and $35,000,000 worth of raw material was consumed, while $10,000,000 was paid out in wages. This is an excellent showing for a new state which is classed as agricultural and which is newly settled.

The Democrats made great parade of their consuming desire to pass a bill that would result in the publication before election of the campaign expenses of candidates for congress. Had the desire been honest, it would have been praiseworthy, but when the Republicans in the House tacked a little amendment to the bill that would have made the measure a practical one and would have provided for the publication of "all" campaign expenses, and not only the "committee" expenses, the Democrats rose in their seats and voted down the amendment, although 50 of them were sincere enough to vote with the Republicans for the amendment. Sincerely like consistency is not a Democratic trait and the people know it.

DEATH REMOVES VENERABLE EPISCOPAL CHURCH BISHOP

The oldest bishop but one in the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States died in Philadelphia recently in the person of Rt. Rev. Ozal W. Whitaker, head of the Pennsylvania diocese.

His work in the missionary field in Nevada. In 1868 he was made missionary bishop of that state.

His work among the miners and other pioneers of Nevada proved to be an admirable preparation for his future work in Pennsylvania. The bishop of the Pennsylvania diocese needed an assistant, one qualified to work among the miners of the coal regions. In 1886 Bishop Whitaker was accordingly elected assistant bishop of Pennsylvania, and when Bishop Stevens died in 1887 he succeeded him as head of the diocese.

Bishop Whitaker was always a friend of the workingmen. His stand in favor of the Philadelphia car strikers a year ago had considerable influence. He also did much toward ending the labor troubles of 1896. In 1898 he attended the third Pan-Anglican congress in London. His only published works are volumes of sermons. Under his administration the work of the Episcopal church in Pennsylvania flourished greatly. Two years ago he began to lose his eyesight and last year he was obliged to delegate most of his duties to Bishop Coadjutor Alexander Mackay-Smith.

Bishop Whitaker was an intimate friend of the late Archbishop Ryan, head of the Roman Catholic church in Pennsylvania.

FAMOUS SUFFRAGIST TO TAKE A COLLEGE COURSE

For 33 years a leader in the women's suffrage movement, in the east, Mrs. Rachel Foster Avery of Swarthmore, Pa., has decided that she will become a college student and will take a two-years' course in political economy in the University of Wisconsin.

When Mrs. Avery enters the university her two daughters will begin in the same institution of learning, a four year course in agriculture, and they are no more delighted with the prospect of a college life than is their youthful minded mother. For the next two years this remarkable woman, friend and associate of the late Susan B. Anthony and president of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage association, will take no part in the "votes for women" cause but this means that she is simply girding on her armor for a renewal of the fight in which she takes more interest than anything else in the world, outside of her family circle.

Mrs. Avery studied political economy at the University of Zurich when a young woman. Since her girlhood she has taken an active part in the suffrage movement and during the course of her career has had charge of the numerous conventions. For over 20 years she was corresponding secretary of the National Suffrage association. A woman of unusual mental ability and attainments, Mrs. Avery feels she is certain to gain much in her college course which will be of benefit to her in the life-work she has chosen.

Good to Wash Umbrellas.

"Washing umbrellas a specialty," was the red letter notice printed on cards distributed by a New York laundress. When seen she carried a bundle of umbrellas which customers had yielded up fearfully for a thorough scrubbing.

"Why should umbrellas be sent to the wash?" she was asked. "Don't they get washed often enough by rain and snow?"

"Often enough," she said, "but not the right way. At the end of winter every umbrella that has seen much service is beginning to look shabby. What is needed is a hot soapy bath. That is the kind it gets at my house, with soft brush massage thrown in to rub the spots off and the application of glycerine to the ribs to prevent rusting. An umbrella that has undergone that treatment and been hung out open in the sunshine to dry will look like a new umbrella."

Expensive Fuel.

A station agent in Morganfield, a township in North Carolina, made an awkward and expensive mistake recently. Some nights ago after it was too late to make a deposit in the bank he came into possession of $655, and fearing that he might be robbed during the night placed the money in a coal bucket at the depot and put coal on it that it might be safe. The passenger train leaves at 6 o'clock in the morning and this necessitates Mr. Pemberton's early rising and he is kept very busy until the train departs in the rain he made a fire in the stove and dumped in the coal and money. After the rush was over he thought of his money but it was too late.

HOW MANY?

Mr. "Silver King," on the occasion of his silver wedding, thought it would be a fine idea to give a dinner to the prominent people of the village and neighborhood. He sent out the invitations and ordered the dinner. Then he decided it would be a good scheme to have some music. A friend told him there was an excellent quartet that could be secured, and sent the leader over to see the host.

"Kin yez sing?" he asked.

"Yes, sir, we can sing very well."

"Have yez dress suits, for them's necessary?"

"Yes, sir, we all have evening clothes."

"How much will it cost?"

"We've got two guineas apiece for such an engagement."

"I know; but how many of ye is there in this quartet?"

"Making Him Go."

"I don't think I shall go to the poker party to-night."

"That's one of the truest things you have done for quite awhile."

"Jinx owes me $5 which he was to pay me at the party to-night, and which I had decided to give to you to go shopping with, but I am really too tired to go out; guess I'll let it go this time."

"That is just like you! If it was anything you wanted to do you would go in a minute, but when it is something for your wife you are too tired! You will go to that poker party to-night or you will hear from me!"

Soft Beams.

Lady," began the summer tramp at the vine-covered gate, "can't yer help a poor victim of an accident?"

"What kind of an accident?" asked the housewife, suspiciously.

"Why, mum, last night while I was sleeping a dozen beams fell on me."

"Gracious! That was terrible! How did it happen?"

"Why, I was sleeping in a flower bed and they were moonbeams."

TO PREVENT LOSS.

Brown—My wife is getting awfully strenuous. Yesterday she broke a plate over my head. What would you advise me to do?

Jones—Well, you might buy cast iron plates.

The Why of It.

He says he tries so hard to win, But all his luck has fled. At 9 a. m. if you'd peep in, You'd find him still in bed.

After the Honeymoon.

"Now is the time a good many young people are beginning to think about marriage," laughed the crusty bachelor.

"Gracious!" exclaimed the pretty miss in surprise. "Don't you think you are behind time? June is the time when young people think about matrimony."

"Oh, no, that's when they are married and haven't the time to think. Now is the time they are doing the serious thinking."

On the Job.

"Trying to make love to me!" said the pretty typewriter, with feigned anger. "The idea! You are only a boy. I should take you to task."

"That may be, Belinda," laughed the fresh elevator boy, as he gave the wheel a turn, "but it looks like I am about to take you to task."

And then the car shot up toward the "steenth" story.

HIS MISTAKE.

"Darling," he declared, "I'm absolutely silly about you."

"Oh, you must be mistaken," she sweetly replied. "I had heard before you and I ever met that you were absolutely silly."

Woman's Nature Mother's Friend

It is the nature of women to suffer uncomplainingly, the discomforts and pains that accompany the bearing of children. Motherhood is their crowning glory, and they brave its sufferings for the joy that children bring. No expectant mother need suffer, however, during the period of waiting, for not only does Mother's Friend in preparation of the event, but it relieves the strain on the different ligaments, overcomes nausea by counteraction, prevents backache and numbness of limbs and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. Its regular use fits and prepares every portion of the mother's system for a proper and natural ending of the term, and it assures for her a quick and complete recovery. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers. BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

EDITORIAL FLASHES

Good Thing All Around. A movement is on foot for the consolidation of the two weekly newspapers published in Alamogordo, New Mexico, and doubtless it will be beneficial to both the business men of that city as well as the newspapers. —El Paso Times.

Blood on the Moon. There appeared an account of a trial in the El Paso Herald of a man arrested for disturbing the peace. The accused admitted yelling once and was fined three dollars. If the proprietors of the Willard Record and the Estancia News lived in El Paso they would soon go bankrupt. —Estancia Daily Herald.

Fair Warning to Reckless Drivers. Sheriff G. E. Sanchez gives notice that if the racing of horses and speeding of automobiles on the streets of Socorro does not cease somebody is going to have to face his honor the court. Two or three times of late children on the streets have narrowly escaped being run down by reckless drivers. The sheriff is right. —Socorro Chieftain.

This Assessor Means Business. Assessor A. B. Baca wishes to give notice that those tax payers who are making their returns and placing a valuation on their property of only an exceedingly small percentage of its real value had better change their plans. It will be to their advantage to do so. The assessor seems to be of the opinion that all should pay taxes on an equitable valuation, and in that opinion he is exactly right. —Socorro Chieftain.

"Obscured." Libels on New Mexico continue to be published in some of the eastern newspapers, and other things entitled to second-class mail rates. An obscure agricultural journal, called "Farm and Home" by its optimistic publishers, last month printed an article by some rural freak who had made a trip through the Southwest. Among other lies he stated baldly that the fruit and vegetables in the Southwest are large and fine looking, but tasteless or nearly so. It is useless and degrading to argue with such an animal, but we would that he would come to New Mexico just once more. —Pecos Valley News.

What is the Matter With Belen? What is the matter with our city, anyway? It does not seem to grow in any direction as it should from the importance of its position on the map of New Mexico, and the further importance of its position on the Santa Fe Railway system. Are the residents and business men at fault or what is it that is stalling the progress of the commercial and social progress of the town? We are growing, but oh! so slow as to what it ought to be. Is the reason for all this to be found in non-unity of action among our business men? If this is so, cannot some one in some way devise a method whereby we can all get together, at least upon the main question, that of pushing for the city's growth, as its importance demands? —Belen Tribune.

Burning the Books. There is a big bell in Portland, Ore., that rings alarms for fires. Some time ago there was an interesting commerce hearing there in relation to certain practices of relating that had been indulged in by some of the local railroads in favor of some Portland shippers. One man was testifying and was asked to produce his books. "I can't," he said. "Because, by advice of counsel, I burned the books." Presently another shipper was put on the stand. He was asked to produce his books. "Where are they?" "At my office." "Then go and get them immediately." The shipper left the room, but had not been gone more than five minutes when the big bell began to boom an alarm. "There go the books!" shouted every person in the room. —Saturday Evening Post.

Is This L. Bel? His full name is Daniel Archimedes McPherson. His parents called him Archimedes because they knew he was always figuring on something. The habit has staid with him in his later days, but with this difference: the Lord only knows what he is figuring on now. McPherson being a family name is acquired by divine right. He was named after a Mr. Webster, who did not write the spelling book, and another gentleman whose surname I do not remember, but whose fame as a man among beasts was firmly established long before his illustrious namesake set up a lion-taming business in the New Mexico political den, on the banks of silvery, placid dusty Rio Grande. His friends call him Danny; his acquaintances call him Mr.; the politicians call him Hon. His enemies don't call him at all. They are afraid he might have it. I call him Mac. In topography Mac is a step between H. B. Hening and Thos. B. Catron. In politics he is a step between the late lamented Tribune-Citizen of Albuquerque, and an excellent weekly paper published in the Middle Pecos Valley. At present he is with the main end of the party, but it won't last long. He'll be bawling out the "gang" before the fish are biting. He is a living testimony that all journalists are lean and hungry. In this he is like Henry Allen, the pride of Wichita, and William R. Nelson, who made Kansas City famous. Neither of these gentlemen look as though they were very hungry. Mac is the best judge of whiskey in Albuquerque, in fact, he does not drink it. Mac says whiskey is bad for his rheumatism, which excuse goes in Albuquerque, where there are many who spend their time in going in and coming out and wiping their lips. Such as these cast a pitying eye upon Mac, standing there by the hydrant, and thank their stars that they are not subject to rheumatism and its attendant evils. Some people think that Mac runs the best paper in the new state and there is reason to believe that Mac encourages this idea. Ever so often Mac grabs up the office towel for a club and lights on the occupants of the Pie Counter, scattering them to the eighteen winds of Albuquerque. When the last paper-sucker has vanished around the corner in the direction of the White Elephant, Mac surveys the remains of the feast longingly, but sighs, "alas, it is not for me," and trots off to the office of his city editor who knows a good thing when he sees it. Business at the pie-counter picks up and at the White Elephant falls off simultaneously. Two hours and forty-three minutes after the first country saving edition is off the press the people of New Mexico pat Mac on the back, Mac acting by proxy for the people. Some read the Journal to get the news, and they are seldom disappointed. Others read it to see what Mac will say about them, and they are never disappointed. Mac is stable as the Rock of Gibraltar in that he always does the expected thing. We all rather like to take Mac down in this way. —Pecos Valley News.

WHAT DOES "FRESHNESS REALLY MEAN?" Flowers plucked yesterday, left in the living room, will not be found as fresh today as those plucked even days before which have been kept protected from the atmosphere and dust. Exactly the same thing is true of cooking fats. Most of them are packed in tins or loose-covered pails exposed to the air, dust or odors, and they quickly deteriorate in quality. Cotto-lene, however, is packed in sealed, airtight pails. No matter how long it is kept, Cotto-lene is absolutely fresh—"undiminished in excellence, unimpaired in strength"—the real meaning of the word as given by standard lexicons.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases. Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

MINES AND MINING

Sierra County. Operations on the Snake mine near Hillsboro have been suspended temporarily because of an accident to the pump at the pumping station on the Percha. Operations are to be resumed on the Lady Franklin mine at Lake Valley, according to rumor. Two young men from the School of Mines, named Batchelder and Everhart, are leasing on the Colossal on South Fork. They are cleaning out the old tunnel with a view to heavier operations. Dr. J. M. Brooks, of Jamestown, New York, was a visitor to Colorado last week. He is a stockholder in the U. S. Treasury mine. He visited the U. S. Treasury and other mining properties during his stay. Will D. Snyder is doing assessment work for Horace Kingsbury on the old Continental property between Wild Horse and Poverty gulches. Coalinga Oil District. The United States Geological Survey's report on the geology and oil resources of the Coalinga oil district, in the western part of Fresno and Kings counties, California, by Ralph Arnold and Robert Anderson (Bulletin 398) has just been reprinted to meet the extensive demand for it. The district described covers about 700 square miles and the report which was first published a year ago, notes about 550 producing wells, which range in depth from 600 to 4,000 feet and penetrate from 20 to 200 feet of oil sand. The district is the leading producer in California and one of the most productive in the world. Its production in 1907 was 8,871,723 barrels, in 1908 it was 10,386,168 barrels, in 1909 it was 14,478,181 barrels and in 1910 it was probably 18,000,000 barrels. The total quantity of oil taken from the ground in the district to the end of 1910 was about 70,000,000 barrels or 42 gallons each, leaving available a vast store of oil which has been roughly estimated at 2,727,000,000 barrels. There are some persons who hold the idea, the authors state, that underground resources of any kind are inexhaustible, but this notion is erroneous. When the oil in any field is once exhausted it will not be replaced within many centuries if ever. It is not impossible that the processes of oil formation and migration are going on constantly in some places, but such processes are so exceedingly slow when measured in years that they may be considered for practical purposes as non-existent. Pipe lines connect the Coalinga district with the seaboard at Monterey, 110 miles away, with San Francisco Bay 200 miles away, and with other points. The report describes the topography, geology, paleontology, and oil in the Coalinga district, and contains maps.

NEW MEXICO POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

A Clammy Calmness.

A cold, clammy calmness appears to prevail among the ranks of New Mexico's politicians; but we can at most hear them thinking, away over here.—Fort Sumner Republican.

A Senatorship at Stake.

Things must have a fairly prosperous look for statehood, else we hardly think Judge Fall would have deferred his trip to Europe. It seems to us that it would take nothing short of a senatorship to keep him away from the coronation.—Bard City News.

Another Pessimist.

The papers continue to print articles regarding the bright outlook for statehood for New Mexico. Some even predict that Arizona has a chance of being admitted. Bryan may be elected President.—Fort Sumner Republican.

That's Nothing.

The editor of the Deming Headlight says his ideals of the dignity of man were rudely shattered on election day when he saw election workers pulling voters by the coat-tails and in other ways attempting to direct their votes. These are the tactics of the professional politician and are scorned by every American citizen worthy of the name.—Silver City Enterprise.

A Busy Man.

Delegate Andrews is credited with having introduced two hundred and fifty bills in Congress Monday. Mr. Andrews' enemies have accused him of almost all the high crimes and misdemeanors in the calendar, but not one of them has ever yet had the assurance to charge him with having neglected any opportunity to promote the interests of New Mexico in Congress.—Socorro Chieftain.

You Can Hear a Pin Drop.

Now that the territorial tax levy has been very much reduced, we await with breathless expectancy a word of commendation from those Democratic editors who have been bawling themselves black in the face in denunciation of the Republican administration because of the alleged high rate of taxation levied for conducting the territorial affairs. Excuse us, gentlemen, did you say something?—Socorro Chieftain.

Down on the Shooting Irons.

If there is no law stringent enough to prevent the promiscuous carrying of deadly weapons in New Mexico, it is high time that such a law was passed. If there is such a law, recent events cry out for its enforcement. There has been a perfect epidemic of lawlessness throughout the territory, and the vast majority of them would never have occurred if the men and boys who swagger about with guns in their pockets had been inspired beforehand with a little wholesome respect for the law provided for just such cases.—Socorro Chieftain.

Not For Columbus.

Of all the curses known or unthought of that could befall us the worst would be the establishment of a saloon here, and this declaration may be applied from social, moral, physical, financial or any standpoint you may wish. A Western border town, wholly without police protection and guerrilla war raging in the adjoining nation, Columbus would soon be known as the toughest town in the world. Let us abandon the idea that in order to grow in size and prestige we must have a saloon, and all work for the greatest good.—Columbus, N. M., News.

The President Throws Up His Hands.

The following message was received at the Republican office by wireless, but we cannot guarantee that it is literally accurate, as it was received on a "typical" New Mexico spring day and our wireless operator had washed the sand out of his mouth and throat a couple of times too often: Washington, April 10, 1911. Fort Sumner, New Mexico.

Tell those Ricardo people that if they will quit resolving I will discharge every soldier and sailor I have and beach every warship in the navy. TAFT.—Fort Sumner Republican.

What's This?

It is reported on excellent authority that several Democrats who are more or less prominent in the councils of that party, have gone to Washington to take a hand in the statehood fight and that they are opposed to the admission of New Mexico and will urge the Democratic house to withhold action or at least try to delay the admission of this territory as long as possible.

There Democrats, it is said, have received financial assistance from a faction within the Democratic party which is constitutionally opposed to the admission of this territory.

A recent meeting of Democratic leaders was held in Albuquerque but what action was taken on this matter, has not been made public by those participating in the caucus which was not a public affair. The meeting has caused considerable talk.

At all events, several Democrats from New Mexico, are now said to be en route to the national capital to take a hand in the statehood discussion and the developments it is said, are likely to prove of more than usual interest both to the members of their party and to the public generally.—Albuquerque Herald.

Plays AND Players

To all followers of horse racing, glad tidings are now coming, as it is learned that on next Thursday, horse racing will again come into play, and you can bet your head off on the horses, and take the same chances you did some time ago.

However, the inauguration of the races has decided to hold them at night, as it was deemed necessary on account of the fact that the racing during the day took too many men away from their business and kept too many young people out of school.

So it has been necessary to hold the races by gas light, and on next Thursday night, Santa Fe will have its touch of this new sensation.

At the Elks Theater, where the Beavers will put on their musical extravaganza, THE MASQUERADERS, the entire plot centers on a horse race with jockeys, stable boys, "touts," and the regular crowd, pulling for the horse to win.

The horse in question is a horse called Bluebird, who is the favorite; a villain "Curses, Foiled Again" enters the scene, to burglar music and green lights, and knocks the favorite jockey in the head, Mrs. Joe Bren, masquerading as the Yama-Yama dancer, decides to ride the horse at the last moment and save the day or rather night and all ends happily.

The events leading up to the exciting horse race are complicated and exasperatingly funny, when the Dutchman mixes every body up on their way to the races. This, interspersed with a bunch of catchy songs, good chorus dancing, and comedy that is simply side splitting, is the bill of fare the Beavers will dish out, as a sort of after supper luncheon on Thursday and Friday nights.

The seat sale started today at noon, and it was like an angry mob at a ball game waiting for the gates to open.

Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Bren will be here to put on the finishing touches, and the real good news is that Mrs. Bren will take a part and besides doing her song and dance numbers, will do the famous Yama-Yama dance in which she has been such a terrific hit all over the country. There are still plenty of good seats left, but you will have to hurry.

of Representatives proposes to give immediate consideration to the Canadian reciprocity matter, and certain phases of the tariff which have been previously outlined. The Democrats propose that a great many articles now protected by the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, shall be placed upon the free list, including meats of all kinds, flour, timber, sewing machines, salt, plows and agricultural implements, leather, boots and shoes, and barbed wire fences. Wool and cotton will be considered when the reciprocity agreement and free list measures are out of the way. It is expected that this proposed legislation will arouse a big fight.

Good Work for Clark.

There is a general expression of approval of the administration of Hon. Champ Clark as the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The committee on Ways and Means having taken the responsibility for the appointment of committees out of Mr. Clark's hands, the usual dissatisfaction expressed by members who have met with disappointment in their assignments, has been carefully concealed, and no one has thought to charge their ill successes to the presiding officer of the House. While Mr. Clark is a partisan in every sense of the word, he has always been admired because of his absolute fairness to political opponents, and things are running exceedingly smooth. The endorsement of William Randolph Hearst is a big feather in the cap of Mr. Clark and has added somewhat to the strength of the movement to make the new Speaker a presidential candidate. Mr. Hearst designates Mr. Clark as the "Party Pilot" and says that the Democratic party "must avoid unadvised radicalism or dishonest conservatism." He adds that if the progressives of the two parties fall in their objects, that a new party composed of Democrats and Republicans will be formed. His advice to self-appointed advisers to Democracy is to go home and leave the work to Champ Clark.

Baseball.

Perhaps the country at large does not realize the importance the great national game of baseball plays in the affairs of the government. The season opened April 12th, and there were 16,000 rooters in the ball park. President Taft threw the ball which opened the game, and among the spectators were a large portion of the members of Congress, and most of the high officials and clerks who were able to get away for the afternoon. Washington is already baseball mad, and on any afternoon where there is a game, it is about as safe to look for public officials at the park as in their offices or at the departments.

Popular Election of Senators.

Popular election of senators by direct vote of the people failed in the Senate in February by four votes. It is generally supposed that the changes that have been made in the organization of that body will register a different result when the question is finally settled at the present session of Congress. The House passed the bill in a single afternoon registering an overwhelming majority.

A big Japanese war story was exploded in Washington and throughout the country during the week, but President Taft killed it so early that no effect was noticeable.

The smoothness with which the House majority is attending to its affairs is almost unheard of in Congressional history. There seems to be a perfect understanding among the Democratic members, and if the present peaceful condition is continued, the length of the session will be materially shortened. The only rumor of discontent is in relation to patronage matters, but these differences are in no way serious.

The new House of Representatives contains 228 Democrats and 160 Republicans and one Socialist. There are two vacancies. In the Senate there are 50 Republicans, 41 Democrats and a vacancy from the state of Colorado.

April 3, 1911. In the matter of insurance on the Court House the Board ordered the insurance now carried by Mrs. L. A. Harvey be canceled, and that she be requested to return to the county the unearned premium, for the following reasons to-wit: on the 19th day of March, 1910, said L. A. Harvey was requested to write $2,500.00 insurance to cover on the Court House for the term of five years, a policy was written by said agent to the amount of $2,000 instead of $2,500, but a premium on $2,500 was charged the county the fact that the County Commissioners being under the impression that they had $500 more insurance than was really in force might have resulted in considerable trouble in case of fire.

In the matter of the claim of W. L. Evans, the following resolution was adopted by the Board:

Whereas, W. L. Evans was obliged to pay $70.82 taxes, interest and cost for the year 1904, for the purpose of preventing the sale into other hands of a tax certificate, No. 1340, upon a certain ranch purchased by him from the Twitcheil Estate, and it appearing that the said taxes had been paid by R. E. Twitcheil to E. C. Abbott, District Attorney, in the tax suit pending and that said tax was by him paid over to George W. Knebel, Treasurer and Collector, and it appears from the Treasurer's books that same was paid but never credited to said property; Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, that the said W. L. Evans be reimbursed in the sum of $70.82, by warrant to be drawn by the Clerk on the Delinquent Tax Fund into which said fund the same was originally covered.

In the matter of the petition of the residents of Cerrillos and Madrid and of Precinct No. 3, of Santa Fe, for the purpose of building a bridge at each of the above mentioned places: The Board ordered the County Surveyor to make plans and specifications and estimates for the same and to present the same to the Board not later than the first day of May, A. D. 1911.

Upon motion of Commissioner Alfredo Lucero and duly seconded, Ramon Garcia y Mesas was duly appointed janitor for the period of three months from the first day of April, 1911.

Upon motion duly seconded the Board adjourned to the call of the Chairman.

CHURCH IS USING PRESS

Advertising Columns Added to Mediums by Mr. Jenkins of Immanuel Presbyterian.

Widespread attention has been attracted to the policy of one of Milwaukee's churches in endeavoring to reach as large a number of people as possible with a knowledge of its services, their nature and aims, and the desire of the church to affect the spiritual life of the community.

This is Immanuel Presbyterian church, of which Dr. Paul B. Jenkins is pastor. Beginning with its street car cards, the church has met with results so definite as to lead it to extend its methods to include announcements mailed to business men and to the use of the regular advertising columns of the press. Blotters bearing the name of the church and mention of its services are regularly placed on writing desks in hotels.

Dr. Jenkins says: "There is nothing sensational about it. We are simply trying to do the business of the kingdom of God in a business like way; that's all. We believe absolutely in conversion as the indispensable entrance upon the Christian life, but we believe that a man must come to church if he is to be reached by the message of the church. And we believe that any man will come if he is once convinced that the church has a message for him that he would be interested to go and hear. And we are trying to convince him."

SELLS FIELD—NOT GOODS

Advertising Only Salesmanship on Paper Less Personality of the Seller.

Newspapers cannot sell goods, never could and never will, but only sell the field. It's up to the advertiser to do the rest. There are few advertisers who do not think the publisher is to blame if they get no returns. I have had them say to me, in an aggrieved tone, "I don't get a single inquiry." Yet I am absolutely certain hundreds of readers to whom that paper goes spend thousands of dollars annually for the product this man is trying to sell. Is the publisher to blame? Why one advertiser gets returns and another doesn't is simply because the successful one understands human nature and knows what arguments pull business. Advertising after all, is simply salesmanship on paper, less the personality of the man selling goods. For this reason it must be written to the point.

The pulling power of an advertisement depends on these things. It must be in the right medium; it must be attractive; it should be changed often. The argument must be logical and the statements made must be proved. Reasons ought to be given for every assertion made. Illustrations should be arguments themselves not merely space fillers. Prices should be used whenever possible. If the advertiser will do this he cannot say advertising does not pay him, for it will.

Advertising in Eve's Days. Ben S. Jacobs, a director of the Pilgrim Publicity association of Boston, addressed the students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology on "Psychological Points in Advertising." He told his hearers that advertising really started in the garden of Eden. One of two definite states of mind is necessary, Mr. Jacobs said, to sell goods. One is necessity and the other is desire. Advertising may exploit necessity or create the desire, and the copy and chosen medium should be adapted to one or the other, as the case may be, and any medium which reaches any considerable number of people burdened with necessity or likely to respond to the desire in mind has a distinct value as a carrier of the advertiser's message.

First among these mediums, he pointed out, came the printed word and the printed picture, and it is this fact that makes the great newspapers and magazines of today a practical possibility and an economic factor in the supply and demand of the world's goods and their distribution.

Darts. Advertising sometimes changes "failure" to "success" just as one view dissolves into another at the moving picture show. It is hard to tell when failure ends and success begins, but we seem to think we can almost see it.

They say that a business must either be a success or a failure. However, some businesses, like some people, simply stand still until a galvanic battery wakes them up.

That galvanic battery is usually advertising—their own or some one else's.

Want Riches? Then Advertise. "If you want to succeed in business and get rich, advertise," was the keynote of a speech made by Samuel L. Edison, president of the Commonwealth Edison Electric company of Chicago the other day. "Much of our company's success," said Mr. Insull, "has been due to regular and persistent advertising. The whole secret of success may be summed up in the words, 'Early to bed, early to rise, work like the dickens, and advertise.'"

Four Candidates for Queen—There are now four candidates for the Queen of the Carnival: Misses Flo

Moore, Eloisa Delgado, Lucy Napoleon and Lena Baca. The votes will be counted from tomorrow on and announced thereafter daily.

One Good Turn Deserves Another—
Everybody should turn out next week and boost the carnival under the auspices of the First Regimental Band as all know very well that the band entertains the people of this city all the year around. A good turn deserves another.

Many Buzz Wagons Here—The streets are literally filled with buzz wagons of many colors for quite a number of those new automobiles ordered recently have arrived. The horses are not taking kindly to the substitute for their service and are "making a scene."

Smudge Pots Do Good Work—In the lower Pecos valley in the vicinity of Roswell, the temperature night before last fell to 28 degrees, although it is almost 4,000 feet lower than Santa Fe and two hundred miles further south. The smudge pots in the orchards prevented loss to the fruit crop.

A Woman's Voice and Ten Words for 25c are comic, don't fail to see them at the Elks' tonight.

Anglers Get Busy—Now that the fishing season is approaching, as told by an angler in the columns of the New Mexican yesterday, many persons are planning trips to the "waterfall" and also reading up on the art of catching fish as well as fishing for them and "drowning flies." There is every indication that the Walton Society will be a large one this summer.

Company F at Target Practice—
Company F, Captain Norman King, spent two hours last night at target practice in the armory. Lieutenant Wiley, one of the crack shots of the territory led in the high averages and some of the privates also had good scores. Much interest is being manifested in this practice which of course is of the highest importance.

From 34 to 54.—That was the range in temperature yesterday and the average relative humidity was 57 per cent. The lowest temperature last night was 30 degrees and the precipitation for the 24 hours ending at 6
a. m. today was 0.03 of an inch of rain.
Yesterday was a partly cloudy day with a light shower at 1 p. m. and clear and cooler at night. A heavy frost was seen this morning but it was not killing.

Letter Morgue—The postal officials are much amused at the letter recently mailed at the office here addressed to "Importante" and underneath was the warning, printed in Spanish, to read carefully the contents of the envelope before commencing treatment.
This letter was sent to the morgue for lack of address. A postal is also held captive. It is addressed to Mrs.
Florence, Santa Fe, the surname of the lady being lacking as it was torn off. This shows after all there is "something in a name."

An Eventful Evening Interesting and exciting, an Edison drama. It's Anniversary of Lexington—Tomorrow will be the anniversary of the battle of Lexington, the first battle of the Revolutionary war. It will also be the semi-centennial of the first bloodshed in the Civil War which occurred at Baltimore, Md.

Meeting of Congregation—At the Church of Holy Faith, Protestant Episcopal, on East Palace avenue, a well attended congregational meeting was held last evening and a committee was appointed to take the formal steps to establish the church as a parish with right to choose its own rector and other privileges of a self-supporting parish.

Guilt of Murder—Jesus Valenzuela was tried at Carlsbad, Eddy county, on the charge of complicity or accessory before the fact in the murder of Martinez Mendez who was murdered by Santiago Martinez during a drunken row. Valenzuela was acquitted and Martinez plead guilty to murder in the second degree. Martinez was caught at Toyah, Texas, last Saturday having made his get away immediately after the murder.

Plaintiff Wins Commission—In the case of Patrick v. Thom for an amount of 2 1/2 per cent commission on a $20,000 sale of land near Artesia tried at Las Cruces before a jury that found for plaintiff the verdict be-

Cannot Get Post Office Site.

Some time ago the postoffice department advertised for bids for a new room for the accommodation of the Las Cruces postoffice. Its business having increased to such an extent that the present quarters are inadequate in size. Owing to the fact that the government requires the putting in of light, heat, closets and furniture, which will amount to an expenditure on the part of the lessee of at least $1,500, and also owing to the fact that while the department takes a five-year lease, it at the same time reverses the right to cancel the lease on 30 days' notice, no one in Las Cruces has been willing to go to the necessary expense in fitting up a room.
Consequently the postoffice here is cramped for room and otherwise hindered from doing the business with the despatch they would like.

New County Treasurer.

Curtis Browning of Melrose, was appointed at the meeting of the board of Curry county commissioners at Clovis to fill the unexpired term of county treasurer Edwards, who tendered his resignation some time ago.

"ONE LONG GALE OF MERRIMENT."

So Says Albuquerque Journal's Music
Critic of "The Masqueraders" Presented There Last Night.

It was one long gale of merriment.
So says the Albuquerque Morning
Journal today of the Masqueraders, the show presented at the Elks' theater in the Duke City last night under the management of Joe Bren and which will be seen here, with a different cast, at the Elks' theater
Thursday and Friday nights.

However Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bren will take part here. Mrs. Bren made a great hit in Albuquerque as the Yama Yama girl. The Journal says:
"Perhaps, rather certainly, the event of the evening was the dancing of the Yama Yama dance by Mrs. Joe Bren, which developed an amount of talent which even her old admirers had hardly expected. She charmed the audience with the graceful spirited dance and it alone was worth the price of admission."

All of the Albuquerque cast received warm praise and doubtless deserved it, but Santa Feans feel sure that their own cast will also prove a hilarious success.
