NEW COMPANY INCORPORATED

Real Estate Business Does Not Seem To Lag In New Mexico.

ENGINEER MILLER IS PRAISED

He Was Largely Instrumental In Settling San Juan Water Troubles.

Governor Mills has appointed Bert Harwood of Stonehaven, Union county, a notary public.

For the Treasury.
Territorial Treasurer M. A. Otero has received the sum of $48.89 from Solomon Luna, treasurer of Valencia county, $150 from Territorial Engineer Charles D. Miller, from stream gauging, and $3.75 from Game and Fish Warden Thomas P. Gable.

Santa Fe Man on Commission.
G. D. D. Kirkpatrick of Santa Fe, U. S. Examiner of Surveys, is chief engineer of the Texas-New Mexico Boundary commission that is at present surveying the New Mexico-Texas boundary. Former U. S. Senator Frank M. Cockrell of Missouri, is the head of the commission.

Prisoner Escapes.
Catarino Ramirez, sentenced in 1908 for 20 years in the penitentiary for murder in the second degree, and who had been out on parole, took French leave, "over the wall is out" at the pen one night last week. He is 26 years of age and was a native of Old Mexico. He worked in the lime kiln and was a trusty. A reward of $50 is offered for his capture. A description of the prisoner has not yet been given out here.

New Company.
Articles of Incorporation were filed in the territorial secretary's office by the Maynard Child Company which has its office at Mesilla, Dona Ana county, and names A. B. Maynard as its statutory agent. The company will do a regular real estate business and its stockholders are A. B. Maynard of Mesilla, 10 shares; A. Child of El Paso, 5 shares, and C. G. Royall of Silver City, 5 shares. The company is capitalized at $25,000 with 250 shares at $100 each and $2,000 has been paid in.

Irrigation Matters.
As a result of the efforts of Territorial Engineer C. D. Miller to settle certain irrigation difficulties in San Juan county and about which an all day session was held here some time ago with representatives from San Juan county present. A satisfactory agreement seems to have been reached.

The Aztec Irrigation Company, which asked 250 second feet of water diverted from the Eden canal heading into New Mexico, was granted this change of diversion. The balance of the old Eden appropriation of 750 second feet was relinquished to the territory by the appropriators.

Burke & Furman and the Turley-Hollister interests agree to meet and plan a consolidation of their ditch projects, and not to protect the Orchard water filing made by C. W. Thuringer.

Work on these different projects is to start without unnecessary delay. Of this settlement the Aztec Index says:

"Hats off to Territorial Engineer Miller. He has been largely instrumental in settling the water difficulties of San Juan county by the meeting of water appropriators which he held at Santa Fe early this month. Representatives of the Aztec Irrigation Co., Burke & Furman, Turley & Hollister and the Orchard Irrigation district met in the office of the territorial engineer, who in substance said: 'San Juan county has ample water for the reclamation of several times the area now in cultivation but irrigation construction work has been held up by rival claims to water and some compromise must be reached by these claimants that will do justice to all and at the same time guarantee the speedy construction of much desired irrigation works.'

Where the Elks Go.
Game and Fish Warden Thomas P. Gable has returned from his trip to Las Vegas, Raton and elsewhere to dispose of the elks brought to the territory for propagation. Mr. Gable said today that three cows and a bull had been unloaded at Raton and placed at the head of the Red river at Potato canon where they were kept two or three days in the pasture of W. H. Smith and then released in the mountains. With these elks was a calf born on route was lost and not four as was stated in a paper.

Another bunch of elks was sent to Cimarron and will be let loose on the Burraco ranch owned by George H. Webster, Jr. The third bunch was sent to a point above Hot Springs in Gallinas canon and will be held in a corral by Max Nordhaus until they are sufficiently rested. Then they will be released and allowed to drift toward the Porvenir fishing resort.

All of the animals are said to be magnificent specimens of elks and will doubtless become the progenitors of several large herds which will populate New Mexico game preserves in years to come.

Mr. Gable said today that the trip

W. H. ANDREWS DEFENDS STATE

Would Be Simple Matter in Future to Amend New Mexico Constitution.

CRUMPACKER AGAINST RECALL

Together With Roberts He Stands Up For This Territory and Its People.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Washington, D. C., May 22.—A defense of the New Mexico constitution as ratified, was made by Delegate Andrews of that territory.

Mr. Andrews said that the people of New Mexico have approved their constitution by a majority of 18,000 and that he was convinced it would be a simple matter to amend it in the future.

Friends of New Mexico.
Washington, May 22.—The house of representatives today resumed debate on the resolution providing statehood for Arizona and New Mexico. Representative Roberts of Nevada, contended that as a majority of the people of both territories had approved the new constitutions they should not be compelled to vote again.

Representative Crumpacker of Indiana, approved the New Mexico constitution but denounced the judiciary recall plan by Arizona.

Andrews Congratulated.
Special to the New Mexican.

Washington, D. C., May 22.—Delegate Andrews made a thirty minute speech, in which he explained the election of delegates to the constitutional convention, the drafting of the constitution, its ratification by the people by 18,000 majority, asserting that every requirement of the enabling act had been complied with. He implored the house for immediate admission to the sisterhood of states. Delegate Andrews received frequent applause and congratulations from both sides of the house.

PRESBYTERIANS PROTEST AGAINST MORMON SERVICE.
Do Not Want Battleship Utah to Accept Silver With Brigham Young's Portrait.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Atlantic City, N. J., May 22.—The Presbyterian General Assembly went on record today as being opposed to the acceptance by the navy department of a silver service for the battleship Utah, which has engraved on the coffee tray and etching of Brigham Young, and a view of the Mormon temple at Salt Lake City in the background. A resolution of protest presented by Theodore Morris, of New York city was adopted unanimously and the stated clerk was ordered to send telegrams of protest to President Taft and the chairman of the committee of the House of Representatives which is considering the matter.

Presbyterian General Assembly is Hearing Reports.
Louisville, Ky., May 22.—The fourth day's session of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States began today with the hearing of committee reports. The rest of the session will be devoted to disposing of the recommendations of the various committees.

O'HARE AND VICTOR CLORE ARE DISCHARGED.
Suspected of Having Robbed Southern Pacific Overland Limited near Ogden, Utah.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Ogden, Utah, May 22.—Committing Magistrate Murphy this morning ordered O'Hare and Victor Clore, who have been held in the county jail on the charge of robbing the Southern Pacific overland limited train on January 2 last, discharged, there being no sufficient cause to believe the men guilty of the offense.

Had Been Arrested at Detroit.
Ogden, Utah, May 22.—O'Hare and Clore were arrested near Detroit, Michigan, some weeks ago. In the hold-up of the train last January, William M. Davis, a porter, was killed and another porter, A. N. Taylor, was fatally wounded.

WICKERSHAM WILL PROBE INSURANCE TRUST.
Sixty Casualty Companies Combine to Raise Rates From 15 to 140 Per Cent.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Chicago, Ill., May 22.—Sixty or more of the Casualty Insurance Companies of the United States and similar foreign concerns doing business in this country have combined to raise rates according to a news article in the Tribune today. As a result employers desiring liability insurance must pay increases varying from 15 to 140 per cent. The attorney general has, it is said, instituted an inquiry into this alleged trust.

THIRD MAN KILLED ON BELEN CUT-OFF.
An unidentified stranger, aged 60 years, was cut in two by a west bound freight train near Melrose, Curry county, being the third victim on the cut-off within the past week.

LORIMER AGAIN TO BE GRILLED

Prompt and Sweeping Inquiry Ordered Against the Senator

OPPOSED TO DIRECT ELECTION

Republican Minority of Judiciary Committee Makes Its Report Today.

Washington, May 22.—A prompt and sweeping inquiry into new charges against Senator Lorimer of Illinois, growing out of the investigation by the Illinois state legislature was assured today when the regular Republicans decided to present in the senate late today a resolution calling for the conduct of such an inquiry under the direction of the senate committee on privileges and elections.

The Democratic senators will support the resolution which will be a substitute for the LaFollette resolution naming a new committee of senators to make the inquiry.

The Democrats held a caucus this morning and decided in favor of a resolution directing the inquiry by the regular senate committee. Senator LaFollette had given notice last week that he would call up his resolution today.

Senator Dillingham, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, agreed today. It is probable that the committee on elections will be directed today to conduct the investigation through a sub-committee.

Demand Lorimer Re-investigation.
Washington, May 22.—Immediate investigation by the committee on privileges and elections of the renewed charges that Senator Lorimer of Illinois, is not entitled to his seat, will be demanded by Democratic senators when Senator LaFollette calls up his resolution of inquiry later in the day. This decision was made this morning at a meeting of the senate Democratic steering committee. The senate does not meet until 2 p. m.

Minority on Senatorial Election.
The minority of the senate judiciary committee today made its report on the proposed constitutional amendment for the direct election of senators. It is signed by C. D. Clark, chairman, Knute Nelson, William P. Dillingham, George Sutherland, Frank B. Bradlee and Elihu Root, and takes a pronounced stand against the amendment as being subversive of American institutions. The main objection is that the proposed amendment to the constitution would take supervision of the election of senators out of the hands of congress and thus cause corruption and abuses in senatorial elections. The minority declares such an amendment unnecessary to secure the direct election of senators by the people. It says:

"The senate of the United States and the house of representatives constitute one of the three great departments of the federal government, upon whose existence and efficiency the very life of the nation depends. To say that one branch of this department shall be in the absolutely uncontrolled power of the various state governments is to deny the supremacy of the federal government and to that extent make it subordinate to the government of the several states. No matter what laws the state governments may pass regulating the time and manner of the election of senators, no matter how profound the effect upon the efficiency of the senate such laws may be, the federal government, if this resolution shall be finally adopted, will be utterly powerless to protect itself. It would seem that the mere statement of such a contingency, however remote its happening may appear to be, should be sufficient to prevent its adoption. No harm can possibly result from a continuation of the supervisory power in the hands of congress, while infinite harm might follow its destruction."

LaFollette Will Fight.
Washington, D. C., May 22.—The Dillingham resolution places the Senate inquiry under the direction of the committee on privileges and elections. Senator LaFollette later called up his resolution. He counts on a number of progressives to support this as against the Dillingham substitute.

Dillingham Introduces Lorimer Resolution.
Washington, D. C., May 22.—A resolution calling for a prompt and sweeping inquiry into new charges against Senator Lorimer of Illinois based on the demand of the Illinois state senate that the case be re-opened, was introduced in the senate today by Senator Dillingham, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections. Under the rules the resolution lies over for one day. The Dillingham resolution, which is in the nature of a substitute for the LaFollette resolution naming a special committee of new senators to take up the inquiry, unquestionably will be adopted by the senate.

Supervision the Point.
Washington, D. C., May 22.—No popular demand exists for a change in the constitution so as to deprive congress of the right to supervise the election of United States senators, so asserted a minority of the members of the senate committee on the judiciary in a report filed today. The report was signed by Senators Clark of

SENATOR NELSON SCORES TAFT

Statesman Who Was Unfriendly to New Mexico Attacks President

RECIPROCITY IS THE CAUSE

Accuses Chief Executive of Trifling With United States Senate.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Washington, D. C., May 22.—Senator Nelson of Minnesota, attacked President Taft today before the Senate finance committee for seeking to prevent the Senate from amending the Canadian reciprocity bill.

He declared that the constitution made the Senate part of the treaty making power of the country and offered several amendments to the measure.

Senator Nelson's amendments would reduce about one-half the existing tariff rates on most farm products. To put farm products on the free list, he declared, was legislating directly against the farmer.

"President Taft is evading the constitution of the United States," he asserted.

"When he tries to force the Senate to accept this agreement as it was presented he is trifling with the Senate of the United States."

After A. J. Knollin, a Wyoming sheep raiser, had appeared in opposition to the bill, the committee adjourned until tomorrow morning, when John Norris, representing the American Newspaper Publishers association will be heard.

STOCK MARKET OPENED STRONG THIS MORNING.

Demand Was Active for Santa Fe, Hariman, Hill and Reading Stocks. Prices Held Firm.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
New York, May 22.—Transactions in stocks this morning were on the same large scale as last week and the market displayed decided strength. Reading was the feature of the market. One block of 5,000 shares changed hands at 161 3/8, within 3/8 of its best figure of the year. All of the Hariman and Hill stocks and Atchison were in large demand. Toward noon activity decreased but prices held firm. Bonds were firm.

The Grain Market.
Chicago, May 22.—Vigorous bidding for May wheat ran up the price of that option today. However, the bountiful supply of moisture during the last two days all the way from Kansas and Nebraska east, resulted in sending new crop delivery downward. July started at 87 3/4@78 to 87 7/8, a decline of 3/8 to 28@1-2 and sagged to 87 5/8@34. Corn eased off on limited demand. July opened 1-8 to 1-4 cent lower at 51 5/8 to 51 3/4 and kept within that range.

Wet weather weakened oats. July started 1-4@3-8 cent to 1-2@5-8 cents down to 33-1/4 to 33-1/2, but steadied at 33-3/8.

Provisions were fairly steady. First sales were 5 cents off to cents up with July pork at 14.50, Lard 8.00@8.02-1/2 to 8.05; and ribs 7.72-1/2 to 7.75.

The close was firm with July 1-2 net lower.

Corn closing prices were firm at a net gain of a shade.

Bethlehem Steel Takes Drop.
New York, May 22.—The market closed steady. Prices receded to a lower level in the last hour and the earlier advances were either cancelled or largely reduced. Effective measures against American cotton oil sent it nearly two points below last week's closing and here was also a decline of 2-1/2 in Bethlehem steel preferred. Prices hardened a trifle toward the end.

Spot cotton closed quiet. Middling uplands 16.10; Middling Gulf 16.23; Sales 1,400 bales.

GALLUP SALOONKEEPERS ARE LET OFF EASY.

Eighteen saloon owners and pool-room proprietors at Gallup pleaded guilty in district court before Judge Ira A. Abbott of violating the Sunday law. Being their first offense, they were let off with a fine of $15 and costs, and District Attorney Bushman reduced the costs by waiving the fees allowed him by law.

A GOOD THING.
This evening, all those interested and those who desire to invest in the proposition to furnish tents and transportation to the Rio de los Trillos and its summer school, will meet at the office of the Santa Fe Water and Light Company. Catalogues have been received and estimates prepared and the company intends to start out with a paid up capital of $5,000. It is the desire to distribute this stock among as many residents as possible. It looks like an investment that will pay very good dividends and at the same time will give Santa Fe a lift that will help it materially. The meeting will be called to order at 8 o'clock.

OFFICIAL PEACE IS DECLARED

Rebels Will Despatch Orozco to Lower California to Restore Quiet

250 CHINAMEN MASSACRED

Insurrectos Take Tehuantepec and Government Officials Flee to Salina.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Juarez, Mex., May 22.—Tranquility of an officially declared variety reigns in northern Mexico today for the first time in six months. Messages and couriers are being sent today to remote parts of the country announcing that last night a peace agreement definitely ended the hostilities between the revolutionists and the federal government.

Undisguised joy beamed in the face of Carbajal, the federal peace envoy, today, as he prepared to depart for Mexico City, his mission here being accomplished after nearly four weeks of parleys. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., triumphant leader of the revolt sat in his house in the outskirts of the town, content and happy, receiving scores of congratulatory telegrams on the success of the movement he initiated. He will now await the resignation of President Diaz, starting for Mexico City within a week, when it is expected to become an established fact.

Though the peace agreement provides for the gradual disposing of the troops, it is not believed any counter revolts or disturbances will occur. The object of the gradual disbanding of the insurrectos, it is explained, is to maintain for a short time a good fighting force by which to keep order among the small scattered bands who might feel inclined to disregard the peace agreement.

Rebels May Fight Rebels.
Trouble is anticipated with the rebels in Lower California, though the insurrectos there have never been allied with the Madero movement, the rebel chiefs here will send envoys or messages to Lower California urging the acceptance of the conditions agreed upon here.

Should they refuse, an armed expedition, which probably will be led by Pascual Orozco, will be sent to subdue them.

This Sounds Fishy.
Eagle Pass, Texas, May 22.—In a desperate fight between Mexican insurrectos and Chinamen at Torreon, 225 Chinamen were killed.

This information was received here today by Sam Wah, owner of the International Hotel at Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, across the river from here.

Details of the reported slaughter have not reached here except that of the number of Chinamen killed were 250 of Wah's ranchmen.

Wah has telegraphed the Chinese minister at Washington asking for protection.

Chinese Minister Protests.
Washington, D. C., May 22.—The Chinese charge d'affaires at Mexico City has been instructed by the Chinese minister at Washington who is also accredited to the Mexican government to make strong representations to Mexico in regard to the reported outrages against Chinese by revolutionists at Torreon. The minister has received advice, substantially the same as the press dispatches, in regard to the reported murder of Dr. Lin, a Chinese banker at Torreon, and the killing of other Chinese there.

Rebels Take Tehuantepec.
Salina Cruz, Mex., May 22.—The river port of Tehuantepec has risen in popular revolt. The jefe politico arrived at Salina Cruz today on foot. The other government officials escaped. There was much shooting between the revolutionaries succeeded in getting control of the city but the casualties were few, if any. The officers and soldiers here are on the lookout for trouble.

Senora Reyes Very Ill.
Paris, May 22.—Senora Reyes, wife of General Bernardo Reyes, the Mexican ex-Secretary of War, is seriously ill of inflammation of the liver at her home in Neuilly Sur Seine, a suburb of Paris. Cablegrams have been sent to General Reyes, whose journey to the Mexican capital was interrupted in Havana pending developments in the Mexican revolutionary situation.

Exchanging Compliments.
Juarez, Mex., May 22.—Senor Madero this afternoon received a telegram from Minister de la Barra at Mexico City, indicating that harmony will prevail in the establishment of the new government.

Minister de la Barra in his telegram said: "I thank you for your congratulations. I sincerely hope that with the help of all good sons of Mexico, now united in the same sentiment of patriotism, the definite re-establishment of peace will be rapid. I appreciate the value of your offer to cooperate with me in this great work to which I shall dedicate my energy. It will give me pleasure to receive Senor Alfredo Robles Dominguez." Senor Dominguez while on his way to Mexico City was designated by Madero to represent him temporarily.

The chief subject awaiting the attention of both sides now is the personnel of the cabinet and the installation of the new government.

AEROPLANE KILLS STATESMAN

Henry M. Berteaux, French Minister of War, Meets Terrible Death

PREMIER MONIS IS INJURED

Horrible Accident Marks Beginning of Race From Paris to Madrid.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Paris, May 22.—Physicians today reported as satisfactory the condition of Antoine E. Monis, the French premier and minister of the interior, who was seriously injured yesterday when an aeroplane, piloted by M. Train, dashed into a group of government officials on the military field at Issy-les-Moulineaux to witness the start of the Paris to Madrid race, killing Henri M. Berteaux, the French minister of war and injuring two other men.

Vedrine Breaks Record.
Paris, Mex., May 22.—Pierre Vedrine, undismayed by the wreck of his own machine yesterday just prior to the disaster in which the French minister of war was killed, against started in the Paris to Madrid race early this morning. Five others withdrew.

Vedrine at 4:11 o'clock, arose high in the air, and disappeared swiftly in the fog towards Angouleme, the first stage of the race. Vedrine arrived at Angouleme at 7:50 o'clock, having covered the 279 miles in three hours and 39 minutes.

The judges announced that Vedrine had broken the record for the long distance cross country flight.

Army to Mournt 30 Days.
The disaster yesterday at the commencement of an international contest, which promised to be one of the principal aviation events of the season, has plunged the whole French nation into grief and the death of Minister of War Berteaux is mourned, without political distinctions, throughout the republic as a national loss.

Today the body of the minister is lying in state at the ministry of war. The funeral which is expected to take place on Friday, will be conducted with full national honors.

The army will go into mourning for 30 days.

SUNDAY GAME OF CARDS ENDS IN MURDER.

Five Aces Turned Up and Four Men Are Now in Morgue and Fifth is Fleeing From Justice.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Kittanning, Pa., May 22.—Five aces were discovered in a deck of cards with which a group of miners were playing poker here last night.

According to the rules of the game, this is not considered at all polite and the usual results followed, immediately. Dick Sendrio, who was suspected of manipulating the cards, it is alleged, shot and killed his brother, Charles, and Andrew and Rocco Leopold Brattis, brothers, and also fatally wounded Walter Spilshes. Previously Dick had been badly beaten by the other players. He fled after the shooting.

EIGHT HOUR LAW FOR WOMEN IN CALIFORNIA.

It Went Into Effect Today and Employers Seek to Make It Obnoxious to Public.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
San Francisco, Calif., May 22.—The eight hour day for women workers, provided in a bill presented by the recent legislature after a bitter struggle, goes into effect in California today.

Women employed in laundries, express companies, and telephone and telegraph companies and nearly all other business except the handling of perishable fruit will be given the advantage of the shorter hours. Several employers have declared they intend to enforce the strict letter of the law in order to show that it is impractical.

GRANDFATHER CLAUSE UPHOLD BY FEDERAL COURT.

Disfranchising Negroes is Not a Crime Against the United States Declares Judge.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Muskegon, Okla., May 22.—Federal Judge Campbell today quashed on demurrers indictments against a score of state election officials who served at the last election. The officials were indicted on a charge of preventing negroes from voting under the grandfather clause, of the state election law. Judge Campbell decided that the offense alleged was no crime against the United States.

POLITICAL SITUATION IN PORTUGAL UNSATISFACTORY.

Apprehension is Felt Over the Deep Current of Discontent Throughout the Nation.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Madrid, May 22.—Advices received here through official channels from Lisbon are that the political situation in Portugal is unsatisfactory. Most apprehension is felt over the deep current of discontent throughout the nation.

CHILDREN'S LIVES ARE MENACED

Reckless Speeding Works Hardship On Youngsters Says Mayor Seligman

LAS VEGAS TO AID PAGEANT

Motorists From Meadow City Promise to Come Over For Event.

Mayor Arthur Seligman has returned home from Las Vegas where he did some work boosting Santa Fe's Fourth of July historic pageant. "The idea was well received by Las Vegas with whom I talked," said the mayor this morning, "and six or more automobilists have promised to make the run over here to take part."

"I am particularly anxious to get various cities of New Mexico to send visitors to Santa Fe per auto, for in this way we will not only get in closer touch with the people of New Mexico, but we will get better roads. These motorists will note the defects in roads and call the attention of the county commissioners to these defects. In this way improvements are bound to result."

"While of course, many automobiles make a city up-to-date, according to the modern idea of progress, still the citizens of Santa Fe should lend me all the aid in their power to enforce the automobile ordinances. Santa Fe is an ancient city; its streets are ancient and they are narrow and sometimes crooked. Santa Fe city is no place for speeding of high power machines. There is plenty of room a mile out of town for speeding and those who must have that diversion are welcome to enjoy it—out of town."

The lives of our children are particularly endangered by this speeding and with the number of automobiles now in Santa Fe, and the recklessness with which some of them are driven, our boys and girls can scarcely feel safe riding a bicycle or a horse.

"If the city of Santa Fe finds the speed ordinance too severe, then let the city repeal it. As long as it is the law it must not be violated. My intention is to see that the first offense receives a reprimand or slight fine; the second a heavy fine and the third the repeal of the license. That seems the only way to handle the problem."

Blowing Horns.

Mayor Seligman said that one night last week he was standing on Palace avenue and saw a machine driven at great speed coming down the avenue and turned right around the corner near Judge A. L. Morrison's house without tooting a horn or giving any warning thus endangering the lives of all who might be coming down that street. It was impossible to get the chauffeur's number just then but an effort will be made to arrest him for a similar occurrence for this turning rapidly seems to have become a mania with some chauffeurs.

Other Cities Bad, Too.
The mayor said that Santa Fe is not the only city that is menaced by the speeding of reckless chauffeurs, for in another city he saw conditions as bad if not worse than here. He said to several motorists, "There are no automobiles in your town, I see, for they are all flying machines." They grinned and admitted the truth of the remark.

Mr. Lewis is Fined.
Mechanic Lewis, who drives the yellow car, owned by F. S. Donnell, was fined $10 and costs today by Justice Alford for speeding.

Runs Over Dog.
A chauffeur ran over the pretty black dog of B. Tonnies, the well known shoemaker, Friday night while rounding a corner at a good clip. Mr. Tonnies called on the mayor this morning and complained bitterly of the reckless speeding of chauffeurs at night.

THE AWAKENING.

(By Theodosia Garrison in the Smart Set.)

When the white dawn comes
I shall kneel to welcome it;
The dread that darkened on my eyes
Shall vanish and be gone.
I shall look upon it
As the parched on fountains,
Yet it was the blinding night
That taught the joy of dawn.

When the first bird sings,
Oh, I shall hear rejoicing,
And all my life shall thrill to it
And all my heart draw near.
I shall lean to listen
Lest a note elude me,
Yet it was the silent night
That taught me how to hear.

When the sun comes up
I shall lift my arms to it;
The fear of fear shall fall from me
As shackles from a slave.
I shall run to hail it,
Free and unbewildered,
Yet it was the fearsome night
That taught me to be brave.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. HAPPY RESULTS.

No wonder scores of Santa Fe citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Santa Fe by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Toribio Rodriguez, 110 Johnson St., Santa Fe, N. M., says: "Two and a half years ago I gave a statement for publication in regard to my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. Today I am stronger in my praise of this remedy than ever. I suffered greatly from disordered kidneys, the pains in my back being so acute at times that I had to stop work and sit down. The trouble steadily grew worse and I rarely knew what it was to be free from an ache or pain of some kind. Soon after I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, my pains and aches disappeared and my back became strong."

EIGHTEEN MEN GRADUATE

Commencement Exercises at New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION MEETS

Tonight Annual Oratorical Contest Will Be Held in the Auditorium.

Roswell, N. M., May 22.—Commencement started at the Institute today at 8:30 when the band sounded the adjutant's call at guard mount. The band was in especially good condition and the cadets looked trim and neat in their newly pressed uniforms and shining brass.

Immediately after guard mount, followed battalion inspection when the regular weekly inspection was gone this year than heretofore but what it lacks in quantity is made up in quality. Exercises of commencement will be even better on account of the diminished corps as it gives more time for individual training.

The graduating class this year is the largest that has ever been awarded diplomas at the school. There are eighteen young men in this class. Practically all of them are over twenty years of age. Although this is the thirteenth annual commencement, the class of 1911 ranks as the ninth graduating class to receive diplomas from the Institute.

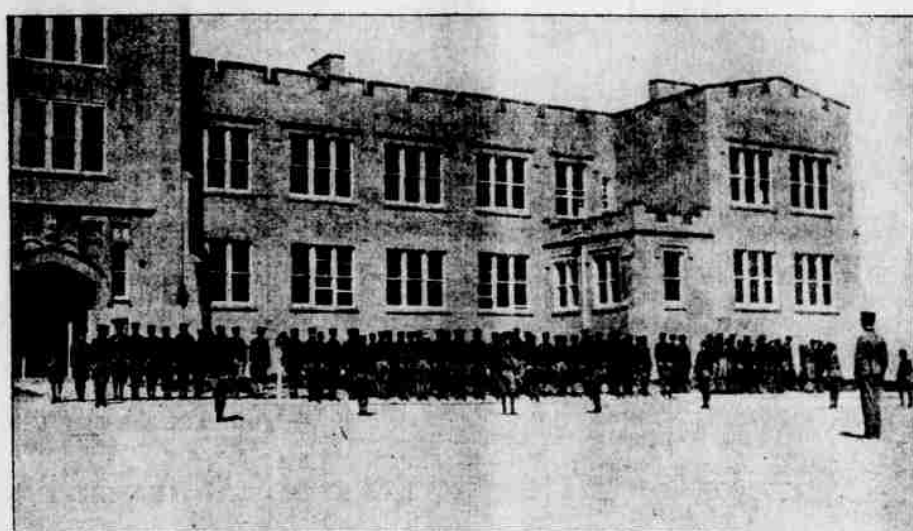

The first class to be graduated was the class of 1902 which was composed of three men, namely George W. Read, Jr., Earl Patterson and Loyd T. Buel. Read is now a captain in the Philippine constabulary, Patterson is a civil engineer in the employ of the government and Buel, a distinguished graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is superintending copper mines in Arizona. It is to be hoped that in nine years from the present date, or in 1920, the eighteen men who are graduating in 1911 can be pointed to with as much pride as the school takes in referring to those who composed the first graduating class. Counting the graduates the graduates both for the United States army and for the Philippine constabulary. It seems to be a recognized fact with corporations as well as with the government that young men trained in military schools of the first rank are better prepared to manage men and to occupy positions that require self-reliance and push than those coming from any other class of schools.

Possibly eight members of this year's class will enter universities, the others entering the military service and accepting business positions.

The baccalaureate services were held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the auditorium. The program of the services is as follows:

through with. With the trimming up, however, that has been given to uniforms, buildings and grounds incident to commencement, the exercises presented a more pleasing and more attractive appearance than usual. The general appearance of the grounds, credit for which we must give largely to nature for the abundance of rain fall which we have had this spring, is far more beautiful than ever before. The campus, surrounded by trees covered with heavy foliage and the cadets dotting the parade ground in their uniforms following the band never grows tiresome. It becomes more interesting to those who have watched the progress of the New Mexico Military Institute.

The battalion is somewhat smaller this year, the Institute will have a total of ninety-four graduates, and looking over this list with the school authorities, we find that practically all of the young men who have left the Institute with a diploma under their arms are making good. They are even doing better than making good. Some of them are holding excellent positions and receiving much credit for their industry and ability to handle men.

The superintendent of the Institute has already received requests from a number of corporations asking him to recommend members of the graduating class for positions which bid fair to lead to excellent business opportunities. The government is also making an effort to secure some of Benediction.

Sunday afternoon the battalion executed the regular Sunday battalion parade, after which an exhibition drill was given in Butts' manual. There were no exercises at the Institute Sunday evening. The cadets however, were permitted to attend religious services in Roswell.

Today was alumni day. A business session of the Alumni Association was held in the library at 11 a. m. after which the members of the alumni were invited to eat in the mess hall with the cadets. At 5 o'clock this afternoon, the Alumni Association, headed by their president, Hiram M. Dow reviewed the battalion of cadets on the parade ground. At 8 o'clock the alumni will hold a reception in Lea hall which will be especially decorated and prepared for the occasion. After the alumni reception, the oratorical contest will take place in the auditorium.

The program for the Morton Oratorical contest tonight is as follows:

TUBERCULOSIS FIGHTERS WANT
NEW HEALTH COMMITTEE

National Association Says Congress
Pays Scant Attention to Disease Prevention.

A protest is registered in a statement given out today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis against measures concerning public health to be referred to a committee on commerce. At the same time, a plea was made for a new committee on public health in the House of Representatives, similar to the one now existing in the senate.

The National Association in its statement supports the Committee of One Hundred on National Health in its assertion that under the present division of committees, owing to the large number of measures before the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, public health matters do not receive the attention they deserve. The statement says that hogs, cows, and steel rails receive much more attention than that most vital of all matters, public health and the prevention of disease. At the present time, the anti-tuberculosis workers declare, no committee in the house has any direct responsibility for health legislation. It is therefore suggested that a new committee be formed, similar to the one in the senate.

The National Association is appealing to its 510 affiliated associations in all parts of the United States to support the movement for the formation of such a committee in the house.

HINDUS PROTEST AGAINST CANADIAN GOVERNMENT.

Though Fellow Subjects of the British Crown They Are Virtually Kept Out.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) London, May 22.—The peculiar disadvantage at which Hindus who wish to emigrate to Canada find themselves is set forth in a petition from the Hindu Friends Society of Victoria, B. C., and addressed to the imperial conference which will open in this city next week.

The petitioners point out that the Dominion emigration laws make it more difficult for a British citizen to emigrate from India to Canada than it is for a Japanese or Chinese to become a resident of the Canadian part of the empire. They quote a Canadian order-of-council effective since May, 1910, as follows:

"From and after the date hereof, the landing in Canada shall be and the same is hereby prohibited of any immigrants who have come to Canada otherwise than by continuous journey from the country of which they are natives or citizens, and upon through tickets purchased in that country or purchased or prepaid in Canada."

It is noted that this Order-in-Council number 320 has been suspended in the case of aliens and the petitioners respectfully submit to the Imperial Conference, why it should not be rescinded on behalf of fellow subjects.

The hardship entailed by this law is explained by the statement that there is no direct steamship communication between Indian ports and Canada and that the Hindus cannot purchase steamship tickets from India for any point in Canada as the steamship companies will not take the risk of being compelled to carry them back in the event that they are for any reason refused admission to that country. The petition continues:

"As long as they (Hindus) are British subjects and British territory is the land of their citizenship from the interpretation of the imperial and parental government. It is needless to point out that the narrow interpretations of the Dominion government about the land of citizenship do not allow them to enter Canada from Great Britain, Hong Kong, Shanghai and other parts of the British empire. These men can travel unimpeded in China, Germany or the Sahara."

"The present Dominion immigration laws are quite inconsistent with the imperial policy because they discriminate against the people of India who are British subjects, as compared with other British subjects."

According to the petitioners there are some 6,000 Hindus resident in Canada, most of them in the province of British Columbia, all working steadily but as a result of the objectionable restriction, "not a single Hindu whether merchant, student or tourist coming to Canada during the last two years has been allowed to remain there."

It is stated that while a Japanese wishing to enter Canada is required to show only $350 in his possession, a Hindu must have $2,000. Many Hindus wish to make Canada their home and that this may be made possible, the petitioners in conclusion submit:

"That, with due respect to the Dominion government at Ottawa, that the disgraceful conditions of these our fellow citizens may be brought up before the Imperial Conference and the whole question of Hindu immigration may be put on a proper basis with the help and cooperation of Sir Wilfred Laurier and His Majesty's government."

MODERN WOODMEN HELD A MOCK TRIAL.

"Judge" Stephens Scents Plot and Has All Witnesses Disarmed in Court.

The Modern Woodmen held a mock trial last week that had everything backed off the boards as a humorous production. The case was that of the Territory, by J. W. Mayes, prosecuting witness, versus C. L. Bowlds, for attempt to dynamite the home of Mr. Mayes. The prosecution, represented by Charles G. Ritchie, as prosecuting attorney, produced the internal machine with which the "crime" was committed and produced witnesses who were positive Bowlds was the man. The defense, represented by Attorney Dunlavy, attempted to throw suspicion on Mayes himself, alleging that he had dynamited his own house in order to throw the crime on the Woodmen. All the witnesses did credit to themselves, but Gus Koch, in the character of Pete Chinn, the detective, was easily the star of the trial, the part being done in the usual inimitable manner of Koch.

Before the trial started, "Judge" Stephens announced that he understood that there was a plot on foot to rescue the defendant by the Woodmen, and ordered the sheriff to disarm them which was done to the great amusement of the audience. A choice collection of revolvers, butcher knives, stilettos, bolos, rolling pins and other deadly weapons was taken from the Woodmen present.

The trial proved to be a laugh all the way through and every one voted it a success. After the trial was over, light refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed by those present.

The personnel of those taking part was as follows: Judge H. F. Stephens; prosecuting attorney, Charles G. Ritchie; defendant's attorney, M. P. Dunlavy; sheriff, R. V. Boyle; deputies, E. J. Manley and Harry Franklin; clerk, A. G. Whittier; Witnesses, J. W. Bowlds, A. R. McCord, Frank Keefe, C. F. Kaufen, H. S. Lutz, Gus Koch and A. E. Robinson; jury, C. E. Linney, C. A. Rising, Charles Freeman, V. L. Bean, A. W. Kaune, and J. D. Mulligan.

MINES AND MINING

Mogollon.
At the Mogollon Gold and Copper company's mine high grade ore is being sacked from the east drift of the Little Charlie tunnel. Application has been granted for 7,000,000 feet of lumber. A road is under construction to the timber area and the saw mill will be set in the heart of the forest.

The Oaks company has taken an option on another group of mines during the past week. Good progress was made on the tunnel and road leading to it.

At the Maud Mining Company a new two compartment working shaft is being sunk. The windlass used thus far will be replaced with a steam hoist as soon as the latter can be installed.

At the Ernestine Mining company the cleanup for the first 10 days of May resulted in 7,960 troy ounces gold and silver bullion, six tons of concentrates were produced in same period. The tonnage treated last week was 726, with 60 sacks concentrates. Mine developments continue in good ore in nearly all the headings.

The Treasure Mining and Reduction company's mine is now working a force of 35 men, pushing development in readiness for the increased tonnage at the mill, which will be changed from 35 to 60 tons daily as soon as the necessary installation can be made. Good ore is being encountered in the mine.

The Enterprise Mining company's main tunnel was advanced 14 feet during the week.

At the Socorro mines a hydraulic engineer is examining the ground up Whitewater creek from power plant, as a preliminary step toward the installation of pipe line.

Sierra County.
George H. Tucker, L. Hartshorn and others have located a tunnel site east of Apache Gulch above Chloride which is to be driven to cut the Argonaut, Apache, Hoosier Boy and other ledges. The tunnel is to be 1,500 feet long.

An upright 125 horsepower, tubular boiler has been erected on the U. S. Treasury in the Black Range. The saw mill has resumed and men will be put to work to connect the first and second levels for air, efforts will be made to resume work on the Bonanza group. Power drills and a modern gasoline equipment are to be installed.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

A GREAT ADDRESS.

Hon. Frank B. Willis of Ada, Ohio, whose maiden speech in Congress was devoted to statehood, should be remembered with gratitude by the people of New Mexico. His address, while not long, is a classic and should find a place in school readers and recitation books so that future generations might remember this defender of the people of this commonwealth. He said:

"I warn you gentlemen that if you are going to tie this thing up with amendments you will do again what we have been doing for fifty or sixty years and the result will be these people will be kept out of the Union. I want New Mexico with her splendid people, her magnificent resources, to come into the Union and to come in now. I tell you the people of that territory have a magnificent history. Do not you think of them as Mexicans for they are not. They never were Mexicans. They were ruled for a hundred years directly from Spain with no connection with Mexico and then when the Mexican republic was established there was only nominal control over the people of this territory, and remember that in 1848, I do not remember when it was, 1846 probably, at any rate at the time of the Mexican war when General Kearny went down into that country he carried a sword in one hand, he carried his commission as governor in the other hand, and in his mouth a promise to the people of that territory that they should come into this great American Union.

"The people of New Mexico are part of our national life. The great Civil War when the men of the north and the south were struggling and fighting as men never struggled and fought before, New Mexico contributed of the best of their blood to both sides of that conflict."

Mr. McGuire of Oklahoma: "And the Spanish-American war." Mr. Willis: "And in the Spanish-American war, my friend from Oklahoma, suggests, there were no braver men who shouldered their muskets and marched away to that war in 1898 than the boys who came from New Mexico. In the great Civil War I want men to remember that in the great army that wore the gray and which fought so magnificently, an army that was exemplified by the splendid 18,000 who went charging up the hillside yonder at Gettysburg there were men from New Mexico in that army and in the lines of the blue that met and repulsed the charge not at Gettysburg but in many other battle fields in the Union army there were men from New Mexico. They are part of our national life and they ought to be a part of this great nation. They ought to be part of it now.

"I say nothing unkind of Arizona. I believe the people of Arizona while they have a constitution that may not be entirely satisfactory to you or to me, I believe they ought to be in the American Union; but there is one thing that to me seems to be so subversive of the American principle of the independence of the judiciary that I should not be willing to admit that state with that provision in its constitution. This minority report provides that the people of the territory of Arizona shall vote on the question of the recall of judges and shall not come in until that is stricken out of the constitution and I say that, knowing that the day after, if they want to do so, as a state of this American Union they have a right to put that clause back into their constitution. I am in favor, Mr. Chairman, of bringing in those two states, I am in favor of bringing them in now. I am in favor of putting two more stars yonder in that flag, and it is a great flag.

"Your flag and my flag, oh how much it holds, Your land and my land safe beneath its folds; Your heart and my heart beats quicker at the sight, Sun-kissed and wind-tossed the red, the blue and white. The one flag, the great flag, the flag for me and you Glorified all else beside the red, the white and blue.

LITTLE JOURNEYS.

Dr. George Wharton James has added to the Library of Travel, a volume on New Mexico and Arizona, or rather a description of a trip through both of the territories over the Santa Fe system. The subject is treated with sympathy and with more than ordinary interest and faithfulness to local color. That it is quite up to date is shown by the fact that it speaks with enthusiasm of the Scenic Highway over the Pecos forest from Santa Fe to Las Vegas and hopes for its completion, so that instead of by train through an uninteresting section, the trip may be made over that great highway which is giving New Mexico so much favorable advertising, in automobile or in wagon. Dr. James devotes an entire chapter to the cliff dwellings, having visited both the Puye and the Rito de los Frijoles under the guidance of Dr. Edgar L.

Hewett and the glowing manner in which he describes that wonderful region at the very doors of this city and declared by scores of seasoned travelers to be the most wonderful portion of the United States should make those Santa Feans ashamed of themselves who confess to never having visited the cliff dwellings. Another chapter is devoted to Santa Fe itself and its romance, history and sights. Of course, much is given to the Pueblo and Navajo Indians and the 60 pages after the two hundredth page are devoted to Arizona. The book is beautifully illustrated and many of the views are familiar to Santa Feans. The small and dainty volume will further increase the interest that has been of late awakened in the southwest, but especially in the School of American Archaeology and its museum, in the Cliff Dwellings and the Scenic Highway across the Pecos forest. As Dr. James says in his introduction:

"Those who have read the little journeys to the different parts of our great country, and to various foreign countries, may be surprised at the statement that this little journey will take them to the most wonderful, stupendous and majestic scenes on the American continent and amongst peoples whose lives, habits, social customs and religious ceremonies are more strange, interesting and fascinating than those of any people on the face of the earth.

"Many of the sights we shall see will be novel and strange. Some of the places we shall visit are known to be of scenery the most grand, rugged and sublime in the explored world. Many of the customs of the peoples that we shall visit, and their religious ceremonies, are so strange and so entirely foreign to our conception of what human beings can do, that, did we not see them with our own eyes, they would scarcely be believable. No romance that was ever written by the most imaginative mind ever conceived such wonderful objects and strange peoples as we are about to see. Yet the strangest thing of all is that all these places and peoples are to be found in the heart of our own United States."

FOUND THE SOLUTION.

Territorial Engineer Charles D. Miller has won a remarkable victory for his office by securing the consent of various claimants to the waters of the San Juan river to a compromise which will result in the immediate construction of extensive irrigation works. For years, the waters of the San Juan have been tied up by a controversy in which has made the empire builders in that northwestern corner of New Mexico weary and they have rallied at officials and every one else because of this situation. The claimants to the water of the stream, which is second in importance only to the Rio Grande and the Pecos in New Mexico, knew they had a good thing but were tied hand and foot by conflicting claims, which in reality, would not need to have interfered with each other. The deadlock seemed hopeless, when Territorial Engineer C. D. Miller, after a thorough investigation on the ground, invited the various claimants to meet in his office and told them to get together and compromise. As a result, a compromise was reached, actual construction work has been begun and the sun of progress and prosperity has risen over San Juan county, so that even the grouchy San Juan County Democrat, which has been knocking practically every Republican official, including the territorial engineer, is compelled to acknowledge editorially: "Notwithstanding the severe shaking up given our territorial irrigation engineers, the present incumbent C. D. Miller is making good in his course toward San Juan county ditch promoters. Our observations have led us all along to the conclusion that if San Juan county people would do their duty, our territorial engineer would do his. At the meeting held on the 8th in Engineer Miller's office in Santa Fe, promoters were made to understand that the man who would get busy and apply the water of our rivers, would receive support of the engineer. Speculators in water would not receive recognition and Mr. Miller's course is certainly commendable."

The San Juan Index is even more outspoken in its praise, and the Farmington Enterprise, which has been defending and supporting the territorial engineer right along is pleased. Even the Farmington Times-Hustler will have to come around and acknowledge that this Republican official has made good for a Democratic county.

Preparations have been completed for the greatest automobile race ever run. Almost 50 machines with a trial speed of 75 miles an hour have been entered, and this week will see at Indianapolis a remarkable demonstration of the ability of man to annihilate space and time. The automobile is no longer a plaything, a mere pleasure craft but is exerting considerable influence on the problem of transportation, especially in places without steam or street railways. Santa Fe, for instance, no longer keenly feels the necessity of a street railway, since it has 50 or more automobiles speeding in its narrow streets.

A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

The commission form of government is saving Birmingham, Alabama, $75,000 a month in salaries alone. Of course, it would not save Santa Fe anything at all at present, because Mayor Arthur Seligman is giving his business ability and his time to the very work that a commission would look after, and the city council is lending its aid toward giving Santa Fe good returns for its tax money. But it will not always be thus, that the city government is so nicely balanced as at present, or is so free from political bickering as just now. It really makes no difference whether the city is governed by Democrats or Republicans, for there are no political policies involved in street paving, in street lighting, in public utility, or in any of the various municipal activities. As a matter of fact, partisanship is harmful in local affairs. Says a Denver paper in speaking of commission government at Birmingham and the reforms it has brought about in one month:

Saved the city $75,000 a month in salaries. Has laid wide open the inspection of all city affairs. Has dropped 25 policemen. Blind tigers and all gambling closed. Fraudulent beggars run out of town. Reduced by $5,000 a year the judicial department. Only one city attorney instead of five. Comptroller, auditor and treasury departments consolidated. City's annual loan of $200,000 at 6 per cent placed at 5 per cent. Interest on city funds. This means $5,000 additional to the city. Expenses cut in the health, license, plumbing, building and street departments. Creation of a park commission to govern all parks, instead of managers of each. Shackles have been removed from city prisoners at work. Five-cent fare in sight to the suburbs. This has all been accomplished in one month, and the commission is still grinding away. Birmingham is satisfied, even joyous, and the Birmingham papers say that the first month has more than fulfilled expectations of advocates of the commission form of government.

AN IMPORTANT AND PROFITABLE UNDERTAKING.

The proposition to establish a tent city and to provide transportation to the Rito de los Frijoles, 35 miles from Santa Fe by road, is a matter of much importance to Santa Fe. Primarily, it is a business venture, that a very conservative businessman who has studied the situation, declares will probably net 20 per cent a year on the invested capital of $5,000. Secondly, it will mean much for the up-building of Santa Fe, the bringing here and interesting the kind of people that Santa Fe would choose to have as residents all the year around, and if not that, then for a portion of the year. The Rito de los Frijoles Canon possesses attractions that cannot be duplicated anywhere; it is a charming place summer and winter, but in summer, especially, it will offer a quiet resting place among ideal and romantic surroundings, far from the busy sounds of the world. In connection with a summer school, the Rito would be irresistible to those who would read or learn of it otherwise, whether they are far away or living in Santa Fe and nearby towns. It is wished and hoped that the stock for this enterprise will find wide distribution so as to interest as many as possible in the proposition. Estimates have been made, catalogues are on hand, plans have been formulated, which will be laid before a public meeting this evening at the offices of the Santa Fe Water and Light Company, and there should be a ready response from business people and property owners. Thus far, Santa Fe has contributed liberally to propositions that have brought no direct or immediate returns to those who contributed, but here is a proposition that will serve the community in a great way and yet gives reasonable assurance of being a good investment for every individual who contributes.

CUBA AND NEW MEXICO.

It is a remarkable criticism of Cuba and its progress under American tutelage that is made by an Englishman in the London Times today. It causes one to pause and wonder why the United States did not do for New Mexico what it did for Cuba, a foreign country, and what it would mean to Mexico if the United States took hold there as it has in Cuba and in the Philippines. "If Americans had never done anything else for Cuba," says this British critic, "they would deserve the lasting gratitude of the world for having put the fear of dirt into the Cuban people." As a consequence, yellow fever and smallpox have been stamped out and "Cuba is one of the cleanest and healthiest countries I have ever come across," a remark that the British visitor would certainly not have made of some portions of New Mexico. "Cuba's death rate is the lowest one in the world," is another testimonial that cannot be given Santa Fe, despite its healthful climate. The greatest drawback to Cuba's development, declares this British statesman, is the lack of good roads and a ten per cent interest rate. What Cuba needs is therefore, more good roads, more railroads and a low interest rate, and those things would also help New Mexico wonderfully. Cuba's population is two millions, six times that of New Mexico; its area is only one-third of this territory, and yet, this same critic declares that Cuba is sparsely populated and should have many times that population. It is by comparisons of that kind that New Mexico may learn wherein it has lagged and wherein it should progress and what its destiny will be whenever conditions are right.

OFFICIAL PEACE IS DECLARED.

lation of the provisional governors. Madero received telegrams from his chiefs at Colima and Pachuca that work was progressing in establishing provisional governments in places recently taken by the insurgents near Mexico City.

Royes Pleased With De la Barra. Havana, Cuba, May 22.—General Bernardo Royes today received a cablegram from Francisco de la Barra, as provisional president of the Mexican republic. Senor de la Barra, in the message extended to General Royes his warmest thanks and congratulations on the excellent effect which was created throughout the republic by the "Splendid and patriotic" utterances of General Royes contained in the manifesto given out by the Secretary of War to the Associated Press on Saturday. General Royes is much gratified by the success of the peace negotiations but declined to discuss Mexican affairs beyond saying he recognized the authority of Senor de la Barra, as the legally selected head of the Mexican nation.

While not directly saying so, General Royes appears to be greatly pleased with the selection of Foreign Minister de la Barra as provisional president. The general expects to receive further instructions from his government during the day.

The reference to Francisco de la Barra, as provisional president of the Mexican republic, probably indicates that this was the form in which the dispatches from de la Barra were received or is an anticipation of the assumption of that office by de la Barra within the next few days, under the terms of the peace agreement just signed.

Mexico Not Overjoyed.

Mexico City, May 22.—News of the signing of a peace agreement by the Mexican government and the rebel peace commissioners at Juarez was received by the Mexican capital today with a remarkable absence of demonstration. The feeling here was that while peace had been generally accepted as a fact ever since President Diaz fixed the date of his retirement, the dilatory proceedings of the last few days were cause of apprehension lest the peace program might receive a setback and consequently to the general public the signing of the agreement last night came as a surprise.

Business men at the capital showed relief at the conclusion of the negotiations. While they see a long term of business depression in prospect, they appear to have great faith in the future.

Foreign Minister de la Barra, said that naturally he was greatly pleased at the successful termination of the peace conference which he helped to inaugurate and to which he has devoted his energies.

He went at once to the presidential palace and it is expected he will announce the new Mexican cabinet during the day.

It is rumored that President Diaz will present his resignation to the cabinet today but it is generally believed the date of his retirement will be May 24.

Porfirio Diaz, Jr., it is said is preparing to go abroad.

GREATEST AUTOMOBILE RACE IN HISTORY.

Forty-Six Machines Entered for the Speed Trial That Will Beat Records—Purse of $25,000 Gold.

(By Special Licensed Wire to New Mexican)

Indianapolis, Ind., May 22.—Highly "tuned" and mechanically as perfect as the skill of the modern motor car maker can produce, 46 of the fastest racing automobiles ever assembled are at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway awaiting the elimination trials next Saturday which will determine whether they are eligible to start in the 500-mile international sweepstakes race on Memorial Day, May 30. Every car must show speed of 75 miles an hour to qualify for one of the greatest races in the history of the motor contest sport. When the entries to this event were closed May 1, there were 40 cars entered, manned by a list of drivers which includes every well-known pilot in American, as well as several who made their reputations in Europe before coming to the United States.

It has been nine months since the initial announcement of this contest; was made by the promoters and each month has witnessed an increase of interest on the part of the public as well as the manufacturer. Almost six months ago the first entry was made, when a case car, with Lewis Strang as the driver, was entered. From that time on the entries were sent in steadily until the largest field ever drawn together for one event was announced when the entries were closed. The greatest number of entries in any contest previous to this time was 26.

The long race has assumed even greater proportions than the promoters had anticipated when the purse of $25,000 in gold was offered for the winners of the first ten places. A capital prize of $10,000 heaped a list of nine others as follows: Second, $5,000; third, $3,000; fourth, $2,000; fifth, $1,500; sixth, $1,000; seventh, $800; eighth, $700; ninth, $600; tenth, $500. In addition to this small fortune there have been added side prizes by various accessory makers, which bring the total to be won up to about $40,000. Supplementing the cash prizes are ten bronze plaques which will be given to the entrants of the ten winning cars. It long has been the rule in motor car racing that the drivers shall receive the cash prizes and the makers the trophies.

The conditions of the race, which is a class E event, are that each car shall weigh at least 2,300 pounds and have no more than 600 cubic inches piston displacement. This makes cars up to about 120 horsepower eligible. The forty-six cars have a total of 20,150 cubic inches of piston displacement, giving an average of 438 cubic inches per car, according to its motor construction. The majority of the cars in the race in their tryout have averaged about 95 to 100 miles per hour, while many of them are capable of doing two miles per minute. The entry fee paid by the entrants was $500 per car. Estimates on the average speed which will be attained in the long race have varied widely, but experts express a belief that the winner will travel the 500 miles at a rate of about 75 miles per hour.

The race will start at ten o'clock in the morning and probably the winner will cross the tape on his last lap about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The officials for the race have been chosen from all over the United States, most of them having been officials at many of the other great races of the country. Fred J. Wagner, of New York, will act as starter, while George Robertson, the former racing driver, will be an assistant. A. R. Pardington, of New York, will referee, while R. P. Hooper, president of the American Automobile Association is the honorary official in that capacity. Judges and other officials have been chosen from among the most prominent manufacturers and automobile men in the middle west.

The method which would be employed to start this event, has been difficult for the promoters, to decide. The speedway management finally adopted the plan of firing daylight bombs, which explode 250 feet in the air and give forth a dense cloud of smoke. One of these will be fired every minute for five minutes before ten o'clock and at the stroke of ten a special starting bomb will give the signal that will send the entire field into one of the greatest races ever known. After the start the contestants are signalled along the course by means of colored flags, each of which bears some special meaning which the drivers understand. The cars will be started in nine lines of five cars each, placed at intervals of 199 feet back of the wire.

PARTNERS

By DONALD ALLEN

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Because she had learned telegraphy that she might support a widowed mother—because she had applied again and again to the R. & P. road for a situation—because the road had had five different agents and operators at Fedora Junction in a year—they sent Miss Gladys Shaw to fill the place.

A shanty hotel, a store or two, three gambling hells, and a country so God-forsaken that even the gamblers would not stay for long. A shanty of a station with only two rooms, and Miss Shaw could cook and eat and sleep in the smaller or board at the hotel. She chose the former course.

The arrival of a girl at Fedora Junction—a "starving-looking girl"—was an episode. It was more than that. It was an event—an epoch. Gamblers, cowboys and all others walked down to see her. She was greater than the president of the road in his private car. As she stood in the door of the depot the men gathered in single file and marched along and each asked for a shake of the hand and got it—and a smile in the bargain. When the last man had passed the girl was given three cheers and a tiger, and it was Montana Bill who stood on the platform and said to the crowd below:

"No funny business will go here. The kites that tries it on gets a rope and a limb. If I don't treat her as if she was my sister then I want to be the first one to swing!"

That settled the status of Miss Gladys Shaw. When there was a far edge to civilization in the great west, there were knights among the roughest of men. No matter how many notches their pistol butts carried, each standing for a dead man, they were gallant men to good women. It was so until there was no more far edge. Miss Shaw was safer at Fedora Junction than in the streets of New York or Chicago.

"We'll give her a week," they said at headquarters, and as a month passed and her work gave perfect satisfaction they wondered about it. Every night some gambler came down to the depot to see that no tramps were hanging about. Every morning some man who had a reputation for being lightning on the draw came down to walk into the office with his hat in his hand and respectfully ask:

"Is everything all right this morning, Miss Shaw?"

"Yes, all right, thank you."

"Can I get anything from the store for you?"

"Thanks, but I have just telephoned my order."

"Maybe you want some one hustled out of town or shot?"

"Oh, no, no, no!"

"If you do, just say the word, and it's done."

Cowboys came in from the ranches 30 miles away, "jest to get a good look at that girl." They would come to the depot and ask about trains and shipments with sober faces, but the girl knew the real object and smiled at and talked with them.

She sometimes asked questions to draw them out as to their lonely lives and hardships, and there was never a day that she did not make new friends. After three months she had her salary raised, and learned long afterwards that it was because of a petition that was sent in from the town, with a threat to tear up the rails for a mile if the increase was not granted.

One day she came into the office a stranger, who was different from the other strangers she had seen about. He had a manly face and figure, and she liked his appearance and voice at once. She sized him up for a college man. His tan—his callous hands—his rough suit bespoke the prospector.

The man asked for a telegraph form, and stood at the rude desk and filled it out and read it over to tear it up and do the same with a second. The third he handed to her over the railing and asked:

"Would you send it or not?"

It was addressed to a prominent man in Boston, whose name she had frequently seen in the papers. It read:

"It has turned out as you said. I'm a failure, and have got to walk home unless you pay my fare. Gilbert."

Holding the telegram in her hand, Miss Shaw looked at the young man for a long minute before replying:

"You graduated as what?"

"A geologist."

"And disagreed with your father?"

"He wanted me to become a broker and banker."

"And you came west to—"

"To geologize among the mountains and find gold and silver," he replied, with a laugh. "I've found about every species of rock known to man, and some iron and coal. The gold and silver haven't come my way, and I'm on my knees to dad."

Miss Shaw laid the telegram aside and picked up her sewing, and she had plied the needle for five minutes before she said:

"You are about twenty-four years old. You are rugged and healthy. I take it you are a fair geologist. But, because after a season in the hills you have not discovered a Golconda, you are ready to cry quits. Your father, it appears, predicted your failure, but that doesn't appeal to your pride now. You are willing to eat humble pie. I wouldn't think it of you."

The young man took a quarter of a dollar from his vest pocket, and extending it on his palm, asked:

"How is that for a grubstake? I didn't leave the mountains until I was down to this. One must eat up there, and one must have at least a pack-horse. This telegram to the old man is the last straw. I'd rather have an arm chopped off than send it."

"You might come in two hours later," she said as she got a call on the instrument.

Fifteen minutes after he had bowed and departed, Montana Bill got a telephone call at his parlor, and ten minutes later still, he entered the depot with a revolver in his hand, and exclaimed:

"What's the villain? I won't give him time to say his prayers!"

"It's not that," laughed Miss Shaw. "Mr. Montana, I want to grubstake a prospector. Will you lend me $200?"

"Sure—or $2,000."

"It may be months before I can repay it."

"Take ten years—take fifty. Here's the dough, and I say nothing to nobody."

The man who had signed the telegram "Gilbert" was back at the appointed time, and with hat in hand he begged the girl's pardon for the intrusion.

"I want you to go back to the mountains," she said.

"More iron and coal and rocks?"

"No—silver or gold. They are there, and I have faith in you. I have so much faith that I'm willing to go partners."

"How—how do you mean?"

"You do the prospecting and I'll furnish the grubstake, and we will divide as partners, if you have luck."

"Why, girl—girl, you shame me!" he cried as he rose up with the red showing through the tan on his face.

"I don't see why. I put my capital against your geology and your luck. A man would do the same. What matters my sex? I'd like to own half a big mine as well as any man would."

It was an hour later when the male partner took the grubstake and walked out, and two days after that he was in the foothills. Not a letter—not a word for ten long weeks. Then he entered the depot again to say:

"Partner, I have come to give an accounting. The Gladys silver mine can be sold for $100,000 in cash. Shall we sell or—"

"Or what?"

"Or continue the partnership and keep it in the family?"

No matter how many days it took the partner to make up her mind, that mine has been a family affair for some time now, and it has paid big dividends, and Montana Bill got his $200 out of the first.

MIDDLE INITIAL IS PUT IN Many Public Men With Only One Name Are Given Another One by Newspapers.

A Syracuse paper, the Post-Standard, has made a discovery. It is this:

When the public man has no middle letter there is an irresistible tendency upon the part of newspapers to give him one. Thomas Carmody, the attorney general, has lived to mature years with no more name than that, but throughout the last campaign he was called "Thomas F." very generally.

The "F." seemed to somebody necessary for completeness or euphony, and put in, it stuck.

Now, so careful a paper as the New York Evening Post gives Senator William Lorimer an initial E, which his parents didn't allow him and which he has never adopted himself. Other papers are doing the same. In the press today Senator Lorimer is as often called William E. as William, and he is never William A. or William R. It being somehow assumed that he must have an initial, there is somehow an agreement that E must be the letter.

A majority of our statesmen have had no middle initials. Eighteen of the twenty-six presidents had none, including the four who immediately preceded Taft—Roosevelt, McKinley, Cleveland and Harrison. Nevertheless, the habit of middle names is so general in these days that a name looks incomplete without the initial to bridge given and surname. So when a public man hasn't a middle name he is likely to acquire one.

Old Olive Trees.

There are few trees that bear edible fruit which are good for more than a half century, the olive-tree standing alone with its long period of usefulness to mankind. Some of these trees are extremely long-lived. There are some in Syria which are known to be more than four hundred years old; and not only are they in a flourishing condition, but they bid fair to bear fruit for another century or two. The Syrians have learned much about caring for trees from Europeans. Formerly their olive-trees were not expected to produce fruit often than once in three years, but with improved methods of culture they now bear abundantly each season. In ancient times the olives were thrashed from the trees with sticks; but now the Syrians pick them by hand, thereby preserving their trees and also improving the quality of the fruit.—Harper's Weekly.

Different Valuations.

Some one asked the old farmer what his cow was worth.

"Well," he answered with a knowing wink, "thet depen's on whether she's goin' to be killed by the butcher or the railroad."

Open to Engagements.

"Miss Gwendolen, they say you have won high honors in golf. Do you represent any ladies' athletic club or association?"

"No, Mr. Ketchley, I am entirely—er—unattached."

Then there was a timid, faltering question, a soft voiced answer, and the status was changed.

Can You Beat It?

He—So the engagement is off and Maud and Jack don't speak to each other. What caused the quarrel?

She—"Twas the silliest thing. They were talking about their being a case of love at first sight, and then got into a fierce dispute as to which had seen the other first."

A Hit.

"I made a great hit at the banquet last night. Came off with a good deal of distinction, in fact."

"I didn't know you ever spoke at banquets."

"I don't. I was the only one there who absolutely declined."

THE GOOD POINT

By V. H. FRIEDLANDER

We had had a good day on the links, and as I leaned back in Massinger's luxurious new car I yawned comfortably and thought of tea.

"Wake up," said Massinger. "We're near Victoria; home in five minutes." He glanced at a clock. "By Jove, we've done the journey in less—"

A piercing scream cut him short, and he drew up with a jerk. We both jumped out and peered through the dusk. A crowd sprang up from nowhere.

"What the devil!" began Massinger.

Something moved on the ground and whimpered softly; it was the little battered figure of a boy.

We leaned over him.

"I say, are you—are you hurt?" asked Massinger.

The boy suddenly wiped his sleeve across his eyes, stumbled to his feet, and touched his disreputable cap.

"Hullo! You, Piper?" Massinger exclaimed.

"Yes, sir; beg pardon, sir. I didn't recognize the car; very sorry, sir."

He tried to shuffle away in boots half a dozen sizes too large for him.

"But, I say, Piper—Massinger stopped him—"If you're not hurt and we didn't touch you, what did you—er—let off that yell for?"

"Beg pardon, sir," said the boy again, nervously. "Very sorry, sir."

You hurted his Kitty," interposed the shrill, reproachful voice of a little girl who was among the interested spectators.

"Kitty?" echoed Massinger.

"There, sir! Behind 'im, sir!" A dozen fingers pointed to a limp, yellowish object in the road, to which the word hurt was painfully inadequate. Piper's cat was dead.

Massinger cleared his throat uncomfortably. "I say, do you mean we—"

"It ain't of no consequence, sir," murmured Piper.

"Well, you know, I'm uncommonly sorry," Massinger stammered, coun- founded alike by Piper's humble resignation and the eager attention of the crowd.

Piper touched his cap again, and as his hand descended something from Massinger's hand passed into it.

"Come along," whispered Massinger to me, and we walked to the car. But before we could start we became aware with relief that we were no longer the center of interest. A big, loose limbered man had lurched out of an adjacent public house, at sight of whom Piper had suddenly put down his head and tried to butt his way out of the crowd. But that body, either resenting his abruptness or anticipating further excitement if they could keep him, stolidly opposed their weight to his.

"That you, ye limb?" inquired the big man, thickly.

"Lemme go!" urged Piper, butting again.

But it was too late. The big man had him by the coat collar. "What you bin up to, boy?" he demanded.

"Nothin'," said Piper, sullenly.

But the crowd was not to be defrauded thus. Details were amply forthcoming.

"Gen'lman thought 'e was dead!"

"Gen'lman ran over 'is cat 'n' killed it!"

"Gen'lman give 'im 'alf a crown!"

The drunken man looked thoughtfully and with less amiability at his son. "Killed our cat, did 'e?" he inquired.

"My cat," said Piper, defiantly.

"None o' that, saucebox," recommended his father.

"Cats what live in my house are my cats, and 'alf crowns what are paid for the funerals of my cats are my 'alf crowns. Out with it."

There was a short struggle, and Piper's spool was transferred to his parent. Piper shuffled away with his sleeves across his eyes.

"Poor little beggar!" I said, as we started. "It's no good interfering now, but one might make it up to him tomorrow. Where does he live?"

Massinger chuckled. "Don't waste too much of your pity, Longworth. And I don't know where he lives, nor what his real name is. My wife calls him Piper because that's the word oftenest on his lips. He brings my evening papers round and we occasionally give him a meal or a pair of boots."

"What do you mean about wasting my pity?"

Massinger laughed—a tolerant, superior laugh.

"Regular little street Arab, isn't he? Good business, that fight?"

"Good business?"

"Yes; did you miss it, really?"

"Miss what?" I asked, coldly. Massinger's air of being particularly in the know is apt to irritate one.

"Ha, ha!" Massinger was in his element as he explained. "Why, the half crown business."

"I saw his father take it, if that's what you mean."

"Yes, yes! His father took one, and is satisfied, too."

"The other? But how was I to know you'd given him two?" I was constrained to remonstrate.

"No, no! Of course not, of course not!" His air of smoothing me down was insufferable. "Still, still! It takes time to understand these people. My experience on the bench, you know—well, they'll lie and they'll cheat and they'll steal, and without experience it's highly dangerous to have any dealings with them. But with it—well, as a rule they're a good point somewhere."

"Indeed?" I observed, with an irritation quite wasted on his pompous complacency.

"As a rule—as a rule! Now this lad—his fondness for his pet. Quite a good point, that—what? And he's grateful, too. Because I've been able to do one or two little things for him, he was quite upset that I should have been troubled; you noticed that? Yes, yes, of course; quite obvious, as you say. Still, a good point—a good point. Didn't recognize him, you see, and when he saw me would have gone off without explaining if some one hadn't pointed out the cat. Very nice feeling—yes, well, here we are."

our mind you—the mind a hand "im- pressively on my arm as we got out—"don't mistake me. It doesn't do for anyone without experience of these people to trust to their good points. No, no! You'd find them too sharp for you one day. Why, even I've been done more than once—more than once."

"You surprise me."

"In years gone by, of course," he hastened to explain.

"Not lately—naturally not lately."

We had reached the drawing room door, and Mrs. Massinger met us with a finger laid warningly on her lips.

"I hope you don't mind, Mr. Longworth," she whispered, smilingly. "Audrey has dropped asleep at last, and the poor mite has had such a day."

We tiptoed across to the couch where the Massingers' little girl lay curled up.

"What's been the matter?" Massinger asked below his breath. "She looks as if she'd been crying."

"Crying?" Mrs. Massinger made a little despairing gesture. "She's been inconsolable. Poor Marigold was found dead in the garden this morning. I told Rogers to bury her, but unfortunately Audrey came upon him in the act, and then we had scenes. Finally nurse hit upon an idea. She suggested laying Marigold in the bicycle shed in the hope of an angel passing and flying off with her."

"And did he?" I asked.

"Well, he was rather a soiled one! The paper boy came round at last, and we gave him Marigold to bury."

My eyes caught Massinger's, and their abject appeal softened my heart. But I kept him a moment in suspense—he deserved that. Then I said hypocritically, "Was Marigold a dog, Mrs. Massinger?"

She was gently rearranging her little daughter's cushions.

"A cat," she answered, absently; "a yellow cat."—Throne and Country.

FAULT WITH MANY PERSONS

Some Men Would Rather Make Money for Their Families Than to Preserve Themselves.

The greatest fault with many persons is their inability to estimate values. The best wisdom is to know what is worth while and what is not.

A business man works away at his desk while he ought to be outdoors somewhere saving his life; by and by some fatal disease comes along and removes him; he worked harder to make money for his family than to preserve himself for his family. Many a woman knits and scrubs herself out of the life and sympathy of her husband and children. More than one man has neglected his wife for his career, only to find too late that he gained the shell and lost the kernel.

The tendency of every institution is to grow into the habit of overestimating details. The Pharisees were so busy safeguarding their formalities that they could not see the vital truth of Jesus. Everywhere the outcry against the truth is that of the people of Ephesus against Paul, "Our craft is in danger!"

When your little 6 year old girl comes into your study, would it not be better to lay aside your book? When your faithful clerk is sick, would it not be a good investment in eternal values to take the time to visit him? These human values, love, kindness, friendliness, cheer, health, faith and the like, are apt to be obscured by profits and pleasure and ambition; but in our quiet moments, or on our sick bed, when the soul's eyes are opened, we see more clearly.

We have but a little while to live here, and it pays to learn the higher values and to go in for them. For what shall it profit a man if he accumulate a bushel of chaff and lose the handful of grain?—Dr. Frank Crane.

Triumphs of Song.

'Twas in the commercial room at a hotel, and as usual, the "gentlemen of the road" were boasting one against the other. Presently they got round to the subject of singing.

"Aw, now!" said one, "talking of singing reminds me of my early triumphs on the concert stage. I had a voice then, and could always move an audience. I remember the time when I sang 'Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep' in so realistic a manner that several of my audience were attacked with sea-sickness."

"Bah," said Bonster No. 2, "that's nothing. Why, I once sang 'The Last Post' with such fervor that several of my absent-minded friends, seated in front, starting licking their programs, and then rushed out to post them."

Silence then reigned supreme.—Ideas.

Sensitive.

"Is Pilkins a lazy man?"

"Not very lazy, but he always shudders when anybody speaks of perpetual motion."

Two Celebrities.

"George Washington won fame because he could not tell a lie."

"And Baron Munchausen because he could."

Quick Changes.

Wife—Darling, I want a new gown. Husband—But you had a new one only a short time ago.

Wife—Yes, but my friend Ellen is to be married and I can't wear the same dress as I wore at her last wedding."

Of the Newest School.

She—Here comes Diana Weybridge. Doesn't she entirely satisfy your artistic sense?

He—Dear lady, she savors too much of a statement. We ante-post-prandial impressionists see beauty only in sentimental interpretations.—Punch.

A Slight Jolt.

The Bore—By the way, didn't I see you on the avenue yesterday?

The Maid—I'm sure you did, for I remember distinctly that I didn't see you.

Her Tongue Wouldn't Slip.

Vera—Oh, Jack, let's stop. I don't want to go any higher.

Jack—But you won't be able to say you've been to the top.

Vera—Oh, yes, I shall.—Pathfinder.

PEOPLE READ ADVERTISEMENTS. Let the "New Mexican" place in its most obscure column that you are selling sugar at one cent a pound and your store tomorrow will not hold its customers. Advertise calico at one cent a yard and you will have to telegraph to your wholesale house for carload lots.

YOU CAN STIMULATE BUSINESS BY ADVERTISING. Today no business will increase permanently unless by some method of advertising. The fool in his heart will say that there is no virtue in advertising but the wise man knows that the fool is deceiving himself.

THE DAILY ROUND UP.

Santa Fe, N. M., May 22.—
The weather for New Mexico is fair and cool tonight with local frost in north portion. Tuesday fair.

Strong Boxes for your jewelry and papers at GOEBELS.

Sleep-Easy—The Moulton-Espe company gives you the secret in today's change of advertisement.

Call the Capital City Dairy, phone Black 188, when in need of milk and cream. Surplus always on hand.

Corn Dodger Lasts—Come and look over the shoe that will allow you to forget you have feet—Pflueger's.

Baptized—The infant baby of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Howland was baptized yesterday at the Cathedral. Mr. and Mrs. Ciraco Olivares were the sponsors.

Board of Trade Officers—The Farmington board of trade has elected R. W. Hefflin, president; W. A. Hunter, vice president; Willard Belknap, secretary, and W. M. Danburg, treasurer.

Twins the Limit—Wilbur S. Simmons, an insurance agent at Eastport, Maryland, when informed by the nurse that it was twins, shouted: "Good-bye!" and has not been seen since.

In the Hot Land, a great western drama. See how the young lady saves her mother. It's at the Elks.

Frost in San Juan County—A drop in temperature in San Juan county to 31 degrees nipped tender vegetables. A severe hail storm also caused considerable damage. The territorial water gauge at Aztec shows seven feet of water rushing down that stream.

Two Artists Commit Suicide—At Philadelphia, Pa., the great heat, caused two widely known artists to commit suicide yesterday. Robert Clyde Swassee, whose cartoons have made him famous, and Frank Chamberlain, aged 34 years, a magazine illustrator, were the victims.

Was Cold May 22, 1909—G. A. Hanson of this city, says that this cool weather today is just what he found in Santa Fe May 22, two years ago when he came here. It was then cool enough for spring coats and those who had not packed them away got them out.

Danced in His Nightie—The will of Alexander Miller, a Brooklyn millionaire, which gave only $12,500 to his widow, was set aside by a jury because it was shown that Miller two years before his death went barefoot to dinner parties and clad only in his nightie and when his guests appeared bored danced for them, putting a salad bowl on his head. The millionaire also possessed original ideas on serving oysters. He had a basket of bivalves taken into the library, where he opened them on a mahogany table. As he opened each oyster he hurled the shells at the portraits of his ancestors, which adorned the walls. Whenever he scored a hit upon the countenance of an ancestor in oils Miller would pause in his bombardment to carve the initials of said ancestor on the mahogany table, calling upon his guests to follow his example. He decorated much of his costly furniture in this manner.

A Day for Outing—The cool, delightful weather made an outing exceptionally pleasant and scores of Santa Feans took horses, rigs or autos, to go to the canon or elsewhere. W. H. Morgan, successor of Williams & Rising, said today that every horse in his stables was hired.

Makes Good Haul—Willie West, one of the well known young fishermen in the city, was out with book and line yesterday and his friends say he made a splendid catch. Many others are getting out their rods and the wily trout will stand a poor show this summer.

Wife Grinned—Harry Plumbeck seeks divorce at La Porte, Indiana, because after he had shot himself and thought he was dying, he discovered his wife bending over him and laughing. This aroused his desire to live and to get even and he recovered sufficiently to bring suit for divorce.

New Irrigation Canals—Rumor says that Tom Loftus is in Denver purchasing two ditch building machines for use in this county. The Aztec Irrigation Company ditch, heading above Cedar Hill, the Orchard Irrigation district ditch, the Crouch Mesa pumping project and the Hammond Extension are new irrigation canals that are expected to have work started this spring and summer—Aztec Index.

Feast of St. John Nepomucene—Today the Roman Catholic church celebrates the feast of St. John Nepomucene or St. John of Nepomuk, patron saint of Bohemia. He was born in 1339 and he died in 1393. The cause of his martyrdom is variously given. He is however, popularly believed to have refused to betray the confessions of Sophia, wife of King Wenceslaus, which he had received in his priestly capacity.

Fishermen in Canon—About fifty people were in the Santa Fe canon yesterday fishing. Others went in automobiles as far as the Dalton switchbacks and regretted that the switchbacks have not been cleared of the few small slides that obstruct the way although other vehicles have been to the top this spring. On the top, there is a magnificent automobile speedway of some ten miles down to the Dalton canon and the head of the Indian Creek trail. The road to Monument Rock is in good condition.

The Weather—The range in temperature yesterday was 31 to 61 degrees and the average relative humidity for the day was 52 per cent. The lowest temperature last night was 36 degrees and at 6 a. m. today it was 47 degrees. Yesterday was clear during the forenoon and partly cloudy in the afternoon. The day was much cooler than usual with a mean of 46 degrees, 12 degrees below the normal temperature. There was a copious deposit of frost in the morning, but it was not destructive according to the weather man. However, tender plants and vegetables were injured.

To Espanola in Two Hours—Leo Hersch and family yesterday made the trip to Espanola in an hour and fifty minutes in their new E. M. F. car. Frank Horn was chauffeur and crossed the Rio Grande with the auto. Although the water was up to the mid guards no mishap occurred. A stop was made at Santa Cruz where Mr. and Mrs. Hersch visited relatives.

School Board Meets Tonight—The school board will meet tonight. President Jose D. Serna who has been seriously ill for some days, was out again this morning and will likely be able to attend the meeting tonight.

Scarlet Fever at Las Cruces Loreto Academy—Lillian Sanchez is ill with scarlet fever at the Loreto academy at Las Cruces.

Company F Drill Tonight—Company F, New Mexico National Guard will drill at the armory tonight. All guardsmen are expected to turn out and make the drill a success.

Target Practice Yesterday—A few of the guardsmen practiced target shooting yesterday on the range and some fine scores were made by Carlos Vierra, Lieutenant Wiley, and Privates Small and Hill. The guardsmen will go out again at 5:30 a. m. next Sunday. Those who have not yet shot on the range will be requested to do so before June.

had proved a severe trial to the animals and that they will need several days of resting up hence a little vacation has been arranged. The game warden said that many thanks are due the Santa Fe Railroad Company for their kindness in offering every assistance possible in the transportation of the alks and in providing suitable stock cars. The animals came from the ranch of J. B. Dawson in Routt county, Colorado.

Appeal to Supreme Court.
The U. S. Reclamation Service and the Elephant Butte Water Users' Association intend to carry up to the U. S. supreme court, if necessary to gain their point, the recent decision of the New Mexico Board of Water Commissioners lifting the embargo of the reclamation service on the waters of the Rio Grande and its tributaries. This decision was given in the Jastro case, while the reclamation service claims it needs all the surplus waters of the Rio Grande and all of its tributaries north of the Elephant Buttes for the Engle reservoir.

LORIMER AGAIN TO BE DRILLED.

Wyoming, Nelson, Dillingham, Sutherland, Brandegee and Root, all Republicans. It ignores the question of direct elections and deals entirely with that of supervision, which is declared to be the more important feature of the house election resolution which is now before the senate on a report from the majority on the judiciary committee. The subject is fairly summarized in the first exception, in which it is contended that there is no reason why the ultimate authority of the national government over the time and manner of electing senators by direct, popular vote should not continue to be exercised just as it always has been exercised over the direct election of representatives by popular votes.

ACCUSED MURDERER IS ACQUITTED.

The jury in district court at Roswell has acquitted William Zumwalt indicted for murder in the second degree for the killing of Thomas and Edward Hall at Kenna on March 26. The jury held that the killing was justifiable. Alexander Zumwalt, a brother, indicted at the same time, has not been tried.

R. F. ASPLUND MAKES ADDRESS TO GRADUATES.

Carlsbad Has Bigger Public School Enrollment Than Santa Fe and Employs 13 Teachers.

Carlsbad, N. M., May 22.—A large and representative audience filled the spacious auditorium last night at the commencement of the Carlsbad high school. An unusually interesting program had been arranged, including many numbers of instrumental music. Professor R. F. Asplund of the territorial educational department delivered the annual address. The president of the school board D. G. Grantham also made an excellent speech. It is to be noted that the usual heavy essay of the graduates was wanting. The program, however, was to the liking of the people who showed their appreciation from start to finish.

This is the most successful year in Carlsbad schools. Thirteen teachers have been on duty. The enrollment in the high school is 85, in the grammar school 350, and in the Spanish school 125, a total enrollment of 560. The patrons of the schools are taking keen interest in the work. This spring they selected the best men they could find for members of the board. The members are: Dr. F. F. Doepp, one of the best educated men in the west; D. G. Grantham, an attorney of wide experience, and Clarence Bell, who has much experience in educational work. The corps of teachers for the coming year has not been completed, the board being anxious to have the best ability in teachers for every position.
