SAN ANTONIO IS IN DANGER

Rio Grande's Water Stealthily Washing Away Socorro County Town

INSTITUTES OPEN TODAY

Cimarron Publishing Company Files Incorporation Papers.

Territorial Engineer Charles D. Miller received a telegram today from M. Apodaca of San Antonio, Socorro county, stating that the Rio Grande was washing away the town and imploring the engineer to hurry there to direct the fight against the waters.

There are probably 500 people in San Antonio and with the aid of people who live nearby, a formidable army can be marshalled to protect it from destruction. The method of fighting the expanding stream is to take sacks and fill them with dirt and rocks and throw them at the neck of the stream where the first encroachment was made. Gradually the waters are diverted into the original bed of the river and thus the fast crumbling sand is held in check.

The trip of 13 miles to the site was made with but few mishaps. Here after lunch a thorough inspection was

Gruesome Fate of American Railroad Superintendent in Mexico

WIFE HELD FOR RANSOM

House Destroyed by Flames and Body Lashed to Post in Embers.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
San Francisco, May 29.—Refusing to comply with demands for money by a band of bandits at Ajuno, Michoacan, Robert J. Sweeney, and American, superintendent of the Central railroad of Michoacan was burned at the stake on May 16, according to the story of Joseph Hansfelder, one of the refugees who arrived here yesterday, on the steamer Newport from Manzanillo. Hansfelder says that the bandits had made demands for money of every American in the district. "Some complied, but Sweeney refused to pay," Hansfelder declares that he made his way to Sweeney's house, three miles distant from his own home on May 19, and found the house burned to the ground and Sweeney's body lashed to a post in the midst of the burning embers. Mrs. Sweeney had disappeared and is believed to have been taken prisoner by the bandits and held for ransom. Sweeney is believed by Hansfelder to have been a former resident of San Diego.

FATAL CRASH ON BURLINGTON

Nine Passengers Killed and Eighteen Seriously Injured at McCook

DAY COACH IN SPLINTERS

Every Member of Omaha and Denver Baseball League Teams Hurt.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
McCook, Neb., May 29.—The West Colorado Limited No. 9 and the east-bound passenger No. 12 on the Burlington road collided during a thick fog nine miles east of here early this morning.

Nine persons were killed and 18 injured. The members of the Omaha and Denver Western League ball teams were passengers on the west-bound train. All were severely bruised and shaken up but none seriously injured.

James McGill, president of the Denver club, had one of the bones in his left foot broken and Pitcher Kinsella of the Denver team, received a deep cut in the face.

Both trains were running at high speed when the collision occurred, but the force of the collision was apparently felt more by the heavy west-bound train.

The day coach was reduced to splinters, and in this coach most of the casualties occurred. Both engines were reduced to a mass of twisted steel, in which were the mangled bodies of the engineers and firemen.

As soon as news of the wreck reached McCook two relief trains carrying surgeons and nurses were made up and hurried to the scene of the wreck.

The dead and injured will be brought here. It will be several hours before the track can be cleared.

The cause of the accident has not been learned, but it is reported that a misunderstanding of orders occurred.

MORMONS ASK MEXICO FOR HEAVY DAMAGES.

Claim to Have Been Chief Sufferers From Insurrection of Madero and Followers.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
New Orleans, La., May 29.—Mormon settlers in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, will press claims against the Mexican government aggregating more than a million dollars for damages sustained by the hands of insurgents and bandits during the recent revolution according to Joseph Smith of Salt Lake, president of the church who was here last night en route to Washington.

Unless these claims are settled without delay, said he, the Mormons, who are under the Mother Church at Salt Lake City, will take the complaint to the authorities at Washington.

"The Mormons in Chihuahua have suffered more severely from the revolution than any other settlers," said Mr. Smith. "The rebels took what they wanted and gave notes. We now propose to see that these notes are met and unless Mexico is willing to pay, we will ask the United States government to see that we get justice."

STATEHOOD RESOLUTION MAY PASS SENATE.

Judgment of Delegate W. H. Andrews is to That Effect—McFie Confirmation.

Special to the New Mexican.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—An attempt to strike down a wool will be presented to the Democratic caucus on Thursday. It probably will be reported to the House on Friday.

The debate today on Lorimer was quite hot and personal.

Owing to the pressure of other important business before the Senate and the Judiciary committee, the subcommittee on the McFie nomination did not have a meeting today. Numerous other judges are not confirmed owing to lack of meeting by the subcommittee. The supreme court held back the tobacco decision until the adjournment of the New York stock market at 5 p. m. The court decides that the American Tobacco Company is a combination in restraint of trade and in violation of sections 1 and 2 of the anti-trust law.

Delegate W. H. Andrews believes that the Senate will pass the House statehood resolution without modification and that the Senate committee on territories will make a favorable report soon.

RAILROADS LOSE ANOTHER CASE

Common Carriers Must Obey Law Limiting Hours Employment

SUPREME COURT DECISION

Acts Not Unconstitutional Declares Chief Tribunal of the Land.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Washington, D. C., May 29.—"The Hours of Service Law for Railroad Employees," passed by congress in 1907, was upheld today as constitutional by the supreme court of the United States. This decision was announced by Justice Hughes in the case instituted by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company.

Story of the Case.
Washington, May 29.—The act made it unlawful for any common carrier engaged in interstate commerce to permit any train man subject to the act to remain on duty for a longer period than 16 consecutive hours, or any telegraph operator more than nine or thirteen hours, according to the time the telegraph station was opened for business. The act also created periods of rest for the employees.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company attacked the law as unconstitutional on the ground that it applied to intra-state as well as to interstate railroad and employees. The order by which the Interstate Commerce Commission placed the law into operation was attacked also. The railroad claimed that congress could not and did not attempt to delegate to the commission the power to require reports of violation of the law; that the labor and expense necessary to make the reports constituted a taking of the railroad's property without due process of law and is therefore in violation of the constitution; and that it compelled self-incrimination by officers and employees of the railroad, also in violation of the constitution.

The objections to the law were met with denials by the government. Both the law itself and the order, drafted by the Interstate Commerce Commission, were upheld as constitutional by the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Maryland, where the case originated.

HO, FOR THE FOURTH OF JULY

Work Is Progressing Favorably Upon the DeVargas Pageant

BASEBALL COMMITTEE NAMED

Official Photographer Will Take Pictures of Decorated Automobiles.

While the DeVargas pageant celebrating the re-entry of DeVargas into Santa Fe in 1932, will be a unique feature of Santa Fe's Fourth of July celebration this year, sports will not be neglected. Besides the Plaza sports in the afternoon, there will be horse racing and a fast baseball game at the Baseball park on the Southside. A baseball committee has just been appointed consisting of Postmaster E. C. Burke, Assistant Attorney General Harry S. Clancy and Dr. T. A. McCarthy. These will arrange a game for Santa Fe's team with the strong Antonio or Alamosa team.

In order that the DeVargas pageant, the decorated automobiles and other features of the day might not go unrecorded, Jesse Nusbaum, of the staff of the New Mexico Museum and School of American Archaeology, has been designated official photographer. He is a "cracker-jack" and his photographs have the merit of being works of art. The pictures he has taken in Guatemala and also in this city have furnished welcome illustrations in many magazines and newspapers of late years. The more reason to have your automobile decorated, for there will be some satisfaction in seeing it reproduced in more than one publication during the next year for Santa Fe's Fourth of July pageant this year will be widely commented upon for introducing the historic feature of the DeVargas pageant. Every local automobile should be in line and there is promise of automobiles from Las Vegas, Albuquerque and other points to participate.

W. D. Shea is arranging for the excursion over the Denver and Rio Grande which will leave Antonio at 5 a. m. and arrive here at 10 a. m. It will leave here in the evening at 10 p. m.

The committees are working hard and Santa Fe will have a Fourth of July celebration that will eclipse all former affairs and will set the pace for the future throughout New Mexico.

TOBACCO TRUST DOWN AND OUT

United States Supreme Court Says It Is In Restraint of Trade

SAME AS STANDARD OIL

History of One of Most Important Cases Decided at This Term.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)
Washington, D. C., May 29.—The Tobacco trust was held to be in restraint of trade today by the United States supreme court.

Story of the Case.
Washington, May 29.—The American Tobacco corporation was made the target of the second big "trust" prosecution of recent years. The first was the Standard Oil, because the testimony taken in the tobacco case was not so extensive as that in the Standard Oil, the two cases were before the Supreme Court for consideration at the same time.

The attempt of the government to dissolve the Tobacco corporation as violating the Sherman Anti-Trust law took shape in 1907. In that year, a petition was filed in the United States Circuit Court at New York. The government asked that the American Tobacco Company, its officers, directors and affiliated corporations, be prevented and enjoined from restraining and monopolizing commerce in tobacco.

The restraints and the monopolies alleged by the government, were said to have been obtained by an intricate system of corporate organizations. It began in 1890, when the first American Tobacco Company was organized. The new company took over the business of five independent cigarette concerns.

In 1898 the Continental Tobacco Company was incorporated to take over the plug tobacco business of the American Tobacco Company and that of five independent plug manufacturers.

In 1900, the American Snuff Company was incorporated to take over the snuff business of the American Tobacco Company, of the Continental Tobacco Company, and of two other independent manufacturers.

In 1901, the American Cigar Company was incorporated to take over the business of the American Tobacco Company and other manufacturers and sellers of cigars, cheroots and stogies.

In the same year, the Consolidated Tobacco Company was incorporated to take over in exchange for its bonds substantially all of the stock of the American Tobacco Company and the Continental Tobacco Company.

In 1903, the American Stogie Company was incorporated to take over the stogie business of the American Cigar Company, the American Tobacco Company, and the Continental Tobacco Company.

In 1904, the American Tobacco Company, the Continental Tobacco Company, and the Consolidated Tobacco Company were merged into the present American Tobacco Company.

The government claimed that all these organizations were created with the definite purpose to destroy competition and that they accomplished that purpose. Each step was attacked as part of an unlawful plan, whose development and progress was advanced, it was charged with duress, oppression and unfair methods intended to drive out and keep out competition and secure monopolies.

The defendants claimed that nothing was to be found in the organization of these corporations, but the orderly, natural and legitimate development of a great business. They said the acquisitions had been proper and that no intent to restrain trade or monopolize trade had prompted the creation of corporations.

In addition, it was charged that the American Tobacco Company acquired control of the United Cigar Stores Company, which conducts retail stores in large cities, and thereby was seeking dominion in the retail business, an avenue absolutely necessary to effective competition.

The tobacco organization was charged with having a monopoly of the licorice paste, required in the manufacture of tobacco, the MacAndrews & Forbes Company, organized by the Continental having no competitor, it was said.

It was also said that the defendants had a monopoly in the tin foil business, the Conley Foil Company, of which the American Tobacco Company held a majority of stock, producing 75 per cent of the tin foil manufactured in this country. Both the licorice and the foil monopolies were said to have been obtained in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

Another phase of the litigation concerned the foreign trade. The petition charged that the American Tobacco Company had entered into contracts with the Imperial Tobacco Company, the so-called "British Trust," whereby the latter should limit its activities to Great Britain except as to the purchase of a certain amount of leaf in America and the former should limit its business in Impressive Services Will Be Conducted By G. A. R. at National Cemetery.

Tomorrow will be Memorial Day. This is the day set apart in nearly all of the states and territories for the purpose of commemorating the soldiers who fell in the civil war and decorating their graves. The day thus set apart is May 30, in all Northern and Western states and in Virginia, where as in all the Southern states the name adopted is "Confederate Memorial Day."

The day, however, is one which has been solemnly observed in Santa Fe and as in former years, tomorrow there will be an elaborate program carried out.

Hobart, officer of the day, and Mr. Weltmer will respond. Comrade J. A. Miller will deliver President Lincoln's famous Gettysburg address which will be followed by other addresses by Attorneys E. P. Davies, C. J. Nies and Former Governor W. T. Thornton.

The First Regiment Band will discourse music. Then follows the scattering of flowers on the graves and the salute to the dead by the infantry firing squad. There will be more music and the ceremonies will conclude with benediction offered by the Rev. B. F. Summers.

Notice to Aldes.
Major Fritz Muller, who has seen active service in more wars than one, will be marshal of the parade. He requests that members of his staff and aides report at the G. A. R. headquarters on West Palace avenue at 2 p. m.

The Santa Fe New Mexican will not be published tomorrow.

FAVOR PATENT MEDICINES

Even If They Do Not Cure They Are Not Violating Food Act

DRUGS MAY BE LABELED

Majority Decision of the United States Supreme Court In Case.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Drugs may be labeled as cures for men and yet be absolutely ineffective for that purpose without violating the National Food and Drugs act, according to a decision today by a majority of the supreme court of the United States in the case of Dr. O. A. Johnson.

Story of the Case.
Washington, May 1.—Johnson was indicted in the federal courts of Missouri, in 1909, on a charge of having violated the pure food and drugs act of 1906. It was alleged that Johnson doing business under the name of a company, shipped from one state to another certain articles designated as "Cancerine tablets," etc., the labels upon which were false and misleading in that they implied that the articles would cure and were effective in bringing about the cure of cancer. It was alleged in the indictment that this statement was untrue and the articles were worthless and ineffective for such purposes.

The indictment was quashed on the

SANTA FE 10; ALBUQUERQUE 9

That Was a Hot Game Yesterday Afternoon Despite the Hail Storm

HAIR RAISING FINISH

McCarthy Struck Out Recalcitrant Batter In Nick of Time.

Santa Fe defeated Albuquerque to the tune of 10 to 9 yesterday at the college grounds with McCarthy and Gastra in the points. Weeks and Weeks started the game for Albuquerque but were later removed in favor of O'Bannon and Chavez. Santa Fe, with the exception of the first half of the ninth inning, played brilliant ball and electrified the crowd by plays of ultra-sensational nature. Frye and Stanton each pulled down long drives after the hardest kind of runs. Joe Berardinelli carried off the individual hitting honors with a home run, two base hits and a single. Gastra and Frye also hit well.

Albuquerque started the scoring on a home run by Weeks in the second inning. No one was on the bases. Joe Berardinelli evaded up by a long drive to the trees behind center field in the third for four sacks. Then Albuquerque came back with two more in the fifth and Santa Fe also came back as did the rain. It was raining during Santa Fe's half of the fifth, and four runs had gone over and Koch was on second when the hall started a bombardment that drove all the players and spectators and Dan Padilla to the shelter of the grand stand. When the hall let up enough to resume the game, Alarid ended the inning by striking out.

Nothing of importance occurred until the last half of the eighth when Santa Fe pounded O'Bannon's delivery for five more runs and put the game on ice. But in the first half of the ninth, the unexpected happened. Santa Fe went to pieces and before it cleared up enough to see, Albuquerque had scored six runs. It was a hair raising finish, and had Kunz not left the batter's box to argue with the umpire, the result might have been different, for while Kunz was arguing, McCarthy pitched the third strike over and the game ended 10-9 in favor of Santa Fe.

Side Lights.
What do you think of little Joe Berardinelli? He hit the ball hard four times at bat, and pulled off a home run, a two-bagger and a single. Frye's sensational catch, the batting of Weeks and Berardinelli and McCarthy's pitching were the features of the game.

CAP AND BOOTS.

(By John Clair Minot in Youths' Companion.)
Muddy boots and a cap of blue,
Hidden away from the common view—

Boots begrimed with Virginia clay,
Heavy and rough and worn away;
Cap with visor firm and wide,
Darkly stained upon the side;
Cap and boots; and that was all
Sent from the Southern hospital
In the battle years of long ago.

Grandmother, climbing the attic stairs,
Dimly sees them hanging there,
Cobwebbed over and thick with dust;
Yet as keen as a bayonet thrust
Comes to her faithful breast again
All of the sharp and sudden pain
Known to her heart in that other May
When the message came one day,
Telling the wounded and the slain.

Ever one picture lives for her—
Flags and troops and a martial stir;
Yonder a boy with laughing eye,
Turning again to wave good-bye.
Oh, how her tearless lids had burned!
Oh, how her throbbing heart had yearned!
Oh, her pride in him as he went,
Marching away with his regiment—
One of the many who never returned!

Under the distant Southern skies
Faded the light from those laughing eyes.

Borne from the battlefield at night,
Vainly he fought the final fight—
Facing the foe that is not denied.
Just as the morning broke he died.
Long was the waiting trench they made

Where the silent form was laid,
With many another there beside.

Many and weary have been the years,
Heavy with heartache, dimmed by tears.

Over the trench, unmarked, unknown,
Long have the waving grasses grown.
Mingled the dust of friend and foe;
Heedless the tides of the human flow;
But at the top of the attic stair
Grandmother fondles her treasure there,
And lives again in the long ago.

Take Advantage of a Santa Fe Citizen's Experience Before It's Too Late.

When the back begins to ache, Don't wait until backache becomes chronic; Till serious kidney troubles develop; Till urinary troubles destroy night's rest.

Profit by a Santa Fe citizen's experience. Lino Romero, Palace Ave., Santa Fe, N. M., says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills live up to the claims made for them. If I were not confident of this fact, I could never have been induced to give this remedy my endorsement. There was a dull ache in the small of my back that bothered me and at times I was obliged to lay off from work for two or three days. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me entire relief, and the few slight attacks of backache I have had since then have quickly yielded to this remedy."

Mr. Romero gave the above testimonial in January, 1907, and when interviewed on June 26, 1909, he said: "I can speak as highly of Doan's Kidney Pills as when I publicly endorsed them two and a half years ago. This remedy always gives benefit when I use it."

Washington, May 29.—The original bid of J. E. and A. L. Pennock of Philadelphia, which secured the contract for the Roswell postoffice and courthouse was $112,400, but was changed to $114,000 for the following reasons: The sum of $2,600 was deducted for the use of facing brick and terra cotta instead of limestone. $2,766 was added for substituting fireproof construction on the third floor non-fireproof construction, and $834 was added for fireproofing the ceilings, partitions and stairways. The contract provides for the completion of the building by August 1, 1912.

Curry There Alone.
George Curry is the only New Mexican left in Washington of all the delegation here during the hearings before the territories committee on the statehood question. Judge Fall is visiting relatives in Kentucky. John Y. Hewitt, of White Oaks, has gone to Boston, while A. A. Jones, of Las Vegas, and William R. McGill, of LaLande, have returned home. J. D. Hand is in Philadelphia on business, and R. H. Hanna left after delaying several days behind the others on the matter of the reappointment of Judge McGill.

McGill Has Distinction.
Judge Wm. R. McGill of LaLande, was the man who put Senator Bailey in the upper house of Congress some 14 years ago. On that occasion, McGill having been told that the contest was a close one, stumped his county as a Bailey delegate, and won out. The other delegates divided evenly, and McGill cast the deciding vote in favor of Bailey for the latter's first term in the Senate. Two years later McGill moved to New Mexico, where he has since resided. Because of this personal friendship and returning past favors, Bailey, it is said, promised McGill just before he left Washington that he would not only vote the house resolution for the admission of the two territories, but would actively support it.

Statehood Speech of Delegate Andrews.

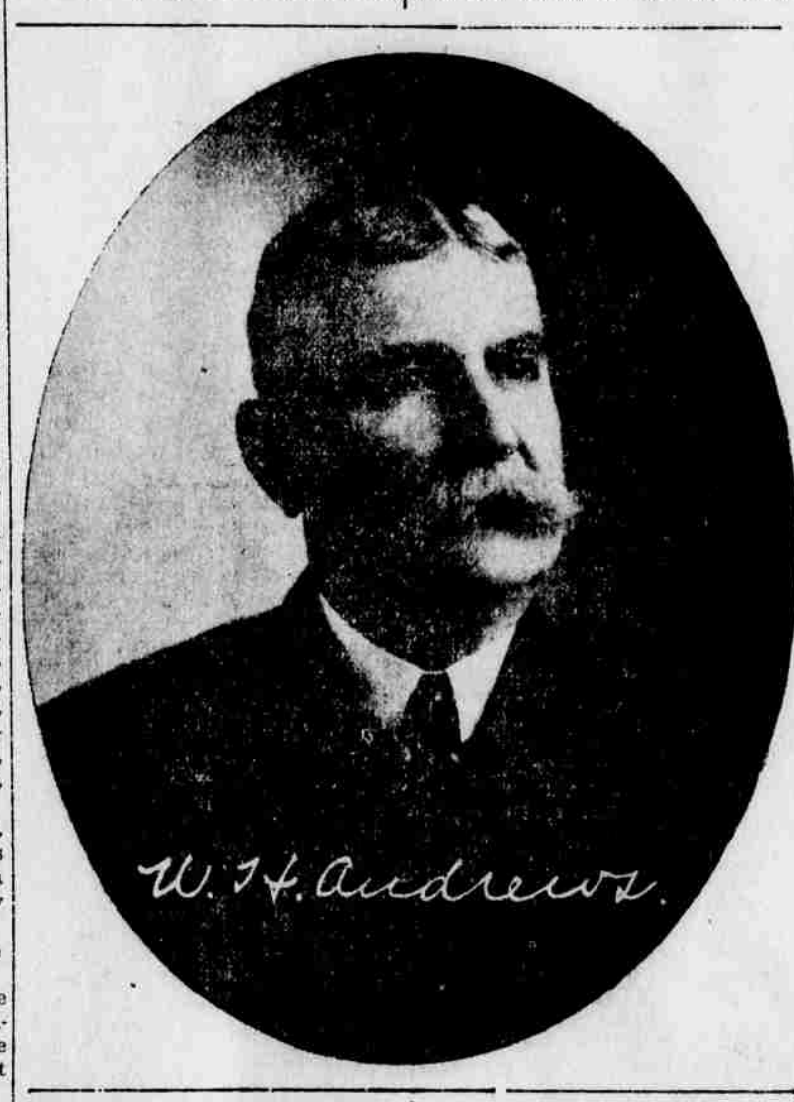

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Here follows the text of the Statehood address made in the house by Delegate W. H. Andrews on Tuesday of last week:

Mr. Speaker:
On June 20, 1910, there was passed by the Congress of the United States the "Enabling Act," which was an Act to enable the people of New Mexico and Arizona to form a constitution and state government and be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states, on the provisions being, that the Governor of said territory shall, within thirty days after the approval of the Enabling Act, by proclamation, in which the aforesaid apportionment of delegates to the convention shall be fully specified and announced, order an election of the delegates aforesaid, on a day designated by him in said proclamation, not earlier than sixty nor later than ninety days after the approval of this Act. The election of delegates to this said constitutional convention for the Territory of New Mexico was held on the 6th day of September, 1910, and the constitutional convention was held in the capitol building at Santa Fe, New Mexico, on the 3rd day of October, 1910, and adjourned on the 21st day of November, 1910. Now, Mr. Chairman, this constitutional convention consisted of seventy-one Republicans and twenty-nine Democrats. About five of the Democratic members of this said constitutional convention were sent to the said convention on the Republican ticket, that is to say, the Republicans placed them there, by placing their names on tickets and elected them along with the Republicans. Out of the one hundred members of the constitutional convention, Mr. Chairman, seventy-one were Republicans and twenty-nine were Democrats, as stated above, and after the constitution of New Mexico was completed, the same was signed by all the public members and by twenty-three Democrats, six refusing to sign. Now, Mr. Chairman, as stated above, this constitutional convention adjourned on the 21st day of November, 1910, and under the terms of the Enabling Act, there were to be sixty days lapse of time from the time of adjournment until the constitution could be voted upon for ratification or rejection by the duly qualified electors of the Territory of New Mexico, and during this lapse of time, Mr.

Chairman, there was a spirited campaign carried on, both for and against the ratification of the said constitution of New Mexico. Some few Democrats and Republicans, Mr. Chairman, were against the ratification of the constitution, but the greater majority of both the old parties, the Republican party and the Democratic party were for the constitution and rode together, spoke on the same platform and worked together for the adoption of the said constitution of New Mexico and all questions pertaining to it, were threshed over in public meetings, by both parties, and on the 21st day of January, 1911, Mr. Chairman, an election was held in the Territory of New Mexico, for the purpose of accepting or rejecting the constitution of New Mexico, as framed by the constitutional convention at Santa Fe from October 2d to November 21st, 1910, and after the result of the said election was announced, it was found that there were about 31,742 votes cast for the constitution and about 13,399 against, leaving a majority of about 18,343 for the constitution. Now, Mr. Chairman, after this vote on the question of accepting or rejecting the constitution, and which said vote resulted in the acceptance of the said constitution by the people of New Mexico with a handsome majority, under the terms of the Enabling Act, certified copies of the said constitution, with a statement of the votes cast thereon, were brought to Washington, copies of same being duly given to the President of the United States and to Congress, for their approval or disapproval, as per section four of the Enabling Act, which I attach hereto, with request that it be made a part of these remarks:

Now Mr. Chairman, copies of the certified constitution reached here on the 9th day of February, 1911, and the same was recommended for approval by the Secretary of the Interior and by the Attorney General of the United States and on the 24th day of February, 1911, the constitution of New Mexico was approved by the President of the United States, in a message to Congress by him, a copy of which I attach hereto and request quote his remarks to this House in full.

Now, Mr. Chairman, I want to say right here that Senator Bailey is one of the fairest, ablest and most brilliant statesman, that represents your party in the senate of the United States. Mr. Bailey was followed by the Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, and by several other senators, all of whom spoke in favor of the resolution, but the senator from Oklahoma, Mr. Owen, again objected, and, as it is needless for me to say, started a filibuster against the approval of the New Mexico constitution, unless the territory of Arizona was admitted jointly with New Mexico, regardless of the fact that the constitution of that proposed state had not reached the senate under the terms of the enabling act and as a matter of fact was not properly before that body, but regardless of that fact, Mr. Chairman, the resolution failed of passage in the 61st congress; and so it is now up before you gentlemen in this special session of congress, called by the president of the United States on the 4th day of April, 1911, and upon the matter to be acted upon in this special session, as agreed upon in your caucus at the opening of this special session of congress, was, Mr. Chairman, the question of statehood for New Mexico and Arizona. On April 4th, 1911, the chairman of your committee on territories, Mr. Flood of Virginia, introduced a joint resolution in this house to approve the constitutions of New Mexico and Arizona, which is known as House Joint Resolution No. 14, which is exactly the same as my joint resolution No. 295 of the third session of the 61st congress, with the exception, that it called for the approval of the Arizona constitution jointly with that of New Mexico, and with the exception of that, it is the same as mine without the cross of a "T" nor the dot of an "I," and it was evident to my mind, Mr. Chairman, that it was the intent of the majority of this house to pass the said joint resolution No. 14 without any changes whatsoever being made. But, Mr. Chairman, at the first or second meeting of your committee on territories, there appeared four gentlemen from the territory of New Mexico, who said that they desired to have the constithat it be made part of these remarks. On February 17, 1911, Mr. Chairman, the House Committee on Territories of the 61st Congress began hearings on the proposed constitution of the State of New Mexico, of which several were held and opportunity was given to people both for and against the constitution to be heard, and on the 28th day of February, 1911, the resolution to approve the constitution of New Mexico was reported to the House, by the Committee on Territories, favorably, each member of that committee approving said constitution. The minority members of that committee, numbered six and the ranking Democratic member, Mr. Chairman, was your Mr. Lloyd, who is the chairman of the Democratic Congressional committee of the United States, and I might add, Mr. Chairman, one of the ablest members on the opposition side of this chamber, and I might further add, one of the fairest. As I stated above, this constitution was reported favorably to the House and I don't think that it was five minutes until the same was passed on the floor of the House unanimously, both the majority and minority forces of the House at that time, being for it. The resolution calling for the approval of the New Mexico constitution after being passed by the House, then went to the Senate on the 28th. Chairman of the Senate Committee on Territories, who is not here this session of Congress (Mr. Beveridge of Indiana) refused absolutely to report the resolution to the Senate and on the last night of the 61st Congress, March 3d, 1911, he was prevailed upon by several Senators to report it and he finally consented and Mr. Dillingham, the ranking Republican member of that committee, reported it to the Senate and the same was immediately objected to by the Senator from Oklahoma, Mr. Owen. The resolution then went to the calendar and at a later hour, Mr. Chairman, the Senator from Texas, Mr. Bailey, one of your ablest and most honored members in the upper House of Congress, called the resolution up again and made an able patriotic speech in favor of the approval of the constitution by the Senate and Mr. Chairman, I herewith

MINES AND MINING

Mogollon—Bullion is being smelted for 2nd ten day period of May on the Deadwood mines. Last week's tonnage was 260, with 20 sacks of concentrates. Mine work is being pushed on the 1st and 2nd levels; stopping will be started on the 3d level as soon as the water can be lowered. A 2-stage duplex Rand air compressor is being installed in the engine room and will be connected by belt to the De La Verne oil engine. This will reduce the power cost for mining about two-thirds compared with the gasoline plant formerly used. On the Ernestine Mining company mines ore milled during the week amounted to 829 tons producing 65 sacks of concentrates. The second clean up of precipitates for May is being smelted as this goes to press. The rich ore-shoot discovered in the main tunnel west continues in both width and value. On the Socorro mines twelve bars of gold and silver bullion were secured from operations for first half of May. During the same period approximately 2,500 tons of ore were crushed, with a concentrated product of 2-1.2 tons. Total recovery of values continues at better than 93 per cent. On the Gold Dust Mines company crosscut tunnel will be started further down the mountain side, designed to intersect the vein at some 800 feet below its apex.

Sierra County—The Statehood mill near Hillsboro has resumed operations. Jefferson Hirsch has installed a whim on the Sunset. There is a good showing of gold, silver and copper on the claim. Work is to be resumed on the Ready Pay. The Larson shaft is to be enlarged and will be sunk from a depth of 120 to 500 feet. The Hiltcher Brothers expect to have their pulverizer plant ready this week. It will treat 80 tons every ten hours. A new gallows frame is being erected on the U. S. Treasury at Chisler.

Lordsburg—Owing to the shut-down of the Superior, only twenty cars of ore were shipped from Lordsburg, Grant county, last week. A line body of ore has been struck in the Beck mine.

Jicarilla—William A. Franklin is at Jicarilla, Lincoln county, to do work for the Revenue Mining company and for the Wisconsin Mining and Smelting company. M. Ayer is inspecting the placer work with a view of leasing the American Placer company machine and drill. The Little Mining company is saving 90 per cent of the ore values.

Stone Production Breaks Record.
Stone was the seventh mineral product in importance in 1909, the value of the output being $71,345,199, according to an advance chapter of "Mineral Resources of the United States," by Ernest E. Burchard, of the United States Geological Survey. This was an increase of $5,632,700 over the value for 1908, which was to be expected because this year was one of general depression; but it is noteworthy that the value for 1909 was greater than that for 1907, a year which was in general a record-breaker in mineral production. The value of the stone output for 1907 was $71,105,805.

In 1900 the value of stone of different kinds produced in the United States was only $36,970,777; in 1909 it was nearly double that figure. The general classes of stone produced in 1909 are shown in the following table:

Granite	$19,581,597
Trap rock	5,133,842
Sandstone	6,564,052
Bluestone	1,446,402
Marble	6,548,905
Limestone	32,070,401

The ten states leading in the value of stone products in 1908 and 1909 were as follows:

Pennsylvania	$8,125,723
Vermont	6,324,366
New York	5,660,598
Ohio	5,659,052
Indiana	3,753,358
Massachusetts	3,539,794
California	3,444,900
Wisconsin	2,694,208
Missouri	2,295,763

It is interesting to note that several of the states changed places during the year. In 1908 Vermont held first place but in 1909 she changed places with Pennsylvania. New York and Ohio maintained third and fourth positions in value of their output. Indiana held fifth place in 1908 but dropped to sixth in 1909. California which in 1908 held sixth place, dropped to eighth place in 1909, and Massachusetts, which was eighth in 1908, went to seventh place in 1909 to fifth in 1909. Wisconsin and Missouri maintained their relative positions.

New England Leads in Granite.
The New England States continue to produce more granite than any other area of equal size in the country although as individual states Wisconsin and California are heavy producers. According to figures compiled by Ernest F. Burchard, of the United States Geological Survey, New England produced granite in 1909 to the value of $9,674,715, as compared with $19,581,597 for the whole United States. Of all the states Vermont led in 1909, with a production of $2,811,744; Massachusetts was second with $2,164,619; and Maine was third with $1,939,524.

The following table shows the ten leading states in value of granite production in 1909:

Vermont	$2,811,744
Massachusetts	2,164,619
Maine	1,939,524
Wisconsin	1,442,505
California	1,319,529
New Hampshire	1,215,461
Rhode Island	935,053
Maryland	771,244
North Carolina	718,876

Lime Stone.
The statistics of the production of stone in the United States in 1909, compiled by Ernest F. Burchard, of the United States Geological Survey, show an increase in the value of the output of limestone of $4,388,399, over the figures for 1908, the production for 1909 being $32,070,401. In addition a large quantity of stone was burned into lime in 1909, valued at $13,805,405.

The principal states that produced limestone in 1909 were Pennsylvania, $5,078,825; Illinois, $4,234,927; Ohio, $4,020,046; Indiana, $3,749,239; New York, $2,622,353; Missouri, $2,111,285; Wisconsin, $1,047,044. No other states produced limestone to the value of $1,000,000.

Tennessee's Coke Industry.
Coal is mined in seventeen counties in Tennessee and coke in eight of them. Nearly all the Tennessee coals possess coking qualities, according to E. W. Parker, the coal statistician of the United States Geological Survey. In his report on coke for 1910 Mr. Parker states that the production of coke in Tennessee for the year was 322,756 short tons, valued at $959,101 as against 261,808 tons valued at $667,723. In 1909, an increase of 27 per cent in quantity and 43 per cent in value. The following table shows the growth of the coke industry in Tennessee:

1880	$ 316,607
1890	684,116
1900	1,269,555
1906	1,359,856
1907	1,592,225
1908	561,789

Sandstone.
The value of the production of sandstone increased from $7,594,091 in 1908 to $8,010,454 in 1909, according to figures compiled by Ernest F. Burchard, of the United States Geological Survey. The three greatest producing states were Ohio, $1,639,006; Pennsylvania, $1,637,794; and New York, $1,450,830. No other state produced sandstone to the value of half a million dollars. In 1908 Ohio and Pennsylvania increased their output over that of 1907, but New York's production showed a decrease.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The day given to the memory of those who offered their lives for their country should be the most solemn holiday of the year and should be the most generally observed. The rapidly thinning ranks of the veterans are the only link that ties the present generation to that heroic age, fifty years ago, when blood and treasure were poured out to save the Union. Time has healed the wounds struck at that time, but time should never efface the deeds of heroism of both North and South that were recorded then. In fact, Memorial Day, in its observance is broadening out, and while primarily dedicated to those who fought in the great internecine struggle of 1861-1865, it is also sacred to those who fought in any of the wars from Lexington to the latest skirmish in the Philippines.

It is a mighty host, indeed, that at one time or another battled for this country or part of it, and the deeds they inscribed on the tablets of history are so mighty that this would be an ungrateful people indeed ever to cease commemorating them. There is a tendency on the part of those who are thoughtless, to make Memorial Day a day of pleasure and of sports, rather than one of solemnity, of historic memories, but the patriotism of the people is such that sooner or later they will discountenance making a "Roman" holiday of an observance sacred to the heroic dead.

Whenever and wherever the Stars and Stripes float tomorrow, there should be blossoms for the graves of veterans and tender words of loving appreciation for those still living. Above all, let there be consecration and enthusiasm for the flag, the old flag, baptized in blood, which led so many to victory and to death.

Hats off!
Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a rattle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky:
Hats off!
The flag is passing by!

Blue and white and crimson it shines
Over the thinned and tottering lines.
Hats off!
The colors before us fly;
But more than the flag is passing by.

Sea fights and land fights, grim and great,
Fought to make and save the state;
Wearies marches and sinking ships;
Cheers of victory on dying lips;

Days of plenty and years of peace;
March of a strong land's swift increase;
Equal justice, right, and law,
Stately honor and reverend awe;

Sign of a nation, great and strong
Toward her people from foreign wrong;
Pride and glory and honor,—all
Live in the colors to stand or fall.

Hats off!
Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a rattle of drums;
And loyal hearts are beating high:
Hats off!
The flag is passing by!

THE GUN TOTER.

Colorado now has the law that the New Mexican has advocated for New Mexico for some years. It compels every gun toter to register and to tell what he is buying a gun for. To this should be added a clause compelling every man owning a fire weapon to pay an annual license. The New Mexican believes that municipalities would be authorized and justified in collecting such a license fee which would add materially to the city revenues and at the same time would enable the authorities to keep track of revolvers and weapons and help to prevent unauthorized persons from carrying them. Says the Denver Post:

"This gun toting habit is getting to be such a fierce and uncontrollable proposition that the police do not seem to be able to cope with it. Yet it must be controlled. There is a law in effect specifically applying to carrying concealed weapons, but, like all the other laws the police do not take the trouble to enforce, it is a dead letter. The people themselves will grow desperate if this indiscriminate mowing down of human beings continues and something may happen that Denver will regret far more than an ordinary murder or two. The sentiment of this city is crystallizing around the law and order propaganda and the sooner the authorities recognize the situation the better. And the sooner Eastern visitors realize that Denver and Colorado are no longer wild and woolly the better for them. It must be taken for granted that a man who carries a revolver means to use it whenever he decides to begin the killing. Sometimes he is lucky and merely wounds a man or two; sometimes he is unlucky and leaves a room full of dead and dying. Such persons should be protected against themselves and the others—victims and near-victims—should have the protection of the law."

THE CHORUS SWELLS.

The report that Japan and Germany will welcome the opportunity to enter into a peace pact with the United States, looking to the arbitrament of such differences as may arise in the future between the two nations mentioned, supplies a strong note to the symphony of universal peace.

The report amounts to a body blow to that rumor, current a few weeks ago, to the effect that if the United States entered into any kind of a peace agreement with Great Britain, Germany would retaliate by forming a defensive alliance with Japan.

Already there are signs of the times pointing to the successful conclusion of arbitration treaties between Great Britain and the United States and France and the United States. Representative statements of the three countries named are strongly in favor of international agreements by means of which war may be abolished, or at least reduced to a minimum. For every individual who lifts his voice in an effort to prove that war cannot be made to end, there are two equally prominent and well-informed individuals to declare just as logically that the plan of universal peace is wholly feasible.

Perhaps, despite all the arguments in favor of arms and strife, the working out of plans for saner conditions may come by the process of one nation after another adopting the plan which President Taft has advocated.

If half a dozen leading nations were to subscribe to the progressive idea in question, the position of those who declare peace to be impossible would be similar to the man who cried to his friend in prison, "But they can't put you in prison," and to whom the answer was made, "No, I know they can't; but you see I am here."

A BOOST FOR OKLAHOMA.

The state of Oklahoma is not to rest quietly in its supposed possession of the iniquitous "grandfather's law." United States Judge John H. Cotteral has ruled that the "grandfather's" amendment to the state constitution is invalid, this decision having been announced from Oklahoma City, last week.

Oklahoma has received a great deal of harmful advertisement because of its action, last year, in resorting to wholly spurious logic in depriving its negro citizens of the right to vote.

Yet it is not at all likely that the better class of people in the state—the representative people, as distinguished from the representatives—will not rejoice that a statute of a frankly evil purport is not to be permitted to stand.

The "grandfather's clause" was, ostensibly, a measure which sought to put the ballot upon a plane of intellectual fitness; but in effect it was plainly a scheme to rob the negro of the ballot.

It does not apply equal tests to whites and blacks. Its intention was in line with the sharp practice of a low order of politicians and was recognized as such by fair-minded people in the state chiefly concerned, as well as by those of other states.

Judge Cotteral's decision will prove to be one of the most beneficial words spoken for Oklahoma since the new state was founded.

The United States supreme court again made history today. It declared the Tobacco Trust in restraint of trade and thereby set a far-reaching precedent. It also declared that patent medicines, even though they do not effect the cures that their labels promise, are not violators of the Pure Food Act. The railroads, too, came in for a chastening, for the court upholds the constitutionality of the law that restricts the numbers of hours that employees may be worked. Evidently another great day for the common gezer and the progressives.

The Congressional Record issues for Monday and Tuesday of last week were of more than usual interest to New Mexico for those two issues are filled with speeches on statehood, on the recall and other topics of more or less interest to the Southwest; and more than one member of the House revealed what he knows or does not know about New Mexico and Arizona, what he had gathered from guidebooks, hearsay and the testimony of four distinguished New Mexico Democrats before the Committee on Territories.

Oregon has 2,247 manufacturing establishments which employ 32,000 and more hands, producing more than $93,000,000 a year. So says a census bulletin today. It is only of late years that Oregon has cut much of a figure in the manufacturing world, but today it has 175,000 horse power turning the wheels and has $90,000,000 capital invested in manufacturing industries. It pays out $24,000,000 a year in salaries and wages and its manufacturing interests are six times as large as those of New Mexico.

Mrs. Edward H. Harriman is looking for a site for the greatest university in the world to be endowed with the millions her late husband made in the railroad finance. Nevada will probably get the university although the old seat town in the United States offers the advantage of a historic and romantic setting and a peerless climate that would give the Harriman University an absolutely unique position that millions alone cannot bestow upon it, even if the millions number a few more than have gone to Leland Stanford.

Delegate W. H. Andrews is of the opinion, or in other words, it is his judgment, that the senate will adopt the house resolution to admit New Mexico and Arizona and providing that each shall vote on an amendment to their constitutions when they elect state officers. If this judgment is accurate, then it will be up to President Taft to decide the fate of the two commonwealths and the New Mexican believes that President Taft will not keep out the waiting territories.

STOCK MARKET WAS SLOW AND IRREGULAR

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)

New York, May 29.—Heaviness of United States Steel which sold down nearly a point, held the stock market in check this morning and the tone became dull and hesitating. Holders of United States Steel were led to sell by fears of further unsettlement of the steel and iron trade and by uncertainty as to whether more price reduction would follow today at the meeting of manufacturers. Trading also was restricted by the belief that the supreme court would announce its decision in the American Tobacco case today and there was also the usual curtailment of operations preceding a holiday. Reading sold off with United Steel but there was no sign of weakness elsewhere, prices holding close to Saturday's final figures. Renewal of the upward movement in Canadian Pacific was attributed to the excellent crop prospects over the border. Bonds were irregular.

New York, May 29.—The market closed irregular.

Rush to Sell Wheat.
Chicago, Ill., May 29.—There was considerable of a rush to sell wheat today on account of lower temperature and the widespread rain. Foreign crop conditions were reported improved. July started at 85-8 to 85-7 1/2, a loss of 5-8 to 3-4 to 1-11-8 but recovered to 89.

Later, May reached 103 a net gain of 3-14 due to expected covering by a few shorts. Other options were not affected and instead continued to decline. The close was steady at a net loss of 3-4 to 7-8 for July.

Corn dropped on account of general unloading by cash houses. July opened 5-8 to 7-8 off at 53 to 53-14 and reacted to 53-3-8. Both longs and shorts threw oats overboard on account of the breaking of the drought. July opened 5-8 to 7-8 cents lower at 35-1-8 to 35-1-4, touched 35-5-8 and fell to 35-3-8.

The close in corn was weak at a net loss of 7-8 @ 1 for July. Provisions were easy. First sales were a shade to five cents down with July 14-90 for pork, 8-20 for lard, and 7-95 to 7-97 1-2 for ribs.

ground that the pure food and drugs act was restricted to prevention of misstatements about the ingredients of drugs, and did not include the prevention of misstatements about the curative properties of medicines. The government appealed to the Supreme Court. It was the first case to come to the court under the drug section of the act.

In the arguments before the Supreme court the government admitted that the construction it put upon the act would probably break up the patent medicine business. On behalf of Dr. Johnson it was contended that if the government's view prevailed that every physician would become a criminal if he prescribed for a patient in another state and made any suggestion as to the efficiency of his prescription. It was stated also that the biggest trust in the United States, the medical trust dominated by the so-called regular physicians, would be delighted if the patent medicine concerns were put out of business by this case.

His departure will be regretted by many friends here and in other parts of New Mexico.

Hon. L. Bradford Prince leaves this evening for Denver to attend to business of the La Joya Irrigation Company, and other matters, and to take part in the commencement exercises on Wednesday evening at Wolfe Hall, the wellknown girls' school, of which he has been a trustee for many years. He will probably meet Mrs. Prince on her return from New York and Oswego, and arrive with her in Santa Fe on Friday next.

Mrs. John A. Collier, president of the local W. C. T. U., entertained about seventy-five of her friends last evening in honor of the second anniversary of that organization in Estancia. Mrs. Collier proved herself a charming hostess and everyone enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. Several beautiful musical numbers were rendered by Mr. and Mrs. VanStone on the violin and piano and Mrs. Walter Martin on the piano.

A guessing contest was then held after which the guests were served with dainty refreshments consisting of fruit salad with whipped cream and cake. Mr. Carver gave a very interesting talk on "Achievements of Women."

Each guest brought half as many pennies as he was years old and these were turned into the treasury of the organization.—Estancia Daily Herald.

"JOY CLUB" GAVE A DELIGHTFUL DANCE.

Mesdames Mills, Cartwright, Fischer and Fiske the Chaperones—Governor Mills a Guest.

When the younger set of Santa Fe got together a few months ago and organized the "Joy Club" it was for the purpose of forming an exclusive organization, giving social functions of their own.

Saturday night the club which is composed of twenty-four members, gave a ball at the Woman's Board of Trade assembly hall, "just for the young people" and it was one of the most enjoyable as well as one of the most dignified dances ever given in Santa Fe. The dance was chaperoned by Mrs. William J. Mills, Mrs. Samuel G. Cartwright, Mrs. A. J. Fischer and Mrs. E. A. Fiske and the complete success of the dance was due largely to their efforts. Governor Mills also attended the dance and seemed to enjoy thoroughly the pretty sight of the fair young dancers and their escorts who glided so gracefully over the brilliantly polished floor.

The refreshments were brick ice-cream in yellow and white colors served with assorted cake and the decoration of the hall, which, of course, was done by the girls, consisted of yellow and white flowers which were charmingly arranged in cozy nooks and corners. The music was rendered by Miss Garish and Jacob Lucero and it was much enjoyed.

When the clock finally struck the hour of midnight, the music was just playing the final notes of "Home Sweet Home" for Saturday was a thing of the past and the first moments of the coming Sunday were fastly ticking away.

Those present at the dance were the Misses Miriam Cartwright, Pauline Kinsell, Madalene Mills, Blanche Roberts, Ruth Winter, Dorothy Safford, Dorothy Hayward, Consuelo Bergere, Helen Winter, Pearl Wiley, Hazel Sparks, Claribel Fischer, Eleanor and Julia Jaffa, Frances Hinojos, Lena Baca, Virginia Bean, Amelia McFie, May Bergere, Anna Dysart, The Messrs. Wallace Fiske, Morton Seligman, Dillman Kinsell, Bernard Spitz, Elmer Friday, Eugene Harvey, Edward Cartwright, John Windsor, Ralph Sparks, Anthony Luna, Luna Bergere, Miguel Otero, Jacob Safford, Arthur Elliott, Paul Butt, Bernard Mulligan, Brian Dunne and John Roberts.

TOBACCO TRUST DOWN AND OUT.

The United States. It was alleged that the two "trusts" organized the British-American Tobacco Company to take over the export business of both and divide the world between them. These contracts were made in Great Britain.

The Circuit Court found that there existed a restraint of commerce, but said nothing about the charges of monopolizing. In its decree, the court dismissed the petition as to the Imperial Company and from this feature of the decree the government appealed to the Supreme Court.

It dismissed the petition as to the United Cigar Stores Company, and from this too, the government appealed.

The Circuit Court decreed that the American Tobacco Company, the American Snuff Company, the American Cigar Company, the American Stogie Company, and MacAndrews & Forbes Company were unlawful combinations and restrained them from engaging in interstate or foreign commerce. From this, the defendants appealed to the Supreme Court. So did the government. The government objected because the Conley Foll Company and the individual defendants, headed by James B. Duke, were not made parties to the conspiracy to restrain and because all were not held to be attempting to monopolize.

The Circuit Court decreed that the American Tobacco Company, the American Snuff Company, the American Cigar Company, the American Stogie Company, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Blackwell's Durham Tobacco Company and the Conley Foll Company held shares in specified corporations and enjoined them from acquiring the plants or business or voting the shares of and from exercising control over the "subsidiary" companies, and enjoined the "subsidiary" companies from permitting control. Both the defendants and the government appealed. The latter objected principally because the Imperial Tobacco Company, the British-American Tobacco Company and the United Cigar Stores Company were not included among the "subsidiary" companies, and because the holding companies were not prohibited from collecting dividends from the "subsidiary" companies.

The appeals were argued before the Supreme Court, first in January, 1910, and the second time in January, 1911. Prominent attorneys appeared. For the government, Attorney General Wickham and his special assistant, J. C. McReynolds, addressed the court. For the American Tobacco Companies there appeared John Johnson of Philadelphia; De Lancey

AUTO PARTY VISITED SAN PEDRO MINES.

Yesterday morning a party of five consisting of H. B. Cartwright, Samuel G. Cartwright, James Seligman, Edward Cartwright and Douglas Walker who drove the car, made a trip down to the mining districts of Golden and San Pedro in the extreme southwestern part of Santa Fe county in Mr. Cartwright's new fore-door E. M. F. touring car, which according to Mr. Cartwright, made a fine trip down there. As San Pedro is about 42 miles away and that it is a quite a hard trip on any automobile, the party is to be congratulated on having made such a successful trip.

The trip was made for the purpose of looking over the mines at Golden in which Mr. Cartwright owns some stock and he said that they were not caught by the heavy hail storm which visited Santa Fe.

No accidents occurred and there were no break downs and the party returned last evening at about 5:30.

Is most frequently trodden by those whose scientific knowledge of medicinal chemicals is slight. EXHIBIT AT HIGH SCHOOL

Excellent Work of the Pupils Is Seen In Various Grade Rooms

LANGUAGE OF CHILDHOOD

Amusing to See How Tiny Tots Draw, Write and Paint.

This is the time of the year when children put down their books and take up their playthings. It is the time when the schools' doors are closed, not to open until the fall.

But for a few days between school ending and school closing is an exhibition period during which one may see something of the work accomplished by the pupils during the past year. There is a very interesting exhibit at the high school building and those wishing to get a fair idea of what the pupils in that building have learned in the past year may do well to view the exhibits. Downstairs, one sees in the First Primary Room, illustrated language work, various specimens of writing and many curious and pretty little Japanese lanterns, showing the "arts and crafts." It is pleasing to note that the youngsters have well represented the various seasons in their illustrations, and judging by yesterday afternoon, a little more white, representing fall, would be applicable to spring weather in Santa Fe.

In the second and third grade rooms one sees some pretty panoramic effects with the brush and pencil and also some clever construction work, including cute little Indian baskets. The essays of the tots are naive, especially that written by a little boy on the Tesuque road. He writes: "I have a good time when I go to see you, little road. I remember you, little road, and in evidence of good faith he draws a fairly good picture of this favorite drive. There are many flags in this room showing the youngsters have already developed the bump of patriotism.

In the fourth and fifth grade rooms one sees some interesting map modeling and in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, upstairs will be found plenty of work showing what has been learned in geography, map drawing and physiology. On this floor is also to be seen some very attractive stained glass work (on paper). Throughout the room one sees art work, which is a pleasing and profitable course for the pupils, training their eyes to observe color and training their little hands to depict it.

Looking over these exhibitions, how quickly is one, be it he or she in the twenties, thirties, forties, or higher, transported back to the days of childhood, when there were problems to be solved just as one has to solve them until old age.

But it is refreshing to view the work of the very "young youngsters" for they invariably have a childish way of speaking in their work that touches the heart.

EDITORIAL FLASHES

Too Far Away.

Shucks! Gallup has more pretty girls to the square inch than any town in the Mississippi valley, and the beauty and wisdom, and house wifely accomplishments of New Mexican womanhood are a byword all over the west. We don't need imported wives, thank you.—McKinley County Republican.

Gloomy Is Kicking Again.

Would it not be well for certain members of the press of New Mexico to leave to Washington the killing of statehood, if it is to be murdered, and stop the effort to convince the world that they want to kill and bury the joint resolution before the Senate gets a whack at it?—Raton Range.

Self-Sacrificing Patriot.

So Mr. Ferguson went down to Washington and consumed a month or six weeks of the time of the house committee on territories in an effort to thwart the will of a majority of 18,000 of the voters of New Mexico in order that the territory might, forsooth, be made a state at the earliest possible moment.—Socorro Chieftain.

Tough Old Customer.

Old statehood bill has been in Congress now for nigh on 50 years, and has never accomplished anything. He has been kicked and cuffed, pigeon-holed, vest-pocketed, ruled out of order, tramped upon, almost killed, thrown in the waste basket and then in the furnace, but he always came up as fresh as ever at the next session, ready for a fight.—Colfax County Stockman.

The Last Stand.

Once more the historic fight for statehood is transferred to the Senate. Those who saw the desperate fight against the enabling act in that body last year, a repetition of that in previous years, may well hope that the opposition at this session will prove less formidable. The debate in the House proved much less partisan than was expected. Democrats vied with Republicans in condemning the recall of judges and the two most generally denunciatory speeches of the Arizona constitution were made by two Democratic congressmen, both southerners by birth—Legare of South Carolina and Martin W. Littleton representing the Oyster Bay district of New York.

Upon the propriety of leaving to a vote of the people of Arizona the retention of the recall of judges in their constitution a number of Republicans voted with the Democrats in favor of that plan.

The constitutions of the two territories with the provisions that Arizona vote again on the recall and New Mexico on a proposition to make that constitution less difficult of amendment, now comes before the Senate where a spirited debate may be expected before the final vote. The non-partisan character of the fight is further emphasized by the fact that Delegate Cameron, a Republican, and ex-Delegate Smith, a Democrat, are both in Washington working for statehood on the terms obtainable—Tucson Citizen.

Colonel Berger Grows Poetic.

A ride a few miles to the north and south of the city will repay one in viewing the beautiful landscape of garden, field and orchard, which this year presents a delightful sight. The rich fields of alfalfa wheat, corn and other products of the soil; the trees in the orchards laden with young fruit, and all nature alive with evidences of a bountiful harvest to the farmer and fruit grower will carry one's memory backward to his old home away back in the east, and to the old farm of father and mother, when a barefoot boy he went to the pasture for the cows and followed the reapers in the harvest field, with little care and less worry than in these days of business cares and anxieties.—Belen Tribune.

AGRICULTURE SHOULD BE TAUGHT SAYS ELLIOT.

Ex-President of Harvard Also Advocates Sex-Education in the Public Schools of the Land.

Cambridge, Mass., May 29.—Dr. Charles W. Elliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, who believes in sex education in the public schools said today:

"It is through the ample and prolonged teaching of natural history that the necessary knowledge is to be conveyed to the children, beginning at tender years with the teaching of botany and going on to the elements of zoology, both subjects being taught in the most concrete manner possible, with incessant illustrations indoors and out, not during the whole school year but at those seasons when adequate illustrations and demonstrations are most feasible and convenient. This instruction should be associated in all schools with the teaching of pure and applied geography and in rural schools with the teaching of agriculture.

In Natural History. "Throughout this long course of natural history instruction demonstrations of the various modes of transmitting life should frequently occur, the transmission of life being the highest and ultimate function of every plant and every animal, including man.

"In flowering plants the fertilization of the embryo sac by pollen may be illustrated in operations which the children themselves can perform. The carrying of pollen from one flower to another by bees and other insects or by the wind emphasizes the general fact that plants are fixed, while animals have motion. The bi-sexual structure of plants is in itself a fascinating subject of study for children and youths and through it all runs the thought that nature provides for the precious transmission of life.

Later Course of Study.

"In later years of the school course the diverse methods of reproduction in animals will afford a long course of instruction, involving the structure and function of many different sorts of animals. The various arrangements for feeding the young and bringing up families afford an endless variety of interesting subjects for observation and discussion.

"The nesting habits of birds and their care of offspring are highly instructive and easy to exhibit. Here again the main object of study should be the infinite variety and elaboration of nature's processes for the transmission of life.

"These subjects, if properly taught, with collecting box, scalped microscope, paper and pencil, are just as pure and innocent for children under 13 as chemistry and physics are. There is nothing sensual or unclean about them, nothing which does not tell of order, purpose, inventiveness, adaptation, co-operation and achievement."

Pino's Body Found.

The body of Manuel Pino, who was drowned in the Rio Grande near San Acasio, Socorro county, two weeks ago, has been found lodged in the brush two miles below the point of the accident. The remains which had been in the water twelve days, were badly decomposed.

MAN'S GREATEST ASSET

is physical strength and bodily health. The bread winner cannot afford to give out.

It is a vital necessity that he keep his nervous and muscular system in good condition to withstand the daily wear and tear of life.

Those who are run-down, weakened or nervous should remember that nothing excels Vinol, which is a combination of the medicinal elements of the cod's liver and tonic iron, to strengthen the digestive organs, create an appetite, make new blood and restore strength.

Prof. James Mitchell of Jasper Ont., says his system was run-down to a critical point from overwork. A friend told him to take Vinol. He did so and is now enjoying perfect health, and he considers Vinol a wonderful tonic. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We ask every run-down, overworked, weak person in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. Capital Pharmacy.

NEW MEXICO POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Politics and the Saloon.

Everybody in Denver knows the power of Alderman Thomas Hyder over those who have to do with the criminal laws. Hyder, a saloonkeeper, comes to the rescue of his bartender, who should be charged with causing the death of a woman, and lo! the hands of justice are paralyzed and the manacles which should bind the wrists of a woman-beater, fall clanking to the ground.—Rocky Mountain News.

A Kindergarten in the House.

The Hon. Frank B. Willis of Ada, Hardin county, Ohio, is one of the "baby" members of the House, to use his own description uttered in the course of his first congressional speech. He is a Republican, as it happens, which is something of a distinction for an Ohio representative in these degenerate days. Also he promises to be a decided addition to the thin, blue line of heroes constituting the present minority of the house.

The proposal to admit New Mexico and Arizona to statehood was the subject of his speech, and for over an hour he sustained a cross fire of questioning that might have stumped an older legislator by its sheer volume. He took full issue with the late report of the committee on territories and pointed out clearly and cheerfully the excellent reasons why New Mexico should be forthwith admitted and why Arizona, on the other hand, should wait until she recovers from her attack of that latest reform epidemic, the recall. We are bound to own that most of the queries were exceedingly dull ones and that the general effect of the debate was that of a kindergarten, with the Democratic members of the house sitting at the feet of the new member from Ohio.

Said Mr. Willis in laying down his main thesis:

"I do not believe in the recall of judges. I believe it will make a weak judiciary when a man sitting on the bench, instead of considering the law and the facts, is put in the position where he has to find out what is being said about this proposition in the corner groceries and at the pink teas all over the country.

This view at once aroused a new Democratic member from Texas, the Hon. Oscar Callaway of Comanche, formerly of Harmony Hill (Nip-and-Tuck), Rusk county, Texas, in the words of the official directory. Let us set down this colloquy:

Mr. Callaway—The gentleman wants to remove the judges from the influence of public sentiment by refusing to subject them to recall. He admits by that, he fears their decisions would be influenced by public sentiment. He cannot remove them from other influences, yet he would shield them from public sentiment that might protect the public by combating other influences to which judges are subjected.

Mr. Willis—That is the gentleman's speech, not mine.

Mr. Callaway—I ask the gentleman if he does not admit by his position that the judges would be influenced by public opinion?

Mr. Willis—I think I understand the gentleman's question and will answer it the best I can.

Mr. Callaway—Having admitted that does he fear the evil influences from the people, but have no fear of anything but good influences upon the courts from other sources?

Mr. Willis—I have not admitted anything. The gentleman has been doing all the talking.

I want to say to the gentleman that I would not be at all willing to take a step that I regard as a long way from merely electing a judge. Electing a judge for six years or ten years or four years is quite a difference from having a plan whereby every decision that a judge makes renders him subject to a recall, and under the provision of the Arizona constitution 25 per cent of the electors of the district from which the judge is elected can recall him, and he then has five days in which to resign and if he does not resign, then the election is held, and the charges against him are made in 200 words.

This seemed to satisfy the gentleman from Texas. But a statesman from Illinois was promptly on his feet with another query. Did the speaker think it any business of the American people what Arizona put in her constitution, provided it gave her a republican form of government as guaranteed by the constitution? As this notion has prevailed in a number of quarters we will let Mr. Willis give his answer to this query:

Mr. Willis—I do not know whether anybody else will agree with this view; but since he has asked the question, I want to say to the gentleman from Illinois that my understanding of the power of congress relative to the admission of states is this: From discussions that have been had it seems that some people think that the only ground upon which congress can refuse to admit a state is the fact that its government is not republican in form. I do not mean to say that that is the gentleman's idea, but a great many people have that idea. I will say to him that my understanding of that proposition is that that is not the only ground. The constitution of the United States says that new states may be admitted into this union by congress. I understand that this congress can give any reason that it pleases. It does not need to say that its government is not republican in form. It can simply refuse for any reason or for no reason. The American congress has absolute power. Therefore I think it is simply a question of policy. Does that answer the gentleman's question?

The Hon. William Allen Cullup of Vincennes, Ill., was next on his feet. For a clear explanation of the obvious differences between the recall and removal by impeachment, we cite the colloquy which followed:

Mr. Cullup—Have not you had the removal in your constitution of judges in Ohio since 1851?

Mr. Willis—Yes.

Mr. Cullup—Well, it has not been abused there, has it?

Mr. Willis—No.

Mr. Cullup—Now the difference between that and this is the difference of the application of the law that has been in the constitution in every state in the union as long as they have been states. Now, in your state a judge can be removed on complaint of one person, can he not?

Mr. Willis—Now, if the gentleman wants to make a speech I will be glad if he will get some time to do so—

Mr. Cullup—I am simply asking a question.

Mr. Willis—Because I like to get on. However, I want to say to the gentleman I think there is a very distinct difference of a judge for a definite term with the power vested in the legislature to impeach that judge or remove him from office. There is a very distinct difference between that process wherein a judge is to have notice of the charges against him, is to have opportunity to appear by counsel, to have a dignified trial in the name of the great state of Ohio; as I say, there is a distinct difference between that and the proposition submitting that judge to a recall.

Before he concluded Mr. Willis had also gently but firmly silenced the distinguished Democratic chairman of the committee on territories, Mr. Flood of Virginia. We think that the next time Mr. Willis opens his kindergarten there will be fewer Democrats in search of education.—New York Sun.

SIGASHO HANGTOI.

Japanese Newspaperman Discusses Matrimony in Santa Fe. By Jno. Roberts.

To Hon. Editor Santa Fe New Mex., can who is similar to matrimony & love by the freshness of his actions.

Hon. Mr. Sir:—Chief Ed. Japanese tell-paper demand written statement of matrimonial conditions in your city so I take my pen in hand and will declaim result of my investigation to you.

Firstly I require of Hon. Mayor of your city for some information & he says: "I do not care to discuss matrimony just now but refer you to Hon. Young Man, same who is employ by Cousin Sam at P. O." This I indulge with alacrity & pursue in trail of Hon. Him.

As I parade down your beautiful street, same which is paved with brick & Hon. Society ladies pass over same, feeling rich, when I meet jovial, young man, with smile like Sunny Pete on profile; same being garish with girls of the same quality of smile, all teetering.

"Surely, I ask it of my sole, 'this gallant man is Hon. P. O. Clerk; I will require with courageousness.' My speech done I promenade with vigor to where Hon. Young man was stood, grubbling with pretty girls, in park, who same waits around him like pinola.

be your Hon. Occupation?" "I am Clerk in Hon. Santa Fe Drug Store," he amputate, this with expression of haughty & grandness, "sometimes known as the Village Romeo."

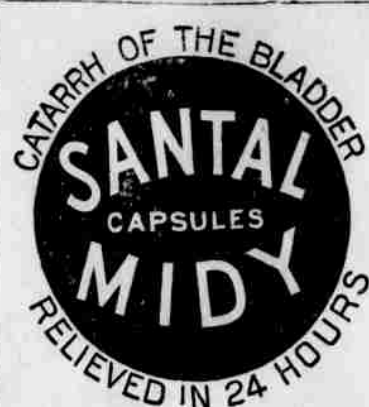

"Oh! mighty Stenographer," I vociferate distinctly, "Seeing all your fare wives beside your Hon. Body, tell me please about matrimony & Love."

Same ladies laugh hearty-like, like hens, through their bronco tubes, & Hon. Man turn red like banana hdkf. "Glt, you heathen," he vocalize with heat & distinction, "before I grind you into mince-pies," & spoke to me hotly in Joke-language, same which I did not fitfully understood, Hon. Clerk being beneath heavy excitement. & I pursue my tracks with vigor & arbor in request of Hon. P. O. Man.

I walk in park while Hon. Band play musical pieces, with thoughts both romantic & sad as my heart, full of love, make cheer kick-up while my poetic sole demand Hon. American poets including Santa Fe poets & Mr. Wm. R. Shakespeare to be present on such sole-stirrup night. All this I notice with feeling.

Mr. Editor, have you noticed these things? Have you not noticed that the crow has come back, singing his Grand Opera & architecturing his nest among us once again? Have you not noticed the frog & the toad reciting their spring poetry near Hon. Closson's livery garage? This is a sign of spring. Have you not noticed Hon. Beavers sitting on veranda of beaver dam playing, "Ring Around the Flower Stems" with musical mandolins to the accompaniment of Water & Sun plant nearby?

Do you acknowledge you have not noticed these phenomena Mr. Editor? Neither have I nor anybody else as we have been too busy gathering love for Hon. Ferguson & Others on their return from Washington & discussing statehood same which is always expanded until Tuesday next. We have been doing such unimportant things as that to notice Romance when she burst forth in green & splendor. We should be more careless & consult our feelings for romanticism, in this age of scientific such as book-keeping & Stenography.

Well as I march around park, with feelings & touch all cast downward, I pass Hon. Fudge Shop & Cold Cream Parlor & notice young man, minus mustache, similar to appearance of Apollo from the freshness of his face, stand there gazing with solemnity into Poetic Park.

I approach with carelessness to this young man & require if he gaze recently to Hon. Clerk at P. O.

"Yes," he stimulate, "that be my call," he add with seriousness.

"Hon. Sir," I say with seriousness of equality, "I have come to require a question point of you."

"Let her come," he say with expectancy.

"I encounter Hon. Mayor Salesman this morning & I wish to discuss matrimonial conditions & Love in your city & he refer me to you with alacrity." This I do me.

"Well what do I acknowledge about same?" he require with smiling.

"Are you married?" I put question blank-pointly.

"No," he utter with expression of sleeping beauty on his cheerless countenance, "not quite."

"Not married?" I ejaculate with warmth & exclamation question point, "who be the luckfull lady?" Pursue with friendship.

"Miss, — & same word died & was buried on his lips.

"What do you know about matrimony?" I require.

$500, for church wedding & $500 for honey-bee-nom which same include rice & shoes," he say with Abraham Lincoln expression on his face.

"Which is consider best way by Hon. American men to propose to ladies to matrimony?" I require with seriousness.

"I don't know," he utter like sadiron, "I have tried all ways without result."

"In Japan," I gib with emotion, "When girl lend lemonade to man & refuse to marry same, such is consider Honor by him & he publish it in local paper. Why not you did the same?" This I do me.

"In that case," grumble this man, "there would be a supplement to the New Mexican every night."

I walk away from him & my disgust in silence.

What is Hon. City capitol coming to Mr. Editor? Have you not notice many marriageable young peoples promenade past your shop-window daily? Is there no reason why same should not enter into Unholy binds of matrimony? Answer me this question point. Is it on account of the High cost of Loving while cows have raised price on milk & Hon. hens dearest with vigor similar to Hon. Village Romeo, "no cow; no eggs!" Is this not so Hon. Editor?

I have hear many rumors in your Hon. city about marriage while here but some rumors have not substantiate which is similar to sett of glass eggs be under ignorant hen: which not hatch. I have come to part of the stage where Hon. Curtain must come down with vigor, but before doing same I will tell you little piece of poetry which was recite to me by Hon. young fellow, same who is clerk in New Mexico Hello-Central Railroad. I shall try & copy same as recite by him.

Love "Same" which was read to Sigasho Hangtoi, with its author's compliments.

Oh! Woman, With your sole-stirring eyes & navy waists, Doeth make mere man love you

With your lips like vegetable radish, & teeth like white of egg, You Antagonise man to frenzy of love. For you!

How cruel you be to mere man, With gowns Of blooming quality, make Same feel like cheap imitation Agate!

With your No. 8 Shoe on your pretty ankle & stack Of unnatural hair on your fashionable rere head, same drive me to suicide for love by you! Be kind, gentle girl, & let by your Hon. Ed., while kneeling, kiss your, Hon. Toe.

Oh! Gentle female, Man's Joy comfort & Chief Expense, Be kind to us, Amen. I be pursuing Hon. Question of Statehood & will let you know soonly of my accomplishments.

This poetry-piece is being in accord with my feelings so I will close Hoping you are the same, Yours truly,

KEPT STARS OFF THE STAGE

Honus Wagner Spurned Tempting Offer to Perform at Last Moment—Batting Act All Ready.

Larry Lajoie almost went into vaudeville last fall. He was willing and anxious, so anxious that he tried to induce Hans Wagner to go on the stage with him. Hans promised, and then backed out, and thereby hangs a tale. Bill Gray, a New York theatrical manager, had a batting act for Larry, Wagner, Cobb and Collins. He had a machine that tested the speed of a ball off the bat. A ball was thrown up automatically in front of the batter, who hit it toward a target. Accuracy in hitting the target and the speed of the ball was shown. There was to be nightly batting contests between the four big stars.

Here is the tale of Hans' promise and refusal to be an actor as told by Larry:

Gray and I went to Carnegie to line up Hans. He had promised Gray to go on the stage, but did not answer Gray's letters and telegrams. Everybody in Carnegie knew Hans, but they never saw him.

"We ran across Hans' brother Al and asked him when Hans would be home. 'Pretty soon,' said Al. 'He never stays out after dark.'"

"Hans came—just at dusk—muddy and in old clothes, fresh from the chase. He was tickled to see us and accepted Gray's offer, which was $500 a week for him, $25 a week and traveling expenses for his brother Al, whom Hans wanted as his companion on the road.

"It was all fixed, Gray and I thought. A contract was left with Hans, which he was to sign and send to me."

"Hans was a little shy about signing to be an actor until Gray told him

Honus Wagner.

all he would have to do was walk on the stage, his bat in one hand and his cap in the other. 'When the people applaud, take off your cap,' said Gray. 'Then take your bat and hit the ball a half dozen times.'

"Four days later I got a letter from Hans. It read:

"Dear Larry: I'd like to take up your offer, but I can't stand traveling. It makes me ill."

"And he never replied to my telegrams and letters."

AROUND THE BASES

Baseball started after the golfers, anyway.

Count that day lost when Fred Clarke does not get a hit.

What's the use of having boxing so long as we are allowed baseball? They call Pitcher Criss of the St. Louis Browns "King Dodo" in the Mount City.

Horace Fogel thinks himself safe in offering Doolin a $15,000 contract if he wins a pennant.

Silk O'Loughlin says a player must have brains as well as an umpire to get along in baseball.

Ted Easterly, the Nap right fielder, must hit .300 in order to hold his job on Jim McGuire's team.

George Davis has one place he never will lose—a warm place in the hearts of Chicago baseball fans.

New York fans will not be satisfied with anything less than two pennants this year. Neither will those in Chicago.

A triple play was made by the Springfield Three-I league team the other day, but the Springfield team lost the game.

If all the Pittsburg players were Fred Clarkes, it would be easy to guess where the Pirates would be at the end of the season.

The release of Hornborst by the Cleveland club was a surprise, as he was touted very strongly last fall as the successor of George Stovall.

Larry Schlafly, the former Washington player who is now part owner of the Troy (N. Y.) club, has blossomed out as a magazine writer.

Hal Chase writes right-handed, plays billiards left-handed, bats right-handed, throws left-handed and can butter his bread with either hand.

Fred Tenney, head of the Boston Nationals, says he is going to have a ball team that will be good enough to beat out the Cardinals and the Superbas after all.

Ed Pfeffer, the big pitcher being tried out with the St. Louis Browns, is a brother of Frank Pfeffer, the former Cub pitcher, who is now with the Boston Nationals.

Pitcher Red Nelson, who was expected to be the leading pitcher of the St. Louis Browns this year, is hopelessly out of the game for some time. He contracted rheumatism while working as a brakeman last winter in Michigan.

Paradoxical. "The movement opposing our suffrage one will have it's meeting after ours."

"Strange!" "Why so?" "I understand it is an anti-date meeting."

Poor Sport. "I understand baseball umpires are treated with the greatest respect by the Martians."

"If that's the case, baseball on Mars must be about as much fun as playing on Earth."
