DEPOT RACKET LAST NIGHT

William Davis, Who Was Full of Bug Juice, Secures Sympathy From Passengers.

OFFICER CURTRIGHT'S ACCOUNT

From Wednesday's Daily Citizen.

William Davis, an employee of the depot, was called to the city jail in such a condition that it is utterly impossible to say anything from his lips, except an occasional "I am sick."

Dr. Wreck, in the absence of City Physician Elder, was called to see the man this morning, and after examining the prostrate form, pronounced the figure pretty full of liquor, bordering on the delirium. He left a prescription to be filled for the man, and directed him to go to the hospital. This afternoon Davis is still in a stupor, and it is quite likely that the Crawford will not have him in his court before tomorrow morning.

The man was arrested at the depot last night, at about 12 o'clock, by Deputy Master Curtright, charged with being drunk, disorderly and refusing arrest, and from the accounts of several passengers, notably Sheriff James R. Blair, of Grant county, and L. M. Lacey, of San Marcel, who were returning to their respective homes, the former from an official trip to Santa Fe, and the latter from a business trip to the east, Curtright had unnecessary cruelty in the arrest.

Mr. Lacey states that the treatment of the man by the officer, was "a most brutal and outrageous" and he has ever witnessed, and that the officer knocked the man down several times and pummeled him viciously in the face and on the head. "Mr. Lacey in his account of the affair, said the victim was a boy about 17 years old and of slender build."

Sheriff Blair says he was in his berth at the time of the racket, and was aroused by the loud talking. He considered the man either drunk or sobering under some powerful drug, which he had taken. He says the officer used force in the exercise of his authority, and used profanity in his demands.

These two gentlemen drew up a complaint against Officer Curtright, which will no doubt be placed in the hands of the railroad company for action.

Officer Curtright, who was formerly city marshal of Las Vegas, called at the City Office this afternoon and stated his side of the story. He says he may have been a little heavy in dealing with Davis, whom he found very drunk with either liquor or some drug. Davis was not a passenger, neither was he looking for a ride. He was one of the men who were disturbing the passengers and preventing them from sleeping. He was asked to be quiet and then became abusive. It was then time for action, and with force he was put off the car.

Confidential Officer Curtright said Davis continued to resist arrest, would not listen to reason and grab the officer by the collar. I then took him on the side of the face with my fist. He crashed the side bar of the coach and Yard Watchman Troutman, in order to assist, tapped the man's head with his stick, which compelled him to loosen his hold. I then took him to the city jail. If I did wrong, I invite investigation from the railroad company.

The Citizen representative looked at the man at the jail, and his face shows no sign of being "brutally assaulted." Davis has been drunk ever since he received his check from the railroad company, and was at the depot to see two chums off for Los Angeles. He is a man about 35 years old.

THAT LAS VEGAS CONVENTION.

IT WAS A SMALL CROWD OF BOREHEAD BOODLE HUNTERS.

From the New Mexican.

M. A. Ortiz, assessor of this county, returned last night from Las Vegas, where he had been for the past two days on a visit to his father, who is 77 years of age and quite feeble.

On the same evening, Monday last, the regular republicans held a rally at which there were hundreds of persons present and which filled the large hall to overflowing. At this meeting several former leaders of the independent and union parties which have existed in San Miguel county for some years, declared their allegiance to the regular republican party, and joined them then and there. This meeting was very large and enthusiastic and Mr. Ortiz is of the opinion that the regular republicans are sure of San Miguel county for the delegates, legislative and senate tickets by at least 500 majority.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—The nineteenth annual convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew opened in this city today. At Holy Trinity church Bishop Tuttle, presiding bishop of the United States, delivered the charge to the convention this morning. The business sessions opened this afternoon in Horticultural hall. The principal speakers were James A. Catto, president of the brotherhood in Canada, and J. H. Small, of Chicago. Bishop Whitaker will preside at the mass meeting to be held in the Academy of Music this evening, and James L. Houghaling, of Chicago, founder of the brotherhood, will be one of the speakers. Much interest is manifested in the proceedings tomorrow, when one of the speakers will be the Archbishop of Canterbury.

A military Y. M. C. A. tent has been installed near the Model camp for visiting military organizations at the world's fair. Services are held every Sunday and a library for the use of the soldiers is maintained.

A portrait of the Crown Prince Michael Alexandrovich, brother of the czar Nicholas II, emperor of Russia, is a feature of the Russian exhibit at the world's fair. It was executed by the Russian artist, Boldreff.

A large tapestry made in 1850 is exhibited in the Belgian section of the art palace at the world's fair. Although over 150 years old it is as well preserved as if it retained all of the 2000 colors and shades which are worked into its texture.

A feature of the art exhibit of the Argentine republic at the world's fair, the first ever made by that government at an exposition, is the beautiful arrangement of the statuary in the sculpture court of the art palace. The central piece is a large plaster group "Winners" by Rogelio Yrurtia, the well-known Argentine sculptor. Around it are artistically grouped the other statues by Mateo Alonso, Lucio Correa Morales and Arturo Dresow.

How It Rained.

The Las Vegas Optic says that Las Vegas was treated to a summer's shower on Tuesday, Albuquerque and the surrounding country was treated to a "way down east" rain last night and today.

It began falling about midnight and continued until noon today. It is still cloudy and threatening. Reports from the south are to the effect that the heaviest rain of the season fell between Rincon and El Paso last night. Seven miles of track is reported washed out on the Rio Grande division and telegraph communication is cut off. Train No. 22, the train from El Paso due here at 7:10 this morning, has been annulled.

Owing to the issues involved the trial promises to attract more attention than any proceeding of the kind that has taken place in this section in many years. The presiding officer is Col. Clifford L. Anderson, of Atlanta.

ADVERTISING CAR AT GALLUP.

GALLUP PEOPLE PLEASED WITH BILLY BERRY'S ENTERTAINMENT.

The Albuquerque advertising car under the management of Billy Berry arrived here yesterday and last evening gave their entertainment in connection with the baseball team. The game and entertainment was an impromptu affair, as the boys were expected to give a nice dance and had they been advised earlier so it could have been advertised the house would have been packed. Billy Berry has a first class orchestra and furnished the best dance music we have had for some time. If they can get the consent of the fair association they have promised to stop on their way back and give another dance. The boys are anxious to have this entertainment as well patronized as possible, as it is the only means they will have of raising any expense money for the trip to Albuquerque for the ball tournament. The ball team has entered the tournament and expect to win some of the big money, and if they are fortunate enough to get Berry and his orchestra for another dance everybody should avail themselves of the opportunity of having a good time and helping the boys out.—Republican.

German Naval Official Arrived.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—Herr Barkmeyer, chief of the confidential bureau of the German ship building works at Kiel, has been arrested at the instance of the directors for irregularities in his acts. The directors positively affirm that Herr Barkmeyer's arrest was not made as the result of the charges that he had sold military secrets, as was reported in the United States.

CONNECTICUT LAUNCHED

New York, Sept. 29.—In view of probably the largest crowd that ever witnessed a launching in this country the battleship Connecticut sailed down the ways and took her maiden plunge in the deep at 11:18 a. m. this morning. The launching took place at the Brooklyn navy yard, where the vessel is being built. A half hour before the event the gates of the yard were thrown open and the public swarmed in by the thousands. It was the first launching of a modern battleship in this vicinity and as a consequence the public was exceedingly eager to witness the event.

As the huge hull slid from the ways into the East river the christening ceremony was performed by Miss Alice Welles, granddaughter of General Welles, of Connecticut, who was secretary of the navy under Lincoln and Johnson. Miss Welles broke on the vessel's bow a gold-necked bottle of champagne draped with the national colors.

The launching was witnessed by many invited guests who were received by Admiral Rodgers, commandant of the navy yard. In addition to the Connecticut party, which was headed by Governor Chamberlain and his staff, there were present a large number of naval officers from Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and other points. Great preparations had been taken to insure a successful launching. On the ways were spread fifteen thousand pounds of launching grease. Ready to grab the vessel almost as soon as she struck the water were powerful tugs which were used to take her to her moorings. To prevent any accident and to keep the course clear, the police boats, revenue cutters and the yard launches patrolled the water to keep all other boats out of the way. As the vessel struck water the craft on the Manhattan side of the river, together with the factories in the vicinity, sent up a deafening shriek from their countless whistles. To this din was added the booming of cannon and the hum of the thousands of spectators.

After the launching the christening party and other distinguished visitors were entertained at luncheon by Admiral Rodgers and the other officers of the navy yard.

The battleship launched today is a sister ship to the Louisiana which was launched a few weeks since at Newport. In view of the fact that it is the first ship of the modern navy to be constructed by the navy department and not by private contract the progress of its construction has been watched with keen interest in naval circles.

The Connecticut is 450 feet long and has a beam of 76 feet 10 inches. Her normal mean draft with 900 tons of coal in her bunkers will be 24 feet 6 inches. Her normal displacement will be 16,000 tons. Her complement will be 42 officers and 280 men. She will be fitted with twin screws and twelve funnels. Her engines are two twelve inch Krupp steel and her barbettes are ten inch Krupp, while the side armor will be eleven inches thick at the most exposed portions of the hull, tapering down to nine inches at the bow and stern.

In armament the Connecticut will be more powerful than any American battleship now afloat. She will have four twelve-inch guns in fore and after turrets, and eight-inch guns in main gun turrets at each corner of the superstructure. In addition the main battery will have twelve-inch guns in this side rifle is an innovation in naval armament, but it is believed they may be handled almost as easily as the eight-inch gun, and is expected to be much more effective. In armor plating than the sixteen inch rapid fire rifle. The secondary battery also will have larger guns than hitherto have been used. It will be composed of twenty three-inch rapid-fire guns, discharging fourteen-pound shells; twelve three-pounder semi-automatic rifles, eight one-pounder automatic rifles, two three-inch field guns, and eight machine guns. In addition it will be equipped with four submerged torpedo tubes.

The vessel will be thoroughly equipped with electrical appliances for handling ammunition, aiming the guns, and for all other necessary purposes. It is now an accepted theory that in order to do satisfactory shooting there should be a continuous aim—that is to say, the gun should be pointed steadily at the target, no matter how the vessel moves. One method of doing this is by keeping the weapon in a horizontal position all the time by an automatically controlled electric motor. The guns on the Connecticut will be equipped with such motors.

To Take Canada Atlantic.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 29.—In dominion railroad circles much interest is manifested in the half-yearly meeting of the Grand Trunk railway in London today, as it is expected that action will be taken whereby the Grand Trunk will acquire the Canada Atlantic railway.

The Canada Atlantic runs from Parry Sound on Georgian bay and connects with the Grand Trunk at Ottawa Crossing, St. Lawrence river and also makes connection with the Vermont Central, Boston & Maine, Delaware & Hudson and Rutland railways in the United States. The effect of this addition will be to consolidate the Grand Trunk system, especially in its capacities for handling Grand Trunk trade from the west. It will also give the Grand Trunk a direct route from Montreal to Georgian bay.

McGOVERN AND MURPHY.

These Two Game Little Fighters Will Battle at the National Athletic Club Tonight—Both are in the Pink of Condition.

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—"Hughie" McGovern and "Tommy" Murphy are in excellent condition for their second bout, which has been postponed off before the National Athletic club tonight. Both boxers have finished their training and are ready until called upon to enter the ring to begin their battle. The contest has been widely discussed during the last few weeks and a big crowd will be on hand to see the little fellows fight. The two are regarded as very evenly matched. McGovern expresses confidence in his ability to put out the New Yorker, which Champion Francis Neil failed to do, and as Murphy is also confident of the result there will no doubt be a pretty battle.

Sports who intend to witness the battle are betting even money on the youngsters.

S. LEWINSON PUNISHES USER OF TOBACCO

ACCUSES SALVADOR SALVADOR OF SPITTING ON HIS HEAD.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The proprietors of the Rochester dry goods store, was fined $5 in police court this morning for striking Salvador Salvador, a wine merchant, on the head with a glass power holder.

Mr. Lewinson testified that on Monday he was standing outside his store on Railroad avenue watching some work going on on the new Grand building. Something struck him on the head, which was sore. He put his hand up and found a chew of tobacco sticking there. He looked up and saw Salvador standing above him with a "silly grin" of satisfaction on his countenance.

Yesterday Salvador entered Mr. Lewinson's store on business and Mr. Lewinson accused him of spitting on his (Lewinson's) head.

Salvador denied the allegation and defied the accuser to prove that he spit on his head. They paid each other a few nice comments and Mr. Lewinson handed Salvador a glass power holder.

Japanese Wounded.

Tokyo, Sept. 28.—Unofficial estimates place the number of sick and wounded Japanese soldiers under treatment in Japan at 15,000. The military hospitals at Tokyo, Osaka and Hiroshima contain 10,000 each. Nine thousand have recovered sufficiently to be sent to mountain and health resorts. The system of handling and treating the sick and wounded is working splendidly and the death rate is exceptionally small.

The number of directors will be three, and those who will manage the affairs of the concern for the first three months are Frederick Stover, Bert Moo and A. D. Coleman. ## PROSECUTING STRIKERS.

FOUR ALAMOGORDO STRIKING MACHINISTS BOUND OVER TO THE DISTRICT COURT.

The El Paso & Northeastern Railway company and the strikers are considerably interested in the outcome of a hearing which was had before United States Commissioner Shepherd at Alamogordo, when upon conclusion of the argument by counsel, four strikers were bound over to the United States district court of the sixth judicial district in $500 bail each. The defendants are Albert Roland, A. W. Miller, George Higgins and John McGovern, who are charged with unlawfully entering into a combination and conspiracy to interfere with and prevent persons from securing and engaging in labor for their support. The testimony adduced at the trial alleges that on or before September 1, John Cranshaw, a non-union boiler-maker in the employ of the El Paso & Northeastern Railway company, went to Tularosa to do some work, and that upon his arrival there he was met by the four men above mentioned, all of them union men and who were Cranshaw a sound beating. Another man, who accompanied Cranshaw as a helper, is also said to have received a severe beating. Cranshaw returned to this place and filed the complaint upon which the preliminary hearing was had. It is noted, The El Paso & Northeastern seems to be behind the proceedings, making a test case. The strikers are as anxiously awaiting the outcome of the hearing as the railroad company, this being the first time this particular question has been in the territorial courts. W. A. Hawkins appears for the railway company and Byron Sherry for the defendants. Albert Roland was the only striker who could give bail, the remaining three being confined in the jail—32 Paso News.

DISTRICT COURT

WILLIAM MCINTOSH SUIT IN PROGRESS.

The district court was engaged yesterday in hearing argument in the case of William McIntosh against R. Romero and the commissioners of the Chilli land grant, a suit brought to enjoin the defendants from cutting timber from certain lands claimed by the plaintiff. The defendants claim that the lands upon which the timber is being cut belongs to the common lands of the grant.

The difficulty arises out of the terms of a decree rendered in the district court some ten years ago in which the commissioners of the grant undertook to quiet the title of the lands of the grant, and in which the lands claimed by McIntosh are described in such a manner as to leave a doubt as to what the description means. The language is in the northeast and south boundaries in that decree is "the summit of the mountains, followed by the Spanish word 'Cuchillas' in brackets, and the word boundary being uncertain."

The plaintiff produced several surveys who testified that the Cuchillas were the top of a well defined ridge on both sides of the valley, making the tract about a mile and a half wide, while the surveyor for the defendant says the Cuchillas are the first rise on the land on each side of the valley, making the tract a very narrow one and cutting out all the timbered lands and the creek down to about one-fifth of the plaintiff's claim. The defense also endeavored to show what was contemplated by the decree in the former case by going into the nature of the proceedings in that case and the claims of McIntosh's grantors thereunder. The argument is still proceeding.

NEW MEXICO FAIR NOTES

The Big Show is Rapidly Approaching and Everybody is Happy.

SOME OF THE LATEST POINTERS

The advertising car of Gentry Bros' dog and pony show arrived from the south yesterday morning and during the day a corps of hill pointers posted the city.

Improvements continue to be made at the fair ground. A new roof has been added to the grand stand and work on the boxes continues. There will be ten boxes in all and no doubt they will prove very fashionable. They are the best seats at the park.

The ball grounds have received due attention. The diamond is so very fast that players need to push diamonds may find that they are a trifle slow.

The race track is in fine shape. It is hard and smooth as glass and is at least four seconds faster than last year.

The military band will practice in the open air tonight near the city hall. The band is getting ready for the concert at Albuquerque during the fair. An excellent record is being made—Las Vegas Optic.

A number of orders have announced the intention of appointing special committees to work for the success of the Albuquerque exposition. This is the right idea—Las Vegas Optic.

The New Mexico Irrigation congress promises to be a meeting of notable importance. The executive committee, and especially its chairman, have done strenuous work in securing the attendance of men of such note as will be present.

The Denver papers yesterday afternoon published quarter page advertisements for the Santa Fe, devoted exclusively to the advertising of the Albuquerque fair. The Optic says that the Denver and other Colorado papers are devoting considerable space to articles relating to the Las Vegas fair and to the Albuquerque fair and to the New Mexico Irrigation congress. The Santa Fe has given the best rate for those occasions it has ever offered and both cities will entertain big crowds in October. Albuquerque and Las Vegas will appreciate the good work of the Santa Fe and of the Colorado and New Mexico press.

The ladies auxiliary to the fair association will meet as a whole at Mrs. P. A. Holmsted's residence Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The young ladies who are to assist the auxiliary will attend this meeting.

The territorial fair advertising car No. 5, with Billy Berry and vaudeville artists in charge, left yesterday for the west.

Gentry Brothers' Dog and Pony show advertising car will also assist in advertising the fair. It will go on as far north as Santa Fe, south to Socorro and as far west as Gallup, hitting towns en route.

B. C. Jackson, manager of the American Lumber company mills, on behalf of the company, has agreed to permit fair visitors in the big mills. In fact, the American Lumber company will keep open house.

It has been announced that the democrats of the territory will hold a convention in Albuquerque during the Territorial fair. Prominent democrats are looked for speakers.

North Dakota W. C. T. U.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 29.—Several hundred delegates and visitors are here for the annual convention of the state organization of the Women's Temperance Union, which will be in session here during the next few days. The convention promises to be the most notable ever held in the organization in this state. The scheduled speakers include the national president, Mrs. L. M. Stevens, of Maine, and Miss Anna Gordon, the vice president of the national organization.

Contributed Verses on the Fair.

God was good to make the mountains,
And the valleys and the hills,
Put the Chinese in the pie house
And the sugar in the pills.

Good to give us Albuquerque,
With its sunshine and its smiles,
Pretty women, flowers and shade trees,
And the best man and his wiles.

Good to give us all a fair week,
Bringing people near and far,
Where rich and poor, lowly, meek,
Come by thousands, car on car.

Best fair in the great southwest,
You won't miss it don't you think,
For, remember, 'tis the best—
This without a blink or wink.

THE GREAT AND GROWING WEST.

"Go west, young man, and grow up with the country," said Horace Greely, more than thirty years ago, and his advice has been followed by so many men, both young and old, that the west has been transformed from a waste of mountain and plain into the most thriving, though not the most populous part of the country. In Greely's time it was a wilderness; today it is an empire in itself, richer in resources and greater in every thing except population than many of the most powerful nations of the earth.

The current number of The World's Work has an article on the progress of the west which will open the eyes of even those who have best its wonderful history. In mineral products the west produces the greatest share of the nation's total. In agriculture it produces half, and in live stock more than half.

PORT ARTHUR SIEGE.

Not since the Crimean war has the world witnessed a siege which compares in fierceness of attack and stubbornness of resistance with that now in progress at Port Arthur. Sevastopol held out much longer than Port Arthur has done, but the Russian defense of the "Gibraltar of the East" is by no means an end, and it may well be said that a full year will elapse before the garrison surrenders or is captured.

The ability and willingness of the Russians to fight is no longer open to question. In every conflict on land and sea they have shown themselves to be desperately courageous, and the stubborn tenacity of their resistance is very nearly a match for the tiger-like ferocity of the Japanese onslaughts.

Such monumental valor on both sides can not but excite the admiration and wonder of the world, and at the same time its pity and regret. It is a severe commentary on our civilization that in the twentieth century international disputes are still settled by this barbarous and revolting method.

The twenty states and four territories west of the Mississippi contain 45 per cent of the total area, and 22 per cent of the population. Fifty per cent of the country's mileage of railroads lies within their borders. Eighteen per cent of the capital invested in manufactures is in the west, and it produces 26 per cent of the manufactured products of the nation.

In the matter of accumulated capital the west is still far behind the east, but as regards wealth it possesses 22 per cent of the total. The Trans-Mississippi region is steadily pushing forward in manufacturing and finance, and within a quarter of a century will probably overtake the east. In twenty years the manufacturing center of the nation has moved from western Pennsylvania to central Ohio.

Politically the west cuts a greater figure than the east in proportion to population, owing to the fact that every state has two senators and one representative, no matter if, as in the case of Nevada, it has only 12,000 people. At the present time the west casts 45 per cent of the votes in the senate and 30 per cent in the house. No new senators can be added from the eastern states, but when the four territories are admitted, as they eventually will be, representation in the senate will be evenly divided between the west and the east.

EXTENSION OF TELEPHONES.

Statistics show that there has been in recent years an enormous increase in the use of telephones. The Philadelphia Press says that while two years ago there were only 10,000 telephones in the whole of the Russian empire, there are now that many in the city of Philadelphia alone.

In the last two years one American company has installed more than 500,000 telephones, and today there is a telephone for every fifty people in the United States. Although five billion communications were sent by mail in the United States last year, the telephone is rapidly climbing up toward the mark of the postal service, there being two telephone calls in every three letters mailed in this country.

It all goes to show that the American demand rapidly to whatever is done. They use telephones because they desire of speedy communication. When an American desires to do he wants to do right away, commencing as little time as possible. This has made it necessary to run trains at a high rate of speed. It has required companies to adopt rapid means of transit in cities, and the use of telephones is of the same character. They are demanded by the people, and in response to this demand companies are organized and the service extended.

The recent order of the Burlington railroad company substituting telephones in place of the telegraph in dispatching and operating trains is a late illustration of the way in which the telephone is making inroads upon old forms of service.

THE JEWS IN AMERICA.

After all the anti-Semitic agitation that has taken place in France in recent years it is a little surprising to learn that there are only about 50,000 Jews in the entire country. In a population of 92,000,000 this element constitutes such an infinitesimal fraction that it seems ridiculous to think of them being considered a menace. Perhaps the reason they are so disliked is that they are, as a rule, prosperous and are leaders in whatever field they engage.

The total Jewish population of the world is a little less than 11,000,000, and nearly one-half of these are in Russia, where they are oppressed by law and deprived of every opportunity for advancement. The remainder are scattered throughout the world, mostly in Europe and the United States. Considering their slight numerical strength—about 8,000,000—their achievements and the position they occupy in commerce and science are marvelous.

It is a peculiar fact, and one not generally known, that fully one-fourth of the population of Manhattan island, New York city, are Jews. The Jewish population of the United States numbers about 1,200,000, and of these one-half are concentrated in New York city, mostly in Manhattan. If it were almost any other race that emigrated to this country in large numbers such concentration in a big city would be a real danger, but the Jew is not the kind that becomes a public nuisance. Pauperism is unknown among them, and crime is extremely rare. The feeling of racial kinship is strong, and it is probably largely due to their observance of the motto, "All for one and one for all," that their present position in the world is due.

ABANDONMENT OF FRONTIER FORTS.

The recommendation which Major-General Sumner the division commander of the southwestern division, makes regarding the abandonment of several of the old army posts and forts may be accepted, says the San Francisco Chronicle, as the first official acknowledgment that the days of Indian troubles in Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Texas are over. Many of the forts which General Sumner proposes to dismantle and abandon were erected to protect what was known in comparatively recent times as the frontier, against the raids of the Utes, the Blackfoot, the Navajos, the Comanches and the Apaches. Some of them have been the scenes of stirring events within the past twenty years, when those Indian tribes were still unnamed savages and went on the war path on the least provocation to raid the widely separated settlements and murder and scalp the defenseless white settlers. The appearance of their signal fires illuminating the summits of the range was a notice to the hardy troops quartered at these isolated posts that serious business was at hand and "hoots and snarls" would at once ring out on the midnight air, summoning them to head off the redskins and raiders.

The forts are no longer needed. The warlike savages have been pacified by the policy of transforming the irredeemable adults to reservations located in Indian Territory and other points remote from their native haunts, where they can be easily controlled and the regeneration of their children be effected by the civilizing influences of the schools which have been established for their benefit. Their old haunts are now occupied by thrifty farmers and enterprising miners, who are developing the natural resources of the region. The disappearance of the old frontier army posts will remove the only existing monuments of the time when the blood-thirsty Apaches and other savage tribes disputed the right of the whites to invade their country, and the story of our Indian wars will now become a mere memory.

SOME HORRORS OF WAR.

When a grunting lady said to the Duke of Wellington, "I should love to see a great victory in battle; it must be glorious," he replied: "There is nothing more horrible, madam, except a defeat."

War, as civilizations are today, is something necessary; it can never be idealized.

The London Telegraph, recently, in commenting upon the courage and sacrifice of the Russians and Japanese, said:

"The present war has revived the sense of heroism which characterizes war and sternness nations, a sense that has been in danger of disappearing since gun powder made warfare a matter of machinery in which the opposing machine operators can not see each other."

It is well to recognize courage and heroism in war, but it is an insult to civilization to speak as if nothing but war could bring out "the sense of heroism." Because war may sometimes be a necessary evil it does not follow that it should be lauded as the only or chief means of arousing the noblest qualities.

As a matter of fact, the saddest fact regarding war is the way it deadens the higher feelings.

In the light of this claim of the London Telegraph, read the dispatches telling of the brutal struggle that has gone on about Port Arthur wherein men die in a ghastly clutch at the throat and eye socket. A war correspondent during the English war in South Africa, one who has passed much of his life among soldiers, wrote:

"War raises to the surface the worst passions and vices of men, and who ever expects soldiers, whether they be English, French, German or Boer, to act in the heat of battle as a gentleman would act in a London drawing room, has very little knowledge of the ferocity latent in human nature. When life and death are the stakes for which men play, civility and mercy are easily forgotten, and the original savage reappears, not much changed from the primeval time."

Polish Catholic Congress.
Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 27.—The Polish Catholic National Congress began its annual meeting in Pittsburg today with a large attendance of delegates and visitors. The chief aim of the congress is to check the defection from the Roman Catholic church caused by the Polish Independent Catholic movement. Buffalo, Chicago, Milwaukee and numerous other cities are represented at the congress.

Lady Curzon's Condition.
Walmers Castle, Kent, Sept. 27.—The slight improvement yesterday in the condition of Lady Curzon continues today, but her condition is still critical.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Cleveland's silence would indicate that nothing is good. Eleven millions of people have seen in St. Louis world's fair.

Parker will publish his letter of acceptance on September 26.

Everything should be rapidly completed in the preparations for the big territorial fair.

Judge Parker's letter of acceptance contains nothing new on the political situation.

The Record says that Roosevelt will have a car load of fruit at the Albuquerque fair.

The people of this city will not get interested in politics until after the territorial fair.

Senator Andrews will make an aggressive and winning campaign for delegate to congress.

A democratic weekly paper of this city is throwing mud at Judge Baker in a reckless manner.

This judicial district will give the republican nominee for delegate at least five thousand majority.

The democrats will be greatly disappointed if they are counting on republican defection in this county.

The intelligent voter pays little attention to the political canards in circulation on the eve of an election.

More cider is produced in the United States in a single year than in all the rest of the world in five years.

The final attack on Port Arthur is now in progress. It is the most terrible conflict in the history of the world.

There will be El Paso, Las Vegas and Santa Fe days designated at the Territorial fair. Thursday will be Las Vegas day.

The democrats refuse to discuss the tariff issue because no two factions of their many-sided party agree upon any definite policy.

The daily newspapers of Albuquerque are certainly doing their whole duty in promoting everything that will benefit the city.

The tons of campaign literature being distributed in the doubtful states will be at least useful for better after the election.

The New Mexico Irrigation congress at Albuquerque October 11 and 12 should be attended by every friend of irrigation in the territory.

Trade reports indicate that the manufacturers are not waiting until after election to increase activity. They take the result for granted.

George P. Money is at Santa Fe today. The young man is making a brisk campaign. He will be in Albuquerque the whole of fair week.

Elke's Day will be a hummer at the Territorial fair. All the Elkes of New Mexico, Arizona, El Paso and other cities are expected to be present.

There is little difference in the principles of the political parties in this territory. Straight whacky is served at each of the party headquarters in Santa Fe.

Out of 805 cases of suicide last year, 327, or 41 per cent, were caused by carbolic acid. This poison is getting itself into the class with automobiles and unloaded guns.

The church is slowly gaining in England. Ten years ago the communicants numbered only one in 18 of the population, now the proportion is one in 15.

As an advertisement of their thread a well-known firm has, after several attempts, converted Europe and Asia across the Bosphorus by about 1,000 yards of cotton.

The Eagles will have a day and keep open house on that occasion, during fair week. On that date the famous Eagle land of Trinidad, Colorado, will furnish the music.

Governor Otero and Senator Andrews will begin in a few days a vigorous political campaign. Each evening will be visited, and evening republican meetings will be held in all the towns.

In this issue may be found Senator Andrews' letter of acceptance of the republican nomination for delegate to congress. It is a plain statement from a practical business man, and fully explains itself.

George P. Money is a democratic official importation from Mississippi. He came to the territory with the democratic herd of official carpet baggers under the Cleveland administration in 1885.

The democratic assault on the personality of President Roosevelt does not seem to make much headway. In every case thus far the condemnation has been regarded by the people as an endorsement.

The fair association has hired the famous Gentry dog and pony show for the entire fair week. This great aggregation of intelligent animals will be used to help out the big parade and other street features of the big fair.

Cholera is said to have appeared at Port Arthur. With this grim destroyer, allied with the Japanese, who are ravaging the stronghold with shot and shell, the condition of the brave defenders is rendered doubly desperate.

Judge Baker is a clean and upright official. He commands the respect of the people of this district to a marked extent, and the malicious charges made against him by a secret committee of seceders in this city will fall flat.

Kansas has at length devised a successful plan for assuring complete harmony in a political convention. The experiment was recently tested by the prohibitionists with satisfactory results. It is to hold a convention with one delegate.

The southern Pacific railway, which is building a bridge across the Rio Grande near El Paso, Tex., has demonstrated in a purely accidental manner that the underflow in the channel of the river which has been dry for ten months is a large, strong river itself flowing through the deep sand.

Maline now takes rank as the great toothpick state. She is the headquarters and chief center of the toothpick industry. Her big white birch forests furnish the stock for the big factories, which supply fully 90 per cent of the toothpicks used in this country.

To those familiar with San Miguel county politics the action of one of the factions is not surprising. They announce that they are for Rodey, who is not a candidate. This is a notice to Andrews and Money that there are so many votes for sale, and that they will put either name on their "independent" ticket for so much cash. This was the offer made to the late M. S. Otero when he was a candidate for delegate, which he promptly declined.

The Cesar Nicholas II has thirty-three male relatives, of whom he receives an annual income of $100,000. They also own an aggregate of 5,000 square miles of land and 325 palaces and employ about 30,000 servants. The burden of their support falls, of course, on the tax payers of the empire.

The British government's yearly estimate of the coal production of the world is 700,000,000 tons, of which more than one-third is produced in this country, and something less than one-third in Great Britain.

In an interview in the Morning Journal Delegate Rodey does not clearly state his position. He should at once get in line with the republican party or take the opposite. A middle course is not open.

After much hesitation the democratic national committee has decided to permit William J. Bryan to speak for Parker. But he will be sent to Montana, where the range is wide.

Crime in New York is evidently not on the decrease. Since the first of August her records show 24 homicides, 223 burglaries, 68 robberies and 35 felonious assaults.

The emperor of Russia is a radical woman's suffragist, and holds that nearly all the great reforms of the world have been brought about by women.

Reports from the doubtful states declare that the ward bosses are totally disgusted with the method of conducting this campaign.

It's a poor college these days that does not "open this fall with the largest attendance in its history."

There is an absence of campaign songs in this national campaign noticeable in all the states.

A few reckless friends of Delegate Rodey are causing that gentleman great political injury.

It is generally the best man that wins, and he wins or loses by his own acts.

Political victories are won by effective organization.

Richmond, Ind., Sept. 27.—The Indiana yearly meeting of Friends has begun its annual meeting here and will continue for ten days. Many matters of interest are to come before the meeting this year. The reports of the work in the mission fields of Cuba and of other foreign lands will be of exceptional interest. Much interest is manifested also in the report of the peace committee because of the present wars and the general unsettled condition of international affairs. Another matter of importance before the meeting is the selection of a new clerk. Among those prominently mentioned for this honor is President Mills, of Fairham college.

During the panic doesn't justify the product.

The detective had no clue upon which to base work. They found a street car conductor who told them that he saw a negro pick up a package in the street car, and with this knowledge they began visiting negro saloons and clubs all over the city. Vaughn's arrest then followed about 9 o'clock last night, although at that time they had no knowledge that he knew anything about the money.

HE LOST $7,250 ON A CAR.
Kansas City Star.

J. C. Hill, Kansas City manager of the Northwestern Mercantile company's retail store at Coloma, N. M., reported to the police that he lost a package on a Fifth street car containing $7,250. Detectives Phelan and McGovern were assigned to the case and they arrested Ben Vaughn, a negro living in the rear of 1616 Washington street, and a negro woman, Cora Fields, on suspicion of knowing something about the money.

The money consisted of two $1,000 bills, a $500 bill and a draft for $4,750. Vaughn admitted finding the money on the car. The money was dug up in an ash heap in an alley in the rear of 1616 Washington street where Vaughn had buried it. In his excitement after his arrest Vaughn could not remember where he hid the money, and confessed that another negro had seen him bury it and had taken it. Vaughn said he threw away the draft.

How He Lost the Money.
I came to Kansas City from Coloma, N. M., with the money on August 26, and intended placing the money in the New England National bank here," said Mr. Hill. "I met friends here, however, and after visiting with them, I found that the banks had closed. I lost that night for my visit with parents at Coloma, Mo., and upon arriving there I placed my money in the Farmers' and Traders' bank at Coloma. I then went to St. Louis and saw the expedition returning to California for my money. Last Sunday I returned to Kansas City, expecting in paper and find underneath my trunk this time to get my money in the bank. I arrived here in the evening and in going to the Wellington hotel from the union depot on a Fifth street car the money was lost. It was wrapped in paper and the package was in my trunk when I arrived at the hotel."

SYLLABI OF OPINIONS

Handed Down By Supreme Court of New Mexico at Recent Session.

SEVEN INTERESTING CASES

At the recent special term of the territorial supreme court, decisions in a number of interesting cases were announced. The syllabi in some of the most important, are published by The Citizen herewith as timely.

The regents of the Agricultural College, appellants, vs. J. H. Vaughn, treasurer of New Mexico. This was on mandamus originally brought by the board of regents of the Agricultural college of New Mexico, against J. H. Vaughn, treasurer of New Mexico, by which the petitioners sought to compel the treasurer to pay to them the sum of $25,000 out of the "Temporary Provisional Indebtedness Fund," and the supreme court decides, Chief Justice W. J. Mills writing opinion, that "When a legislature passes an act creating a fund to be known as the 'Temporary Provisional Indebtedness Fund,' and orders the territorial treasurer to transfer to it the several sums which are to the credit of certain designated funds, mandamus will not lie to compel the treasurer to transfer to it other moneys than those in the funds named in the act."

In the territory of New Mexico ex rel J. M. Sandoval, appellee, an appeal from the district court of Bernalillo county, Judge John H. McPhee, writing the opinion, the supreme court in reversing the court below, decides in brief, first, that the legislature is, by Section 6 of the Organic Act, clothed with power to create the office of county assessor, and to prescribe as one of his qualifications, for office, that he shall reside in the county for which he is elected to serve, but in the act creating the office, there is no residence qualification provided for. Second, that the manner of filling vacancies in county offices was changed by Chapter 2, Laws of 1901, the power being vested in the governor, but this does not include a residence qualification. Third, Chapter 2 also provides that the officers to be elected shall reside in the county of Bernalillo, but Chapter 45 of the same laws does not so provide; the court therefore cannot enjoin upon the assessor by constitution and a qualification, which the legislature, with full power to act, has seen fit to omit. Fourth, a residence of an officer of the county outside of the county but within the territory does not disqualify for such office from continuing to hold his office, except in the case of county commissioners. Fifth, there being no vacancy, the appointment of Albert was of no legal effect, as the former incumbent, Sandoval, held a superior title to the office by reason of his election, nullification by reason of the office, and the fact that he had been duly elected.

In the territory of New Mexico ex rel J. J. Gibson et al. appellants, vs. Thomas C. Gierman et al. appellees, involving the question of holding the office of county commissioner, Judge John H. McPhee, writing opinion, in reversing the court below decides, that Section 2, Chapter 27, Laws of 1901, as amended by Chapter 2, Laws of 1902, is in conflict with the Act of Congress approved July 26, 1898, as amended by Act of Congress approved July 19, 1900, prohibiting local and special legislation regulating county and township affairs, and therefore said section being void, it follows as a necessary consequence, that appellee's right to hold the office of county commissioner must be denied.

Talbot P. Carson, et al. appellants, vs. The Old Reliable Oil Mining company, appellees. First, "In this territory probate courts are without jurisdiction to determine contested claims of title to property as between an estate and a stranger." Second, "That the proceedings in the district court to vacate an order of the probate court adjudicating rights between an estate and a stranger will be dismissed because the judgment is a probate court is not a cloud upon the title."

Territory of New Mexico, appellee, vs. Jessie Smith, appellant. Appeal from the district court of San Miguel county. Judgment of lower court reversed. First, A plea in abatement in a criminal case must be verified. A verification upon information and belief is no verification, and renders the plea demurrable. Second, Where title to animals the subject of larceny is sought to be established by brand, a certificate of the recorder's brand must be shown. Third, A motion to strike out the testimony of a witness is seasonable under the facts in this case.

James H. Orman, plaintiff in error, vs. James L. Van Arsdale, et al. error to district court, Santa Fe county. The judgment of the court below affirmed and decided. First, A right fully matured under existing law, to defeat a debt by a plea of the statute of limitations is neither a vested right nor a property right, and may be taken away at will by the legislature. Second, Act of March 14, 1903, construed to be retrospective in operation.

George W. Johnson, administrator, etc., appellee, vs. Board of County Commissioners of Bernalillo County, and decide. First, An account for unpaid salary as district attorney of Bernalillo county, void under the Bateman Act, was revived by Chapter 29, Laws of 1901, and said county was thereby made liable to pay the same. Second, The personal representative of an attorney who performs services under a contract for fees, but dies before the full performance, can recover only such reasonable portion of the contract price as the services performed here to the whole services contracted for, otherwise stated, the reasonable value of the services performed.

HORSE RACING AT LAS VEGAS.

Extensive preparations are being made by the Las Vegas Driving Park and Fair association for the journey to be held at that place on October 4, 5 and 6. A purse of $2,500 has been set by the New Mexico Territorial fair, by which the winners of the first three races will be the winners of the first three races of the circuit. Aside from the race course the Territorial Fairmen's annual tournament will be held with a prize purse of $500 in sight. The same amount is offered for baseball.

Golfing park, where the journey will be held, is a new course, built this year at a cost of $25,000. It is well supplied with sand, water and feed, and horses are given the guarantee that everything will be in splendid shape.

NEW MEXICO DAY.

After consultation with the New Mexico board of managers of the Louisiana Purchase exposition, Governor Otero has on Monday, October 17, as New Mexico day at the St. Louis world's fair, and has issued a proclamation announcing the designation of that date for the purpose of its proper celebration at the New Mexico building in such citizens of the territory as may think it in their duty.
The New Mexican says that the date was chosen for a very good reason: that this celebration might not interfere with the holding and the attendance at the territorial fair at Albuquerque, which commences on the 10th of October. This will spend financially and strongly to patriotic and most citizens of the territory who wish to see the territorial fair a success, many of them will no doubt be at St. Louis to see the fair and to honor to the executive of New Mexico in connection with the New Mexico day, as the governor will be in attendance when that occasion.

The occasion will be elaborate and the largest of managers in making all the preparations for the event. Then all the preparations for the event will be made and sent to leading citizens of the United States, and of course, in such in the territory.
A reception will be held at the New Mexico building, at which the governor and many officials and prominent citizens of the territory, their wives, daughters and lady friends will be in attendance. Henry J. Hagerman and Arthur Seligman, members of the New Mexico board, have charge of the arrangements.

Considering all circumstances, it can safely be asserted that the event will be one of much consequence and will be conducted in such a manner as to reflect great credit upon the hospitality of the people of New Mexico, as well as upon the board of managers having the matter in charge.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS.

Peria Martinez, who was struck in the head with an axe yesterday by her cousin, her husband, Marcos, was operated upon last night by a trio of physicians. Trophine was successfully performed and the skull at the point of fracture was raised, relieving the depression. She has a good chance to recover. She was taken to the county jail this morning by Constable James Smith.

Wheeler Rubin.
None of the probable complications which might have proved fatal in the case of Wheeler Rubin, have arisen, and Dr. W. J. Miller, the doctor in charge of the case, says that his patient stands a good chance to recover. The wound in Rubin's right breast is very narrow, but deep enough to penetrate the right lung. It was doubtless made by a silencer. Rubin's assistant has not been arrested.

Fred Starr.
Fred Starr, who was shot on the night of August 30, is able to sit up and will be down town next week. Starr will be able to attend the trial of his assailant, which will probably come up at the present term of court. Stella Henderson, the girl who shot Starr, is held a prisoner in the county jail.

Amelia Yelarski.
Amelia Yelarski, the young lady who was injured last week in a street car accident on West Railroad avenue, and suffered a fracture of the skull, left the hospital this morning for her home at 223 West Railroad avenue. She has almost fully recovered from the effects of her injury.

Cotton Growers' Convention.
St. Louis, Mo. Sept. 26.—Prominent planters of Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and other states filed the attendance at the convention of the Southern Cotton Growers' Protective Association, President Harvey Jordan of Georgia, called the gathering to order at 10 o'clock. The visitors were greeted by President Francis, of the exposition, and Frederick W. Taylor, chief of the agricultural section. For the visitors response was made by T. B. Parker, of Raleigh, N. C.

President Jordan delivered a vigorous address in which he set forth the purpose of the convention to be to discuss and perfect the best ways and means for the future handling of the south's great staple crop by the producers, and to perfect arrangements for financing the cotton in the hands of the producers so as to secure a slower and more uniform movement of the staple on the markets of the country.

S. F. B. Morse, of New York, delivered an address on "The Southern Cotton Corporation," and the forenoon session closed with the appointment of committees.
Upon reassembling this afternoon the convention listened to addresses as follows: "Better Facilities Needed in Handling Cotton," Richard H. McDonald, Baltimore, Md.; "Best System of Warehousing Cotton," Eugene Williams, Waco, Texas; "Slow Movement of the Cotton Crop Essential to the Producer to Improve Good Prices," E. C. Peters, Calvert, Texas.

The convention expects to conclude its business this evening by perfecting an interstate organization and electing officers for the year.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Penner, of Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by H. H. Briggs & Co., and R. Vann & Son.

Narrow Escape for Captain March.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—In some correspondence received in Washington from an official source says that one of the recent narrow escapes of Captain March, of the United States military, who is one of the American military observers with the Japanese forces in Manchuria. At the battle of Moulting, Captain March and Captain Vincent, one of the British attaches, both climbed a tree in the vicinity of a Japanese trench, hoping to obtain a better view of the operations. But they had not made allowance for the erratic shooting of the Russian infantry. They had barely ascended themselves astride a leafy branch when the bullets began to whistle about their heads, hitting twice in proximity to their heads. It was a distinctly hot corner, and each was glad to quit his elevated perch for a position less exposed to stray bullets.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

THE LITTLE DOCTOR

Pile Remedy.—Secure some fresh mullein leaves and steep in boiling water for fifteen or twenty minutes. Take a cupful before meals three times a day. Do not overeat and leave sweet stuff alone. Have the bowels move daily and drink freely of the purest of water.

A New Anæsthetic.—Somnolism is a liquid, the boiling point of which is 22 degrees below zero. The moment it comes in contact with the air it becomes a gas. A chemist broke a glass capsule of somnolism to illustrate its character. As soon as the glass was shattered a rush of what looked like steam took place. Its great virtue, from a medical point of view, is that breathing stops before the least chance to heat when administered.

Rheumatism.—Sufferers should dress entirely in woolen clothing and abstain from taking beer, acids, sweets, sugar or pastry but should take plenty of milk, celery, steamed in milk, or prepared in other ways, and onions. They should rub the joints night and morning with a brine of salt, rubbing it in until the skin is dry. Turkish baths are much good and electric light baths are still better.

Remedy for Snake Bite.—In the early days the Indians discovered that one of the common plants of the plains was efficacious in cases of snake bite. It is known botanically as schizanthus, the common name of which is black cumin or purple cone flower. The fresh root is scraped and given freely and frequently is effective in from two to twelve hours. It is said to have the virtue of this plant for snake bite and a half to two table-spoons may be given every half hour, diluted in water if necessary. Saturated cotton may also be placed over the wound.

Spotted Fever.—This disease has broken out in Idaho from which many people have died. Like the hook worm which has been devastating the agricultural districts of Porto Rico and the yellow fever mosquito, the cause of this western fever is an animal pest, a very small tick that thrives on prairie dogs or gophers. These little animals are frequently covered with the parasite but it causes no inconvenience to them. Physicians who have been making investigations believe that the only practical way to get rid of the disease is to kill off the dogs.

Fasting and Starvation.—A few years ago had a person spoken of fasting absolutely for a week he would have been regarded as a crank or a person bent upon suicide, but now it is no uncommon thing to hear of persons who take a fast of three or four weeks as being a period in the belief that it is nature's own cure for most ills of the flesh. It is not likely to become popular among the doctors for there is nothing in it for them. But it may happen before many years that the so-called regular school will be largely replaced by teachers of hygiene and some of the moderns will soon have to take up that branch or else go out of business. Most of them have much to learn, however, before they could graduate from a school of hygiene.

was introduced, but now tangible evidence in the shape of countless millions of advanced years who have used it with entire success proves us to be guilty of the integrity of this statement. Old or young, the result is the same. It is simply indispensable during the parturient state, and absolutely invaluable at the critical time. For extended, protracted, easy and simple to apply, wonderful in its effect. It serves as a living poultice to the breasts of that old adage, "What's in a name?" We reply, "Mother's Friend." It is, at all times, a safe and sure remedy. "Mother's Friend" is from Bradford Regulator Co., ATLANTA, GA.

of congestion of the lungs, rheumatism or sore throat it tried promptly and thoroughly. An acute attack of cramps will be usually relieved in ten minutes if a towel or strip of flannel folded lengthwise and dipped into hot water, then slightly wrung out, be placed around the neck of the sufferer and covered so as to retain the heat, or better still a water bag can be used most effectively. When placed over the seat of pain it will in most cases quickly give relief in neuralgia and toothache, and when laid over the stomach it acts like magic in cases of colic. Headache almost always yields to the simultaneous application of hot water to the back of the neck and to the feet.

Lady Curzon's Condition.

Walton Castle, Kent, Sept. 26.—The improvement in the condition of Lady Curzon shown this morning was maintained this afternoon. Nurses are able to fairly keep up Lady Curzon's strength, while the oxygen treatment proves helpful. If a collapse can be prevented within twenty-four hours, the doctors will have hopes of her recovery.

Here from Cananea Copper Camp.

Ray St. J., son of J. P. St. J., is here to visit a few days, after which he will continue to his home and headquarters at Cananea, Mexico. Ray has been on a visit to St. Louis, where he took in the world's fair for a couple of weeks. He is now in charge of the United States company at Cananea, and reports himself as having prospered since he left this city several years ago. He says Cananea is a city of about 15,000 people, and is the third largest copper plant in the world. Ray says Samuel McLaughlin, another Albuquerque young gentleman, is holding a good position in a big mining company's store at Mazatlan, Mexico.

POLITICS DOWN AT LAS CRUCES

PROSPECTIVE SLATE FOR COUNTY OFFICES—STONG NAMES MENTIONED.

SOME LOCAL HAPPENINGS THERE

Special Correspondence.

Las Cruces, N. M., Sept. 27.—My letters have created a furor in democratic circles. The Las Cruces Citizen laughs and says that your correspondence says that the democrats are not organized but he gives you a list of names mentioned as candidates. The list mentioned in my letters was handed out all right but whether the democrats will have any kind of a convention remains to be seen. It has been called for October 5, 1904.

One of the candidates was overlooked in the list. It is Hon. Elias R. Day, mentioned for county school superintendent. He is a very strong man if he consents to be nominated.

Arrangements are being made to of delay ask Governor Otero, Solomon Luna, Col. J. Frank Chavez and Senator Andrews to be present at the republican county convention. No date has been arranged as yet.

The republicans have made no state, but cannot say it that the ticket will be as follows: Sheriff, Isaac or Felipe Lacera; collector and treasurer, Oscar Lechman; assessor, Theodore Bonaldi; superintendent of schools, Albert J. Fountain; county clerk, Isidoro Arribas. Two county commissioners are to be nominated but it is not known who they may be. There might be some changes in the named ticket when the convention meets, as some of the officers will be strongly disputed.

Jose Gonzalez, editor of El Labrador, has announced himself as a candidate for the office of assessor, subject to the action of the republican convention. Col. Eugene Van Patton is also mentioned as a candidate for the same office.

Greenleaf Garvey, of Rodey, N. M., arrived in town with a large herd of sheep, which he readily sold to the several butchers in the city.

T. Russell has been improving the look of his store by putting on a coating of plaster.

The Sanatorium hotel has been opened for business. The furniture has arrived and those who have seen it claim it is very fine. It is hoped the management will do a big business.

Several local sports have now given their brains out in the last week trying to get up some horse races but it seems they are not the right kind of sports. Too much talk and no races.

Miss Nora Murphy, teacher of vocal music at the college, is reported as being very ill. She is a widow in her line.

Cherino Arriaga, cashier at Bowman's bank, has returned from a ten days' vacation, which was spent in Texas.

It is reported that before many days several men will be put to work in the mine at Organ.

Several tracks of land have changed hands this week to eastern buyers. Quite a large number of new arrivals have been noticed during the last few days. All seem to have heard of the delightful climate of New Mexico and are here ostensibly for the purpose of regaining their lost health.

North Dakota State Fair.

Mandan, N. D., Sept. 27.—The North Dakota State fair opened auspiciously today with an exceptionally large attendance for the first day. All departments are well filled, especially notable being the exhibits of poultry, agricultural machinery and farm products. A three days' racing program will be pulled off in conjunction with the exhibition.

Every woman believes that if the president knew how well she looks on her children he would write her an autograph letter.

POLITICAL POINTERS

FOR THE POLITICIANS

THE CAMPAIGN OPENS UP QUIET BUT THERE PROMISES TO BE LIVELY TIMES.

The territorial republican central committee has ordered a large supply of American lithographs and buttons, and these are expected to arrive this week. They will be freely distributed, as the committee propose that every man, woman and child in the territory shall know exactly how Senator Andrews looks.

Charges against Associate Justice Benjamin H. Baker of the territorial supreme court, having been ordered by the Good Government league, of this city, it is said that Justice Baker has requested the department of justice to have these charges investigated and that a special agent of the department is now here on that mission.

It was announced at territorial democratic headquarters at Santa Fe, yesterday that a communication had been received from one of the men on the "inside" of Sierra county would give Mr. Money over 200 majority. Chairman Crist reserves a large number of similar letters each day. There are other stimulants besides alcohol and the final effects are somewhat similar.

Governor Otero has made a very appropriate present to the territorial republican headquarters in the form of a photograph of President Roosevelt and the notification committee at Oyster Bay. The photograph was taken July 17, when the committee, of which Governor Otero was a member, formally notified President Roosevelt of his renomination for the office of president of the United States on the republican ticket. The photograph occupies a prominent position on Chairman Thurman's desk.

It is understood that certain republicans who favored Otero for delegate to congress will hold a pow-wow in Santa Fe on the 10th of October, for the purpose of considering what action to take in the present campaign, not only on the legislative, but on the legislative and county tickets. These politicians should get in line before it is too late, and declare themselves in favor of the nominee of the territorial convention recently held in this city.

The democrats of Rio Arriba county are holding a convention at Chinita today, when a legislative and county ticket will be nominated. Candidate Money and Commissioner Crist are in attendance. It is a safe bet that Rio Arriba county will go republican by a vote from 500 to 1,000 majority.

The socialist party of this city will soon hold a gathering and name candidates for all the county offices. In commenting on the political situation in this county, the New Mexican says: "The socialists will take a great many more votes than the democratic side. From the republican ranks, Bernalillo county can be counted upon for a republican majority for delegate to congress and the legislature and county tickets at from 1,500 up. The New Mexican understands that Thomas Hughes, editor of the Albuquerque Citizen, who has represented the Bernalillo county district in the council of the legislative assembly, and Thomas N. Whitson, an Albuquerque attorney, will be the probable republican nominees for the council. They are certainly sure of handsome majorities if nominated."

In Lincoln county, at the town of Lincoln, the republicans held a rousing convention on last Thursday, and nominated a county ticket as follows: For sheriff, Henry Lutz, for probate clerk, Ramon Martinez, for assessor, Robert A. Root, for superintendent of schools, Leo H. Redfield, for probate judge, Francisco Gomez, and candidates for county commissioners. The convention to name legislative candidates to represent that district will be held at Roswell October 1, and Col. George W. Priestman is chairman of the delegates to that convention. It looks very much like Lincoln county will go republican this year.

Nestor Montoya, editor of La Bandera Americana, was at Santa Fe Sunday, and speaking politically, assured the people up there that Bernalillo county would give Senator Andrews for delegate about a 1,500 majority.

The two county republicans will hold their county convention at Tucun on Friday, October 2, when a legislative and county ticket will be nominated. Taos county is safely republican.

Thus far, very few territorial exchanges have published the correct final vote at the territorial republican convention, recently held in this city. The vote was 1014 for Senator W. H. Andrews, 616 for Hon. B. B. Huey, a majority for the former of 398. There was quite a decisive majority and Senator Andrews could have given the ten votes of Socorro county, the six votes

ST. JOHNS.

From the Herald.

W. H. Allison has sold his sheep to the J. T. Lessor Sheep company. He intends retiring from his sheep business for the present.

W. W. Berry returned from the southern part of the territory. He reports the roads as being in a bad condition on account of the rains.

Capt. John T. Hogue and Isaac Barth returned from Holbrook. They have been to attend the territorial convention of their respective parties, and report having had a pleasant trip.

WILLIAMS.

From the News.

The members of the newly organized local band are thinking of giving a ball in the near future in the nature of a "benefit."

From appearance there is a probability that the Bright Angel trail will be made the subject of a campaign issue in county politics this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Phelan, Mr. and Mrs. John Carlson, and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Dubois departed for a week's hunt down in the Colorado and Yellowstone country below the J. D. ranch.

Miss Harriet Pyle, after a week's visit with her brother and family, departed for the east. She will see the fair, visit relatives in Kansas and Iowa, and return here about November 1, remaining again for some weeks in the city.

Mrs. J. S. Sutton and sons, Charles and Lyle, arrived home from their extended visit in the east. They remained for a time in Port Huron, Mich., and on the return trip spent several days in Chicago as well as St. Louis and the fair.

FLAGSTAFF.

From the Gem.

Hon. John H. Page, republican nominee for congressman, is in the city from Grandview, Grand canyon.

Charles McGonigle returned from a visit to the St. Louis exposition. He also visited at his old home in Kansas.

Joseph Backman, who has been painting and papering the Grandview hotel at the Grand canyon, has completed his work and returned home Sunday.

James Gilson of Williams came up from that place in an automobile and remained a few days. On account of the rough roads he shipped his automobile to Williams and returned to his home on the train.

From the Sun.

Mrs. J. B. Sheppard is entertaining her sister, Mrs. J. M. Wilson of St. Louis, Mo., who arrived Monday, and will probably make this her home to definitely.

Wash. Henry, J. W. and R. C. Jones came in from Sycamore canyon, where they had been deer hunting for several days, and reported killing three bucks.

C. E. Osborne left for Tempe, where he expects to spend the winter. Mr. Osborne has been enjoying his higher altitude since June, but thinks Tempe better suited to him for winter.

J. J. Donahue left for San Francisco to undergo an operation. His right shoulder, which was injured some three months ago still bothers him to such an extent that he is unable to use his arm with any degree of comfort.

KINGMAN.

From the Miner.

Mrs. L. J. Lammell has gone to Los Angeles for a few days' visit.

Mrs. R. Taggart, of Needles, is visiting with friends in Kingman.

Al. Stroud is lying dangerously ill with typhoid fever at his home in Hackberry.

Will Cook came in from Weaver district and will take a boat to the vicinity of Cottonwood island, where he will launch his boat and go to the Black Canyon country on a prospecting trip. He will be accompanied on this trip by Lew Blakey and will probably go as far up the river as Coalinga.

Rev. E. G. Decker preached his farewell sermon at the Methodist church Sunday evening. It is probable that Rev. Decker and good wife will leave Kingman to take up their residence wherever general conference assigns them. Rev. Decker and wife have been residents of Kingman the past two years and during that time have so endeared themselves to the people that their loss will be seriously felt.

STRUCK ARTESIAN WATER.

From Thursday's Daily Citizen.

The citizens of Lakewood and also the Lakewood town company have been rejoicing this week over the first well of artesian water to be struck near the town.

W. H. Allison received word from that place last Monday morning that a good flow of water had been struck in the Walters and Schaefer well that is just being drilled about one mile northeast of town, between its corporate limits and the Pecos river. This is welcome news to all who are interested in the future of the new town. Striking the flow at this place not only assures the town a good supply of water, but it establishes beyond all doubt that the town is located within the artesian belt. Water was struck at a depth of only 230 feet, which is supposed to be the same flow which is had at Artesia at a depth of from 300 to 1,000 feet.

Mr. Allison, who is manager of the Lakewood town company, stated that the company now had an experienced well driller, with a rigging, on the road to Lakewood from Beaumont, Texas, who will sink a well on the town site, to be used as a town well, for the accommodation of the residents.

Several wells have already been brought in west and north of the town, at a distance of from five to ten miles but the one which was brought in last Monday on the east side of the town, always all fear as to whether or not the town will be supplied with artesian water.

The future of the place is now assured and the stimulated sale of the town lots, which has taken place since the find of last Monday, bespeaks the confidence which the general public has in it.

Conceived in Shame.

The irrigation law covers sixteen and semi-artesian states and territories. Not one of these can show 50,000 acres of land presented by the government under the notorious desert land law, and not an acre of which is either irrigated, lived upon or improved in any particular. Some of them could show 150,000 acres so patented within one year after the passage of that infamous act, conceived in shame and born in inquiry. A strict observance of this law requires the cultivation and improvement of only twenty acres of the 230 acquired, and no residence and home-building whatever. Should not this act, in all fairness to the prospective home-builder, be repealed, despite the opposition of the land grabbers?—Colorado Argus.

Bitten by Centipede and Alive.

Arthur Boyle, proprietor of the Clearing garden, was a short time ago bitten six times in a limb by a centipede. At first he thought it was a red ant that was biting him, but later discovered that it was a centipede. He was confined to his home for several days, but is now able to be out again. —New Mexican.

ANOTHER DEAL.

A special dispatch from Chicago, dated September 26, to the Denver Republican, says:

"Chicago interests identified with the management of the Santa Fe and Union Pacific properties were more than ever of the opinion today that an important deal is pending and is about to be announced."

"In addition to the report that the Rockefeller interests have bought over 240,000 shares of Santa Fe stock recently in the open market, it was reported to the Chicago people today that E. H. Harriman, of the Union Pacific and E. J. Berwind, head of the Berwind syndicate in the Santa Fe are together at Newport today arranging a traffic alliance between the two properties."

"At the moment that the reported Santa Fe deal, surrounded, as such matters usually are, in mystery, overshadowed everything else in the line of discussion as to members, deals and such things in the railroad and financial world."

"There is more inclination to give credence to the report that a large block of Santa Fe stock has been transferred from Kahn, Loeb & Co. to Harriman or Rockefeller interests."

"Another rumor in circulation is one to the effect that control of 1,500,000 shares or about three-fourths of the total, has been accumulated in the interests of the Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, St. Paul, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific, thereby establishing a community of interests between all of these systems."

"The annual report of the Santa Fe was issued today and made a gratifying showing of earnings on the common stock. The preliminary estimates for the year, published many weeks ago, showed probably the greatest year in the history of the system."

"Local interests who have been shown the advance proofs of the pamphlet report, and today that the showing would be better even than indicated by the estimates heretofore given the public."

New Mexico All Right.

"Southern New Mexico is as green as a wheat field," is the way W. A. Francis, of Eden, N. M., expressed it yesterday, after arriving from the range country of the extreme southern part of that territory with three carloads of cattle. "I have never seen that country looking better than it does now," he said. "All over the range there is an abundance of fine grass and stock is in the best of shape. They have had good rains down in that country and when it rains down there vegetation soon springs up and comes along. As everything looks now, it is safe to say that the cattle in that country will have plenty of feed all winter."—Kansas City Star.

BIG TIME IS PROMISED.

Very few people realize what numerous and large attractions are being offered for the Territorial fair, which will be held in Albuquerque next month," said A. B. McGaffey, chairman of the fair executive committee, who was in the city Sunday with the Duke City excursion, says the New Mexican. "In fact, more money will be expended and greater pains taken this year than have ever been considered in the past."

Maxwell Gurnea, secretary of the committee, is now in Salt Lake City closing a contract with the Collins Carnival company for fair week. This is the largest company of its kind on the road and Mr. Gurnea's success means another big event at the fair.

"Arrangements have also been completed to have the Elks Opera house dedicated at that time and Grand Exalted Ruler O'Brien, of the Elks, has promised to be present on that occasion. The Territorial Irrigation Congress will be a drawing card to."

"New features for the Indian dances have been arranged. These will be led by Chief Bareface, the home-land man I have ever met. The chief has had the skin taken off the entire one side of his face and his mouth and eye are where his arm should be. He is the chief medicine man of the Navajos and will send the sacred fire dances. Jim Elmer, sheriff of San Juan county and a noted frontier character, will also participate, as will Navajo Bill and Al Doolin. Another of the Indian features will be a Navajo auction of three pretty Indian maidens for marriage. The Indians will bid horses and ponies on the fair grounds for the young brides, the ceremony being real to the marriage, which will immediately follow."

"The parade on Thursday will be the largest ever seen in the south-west. There will be seven bands, troops of cavalry, cow boys, floats, Indians and everything that can possibly be conceived in such an event. A large democratic rally is planned during fair week. Besides Mr. Money, Senator Thomas H. Patterson, of Colorado, a well known orator, will speak. The republicans, it is thought, also have something up their sleeve. One of the main features will be the large attendance of all the orators of the territory. The Old Fellows, Knights of Pythias and other lodges have arranged to take part in the parade and hold meetings during the fair."

"The Albuquerque Traction company has expended $4,500 on the fair grounds in the last few weeks. Boxes have been added to the grand stand, the track made fast and the grounds made as beautiful as possible. The company will have four extra electric cars in service of the same type as those already now in use in Albuquerque."

"Everything possible for the entertainment of the guests has been arranged and none will regret going to Albuquerque to attend the Territorial fair."

Good Fight Expected.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 26.—Sam Langford, the colored boxer, who has won decisions over Joe Gans and Joe Walcott, and Dave Holly, the colored Philadelphia lightweight, are to furnish the chief attraction at tonight's show of the Bunko Athletic club. They are scheduled for a fifteen-round bout at catch weights. Both men are regarded as among the best of their class and as a consequence their meeting is expected to result in one of the hardest battles seen in this section for some time. The two have been training faithfully for some time and appear to be in fine condition for the contest.

THE TRADES DISPLAY.

IT WILL BE IMMENSE AND SEVEN BANDS WILL TAKE PART.

The trades display parade, which will occur on Thursday of fair week, will be the highest procession of the kind ever seen in the southwest. Seven brass bands will lead a leading feature of it. Over fifty floats and vehicles will participate in it, besides the parade of Gentry Bros. dog and pony show and a large caravan of wagons and Indians from the San Juan country.

Col. John Barradale will be marshal of the day and officers of the New Mexico national guard will serve as aides.

Numerous lodges and societies will also enter in the procession. The following business houses, industries and societies will be represented in the procession by floats: Columbus society, Ancient Order of Red Men, Eagles, J. Korber & Co., Ortiz & Co., Bucherich & Glend, Melini & Ruffin, The Daily Citizen, the American Lumber Co., Simon Stern, M. Mandell and E. L. Washburn & Co. clothing dealers; the Albuquerque Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., the Women's club, the San Juan Indians, United States cavalry, New Mexico militia, ledgers, Indian school and others yet to come in.

Heavy Bet.

There was a big bet made this afternoon between Charles Clark and Hank Bevington on the outcome of the contest for the nomination for sheriff. Hank said he would bet $1,000 that Hooker would not be nominated. Mr. Clark saw the bet, and raised $1,000. Hank stood the raise, and the money was put in the safe at the Anheuser saloon. The bet was made in good faith by both parties, and one or the other of the men will be $2,000 to the good very shortly. —Prescott Herald.

Gilesons Holding Convention.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 26.—The Gilesons, an organization of Christian traveling men, hold their annual national convention in Minneapolis during the next two days, and delegates are arriving in large numbers to attend the sessions. The order is the strongest in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Indiana, and Missouri, though delegates will be present from many other states besides. Even far-off California will have several representatives at the meeting. The business session will be held tomorrow and will be devoted to the reception of reports and the election of officers. Sunday there will be special services in several of the leading churches, at which addresses will be delivered by evangelists and other prominent speakers who belong to the organization.

The illustrated songs by Nugget Nell and moving pictures between the first and second acts are unusually stirring features of the Nugget Nell company.

RAILROAD NOTES

Fireman George Hammond, of Williams, having secured a sixty-day lay-off, left for a trip to the world's fair and other points.

Thomas Madlock, connected with the Santa Fe coal engineering corps at Williams, has resigned his position and has gone to Mexico to accept a more lucrative position.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road has ordered from the American car works 5,000 box cars, fifty cabooses and seventy passenger cars, to be delivered as fast as they can be built. The road is also in the market for thirty or forty locomotives.

W. R. Johnson is now carrying the mail three times a week between Kingman and Chloride, Arizona. This service is temporary and will be discontinued as soon as the railroad is untroubled and begins to run its trains regularly, which will be early next month.

Mrs. G. W. Dackus and children and Mrs. Emma Dackus arrived at Flagstaff from Santa Barbara, Cal. The former is the wife and the latter the mother of G. W. Dackus, who is employed as night operator at the Santa Fe station of that town. They expect to reside at Flagstaff during the winter.

Millions of gallons of Colorado oil is to be utilized by the Denver & Rio Grande railroad for laying the dust along its lines. The first experiments will be made along its lines from Denver to Salt Lake City. As about 4,000 gallons of oil is required to the mile, the petroleum industry will receive quite an impetus in the Centennial state.

The Southern Pacific has resumed the pay car system of settling with employees. The plan formerly was in vogue on that system, but for some time the plan of distributing the checks through the agents of the road has been followed. The method of using checks is understood, will be continued, but instead of distributing them through the agents they will be distributed from the pay car.

President Harris of the Burlington met with the traffic officials of the Santa Fe at Topeka Monday. He refused to state what topic was under consideration. In the evening the traffic officials of the Santa Fe met with the operating officials. General Manager Mudge says the conference was to get the two departments closer together. Freight and traffic officials from all points along the line were at Topeka. Among the officials in attendance from Kansas City are George T. Nicholson, general passenger traffic manager, and W. B. Middle, general freight traffic manager, Chicago.

Cost of Moving Freight. The average cost of moving freight in various countries has recently been stated to be: Great Britain, $2.30 per 100 ton miles; Austria, $2.05; France, $2; Germany, $1.38; Russia, $1.75; the United States, 72 cents. These figures place the American railroads so far in advance of their European counterparts that "there is no second."

The London and Northwestern is one of the best operated of the English roads, and here the cost is placed at $1.49. The average train load being 72 tons. With an average train load of 367 tons, the New York Central exhibits a cost of 41.5 cents, while the Pennsylvania, with 158 tons, operates at a cost of 40 cents.

Physical Standard Employed.

At the next meeting of the American Railway association, to be held in Philadelphia, the safety appliance committee will recommend that employment in the operating department of railroads be preceded and made dependent upon a rigid physical examination. After employment periodical physical examinations are to be recommended, and there will be a requirement that the employee shall keep to a certain physical standard. It is doubtful if the recommendation will be accepted, as many railroads have been considering this method of raising the physical standard of operating employees. Some roads have adopted physical tests in certain classes of employment, such as firemen, but so far as known no road has adopted the method for all operating employees.

Largest Passenger Engine.

The largest passenger engine ever built for a railroad in the north-west will be turned out at the West Milwaukee shops of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company. The engine will be of the Pacific type and each will weigh 215,000 pounds, or one-third more than their big engines now hauling the Pioneer Limited train between here and the twin cities. The driving wheel of the new engine will be 72 inches in diameter, the cylinders 22 by 30 inches, and the working steam pressure 210 pounds. It is estimated that the new engine will be powerful enough to pull a train of twenty loaded passenger cars at the rate of twenty miles an hour. The company is just completing a number of very large freight engines. One of them, on its first trip a few days ago, hauled a train of 15 loaded cars from Milwaukee to Chicago, making the run in record time.

Long Stop-Over Allowed.

The Michigan Central railroad has allowed a stopover of thirty days to a passenger who has just completed a journey begun in 1874. The entire distance traveled was only 57 miles, but it required three decades to complete it. In 1874 C. W. Stayer bought a railroad ticket over the Michigan Central lines from Galesburg to Topeka. In those days stopover privileges were allowed, and Mr. Stayer found it necessary to get off at the Grand Rapids and Indiana crossing, nine miles west of the point where he had boarded the train. If he did not stay around Kalamazoo Junction for thirty years, he at least kept his ticket unused for that length of time.

John M. Walker, formerly chief train dispatcher of the Denver & Rio Grande, has been decided upon as superintendent. The appointment, it is said, will become effective October 1. W. B. Glendon, at present superintendent of telegraph of the Rio Grande, has resigned, it is said, and will go to an eastern road.

Railway Accidents.

At the present rate of execution the railroads of the United States will fail to kill off as many people as any war. It is only a matter of time. One can scarcely pick up a paper nowadays without reading of one or more wrecks that have occurred in the last twenty-four hours. Some days there are three or four, and the average number of wrecks in which lives are lost exceeds one a day. The accidents are confined to no one road or section of the country. Today it may be in New York, tomorrow in California, and the next day in Georgia. According to the latest report of the Interstate Commerce commission, issued July 6, last, the total number of casualties on the railroads of this country for the year ended June 30, 1904, was 31,553, of which 3,845 represented the number of persons killed, and 7,635 the number injured. The rate of casualties indicates that one employee in every 364 was killed and one in every twenty-two injured. One passenger was killed for every 1,967,441 carried and one injured for every 34,424 carried. During the three years ended June 30, 1903, no fewer than 21,847 people lost their lives on American railways.

Cowboy Run Over and Killed. A cowboy known as "Kid" Brooks was mangled by the cars in the Kingman yards last night and when found was dead. The man told a companion that he was going to catch a freight out and it is supposed that in attempting to get on the train he fell and the wheels passed over his legs, cutting them off close to the body. His cries of agony were heard by those living in the vicinity, but they mistook them for those of drunken Indians. The remains were taken in charge by the coroner and interred in the public cemetery. George Davis stated that he knew the deceased since childhood, and that he was an inoffensive fellow, but very noisy when drinking. He had been drinking quite heavily yesterday and probably to this is due his death. His parents are supposed to be living at San Saba, Texas, where a message was sent notifying him of his death. Three years ago Brooks rode in the cowboy tournament at Dallas and was considered one of the best riders in the event.—Kingman Miner.

After Gallup Coal Fields.

Railroad surveys have been numerous about Gallup for some time and the people are correspondingly worked up over the prospect of new railroad building through there in the not far distant future. The McKinley County Republican says: "There have been three different sets of men here in that many weeks; all of them were surveyors. One set is said to have been the Rock Island gang, the other the Southern Pacific, and the present bunch are said to represent the Phelps-Dodge interests. The freight charges made for hauling coal to the smelters is excessive, and they propose to build their own road in order to get fuel in at a reasonable price. That they have had their eyes on the big coal fields at Gallup has been known for some time."

NEW YORK CENTRAL RECORD.

A Special Run 373 Miles in Less than a Mile a Minute.

The New York Central railroad made a record run with a special train recently, which crossed the state of New York, with Dr. William Meyer, of New York, and two nurses, who were summoned to Rochester at the request of Newman E. of New York, first vice president of the Pure Malt beverage railroad. His wife had been injured at Lyons early in the morning. The special covered 373 miles in 344 minutes. This cuts down the Empire State express record fifty minutes. The run from Syracuse to Rochester, 31 miles, was made in 75 minutes. Dr. Meyer reached the bedside of Mrs. E. a few minutes after she had expired.

SANTA FE IS PROSPERING.

The report of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad company for the year ending June 30 shows that gross earnings were $68,171,206, an increase of $5,800,802, and operating expenses $42,282,012, an increase of $3,784,322, leaving net earnings of $25,949,167, and increase of $2,055,880.

The report sets forth that the expenditures during the year chargeable to capital account for the construction and acquisition of additional railways, equipment and other properties, and for improvements amounted to $14,563,780, and that $5,800,000 was charged to profit and loss and written off the property accounts in respect of betterments, improvements, equipment and discount on bonds.

President Ripley points out that the revenue was favorably affected by a substantial increase in the citrus fruit crop of California, by a small increase in the cotton movement from Texas and the Indian territory, and by large increases in the movement of general merchandise and lumber.

Against these increases there was a loss in revenue from coal and coke tonnage. Mr. Ripley makes the following reference to the strike of coal miners in Colorado and New Mexico: "On November 9, 1903, occurred a strike of coal miners in Colorado and New Mexico, which closed the mines and is estimated to have cost our company, in loss of tonnage and enhanced cost of fuel, not less than $1,500,000 net."

THE NAVAJO AND MOKI TRIBES

Navajo, Moki, Navajo.

I have a love for you that will grow. If you'll have a coin for a bun, I'll have a Navajo.

Charles M. Sheldon did not sing the above familiar ditty at his lecture at Central church last night on the subject of the Navajo and Moki Indians, but it might have been appropriate, says the Topeka State Journal.

Mr. Sheldon spent part of his summer out in Arizona visiting the Indians and he has picked up a large amount of interesting information about them, also a fine collection of Navajo blankets and Indian utensils.

The Navajos appear to have only one joke and that joke is on their neighbors, who are commonly known as the Moki. The real name of the moki tribe is Hopi, not Moki. Hopi means "peaceful people." The Navajos, on the other hand, are warlike, and they in derision call the Hopi tribe "Moki," which means "dead ones." Considering the fact that it was originated by a Navajo, this is a very good joke. It worked the United States government all right, for it is only recently that the government maps have given the Hopi their proper name.

Some very elegant gray and black rugs and blankets were exhibited by Mr. Sheldon to the large audience last night, together with a number of articles in common use with both Navajos and Hopis. The proceeds of the lecture—about $100—will be used to buy a carpet for the recently rebuilt Central church.

"If you never ate griddle cakes baked on a buzz-saw," said Mr. Sheldon in speaking of the wagon trip through the Indian country, "you don't know much about cooking. Our party originated the engine among the Navajos. We would dig a hole in the ground, lay the buzz-saw over the top, and build a fire in the hole. Then we had a draft both ways and did our cooking on the buzz-saw. The Indians would crowd around to watch us."

An interesting story was told of the trip across the painted desert, the experience with bugs, lizards, scorpions and floods. "But we did not see a snake," said Mr. Sheldon. "The missionary who has been there eight years says he has never seen a snake. Where the Indians get the snakes for their snake dance is a mystery."

"The term 'hazy as an Indian' does not apply to the Navajos," continued Mr. Sheldon. "There are about 25,000 Navajos and they are increasing in numbers. They are a 'rugged' people, and the missionaries don't there say they have never seen a drunken Navajo. The women always own the sheep. The men own the horses and ponies and till the fields."

"They have peculiar superstitions which interfere seriously with some of their domestic relations. When a girl is married, the mother is forever forbidden to look upon the face of her son-in-law. They must keep apart under all circumstances. Another superstition is that they will not count their sheep. They know each sheep by sight, even when they have flocks numbering as high as seven hundred. When a man is sick, they say he has had heads shot into him, and the medicine men make a pretense of extracting the heads."

"The Navajo rugs are made on a very simple loom, hung out of doors under a tree. The women do the work. There is no typical Navajo rug. Each woman makes her own design. They live in what are called hogans. A hogan consists of some limbs of cottonwood, locked together at the top like a cone, with the cracks plastered up with mud. The Navajos are polygamous. In the eight years that Mr. Johnson, the missionary, has been there, not a single convert to Christianity has been made. But they have their lives for him, and I believe that when they do embrace Christianity they will make very good Christians."

"The Hopi tribe lives up on the side of a great cliff. They are a happy, jovial people. They are not polygamous. The women build the houses, and the men do the weaving."

"The snake dance is a ceremony which makes you wonder if you are still living in the United States of America in the year 1904. There were about 75 white men and women there this year, including the Indians, about 500 or 600 people saw the dance. A little before sundown, the thirteen antelope priests came up out of the kivas, each carrying a rattle. They marched around a large circle, shaking their rattles. Then the snake priests came up with their whips. There are twelve of the snake priests. Each of the priests went to a little booth at the further end of the plaza and took from it a poisonous snake. Most of them were rattlers. The probability is that the fangs or poison sacks of the rattles are not extracted. They simply do not bite these Indians. Probably the Indians know how to handle. As they came dancing toward us, I noticed that each Indian had between his teeth one of the snakes. The snake was held just back of his head, and then with each hand the Indian held the snake's body out in front of him, and appeared to be careful not to let the reptile coil up."

"After dancing around the circle, they threw their snakes down. One of the snakes crawled over among the tourists, and made a great commotion. It was captured and taken back. Sacred corn meal was scattered on the ground, and each of the priests threw his snake into a pile on top of the meal. I stood not five feet from this pile of writhing snakes. Then each of the priests made a dive into the pile of snakes and grabbed all they could get hold of. Some of them grabbed two or three. I couldn't see that they paid any special attention as to how they took hold of them. Each priest then ran down into the plain, and released his snakes. On their return they drank very deeply out of earthen jugs. Some of them must have drunk as much as two quarts. Then the most disgusting part of it all happened, for each turned around and vomited up everything he had drunk. This was not done, we are told, to contradict the snake bite, because there were no snake bites, but simply as part of the ceremony of the dance."

"And this whole thing is a prayer for rain. They are dependent on rain for their existence, and the snakes which are released are supposed to go to the great father and intercede with him for rain."

"The priests were intensely in earnest. They pay no attention to anything that is going on. It's on the roof of one house was a man with a moving picture machine, grinding away as fast as he could during the whole performance, but they never paid any attention to him. There were correspondents there from the eastern papers and they jumped over into the circle and took snap shots of the dance, but the priests paid no attention to them."

Mr. Sheldon said that one Moki girl had been baptized into Christianity a few days before the dance, and that this girl stood on the roof of a house watching her father engaged in the heathen dance and weeping bitterly.

Mr. Sheldon secured a large collection of pictures of the dance and the Indians in their "hogans," which will be exhibited on eastern slides some future time.

IN MEMORIAM.

FLOOD SITUATION IN THE VALLEY

From Friday's Daily Citizen.

The rain which fell here the twelve hours from Wednesday at midnight until Thursday noon, was the most general rain of the year.

It began on the Pacific coast, and traveling east, drenched the country far and wide, covering the entire southwest.

The California and Arizona deserts were soaked, and every arroyo and water hole was filled to overflowing. To the south the precipitation was heavier than here and extended down into Mexico.

Traffic on railroads centering at El Paso is reported badly crippled, and railroads of southern New Mexico have suffered heavily.

The Rio Grande division of the Santa Fe is at the mercy of a flood of water, which is rushing down the Rio Grande in a torrent of yellow waves.

The arroyos of New Mexico feel the torrent yesterday, until this morning it had reached a stage which rivaled the high water of a year ago last June, when this city was threatened with a flood, and railroad communication was at a standstill for several days.

A Death of News From Outside World.

At noon today no trains had arrived from the east or south, and telephone communications to the north were cut off.

No. 8 arrived from the west last night about on time, but on account of washouts to the north, was held here last night.

Train No. 2, the Los Angeles train, arrived this morning on time, and No. 2, was also stopped here.

Train No. 23 from the south, due here yesterday morning, had not arrived at noon and no report on it or No. 22 of today, had been received.

The report received here yesterday putting a washout, which occurred Wednesday night below Dinon, at seven miles, was reduced last night to one mile. At the time this latter report was received, the water was still rising.

Trains No. 1 and No. 7 from the east, due here last night, have not arrived, and have not been heard from.

A bridge is reported gone at Algodones, and several small buildings further up the road.

A terrific flood of mud and water came down the arroyos from the north water shed of the Bandita mountains, carrying everything in its way. It washed over the railroad track north of Algodones to the depth of two feet, softening the road bed and carrying away the track.

Local Divisions of the Santa Fe is Overwhelmed.

A work-train which was sent to Bernalillo at 10:30 o'clock last night to strengthen the track and weakened road bed, at that place, was unable to return here this morning.

The tracks above Alameda, thirteen miles north of this city, were found to be under two feet of water. A second train of engines and men went out to the washout just after noon today.

The latest report from the Rio Grande division is that the railroad is weakened in at least fifty places between this city and El Paso.

The Magdalena branch is out of service and the Silver City branch is badly crippled.

At this hour, 2:30 o'clock, p. m., the railroad officials are unable to tell definitely when a train from the south or east will reach this city. Agent Myers, however, has instructions to send on east late this afternoon the two passenger trains from California, held at the local depot.

Flood at Los Corrales.

Hon. Ignacio Gutierrez, one of the county commissioners of Sandoval county, and who conducts a general merchandise store at Los Corrales, in the new section of that town, and within a mile of the bridge, has kept The Citizen in bulletins today about the flood conditions up there. His first bulletin, received about 9 o'clock this morning, gave the information that the lowlands between his store and the bridge were under four feet of water, caused from the river breaking through its banks and forming a new channel, and the Acquia Madre of Los Corrales overflowing its banks. The second bulletin from Mr. Gutierrez stated that his store was under four feet of water and a big force of workmen were removing the goods and attempting to save the post office matters. Mr. Gutierrez being the postmaster. The third bulletin was still more alarming, stating that his (Gutierrez') store, was completely at the mercy of the waves, which were rolling from five to six feet through his store, and that half a dozen or more adobe houses were washed away. People, in order to reach the bridge, had to swim their horses across the waters for a mile or so. At 1:30 this afternoon Mr. Gutierrez telephoned again, and his words fell from the lips of a discouraged man. He said he may not be able to continue his bulletins, for the reason that he would have to forsake his store, where the telephone connections are located, if the water continued to rise. The last bulletin had increased the depth to half a foot or more, and that more than a dozen adobe houses were in danger of tumbling down.

At 3:50 p. m. Mr. Gutierrez rallied and again telephoned The Citizen office. He reported the water as receding, saying the water line in his store shows a fall of about an inch. He predicts a continuous fall this afternoon, but believed that the night will bring another rise in the Rio Grande.

Situation at Alameda.

A telephone message from Alameda, received at 2 o'clock this afternoon, gives the news that all the lowlands in that precinct, and which were inundated a year ago last June and July, are now under water several feet. Many homes are surrounded, and the small native farmers of this precinct will again suffer greatly from the flood.

The Alameda dyke is standing, the rush of waters in fine style, and beyond a few low places in the dyke, where a little water will seep over, no alarm should be entertained by the people of the city about the dyke giving away unless it continues to rain and an unprecedented flood comes down the Rio Grande.

The mail carrier between Albuquerque and Pecos (Jenny hot springs) reached Alameda this morning on his way to Pecos, but he cannot get across to Los Corrales. He can reach the bridge from the Alameda side, but for a mile beyond the bridge the accumulation of water is beyond fording. He telephoned these facts to Postmaster Hopkins, who advised him to "stay by his mail bags" and to continue on his journey as soon as he thought he could with safety reach Los Corrales.

Alderman Hanley, who appreciates the excitement and alarm due to the flood of over a year ago, drove up to the dyke at Alameda this morning, and is on the ground in person, should anything happen in the dyke. He telephoned to The Citizen office, in the hope of catching Alderman Harrison and telling him the facts as he finds them at Alameda, but Dr. Harrison could not be found.

Bernalillo's Precinct Under Water.

Word comes from Bernalillo, eighteen miles above the city, that the Bernalillo precinct is practically inundated. As far as the eye can see, a mile this side of Bernalillo, the country from the river to the Santa Fe railroad tracks, is under water from two to six feet deep, and in several places water is running over the track. It is feared at Bernalillo that the worst has not come, and that a tremendous volume of water is yet due to come down the Rio Grande.

Serious Condition at Baretas.

This morning, as the usual yearly custom, The Citizen representative took a spin with Sheriff Hubbell through the water covered district of the Baretas precinct. Beginning at the city limits, the Baretas road, running south and north to the river bank, was found under two feet of water, and a number of houses and barns on the west side completely surrounded by water, and several ready to tumble down. Several hundred men, women and boys were at work throwing up embankments to prevent any further encroachment of the rising water, but it is feared that with any kind of a creek these embankments will give way and the whole of that section of Baretas will be at the mercy of the flood.

Hon. Blas Vigi, the county school superintendent, is located in the flooded district, with his home and houses surrounded by water. He is directing a big force of workmen, and hopes to conquer the angry waves before night by building a pretty strong embankment around his premises.

The Italian picnic grounds at Azar's place is under water to a depth of several feet, while all the immediate lowlands look like a lake several miles wide and long.

Directly in front of the residence of Felipe O'Hannon, on the road leading to the bridge, the road is almost beyond fording. In fact it is dangerous, and a man takes his life in his hands when he attempts to cross the bridge from this side. Baretas is decidedly in a worse condition today than it was a little over a year ago, and the "old timers" of the precinct predict that the worst has not yet come.

Just across the river from Baretas, in the Arisco and Rancho de Arisco precincts, the flood conditions are about as bad as they can be, and along the river road in Rancho de Arisco several adobe houses are reported about ready to tumble down. The occupants of these houses have moved to higher ground.

Condition at Peralta.

A telephone message from the A. Kempenich store at Peralta, tells The Citizen that the worst rain storm for many years prevailed there all Wednesday night and yesterday, and the country for many miles around is under several feet of water. The flood in the river has not reached that section of Valencia county, but the people down there, at Tunc, Valencia and several other small river towns are preparing for a big flood (tonight or sometime tomorrow).

Santa Fe Trains Are at a Standstill.

Traffic on the local divisions of the Santa Fe is demoralized. All telegraph wires to the north are down. The local Santa Fe officials can hear nothing from north of Bernalillo. The Associated Press dispatches of today came by way of Los Angeles.

Trains No. 1 and No. 7 may be at Thornton, or they may be further east. There is trouble with the wires east of Las Vegas. No trains will leave here this evening for the east, and none can possibly get through from that direction before tomorrow.

Train No. 22, which left El Paso night before last, is washout, and some place near Rihon. There is no chance of its arrival tonight.

A stub train will leave this evening for the west, carrying mail and passengers.

A stub train carrying mail and passengers will also leave for the south unless present orders are countermanded.

The big bridge across the Rio Galtico at Thornton went out last night, so reports this afternoon state.

A section foreman arriving this afternoon from the north says that two and one-half miles of track between Alameda and Bernalillo is under water. He walked into the city from Bernalillo and where the river is running over the railroad he had to take the bluffs along the foot of the mesa.

Passengers on trains No. 2 and No. 8, which are held at the local station, are being well cared for. The Santa Fe today issued 196 meal tickets to passengers traveling on paid fares. People traveling on passes do not get free meals.

ABAJO WRECK

Now Supposed to Have Been Work of Train
Wreckers.

VICTIM OF WRECK IS UNIDENTIFIED

From Thursday's Daily Citizen.

Agent F. L. Myers, who was one of the first to be at the scene of the wreck and remained on the scene until the track was clear, said today that the wreck was the work of robbers or other malicious persons and that the Chicago Limited, No. 4, which was due past the fatal spot at 12 o'clock, was the train threatened by the wreckers.

The circumstances were wired General Manager A. G. Wells at Los Angeles and Mr. Myers was authorized to issue the following reward:

Five Hundred Dollars Reward.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company hereby offers a reward of twenty-five hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction, or information leading to the arrest and conviction of each and every person who tampered with or removed spikes and bolts from the company's track on the night of September 27th, 1904 near Abajo N. M., latent four miles south of the City of Albuquerque, by reason of which passenger train No. 7 was derailed and wrecked about 1:40 a. m., September 28th, 1904.

By A. G. WELLS,
General Manager.

ATCHISON, TOPEKA & SANTA FE RAILWAY CO.

This reward will be paid at 100 different places throughout New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and Colorado. The penalty for tampering in New Mexico is capital punishment.

The Unknown Victim.

The remains of the unknown man, who met death in the wreck, were brought to the city today by A. B. Hord, who by authority of Sheriff Hubbell went this morning and got the body out of pure humanity. Even though no relative may be found it will be given a decent burial. Nothing was found in the dead man's clothes by which to identify him. Every pocket was turned wrong side out and the lining of the coat searched, but a few tobacco tins, a piece of lead ore and a tobacco stick, were all that he possessed.

He was younger than at first supposed and probably not more than 21 or 22. His head was well shaped, forehead high and broad, with a thick shock of light, not blonde, hair. He measured about 5 feet 9½ inches in height and weighed in the neighborhood of 150 pounds. The body was dismembered and the bones in many parts of the body were crushed and broken.

COMMITTED SUICIDE

From Thursday's Daily Citizen.

At 1:59 o'clock this afternoon Geo. Cramer, in the employ of the Whitney Co., and who was doing some plumbing in the rear of the store at No. 209 West Gold avenue, reported to The Citizen office that by chance he looked in one of the back windows and saw a pool of blood on the floor, with the form of a man lying near by.

A Citizen representative then investigated and found the report of Mr. Cramer to be true.

City Marshal McMillin was promptly notified and as the front door was locked an entrance was effected by breaking a rear window and then opening the back door.

Found Dead.

Archie S. Sweetland was found lying on his face dead. Near by was a pool of blood and between the blood and the dead body was a Colt's revolver, which was a .44 caliber revolver. Two of the shells, showing early use, were empty, and with these the victim had committed self destruction.

Satisfying himself that Mr. Sweetland was dead City Marshal McMillin called Police Officer Stewart to No. 213 Sixth street (the Sweetland home) to break the news to the wife, while a Citizen representative told L. S. Pillsbury, a cousin, of the sad event.

This was followed by Magistrate Borchert summoning a coroner's jury, and after the jury had viewed the remains the body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Edwards & Fisher.

The Deadly Shots.

An examination of the remains showed two wounds—one in the head and the other in the left breast. It is plain that the desperate man fired first at his head, but an unsteady hand caused the bullet to make only a scalp wound.

A LINGERING COUGH

The cough that holds on in spite of all remedies needs energetic and above all thorough treatment. A mere cough mixture won't do. Root out the cold that causes the cough.

How? Scott's Emulsion.

Why Scott's Emulsion? Because it stops the irritation, soothes the tissues and heals the affected membranes.

When? Right away.

Scott's Emulsion begins to help with the first dose.

Well send you a sample free upon request.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 109 N. 3rd Street, New York.

It was then the muzzle was placed at the breast, the trigger pulled, and all that was mortal of Archie S. Sweetland passed out into death.

One of the bullets—the one fired at the head—hit the east wall and glanced across the room, being picked up and handed over to City Marshal McMillin. The contact flattened the ball considerably.

On leaving the service of the Albuquerque laundry a few days ago, where he was employed for a number of years, he rented the empty Hosenwald store room, No. 309 West Gold avenue, from Agent McMillin, and was arranging to open up a restaurant by fair week.

The Wife Interviewed.

Mrs. Sweetland was seen this afternoon at the bereaved home, and while nearly prostrated with grief, she stated that her husband had been feeling bad for the past few days, especially yesterday, but she did not see anything unusual or alarming in his condition or actions. He got up quite early this morning, stating that he wanted to look after some plumbing being done at the store room and requested Mrs. Sweetland to remain in bed, saying that he need not get up so early, as he would get his breakfast down town. He then left the residence, and from all indications he took along with him to the store the deadly weapon and scabbard wrapped in a newspaper. A few minutes after reaching the store he evidently committed the deed, for the body was cold and partially rigid when found. Mrs. Sweetland can assign no reason why her husband committed the rash deed.

An Old Timer.

The deceased was born and reared in South Thomaston, Maine, and was 61 years old. He came to Albuquerque about twenty-three years ago and for years was engaged in the restaurant business. He was an Indian trader and merchant at Manuvelito with S. E. Aldrich, and followed the same business on the Navajo Indian reservation for himself. He was in the general merchandise business at Needles with C. O. Cushman as a partner, but lost money there owing to the strike there on in that town. He then returned to this city, and up to a few days ago was employed at the Albuquerque laundry.

On several occasions he was an extra policeman of this city.

Besides a wife he has two sons, George Sweetland, who is foreman of the laundry department of the Alvarado Hotel, George left night before last for El Paso on business. The other son is Archie Sweetland, Jr. He is employed at Marian's confectionery, No. 127 South Spring street, Los Angeles. Both sons have been notified of the tragedy by telegram.

The Tell Tale Note.

On the body being taken to the undertaker's a small leather bound book was found in a pocket of his coat, which explained everything. On one of the pages was written: "No one at fault for this. I did it with my own hand. A loving farewell to my wife and boys and family."

The coroner's jury is composed of Frank I. Smith, S. McCannan, M. C. Noy, George Craig and J. W. Hillard. William Greeting.

Witnesses were examined this afternoon and a verdict reached in accordance with the facts published above.

DECOYING WOMEN
ACROSS THE LINE

FEDERAL OFFICIALS ARREST PERSONS ACCUSED OF BRINGING IN MEXICAN WOMEN FOR IMMORAL PURPOSES.

A special dispatch to the Denver Republican from Bisbee, Arizona, dated September 27, says:

"Efforts recently begun by the federal authorities from New York to San Francisco to stop the importation of women for immoral purposes have spread to Bisbee and seven persons, some of whom are prominent, were arrested by United States Marshal John Foster today. The persons taken into custody were Samuel Poppers, Bert Bowler, William Cummings, Chas. Alexander and three Mexican women.

"According to information in the hands of Marshal Foster, the Mexican women having been decoyed across the line from Mexico some time ago obtained permission to visit Agua Prieta festival on September 15, when the President Diaz festival was held. The women at that time had been held, it is said, in a house in the tenderloin district of Douglas. After the festivities the Mexican women declined to return to this side of the line. A row followed, but the Mexican women called friends and were victorious.

"The proprietor of the Douglas resort is said to have sent across the line several of the young men arrested today, who, it is alleged, by promising to marry the Mexican women, induced some of the runaways and others to come across the line. The deception was made to appear genuine by telephoning to Justice of the Peace Johnson and having him come to Rawlins, a border town, where he was in readiness to perform the ceremonies. It is said that several drunken men were really married to the Mexican women when they came across, but they promptly deserted them when they got them to Douglas. None of the persons sent by the keeper of the Douglas resort are said to have been married. A number of marriage licenses had been procured, but only a few of them were used.

"The women, once they were on this side of the line, were hurried to Douglas and placed in a house of ill repute. Federal officials heard of it and arrests followed.

"Justice of the Peace Johnson may be summoned before the United States commissioner to explain why he performed the ceremonies which were so ostentatiously in aid of immorality.

"All of the others are in jail. The penalty for the alleged offense is from two to five years in the federal penitentiary and $5,000 fine or both. The hearing will come up before United States Commissioner Pottle soon.

TRAIN WRECKED NEAR THIS CITY

From Wednesday's Daily Citizen.

Train No. 7, which left Chicago at 2:49 o'clock Monday morning, was wrecked just past bridge No. 809, three miles south of this city at 1:41 o'clock this morning. Spreading rails caused the engine to leave the track, and mail car No. 44, combination baggage and Wells Fargo car No. 206, baggage car No. 200 and sleeping car No. 1247 followed, the mail and baggage cars plunging down a ten-foot embankment, the mail and express cars finally landing on their sides. The sleeping car was torn from its tracks and was thrown to one side of the track, the front end starting down the embankment.

It was occupied by a detachment of the First Battalion of Philippine Scouts in command of Second Lieutenant McCre. The berths were thrown about the car and the occupants, most of whom had retired, were badly shaken up, but none are reported injured. Baggage car No. 205 was in use as a commissary car for the soldiers. Its contents and army equipment were piled up and some of it was badly mangled.

Mail Clerk Wade Escaped Without Injury.

The mail car was in charge of W. L. Wade, of 314 West Coal avenue. He was seen at the wreck this morning and said:

"I had just begun work when the crash came. I was starting in to have up the rack. When the car began to jump I caught hold of the rack and held on with all my might. I was in the letter end of the car and to this I attribute my escape. After the car had settled down I thought of the gas, and began looking around for a way to get out. All the doors were locked. The engineer knocked one open and let me out."

Express Agent Harris Had Narrow Escape.

M. S. Harris, Wells-Fargo express agent, of 1225 D. West Seventh street, Los Angeles, was in charge of express car No. 206. He had taken No. 7 out last night ahead of his regular run to accommodate a brother agent.

Harris was seen at the local Wells-Fargo express office this morning. His head was swathed in bandages, but he was at work checking over the express packages of the wrecked car. His head and face were badly bruised and scratched and his right ear was severely torn. He said:

"I was smoking when the crash came and my pipe was broken short off. When the car settled down I found myself confined under a pile of baggage, with the through 600 pound sack, which I had just finished looking on top of the baggage. The space in which I was confined was very small and I could find no way out of it. After several minutes some one knocked the door open and helped me out. My rescuer was Engineer Rehder. I will leave for Los Angeles on the first train, for I want to get home."

The Dead Tramp.

The body of a tramp was found crushed between the first and second cars. The face was black and it was at first thought that the body was that of a negro, but an examination of the hands and legs revealed white skin. The right leg was caught between the edges of the cars and severed from the body. The man looked to be about 30 years of age, and of large proportions. The trousers he wore were of heavy gray material, the coat was of black material and a black slouch hat covered his head.

The body was unidentified. Its death must have been sudden and painless.

The First News.

The first news of the wreck came shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. It was meager and gave the wreck as of little consequence. It said that the engine tender had left the track. The second messenger brought a larger account. It was that No. 7 had met with a disaster and the number killed was unknown. This report gained wide circulation and not until late this morning did substantial news reach the city.

A train was sent to the scene of the wreck at 8 o'clock this morning and the passengers from trains Nos. 4, 3 and 22, which arrived from the south and were caught behind the wreckage were transferred and brought to this city.

The wrecking train was sent down early this morning and work of clearing the track began immediately.

The engine was put back on the rails. The trucks of four cars were piled up and buried in the ground a mass of twisted steel and splintered wood. The rails were twisted and bent as if hit more straws. How the trainmen escaped is a mystery.

Engineer Had Slow Orders.

Engineer Harry Rehder had slow running orders. The steam had been shut off and the train was carrying itself along with its own momentum. A track construction gang has been working out from Barr station, a point five miles south of the city, laying new steel. This was the reason for the slow running order. The train was going at about twenty miles an hour when it struck the opening. The engine left the track just after crossing bridge No. 809.

Commendable Work of Trainmen.

Train No. 7 was in charge of Conductor Chandler and Brakeman Chas. Reno. It was drawn by engine No. 443, with Engineer Harry Rehder, of 611 South Broadway, at the throttle, and Fireman De Long, of 313 Williams avenue, at the scoop. All remained at their post of duty until the train came to a stand still.

Engineer Rehder's action at the time and after the wreck should brand him a hero. He remained with his engine until it had been replaced on the track by the wrecking crew. He escaped without injury. To a reporter he said: "The train was carrying itself along at about twenty miles an hour, the engine running without steam in the cylinders. The first thing I knew the engine was down off the rails and slipping at a terrible rate. I shoved the air on and braced for the crash. I felt sure would come. It was done so quick I did not have time to even think. The engine bounced along for a distance of six or seven rail lengths and then stopped with a jerk. Everything was dark. The number of my engine was gone and I had no idea what had become of the rest of the train."

Engineer Rehder then whistled for a flag at the end and to stop trains which were following. Crawling back over the wreckage he knocked open the door of the mail car and released Postal Clerk Wade. He next hammered open the door of the express car and rescued Agent Harris from under a pile of baggage and express matter. Mr. Rehder credits his escape entirely to the fact that the engine ran along on the ties and did not go down the embankment.

Track Cleared Up.

The track was cleared up by this afternoon and trains Nos. 4, 3 and 2, which were held behind the wreckage, arrived here at 2 o'clock. Trains No. 7, the wrecked train, and train No. 27, which were held here overnight for the west and south immediately on the arrival of trains Nos. 4, 3 and 2.

The body of the unknown unfortunate tramp, who was crushed between two cars, had not been taken from the wreck at 5 o'clock this afternoon. An effort will be made to extricate the body tonight, but it will be a very difficult piece of work, as the cars which pin it like a vise are almost intact, and are very heavy. The steam wrecking crane is at Las Vegas, and the wreckers have only hand lever jacks with which to do the work.

It Only Happened to Be No. 7.

It is fortunate that it was No. 7 that was wrecked. Had it been any other train of last night, the disaster would have had double, tenfold, great. All other trains carried a larger number of passengers and some of them a large number of baggage and express cars.

No. 1 arrived on time, but was held here for No. 1, which was late. The Philippine Scouts were transferred to No. 7 from No. 1, and a mail car and the government commanding car were transferred to No. 7 from the delayed No. 1. The delayed train left the local station with ten cars, three of which were not passenger coaches.

No. 4, the Chicago Limited, was saved from running into the opening by being late, and No. 27 avoided the treacherous gap by waiting for the delayed No. 1, which carried mail for the south. These trains were heavily loaded with passengers. Although the wreck was an expensive one it was of little consequence when considered in the proper light. That such a wreck should occur and with but one fatality, seems almost incredible.

A large number of people from the city visited the scene of the disaster during the forenoon.

MAXIMS OF THE PRESIDENT.

Demagogic denunciation of wealth is never wholesome, and is generally dangerous.

It is almost as necessary that our policy should be stable as that it should be wise.

Far and away the best prize that life offers is the chance to work hard at work worth doing.

People show themselves just as unfit for liberty whether they submit to slavery or to tyranny.

In the long run the most disagreeable truth is a safer companion than the most pleasant falsehood.

The well-being of the wage-worker is a prime consideration of our entire policy of economic legislation.

SURVEYING PROPOSED ROAD.

PHILIPS-DODGE PEOPLE EXAMINING ROUTES IN WESTERN NEW MEXICO.

From the Gallup Republican.

The surveyors who came in last week and who it was thought were here to survey a road through this place for the Phelps-Dodge people have folded their tents and silently slipped away. We understand that they went from here to Chaves. It is currently reported that the American Lumber company has several miles of road already built and it is reported that this was offered to the company if they built through that section. It is to be presumed that companies that have grown to the size of the Phelps-Dodge people know their business but in this instance it looks like folly to pass up a place like Gallup for such as Chaves. Here the business is already established, abundance of water is to be had, unlimited beds of coal, and any amount of land that could be had for the asking. For eighty miles north of this city into the San Juan country the land lies nearly level. No better country could be asked for to run a railroad through. It may be the company will find these things out later on and the road may yet be built through Gallup.

"Prince of Pilean" Coming Home.

London, Sept. 26.—After a run of nineteen weeks at Shaftsbury theater, "The Prince of Pilean" concludes its engagement tonight, and the company will return at once to America.

"We are perfectly satisfied with our London engagement," said Manager H. H. Cusby, "but we have a more promising outlook home. We have run steadily through the hot weather with but two malaises a week and made gains when we expected a slump. The theory that American humor is too quick or too local for English audiences has been disproved by 'The Prince of Pilean.'"

Harmony Ridge, No. 1, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will meet tonight.

Territorial Topics

Back From St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Watson have returned to Santa Fe from a three weeks' sojourn in the World's Fair city. Mr. Watson says that the New Mexico building and exhibits are very creditable and come in for a good deal of favorable comment.

Improving the Capital City.

Under instructions given by Superintendent Bursum, of the territorial penitentiary, vitrified paving blocks are now being unloaded at the northeast corner of the plaza. Santa Fe to be used in the construction of crossings around the plaza. Superintendent Bursum has promised the city authorities to furnish convicts to do the work.

In El Paso on Court Matters.

Postmaster Paul A. P. Walter and Registry and Money Order Clerk John K. Stauffer, of the Santa Fe post office, were summoned to appear in the United States court at El Paso to testify in the Fulkerson customs house case. Fulkerson, who is accused of embezzling customs duties sent to the customs house by post office, is at present in Mexico, but his extradition has been arranged and his case will come up for trial during the second week in October.

Pecos Roads Washed Out.

Dr. William Sparks, one of the pioneers of the Upper Pecos country, is in Santa Fe. He says that the roads on the Pecos are badly washed out and fourteen men are at work filling them up and repairing them. Two more car loads of machinery have arrived at the Pecos switch for the Pecos Mining company, and are being hauled up to the mines at the junction of Willow creek and the Pecos river. Two car loads that arrived two months ago have been installed. The engine, the hoisting and tank houses are nearing completion.

Will Have Sidewalks.

The territorial land board has let a contract to C. O. Carlson, contractor and builder, for the construction of a vitrified brick sidewalk in front of the Old Palace on the plaza, also on the west side of Washington avenue as far as the executive mansion, and on the east side of Lincoln avenue as far as the engine house, says the New Mexican. The work will commence October 2 and will be finished in thirty days. This will be a great improvement, and will add to the cleanliness and healthfulness of the city. Superintendent Bursum will give as much aid as he can in the shape of labor and the hauling of the brick for the walk will be commenced next week.

SANTA FE.

From the New Mexican.

Hon. Antonio Joseph left on the Denver & Rio Grande for his home at Ojo Caliente, after several days passed in Santa Fe on court and political matters.

Mrs. Thomas B. Catron left for a visit to the Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis, and will visit Chicago and other eastern cities before returning. Her trip will be of three or four weeks' duration.

Mrs. Henry L. Waldo and daughter, Miss Waldo, who have been in the city for the past two weeks guests of the Palace hotel, expect to return east Tuesday. Miss Waldo's health has been benefited by her sojourn in this city.

O. C. Watson and wife, who returned on Thursday from a sixteen days' trip to St. Louis and Chicago, are very enthusiastic about their visit to the World's fair. Mr. Watson declares it to be marvelous, and predicts that no exposition so vast in its scope will be held again for many years to come. The only criticism that he had to make is that it is too big. The New Mexico building impressed him as being very attractive in its exterior as well as in its interior appearance, and he said it is refreshing to note that more people visit it than many of the larger state buildings.

LAS CRUCES.

From the Republican.

The posters for the Albuquerque fair are now adorning the town.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Balford ran down to El Paso to meet Mrs. Balford's sister, Miss Carrie Rose, from Alabama, who will probably remain with her relatives here for some time.

It is reported that a deal is about to be closed by eastern capitalists to buy the Santa Thomas grant, just north and southwest of Mesilla. They expect to put pumping plants on the land and sell in small tracts to colonists. Dr. J. R. Brown oversees the credit of engineering the deal.

The Women's Improvement association held a special meeting Wednesday for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of supplying the new hotel with water. It was at last decided that it would be impossible to do this for the reason that the water supply would not be great enough.

The N. M. A. & M. A. college for this season is having a very flattering outlook. The enrollment has already reached over 100 and President Foster feels confident that it will soon reach the 200 standard. There is a decrease in the number from Las Cruces, but quite an increase of attendances from a distance.

SAN MARCIAL.

From the Bee.

J. A. Turrell returned from San Marcial the other day from Flagstaff accompanied by his two children.

The Hillside college has a very good enrollment of students, a number of them being from outside points.

Mon. Amado Chavez, of Santa Fe, spent the greater part of this week here in connection with the Victoria Land and Cattle company business.

The health of this community is very good at the present time, but Dr. McCrory responds to quite a number of calls to outside points.

Along about October 18 Capt. Matthews, of the Socorro Telephone company, accompanied by eastern representatives of the main system, will be in San Marcial to consult with our citizens about a local exchange. Their lines are in working order to San Antonio and Carthage, and the building of the link between this point and San Antonio will in a measure rest with the amount of encouragement people here may extend to the enterprise.

SOCORRO.

From the Chieftain.

Mrs. Wm. Gardner was a guest at Windsor from the Gardner ranch near Magdalena.

Mrs. Stage and children arrived from Denver to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Sikes.

J. S. Macfarlane, manager of the Becker-Blackwell company at Magdalena, was in Socorro on his way home from an eastern trip.

It is reported on apparently good authority that J. Leon Knapp, who was quite well known in Socorro and vicinity two years ago, recently died in West Virginia of typhoid fever.

Mrs. Henry Graham reports that Joseph Page died in El Paso of paralysis. Mr. Page was an engineer at the smelter here eighteen or twenty years ago. He had a large circle of friends and acquaintances here and was highly esteemed.

San Miguel's day occurs on Thursday, the 29th. There will be some interesting horse races and a game of baseball between the Kelly and Socorro teams. The San Antonio military band will also be on hand to take part in the festivities and will give a public concert in the afternoon and a grand ball at the opera house in the evening.

SILVER CITY.

From the Enterprise.

Messrs. A. B. Goodell, Hyman Abraham, Robert Bonware and W. B. Peters returned Friday from attending the Knights Templar convocation in San Francisco.

J. J. Kelly desires information concerning John William Henry Lane, a native of Dublin, Ireland, who was in New Mexico twenty years ago. This information is desired by his relatives and friends.

District court for Grant county will probably adjourn today or tomorrow. Both civil and criminal dockets have been pretty thoroughly cleaned up, thanks to the effective work of Judge Parker, who held sessions of the court every evening of the week in order to expedite matters. But one more case in the civil docket, that of Wiley, vs. Callahan, remains to be heard.

J. P. Anderson, of Colorado, Texas, shipped several cars of high grade cattle to this city last week and had no trouble in disposing of them to Grant county cattlemen. In the lot were forty-seven registered Hereford and Shorthorn bulls, twenty-seven of which were sold to Horace Hooker for the H. W. ranch on other parties in that vicinity. Thirty young Shorthorn heifers were sold to John H. Converse and the T. J. ranch on the Upper Gila, and were taken out there this week.

The handsome silver loving cup set with 'regentite, valued at $200, and donated by the Silver City Gun club, to be given to the contesting club making the highest score, stays with the Silver City boys as the result of their competitive shoot with a team from the El Paso Gun club, held on the local range west of town last Saturday afternoon. However, one of the conditions of the contest is that the cup must be won three times by any one club before it becomes the property of that club.

HILLSBORO.

From the Advocate.

Some excitement was evident here for a few moments Thursday, when a young Mexican woman fell on the street in a fit while returning from a funeral.

Judge A. B. Elliott has been confined to his home most of the week, owing to injuries received from a fall. We are glad to say that Mr. Elliott's injury is not of a severe nature.

Miss Nona Murphy, vocal instructor at the A. & M. college, is very ill with typhoid fever. In response to a telegram Mrs. Murphy left for Mesilla Park. Miss Murphy's many friends anxiously look for her early recovery.

The Eschwege G. M. & M. company is crowding work on the Good Hope bonanza mines with a force of about thirty men. On their pay day last Friday they distributed $5,000. For the last two or three months we are informed that the mine produced enough pay ore to more than pay expenses, besides the milling ore that is stacked on the dump. They expect to have their mill running some time this month.

W. D. Barber met with a painful accident about two days ago on the plains on the east side of the Rio Grande. The team he was driving got away and Barber was thrown to the ground. The wheels of the wagon passed over his legs, bruising and lacerating them in a painful manner. He went to San Marcial, where he was patched up and is now doing well, and is a likely candidate for the nomination for sheriff on the democratic ticket.

Found in Watermelon Patch. A creditable story is told about a cow concerning George L. Wyllis, of Russell, who formerly was a resident of the capital city. Early in the week a number of students at the New Mexico Military Institute were caught red-handed in Mr. Wyllis' watermelon patch. The trust youngsters were asked why they had chosen to break a certain commandment regarding coveting thy neighbor's goods, especially as none were colored. They replied that it had been a long while since they had tasted of the delicious red fruit. The next day a wagon load of watermelons was sent to the institute with Mr. Wyllis' compliments.

Thieves at Las Vegas.

The gang of burglars who have been terrorizing Las Vegas for a month still continues nightly operations. Wednesday night the grocery store of Ryan & Blood was burglarized for the third time. In several cases the thieves have entered sleeping rooms and taken money from the clothing of occupants. Carpets valued at $125 were taken from the Hotel Eldorado in daylight. The thieves are now known to be three in number, but they use signals so successfully that they have thwarted every effort to capture them.

NEW MEXICO'S ANNUAL FAIR.

"The twenty-fourth annual territorial fair, which will be held in Albuquerque in October, will be the largest, best attended and most magnificent spectacle of any event ever held in New Mexico."

J. H. O'Reilly, formerly president of the territorial fair board, is in Santa Fe on business and cannot say too much of the coming fair, says the New Mexican.

"The Indian sacred fire dance alone will be worth traveling miles to see. The Navajos are coming from the reservation for the first time to render this ceremony and the white men will see the sacred fire dance. The Indians, nearly naked, dance around a huge burning pile of wood, holding burning brands down their backs as their revolutions gradually become faster and faster. Those who have become utterly exhausted throw themselves to one side and the balance continues their mad dance until the fire gradually dies out."

"The Montezuma ball will be one of the chief features of the fair this year. A ladies' auxiliary has been appointed and all the distinguished visitors are expected to participate. Many military officers will be present in uniform and the ball will have an unusually brilliant dash."

"The executive committee is expecting more money this year than ever before, and the bazaar bunting, baseball, band and racing contests will surpass any previously given. Several large stake races have been arranged, horses from the Colorado circuit to be present in force. The fruit exhibits will be a rivalry between the San Juan and Pecos valleys, each endeavoring to surpass the other with its displays of its particular values."

"The fair will certainly be worth the money to go to Albuquerque, and more outside visitors than ever before are expected to be in attendance."

Cheaper.

From the Detroit Free Press.

"The cable dispatches say that the day of Tunis went to Paris and was filled with enthusiasm."

"I obtained the same result," replied Souley, "by just spending a few hours down town."

A Card of Thanks.

We sincerely thank our many friends for their loving sympathy and help as graciously extended during our great sorrow, in the death of our dear child, Francis. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Klehar.

Isaac M. Hutchinson, president of the Mexican Car and Foundry company, announces that orders for 3,000 freight cars have been so far placed by various railroads of Mexico. The initial capacity of the plant will be five cars daily. The company is capitalized at $1,000,000 gold, and much of the stock is held by St. Louis, Denver and Pittsburgh capitalists.

Wall of the School Boy. I'm 'keep' in' when you talk; And I'm 'keep' in' when I'm late; I'm 'keep' in' for position; That means no settin' straight.

I'm 'keep' in' on my joggery; My readin' an' my writin'; An' I'm 'keep' in' some for laughin'; But I'm 'keep' in' most for fightin'.

I'm 'keep' in' when my marbles Comes rattlin' from my pockets; An' sometimes when my matches Gets mixed up with my rocks.

I'm 'keep' in' of I whisper; I'm 'keep' in' of I show; The piece of gum I've buried; An' am warnin' in my jaw.

The truth is, 'at I'm 'keep' in' Most everthin' I do! But one jolly thing about it Is the teacher's 'keep' in' too. —Eva Williams Malone in Frank Leslie's.

LOCAL NEWS

From Saturday's Daily Citizen.

Will Speak at the Fair.—It is definitely announced from democratic headquarters at Santa Fe that George P. Money, democratic candidate for delegate to congress, will speak at the Albuquerque Territorial fair in October. Mr. Money expects to kill two birds with one stone during fair week.

Methodist Conference.—Additional members of the New Mexico annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, arrived in the city yesterday. The Highland Methodist church has been well filled every evening and many interesting addresses have been delivered by different members of the conference. A reception was tendered Bishop Ross, the presiding officer, last night.

It is Ridiculous.—One of the most ridiculous things that has happened in recent times is William J. Bryan making a speech in the territory of New Mexico, opening the democratic campaign there. It is supposed that he thinks the electoral vote of this jurisdiction can be captured for the democratic ticket.

Had a Splendid Time.—W. H. Burke, the joker of the mikologists of the city, has returned home after his visit to San Francisco, where he attended the triennial convocation of the Knights Templar. He reports having had a good vacation, and says the trip, stopping in the salt brines from the ocean, no doubt has added at least twenty years more to his life.

Gunshot at Denver.—The Denver Republican says: Maynard Gunzel, secretary of the New Mexico Territorial fair association, called on General Agent Hall, of the Santa Fe, yesterday, to get his assistance in promoting and stimulating attendance to the annual territorial fair, which is to be held at Albuquerque this year. He says that the show will be the most extensive and best the territory has ever had and that the frontier features will equal those of the annual show at Cheyenne.

Bowling.—In order to have a good start in the bowling season, there will be arranged a bowling tournament at the Albuquerque alleys during the territorial fair. Bowling teams or clubs from all over the territory have been invited to participate in this tournament. A beautiful and valuable trophy, a silver ten pin, 22 inches high, is exhibited at the alleys and will be awarded the team which bowls the highest total number of pins in three games. There are in this city quite a number of good bowlers, good material for making up several teams, and they will certainly not take this event as an opportunity to organize, and a team from this city should be able to take the trophy.

Cannot Accept.—Senator Dick, of Ohio, and Congressman Tawney of the republican national speakers' bureau, have both invited Delegate Rodey to make a series of speeches for the republican national ticket in the middle states and the northwest this campaign. Mr. Rodey says he has to make a living at home and cannot accept.

Here From Pekin, China.—C. A. Gillson, United States official interpreter in Pekin, China, arrived from the north last night, en route to San Francisco, where he will embark for the Orient. He is taking in the sights of the territorial metropolis this morning; will attend the big circus this afternoon and proceed westward tonight.

Doesn't Want Statehood.—Delegate Rodey says that Arizona has nominated on the republican ticket for delegate to congress a Yankee named R. A. Fowler. He is not in favor of any statehood, either separate or joint. He is a smart man and a money-maker. He is the man of all others who was instrumental in getting the Tonto basin dam project for that territory.

An Old Pythian Knight.—Col. W. M. Berger, who attended the New Mexico Grand lodge Knights of Pythias at Las Vegas, is in the city today taking in the circus this afternoon. Col. Berger was chosen supreme representative in the National Grand lodge. He is the only charter member of the Santa Fe lodge now living, and is the oldest made Pythian knight in the territory.

Base Ball Magnates Meet.—Frank J. Houston, superintendent of base ball at the territorial fair, W. N. Townsend, manager of the Santa Fe base ball club, and P. O. Wood, manager of the Las Vegas Blues will meet at Las Vegas tomorrow to discuss matters in connection with the Galinas park, and the Territorial Fair association games. Some regulations to govern at the approaching games may be adopted.

Will Move Warehouses From El Centro to Estancia.—George Arnold, manager of the local wholesale grocery house of Gross, Kelly & Co., said this morning that Gross, Kelly & Co.

would establish a branch house at Estancia on the Santa Fe Central just as soon as the railroad company lays a 1000-foot switch, which they have agreed to do. The warehouses at Delen will be moved to Estancia. Gross, Kelly & Co. is now furnishing supplies for grading and outfitting on the Albuquerque Eastern railroad.

After Additional Cars for Fair Rush.—W. H. Greer and M. O. Chadbourne, of the Albuquerque Traction company, are in Las Vegas negotiating for electric cars to use during the territorial fair as an expedient means of handling the great crowds in case the extra new cars ordered do not arrive by that time. The cars the Traction company propose to get at Las Vegas were formerly used on the Las Vegas electric street railway now out of operation.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Harsch are celebrating the happy event and many friends are receiving remembrances at their home. This evening at their home friends will meet and talk over the events which have transpired in the past nine years.

One of the Grandest Shows.—The afternoon and night performances given here Saturday by Sells and Downes' shows were far ahead of any circus given in this city in the past several years. Every feature of the entertainment was worthy of the highest commendation. The trained seals, the trapeze and acrobatic performances, the horses and the big ring feats were splendid, and the chorus well, the clowns were really funny. There was nothing dry about that bunch of comedians. The Maxwell family of bicyclists gave an exhibition worthy of special mention. These artists people could ride a bicycle or a single wheel better than they could walk.

Las Vegas Loses to El Paso.—The Las Vegas Blues passed through the city this morning homeward bound from El Paso, where they engaged the Cubs in games played on Saturday and Sunday. The Pass City boys won in both events. On Saturday the score was 5 to 2 and on Sunday it was 8 to 2. On Saturday the batteries were Rhodes and Leason, Hennis and Myers. Right hits were made off Rhodes and time off Hennis. The Blues think Hennis may. On Sunday Fanning pitched for the Blues and Hitt for the Cubs. In this game each team got eight hits. Sunday's game drew out a large crowd.

From Tuesday's Daily Citizen.

Col. John Borradaile Inspects the Guard.—Last night Col. John Borradaile and staff inspected Company E of the New Mexico National Guard and found men and equipment in good shape. Company E is the newest company in the territory, but it is by no means the smallest, nor does it make the poorest showing. Company G will be inspected tonight at the new armory. The men will be reviewed and all equipment inspected. Company G is apparently in a prosperous condition.

New Mexico Pharmacists Meet Here Fair Week.—H. H. Happe, president of the New Mexico board of pharmacy, has issued a call ordering the annual convention to meet in Albuquerque on October 19. Mr. Happe gives as his reason for calling a meeting of the board on this date is the available low railroad rates and the means of entertainment prepared for the visitors. There are 150 registered druggists in the territory and the prospects are that nearly all will attend the convention.

Center Fielder Congroove Injured.—Yesterday afternoon at the fair grounds James Congroove, the center fielder of the Brown baseball club, met with a very painful accident which will prevent him from playing baseball or even working for some time to come. He and Charles Guier have the contract to paint the grand stand at the fair grounds. Congroove got off the scaffolding, and on reaching the ground stepped on a piece of scaffolding with an untimely spike. The spike penetrated the foot, causing a very serious wound. A physician was summoned and it is likely the young baseball player and painter will be compelled to keep indoors for some time.

As a means of making it uncomfortable for the telegraph operators who are taking the place of union operators in the strike on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway, it is reported that the strikers have photographed out taking pictures of every non-union operator and sent along the line. These will be used, it is said, to make the members of the organization familiar with the faces of the men who are taking their places.

Five hundred dollars in gold was presented to Frank M. Duncan, who resigned September 1, as chief clerk to H. C. Ferris, general superintendent of the Colorado division of the Union Pacific railway. The presentation was made by the employees of the road, from section men up to those high in the offices of the company. Mr. Duncan resigns to accept a better position, but at present he has not decided among several offers.

The gang of workmen engaged in the construction of bridges on the old Santa Fe grade between San Antonio and Carthage, was paid off the other day. Pending a settlement of the injunction proceedings, work was permitted on a certain portion of the line. The completion of this ends all work for the time being. Most of the discharged workmen visited San Marcial and Socorro, and spent a good deal of money in a strict, orderly way.

The Needles Eye says: There is a movement dictated by good sense which means the probability of the Mohave & Milltown railway being ordered from its present terminus at Vernal over to Silver creek and up the creek to Acme, or as it is better known, Gold Road. Adamana Hotel to Be Enlarged. The Adamana hotel, which is already the most pretentious structure at the petrified forest, Santa Fe station in Arizona, is to be enlarged by on addition of twenty-three rooms. Al Stevenson, the proprietor, says that the increasing number of tourists, who are stopping off to see the petrified forest, has made the proposed improvements necessary. The Santa Fe has advertised the great Arizona stone forest extensively of late, and a large travel is anticipated the coming season. The petrified forest is one of the leading features of wonder on the Santa Fe's transcontinental line.

VEGETATION IN SAND DISTRICTS.

Santa Fe Will Try to Keep Sand From Blowing Over Railroad Tracks.

The Santa Fe is about to try an experiment in New Mexico, Arizona and lower California which has been tried in Europe with great success. That is, to bind the sand along the tracks by means of low growing plants so that it will not drift over them during wind storms. There is no doubt that the thing can be done, and done successfully, if the right kind of plants are used, and it is needed greatly on the sandy wastes of Arizona and New Mexico.

General Superintendent Shepard, of the Santa Fe coast line, paid special attention to this matter during a recent inspection trip and experiments will be made at once.

NO HOLIDAY EXCURSIONS.

Trunk Line Passenger Association Has Decided Against Them.

The Trunk Line Passenger association has decided not to make any reduction in rates this year for the Christmas and New Year holidays, and has notified connecting lines that no tickets at reduced rates may be sold from points outside Trunk Line territory in points within the same. Normal traffic rates must be adhered to.

Will Meet at Fortness Monroe.

The annual convention of the American association of general passenger and ticket agents will be held at Fortness Monroe, Va., on October 18. The most important subject on the docket is a proposition to abolish Sunday excursions. Several of the roads have taken individual action, notably the Lake Shore and North-western, which have decided not to run Sunday excursions except when absolutely necessary. Many of the roads, however, find the Sunday excursion business exceedingly profitable, and they do not like to discontinue them. While this association may recommend the abolition of Sunday excursions by all lines, it is not probable that the action would be ratified by the passenger associations, which have made many ineffectual attempts to secure that end.

SEMAPHORES AT WICHITA.

Santa Fe Has Installed Protective Devices at All Crossings at Wichita. P. C. Brown, division superintendent, and T. G. Stevens, signal inspector, of the Santa Fe, have been in Wichita on business connected with the installing of a block system along the line through that city and also for building a semaphore system or interlocking plant at the Missouri Pacific and Santa Fe crossing.

The semaphores alone will cost several thousands of dollars before completed. Several years ago a similar system was installed at the Rock Island and Santa Fe crossings. Since that time it has been decided to install another. One more semaphore system will give the Santa Fe trains protection at all crossings in Wichita, as they number but two.

The expense of installing a semaphore system does not put an end to the expense of this device. The company operating semaphores has to furnish one employee for every plant to manipulate the workings. By the use of these systems it is estimated that railroad companies are absolutely immune from wrecks at railroad crossings fitted with them.

METHODIST CONFERENCE HAS ADJOURNED

SOME OF THE INTERESTING PROCEEDINGS—THE ASSIGNMENTS OF VISITING MINISTERS.

The conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, which has been in session at the High and M. E. church since Thursday, finished its business today, except ordaining elders and deacons tomorrow and reading out the appointments of the preachers for the coming year after the services tomorrow night by Bishop Hoss.

The services have been very pleasant and instructive, opening every morning with religious exercises in which the bishop gave an exposition of the scriptures. During the sessions the character of every preacher has been passed upon, not one of whom has failed to pass approval.

Thursday night a reception was given to the bishop in which the other denominations took part.

Yesterday afternoon the bishop went out to the university and delivered an address to the college people, which is said to have been grand.

Last night a mission meeting was held at the church and the bishop addressed the large audience assembled to hear him, for thirty-five minutes on "Missions." The address was delightful.

The reports of the various committees and boards were made this morning.

Tomorrow the pulpits of the various churches in the city will be supplied by members of the conference as follows:

The Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. D. L. Collins, El Paso, Texas, morning; Rev. William S. Huggett, Santa Fe, evening.

The Congregational church, Rev. J. M. Solie, Alabama, morning; Rev. S. E. Allison, Las Cruces, evening.

Presbyterian church, Rev. J. H. Messer, Portland, N. M., morning; Rev. W. E. Lyon, Roswell, N. M., evening.

Baptist church, Rev. J. B. Davis, Alamogordo, N. M., morning; Rev. George Ward, Magdalena, N. M., evening.

The Christian church, Rev. W. E. Foulkes, Alpine, Texas, morning; Rev. S. E. Wilson, Odessa, Texas, evening.

Methodist church, south, Bishop E. E. Hoss, Nashville, Tenn., morning; Rev. T. L. Lallance, El Paso, Texas, evening.

Rev. Lallance is presiding elder of the El Paso district.

After services in the morning at the Highland Methodist church the bishop will ordain elders. In the evening he will ordain deacons and read out the appointments for the coming year.

The next conference will be held at Deming, N. M.

The ministers who have been in attendance are as follows:

Bishop E. E. Hoss, who is one of the strongest men in America, having been president of two colleges and editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate eleven years before he was made bishop.

Rev. William D. Clayton, T. L. Lallance, E. P. Goodson, W. E. Foulkes, Robert Hodgson, William S. Huggett, George Ward, George H. Ray, J. H. Messer, D. L. Collins, S. E. Allison, W. E. Lyon, S. E. Wilson, Noah D. Wood, J. M. Solie, P. A. Bond, H. T. James, Ed. Landon and J. W. Davis.

Rev. George Given comes as a transfer from Kentucky.

There was one lay delegate, D. S. Davidson, Albuquerque, present.

Mrs. Otto Lantz and children, Mrs. J. B. Bean, Miss Lydia Laid, all from Wainwright, N. M., were present.

Miss Anna Carlton, conference corresponding secretary for women's home mission, was also present.

Ex-Governor Eagels, of Arkansas, and Mrs. Marshall and Campbell visited the conference and were introduced to the members.

Altogether it has been a delightful session.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

Has worldwide fame for marvelous cures. It surpasses any other salve, lotion, ointment or balm for cuts, corns, salt rheum, sores, felonies, chapped hands, skin eruptions; infallible for piles. Cures guaranteed. Only 25c at all druggists.

A PIOUS FRAUD.

The El Paso Times says that an old fraud calling himself "Pope August Schrader" promises to inflict his presence on New Mexico permanently. The original Schrader was a Denver cobbler, who went crazy on religion, imagined himself the reincarnation of Christ, and wandered down into New Mexico and died on the desert near Cuernavaca, where he was buried by kind-hearted Mexicans.

In the meantime, an ignorant fellow named Schrader, who was too lazy to take regular baths, discovered himself in Ohio, and started out as a fake divine healer; and it seems that he has surrounded himself with quite a bunch of brother fakirs who are willing to avoid labor by living on the credulity of weak-minded people.

"Pope Schrader" declares himself the head of the "Divine Catholic church" which he has established in New Mexico, hoping no doubt to find enough simple rubes out west to enable him to fill his coffers with coin as Alexander Dowse has done in Illinois. But there is a great deal of the dominating Missouri characteristics in them, and Schrader will have to show them before he can hope to own fine homes, wear clean robes and ride in private cars.

Will improve system.

the water supply, so that additional land can be brought under irrigation. The present wrought iron mains are to be taken up and will be replaced by cast iron pipes of greater dimensions and of the greatest possible strength and durability.

All the old five hydrants in the city limits of Santa Fe will be replaced with the modern hydrants. All mains which have been found to be too small will be replaced by mains of larger dimensions. A Solid Fact.

At both republican and democratic conventions in both New Mexico and Arizona, anti-joint statehood platforms were adopted. A prominent politician, who is well acquainted in both territories, was recently asked why the powers that be in both parties in both territories were so opposed to letting the people vote on the question of joint statehood.

If the politicians were so sure that joint statehood was not wanted by the people, why did they object to letting the people vote on the question? His answer was: "If a constitution is submitted to the people in either or both territories, they will adopt it so quickly that a lot of politicians will be out of a job."—Lordsburg Liberal.

IN MEMORIAM.

In the death of Dr. Clarence L. Her- lock, which occurred at Socorro, New Mexico, September 13, 1901, New Mexico and the scientific world have suffered a great loss.

As president of the university of New Mexico from 1897 to 1901, Doctor Herlock reconstructed its policy, giving it a broader foundation and an increased usefulness. Several university publications were begun under his leadership, and research was given a powerful impetus.

The Hadley Memorial Science hall was built during his administration, and was largely the direct result of his personal endeavor.

Greater, however, than all these physical evidences of his administration is the fact that he gathered about him, in addition to the regular students of the school, a considerable body of graduate students who were closely and intimately associated with him in the research work. The influence thus exerted, both upon the students and upon the policy of the school, will be enduring. This influence was due in part to the broad culture and learning he possessed, but in a still greater measure to his inspiring personality. His enthusiasm and love for knowledge was communicated spontaneously to all about him, and no one came in close touch with him but that he felt himself uplifted.

Therefore, it seems peculiarly fitting that we, the faculty of the University of New Mexico, should express our appreciation of his work and personal worth by extending our sympathy to his devoted wife and children.

I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract, and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. E. CITY INSTITUTE IN SESSION.

Today the program at the teachers' institute included grade work in mathematics and a lecture by Prof. Howe, of the university, on instruction in natural science.

Wednesday's program will include grade work in geography and a lecture by Dr. T. Light, of the university, on "Practical Methods in Elementary Instruction."

Superintendent Stroup, who is conducting the institute, said last night that while the work of the meetings was chiefly for the teachers, yet a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend any and all of the sessions.

Everything points to a record breaking year in the Albuquerque public schools. The new buildings will make the work much easier both for teacher and pupil than heretofore. The attendance on opening day now promises to be the largest in the history of the public schools here.

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS.

NOMINATING CONVENTIONS BEING HELD IN A NUMBER OF COUNTIES.

The democrats of Lincoln county, led by John Y. Howell, held their county convention at Lincoln and nominated a county ticket. The following ticket was nominated:

Sheriff, John W. Owen, who was nominated on the tenth ballot; probate judge, Bernardo Salazar; probate clerk, W. L. Alvord, who was nominated on the second ballot; assessor, W. L. Alvord; treasurer and collector, Joseph Talavera; superintendent of schools, Edward J. Cox; county commissioners, Higinio Salazar and J. H. Burrell, who were nominated after the fourth ballot. The following county central committee was named: A. H. Hudspeth, chairman; John A. Haley, secretary and treasurer, executive committee; A. H. Hudspeth, John A. Haley, W. B. Puckett, W. M. Ferguson and Bernardo Salazar, and the following members, one from each precinct: Sergio Salazar, A. C. Storm, J. R. Christman, George Kimbrell, H. H. Roberts, J. D. Brotherton, Copeland Norwood, C. O. Hounie, R. H. Correll and D. C. Kerr.

The republicans of Otero county held a meeting at Alamogordo court house the other day, and formed a permanent organization by electing H. H. Roberts chairman of the county central committee. The convention to nominate a county ticket will be held at Alamogordo on October 8. At the last election the republicans of Otero county had no ticket in the field, but this year they will make a fight for county supremacy. The democrats are split up considerably, their primaries recently held, resulting in charges of fraud and corruption on both sides. With a good ticket nominated the republicans of Otero county have an excellent chance of success.

Francisco Serra, of Chama, chairman of the board of county commissioners of Rio Arriba county, has the following to say of the political situation in his county: "I am of the opinion that the republicans will carry Rio Arriba county by a big majority. The republican county convention will likely be held at Tierra Armita on October 10, at which time candidates for the legislature and for county offices will be nominated. The republicans in that county are in better shape than they have been for many years and will put up a strong legislative and county ticket. The majority of Senator Andrews should be very large."

It is reported that a short campaign has been agreed upon between the republicans and democrats of Grant county. The conventions will be held on the 22nd and 24th of October and local affairs will be comparatively quiet in that county until the nominations.

George P. Money, the democratic nominee for delegate to congress, will address a democratic mass meeting at the court house, Santa Fe, tonight. Mr. Money has been devoting the greater portion of his time in the last few weeks to the northern counties.

The democrats of Colfax county, in convention held the other day at Raton, nominated the following legislative and county ticket: For council, Stefano Martinez; for the house of representatives from Colfax county, Allen Birk, who declined to run; county commissioner, First district, Charles Voss, county commissioner, Third district, George W. Wilson; Higinio Valdez, of Rayado, for treasurer and executive collector; John H. McLaughlin, of Raton, for assessor; J. P. Tule, of Raton, who declined to run, for probate judge; R. B. Carter, of Raton, who declined to run, for probate clerk; E. M. Fetter, of Raton, superintendent of schools; W. A. Chapman, of Raton, for surveyor.

OUR WORLD'S FAIR WANDERERS

IN THE AGRICULTURAL BUILDING THEY FIND WHAT SCIENCE HAS DONE TO MAKE THE FARMER A MAN OF LEISURE.

St. Louis, Sept. 29.—John is suffering an acute case of dysentery as a result of sampling all the breakfast foods, soups, pickles, fruits and catsup that were given him in the agricultural building and we may have to check him at "the children's playground." This playground is one of the unique features of the exposition. It is located near the main entrance, is enclosed with high wire fencing and is provided with all the games and outdoor amusements that are dear to the hearts of children. The grounds are spacious and attractive and there are numerous benches to look after the little ones.

Almost any child would rather romp around in this delightful toyland than to tramp through the exposition. The children are checked as luggage is checked at a parcel room and there is trouble ahead if you lose the check or the child shows up his tag.

I noticed that everybody who came out of the agricultural building was eating. With mouths bulging full of "puffed rice," hot-corn buns, cakes, prunes and other goodies the women were trying to tell each other about the wonderful sights in the palace of agriculture.

The sight of so many people chewing something made John and Jane so anxious to get into the building that I could hardly get them to look at the great floral clock that lies on the sloping hillside between the flights of stairs that lead to the main entrance of the palace of agriculture.

I have seen "floral clocks" before, deep rooted in the earth, but motionless and useless. But here's one that moves. It has wheels. It is typical of this exposition. Everything moves here. Motion and color are the key-words of this fair. This is the greatest clock ever built. The dial is 112 feet in diameter and the minute hand is 74 feet long. The minute hand moves five feet every minute, or 600 miles each year. The numbers on the dial are flowers of a different color from the 4,500 verona plants that make up the rest of the dial. This clock, which strikes the hour and half hour by springs or weights but by compressed air, not the kind that is handed out by the politicians who are running for office, but real atmosphere, which is controlled by a master clock.

In the agricultural palace, again, everything is full of life and motion. Even the butter, of which there are tons and tons, is full of life; that is, it is moulded in the shape of animals and human beings. All the officers of the exposition, Roosevelt, Grant and Lincoln are also in butter. And the like-noses are strikingly faithful. North Dakota's butter exhibit shows Roosevelt as a cowboy on horseback, mounted out of rich yellow butter.

"Why don't those butter busts and animals melt?" inquired a woman whose nose was pressed against the glass of one of the big cases.

"I think there's a hint of Senator Fairbanks in there, somewhere," said a wag from Indiana, who was standing.

"What's the sense of having butter made into such shapes instead of having it in tubs?" asked a farmer who had been studying the exhibits for an hour.

"That's to attract your attention to the exhibits," said one of the men in charge. "How long would you look at tubs of butter?"

And several hundred people, including ourselves, were at that moment demonstrating the truthfulness of his statement. But you don't have to look at the butter exhibits alone. On one side of the building is a complete, modern, working creamery, which shows each day the entire process of separating cream from milk, extracting the butter and preparing it for the market.

The dominant idea here is demonstration. There are tobacco and rice fields with miniature laborers in them, rice mills, rice harvesters, cane and beet sugar factories, candy factories, cotton gins, cotton fields with daisies picking cotton, English and French bakeries turning out tons of hot biscuits, pies, cakes and tarts. There are nine miles of booths devoted to foods and their accessories from which country maidens are handing out samples and waving the good for a harvest of dysentery.

Market Letter.
Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 29.—Cattle receipts last week dropped off toward the end of the week, on account of over market for killing cattle, particularly beef steers, and the total for the week was 78,000 head, as compared with 81,000 head the previous week. Packers claimed they had paid too much for beef steers the week before as compared with prices at other points, and their efforts were toward a readjustment. However, the western and Colorado cattle sold mostly within 10 or 15 cents of the previous week's prices. Receipts of westerns increased greatly all grades and qualities, and sales of steers ranged from $2.00 for old Mexicans to $3.85 for a large shipment of Green River cattle company's steers. Some money black light steers also brought $3.85, and other sales of mountain steers were at $3.25 to $3.75. A few cows sold at $3.00, but most sales of Colorado were at $2.40 to $2.60, 650 pounds to 800 pounds. Western slope steers sold at $3.15 to $3.35; sales of Panhandles came within these figures.

The supply today is 21,000 head and the general market is steady. Beef steers and good quality stock and feeding cattle a shade higher; cows weak in some cases. The demand for stockers and feeders is better just now than at any time this season, and the movement to the country has been the largest this season, at 30,000 head, Kansas City. Rev. Cosin of the Lead Avenue Methodist church performed the ceremony. The groom is a school teacher and will take his bride back to the Sunflower state.
