DEER SEASON ENDS TO-DAY

Sportsmen Haven't Been Satisfied With Venison Steak, Says Mr. Gable

TEACHERS TAUGHT A LESSON

Two Certificates Are Revoked Because of the Violation of Contract.

Governor William J. Mills has appointed Castulo Marquez of Duran, Torrance county, a notary public.

Back From Duke City. Captain Fred Fornoff of the New Mexico Mounted Police has returned from Albuquerque where he appeared as a witness in the Insley case.

For the Treasury. Territorial Treasurer Rufus J. Pallen has received $1,030.30 from Warden Cleofes Romero of the territorial penitentiary for convicts' earnings and $19.25 from Game and Fish Warden Thomas P. Gable.

Land Entries. The following are the land entries at the Santa Fe land office: Felipe Brown Bohrsch, Los Tanos; John C. Baxton, Levey; Ursula L. de Salas, Cuervo; Ramon Trujillo, Questa; Faustina Chavez, Pastura; Anacleto Martinez, Chaperito; Robinson Sarrasino, Cuervo; Frank B. Cox, Martha A. Cox, Kelly; H. H. Holbert, Gallup.

Many Meetings in Capitol. The hall of representatives, the council chamber and other halls and rooms of the capitol are filled with educators today for they are holding various meetings of the city and town and county school superintendents.

In the corridor of the annex the screens on which exhibits are to be mounted have been put in place and it is evident that the exhibits will be in plain view of all passersby.

New Company Incorporated. Articles of incorporation were filed in the territorial secretary's office today by the Silver City Power Company with office in Silver City. Grant county, and Julian B. Downey is named the statutory agent. The capital stock is $100,000, consisting of 10,000 shares at $10. The company begins with $2,000 capital and the stockholders are Julian B. Downey, 68 shares; Edward T. Hann, 66 shares, and John W. Carter, 66 shares.

Deer Season Over. Today being the 15th of November the deer season is over. This season has lasted but a month and this year it has been free from complaints especially regarding Indians. A year or two ago Indians were found killing more deer than the law permitted and they were severely dealt with.

"I do not think the sportsmen have reaped a great venison harvest," said Game and Fish Warden Gable today in discussing the sport of the past month in this territory. "Of course a good many hunters have been out after the deer but they have not met with any phenomenal success and in my opinion, have not greatly reduced the deer population in our preserves."

Education Board. The territorial board of education is in session today and all the members of the board are present except C. M. Light, Dr. W. E. Garrison and Dr. E. McQueen Gray. Dr. Gray will arrive this evening, however.

The board took up the matter of certification of teachers a full report on which will be made later. One thing of importance acted on by the board already was the revoking of teachers certificates to two teachers in the territory because they failed to regard the binding effect of a contract with the territory. It appears that these teachers accepted contracts to teach and then broke them. The board intends to make it difficult for them to break any more contracts of a "teaching" nature.

INDEPENDENTS FIGHT REORGANIZATION PLAN. Petition to Intervene in Government's Dissolution Suit Against Tobacco Trust.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, Nov. 15.—The filing today by independent tobacco dealers of a petition to intervene in the government's dissolution suit against the tobacco trust makes certain an appeal from the plan to the United States supreme court and may delay disintegration of the trust in the opinion of counsel in the case.

Should the independent's petition be granted by the circuit court, the case will be taken to the supreme court by the protestants, who would then be parties to the suit, their counsel, Felix H. Levy, declared. Should the circuit court deny the independent's plea, he added they will take it to the higher tribunal notwithstanding.

The independent recite in their petition that they are vitally interested in the dissolution of the Tobacco Trust and that "the decision will not in substance and effect, conform to the requirements of the opinion and decree made in this cause by the United States supreme court."

CARL MORRIS AND CON COMISKEY ARE MATCHED.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Chicago, Ill., Nov. 15.—Chicago promoters have matched Carl Morris of Oklahoma, and Con Comiskey of Chicago, and the fight probably will take place in Kansas City on November 28.

AMERICANS AT TORREON SCARED

Left in Great Danger by Withdrawal of Eight Hundred Troops

ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING HIGH

Natives Expected to Get All of the High Salaried Positions.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) El Paso, Texas, Nov. 15.—The withdrawal last night of eight hundred federal troops from Torreon, Mexico, leaves Americans there in great danger according to a telegram received today. The message urges that the government at Washington be notified that Americans in the Mexican mining city are in constant danger from the thousands of native strikers whose sentiments are declared to be violently anti-American.

Massacre of Chinese. It was at Torreon that the massacre of the Chinese occurred during the rebellion against President Diaz last winter. One of the pet grievances among the more ignorant of the peons was that nearly all executive positions in Mexico were held by Americans, although Francisco I. Madero now president, always discouraged the idea, many of the peons believed that with the new regime in the city of Mexico, Americans would be driven out and their high salaries positions given to Mexicans. This is one of the disappointments which adds to the ugly temper of the striking miners at Torreon.

General Cuellar Asked to Come Home. Brownsville, Texas, Nov. 15.—General Romulo Cuellar, who recently arrived here from Mexico, has received a message from the Mexican government assuring him that he could return to his home with perfect safety to himself, and also inviting him to visit the capital.

Denial by Reyes. He replied he would not return until his son, who is under arrest at San Fernando, Mexico, on a political charge, is released. General Reyes, at San Antonio, yesterday, denied a statement that he would leave here in a few days for Brownsville to confer with General Cuellar with reference to a revolt against President Madero.

General Strike at Torreon. Torreon, Mexico, Nov. 15.—A general strike has been declared here. The bakers have joined the movement, and a bread famine is threatened. Five thousand workmen are idle, including a thousand smelter employees.

House Servants on Strike. Even house servants have joined the movement and are quitting their places. The market place has been closed and the street cars are no longer being operated.

A thousand federal soldiers are on their way here from Monterrey. So far there has been no destruction of property.

Government Prepares for Trouble. Laredo, Texas, Nov. 15.—Regarding the reported movement of Mexican troops between Monterrey and Laredo to forestall alleged insurrectionary activity, it was definitely ascertained today that fifty rurales have gone from Monterrey to Lampazos. Rurales have been transferred from Lampazos to La Jarita, twenty miles south of Laredo. The Nuevo Laredo garrison was augmented by seventy men.

MOTION TO APPROPRIATE $50,000 FOR M'NAMARAS.

Labor Leaders Are Seeking to Prevent American Federation From Appropriating Sum.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 15.—Labor leaders are trying to prevent the introduction into the convention of the American Federation of Labor, now in session here, of a resolution framed by the California delegation appropriating $50,000 for the defense of the McNamara brothers.

A large sum already has been raised for this purpose by private subscription and the leaders contend, it is said, that whatever money is needed for the McNamara defense can be obtained in this manner without drawing on the funds in the non-toe-doll stocked treasury of the Federation. Proponents of the resolution assert that the leaders are fearful lest it precipitate a fight on the floor since some of the delegates are known to be opposed to such an appropriation.

COMMISSION MAKES ITS REPORT TO PRESIDENT TAFT.

It Will Not Be Made Public Until It Is Transmitted to Congress.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—The commission appointed by President Taft a year ago to investigate the question of bringing future issues of railroad stocks and bonds under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission has made its report to the president.

President Taft will transmit the commission's findings to Congress and they will not be made public until then.

NO FULL JURY BOX IN SIGHT

One Man After Another Is Being Excused in McNamara Trial

JURORS MUST BE TAXPAYERS

It Is Expected That the Sixth Venire Will Be Entirely Exhausted.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 15.—Prospects for a full jury box in the McNamara trial receded rapidly today when the first three men whose names were called were excused one after the other. T. J. Green, salesman, accepted yesterday by both sides as legally qualified to try James B. McNamara for the murder of Charles J. Haggerty, a victim of the Los Angeles Times explosion, was excused today on a medical certificate regarding an intermittent illness. L. S. Gilhouse, who followed Green, was excused because of his opposition to capital punishment, and F. E. Alderson, a venireman not yet called into the box, was dismissed when it was found he was not on the county assessment roll, which is necessary in California as a qualification for jury service.

Michael W. Corcoran, a salesman, accepted yesterday by the defense, was taken in hand today by Assistant District Attorney S. L. Vermila, for examination by the state. Corcoran's nationality and religious beliefs correspond with those of the defendant. He believed in labor unions to "a certain extent" he told Vermila.

It appeared possible that the sixth venire, of which only six men were left at the opening of court today, might be entirely exhausted before the box was filled. Three of the men now in the box are sworn jurors and seven others have been accepted as to cause by both sides.

Another Talesman Accepted. Los Angeles, Nov. 15.—Another talesman, making eleven in all, virtually, was secured today in the McNamara murder trial. He is C. A. Heath, an Englishman by birth, and he was accepted by the defense after an extended examination. Assistant District Attorney S. L. Vermila, who examined Heath for the state, said in the course of an intermission that he looked like a good man and would be taken by the state unless some unknown and unexpected reason for challenging him developed.

A feature of the day was the elimination of M. W. Corcoran, 68 years old. Corcoran was excused by Judge Bordwell, who interrupted the examination by the state to say that he did not believe Corcoran's age qualified him to stand the strain of the long trial.

Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief of counsel for the defense, remarked that one man T. H. Elliott, already accepted, is eight years older than Corcoran.

"We'll not discuss the matter," said the court.

"Mr. Corcoran is excused," accompanied by a bailiff, talesman J. B. Sexton was allowed to visit his sick brother during the noon intermission.

PROFESSIONALS HOLD MEETING

The National Association of Baseball Leagues Organized Today

MANY CASES OF DISPUTE

An Attempt Will Be Made to Settle These at Future Sessions.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 15.—Delegates to the convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues organized early today and adjourned to a late hour, when the first business session will be held.

The American Association and the Eastern League are represented. They seek higher classification. At present they are rated class A, the same as the Southern League.

They base their claims to advancement to "AA" on the census asserting that New Orleans is the only city in the Southern League, comparing favorably with those of the American Association and the Eastern League. Club disputes and personal controversies concerning players are to be considered by the National Board of Arbitration. About two hundred cases are before the board, as well as claims aggregating more than $25,000 and besides these there is to be considered applications from minor leagues for an advancement in classification. A continuation of the ten year agreement under which the association was formed is considered a certainty.

WHO'S ELECTED THIS EVENING?

Two Roosevelt County Precincts Held No Election At All

OTHERS THAT DIDN'T REPORT

Sierra County Especially Difficult to Get Definite News From.

"How old is Ann?" isn't puzzling as the question of the crowd that besieges the New Mexican every morning asking: "Who is elected today?" Revised returns received today were rather unfavorable to the Republicans. In Socorro county they lost the member of the council, A. C. Abeytia by 140 votes, and cut down the majorities on the state ticket. A report from Valencia county cut down the Republican pluralities. A report from Union county had a discrepancy of 100 votes on the face of it in its return for R. H. Hanna for supreme court judge. Another report showed that two precincts in Roosevelt county held no election at all. Frantic appeals to Sierra county brought no other reply than that total McDonald and Bursum vote, and the rather indefinite statement that the Democratic state ticket carried that county by 40. Torrance county finally sent in a complete return except for Palma precinct, which it was declared went 17 to 30 for the Republican state ticket. Thus all along the line, there were indefiniteness and gaps that had to be filled by estimates. Even here in Santa Fe county, the secret of the vote in four precincts is locked up in the office of Territorial Secretary Jaffa. It is known that these precincts gave Bursum fifty majority and the rest of the state ticket, in the estimates, was therefore given the same majority, although it is likely that it ran a few votes ahead of Bursum. In every instance of that kind, the Republican state ticket was given the worst of it in the following tabulation which gives the total vote received by each candidate in the territory:

ITALIANS REPULSE TURKISH ATTACK

Arabs and Their Allies Driven Back at Derna and at Tobruk

GRAVE CHARGES BY CHRISTIANS

The Mohammedans Used Bullets That Were Intentionally Misshaped.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Tripoli, Nov. 15.—A story from an Italian source says that attacks by the Turks on Derna and the Italian outposts at Tobruk were repulsed. Many Italians, it is said, have been wounded by bullets and heavier projectiles which had been purposely misshaped in violation of the rules of war.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE INVESTIGATES TRUST PROBLEM.

Began Its Sessions Today, But Has Adopted No Definite Plan of Procedure.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—The investigation of the trust problem by the Senate committee on Interstate Commerce began today without a definite plan of procedure on the part of the committee.

Senator Newlands of Nevada, was the only witness. He asked the committee to recommend as a tentative measure the passage of his federal incorporation law leaving the changes in the Sherman anti-trust law to be made after the committee's hearings are concluded.

The committee held a conference in an effort to map out a plan for the hearings and will hold a second meeting tomorrow.

HENRY BEATTIE MUST SWING

Governor Mann Declines to Commute Sentence to Life Imprisonment

WILL NOT SET A PRECEDENT

Petition Presented to Grant a Respite from the Gallows of Thirty Days.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Richmond, Va., Nov. 15.—Governor Mann today declined to interfere in the case of Henry Clay Beattie Jr., and the young wife murderer's last hope of escaping the electric chair on Friday, November 24, was swept away.

Attorneys for the condemned held their last conference with the governor, and just before noon, the latter announced his decision not to interfere in any way with the decree of the Chesterfield county court which was sustained by the supreme court of appeals of the state.

A petition had been presented to the governor praying for a respite of at least thirty days for spiritual preparation.

In a signed statement, Governor Mann said in part:

"I followed this case during the trial and as its horrible facts were developed, regretted that a crime so cruel and malicious should have occurred within the confines of this state.

"In the decision of every question which was presented to the able and impartial judge who presided at the trial, he was careful to give the benefit of every reasonable doubt to the prisoner; that he did not err is shown in the refusal of the supreme court of appeals to grant a writ of error.

"That Beattie is guilty of the wilful, deliberate and cruel murder of his young wife I have not the slightest doubt, nor is it insisted that there shall be any greater relief offered than the commutation of his sentence to imprisonment for life.

"I do not think the affidavits of Paul Beattie printed in the papers, or any other evidence of consideration brought to my attention sufficient for that purpose.

"To grant a respite in so plain a case would be to set a precedent, would be to temporize with the law and to encourage appeals to the supreme court with the sole purpose of gaining time.

"I believe the best way to prevent such crimes as this is to punish them adequately, certainly and speedily. Therefore, the judgment of the circuit court of Chesterfield will be carried into effect without interference from me."

Beattie Visibly Affected.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 15.—Beattie's father this afternoon told the prisoner in the death cell of the penitentiary, that the governor had refused all aid. Young Beattie received it in silence, the guards say, but his iron nerve gave way at last and he was visibly affected at the loss of his last hope.

STIRRING EVENTS IN ORIENT

The Struggle Between Rebels and Imperialists in China Is Accute

FOREIGN NEUTRALITY ASKED

Fighting at Chang Chow, and Mob Loots Town of Tsuan-Chow.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 15.—A Hong Kong cable to the Chinese daily paper here today says that Nanking has been captured by the revolutionists.

New Premier.

Peking, Nov. 15.—The most important development at the capital today was the publication in the official Gazette of Yuan Shi Kai's expression of thanks to the throne for his appointment of him as premier. This is regarded as tantamount to his acceptance of the office.

Neutrality Requested.

Amoy, Nov. 15.—The Republicans, who took formal possession of the city, have issued an address to the foreign consuls, in which the neutrality of the latter is requested and assurance given that their lives and their property, including the churches will be protected. The city remained quiet today.

The American cruiser Saratoga, and gunboat Quiros, will sail for the north. The British cruiser Monmouth is relieving the British sloop Rosario.

Hai-cheng, on the mainland, southwest of Amoy, has gone over to the revolutionists. The city magistrate has been made a prisoner.

Fighting at Chang Chow.

Chang Chow, twenty-four miles west of here, reports fighting there. Words comes from Tsuan-Chow, a seaport fifty miles northwest of Amoy, that the local officials have fled and the rough element is in control.

Uncle Sam Has Duty to Perform.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—The state department has practically decided to send a regiment of troops from Manila to Chin Wing Tao, a seaport in China about 250 miles from Peking on the gulf of Pechili. The purpose is to perform an international duty under the Boxer treaty in keeping open the line of communication between Peking and the sea.

Royal Family to Retire.

Pekin, Nov. 15.—That arrangements are being made for the possible retirement of the royal family to Je-Hol is believed, following the publishing of an imperial edict simultaneously ordering Hsi-Tung, the Tartar General at Je-Hol, the emperor's summer residence, to vacate in favor of Hsi Liang formerly viceroy of Manchuria, a trusted counselor to the throne. This step will be taken only as a last resort, however.

Favor Republic.

The provincial assembly of Nehi Li today adopted a memorial to the throne, favoring the establishment of a republic with Yuan Shi Kai as president. The assembly has been accused of inaction and it is possible the move is only a pretense at doing something.

ARGUMENT ON PACIFIC COAST LEMON RATE.

Railroads Want to Increase it From a Dollar to $1.15 a Hundred Pounds.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Transcontinental railroads and citrus fruit growers on the Pacific coast were involved in argument today before the Interstate Commerce Commission by direction of the Commerce court of the case of the Arlington Heights Fruit Exchange and other citrus fruit growers against the Southern Pacific Company and several hundred other freight carriers. The commission ordered that the rate on lemons from Pacific coast points to eastern destinations should not exceed one dollar a hundred pounds, the rate of $1.15 a hundred pounds on oranges being held reasonable.

The Commerce court suspended the order of the commission as to lemons indicating that a rate of $1.15 was reasonable and directing that the commission prepare the case in that view.

The lemon growing industry in California is yet in its infancy, the traffic to the east aggregating about 6,500 carloads annually, while the traffic in oranges amounts to approximately 39,000 carloads a year.

The rate of $1 on lemons was made to encourage the industry and to enable the California growers to compete with foreign lemons.

Then the railways increased the lemon rate to a parity with the orange rate, the shippers objected.

FOOTBALL TEAMS BAR PROFESSIONALS.

University of Minnesota Has Withdrawn Captain Picking From Wisconsin Game.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 15.—The University of Minnesota has withdrawn Captain Picking from the Wisconsin game on Saturday and later will make a thorough investigation of his standing. Minnesota also will ask Wisconsin to investigate charges against Moll, Tandberg, Mackmillan and Hoffel.

NEXT YEAR IN DUKE CITY?

Educational Association May Hold Its 1912 Convention There.

SCHEDULE OF LEGISLATION

Chairman Milne Appoints Important Committees to Prepare a Schedule.

A few hours before the opening of the New Mexico Educational Association in the Duke City, it is discovered that Albuquerque is already lining up its army of pedagogues to get the convention to the Duke City in 1912.

As far as can be ascertained from county, city and town superintendents the Duke City's petition is likely to be heard with willing ears by the educators now in the Ancient City.

Albuquerque, of course, lacks some of the climatic, scenic and romantic advantages of the Ancient City, but it has good hotels, plenty of room in its theater for holding a convention and other advantages including a "hustling citizenship."

Even before the firing of the opening gun of the convention, the teachers and superintendents are getting down to work.

With the deliberation of legislators, in whose rooms or council chambers they met, the county school superintendents, in the senate chamber, and the city and town superintendents and principals in the hall of representatives, held conferences this morning. A lengthy program had been mapped out for each conference and it was more or less religiously followed.

Chairman John Milne presided at the meeting of the city and town superintendents. The first speaker was Superintendent M. H. Brasher of Roswell whose subject was "How We Can Unify City Courses of Study in New Mexico." This afternoon other papers will be read and much interest centers in that of T. W. Conway, of Raton, who raises the vexed question, "Should Higher Instruction District Courses of Study in Our High Schools?"

Appoints Committee.

Mr. Milne appointed a committee to prepare a schedule of needed legislation and the result of this committee's work will be looked forward to with keen interest by educators.

On the committee are Superintendents Poore of Carlsbad, chairman; Osborne of Clayton; Conway of Raton, Brasher of Roswell and Wood of Santa Fe.

Many Register.

The work of registering the teachers as they arrive is conducted at the rooms of the New Mexico Museum in the historic old Palace building, and a busy scene is witnessed there. The Quay county delegation's advance guard arrived and its badges of purple with gold letters were quite striking.

DEFENDANTS ARE SEEKING CHANGE OF VENUE.

They Are Accused of Tarring and Feathering Miss Mary Chamberlain.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Lincoln Center, Kans., Nov. 15.—Charging that County Attorney McCannless had conspired to spread erroneous reports of the tarring of Miss Mary Chamberlain, attorneys for the nine defendants, accused of being members of the "tar party" today filed with Judge Grover an application for a change of venue. McCannless is accused of having caused Edward R. Rector, the barber who betrayed Miss Chamberlain to her enemies, to be brought out of jail for the sole purpose of compelling him to give an interview to a metropolitan newspaper reporter, and of having himself "interviewed regularly by night in his office in the court house."

Other details regarding the publicity given the tarring of the young Shady Bend school teacher, which has convulsed four counties and aroused a storm over the entire state as a stain upon the honor of Kansas, are given as reasons why the nine prominent citizens charged with the tarring could not expect a fair trial in either Lincoln, Ellsworth, Ottawa, or Saline counties.

Miss Chamberlain, dressed in black appeared in court today and was closeted several hours with Attorney McCannless and Assistant Attorney General Hawkes. She refused to give out any statement further than to say that at the conclusion of the criminal hearings she intends to institute suits against six of the defendants for personal damages.

SENATOR OWEN CREATES A MILD SENSATION.

Declares Doctor Wiley's Enemies Are Opposing National Department of Health.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Kansas City, Nov. 15.—United States Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, created a sensation at today's session of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress when he declared that he had every reason to believe that the same people who fought Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry were now furnishing money to oppose the movement looking to the establishment of a national department of health.

SPENT HER MONEY WELL

On beautiful Sheridan avenue, in Detroit, lives Miss Marie Richter in perfect health, although a year ago she was almost a wreck. Writing of her condition at that time she says: "Last winter I was completely run-down and felt fagged-out all the time, was nervous, and had indigestion."

"One of my friends advised me to take Vinol and it has done me great good. The tired, worn, out feeling is all gone and I am strong, vigorous and well. The stomach trouble soon disappeared and now I eat heartily and have perfect digestion. I wish every tired, weak, nervous woman could have Vinol, for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good as that I spent for Vinol."

Thousands of women and men who were formerly weak and sickly owe their present rugged health to the wonderful strength-creating effects of Vinol. If you are pale, weak, nervous and upset you owe it to yourself and family to try Vinol. It will build you up and make you strong. If it does not we give back your money. ## EACH IN HIS OWN TONGUE.

A fire mist and a planet,
A crystal and a cell,
A jellyfish and a saurian,
And caves where the cave men dwell
Then a sense of law and beauty
And a face turned from the cloud.
Some call it evolution
And others call it God.

A haze on the horizon,
The infinite, tender sky,
The ripe, rich tint of the cornfields,
And the wild goose sailing high;
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the golden rod;
So hme fuosrz by ETAOITETAOL
Some of us call it Autumn,
And others call it God.

Like tides on a crescent sea beach
When the moon is new and thin
Into our hearts high yearnings
Come welling and surging in;
Come from the mystic ocean,
Whose rim no foot has trod;
Some of us call it Longing,
And others call it God.

A picket frozen on duty,
A mother starved for her brood;
Socrates drinking the hemlock,
And Jesus on the rood;
And millions, who humble and nameless
The straight, hard pathway trod—
Some call it Consecration,
And others call it God.

Major Eugene A. Lohman, of the faculty of the New Mexico Military Institute, received notice that he had passed the examination for entry into the United States army as a commissioned officer and that he will be accepted as a second lieutenant. Major Lohman took the examination last summer.

Fatally Stabbed in Saloon.

Thomas McLaughlin, aged 36, living at 1130 Lawrence street, Denver, and Ralph Henderson, 26 years, of 1420 South Emerson street, were fatally stabbed in the Goss saloon, Twelfth and Larimer streets, Denver. Their alleged assailants, John and James Bost, aged respectively 35 and 33 years, were arrested. The two injured men were removed to the county hospital where it is reported that they have but a small chance for recovery.

Trying to Collect Whiskey Bill.

Suit was filed in the district court at Roswell wherein N. M. Uri & Company, a corporation doing business in the state of Kentucky is suing J. A. Manning upon his promissory note made payable to the company for the sum of $876.70. The Company alleges in its complaint that J. A. Manning many months ago purchased of it a certain amount of whiskey and gave in consideration thereof his note for the hereinbefore mentioned amount.

He Sold Whiskey.

Thomas Birchfield, charged with selling liquor without proper license and who plead not guilty last June shortly after having been indicted by the special grand jury called to indict James O. Lynch withdrew the not guilty plea at Roswell and entered one of guilty. He was immediately thereafter sentenced by the court to serve three months in the county jail. However, Judge Pope suspended the sentence as long as Birchfield stays out of the fifth judicial district. Mr. Birchfield will no doubt leave within a few days.

Boasted of His Health. Then Died.

William H. Lepere, president of the Independent Coffee and Spice Company, was found dead in his bed at the Denver Athletic Club at Denver. Death is believed to have resulted from heart failure. He was found by the housekeeper shortly before noon, and from the condition of the body it is believed by Coroner Horan that he had been dead for several hours. He always told his friends that he never had an ache or pain in his life. He made this remark to one of his friends at the club before he retired.

FINE MARKET FOR ALL KIND OF CATTLE.

Good Stockers and Feeders Sold Stronger at Kansas City Than They Had for Some Time.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Nov. 15.—There was a fine market on all kinds of cattle from the range country here last week, with the exception that some low class stock cattle sold 10 to 15 lower at the end of the week. Good stockers and feeders sold stronger. A shipment of yearlings from Hereford, Texas, 704 pounds, sold at $5.50, netting close to $36 per head. Beef steers from Colorado sold at $5.15 to $5.75, odd head at $6, and one steer at $7.00. Range heifers from Colorado brought up to $5.00, and cows $4.60. The run of cattle here today is 15,000 head, and the market is strong to 10 higher. Buyers take the range cattle before they look at short fed natives, because the former kill out better. Buyers from the big plants here even go so far as to solicit permission of being "first" on shipments of Colorado beef steers from salesmen. A fine lot of range cattle is here today, and sales are very satisfactory. Beef steers from Rifle sold at $5.40 to $5.75 for nearly everything, with a few head at $6.50, and cows at $3.75 to $4.35. Yearlings from Gunnison brought $5.40 today, 690 pounds, and heifers in the same shipment brought $4.65. Thirty-five cars of Old Mexico, direct, sold here today, steers at $4.00, weighing 765 pounds, cows at $3.75, stags at $3.75. These prices are straight, without any throw outs, and were called 10 higher by the salesman. It is an up market, and the only thing that can retard progress in that direction is a flood of half fat natives, and this is regarded as an impossibility, because the cattle are not believed to be in the country.

Hogs are coming freely, and the quality is improving. Packers evince a great hunger for all kinds, and prices advanced 5 to 10 cents last week, net. The run today is 9,000 head, which is three thousand more than was expected this morning, but they sold 5 to 10 higher, top $6.52 1-2, bulk $6.00 to $6.50. Local prices are practically the same per pound as Chicago and St. Louis prices, and shippers from the East are not taking very many for that reason.

Sheep and lambs came in sparingly last week, and after several days of hesitation, the market finally started upward, and went up 25 cents before it stopped at the end of the week. Supply today is 10,000 head, market 10 higher, best lambs today at $5.80. Because of lack of quality in range offerings, natives have been selling up to the top, but choice range lambs would probably bring upwards of $6.00. Texas panhandle wethers, very fat, brought $4.00 last week, and light ewes are worth $3.75, light yearlings $4.50 to $4.75. The country is waking up to its need of feeding sheep and lambs, and everything moves

FOLKS PAST FIFTY MUST USE CASCARETS

What Glasses Are to Weak Eyes, Cascarets Are to Weak Bowels—A 10 Cent Box Will Truly Amaze You

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. You may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

For about a year I was bothered by a dull ache and weakness across my loins and kidneys. I tried easily, and any exertion brought on severe pains in my back. Hearing Doan's Kidney Pills highly spoken of, I was induced to try them. The results proved beyond a doubt that this remedy lives up to representations. The cure it has brought has led me to praise it on more than one occasion."

A EPOCH MAKING WORK

High Praise in Metropolitan Papers for Twitchell's History

THE ROMANCE OF NEW MEXICO

Its Glamour Makes an Interesting Story That Is Well Told.

The editorial reviews of Colonel R. E. Twitchell's "Leading Facts of New Mexican History," appearing in many of the metropolitan newspapers and periodicals of the east pronounce it to be the definitive history of the Southwest and the most reliable work of the kind yet published in America. Exhaustive reviews of the first volume of the work have been appearing in the great newspapers of the east, notably the Sun of New York, the Transcript of Boston, the Republican of Springfield, Massachusetts, and the Times of New York. It is with great pleasure that the New Mexican reproduces the review in the magazine section of the New York Times, of Sunday, October 29, and in the Republican of Springfield, Mass. The last named also devotes a column of its valuable space to the work of the Santa Fe School of American Archaeology and the labors of Dr. Edgar L. Hewett and Dr. F. W. Hodge while here during the summer. Being of great interest to New Mexico people we reproduce that as well in another column. The headlines in the New York Times are the same as appear at the head of this article.

CHRONICLES OF THE PUEBLO STATE.

The Romance of New Mexico in the Days of Indians and Spanish Adventurers.

The story of the settlement, growth and development of New Mexico, from the time of its first exploration by Alvar Nunez Cabeza de Vaca and four companions, down to the beginning of this year, with an exhaustive investigation into the origin, life, habits, and customs and fate of the races which inhabited this territory before the Spanish arrival, has been the work of Col. Ralph Emerson Twitchell, vice president of the New Mexican Historical Society, whose "Leading Facts of New Mexican History" is appearing in two royal octavo volumes, the first of which has just been issued. The second is promised this year. The first covers the story of the writer's native state from the pre-Spanish times down to 1821, when Mexico succeeded in winning her independence.

For more than a quarter of a century Col. Twitchell has been "burrowing" among the old records in New and Old Mexico, and his work shows that he went about it in a painstaking, thorough way, with an understanding of what was wanted, what facts were worth the telling, and of the relative worth of the material which lay at his hand. As a piece of original research the work is of great value, for it covers a section of the country of which all too little has been known. Points in the history of the country that have been long in dispute are cleared up in a scholarly manner, and where the matter is still open to dispute the writer has not hesitated to defend vigorously his own viewpoint.

The early history of the New Mexican country is shrouded in mystery. When the Spaniards arrived and began their explorations they found the country inhabited by Indians, savages, it is true, but kindly disposed to the newcomers until the newcomers' barbarity forced the natives to reprisals. These early inhabitants have all but disappeared, the writer maintaining that the Pueblo Indians of today are their descendants, debased by a mixture of blood. But before the Pueblos, there was a race of people here, and it is these that are so little known, the cave and cliff dwellers. The writer asserts that they were probably of Asiatic origin, a people of high civilization, for their arts and sciences were of the sort possessed by the builders of the pyramids.

What became of these people? The writer does not conjecture, as others have, but he believes that their passing was gradual, since there is nothing to indicate a sudden exodus. It may be to the gradual failure of the water supply that their passing is due; still, he points out, it is strange that there are so few human remains found. This fact, he thinks, indicates that the people practiced cremation. Summing up the reasons for their passing, Col. Twitchell believes that besides the passing of the water supply, many were killed by the Apache, Ute, Navajo, and Comanche Indians, warlike tribes which would have had no difficulty in attacking successfully these simple people.

Disposing of the prehistoric races, Col. Twitchell comes down to the time of the Spanish occupation. The first exploration was made by Alvar Nunez and his companions. These were Captain Andres Dorantes de Bejar, his negro slave, Estevan who was captured on the coast of Morocco; Alonso del Castillo Maldonado of Salamanca, and Juan Ortiz. Nunez and his companions were members of an expedition which set out on five ships in command of Don Panfilo Narvaez from San Lucas de Barrameda and reached America on April 14, 1528, landing on the east coast of Florida, near Tampa Bay. Nunez was treasurer and high sheriff of the expedition, but this did not seem to serve him in good stead, for he was wrecked, like the others, and after the loss of most of the ships and the death of Don Panfilo, Nunez and many others of the expedition were captured by Indians and held as slaves. Nunez and four others managed to escape, however, and in their search for a Spanish settlement they crossed to the western coast, being the first European to make the journey across New Mexico. They started from the mouth of the Sabine river, on the Gulf of Mexico, and striking westward across Texas, New Mexico, and Old Mexico, arrived on April 1, 1536, at Rio del Culiacan. After a brief rest the survivors reached the City of Mexico on July 24, 1536, and were entertained royally by the viceroy, Don Antonio de Mendoza, and by Hernando Cortes, the Marquis del Valle. There the story of Nunez's wanderings were written and his report was printed in Zamora in 1542 after his return to Spain on August 9, 1537.

Following this initial crossing of New Mexico the work of exploration was carried on by Friar Marcos de Niza of Savoy, Vice Commander General of New Spain. He had accompanied Pizarro on his conquest of Peru. Going to San Miguel del Culiacan he started on March 7, 1539, with Friar Onorato and the negro slave, Estevan, and traveling north through the mountains he reached Zuni. On the way he sent Estevan ahead to announce his coming to the Indians, but the negro assumed such impudent dignity that the Indians killed him, and his body was cut up and distributed among the chiefs. On the return of Friar Marcos to the City of Mexico in September, 1539, an expedition was fitted out by Don Francisco Vasquez Coronado. On Monday, February 23, 1540, it started out, a roving tour of conquest. The army was made up of ne'er-do-well young cavaliers who had become a burden on the Mexican viceroy, and he was glad to get them off his hands. Their appearance is said to have been dazzling when they started off, resplendent in brave costumes, but their path was marked by dreadful massacres all the way to northern Kansas, near the Nebraska border line, where provisions got low, and the young blue bloods rebelled, forcing Coronado to return. For the next forty years the friars spent much time among the Indians. News of the murder of Friar Juan de Padilla reached Spain, and at once the Spanish friars became fired with zeal to become martyrs to the Christian cause as he had been.

Gradually thus the hand of Spain reached out into the unknown land, until in 1598 Don Juan de Onate made an "entrada" at the head of a large force. The story of this expedition was told graphically in a poem by Gaspar de Villagra and was used, says the writer, by the historian Bancroft as the basis of a part of his work. Don Juan was prominent for the next five or seven years, but in 1605 he disappeared from the public eye.

Regarding the founding of Santa Fe, the writer says that there is doubt as to whether this was in 1605 or 1616, but he disposes finally of the assertion that it was by Don Antonio de Espaje, in 1583, or by Coronado in 1540, or by another unnamed person in 1550.

Affairs in New Spain went smoothly along. The settlement of the country increased, but the Indians were so oppressed that on August 13, 1680, they rebelled, killing more than 400 of the invaders, including 21 missionaries and putting the other inhabitants to flight. This revolt was led by one Pope, a native of much ability, and he ruled supreme in the land until his death, in 1688, when he was succeeded by Luis Tupa-tu. Many efforts were made to reconquer the country, but all failed until 1692, when Don Diego de Vargas went through the country like a whirlwind, slaying the recalcitrant natives. The churches and crosses erected by the Spaniards, which had been destroyed were rebuilt, and once more Spain reigned.

So the time passed quietly again. The population increased, but the oppression of Spain increased also, until Mexico threw off the yoke of the mother country and established a republic.

Such is the story told in the first volume of this history. It is told graphically and clearly and without undue words. There are notes by the hundred on nearly every point, the writer giving authority for his statements. The prospectus of the second volume shows that it will be as complete as is the first, and the two form an important addition to Americana.

(From the Springfield Daily Republican of Wednesday, Oct. 25, 1911.)

Now that New Mexico has become a state, there will be more curiosity me-thinks, to learn about its prehistoric history, and the origin of those inhabitants who dwell in the hill-caves and the cliff houses built or arranged by some of the early races who took up their abode in that strange land. In anticipation of that, and after an accumulation of facts and theories about the primitive inhabitants there, Ralph Emerson Twitchell, vice president of the New Mexican Historical Society, has brought together in a first volume ending about 1821, what he terms "The Leading Facts of New Mexican History," handsomely printed by the Torch Press of Cedar Rapids, in Iowa with many portraits, maps and views, an infinity of footnotes and a copious index. The early Spanish exploration and occupancy of this broad region among the mountains and canyons of northeastern Mexico, put in circulation much queer history and fiction, for which journalism not having yet much invaded New Mexico, a place must be found in books.

There is also the mute record of the abandoned pueblos, once tenanted by hundreds of the vanished races, whoever they were, that built the mounds and arranged the cliff houses and erected the quaint temples of Mexico and Yucatan. Then come the traditions and ceremonies of the extinct Indians, leading back into a sort of unwritten history, and assisting to explain the Spanish chronicles and the discoveries of General Pike and other army officers and American traders who went in the 19th century into the unlimited borders of Jefferson's Louisiana and the Mexican lands which Polk's war gave to slavery, but which Benton, Fremont, Wilmot and Abraham Lincoln rescued for freedom, during the Taylor, Pierce and Buchanan administrations. Of the later story, Mr. Twitchell's second volume will furnish details, as the late Mr. Wilder did in his Annals of Kansas. For the present the reader must content himself with this sequel to Prescott's "Conquest of Mexico," and the preliminaries to the semi-civilization found by Cortez in his invasion. There are wonders of endurance by the wandering Spaniards who landed in Florida (nearly a century before the Pilgrim Fathers saw Plymouth Rock), and crossed the continent to the Pacific; and there is much in the later stories to attract the reader. But it is only a small class of readers to whom these chronicles can appeal.

PROGRESSIVES WILL CLEAN UP GRAND JUNCTION, COLO.

Another fight between the progressives and the reactionaries in Grand Junction, Colorado, was won by the progressives at last Thursday's election.

On the side of the progressives were the church, the progressive Democrats and Republicans, the Socialists and single taxers, the anti-saloon league and the Daily News. On the side of the reactionaries were the public service corporations, the machine Democrats and Republicans and the Sentinel and the powerful liquor interests. The reactionaries centered their fight on a proposed amendment to the charter and upon reversing the local option question when the city went dry two years ago. The reactionaries supported three propositions and four candidates. All of such propositions were beaten by about 400 majority, and all their candidates were beaten by majorities running from 73 to 422. The new Chief of Police, Hutchinson, proposes to enforce the law, however, hit whom it will. Half a dozen "clubs" some of them composed of the leading business men of the city, have been running for the past six months, under the claim of the city attorneys that they are legal and could dispense strong liquors.

Death of Veteran. Esedlo Jofoya, an old veteran of the Civil War, died at Raton.

FREE IF IT FAILS

Your Money Back If You Are Not Satisfied With the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate, and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children delicate persons, and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness, nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents; 80 tablets, 50 cents. ## STIMSON ON PANAMA CANAL

Problems Presented by Its Approaching Completion Are Discussed

SUBSIDIZE AMERICAN SHIPS

It Should Be Administered as a Military Adjunct of Uncle Sam's.

Kansas City, Mo., November 15—In addressing the Kansas City Commercial Club tonight Secretary Stimson, in dealing with the problems presented by the approaching completion of the Panama Canal took advanced ground in favor of subsidies to American shipping using the Canal and for its administration as a military adjunct. He called attention to the fact that although there will be water enough in the canal to float small boats throughout its length by the close of the rainy season which commences next May, and while the canal will be fully ready for ocean traffic, through our own neglect no provision has been made for its operation. As soon as the Canal is completed the President's authority over it will cease unless Congress comes to the rescue. A great economic loss will be involved in allowing the present splendidly efficient force of employees to disintegrate, when so much of it will be needed for the permanent operation of the canal.

Then there is the problem of creating a permanent organization or government to operate the canal and to control the zone. The country is worthless for agricultural purposes; most of it a tropical jungle or low rocky hills and it is preposterous to think of it ever forming a basis for an American farming settlement. This unfortunate condition affords an opportunity for the creation of an organization for the almost sole purpose of opening and shutting the lock gates and protecting them in time of trouble; it is not a question of educating or of uplifting a dependent people and there is no reason for introducing all the complex checks and balances of a self-governing community. The Secretary declared that at the bottom the canal presents a military problem. For defensive purposes it will double the capacity of our fleet and to have it blocked at a critical moment in our national life either by accident or design might be quite as disastrous as having twenty of our battleships sunk at sea. The temptation which that fact imposes upon any nation with whom the United States may be at war must never be lost sight of. Correspondingly its military effectiveness will make it a powerful ally in assuring a maintenance of peace.

The Secretary alluded to the sanitary problem and declared that only a continually vigilant exercise of the administrative power could insure us against possible contagion, as this strip of land was notorious for 400 years as a plague spot of America. In the operation of the canal the President should be given a free hand, using such forms of administrative government as he may devise. What is needed is a method flexible enough to meet the new and uncertain problems which are bound to arise.

Touching the important question of coal the Secretary pointed out that the Panama Canal would have at least three great competitors: the Suez Canal, the Tehuantepec route and our own trans-continental railroads. The amount of commerce that will use the Panama route will be determined largely by the question of tolls. If a dollar a ton of freight per thousand miles represents the coal consumption of the freight steamers, every dollar charged as tolls for the Canal will neutralize a thousand miles of the advantage in distance which the Panama route may have over any competitor. There should be an administrative body of officers with power to fix tolls and to change them to meet changing conditions and competition.

Touching the right of the United States to pay tolls on American vessels using the Canal Secretary Stimson had not the shadow of a doubt. He said there would be no violation of our treaties or any evasion of them and no doubt as to the right of the United States both legal and moral to subsidize its shipping passing through the Canal. Under the treaty with Great Britain the rules of the Suez Canal were to govern and in that case it had never been considered a violation of the rule of neutralization for a nation to pay the tolls upon the vessel flying its flag. Substantially every European government using the Suez Canal pays such subsidies fully or partially equivalent to the full tolls. When the Panama canal is opened the vessels of all our marine competitors who use it will be in receipt from their governments of sums of money either given them directly to pay their tolls, or applicable in their discretion to such use. Therefore, said the Secretary, it was perfectly clear that the United States had the right to appropriate to the vessels paying the same, the sums paid into Treasury by those vessels in the form of Canal tolls.

Secretary Stimson expected great benefit to the country from the Canal in its effect upon transcontinental rates, although the public had never received any real benefit from the Panama railroad as a competitor with the transcontinental lines. He declared that in the future we must be more successful in dealing with this question as the country had not put its money into the Canal merely to allow the new route to be throttled as the old one was. He was inclined to believe, he said in conclusion, that the effective solution of the problem would be to extend over the new route the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

BOOST FOR THE FARM.

Have not the people been giving too much attention in past years to the upbuilding of our urban centers? Both the federal census and the crop report of the agricultural department indicate a situation that is far from reassuring. The farm development is not commensurate with the growth of our cities and towns, except in such undeveloped commonwealths as New Mexico. Unless the drift is turned from the cities to the country there will eventually come a time of food shortage.

It is high time that the city dweller give his attention to promotion of farm interests, even if he does not personally intend to the country. Marasmus of farm life means ultimate starvation of cities. This has been a nation of wonderful prosperity from colonial times up to the present. Always one might "go west" and get a free farm. But that time is about past except in New Mexico and a few other states. There is little public land obtainable at this time that is worth cultivation.

Today, in looking to future welfare, this people must look to the land that is already under ownership. Vast areas are uncultivated. Much of it—one may say the most of it—is not properly cultivated and the soil at the same time conserved. Something must be done to bring about the cultivation of all tillable lands and the increase of production at a lower cost of production. No question of state is quite so important as this. It will affect the welfare of children and children's children.

The general public is not as yet properly impressed with the importance of this problem. With each passing year, however, there will be more appreciation of it. Eventually four-fifths of the population will be asking the question, "Why should a man be permitted to own land that is not put to use that is of benefit to the community directly or indirectly?"

It is one of the great problems for the public schools to solve. Thus far, the school systems have done more to prepare pupils for clerkships and white shirt sleeve jobs than they have in preparing pupils for manual work. Of late years the trend toward manual training is remedying the shortage of supply for skilled labor, but as to interesting boys and girls in farm work, in teaching them the rudiments of soil culture as adapted to locality and climate, nothing is being accomplished outside of the few scattered agricultural colleges. The mind of the child should be turned toward the farm. The boy and the girl should be taught that there are compensations in modern farm life for which no white shirt sleeve job can make up. In a community like Santa Fe, and its surrounding country, there are many opportunities for producing wealth from the soil but none from keeping books or even from factory work. It seems almost as if the people were blind to their own future and that of their children, as long as school gardens, school farms and instruction in soil culture are neglected.

THE TRANS-MISSISSIPPI CONGRESS.

It is a notable occasion that brings together in Kansas City such men as Secretary Stinson, Senator Borah, Professor J. L. Laughlin, ex-Senator Aldrich, Senator Owen, Senator Clark and the others who are addressing the Trans-Mississippi Congress.

This congress, and that other great national gathering, the Conservation Congress, are particularly important for two reasons. They fix public attention on subjects of moment to the country, giving well known men a chance to address a national audience, and they bring men into conferences so that these questions can be threshed out.

The reform of the currency, for instance, is a question that affects every man, woman and child. For one reason for periodical panics, throwing men out of work and causing widespread distress, is the inelasticity of the currency system. Few persons, however, have paid any attention to the subject. The discussion of the question at the Trans-Mississippi Congress ought to get people to talking about it, and the interest so aroused should make it easier to get action from Congress.

This session is likely to prove of especial importance and its discussions may be expected to help make history.

A census bulletin today gives an idea of the extent of the automobile industry in the United States. The total number of automobiles in the United States on the day of the census was 127,289, representing a value of $330,000,000, which shows that the number of families in the automobile class is considerable and the money tied up in buzz wagons is six times the total assessed valuation of the territory of New Mexico. There are 74 establishments manufacturing automobiles and the value of their product in the census year was a quarter billion dollars. The capital invested is $150,000,000 and the value of the products is $112,000,000 each year.

NEW MEXICO EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

The teachers of New Mexico have a tremendous influence in moulding the future of the commonwealth. It goes without saying that the impression they make in the school room is so far reaching that it is impossible to express it in mathematical or other terms. That is the rule in every state and in every country.

But the teachers also have an influence outside of the school room, which they have neglected, have not exercised. Through an organization like the New Mexico Educational Association and through a magazine like the New Mexico Educational Journal, they can make themselves a much greater factor in the body politic than heretofore. They can help the commonwealth, and incidentally help themselves, by striving together, as a class, as a body, for the aims and ideals which they hold individually.

There is need in New Mexico, in fact, there is the same need in every commonwealth and in every country, for more unselfishness, for more systematic striving to attain the highest civic ideals, but in too many places, teachers hold themselves aloof from civic life. In fact, the New Mexican knows that two thirds of the teachers of New Mexico do not keep themselves sufficiently informed on home topics and home happenings. But few of the 1500 teachers of the Territory subscribe to their home paper. They live in the place in which they teach as if they were aliens and had no interests beyond earning their pay in the school room.

As a consequence, the teacher misses much and the community loses considerable. Before anyone can do intelligently he must know, and a teacher should be the first to subscribe to that axiom. One reason, perhaps, that teachers are not as great a factor in the civic life as they are underpaid. The New Mexican believes that no teacher worth his salt should have a salary of less than $1200 a year, and when skilled mechanics are earning $1800 a year, and mere political office holders $2500 to $3000 a year, then the more experienced and skilled teachers should receive sums that compare favorably with these. But it is because the teachers do not take that interest in the community round about them, because they do not make themselves felt as an organization, as a class, that they are not paid what they should receive in these days of high prices and higher standards of wages and living.

It is an encouraging sign therefore, that so many teachers and other educators have gathered in Santa Fe, on the eve of the new state coming into actual existence, and are taking the steps that will lead to greater participation in state and character building and at the same time, a betterment of conditions for themselves.

Talking about frauds at the November election, there are two precincts in Roosevelt county which held no election at all. Roosevelt is a Democratic county with Democratic officials, and yet the precincts of Perry and Midway received no ballot boxes, no poll books, no tickets in time for the election. With state candidates running as closely as they appear to have done in New Mexico, the failure of two precincts to hold an election becomes a serious matter and may invalidate the entire election. Congress may be asked to pass a resolution ordering another election in New Mexico. In that case, the Republicans would see to it that Sandoval county isn't bought up again, that the county of Bernalillo would give its normal majority and that the coal camps in Colfax county are held in line. It would result in a Republican sweep from top to bottom, for the Republican party is the only party that profits by its mistakes. This Democratic fluke in Roosevelt county may invalidate the returns from the entire county.

The New Mexican agrees with the proposition of the Albuquerque Morning Journal that greater care should be exercised in the selection of precinct election boards. By the looks of the returns from Bernalillo county, that reform might begin right at home and spread over the entire state. The Republican party in its platform declares for a corrupt practices act and a campaign expense publication law, and the Republican members of the legislature will see to it that such a law is placed on the statute books and that it is so written that the gigantic frauds that were committed in Sandoval, Bernalillo and other counties on November 7, will never again be repeated.

That $71,951,000 are invested in the United States in establishments manufacturing soap, gives some idea of the stupendousness of industries that do not loom up as prominently in the public prints as the steel trust. According to the census bureau, in a bulletin issued today, more than 40,000 hands are given employment in these establishments, and something like $12,000,000 are paid out in wages annually. The value of the products is $112,000,000 each year.

WHO WILL BE THE OTHER ONE?

With election disputes settled and the vote officially canvassed, the most important political question that will loom up is: "Who will be the other senator?" It is tacitly understood that Delegate to Congress William H. Andrews will be the overwhelming choice on the first ballot in the Republican caucus and there is no doubt that he should receive the honor, considering his faithful service, his fitness, and his ability to do things and to secure things for New Mexico. For the other senatorship, a man equally as efficient and eminent should be chosen so that New Mexico may be a factor in the councils of the nation and may adequately protect her interests in tariff and other legislation. New Mexico does not want to have a wobbly jellyfish, or a mere theorist, or a man who would surrender to the free traders, in return for a mess of patronage, to represent it in the Upper House. It must have men like the two senators from Wyoming—Warren and Clark—who have done more for the upbuilding of the nation and their own state, than perhaps, any other two senators from one state.

Good came out of Nazareth and New Mexico is taking a high rank in the world of science and literature. This is not a sudden development but a number of recent literary triumphs and scientific discoveries that have found world-wide recognition have established the pre-eminence. The publication of histories like that of Colonel Ralph E. Twitchell and Benjamin M. Read, and of such work as is being done by Hewitt, Harrington and others through the School of American Archaeology at Santa Fe, give New Mexico's authors and scientists a standing that is beyond the average level of many of the older, more populous and more prosperous states.

The revised election returns received today brought two grievous disappointments to the Republicans, at least, as far as the face of the returns is concerned. The defeat of A. C. Abeytia for the council in Socorro county is much to be regretted, for he was the 16th man that gave the Republicans two thirds majority in the state senate. The returns also make certain the defeat of A. B. Stroup, for superintendent of public instruction, as far as the available returns are concerned.

CITY OFFICIALS WIN OVER GARBAGE STRIKER.

Night Work, Which Was the Bone of Contention, is to Be Resumed as Soon as Possible.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, Nov. 15.—City officials declare that they have won their fight with the municipal ash and garbage men. Night work to avoid which the drivers struck, will be resumed, as soon as possible.

The danger of a general teamsters' strike remains, but judging from the action of the union it is remote, though the Greater New York district council of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters voted last night in favor of an assessment to support the striking drivers.

As rapidly as possible, the street cleaning department will fill the places of the imported strikebreakers with recruits from the civil service list.

GOVERNMENT WILL APPEAL COMMERCE COURT DECISION.

Will Not Wait for Final Disposition of Important Western Rate Case.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—The government will appeal to the U. S. supreme court from the decision of the commerce court granting temporary injunctions of the orders of the interstate commerce commission in the trans-continental freight rate cases.

It is not the purpose of the government's counsel to await final action by the commerce court before taking the appeal to the highest judicial tribunal. Under the law, an appeal may be taken from a temporary injunction. It is the desire of all parties interested to have a final determination of the constitutionality of the long and short haul provisions reached as soon as practicable.

PROMINENT ARIZONANS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Republican Candidate for State Treasurer and Publisher Hurt Near Mesa City.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 15.—W. D. Fisk, Republican candidate for state treasurer, and B. J. Barron, publisher of the Globe Democrat, both residents of Globe, were victims of an automobile accident, seventeen miles east of Mesa City. The steering gear of their automobile broke, and the car overturned, both men being pinned beneath it until rescued some time later by cowboys. Fisk suffered only a bruised leg, but Barron was rendered unconscious for several hours and is perhaps internally injured. A. G. Huett, who came along in his automobile two hours after the accident, brought both men to the hospital here.

PRESIDENT TAFT DELIVERS ADDRESS AT FREDERICK, Md.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—President Taft left here at 3 p. m., on a special train for Frederick, Md., to address a convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of the state. He returns tonight.

Another aviator has been dropped to his death.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Berlin, Nov. 15.—Herr Pletschker, an aviator, fell while making a flight over the Johannisthal field today and was killed. His neck was broken.

First Dog—That fellow that's waiting on Miss Greyhound keeps late hours, doesn't he?
 Second Dog—Yes; I hear that he's a real setter.

A Chance to Rise.
 "Now, Billy," said the young man's father, "I've found a fine job for you—a job which will, if you attend strictly to business, give you a splendid chance to rise."

"What is the nature of the job?"
 "You've seen some of the big buildings in course of construction, haven't you?"

"Yes."
 "Have you ever noticed how the great iron beams are lifted to their places?"

"Sure."
 "Well, a friend of mine who is a contractor has agreed to use you to stand on the beams and balance them as they are hoisted. I told him about the splendid nerve you had exhibited in sitting around and permitting me to support you, and he agreed that you would be just the man for the job."

She Was to Wait.
 There was living in Illinois a solemn man who is often funny without meaning to be. At the time of his wedding he lived in a town some distance from the home of the bride. The wedding was to be at her home. On the eventful day the solemn man started for the station, but on the way met the village grocer, who talked so entertainingly that the bridegroom missed his train.

Naturally he was in a "state." Something must be done quickly. So he sent the following telegram:
 "Don't marry till I come.—Henry."

Settling the Preliminaries.
 "Where does that society wedding take place?"
 "The time and place haven't been fixed upon."

"But it's a sure thing?"
 "Oh, yes. The old bridegroom settled a million on the girl yesterday and her father hustled right down and got the check cashed."

No Chance Apparent.
 "I am afraid Mr. Blowcher is a pessimist."

"Why do you think so?"
 "He says he can't notice any difference in the way he feels now and the way he felt before the Standard Oil trust was dissolved."

How Could He Tell?
 Lawyer for Defendant—Now, sir, you say that my client disappeared in the darkness after knocking you down. What time of night was this?
 Complainant—I can't say exactly. Your client had my watch.—Life.

Then He Knew Better.
 "Your tickets were complimentary, were they not?"
 "Well," replied the man who had seen a painfully amateur entertainment. "I thought they were until I saw the show."—Penny Pictorial.

His View.

"Why not?"
 "Naturally, you perceive, he sees everything and everybody in a fare light."

THE RETAILER'S LIMITED POSSIBILITIES.

BY GEORGE S. BANTA, B. A.
 Many a retail business today is merely keeping the proprietor out of the poor house. He turns his stock of dry goods, or his groceries, or his hardware, once or twice in the course of the year. He pays for his goods after his customers have paid him for them. While he bought at a high price he sells at a very narrow margin of profit and as the years go by he finds that he is working himself out and gradually is getting together enough so that he may be able to live a few years, of his old age, without work—on what he has "laid up."

The whole difficulty with the modern retail business is in the small profits made. This must always be so because retailing is primarily a competitive business. No man can have a "snap" in it because others are always ready to step in, and, if his margin of profit on any particular goods looks tempting, promptly sell more cheaply.

The only way to get rich (of course we are all above such a base ambition) in the retail business today is to multiply sales. The profits, as pointed out, can never be great on individual sales and the whole secret of success must lie in buying at rock bottom prices and then making numerous sales so that in the aggregate the day's business will show something worth while. And this is the point where advertising comes in. Your competitor cannot reach your advertising because that is a part of your business personality. He may sell the identical goods that you keep, yet advertising enables you to reach and make many customers, who, but for the force applied in this way would never buy the article you sell at all or else would buy it of some one else.

Look at the wonderful advertising done by modern department stores. What seems often like lavish waste is spent on advertising little notions and articles which have only a very small profit in them for the merchant. Yet the department store man is one of the few retailers who is really making money today and if you took his advertising away from him you would deprive him of his Midas touch.

NEWSPAPER AS A SALESMAN

Modern Method of Shoppers is to Scrutinize Advertising Before Leaving Home.

The majority of retail store customers, before starting out on shopping forays, study the newspaper advertising. This habit is a great time-saver. The shopper escapes fruitless visits to many stores, and needless bothering of clerks, by learning in advance where she is likely to find what she wants. She gives very little attention to the places that fail to inform her as to their offerings. Many women, too, having become personally acquainted with the store people dislike to enter their places of business unless they feel fairly sure of buying. They avoid this embarrassment by learning in advance through the newspaper where they can probably supply their needs.

Thus it is that many sales are practically made before the buyer leaves her home. It has been proved over and over again, that the trade will pass stores with a main street location that fail to advertise, to hunt up poorly located shops on back streets that are well advertised. A merchant might as well close his shutters in business hours as to fail to meet his competitors in the field where they are doing the heart of their business—the newspaper advertisement.

The surest way to commit business suicide is to cut down expenses by cutting down your advertising.

Newspaper Advertising Best.

The latest organization of business men to discover that the newspaper is the greatest of all advertising mediums is the Ohio Retail Shoe Dealers' association. A Springfield, Ohio, dispatch, giving an account of the recent meeting of this organization, says, among other things:

"Newspaper advertising was declared to be the best trade-bringing medium for the trade in a resolution adopted by the Ohio Retail Shoe Dealers' association, which closed its annual convention here today."

"Many of the members stated that they had tried other forms of advertising, but that the results from newspapers overshadowed all other kinds."—Birmingham News.

Truth in Verse.

"Just a card" is all you care for—Hidden, lonesome, and unread. Like the sign upon a tombstone. Telling folks that you are dead. Wake up, man, and take a tonic. Bunch your hits and make a drive. Run a page, and change your copy. Advertise and keep alive!

Wonderful Luck.
 Rook—Taylor was always a fortunate man, but doesn't it seem wonderful that his luck should stay with him to the very last?

Raleigh—How was that?
 Rook—Why, he was operated on for the removal of a pearl which he had accidentally swallowed while eating oysters, and when the pearl was examined it was found to be valuable enough to pay for both the operation and the funeral.—Pittsburgh.

CONVENTION WILL OPEN TO-NIGHT

Teachers Are Flocking to Santa Fe to Spend the "Week End"

WILL MEET IN THE CAPITOL

Governor Mills and Mayor
Seligman Formally Welcome
Them To-morrow.

Wearing yellow badges with the picture (on a button) of Hiram Hadley, the veteran educator of New Mexico, teachers from all over the territory are gathering in the city to attend the opening of the New Mexico Educational Association Convention at the Capitol tonight.

All of the meetings which will continue three days, are to be in the House of Representatives which is beautifully decorated for the occasion.
The hotels already are filling up and by this evening there will scarcely be an empty room and those that are taken are crowded by "twos and threes." The private residences are also being filled up with educators who are to spend "the week end" in Santa Fe.

It is a merry gathering, however, for many of the teachers had never been to Santa Fe before and the day before the opening of the convention is being well utilized by them in sightseeing and meeting old and new friends.

At 9 o'clock this morning it was stated at Teachers headquarters in the Assembly Hall at the Old Palace that 169 teachers had registered but this number it is expected, will be doubled and trebled by this evening.

Tonight's Program.
The program for tonight had to be changed as Professor J. W. Seanson could not arrive here in time to deliver his lecture on "Give the Boy a Square Deal." His lecture will be delivered tomorrow night at the Hall of Representatives.

The program for tonight is addresses by Alvin N. White of Silver City, A. B. Stroup of Albuquerque and
B. M. Read of Santa Fe. Mr. Read's subject will be "Education, Its Relation with the Discovery and Conquest and Civilization of New Mexico. The Minister of God and the Teacher."

This will likely prove a scholarly address, for Mr. Read is a noted historian of New Mexico and he will speak with authority on many matters concerning the history of the vast territory.

Will Be Music.
Secretary R. F. Asplund of the association stated that music will be furnished tonight between the speeches by glee clubs from various parts of the territory and there will be many in the city by tonight. It is said these clubs have splendid musical talent and they will be well worth hearing.

J. S. Hofer, of Tucumcari, president of the New Mexico Educational Association will preside at the opening of the convention tonight.

Program Tomorrow.
The program tomorrow is as follows:

Thursday, 9:30 a. m.
Hall Music.
Invocation.
Welcome given by Governor William J. Mills and Mayor Arthur Selig-cation."

intendent C. C. Hill, of Roswell and County Superintendent Blas Sanchez, statements showing the export sur-

99 7-8@100, a gain of 1-8c net.

Meager stocks and continued small receipts made corn firm. May open-

Realizing sales eased oats. December started a sixteenth to 1 5/16c

New Brown Bread Recipe
Never soggy—Easily made
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Nearly everybody likes Boston brown bread, but so many have experienced trouble with its being soggy, they have become discouraged. Here is a new recipe that cannot fail if the few simple directions are carefully followed. You will be delighted with the results.

K C Brown Bread
One and one-half cup yellow cornmeal; 1 1/2 cup whole wheat flour; 1 tea-spoon salt; 1 1/2 cup sweet milk; 1/2 cup molasses; 5 level teaspoons K C Baking Powder.

Sift together, three times, meal, flour, salt and baking powder. Mix molasses and sweet milk and stir into dry ingredients to make a smooth batter. Turn into two empty K C Baking Powder boxes, thoroughly buttered, and let steam three hours. This bread is particularly good to serve with salads or raw oysters; also at breakfast, as toast of all kinds.

Raisins or currants may be added, though some prefer it without.

Readers of this paper may obtain The Cook's Book containing this and 89 other delicious recipes free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the Jacobs Mfg. Co., Chicago. Send for The Cook's Book today. 28

THIS ADVERTISING IDEA IS A GOOD ONE.

Shoemaker, Mora County Real Estate Dealer, Urges New Settlers to Spread the Good Tidings.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 15.—Leo H. Boydston, a real estate man at Shoemaker, N. M., has written to the Bureau of Immigration, suggesting a plan for advertising New Mexico which is so simple, effective and so inexpensive that it is worth agitating in every district in the new state. The Shoemaker man points out that fully 50 per cent of the population of New Mexico has come here in comparatively recent years from other states. Of this he estimates that fully one half have come from country districts, from farms or small towns where daily or weekly newspapers are published. This part of the population is still well remembered "back home" and a letter to the back home paper would be welcomed by the paper and printed with eagerness.

This would be especially the case right now, when New Mexico is just entering the Union. We have just had our first state election and nothing but the President's proclamation remains to complete statehood. It is the time of all times to let the folks "back home" know about the Sunshine State.

If every man who recalls the name of the weekly or small daily paper "back home" will write that paper a letter telling about our admission to the Union, something of the great resources of the new state, and with particular reference to the resources and attractions of his own district, the result would be thousands of columns of newspaper space, reaching hundreds of thousands of people, and forming in the aggregate, an advertisement that could not be purchased at any price.

The Bureau of Immigration for some time has been mailing out large numbers of news letters to small newspapers throughout the country. Many of these letters are printed, but many are passed by. Those that are printed are by no means as effective as the personal letter, signed by a man who the readers of the small paper "back home" know personally. Remember that weekly paper "back home"—how you used to read every word in it each week; how eager the paper was to get letters from former residents who had moved to new fields, and how eager the home people were to read those letters?

Every man in New Mexico who remembers such a newspaper "back home" can do his share, and a big share to help advertise the new state. Write the letter to your "back home" paper right away, while the subject of New Mexico's admission to the Union is fresh in the minds of the people throughout the country. The "back home" paper will print it gladly. This is a work in which every man and woman who recalls such a paper "back home" can help.

If any information is desired for your letter about the resources of New Mexico, write to the Bureau of Immigration, Albuquerque, and it will be sent by return mail.

Navajo Indian Who is Accused of Bloody Deed Pleads That He Acted in Self Defense.

(Denver Republican.)

One of the most unique cases ever coming to trial in the West will soon be heard at Artec, San Juan county, when a Navajo Indian, who has been practically at liberty "on honor" for more than a year, will present himself to be tried for the slaying of Richard Wetherill, formerly a well-known resident of southwestern Colorado.

The Indian is Ches-chil-be-ga, a full-blood Navajo, who a year ago shot down Wetherill, one of the best known Indian traders in the southwest. The Indian was in jail at Artec, N. M., a few weeks, but he was released without bond after giving his word of honor that he would appear for trial. For months he has roamed about the agency grounds at Shiprock, with nothing to prevent his escape to the distant mountains, where he would stand a good chance of eluding the Indian police for years. But the Indian has no thought of escape. He has given his word, and the word of a Navajo is something stronger than chains or iron bars. It was the recognition of this high sense of honor among Indians that prompted the authorities of San Juan county to release Ches-chil-be-ga, for the white men of the southwest realize that the red man's word, once given, is never broken.

Oklahoma Indian Who Also Returned at Time Promised.

Not the least dramatic feature of the case was evidenced a few weeks ago, when John Wetherill, a brother of the slain man, visited the Navajo Indian fair at Shiprock and met the Indian roaming about the agency grounds. Mr. Wetherill who has lived for years among the Indians of the southwest, knew the circumstances of the Indian's release, but he knew also that the Navajo would present himself for trial and that the red man was just as certain a prisoner when bound by his word as if behind iron bars.

There is only one notable parallel to the case of Ches-chil-be-ga—the case of an Oklahoma Indian murderer who was released after having been found guilty in the first degree and who was allowed to play baseball all summer on his promise to return on the day of execution. The Indian returned as he had promised and was executed with all the formalities of the white man's law.

No doubt the Navajo Indian who walks about the agency grounds at Shiprock would present himself for execution if he had pledged his word. He realizes that at the lightest he is likely to receive a heavy sentence in the penitentiary, for the courts of the southwest are anything but lenient in dealing with Indians who chance to offend against white men. But no sense of impending danger is reflected in the impassive face of Ches-chil-be-ga. In a cheap gray suit of "store clothes" a heavy overcoat and a slouch hat, he stalks about the agency grounds, doing tasks at the behest of Agent W. T. Shelton. Sometimes the Indian police are all out on assignments that call them miles away from the agency, and there is nothing to prevent the Navajo from taking a horse and making his escape. But every night he returns to the log house that serves as police headquarters and jail and rolls up in a blanket on the floor and sleeps the sleep of a man whose mind is unhampered by any care.

White Man's Word Against That of Indian Slayer.

The killing of Wetherill is clouded in some mystery. The word of a white man is arrayed against the word of an Indian. The Navajo claims the killing was justified, but a cowboy who was with the trader and who narrowly escaped being killed by Ches-chil-be-ga says there was no reason for the shooting. Wetherill was well known throughout the Southwest. He and his brothers had lived for years in the Mesa Verde country in southwestern Colorado, and were the discoverers of the great cliff ruins now included in Mesa Verde National Park. Of late years he had conducted a trader's store at Pueblo Bonito, near the famous ruins of Chaco canon, at the edge of the Navajo reservation. The Indians claim that Wetherill had made many enemies among the tribe. One ill-feeling culminated when, according to the Indian accounts, the trader's cowboy "beat up" one of Ches-chil-be-ga's relatives and left him apparently dead.

Ches-chil-be-ga came upon the unconscious form of his relative and swore vengeance. He says that when he was a child his parents were killed by white men who were never punished for their crime. Unarmed, he started down the road. He was joined, according to his story, by an old Indian who was traveling off the reservation and who had an old gun strapped to his burro. The Indians met Wetherill and the cowboy and, according to their story, the trader seized the old gun carried by Ches-chil-be-ga's companion and broke it across a rock.

"He said the whole tribe ought to be killed and that he could do it," said Ches-chil-be-ga through an interpreter. "I went back and got a rifle, and when I came up to the white men they began firing at me. I dropped off the horse and shot Wetherill, who passed between me and his cowboy, who was the man I wanted to get. Then the cowboy ran and I fired several shots at him, but missed."

Navajo Surrendered to the Agent Telling of What He Had Done.

After the Navajo had killed the trader, who was shot through the head, he walked up to Wetherill and, after asking if he was still on the warpath, shot him through the head. Then, riding night and day, the Navajo raced across the reservation and appeared at Shiprock, where he told Superintendent Shelton what he had done. Mr. Shelton delivered the Indian over to the county authorities, and the Navajo was put in jail at Artec. At first he was put under $10,000 bond. Superintendent Shelton offered to secure the Navajo signers, but objection was made that the Indians could not be held responsible, though many of the Navajos are wealthy. Finally Superintendent Shelton convinced the authorities that the Indian's sense of honor alone would be sufficient to insure his appearance at trial. The Navajo was released practically on his own recognizance, and for the greater part of a year has been at liberty.

"There are 8,000 Indians under my care," said Superintendent Shelton. "They are good, bad and indifferent, but there is not one of them who would fail to act as this Navajo is acting. The Navajos are the most honorable as well as the most moral people of their race, I believe. They are sharp and shrewd in a business deal, but when once their word has been pledged they are not to be budged from the path of honor. In the case of this Navajo all I want to see is justice done. He realizes the seriousness of his offense, but I am just as sure that he will not try to escape as that the sun will come up tomorrow. Even if he knew he would be hanged, he would act as he is acting today."

The friends of the slain trader claim that they can show that the killing of Mr. Wetherill was unprovoked and that the Indians terrorized the family of the murdered man and drove off stock after the crime had been committed. The trial promises to be one of the most absorbing ever fought in the courts of the Southwest, but no matter what the outcome it is not likely that the unemotional Ches-chil-be-ga will drop the mask of indifference he is wearing today with an indictment for murder hanging over his head and liberty within his very grasp.

Candidate for Job.

Hon. J. M. Casaus, of this county, who was offered a place on the state ticket, has been mentioned by his friends here as a fit and probable candidate for appointment as superintendent of the penitentiary. The Sun believes that the only objection to Mr. Casaus, is that he is altogether too active as a Democrat. Probable Governor McDonald will not consider this as a disqualifying objection—Santa Rosa Sun.

How it Happened.

Next in order is to tell how it happened. We find our solace in the scriptures "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth." The chastisement has been severe. Yea, more vigorous than we feel we needed. With a Republican legislature, however, the state will be able to save itself the humiliation of a period of freak legislation. Let us rejoice in the fact that the Republican party of New Mexico is still at the helm of the legislative branch of our state government—Santa Rosa Sun.

That Blue Ballot.

That Blue Ballot was the center of attraction in this our first state election. It was the tail that wagged the dog. It cost the Republican party of New Mexico 5000 votes. It was a fool thing to make it a party issue—but they "done gone and done it." Had the Las Vegas convention heeded Judge Fall's advice as to how to handle the Blue Ballot question the entire state Republican ticket would have been elected from 5000 to 10,000 majorities and the Blue Ballot would have been elected for the amendment just the same.—Otero County Advertiser.

Birds of a Feather.

Evidently the insurgents are getting in line for 1912 and the New Mexico crowd are simply in advance. The dispatch reads:

"The Progressive Republican state convention endorsed the fusion ticket nominated in the Democratic convention. Each convention organized its own central committee. The chief difference in the platforms is that the Progressive Republicans favor a Protective Tariff and the Democrats a Tariff for revenue only."

They harmonize on one point—both seek to defeat the Republican party and to change the prosperity conditions to what they were under the only Democratic administration in fifty years. In the '90's the insurgent pops and insurgent free-silverites

Two Precincts Did Not Vote.

There were two precincts in the county in which there was no election held owing to a failure of receiving the ballot box, poll books and tickets. These two precincts are Midway and Perry. Midway is the precinct east of Portales and south of Texico. Perry is the precinct in the extreme northern end of the panhandle of Roosevelt county which extends north on the west part of the north side of the county. The county clerk sent out the ballot boxes to each precinct and in the boxes had been placed the poll books and a supply of tickets for each party which were placed in them by the chairman of the different parties. The county clerk did his best to get the boxes to the precincts in the most convenient manner possible by sending them out with people who lived in the precincts or were making trips so they could take them conveniently. The Midway box was sent by a man by the name of Captain Hodges who said he lived in that precinct. He also said he was going to Inez and he took both the Inez and Midway boxes. The Inez box reached its destination all right and the Midway box was found the next day to be at Causey. The Perry box was expressed to Melrose, addressed to W. J. Morgan. Mr. Morgan gets his mail at Roosevelt and Mr. Mitchell states he wrote a letter to him at Roosevelt telling him where he sent the box. They failed to get it and it was sent back to Mr. Mitchell today from Melrose just as it had been sent out without any of the contents apparently being disturbed. The box sent to Upton also came near not being received. Not finding any box there that morning some of the Upton folks went to Macy and telephoned to Mr. Mitchell and he informed them he had sent the box out by Mr. Selvidge and he had taken both the Ingram and Upton boxes. He said he would leave the Upton box with Jas. Allen, which he did but Mr. Allen was not at home and Mrs. Allen did not understand what to do with it so it remained there till the parties went back from Macy and found it, getting it to the polling place between eleven and twelve o'clock. The fact that the Midway and Perry folks were unable to vote is very unfortunate and everybody is sorry it happened.—Portales Times.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Thursday, November 30! That is the date set for the first production of "The Inside Inn" Minstrel to be staged here by local amateurs under the direction of C. A. Sapp and under the auspices of the Elks Entertainment committee. The second performance will be Friday, December 1.

The Elks committee is busy today hustling about town placing attractive display cards and tickets for the big show. Every nook and corner will be supplied with tickets as the Elks believe they will have the whole-hearted support of every person in the city as the money derived from the show is to go towards building the beautiful new Elks Home they are erecting on Lincoln avenue.

The want of an Elks Home has long been felt in Santa Fe and the time is now at hand when Santa Fe is to be adorned with one. The Elks have given the people of Santa Fe a beautiful little theatre which has been the magnet attracting high class shows, and now the Elks are going a step further and making provisions for the visiting Elks who annually come to Santa Fe. Let every man, woman and child get together on this proposition and boost for the Elks who are deserving of patronage.

There will be no chorus rehearsals until Monday, November 20th, but the end men will be put through the paces all this week by Director Sapp, who is as anxious to make the show one of the greatest ever as are the performers themselves.

HARVEST FEAST FOR YEOMEN

Men Noted in Fraternal Circles to Attend Banquet Tomorrow Night

WORK DONE IN NEW MEXICO

Effort Will Be Made to Bring Yeomen's Sanitarium to Santa Fe

Men of national reputation in fraternal circles will attend the big harvest banquet and class adoption which will be held at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night by the Brotherhood of American Yeomen at their hall.

One of these men is William Koch, president of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen. Another is W. E. Davy, the supreme secretary of the order and both are scheduled to make addresses.

Mr. Koch is the head of a large publishing concern at Des Moines, Ia. He is also president of the Iowa Fraternal Congress and is president and

A Sanitarium in Santa Fe. The Yeomen are contemplating the establishment of a sanitarium for its members and this matter will come up at the Yeomen's next supreme convention to be held in Oklahoma City next year. Why should not Santa Fe have this institution? This city has a "garden of Eden" to offer in the way of pure air, pure water and cloudless skies as well as freedom from the noise and clutter of a great city throbbing in its metropolitan development.

The Order's Work Here. Mr. Koch and Mr. Davy are inspecting the field force of their order in this country and they come here from the Pacific slope. The order in New Mexico is but a year old yet it has a beneficiary membership of 180 members in good standing and carrying $215,000 insurance. This even by the way is the occasion for the "harvest" banquet tomorrow night and it is a safe bet that the state president, F. W. Farmer will see to it that that banquet is a hummer, to be followed by many more annual affairs.

the region and is capable of yielding excellent saw timber. It withstands disease well and, except in early life, is not susceptible to fire, drought, frosts or snow. From 100 to 200 years are usually necessary to produce a saw log. The better grades of lumber are excellent for finish. Lumbering in the Southwest is expensive chiefly on account of the high price of labor. The higher grades of timber are easily disposed of, but the lower ones are difficult to market. Nevertheless, the timber of the National Forests in the Southwest offer excellent opportunities for investment.

CAMILLA'S COURAGE

By ELLA RANDALL PEARCE

"But, Geraldine, I'd rather meet your brother in a more conventional way."

Geraldine Merrill waved the protest aside with a scornful sweep of her hand.

"Conventional—that's the fatal word! Gilbert's met a thousand girls in a conventional way, and he wouldn't look a second time at any one of them. No, Camilla, my plan's the best. I know my brother—he admires the strong, independent type—and I do so want him to like you; to have you make an impression. Please!"

Camilla's eyebrows went up dubiously, but her lips were smiling. "Isn't that a funny sort of impression to make on one—to meet him at the door of his own home with a wicked-looking revolver, and demand to know his business?"

"But you see there's a reason; and you can carry it off splendidly," said Geraldine, shaking her dark curls vivaciously. "If I asked Gilbert down here to meet you, ten chances to one he wouldn't come at all. And if I did happen to present him to you, he'd expect to be bored and run away. No, Camilla, in a lace dancing frock, with a rose in your hair and French slippers, you wouldn't make a hit at all. We've got to rouse him—to surprise him into attention."

"Um-m, I see." Camilla looked reflective, but at least she did not object further. Geraldine pursued her advantage.

"I know Gilbert would like you if you had a chance to make your personality felt," she went on, eagerly. "You're really just suited to each other; but of course your society manner is just like any other girl's—and he fights shy of girls, laughs at them, and calls them frivolous and vain and shallow—and dependent on men! Yes, and secretly, Camilla, I think he's afraid of their little schemes. Gilbert's awfully good-looking, you know. I wish I had a picture to show you, but that's another whim of his—he wouldn't ever have his photograph taken. Oh, he'd just suit you, Camilla."

Camilla felt herself weakening. She had long been interested in this elusive brother of her friend's, and everything she heard about him increased her desire to meet him and win his favor. She was not frivolous or vain or shallow, and she could manage to exist very comfortably without a man about. But Gilbert Merrill—she would just love to conquer him!

"Now, let me understand this dark and dreadful plot thoroughly," she said. "If I start, I must go on to a glorious finish."

Geraldine spread her silky draperies, drew her chair closer to her companion, and began to recount her plans. The Merrills had gone to Idelhurst, their summer home, for the season, and Camilla Ogden, with her aunt, who acted as chaperon, had arrived a few days later. Gilbert Merrill was to appear the following Saturday, with some week-end guests. He would come down from a camp in the mountains; but it was always his custom at such times to drop in at the town house on his way, and remain a night or two.

It was a part of Geraldine's brilliant plan now to have her dear friend Camilla, with her aunt, go in town for the day and, apparently unaware of the peregrinating brother's habits, to mistake him for a burglar when he sought to enter the house, and bravely order him out at a pistol's point. Then Gilbert would explain and apologize, and be duly impressed with the heroic behavior of the strange young lady in "a white peignoir with her hair down like Juliet at the tomb, or Lady Macbeth in the sleep-walking scene."

Geraldine insisted on the white peignoir and the hair down, but finally compromised on a flowered Japanese wrap over a white gown, and two hanging braids, which, in Camilla's case, meant a magnificent display of auburn hair.

Camilla's aunt might have demurred if she had really understood their sudden errand to the city, but she was used to the whims and caprices of her pretty niece. When the shopping season was over, and they had entered the linen-draped Merrill home in the city, she looked surprised and a bit startled when Camilla drew out a polished revolver and laid it on the dressing table.

"Goodness, Camilla, what's that? You're not afraid, are you? Why, no one can get in without a special key for the front door, and the rest of the house is protected by a burglar alarm, and there's a telephone."

"I know, Aunt Lydia, but it's always best to be on the safe side," said Camilla. "No, I'm not afraid a bit."

As a matter of fact, Camilla was afraid—but not of a burglar. She was really in a sort of mild panic over the thought of meeting Gilbert Merrill, and fearful lest she should play her part badly.

"Still, it all seems very reasonable, and at least it will be a novelty for him," she reflected. Then she looked in the mirror. Really, the Japanese garment flowing over her snowy draperies was just becoming, and she looked five years younger with her hair down. Her color was high, and her hazel eyes sparkling.

"You may retire any time you like, Aunt Lydia," she said. "I'm going to read a while."

Aunt Lydia always was obedient, so Camilla was left alone. She had a book before her, but the meaning of the story was quite lost to her. She was waiting for that clicking sound at the front door below, and time seemed to drag.

"Bother! he isn't coming at all. Well, I'll go back to Idelhurst tomorrow, and laugh at Geraldine. Then like two nice little society mandarins, Brother and I will be noddling at each other Saturday afternoon."

The evening wore on, and the stillness deepened. Camilla rose and looked out the window; here and there, a twinkling light shone through the darkness. While she watched, some of the lights disappeared. She looked at the clock and saw that it was near midnight. When the hour struck, Camilla went softly into the hall and peered over the railing. She had a strong feeling that something was about to happen.

An instant later, with the usual preliminary sounds, the lower door swung slowly open. Camilla switched on the hall lights, and dashed down the stairs.

"Stand where you are!" she commanded, loudly. "One step further, and I will call the police—or shoot!"

The tall figure before her retreated at sight of the threatening weapon, and reached fumblingly backward for the door knob. Even in that moment of intense excitement, Camilla was conscious of a shock of disappointment as her eyes fell on the man's face, clearly visible in the bright light. It was not a noble face—handsome enough, perhaps, but dissipated and craven. The whole figure was unimpressive. Why did the man not speak? She wanted to hear his voice.

"What are you doing here?" she asked, curiously at ease and controlled. Of course he would declare himself in another moment, and the farce would be over. As for meeting Gilbert Merrill, the event was not worth the trip to town.

Then, to Camilla's astonishment, as she stood there, straight and challenging in her oriental draperies, the figure of the intruder backed silently over the sill, out into the shadows of the night, and the door swung to between them.

"The coward!" murmured Camilla. Then, in a state of nervous reaction, she sank into the hall chair and rested her head weakly against the carved back. "And I drove Gilbert Merrill out of his own house! Oh, what a joke—but why, I shall hate to tell Geraldine. It's shaken me up awfully. Well, I guess I can go to sleep now—unless he should recover and come back."

Click! Click! The front door latch again. Camilla, leaning forward in a fascinated way, with the revolver lying idly in her lap, saw the heavy door swing slowly inward, and a man enter. The new comer stood in dumb amazement, prepossessing, erect, keen-eyed. He looked at the flaring lights and at the huddled figure in the chair.

Camilla could not utter a word. She knew that this was Gilbert Merrill—but who was the other? A fit of violent trembling came over her, and her cheeks paled. Her eyes were like those of a frightened child.

"Why—I believe I've scared you terribly," said a hearty, ringing voice, with such a comforting sound in it. "I am Gilbert Merrill—and you must be one of Geraldine's friends. Is she here? Why, what's this?"

For, as Camilla drew herself feebly to her feet, the little revolver rattled to the floor.

"There was a burglar—a real burglar here," she said, brokenly. "I—I ordered him away—and then—you came."

"Oh, don't faint—you poor child! You're safe now."

Gilbert's supporting arm was around her, and the heavy auburn braids lay against his shoulder. As the girl's eyes uplifted shyly, they met a magnetized gaze that made her lazes fall again. Faint and trembling, she was still blissfully conscious of the reassuring pressure of that protective arm. It was really a pretty tableau that Aunt Lydia saw when she peered wonderingly over the banister. Then explanations followed.

Early Saturday morning Geraldine received two letters. One, couched in terms that she alone might understand and signed "Camilla," was thrown aside after reading, with a petulant "Pshaw!" The other was from Gilbert.

"I shall not be down Saturday, with the crowd, Geraldine. Your friend, Miss Ogden, has had an unpleasant shock, and I think life at Idelhurst is too stimulating for her at present, so I have advised her to remain here over Sunday, and I will stay to see that she and her aunt are properly protected and made comfortable. We will join you later, when your scattered merry-makers have flown. I shall not return to the camp next week, so you will have enough of my society, after all."

Geraldine's face was aglow as she finished her letter reading. "And I thought it was all a fiasco," she reflected. "Oh, Gilbert!" Then she tossed back her head, while her curls bobbed merrily, and laughed until the tears came.

Mind and Umbrella. "Sawone is a man of great concentration of mind."

"I suppose you mean by that that he always remembers to pick up the umbrella he sets down in a street car or someone's office?"

"More than that. He remembers to pick up an umbrella even when he has not set one down."

Fitting Task.

"This is a real deal," remarked the speeding motorist as he was conducted to the inner circle of the Inferno. "Never mind," said the demon, soothingly, who was escorting him. "We'll put you where you can soon be scorching."

STOCK MARKET HAD REACTIONARY TENDENCY.

Business on Wall Street Appears to Continue in an Unsettled Condition.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, Nov. 15.—The reactionary character of the market, which was overcome temporarily by the rally yesterday, again asserted itself today. Prices were stimulated at the opening by the previous rise in the London market but the advantage was soon lost, owing largely to continued realizing. Disappointment over the failure to declare an extra dividend on Lehigh Valley which had been expected in some quarters, caused free selling of the stocks in the second hour and it sagged to 177 5-8. It had sold at 180 1-2 earlier and closed yesterday at 179 3-4. Reading and all of the other active issues, were influenced by the decline in this stock with quite a large proportion of the list falling slightly below yesterday's closing. Severe inroads were made in prices after mid-day. With the absorptive power of the market much reduced by the recent driving in of the short interest, large operators find it increasingly difficult to market their starks when they attempt to make a turn.

Losses of about a point were registered in many representative stocks, Reading, Union Pacific, St. Paul, Great Northern pfd, Missouri Pacific, United States Steel, American Smelting and Amalgamated Copper. Lehigh Valley was down 3 points, and Canadian 2 1-2. On the curb American Tobacco jumped 15 points to 452. The decline stopped when professions ceased selling, but no appreciable recoveries were noted.

Trading became dull when the list began to harden. The close was steady.
