Governor Mills returned Saturday night from a trip to points in Colfax county and also to Clayton, Union county, meeting his son, Wilson Mills at Raton and coming home with him. Wilson Mills has just returned from Ann Arbor, Mich., where he has been attending the law school.

The governor spent Sunday here and left last night for Socorro. He is expected back in a few days.

Resignation Received.
It is stated today on good authority that Governor Mills has received a letter from Traveling Auditor Charles V. Safford who is in Farmington, resigning his position as traveling auditor, to take effect on July 1. It is said that the governor has not taken any action in the matter yet but that District Clerk John Joerns of Raton, has been offered the place and had accepted it.

Chief Clerk Rupert F. Asplund of the department of education has returned from Carrizozo where he delivered an address on "The School as the Social Center," before the county institute which is being held there. Mrs. Dixon is the conductor and Miss Maud Hancock of Santa Fe is instructor. Mr. Asplund says that County School Superintendent John A. Haley has a fine corps of teachers and his schools are in fine condition as a result.

66.7 Per Cent Taxes Collected.
The percentage of collection of 1910 taxes up to date is 66.7 or almost three per cent higher than it was a year ago. This is shown by the table made by Chief Clerk A. L. Morrison, Jr., in the territorial traveling auditor's office. The percentages are based on the amount of territorial tax remitted to the territorial treasurer less eight per cent retained to pay commissions of treasurers and assessors.

The table, which is by counties, shows in the first column collections for May, 1911; the second, total collections and the third represents the percentage of taxes collected. The table is as follows:

JUDGE KNAEBEL'S TWO SONS AT BEDSIDE

Assistant Attorney General Ernest Knaebel Arrived From Portland Maine.

Arthur Knaebel, a civil engineer, and Ernest Knaebel, assistant attorney general of the United States, were at Judge John H. Knaebel's bedside this afternoon. Arthur Knaebel came from Bland, N. M., and Ernest Knaebel had to travel all the way from Portland, Maine, where he was suffering when the news of his father's illness reached him.

Judge Knaebel's condition is about the same. A consultation of physicians was held yesterday but it seems that little can be done to benefit the patient. The judge slept soundly this afternoon.

OWEN IS THE STUMBLING BLOCK

But For Him Immediate Statehood Would Be Assured New Mexico

HOPEWELL AT WASHINGTON

Democrats Tinkering With Tariff Without Thought of Business.

Special to the New Mexican. Washington, D. C., June 26.—Chairman Smith of the Senate committee on territories is preparing the New Mexico and Arizona statehood report. He will confer with President Taft before the final report is presented, which will probably be tomorrow.

The Democrats are preparing numerous tariff reduction bills. Kitchen of South Carolina has been given wool, although little wool is grown in that state. Rainey, Illinois, will work on cotton because no cotton is raised in that state. Harrison of New York, is given chemicals; Underwood of Alabama, Democratic leader, who has heavy investments in steel mills, is given steel. Others are given other schedules. The cotton report is to be made soon. Democrats insist on reporting on many schedules, and are indifferent about unsettling business.

W. S. Hopewell has joined the statehood workers. Senator Owen of Oklahoma remains the chief stumbling block in the way of statehood.

Days for Voting.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—Chairman Penrose of the finance committee tomorrow will ask the senate to fix a day to vote on the reciprocity bill and to name separate days for votes on the farmers' free list and wool bills. Though favorable action is unlikely, it will test the senate's temper and probably pave the way for longer sittings of the senate.

Parasol V, Which Had Been Making Passenger Trips From Berlin, Destroyed By Fire.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Hannover, Muenchen, Prussia, June 26.—The dirigible balloon Parasol V, while undergoing repairs today, caught fire and was destroyed. No one was injured. The Parasol V recently had been making passenger trips out of Berlin.

They Found the Owner.

Last week an unclaimed trunk was found at the Southern Pacific depot at Lordsburg, Grant county. The station agent hired a wagon drawn by a burro and a band and hauled the trunk about town with a placard: "Who owns this trunk?" after the procession had been on the way for fifteen minutes the trunk was claimed by a newly married couple.

Union Men Refuse to Handle Goods From Steamers Belonging to Federation.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) London, June 26th.—Another shipping strike was launched today. The union workers on the docks at Liverpool generally obeyed the order to strike. Forty-six firms in the shipping business were tied up. The shipping interests at Hull, Goole, Grangemouth and Clyde, found themselves in a similar plight, the union men refusing to handle goods from federation ships.

Dutch Dock Hands Strike.

Amsterdam, Netherlands, June 26.—Two thousand dock hands struck today in sympathy with the striking steamer hands in England. Work ceased at all of the ships of the eight largest firms.

CUNNINGHAM CLAIMS VOID

Secretary of Interior Fisher Approves Findings of Dennett

ENDS FAMOUS CONTROVERSY

However Coal Land Laws Are Declared to Be Not Adapted to Alaska.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, June 26.—The famous Cunningham Alaska coal land claims through which it has been alleged that the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate had planned to extend their vast interests in Alaska and to control one of the most valuable coal fields in the world, were today finally dissolved by the department of the interior.

Secretary of the Interior Fisher, having approved the department's decision as handed down by Fred Dennett, commissioner of the General Land Office, the last door is believed to have been closed to the Cunningham claim interests. Their attorneys have threatened an appeal to the United States supreme court, but such an appeal can be based only on some point of law involved, and not on the findings of fact as announced by the department.

The Cunningham claims have been in the public eye for more than two years. They brought about the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation by congress and the dismissal from the public service of Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot, Louis R. Glavis, a chief of the field division in the land office and several minor officials. In announcing the decision of the department today, Secretary Fisher declared that new coal land laws are needed in Alaska, if that territory is to be developed properly. In a statement, the secretary said: "I do not believe that the present laws applicable to coal lands in Alaska are wise or practicable. Nevertheless, their provisions must be enforced first, because they are the law, and second, because they afford the only protection to the public welfare against the abuses of monopoly and unrestricted privileges of exploitation. I sincerely trust that these laws will be modified at the next session of Congress so as to permit the development of the Alaskan coal fields under provisions that will more adequately protect and promote the public interests. Commissioner Dennett in his decision holding the claims for cancellation on the ground of fraud asserts that the government conclusively established the charges brought against the claimants and that there is no doubt that an agreement existed among them in violation of law. The thirty-three claims involved, amounted to an aggregate of 5,250 acres. The value of the land has been estimated high in the millions. The coal involved in the claims is said to be among the finest in the world.

Pinchot is Pleased.

New York June 26.—Perhaps nobody in the country was better pleased with the final disposition of the Cunningham claims than Gifford Pinchot, whose own fortunes had pivoted upon them so critically. "The cancellation of the claims," he said here today, "is proof given by the administration itself that the fight made against it to prevent coal monopoly in Alaska was not only successful but necessary and right. This virtually assures cancellation of multitudes of other fraudulent claims in Alaska. Our fight, however, is not yet fully won. It is possible that a secret order of last October by which President Taft opened the harbor front of Controller Bay, the natural outlet for the coal to acquisition by coal interests, may result in a coal monopoly through monopoly of transportation.

"Now that the claims are cancelled the one imperative need for Alaska is an honest coal land law, opening the coal to immediate development under lease from the government."

ROCKY MOUNTAIN CANARIES FOR SUMMER RESORTS.

W. H. Goebel Gets an Interesting Letter From Indiana Hotel Proprietor.

The gentle burro, alias Saint of the Desert, alias Rocky Mountain Canary, is coming into his own. After centuries of hard and menial labor as a wood carrier, the gray coated beast with the great ears are to be the star boarders at the summer resorts in the middle west. This is attested by the following letter sent W. H. Goebel of this city by James E. Halliday, proprietor of the Hermitage Hotel and Cottages at Michigan City, Indiana:

"Dear Sir: Our friend Will Dunn says you are the best man in New Mexico. I want one or two burros for my return mail the cost of same properly credited. F. O. B. Express. P. S.—Call on me when in the city."

Well, Mr. Goebel has answered that excellent burros, that "good looking" which will travel at fairly good speed, can be had for $15 each. The transportation to the Hoosier State will be $35 more. So, for about $100, Mr. Halliday's boy may ride burros at his father's summer resort.

ROOT PROVISION IS DEFEATED

This Clears Way For Final Passage of Reciprocity Measure

AN ACRIMONIOUS DEBATE

Senator Clark of Wyoming Declared Himself Opposed to Entire Proposition.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., June 26.—The Canadian reciprocity bill was taken up in the Senate today within ten minutes after the session convened, the Root amendment being the special topic of consideration. Senator Thornton of Louisiana denounced the measure on the ground that it discriminated against the agricultural element.

Admitting the probability of the defeat of the Root provision later in the day, Dr. Thornton still adverted to it and said he did not want Canada to get the advantage that would be given by the wood-pulp provision as it stands.

Senator Clark of Wyoming, also advocated the amendment saying that if the bill was to become a law he wanted it to be as good as possible. He characterized that amendment as the only thing that would make the measure reciprocity. Mr. Clark added that he was against the whole agreement with Canada.

Free Trade Would Ruin Industry.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—President John D. Spreckels of the Western Sugar Refining Company of California, told the House sugar trust investigating committee today that his company in 1903 entered in an agreement with the California and Hawaiian Sugar Company closing down the latter's sugar factory and keeping it out of the cane sugar market for three years.

This is one of the allegations in the government's bill in the sugar trust. Mr. Spreckels said that counsel assured him that the transaction was entirely legal.

The California-Hawaiian Company, he said, had lost about $600,000 the year before. "They had been cutting prices and lost money until they wanted to get out."

Mr. Spreckels agreed with other beet sugar witnesses that removal of the sugar tariff would ruin the beet sugar industry.

PRESIDENT OF MORMON CHURCH REACHES WASHINGTON

But John D. Spreckels Occupied Time of Great Trust Investigation Committee.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, June 26.—The story of the relations of the California company, the so-called sugar trust, was told before the House sugar committee today by John D. Spreckels of San Francisco. Mr. Spreckels represented the Western Sugar Refining Company of California, a cane sugar enterprise, and the Spreckels Sugar Company a beet sugar plant. He was formerly connected with the Spreckels Philadelphia sugar plant, sold to the American Sugar Refining Company in the nineties. Expecting the appearance of Joseph Smith, president of the Mormon church and head of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, no other men were present at today's hearing.

Mr. Smith, however, was not called as a witness, and it was stated that he probably would not be called until tomorrow. President Smith arrived today and went directly to Smoot's house to be his guest. Asked whether he had any particular reason for not wishing to come to Washington, Mr. Smith replied that his only desire had been to avoid a long and tiresome journey while suffering from severe rheumatism when he felt that he could add little or nothing to the enlightenment of the committee.

Mr. Smith and Bishop Nibley accompanied by Senator Smoot reached the committee room during that forenoon session. From the rear of the room they listened attentively for a time to Mr. Spreckels' explanations. Then the committee excused the Mormon leader subject to call and he retired. With him went most of the audience.

THREAT TO KILL HENWOOD

Sensational Allegations Made In Trial of Sordid Bar Room Murder.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Denver, June 26.—All bars against the testimony of Mrs. John W. Springer in the trial of Frank Harold Henwood for the murder of George E. Copeland were thrown down today by District Attorney Elliott when the trial was resumed and when he drew his objections to the introduction of testimony tending to show threats against Henwood by Sylvester L. Von Phul previous to the shooting. Mrs. Springer was immediately summoned to appear in court, and she will take the stand this afternoon to testify concerning conversations she had with Von Phul and involving Henwood. Mr. Elliott gave his reasons for withdrawing his objections, which objections had been sustained by Judge Whitford, that he desired to give the defendant every effort to justify his act.

Where Was Mr. Springer All This Time?

Henwood then took the stand and told of a box party at the Orpheum the afternoon of May 23, the day before the shooting, the party including Mrs. Springer and Von Phul. After the show, he said Von Phul followed Mrs. Springer to her room at the Brown Palace hotel, called her into the hall and slapped her. Mrs. Springer at once sent for Henwood and told him she had been struck by Von Phul and begged him not to attempt to recover from Von Phul her letters, which Henwood had promised to do.

Mrs. Springer told Henwood that Von Phul was "desperate" and that he had said he intended to kill Henwood. The next day, according to Henwood, Mrs. Springer smuggled an unsigned note to him begging him "For God's sake not to come to the hotel, that she had an awful scene with Von Phul who had again threatened to kill Henwood."

Henwood said he bought a revolver that afternoon. "I never owned a revolver in my life before!" he said.

Von Phul Struck Mrs. Springer.

Denver, Colo., June 26.—Mrs. John W. Springer followed Henwood on the stand and testified to threats against Henwood by Von Phul. She also testified that Von Phul had struck her the evening before the shooting affray and he had struck her twice on previous occasions. She had told Henwood of these acts.

She also said that Von Phul had taken from the apartments of herself and husband two photographs of Henwood and torn them up in her presence.

Tore Up Henwood's Pictures.

William W. Ross, deputy coroner, told this morning of finding a torn photograph of Henwood in Von Phul's pocket, after the latter had been shot. These photographs, it has been stated, were given Mrs. Springer, by Henwood and were secured in the Springer apartments by Von Phul and torn by him.

NIGHT IRRIGATION PAYS BEST AT CARLSBAD.

Second Cutting of Alfalfa in Progress—Cotton and Corn Growing Rapidly

Carlsbad, N. M., June 26.—Water has been turned back into the big canals of the Carlsbad project and the farmers are again on the job night and day. Night irrigation has become general in the project as experience has proven that it pays well. The big reservoirs are full and every one can have water promptly. This is important as delay in the water service at this stage of the crops may mean heavy loss. The condition of the crops is most excellent. The field crops like corn and cotton are making rapid growth. The weather has been warm with an occasional shower. The second cutting of alfalfa is over half finished. The yield of hay is satisfactory. The alfalfa seed crop is doing well. New hoppers for thrashing the crop are already here. This season the most improved methods for handling the seed crop from the cutting to the hulling will prevail. Seed buyers are already bargaining for the crop.

The call of New Mexico day met with splendid support in Carlsbad and the Carlsbad project. Assistant Postmaster Hill says that the number of cards sent out was very large. About four thousand cards were specially printed for free distribution and all dealers in postal cards made a low rate for home views to be used on this day. The Current got out a splendid edition for the occasion, profusely illustrated with new views. The Argus was also finely illustrated. Both papers published editions that are very creditable. The officials of the Santa Fe railway, assisted in many ways, J. Brinker, the general passenger agent of E. Ry. of N. M., furnished the newspapers with some excellent cuts. Both newspapers disposed of many extra copies to be sent out of the territory.

Oil Fire Causes Two Million Dollars Property Loss at Port Arthur

PORTLAND FIRE CHIEF KILLED

Three Other Firemen Received Injuries In $100,000 Conflagration.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Port Arthur, Texas, June 26.—An explosion on the oil barge Gumble in the harbor here today caused the death of one man and destruction by fire of property valued at about $2,000,000.

The explosion was felt for several miles. Three barges, a tug and three warehouses, filled with oil at the Texas company's terminals, were destroyed.

Fire Chief Killed.

Portland, Ore., June 26.—Chief David Campbell, of the Portland fire department was instantly killed today and three other firemen received injuries in a blaze at the plant of the Union Oil Company on the east side which required the efforts of the entire department to subdue. The loss is estimated at $100,000. Campbell led a squad of firemen into the blazing warehouse to plan the fight against the flames. The men were groping their way through the building when a heavy explosion occurred. Two of them were hurled back through the door and Campbell was not seen again. His body was recovered when the flames had been overcome.

DEFIANT TRUST IS PROSECUTED

United States Seeks to Jail Officers of Eastern Box Board Club

COMBINE CLEARED $5,000.00

Had Been Dissolved Under Sherman Law But Seems to Have Reorganized.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, June 26.—An indictment for violations under the criminal provision of the Sherman law drawn by U. S. District Attorney Henry A. Wise, was returned today by the federal grand jury against the "Eastern Box Board Club," alleged to be the successor of the "dissolved" Fibre and Manila Association. In the indictment, the first of the new series of governmental trust prosecutions, presidents, officers and co-partnerships included in the membership of the Eastern Box Board club, are charged with being an alleged combination in restraint of trade, limiting the output and arbitrarily fixing prices.

When pleas of guilty were entered by the thirty-nine paper board corporations included in the membership of the Fibre and Manila Corporation and fines aggregating $88,000 were imposed and paid, it was thought that the paper board trust had been put out of business for good.

The government alleges, however, that certain paper board makers having made about $5,000,000 in the combination substantially formed the "Eastern Box Board Club." District Attorney Wise immediately took action against the second combination and an indictment was returned today. The federal prosecutor, it is learned, will in event of conviction, urge jail sentences as well as the imposition of heavy fines.

ORTIE MCMANIGAL AT LOS ANGELES

Both Sides In Dynamite Cases Claim She Will Testify For Them

IS A WOMAN OF MYSTERY

However Prosecutions Plans Appear to Be Upset by Her Attitude.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Los Angeles, Calif., June 26.—Under the protection of, and closely watched by the detectives of the agency which caused the arrest of her husband, and the McNamara brothers, Ortie McManigal, who arrived here yesterday on the same train with Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, became the center of interest today in the dynamite case.

Both prosecution and defense now claim as a witness the woman who is said to know of the secrets of the alleged gigantic conspiracy which caused the loss of millions of property and more than a score of lives, and while apparently by preference she has thrown her lot with the defense, the detectives employed by the prosecution today obtained possession of her trunk. They said this contained evidence of value in the case against her husband, who is alleged to have confessed, and against John and James McNamara, the accused principals in the plot, who are under nineteen charges of murder.

A search revealed only the clothing she had brought west for herself and her two children.

Up to the time of her arrival yesterday, the prosecution has maintained that Mrs. McManigal would testify on behalf of the state.

But when she appeared in the city accompanied by Mrs. Thomas McGuire, wife of an official of the Iron Workers' Union in Chicago, she went to apartments prepared for her by Attorney Harriman of the defense.

The apparent upset of the prosecution's plans caused by the attitude of Mr. McManigal gave rise to rumors that McManigal himself would repudiate the confession he is alleged to have made and take his chances with the McNamaras.

It was also reported that he would be defended by attorneys who represent the McNamara brothers. Attorney Brown declined to affirm.

The rumor that McManigal had apparently changed front began circulating following the visit of Mrs. McManigal to her husband in the jail immediately after his arrival.

SURVEYING SOUTHERN BOUNDARY OF TERRITORY.

It Will Likely Give Texas Two Thousand Acres at Present Considered to Be in New Mexico. (Carlsbad Argus.)

A. D. Kidder, supervisor of surveys, Lee S. Miller in charge of the survey, and a number of men including Holmes and Sam Mitchner, Orville Beals and Adams came in from the state line Tuesday night. They will be in town until next Tuesday, when work on the survey will be started again.

Mr. Miller who is in charge of the party on the south line, gave a few facts of interest about the present survey. The appropriation made by congress, under which the survey is being made provides only for a re-marking of the boundary line between Texas and New Mexico, originally surveyed by Clark in 1852. Consequently his markings are being followed as closely as possible. At the time of his survey he erected thirty-one monuments to mark the line between the Rio Grande and the eastern boundary, a distance of 211 miles. Those were mostly piles of rock, or mounds of dirt thrown up at high points along the line, and many of them have been destroyed or become obliterated by fifty-years of exposure to the weather. The present party in its course to the river from the eastern corner of the territory have discovered only four out of seven put up by the Clark expedition. It will run its line clear to the Rio Grande, as a means of finding the Clark monuments, and then work east marking each mile with an iron post three inches in diameter, measuring from the eastern corner, and at such of the Clark monuments as are identified place a concrete standard thirty inches high in which will be imbedded a brass plate, setting forth the fact of Clark's early survey, and the location of the monument.

Mr. Miller said but few changes would be made in the line as it now exists, and which has been run by contracting or county surveys from New Mexico. Possibly 2,000 acres of land along the entire line will be found to be in Texas which are now claimed by New Mexico.

Interesting sidelights on the conditions attending on the early Clark survey are found in the notes of that survey carried by the present party. Clark could get no water anywhere along the line east of the river, and had to pack in water from the white sands thirty miles southeast of the territory, in order to supply his outfit, which was a big one. The sands were favorite places of hiding by the Indians during the Indian wars, when they would retreat to them, dig down in some ravine to a distance of eight or nine feet and get all the water they need.

SUMMER'S SONG.

You call it the patter
Of raindrops that scatter,
Like diamonds the grasses among
Or else, if it pleases
You whisper of breezes,
And cadence of song they have sung.

Of clear lulling fountains,
And murmuring mountains,
The voice of old ocean sublime,
But jocular or lonely,
I'll wage you they're only
The songs of the glad Summer Time.

Oh, the rollicking notes of a rhythmic rhyme,
The matins and vespers of gay Summer Time.

You call them the voices
Of birds, and your choice is
The robin, the linnet, the wren.
You praise the quail drumming,
The honey-bees humming,
The Katy-Dids call from the glen.
The maple boughs sighing,
You reckon outvying
The rustle of corn at its prime.
But plaintive or merry,
Or solemn or cheery,
This song of the gay Summer Time.

Oh, the rhythmic rune of a fathomless rhyme,
The matins and vespers of gay Summer Time.

MINERAL RESOURCES OF THE ST. LOUIS REGION.

Geologic Report by the United States Geological Survey Deives into Remote Past.

The geology and mineral resources of St. Louis and vicinity are briefly described by N. M. Fenneman in a bulletin (No. 438) just issued by the United States Geological Survey. The area covered in the report includes St. Louis, East St. Louis, and adjacent portions in Missouri and Illinois.

The rise and fall of the region where St. Louis now stands, several times repeated indeed, are sketched by the author. These changes from land to sea and sea to land cover long periods of geologic time, too great to be estimated in years or centuries, and reach back to an age when the world was relatively young and when the primal ocean covered the greater portion of the present land area. During several of these geologic periods the slopes of the Ozarks were submerged almost continuously, and, as shown in the present rock record, nearly 3,000 feet of sediment, more than three-fourths of which is represented today by limestone, slowly accumulated in the St. Louis area.

Deep Deposits of Loess.

The upland in the quadrangle is everywhere covered with loess to a depth of 10 to 50 feet, this material being confined generally to the smaller and younger valleys. The loess is an unconsolidated substance somewhat resembling yellow clay but of a mealy nature, so that when not quite dry it is readily pulverized in the hand, passing into a fine flour instead of forming crumbly, balls, or hard lumps as clay does. Much of the loess is underlain by a layer of intermingling stones, sand and clay deposited in ages past by glaciers. At some time after the deposition of this material large amounts of finely powdered rock were spread out by the combined agency of steam and winds. The greater thickness of this deposit near the large streams indicates that their agency was primary in transporting this fine silt; the manner of distribution of the loess over hill and valley points to the work of the wind. Along the river front of St. Louis the loess caps the bluffs to a thickness of 50 feet or more. A mile farther back it is but 10 or 20 feet thick. This loess, geologists explain, was doubtless brought down as mud suspended in the river. Under these circumstances floods must have habitually spread the fine detritus over the broad alluvial plain, leaving it to dry in the intervals between floods. Thence it was carried by winds over the uplands, the greater thickness on the east bluff of the river being the result of the first settling from the prevailing westerly winds.

Important Economic Resources.

The output of clay products from St. Louis, was in 1908, valued at $5,000,000, which is but one-thirtieth of that for the entire United States. Within the city limits is situated the famous Cheltenham fire-clay bed. The choicest of this clay is sold for glass-house use. Some of it is used for ornamental or facing use or is mixed with other clay to make sewer pipe. From his study of the St. Louis area, Prof. Fenneman believes that the Cheltenham fire clay may be found at many places where no prospecting has yet been done. A red brick of good grade is made from the loess which covers the uplands of the entire area described. Other resources are limestone, cement materials, glass maker's, builder's and moulder's sand, cement gravel, some oil and gas, and in the Illinois part of the area, coal. The report is illustrated by several photographs and diagrams and a geologic map of the quadrangle. A copy may be obtained without cost by applying to the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From the Experience of Santa Fe People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Santa Fe residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Albino Ortega, College St., Santa Fe, N. M., says: "I am very grateful for the benefit I have received from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. For several years I had trouble from my back and kidneys. It was hard for me to do work on account of pains in my loins and any sudden movement aggravated my trouble. My rest was disturbed by a too frequent desire to void the kidney secretions and the passages were scanty and painful. Public statements given by local people who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with benefit, induced me to try them. I found relief at once and by the time I had used one box, my back was free from pain. My kidneys are now normal and I feel better in every way. I have great faith in the curative powers of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

F. S. Rexford, 615 New York Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., says: "I had a severe attack of a cold which settled in my back and kidneys and I was in great pain from my trouble. A friend recommended Foley Kidney Pills and I used two bottles of them and they have done me a world of good." For sale by all druggists.

GREAT THRONG SEES PROCESSION

De Vargas's Vow In Honor of Blessed Virgin Is Carried Out

NINE DAYS NOVENA BEGUN

Then Statue Will Be Brought Back With Great Pomp to Cathedral.

The statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary, carried by four young ladies in snow white attire and wearing the silver medal of the Virgin suspended by a blue ribbon from their throats and carrying a pearl rosary in their hands, was the central figure of the famous De Vargas procession which was held here yesterday afternoon and was witnessed by thousands.

It was a real impressive scene, with real devotion as its keynote. The procession is said to owe its origin to a vow made by Don Diego de Vargas a way back in 1693 that if he conquered the Indians, who resisted his entry into Santa Fe, as a token of respect and gratitude to the Mother of God her statue should be carried in solemn procession each anniversary.

For that reason this statue, which is said to be the same one in front of which the great De Vargas made his vow at the little chapel which is now known as Rosario Chapel, is carried each year through the streets, preceded by a large number of the faithful from both the parishes of the Cathedral and Our Lady of Guadalupe.

Although lacking in the rainbow of colors seen in the dresses worn by the ladies in these processions a decade ago, the procession yesterday was an imposing one and took over twenty minutes to pass a given point.

Santa Feans and residents of near by towns, as well as tourists from all over the land who happened to be in the city, gathered in the plaza shortly after 2 o'clock and lined San Francisco street with a view of seeing the procession.

The Cathedral was packed with people who began their novena of nine days in honor of the Blessed Virgin and lighted wax tapers flickered in front of the statue which was placed at the altar rail in the sanctuary.

Then at 2:45 p. m. the bells began to toll and the procession began. First came hundreds of young women from the church of Our Lady of Guadalupe, marching in double file. They were dressed in white and most of them carried parasols and umbrellas to shield them from the burning rays of the sun. Other women from the parish followed, and they were attired in black. Several mothers were seen to carry children and others to lead them by the hand.

Following these came many men who walked with bowed heads. After them came the Rev. A. Besset and the Rev. Julius Hartmann, rector and assistant rector of the Church of Our Lady of Guadalupe. They wore black cassocks and white surplices, with birettas on their heads.

Following the two priests came three altar boys in red cassocks, and white surplices and one carried a cross and the other two candles.

More girls then followed, one carrying a banner emblematic of the society to which they belonged. Many women followed, praying the rosary in Spanish or English. Then another banner was seen, the banner of the Sacred Heart.

The Band. The First Regiment Band came next and the musicians looked very smart in their neat, blue, tight fitting uniforms. The band played a religious march and it added much to the solemnity of the occasion.

After the band walked many boys, members of the St. Joseph's Society of the Cathedral and on the coat of each was pinned a red badge.

Several nuns in deep black and carrying rosaries at their side, passed by, contributing not a little to the religious atmosphere of the procession.

Then the Statue. Finally came the much venerated statue with its flowing white veil and crown of gold. It was carried by four girls, members of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin and on either side of them walked members of the society, ready to relieve them at intervals.

The statue carried up on high, was the cynosure of all eyes, and involuntarily every mind was doubtless turned back just two hundred and nineteen years when Don De Vargas sought and obtained the intercession of the Blessed Virgin in his great undertaking.

Following the sodality came six altar boys and then the Very Rev. Antonio Fourchegu, vicar general of the archdiocese and rector of the Cathedral. He wore a cape of gold satin and a layman held an umbrella over him as he walked, leading in the singing of psalms. A score or more of the older members of the parish walked behind the vicar general and thus closed the procession.

The statue was carried to the Rosario Chapel where it was placed on the altar and benediction said, thus opening the novena.

There will be services there every day for nine days when the novena will be concluded and the statue brought back to the Cathedral in solemn procession, again to repose in the south wing of the Cathedral for another year.

COUNTY INSTITUTE NOTES.

Saturday, June 24, 1911.

Saturday ended the third week of the institute, and the teachers declare that this period has been one of the most profitable of their school work.

Prof. W. B. McFarland, principal of the Silver City Public schools, and a member of the executive committee, of the New Mexico Educational association, was again a visitor at the institute Saturday, and addressed the teachers on the value of the school libraries, which are being introduced into the rural schools, by the department of Education. Mr. McFarland was greatly impressed by the responsiveness of the teachers and complimented the institute on the high character of instruction.

Miss Bell Wright, primary teacher of the Winfield, Kansas, public schools, who is on her way to the National Educational association at San Francisco, Cal., was a visitor at the institute Saturday morning. She commended the institute manual, saying, it was equal to, and better in many respects, than the Kansas course of study.

The third grade reading period was enlivened by tales of other climes, and racial stories. Germany and Africa seemed to be the favorites, with the negro and the chicken in the lead.

The arithmetic students were introduced to John Doe and Richard Roe, Saturday, when writing promissory notes, and found that it was much safer, from a purse point of view, to use these legal gentlemen, than the name of a fellow student.

Yes, they gave the pass-word. They knew how to pronounce "callosities" and where they are.

Manuel Lujan, a graduate of St. Michael's College, has enrolled at the institute. Though late in entering, he is welcome to the circle. Mr. Lujan is a resident of San Ildefonso, and is a very bright young man.

Superintendent notified the teachers that everything was in readiness for the welcome of the school directors, who meet in convention Monday at 2 o'clock, p. m., and the superintendent of public instruction, James E. Clark, will address the teachers and directors on this occasion.

The first and second grade applicants are working over time these days, and will endeavor to secure good grades on their certificates. From present indications there will be no failures. It is hoped that this prediction comes true.

It is regretted very much, that Mrs. Lillian Waffensmith has been forced to absent her self from the institute, owing to the serious illness of Doctor Waffensmith, who is at present confined at the sanitarium.

Emeterio Rivera, a resident of Precinct No. 3, brought his son Juan who is attending St. Michael's College, and had him enrolled at the institute.

The county superintendent is receiving quite a number of letters from outside teachers, asking for positions in the county schools, but it has been given out straight, that the teachers attending the Santa Fe institute and receiving certificates, shall be given preference over all others.

A slight improvement was reported today in the condition of Dr. Waffensmith.

One teacher stated that she knew a young man who succeeded in drawing a beautiful skeleton. As beauty was never before deemed a characteristic of a skeleton, the artist's name would prove quite a boon to humanity.

Hottest Day of the Year.

Yesterday was the hottest day of the year and those who stood out in the sun during the De Vargas procession did not doubt it. The mercury rose to 84 degrees at 4 p. m. and was at 90 degrees at 3:50 a. m. The average relative humidity for the day was very low, for at 6 a. m. it was 21 per cent and 6 p. m. only ten per cent, making the average 16 per cent for the day. The temperature at 6 a. m. today was 5° degrees. On Saturday the temperature ranged from 54° to 53° degrees, and the average relative humidity was 24 per cent.

BRILLIANT OPERA FOR ROYALTY

A Gala Coronation Performance at Covent Garden House This Evening

100,000 ROSES ARE USED

Floral Decorations In Pink Are Superb—$5,000 For Single Box Refused.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican)

London, June 26—The gala coronation performance at the Covent Garden opera house, commanded by the king for Monday evening, June 26, at 8:30, promises to be brilliant both from the point of view of the music and from that of the renowned artists engaged, while the scheme of decoration has never been surpassed in magnificence at this theatre.

The program opens with a scene from the second act of Verdi's "Aida," representing the gate of Thebes, and it is cast as follows:

Aida, Mme. Deshayes, Amneris, Mme. Kirkby, Lunn; Il Re, M. Hubert; Rhamdis, Signor Bassi; Amonasro, M. Gilly; Ramfis, Signor Sibirakoc; Premiere danseuse, Mme. Opalfvens; Conductor, Signor Campanini.

This is to be followed by act II of Gounod's "Romeo et Juliette," the scene being laid in a garden on which Juliette's balcony looks. The cast is: Juliette, Mme. Melba; Romeo, M. Franz; Gertrude, Mme. Berat; Stephano, Miss Booker; Gregorio, Mr. Burke. Conductor, Mr. Percy Pitt.

Rosini's "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" ensues, act III., the scene of which is laid in Rosini's studio, being given by the following artists:

Rosina, Mme. Tetrazzini; Basilio, Mme. Berat; Bartolo, Signor Malatesta; Almaviva, Mr. John McCormack; Figaro, Signor Sammarco; Basilio, Signor Marcoux. Conductor, Signor Panizza.

Tableau II. of the Russian ballet "Le Pavillon d'Armide," the pantomime of which is by Alexandre Benois and the music by M. Nicholas Tcherepnin will then be given with the following cast:

Armide, Mme. Karsavina; Vicomte de Beaumarchais, M. Bolm; Le marquis, M. Cecchetti; Armide's slave, M. Nijinsky; Armide's confidantes, Mmes. Will, Schollar, Nijnska. Master of ceremonies, M. Kusoff. Conductor, M. Tcherepnin.

The famous building has for this occasion been transformed into a bower of roses. Over 100,000 of these blossoms in all shades of color are used in the scheme of decoration. Only the royal box is draped, the others relying purely on floral decoration. Around the royal seats are draperies of crimson plush bordered with gold, with a frieze of pale mauve white gold orchids and foliage, while the interior of the box is decorated with pink carnations. Over the center of the front is the Imperial crown and underneath it the Star of the Garter all worked in flowers. The medallion for India, with the Star of India hanging from it, is fixed over the box on the tier above.

A trophy consisting of the rose, thistle, shamrock and harp tied together with a true lover's knot is fixed on the proscenium curtain, and on the sides are placed two medallions with the royal initials "G" and "M." Immediately above is hung the Union Jack surmounted by the Imperial crown.

Each tier of the house is outlined in deep pink roses. The ground floor is arranged with a green silk trellis with large pink roses clustering over it. The next tier is arranged quite differently, medallions of deep pink roses being connected by festoons of pale roses. On the grand tier are placed large medallions of deep pink roses with the names of the various sections of the empire worked in gold flowers. New Zealand, Australia, South Africa, and Canada are separated by gold cornucopia baskets of crimson roses connected by festoons of pale pink roses.

A broad band of deep crimson roses outline the proscenium and a frieze of the same flower is placed over the top. Rambler roses are so arranged as to appear to be growing from the ground and clambering over the columns from tier to tier and changing in color from pale pink to the deepest crimson as they reach the top.

At least a third of the house will be occupied by his majesty's guests and their suites, and the demand for the remaining seats has been extraordinary. Applications have numbered over ten times the total of seats available and offers of $2,000 to $5,000 for a single box have been refused. Subscribers were given the preference in the allotment of boxes, for which the price was fixed at $525. A waiting list was opened on which several hundreds of disappointed applicants placed their names in the hope that some of the people who have reserved boxes may for some reason renounce their claims at the last moment.

Levee or evening dress is to be enforced in every part of the house.

A military guard of honor will be drawn up to receive their majesties on their arrival at the theatre, and just inside the building a lavishly decorated reception room has been erected in which the state officials will await the entrance of their majesties and the royal guests.

Ten of the boxes in the center of the theatre have been thrown into one in order to make the royal box sufficiently large to hold the 100 guests of royal rank. In the course of the evening it is expected that his majesty, the King will hold a reception of his guests in the foyer immediately at the rear of the royal box, where a large number of artistic objects from the royal palace have been used as decorations.

S.S.S. CURES RHEUMATISM

The usual cause of Rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood which weakens and acidifies this vital fluid, and prevents the proper amount of nourishment being afforded the muscles, nerves and tendons. The pains and aches of Rheumatism may be temporarily relieved by the use of liniments, hot applications, and other external treatments, but the disease cannot be permanently benefited by such measures, and is bound to become chronic and dangerous if such things are depended upon alone. S.S.S. cures Rheumatism in the only way it is possible to cure the disease. It goes down into the blood, and removes the uric acid from the circulation so that the nerves, bones, muscles and joints are all lubricated and fed with nourishing matter instead of being constantly irritated and inflamed with the sharp, acrid impurity. When S.S.S. has cleansed and purified the blood the pains and aches cease, all inflammation disappears, stiffened muscles are made supple, and every symptom of Rheumatism passes away. Book on Rheumatism and medical advice free to all. S.S.S. is for sale at drug stores.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

A BIG COUNTRY.

Seven hundred and fifty pages of solid figures unaccompanied by text discussions other than explanatory notes, form a rather uninteresting looking volume issued by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, entitled Statistical Abstract of the United States, yet this annual volume, the thirty-third issue of which has just made its appearance, is called for by thousands of people in every part of the United States and in fact in every part of the world. It tells of the area, natural resources, and population of the country from the adoption of the constitution to the present time; agriculture, forestry, and fisheries; manufacturing and mining industries; occupations, labor, and wages; internal communication and transportation; merchant marine and shipping; foreign commerce, internal commerce, commerce of noncontiguous territories; prices, consumption estimates, money, banking, and insurance; wealth and public finance; the civil service, army, navy, pensions, congressional apportionment, the presidential elections; the statistical records of progress of the United States from 1800 to 1910, and closes with a few pages devoted to commercial, financial, and monetary statistics of the principal countries of the world. It is compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, in part from its own data of commerce and transportation, in part from data gathered by other governmental organizations.

This annual publication originating with the Bureau of Statistics thirty-three years ago, then a small volume of 150 octavo pages, has grown with the growth of the country and the demands of the public for additional information, to 750 pages in this the thirty-third number just issued. Purely statistical, and thus appealing only to those desiring definite information in concrete form, it presents many interesting pictures of conditions past and present in the United States. For instance the 100 pages devoted to the general subject of area, natural resources, and population, show the date of admission of each state and territory, and their respective areas, the land area unappropriated and reserved, amounting in 1910 to 712 million acres, and forming 41 per cent of the total land area of the country; swamps and overflow lands, 75 million acres; developed water-powers, 51.3 million horse power; estimated coal supply by states and territories, estimated iron ore supply; the number of farms irrigated, 167,000 in 1907, and number of acres 11 million; the various irrigation projects commenced and the respective area to be reclaimed; population from 1790 by decennial years to the present time, and population of states and principal cities at each census; share which persons of foreign birth form of the population at various dates; marriage and divorce statistics; school population, enrollment, and attendance of pupils; universities, colleges and technical schools, with students and instructors; and temperature and rainfall for various sections of the country.

The fifty pages devoted to agriculture, forestry and fisheries show the number and acreage of farms by decennial periods extending back to 1880, value of farm property by states and territories amounting to over 20 billion dollars in 1910, the latest year for which complete statistics are available; the production of principal cereal crops, and of other farm products, including fruits, butter, wool and chickens, the wealth produced on farms for a term of years, showing a growth from 5 billion dollars in 1900 to practically 9 billion in 1910; and numerous other facts relating to the wonderful development of the agriculture of the country for a long term of years.

The 50 pages devoted to manufacturing and mining industries show the summary of manufactures by principal industries in census years from 1880 to 1905, the gross value of manufactures having grown from 51.3 billion in 1880 to 15 billion in 1905; the production of iron ore, pig iron, steel, tin plates, coal, gold and silver; building operations in principal cities; and numerous other facts regarding the development of the manufacturing industry of the United States.

The 25 pages devoted to occupation, labor, and wages show the share of the population engaged in gainful occupations, including separate tables specifying number of each sex employed, and data as to strikes, lock-outs, wages and hours of labor.

The 40 pages devoted to internal communication and transportation include data on the postal service, telegraph statistics, miles of railways operated, length of track, number of persons and tons of freight carried, showing a growth of railways operated in the United States from 301.2 thousand miles in 1860 to 53,000 in 1910, 93,000 in 1880, 167,000 in 1890, 199,000 in 1900, and 250,000 in 1910. Data regarding express companies; transportation upon the lakes and principal rivers of the country; freight rates from principal interior points to the coast, and to European ports are also shown.

The 170 pages devoted to foreign commerce show values of imports and exports and trade with various countries for a long term of years, the imports having grown from 668 million dollars in 1880 to 789 million in 1890, $50 million in 1900, and 1,557 million in 1910; while the exports show a growth from 835 million dollars in 1880 to 858 million in 1890, 1,394 million in 1900, and to 1,745 million in 1910. The share which crude materials for use in manufacturing formed in the total imports in 1890 was 21.6 per cent, 1900, 22.5 per cent, and in 1910, 36 per cent. Manufactures ready for consumption formed 29.2 per cent of total imports in 1890, 23.9 per cent in 1900, and 23.6 per cent in 1910. Manufactures exported in condition ready for consumption formed in 1890, 15.7 per cent of the total domestic exports; in 1900, 24.2 per cent; and in 1910, 29.2 per cent; while manufactures for further use in manufacturing formed in 1890, 5.5 per cent; in 1900, 11.2 per cent; and in 1910, 15.7 per cent; foodstuffs in the meantime showing a material decline.

"THE BEST OF PLANS."

Word comes to Santa Fe of the first really definite political understanding on the Republican side made by any of the leaders in political thought. Inspired, perhaps, by the Democratic rump which met at Albuquerque to divide the offices of the future state, a few Colfax and San Miguel county Republicans are reported to have reached an understanding or rather to have made a plan by which the political strength of Colfax, San Miguel, Taos, Union counties and whatever adjoining counties they can control, are to be pooled and are to be held together for purposes of trading or coalition with a similar combination in central and southern New Mexico in which Bernalillo county is to take the lead. While this coalition is not to be progressive, in fact, it is to be ultra-reactionary, yet, it is to oppose the present organization of the party, it is to eliminate Delegate W. H. Andrews, it is to capture the party, leaders, officers and voters. The New Mexican, however, puts little credence in the reports, for wise leaders will not seek to eliminate each other, but will rather seek to get together and to co-operate with each other for triumph of party and party principles.

There is nothing wrong in men of unselfish purpose getting together and planning for the welfare of the future state; nor is there any harm in those who feel they have some claims to leadership planning for the victory of their ideas, but the New Mexican believes and knows, that combinations made now for political purposes will hang together by a very slender thread; that plans parceling out state offices are too premature and will be shot to pieces when they get to the firing line; that the victorious leaders will be those that have understanding and sympathy for progress, for new ideas, who will not throw themselves in the way to block reforms and changes; who will not only express but demonstrate that they have confidence in the ability of the people to govern themselves and will rely on public sentiment rather than on prejudice and money to win their battles. The New Mexican of today is not the New Mexico of ten or even five years ago; the people of today are aroused to their opportunities and responsibilities as they never have been before and the few counties in which the light of modern political progress has not yet fully penetrated will not play shenanigans with the majority that is determined to have its way, politically and otherwise.

The Baptist World Alliance has decided to inaugurate a world-wide campaign against the social evil and invites other churches to join. If this warfare will be along practical lines it will do more for humanity than any other crusade, not excepting Prohibition, of the present century. In Santa Fe, for instance, if the churches were to act together, the evil could be banished, as far, at least, as tolerating houses of ill fame is concerned. Even though New Mexico's laws are disgracefully lax and behind the times in that respect, yet, they prohibit the existence of the evil within 700 feet of any public gathering place and it would be comparatively easy for the churches to establish Sunday schools or missions within 700 feet of every known place of that kind in the city and then harass it out of existence, if the authorities refuse to do their duty under the law. Of course, where the authorities join with the respectable people, as they presumably would in Santa Fe, the solution would be comparatively easy, if church members would unite and would exert the pressure that enthusiasm and union in any good cause can always exert.

One of the real proofs that the farmers under the Carlsbad project are making a success of irrigation agriculture is furnished by the fact that a debt of $6,000 for delinquent shareholders assumed by the Pecos Water Users' Association last year, has been redeemed to the last cent by the land owners who twelve months ago were unable to meet their assessments. Last Wednesday was the last day that the lands pledged for the payment of $6,000 could be redeemed and payment on every acre was promptly made.

NO FINANCIAL CHAOS.

New Mexico wants statehood and wants it right away. There is no denying this desire. But it does not sanction misrepresentations to obtain it. The Hearst papers in a plea for immediate statehood inspired by several New Mexico statesmen, say:

"The act of congress makes no provision for continuing the appropriation law in effect. No provision in the law of New Mexico provides for an emergency such as that which confronts the state.

"New Mexico faces financial chaos from which she can be saved only by the patriotic action of her citizens voluntarily paying taxes without compulsion of law."

This is false, for New Mexico has a specific statute making provision for just such an emergency and the territorial government goes on just as if a legislature had been held this spring. In fact, there are some very good and patriotic people, who believe that it is an indirect blessing to skip a legislative session occasionally. The Republican administration of financial affairs, the last fifteen years, has been so exemplary that financial chaos, such as the Hearst papers speak of, is out of the question. Even if all revenues were to cease there are balances amounting to $2,000,000 in the territorial treasury, municipal and school treasuries, sufficient to run the territory for almost a year. But, as stated above, the statute provides specifically for the continuance of revenues and appropriations indefinitely until another legislature meets.

PRACTICAL BOOSTING.

The Fort Sumner Republican had perhaps the most practical idea of advertising its section on Post Card Day of any paper published in the Southwest. It put out no special edition, had no illustrations, but in a two-column article told what each farmer on the 7,600 acres under irrigation is doing, how many acres he has in alfalfa, how many acres in potatoes, how many in fruit trees; it describes briefly his house and his circumstances, where he came from and how long he had been on his Fort Sumner farm. This was told without glowing adjectives and without flights of imagination and yet, there was more advertising value in this than in glittering generalities which too often go for boosting. If Santa Fe, for instance, instead of telling of its fertile soil, the lushness of its fruit, the abundance of its irrigation water, the superiority of its climate, would enumerate one hundred farmers in this section who have made good, how they have done it and how long it took, and then would give the description of farms and tracts of land with their water rights and price in the Santa Fe valley that are to be had by the man who comes to farm or to invest, it would carry conviction, for nowadays the circulars, the pamphlets, the agents who deal in glittering generalities are legion and they no longer lure the intelligent man or woman away from his comfortable home.

It is a serious charge that the Rio Grande Republican makes when it says that the recent political hog-wash in the Rocky Mountain News aimed against Delegate Andrews, Hon. Solomon Luna, Hon. H. O. Burdette, Governor Mills and others who stand high in Republican party ranks was inspired by the corporations in Colfax county. The New Mexican cannot imagine any railroad or coal mining corporation deviating from its purpose, that is of making money for its stockholders, in order to play so raw a political game. The articles in question bore the earmark of having been written by the secretary of the Democratic Central committee and the New Mexican must have more definite proof before it will believe that any Republican inspired them. The men in charge of the Colfax county corporations are too shrewd, too well posted, to send out such ridiculous statements as were contained in the subsidized series of articles that purported to make an onslaught on the Republican party but whose only effect was to make readers laugh at their palpable silliness.

A real use for the firecracker has recently been discovered. A tenderfoot who recently took up his home in El Paso was awakened by one of the many burglars who regularly ply their trade in the Pass City. The burglar was standing at a door below trying to force it open. The tenderfoot looked out of the window and having no revolver, dropped a firecracker on the burglar. The cracker exploded and the burglar thought he had been shot, at least, he shot away so quickly that he left his hat and a cart in which he evidently had intended to haul away his loot. Why could not this invention be applied also to saloon brawls. When fellows like Henderson and Von Phil become half shot and imagine they have a grievance against each other, they might pull out giant crackers, set them on fire and hurl them at each other and thus satisfy honor without killing innocent bystanders. Such method would reduce the death rate of cities like El Paso and Denver materially.

"A bath room in the house illustrates to us old timers that the frontier and the wild and woolly west is rapidly slipping from under our feet," laments a New Mexico contemporary. Even here in Santa Fe, the day is not far distant when every house will have a bath tub and then it will not be so unsatisfactory a task to preach a cleaner Santa Fe. The most practical charity would be for some philanthropist to give enough money to put bathroom fixtures into every home and to have the city council pass an ordinance to compel every individual to use them at frequent intervals.

It may be interesting to know that the tax collections for 1910 in Valencia county are already 76.2 per cent of the total duplicate, while those of Chaves county are only 67.3; Curry 67.3; Lincoln 41.9; Sierra 45.9.

WHEAT MARKET'S TREND WAS UPWARD.

Unexpected Reverse of Sentiment at Liverpool Affects Chicago Grain Market.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican, Chicago, June 26.—An unexpected reverse of sentiment in Liverpool today gave the wheat market here an upward turn. Shorts at Liverpool are nervous concerning the smallness of contracts immediately at hand. The total showed a decrease compared with last week, and was only 1,824,000 bushels, compared with 5,176,000 bushels a year ago. The opening was 3-8, 3-4 town to 1-8@14 up @88-3-8 to 88-3-4 for September. A rise followed to 89-1-8. Withering heat in the Southwest sent all the pit speculators to the buying side of corn. Oats also were affected by the hot weather. September oats started 1-4@3-8 lower to a shade higher at 41-1-2 to 41-7-8 and climbed to 42-3-4. Provisions were easy with hogs. First sales were 2-1-2 and 5 cents lower to 12-1-2 up with September, delivery 1-47-1-2. Pork, 8-30 for lard, and 8-32-1-2 for ribs.

The close was firm at a gain of 11-1-2@11-1-4 for September.

Stock Market Closed Weak.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me."

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will.—MRS. JANEZSKI, 2903 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

CONSERVING THE PUBLIC DOMAIN BY CLASSIFICATION.

The United States Geological Survey is pushing steadily ahead in the classification of the public lands, pricing coal lands, recommending the restoration to agricultural entry of land found to be nonmineral in character, designating lands subject to enlarged homestead entry, and recommending the reservation of lands suitable for water-power sites.

During the month of May the Survey appraised 2,472,659 acres as coal land, with a value of $49,233,112 and 1,355,032 acres as noncoal land. Had these coal lands been appraised at the old minimum rate in force a few years ago ($10 or $20 an acre) their valuation would have been $35,370,766; the present valuation, therefore, shows a difference in favor of the Government of $13,862,346. In New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming four withdrawals were made of lands supposed to be underlain by coal comprising 1,433,953 acres, while in Colorado, Montana, New Mexico, Washington, and Wyoming six restorations were made of coal land comprising 3,089,845 acres. In Florida was withdrawn, making the total area of phosphate land withdrawn 2,548,545 acres. Three power-site withdrawals were made covering 9,364 acres, and one restoration of 160 acres, leaving a total of 1,507,433 acres withdrawn for power sites at the end of the month.

Under the enlarged homestead act 243,788 acres were designated, making a total of 190,179,595 acres designated as enterable under the provisions of this act.

It is the policy of the Geological Survey in the classification of the public lands to recommend the withdrawal of such areas as may be considered necessary from the standpoint of the Federal Government for the protection and conservation of its mineral and water resources; to make such withdrawals as accurately as possible, on the basis of the information available; and to make further investigations and procure additional data in order to restore if possible any area not necessary to the protection of the people's interest.

SURVEY REPORTS GREAT. EST COKE PRODUCTION.

Last Year a Record Breaker in Tonnage; But Value of Product Less Than in 1907.

The year 1910 was a record breaker in coke manufacture, with an output of 41,681,410 short tons, an increase of 2,366,245 short tons over the 1909 figures, and even exceeding by 901,846 short tons the banner year of 1907, although the value of the 1910 product was $11,842,859 less than that of 1907. The following figures compiled by Edward W. Parker, the coal statistician of the United States Geological Survey, show the production and prices of coke manufactured in the United States during the past four years, the first being coke produced in short tons, and the second the value:

1907, 40,779,564; $11,539,126
 1908, 38,023,518; $8,243,993
 1909, 39,315,065; $8,965,483
 1910, 41,681,410; $9,696,267

The first is coal consumed in short tons, and the second the value:

1907, 61,946,109; $72,784,851
 1908, 59,440,837; $45,222,474
 1909, 59,354,937; $62,293,382
 1910, 63,045,795; $74,808,114

Coal Used Cost More.
 It will be observed that in the production of coke in 1910 there was a larger relative increase in value than in quantity, and that the average price per ton advanced from $2.29 in 1909 to $2.39 in 1910, from which it might appear that the state of the coke industry in 1910 was highly satisfactory. Such, however, was not the case, for whereas the value of the product of 1910 exceeded that of 1909 by $9,730,784, this increase was more than offset by the higher value of the coal charged into the ovens. The quantity of coal used in the manufacture of coke in 1909 was 59,354,937 short tons, valued at $62,293,382; in 1910 the quantity of coal used was 63,045,795 short tons, valued at $74,808,114. The increase in the value of the coal used in 1910 over 1909 was $12,604,732, or $2,873,948 more than the increase in the value of coke.

Coke of Great Industrial Importance.
 To many readers the term "coke" implies but a bi-product of city gas plants which is used for summer cooking in the kitchen range. Such coke is, however, of slight commercial importance, the above figures representing the industrial coke production of the country. Coke is an important and necessary factor in the metallurgical world, being the principal fuel used in the reduction of ores and the making of steel rails, structural steel and other such products. Thus the coals which have fine coking qualities are of the highest industrial value. In the Geological Survey's Coal classification schedule, high-grade coking coals rank equal in value to anthracite.

In the United States industrial coke is produced by two methods—in beehive ovens, where the coke is the only product recovered and in by-product ovens, where all the important subsidiary products are conserved, such as gas, ammonia, creosote, and coal tar. At the present time the bulk of the coke is made in old-fashioned beehive ovens with an annual wastage of millions of dollars worth of by-products. In 1910, according to Mr. Parker, 17.13 per cent of the total coke output was made in bi-product ovens, as against 15.91 per cent produced in 1909. The figures obtained by the Geological Survey show that there is a gradual increase in the use of bi-product ovens. At the close of 1910 there were 2,187 coke ovens in course of construction, and of these 920, or 42.07 per cent were bi-product ovens.

Large Decrease in Price.
 Notwithstanding the increased production and the higher value of the coke in 1910 as compared with 1909 the year was decidedly unsatisfactory from the producer's standpoint. It has already been noted that the increase in the value of the coal used exceeded the increase in the value of the coke produced and that the net result of the year's business was really a loss rather than a gain over the preceding year. The tendency of prices was downward from January to December and in the latter part of the year much of the coke business was conducted at a loss.

Connellsville furnace coke, which is recognized as standard blast-furnace fuel, declined from the high record of $2.75 a ton in January to $1.40 in December, and the values of other coals competing with Connellsville showed a corresponding decline.

SUB-IRRIGATION EXPERTS GIVE DEMONSTRATION.

L. B. Harris of Belton, Mo., who has patented the Harris Sub-Irrigation, Distributing and Drainage System of Irrigation, gave a practical demonstration of the workings of his system in the office of O. C. Watson & Company, Real Estate Agents, here. The advantages of this system of irrigation is saving of water, practicability, cheapness, and efficiency of operation and is recognized by all irrigation experts as being the coming plan of irrigation. A system of sub-irrigation can be installed on a much cheaper basis than that of surface irrigation and will produce much more reliable and permanent results; this system can be used alike for surface or sub-surface supplies of water and will be particularly applicable to all sections of the country where there is an underflow of water to be utilized from wells and raised by means of wind-mills or pumps. This demonstration was witnessed by several real estate dealers and irrigation experts and is declared to be a very good proposition. Mr. Harris was today in consultation with Territorial Engineer Miller.

BREAKING AWAY

BY JEANNE LOIZEAUX

Kingston Corey, anxious to know his fate, met the mail for the camp. The precious letter was there—he sorted it from the others in a moment and tore it open. His eyes lighted and his head lifted with pride. He tore back through the green woods toward the small group of tents on the lakeside, where Mrs. Tiverton was chaperoning her daughter Leona and a dozen other young people who were camping. His first thought had been of his mother—she would be glad. Then he made his way straight to Leona. His jaw set a little as he remembered that he had left her flitting in her refined but desperate way, with Harry Spear. Harry, too, was being dangled. This would decide matters.

He found her seated on a big pillow under a birch tree, her dark head against the white trunk, her saucy eyes bright, her mouth set stubbornly. Harry was just leaving her, his face dark. Kingston walked straight up to the girl and held her out the letter, which she took, reading it lazily. Her face hardened a little, and she held out her hand formally. "Congratulations!" she said, "since you seem to be delighted over such a crazy proposition—going to live in a South American wilderness! Won't it be hard to break away?"

His heart sank, but he eagerly began to explain. "Why, it's the chance of a lifetime for an engineer. Under Foster, the greatest man of his profession ailing, and at a salary to begin on that makes me independent, with every opportunity to work up. Don't you see, Leona?"

He reached and took her hand, but she drew it back. Anger as well as hurt arose in him. He sprang to his feet.

"Leona, are you going to marry me and go with me? Could you be ready in two weeks? That's all the time we will have."

"You—must be crazy, King! I never thought you were in earnest about going out there! Father could do better for you financially—he'd be glad to—"

"You haven't answered me, Leona. You've trailed me for two years; I've been engaged to you all that time, and you've been engaged to me when you pleased, and were not too busy flirting with some one else. I'm a civil engineer, and even if there was work for me in a manufacturer's office, I would not be dependent on your father for anything. I love you as I always have—you know that. I want you—for my wife, but if you marry me, my life will have to be yours. You can have all I have and all I am, but I shall be myself, not somebody else. Will you go with me? Do you—love me enough? You won't have the luxuries you have at home, but you'll have a wide, free life, and love always!" He spoke rather hotly, but he had been patient a long time.

The girl rose and looked at him. Her first impulse was to yield, to tell him she would follow him anywhere. Then the old pride came up.

"In—two weeks? With no wedding?—scrambling my things together, when you could as well stay in civilization? No, thank you!" She intended it to begin as a discussion in which she would finally be beaten, but for once she was surprised.

"As you wish," he answered coldly. "I have said all I could."

He walked quietly away and left her. Leaning up against the tree, she thought it out. After supper, she would let him seek her out—she would relent, and he would be less masterful, more yielding. But again her plans failed. When she came back to camp she saw the little crowd all standing about him, laughing, congratulating him. He was in business clothes, his suitcases beside him.

"You're all good friends, the very best," he said. "It will be hard to break away. But I shall need every minute I can give mother, and two weeks is a short time to settle my business affairs up in. And last I should not meet all of you in town again before I go. I am going to say good-by."

He shook hands warmly with every one, Leona not first or last, but simply among others. She felt the glance of the others curiously upon her, and was angry and hurt that no one even chafed her about his going. Did they think she cared? Did they think he had not asked her to go? Did they think her sensitive about him?

The plan had been for ten days longer in camp. Spear, delighted at Kingston Corey's departure from the field, devoted himself to Leona, who was glad to show her independence by encouraging his devotion. But the days became interminable to her, and the nights sleepless. From anger and surprise, she became dismayed, and then her heart sank hopelessly. Had he said his last word to her? Would he not write? She began taking the daily long walks to meet the mail, but there was no word to her from him. He must have meant it. Fear seized upon her, and then grief. Her one effort was to hide it from the others by sheer surface gaiety.

A week passed. She was counting the days—seven—before he went away for always! And without even seeing her again! Could she bear it? The time dwindled to five, to four days, then to three. It was more than she could endure. She planned quickly, caring nothing of what the others might say or think. On the afternoon mail came a letter from her father, wishing she were at home. It gave her an excuse.

"Dad wants me to come home," she said to Mrs. Tiverton, "and I want to start right away. Could Gray take my things to the station?"

Her face was so pale, her eyes so eager, that the wise woman said nothing and was kindly helpful. She divined something of the spoiled mother's predicament, had watched her good treatment of young Gray, who was proud enough, too, whose patience had manifestly come at last to an end. No one blamed Corey.

Once in her own room, Leona's struggle with herself began. Her return was duly chronicled in the papers. Would he come to see her? Another precious day, and no word. In secret and feverishly she packed and disposed of a her many belongings, hardly knowing why. Her father thought she was ill and talked doctor and travel. He dared not ask about Corey, but secretly thought if she had gaily sent him away that he, John Scott, had missed a fine son-in-law. Not that he wanted to lose his girl, either, but he wanted her happiness.

Then Leona waked up one morning to know that on the evening of the next Kingston Corey would start for South America evidently alone—surely without coming to see her, even to bid her good-by. She did not consider that good-by would be a hard thing for him to say when his heart had depended on taking her with him.

At noon even her pride deserted her. She went to the telephone, called for a special messenger, and sat down to her desk. She had grown almost thin in her anxiety, and there were shadows about her eyes, her curling dark hair was carelessly knotted and she wore a loose pale blue morning dress. She began slowly to write to King.

She tried again and again. What could she say? The truth? Could she write, "I am sorry—I want to go with you; I don't care about a wedding, or anybody in the world but you?" She tried it, but threw the sheet on the floor of the big living room, and tried it again. "Dear King, I have never loved any one but you—won't you forgive me?" This seemed utterly abject to her. She discarded that also, not noting that the fresh summer wind picked it up and whirled it over the bare polished floor to the door opening upon the veranda, and that the first sheet caught on the edge of a rug.

Again she tried, and this time it was shorter yet; she knew the messenger would come in a moment, and she had been wasting time in thinking, in trying to save her pride. Now she let it go.

"Dear King," she wrote, "I can't stand it to have you go without me. I can be ready in two days or in two hours, if you will take me—or I will go just as I am. I don't care for anything but you—"

She heard the bell ring, and went on writing, not looking up, as the maid let some one in.

"You will have to wait a moment, messenger," she said, but, a queer feeling came over her, and she lifted her eyes.

Kingston Corey, his face rather stern and set, was deliberately reading a sheet of paper. He stooped and picked up another piece near the rug, and read that. Then, his face alight, he came toward her, but tears filled her eyes, and her vision of him wavered, though she rose and stood waiting, still clutching the unfinished note in one hand.

"Leona, did you—mean what is written here?"

"Yes," she said, and gave him the paper in her hand, "and I mean this, too. I was going to send it to you. Oh, it's terrible not to have any shame or pride or anything!"

"But love? It is—terrible, dear. But it's the best thing, too, isn't it?" She nodded her tousled head, and then sprang away from him.

"Don't you think you'd better telephone dad to come home this minute? There'll have to be some quick work around here."

King's insight failed. The old Emperor William used to tell a story against himself which well serves to illustrate "that most grateful form of error, probably." When the emperor was only king of Prussia, he saw one day among his troops an untidy looking lieutenant. "Who is that man?" he asked. "An officer," he was told, "who has just left the Danish service and joined the Prussian."

"That man will never get on in the army," said the monarch; and he used to add, in telling the story: "The man was Molke, and my judgment of him gives you the measure of my insight."

Weld Broken Filaments. It is claimed that this apparently impossible feat can sometimes be executed by shaking the lamp with broken filament while connected to an active circuit. Sooner or later the ends of the filament strike together, a bright spark is formed as they meet, and with this and the momentary current enough heat is produced to weld them together, and the lamp burns away as if it had never been injured.

The Remedy. "My little boy can give a perfect imitation of a phonograph."

FORMER NEW YORK IDOL TO COME BACK

Mike Donlin, Who May Return to Baseball.

The former idol of the Giants and one of the greatest players of the game is tiring of his stage life and negotiations are now under way to complete a deal which will make Donlin a member of the Boston Doves. Manager Tenney of the Doves has been conferring with Donlin and terms between him and the star outfielder have been reached. All that remains is to close

JOE JACKSON MAKING GOOD

Young Recruit on Cleveland American Team is Hitting Ball Hard and Constantly.

Napoleon Lajoie has a rival on the Cleveland team.

In the years gone by any time the fans commented upon his appearance at the plate, they wondered at his gracefulness in the field. But this year Lajoie isn't attracting all the attention.

One Joe Jackson, a recruit, is dividing it with him. Much has been written about this young fellow. He came to the Naps at the tail end of the season, touted as few ball players have been. He proceeded to make good immediately. In the few weeks that he was a member of the Cleveland team he made pitchers look sorry. Apparently it didn't make a particle of difference whether they were right-handed or left, he hit the ball.

And the pitcher has not yet been found who could make him look like a bush league. For Jackson has been hitting. He clouted 364 in the first few days of this season, and so far, he has been one of the two men on the Nap team who have played baseball. Lajoie, of course, was the other.

Jackson has been three years in baseball and has played in four different leagues. In each organization he led all hands in batting. He started with Greenville in the Carolina

HOW FIRST BASE IS PLAYED

Jake Daubert of Brooklyn National League Team Gives Few Tips on Initial Sack Position.

I don't suppose I can tell anybody how to play first base. It is one thing to get in and play the game according to my own ideas, and a different thing to set myself up as an authority.

A youngster who wants to play first base—or anywhere else on the team—must have the natural ability. He must be able to play the mechanical part of baseball with ease.

A first baseman should be a left-hander.

This is not conceded because I am left-handed, but it is a clearly apparent fact that a left-handed man can handle first base more successfully than a right-hander. He has the entire infield "before" him, so to speak, and does not have to make the turns that a right-handed player is often compelled to make. Of course, there have been some brilliant first basemen who were right-handed, but they were brilliant in spite of this fact and not because of it.

A first baseman must always make a specialty of handling thrown balls. He must be able to accept the throws of other players without regard to the man who may be coming down first base line from the plate at top speed. At the same time he must take the throw in such a way that he will be able to touch the bag and yet keep clear of the runner.

The youngster can learn the peculiarities of players opposing him by close observation. Nearly every batter has some manner of betraying himself. Few use the same style of bunting and hitting.

I have found it good policy to play "deep" when there is a pitcher working who can be depended on to get to first ahead of a runner. Once I heard a manager say to a recruit who made a spectacular one-handed stab: "Use both your hands—I signed 'em both." I should advise a first baseman to use both his hands in taking throws until he has become absolutely sure. A wide throw that gets away may mean a lost game.

If you want to succeed at baseball learn every detail of the game. It is a never-ceasing source of new problems, new situations, new conditions.

Jake Daubert.

The process of figuring out a play should become second nature to the player.

Cultivate the acquaintance of experienced players and listen to them carefully.

Observe the rules of the game. Never bait an umpire. Behave like a gentleman.

Play hard to win and never give up. Keep regular hours.

Let "boozie" strictly alone. Don't smoke to excess. Better not at all.

Learn the inside of the game. Practice all you can.

Browns Get Pitcher McGrainer. The New York American baseball club has turned over Pitcher Howard McGrainer to the St. Louis Browns.

McGrainer went south with the Yankees and showed up well on the spring trip.

Manager Chase asked for waivers on him, but St. Louis refused to waive. McGrainer comes from the Parkersburg club of the Virginia Valley league.

Star Pitchers Lose Out. So far the baseball season has not proved a rosy path for the star twirlers of the big leagues. Mathewson, Johnson, Walsh, Ford, Coombs, and Brown lost their opening games.

George Mullin is the only one of the star veterans who seems to have all of his old stuff.

Games Are Too Slow. The games are dragging along too slow to suit the fans. If the magnates want to make home life more peaceable they should begin the contests earlier. The hungry fan might miss many a rolling pin at the door in that event.

Advertising

HOW TO FIND AND KEEP TRADE

Newspaper Advertising Best and Easiest Way but Must Be Done in an Intelligent Way.

"Newspaper advertising is the best proposition on earth if you work it right," declared Edward P. Treitz of Chicago to the retail grocers of Iowa at their convention in Cedar Falls the other day.

"Tell the story in your own way, take plenty of space to do it in and keep at it. A two-inch space away down among the undertakers' ads once a week won't bring you anything."

"You must not forget that the greatest and most important feature in all advertising and selling is confidence. You have got to have the confidence of your community in your goods and your service. When you advertise a brand of goods which you know is not reliable you are not one whit better than the two story man who robs your house, and you ought to be sent to the penitentiary along with him. If you are going to compete with your neighbors you have got to keep posted. Read your trade papers."

"Don't put an ad in the paper each Monday or twice a week and expect it to bring results. You have got to keep everlastingly at it, and if you keep at it and have the goods and the confidence of the people and give them service you can't help being successful. The mail order house is booming its advertising into your community almost every day of the year."

"A finely furnished store and a good stock of goods won't bring the business. You have got to keep everlastingly at it in keeping the fact that you have a store before the public. A good many of you are great on dress parade but you are lame on fight. Keep your name before the community. Attend church once in a while, and join a lodge or two."

"There are two ways in which to find a customer, the direct and the indirect way. The indirect way and the one largely followed by business men in the past and is being followed today by doctors or undertakers, possibly by men who wonder why they are not a success. That is, the indirect way of finding a customer is trying to impress yourself upon the community that you need not ever use any medium of advertising in any way, shape, or form and hoping that you will get people by and by to come into your establishment and purchase goods."

"Advertising is based upon two great principles: First, to attract and then to convince. I have often heard it said that this man was a successful advertiser because he happened to have peculiar instinct. It does not require any more instinct to be a successful advertiser than it requires a peculiar instinct to become a successful salesman. But first of all when a man goes into a community or opens up an establishment or when he decides he is going to increase his business by finding a larger number of customers he had got to realize first that he must know the community in which he lives, the kind of people who live there, and then he must realize, too, that there is only one way to find the customer, and that is by making a plea or making an appeal to the confidence of the customer. What will get the customer's confidence and keep it first, last, and all the time, should be the great inquiry and study of the business man."

"Advertising ought to be persistent. Keep it up; go at it all the time. You have noticed the signs along the railroad crossing. 'Stop, look, and listen.' You saw those signs there last year, and you will see them there next year. The railroads have warned them, and warned them, but they are not taking them down after several warnings. They are keeping them there. The fellow that stays with the game ultimately wins out."

Litt! Bobby Bender, whose father is a promising tradesman, a hundred miles from Mildew Court, and as such, never loses an opportunity to decant upon the virtues of pushing yourself forward, one day asked his mother:

"May Lucy and I play keeping shop in the front room?"

"Yes," was the assent; "but you must be very, very quiet."

"All right," said the youngster; "we'll pretend we don't advertise."

Monotonously Regular. "How often do the 17 year locusts visit you?" the traveler absent-mindedly asked.

"Well right, cap'n; neither was I."

Crude Oil Kills Ants—Adolph Seligman says he has been searching for something that will kill ants, large armies of which have invaded his house and garden and after trying many alleged killers finds that crude oil will do the work. He purchased a gallon or two of the oil a fortnight ago, poured it into the fortress of the ants and they have shown a pleasing state of innocuous desuetude ever since. The ants have been more troublesome this year than ever before, it is said, and many Santa Feans have been wondering what to do to kill the pests.

Bronson Cutting lent his automobile for the expedition and while the party did not see Arthur Knaebel, as he had already left Bland the day before, they had a most enjoyable ride through a country of rich scenic beauty, says Mr. Sloan. The fine dust, however, played havoc with their eyes, for the members of the party forgot to take goggles with them.

PLANTED TACKS IN SAND: MAY BE INSANE.

Further Development in the Express Wagon Mystery Shows Driver Acted "Lunny."

Further developments in the horse and express wagon mystery which attracted the attention of ranchers in and near Lamy would indicate that the owner was a German or American shoemaker and that he acted in a manner which would indicate that his mind was unhinged or he is playing a stupendous practical joke.

It appears that the unidentified man whose horse and buggy was found at the old coke ovens, was going from Lamy to Glorieta and on the way scattered shoe tacks in the sand and burned an umbrella he carried with him. It is said he "planted" no less than eight packages of the tacks which, however, were not put on a hard wood polished floor to harangue some weary sleeper when he walks over to open the window or pull up the curtain.

The man had with him shoemaker's tools and yet little is known of his history.

A message was received from Lamy this morning stating that a man answering the description of this traveler, bought a ticket at Glorieta for Albuquerque and on reaching the Duke City threatened to sue the railroad for alleged collision with his horse and buggy, which was miles away. He will probably receive a visit from an alienist.

Antonio Marquez, recently released from the territorial penitentiary after serving two years for breaking into the Palmilla Club at Las Cruces is in the toils again having, it is alleged, shot a man in a quarrel at Socorro.
