ARTESIA VS HOPE

"Artesia the Plenty of Water Town" and the "Belle of the Foot Hills" Cross Bats.

A FINE BASE BALL GAME.

Big Wells, Large Orchards and Immense Alfalfa fields.

The Current was represented in Artesia last Saturday and the ball game between Hope and Artesia was taken with much interest. The town of Hope was there in force "rooters" and all, and the game was interesting from the start. The first three innings resulted in goose eggs for both sides, but in the fourth Artesia made a score while in the fifth Hope scored three times. The game finally closed in the first half of the ninth with a score of five to four in favor of Artesia. The high school boys may be said to have won the game for Artesia there being three in the team. Ammie Clayton in left field did some excellent work catching flies that seemed impossible to take in. However, had it not been for a speculator picking up a passed ball the result would no doubt have been different for a "dead" ball must go the umpire and this let in two for Artesia.

Among the visitors from Hope were the following: Sam Davis, chief "rooter" Jim Muncy, Jno and Harm Wake, Will Muncy, Finis Moore, Leland and Elder Miller, Will Owen, Jno M. Al-rath, Geo Teel, Chas Cole, Erle Whitaker, Ervin Miller, Geo. Blakney, Alva Smith and Tom Brown. The ladies of the party were, Misses Clyde and Frankie Willburn, Pearle Trimble, Esther Teel and Amy Wake. The Hope people were confident of victory and undoubtedly can clean up the Artesia boys if the game is played over. The line up for Artesia was as follows:

Artesia has grown and is still growing, having at least 1800 people within its limits. The Main streets is wide and long and lined on both sides with good buildings. The banks have ample funds and the merchants are prosperous. Thousands of acres are being farmed and the country in the vicinity is beginning to look like an old settled region. Artesia has passed an ordinance to cut out saloons after July 1st, but at present two saloons are run and sell keg beer at five cents, making it pay to go from Carlsbad and other towns just to save money.

A trip to the famous Muncy artesian well, the largest on earth was made and the country east of town taken in. Several large orchards of forty to 100 acres are growing fine and will yield considerable fruit this season. The Muncy well which can be seen for miles on account of the white foam of water, flows 5000 gallons per minute and will irrigate about 1500 acres. Dozens of other wells of immense proportions may be seen and the farmers are busy irrigating immense fields of alfalfa that is almost ready to cut. To an old timer from the southern portion of the county all this looks good, for it shows that the country is developing faster than ever conceived by the most enthusiastic booster.

Among the most progressive business men of Artesia must be mentioned Mr. A. C. Keinath, who recently succeeded Dr. Ross as cashier of the First National Bank. Mr. Keinath is a pleasant man to meet and differs from many in that he views friction between Artesia and Carlsbad as entirely unnecessary, and there are others who hold the same views, among them W. Crandall, D. L. Smith, G. W. Batson, C. V. Brainard, S. P. Henry, Parson Gage and several others. Parson Gage, S. W. Gilbert and Mr. Fatheree are members of the board of education and were busy Saturday in examining the qualifications of applicants for superintendent and principal of the Artesia schools. After much deliberation out of fifteen the board finally settled on Prof. Bishop, who for the past month has been employed as assistant to Prof. V. L. Griffin of Carlsbad. The board also decided to pay $1,200 to the superintendent and $1,000 to the principle for a nine months school.

There are a great many business men in the country who regard advertising as a kind of charity that is thrown out to the newspaper men just to keep them going. "Just to help them along." Rarely do such men ever succeed in business. They are generally found watching the movements of the men who advertise for a profit and wondering how they ever did succeed so well in life. - Bonham Herald.

The matter of judicious advertising in modern business is just as essential to success as the matter of judicious selection of a location or of a stock of goods. Once in a while a man may drag along and keep from bankruptcy without advertising, but he will not succeed. Success which is worth while comes from letting for sprains, rheumatism contracted muscles and all pains - and within the reach of all. Price 25c, 50c, $1.00. C. R. Smith, Tenaha, Texas writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for years and found it a fine remedy for all pains and aches. I recommend it for pains in the chest." Notice to Cowmen.

Who are looking for "good rancia" propositions where they can get good land and own it. A bunch of cowmen will leave here on or about the 15th of May for Old Mexico and will be glad to have any other cowmen who are anxious to investigate the Old Mexico country to join them at Carlsbad, New Mexico, or Pecos, Texas, from which points low rates will probably be obtained. They have the service of a good man who knows the country and speaks, reads and writes the language.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE

President Roosevelt Hits Injunctions and Combinations of Capital.

THE ANTI TRUST LAWS

The President Declares They Should be Strengthened.

Washington, April 28. - The following is an abstract of President Roosevelt's special message sent to congress late yesterday afternoon. The message is devoted largely to discussion of injunction processes and combinations of capital. He says a strengthening of the anti-trust laws is demanded upon moral and economical grounds. "This will give more effective control by the national government over the business use of vast masses of individual and corporate wealth, which at the present time monopolize most of the inter state business of the country. We are being steered by a safe middle course which alone can save us from plutocratic government on the one hand or socialistic government on the other either of which would be fraught with disaster to our free institutions."

The president refers to "extreme bitterness caused among large bodies of worthy citizens by the use repeatedly of the power of injunction in labor disputes." He suggests that some such legislation as he has previously recommended be enacted.

The employers liability law recently enacted, the president says, comes short of what ought to have been done, but "it does represented a real advance." He says that apparently there is good ground to hope that there will be further legislation providing for recompensing all employees who suffer injury while engaged in the public service; that a child labor law will be enacted for the District of Columbia, that the waterways commission will be continued with sufficient financial support to make it effective; that steps be taken to provide for investigation of tariff conditions by a congressional committee that will secure full information necessary to intelligently revise the tariff, and finally that financial legislation be enacted providing for temporary measures for meeting any trouble that may arise within a year or two, and for a commission of experts who shall thoroughly investigate the whole matter so as to be able to recommend legislation.

Good for Everybody.

Mr. Norman B. Coulter, a prominent architect, in the Delbert Building San Francisco, says: "I fully endorse all that has been said of Electric Bitters as a tonic medicine. It is good for everybody. It corrects stomach, liver and kidney disorders in a prompt and efficient manner and builds up the system." Electric Bitters is the best spring medicine ever sold over a drug store, counter, as a blood purifier it is unequalled. 50c. at Eddy Drug store.

house leaders have not yet abandoned the hope of enacting financial legislation at the present session. Representative Vreeland, of New York, whose emergency currency bill has been considered as a probable substitute for the Aldrich measure, said yesterday that he had canvassed the republican members of the house, and that five sixths of them would vote for his bill. The question now is whether enough votes can be marshaled for the bill without the aid of the democrats.

would poll three republican votes to any Pecos Valley man's one. What is most necessary is to get the vote of the counties of the great southeastern portion out at the fall election this year and a fund should be raised to give barbecues, dances and gatherings of all kinds the day before election at the distant polling places of Eddy, Chaves and Roosevelt counties. While Mr. Hinkle would make an ideal delegate he has not the command of language even in English, of Larrizolo, to say nothing of the way Larrizolo can lay it down in Spanish. Larrizolo is not only the logical nominee this season, but is the best public speaker in the territory, one excepted. He is eloquent and his reasoning is entertaining and sensible. The only possible reason for advancing Hinkle's name now, it would seem is to effectually kill him off politically, in the interests of some other design that will crop out later.

A copy of the Chaves County Democrat with G. P. Elliott owner and J. D. Whelan editor was received this morning. It is a five column semi-weekly with eight pages and professes to advocate "real democratic principles." Heretofore papers of a distinctly partisan name have been difficult to establish because the name itself handicaps the publication with persons of no politics and all except those of the faith it professes. Among newspaper men it is a recognized damage to the business interests of a publication to dub it by any distinct political cognomen. While "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet" a name has much to do with a paper. However should the paper excel as a newspaper its name is soon lost in its individual identity and it is only merit that wins finally. That the Democrat may merit and receive business from all business men is the wish of the Current.

We are assured that Col. Mullane, of the Carlsbad Current, has his sane moments. But just now he is off the Pecos Valley reservation, demanding the nomination of Larrizolo for delegate to congress. The Record is for a Pecos Valley man, even if we have to compromise by nominating Mullane. Roswell Record.

After the Record's desertion from Judge Evans to Hinkle, the proposed compromise is viewed with suspicion, and really as a choice between Hinkle and Evans, Mullane is decidedly for Evans, for was he not mentioned first? Is he not the first love of the great county of Chaves? Seriously speaking, Mullane refuses to be burlesqued as the Record and others are endeavoring to burlesque Hinkle and Evans.

That Artesia and Hope can have exceptional ball teams is a great credit and shows to what an extremity Carlsbad has fallen in the matter of the great national game. The time was when Carlsbad could hold its own with any in the country of its size, but it would seem that a sluggish feeling has taken the place of enterprise and push.

Talks Like a Simon Pure.

Hon. O. A. Larrizola, of Las Vegas, in an interview said he was willing to respond to any call the democratic party of New Mexico may make upon him. He believes the outlook for democratic success in the territory better than ever before. "I will be a candidate for delegate to congress," he said. "If my friends see fit to present my name to the convention, and I am the choice of the party, or in other words, if my party, believes that my services as candidate for delegate to congress are required; but personally, I shall do nothing to secure the nomination."

Christopher's Withdrawal.

Some surprise was created by the announcement made by Sheriff James D. Christopher that he would not enter the race for re-election against his opponent M. C. Stewart who was formerly sheriff of Eddy county and whom Mr. Christopher defeated for that office. It was not fear of not being re-elected that caused Mr. Christopher to pull down, but on account of the ill state of his health and it is now with him a race for life.

He has been suffering for some time with a complication of diseases and has gone down from a sturdy specimen of perfect manhood to nearly an invalid and it has been only his grit and determination that has kept him going.

Not a breath of suspicion can be cast against the official conduct of Christopher while sheriff and that he made an honest and able sheriff is not denied by anyone and his illness is deeply regretted by all who wish him speedy recovery.

It is conceded with him in the race it would be a neck and neck race with Stewart.

THE BABE FOUND IN MAIL

An Investigation Which Cleared the Parents from Criminal Blame.

Roy Carr and his wife, the parents of the dead baby sent through the mails from Woodstock, Illinois, to Portales, Roosevelt county, are relieved from all criminal blame as the result of an investigation of the case made by the postmaster of Woodstock, and no action will be taken against them.

According to the latest information the baby was born dead in a hospital in Woodstock, four months after the couple were married, and to conceal the irregularity of the birth from her parents and friends, the woman hit upon the plan of sending the body of the dead infant to her husband in Portales so he could bury it there unknown to anybody. Carr had gone to Portales to take up homestead land and it was through his leaving there unexpectedly to his wife that the package fell into the postmaster's hands.

It is stated that the family of Mrs. Carr are highly respected in Woodstock and the stories of its various members, together with the hospital record bear out the statement. The facts that the package contained a return address is another point taken by the authorities to sustain their belief that no criminality was attached to the case.—Portales Times.

Death of Mrs. Woerner.

Mrs. Mary Woerner wife of Town Trustee W. G. Woerner died at the hospital in Ft. Worth, Texas, Tuesday morning at 2 a. m., and the remains were interred at 3 p. m., the same day in Ft. Worth. Her death was directly attributable to a surgical operation made necessary by cancer of the bowels, her trouble dating back for more than a year.

Mrs. Woerner was a patient sufferer, bearing her affliction with more than ordinary fortitude and passed away resigned and convinced her time had come. Deceased was a dutiful wife, most thrifty, economical, industrious and charitable to the extreme. Many are the poor and needy who have felt her great and generous ministrations being always ready with her labor and purse to relieve the afflicted. She was a member in good standing of the M. Taming of the Shrew.

R. W. Tansill, Jr., of Chicago, son of the late R. W. Tansill, who died here is in Carlsbad looking after his immense business interests, including the Tansill power dam on the Pecos river. This young man who is familiarly known to his Carlsbad friends as Junior Tansill has established for himself a reputation as a wild animal tamer. Less than two weeks ago he was riding on the plains and roped a wild hog and brought his game alive into town and staked him out at the rear of the Carlsbad Furniture Company's store. In this short time Tansill has got his wild hog as tame as a gentle house cat and feeds apples out of hands and the hog will grunt and rub up against the legs of his master as does a dog. The hog will even climb on his lap and grunt and be as satisfied with life, as is a gentle house cat when scratched under the chin, when Tansill gives the same demonstration. The wild hog by many has been supposed to be untamable and as ferocious as a lion and Tansill expects to get his pet to follow him like a dog down the streets of Chicago. If he does he will be given an amount of free space in the Chicago dailies that would have cost his father thousands of dollars in advertising the old time famous "Tansill's Punch, Five Cent Cigar", that hardly anyone ever hears anything about or knows whether or not it is still manufactured, when in the seventies and eighties over a million dollars was spent advertising this brand

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cure. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening medicine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle wrapper and are tested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy or known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Musings of the Metropolis

News of New York Town Outlined in Brief Form.

"Amen Corner" Is Now But a Memory

NEW YORK. The Fifth Avenue hotel, one of the famous hostesses of the city, has at last ended its existence of half a century. The end came the other night when many of the old-timers were seated upon the plush-covered seats in the Amen corner and once more breathed an acquiescent amen to the words of the "amen" whose political plans these promulgated plans the spot would remain.

With the passing of the Fifth Avenue the day of the American plan hotel in this city is over. Not that this is the reason for the demolition of the hotel, but because the owners of the hotel, the Madison square, realize that the building was not returning the property in interest on the value of the land that it should. The land is assessed at $1,500,000, but it yields a loan of much more than that has been indicated on it. A modest skyscraper office building will also replace the hotel.

For more than 50 years the Fifth Avenue has been one of the most notable hotels of the United States. No other single hotel in the world has ever entertained so many distinguished people. Presidents of the United States, emperors, princes, foreign ambassadors, titled men and women of renown, the list would fill a volume. Among its later patrons include all names of prominence up to the date of Roosevelt's election. It is the only president since Lincoln who has not made his home there.

Forced to Hurdle Train of Duchess

THE appearance of the duchess of Marlborough at the playground association's dinner to Mrs. Humphrey Ward the other day was a great treat to the women guests at the Waldorf Astoria, as well as to those who saw and heard her in the banquet hall. The woman descended Portico Alley and descended the neighborhood of the Art Gallery and the Grand Hall Room, the narrow, oblong room was made that a real live duchess was in the house.

When her arrival at the restaurant reception and led the procession toward the ballroom, leading on the arm of Richard Watson Gilder, a tall, well-made, of the entrance while Mr. Gilder presented a friend. The duchess, standing in the two screens opposite the entrance and directly between the walls, and no one came to a halt.

Her magnificent purple gown of blue embroidered satin had a train of blue embroidered satin and a train that swept the floor for nearly ten feet behind her and this lay spread out completely blocking the entrance to the banquet hall. There was no way to pass except to step on this magnificent creation or to jump it. No one stepped on it and the group of high jumps taken by some of the standing women from downstairs made a sight almost worth the price of a banquet ticket.

Some of the women who took the hurdle were of a build which does not admit of long steps and their efforts to clear the wide train were painful to witness. One expected to hear a sound like a cry, but if anything came it was the sound of a gasp. A few of the women, looking back as if they were incredulous of the barrier, stretched their legs and took the step with a minor but two-inch stride from tip to tip.

The struggles of the waiters, in some cases, partaking of deliberate, finally the duchess turned and, taking in the situation, she quietly drew her train to her side with a quick, graceful motion and went on talking with Mr. Gilder. A long sigh of relief went up from the men, because persons behind her who had been watching the hazardous proceedings.

What Cornelius Vanderbilt Didn't Know

THE developments in the Alfred G. Vanderbilt family troubles during the past week would indicate that old Cornelius Vanderbilt, while he was a man of vast affairs and great business acumen, did not know his own sons. Ten years ago young Cornelius Vanderbilt married Miss Grace Wilson. He did not approve of the choice. He prophesied disaster and scandal, and he denigrated young Cornelius as an ingrate who had blighted his own career.

The elder Vanderbilt then turned to Alfred as the head of the house to succeed him, and made him the heir to his vast fortune. Meanwhile Cornelius Vanderbilt and his wife, Grace Wilson Vanderbilt, have gone their way, winning admiration, respect and friend-ship here and in Europe. They are friends of royalty abroad. They are verified Prince Henry of Prussia, whom he was in New York. They have a family of five children. They are typically American.

But these social successes have not interfered with Cornelius' career. He would have made his own way in the world without his money, or any great family name. He has been a worker, in spite of his millions, for the wrong his father did him was in part righted by his brother who gave him $500,000. He is a skilled mechanic. He is a first-class engineer. He is an inventor, and his achievements have been notable.

It is safe to say, looking back with the perspective that ten years gives, that Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt would not have stood out against his father's wishes to marry the girl of his choice. That act in itself was manly, and perhaps had old Cornelius sunk his personal prejudice and viewed the whole thing without passion he might have given his oldest boy credit for courage and independence. But prejudice is blinding and he chose the other son.

Much Music in Wall Street These Days

THERE is music in the air of Wall street these spring days. Wall street with its harmonious ticker song is one of the last places in the world where an outsider would expect to find the romantic element of music, and yet a stroll through the money district during the market hours is constantly convincing.

Starting at the foot of Wall street proper, one finds a heterogeneous group of mendicant musicians. There is a haggard, tousled old woman, whose bones are hung faded coffee, playing a violin outside the coffee brokers' offices. There is a one-legged man, about 50 years old, playing a harmonica for stray pennies. There is a young girl—deaf, dumb and blind—playing weird tunes on a dilapidated accordion. Walking down the street to the old custom house, now being demolished with a jarring clash of apparatus, the ear becomes somewhat soothed by South William street by a well-built, hardy-looking man, an Italian and his rambunctious-looking daughter. This Italian is usually to be found at the corner of Exchange place and William street, and his repertory of tunes runs a gamut from "No Wedding Bells for Me" to the famous "Wedding March." Arriving at the Cotton Exchange and going up into the gallery, one may hear the Exchange quartet singing a few songs.

All over the financial district vendors of the scores of current popular Broadway musical successes are encountered. Songs are frequently advertised by having them sung from sign-diffused wagons that traverse the district. "Zohobos," in the hands of newshaws and messengers, are echoing at every corner of New street. Music boxes that start their revolutions at the touch of a nickel are to be found in numerous entrances.

CHEAPER LUMBER

Owing to the recently reduced freight rates and a slight fall in the price of lumber we are able to announce a reduction in the price of lumber of from $2.00 to $6 a thousand. The grade is just as good as ever, the price is less. We are now able to compete with yards on the T. & P. and ask the opportunity to finance with those from the Monument locality who have been hauling from these points.
