PRESIDENTIAL CONVENTIONS

The Plot to Use Blaine to Beat Harrison in 1892.

HOW THE REPUBLICANS LOST

Two new stories of the republican canvass of 1892 have recently been told by Joseph M. Rogers in the Book-lovers' magazine. Both are credited to President Harrison himself.

A few weeks before the convention Mr. Blaine, then secretary of state, came to the president with a proposal to promote his son-in-law, Colonel Coppinger, to a brigadier general. Coppinger had then been a colonel only a year, and was near the foot of the list. It would have been obviously unjust to promote him over the heads of men who had been waiting years for their star. Harrison pointed this out to the secretary, who acquiesced in his view.

A few days later, while the president was busy with visitors, Mrs. Blaine appeared on an imperative mission. He excused himself to his callers and saw her at once. She insisted on the immediate promotion of her daughter's husband. It was in vain that the president explained. Mrs. Blaine would listen to no argument.

"When she swept out of the room with an ominous swirl of her skirts," said General Harrison later, "I knew there was to be trouble."

There was. And though he captured the nomination, this election went to his rival.

The other story was of an incident that occurred after the convention. Three leading republican opponents of the president went to him with an ultimatum. If he would agree to make certain appointments they would guarantee his election. If he refused—

"I would under no circumstances," said the general, in relating the incident, "agree to such a bargain, as it was foreign to my nature to do so."

He was convinced that these three men caused his defeat.

Perhaps a more nearly adequate reason is implied in a story told by Colonel L. H. Waters of Kansas City. The colonel, who happened to be in Washington on one occasion in the Harrison administration, started for the White house one morning to see the president about a postoffice appointment that he wanted for a friend. It was midwinter and on the way he saw a Kansas City man sitting on the edge of the sidewalk with both feet and both arms thrust into a snow drift.

"Why, John," said the colonel in alarm, "have you lost your senses?"

"No, colonel," was the reply, "but I've just come from seeing Ben Harrison about an appointment, and I'm trying to thaw out."

The president's reserve and frigid manner alienated the party workers. It was said that he would grant a request in such a way as to make an enemy, while Blaine would be so successful in refusing one that the applicant felt consoled even when he came away empty handed.

After 1880 Blaine was the chief of the republican party. He could have had the nomination in 1888 had he not refused it. Four years later he might have been successful had he gone after the prize in time. Instead, early in 1892, he wrote a letter declaring he would not be a candidate and then, after Harrison had accepted, he allowed himself to be dragged into the fight too late to win.

His wavering course has been ascribed to his failure to withstand the advice of his wife and of the politicians who hoped to defeat Harrison although they cared nothing for Blaine.

Harrison had early offended Quay, to whose lavish use of money and executive ability he owed his election. Quay wanted his son in the army promoted out of his turn. The president refused. After the election, when Harrison met Quay he remarked: "Well, Providence pulled us through."

"I thought I had something to do with it," said Quay in telling of the incident.

A story apparently elaborated from this was told at the time of Quay's death. It was said that Harrison remarked to Quay: "God elected me, not you." Well, then," said Quay, "see if God will elect you again."

Allied against Harrison when the convention met in Minneapolis were some of the shrewdest of the republican leaders including Quay, Clark, and his successor as chairman of the national committee, Platt of New York, Governor Foraker of Ohio, Alger and Hale. Three days before the convention met Blaine left the cabinet, but there was a general feeling that his resignation had come too late.

The first opportunity to measure strength came in the contest cases over rival delegations from the southern states. The test showed that the Harrison forces had a clear majority of votes. With the contest settled in favor of the administration, there was no hope for the opposition, except through a stampede.

The attempt was made after W. H. Rustin's speech seconding Wolcott's nomination of Blaine. Mrs. Cora Lake, wife of a correspondent, had a seat in the gallery just behind the platform. With a white silk parasol she led the cheering which lasted for a half hour. It was a remarkable demonstration, but the Harrison men set unmoved.

An attempted stampede to the permanent chairman, William McKinley, proved unavailing.

Harrison was nominated on the first ballot. Only 437 votes were necessary and he secured 525 1/2. Blaine had only 182 1/2 and McKinley 182.

The leaders secured their revenge at the election, when Cleveland swept the country. Illinois, Wisconsin, California and New York went Democratic. Kansas, Colorado, Idaho and Nevada were captured by the populists and the electoral vote of Ohio, North Dakota and Oregon was divided.

FILIPINO EXHIBIT OPENS

EVERYTHING IN FULL SWING NEXT SATURDAY AT THE PHILIPPINE RESERVATION AT THE WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS.

St. Louis, June 23.—With the greatest parade of tribal people of the Far East which the United States has ever witnessed, the Philippine exposition at the World's Fair will be formally opened to the public in its entirety Saturday, June 25, and will at the same time be offered by Dr. W. P. Wilson, chairman of the Philippine exposition board to Col. Clarence R. Edwards, Chief of Insular Affairs, of the war department. Col. Edwards, who as general Lawton's adjutant was with the latter at the time of his tragic death in the Philippines, after receiving for the war department the great exposition of the territory which he helped to win for the United States will in turn commit it to the keeping of President Francis of the Louisiana Purchase exposition.

The exercises Saturday will take place from the grand stand which is being erected on the large parade grounds of the Philippine Constabulary, and seats and benches will provide for an audience of 3,000 people. From this stand Col. Edwards will review the panorama of native life, realizing for the first time what a strong picture of the Philippine Islands the exposition board has painted to the order of the war department, and how broad a story of economic development has been offered the ethnologist.

Eleven hundred natives of the Philippine scouts and Constabulary, will present the greatest museum of economic gradations from the most primitive man up which any portion of the civilized world has ever had opportunity to enjoy. From the dwarf Negrito, the aboriginal race of the islands and one of the most primitive people known to the ethnologist, the story of the Far East will unfold the varying grades of civilization up to the highly skilled Tagalog and Visayan and well disciplined warriors of the United States uniform, 440 of whom will march by in the scout's battalion.

The timid, weakly developed Negrito, who lights his fire by sawing one stick of bamboo with another and is so remarkably skillful with his bow and poisoned arrow; the beautifully developed dog-eating and head-hunting Igorrote wearing only a continuous smile and a pair of four-hand trousers; the treacherous Lanao Moro, still given to cannibalistic practices and even now slaughtering United States soldiers in Mindanao; the friendly Samal Moro, whose village over the waters of Arrowhead lake in the Venice of the World's Fair; the land-turtle Tinguian; the mining Sepoy Igorrote; and the beautiful Visayan ladies and courtly Visayan dandy will all be seen in the procession representing villages of native life to be found on the Philippine exposition grounds.

Native customs and long tree-trunk drums will be heard, and the 80 Visayan will be accompanied by the skilled Visayan orchestra of 16 pieces. The tree-dwelling Moro for once will accommodate himself to movement over something besides the limbs of the large oak which he inhabits with his small doghouse hut on the exposition grounds.

All of the exhibit buildings will be opened Saturday and with 15,000 electric lights to aid will be open until 11 o'clock each night. There are buildings of commerce, forestry, fisheries, agriculture, manufactures, education, model school, art, ethnology, fine arts and war, the latter filled with war material, being copy of the walled city of Manila.

In Honor of Dr. Grove.

After the meeting of Temple Lodge No. 8, A. E. and A. M., held last night at the Masonic lodge rooms in this city, there was a banquet given in honor of Dr. W. G. Grove, who is an esteemed member of the local lodge of Masons and is also grand lecturer of the grand lodge of New Mexico. During the banquet, which was one of the most brilliant affairs of the kind ever held in the city, the doctor was presented with a handsome gold-headed ebony cane as a memento of his sterling worth and good fellowship.

The doctor and family will leave in a few days for Kansas City where they will in the future reside. Dr. Grove has lived in Albuquerque for many years past and holds a high place among the professional men of the territory and has held the position of oculist and specialist of the eye, ear, nose and throat for the Santa Fe Railway company.

TERRITORIAL FAIR

The October Exhibition Will be Worthy of Territory.

From the Las Vegas Optic.

Col. R. E. Twitchell, who stayed over in Albuquerque to see yesterday's fast ball game, returned with the players this morning. He says that the game was a great one and that Las Vegas has no reason to be ashamed of her ball team. Luck went against the Meadow City boys, but they did the better playing.

Colonel Twitchell says that notable preparations for the fair are being made. More money was subscribed than ever before and an effort will be made to get the best kind of attractions. Col. Twitchell says the manager of the Albuquerque Browns has practically decided to send his team here rather than to El Paso for the Fourth. He says Albuquerque will give strong support to the Las Vegas race track and send horses here to every important meet. The gentleman is interested in having the two towns work together to make their big attractions more successful.

Saturday afternoon The Optic man talked with Maynard Gansel, secretary of the fair association, who was on his way to St. Louis to look at attractions. One of the novel attractions will be an air ship which will make daily flights. There will be other features which Mr. Gansel declares will be startling. Base ball, horse racing, target shoots, bicycle races, band concerts and carnival attractions will be on the program. There will be an exhibition of the products of the territory and the exhibition hall is now being remodeled for that purpose.

One Way of Mistaking Character.

Do not confuse seriousness with earnestness, we may laugh and be determined, and be solemn without being serious. If a person is not serious in the little daily, ordinary, commonplace events of life, like the tying of a shoestring, the rolling of an umbrella, or the playing of billiards, it should not be inferred that he cannot be earnest when the occasion demands it. Laughing men are often good fighters.

Growing Town.

Tucuman is one of the towns of New Mexico for which the future holds much in store. It has a progressive and capable class of business men, a feature which always counts much in the development of a town. Tucuman also has the location and the resources to justify its expectation of growing in wealth and importance.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Interesting Proceedings of the Territorial Association Meeting.

JUDGE J. R. McFIE'S ADDRESS

At yesterday's evening session of the New Mexico Sunday school association there was a praise service which was conducted by W. H. Worth, Jr. The Scripture lesson was read and prayer offered by Rev. O'Neil, pastor of the Baptist church of this city.

Judge John R. McFie's address which dealt with the influence of the Sunday school for good, was a masterpiece of effort, clear cut logical and able. The judge dealt with his subject in the broadest manner, asserting that the influence for good as the part of the Sunday school was almost incalculable. It was a plea for better and higher living, with the idea that the young could, through the Sunday school, make a good start in the direction of honorable and upright man and womanhood and citizenship.

The judge gave some account of the first organization of Sunday schools in England by Robert Raikes, in the latter part of the eighteenth century, and stated that while England was the place of its organization, America led the world far and wide as to Sunday school membership. The point was emphasized that the best way to get the young to attend would be through the example set by the parents of the children.

Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, visiting delegate from the International Sunday School association, spoke very interestingly on the subject "Points on Sunday School Management." Mrs. Bryner is a very capable woman. Her talk was replete with good and practical advice to superintendents, teachers and scholars.

After the curling of delegates from schools outside the city had been completed, a reception was tendered the visitors which was made exceedingly pleasant for all; the utmost kindness and cordiality being manifested.

This morning's session, Miss M. A. Murphy, of Las Cruces, who was to have presented a paper entitled "Christ and the Children," was not present, having been unavoidably detained at home, and her paper was read by Mrs. Thurlow Becker, of this city. It was a good paper, well written, and Mrs. Becker read it very nicely.

Mrs. A. C. Shupe read a paper "Work with Beginners" which was a little masterpiece. It was plain to see that Mrs. Shupe spoke out of the wisdom of experience and years of hard work in the cause. On account of this personal comment with which the paper was permeated it was very pleasing and beneficial.

The papers were followed by a general discussion in which a considerable number of the delegates took part.

Mrs. Caleb Johnson's conduct of the "Round Table" exercises was first class and aroused great interest.

The last item of the morning's exercises was Mrs. Bryner's address: "Special Features of the Primary Department." Mrs. Bryner is a born teacher with a thorough equipment. Everything she says is good. She has a national reputation in the work and within the past six weeks has returned from Palestine.

This makes a total of forty-four delegates. Just before dismissing the morning session, Hon. John R. McFie, president of the association, appointed committees in the interest of the meeting.

At this afternoon's session a considerable amount of business was transacted.

AN AMERICAN PRODUCT.

Secretary F. W. Spencer and Treasurer C. H. Appleton, both of this city, made reports upon the year's work of the association. Two hundred and three scholars have joined the various churches with which they are connected. There was another "round table" conference on Sunday school work, which was conducted by Mrs. Bryner; another paper by Mrs. R. J. Johnson of Lake Valley and address, "An Approved Workman," by Mrs. Bryner.

AN AMERICAN PRODUCT.

Secures Another Great Victory in Germany.

Prof. Dr. Lintner, director of the "Scientific Station for the Brewing Industry of Bavaria at Munich," upon analyzing "Pilsener Beer," the beer of the "Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association," under date of May 17, 1904, makes the following statement sworn to before Dr. Pundler, Royal Notary, and verified by Hon. James H. Workman, U. S. Consul General at Munich, Bavaria:

"Upon subjecting the several beers to a careful analysis I find that the 'Budweiser Beer,' submitted by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, St. Louis, U. S. A., is very similar, in all its characteristics, to the finest and best Pilsener beers. It is effervescent, clear and sparkling, has a beautiful creamy foam and is possessed of a pure, wholesome taste and exquisite hop flavor. Its keeping qualities by far exceed those of the Pilsener beers, resulting from the use of the very best materials in brewing, and the thorough maturity of the product. The analysis further shows that no acids or other preservatives have been used in its production, and as a result of my examination I pronounce 'Budweiser' a well matured, well brewed beer of the highest quality."

This acknowledgment, coming as it does from the recognized headquarters of the brewing industry of the old world, must be a great source of gratification and in a measure a compensation for their unceasing efforts to produce the finest beer that can be made.

Death of Old Prospector.

Bernardo Fraide, one of the oldest prospectors in Golden, and the discoverer of several good mining claims within Arizona and New Mexico, died on Tuesday at Golden at 3:15 p. m., at the advanced age of 75 years.

WORK OF DEVILS

A BOLD ATTEMPT TO WRECK PASSENGER TRAIN NO. 2 AT LOS LUNAS.

The accident yesterday in the Santa Fe yards, in which the heavy engine of passenger train No. 2 struck a rail lot too near the track by careless workmen, and which was first thought to have been a cold-blooded attempt to wreck the heavy overland, brings to light an attempt to wreck passenger train No. 2 at Los Lunas on the night of June 14.

The place is an ideal one for a wreck and had it not been for the watchfulness of the Los Lunas agent no doubt a most disastrous wreck and a great loss of life would have been the result. The night was ink black and had an ominous stillness about it. It was about 10 o'clock when the lonely agent looked out through the station house window and saw that the switch light up the track, which he had lighted at dusk, had gone out. The Santa Fe switch lantern is one that is not given to going out without good cause, so with a foreboding that something was wrong, the lone agent went to relight the lamp.

To his horror he found the switch half open, and it dawned on the frightened man that an attempt had been made to wreck train 22, which would pass about 12 o'clock. The agent hurried back to the station house and telegraphed a warning to Albuquerque. About that time a couple of traveling men came to the station, and arming themselves with guns, accompanied the agent to the open switch.

One of these traveling men, a large, portly fellow, with dark mustache, laid on the ground on his stomach, while the agent tried to light the lamp.

"No use," said the little traveling man to the agent, after the latter had failed in a half dozen attempts to strike the light. "You are too nervous; let me."

The little man's hand was not very steady, but he managed to strike the light after one or two attempts. The switch was placed in plumb and the three flares retraced their steps to the station house, and when they were safe inside and the door was closed, there were sighs of relief.

McCreight in Deming.

W. T. McCreight, business manager and city editor of The Citizen, the only daily to reach Deming readers with the latest telegraphic reports, arrived in Deming this morning from Las Cruces, where he reports doing a good business for his paper. Mr. McCreight is well known all over New Mexico, especially in the southern section, and always increases the subscription list of The Albuquerque Citizen when he goes out on trips speaking of the territorial fair. Mr. McCreight states that it will be the most important scheme on the program after the World's fair, and he advises all Deming people to visit Albuquerque during the coming October and take in the festivities. Deming Graphic.

The immensity of Russia. Russia embraces one-sixth of the land surface of the world. It is more than fifty times larger than Japan and has a total area of 8,859,000 square miles. Half of Europe and the whole of northern Asia are included within its boundaries. It has a greater continuous area than any other nation in the world.

Somebody did a golden deed; Somebody proved a friend in need; Somebody sung a beautiful song; Somebody suited the whole day long; Somebody thought: "This sweet to live!" Somebody fought a valiant fight; Somebody lived to shield the right; Was that somebody you?

KANSAS CITY MARKET LETTER.

Special to The Citizen.
Kansas City, Mo., June 25.—The supply of rangebred stuff last week consisted largely of stockers, stock calves and grass cows. There were a few lots of choice western red steers, which sold steady throughout the week. On the common kinds there was a sharp break. The best stockers lost 15c and medium to common kinds declined 40c to 75c, and were hard to sell at that. Poor grades of grass cows lost 50c to 75c. The top western steers sold at $6.55. Stockers sold mostly at $3.90 to $4.25. Western and Panhandle feeding cattle have come to be considered as the best there is, by Missouri and Illinois feeders, as they sell fully as well as natives when finished and have a more hardy constitution than natives, with greater capacity for putting on flesh. Feeders did not lose much last week, and sold at $3.75 to $4.75. The supply today is 5,000 head, and the market is steady, with some weakness on common stock. Feeders are strong, stockers steady.

The quality of the sheep receipts last week was very ordinary, which had its influence in depressing the to 25c. Several shipments of Texas muttons came in, about the last of the season, and sold at $4.65 to $4.65. Spring lambs sold at $5.75, and clipped lambs up to $5.90. Some very good Texas muttons arrived today, and sold at $4.85, weighing 80 pounds. These were considered 10c higher than last week. They were shipped in by Keller & Norris, Comstock, Tex. Some spring lambs brought $5.50 to $5.75, and the market is generally considered 10c higher than the close of last week. Very few stock or food sheep are coming now, although there is a moderate demand for same. They would possibly sell at $2.75 to $2.90.

Postoffice Established.

A postoffice has been established at Black Rock, McKinley county, Mark P. Bennett, postmaster, to be served from Zuni, four and one-half miles to the west; and Hamak, 26 miles to the east.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE MAN

Solomon Luna Chosen For This Honorable and Responsible Position.

HE IS POPULAR WITH HIS PARTY

From the Santa Fe New Mexican.

Today's telegraphic advice as to the effect that Solomon Luna of Valencia county, who for the past eight years has served very acceptably and efficiently as a member of the republican national committee from New Mexico, has been chosen for this honorable and important position by the unanimous vote of the New Mexico delegation to the convention for another four years' term. This selection was naturally expected; the republicans of the territory wanted it made, and the delegates carried out the unanimous wish of the party. A better man for the position could not have been chosen; by temperament, by experience, by stately and uncompromising republicanism, by party service, by high standing in the republican territorial organization, by influence in his home county and throughout the territory, Mr. Luna is justly and fairly entitled to the distinction.

Mr. Luna was born October 18, 1858, at Los Lunas, Valencia county. He was educated at St. Michael's college in this city, and at the Washington university at St. Louis, Mo. He is a man in the prime of life and one of the most popular and respected citizens of the territory. He has held various official positions, and for the past eight years has been treasurer and ex-officio collector of his home county, administering every public trust confided to him with honesty, ability and efficiency. By occupation he is a sheep grower and one of the best and most successful in that line in the southwest. His experience and knowledge of this industry is so well known and so greatly appreciated that he was elected six years ago president of the sheep sanitary board of New Mexico, which position he has since held with great benefit to the industry and to the people of the territory. He occupies a commanding position in the commercial and industrial circles of the territory, and is now president of the bank of Commerce of Albuquerque, one of the leading financial institutions of this section. In 1900 he was tendered the republican nomination for delegate to congress, but declined it.

He is very quiet, unassuming and unobtrusive in demeanor and behavior but outspoken and firm whenever the rights of the people of the territory are concerned, or when the well being and prosperity of New Mexico are at stake. He is a member of one of the oldest, best known and most influential families in the territory. Members of his family have served the people in various official and public positions of honor and trust for 200 years, under the Spanish kings, under Mexican regime and under the American republic, all of them having done so in a very satisfactory and acceptable manner, and have rendered yeoman service to the cause of the people. Mr. Luna's father, Antonio Jose Luna, was very influential and potential under the Mexican republic, and was one of the first to accept the new conditions when General Kearney arrived here in 1848. He was a member of the convention which declared friendship to the union and accepted allegiance to the United States when the first American troops arrived. His older brother, Tranquillo Luna, represented the territory in the congress of the United States for several years in the early '50s, very creditably and efficiently.

HOUGH-KNOX.

Benedict and Bride Meet to Mary in Albuquerque.

This morning about 10:30 o'clock two young people, a man and a woman, people whom any one would be glad to call friends, their appearance was so nice, called on Rev. W. J. Marsh at the parsonage of the Congregational church. They were a trifle nervous, but not so confused that they didn't know what they were there for. But before they explained, Rev. Marsh knew what was wanted, and the two nervous young folks were married. The groom was Robert C. Hough, proprietor of a coal shanty resort near Wells on the Rio Pecos, and to this retreat he will take his bride. The bride was Miss Julia E. Knox, who arrived yesterday from all the way to California. Mr. Hough came down from his mountain home yesterday morning.

Postoffice Established.

A postoffice has been established at Black Rock, McKinley county, Mark P. Bennett, postmaster, to be served from Zuni, four and one-half miles to the west; and Hamak, 26 miles to the east.

HONESTY IN PUBLIC OFFICE

The need of a new law upon the territorial statute books, says the Las Vegas Optic, requiring all county officials to give bond with trust companies has been the subject of considerable newspaper discussion within the past few months. An effort which was made during the last legislature to have such a law passed resulted in failure. Events which have happened since that time have served to greatly emphasize the desirability of such a law. The press of the territory is practically united in support of the proposition and strong pressure will be brought to bear upon the next legislature to have this reform put in force. It is understood that such a bill when introduced will have the fullest support of the administration.

Reforms must necessarily be made gradually and public sentiment must be educated in their support before they can be successful.

Gradually the old, slipshod methods of handling the public funds of New Mexico, particularly in the counties, is being reformed. The first and most important step in this direction was the creation of the office of traveling auditor. Probably no one can estimate the amount which has already been saved to the territory through the public can form some idea of its workings from the crookedness which has been brought to light in several instances and punished.

New Mexico cannot afford to be lax or lenient in the standard of honesty which she sets up for her public officials and which she demands that they measure up to. Every public officer should be regarded as a public trust and absolute honesty and integrity is not too much to expect of those who fill these offices.

The territory can no more afford to tolerate anything less in the management of her affairs than her business men could afford to tolerate a lower standard in those to whom is entrusted the management of their private business.

DISEASE MORE DEADLY THAN BATTLE

According to an official statement given out at St. Petersburg on June 14, the Russian losses to that date comprised 80 officers and 1,900 soldiers and sailors killed. Nearly half of this loss occurred when the battleship Potemovsk went down with 800 men, so that if the Russian figures are accepted as accurate the losses in the battle of the Yalu and at Nanshan hill were insignificant in comparison with the casualties in the great battle of the American civil war. Segregating the figures, the St. Petersburg statement says that the army's total loss in killed amounted to 44 officers and 220 men. Nor is the list of wounded much more formidable; 103 officers and 2,980 men. The severe fighting of the last few days will of course add materially to these numbers. The Japanese losses on the water have been about the same as the Russian losses, although the Japanese have never made a statement of the losses by the destruction of their battleship Hatanoe. They admit that their losses in taking Nanshan hill by storm comprised 4,000 killed and wounded.

It should be borne in mind, however, that these mortality statistics cannot represent the losses each army has suffered. More deaths occur in camps and hospitals, by far, than in battle. Indeed, the soldiers killed by disease vastly outnumber the victims of the battlefield, and the real terror of war is not the bullet, but is to be found in the microbes of typhoid fever, dysentery, smallpox, measles, pneumonia and cholera.

This fact is graphically illustrated by the mortality returns of the civil war. In that struggle the federal soldiers killed in battle or dead from wounds numbered 110,070, a terrific exhibit, truly; but 249,458 men lost their lives by disease and other causes—disease, in nearly every instance. For every man that met death by the shot and shell of the enemy, two men died of disease. The confederate losses were never accurately tabulated, but they were undoubtedly in like proportion. It is known that 95,000 confederates met death in battle or from wounds received in battle, and from the experience of the northern soldiers it is safe to say that at least 200,000 men in the southern army died of disease.

Nor have modern sanitary methods changed these proportions, apparently. In the South African war the English had 445,000 men engaged, as against 2,666,099 enlisted on the union side in the civil war. The British losses in the contest with the Boers aggregated 22,945 dead, very few of whom were killed in battle; disease claimed nearly all of them. In addition to those, were 75,639 soldiers sent to England as invalids, a heavy percentage of whom subsequently died from the ailments incurred in the service. In the same war the Boers with a total enlistment of 75,000 and the advantage of being acclimated, lost 3,700 from the bullets of the enemy and more than 10,000 from disease. During our short war with Spain but 306 men were killed in battle or died of wounds, while 2,604 died of disease.

And these totals do not include the tens of thousands who died months or years after peace was declared, as a direct result of disease brought on by exposure in war. Indeed, the United States pension rolls constitute the most eloquent record that could be made concerning the havoc wrought by war's diseases.

STUDY OF IRRIGATION

From the office of the experiment station, United States department of agriculture, there will soon be issued a bulletin describing methods of preparing land for irrigation and applying water to crops in different sections of the arid region of the United States. In this bulletin the methods of getting rid of sagebrush, smoothing the ground, building laterals and distributing water over fields as developed by the experience of farmers in irrigated districts are brought together and described. The tools and implements used are illustrated and the cost of the work, based upon actual examples in different states, is given. The purpose is to afford beginners a reliable guide both as to the cost of bringing wild land under cultivation and as to the methods best suited to different soils, climates and crops. The facts included in this bulletin have been gathered by the irrigation investigations of this office, acting in cooperation with the state experiment stations and the state engineers of the west.

About thirty different methods of applying water are now in use. This does not mean that there are thirty different ways of preparing land by checking, compartmenting, deep and shallow furrows, flooding, sprinkling and sub-irrigation. The bulletin gives the results of a series of tests of different methods of applying water, and the difference in loss of water by evaporation in deep and shallow furrows and in flooding. About one and one-half times as much was needed to irrigate in furrows one foot deep. A saving of one-third of the water by the adoption of a better system profits to farmers, but a large increase in the acreage which could be irrigated from canals or reservoirs.

MEXICO'S YAQUI TROUBLES

Mexico's troubles with the Yaqui Indians are of long standing and apparently interminable. Every effort made by the republic to subdue them has been unavailing so far. Peace has been secured time and again by the government through force of arms and invasion of Yaqui territory, but it has always been of short duration. The tribe has employed every resource as a means of gathering new resources for the renewal of hostilities.

The Yaquis are as implacable as the Apaches. They are superior to the latter physically and are different in their habits. They are good workers and till the soil. They assert absolute independence of the Mexican government and resent every effort made to extend its sovereignty over the rich territory they occupy. The Yaqui problem is an difficult for Mexico to solve as was the Apache problem to the United States. Mexican troops are at as much of a disadvantage in Yaqui territory as our own troops were in the Apache country when that fierce aboriginal tribe took periodically to the war path. When harassed the Yaquis flee to the mountain fastnesses, where it is impossible to dislodge them.

SHOULD REASON TOGETHER

Dynamite and deportation never helped a cause, and never will. As long as the laborer feels that the capitalist is his enemy, sworn to annihilate and crush him, just so long will there be strikes of disastrous results, and distress and penury in the land where there should be plenty. As long as the capitalist looks upon the laborer as his enemy, ready and anxious to touch the knife or the bomb to his person and the torch to his property, just so long will he fight the laborer with all his power. Heart to heart talks, and a desire shown by both of the contending factions to do right is the only solution to the problem. Dynamiting men and destroying property will never help matters to a settlement; neither will the wholesale deportation of men from any community or state by the local or military powers that be, tend to restore harmony and trust.

A NEW BOOK DEALING WITH

NEW MEXICO INDIANS.

An Army Officer Writes of His Experiences in the Vicinity of Santa Fe in the Early Days.

"Captured by the Navajos," by Captain Charles A. Curtis, U. S. A., is one of the new books.

The second year of the civil war, the author rejoined his company at Santa Fe from detached service in the army of the Potomac. The sons of Lieutenant Colonel Burton, Corporals Frank and Henry, whose mother died in the east, held honorary rank and were attached to the command. They accompanied the regiment on its campaign against the Navajo Indians in New Mexico. They encountered many phases of frontier experience. Their assiduity in aiding their officers is a feature of the youthful enthusiasm which leads to excellent situations. The capture by the Indians and the ultimate rescue are parts of the dramatic climax. Captain Curtis is said to have been engaged in Indian warfare, and writes from a full knowledge of his subject. His story is one to enlist youthful interest.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The United States is called the land of frightful accidents. The republican national convention will convene in Chicago tomorrow. It is again predicted that Port Arthur will fall with a dull thud this week.

The most exciting war news is invariably that which lacks confirmation. Don't say the world is growing worse when you are doing nothing to make it better.

Ohio will not be prominent in the national republican convention. The death of Hanna brought this about. California should retire old man Hard from the United States senate. He is too much of an old fossil to represent that great state.

Arizona day at the World's Fair has been set for September 13, at which time Governor Brodie and staff are expected to be present.

It will be of immense benefit to New Mexico if the Denver & Rio Grande acquires the Santa Fe Central road and extends its lines in this territory.

It is being rumored that Hearst will switch his entire strength to McCallan if the latter develops any strength in the convention at St. Louis.

Las Vegas has a gentlemanly team of base ball players, and they have many friends in this city. It is hoped that they will again soon visit Albuquerque.

The largest electrical pumping plant in the world is that at Utah Lake. It raises 65,000,000 gallons of water a day for irrigating the Great Salt Lake valley.

That story published that the republicans of Edgy county had disowned because Judge Freeman was not appointed to a position on the bench is absolutely false.

The fifty-four votes of Illinois added to the column of Mr. Hearst makes that gentleman a close second to Judge Parker in the matter of instructed delegates.

London physicians are beginning to lose interest in radium, and no one any longer believes in the many miraculous cures said to have been effected by the new substance.

The national irrigation congress will convene at El Paso on Nov. 15th and continue four days. New Mexico will be well represented at this great national convention.

The annual movement of cattle from the ranges of Texas and New Mexico to those of Wyoming and Montana has begun, and it is said that the volume is unusually great.

The knocking out of the eight-hour day in New York reminds one of the reply made to some one who asked why the losses worked more than eight hours a day themselves: "They would not be losses if they did not."

The trade returns for May show that the value of exports of cotton was more than three million dollars less than in May of last year. But for eleven months ended May 31, the value showed an increase of nearly $53,000,000.

Brazil proposes to reorganise her navy. According to the latest assessment list, it now consists of seven ships, all under 5,000 tons, and twelve torpedo boats of various descriptions. The new measure provides for the construction of twenty-eight war vessels.

The congressional and state elections in Oregon and the town elections in Rhode Island, which have just taken place, have a meaning which democrats as well as republicans are grasping. In both states the republicans were overwhelmingly victorious.

Fifty-four great trusts collapsed during the past twelve months without injury to the general public. The only persons who suffered were those who invested money in their stocks. If you desire to avoid injury from trusts invest your money in property that is worth face value.

In spite of the determined efforts being made in this country to restrict immigration, the transatlantic companies have inaugurated a rate war for immigrant "business" and are now bringing in tens of thousands of paupers and quasi beggars from Europe for a nominal fare of $10 a head.

The disastrous effects of sympathetic strikes have been so clearly disclosed and brought home to workmen in different parts of the country that all the union butchers affiliated with the Chicago Packing Trades council have withdrawn from that organization by a decision taken a few days ago.

Kennebec county, Me., has, since 1820, furnished ten governors, eight United States senators, ten national representatives, fourteen secretaries of state, six state treasurers, three state generals, six presidents of the state senate, eleven speakers of the house, three cabinet officials and one speaker of the national house.

How the co-operative movement has grown in Great Britain was strikingly shown at the recent meeting in Stratford of the British Co-operative congress. The congress was attended by some 1,500 delegates. There are now 1,701 distinct societies, having a membership of 2,116,127. About $185,000,000 is represented in co-operative enterprises.

There has been some loose talk about the duty of the president to interfere in Colorado for the purpose of maintaining order. The president has no authority to do anything of the kind, except upon request of the state authorities or in case of interference with the execution of United States laws, as in the case of the great railroad strike, when mails were delayed.

Socialism is the doctrine of dissatisfaction, a destructive policy that encourages envy and hatred of those who by dint of greater intelligence, industry and providence have risen above the common level. There are different degrees of socialism, ranging from altruistic socialism to anarchism, and when the votary gets onto the toboggan slide he generally goes the whole length.

The Suez canal connects the Mediterranean sea and the Red sea, and passes through the Isthmus of Suez. It was begun in 1859 and was completed in 1869. It is 160 miles long. Originally it was 150 to 200 feet wide at the bottom and its minimum depth was twenty-six feet. The English government bought the canal in 1875, and widened and deepened it, so that the minimum depth is twenty-eight feet. The engineer and promoter of the canal was Ferdinand de Lesseps, a Frenchman. Three thousand three hundred and eighty-nine vessels passed through the canal in 1890.

Secretary Cortelyou of the department of commerce and labor announces that it costs just $7.97 a year for each man, woman and child in the United States to run the government, as against $9.30 for Canada, $9.45 for the German empire, $9.54 for Sweden, $10 for Spain, $11.45 for Portugal, $11.40 for the Netherlands, $12.40 for China, $12.58 for Argentina, $14.47 for Austria-Hungary, $17.30 for Paraguay, $17.45 for Bolivia, $17.84 for France, $21.30 for the United Kingdom, $37.69 for Austria and $23.38 for New Zealand.

The fellow who blows so vociferously in public about what he knows about politics and what great reforms he is going to make is generally the fellow who does not know anything that is true and never does anything but make a holy show of himself. Editors are no exception to the rule. The man who gets excited and slops over never builds the confidence of anybody, not even of the fellows in his own party, who do things.

Governor Yates, of Illinois, since the late "unpleasantness" at the state republican convention, at which he discovered that he was not "it," has been discharging his colonial at a rapid rate. From this it may be inferred that "colonels" on the staffs of governors do not always fulfill the purposes for which they were created—namely, to bring up the returns right for their chiefs.

SKIN DISEASES
The Outcropping of Bad Blood.

While not always painful these are aggravating beyond expression. With few exceptions they are worse in spring and summer, when the system begins to thaw out and the skin is reacting and making extra efforts to throw off the poisons that have accumulated during the winter months. Then boils and pimples, rashes and eruptions of every conceivable kind make their appearance, and Eczema and Tetter—the twin terrors of skin diseases—Nettle Rash, Poison Oak and Ivy, and such other skin troubles as usually remain quiet during the cold weather, break out afresh to torment and distract by their fearful burning, itching and stinging. A course of S. S. S. now will purify and enrich the blood, reinforce and tone up the general system, and carry off the bodily impurities through the proper channels. The skin, with good blood to nourish it, remains smooth and free of all disfiguring eruptions. Send for our book on diseases of the skin, and write us if you desire medical advice or any special information. This will cost you nothing.

Indian School Notes. The government Indian school closed yesterday after one of the most successful years in its history. A little over a year ago Superintendent Allen took charge, and since that time he has been pushing the business of the school with energy and clear headed judgment.

The work in the school rooms has been very satisfactory and the children have made marked advancement in their studies. A goodly number of those who came in last fall, fresh from the reservation, can understand and speak English fairly well and the improvement in their appearance and general carriage is very marked.

The industrial work of the school has been made a prominent feature and the training in the shops and domestic departments has been well managed and carefully looked after. A great many improvements have been made in the appearance of the plant and others are being made at present.

Through the untiring efforts of Representative Roddy the school has received the largest appropriation in its history, and active operations in building and repairs will be begun soon after July 1.

The general status of the day schools in this district has been greatly improved and more has been done for the Pueblo Indians, than has ever been done in any year before. Plans for improvements in the coming year are being developed and will be carried out as soon as possible.

A new day school will be built in Canyon City for the Navajos of that vicinity. A number of our boys will go out and work during vacation and the employees will spend their vacations in various parts of the country. A goodly number will take in the World's Fair.

DECLINED APPOINTMENT.

B. B. Thayer, Formerly of Santa Fe, Will Not Go to Montana, Although Offered the Position.

The following article, which in an indirect way deals with a former valued resident and mining man of Grant county, is taken from the Los Angeles Mining Review and is thought to be sufficiently interesting to the gentlemen's friends in the southern section to bear reproduction:

"The appointment of Mr. John D. Ryan as the responsible representative and head of Amalgamated Copper affairs in Montana comes as a surprise. Mr. Ryan is a comparatively young man, only some forty years of age, but it is said that he knows more than some fellows who have four score, and more, to their credit.

It was Mr. Thayer who made possible the appointment of Mr. Ryan. Mr. Thayer went to Montana, looked the field over, but didn't like the looks of it. He says that there were things to be done, for the doing of which he doubted his capacity—like-wise his inclination. He started for New York, told Mr. Rogers that he did not believe himself qualified to fill the Montana bill, and Mr. Rogers, without losing any respect for him, believed him—and Mr. Ryan was the result."

SMUGG

A POLITICAL CENTER

Chicago, Ill., June 20.—The stream of incoming delegations to the republican national convention set in with the early hours this morning, and through the entire day train after train unloaded its quota of badged and buttoned enthusiasts. At the various down town hotels headquarters have been opened for the delegations from nearly all of the states. A few of the delegations have been delayed, but all are expected to be on hand by this evening.

This morning inaugurated the serious work of the convention, and witnessed the beginning of the real excitement attending an event of such magnitude and importance. Delegations and clubs are parading the streets, and visitors are pouring in by thousands. All the clubs and hotels and most of the business houses in the central section of the city are gaily decorated in honor of the occasion, and when night falls Chicago will be a blaze of electric light. Thousands of electric lights have been fastened along State street from Madison to Van Buren street and tonight it will be the most brilliantly illuminated spot in the city.

As the visiting clubs arrived at the various railroad stations today they were met by committees of the Cook County Republican club, the Hamilton club and other republican organizations of Chicago, and escorted to their headquarters, all of which had been selected in advance. Conspicuous among the visiting clubs are the famous Tippecanoe club of Cleveland, the Commercial club of Indianapolis, the American club of Pittsburg, and equally well known political organizations from Denver, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Philadelphia, and other cities. An army of newspaper correspondents is being cared for by the Press club, of Chicago.

Arrangements for Convention.

Chicago, Ill., June 20.—So far as the arrangements of the convention hall are concerned everything is in readiness for the fall of the gavel that will call to order the thirteenth national convention of the republican party. Inside and out the Coliseum is bright with flags and bunting, flags of immense proportions flying from all the towers and minarets that adorn the Wabash avenue facade of the structure. The platform for the speakers and officers of the convention is at the east end of the hall and directly faces the main entrance. A broad aisle leads the way from the structure to the platform. In a semi-circle at the base of the platform desks have been provided for members of the press. The platform for the newspaper men is about three feet above the level of the delegate floor, and the platform for speakers is four feet above this. Provisions have been made for seating members of the national committee on a platform provided for the presiding officer and secretaries. At the rear of this, at an elevation of three feet, is still another platform, which will be reserved for the accommodation of distinguished guests. Delegates themselves will be accommodated with chairs on the floor of the hall arranged in the shape of a fan so that all delegates will face the presiding officer. The places to be occupied by the delegations from the several states and territories, including Porto Rico and Hawaii, are designated by standards. The seats have been arranged in such a manner as to make access and egress easy, and the exits are sufficiently numerous to prevent any discomfort of those who have business before the convention.

A Roosevelt Convention.

Chicago, Ill., June 20.—The republican national convention which assembles in Chicago tomorrow may be truthfully termed a "Roosevelt convention." It is doubtful if a dissenting vote may be cast against the nomination of the president. The selection of the candidate for vice president will afford the only contest in the convention and even this is not expected to be a very spirited proceeding. Several sections of the country have put forth favorite sons for the honor, but it is pretty well understood that the middle west will furnish the man.

The convention will consist of 958 delegates. Of this number 798 are under instructions to vote for the president, and of the remaining 258 a large number are tacitly instructed. A remarkable fact is that not a single delegate is under instructions to vote for any other candidate.

The states and territories which have solid delegations under instructions to vote for the president are: Alabama, 23; Alaska, 4; Arizona, 6; Colorado, 10; Delaware, 6; Florida, 19; Hawaii, 6; Idaho, 6; Indian Territory, 6; Iowa, 26; Maine, 12; Maryland, 16; Mississippi, 20; Montana, 6; Nevada, 6; New Mexico, 6; North Dakota, 8; Oklahoma, 6; Oregon, 8; South Dakota, 8; South Carolina, 18; Utah, 6; Vermont, 8; Washington, 10; and Wyoming, 6.

Of the states and territories which have partly instructed delegations are: Arkansas, with 18 delegates, has 8 uninstructed; California instructed 4 of its 20, 8 of the 14 delegates from Connecticut are instructed. Only 2 of the 26 delegates of Georgia are instructed. Illinois has 25 delegates, and 26 of these are instructed. All but 2 of the 30 delegates from Indiana are instructed. Kansas, with 20, and Kentucky, with 26, have only 2 each that are not instructed. Ten of the 18 delegates from Louisiana are instructed, and only 12 of the 43 delegates from Massachusetts are instructed, but the other 20 are voted for as friendly. Michigan sends 18 of the 28 delegates under instructions, and of the total delegation of 22 from Minnesota 20 are instructed. Twenty-eight delegates from Missouri are instructed, and this state is entitled to 26.

Fourteen out of 16 are instructed in Nebraska, and 4 out of 8 in New Hampshire. New Jersey did not instruct at all, but endorsed Mr. Roosevelt for nomination. Of the 78 delegates from New York 54 are instructed to vote for the president, and 24 were elected without instructions. North Carolina instructed 10 out of 24, Ohio 26 out of 40 and Pennsylvania 24 out of 65.

All of these states, however, endorsed the president. So did also Rhode Island, which neglected to instruct its 8 delegates. Tennessee instructed 20 of its 24, Texas instructed 22 of its 26 and Virginia 18 of its 24. Only 2 delegates of the 14 from West Virginia would be free to vote for any other candidate, and of the 26 delegates of Wisconsin 12 are instructed.

Unlucky Number.

Washington, June 20.—The republican convention at Chicago this week is the thirteenth national convention held by the party, but the leaders are not inclined to be superstitious because of the unlucky number.

The republican party held its first convention in 1856. It met first at Pittsburgh, but adjourned to Philadelphia on June 17, where Fremont and Dayton were chosen on the first ballot. The republican convention of 1880 met at Chicago and on the third ballot nominated Lincoln over Sewar, his chief competitor, and Cameron, Chase and Bates, the favorite sons of their respective states. Hannibal Hamlin of Maine was named for vice president over Cassius M. Clay, who died only last year at his home in Kentucky. In 1884 the republicans met at Baltimore and nominated Lincoln and Johnson. Lincoln received all the votes of the convention except Missouri, which voted for General Grant.

The republican national conventions since the war have all been held in the middle west, except the convention of 1872, which met in Philadelphia and re-nominated President Grant, and the convention four years ago which met in the same city and re-nominated McKinley for president and named Theodore Roosevelt for vice president.

Hayes was nominated at Cincinnati in June, 1876, on the seventh ballot, over Blaine, the leading candidate, and a field of "favorite sons," comprising Conkling of New York, Hartranft of Pennsylvania, Jewell of Connecticut, John Sherman of Ohio, Benjamin H. Brewster of Kentucky, and ex-Governor Morton of Indiana.

The republican convention of 1880 met in Chicago, and was the most interesting one that ever assembled in the country. The contest for the nomination between Grant and Blaine, with John Sherman a formidable third in the race, was a most bitter one. General Garfield was nominated on the thirty-fifth ballot.

Blaine and Logan were nominated at Chicago in the republican convention which met June 3, 1884. Harrison was nominated at Chicago in 1888, and re-nominated at Minneapolis in 1892. The convention which named William McKinley for the first time met in St. Louis in 1896 and the convention which re-nominated him was held at Philadelphia four years later.

The convention system of nominating candidates seems to have originated in Pennsylvania, where it was used as early as 1788 in selecting state officers, and later in the choice of candidates for congress. Baltimore was the favorite city for the convention in the antebellum period, no less than nine national conventions having assembled in the city in less than thirty years. During the same period only one convention was held west of the Alleghenies, that in 1856, at Cincinnati, which nominated James Buchanan. During the whole time since national conventions came into style only one met within the area of the Confederate states, and that was the democratic convention of 1860, which first met at Charleston, S. C., but adjourned to Baltimore before its deliberations were concluded.

The Republican Platform.

Chicago, Ill., June 20.—Heldom if ever before in the history of the republican party, has it been possible to make so accurate a forecast of the platform in advance of the assembling of the national convention as in the case this year. A draft of the platform was completed weeks ago, after a series of White House conferences among the party leaders, and if any changes are made by the committee on resolutions, they will be of the most minor character.

After the usual expressions of confidence in the eternal principles of the republican party, the platform will specifically commend Theodore Roosevelt, the man, for his faithful adherence to the policies of McKinley, to his fearless charge of the duties of his high office, for the important part he played in the crisis of the anthracite coal strike, and for representing the highest ideals of American manhood.

The platform will then review the foreign relations of the United States under President Roosevelt's administration, asserting that no function of his office renders an unfair and unsafe president; more leave to involve the nation in grave and inextricable complications than the administration of its foreign affairs. Among the achievements of Theodore Roosevelt's administration will be enumerated the accomplishment of Cuban reciprocity and the ratification of the treaty with Cuba which incorporates the Platt amendment. The wise and conservative course of the administration in the Venezuelan affair, which resulted in the most signal triumph for arbitration and in the protection of Venezuela's American creditors, will be so exhibited as to throw into strong contrast the Venezuelan message of President Cleveland.

The settlement of the Alaskan boundary dispute, another triumph for American diplomacy and for arbitration, accomplished by peaceful means, under critical circumstances will be made the basis for further approval of Mr. Roosevelt's administration. The skillful and far-seeing diplomacy which effected the negotiation and ratification of the treaty with China, whereby the United States in the face of subtle but powerful opposition, acquired treaty rights in Manchuria, will be cited in substantiation of the assertion that Theodore Roosevelt is an exceptionally conservative and wise executive.

The administration and congress will be warmly commended for the acquisition of the Panama canal, the completion of which must accrue so largely to the advantage of the United States and to the world at large.

The president will be praised for his successful enforcement of the Sherman Anti-Trust law, which was enacted by a republican congress and first applied by a republican president. Special attention will be given to the phraseology of this plan of the platform. It will say in effect that it is not the policy or intention of the republican party to assault legitimate industry and business or to infringe on the rights of persons or property, but to attack only those whose monopolies which are in the nature of a conspiracy against commerce.

Grateful comment on the extraordinary prosperity of the nation will be followed by a brief contrast of existing conditions with those of 1893 and by the assertion that the monetary system of the nation is now on such a stable and satisfactory basis that men look back with wonder and amazement when they recall the wild vagaries and still wilder democratic theories of 1896.

The section of the platform which deals with protection will be almost a replica of the Massachusetts plan. It will read substantially as follows:

"Protection, which guards and develops our industries, is a cardinal principle of the republican party. We insist upon the maintenance of this principle, but we recognize that particular tariff schedules are neither sacred nor immutable. Rates of duty may be altered when changed conditions demand their alteration, but no revision should be undertaken unless it is clear that the benefit will more than compensate for the disturbance of business which inevitably attends a revision of the tariff schedules. No such revision be intrusted with safety to any other than the party of protection. To intrust it to the democratic party is again to invite the democratic disaster and panic of 1893. Other planks deal with the nation's debt to those who impeded their lives for the preservation of the republic, which will be declared to have been faithfully paid; with the responsibilities incurred by the treaty of Paris, which will be declared to have been faithfully kept, as witness the prosperity of Porto Rico and the Philippine islands; with the sacredness of the ballot, the equality of all citizens, etc.

The Candidacy of Fairbanks.

Chicago, June 20.—The furor which has been brought in the struggle and the ranks of nearly all the state delegations have been filled. With the arrival of the delayed delegations were eliminated all obstacles to holding caucuses. State headquarters were sought and the program of the day ascertained. It developed that most of the caucuses would be held in the day or night. Senator Fairbanks' continued silence regarding the vice presidency has caused some of his strongest supporters on his delegation to advise him to make the announcement today that he would be glad to have the nomination. Though most of the states will caucus today, and the convention begins tomorrow, the hotels are not crowded.

As the day advanced it became evident that the efforts to "smoke out" Fairbanks would not succeed. The senator remained silent, but though his friends reiterated his position to the effect that the vice presidency is not an office to be sought, yet cannot be declined by any man nominated for it.

"We pledge ourselves to make such changes from time to time in the tariff schedules as the changing conditions make necessary," that is the language of the proposed tariff platform as now agreed upon and it is evident that no further concession will be made to those demanding revision.

An appropriation of $400,000 was made for surveys and resurvey of public lands, and lands donated to educational and other institutions in several states, and the bill attempted to give preference to certain states mentioned therein. However, the delegate as shown on Pages 41 and 42 of the Congressional Record of March 20, 1904, had the bill amended, after considerable of a fight, on the floor of the house by inserting the words "and territories," after the word "states," so that the territory of New Mexico now comes in for every benefit under that appropriation of $400,000 in the way of having its surveys of its school and institution lands, as well as public lands, made that any state mentioned in the bill does.

"Why Does Popcorn Pop?" Explained.

Anyone careless enough to believe for a moment that the experts of the department of agriculture do not earn their salaries should satisfy himself to the contrary by reading some of the communications received at the department from correspondents all over the country. A letter recently received from an inquiring mind in rural New York, propounded the following important questions:

1. Why does popcorn pop?
  2. Why doesn't ordinary corn pop like popcorn?
  3. What is the composition of popcorn, and why does it differ from ordinary corn?
  4. Why does popcorn pop better when thoroughly dry?
- The letter was turned over to an expert of the department, who retired to the seclusion of his laboratory with an ear of popcorn, a Bunsen burner, a test tube and a worried look. About an hour later he returned in triumph and dictated the following to his stenographer in reply to the rural correspondent:

1. The popping of popcorn is due to volatilization of the oil contained in the kernel.
2. Field corn does not pop as readily as popcorn because the outer portion of the kernel is more porous, permitting the escape of the oil as it volatilizes, while in the case of popcorn a great pressure is developed in the kernel by the confined oil and the kernel is suddenly exploded and turned the wrong side out.

3. In composition popcorn differs from ordinary corn in having a larger proportion of corns element and a great per cent of oil.
4. Popcorn pops more readily when dry because when moistened the kernels are swollen, more porous and

GREAT TOBACCO EXHIBITS

SEVERAL STATES MAKE ARTISTIC DISPLAY OF THE SEDUCTIVE WEED.

St. Louis, June 21.—Tobacco plays its part at the World's Fair, the several tobacco exhibits being the most complete and comprehensive ever seen at any fair. In the center of the Tennessee exhibit is a model tobacco barn, filled with leaf tobacco hanging up to cure. Surrounding the barn are numerous glass cases filled with tobacco, the three distinctive Tennessee varieties being shown. They are the East Tennessee light, or home trade tobacco, the Middle Tennessee dark, or export types, and the West Tennessee brown. There are some cases of fine Burleys and other choice tobaccos, and a private exhibit of tobaccos for the African and West Indian trade, also a special display of Montgomery county fine tobacco.

The tobacco exhibit is surrounded with large columns veneered with tobacco and connected by ropes of twisted tobacco, decorated with large tassels of tobacco containing a tobacco plant. On every column appears the word "Tennessee," and every one is artistically decorated with tobacco in twigs, plugs and various shapes. The work was done by J. C. Kendrick, who for the past twenty years has been president of the Clarksville, Tenn., Tobacco Board of Trade.

Next to Tennessee's pretty display of tobacco is the Connecticut exhibit, consisting of a large glass case filled with Havana seed leaf, Sympter leaf and cigar fillers and wrappers.

Virginia's tobacco is guarded by Puckontas, who in a statue draped with tobacco leaves, stands upon a high pedestal of tobacco. Her scant clothing is of tobacco, her movements are of tobacco, and tobacco is found in many glasses around her. The tobacco ropes, extending the entire exhibit, connecting these three states with Kentucky whose tobacco exhibit consists of many cases of leaf tobacco, presses full of leaf, stacks of plug in boxes and models of tobacco warehouses, drying houses, presses, etc., etc., and a field of tobacco.

The entire display is both instructive and attractive and shows World's Fair visitors how the seductive weed is cultivated, cured and marketed.

Santa Fe to Buy Saloons.—It comes from good authority that the Santa Fe contemplate the purchase of the 8-9th saloon and other saloon property in the neighborhood of the Santa Fe office. These reports have become a great nuisance to the company in capacitating employees for work, and causing a great deal of trouble among men in and outside the stockade.

PRIZES FOR FIRE HORSES

BRAVE STEEDS RECOGNIZED FOR FIRST TIME IN ENGINE CONTESTS AT WORLD'S FAIR.

St. Louis, June 21.—Fire horses from every city in the country have been invited to compete for prizes in connection with the International Horse Show at the World's Fair. This is the first time that the fire horse has had a place on the prize list and the first time that the brave steed has appeared before a critical gaze of exposition judges.

In appreciation of the recognition thus given to the fire horse, the executive committee of the National Firemen's association of the United States has extended an invitation to every city council and fire department in the country to send their best horses to the World's Fair, where they can contest in both the horse show and the national fireman's tournament August 24 to 28, inclusive.

In making a class for the fire horses in the competitive contents the fire stock department of the World's Fair has done much toward enlarging the educative features of the horse breeding industry of the United States. This department will help to meet an imperious demand existing wherever the redemption of fire hazard is sought, for it will be the means of cultivating and encouraging the qualities that go to make the horse useful.

WITHOUT IRRIGATION

JAMES C. DUNN HAS RAISED THE FINEST FRUIT AND SHADE TREES IN THIS SECTION.

James C. Dunn, a fruit grower living two miles north of this town, was in Tuesday and brought with him some samples of peaches picked from trees only two years old and trees that had never been irrigated. The peaches were a good size and as fine fruit as can be raised anywhere. Mr. Dunn has cottonwood trees on his farm that are only two years old, and they are as large as the trees in this town that are four years old. The trees on his place have never been irrigated. Mr. Dunn says that notwithstanding the fact that there has been practically no rain fall for eleven months, that moisture can be found four inches from the surface any time in the sandy soil of his farm. That is the secret of its trees developing so rapidly, as this natural moisture is far superior to irrigation. He said that he was a fruit grower in California for twenty years, but this country was far superior to any he had ever been in for fruit growing.

Some trees on his farm have grown three and one-half feet in the past year. The peaches from his trees are on exhibition at the office of the Alamo-rado Improvement company.—Alamogordo Journal.

COPPER RIVETED OVERALLS
For men who toil

Territorial Topics

Kelly District All Right—Harry L. Brown writes to the Chieftain from Kelly that there is considerable life in the camp, that the mines are giving employment to about 150 men, that the Kelly is working two shifts a day seven days a week, and that the Graphic is shipping about 1,000 tons of ore a month.

Fine Specimen Donated—Captain C. R. Gill, manager of the Stevenson-McConnell mine at Organ, New Mexico, has donated a fine specimen of wolfeite to the School of Mines cabinet. Such donations are always greatly appreciated by all connected with the school. Captain Gill will be remembered among the benefactors of the institution.

First Court for Many Years—Judge Mills and Court Stenographer Gortner returned to Las Vegas from Tucuman where they officiated in the first term of court in the new county of Quay. They came home by Dalhart and Trinidad, making close connections at the latter point by a rapid carriage drive.

Gained in Weight—C. A. Overholt, the immigration man for the Tallmadge Land company at Burlington, Iowa, left Russell for his home. He was accompanied by his son Charles who has been at Carlsbad for the past four months for the benefit of his health. The young man gained in weight and in strength wonderfully, and his father says he is now as healthy and strong as a buck.

Death in New York—Lieutenant J. D. Newton received a telegram bringing the sad intelligence of the death of Mrs. Newton, on the morning of the 15th, at her mother's home at Ithaca, New York, where she went a few weeks ago on a visit. Mrs. Newton had made hosts of friends during her stay here who mourn her death. Mr. Newton started to Ithaca on the first train. To him it is a sad journey. He goes with the sympathy of many friends in his sad affliction.—Tulare Democrat.

He Boomed the Town—J. A. Neal, representing the Albuquerque Citizen, was with us Tuesday and transacted a good deal of business for this well known publication, says the San Marcial Bee. Mr. Neal is always a cheerful and painstaking reader for new subscribers and generally his success is above the average. He told our people of the progress of the new street railway system, of the amount of money subscribed for the territorial fair, and other notable features in sight and projected for the metropolis.

A Girl With Nerve—A few days ago Bentah, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carey Stewart of Alamogordo, while attempting to enter the house through a screen door brushed heavily against the portal and a large silver nail nearly an inch in length penetrated her hip and broke off. The splinter was firmly imbedded beneath the skin and was not noticed until this morning, when the injury became so inflamed that a physician was consulted. It was found necessary to make an incision nearly half an inch in length, and a quarter of an inch in depth. Dr. Gilbert performed the operation, and though it was necessarily extremely painful, the brave little girl did not utter a whimper.

Carlsbad Springs Company Organized—The company which is promoting the development of the Carlsbad springs held an enthusiastic meeting last Monday evening and organized preparatory to the incorporation and extension of the company, says the Carlsbad Argus. The following officers were chosen:

President—Dr. F. F. Deopp.
Vice President—J. B. Crozier.
Secretary—C. R. Bruce.
Treasurer—W. H. Hull.
General Manager—J. H. Pardue.

As soon as organization is complete the plans of the company will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible. Work is already in progress at the site.

Alameda Tract Sold—The valuable residence and orchard property known as the Alameda tract situated one mile north of Las Cruces, has just been sold by W. E. Baker of that town to Miss Emily A. Bowyer, who in turn has sold it to Dr. R. E. McBride, who will conduct it for sanitarium purposes. The Alameda is a well-known health resort, having been conducted as such for ten years.

Hagerman at St. Louis—Herbert J. Hagerman of Roswell, member of New Mexico board of managers of the Louisiana Purchase exposition, is in St. Louis on a visit to the fair. He writes that the New Mexico exhibits are very creditable and show up well indeed. He is agreeably astonished at their variety and extent. They are attracting much favorable attention.

Crazy on Religion—Antonio Lamm, who has recently returned to Alamogordo from St. Louis, was examined by a number of physicians who made a report to the officials as to his mental condition. They decided that Lamm was perfectly sane on all subjects with the exception of religion, and with the proper treatment hope to cure the disease in a short while. Lamm has been a night watchman at the lumber mill, and has always proven himself perfectly reliable and trustworthy in every way, and his unfortunate monomania has been a source of the deepest concern to his many friends here and elsewhere. Upon every matter with the sole exception of religion he is as rational as a man could be, but let this subject be mentioned and he talks and argues in the most remarkable way.

A Pioneer Dead—Clifton M. Tomlinson, a pioneer of this county, and a long-time resident and business man of Hillsboro, died at 8 o'clock last Monday morning, says the Advocate. The direct cause of his death was pneumonia, which had caused him a great deal of trouble the past two years. The deceased was an old soldier, having served for three years in company C 192nd Illinois volunteer infantry, and was honorably discharged in July, 1865. He has a daughter and a brother living at Rock Island, and another brother in Chicago, Illinois. The funeral was held Monday evening. Mr. Thomas Murphy reading the Grand Army of the Republic services. In the death of Mr. Tomlinson the community loses a good citizen. He was, as near as we can learn, about sixty-five years of age. Before his death Mr. Tomlinson appointed Andrew Kelley and W. H. Bucher as the men to settle up his affairs. Mr. Tomlinson's death is greatly regretted by his large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Rain in the Mogollons—C. M. Marriot, proprietor of the Silver City Mogollon stage line, returned from a trip over the line, says the Independent. Mr. Marriot says a heavy rain fell in the Mogollons Tuesday and succeeded in partially extinguishing the forest fire which has been raging in that section for some time, but then when he left Wednesday morning the fire had broken out afresh in several places. A large force of men is still on the ground, fighting the flames and confining it to a limited area. A fairly good flow of water has been struck in the old Peacock workings on the Mogollon Gold and Copper company, and the concentrator at Cooney will be started again and run upon the water furnished from this property. Just how much water could be furnished from this source Mr. Marriot was not prepared to say, but those versed with conditions in that district do not think there will be a sufficient quantity to keep the concentrator running over two or three weeks.

Stole Cattle—Walter Holden, and Andy Hunt are confined in the county jail. The two young men are charged with having broken into Fred Miller's slaughter house and appropriated a number of articles. The robbery occurred some time Tuesday night after the rain. Deputy Brown and Mr. Miller took the trail at the slaughter house which led them directly to Holden's cabin on the Tierra Blanca. A search warrant was secured and the articles missing from the slaughter house were found, some inside the cabin and some hidden in the rocks outside. A mule belonging to Francisco Chavez was found hitched to a tree near the cabin. The boys disclaimed any knowledge of ownership of the animal. In their search Miller and Brown found four young calves confined in a cellar. Some time next week the young men will have an opportunity to explain their case before Justice Lockwood at Lake Valley.

Alamogordo Teachers—The Alamogordo school board held a called meeting one evening last week and agreed upon the following: Miss Willard Parkes, room 1; Miss Daisy Howman, Amarilla, Texas, room 2; Miss Blanche Bailey, room 3; Miss Moss, Sweetwater, Texas, room 4; and Miss Olive Raper, room 5.

The Misses Parkes, Bailey and Raper taught in the school last year and are recognized as successful teachers. Misses Moss and Howman are highly recommended.

Death of Pioneer Mining Man—Word was received in Silver City of the death of Captain S. B. Robinson at Detroit, Michigan, says the Enterprise. Captain Robinson, who was eighty years old, was a pioneer mining man of Grant county, and was well known throughout the west. He was associated with the late William Stevens, who died about a year ago, and the late Levi Z. Leiter, in mining enterprises in Leadville, Colorado, in Nevada and other states and territories in the early days. He is remembered here by many of the old-time mining men as being associated with the Mimbres Mining company, operating in Georgetown in 1881-2. While in Georgetown he ran for county commissioner on the republican ticket, being defeated by William Vaughn. He was also well known in the copper country of upper Michigan.

Held for Murder—Billy Hart, well known at Lordsburg and at Clifton, has been indicted by the grand jury in Cochise county for murder, and held under $3,000 bail to await trial, says the Liberal. Hart went with Constable Graham, at Douglas, to a saloon to arrest a man named The Smith, who had, Graham said, killed Deputy Sheriff Vaughn, and shot Graham. In making the arrest the officers took no chances, and killed the man they wanted. Afterward there was considerable doubt regarding the identity of the man killed, and it was generally considered they got the wrong man.

Big Army Coming—One of the largest shipments of Uncle Sam's biscuits that has passed

A great many of those who gathered to pay the last mark of respect and to tender the last token of affection, were unable to gain entrance to the house. A large concourse accompanied the funeral cortege to the last resting place in the Masonic cemetery.

At the grave the members of the Eastern Star order had charge of the services which were conducted under the leadership of Past Grand Matron Mrs. Boomer. About ten miles of the road from the Dalton divide to the Pecos river have been surveyed and permanent locations of the line have been made by Engineer John A. Gwin under the supervision of Superintendent H. O. Burman. The work is progressing very satisfactorily from this end.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

A Famous and Sensible Prayer.
When you get up in the morning with a bad taste in your mind, try the effect of this pretty little prayer, by Louis Stevenson: "The day returns and brings us the pretty round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the man, help us to perform them with laughter and kind faces, let cheerfulness abound with industry. Give us to go blithely on our business all this day, bring us to our resting beds weary and content and undisturbed, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep."

The success which has met the efforts of Rev. J. G. Harshaw, in securing money for the erection of the Methodist church, is a source of pleasure to a lot of people besides those interested in the church. It goes as a good proof of what any man can do if he tries.

Rev. J. G. Harshaw, of the Methodist church, performed the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Alice G. Ashelmann and Mr. Harry M. Derr, both of this city. The groom is a veteran of the Spanish-American war, and at present is in the employ of Reginald Platt.

WON ANOTHER VICTORY.

B. A. C. Defeated Raton Sunday by a Score of 13 to 10.

The B. A. C. had team went to Raton Sunday and took the twelfthers down the line to the score of 13 to 10, in a rattling good game played before several hundred people. A good sized delegation from Trinidad was present. Matney pitched the whole game for Trinidad, and proved a mystery to the Raton batsmen. The score card gave them but one earned run. Ferraro also distinguished himself behind the bat. Panning and Leeson were the battery for Raton, but Panning was treated to some hard hitting. In the fifth, Owens drove out a ground ball for three bases, and in the seventh, Floyd, who played 2nd base for the B. A. C., pounded out a long drive that should have been a home run. Floyd, however, was short of wind and was done up on reaching third. One man came in on the hit.

Raton was greatly chagrined by the defeat of her crack ball team, and will send it over here for another game next Sunday.—Trinidad Chronicle News.

Eating at Night.

Every living bird and beast strives its utmost to cram itself with food before retiring for the night, and this food is digested as the night progresses. The evening feed is the feed of the day with the brute creation, and yet doctors tell us to refrain from eating heartily at night, and even advise us to retire to rest with a more or less empty stomach. Babies do the same thing, and even eat during the night. Adult men and women alone make an exception to the rule. Why?

Railroad Topics

The Order of Railway Trainmen is arranging for a picnic at Chocoma, the latter part of this month.

Fireman J. O. Hill has resigned from the service of the Santa Fe, and will leave shortly for the east.

H. B. Aspinwall of the local shops, who left some time ago for Troy, Michigan, is expected here in a few days.

Mrs. J. W. McCaskill and daughter, Miss Jessie, of 204 Highland avenue, left last night for Childress, Texas, where they will join Mr. McCaskill. Mr. McCaskill is a machinist by trade and was formerly employed at the local shops.

News reaches here to the effect that the Santa Fe machinists at Chocoma, Kan., have finally been drawn into the strike on that line and that the company is now arranging to fill their places with non-union men. Chocoma was the last place to be called out.

There is a movement on foot to consolidate the two existing railway surgeons associations. The movement is to combine the International Association of Railway Surgeons and the American Association of Railway Surgeons into one large order known as the American Association of Railway Surgeons.

John C. Sears, who for the past sixteen years has been employed in the Santa Fe railway depot in Santa Fe and of late years has acted as cashier, left for Raton, where he will go on duty in a similar capacity. It is not yet definitely known if this change of station will be permanent.

C. R. Robinson of Denver, who has lately been with the Colorado & Southern, arrived last evening to assume his duties as cashier at the Santa Fe railway depot today. Mr. Robinson is not a new comer to New Mexico. He was a resident several years ago at Las Vegas, being then engaged in raising cattle in San Miguel county.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

EARNINGS ARE BETTER.

Rock Island Business for April is Looking Up.

Chicago, June 29.—President Winchell of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway has been in New York on business and said:

"Rock Island is doing about the same as other lines in the same territory. There is a slight recovery in business at large and earnings are running better than in April. So far as Rock Island is concerned I think we have turned the corner, April being the last bad month."

After August 1 next the Rock Island will install the block system of running trains over its entire system, including the Texas branches. This system is embraced in the new book of rules that become effective at that date. This system will prevent any train from passing any telegraph station until the engineer first ascertains if there are any orders at the office of a signal placed at some distance from the station but controlled from the station. Every engineer must give a whistle answer to the signal that is given.

GOING TO THE COAST

The Rock Island system is going to the coast. This road, which it was thought thirty years ago, was only built to give a town in Illinois on the Mississippi river a reputation, and a doubtful one at that, has now become one of our greatest empire builders.

The building of the Panama canal has no terrors for transcontinental lines, as every line which is pointed westward, is a "back" outlet, a simple engineering feat which would appall the engineers who built our first main-line roads.

Seventeen years ago this company surveyed across Colorado and the new line will follow the old survey. The road is now into Colorado Springs. Starting from there the survey will run east of the Greenhorn range of mountains to a point ten miles west of Walsenburg, where it turns toward the Sangre de Cristo range which it will tunnel, thence in a southwesterly direction, passing near Alamosa and turning into New Mexico near Juerga.

The line in Colorado will open up the Huerfano county mines and others between there and the New Mexico line. The company built a line from Tucuman to Dawson, N. M., 132 miles in length for the express purpose of utilizing the Dawson coal field. This line will be extended from Dawson north to connect at a point between La Jeta and Alamosa. This will give Denver an almost direct line to El Paso and the City of Mexico.

In New Mexico the new lines will cross the San Juan valley, touching Farmington. Here are vast coaling coal beds. Passing south the line crosses the Atlantic & Pacific at Thoreau, N. M., where a connection will be made with the American Lumber company's road, which owns Cottonwood canyon, the only practical route to get down into the New Mexico Arizona mesa.

Running south, southwest it crosses into Arizona about seventy-two miles south of the Atlantic Pacific and then runs west for two hundred miles over the plateau which is covered with a dense forest of pine, which is a government timber reserve. Prescott, Arizona, will be touched, and then the desert.

San Diego will probably be the Pacific terminus. George Gould's agents when trying to secure more land in San Diego found a very desirable plot which was not for sale. That water front belongs to the Rock Island system. It consists of half a mile of wharfage room and 250 acres of land which Gould would pave with golden socks to secure.

That this contemplated line will open up a vast area of arable land goes without saying. It is true that the Rock Island has secured the Phelps Dodge roads in southern Arizona, New Mexico and Mexico. It will dominate. It would be an easy matter to build down the San Francisco to connect with the El Paso & Southern. With coke selling at the copper smelters at $30 a ton it is easily computed what an enormous profit would accrue to the company by moving coke and coal from northern New Mexico and southern Colorado to the mines about Clifton, Elbow and the Canaback.

At present fuel is scarce, a great deal of it being pine wood brought down from the mountains on burros. There is an almost inexhaustible supply of heavy pine timber in western New Mexico which this line could put on the market with at least 200 miles shorter haul than any other line. The cattle country would be cut in two, thus saving ranchers a drive of something like 100 miles. One advantage which makes this survey an advisable is the presence of coal and water. From Prescott northwest water will be stored, but on the eastern end it is plentiful. The coal from Dawson will supply the road until it makes a profitable eastern haul. Officials in Chicago have been gathering statistics for more than two years, and have everything figured down to a nicety.

The road and equipment will not average more than $10,000 a mile. The line will be in the neighborhood of 1,150 miles long from Colorado Springs to San Diego with branches.—Denver Post.

INCREASE SANTA FE VALUATION

Oklahoma Railway Assessors Make a Raise of $400 Per Mile.

The board of railway assessors of Oklahoma has almost finished its work of fixing the taxable valuation of railway properties in the territory. It is known that the valuation of the main line of the Santa Fe has been raised from $5,200 to $5,600, an increase of $400 a mile over last year. It is believed that the valuation of main line railroads of other railways has been raised proportionately. It is not known definitely whether these figures will be final. Returns from different counties show that the valuations are generally lower than ever before. The aggregate of all the counties, however, will be greater than last year.

Telegraph Operator Commits Suicide—Because he had failed to appreciate his mother's love and affection for him until it was too late, G. J. Knopp, a telegraph operator, blew out his brains in a room in the New Commercial hotel Tuesday afternoon at about 8 o'clock.

Although he fired two shots into his head, the first of which resulted only in a scalp wound, no one heard the reports of the pistol and the tragedy was discovered through the life blood of the suicide dripping through the ceiling of the room that Knopp occupied, into the dining room below. Horrified at the sight of human blood dripping from the ceiling, the proprietor of the hotel hastened to the room above and opening the door, was confronted with the dead body of Knopp lying on the floor, two bullet wounds in his head and his brains seeping all over the room. A bloody weapon clamped in the dead man's hand and two carefully addressed envelopes lying on the table told the story of another suicide.—El Paso Herald.

A Fast Run Across Continent—The second shipment of deep sea cable now being laid by the government, between Valdes and Nome, has just been shipped in a special train of thirty-one cars, over the Lackawanna railroad. This shipment consists of two hundred tons and is part of an order for thirteen hundred miles of submarine cable.

Some time since, the Lackawanna handled a consignment of this cable and the actual running time of the train from Hoboken to the Pacific coast was fourteen days. This was considered remarkable, inasmuch as adverse weather and a delay of several days for repairs had to be taken into account. The prompt delivery greatly pleased the government officials directing the laying of the cable.

W. L. Ketchum, rate clerk in the general offices of the El Paso & Northern, has accepted a similar position with the Rock Island at Chicago. His many friends here regret to see him leave, but prophesy that a few weeks will see him back in El Paso. However, he should be able to avoid the dangers of a great city if the pitiful warning served on him yesterday by his friends in the office fulfills its mission.—El Paso News.

It is only seventy-four years on the Fourth of July since work was started on the construction of the first American's great road; it is only fifty-one years since the waters of the west at Lake Erie were first reached by through rail from the Atlantic coast, and so recently as the surrender of Appomattox there were only 32,000 miles of main track in the whole, as compared with 200,000 miles now.

Plans to Intersect Santa Fe—Chief Engineer McCarthy of the Weatherford, Oklahoma & Southern says the line has been located from Weatherford to Woodward, and that construction work will commence in six

TALKING UP THE FAIR.

McCanna Doing Good Work for Territorial Exposition.

From the Las Vegas Optic.

Peter J. McCanna, the affable and widely popular secretary of Albuquerque's Commercial club, was one of the unfortunates who propped their eyes open during an all night vigil at Baton last night waiting for the trains that were so long in coming. He stayed over here, not to recover from the effects but to confer with A. H. Whitmore, regarding insurance matters and to see the famous new driving park and fair grounds of which he had heard so much about. Mr. McCanna is on his way back from a visit in Colorado. He was astonished to hear so much talk of the new Las Vegas race track. He says nearly all the horsemen he talked with, said they intended to send horses here for the fall races. Mr. McCanna believes that the Albuquerque and Las Vegas track events will be mutually helpful. This city can secure all the horses that Albuquerque gets for the fair for the October races.

Speaking about the fair this fall, Mr. McCanna said it would be bigger and more successful than ever. Already eight thousand dollars had been raised to pay for the attractions. The attractions would be more numerous and everything would be carried out on a grander scale than ever. Mr. McCanna will go to the park on an inspecting tour in the morning.

A Deplorable Accident.
One of the most deplorable accidents which we have been called upon to chronicle for some time past happened last Tuesday afternoon at the ranch of Joe Bertinetti, three miles west of town. Rosina, Mr. Bertinetti's little twelve year old girl was sent to the well, which is an old fashioned affair with only a windlass and rope to operate it, for the purpose of drawing a bucket of water. The handle of the windlass either hit her or her dress became entangled in the rope in some manner and she was precipitated to the bottom of the well which has only about three feet of water in it and is 125 feet deep. A little sister of the child at once gave the alarm and she was immediately rescued. She evidently must have hit on her head and face when she fell for her mouth and lower jaw was terribly disfigured and she was unable to breathe freely. Death put an end to her sufferings a little later in the evening, although everything that could be done for the unfortunate little one.—Gallup Republican.

HAS RETURNED HOME

HON. O. N. MARRON ATTENDED NATIONAL KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS MEETING AT LOUISVILLE.

O. N. Marron who represented New Mexico as a delegate to the national meeting of the Knights of Columbus at Louisville, Ky., returned to the city last night, and he speaks glowing of the treatment accorded him and visiting Knights in the metropolis of the commonwealth of Kentucky. He left the proceedings of the Council at one time, and visited the Kentucky state democratic convention then in session just to see how the Bourbonism of that state conducted a convention. He was satisfied with his visit, for it was lively all through, and he witnessed the complete victory of Governor Beekham over the combined opposition of Senators Blackburn and McCrory and nearly all the congressmen. While absent from the city he visited relatives and friends in New York, and on route home he stopped over at Chicago and met the New Mexico delegation there in attendance at the national republican convention.

The Reform School.

Papp & Rapp, the architects of Las Vegas and Trinidad have completed plans for the new reform school at El Rito. The buildings, twelve in all, will cost about $150,000. There will be separate main buildings for girls and boys, each capable of accommodating 125. School buildings, officers' quarters, gymnasium, will complete the group. The grounds will comprise a square 900 feet long. The buildings will be of the Spanish type and done in Portland cement.

CUPID'S HUNT.

Hunt, Dan Cupid, spy around! Search the woods from bound to bound.
Seek my love, ere straying far, She is snatched to make a star.
Set the fly-bells ringing.
Send the butterflies a-winging.
Leave your torch; the darkest places She'll illumine with his graces.
Where the hawthorn foam to whiteness,
She has passed and scattered brightness.

How to know her when you meet her? Philomel has voice no sweeter; You will know her by her smiling, By her absolute beguiling.
By the speech with which she melts you,
By the quips with which she pelts you,
By the breath more sweet than piny, By the two lips soft and rosy,
By the eyes amazing tender,
By the waist and ankles slender;
And to name no other feature,
By the best in every creature.

If you find her, swift assign her, In the name of love detain her; Stay not! or she'll take your arrows; Mourn her car and drive your sparrows;
If her sugared words you drink, boy Cupid, you shall be her link boy; Bring her, then, with all her blazes, To the prison of my bliss.

—Henry Hardy Hay.

THE HAAS BROTHERS

Three of Them Have Fallen in Love With Jane Segur.

ROMANCES STAINED WITH BLOOD

Jane Segur, or Haas, the latter being the name she has borne for many years, has had two romances, both stained with blood, and her third may be bloodless—if the prospective bride and groom got away in time. Jane Segur is to marry the third of the Haas brothers. She had previously married the other two, but death intervened and she became twice a widow. The third Haas seems to have no fear, but all the good shots in Montezuma county are not dead yet and there is no telling what may happen. Twice married and widowed, Mrs. Haas is soon to become a bride for the third time, and is willing to run all risks.

Thirty years ago William Haas was a prosperous young merchant at Mount Gilboa, O., but the balm in that Gilead was not sufficient to satisfy the yearnings of his soul for greater wealth, so he removed his goods and other belongings to Cortez, Neb., and set up a trading house.

The belle of Cortez when Haas first made his appearance was Jane Segur, and she was as pretty as a maiden daisy.

Two brothers by the name of Segur, were particularly attentive to Jane, and they gave it out that the man who married Jane had better make his will before the marriage ceremony was performed.

Now it happened that little Jane had fallen in love with William Haas, and accepted his offer of heart and hand. When the Segurs heard of it they became more than ordinarily strenuous. They talked to Haas in an unseemly manner until his Ohio blood becoming hot he was roused to anger, and he promptly added a full charge of large shot to the weight of one of the brothers, causing death almost instantly.

When the interest in the death of Segur had died down, says the Chicago Tribune, Haas led his bride to the altar and continued business at the old stand, not caring to be away on a honeymoon trip. His business prospered, and everything went along smoothly until one night as he was going home from his store he was shot dead from ambush, the bullet fired by the unseen foe entering his heart. The finger of suspicion, as it is sometimes called, was pointed at the surviving Segur, but when he asked the men of Cortez to proclaim publicly that they thought he was the man, not one of them opened his mouth. This particular Segur was the best shot in several counties.

John Haas went to Cortez from Mount Gilboa to settle up his brother's business affairs, for the widow was too prostrated to think of anything but her sorrows, but she brightened up after John's arrival. He was not bad looking, and, being a good business man, soon straightened out all the commercial kinks. He had business to attend to in Ohio, but he lengthened his stay, at Cortez until it was too late to return. He had fallen in love with his brother's widow, and the end of it all was that he married her. He, like his brother William lived happily with Jane, who was still the most beautiful woman in Cortez, until his sudden death. Whether the Segur brother still had vengeance in his heart or not is not known, but it is said he was in town when William died.

There was still another Haas brother, named Henry, at Mount Gilboa, and it became his duty to go west and look after the interests of the widow. He was more or less reluctant, but he did not shrink his duty. He went to Cortez, but the business in proper shape, and then began to linger. He might have gone back to Ohio again, but he didn't. The widow was not so young as when she first married, but her eyes were still bright, and Henry, being unmarried, liked her. To all appearances she was not adverse to his company, and at last he ventured to suggest that it would not be a bad idea if they became man and wife. As a saving clause he remarked that it was better, perhaps, if they were wed at Mount Gilboa, and made their permanent residence there. He thought the climate of Cortez unhealthy. She agreed with him, and in a few days they will go to Mount Gilboa, get married, and reside at the old Haas homestead.

City Directory.
The new city directory of Albuquerque, just issued by the Evening Citizen, is altogether the most complete work of the kind ever printed in this city. It contains a great fund of information about the town in addition to the directory proper, which will make it of much value, especially to newcomers. Its carefully collected and very complete list of names and residences makes it a ready reference volume which our citizens will find practically indispensable, and mechanically, in typography, press work and binding, it is as good a job of the sort as can be done anywhere. It is creditable alike to the town and to the publishers.—Morning Journal.

El Paso's Convention Hall.
The committee in charge of arrangements for the irrigation congress met yesterday and virtually dropped all propositions looking to the building of a permanent convention hall and ordered plans to be drawn for a temporary hall to cost between $2,500 and $3,000.—Times.

SERVED WITH A WARRANT—WAIVED EXAMINATION AND IS BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY.
Alkan Dimas this morning swore to a complaint charging Esclavio Vigil with assault with intent to kill. A warrant was drawn up in Justice Crawford's court and served on Vigil, who was present with his attorney, W. C. Hancock, by Policeman Salazar. The service was made in the Spanish language. Attorney Hancock waived preliminary hearing and Vigil was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bonds, which was furnished. Superintendent Vigil's arrest was the result of a fight in which he and Dimas engaged in last Monday morning on Nicholas avenue and in which Dimas came out a very poor second best.

Today was the first time since the fight that Dimas has been able to leave his home since the day of the battle, and his entrance to the court room, with a wide bandage across his head holding in place over the wounds a large piece of medicated cotton, was very unsteady.

How About the Heavens?
A court of the church and saloon attendance in Paddington, a district of London, having a population of 142,000, made by agents of W. T. Stead, on a recent Sunday, showed that the saloon attendance was the greater by ten to one. Only 16,000 women attended church, while 25,000 were found in saloons.

Dr. H. S. Coeran of New Orleans arrived this morning and took quarters at the Alvarado. Dr. Coeran spent several months in Albuquerque last winter, and he liked the place so well that he came back again.

HARRY HUCK AT DEMING
HE IS STOPPING AT "THE VICTORIA" AND HIS HEALTH HAS IMPROVED.

Last April, a year ago, Harry Huck, disappeared from the Alvarado hotel, and his going was so mysterious as far as the general public was concerned that many thought that something serious had happened to him. It was known that his health was bad; that he was very nervous, almost on the verge of collapse, and that he was dependent. Putting this and that together, the opinion prevailed among those with whom he associated that he had wandered off and sooner or later his remains would be found. Such was not the case, for instead of wandering off into the mountains he accepted the advice of W. H. Grover and visited the home ranch of the Victorio Land and Cattle company in Grant county. He remained on the ranch for several months and gained strength at once. On leaving the ranch he went to Deming, and since that time he has been stopping with John Cain, proprietor of "The Victoria" hotel. Cain and wife have been exceedingly good to Mr. Huck, who came to them as a total stranger, and much credit is due them for the present improvement in the health of the young man. As previously stated in these columns, Harry Huck is the son of a Chicago millionaire, and his sister is the wife of Marshall Field, Jr., of that city.

Ready for $50,000 Handicap.
St. Louis, Mo., June 24.—Everything is so ready for the World's Fair handicap to be run at the fair grounds tomorrow. Though Herald, The Picket and other horses that have been most prominent on the eastern tracks this spring will not take part, the entry list includes a sufficient number of famous winners to insure one of the greatest races of the American turf year. The race will be at a distance of a mile and a quarter and the owners of the winner will be enriched to the extent of $50,000. The keen interest manifested in the race is evidenced by the arrival of parties of horsemen and other followers of the turf from New York, Chicago, Kansas City, Memphis, Louisville and numerous other points.

Eagles Moving to Elks' Hall.
At a meeting of Albuquerque Elks No. 165, Fraternal Order of Eagles, held at Knights of Pythias hall on last evening Henry Westerfield, the well known cigar manufacturer, was initiated into the Elks' lodge, received his wings and says he got "his money's worth." There were also a large number of applications passed upon and at the next meeting of the lodge, which will be held at the Elks' hall on Thursday, July 14th, there will be a large number of initiations and a house-warming in honor of the change of quarters.

After the business meeting last night there was a lunch and a very pleasant evening was passed by the jolly "birds."

There will be a special meeting of Adah Chapter, No. 5, O. E. S., Friday, June 24, at 8 o'clock for initiation. All members are requested to be present. Visiting members cordially invited.

TERRITORIAL FAIR.

Citizens of Albuquerque Have Raised $7,500 to Make This Year's Exhibition the Largest Ever Held in the Southwest.

P. F. McCanna, for many years secretary of the New Mexico Fair association, spent last Friday in our town and gave this once a pleasant talk. As usual Pete is enthusiastic about the fair and when the matter was mentioned, talked freely in regard to the elaborate preparation which is being made by the association and the citizens of the Duke City for the great event of the year is New Mexico.

He stated that $7,500 had been subscribed for the purpose and that the prizes would be larger and more numerous than in former years. One of the features which he mentioned was that a large prize would be offered for a strictly local horse ball contest now but New Mexico players being allowed to compete. This should interest the Deming Yellow Kids as we are satisfied they could stand more than an even chance of getting this year if they begin preparation at once.

Mr. McCanna also says that the exhibits of territorial products will be very large and complete. Many of the more progressive counties are now making provision for large exhibits of mineral and agricultural products. Last year, we are sorry to say, Luna county did not have an exhibit at the fair, but we hope action will be taken at once by our citizens to have as good a show as any county in the territory this fall. If our people would raise $1,000 for this purpose they would be repaid many times in the benefit which would be received from the advertisement.—Deming Graphic.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

Catholic Church Music.—Pope Pius X, having ordered a new edition of the books containing the Gregorian music of the church to be arranged by the Benedictines, finds that owing to the differences existing even among the Benedictine orders as to the correctness of the Roman editions, it is doubtful if he can have a new publication that is authentic or satisfactory. It is said to be out of the question that the editions of Ratisbon, which for 30 years have been the text for the church, will be considered at all. The committee appointed by the pope for this work is conducting all deliberations in great secrecy, so as to prevent outside influence that might give a monopoly of profits of publication to outside parties. It is said the profits will go to the Benedictine order, and not to the Vatican.

Tract Society Work.—The Religious Tract Society, the great English organization which was the forerunner of the American society and other similar organizations, has just celebrated its anniversary in London. The English society works in co-operation, not only with other tract societies of the world, but with all missionary organizations. American included. It was brought out at the anniversary that the day of the tract is by no means ended, for of the 492 new publications of the society in the past year 165 were tracts, in addition to 37 new editions and reprints. Other figures with the same significance are the showing that the total circulation from the London depot is now 26,936,260, of which 11,543,900 were tracts. In the year just closed the society spent $110,000 for missionary purposes. A recent work of the society has been the publication of tracts in Japanese and Russian to be circulated among the soldiers of both armies in the war in the east.

Episcopal of All England.—Marked interest is felt by Episcopalians in the prospect of a visit from the archbishop of Canterbury. It will be the first time the primate of all England has ever visited the United States. The primate of England, the archbishop of York, came near coming in 1897, to attend an international convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew at Buffalo, but backed out at the last moment. Boston is planning much social hospitality for the Episcopal convention in October, so the rest of the country hear, and if an English archbishop be included in the number of guests, there hardly will be bounds to the same. The archbishop will, it is said, visit other cities and, of course, Niagara Falls during his brief sojourn. A personal friend of the late queen, he comes of Scotch Presbyterian stock, the second archbishop of Canterbury furnished in recent years by the Presbyterians. Archbishop Tait having been the other.

Largest Mission Society.—The Church Missionary society of England, the greatest such organization in the world, emerges from a dangerous position with flying colors. Last year it was $200,000 behind in receipts and critics in great numbers were firing strong language at its policy of tampering with the ritualists, and declaring they would not contribute a penny until things were mended. The society has just held its annual meeting, with receipts $250,000 larger than last year, and its debt reduced from $200,000 to $30,000. Moreover, the critics are silent. The society has no fewer than 1,362 European missionaries in various parts of the so-called heathen world, and 7,000 native law teachers. Central Africa is being rapidly civilized and through this vast agency of the established church, the English spirit of progress is showing, as it does not show in education, or even in war. In spite of the awful threat of Moslems, against those of their number who turn Christian, the society's agents baptised 2,500 persons who faced the death penalty to take the step.

Home Mission Meeting.—Six leading societies engaged in home mission effort plan to hold a meeting in St. Louis in October. These six are the Presbyterian, the Methodist Episcopal, the Congregational, the Baptist and the Reformed. These six have been invited to invite other home mission organizations. Especially it is aimed to bring together organized effort that has had to do with, and is still engaged in the religious development of the west as related to the Louisiana purchase. In Festival hall, St. Louis, on October 29 and 31, historic addresses will be given, and on Sunday, October 30, all churches in St. Louis will have been asked to take up the celebration. An appeal will also go to all churches throughout the country, asking them on that day to make some reference to western development, and the achievement of the home missionary. The chairman of the committee in charge is the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Thompson of the Presbyterian home board, and the secretary, the Rev. Dr. John B. Clark of the Congregational Home Missionary society. Other active promoters of the plan are the Rev. H. L. Marchese, Baptist, Bishop Tuttle, Episcopal, and the Rev. A. B. Leonard, Methodist Episcopal.

St. Andrew Brotherhood.—The Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the greatest organization of men in the Anglican communion, and just invited officially to send a delegation to South Africa to inaugurate the work there, is to lose its president through ill health. The brotherhood has had, in its 21 years of history, only two presidents. One was Mr. James L. Houghteling of Chicago, but four years ago he was succeeded by Mr. H. D. W. English of Pittsburgh. Mr. English is a Smoky City business man. He removed the headquarters of the brotherhood from New York to Pittsburgh, and inaugurated a new movement which has placed the brotherhood in a stronger position than ever before. The new movement consists of a list of secretaries, covering New England, the middle west, the south and the Pacific coast. Efforts made to induce those in charge of the brotherhood to undertake general church work failed, and it confines itself strictly to men, in its membership, and in personal influence and persuasion, one man upon another man, in its work. Mr. English is a young man, but has broken from overwork, and is going abroad to rest. He is ordered by his physicians, it is said, not to do any kind of work.

B. H. Briggs & Co. and S. Vann & Son ask the readers of this paper to test the value of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Those persons who have used it and who have been cured by it, do not hesitate to recommend it to their friends. Kodol digests what you eat, cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Increases strength by enabling the stomach and digestive organs to contribute to the blood all of the nutriment contained in the food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is pleasant and palatable.

SALINE LAND CASE.

Still Being Considered by United States Commissioner at Alamogordo.

United States Commissioner W. S. Shepard of Alamogordo has spent the last two days in hearing the evidence and testimony in the Saline land question between the government and the territory, says a writer to the El Paso Times. Only two witnesses are being used by the territory, Professor Herriek, a former president of the university, and Professor Tipton, who is the present incumbent of the chair of geology. The government, which is represented by Professor Macey, a chemist, geologist, surveyor and engineer, in the land office service, will during the course of the proceedings introduce some twenty odd witnesses.

P. W. Clancy of Albuquerque is representing the territory. The issue at stake is this: A few years ago congress passed an act granting to the territory of New Mexico all the saline lands within its border, the revenue from these lands to be used as an endowment for the territorial university. In accordance with this act three tracts of saline land have been selected and the land office officials are contesting the granting of the third tract on the grounds of the land in question is not saline.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets Better Than a Doctor's Prescription.

Mr. J. W. Turner, of Tular, Va., says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than anything he could get from the doctor. If any physician in this country was able to compound a medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness or constipation, his whole time would be used in preparing this one medicine. For sale by all druggists.

RICH STRIKE.

La Belle Mining District Coming to the Front.

The report reached Raton Thursday from Elizabethtown of a big gold strike in the La Belle mining district, which, if it proves to be true, will result in a big boom for that section, says the Raton Herald.

The report is that the strike was made last Saturday by John Lechinich and Louis Marchino in their mine on Hitter Creek, four or five miles from Red River City, on which they have been working for the past eight years. That in tunneling in on a five foot vein they struck a twelve inch streak of sylvanite ore of which several assays were made, the lowest running $10,000 to the ton.

Specimens of the ore were exhibited in Elizabethtown, and there is considerable excitement in that camp over the discovery.

Wm. Kerschner of Raton has property adjacent to the mine in which the strike is said to have been made. Several people of this city will leave immediately for the scene of the reported strike for the purpose of being in on the ground floor in case it proves to be half as big as it is rumored.

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coachesville, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used, as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus; it never fails. Sold by all druggists.

Boosting Territorial Fair.

P. F. McCanna, of the Territorial Fair association spent yesterday in the city on insurance business and incidentally boosting Albuquerque's big show this fall which he emphatically declares will be the best ever. While here, Mr. McCanna held a conference with Manager Fowler and local baseball fans with regard to Silver City being represented in the base ball tournament during fair week and met with much encouragement. A purse of $1,500 will be put up, to be competed for by strictly local teams.

This is Mr. McCanna's first visit to Silver City, although he has resided in the territory sixteen years and he was agreeably surprised in the size and appearance of the town. Silver City Independent.

MISCELLANEOUS are usually of a highly organized, nervous temperament, easily, unstrung by any shock or sudden excitement. Most women are of a finer organization than men, more susceptible to beautiful emotions, enjoying music, poetry and all the fine arts to a greater extent than men. Just because of this, they suffer more from anything which destroys the healthy equilibrium of the body. To be strong our body must be well balanced, the blood should flow evenly throughout the body—not congesting at any one point—or we suffer the consequences in headaches, backaches, faintness, nervous irritability, cold feet and many other derangements. If a woman suffers with severe pains at regular intervals and a great loss of vitality, everything looks blue to her—the world seems cheerless.

By way of example, take the case of Miss Olive Hessler, of Syracuse, N. Y., who is Treasurer and Critic of the Syracuse Musical Association:

"I suffered with ovarian trouble for many months until I became quite discouraged, as there was scarcely a day when I was not in pain and my health was simply a wreck. I read one of your advertisements and decided that I would try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as it seemed to have helped so many who were suffering as I did. I found relief after using two bottles, and a cure in three months—from what I considered was incurable. I am very grateful, and so pleased with my recovery. Life looks different to me now, and I shall always give the credit where it belongs—to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prostitution, or Falling of the Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

No other medicine than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription could possibly "win out" as the saying goes, on such a proposition. But they know whereof they speak. They have the most remarkable record of cures made by this world-famed remedy ever placed to the credit of any preparation especially designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments. This wonderful remedy, therefore, stands absolutely alone as the only one possessed of such unrivaled curative properties as to fully warrant its makers in publishing the remarkable offer above made in the utmost good faith.

Treatment of the nervous system and the womanly organism by alcoholic compounds has always been, in the opinion of Dr. R. V. Pierce, who is founder and chief medical director of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., a very bad practice. When he set about to find the right medicine for the treatment of woman's peculiar disease, he hit on a combination of nature's most valuable health-giving agents, a combination of roots, herbs and berries, in a solution which did not contain a particle of alcohol. It is an easy experiment for any one to test a medicine for alcohol, as a simple distilling of the liquid will prove whether alcohol is contained in it or not. Dr. Pierce does not claim for his "Favorite Prescription" that it will cure all diseases, or that it will cure men. It is a woman's medicine only, and in woman's diseases it has been found effective in thousands of cases.

Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for the "Common Sense Medical Adviser," one thousand and eight large pages, in paper covers. Is sent free on receipt of twenty-one one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only.

CATTLE CONDITIONS OF LUNA COUNTY

NO RAINS OF ANY CONSEQUENCE AS YET—CLOUDY WEATHER AND SMALL SHOWERS LOCALLY INDICATE A GOOD DOWN-POUR SOON.

As yet there has been but little, if any rain throughout this section. A few local showers are reported and in places the green grass has begun to show itself, although the heavy clouds that are daily making their appearance are good evidence that within a few days we may be blessed with a copious and general downpour, says the Deming Herald.

INHUMAN MURDER AMONG UTES

INDIANS PUT TO DEATH, WAP, AN OLD MEDICINE MAN, FORCING HIS SON TO FIRE THE SHOT.

Three Ute Indians have been arraigned in the district court of Colorado charged with the killing of an old Medicine Man of the tribe known as Wap. After taking testimony all day the case was dismissed, the court holding that it would have to be tried in the United States court, as the crime was committed by Indians against an Indian on the reservation.

There was an ancient custom among the Ute Indians, in the days when the tribes made long marches to escape from their enemies, to put to death the old braves and squaws of the tribe. However, since the tribe has grown less nomadic and since coming in contact with civilization, this old custom has been abandoned. Some of the men of the tribe, having a grudge against Wap, the Medicine Man, revived the old custom and made it an excuse for putting him to death. His son, under various threats, was made to tell where his father was in the habit of wandering, and at the appointed time and place he was made to fire a shot into the torso of the old man. The assassins then fired a volley of shots into the torso and the old brave was seen by his squaw and son to crawl out of the tent and some distance away, where he died. He was covered with wounds which were bleeding profusely.

The son was then made a prisoner and put to herding goats, but has been rescued from his bondage by Indian Trader Smith. The body of Wap, according to the custom of the Indians, was placed on a ledge of boulders on the top of the mountain. The authorities at Washington have been notified of the occurrence by Agent Smith and it is thought that they will investigate the matter at once.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished, and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are splined; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and all injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without material aid; and in one third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm sets on this same principle. It is an antiseptic, and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by all druggists.

Litigation Ended.

In the case of Mead vs. Pearson a judgment was rendered by the supreme court of the territory last January against Pearson and wife for $2,600. On Saturday, June 4th, the mine at Elizabethtown involved in the controversy was sold for $1,000 to Eben S. Mead the plaintiff. Smith Bros, who were on Pearson's bond on the appeal to the supreme court, without waiting for a lawsuit, were present in Elizabethtown at the time of the sale, and entered into an agreement with Mead to pay a certain sum

MILLION DOLLAR VERDICT.

For Services in Selling Railroad Merchandise Reverses in Suit Against Gen. Fitzgerald.

A verdict for $1,000,000, with interest for one year and eleven months, making a total of $1,109,000, was returned by a jury before Justice Spencer of the supreme court in Brooklyn, N. Y., in the suit of Morris Menges against General Louis Fitzgerald for services rendered in bringing about the sale of the Western Maryland railroad to a syndicate. George Gould and other prominent capitalists appeared as witnesses.

The case will be appealed and the judgment will be contested through all the higher courts.

Judge Spencer denied a motion for a new trial, but granted a sixty days' stay. The plaintiff alleges that he furnished information relating to the prospective purchase of the securities of another control of the Western Maryland railroad, for which Gen. Fitzgerald promised to pay him $1,000,000 when the purchase had been effected and Gen. Fitzgerald had obtained control of the railroad and its securities.

Gen. Fitzgerald in reply said the alleged agreement was not performed within one year of its making, and that it had not been properly subscribed to by the defendant or by his lawfully appointed agent.

The bell weighs 260 pounds, and will prove a very interesting object on account of its antiquity and historical relations.

The St. Joseph, Arizona, Herald says: "Mrs. J. L. Hubbel and daughter, Mrs. Forrest Parker and Barbara, Antonio Armiño and Forrest Parker arrived in town from Albuquerque, and will remain here two weeks visiting relatives and friends. From here they will go to Ganado and visit with Mr. Hubbel."

Know what it is? Eczema. If you ever had any itchingness of the skin.

You know how hard it is to shake it off.

You would like to know how to do it?

Let an Albuquerque man tell you. Read his statement that follows:

A. M. Whitcomb, nursery, corner Ninth and Tijeras sts., says: "In my estimation there is no ointment for the purpose that it is used that can equal Doan's. There was a spot below my knee which annoyed me for ten years. Unlike eczema it did not spread out, but at times it itched so exasperatingly, particularly after I went to bed or sat by the stove, that I scratched it until it smarted before relief came. I tried every salve and ointment I came across; when one did not help I bought another and slapped it on. Reading about Doan's Ointment induced me to go to the Alameda Pharmacy and buy four for a box. In a few days the itchingness ceased and the life of the part affected was killed off to the top, and it is now over six months since I stopped the use of the salve there has not a symptom of its appearance."

THE SALVATION ARMY CONGRESS

London, June 24.—It seldom falls to the lot of man to see such a bountiful harvest spring from the seed he has sown as is afforded in the case of General William Booth, and the Salvation army, the world-wide organization of which the founder is still the active head. Today five thousand of his subordinates, assembled from every part of the world, were given an official and cordial welcome in the same city where, forty years ago, his handful of humble followers were hunted and derided and even stoned by the street crowds.

The international congress of the Salvation army, for which preparations have been making for more than a year, was formally opened today in a mammoth hall on the Strand, especially erected for the occasion and capable of seating nearly twice the number of people than any other available building in the metropolis will hold. When the venerable founder of the army called the gathering to order and delivered his opening address, he faced an audience the like of which has never been seen before in any part of the world. The hall was packed with nearly ten thousand men and women, all of them clad in the familiar blue uniforms of the Salvation army. About half the number were officers and workers of the organization in Great Britain. The other half represented the foreign divisions of the army. The world-wide scope of the organization and its work is strikingly illustrated by the fact that the delegates spoke among them no less than thirty-nine different languages. The countries represented included France, China, Japan, Canada, South Africa, India, Australia, Russia, Switzerland, Germany and the United States.

By far the largest delegation from abroad was that of the United States. The delegation from that country numbered 600 men and women and was in charge of Commander Booth-Tucker. It was not only the largest delegation numerically, but was also the most picturesque and widely representative of the work of the Salvation army. To represent the different phases of the army's work on the other side of the Atlantic, the American delegation included a Chinese brigade from California, a detail of those who work among the mountains of Kentucky, a Mexican brigade, a Hawaiian brigade and a brigade of colored people from the south.

The international congress began today with a forenoon conference. For eight days' conference will take place, and General Booth will, it is arranged, deliver speeches which will average five hours' length each day. Three days will be devoted to public meetings, both in the congress hall and in all parts of the metropolis, and the congress will be brought to a grand finale by a huge gala day at the Crystal Palace.

Death of David Keleher.
David Keleher died at the asylum last night of epilepsy. He was admitted to the asylum several years ago, the victim of harmless mania, which was broken occasionally by violent epileptic fits. "Strangler" Knapp Case.

Knapp is to be given a second trial and it is now being arranged to have the trial held early in the coming fall. It will take place at Hamilton.

The crime of which Knapp was convicted was the murder of his wife, Hannah Goodard Knapp. The murder was committed at Hamilton in December, 1902. In addition to this crime Knapp confessed to having strangled three other women and girls, two in Cincinnati and one in Indianapolis. He was suspected also of the murder of several other women and girls. His defense was lunacy.

WILLIAMS' DRUG STORE RANSACKED BY BURGLARS

Burglars gained entrance to the Williams' drug company's store, 117 West Railroad avenue, last night by cutting a hole in a screen over the transom of the rear door and reaching on the inside and unbolting the doors, and carried away chewing gum, between two and three dozen pocket knives and a Colt 44 caliber, double action revolver.

The robbery was discovered this morning by a young man working at the store. A box of chewing gum, with several packages gone, was found in the rear room and on investigation the knives and revolver were discovered missing. The supposed lone burglar was without a doubt a young man and quite familiar with the store. Well dressed elms as to the thief are in the possession of the police.

FIRE AT WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS

St. Louis, June 24.—Fire which for a time threatened the Texas and many other buildings at the World's fair, today destroyed the Hoo-Hoo house, with a loss of $50,000. It is supposed to have started from the electric light wire.

The house of Hoo-Hoo was one of the first buildings finished for the exposition. It was erected by the lumbermen of the United States and rooms were constructed of different rare woods. Fearing the Texas building would be destroyed, the women of that state worked heroically to save the precious relics of early history. Sheets were taken from beds in the building and used to carry relics to places of safety. One point of the star shaped building of Texas is within 75 feet of Hoo-Hoo house and in a large first floor room, of this point the relics have been on exhibition. Nothing but the fact that the wind was not blowing towards it saved the Texas building.

HUNTINGTON RESIGNS FROM SOUTHERN PACIFIC

New York, June 24.—H. E. Huntington has tendered his resignation as vice president of the Southern Pacific railway company. So far as known no action was taken on the matter. Huntington's resignation is the second he has placed before the directors. More than a year ago he resigned because of differences between the Southern Pacific and Pacific Traction properties. This was settled and he resumed his office.

TOWN OF DEMING HAS A PROTEST

Seriously Objects to El Paso Having Any of Its Good Water.

THE POSTOFFICE SITUATION TO DATE

"Yellow Kids" Want a Game With Albuquerque
Browns Any Old Time.

DEMING'S NEW AND MODERN OPERA HOUSE

Special Correspondence.

Deming, N. M., June 23.—The capital of Luna county, in southern New Mexico, is making substantial strides in the direction of becoming in the future a great city, and The Citizen's correspondent hopes that all such anticipations may soon be fully realized.

Deming Objects.
One of the most important natural resources of Deming and surrounding vicinity is "water"—a fluid so much sought after in other sections of the territory, but here in great abundance and seemingly the supply is inexhaustible. The citizens, realizing these facts, will fight through the courts any attempt to deprive this section of its natural resource, and when the Miembres Water company becomes an institution in reality the incorporators and stockholders will find themselves confronted by a most costly and bitterly fought litigation.

In conversation with the "makers of Deming"—the merchants and other progressive citizens—unanimous opinion prevails that the above company might as well accept at once the true meaning of the saying "Forewarned is Forearmed," and discontinue any further preparations as to supplying water to El Paso to the detriment of the present water supply of Deming.

The citizens in previous issues has explained the objects and motives of the Miembres Water company and no object is gained in reproducing same, except to give out these facts that Deming does not intend to sit idly by and allow itself to be robbed of its excellent water supply.

New Play House.
In a few months Deming will have a brand new opera house, and it will have an actual seating capacity greater than the Elks' opera house of Albuquerque. It will not be so elegant as to artistic finish and appointments as the Elks' opera house, but it will answer the purposes intended, as it will be so arranged to supply the amusements cravings of the people and big companies will be invited to stop over and give Deming theatergoers some good performances; it will also be used for convention and dancing purposes, and its building supplies a "long felt want." Col. A. J. Clark, the wealthy grocery merchant, the progressive builder, while the general contractors are Housh & Leopold.

The brick work and plastering was sublet to B. Martin. Mr. Roush gives the information that the opera house will be 48 by 124 feet in the clear, and the stage 24 by 48 feet. The ceiling will be ornamental steel; there will be gents' and ladies' toilet and dressing rooms, and the scenery and drop curtains will be up-to-date in every particular. It was the intention of Housh & Leopold to have the building completed by July 4, so the hall could be informally opened by a grand and glorious ball, but completion will be delayed until August 1. Col. Clark is thinking seriously of throwing open the doors of the opera house on its completion and let everybody for miles around enjoy several hours of good solid dancing. Between $8,000 and $10,000 will be expended on the building before it will be ready for the public.

The Postmaster Situation.
The postmaster question still hangs free, and greatly to his dislike, Rodger D. Clarke still officiates at the window. Everybody in Deming has a good word to say for the present postmaster; he is a most excellent gentleman, has been postmaster since February, 1901, and there is universal belief that he will soon retire. Mr. Clarke says that the money consideration, after he pays all expenses and clerk hire, is not sufficient for him to put in the time demanded, and he finally concluded to send in his resignation. He will remain in Deming, and no doubt soon become again identified with the material growth of the city.

Judge Ed. Pennington, well known and popular townsman, now justice of the peace and town clerk, had the unanimous endorsement for the office and virtually had been appointed, but surprised his numerous friends by not accepting. Your correspondent believes that Judge Pennington would have proved a most excellent successor to the retiring postmaster. There are several candidates in the field for the office, notably Mrs. J. F. Byron and W. R. Merrill, and each has strong backing.

Old Timers.
Mr. and Mrs. D. Z. Moore, who resided in Socorro twenty odd years ago, are two fine old people of Deming, and their cheerful manner of greeting visitors has gained a reputation. They are well known to a number of Albuquerque people, to whom they send regards through The Citizen.

Will Visit Kentucky.
Dr. B. W. Swope is planning a business and pleasure trip to his old home at Henderson, Ky., in the coming October. En route he will stop at Topeka to attend a meeting of the Santa Fe Railway Hospital association; thence he will go to St. Louis and visit the World's Fair, and thence to Henderson "down on the Ohio." Of course Mrs. Swope and children will accompany him, and all will have a fine time to dulging in good old fashioned country dinners, with plenty of buttermilk and corn bread.

"The Victoria."

John Cain, with his wife and son, for many years located at Kingston where he proved a successful miner and now owns several good ore producing properties, a few years ago got interested in Deming real estate and improved a certain section of the town by erecting several pretty houses for renting purposes. They are all occupied and in consequence Mr. and Mrs. Cain took charge of "The Victoria" hotel. Like every other thing Mr. Cain has touched he is likewise making a success out of the hotel business. "The Victoria" is a two-story brick; the lower floors are occupied by the new Deming national bank, the Clark Grocery company and the American Cafe, by the way the only "white man's restaurant" in Deming. There are twenty rooms upstairs, and every one of these rooms are large and airy, and catch sunshine at some period during the day. "The Victoria" is the proper place for tourists to stop when visiting Deming, and it is hereby commended.

The Yellow Kids.

Deming boasts of one of the crack base ball teams of New Mexico, known as "Yellow Kids," and Manager A. C. Halthall says they can put up an article of ball that would do credit to professionals. They are anxious to try conclusions with the Albuquerque Browns in probably a series of three games, and a "Yellow Kid" says the Deming boys would conquer two out of the three games played. Of course this may be regarded as a little bravado on the part of the "Yellow Kids," but the fact must not be forgotten that the boys down here know how to play ball and good ball at that. Albuquerque Browns should give them an opportunity.

New City Hall.

Deming wishes something Albuquerque does not—that is, its own city hall building. In this building is kept the fighting material for fires, on the ground floor, and upstairs the town trustees hold their meetings where other town officials hold forth. It is in this building that Judge Pennington, as justice of the peace, dispenses justice and no favoritism is shown. He believes in showing the "harpoon of justice" into every violator of the law, and it is said his harpoon is pretty sharp sometimes. The city hall is a substantial two story brick, plenty large enough for many years to come.

Some Short Notes.

Deming will celebrate the Fourth of July, and there will be three days of solid fun, base ball, horse racing, bronco riding, cow roping and many other exciting events are on the program. Jack Jeffers, superintendent of the telephone company, has returned home, accompanied by his wife, son and grandmother, after a visit to the World's Fair. They all had a splendid time.

Perry McLaes formerly of Albuquerque, now representing a hardware company of El Paso, was here interviewing his customers.

The property owners of Deming are alive to the fact that cement sidewalks cannot be excused, and many are being laid in various parts of the town.

Mrs. W. H. Greer, who enjoyed several weeks very pleasantly on the home ranch of the Victoria Land and Cattle company, is here on a visit to her friend, Mrs. Frank Thurmond. Mrs. Greer will go up to Albuquerque, and Sunday night she expects to leave for a visit to southern California.

The Victoria Land and Cattle company has well appointed office rooms in "The Victoria" building, where the office, during the absence of Manager W. H. Greer, is under the personal supervision of Thomas Marshall, a direct descendant of the famous Marshall family of Kentucky. He says the Victoria company has suffered considerably in the way of cattle losses on account of the continued long dry season, but also states that the losses will not foot up as much as were anticipated.

A. L. Sangre, who was an editor and printer in Chicago and later in San Francisco many years ago, holds down Deming in a most easy manner. He carries on a general repair shop, and while his receipts do not amount to many thousands of dollars during the year he nevertheless seems to be satisfied and enjoys pretty good living. He knew Joe Dixon and H. T. Kuehn in Albuquerque twenty odd years ago.

Today Mrs. J. A. Mahoney and daughter, and Mrs. N. A. Bollek and children and the latter's mother, Mrs. Alice Smith, left for Los Angeles and the Pacific coast resorts where they will spend the summer.
Lou H. Brown, president of the Bank of Deming and one of the enterprising men of this town, has returned from a business trip to El Paso.

The Deming Electric Light and Ice company now give a most acceptable light to the consumers of the town, having recently added new and improved machinery, and changed the circuit from a direct to an alternating circuit. The plant is now owned by J.

W. Pennville and C. T. Reith, of Silver City, and E. W. Walker, of Deming. The latter is the resident manager.

Col. J. P. McGorrie, who last year made a trip to old Ireland, this spring and summer visited his old home at Danville, Ky. He returned the other day, and reports having had a splendid time.

Prof. W. W. Robertson, who was superintendent of the Deming public schools years ago, is now located at Edmonds, Oklahoma, representing the Maynard-Merrill Book company.

Charles B. McEwen, for years connected with a San Francisco newspaper, is now located at Hachita, N. M., where he is interested in mines. He is well known in Deming, and visited that town the past few days.

Miss Lillian Smith, the accomplished daughter of Col. and Mrs. P. R. Smith, who was on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Allaire, at San Antonio, N. M., returned to her Deming home last night on the delayed train. Mr. Allaire accompanied the young lady to Deming. Mrs. Smith and the latter's sister, Miss Delima Kendrick, were at the depot to meet them.

Living people are expecting the return from the east of Col. P. R. Smith and his daughter, Miss Mary Smith, Saturday or Sunday. Col. Smith has been back in New York working on schemes for the benefit of southern New Mexico, while his daughter was at St. Louis attending the World's fair.

C. W. Jack, who a short time ago was an efficient clerk and cashier at the Albuquerque freight depot, is now rate clerk and ticket agent for the Santa Fe at Deming.

Prof. E. Francis Duff, one of the popular educators of Luna county, has been absent from Deming for several days, attending the Sunday school convention at Albuquerque. Prof. and Mrs. Duff are among the best people of Deming.

Carved the Cook.

Word comes from many of a cutting affair in the Harvey eating house says the Las Vegas Optic. The chef showed his gorge to rise against the cashier, a youth of recent acquisition. The chef slapped the boy's face. The latter procured a razor and went after the cook. The cook made for a chair but he was too late. He was slashed across the stomach, one of his ears was sliced and he received two nasty cuts on the back of the head. The man of dough capitulated and the boy skipped. No effort was made to capture the youth as the cook said the initial fault was his and he had no complaint to make.

The Original "Rubberneck."

Giraffes are the most difficult of all animals to be taken by surprise. No matter from what direction you may approach, the giraffe is sure to discover you. It has been called the original "rubberneck." It is not generally known that nature, because of the height of its eyes from the ground, has supplied it with a talent peculiarly its own for making observations.

King Edward's Birthday.

London, June 24.—The birthday of King Edward (who was born November 9, 1841) was officially celebrated today, it having been decided, as announced in the official Gazette last month, that his majesty's natal day was to be celebrated in London and on the home stations June 24, as being the most suitable time for a military display. General interest in the celebration was apparently not diminished by the absence of the king, who started yesterday for Kiel to attend the regatta. The towns throughout the kingdom were early decorated and belfagied today, and the shipping at various ports made the gayest displays of bunting. The chief celebration in the metropolis was the time honored ceremony of trooping the colors on the Horse Guards parade.

CLASS DAY AT HARVARD UNIVERSITY

Cambridge, Mass., June 24.—Today was class day at Harvard. From early morning the seniors were to be seen in cap and gown gathered in groups about the quadrangle or hurrying hither and thither about the yard intent on the final preparation for the successful carrying out of the program of the day.

The quadrangle never looked more beautiful as seen through the temporary gateways in the evergreen barriers between the buildings, enclosed as it was by the dull red walls of the dormitories and the white facade of the university, and embowered by the lofty green arches of the elms.

At 9 o'clock the senior class assembled and marched to Appleton chapel, where a short service was conducted by the chaplain of the day. At the close of the services the seniors had about an hour and a half to themselves in which to look after their relatives and friends. Shortly after 10 o'clock Sanders' theatre was opened to the holders of tickets. At 11 o'clock it was closed to all but the seniors. On the platform were seated the chaplain of the day, the first marshal, and class day officers who were to take part in the exercises, while the body of the seniors occupied the seats on the floor of the theatre.

The exercises began with music and prayer. Following the usual class rooms and odds came the singing of college songs, interspersed with reading of personal humorous histories of the members of the class. As each man's name was reached in the reading he was hoisted to the shoulders of his classmates.

The class day tree exercises were given this afternoon. The exercises were preceded, as usual by the status marching round the yard and cheering the college buildings.

This evening the yard will be illuminated with thousands of colored lanterns hung in festoons under the old elms. The glow club will sing in front of Holyrood and the band and mandolin clubs will contribute their share to the general entertainment. A reception by President and Mrs. Eliot to members of the graduating classes and their friends will conclude the day's program.

DR. BEBBER MOVING WILL INSTALL LENSE GRINDING MACHINE IN ALBUQUERQUE.

The Bebbber Optical company now occupying a quarter of E. J. Houston's store on Gold avenue, have rented office quarters at 216 1-2 South Second street and will move there July 1. Dr. Bebbber says that about August 15, the Bebbber Optical company composed of M. E. and O. G. Bebbber will bring to the city and install a lens grinding plant which will be the only institution of the kind in New Mexico. At present lenses to be ground to perfect the eye must be sent to Denver to be ground, which naturally causes an unavoidable delay. With Dr. Bebbber's plant in operation, this obstacle will be overcome and eastern prices will be met by the home institution. Dr. Bebbber has done active optical work for seventeen years.

The Meanest Man.

When the contribution box came round after the sermon he leaned over and whispered to the deacon who held the handle of the bag: I paid the pastor's fare in the car yesterday morning. We'll call it square.
