OVERREACHED HIMSELF.

When men of brains and condensed attainments not childish at times how reprehensible it is to look these not as gifted to a fixed standard. Years ago, Roscoe Conkling, one of the ablest men this country ever produced, got in a pet with President Garfield and vacated his seat in the U. S. Senate, one he prized as he did his eyes and honor. He thought at the time that the representatives of his party in his State and the country would applaud him, condemn the President and return the seat to his seat. His anticipations went awry—and he never got near his match, caught the pulse and Conkling was relegated to private life.

Ingalls, of Kansas, has few peers as a statesman, yet he acted the child when he should have been most manly. A year ago the Alliance party of the grasshopper State got in the saddle and rode over Ingalls, who sought to succeed himself in the U. S. Senate. The defeat grieved his political friends, but they didn't lose heart. Ingalls, however, went to his tent and took to bed. A political battle was on the tapis between his old adherents and the party which had defeated him. Old soldiers of the party went into the field and administered a nobilitating to the enemy but he was no sunshiny basket as the "redneck cent statesman" would not go to the front. Providence, through its inscrutable wisdom, called Senator Plum home. Had Ingalls been consistent and aggressive after his defeat the death of his rival league would have restored him to public life.

How great the difference between the two men. Plum was strong because of his sterling, absolute honesty. He lacked the brilliancy of Ingalls but he outweighed him in integrity and usefulness. Plum's deeds were more honored than Ingalls' eulogies. Plum ventured he may yet shine, but if so it will be as John Randolph said of a colleague, "like a rotten mackerel by moonlight."

THE WHITE OAKS ROAD.
The Santa Fe New Mexican, under the above caption, says:—Morris R. Locke, interested in the El Paso-White Oaks road is quoted as saying:—"I have sold the bonds and stock of the company for the building of the White Oaks line, and a party in London to close the deal, and if closed will be in El Paso to take the company out of the hands of the receiver and pay up all claims and proceed with the construction of the railroad to White Oaks, and possibly to the State of Kansas. I have been east all summer and fall, on this and other business and am hopeful of complete success in this matter."

We were in hopes that never again would the name of Morris R. Locke, above all others, be associated with the White Oaks R. R. Under his leadership our people were woefully deceived some three years ago. Representations were made that arrangements looking to the speedy building and equipping of the road had been consummated. To demonstrate the declaration work was commenced on the El Paso end and several miles of iron were covered but the rails were not paid for and debts against the management flowed in from all sides. Property at El Paso, which had appreciated in value on the representations of the man sunk below original holdings and several enterprising men involved themselves in interesting buildings to meet the promised exigency. Editors gave credence to this man's pretensions and currency to his fiction, leaving themselves under the ban of suspicion that they had unwittingly and for a money consideration deceived their readers.—We want no more such experience.

But we hope that Locke cannot help or injure the prospects of the White Oaks R. R. A man may, by virtue of gall or venality impose upon an individual or community once but a repetition requires superior strategy on the part of the conspirator and superlative assiduity on the side of the victims.

HIS SWEETHEART.

"His Sweetheart" is such a striking title that you expect to find it on the back of some bright and entertaining novel rather than the title of Judge's Library, or Monthly Magazine of Fun. However, no novel is as interesting as this little publication. Everyone wants to be a sweetheart some time or other, and the best book of points to store up on this subject is this issue of Library. When we say that we have right to club with it, and the sole right for our entire county, we feel that every subscriber who does not already see it should at once send in the price of the Library and the Leader which is remarkably low when offered at $2.50.

OUR CALIFORNIA LETTER.

MRS. LANE REMEMBERS HER OLD FRIENDS.
Santa Monica, Cal.,
January 2, 1892.
EDITOR LEADER—
And now, the Christmas carols have all been sang; the presents which cost so much time and thought have all been given; Santa Claus has wrapped himself in his furry coat and hidden himself until next December comes 'round again; the bells are ringing in the New Year and Nature is in her most charming mood as if to welcome it.

Our young people have enjoyed their vacation and again we see them in the morning trooping by on their way to school. We have an excellent school here with Mr. Brown as Principal and five other teachers. The rooms are well filled—the school building itself a very fine and would be an ornament to any town.

Our public library here leaves nothing to be desired in the way of reading—daily papers, monthlies and periodicals, also foreign papers. They have the newest books, finely bound One can there find Huskie, Carlyle, with all the novelists of the present day—Howells, Cradock, Eggleston, Stockton, etc., and all the books one could wish.

As I look out to-day I see some of the hills round about turning green, suggestive of spring lamb and green peas. In some of the fields I see the plows and harrows and men toiling harrowing up old mother earth's feelings; but I suppose it has been so since Adam delved—but what Eve spun is not so clear.

Out over the sea I see a tiny boat and as the men lift their oars out of the water the wet blades catch the sunlight and shine like silver; so distant lends enchantment to the view for if you were close to them you would no doubt find a common fishing boat, not overly clean nor perfumed with "crab apple blossom." How nice it would be if we could travel through life with all these illusions undisputed. Some people have a mania for finding out what the dolls are made of, they cannot seem to be content to take pleasure in admiring their lovely appearance but they must find out if they are stuffed with saw-dust, and when they do are wretched in consequence as they well deserve to be. How often we lose the grandeur and value of a good action by stepping to analyze the motives which prompted it. Why not take it on trust; in that way we are the gainers. This is getting to be too much of a critical age. We sit quite too often in the "seat of the scornful." For myself I hope to be able to present a fatigued that will be as high as I shall aspire to this coming new year.

We had the pleasure of seeing some whales spouting lately. Three very large ones visited this bay last week and spout several days. They sent up immense volumes of water and would all blow at once. It was a very pretty sight to see but about as vapory as some of the speeches our politicians make now-a-days. But then I must stop for I know you think women must not meddle in politics—they must be keepers at home, stocking menders, household goons—they have this work cut out for them and must stay put.

Santa Monica is getting ready for the season. Carpenters are repairing the cottages and new cottages are receiving finishing touches. I hope some of our White Oaks friends will visit Santa Monica this summer. I need hardly say we would gladly welcome them. The memory of kind deeds and of pleasant friendships formed by us in New Mexico will ever be among the many cherished treasures of our memory.—May the new year bring all prosperity and contentment to our friends in White Oaks and to the deserving editor of the Leader in particular, I remain,

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by one of the great medical authorities of the country a simple and permanent cure for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Hay Fever, and all the Lung Affections, also a positive and reliable cure for Rheumatism, Gout, and all the Blood Affections, and all the Skin Diseases, after having tested the wonderful cure he gave to thousands of cases, he has decided to give the means to his suffering fellow-men. A cure for the cure of Consumption, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Hay Fever, and all the Lung Affections, and all the Blood Affections, and all the Skin Diseases, and all the other diseases which are caused by the impure blood. WRITE TO THE PUBLISHER, WHITE OAKS, N. M.

To state that "Stonewall" Jackson would never travel or fight on Sunday, the Oxford, Me., Advertiser replies: "We think the surviving members of the old Tenth Maine regiment can recall to memory Sunday, the 25th day of May, 1862, almost three decades, when old Stonewall traveled and fought on Sunday and had our fearless and stalwart band on the run from Winchester to Williamsport. How that rebel battery got the drop on us when a few miles from Winchester, and what terrifying sound those scorching shells gave they came whizzing through the air so near, and what a shower of knapsack followed about that time, and with sad hearts we parted with photographic letters and clothing from home as we lunged them away and pressed on! That forced march was a trying ordeal to the men and some of them carry the effects to this day."

Jon. Church, late of the Jennettes, who recently went on a visit to his old New York home, is dead. We are without further particulars.

Jas. O. Nabours, who has been in Kansas for over a year, has returned home.

It is noted in Washington that while congressmen from the North and East wear silk hats or black or brown frocks, the members from the South and far West prefer soft felt hats. But the soft felt hats are all black, and the typical Southerner's broad brimmed white felt hat of a generation ago is conspicuous by its absence. The high hat grows more in vogue every year, and the public represents, we require a liking for it after a brief residence at the national capital.

A Western minister, who is not always as careful as he ought to be in making his preaching and practice go together, was once telling some friends a story of adventures.

It was a large story, and the minister's 10-year-old little girl was listening to it very intently. When he had finished, she fastened her eyes upon her father's face, and said, very gravely: "Is that true, or are you preaching now, pa?"

The teacher has for sale a piano, an organ, 3 wagons, 2 carriages, 2 carts, 3 typewriters, a watch, a soda fountain, a shot gun, a stove and range, 2 bicycles, one for a lady and one for a gentleman - also a first-class sewing machine.
