JURY TO TRY A LAND CASE Judge McFie Decides That Twelve Men Will Settle Costilla Dispute.

WIN POINT FOR THE PLAINTIFFS

The case of the Protective Association of the town of Costilla versus the United States Freehold Land & Immigration company, involving title to a large tract of land in the Sagre de Costilla land grant in this county, will be heard by Judge John H. McFie and by a jury at Santa Fe, N. M., on Monday. The case has been set for trial by Judge McFie and by a jury at Santa Fe, N. M., on Monday. The case has been set for trial by Judge McFie and by a jury at Santa Fe, N. M., on Monday.

In the opening battle for the struggle of the thousands of acres that are in litigation in this suit, the plaintiffs scored the first victory, such as it was. When the case was called the attorneys for the Costilla settlers who are bringing the suit to force the United States Freehold Land and Immigration company to establish its title to the title of this grant, moved that a jury be drawn. To this motion the court decided that the objection might be made a part of the records in the case. The motion was then argued, the court deciding that the plaintiffs were entitled to a jury trial if they so wished.

The court then ordered that a jury be drawn, which was done. It will probably take the best part of today to secure the jury, after which the case will be taken up and the court in session each succeeding day until the case has been disposed of.

Interest is great. The case is attracting widespread attention throughout the territory, as owing to its nature, and the amount of land involved, which is in the neighborhood of 250,000 acres. It makes it one of the most important civil suits that has ever been before any court in the territory.

Then again, it will establish a ruling on the New Mexico law passed by the thirty-sixth legislative assembly, relative to the status of litigation, as to how long a settler must remain in undisputed possession of a tract of land before it becomes his by right of possession, provided no eviction suit is brought within ten years.

Grant Made in 1844. The grant in question was made in 1844 to Leo and Beaudouin, then leading citizens of the territory, for colonization purposes. It is alleged that in 1850 and before, about fifty families were secured by them as colonists and settled the towns of Costilla, Questa and others. The descendants of these original settlers and other settlers who have come there since, are the complainants in the case.

The plea of actual possession will be made by them and for them, by their attorneys, for a period of more than ten years, to the fact, with the settlement in 1850. The defendant corporation will resist this. The attorneys for both sides are very busy preparing for the fray.

MAGDALENA MINING ACTIVE THESE DAYS

ONE HITHERTO CONSIDERED AS WORTHLESS, IS NOW BEING BOUGHT BY PROSPECTORS.

There is much activity these days in the mining district of Magdalena, Socorro county. Several large strikes have been made of late. The most prominent was made about four weeks ago, when a large body of high grade copper ore was uncovered in the Graphic tunnel, showing assays running high in almost pure copper. Lead of the finest grade and zinc also were found.

Mining men of that district not being familiar with zinc formation and zinc ore have had hundreds of tons lying idle on the dumps for the past twenty years, and it remained for some far seeing Joplin, Mo., mining men to wake them to the fact, with the result that zinc mining is becoming the craze of that district.

From recent reports by noted experts on zinc ore and formation, Magdalena will soon produce some of the best zinc mines in the country. This country is peculiarly adapted for prospecting, it being well settled with large stock and sheep ranches so that the wandering prospector need have no fear of dying from thirst, as in other noted districts far from human habitation.

A branch of the Santa Fe runs from Socorro, daily, making connections with north and south bound trains.

The town of Magdalena is the center of the mining district, also the shipping point of large cattle and sheep men, and has doubled in population in the past year.

Mr. Hiram, of Iowa, Kan., is figuring on building a four mile train to convey the ore from the mines to the Santa Fe tracks. This project will soon be under way.

By the way that Magdalena is now growing, the prediction is frequently made by those in authority to know that before two years have passed Magdalena will be a second El Paso.

AMERICAN PATENT FOR LIFE SAVING

HOW HEAD-ON AND REAR-END COLLISIONS MAY BE PREVENTED BY SIMPLE ELECTRICAL DE- VICE.

Patents have been granted recently to Alfred L. Ruthven, who lives at No. 710 West Fourth street, on an invention which he claims will make head-on and rear-end collisions between trains impossible if it is installed on railroads, and experts who have seen a working model of the invention believe that it will do all that Mr. Ruthven claims for it.

The invention relates to danger signals which may be carried on the trains themselves, preferably on the locomotive, where the engineer will be warned, and which are arranged to give the danger signal whenever two trains are on the same track within a dangerous running distance of each other. It provides a system which has no moving parts at which approaching trains could collide without danger, and provides a method whereby the signal will indicate in which direction the other train is running.

He accepted a job with the county bridge gang near Sopris, and, had been laboring with his "nose in the grindstone" for about six months, when last week he picked up a Denver paper in the office of the boarding house where he was staying, and there read the startling information that his wife, whom he so loved that he was ashamed to tell her of his disreputable conduct, had placed a two thousand dollar reward for knowledge of his whereabouts.

The news so affected him that he burst into tears and there for the first time since his departure he told of his sad experience.

Upon the advice and counsel of his co-laborers, he immediately telephoned a telegram to the telegraph office in this city, and the same was sent to his anxious wife.

IT WAS ROOSEVELT'S ADVICE TO THE CZAR

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—In granting a representative form of government to the Russian people the czar has followed the urgent advice of President Roosevelt, contrary to him through former Ambassador Cassini, and again through Count Witte. The president's part in this matter has assumed a new interest in the light of the sensational news from St. Petersburg.

The only thing in which the czar did not take President Roosevelt's advice was as to the time of the concession.

It was last spring, just previous to Cassini's departure from Washington and while the preliminary of the peace negotiations were in progress, that Cassini and President Roosevelt were closeted until midnight at the White House discussing Russian internal conditions.

Throwing diplomatic forms and the ordinary precedents to the winds, Mr. Roosevelt told Cassini his mind on the subject.

The president advised that the time had come to grant to the Russian people the forms of a constitutional representative government.

He said he was not convinced that the people could be given so large a share in the government as the people of the United States.

The parents procured for it Doan's Kidney Pills at the Alvarado Pharmacy, and the treatment, according to directions for children, was commenced. In addition to the limited control there was considerable backache, the complications fully proving that in some way the kidneys were either weakened or over-excited. ## WIFE'S REWARD FOR MISSING HUSBAND

BRINGS HIM BACK TO HER AND HE CLAIMS REWARD OF $5,000.

Louis Haring, after six months' absence from his chosen partner for life, discovered through a newspaper that she was playing away for lack of him so badly that she was offering a reward of $5,000 for information of his whereabouts, says the Trinidad Advertiser. He was making only a dollar and a half a day at Sopris and decided that he might as well draw the reward himself. He sent a telegram to his wife in Philadelphia announcing his readiness for a reunion.

Haring was at one time a rising young business man of Philadelphia, but owing to reverses, he lost a great part of his fortune.

He decided to seek a new location, and left Philadelphia about six months ago for Los Angeles, where he intended embarking in business.

After leaving his wife, the reverse which he had met began to prey upon Haring's mind, and he began drinking heavily.

He arrived in Trinidad several months ago, and, with the proud mind of the descendant of one of the wealthiest families in the union, prepared to work to earning word to his wife of his financial predicament.

CAUGHT IN ACT OF FRISKING DRUNK MAN

POLICE LAND TWO MEN IN JAIL, WHO MUST ANSWER TO SERI- OUS CHARGE THIS EVENING IN POLICE COURT.

The old-time trick of spiriting away a drunken man with a roll of money, and robbing him, was worked in this city Saturday night on a stranger. The scene of operations was in the alley at the rear of Backus's saloon on First street, and two men giving their names as James King and James Brown, are confined in the city jail, charged with the crime.

The men deny that they robbed the stranger, who alleges that he lost about $20. They admit, however, that they were drinking with him during the evening, and that they were in the act of "frisking" their victim, they happened to step in front of a rear window of the saloon, and the light streaming out of the window made it possible for several men in the saloon to get a good view of the proceedings. The witnesses informed the police what had taken place, and the arrest of King and Brown followed.

NEAT PRUDENTIAL LIFE INSURANCE TO TAKE ITS MEDICINE

Another Family Insurance Company Voluntarily Offers to Answer Questions—Senator Dryden's Big Concern is One of a Group of Allied Corporations.

New York, Nov. 4.—Next in order in the New York state's insurance investigation is the Prudential.

Senator John F. Dryden, founder of the Prudential, and its president, has signified his willingness to testify, and Examiner Charles H. Hughes declared to this correspondent that Mr. Dryden's offer would certainly be accepted.

With meager funds, but a strong heart and fixed determination, Senator Dryden founded the Prudential 30 years ago on the lines of a powerful concern of London. It is reported of him that he did his own clerical work at first, and labored against obstacles which would have defeated almost any man.

The company today has outstanding $5,000,000 industrial policies, and 224,000 regular life policies, representing more than $1,000,000,000 paid up insurance in force.

The Prudential is a stock company. The industrial policy system includes a scheme for the collection of weekly or monthly assessments, ranging from 2 cents upwards, and business is with the laboring classes.

Located in Newark, N. J., in a group of very pretentious, towering stone structures, is the headquarters. The Fidelity Trust Co., the Public Service Corporation and the Union National Bank are also there, and the same group of men govern all.

McCurdy and McCall have no monopoly upon family arrangements in the insurance business. Senator Dryden, with a salary of at least $65,000, from the Prudential, and two members of his immediate family, are associated with the Ward and McCarter families. Leslie D. Ward is the first vice president of the Prudential, at a salary of $40,000. Edgar B. Ward is second vice president at a salary of $40,000. Forest F. Dryden, a young man, who occupies a magnificent suite of offices and the senator's son, receives a stipend of $20,000 a year as third vice president.

Anthony R. Easer, Senator Dryden's son-in-law, is not an officer, but is a director of the Prudential.

The Fidelity Trust Co. has $2,000,000 stock. Of this the Prudential owns $480,000, par value, for which it is reported to have paid $1,375,000. The Public Service Corporation is capitalized at $25,000,000 and the Prudential holds nearly $10,000,000 of its bonds and stocks. The Union National has $1,500,000 capital stock, of which the Prudential owns $450,100.

The Prudential is capitalized at $2,000,000. On December 31st last the trust company owned $929,650, within $361 of the controlling interest.

It is the mixture of these concerns and their way of doing business which will be brought into the limelight when lawyer Hughes begins asking questions.

SOUND WARNING TO EASTERN PHYSICIANS

Indigent Sick Will be Sent Home If They are Not Supported.

PERMANENT OFFICERS ELECTED

"Resolved, That the physicians and authorities in other sections be strongly censured for sending healthseekers to Albuquerque and New Mexico when they have reached a stage where they are beyond help from climatical advantages, or are without sufficient funds to support themselves for a period of at least six months, and that the press be urgently requested to give this resolution the greatest publicity."

The above resolution offered by Maynard Gunnis and adopted by the meeting which yesterday effected a permanent organization of the Association of Physicians of Albuquerque, is directed to the eastern physicians who have for years and still persist in sending indigent patients in the last stages of consumption to New Mexico and Arizona for the people of the two territories to support until they eventually succumb to the plague.

This practice of the eastern physicians is the real cause of the present overtaxed condition of the charitable institutions of the southwest, and no doubt this resolution will meet with the sentiment of the people of this section.

This influx of indigent patients must be stopped, and the way to get at the evil is to reach its roots. The doctors who are responsible and the primary cause should be dealt with without gloves as far as the press can handle them. It seems to have been the custom of many of the eastern physicians to attend these patients during the primary stages of the disease and until they are unable to get any more fat fees from them, then by popular subscription or by other means, ship the patient to one of the health resorts of the southwest. The patient arrives sometimes without a cent in his pocket. Sometimes he may have funds enough to last him a few weeks. When this is gone, he becomes a ward of some of the charitable institutions of the country until death relieves his suffering, for a cure is seldom effected in such cases, although they may be given the best of care at the hands of the Sisters of Charity or some other organization.

A Sample on the Stairs. A sample of the indigent sick that come to Albuquerque was crowding on the stairs of the club, when the meeting broke up. He had dragged his emaciated form to the foot of the stairs, where he was discovered by Maynard Gunnis. Mr. Gunnis asked him to remain until the meeting closed. He gave his name as Albert Turner, and said that he came from Freeport, La., where he had been employed as a cook and baker. He had no funds, but had paid his room rent at a Mouth First street rooming house for a week in advance. His case had been diagnosed as asthma, and he could scarcely speak audibly. "I also have rheumatism," he said in a rasping voice, but that was not his whole trouble. The stamp of the dread white plague was on his countenance.

The Non-Sectarian Benevolent society took the case in charge, and furnished the money to buy him a meal ticket.

This was only a sample, and was a mild form, compared to some cases that come to the benevolent and health officers, as well as the police.

Chief of Police Theo. McMillin recounted a pitiful case which came to his attention last winter.

He was approached one night by a man near the corner of Railroad avenue and First street, who said in a voice husky with the ravages of tuberculosis: "I have a sick friend down here. I wish you would come and see him."

The officers went with the man to the rear of the old Putney wholesale house, where he found a man in the throes of death. He lay upon the ground, with his head propped up against a telephone pole. He was morose, the city building, where his death was a matter of a couple of days. The other waited in the club a few days and then disappeared. When discovered by Mr. McMillin these men had fifteen cents between them.

The suggestion made yesterday by the committee on permanent organization to the effect that aid be given to the sick only after they had been in the city for six months was a good one, when coupled with the other suggestion to the effect that when a person comes to the city sick and indigent, the mayor of the city from whence he came be notified and asked to send him home in the event of a refusal to do so that each person be immediately sent back to his home town.

The communication between the societies here and the mayor of an eastern town or the return of a sick person would bring the folly of sending these poor sick to the southwest forcibly before the people who have been guilty of it, and would doubtless have much to do with stopping it.

These matters were quite fully discussed at the meeting yesterday, previous to the election of permanent officers of the Association of Physicians of Albuquerque.

The matter of electing directors was left to some future date, as was the matter of selecting a committee to act as a board of directors to meet the immediate needs of the Sisters of Charity and the Non-Sectarian Benevolent society. The colored people sent word that they would cooperate in the movement.

The constitution upon which the Association of Physicians of Albuquerque are to stand are being formulated by the committee on permanent organization, Rabbi Kaplan, Rev. G. H. Henson and Nestor Montoya, who will meet at some time designated by the president.

The soliciting committee will be selected one each from the different benevolent and religious denominations of the city by the president, and it is expected that these committees will be hard at work by next week.

The clerk walked to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sig. Grunfeld, 814 North Second street, last night, leaving a baby girl.

I. J. W. Elder, who has been back in Pennsylvania on business and pleasure, is expected home tomorrow night.

JOHN D.'S INCOME; CAN YOU GRASP IT?

In Wall street John D. Rockefeller's wealth is estimated at fully $200,000,000; his income at $24,000,000 a year. This income is nearly equal to the entire income of the crowned heads of Europe.

It means that he collects a million-dollar dividend a little more than twice a month.

As he rides to church in his auto he is able to reflect upon the cheerful fact that his fortune has grown $480,750 since the previous Sunday.

Rockefeller's daily income is $60,125. How can anyone spend against that? This is at the rate of $10,015 every working hour if he observes the eight-hour day, or at the rate of $3,334.44 every hour in the 24.

Just think of getting $3,334 every minute!

The average respiration for an adult is 18 per minute. Therefore, every time John breathes he is $3.09 better off.

The Rockefeller income is equal to a tax of 35 1/2 cents per annum on every man, woman and child in the United States.

If the Standard Oil magnate were to put his fortune into $1 bills, he could carry seven and one-half acres 100 feet deep with them.

Think of walking across a field and kicking up money like that.

THE WIFE'S JOKES

The Iowa woman who has secured a divorce on the ground that her husband refused to laugh at her jokes has established an important principle.

The right to joke is one of the inherent and inalienable rights inferentially embraced in the declaration of independence. It is a right that cannot be denied, unfortunately, even to the feeble minded.

And the sacred right to joke carries with it the right to raise a laugh. A joke that falls upon unappreciative ears and cruelly rebounds from cold, hard faces is the saddest, flattest failure in all the world.

The Iowa woman was of a misanthropic disposition, and made of her husband a possible occasion. But when she produced a neat conundrum or cracked a joke at the dinner table, her husband gave her a cold unappreciative stare. After submitting to this humiliating treatment for years, and seeing her best jokes utterly sacrificed, she appealed to the court for separation, and got it.

This incident holds out a lesson for all husbands whose wives are of a humorous disposition.

All philosophers teach the benefits of humor in the home. All physicians agree upon the value of the laugh as an aid to digestion. There can be no question about the merits of a genial disposition at all times. The courts can do no better service to humanity than by conserving the dignity and rights to the joke.

Humor is incapable of analysis in court. A joke is always new until it has been heard and is new again every time it is newly applied. Anyway, the real soul of a jest is the genial, mirthful spirit that prompts it.

The Iowa decision has left a husband no choice. Whatever a wife sees fit to consider a joke must be met by him with a laugh. Even though she thinks it is a joke that the breakfast biscuits are as hard as bricks he must at least smile, or be responsible for the domestic troubles that must follow.

And now that the husband must laugh at the wife's jokes or be divorced it is a short step in the law to the point where anybody must laugh at anybody's jokes or be subject to suit for damages.

SCHOOL ENDORSES ROOSEVELT'S FOOTBALL EFFORTS

To whomsoever these presents shall come, Greeting:

Resolved, That we, the students of St. John's School at Marlus, drop the game of foot ball after playing out the season, except among ourselves on our own grounds.

That foot ball as it is now played is more for college than for preparatory school.

That professionalism and fake scholarships are largely responsible for the unnecessary roughness, slugging and demoralizing influences of an otherwise noble game.

That we endorse President Roosevelt's efforts to cleanse the game.

Adopted this thirtieth day of October, nineteen hundred and five.

Students of St. John's School, Marlus, New York.

With the above came along a circular letter reading as follows:

Dear Sir: We believe that the only thing that will clean up the game of foot ball will be for all preparatory schools, academies and high schools to refuse to play for a year or so. This will compel foot ball authorities to radically change the rules.

Will you not advocate such a revolutionary movement in all schools in your field of influence?

Such a tidal wave should bring the sweeping changes needed.

St. John's Athletic Association, Marlus, New York, October 23, 05.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF COMRADE GIBBS

G. K. WARREN POST NO. 5 PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED MEMBER, AT RECENT MEETING.

At the regular monthly meeting of G. K. Warren post No. 5, Grand Army of the Republic, a high tribute was paid to the memory of the late William Gibbs, a member of the local post, who died on October 22, at the National Soldiers' Home, in California. The resolution follows:

In Memoriam.

G. K. Warren post No. 5, department of New Mexico, Grand Army of the Republic, mourns the loss of a beloved comrade, a brave soldier and an honored and esteemed citizen.

William Gibbs was born in Chesterfield county, Virginia, 73 years ago. He enlisted in the Fifth United States Infantry December 9, 1886, and was honorably discharged August 29, 1888. He was mustered in as a member of G. K. Warren post No. 5, Grand Army of the Republic, January 13, 1903, and held the office of Junior vice commander.

Comrade Gibbs died at the National Soldiers' Home, in Santa Monica, Cal., October 22, 1905, and was laid to rest in the cemetery at that place.

In the death of our beloved comrade, we mourn the loss of a most valued and sincerely appreciated member of our post, but we mourn not like those who are without hope beyond the grave, as we wait aloft a heartfelt prayer to the realms above. We are filled with the brightest hope that in spirit we may see our comrade marching in the Grand Army above, where our Supreme Commander reigneth forever.

To the bereaved widow, Mrs. Martha Gibbs, we tender our heartfelt sympathy and condolence.

Resolved, That this, our tribute to the departed comrade, be entered upon our minutes in perpetual memory; that a copy be transmitted to Mrs. Gibbs, and a copy to each of our daily papers for publication.

We bid our comrade the last farewell in mournful spirit, as we cast upon his casket our tokens, the evergreen wreath, a rose and the olive branch, and bid him farewell. We cover him with the flag of the land he loved so well, of the nation for whose unity and preservation he fought so well and bravely.

November 4, 1905.

GOOD APPLES OF SAN JUAN COUNTY.

Harry Milleson has a fine lot of apples on his ranch above town, despite the worms, says the San Juan County Index. He has picked and packed 500 to 1,000 boxes of good apples, which were bought by P. Newhall & Sons, Chicago. Mr. Milleson has a thrifty, heavy-bearing orchard and a good stock ranch and is doing well as can every man in this country who will take the pains to care for what he plants and plant things in which there is money. San Juan county will soon be a community of orchards of figs and twenty acres of garden and poultry plots, and the market will continue to seek this favored spot for the quality and appearance of its products will take the blue ribbon in any company. Spraying will be commenced extensively the coming year.

Housewifery rates are still in effect, being placed on sale in eastern cities at intervals of two weeks. The furnish of settlers will continue throughout the winter, but the lowest rates of the year are past.

TAX STATISTICS IN NEW MEXICO

Gathered From Official Sources With Interesting Arrangement.

WORTHY OF CAREFUL READING

The assessment of the territory for 1905 totals $12,274,792, an increase of over half a million dollars over that of the year previous, brought about by the fact that the El Paso & Northern railway is taxed for the first time in Otero county. The exceptions amount to $3,523,164.75, an increase of over $100,000 over last year, leaving the assessment for taxation purposes almost $100,000 greater than in the year previous. Had it not been for heavy losses in cattle and sheep on the range during the winter and spring of 1904-1905, due to inadequate shelter and lack of provision for feeding, the assessment would show a much greater increase. San Miguel county takes the lead in assessments, its total for 1905 being $1,930,782. Bernalillo county is second with a total of $1,572,451. Other counties having an assessment over $200,000 are: Colfax, $2,960,815; Grant, $2,510,950; Socorro, $2,332,350; Dona Ana, $2,309,112; Eddy, $2,036,560; and Otero, $2,027,357. The counties having an assessment of between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 are: Santa Fe, $1,798,572; Union, $1,714,627; Luna, $1,559,548; Valencia, $1,315,674; Mora, $1,213,225; Sierra, $1,207,863; Rio Arriba, $1,045,562; Lincoln, $1,044,535; Roosevelt, $1,014,676. The counties with an assessment of less than $1,000,000 are: McKinley, $952,473; San Juan, $917,719; Guadalupe, $832,319; Sandoval, $810,839; Taos, $720,061; Quay, $589,722; and Torrance, $319,981.

In comparison, it will be interesting to note the amount of territorial taxes paid by each county for the year ending June 30, 1905: San Miguel contributed $43,789. The following counties contributed over $30,000: Chavez, $42,627; Bernalillo, $39,091; Grant, $39,177; Colfax, $36,347; and Union, $30,422. Those that contributed between $20,000 and $30,000 were: Eddy, $28,308; Socorro, $23,970; Dona Ana, $23,496; while the following paid into the territorial treasury between $10,000 and $20,000: Luna, $19,662; Otero, $19,357; Sierra, $18,026; Santa Fe, $17,216; Valencia, $16,601; Lincoln, $16,170; McKinley, $15,526; Mora, $15,297; Guadalupe, $10,210. The showing of several counties would be much more were it not for taxes paid by railroads. In some counties the railroads having contributed over one-half of the taxes collected. The counties in which less than $10,000 territorial taxes were collected were: Rio Arriba, $8,842; San Juan, $8,418; Roosevelt, $7,967; Quay, $7,697; Taos, $6,816; and Sandoval, $6,721.

The most interesting comparison is, however, the per capita assessment of each county less the railroad assessment and exemptions, and the per capita taxes paid. Taking the school census of 1905 for the basis, the per capita assessment of the counties ranges as follows: Chisno, $108.14. The only other counties having a per capita assessment exceeding $50 are: Eddy, $24.09; Quay, $23.71; and Luna, $20.83, in all four the principal wealth being in stock, especially cattle.

Counties having a per capita assessment between $100 and $200 are: Sierra, $196.72; Colfax, $192.78; McKinley, $177.94; Otero, $156.48; San Juan, $152.53; Lincoln, $141.47; Roosevelt, $140.69; San Miguel, $118.23; and Bernalillo, $118.92. The counties in which the per capita assessment is less than $100 are: Torrance, $95.33; Dona Ana, $98.23; Socorro, $97.20; Valencia, $72.29; Sandoval, $69.52; Mora, $69.44; Rio Arriba, $59.33; and Taos, $58.76. In other words, Chavez county is eleven times as rich per capita as is Taos county; almost six times as rich as Santa Fe county; almost four times as rich as Bernalillo county, and more than twice as rich as Colfax county.

To those who assert that territorial taxation is excessive, it may be of interest to know that during the past fiscal year Santa Fe county contributed only 90 cents per capita to the territorial treasury, and that would have been reduced more than one-half had it not been for taxes paid by the railroads. McKinley county leads in that particular, its contribution having been $6.01 per capita. Luna county stood second with $5.56 per capita, and Chavez county third with $4.74 per capita. The other counties ranged as follows: Sierra, $4.09; Union, $3.91; Eddy, $3.70; Grant, $3.16; Colfax, $3.13; Quay, $3.06; Otero, $2.46; Lincoln, $2.38; Valencia, $1.79; San Miguel, $1.67; Dona Ana, $1.59; Roosevelt, $1.59; San Juan, $1.54; Bernalillo, $1.54; Socorro, $1.51; Guadalupe, $1.37; Santa Fe, 99 cents; and Taos, 55 cents.

From all this it is apparent that, although there are reasons for some differences in the per capita taxation, there is still room for further equalization of the tax burden. Every man should be asked to contribute towards the expenses of the government which protects him, except he be a pauper, and it is no credit to New Mexico that over one-half of its entire population does not appear upon the assessment or tax lists at all.

It is but justice to state, as far as Santa Fe county is concerned, that its low place in the payment of territorial taxes is to be ascribed to the fact that many of its taxpayers have been delinquent for years, and have not paid the taxes assessed against them. This is partly the fault of the taxpayers and partly of the officials who have had charge of the collection of taxes. The collectors for several years past have been delinquent. A better state of affairs, it is believed, will be inaugurated and Santa Fe county will make a better showing hereafter. —New Mexican.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER

New York, Nov. 4.—The two departments which are most interesting to women at the present time, the costume and the millinery, are full of possibilities for the woman who aims to dress well on a limited in-waist under the corset, and makes that article more pliable. Never before have such vast sums of money been lavished upon underwear, the summer nothingness of which is absolutely necessary to insure the beauty lines which is the pillar and foundaon item of the wardrobe as has been the case for some seasons, for practically every kind and every style of garment, its and neckpiece will be worn. Neckpieces, consisting of the entire actual, including head and tails, are once more extremely stylish, yet at the same time, flat styles and round, untrimmed ones have lost none of their popularity. Even the question of sleeves is not an arbitrary one, for a smart furrier is making coats with long sleeves, moderately tight elbow sleeves, and blouse coats with flowing sleeves.

Muffs are exceedingly large this season, a fact probably due to the present fashion of making outside garments with short sleeves. There are some big round muffs, especially in fox, but in the short skirts the square shape is the best style. Some of the big muffs are still seen, but they also are very large. Muffs are much decorated with beads and tails, but lace and artificial flowers are not now used in this connection.

Alpaca will fashion several of the dresses which the Princess of Wales is having built for her Indian trip, and alpaca will undoubtedly enjoy a distinct vogue, both in England and this country. Barely nothing could be smarter than a tailor made white alpaca, with a waistcoat of white bengaline, embroidered with gold and white braid, which is one of the princess' new gowns.

A big jeweled button on the top of a dainty evening gown is quite bewitching. It is a feature of the fancy button which finishes fancy tailormade coats, etc., to have rim and center in marked contrast. Amber, jade and other stones are introduced into them. To finish house dresses and their ilk there are innumerable

The long coat, in one shape or another, at its smartest of Empire extraction, is the model of models in the wrap department.

A broad turnover collar, to fall over the shoulders of a light evening wrap, is stylish and bordered with English cut work. The embroidery is made in small squares, which are then applied onto the linen.

The woman who has hands of fur trimmed stored away in her treasure chest is bracing them out to fashion an evening dress. Fur and rich lace form an excellent combination on a light silk.

The evening silks now this fall are exceptionally lovely. There are new fabrics as well as new patterns and shades. Among the most beautiful are pompadour taffets, embroidered taffets, Masseline duchesse, printed taffets, broccie Masseline, embroidered satin brocade and faille alters.

COLONY PROJECT.

Max Kirchman's Bohemian colony project is moving rapidly toward a successful issue, says the Bohemian. Since the city council granted the option on the city lands within the Soconos grant the necessary legal documents have been signed and Mr. Kirchman is now at work perfecting the details of his plan. To all appearance Socorro is soon to be favored with a large increase in the number of its desirable citizens.

Man's Unselfishness is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. of the "Republican" of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctor to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick, she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and she now performs all her household duties." Guaranteed by all druggists, price 50c.

NEW YORK NEWS LETTER

Captain Dooley's curfew law in the "Tenderloin."

"Tenderloin," seemed to be of few nights and full of trouble. In prescribing that no woman should appear on the streets after 10:30 o'clock, the captain overruled the fact that many honest women are compelled to be abroad later than that hour. This fact the Rev. Mr. Schwinn, rector of St. Francis Xavier, church, right in the very center of the tainted district, was well aware of, and so, to protect his parishioners, he issued a card of identification to every lady of his flock, certifying that she was well known to him as all of good character and sober living, and a true and sincere worshiper in his church. Captain Dooley found it best to drop interference with such ladies, after being caught several times holding up church members who had as much right on the streets as Dooley's own officers. Then Magistrate Mayo discharged a bunch of twenty-six brought in by Dooley's subordinates, and the curfew law was done for.

Wladislaw Borowski, of Seaneau, over in Jersey, not far from the Metropolitan, was so fond of kissing his girl that he waylaid her at every opportunity. Miss Chuski liked him very much, and doubtless also liked the kisses, until Wladislaw delayed her so much that many dinners were burned while Wladislaw was hugging her in a corner. When she found the dinner was too hot, her love grew cold, and she hated Wladislaw before Judge Miller. She declared her lover kissed her sometimes a hundred times a day. It would have gone hard with Wladislaw had not his lawyer proposed a compromise, which comprised an agreement on the part of Wladislaw that he would never kiss her more than ten times a day, if she would withdraw the suit and marry him. Miss Chuski agreed to this, and Justice Miller drew up with dignity and Wladislaw signed with avidity an agreement that he would not kiss her more than five times in the morning and five times in the afternoon before supper. The marriage was then and there performed, but Mrs. Borowski did not agree not to ask for any more than ten kisses a day.

The arrest of a trained nurse for stealing several thousand dollars worth of silver from the St. Regis Hotel has led the proprietors of several high class hotels to move for protection. They say that the amount of these pilferages is fearful, and constitutes a great drag upon their enterprises. It is stated that silverware to the value of $15,000 is annually put down to loss in this way, thousands of dollars and millions of pieces of stationery being also carried away.

Charles A. Dana's noted country place, Desoria, with its world renowned arboretum, has been sold to a "Standard Oil" man. Dana spent thousands of dollars yearly on this place, and the world was scarcely so rare trees, which were made to grow, as to be brought from other climates, by the skill of experts in acclimating trees. As Dana's knowledge in every line to which he paid attention was most thorough and went to the very bottom of things, Desoria became a veritable little paradise.

Henry H. Roosevelt, 60 years old, applied President Roosevelt's race aside theory to a novel use in the children's Court this week by securing the release of his son from a fine for throwing a stone. He appealed to the magistrate's feelings in an irreverent way by pleading that as a father with many children as he had, could hardly be expected to pay fines when he could scarcely provide them with food and lodging. The magistrate asked him how many children he had. "Twenty-three, your honor," replied Haseberg, without the slightest hesitation. "The son will be admitted," said the magistrate. "Any man with a family like that deserves consideration." But Haseberg's imagination is more expansive than his family. He imposed upon the magistrate with seventeen unborn babies, for when he called the roll of his flock he could muster only six.

The New York board of education is paying attention to the "under dog" in the battle of life. It has set apart a school especially for the education of children who have never had a fair chance; children who have always been abused. Such as these, always struggling against odds, grow up with the idea that the world is all against them and they slide away from the prospective blows; they skulk from anybody who takes notice of them; they look upon society as their natural and eternal enemy; hence they become the eternal enemies of society, expecting nothing at its hands, and contributing nothing to its welfare. So, when these boys—big, some of them old and thirteen and fourteen years old—go to school they are kept with the smaller children, as their intellects have become dull, and they have indulged in truancy because they were ridiculed as little boys, because the new school will gather in those boys of about the same age, and it is thought will put an end to the truancy schools. The "under dog" school has the good wishes of every lover of his kind.

Stoping under sand and water, far from the earth light of day, it would hardly seem possible that so unobtrusive a feature of the city's Twentieth Century life as a tunnel, would cause a hubbub above ground. But no sooner had the McAdoo tunnel, under the Hudson, approached completion than a new trolley system springs up, intended to parallel all the extensive ramifications of the Jersey shore through which the Public Service Corporation runs its cars all over Hudson and Essex counties. The new enterprise has a big backing. The Public Service Corporation is said to have provoked the opposition by projecting a tunnel of its own, which will make four tunnels under the great river, all finished or started within three years, whereas an English concern worked a decade on one without finishing it. Peck's tale of tunneling the Hudson river, away from as though it were as easy as threading a needle.

HUSTLING JAPAN SEEKS PARTNER TO DEVELOP CHINA, THE OLD ELEPHANT ROUSED FROM SLEEP OF CENTURIES

DICTATOR OF ORIENT LOOKS TO AMERICA FOR COMMERCIAL ALLIANCE—JAPANESE OF HIGH STANDING DEFINES POLICY OF ISLANDERS TOWARD WEST.

By EKI HIOKI,
(First Secretary of the Japanese Legation.)

"Now that the Japanese-Russian war is ended, the world seems to be vitally watching the next act which will be produced on the stage of oriental politics. Some preach the 'Yellow Peril'; some question the ambition of Japan; others apprehend Japan's designs upon the Philippines. Some people go so far as to assert that Japan will control China, 'proclaim the Monroe doctrine for Asia,' and drive out from the east all the 'white devils' and exterminate the western influence within its borders. I can simply say that such an idea has not entered into the Japanese mind.

leaves of Wei-hai-wei and extension of the Kowloon concession by Great Britain; the acquisition of Kwantung Bay by France, and other great events which followed in succession soon after the Japan-China war, were a little too much even for the lay colossal.

Severely Prodded.
This was a very severe lesson for China. For the first time in her history, China was brought home to reality by foreign influences. Reform decrees were issued one after the other. Students began to be sent abroad in search of western knowledge.

CHINA WAS AWAKENING.
Just at this juncture, another startling event transpired in the territory of China, right under the nose of the

IS CHINA DANGEROUS?

"Fears are entertained by some people that the Chinese may use the western method against the westerners. That may be, but when will that be? Not before fifty years at least. Or, even should such a thing come, sooner, nothing need be feared, for the improved means of communication of our days enables us to make ample provision for the common defense of common interests, as was done in the case of the Boxer trouble." — Eki Hioki, First Secretary of the Japanese Legation.

mind and such a policy has not been even the symptoms of formation. On the contrary, the policy which has been persistently followed by Japan in the past, was to put her interests in closer and more harmonious touch with those of the western nations.

Rousing China.
China has had a number of severe trials during her long intercourse with the western nations, but all the earlier complications appear to have had the effect of making her more resolute to western influence. It has, indeed, been a hard and patient task to arouse this big, old and weary elephant from its long slumber. In 1894 she was licked by Japan. This sharply stung her pride, but the effect was only temporary. She was fast falling back to her old, sweet slumber. But the capture of Kiaochow by Germany as the price of the massacre of two missionaries; the seizure of Port Arthur and Tientsin by Russia; the Pekingese—that is the Japan-Russian war. The Chinese watched this gigantic struggle with keenest interest. The superiority of the western method was proved to them beyond all doubt.

China is now almost awake.
Japan's Primary Class.
A large number of Chinese students are now in Japan in search of western knowledge, as it is considered by them to be the quickest and cheapest means to attain the end. Japanese institutions are copied. Japanese books are translated. Japanese instructors are engaged by the Chinese. The next stage will be the sending of the increased number of Chinese missions and students to America and Europe, the construction of railways, improvement of water communication, introduction of machinery, spread of Christianity and the increase of the productive and buying power of China.

KANSAS FARMERS REVEL IN JUICY PORTERHOUSE AT COST

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 2.—While the United States government is probing through the courts, the progressive farmers of Kansas are fighting the beef barons in a more quiet but yet effective manner through "beef clubs"—groups of 20 or 25 farmers who kill their own beef.

Aaron Walton, four miles west of Topeka, started the first club last spring. He had taken a four-year-old steer to a butcher friend in Topeka. The friend did not have much money and suggested to Mr. Walton that he take out the price of the steer in beef. Walton agreed. When he had taken out enough steak to equal the price of the entire steer, Walton discovered that he had eaten less than a quarter of the dressed meat. The butcher had taken three-quarters for his share of the profit.

The First Club.
That experience set Walton to thinking and the organization of the first beef club, with himself as president and Emory Brobst, another Shawnee county farmer, as secretary and treasurer. There are twenty families in the club.

The Walton club employs a good butcher, who works as a farm hand also. The club supplies a set of tools. The butcher kills every Friday afternoon. He loads the platform and tools upon a wagon and drives to the home of a member of the club, where a steer is to be killed. The cattle are never driven to the butcher. Two measures of alfalfa, two of porthouse, three of round steak, 3 soup bones, a share of shoulder, along with portions of every other part of a beef, is the average weekly share for each family. Larger measures are given to the larger families.

One Beef a Season.
The season of Walton's beef club is planned to run 20 weeks. That demands exactly one steer from each farm during the season. There is no reason why the club should not be kept running through the winter, except that the farmers generally prefer themselves to kill hogs and smaller animals in the winter.

Walton's club started in April of this year. The first two heifers were credited to the owners at the rate of 7 cents per pound, because the cattle had been fattened on corn. After the pastures were open the price was 6 cents per pound.

Six cents a pound for porterhouse, 5 cents a pound for round steak. It must be stated, too, that only the very best cattle, between the ages of 3 and 5 years, are ever killed by the club. The expenses of the club are nominal. The butcher does the killing for the hide, which is worth from $3 to $4.50. There is practically no waste. All the uneatable parts of the beef are thrown to the hogs and chickens.

"It has indeed been a hard and patient task to arouse this big, old and weary elephant from its long slumber." — Eki Hioki.

produce and consume the articles of foreign commerce as much as the Japanese people do today, the volume of the world's trade will be immensely augmented. Japanese influence in China is after all a westernizing influence which cannot fall ultimately to benefit the whole world.

No Monopoly.
It is absurd, however, to say, as some ventured to do, that in the course of a few years American goods will be crowded out of Chinese markets by Japanese competition. You know quite well how long it took for the United States, with all the advantages she had in natural resources and in the better facilities for introducing foreign capital into the country, to recover from the effect of the Civil War. Japan has not to labor under enormous disadvantages compared with the United States of that time.

In our days of machinery the importance of cheap labor has become comparatively insignificant. There was a time when the same cry was raised in this country as to European competition on account of their cheap labor, but where stand your industries now? In addition, you have an immense advantage over other nations in your wonderful inventive genius. Besides, labor in Japan does not remain cheap. The effect of the China-Japan war was to double the price of labor. The war with Russia must have raised it very much higher.

Japan's Attitude.
Under these conditions Japan is willing to enter either into an alliance or rivalry of trade with any nation. Japan welcomes capital and material from any country. The United States is supplying materials for the important industries of ours. Why cannot she supply the capital, too? There exists between Japan and Great Britain a political alliance in the east; why cannot there be a commercial alliance between Japan and the United States?

With cheap labor and a comparatively superior knowledge of oriental matters possessed by the Japanese, combined with the inexhaustible supply of American capital and materials, we can build up an impregnable stronghold in the east which can defy the rivalry of the world.

PROMISE OF THE ORIENT.
The Orient—with one-third of the land area and one-half the population of the world—as yet only makes one-seventh of the world's commerce. It is increasing. From 1880 to 1902 Japan's foreign commerce increased from $5,000,000 to $200,000,000; China's from $17,000,000 to $65,000,000.

Should the commerce of China grow to the present rate of that of the west—$27 per capita—it would reach $10,500,000,000, or about half of the world's commerce of today.

The imports of China, Japan and Australia, from all Europe, increased by $45,000,000 during 1900-1901.

During the same period the imports from the United States increased by $49,500,000.

The European importations increased only about 22 per cent; the increase of the United States was 160 per cent.

Cornet stags of the Chicago University has demonstrated that the open style of game can be made superior to the close formation, grinding style which has become so prevalent. While he has not discarded the line-breaking plunge, yet the plays most relied upon to cover ground are the open or trick plays. From the spectators' standpoint there is an question as to the interest in the game when it is played in open style or in close formation.

All intercollegiate, English, American and Australian records to the credit of Duffy are also expunged. Duffy says he has been a professional, posing as an amateur, since 1900.

PERFECTO'S WARNING HAD DESIRED EFFECT

Lid Was on Tight in Albuquerque First Time in Many Years.

IS IT AN ULTIMATUM?

Yesterday was a poor day in Albuquerque for the man with a burning thirst. He could get nothing to alleviate the fire in his throat or to warm his chilling bones, although the day was one of those bleak, damp days, with the wind from the north—just the kind when one needs a little artificial cheer.

As a result of Sheriff Armijo's warning, the saloons were closed up, front rear and side, from Sunday morning until 11 o'clock Sunday night. It was said that the "morning" man who likes his "morning" man, his "noon" room, and a "night" cap, but Perfecto said that it, and all of Albuquerque did, without a single exception, as far as the authorities could find.

Every back door was found barred, both at the down town saloons and at the suburban native dispensaries. The doors to the White Elephant were found impracticable. A thirty man turned away, after trying the side door, which he entered last Sunday a week, with a look of disappointment upon his countenance, and looked longingly at Zeller's cafe across the street. Then he climbed in that direction. The front door was closed and the side door was fastened, and then an expression of hope spread over his face, as he remembered that there was an opening from Goetz's restaurant in the rear into the saloon, in which there were swinging doors that could not be fastened. He found his delight when these swinging doors gave way to his pressure. But once on the inside, he found to his great disappointment, that the man behind, with the white jacket and apron, was absent, and upon close investigation it was found that the two boxes were empty neckties in the shape of padlocks.

A prominent attorney met a Citizen reporter on First street, and wanted to know if there was "anything doing?" The reporter shook his head. A man from Santa Fe said, "I never saw the like, and a man from Las Vegas said, 'How's your drug store?' A thin, elderly gentleman, with a far away look in his eye, stepped up to the soda fountain of one of Albuquerque's several other drug stores, and said, 'Give me a high ball.'

The clerk got busy, removing an imaginary speck from a highly polished glass.

"I'd like a high ball," shouted the would-be customer.

"We're serving hot chocolate and ice cream today," replied the clerk. "Would you like some of the hot chocolate?"

The man with the far away look in his eye, lit a cigar and gazed thoughtfully out of the window.

The hot coffee stands did a good business.

It Knocked Sunday Business in Old Town.

The lid was on tight in old town, too. During the open season, Sunday is the best day of all the week for the old town footlolls. Their resorts have proven very popular places for the unapologetic young men of the city, who do not care for the better regulated places. The Sunnyside piano played no tune yesterday, the old Sunday for many years, and the bowling alley was also quiet. The Porto Rico was tight, and there was nothing doing at the Casino, although the week previous, when the front door was put on, these places did a good business.

The Barrels joints were also closed, and as a result of the terminal points on the street cars being dry, the cars did a slim business yesterday.

Sheriff Armijo's warning had the desired effect the first day, but how long it is to last? Mr. Armijo said nothing in his dictum of Saturday, whether his orders were an ultimatum or whether they meant just a temporary ban, to last until after the fight for the aldermanic office is ended.

The public would like to know which it is, and it is presumed that the saloon keepers would like to know, too.

Fruit for Locksmiths.

The beginning of the Sunday closing of saloons, with orders from the court, furnished a rush of business for the locksmiths and combination experts of the city. There were many safes in the city whose combinations had not been turned in years, and there were doors at many of the saloons of the city that had not been closed in years, night or day.

The proprietors of these safes had lost their combinations and had to have new ones, and locks had to be placed upon these swing doors. One first street saloon had to have a set of keys made for its doors, and another a Railroad avenue place, had to have both locks and keys.

Key turned in many of these locks last night, in many of the places of business, but some few of the saloons did not open until this morning.

MRS. MARGARET CLIFFORD DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME OF HER SON, AS THE RESULT OF AN ATTACK OF HEART FAILURE.

Albuquerque has lost one of its oldest pioneers, by the death of Mrs. Margaret Clifford, mother of Oakes Clifford, proprietor of the Highland livery stable, whose death occurred on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Clifford was in her 73d year, and the direct cause of her sudden demise was an attack of heart failure.

The deceased came to New Mexico in 1851, settling at Santa Fe, where she lived for many years. For some time past she had been home with her son in this city. Besides this, she leaves a son, William Clifford, at Denning, Mrs. L. O. Wardwell, of this city, and Mrs. Nicholas, of San Mateo.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the family home, 336 East Carroll avenue, and was attended by a large number of friends of the deceased. Undertaker A. Borders had charge, and burial was in Santa Barbara cemetery.

Lawrence, Kan., Nov. 7.—For the third year the Kansas University football team has been captained by a man from Beloit, Kan. This year Arthur Fowler is the Jayhawkers' leader. Fowler has made a name for himself as a place kicker.

"Shorty" Hamill, "the bootmaker," one of the best known gridiron veterans west of the Mississippi, is giving the Kansas University freshmen the benefit of his years of experience as a forward on western teams, and he has succeeded in getting together a bunch of first year men which is the equal of the varsity in every respect except weight. They won from every team in Kansas excepting the Haskell Indians, and they played the Redskins a tie game.

SOME ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM OUR WESTERN NEIGHBOR

John D. Montgomery was in the city yesterday from his home at Milnes's Well, on the desert, north and west of Arlington. Mr. Montgomery is engaged in developing one of those little oases of the desert. Senator Mendenhall referred to his speech at the Hotel Adams last summer when he said the time would come when there would be in Arizona thousands of valley farms, small and in small groups, occupying the little benches along the mountain streams, where water can be developed, and filling the country with countless little irrigation schemes of private enterprise, in addition to the huge projects of the government, that require abundant capital. There are already many such in the territory, but where there is one now there will be a hundred. Mr. Montgomery refused to talk for publication, but by the use of a reporter's suggestion it was learned that he has a nice little water supply for a small bunch of cattle that range in the nearby hills and that he has planted and is irrigating about ten acres of alfalfa and farm crops for the maintenance of his horses—Phoenix Republic.

Conditions are strictly legitimate and demand is keeping full pace with the supply, even with the prices above 16 1/2 cents per pound.

ALIEN'S LUNG BALSAM

money is easier in Boston than it has been for some time past—Arizona Gazette.

There was a marriage and giving in marriage at the court house yesterday, with the object of emptying the jail. Juan Brava, who had been indicted for constructive rape, having abducted Ysabel Duran, a young girl living with her parents east of the city. Brava had possession of the girl for several days, before her whereabouts could be discovered. At the time of his preliminary examination when he saw the said jury, if not the preliminary, starting him in the face, he was inclined to matrimony, but the parents of the girl would not give their consent. Since then they have softened, and yesterday the marriage was arranged that Brava had, after all, to spend one night of his honeymoon in jail. District court was not in session, and there was no way in which his release could be ordered. He will probably be turned out today.

The other bridegroom was Carl Reynolds, the young man who was arrested at Tempe, right before last, for a constructive criminal assault upon Letta Pars, a minor, whose parents live near Tempe. Reynolds, early in the morning of his second day in confinement, signified his willingness to get out of his trouble by getting into matrimony. But the parents of the girl had to be consulted, and a messenger was sent over to see about it. He returned in the afternoon with the information that it was all right. The license was issued, and Probate Judge Phillips performed the ceremony. It is predicted, though, that Reynolds will still have a rocky road in front of him. The girl has several brothers, and half brothers, who have not warmed to him, and it is feared they will not welcome him into the family in the way he desires.—Arizona Gazette.

STOCKHOLDERS IN MINE ASKING FOR RECEIVER

CHARGES MADE AGAINST PRESIDENT OF GREAT WESTERN COMPANY.

A Phoenix, Ariz., dispatch, dated November 2, says: W. H. Goddard, of Chicago and Edward J. Hill of Aurora, Ill., owning 54,000 shares of Great Western Gold Company, incorporated in Arizona for $10,000,000, and owning an outright copper mine in Shasta county, Cal., yesterday filed suit here, alleging insolvency of the company, and asking for the appointment of a receiver and the return to be treasurer of the company of approximately $200,000.

President T. R. Henderson of St. Louis is alleged to have illegally appropriated the money to his own use. The complaint is very long and charges multiplicity of things. Among them that Henderson always has controlled the entire company; that in April of this year he illegally increased the capitalization to $12,000,000 to cover an overstatement of capital stock of which had been previously issued to him, including $2,000,000 promoters' stock, placed by this agreement in escrow; also that the stock has been sold by so-called market makers and misrepresentations, that have sold the company liable to a postoffice fraud order, that the criminal statutes of Missouri and Arizona have been violated by stock misrepresentations; that for the protection of stockholders it is imperative that an accounting of the books at Phoenix be ordered.

TEXAN BUYS A BIG NEW MEXICO RANCH.

The famous Block ranch, in Lincoln and Chavez counties, comprising 500,000 acres of land and supporting 15,000 head of cattle, has been sold by H. Applington and Mrs. Nancy Thurber of New York, to J. R. Bendinger, a well known Dallas, Texas, cattle man. The purchase price is said to have been more than $400,000.

Mr. Bendinger has been a resident of Dallas, Texas, for 20 years, and is one of the best known and most extensive live stock dealers in New Mexico or Texas, having been engaged in the live stock business for that length of time.

Mr. Bendinger has extensive holdings near Roswell and has spent much time there. About four years ago he purchased a 1,200 acre farm from Lovelace and Clements, four miles northeast of Roswell, and has it under cultivation. Four hundred acres are in alfalfa and orchard, and also some twenty thousand acres on the Pecos river 25 miles northwest of Roswell.

Mr. Bendinger has not made any announcement as to who will be appointed manager of the Block ranch. He will move his family to Roswell next spring.

THE TRIMBLE PARDON OVER IN ARIZONA.

Concerning the pardon of Walter Trimble by Governor Kibbey, some of the Graham county papers have been severe in denunciation of the governor. It is true that the crime charged, if it were committed, is unpardonable from every standpoint, but the governor is fully convinced by proof that is incontrovertible, that Trimble never committed the crime. This is borne out by a mass of testimony on file in the office of the governor, who says that in addition thereto Judge Dean who sentenced Trimble, asked for his pardon in a regular way, and supplemented his request with repeated personal interviews saying that he was so thoroughly convinced of Trimble's innocence that his conscience would not cease overriding him until the man was liberated. It is a further fact that if Trimble was guilty, his wife was equally so and when a change of venue was granted in her case to another county, the case was dismissed by the Graham county authorities, leaving the inference that she could not be convicted by a fair trial before an unprejudiced jury.

Several additional notices of condemnation, calling for sidewalk in various parts of the city were passed last night under suspension of the rules to take the place of defective ordinances already passed. On these latter the property owners still have twenty days in which to let contracts for their walks before the city proceeds to build for them.

The sewer committee last night asked and was granted authority to order a curfew of sewer pipe to meet demands of property owners.

On motion of Alderman Wilkerson, the council approved and ordered the mayor to sign the contracts of the city and the Water Supply company, and to examine the company's property and pass on its value. By the council resolution ordering the examination the city agrees to pay half of the expense and the water company the

CITY CAN'T AFFORD NEW FIRE APPARATUS

Finance Committee of Council Reports it Has No Funds.

GARBAGE SYSTEM IS CREATED

The proposed $10,000 increase in the equipment of the Albuquerque fire department, which increase was to consist of the purchase of a fire engine, hook and ladder truck, more hose and horses and the employment of additional firemen to man the new equipment, has, probably, failed through. This result is all due to the fact that the finance committee of the city council reported to that body last night that it could not see how the city could afford at this time to make such an expenditure, inasmuch as it has not the money in the treasury. The report of the finance committee as presented by Chairman Hild, and adopted by the council, is as follows:

Prospective Financial Condition of City at end of Fiscal Year, April, 1908:
Warrants paid this year at end of second quarter.....	$21,328
Figuring next two quarters on same basis.....	21,328
Total paid by warrants last year.....	35,402
Excess expenditures paid by warrants this year over last.....	4,274
Warrants paid last year.....	$38,402
Receipts last year, not including balances on hand at beginning of year, and after deducting amounts paid into Park Funds, Library Funds and City Hall Funds.....	37,477

Excess expenditures over receipts.....	925
Without any increase of receipts, the excess of expenditures over receipts for this year would be.....	$5,199
Probable increase in amount collected for licenses.....	4,280
Probable increase in taxes collected, not including portion going to Library, Park and City Hall Funds.....	1,600
Total prospective increase of receipts available.....	$1,100
Total prospective increase of expenditures, including what would be deficit on last year's basis.....	$1,199
Cash balance on hand at end of fiscal year.....	$ 901

The above standing of the city's finances speaks for itself. Not only has the city no funds to buy the proposed fire engine, but it demonstrates clearly that the city is unable to pay the additional cost of running an engine. The only possible way to purchase a fire engine would be by public subscription of the citizens to pay running expenses, the city furnishing storage room and the present city fire department to assist in running the engine.

LOUIS HILFELD, THOMAS ISHERWOOD.

Garbage Ordinance Passed. At last the council has adopted some plan for disposing of the garbage and refuse of the city. The ordinance providing for a garbage system presented by Alderman Hanley at the last regular meeting of the council came up last night on its third reading and after some discussion was passed by an unanimous vote. The ordinance has been approved by the board of health and by all the physicians who have examined it and it is expected to work satisfactorily. The ordinance provides for the appointment of a city scavenger by whom it will be to collect all garbage, refuse, dead animals and filth of all kinds and cart the same to a spot to be purchased by the city, where a kiln will be built for the burning of this trash.

The ordinance further provides that the city scavenger must furnish his own team and wagon and in the way of compensation he is to receive a sum not exceeding twenty-five cents for each can of garbage or refuse removed. Certain prices are fixed for the removal of dead animals, based upon the size of the animal and the difficulty of removal. All householders are required to keep covered metal trash cans, one for garbage and the other for ashes. The only expense to the city will be the purchase of a suitable dumping ground where the refuse will be burned.

Salary for City Engineer.

Alderman Hanley presented an ordinance providing for a city engineering department and the employment of a city engineer at a fixed salary. The ordinance was referred to the finance committee for consideration. It is very voluminous and remodels the duties of the city engineering department, provides for markers and monuments for establishing grades and requiring more elaborate and permanent records.

Another pet measure presented by Mr. Hanley was one asking that the council provide for a better system of officially numbering the houses in the city. Acting upon Alderman Hanley's recommendation the council granted to E. M. Carroll the right to number the houses in Albuquerque and to erect street signs. This work is to be done without expense to the city and when completed will do away with the present unsatisfactory method of numbering houses.

Much Routine Business. Several additional notices of condemnation, calling for sidewalk in various parts of the city were passed last night under suspension of the rules to take the place of defective ordinances already passed. On these latter the property owners still have twenty days in which to let contracts for their walks before the city proceeds to build for them.

The sewer committee last night asked and was granted authority to order a curfew of sewer pipe to meet demands of property owners.

On motion of Alderman Wilkerson, the council approved and ordered the mayor to sign the contracts of the city and the Water Supply company, and to examine the company's property and pass on its value. By the council resolution ordering the examination the city agrees to pay half of the expense and the water company the other half. By the contract with the city, Mr. Wilkerson is required to make his report within ninety days, allowing for sickness or unavoidable delays.

Property owners on South Water street appealed to the council last night to extend the notice on that street from from avenue to Bull avenue. The petition was signed by almost all of the property owners in the district affected and was referred to the water committee for immediate report.

G. N. Maron appeared for the Southwestern Brewery and Ice company to ask permission to lay pipes across North First street to carry heat and water from the company's plant to its new office building about to be erected at the corner of First and Fruit avenues. The permission was granted.

The official reports for October showed a balance in the city treasury on the first of November of $11,347.

The city clerk reported licenses collected to the amount of $2,323, and the chief of police reported fines for the month to the amount of $679.

Mayor McKee asked for a report from the building committee relative to the proposed city hall. Dr. Harrison, chairman of the committee, reported that he had received a price on the property on the corner of T-lomas road and Second street and that he had been unable to get a reduction. Alderman Harrison recommended that the property be purchased. After some discussion the committee was instructed to make further investigation and report at the next meeting of the council.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING

APPROPRIATION MADE FOR PURCHASE OF MORE EQUIPMENT FOR MUSIC DEPARTMENT, AND PRODUCTIVE BUSINESS WAS TRANSACTED.

Last night at the Central school building the board of education met in regular monthly session for the transaction of routine business. The board voted an appropriation for the purchase of music and additional equipment for the music department of the city schools which will place this department on a plane with the other leading departments in the schools.

Superintendent J. E. Clark's report for the month of October was presented and accepted. The report gave some interesting figures as to the enrollment for the month just passed, showing that there was an average daily attendance of 1,630 pupils, the largest for any corresponding month in the history of the city schools. Although the schools are crowded no special inconvenience is being experienced and the work is progressing very satisfactorily under the supervision of the new superintendent.

Permission was granted the New Mexico Educational association to use the high school during its meeting here in December. The board also approved the oratorical contest, to be held as a feature of this meeting. The board adjourned, after transacting much minor routine business, which had accumulated since the last meeting.

GOVERNMENT SUES TO RECOVER LIEU LAND

Suit for the recovery of forty acres of patented land held by Thomas N. Willis of Final county, Arizona, was filed last night by the United States, by Attorney General Moody.

This case is important, as it is believed to be the starting wedge for more land fraud cases. The complaint says there is no recourse in common law, and asks for court of equity, as "Willis' title was regularly secured."

The patentees secured the land in lieu of forty acres released by them on the formation of the Pine Mountain (Cal.) forest reserve. The complaint alleges the interests there were irregularly acquired, but does not state how, in detail, saying the facts will be learned in the exhaustive investigation about to be undertaken, and which, it is intimated, will disclose other frauds.

SHORT SERVICES AT THE CASTLE

Over the Remains of Franz Huning, the Eulogy Being by R. W. D. Bryan.

BODY TAKEN TO DENVER

The remains of Franz Huning, the pioneer whose death was chronicled in The Evening Citizen of yesterday afternoon, were shipped to the crematory at Denver on the delayed passenger train No. 2 this morning, where in accordance with the provisions of his will, they will be cremated, placed in an urn, and brought back to this city. Mrs. Huning, son-in-law, and Otto Diekmann, an old-time employee and friend, accompanied the body.

This morning, at 7:30 o'clock, short services were held at the Montezuma castle of the deceased, where only the immediate family and relatives, with the pall-bearers, the undertaker and a few old time male friends, attended. This service—a simple, quiet funeral service, was also at the request of the deceased and so specified in his will, and when the small crowd had assembled in the parlor, standing around a handsome casket, the top of which was covered with floral tributes, R. W. D. Bryan stepped forward and pronounced a most eloquent eulogy upon the dead. Mr. Bryan said in part:

In his will the deceased requested that some old friend speak at his funeral. The family have asked me to comply with this wish. I am honored by the selection and willingly lay upon the bier of my deceased friend, this tribute of my respect and esteem. It has been my privilege to know him for the past twenty-three years and from my very first acquaintance with him, he has always manifested a quick and appreciative sympathy and a genuine fellowship. Under at times, a brusque manner, I always found a kindly disposition, a hearty appreciation and a generous helpfulness. I regret that the demand of a busy life interfered with the frequency of these communications with him, which he always cheered and helped me. Doubtless we all feel that the constant effort for gain interfered with that social intercourse between congenial friends, which brightens and beautifies our lives. I rejoice in the thought of that eternity which will afford time to cultivate and enjoy the friends whose mental traits and moral virtues appeal to us and awaken a full responsive cord of affection.

Mr. Bryan then spoke of the sterling qualities of the deceased as a business man and as a citizen and the rich legacy left to family and friends in his reputation for honesty and fair dealing, and for the unimpeachable integrity of his word.

As we stand here in the presence of this lifeless body, the spirit goes to him who brought it into being, we cannot suppress the thought of an immortal life.

Mr. Ingersoll, in one of the most beautiful gems in the English language, thus gave voice to the thought standing beside his brother's grave: "Life is a narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. We strive in vain to look beyond the heights. We cry aloud and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry. From the voiceless lips of the unreplying dead there comes no word; but in the night of death, hope seems a star and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing."

Amid the engrossing cares of life and the troubles and the anxieties, we pause a moment at the coffin which contains the lifeless corpse of our friend and gaze into his mysterious unknown whence his spirit is to ask ourselves, if, when God sends his messenger for us, will we be ready to greet the summons with joyous confidence?

The tender thoughts of our hearts, as thus we gather to pay our last tribute of respect to one gone before, are beautifully expressed in Tennyson's "Deserted House."

"Life and thought have gone away, Side by side Leaving door and windows wide: Careless tenants they! All within is dark as night; In the window is no light; And no murmur at the door; No frequent on its hinge before."

Close the door, the shutters close, Or thro' the windows we shall see: The nakedness and vacancy, Of the dark, deserted house, Come away; no more of mirth, Is here or merry making sound; The house was built on the earth, And shall fall again to ground.

Come away, for life and thought, Here no longer dwell, But in a city glorious— A great and distant city—have bought A mansion incorruptible. Would they could have stayed with us.

Oh, Thou Eternal One! whose power called into existence the soul of our departed friend and who has now called it to Thyself and whom many of us love to call Our Father, we commit to Thy care and keeping, the spirit which has left its corporeal May the flowers of immortality which hope and love have here caused to spring up in our hearts, blossom and make fragrant our lives. May hatred, envy, malice and all evil be banished from our lives and may we always act toward one another with mutual confidence and forbearance, as children of one loving Father.

We ask Thy gracious benediction upon the bereaved, and Thy help and guidance while we live, in the hope and promise of a blessed immortality. Amen.

After these beautiful words Undertaker Strong removed the lid and a last look was taken at the face of the departed husband, father, friend and pioneer. The casket was then borne to the hearse, and the cortege wended its silent way to the depot where the casket with its dead was placed on the north-bound passenger train for Denver.

There are several rumors in circulation as to the bequests in the will of the deceased. The Citizen has been requested to state that the will was informally opened yesterday, in order to follow out the instructions of the deceased as to the disposition of his remains. The contents of the paper will be made known to the public on the return to the city of Messrs. Ferguson and Diekmann, accompanied by the son, Arno Huning, who, it is now thought, will meet them in Denver. The deceased had a brother, Henry Huning, residing at Santa Barbara, Cal. He was notified of the death by wire yesterday afternoon.

SETTLERS STAMPEDE TO RICH VALLEY IN ARIZONA

DISCOVERY OF WATER NEAR DOUGLAS CAUSES EXCITEMENT AND HOMESTEADERS TAKE UP A LARGE STRETCH OF TERRITORY.

A special dispatch to the Los Angeles Examiner from Tucson, Arizona, dated Nov. 2, says: The discovery of artesian water, near Douglas, Arizona, has caused a rush of settlers into the Sulphur Springs valley of Cochise county, where a dozen homesteads are now being taken up every day. A stretch of country about nine miles in length has been died off during the last week. The soil of the valley is rich, but has never been tilled on account of lack of water. The artesian wells will place all of the lower valley within the tillable area and it is predicted that the discovery will result in building up a large and rich agricultural section in that part of Cochise county.

Tangle Over Election. A unique political situation is presented at Tucson, for by reason of the overlooking of the new primary election law, passed by the last legislature of Arizona, it is impossible to hold a legal election. The mayor, who is a democrat, has agreed to name the three candidates for the council, who are successful at the polls to succeed those whose terms would otherwise expire, but as no legal election can be held will hold over until their successors are legally chosen. These three men have promised to resign on the first of the year, in order to enable the mayor to appoint the three successful candidates to succeed them.

Under that arrangement, both political parties have made preparations to hold primaries and the council has called an election, which while it will not be legal, will enable the people to elect men of their own choice in the council.

COSTILLA CASE ON TRIAL

ATTORNEYS WILL TRY FOR DECISION ON LAW POINTS—DAY AND NIGHT SESSIONS.

In the case of the settlers of the town of Costilla versus the United States Freehold Land and Immigration company, which was called last week in the first judicial district court of the county of Santa Fe, at the territorial capital, has developed to a point where the case is now being heard by the court and the jury selected Saturday. Following is a list of the jurors:

Jose E. Garcia, Prudentio Sandoval, Genaro Archuleta, Ambrosio Naranjo, Mariano Sanchez, Leandro Martinez, Francisco Martinez, Antonio Quintana, Jesus Oriego, Jose Dominguez, Estevan Lujan and Francisco Escudero.

The attorneys do not seem to think that very much of the case will be left to the decision of the jury, as each side hopes to demonstrate to the court that it is merely an interpretation of the laws of New Mexico that is required to decide the case, and therefore the jury will have nothing to decide, or if it does it will be merely a case of deciding the points of law as outlined by the court.

The court convened this morning at 10 o'clock and will hold daily and nightly sessions from now on until the case is decided.

SHOT AT A GHOST AND DISAPPEARED.

Since I. B. McCarthy shot at a ghost or a man in his room one night last week, ghost stories have been going the rounds, says the Clondroff Silver Lining. Mr. McCarthy was a form in front of him, he spoke to it, and the object, whatever it was, started towards him, when he blazed away at its feet and it took to its heels, going through the door at a very sprightly gait. Mr. McCarthy says from all appearances, the object was a man, and he thought he saw something glitter in its hand as it started towards him. He stepped backwards until he reached the location of his gun, when he grabbed it and commenced to shoot.

SUIT IN DENVER AGAINST ATTORNEY HOWARD.

Suit has been brought in Denver by I. B. and J. S. Porter, in compel G. Hill Howard, of New Mexico, to account of the proceeds of a sale involving the disposal of 154,000 acres of ranch land. They ask that a receiver be appointed. The plaintiffs sold the land for Howard some time ago. The agreement, prior to be received by Howard was seventy-five cents an acre, but all money which should be paid over and above that amount should go to the Porters for making the sale. The land was sold for $250,000, just $125,000 more than Howard has asked, and they claim that amount as their due.

JEMEZ HOT SPRINGS

A BATCH OF SMALL PARAGRAPHS FROM A LIVE REPORT.

Special correspondence: Jemez Hot Springs, Nov. 6.—There has been several Albuquerque parties here hunting this season, and they all get plenty of deer and turkey. The mountains are full of game this season. One of our ranchers was hunting his cows yesterday, and ran into three bears in a clump of bushes. He says he got so close to them that he could feel their breath. He made his exit at a Dan Patch pace.

Some of our ranchers are cutting their last crop of alfalfa. Most all of the apples and peaches are gathered. There crop was a fine one and very few were lost to the birds.

The bath houses are doing a fair business for this season of the year. Block's stage still continues to run three times a week between here and Albuquerque.

This is the prettiest season of the year here. The days could not be nicer if they were made to order. Our public school opens up Monday. Miss Lucila Perez, teacher. The Mission school has almost a full house of scholars. Miss Patterson conducts it in good style. She is a most excellent teacher.

Our stockmen received this week eleven wagon loads of freight. He has now one of the best stocks of goods in the mountains.

Attorney T. B. Catron, of Santa Fe, leaves this morning for the morning on route from a business trip to Denver.
