BIGGEST FEE COLLECTED

Five Million Dollars Telephone Company Files Incorporation Papers

BIG FLOOD DOWN PECOS

It Would Have Been Sufficient to Fill a Good Sized Reservoir.

Much gratification is felt in this section over the removal of the headquarters of the Carson forest from Antonio, Colorado, to Tres Piedras, Taos county, which virtually makes Santa Fe the buying point for the forest which is entirely located in New Mexico. New Mexico citizens are given employment and supplies are bought locally. Supervisor C. C. Hall has three outfits of about twenty men in the field. One is under Surveyor C. Goddard and is surveying the boundary line between the Tierra Amarilla grant and the Carson National Forest. Another is under Surveyor R. E. Marsh and is making a reconnaissance of the entire forest. A third is under R. Van Slyke, building a forest telephone line to Serrellita to connect with the forest telephone that runs to Canjilon, and in a few days will begin the construction of a line to San Antonio mountain where a lookout station for forest fires will be established.

Flood on Pecos.
Territorial Engineer Charles D. Miller received a telegram today that the Pecos river at Santa Rosa, Guadalupe county, sent down a wall of water 9.4 feet high.

Telephone Company Disincorporated.
Dissolution papers were filed today by the Artesia Telephone Company of Artesia, Eddy county, the company having been absorbed by the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Water Suit Dismissed.
Upon motion of plaintiffs, the case of the Town of Farmington vs. The Farmington City Water Company, George W. Lefler and J. H. McHenry, litigation that stirred up much feeling in San Juan county, has been dismissed.

Divorce Suit Filed.
In the district court for Rio Arriba county, a suit for divorce was filed today by Manuela Ulibarria de Herrera vs. Carlos de Herrera, on the ground of desertion and abandonment. Plaintiff asks for custody of two minor children.

Judgment in Bergere Case.
In the long pending suit of the territory vs. Former District Clerk A. M. Bergere, for a settlement of accounts, Judge M. C. Mechem has given judgment for $5,592.72, in addition to awarding $800 to Referee A. H. Brodhead and $100 to W. A. Bayer, as accountant.

Hydrographic Work.
Hydrographer S. S. Carroll, after consulting with Territorial Engineer Charles D. Miller, left today for Alamogordo to do hydrographic work for the territory. He was formerly with the U. S. reclamation service and also in the Indian irrigation service in which he planned the Taos region making a fine job of it.

County Institutes.
Assistant Territorial Superintendent of Education Acasio Gallegos returned last evening after making addresses to the teachers' institutes at Taos and Espanola. He found 23 enrolled at the former and in charge of J. H. Wagner of Las Cruces, and 40 enrolled at the latter, in charge of Mrs. Dixon. Both institutes are doing excellent work. Mr. Gallegos reports lots of rain in northern New Mexico.

Large Incorporation Fee.
Five thousand dollars, the largest incorporation fee ever paid into the territorial treasury, was collected today by Territorial Secretary Nathan Jaffa for the incorporation of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company of Denver, Colorado, which merges the Tri-State Telephone and Telegraph Company with the Colorado Telephone Company which in turn have absorbed most of the local and independent companies in Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and adjoining states. The capitalization is five million dollars and the New Mexico headquarters are at Albuquerque with A. D. Graham as the statutory agent. The incorporators are: E. B. Field, E. M. Burgess, Roderick Reid, Edwin B. Field, Jr., Philip Hamlin, and J. E. McDonald.

Marriage of Turks.
The department of state has recently sent to the governor of New Mexico a translation of a memorandum received by that department from the Imperial Ottoman Embassy, in regard to formalities of the law of the Ottoman empire necessary to validate in that empire the marriages of Ottoman subjects contracted in the United States, and is directed by the governor to bring this matter to the attention of persons authorized to solemnize marriages in New Mexico. The only practical way to reach such persons is through the offices of the probate clerks, who issue marriage licenses and who keep records of the marriages solemnized, and therefore I address this letter to you.

The memorandum states, in substance, that Ottoman subjects who desire to marry in America, after obtaining the required license, may apply to their spiritual or a judicial officer; and in view of the difficulties

TAFT SIGNS ACT TOMORROW

Obeject for Which Special Session Was Called Nearly Accomplished

TRIUMPH FOR THE PRESIDENT

Reciprocity With Canada to Become Law Without Single Amendment.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., July 21.—Chairman Penrose of the Senate finance committee today told President Taft that he would lay the Canadian reciprocity bill, with the approval of both the Senate and House, on the President's table by tomorrow afternoon, more than three hours before the President plans to leave Washington for a week end stay at Beverly. Senator Penrose said that it might get through tomorrow morning and then would be brought immediately to the White House.

La Follette Jumps on Newspapers.
Washington, July 21.—Assailing the press of the United States for its support of the Canadian reciprocity bill, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, made his closing speech against the bill in the Senate today. He expressed the belief that newspapers would suffer loss of influence for the support they have given to legislation in which he said: "They have a direct money interest. The press has failed in its duty to the public in regard to this legislation," he said.

Mr. La Follette referred to testimony given before the finance committee of the Senate that a newspaper organization had sent out a communication to many papers urging them to treat favorably the reciprocity agreement. He deplored the attitude of the newspapers.

"We have Senators on this floor who are bankers," said Senator La Follette, "Senators who are woolen manufacturers and cotton manufacturers, Senators who are interested in lumber and mines. Let no newspaper hereafter assail any Senator because he supports legislation in his own peculiar interest."

Senator La Follette referred to Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who had interrupted him, "as a newspaper owner," who had a direct interest at stake.

"Is it not just as fair to criticize the Senator from Wisconsin," retorted Hitchcock, "for advocating a duty on paper in the interest of the great paper mills of Wisconsin to which the whole country pays tribute?"

Senator La Follette said that he did not favor a duty on paper; that he was in favor of free print paper and would propose a measure in that interest as a direct tariff measure. He objected to the reciprocity bill, he said, because the newspapers would get free paper at the expense of the farmers, whose duties on their products would be removed.

128 PAGES OF CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTORS.

Secretary of State of New York Asked Thousand Dollars for Copy of the List.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., July 21.—The office of the secretary of state of New York was brought into the Lorimer investigation today when C. F. Wiehe, one of the central figures in the present hearing before the senate Lorimer committee, testified that $1,000 had been asked of him as the price of a copy of the list of contributors to the Taft campaign fund in 1908 on file in Albany. He testified that he had been informed by telegram from either the secretary of state, or his office, that the list consisting of 128 pages had been destroyed, but later an offer to furnish it for $1,000 was made. Wiehe explained that he wanted to know if Cyrus H. McCormick had contributed to the fund, but said he did not consider the information worth $1,000. "Do you mean to say there are 128 pages of contributions to the Taft campaign fund?" asked Senator Kern, late vice presidential candidate on the ticket opposed to Taft. "Yes sir," replied the witness. "I see how it happened then," responded the defeated candidate.

MILLIONAIRE HOBO CALLS CONVENTION OF UNEMPLOYED.

Will Meet in Washington in September and Will Make Demand for Labor Legislation.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, July 21.—There is to be a national convention of the unemployed in Washington in September, J. E. How, the "millionaire hobo" and his national committee of the unemployed are in session here this week laying plans for the big national meeting. The main business of the convention will be to "formulate a demand to be made on Congress for immediate labor legislation."

Among these demands are the shortening of the work day, a minimum wage scale, the establishment of national employment bureaus and free transportation for the workers. According to a circular, these demands are made "in order that the lives of millions of unemployed may be sustained until the establishment of the industrial republic."

EASY SOLUTION FOR TRUSTS

Attorney Parsons Declares That All Economic Wrongs Right Themselves

STATE SHOULD NOT INTERFERE

Too Much Water in Capital Will Take Care of Itself.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, N. Y., July 21.—All such wrongs right themselves" was the reassurance John F. Parsons, former attorney for the American Sugar Refining Co. gave the sugar trust investigators today when they asked him how to curb big corporations.

"My theory is, and it is supported by the greatest economic writers," said Mr. Parsons, "that all such wrongs right themselves. If there is too much water in the stock that will take care of itself. The government cannot in equity interfere in private affairs. There should be no limit to capitalization so long as it is not injurious or fraudulent."

Proud of His Patent.
"I certainly claim to be the pioneer in the formation of the American trust," said Mr. Parsons in answer to another question.

Sugar War Still On.
New York, July 21.—Mr. Parsons told about the famous meeting between John Arbuckle and H. O. Havemeyer, which is supposed to have ended the big sugar war.

Mr. Parsons said that at the conference, in question, no agreement was made and the sugar war is still on. "You were counsel for the American Refining Company when it was prosecuted for receiving rebates?" continued the examiner. "Yes," and the company pleaded guilty?" Mr. Parsons explained this at length and said that on its plea the company was fined $70,000.

STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION ELECTION IN TEXAS.

Saloon Forces Confident They Will Carry Lone Star State Tomorrow by 50,000 Majority.

San Antonio, Texas, July 21.—All Texas is now in the throes of an election to decide whether state wide prohibition shall obtain or not. The last legislature passed a joint resolution submitting this important question to a vote of the people. This vote will be cast tomorrow. Orators advocating statewide prohibition and other measures vigorously opposing this measure are going up and down the state, and the contest is the paramount topic of interest. Among the foremost orators opposing state wide prohibition is Governor O. B. Colquitt; opposing him in this, in favor of state wide prohibition is former Governor T. M. Campbell. Both sides, of course, are claiming the victory. The advocates of state wide prohibition point out the fact that the majority of the counties of Texas, especially of the populous north Texas counties, are dry. The anti-prohibitionists, on the other hand, assert that many of the voters in these dry counties are firm believers in local option but bitterly opposed to state wide prohibition. The anti-prohibitionists are making their fight along the lines of local self government, declaring that local option and the proper regulation of the liquor traffic is the true and effective solution of the problem; that state wide prohibition is economically unsound, practically ineffective, and morally wrong—since it does violence to the genius of American government. They are claiming the victory by a specific majority of 50,000.

FORMER ARMY OFFICER ARRESTED AT DENVER.

Complainant Is Captain C. S. Nettles, Who Claims to Have Been Bliked Out of $586.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Denver, Colo., July 21.—James P. Wyland, former lieutenant in the 9th cavalry U. S. army who was dismissed from the service about two weeks ago, after a court martial held at Fort Russell, Wyoming, was placed under arrest yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Captain C. S. Nettles, also a former army officer, charging him with obtaining $586 under false pretenses.

Nettles claims that Wyland came to him and said that he wanted to assign his army pay vouchers to obtain some ready cash. Nettles said that he then introduced Wyland to members of a financial firm and the money was advanced by that firm to Wyland. It developed, according to Nettles, that Wyland had drawn his pay.

HIGH BIDS LOSE CONTRACT FOR UNCLE SAM

British Ship Builders Will Get Contract for Two Chilean Battleships.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Santiago, Chile, July 21.—The government has refused the American offers for the construction of two battleships of the dreadnaught type, owing it is said, to the high prices asked. It will accept the offer of an English firm.

TAFT, REAL TRUST BUSTER

Wickersham Gives Credit to President for Great Victories Won

HIS GUIDING HAND TRACED

Standard Oil and Tobacco Monopolies Will Split Into Lesser Parts.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Hancock, Mich., July 21.—"Big combinations like the Standard Oil Company and the Tobacco Trust are going to split up into a number of separate and distinct parts, without connection, or monopoly power." This was the prediction in an address here today by Attorney General Wickersham, answering "people who are saying the decisions of the supreme court don't really mean anything."

Incidentally, Mr. Wickersham took occasion to trace the guiding hand of President Taft in the policy of the department of justice, concluding his speech with the remark that "no matter who should be at the head of the department so long as William Taft is president, no other policy could obtain."

Mr. Wickersham then gave an account of the activities of the "people's" law office, the department of justice.

"First of all," he said, there are the great trust cases, in which you, in common with the whole country have been so much interested. The government scored great victories there. Do not let anybody deceive you as to that. Some people are saying that these decisions do not really mean anything; that the big trusts will simply reorganize under other forms and go on just as before. Don't believe any such talk. Take my assurance that these big combinations are going to split up into a number of separate and distinct parts, no one of which shall have any connection or control over any other, and no one of which shall have so large a percentage of the business as to be anything like a monopoly. That is what I understand the court to require, and nothing less will meet my interpretation of the decisions of the supreme court."

LONGEST CANTILEVER BRIDGE IS CUT IN TWO.

Santa Fe Found It Was Not Strong Enough to Carry Its Heavy Locomotives.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Needles, Calif., July 21.—A small army of men concluded yesterday the work of cutting in two the span of the Santa Fe railroad's great cantilever bridge across the Colorado river near this point. For years this span has been the longest cantilever bridge in the world, but the great weight of the new type engines now in use made the bridge unsafe, and for eight months engineers have been constructing a pier in the center of the bridge to divide the strain.

IF TAFT COULD DO LIKE KING GEORGE.

Then There Would Be No Difficulty in Passing the Nelson Settlement.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) London, Eng., July 21.—King George has given Premier Asquith his promise to appoint as many new peers as will be necessary to pass the veto bill. This was announced this afternoon by the premier in a letter addressed to A. J. Balfour and read at a caucus of unionist people at Lord Landowne's house.

EIGHTH CHOLERA VICTIM DIES

But Federal and State Physicians Have Situation Well in Hand

NO MORE NEW CASES FOUND

Two More Ships From Infected Italian Ports Will Arrive Soon.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, July 21.—The federal and state physicians and bacteriologists down the harbor guarding the country from a threatened invasion of cholera were encouraged today by the fact that no cases of the disease have been found thus far among the latest arrivals from Italy.

In preparation for two more ships soon to arrive from the Mediterranean Health Officer Doty is increasing his force of experts, for under the latest government order every arrival from Italy must undergo bacteriological examination.

At Swinburne Island, where the cholera patients are confined, no further deaths have been reported since that of Francesca Arcordia which occurred yesterday afternoon. She was an Italian immigrant and a steamer passenger on the steamer Moltke.

SMELTER TRUST NOT GUILTY

Investigation Into Its Affairs Has Been Dropped by Government

NOT VIOLATING SHERMAN LAW

United States District Attorney Gives It Clean Bill of Health

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, July 21.—The investigation into the affairs of the American Smelting & Refining Company to determine whether the so-called "Smelter Trust" is in violation of the Sherman Anti-trust law has been dropped. United States District Attorney Wise said today that he had investigated the complaints against the "Smelter trust" and found them without foundation.

Anonymous Charges.
It was learned that the federal prosecutor received from Attorney General Wickersham instructions to make an investigation of the American Smelting and Refining Company and several officers of the company and books and documents pertaining to its business were before the district attorney.

It is understood that the matter came before the grand jury which after an investigation, practically dismissed the complaint.

District Attorney Wise said today: "Some time ago a complaint came to me in an anonymous letter that the American Smelting & Refining Company was violating the Sherman anti-trust law. After investigating the evidence presented, I concluded that the complaint was without foundation and suspended the investigation." Company itself asked investigation. An officer of the smelting company said it was at the instance of the company that the investigation was made to ascertain whether the company was violating either the Sherman Anti-Trust law or the Interstate Commerce law.

BODIES OF MINE WORKERS MAY UNITE.

Resolution Introduced This Afternoon in Western Federation Convention.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Butte, Mont., July 21.—What is looked upon by the delegates to the convention of the Western Federation of Miners as the most important move since the opening of the session was made this morning by Delegate John Vickers of Butte, Number 1, who introduced a resolution providing that the Western Federation of Miners apply for admission into the United Mine Workers of America and surrender their charter to the latter body with a further provision that a committee of five be selected by this convention to meet the executive board of mine workers which has been drafting a constitution to govern both bodies.

Action on the resolution was deferred until the arrival of two delegates from the United Mine Workers, who are expected to attend the convention. It is suggested that the Western Federation of Miners will become under the proposed amalgamation, the metal mining district of the United Mine Workers of America.

WILEY CASE GOES OVER UNTIL NEXT WEEK.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson Wants to Have Time to Go Over Papers.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., July 21.—The Wiley case probably will not be settled until next week. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson declared before the cabinet meeting today that it would take him several days more to go through the papers in the case.

"This is a highly important matter, and one over which I am not going to hurry through. I may make a report this week but I doubt it."

UNION PACIFIC SUE FOR $13,000 BY GOVERNMENT.

Charged With Twenty-six Violations of the Federal Hours of Service Act.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Denver, Colo., July 21.—Suit for $13,000 was filed against the Union Pacific railroad in the federal court here yesterday for alleged violation of the hours of service act, passed by Congress in 1907. The complaint charges that the railroad company has violated the act twenty-six times. The penalty for each violation is $500.

Raged Above Roosevelt Storage Dam Last Night and Broke Intake Canal.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Phoenix, Ariz., July 21.—A thunderstorm raging above the Roosevelt Storage Dam last night broke the intake canal of the government electric plant which furnishes this city with light and power. (By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., July 21.—He scout cruiser Chester sailed from Bradford, R. I., at three o'clock this morning under hurry orders for Hayti, where a revolution is threatening the lives and property of Americans. The Chester will maintain an average speed of twenty knots.

ROYALISTS ARE READY TO INVADE PORTUGAL.

Monarchists Have Smuggled Into the Country Thousands of Modern Rifles From Germany.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Lisbon, Portugal, July 21.—Via Badajoz, Spanish Frontier, July 21.—An invasion by Captain Condeira, at the head of the royalist forces, appears imminent. All attention is now fixed on the north. The Portuguese monarchists possess thousands of rifles of the latest pattern, smuggled into Galicia, Spain, from Germany and Belgium, and also many field guns and maxims.

Spain is Blamed.

Lisbon, Portugal, July 21.—The monarchists remain on the Spanish frontier, conspiring openly against the republic.

Notwithstanding the continued assurances of the Spanish government, the royalists daily hold military drills and practice rifle-shooting in the large private estates and among the hills of Galicia.

Influential opinion is convinced that the Spanish government is secretly protecting the Portuguese plotters in Galicia and the press has begun a bitter campaign against Spain, alleging bad faith.

The provisional government is anxious and censorship is strict.

TEXAS IS GOING STRONG FOR WILSON.

Every Indication That New Mexico's Prediction a Year Ago, Will Come True.

Austin, Texas, July 21.—Leaders of Democracy, and widely scattered throughout the great state of Texas, are coming out in interviews advocating Governor Woodrow Wilson for the Democratic nomination for presidency. From the Panhandle to Brownsville, Texas, from Texarkana to El Paso, Wilson's supporters are growing in numbers. It is true that Roger C. Sullivan, of Illinois, visited San Antonio and Texas last fall, and it is said laid wires for the purpose of having the Texas delegation instructed for Governor Harmon of Ohio. But since then the Wilson star is in the ascendency. Judging by the attitude of the press of the state, Texas is enthusiastically pro-Wilson.

BEDLAM BREAKS AT VITERBO

Lawyers Flee From Court Room In Consternation During the Tumult

ALFANO THROWN OUT BODILY

One of Defendants Has a Fit and Informer Is Ejected by Carabinieri.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Viterbo, Italy, July 21.—The most violent scene of the Camorrist trial to date, was provided today by a personal dispute between Captain Fabroni, one of the chief instruments in ferreting the crimes in the Camorra, and Lawyer Lioy. In the tumult all the other lawyers fled from the room. Enrico Alfano, charged with being the real head of the Camorra, and Genaro Abbatemaggio, the informer were thrown out bodily by the Carabinieri. Giovanni Bartolozzi fell in a fit and President Bianchi, helpless to maintain order, declared the session adjourned.

Hypocrites!
Lioy retorted in fury, concluding by calling the witness a hypocrite. "A greater hypocrite than yourself does not exist," replied Fabroni. The exchange had again stirred the prisoners and opposing counsel, and the din that followed fairly shook the court of the assizes. Lioy jumped about gesticulating and hurling epithets at crowds witnesses.

Like Wild Animals.
Meantime the prisoners in the great steel cage formed a sort of claque, hissing and cursing their accuser and applauding their lawyer. At last Giovanni Bartolozzi and others pressed their heads between the bars of the cage like wild animals struggling to reach their tormentor.

"Behold Us! They Cry."
"Get your heads back in there," ordered the carabinieri with a threatening movement. "No, cut off our heads. Yes, behold us!" they cried. "Our women," screamed Francesco Daidirio, "have become defiled because of this pig."

Throws a Fit.
Then Bartolozzi tumbled over in an epileptic fit. The doctors entered the cage to attend him and were followed by a score of carabinieri, each of whom seized a prisoner and held him until he was physically exhausted. His efforts to restore order being futile, President Bianchi adjourned the sitting.

Accused of Bribery.
When court opened today, Captain Fabroni was asked by Cavalier Santoro, the crown prosecutor, whether the assertion of Zanelli that Marshal Capizutti had tried to influence him to swear falsely against his fellow prisoners, were true. Fabroni replied: "Zanelli is the scum of criminality. Indeed, it was Lioy who, through Zanelli, who attempted to buy witnesses for the defense."

Screamed Like a Madman.
This reflection on the lawyer raised the first storm. Lioy screamed like a madman. Abbatemaggio joined in the row in support of the captain. Enrico Alfano, the alleged head of the Camorra, led in a chorus of invectives directed against Fabroni and Abbatemaggio.

Dragged From Court Room.
Finally the president ordered Abbatemaggio and Alfano removed from the room. They were not disposed to go quietly and were seized by carabinieri and dragged from the place. For a little while there was a calm and the president took advantage of the opportunity to admonish all to avoid personalities.

A Crazy Man.
With much feezing Fabroni said: "For years I have stood the insults of this man Lioy, without trying him before the courts because I considered him not a criminal, but a person whose mental faculties were unbalanced."

Can't Be Intimidated.
Viterbo, Italy, July 21.—Throughout the hubbub, Fabroni stood pale but impassive. As the court room was being cleared, he said: "The Camorra, in or out of court, can't intimidate me." Fabroni, captain of the Neapolitan carabinieri, was assigned by the ministry of justice to uproot the Camorra. During the last few days he has held on the stand the result of his detective work and the operations of his associates. Alessandro Lioy, now attorney for the defense, formerly edited a newspaper. Fabroni has testified that revelations against the Camorra made by Editor Lioy were not in harmony with the claims set up by Lawyer Lioy in defense of his clients. Bitter personal feeling between the detective and lawyer has resulted.

EARLY FRIENDSHIP.

The half-seen memories of childish days, When palms and pleasures lightly came and went; The sympathies of boyhood rashly spent In fearful wanderings through forbidden ways; The vague, but manly wish to tread the maze Of life to noble ends—whereon intent, Asking to know for what man here is sent, The bravest heart must often pause, and gaze; The firm resolve to seek the chosen end Of manhood's judgment, cautious and mature— Each of these viewless bonds binds friend to friend With strength no selfish purpose can secure; My happy lot is this, that all attend That friendship which first came, and which last endure. —Aubrey De Vere.

Country-Wide Arson Trust.
That there exists a gigantic, country-wide arson trust, with headquarters in Kansas City, and representatives in nearly all the large cities, the members of which make a business of setting fire to buildings to enable the owners to collect large sums of insurance, was the sensational charge made at Chicago by State Fire Marshal C. J. Doyle in an address delivered before the Chicago Association of Commerce.

PLAY GROUND DIRECTORS AND BOY SCOUTS.

Junior Order of American Mechanics Endorses Movement—Congressman Helps to Start Troops.

The directors of the Playground Association of America and the secretaries of local playground associations throughout the country have taken up the Boy Scout movement because they find it a great help. They look upon the Scout activities as a means of interesting the boys in healthy exercise and keeping them away from evil influences. Many secretaries have written to James E. West, executive secretary of the Boy Scouts of America telling them of their interest in the scout movement, and how they use the scout activities.

E. B. De Groot general director of Field Houses and Playgrounds in Chicago, says that he is utilizing the scout activities in that city and has been active in the organization of several scout troops. He says in a letter to Secretary West, "As a group of playground workers, we look upon the scout program as a good supplementary element to inject into our playground work. We receive it as just so much material which may be used as we now use basketball, track athletics and wrestling."

Dr. E. A. Peterson of Cleveland, who formerly was leader of a public school playground and who organized a troop of Boy Scouts, writes, "The value of this sort of thing in getting close to fellows is inestimable."

Edward W. Stitt, district superintendent, department of Education, New York city, has encouraged the organization of Boy Scout patrols in the public schools. Edgar S. Martin, secretary department of public recreation, of Columbus, Ohio, has been the best worker in that city in the organization of Boy Scout troops. The Columbus department of recreation has helped the Boy Scout organization by buying camping outfits for the boys, and hiring an expert to take charge of the camp this summer. Martin writes: "We find the men who work in our playgrounds very anxious to do all they can for the boys, and they make the boy self-reliant. This co-operation brings men in touch with boys not only through the summer months, but during the entire year. We prefer these men in our playgrounds and find that through the working together of the two, these men are much more valuable to us as playground workers as well as helpful to the scout movement."

Endorse Boy Scouts.
The Junior Order of American Mechanics of Rutherford, N. J., has endorsed the Boy Scout movement. The members of the order have taken up a subscription and ordered a flag which they will present Troop No. 1 of the Boy Scouts of America in Rutherford, N. J. The ceremony will be held at the First Presbyterian church of which the Rev. R. E. Locke, Scout Master of the troop, is pastor.

The approval of the scout movement by the Junior Order of American Mechanics is further proof that mechanics and business men are beginning to realize what a helpful institution the scout movement is for the development of the boys.

Scout Work.
Many New York millionaires are interested in the Boy Scout movement. Clarence H. Mackey, president of the Postal Telegraph Co., is helping to organize the Boy Scouts in Roslyn, L. I. He has arranged contests among the boys and recently invited the boys to participate in scout activities on the grounds of Harbor Hill Cricket club.

Cleveland Dodge, member of the New York Council of the Boy Scouts of America, is so interested in the work that he has placed his house on the Palisades in New Jersey at the disposal of the Boy Scouts. The roads on the Palisades are especially delightful for hiking and he wants the boys after taking long trips to spend the night at his house.

Congressman Helps Start Troop.
John L. Rader, representative in Congress from California is helping organize a troop of the Boy Scouts of America in Alturas, Modoc county, California. He has watched the boy scouts engage in their various activities in Washington and after studying the principle of the movement and learning something about the men behind it has urged the boys in his home town to take up the work. Recently he wrote to James E. West, executive secretary of the Boy Scouts of America, telling of his purpose and recommending the appointment of William Thompson of Alturas as Scout Master.

TERRIFIC STORM SOUTH OF SANTA FE.

Santa Fe Railroad Was Tied Up All Last Night and Trains Were Held at Lamby.

Last evening, just about 9 o'clock, a terrific cloudburst and thunderstorm swept south of Santa Fe and transformed arroyos and streams into torrents. At Cerrillos, the oldest inhabitants declared, they never had seen such a downpour before and the Galisteo was bankfull in the twinkling of an eye, tearing away part of the Santa Fe track, two miles east of Cerrillos. Santa Fe trains No. 7 and 9 from the east had to be held at Lamby and Santa Fe train No. 8 had to return to Albuquerque after reaching Cerrillos. The storm interfered with telegraph lines and did considerable damage to crops.

HAPPY RESULTS.

No wonder scores of Santa Fe citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Santa Fe by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Toribio Rodriguez, 110 Johnson St., Santa Fe, N. M., says: "Two and a half years ago I gave a statement for publication in regard to my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. Today I am stronger in my praise of this remedy than ever. I suffered greatly from disordered kidneys, the pains in my back being so acute at times that I had to stop work and sit down. The trouble steadily grew worse and I rarely knew what it was to be free from an ache or pain of some kind. Soon after I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, my pains and aches disappeared and my back became strong."

TO-DAY FIFTY YEARS AGO

Blue and Gray Met at First
Great Battle on Field of Bull Run

REUNION HELD AT MANASSAS

President Taft, Governor of Virginia and Visitors from Many States.

(By Special Licensed Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., July 21.—Over the same dusty roads that fifty years ago swarmed with thousands of Union soldiers, hastening back to Washington from the first battle of Bull Run, President Taft motored today to Manassas, Va., to speak at the semi-centennial reunion of the Blue and the Gray veterans.

Senator Martin and Representative Carlin of Virginia, accompanied the President. The speech at Manassas will be made late this afternoon. The Presidential party having planned to stop at Fairfax Court House, Virginia, for lunch.

Story of Reunion.

Manassas, Va., July 21.—The Blue and the Gray marched across the fields of Manassas to meet each other again today. The incident, unique in history, the meeting of federal and confederate veterans on the field where they fought a mighty battle just fifty years ago, attracted as witnesses the president of the United States, the governor of Virginia, the home of the confederate capital, and visitors from many states.

It was the crowning feature of the Manassas Peace Jubilee and Reunion which began last Sunday with a sermon on the court house lawn by Rev. H. N. Couden, chaplain of the House of Representatives, who lost his sight while serving in the Union ranks.

President Taft and Governor Mann long ago had accepted invitations to be guests of honor of the day, to review the lines of gray haired veterans and make addresses in the afternoon. In the evening they will meet the old soldiers and other visitors at a public reception.

The following program had been arranged for the day:

9 a. m.—Veterans in blue and gray assemble at Henry House on battle-field.

10 a. m.—Addresses of welcome by Colonel Edmund Berkeley, Eighth Virginia, and United States Senator Thomas S. Martin, of Virginia.

Responses by General John E. Gilman, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and General George W. Gordon, grand commander of the United Confederate Veterans.

Presentation of souvenir badges by Colonel Robert H. Thompson, of Washington.

Noon—Veterans marshaled in review, and the men in the blue and the gray clasp hands.

1 p. m.—Luncheon and "Love feast."

2 p. m.—Return to Manassas.

4 p. m.—Forty-eight young women, representing the states of the Union, clasp hands and, forming circle, sing the Manassas national jubilee anthem.

4:30 p. m.—Addresses by the president of the United States and the governor of Virginia.

6:30 p. m.—Luncheon tendered to President Taft and Governor Mann by Mrs. Robert A. Porter at Annaburg.

It was on July 21, 1861, just fifty years ago tomorrow, that Bull Run, or the first battle of Manassas, was fought. The confederates under Johnston were accredited with a decisive victory over the Union forces under McDowell, the retreat of the federal forces practically a clear road to Washington for the confederates, it is said, had they chosen to continue their advance on the capital. This was the first real battle of the war, and its result awakened the north for the first time to a realization of what the secession of the southern states meant. It was here that "Stonewall" Jackson gained the name which will be associated with his memory for all time.

In August, 1862, Manassas was again the scene of a bloody battle. Lee and Longstreet and Sykes, Reno and Reynolds fought to a draw, the battle lines being exactly the reverse of what they were the year before.

The jubilee reunion was planned by committees of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans. Interesting events have taken place each day this week, sessions of the national organization of "The Blue and the Gray and Their Sons" being held today.

The Manassas national anthem, adopted by the committee, was written by Mrs. Harry Speed Mercer, of Elm City, N. C. This is the chorus: "America, all hail to thee, Thanks be to God who made us free, North, South, East, West, hand clasped in hand, United we, thy children stand."

THE FORUM

The Blue and the Gray.

The heart of the bigot is like the pupil of the human eye—which becomes all the smaller the more light that is thrown upon it.—Moore.

Mr. Editor—I thoroughly approve of your remarks on the malignant attack which was recently made by Senator Heyburn on the late Confederacy. Every good American will condemn it as they ought to do. It is an old maxim, that "The victor can always afford to be magnanimous." But like all other rules there is an exception to it, and I sincerely hope that Heyburn is the only one—he ought to be made to feel his loneliness. If he had lived in South Carolina before the war, no doubt he would have been as strong a secessionist as Yancey or Jeff Davis.

The bigot is the same detestable creature wherever he exists, it only requires the environment which surrounds him to develop the latent virus. At this distance from the close of the Civil War we can easily find excuses for the misled men who took their gallant lives in their hands and fought and died for the cause they believed to be right. That generation was in no way responsible for the causes that led to the lamentable war, which as you say was a "stupendous struggle among brothers."

In his "History of the People of the United States," McMaster says: "If the infamy of holding slaves belongs to the South, the greater infamy of supplying slaves must be shared by England and the North. While the states were yet colonies, to buy negroes and sell them into slavery, had become a source of profit to the inhabitants of many New England towns. Scarce a year passed by but numbers of slaves went out from Boston, from Medford, from Salem, from Providence, from Newport, from Bristol in Rhode Island."

It would seem from this statement that neither the generation of the Civil War, nor their fathers were responsible for the importation of negro slaves into the Colonies, but that "the greater infamy of supplying slaves must be shared by England and the North." And if slavery was abolished long ago by Massachusetts, and the other northern states, the reason for that movement was owing, in no sense to humanity, but because the climate was too cold to make the continuance of that horrid traffic profitable; hence it remained in the South, where it was profitable, and it became so interwoven with the industries of the South, as to seem indispensable to its prosperity.

Although we justly condemn slavery, it was altogether different with the people of the South, who had come to regard it as part and parcel of their daily life.

Another cause of the Civil War was State Sovereignty. All students of American history know that the first form of government of the United States, was under the so-called "Articles of Confederation," which were adopted on the 15th day of November, 1777, and they were just what the title declares them to be: "A league of friendship with each other for their common defence, etc." They did not provide for a President, a Senate or a supreme court of the United States, hence the power of the Confederacy remained in the Congress alone. Each state retaining "its sovereignty, and independence."

This was the origin of what came to be known as "State Sovereignty." This principle was recognized when the several states seceded, altogether independent of each other. Even after the adoption of the constitution of the United States, the majority of the Southern people adhered to the old principle of state sovereignty, and the generation of the Civil War inherited it from their fathers, and as I said, were not responsible for that cause of the strife. If ever a people paid dearly for such inheritance it surely was and is the Southern people. They died by hundreds of thousands, their country was laid waste almost from the Mason and Dixon line to the Gulf.

When the war concluded our brave veterans came home to a prosperous country, where they were provided for until they found employment, and in a year or two, a stranger landing in the northern states could hardly be convinced that the greatest civil war of all time had been so recently concluded—all was so happy, and prosperous.

How different was the condition of the disbanded armies of Lee, although the generosity of the magnanimous Grant and Sherman, provided for all the immediate necessities of the poor fellows. When they returned to where their homes had been, equal desolation awaited them on all sides ruined homes, scattered families, utter absence of industry, no employment, nothing but poverty in its most repulsive form, was their unhappy lot for years. How they subsisted at all has always been a mystery to me.

But thank God, the war and its causes are all history now, and the man who at this distance of time insults them or their cause is unfit to hold any position whatever. I go farther and assert that such a man is unfit to be a citizen of our re-united States. Let the dead pass bury their dead and let us turn our faces to the future, and declare that "There is no North, no South, nothing but the Union," one and inseparable, now and for ever. Any person who will not subscribe to this doctrine had better emigrate to some other land, for we have no use for him here.

ONE OF BEST NEW MEXICO DISTRICTS.

Lordsburg Region Has Been Producing Steadily Even When Other Sections Had Closed.

In western Grant county New Mexico is the Lordsburg mining district, which has attracted considerable attention from investors of late. Several deals have been consummated which will result in opening a number of properties in the outlying country in the near future. The country embraced in the Virginia, Pyramid and Leidsdorff mining districts lies at the north end of the Pyramid range and is broken by small hills rising abruptly from the level of the outlying hills and sharp ledges which are thrust up from the level of the desert. In the Virginia district porphyry, while further east and south andesite is prevalent. The ores to the north are copper, largely chalcocite and bornite, though carrying gold and silver values, and in the mines to the south side chloride.

The Largest Mine. The "Eighty-Five" is the largest mine in point of production and the number of men employed in this section, being three and a half miles southwest of Lordsburg in the Virginia district, just beyond the old camp of Shakespeare. One of its old time owners was Ralston, president of the Bank of California in the '70s, and for years these claims were called the Ralston mines. The present owning company employs about 100 men and ships about 4000 tons of ore a month to the Douglas smelters.

The Superior Group. Adjoining the "Eighty-Five" group on the southwest is the Superior mine, a group of four claims carrying gold and copper. From 50 to 60 men are employed and the production is about 75 tons of ore a day, mostly shipped to Douglas smelters. The owners are El Pasoans. W. F. Payne has the mines under bond and option.

The Dundee mine adjoins the "Eighty-Five" on the northeast and is owned by the Orio Mining company, of El Paso, and is operated under lease by W. R. and Kennedy, of Lordsburg. Twenty men are employed and about 18 cars of ore are shipped a month.

The Atwood adjoins the Dundee, and its ores are gold, silver and copper. It is under bond and lease to A. Lister, of the C. O. D. Leasing company.

The Aberdeen. The Aberdeen, embracing 20 claims, lies in two compact groups near Pyramid Peak, five miles west of Lordsburg, in the Virginia district. The ores are mostly copper, chalcocite predominating.

The Penn Mining Co. is sinking a 500-foot shaft on the Penn group. M. F. Nagle is president and A. W. Morin is general manager.

In the Leidsdorff camp, eight miles southwest of Lordsburg, is the Viola mine, owned by the Duffy and Buell estates of Rochester, N. Y. It is about to be reopened. In former years it was known as the Leidsdorff mine and was the largest silver producer up to 1903. A 20-stamp mill with amalgamation was operated for a period of 10 years. There are seven claims in the group. The new company organized to operate it is the Lordsburg Mining and Reduction Co. J. L. Wells is president and manager; J. P. B. Duffy, treasurer, and J. T. McCabe, secretary.

CAMPING PARTY IN COW CREEK VALLEY.

Rains Abundant, Fishing Good and Crowds Large in the Beautiful Upper Pecos Region.

Frank Sturges, vice president of the New Mexican Printing Company, returned last evening from an enjoyable ten days' outing on Cow Creek, forty to fifty miles east of Santa Fe, in the wondrously beautiful upper Pecos country. He was one of a party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Sturges, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McKay, Sheriff and Mrs. Charles Closson, Mrs. Frank Misses Sallie, May and Margaret Magher, Julia Keeler, Hattie and Vita Green, Thomas Closson and George Williams, the last named of Chicago. Fishing is pronounced good although the abundant rains have somewhat dried the stream. Vegetation is luxuriant and flowers deck the hillsides. Sheriff Closson is building a new four room log house on his place.

Stephen Arnold will build a cottage on his new place on Cow creek. The number of campers on the upper Pecos is larger than it ever has been before. The annual round up of the Cow creek section begins on Monday of next week.

Thomas Closson who plays first base with a vim, gave the visitors an exhibition of rough riding and demonstrated that he is as quick on the bucking broncho as he is on first base.

ALMOST $6,000 FROM TEN ACRES OF PEACHES.

Bumper Crop is Being Shipped From Lower Pecos Valley to Eastern Markets.

Carlsbad, July 21.—The first five cars of peaches shipped from the Rio Pecos orchard, usually called the big orchard, sold for $5,851.70. This was the crop from ten acres. Returns have not been received from later shipments, eleven cars having gone out to date. This cleaned up the earlier peaches and gave the management a little breathing spell as the later peaches were not ready. The work is again under way, the Elberta peach now ripening. The smaller orchards have done fully as well, both in yield and price.

The peach crop this year has been handled without any especial loss though correspondents for some reason have sent out stories to the contrary. The commission firms have trained men on the ground from superintendent to pickers and box makers. The Santa Fe railway has taken pains to handle the shipments with promptness. To date everything has reached market in fine condition, though several cars have gone beyond Chicago. The peach growers are well pleased with the service.

All the orchards are young, this being practically the first crop in most cases. At the figures for the crop this season as far as returns have been received, the growers are making big money. The gross returns so far is nearly six hundred dollars an acre, while the best selling peaches as the Elberta and Crawford are yet to be marketed.

Off for Encampment. Company B of the New Mexico National Guard left for the encampment at Las Vegas. About forty men were in the party. As the company did not know until a week ago, some of the members were unable to make arrangements to take part.

Killed in Runaway. C. C. Collins who was killed in a runaway while driving a young team Sunday afternoon, was buried yesterday.

Hurt in a Runaway. W. E. Bass is recovering from the injuries received in a runaway near Lakewood last week. His injuries were so serious that at one time there was doubt about his recovery.

Ten Days of Rain. It has rained about every day for the last ten days much to the joy of the cowmen and the dry farmers. The alfalfa growers are the only sufferers from the rain, but very little hay has been lost to date.

Demand for Farm Machinery. The implement dealers report a rush in harvesting machinery at the present time. The growers of alfalfa seed are getting ready to cut the crop and are buying the latest improved machines for the work.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

BEWARE!

The land and irrigation promoter has invaded New Mexico. He is a necessary advance agent of development but he must be held down to facts. Colorado recently had a house-cleaning and put out of business, men who promoted irrigation enterprises that had no chance of making good and who advertised tracts of land as irrigable that will never see a drop of irrigation water.

Thousands of people have been swindled into buying at exorbitant prices barren land under proposed irrigation projects. At the most, the promoters, had secured a water right "subject to prior appropriations."

Whether it was feasible to construct irrigation works, whether there were surplus waters for such works, whether the land was susceptible of irrigation, was a secondary matter. Enough suckers could be found among the ninety million people of the United States to invest.

But the reaction has set in and the honest promoter suffers with the dishonest. For a time, it was almost impossible to place irrigation securities. People have become wary and it is more difficult in many sections to sell an irrigated farm already under ditch and with bearing fruit trees, than it was formerly to sell barren a tract with an alleged water right.

Many of the promoters driven out of Colorado, have swooped down upon New Mexico as a profitable field and the Bureau of Immigration and the territorial engineer have a duty to perform, unpleasant though it may be, to warn the people of the palpable land swindles. There has been one concern, for instance that has been lately advertising extensively and with the use of all the adjectives in the vocabulary, a project, that those who are posted, know, will never materialize to the extent that the land and water are offered for sale. If one tenth of the land in the tract is ever put under cultivation it will be remarkable. In the meanwhile, men and women are investing their all under the impression that they are buying irrigated farms on which they will be able to make a livelihood this year yet.

Another company is advertising with a series of elaborate booklets and circulars, a tract of land to be irrigated from a stream of which every drop of regular and flood flow has been appropriated. The pictures in the pamphlet show a river apparently a mile wide and with deep and strong flow, when as a matter of fact the stream is no larger than the Santa Fe River and is dry part of the year on that tract. The same pamphlet also has pictures of orchards in the lower Pecos valley, seeking to convey the impression that they are on the tract advertised.

Of course, nothing but disaster can come from promotions of that kind. The promoter, or promoters, will soon find themselves in conflict with the post office authorities and the poor dupes after looking at the land will return home cursing New Mexico and declaring that all irrigation is a fraud.

There is plenty of room and ample opportunity for bona-fide irrigation projects in New Mexico. There is enough water available to reclaim three times the area now under cultivation in New Mexico and there is no need of exaggerating the fertility of the soil and superiority of the climate. Promoters must be held to the facts, they must prove that they have water rights that will really enable them to put water on the land advertised at the price which they ask. They must be held down to the construction of works that are safe. One of the most commendable innovations of the department of the territorial engineer is to require competent supervision of construction of irrigation, so that dams built henceforth will not wash out when the first summer flood strikes them.

There is only one policy for New Mexico to pursue and that is to play safe. Fake promotion may create a temporary boom but eventually the reaction will lose all that was gained and hurt legitimate projects besides.

THE ONLY WAY.

The Citizen, the leading paper of Tucson, Arizona, the largest city in Arizona, has the right idea about stamping out any evil or vice. It is not to regulate it, to restrict it, but to root it out without mercy or delay. Suppose, some one would come along and say: "Murder can't be stopped. Murder is as old as the world. Therefore it is idle to prohibit it. It is better to regulate it, to license it, to permit it only in restricted sections than we will know whom to hold responsible." "Absurd," you would answer, but why isn't it just as absurd to tolerate and regulate vice, which is more harmful though more insidious, than murder, which murders the innocent children with dreadful diseases inherited from the vicious parents. No wonder the Tucson Citizen says: "In San Bernardino conditions surrounding the restricted district are much the same as in Tucson. The recent arrest of some of the denizens of dens of vice in that city for engaging in the white slave traffic has caused the people to rise up in arms and some of the city officials have set out to reform the district, and just as in Tucson it is proposed to remove it from the heart of the city to some section remote. Neither removal or reformation will accomplish the results which should be attained in Tucson, which is the seat of the state university.

"You can't purify what is impure. You cannot hedge about social poison and make it safe. It will not do to say: Here is the dead line, and beyond this you must not come; that is only giving a monopoly into the hands of some owners and refusing to others the privilege in sharing in the rich gains of the protected section. Putting out red lights and stilling machine-made music is not going to accomplish any moral revolution, so long as every man and every woman, and every boy and every girl knows that the shame is there, even though no longer gloried in shamelessly.

"The only way to deal with this vice infested quarter is to abolish it altogether. Albuquerque has tried extinction and it has worked well. It was predicted that vice would spread all over the city, but such was not the case. The denizens of the reservation left almost in a body when the ordinance went into effect.

"Tucson would be wasting time by removing the district to some other section. The same old problem would have to be dealt with again. While the city officials of Tucson are at it, why not abolish the district altogether?"

THE LURE OF THE LATIN QUARTER.

One of the most pitiable tragedies that occur every day almost, is that of the disillusionment of the young woman who goes to the great cities or to Europe to study art or music with the idea that she is a genius. Unfortunately, there are harpies who make capital of the ambition of young women, who possessed of mediocre talent, flattered by their relatives and friends, essay into the world to win fame and fortune. It is nothing short of a crime, not to make plain and impressive the fact to those possessed of ambition that even though their talent is great, which it is likely not to be, it means years of the hardest kind of work, to win even the first rung on the ladder of fame.

The lure of the footlights, or the call of the Latin Quarter, are irresistible to those fired with ambition, but they are also the roads to destruction for many more than find them the means of success. Only yesterday a dispatch told of this, and the misfortune befell a girl of well-to-do parents:

The vicissitudes of an American girl who tried to win fame in grand opera in Italy by a short cut suggested by her singing teacher, are set forth in the testimony of Marie Frances Berg, a soprano, which was filed in the supreme court.

"The testimony was taken just before Miss Berg left for Europe. Miss Berg is one of the two daughters of Louis S. Berg, president of the New Orleans, Mobile & Chicago railroad. Mr. Berg was badly hurt and his wife was killed when his private car was in a railroad wreck, in Canada on June 3 last.

"Mr. Berg has brought suit against Clementine De Macchi, a vocal teacher with an office in the Metropolitan opera house building, for breach of contract under which it is alleged that Miss Berg was to be made a grand opera star.

"The suit was for $7,200, which includes $3,000 paid to De Macchi, $1,500 for costumes for Miss Berg, and $2,700 for money which she claims that his daughter should have received as her share of the receipts of the grand opera performances in Italy."

"The world is full of men and women who can paint or sing tolerably well. There isn't a town so small that it has not witnessed the comedy or the tragedy of a girl without voice or talent going to a conservatory and coming back with the idea that she is a master, but that is nothing compared to those who are lured to the big cities, to Paris, and there fall in to the hands of harpies and are ruined body and soul, simply because no one had the kindness to tell them the truth before it was too late.

RAILROAD FINANCES.

The aggregate capitalization of the railroads of the United States was $18,890,293 on December 31, 1910, having been increased by $948,567,718 during the calendar year, according to the statistical introduction of Poor's Manual of Railroads, the advance sheets of which were made public on Wednesday. This is an increase from $75,905 to $78,714 a mile of road, and compares with $61,884 a mile in 1900, $61,348 in 1890 and $58,624 a mile in 1880. The mileage of the roads increased during the year to 242,107, a growth of 3,751, or 1.57 per cent. The capital stock increased was $850,138,227, or 4.36 per cent, while the increase in funded debt was $482,551,093, or 2.29 per cent. The tendency of railway earnings is shown by the exhibits of gross and net, the gross earnings having increased during the year 11.50 per cent, as against an increase of 4.41 per cent in the preceding year, while the net earnings, on account of the increase in ratio of operating expenses to earnings, from 66.99 per cent to 67.23 per cent, showing a gain of 7.55 per cent as compared with the much greater increase of 18.72 per cent in 1909.

These figures do not indicate over-capitalization or exorbitant profits. While their aggregate is large, yet, if reduced to units of a mile or a ton or profit per dollar invested, it is apparent that the owners of railroads do not make the per cent of profit that the average corner grocery does. Even if all of the profits were taken away, the reduction in freight per ton per mile, or on passenger fares per mile, would be so infinitesimally small as not to be worth considering.

WOMAN'S THRIFT.

That professor of the Wisconsin University who declares that of over ten billions of dollars annually spent in the United States for food, shelter and clothing, ninety per cent are spent by women who have no adequate knowledge of money value, has another guess coming and despite all of his research knows nothing of the millions of women in this country who are doing wonders to make a small income cover the needs of large families. Nine out of every ten women, have a more adequate idea of the purchasing power of a nickel than the average man who walks into a saloon, throws down a dollar to set 'em up for a crowd and then buys the cigars for them before going out. If the women of the country had the millions that are annually spent at the bar or in clubs they would make a showing for it in the line of better education for the girls and boys, more comfortable homes, more sanitary cities, parks, play grounds, libraries, hospitals, that would soon banish poverty, ignorance, epidemics and vice. Right here in Santa Fe, the average woman among the poor can make a dollar go ten times as far as the average man and savings accounts in banks would be small indeed if the thrift of womanhood were cut out and abolished. It is too bad that bald assertions, such as those of the Wisconsin professor, go unchallenged and pass for scientific research when they are the rawest kind of balderdash.

THE DUTY OF PUBLICITY.

Because the reporter of an Oklahoma paper compelled the clerk of the superior court at Oklahoma City, through a writ of mandamus, to permit him to inspect the records of the court and papers that were filed, the clerk made a brutal assault on the reporter, who was merely doing his duty upon orders from his employers. Besides losing his job, the clerk will probably be given a good long term in the penitentiary, as he deserves. Fortunately, New Mexico and Santa Fe county have no officials who deem it their duty to suppress news and to withhold public papers and records from the inspection of newspapers or any citizen who may have an interest in them. It is the wrong impression that court and other clerks in public office, have at times, that it is their duty to withhold or suppress public documents. A judge may at times use his discretion when it serves the public weal, to withhold for a time papers filed in the court, but even that right has been questioned and in these days of publicity, no official who has any proper conception of his duty, will seek to hide or withhold from newspapers or citizens the official records of his office.

The United States government has taken notice of the feeding of garbage to hogs and has discovered a new spectre that menaces the nation's health, for it declares that garbage-fed hogs are infected with human tubercle bacilli and that the meat of such hogs infects man. The eating of pork is therefore pronounced exceedingly dangerous to man, although the impression prevails that pork is not eaten raw except after undergoing a process of curing and smoking that ought to put the toughest tubercle bacillus out of business. However, until the scientists have fought out the controversy that is certain to be provoked by this latest alleged discovery, to be on the safe side, people should stop eating raw pork that comes from swill-fed hogs.

It is a quiet but important work that the forest service is doing for portions of New Mexico that formerly were so isolated that but comparatively few people ever penetrated them and yet they are the most beautiful and richest sections of the territory. Telephone lines are being constructed crisscrossing the forests, reaching settlements that lie far from the ordinary routes of travel. Trails are being built from watershed to watershed, making accessible mountain and forest fastnesses. On the nearby reserves, that of the Pecos and the Carson forests, a veritable transformation is in progress and they are being made playgrounds on which thousands may gather each year without going out of the reach of civilization, and yet enjoying all the attractions of being in the primeval wilds.

Still more candidates are appearing on the surface for the state ticket. For instance, friends are strongly urging Charles Schlatter, a self-made man in the real sense of the word, to become a candidate for governor on the Republican ticket. He is a citizen of Clayton, Union county, is worth a million and would roll up a majority of a thousand for his ticket in Union county, as a starter. Both J. E. Clark and Acasio Gallegos, will likely be candidates for superintendent of public instruction and so will A. B. Stroup of Albuquerque. For the appointive offices too, there are tentative candidates in the field, and the political "pot" is bubbling and boiling as it has not for three years past.

The owner of a ten acre peach orchard near Carlsbad, Eddy county, has thus far this year received $5,851.70 for peaches picked from his trees. It is those kind of results that teach the intensive farming on small tracts is a whole lot more profitable than haphazard scraping of the soil on a quarter or half section.

Light receipts and scantiness of moisture strengthened the corn market. September opened 1-3 to 1-4 higher at 64 7-8 to 65 ascended to 65 1-4.

Oats followed corn. September started 1-8 to 3-8 dearer at 42 1-2 to 43 3-4 reacted to 42 1-4 @ 3-8 and rallied to 42 5-8.

A fair demand kept provisions in the main firm. Initial sales were 2 1-2 @ 5c off to 7 1-2 higher with January delivery at 15.50 for pork, 8.25 for lard, and 8.00 for ribs.

Chicago, Ill., July 21.—Wheat closed weak with September at a loss of 1-2 @ 5-8. Corn closed weak with Sept. 3-8 cent down.

Wall Street. New York, July 21.—Although special interest is still centered largely today in the outcome of the local traction tangle, the stock market was less disturbed than yesterday.

After an irregular opening prices held fairly steady on a higher range, with the Hill and Canadian stocks chief gainers. Canadian Pacific once more made a high record, touching 247.

Trading in the traction issues was small until it was announced that the subway awards had all gone to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit.

That stock gained a point, while Inter-Metropolitan preferred lost 1-16, the common stock and 4-13 per cent bonds lesser amounts.

The rest of the market shaded off with the Interborough securities, but at noon prices ranged well above the low point of the day.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit convertible fours rose nearly a point, but aside from the traction issues the bond market was quiet and firm.

The market closed strong. There was more activity in the last hour when the best prices of the day were recorded.

Liverpool, Eng., July 21.—Close—Cotton spot in fair demand. Prices six points lower. American middling fair 795d; good middling, 761d; middling 739d; low middling, 719d; good ordinary, 698d; sales, 8,000 bales.

New York, July 21.—Cotton closed quiet; Middling uplands 13.45; Middling gulf 13.70; Sales 800 bales.

PUGNACIOUS COURT CLERK
LOSES HIS JOB.

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 21.—T. J. Beatty, clerk of the superior court here, was arrested today following an assault upon Jack Stevens, a reporter for the Oklahoma City Times. Stevens was beaten into unconsciousness; several ribs were broken and he was injured internally. The assault is said to be the result of a mandamus suit brought to compel Beatty to show the papers in a court suit. Beatty will be dismissed from office.

After High Graders.

A suit will be filed in the federal court at Denver within the next thirty days of more than startling import and intended to stop what the owners of the great mines of the Cripple Creek district claim is the wholesale robbery of the mines of their rich ores, some half million dollars each year, and which is sold to what are termed in vernacular, "high grade assayers."

Ernestine Company Pays Dividend—Stockholders in the Ernestine Mining Company, of the Mogollon district, Socorro county, last week received checks for the third dividend that has been paid since the first of the year by the company. It amounted to one per cent the total disbursement being $15,000.

Under paid Ministers solemnly protested Roswell Likes It.—Prohibition has certainly proved a success in Roswell not only as a concrete, undisputed fact, but also in its effects, financially and otherwise, and it's here to stay.—Roswell Daily Record.

TEXAS BAD MAN

By A. MARIA CRAWFORD

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"I am willing to wager you lunch against a paper of pins that you'll have a cowboy for a son-in-law," laughed Edith Dougher as she made ready for Mrs. Meredith Ogden's dance in honor of Robert Alton, a nephew from the southwest.

"You'll lose," warned her mother.

"One good lunch with you, even if I have to pay for it, is preferable to taking all my meals with a Texas bad man. Oh, you needn't shake your head. His wonderful attractions will prove to be the outcome of Mrs. Ogden's vivid imagination. She should have been a writer."

"It's rather funny, isn't it, that she has practically married you to her nephew before you have had a chance to look him over. It wasn't exactly generous of her to discuss the matter so freely, for it will be trying in case you do not like the man."

"Like him? Impossible. It would be too much like one of the many romances I have written for the magazines. They don't really happen, mother."

A bell tinkled, and Edith caught up a big white coat. "There is the gentleman of the occasion. They look pretty on the white gown. Isn't it too bad that I can't fancy a bald head and a fifth avenue establishment instead of writing foolish stories for our bread and butter in a flat?"

"Well, we're happy."

"Yes, and there is something in that. Good night."

For weeks the arrival of Mrs. Ogden's nephew had been eagerly anticipated, for his attractions were numerous, according to his kinswoman, who recounted them with mathematical precision to every eligible young woman of her acquaintance. But she constantly said that he must be the man for Edith Dougher, and stated emphatically that she expected to do everything in her power to make the match.

Edith Dougher and her mother had been compelled to give up their plantation home, and had moved to the metropolis, believing that Edith would find a place there for her work as a writer. At first she had struggled along bravely with very little encouragement, but eventually some short, breezy articles from her pen coming under the notice of a prominent journalist, she began to be successful and soon acquired a name for herself. The old-time southern charm of blended grace and dignity had soon surrounded her with many friends. She had several offers of marriage, two or three that the world called brilliant opportunities, but at twenty-eight she was still single. She felt that she could love, she often declared, but smilingly added that the blind god had passed her by.

"Isn't he all I promised and more?" demanded Mrs. Ogden.

"All and more," repeated Edith, feeling the blood mount to her face and throat.

"I am glad to know you," said Alton warmly. Something in his brown eyes held her gaze; they were laughing down into hers. "It seems that we are destined to be friends by Fate," and Edith smiled at the large proportions Fate had assumed in the person of his august aunt. "Don't let Fate prejudice you. At least, don't make a decision until I have had a hearing."

Within a week people were nodding significantly when Edith and Alton appeared together, but the girl was apparently unconscious of it. She attributed her interest in the man to the fact that in hearing the stories of western life he told her she was accumulating valuable material for future work.

One afternoon Alton had taken her for a drive, and afterward she had asked him in for a cup of tea.

"So you think my western stories are poor, or, to put it more tactfully, unreal?"

"I didn't say that," he corrected; "but I did say that your western men are too mild or too fierce. You have not drawn the man of the west as he really is. Did you expect me to shoot up the town?"

"Yes, I am willing to confess that you disappointed me. Are you a good type?"

"A likely one," he answered.

As he was leaving, Alton noted for the first time that Edith's eyes looked tired though her lips smiled.

"Until tonight," she said.

"Why, you've been working overtime because I've been so selfish. It was hard to stay away when I wanted to come, but I'll try not to forget again, Edith." He smiled apologetically at use of her name.

"So you're not coming tonight?"

"For just a little while," said Alton, shamefacedly, as he hurried down the steps.

What was it, she reflected, this subtle, indefinable something that was making life so sweet to her? Could it be love, the all-absorbing passion that in her later day cynicism she believed was confined to imaginative writers? At last she had known a great, masterful man, free from sham and hypocrisy, who had taken her theories of life, gleaned from books and her own narrow experience, and had torn them piece by piece, only to replace them with theories which he had gleaned from life itself.

At 9 o'clock the bell rang and Edith waited expectantly. Suddenly she heard for the first time the chill wind that sighed past her window and was lost in a long, low moan.

"Some flowers and a note," said the maid.

"My dear Miss Dougher," Edith read.

"A telegram from the west, and I must leave at once. I shall live for June, when you and my aunt are to visit me, you remember. My regards to your mother, and tell her not to let you work too hard. Yours,

"ROBERT H. ALTON."

"It is love," she whispered to the fragrant flowers. The wind had changed, the moan had died out of it, and it laughed and danced at her window pane. "He loves you," it called.

gaily. The dying embers of the fire here slowly dropping. "He loves you not," they seemed to say to her with love's uncertainty.

Letters from Alton came often, strong, helpful letters, full of his wholesome philosophy. Edith felt in them the broad sweep of the plains, the man's clean life, and only between the lines she read his love. She planned so that she and Mrs. Ogden would be on the ranch when her first novel, "The Man of Promise," was given to the public, and when she went away asked that no mail be forwarded to her. She had worked hard and she wanted to play.

To both eastern women everything was delightfully new and novel from the minute they reached the red station where Alton met them. The ranch was twenty miles from the railroad and as they rode along in Alton's comfortable car they looked over the rolling prairies that stretched out, warm in the sunshine, until they seemed to be lost in the blue of the skies.

"It seems to me that I have been entertaining an angel, but not unawares, I assure you," Alton opened a newspaper a few evenings later. "I know you don't want any news from home, but this is too good to keep."

"Please spare me. It's about my book, I know."

"Many years have passed," Alton read, "since the public has been given such a surprise as that occasioned by Edith Dougher's first novel, 'The Man of Promise.' It is an exceptionally clever piece of work, and critics are unstinted in their praise of it. The man is a remarkably fine character, thoroughly western, and his wise philosophy savors of the wide expanse of plains. May Miss Dougher furnish us with more just such clean, wholesome literature as 'The Man of Promise.'"

When he had finished reading there was a challenge in Edith's eyes and hope in his own. "He is yours, or, rather, he is you," she acknowledged and looked off where one by one the stars came out and made the sky a jeweled canopy.

"Let's walk down to the big gate. I've something to tell you."

She leaned her arms on the bars and stood waiting. All through spring he had seen her there in his dreams, waiting for him as he rode home at twilight.

"I wanted you to see it for yourself," he said, "this western home of mine. I love you," there was tenderness in his voice, "and I need you. Back in your country there are other women to take your place in the charmed circle, but for me there has never been and there never will be any woman but you. Come to me, dear, and let us look at the old life from a great distance. Could you, do you love me, Edith?"

She lifted her head and looked into eyes that compelled and held her gaze. Somewhere, in the low catalpa trees, a bird fluttering uttered a little note of contentment.

QUEST OF PONCE DE LEON

His Search for Fountain of Youth is One of the Romantic Incidents in History.

In every age and countless guises men have sought the elixir of life, the restorer of years, but without doubt the most romantic of all the dreams of perpetual youth was excited on the occasion of discovering America. The name of him who went out to find it and the story of his adventures form one of the most alluring chapters of the earliest history of the continent. Juan Ponce de Leon was governor of Porto Rico when he heard from one of the Indian women on his plantations the tale of a wonderful island to the north of the Bahamas, known as Bimini. There in a paradisaic valley, embowered in ever-blooming trees, by never-fading verdure, sparkling a crystal pool, unfading and marvelous. To quaff of this spring and bathe in its jewel-clear waters was to be restored to everlasting youth.

According to this woman a great canoe full of the natives of the island had set out some time before to reach this island. They had never returned, so she was certain they had found the island of the blessed, for they were strong men and skillful mariners, and it was certain that the sea nor the storm could have overcome them.

Accordingly Ponce de Leon set out with several galleons. After enduring many hardships and weathering perils which only the mariner who has navigated that portion of the seas can appreciate, the cavalier gave up his mission, but one of his captains in another caravel succeeded actually in landing on the fabled Bimini. There he found the glorious waters of never-ending youth, the blooming trees and emerald lawns. Alas, the waters were wondrous in their beauty, yet they did not make one young. Poor Ponce! He lived to get to Florida, where his adventurous career came to an end.

Where He Stopped.

"That fellow was a great bluffer. I think he beat everybody in town."

"Except his wife."

Not That Old.

"Where are those chickens from?" asked the lady in the market.

"Colorado, ma'am," replied the dealer.

"That's where the women vote, isn't it?"

"Yes, madam, but please don't think these hens are old enough to vote."—Yonkers Statesman.

Height of Impudence.

They called him Puny Pepper, because he was, besides one of the smallest, one of the most peppery of officers in the regiment. To see him throwing his 35-inch chest was to be reminded of the frog in the fable who burst with blowing. When he gave his orders in a high treble he resembled a crow with a cough.

One day, in a particularly tropical temper, he accosted the regimental giant and began to abuse him. For a while the huge private listened in silence. He was used to such scenes and took them with philosophic calm. But at last he grew weary and called out to a brother private:

"Bill, go and fetch a ladder, will you? I believe he wants to box my ears!"—Answers.

USE SACRIFICE ONLY IN CLOSE GAMES

Manager Stovall of Cleveland.

Manager Stovall, of the Naps, believes the sacrifice should be used only in close games.

"When the Nap pitcher is going good we will use the sacrifice and play for one run at a time, which is the safe and sure way," says George. "But when our pitching is not strong enough to hold the opposing team to a few runs we will play the hit and run, taking a chance on getting more runs than the other fellows. I believe it is a good plan to mix the attack under either of these conditions, but do not believe in mixing up the styles except when the opposing team can be caught napping."

PICKS MACK'S TEAM TO WIN

Manager Doolin of Philadelphia Nationals, Thinks Athletics Will Land Pennant Again.

Manager Charles Doolin of the Philadelphia Nationals picks the Philadelphia Athletics to repeat and capture the American league and world's championship pennants. Modesty alone, it is understood, keeps Doolin from declaring that the Athletics' opponents in the world's series will be none other than the Philadelphia Nationals.

The honor of holding such a series has never come to one single city, except Chicago, but close friends say Doolin believes all the games will be played this year in Philadelphia.

"I believe the Athletics will be in first place in the American league before two weeks are over," he said, "and that when they take the lead the report that Fred Tenney is dicker for Jake Beckley and Amos Rusie to join his Boston team is unfounded.

No outfielder plays batters any better than Harry Wolter. He studies every man closely and never fails to shift accordingly.

Frank Chance has been "beamed" so often that he says his eyesight is affected and he may quit the game for good, as a player.

The signing of Catcher Lew McAllister by Buffalo means the release of Heinie Beckendorf, who has not been catching good ball.

Budy Hulsitt, when he got ready to join Louisville, found that he would have to beat a pretty good ball player out of a job to get on.

Catcher Harry Bens of Columbus is injured and out of the game. Columbus has had bad luck with its catching department this season.

The days of the double header have arrived and the dyed in the wool fanatic sits comparatively back and takes the big run for his money with much joy.

Kansas City fans think the veteran Dusty Rhoades is entitled to another lease of life in the majors, based on the ball he has been pitching for the Blues.

Baseball ought to make a hit in Japan, if for no other reason than that the names of the players give much play for imaginative work on the part of the rosters.

Ed Hendricks, the Michigan southpaw who was sold to Newark by the Giants, but who refused to report, is pitching for a semi-professional team at Benton Harbor, a town just across the lake from Chicago.

Fans along the Pacific coast, who are as keen knockers of umpires as fans anywhere, declare President Lynch, of the National league, has actually found a jewel of an umpire in Ralph Barry.

Frank Ibbell who moved his Wichita team to Pueblo, is not sorry he did so. He is drawing good crowds and wears a big smile because he shook the dust of Kansas before the dust got the best of him.

Dentist—Thank you for mentioning it. I shall include it in the bill.

"Not interested in the coronation of King George?"

"Not a bit," replied the man with grim determination in his eye. "I have something more important of my own on hand. I'm going to have a tooth crowned."

Perfecting His Italian.

Mrs. McLaughlin—Is your son going to school now, Mrs. McGoonham?

Mrs. McGoonham—No, sure he's away with the English branches. He's perfecting his Italian now.

"Where?"

"Helpin' dig a sewer down on the road beyond."

Advertising Talks

MODERN ADVERTISING

It doesn't seem fifty years ago—a golden anniversary—since John Wanamaker started his commercial venture in Philadelphia. But the time named has passed and cannot now be shortened.

The event of this merchant's beginning was, it seems, somewhat brave, although it began quite small, with a dream of great development later. The story, however, is worth telling. In part, and is told with much appropriate detail in a little book just issued by the Wanamaker stores.

I have not seen the little monograph itself, but it is recorded in it that "was just ninety-four hours before the first shot was fired on Fort Sumter that Wanamaker and his partner, Nathan Brown, opened, in Philadelphia, in April, 1861, 'Oak Hall as a men's and boys' clothing store.' It occupied thirty by eighty feet in a six-story building—a building then and there considered extravagant in size. And Wanamaker's venture, too, was thought no less of a folly.

"You are making a great mistake," said George H. Stuart to the boy merchant of twenty-two, "in starting business at such a time as this. The country is entering upon a great war and there will be no business. Before long grass will be growing in the streets of Philadelphia." The first day's receipts of the little store were $24.67. Wanamaker kept the sixty-seven cents to make change with and spent the $24 the next day in advertising.

The Springfield Republican says: "He has kept on advertising ever since and there has been enough left over for change the next day." He is not inaptly called the "apostle of honest and original advertising." What he has done to stimulate advertising cannot be briefly told, for to him we owe the freshest and best forms of our modern appeals to business publicity.

It was through his advertisements that he taught the public how to buy. "He attracted people to his stores, and then, by show windows and attractive counter displays, educated his customers to a sense of comparative values, and showed them how their money could be wisely spent." It was one of his sayings that "a bargain is not a bargain unless both parties to it are benefited by the transaction."

I remember well when I first read his small pica, leaded, talks, put in natural staccato phrases in the leading newspapers and periodicals. No one, indeed, could fail to notice them, for they fairly took you by the button-hole and almost drew you to one side by their gentle frankness and urgency. It was something entirely new. It was advertising that talked, as the German said of John B. Gough and his coat-tails, "Why, he talks mit his coat-tails."

All previous advertising was, in comparison with it, as sepulchral and silent as a tomb of ancient Egypt with its still hieroglyphics. The messages it bore and brought went at once home to their coveted mark. The store consequently grew, aggregating to itself vastly more than mere masculine clothing, and becoming a mercantile wonder.

It was really the new note in publicity that was to set the pace for others, who in various ways talked up for themselves "the store" and "the goods" of the day. As Tennyson said of his poetic flowers, he put them out new, but all possess the blossoms now, for "all have got the seed." It only needs some Columbus to set the egg on end, and then all can do it.

It was all advertising artifice of a high order, and got instant appreciation. No matter whose original idea it was, it became Wanamaker's practically, for he saw its value and possibility, and embraced them at once. For this thing alone he made the public his debtor as well as for his helpful ways in trade. Taking both together, he has made "shopping," particularly on his feminine side, almost a fine art. For no mechanism runs more smoothly than his stores and his daily account of what they offer.

A little advertising is a dangerous thing; the largest advertisers are, almost without exception, the most successful ones.

The Modern Method.

That the large advertisers were beginning to see the advantage of newspaper advertising as against magazine advertising was the contention of L. H. Brown of the Catholic Citizen in a lecture, "The Newspaper as an Advertising Medium," before the college of Journalism, Marquette university, at Milwaukee recently.

"If a merchant can sell summer underwear in winter by advertising, it shows the power of advertising," he said, and referred to the comparative cost of newspaper advertising and of mailing circulars, saying that the newspaper carries the message to the fireside, where the whole family will see it.

"The method of going around to buy a drink or a cigar in order to advertise one's business is obsolete," he said. "The modern method is to advertise in the newspapers."

At the Ball.

"I presume you have some trouble keeping your wife in clothes?"

"Oh, no; none at all. As long as she measures more around the hips than she does about the waist she won't come out of her clothes any farther than she is now."

Quite a Novelty.

"You say his society drama is a novelty?"

"Yes. There was no fascinating freddie wrecker in it and the heroine remained unmarried for nearly six months after she got her divorce."

that may be raised in Turkey as to the validity of the marriage so contracted, and as the local authorities may not know whether the parties have matrimonial capacity or whether there are any legal impediments so that the solemnization of marriage might be to the detriment of the interests of the new families of the married couples who are not in position to assert their rights in Turkey, the imperial government is of the opinion that there would be some advantage if the American local authorities would give notice to the imperial Ottoman consulates prior to the solemnization of marriages, so as to ascertain whether there are legal impediments for Ottomans' taking part therein. It is also stated that it would be expedient for the local authorities to inform the nearest Ottoman consulate of a marriage contracted by an Ottoman immediately upon its solemnization.

You are therefore, on behalf of the governor, instructed to bring this information to the attention of persons authorized to solemnize marriages, and especially in any particular cases where licenses are issued for the marriage of an Ottoman subject, and you are informed that the nearest Ottoman consulate is in San Francisco, at which place Mr. George E. Hall is consular general for the Ottoman empire.

Very respectfully,
FRANK W. CLANCY,
Attorney General
Grant County Assessment.
The Grant county assessment makes a good showing this year. Total property returned $4,356,030; exemptions $121,800; total subject to levy $4,234,230. The figures for 1910 were: Total property returned $4,265,550, exemptions $115,200; total subject to levy $4,150,350. A comparison of the figures for the two years show an increase in the total property returned of $90,480. During the same period the exemptions increased $6,600. The net increase in the taxable property is therefore $83,780.

HUMAN HAIR SWITCHES
MADE FROM MOHAIR.

Laredo, Texas, July 21.—F. O. Landrum, of the Nueces canon, near San Antonio, Texas, has just produced in one clip mohair twenty-eight inches long, which sold for a little over $6 per pound and brought as a total $115. This mohair, it is said, will be used by the makers of hair goods to produce beautiful switches of real "human" hair. This highest grade of mohair is very fine and silky and has a beautiful natural wave. While theoretically the idea of the hair of a goat being used to adorn beautiful ladies is repulsive, practically when the mohair is treated and dyed an expert could not distinguish it from the real article. Landrum owns one of the most famous goat ranches in Texas. Admiral Togo, the wonderful Anzura imported from South Africa, is the head of the flock. It is he who produced the mohair which four years ago was made into cloth and fashioned into a pair of trousers for President Taft. These trousers were presented to him by the Publicity League of San Antonio and worn by him at the inauguration. The goat that produced this wonderful "human" hair is a son of the doughty old Admiral.
