CANVASS THREE COUNTIES TODAY

Guadalupe, Lincoln and Luna Returns Do Not Change Much

MANY OPINIONS HANDED DOWN

Supreme Court Takes Recess Until Monday a Week.

The work of the official canvassing board went merrily on again today and the Senate chamber had the air of business consistent with that room. Grant county having been completed yesterday afternoon, Guadalupe county was taken up today and before night it is expected to have that county as well as Luna and Lincoln counties completed. This will throw more light on the very interesting and somewhat perplexing question as to who is elected on the supreme bench.

As on previous days the corridors and rooms of the Capitol echoed the voices of prominent candidates of both parties and a glance at their faces revealed the intense interest they feel in the work now going on in the Senate chamber.

Discussing this morning's work, one of those who is keeping tab on the canvass said: "Up to noon there has been no startling news developed by the count of Guadalupe county, and it does not seem likely that the totals of this county will show any discrepancies from the unofficial returns to effect the general result."

The Republican candidates for judgeships gained twelve votes in Guadalupe county over the unofficial count. An informal scrutiny of the official returns from Torrance county showed a gain of two votes for Edward L. Medler, giving him thirty majority in the district for district judge. Otero and Lincoln county officials returns, however, have not yet been examined. An unofficial scrutiny of Taos county returns showed a Republican loss of forty to fifty votes for the Republican candidates.

For the Treasury.
Territorial Treasurer Rufus J. Pallen has received the sum of $2501.79 from Walter B. Wagner, treasurer of San Juan county, and $4.50 from Game and Fish Warden Thomas P. Gable.

Commissioners Met.
The board of penitentiary commissioners is meeting today at the penitentiary to take up routine business and pass on applications for paroles. The board will finish its meeting at 4 or 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The following are the land entries at the Santa Fe Land office: Rosenda Duran, Anton Chico; William Sutter, Estancia; Mrs. S. T. Cummings, Tampico, Ill.; Luis Montana, Ribera; David C. Gilman, Moriarty; James M. Boatright, Mountain; Wilbur A. Dunlavy, Willard; Sister Rodriguez, Duran; Eligio Gutierrez, Duran.

Supreme Court.

The territorial supreme court finished yesterday afternoon, listening to the arguments in the case of Klock vs. Mann over the district attorneyship for Bernalillo, Sandoval and Valencia counties, known as the Sixth District, and then took an adjournment until 2 o'clock this afternoon. A further adjournment will be taken today until December 18.

The five Lincoln county seat cases were submitted on briefs.

This afternoon the court handed down fifteen opinions.

The supreme court this afternoon handed down the following decisions: 1309. The Riverside Land and Cement Manufacturing Company cross appellant and appellee, vs. E. F. Hardwick, et al.

Cross appellee and appellant, judgment of the court below is modified and this court enters judgment. 1310. The Riverside Land and Cement Manufacturing Co., appellee, vs. E. F. Hardwick, et al., appellants, judgment of the court below is modified and this court enters judgment. Both cases were appealed from the district court of Chaves county.

1355 and 1357. Rafael Tagliarini, appellee, vs. Caesar Grande, appellant. Appeal from the district court of Bernalillo county. Judgment affirmed.

1356. First National Bank of Albuquerque, appellee, vs. J. H. Haver Kamp, (J. A. Miller trustee in bankruptcy) appellant. Appeal from the district court of Bernalillo county. Judgment affirmed.

1376. Caledonian Coal Company, appellee, vs. Rocky Cliff Coal Mining Company and Steven Canavan, appellant. The judgment of the lower court is reversed and remanded.

1383. Edgar Andrews, appellant, vs. The Rio Grande Live Stock Company, et al., appellees. Judgment reversed.

1386. Mary E. Collins, appellant, vs. Julia Schump, appellee. Appeal from district court of sixth judicial district. Judgment reversed and remanded with instruction to overrule the demurrer and to proceed with the hearing of the case.

1388. Tina Haffner Retsch, Otto Retsch, intervenor, appellees, vs. Alois B. Renshan, et al., appellant. Appeal from the district court of Santa Fe county. Judgment is affirmed.

REYES AT POINTS FAR APART

Neither Mexico Nor Uncle Sam Can Locate Doughty General

SEEMS A MAN OF MYSTERY

Small Uprisings Continue In Southern States of Neighboring Republic.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New Orleans, La., Dec. 8.—Soon after the steamer Burstan had received clearance papers today for Frontera, Mexico, agents of the United States customs and secret service went alongside in a government launch and a thorough search was made for evidence of a filibustering expedition to Mexico.

A Man of Mystery.

Mexico City, Mex., Dec. 8.—Further mystery regarding the movements of General Reyes has been created by a news report from San Antonio that he had passed through St. Louis, but the belief is still held that he is in the vicinity of Brownsville, as was reported by a secret agent of the interior department.

Small Uprisings Reported.

Small uprisings are reported from San Martin, in the state of Tlaxcala and also in the neighborhood of Tehuacan in the state of Puebla as well as on the southern border of Zacatecas.

To all of these disturbances the military authorities are paying close attention. The situation in Yucatan, is said to have improved.

Reyes at Camargo.

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 8.—It is reported here this afternoon that General Reyes accused of violation of the neutrality laws, who disappeared from San Antonio early this week, is in Camargo, Mexico. Mexican secret service agents have been seeking Reyes for two days and have been close on his trail several times it is reported.

Not Far From Brownsville.

Camargo is on the National Railway, about 100 miles from Brownsville, Texas. The distance by air line to the American border, however, is not more than twenty-five miles. Reyes was believed to have been at Brownsville yesterday.

Dynamite in Rio Grande.

El Paso, Texas, Dec. 8.—Juarez officials found a case of dynamite in the river last night, supposed to have been dropped by Reyes in attempting to smuggle it into Mexico.

Appeal to Clark and La Follette.

Alleged Reyesists now in El Paso jail awaiting hearing on the charge of conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws, last night sent telegrams appealing to Champ Clark, Speaker of the National House to help them.

The night before, they sent an appeal to Senator La Follette.

Five Reyesists Arrested.

The leader of the band of disturbers at San Antonio, Chihuahua, formerly lieutenant of Pancho Villa, has been arrested by Chihuahua rurales with four of his followers, according to telegrams received in Juarez today.

Reyes Bound for Mobile.

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 8.—Robert Gayon, Mexican consul here, today notified the federal authorities that General Bernardo Reyes may come to this port and asks that all vessels be watched. It is reported that the Mississippi Gulf Coast below here is closely watched by Washington secret service agents who are looking for the formation of a filibustering expedition against one of the Latin-American republics.

No Contraband Found.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 8.—The search of the Burstan revealed no trace of arms or ammunition, but it was reported that the Mexican consul would file a formal complaint against the steamer and delay its departure until rumors regarding a shipment of war supplies near the city can be cleared up.

DOE DRIVEN THROUGH PASADENA BY STORM.

Pursued by Men and Boys Until Driven Into Stable Where It Was Captured.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 8.—Storm driven from the mountains, a doe weighing about 100 pounds, galloped frantically through the fashionable Fair Oaks residence section of Pasadena today.

A crowd of men and boys pursued the creature over lawns, through back yards, jumping fences, and finally into a stable where it was caught. Forest rangers were notified and proposed taking the doe back to the mountains.

GERMAN AVIATOR MAKES NEW ENDURANCE RECORD.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Johannesburg, Germany, Dec. 8.—A new endurance record for an airplane flight with a passenger was achieved today by Herr Suvelack, the well known aviator, who stayed in the air for four hours and twenty-three minutes.

The previous record was held by Herr Von Illner, who accomplished a flight with a passenger lasting two hours ten minutes and fifty-five seconds.

FARMERS CALLED TO TESTIFY

Subpoenas Issued For Appearance of Sugar Beet Growers

RECRUITS FROM THE SLUMS

Colorado Husbandman Recalled to Explain His Previous Statements.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—Subpoenas have been issued by the House sugar trust committee for a number of farmers engaged in beet sugar culture. They are to be called to refute the testimony of Colorado farmers that the beet sugar refiners do not deal fairly with the beet farmers. The new witnesses will prolong the investigation. Today James Bodkin, of Meade, Colorado, was recalled to be questioned further as to his statement that recruits for the Colorado beet fields were gathered in the slums.

M'MANIGAL TELLS HIS STORY TO GRAND JURY.

Investigation Covers Wide Sweep of Territory and Witnesses Will Be Summoned From Far.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 8.—Ortie E. McManigal, confessed dynamiter, was taken before the federal grand jury here again today to resume his story of dynamite outrages throughout the United States.

John Crickshank, district passenger agent of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad, also appeared before the jury.

The alleged illegal transportation of dynamite, and alleged conspiracies against federal laws, which the grand jury is investigating, cover a wide sweep of territory and many railroad officials may be called upon in tracing the movements of those whom Assistant United States District Attorney E. A. Regan and his colleagues believe to have been involved in them.

William Andre, one of the sworn jurors in the McNamara trial called at the office of State District Attorney John D. Fredericks today and was closeted with him. He refused to talk about the visit and so did Fredericks.

MAINE WAS BLOWN UP FROM THE OUTSIDE.

Such Is Gist of Official Statement Issued Today by the Navy Department.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—The battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor by an explosion from the outside. This is the gist of a short statement issued by the Navy Department today, based on findings made by the joint army and navy board which spent several months in Havana harbor investigating the wreck.

Contents of Magazine Ignited.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—The statement was as follows: "The board finds that the injuries to the bottom of the Maine were caused by the explosion of a charge of low form of explosives exterior to the ship between frames 28 and 31, strake B, port side. This resulted in igniting and exploding the contents of the six-inch reserve magazine, A-14-M, said contents including a large quantity of black powder. The more or less complete explosion of the contents of the remaining forward magazine followed. The magazine explosion resulted in the destruction of the vessel."

Bolton; at Wagon Mound, Piedad Medina, all reappointments. The last named office became presidential on October 1. The appointments were recommended by Delegate Andrews.

Delegate Andrews will have all confirmed on Monday. Andrews introduced a bill for the digging of a public experiment well at Dunlap, Chaves county, appropriating $4,000. Vice President Sherman presented the report on the annual expenditures of agricultural colleges.

TARIFF AGITATION COSTS SHEEPMEN $50,000,000.

Wool Growers Almost Unanimous in Demanding Higher Duties for Their Protection.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Omaha, Neb., Dec. 8.—"During the last eighteen months the sheep industry has not been prosperous, for during this period agitation as to the wool tariff has been continuous, resulting in the serious depreciation of wool prices. Not only have the prices been effected, but, as necessarily follows, the prices of sheep have fallen from $1 to $1.50 a head throughout the country. This depreciation means an annual loss to the sheep growers of the country of approximately $50,000,000."

Such was the statement today of Frank L. Gooding, of Gooding, Idaho, president of the National Wool Growers' Association, which will hold its 48th annual convention in Omaha on December 14 to 16.

The proposed tariff revision of wool will be discussed in full at the meeting and the wool growers of the United States and Canada will unhesitatingly put themselves on record for a higher tariff, according to Mr. Gooding.

ENORMOUS AMOUNT OF COTTON IS GINNED.

Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina Have Broken Former Records.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, have ginned thus far this year more cotton than ever before was grown within their borders.

Every cotton growing state except Arkansas, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Tennessee, already have ginned more cotton than was grown in the states last year or the year before, according to the Census Bureau's cotton report issued today showing the ginning prior to December 1.

To that date there had been ginned in the United States a total of 12,814,842 bales, exceeding the total season's ginning of every year except 1904, 1906 and 1908, and coming within 637,000 bales of the total ginned in 1904, the record year.

The report included 87,567 round bales and 87,457 bales of Sea Island. Ginning by states included: Oklahoma, 783,741; Texas, 3,745,930.

RYAN MAKES EVASIVE REPLIES

Denies That Any Friction Exists With Samuel Gompers

WILL NOT DISCUSS PROBE

Doesn't Know Whether He Will Call Meeting of Executive Board

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 8.—"There is not a word of truth in reports of friction between Samuel Gompers or other officials of the American Federation of Labor and myself," said Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, who arrived in this city today from Washington.

Asked why he had not signed the statement issued by the Federation of Labor officials in denunciation of the McNamara brothers, after a conference in Washington yesterday, Mr. Ryan replied:

"I took very little part in the conference because of other business. I will not add to my first statement in regard to the outcome of the McNamara case. I have nothing more to say."

"Will you call a meeting of the executive board to consider the attitude of the association toward the McNamaras," he was asked.

"I don't know," was the answer. "Did you, as president, know anything of the details of the expenditure by John J. McNamara, as secretary of a fund of $1,000 a month appropriated for organization purposes and for which no account was made?"

"That is a matter that will take care of itself."

Mr. Ryan refused to comment upon the federal authorities examination of the books of the association now proceeding in preparation for the grand jury's session beginning December 14.

When he was asked if he knew a federal grand jury inquiry was being made as to whether officers were associated with the McNamaras in illegal transportation of dynamite, he replied: "There is nothing I can say on that matter."

DECREASE IN AMOUNT OF COPPER IN STOCK.

Total Production for November Was Seven Million Pounds Less Than in October.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, Dec. 8.—The statement of the Copper Producers' Association for November shows a decrease in stocks on hand of 23,212,454 pounds, compared with the previous month.

Total production for November aggregated 111,876,601 pounds as against 118,255,432 in October. Domestic deliveries were 68,039,776 pounds or 3,971,469 pound better than in the preceding month, while foreign deliveries were almost 7,000,000 pounds larger, with total deliveries showing a gain of 10,936,400 pounds.

LEADER OF HOLY GHOST SOCIETY INDICTED FOR MURDER

Rev. Frank W. Sanford Must Answer for Death of Six of His Followers.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Portland, Maine, Dec. 8.—An indictment, containing six counts, for the death of six of his followers on the cruise of the Yacht Coronet, was reported today by the grand jury of the United States District Court against Rev. Frank W. Sanford, leader of the Holy Ghost and United States Society.

The trial of the Shillshole leader was begun immediately.

DID HYDE INJECT PUS GERMS?

Startling Theory in Swope Murder Trial at Kansas City

Nurses Poor Witnesses

Not Familiar With Kind of Camphorated Oil Used in Hypodermics.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 8.—Still another nurse, Miss Rose Churchill, testifying for the state in the trial of Dr. B. Clark Hyde, charged with the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, admitted on cross examination today that she was not familiar with the kind of camphorated oil used in hypodermic injections. She said she had not seen oil administered in this manner.

Her admissions were vital to the case as it is averred by the prosecution that Hyde injected pus germs instead of camphorated oil, as he claimed, into Margaret Swope's arm, and the nurse's direct testimony was that she did not think camphorated oil had been used.

PECULIAR TEST FOR FARMERS

Asked to Define Big Words in Indictment of Beef Packers

TWO OF THEM HAVE FLUNKED

Couldn't Tell What Is Meant by Intimidation, Competition, Etc.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Chicago, Ill., Dec. 8.—Attorneys for the Chicago packers on trial for alleged violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act today demanded definitions of words used in the indictments when they examined the tentative jurors selected by the government. The veniremen questioned thus far have been farmers and the questions have been directed toward forming a basis for a challenge, that the jurors have not the necessary knowledge.

Clem Olson, a farmer, was examined first. He hesitated at defining, "competition, elimination, refrigeration," and like words, although declaring he knew the meaning of all of them. He was excused. "Intimidation, untrammelled and connivance," proved too much for Oscar Scott, a farmer, and he was excused after admitting he was unable to define them.

BULLS WERE LOSERS ON STOCK MARKET TODAY.

New York Banks Have Lost More Than Nine Million Dollars Since Last Friday.

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) New York, Dec. 8.—Traders continued to sell the market today. The heaviness of the list during the early part of the week resulted in increased activity by the bears and losses were distributed in every section of the market.

Selling of low-priced stocks continued, with depressing effect on the general market. The prospect of an exceptionally unfavorable bank statement deterred bull traders from buying stocks. With a loss by the banks of more than $9,000,000 since Friday, it is thought not unlikely the surplus may be entirely eliminated.

Leading stocks were offered more freely in the latter part of the forenoon. The whole market manifested greater weakness. Copper stocks were heavy despite expectation of a good showing in the producers' statement. Among the noteworthy losses were: Sloss-Scheffeld, 2-1/4; Denver and Rio Grande, preferred, and Great Northern Ore certificates 2, and many other important stocks 1 to 1-1/2.

Bonds were easy.

Increased depression was shown by the market during the noon hour. This was attributed to the utterances of the head of a leading financial institution whose views were largely tinged with pessimism.

The report of the copper producers Association for November, while in many respects favorable, failed to arrest weakness in the Coppers. After Louisville & Nashville had been depressed two points, Union Pacific and Tennessee Copper, 1-3/4. Reading 1-5/8 and United States Steel 1-1/2, the selling stopped and there was a small rally.

Trading was unusually dull in the afternoon with prices ruling slightly above the lowest.

The close was firm.

Cotton.

New York, Dec. 8.—Cotton spot closed quiet 20 points lower. Middling uplands, $9.20; Middling gulf, 9.45; sales, 2,800 bales.

INSURANCE LAPSES FOR MAN WORKING IN A SALOON.

An important decision was made in the court of appeals, Texas, when the court reversed and remanded the case of the Modern Woodmen of America against W. B. Lynch, appealed from the 55th district court of Harris county, by which the court held that an insurance contract must be lived up to by the insured. Lynch had been insured in the association for $2,000 in favor of his mother, Mrs. Rachel Lynch, and following his death, when payment was refused, suit was brought in the district court of Harris county and judgment secured by the plaintiff in the sum of $2,000 with interest. The Modern Woodmen appealed the case and showed that the deceased had engaged in helping in the saloon of a man named Sirock at Crosby, Harris county, Texas, from time to time. The court of appeals holds that by such action he violated his contract with the Woodmen and his beneficiary is not entitled to recover.

FOUR SALOON CUSTOMERS HELD UP AT SALT LAKE.

Salt Lake, Utah, Dec. 8.—At the command "hands up" given by a man with a sixshooter in his hand, five occupants of the Moxum hotel barroom stretched their arms toward the ceiling last night. There were two robbers. While one stepped to the cash register the other went through four customers.

DEMING EDITOR TALKS IRRIGATION

Tells Congress at Chicago About Pumping In New Mexico

PINCHOT ON WATER POWER

Only Reliable "Get Rich Scheme Without a Penalty Attached."

(By Special Leased Wire to New Mexican) Chicago, Ill., Dec. 8.—Gifford Pinchot, president of the Conservation Association, addressed the delegates to the National Irrigation Congress here today.

Norman E. Webster, Jr., of New York, was scheduled to talk on "Irrigation Accounting." T. U. Taylor, professor of civil engineering of the University of Texas, had for his subject "Pumping for Irrigation," while President Wildrose of the Utah Agricultural College was to explain the "Relation Between Irrigation and Dry Farming."

Speakers announced for the afternoon session were, Willard E. Holt, New Mexico; E. J. Watson, commissioner of agriculture, commerce and labor, South Carolina; Dwight B. Heard, Arizona, and Horace G. Clark, Colorado.

Deming Editor Boosts New Mexico.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Describing irrigation as the "only reliable get-rich-quick scheme without a penalty attached," Willard E. Holt, president of the New Mexico advisory board of the national irrigation Congress, and editor of Deming Graphic, today described obstacles which New Mexico has overcome in the state's large irrigation projects.

"Intelligent farmers are coming to the irrigation idea as the only reliable get-rich-quick scheme," said Holt. "With the back-to-the-soil movement there comes a land hunger and water thirst that can be supplied only by states like New Mexico. Few people realize that we have four million acres of land with an available water supply. This estimate includes the largest irrigation project in the world now being constructed at Elephant Butte."

"New Mexico has successfully practiced irrigation since the sixteenth century, so that we claim nothing new but improved method."

"Aside from the area that has been reclaimed by using the rivers and streams, we have almost a half million acres of the richest soil that is or may be irrigated by underground waters, pumped from depths of thirty-five to one hundred feet. Of this area, not more than five per cent has been cultivated, but that five per cent has demonstrated the absolute guarantee of wealth for the man who pins his faith upon the magic of the pump."

"At Roswell, in the great Pecos valley, hundreds of artesian wells tap the underground waters and in addition many pumps are in use."

"A single pumping proposition near Roswell includes 13,000 acres with twenty-eight miles of electric transmission lines connecting the motor-driven pumps."

Mr. Holt concluded his address by describing a number of the more important projects in detail, and telling how the pump had been made one of the great factors in profitable farm developments in New Mexico.

Pinchot on Water Power.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 8.—In an address before the national irrigation congress here today, Gifford Pinchot devoted himself chiefly to Alaska and the conservation problems there. He praised the work of Secretary of the Interior Fisher and said the administration was certain to defeat any effort to monopolize the valuable coal lands.

Speaking of water power and the motives of the irrigation congress, Mr. Pinchot declared that "When you gain control of the water problem in any country, you have solved all the physical problems of that country."

Water Power Makes World Go Round.

"Water power is the thing that makes the world go round," said Mr. Pinchot, "and with the bill that will surely be passed this session of congress conserving power and obtaining just recompense for the people for the power hitherto given gratis to great interests, lies the solution."

James R. Garfield, former secretary of the Interior, addressed the Congress briefly on drainage and irrigation differences and advised harmony, if not coalition, between the two causes.

HER DESIRE.

I am longing for some one to love me
Some one to call me his own
Some one to earn money for me,
And live for the purpose alone;
I long to be somebody's darling,
To live in complete uselessness
To proudly look down on my neighbors
And have nothing to think of but dress.
I am longing for some one to claim me,

Some one who'll always be true
One who will never have leisure
To find any mischief to do
One who will place in my keeping
All he has managed to earn.
Who will slave for me, never demanding
The least little thing in return.

I am longing for some one to wed me
Some one to strive and to strain
For the purpose of giving me pleasure,
And never inclined to complain;
Some one to love and protect me,
Some one who'll not be a cad
And file a cross-suit when his efforts
No longer are making me glad.

ELOQUENCE IS RULE IN RIO ARRIBA COUNTY

Taos, Too, Can Furnish Its Quota of Orators—Items From Spanish-American Normal.

The young men of Professor Martin's department at the Spanish-American School at El Rito, Rio Arriba county, recently organized a society for mutual improvement. Judging from the eloquent and enthusiastic speeches issued from the north school room, much oratorical talent is being developed. Rio Arriba county is said to have forty orators of the first rank and it is evident that these fine young men at the school will take the places of their fathers some day.

The pupils of Mrs. George Dixon's department were entertained by Mrs. Dixon and Miss Dixie Dixon at a ranksgiving dinner, which was served in the library. The guests of honor were Colonel Venecio Jaramillo, wife and mother, Charles Munch the distinguished pianist and organist at El Rito Catholic church, G. Dixon, Fauris Martinez, of Taos, Cleofes Martinez of La Madera, and Ralph Dixon.

The following Thanksgiving program was rendered by Mrs. Dixon's pupils:

ALL YOU NEED IS A CASCARET TONIGHT

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach, Coated Tongue or Constipated Bowels by Morning.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great. A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

FEAST OF IMMACULATE CONCEPTION IS OBSERVED.

Day is One of Great Solemnity in the Roman Catholic Church, Which Honors Mary.

Today the Roman Catholic church throughout the world celebrates the feast of the Immaculate Conception, which has been long observed as a holiday of obligation and special services were held in the Catholic churches of this city.

The feast was instituted in honor of the declaration of the dogma that Mary was conceived without sin or "immaculate." In Catholic countries the feast is one of the greatest solemnities in its observance and in many of the large churches services of great beauty are held. This is especially true of Rome, the city of churches.

SHOULD WOMEN VOTE

No one who keeps posted on the great work being done by women in professional and business life, and, most important of all, in the American home, can for a moment doubt that they would vote wisely.

If they would only guard their own health as carefully as they do their children's they could accomplish even more.

One woman who knows how necessary it is to stay well is Mrs. Herman of North Birmingham (Ala.). Her daughter, Miss Nona, says in a letter: "We have used Vinol in our family for four years. Whenever my mother gets a bad cold or feels weak and run-down she always uses Vinol and it makes her well again. She says Vinol always gives her strength and builds her up."

This delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil is so certain to cure up chronic coughs, and build up weak, run-down, sickly people of all ages, that we sell it under a positive promise to give back your money if Vinol does not satisfy you. Try Vinol. The Capital Pharmacy.

MET AT COLLEGE, NOW THEY'RE WED

Clyde Earl Ely and Miss Inez McMahon Are Quietly Married Here

AUTO AIDED THEIR ROMANCE

Newspaper Man Was Determined to Steal a March on His Friends.

The fact that he had written up many weddings and thereby learned the successful methods for evading the curious, made it an easy matter for Clyde Earl Ely, acting city editor of the Santa Fe New Mexican to slip away from this city last night in an auto and stealthily bring his affianced Miss Inez Mable McMahon here and then take out a wedding license through the courtesy of Probate Clerk George W. Armijo who kept his office open after hours to aid the newspaper man.

Mr. Ely and Miss McMahon were married at the Presbyterian Manse by the Rev. B. Z. McCullough in the presence of only a few intimate friends who had been let into the secret.

Following the wedding ceremony the newly married couple were given a supper by the Misses Roberts at their home on Grant avenue. Covers were laid for eight.

The arrangements for the wedding ceremony were skillfully planned by Mr. Ely a day or two ago and shortly before the New Mexican went to press yesterday afternoon, Mr. Ely chartered John H. Walker's automobile and accompanied by two friends, he made for Lamy with great speed, arriving there after a seventy minute journey. At the El Ortiz hotel he met his affianced, who had come from Fairview, Kansas, and who had been waiting nearly half an hour for him as the train arrived at 4:40 instead of 5:10 as was stated in the old time table.

The bridal party then jumped into the automobile and made another dash homeward, just escaping several Santa Feans who were on the scrub train, also bound for the Ancient City. But all was not smooth for the ways of Cupid and difficulty after difficulty was encountered. The auto's lights went out and a long halt had to be made to plug up the gas tank with mud, or adobe, which was a brilliant idea of Mr. Walker to stop a leak when all other schemes failed.

The bridal party alighted and built a fire by the road side to warm their hands and feet and furnish illumination while repairs to their motor were being made.

Finally the trip was resumed, a jack rabbit or a rat or some other animal darting in front of the car, and adding zest to the journey.

Just before reaching Santa Fe, her majesty, the moon, sent her soft rays over the mountains and the bridal couple declared the trip had been romantic to the last degree. As the car entered the old Santa Fe trail which Mr. Walker pointed out, additional interest was lent to the trip for both bride and bridegroom hall from Kansas which has figured conspicuously with Missouri in the blazing of this noted thoroughfare.

The romance which was culminated last night was begun several years ago when Miss McMahon attended Washburn academy at Topeka, and Mr. Ely, Washburn college, in the same city. Miss McMahon went from Washburn academy to Baker University at Baldwin, Kansas. She is a member of the Alpha Chi Omega Sorority. She is a most attractive brunette of a charming personality and she is sure to make many friends in this city.

Mr. Ely, who for the past fortnight has been acting city editor of the New Mexican, has had an interesting career, although he is still a young man well under thirty. He hails from Topeka, Kansas. There he attended Washburn College where he leaped into fame in athletics as captain of the track team and by his smashing of a dozen or more college records as a long distance runner. There were only two other men in the whole state of Kansas who could outrun him in a mile race. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

From 1902 to 1907 Mr. Ely was in the navy entering as an apprentice and quitting as quartermaster of Admiral "Bob" Evans staff on the Maine. He was in the North Atlantic fleet and later the Atlantic fleet most of the time and travelled all over the world. After a short stay at college he entered newspaper work and served nearly a year on the city staff of the Kansas City Star. Later he moved

CONGRESSMAN-ELECT HARVEY B. FERGUSSON, ALBUQUERQUE.

Age 63 years.
Born in Alabama.
Graduate of Washington and Lee University.
Instructor in Shenandoah Valley Academy.
Practiced law at Wheeling, West Virginia.
Came to White Oaks, Lincoln county, in 1882.
Located in Albuquerque in 1884.
District Attorney.
Special U. S. Attorney in 1894.
Delegate to Fifty-fifth Congress.
Secured grants of land for New Mexico institutions and schools.
Candidate twice since for Congress.
National Democratic Committee.
Married. Children.

A most charming man personally, to whom New Mexico is indebted for the Fergusson act which gave it extensive land grants for institutions and schools, Congressman-elect Harvey B. Fergusson is one of the best liked, most popular and most magnetic men in public life in the Southwest. With a record absolutely clean, and with ideals that are high, he has been an eloquent advocate of good government and of Democratic principles, and certainly is deserving of whatever honors his party has bestowed on him. In him, the Republicans have found a foeman worthy of their steel.

A Southerner.
Harvey B. Fergusson was born on September 9, 1848, in Alabama. He comes of distinguished English family which first settled in South Carolina. One of his ancestors was an officer in the English army and was killed at King's Mountain. His father Captain Sampson N. Fergusson, was a physician and was captain of a company in the Fifth Alabama Volunteers during the Civil War participating in all of Lee's battles.

Graduate of Washington and Lee.
The son was reared in the South and took the degree of M. A. at Washington and Lee University, Virginia, having worked his way through by teaching Greek and mathematics. In 1874, he graduated from the law course and then for three years taught at the Shenandoah valley academy at Winchester, Virginia. In October, 1876, he began the practice of law at to New Mexico and was connected with a publishing company of which his brother is a large stockholder and secretary.

The charm of Santa Fe allured him to reside here and he has made many friends in this city by his genial disposition and as well as by his energy and ability.

Wheeling, West Virginia.
In New Mexico Almost Thirty Years.
In 1882, Mr. Fergusson came to White Oaks Lincoln county, in connection with mining litigation. This interested him in mining enterprises and from that time he made a specialty of mining litigation. In 1884 he hung out his shingle in Albuquerque, being associated for a time with the late W. B. Childers and then with the late Judge Warren.
Special U. S. and District Attorney.
Governor Ross appointed Mr. Fergusson district attorney but the latter resigned very soon. In 1894, he was employed by Secretary Olney as special U. S. attorney in prosecutions for the violation of federal bank statutes.
In Congress.
Elected in 1896 to the Fifty-fifth Congress as Delegate from New Mexico, Mr. Fergusson rendered signal service through the passage of the Fergusson act which granted the territory its extensive land donations for public institutions and schools. He was also active and energetic in other matters and made a splendid record. He was nominated again for this honor by his party but went down to defeat before Pedro Perea in 1898, and again before B. S. Rodey in 1902.
National Committeeman.
Mr. Fergusson was Democratic national committeeman for many years delegate to national, territorial and county conventions, held many posts of honor, is an active member of the New Mexico Bar Association and has ever taken a live interest in civic matters. In 1887, he married Miss Clara M. Huning, daughter of Franz Huning, a New Mexico pioneer. Two children were born to the union, Miss Erna, who is well known and liked in Santa Fe social circles, and Harvey B. Fergusson, Jr.

An unforgettable incident of the writer's experiences in New Mexico was a trip to Roswell with Mr. Fergusson, which included a wreck of two automobiles and the hardships of being marooned in a flood and rainstorm somewhere near Salt Creek (of no political significance) until rescued by automobiles from Roswell. The fortitude and good cheer with which Mr. Fergusson, though not in good health, shared the fatigue and hardships of the trip with the younger members of the party, and his wealth of learning and anecdote that helped to pass the weary hours, as well as his kindly courtesies and chivalry, made a lasting impression that has ripened into admiration, even though the writer has differed energetically with Mr. Fergusson in political matters.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

REPORT OF GOVERNOR MILLS.

The last of the reports of territorial governors has just been issued by the government. It concludes a long series of interesting documents which have followed the development of the commonwealth for several decades and contain much of value to the historian and the statistician. Of late years, the reports have been much reduced in size compared with the monumental reports that were made during the Otero administration, each year's report covering more than 500 pages and beautifully illustrated with half tone pictures and colored maps. This last report of Governor Mills is much less pretentious, covers less than 50 pages, and yet, in its businesslike tone, and in its salient figures, gives a detailed synopsis, a complete epitome of the year's progress.

Governor Mills reviews concisely in the opening paragraphs the major improvements of the year and then gives some space to statehood and the adoption of the constitution. His estimate as to New Mexico's present population is 240,000, and he shows that a steady stream of immigration is maintained as proved by the 3,273 original homestead entries covering 482,243 acres, that were made during the fiscal year covered. Other entries swell the total number to 9,667 covering 1,718,395 acres. While this is a decrease of 2,222 entries and of 600,000 acres from the year previous yet, it also indicates the maintenance of a steady growth from the outside.

The finances of the Territory are shown to be in splendid condition, the reduction of the tax rate from 14.5 to 10 mills, or almost 31 per cent in two years is dwelt upon. The reduction of the bonded indebtedness to less than a million dollars as the fruit of an economic and wise financial administration, is emphasized. The assessment for 1911 is shown to be $60,048,880, and declared to be on the basis of only twenty per cent, of the real value. The value of the territorial institutions is given as $2,006,640.58 outside of their land grants, and their income is about $600,000 a year.

The total resources of New Mexico banks is given as $7,039,427, and of the building and loan associations as $1,331,293. During the fiscal year, 183 corporations were authorized to do business in New Mexico and their authorized capital is given as $46,989,000, a considerable decrease from the year previous.

The public schools, the various territorial institutions, the different departments of the territorial government, are reviewed briefly, and statistics are given that show their growth and advancement. The public land grants are enumerated and their administration is reviewed.

A chapter is devoted to farming, irrigation, dry farming, water power, stream gauging, good roads, national forests, the stock industry, the national guard, mining, game and fish, health conditions and the New Mexico Museum and School of American Archaeology.

In conclusion, two recommendations are made: An Act by Congress, permitting homesteaders to buy public land to the maximum of 640 acres, and an act appropriating sufficient funds to complete the Scenic Highway across the Pecos forest.

It must be admitted, that the close study of immigration statistics, of incorporations, the decline in homestead entries, small increase in assessment, and some of the other statistics, show that despite the coming of statehood, from which such an impetus towards prosperity was expected, New Mexico has not done as well in a material way, in its stock industry, in its mining enterprises, in the way of new railroads and the influx of capital, as had been expected, or as it did in prior years. The general unrest, the political agitation, the uncertainty of the future, may have all combined to make the year 1911 one of transition rather than one of material progress and achievements.

FICTION AND LAWS.

In another two months and the legislature will be in session, with seventy-three members, each of them with his own ideas about the needs of New Mexico in the line of legislation. As a result there will be added two or three hundred statutes to the already heterogeneous mass of laws on the New Mexico statute books. The demand for laws and more laws, is created by the fiction of abuses that must be remedied by laws, of new wrinkles in legislation that will bring happiness, prosperity, and the millennium for all. Leslie's Weekly today speaks of one of these fictions which have resulted especially in a demand for laws to curb corporations, to regulate them, and to control them out of existence. It says:

"Law! Do we recognize the dignity of the law? Are we imbued with the spirit of obedience to it? Do we regard the law merely as an instrument for the punishment of offenders, or do we look upon it in the broad sense of general and willing conformity to the well-settled teachings of experience as embodied in rules established for the regulation of our social and industrial relations? These are the questions asked by ex-Secretary of the Treasury George B. Cortelyou, in an impressive address before the American Association of Foreign League Newspapers. Mr. Cortelyou spoke of the hasty and slovenly manner in which many of our laws are passed. He said that every year sees thousands of new laws many of them inspired by partisan or private motives. The citizen is bewildered and discouraged by their very multiplicity and by their perplexing and often contradictory provisions. How true this is! Yet the only remedy for abuses, large or small, is more laws, new laws, larger statute-books and more work for the lawyers!"

"There is no such thing as monopoly. It is a fiction, pure and simple. The nearest approach to a monopoly is created by Uncle Sam when he grants a patent to an inventor. But we never hear any one complaining that Edison has made too much money or that any inventor ought not to receive all the returns he could get from the brains he put into his inventions."

"People talk about a monopoly in steel, sugar, oil and other things. Not one of these is controlled, even to the extent of one-half, by the greatest of the corporations engaged in their respective lines."

"The country is dotted with independent steel plants, a great independent sugar refinery is about to be opened in Philadelphia, while new oil refineries are scattered all over the land."

"Fiction! Public opinion is based on fiction. If the yellow newspaper says it is so, the people believe it is so. No matter if it proves to be untrue; that fact is quickly forgotten when the next untruth is uttered. When the next fiction appears, the public is impressed by it all the same. It swallows it, and a falsehood travels the world around before Truth can get on its boots to overtake it."

Tariff agitation has cost wool and sheep growers of the West $50,000,000 the past year declares President Frank L. Gooding of the National Wool Growers' Association. That is a pretty big price for political talk, and it is not the shepherds alone who pay it, for $50,000,000 depreciation in any industry or property is bound to affect all business enterprises adversely and eventually every working man. Republican victory next year is essential to stop this agitation and talk from which New Mexico is suffering perhaps more than any other commonwealth.

THE PRESIDENT'S LATEST MESSAGE.

"President Taft is setting a new precedent in sending to Congress separate messages on each subject treated heretofore in the general message that it has been customary for presidents to send to Congress whenever a new session convened. On Tuesday, the president's message was devoted entirely to the trust problem and from the non-partisan standpoint it was an excellent discussion of the subject to which all parties can well subscribe without sacrificing any principle."

Yesterday's message deals with the foreign relations of the United States government and indirectly emphasized the leading position that this nation has taken in the world and its close contact with problems which heretofore it could afford to ignore. The progress of arbitration is indicated although it is admitted that in the matter of the Chamizal zone at El Paso, arbitration proved abortive. Much space is given to the troubles in Mexico and the mobilization of the army in Texas, and the conclusion is drawn that:

"The policy and action of this government were based upon an earnest friendliness for the Mexican people as a whole, and it is a matter of gratification to note that this attitude of strict impartiality as to all factions in Mexico and of sincere friendship for the neighboring nation, without regard for party allegiance, has been generally recognized and has resulted in an even closer and more sympathetic understanding between the two republics and a warmer regard one for the other."

The crying need of a merchant marine is discussed and at the same time it is said:

"The fiscal year ended June 30, 1911, shows great progress in the development of American trade. It was noteworthy as marking the highest record of exports of American products to foreign countries, the valuation being in excess of $2,000,000,000. These exports showed a gain over the preceding year of more than $300,000,000."

Many have thought the United States so pre-eminent in agriculture that it could "feed the earth" without asking much odds of the rest of the world; and yet, according to the secretary of agriculture, we imported in 1911 the very considerable value of $697,000,000 worth of things taken from the land.

Snow Failed to Arrive—Although the weather bureau had predicted snow for last night and today, the day dawned cloudless. But the weather bureau is a persistent cuss and now predicts snow for tonight and tomorrow. Yesterday was a pleasant day with a maximum temperature of forty-six degrees and a minimum of twenty-eight degrees. The relative humidity yesterday morning was forty-eight per cent.

Jelly Roll Recipe

Only Two Eggs Required

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

This Jelly Roll is fast becoming very popular on account of the way it keeps fresh. With proper handling it should keep fresh a whole week, providing it isn't eaten up in the meantime, for it is every bit as good as it looks.

K C Jelly Roll

One cup sifted flour; scant half teaspoonful salt; 2 level teaspoonsful K C Baking Powder; ground rind of 1 lemon; 2 eggs, beaten light; 1 cup sugar; 1/2 cup hot milk; glaze of jelly; powdered sugar.

Beat the sugar into the eggs; add the lemon rind, then the flour, sifted three times with the salt and baking powder; and, lastly, the milk. Bake in a buttered dripping pan; turn out on a damp cloth, trim off the crisp edges; spread with jelly and turn over and over into a roll while still warm. Dredge the top with powdered sugar.

Hot milk used in the jelly roll enables it to be rolled without danger of cracking. Have the milk scalding hot, also be careful to have the eggs and sugar beaten together until very light and creamy. Bake in a moderate oven.

K C Jelly Roll is illustrated on page thirty-two of the new and handsomely illustrated 64-page K C Cook's Book, which may be secured free by sending the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the ROSS MFG. CO., Chicago, Ill.

ORCHARDS ARE FALLING OFF

Greatest Fault is Abnormal Growth of Wood—Trees Run Away With Themselves in Growth.

It is becoming evident that some of our older orchards are not producing as abundantly as they did ten years ago. There are too many short crop years, and inspection of the orchards discloses the reason in the lack of the vigorous appearance which the trees once had. The greatest fault, however, is in the abnormal growth of wood and this is the very neglect against which we have been preaching for many years. A 200-acre orchard in Otero county is a terrible sight just because this precaution has not been followed and the flight of each year makes the trouble more complicated for the trimming should be done while the limbs are small, says the Denver Field and Farm. Then, too, as a rule all trees in this country are planted too closely and their roots are interlacing and fighting for what there is to eat. It is evident that the problem of fertilizing out orchards must be taken up seriously and it is truly a great problem.

We do not know how to solve it. We wish we did. Surface face treatment is comparatively easy and if it were only the surface with which we have to deal nobody need worry. But most of our orchards on irrigated land are bound to run away with themselves in their ravenous growth. The main part of their root-feeding system is many feet under ground. How to get nourishment to a starving root ten feet under the surface which has consumed all the material within reach we have not yet discovered, but have an idea that the question may be solved by using some soluble fertilizing material in the irrigating water.

WORK DONE BY GOVERNMENT

So Far Approximately 14,000 Families Have Been Furnished With Suitable Farms in West.

Approximately 14,000 families are now residing on farms watered by irrigation canals, built by the government in the last eight years. That means a population of about 25,000 added to the cities, towns and villages in this irrigated country as a direct result of the government's work. So we may truthfully say, in speaking of what the government's reclamation bureau is doing, that it is a process of empire building, says the Omaha Bee. It may be urged that the process is one of elimination, that the people are simply taken from one part of the United States and transported to another part. Even if that were wholly, instead of only partially, true it would still argue nothing against, but everything for, the achievement.

It is remarkable, too, how rapidly towns and communities spring up from this irrigated soil. Farmers must have their markets close at hand, their centers of social and spiritual culture and knowledge, and as soon as the government gets through platting its farm land it lays off its town lots and they are eagerly bought up and towns built upon them. And these towns are being built on the foundation of the experience of prosperous and successful people and communities in other parts of the country, therefore, wisely and substantially built.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

It is a mistake to overfeed or underfeed.

Do not forget that the hog is a grazing animal.

Protein in the food is the muscle building material.

It is a mistake to feed constipating feed with nothing to correct it.

Grass becomes less palatable to hogs as it matures and turns seed.

Ordinarily it is a mistake not to feed the liquid before the solid food.

If the hogs are not fed in a clean place, free from dust and mud, it is a mistake.

The fall of the year is a critical time in the management and care of the sheep flock.

Animals need food to build up bone and muscle and repair the wear and tear on their bodies.

The lamb crop of each year is a particularly important consideration with the sheep farmer.

In the corn belt hogs furnish one of the most important means of marketing the corn crop.

In breaking a colt it is best to hitch him to a log or a sled for the first two or three times.

It will pay any farmer of good judgment and intelligence to raise high-grade or pure-bred draft colts.

One of the first essentials of managing the sheep flock in the fall of the year is to provide proper shelter.

The cold rains and damp nights of the fall season like those of spring, are a source of constant danger to sheep.

The farmer who lives in town should not trust entirely to his hired man; he is likely not to make a success of it.

A well-balanced ration is that kind and quantity of feed which will produce the best results at the least possible expense.

See that the hogs have comfortable quarters now and the months to come. Failure here will impair the usefulness of the herd.

One need not wait a minute if they so desire, but may begin feeding from the top of the silo as soon as they have finished filling.

Pure bred stock cannot be handled in the same shiftless and careless manner that scrub and common native stuff is generally dealt.

QUITE PROMISING.

The Collector—I saw young Scadd and he made another promise to pay in the near future.

The Merchant—I consider him to be about the most promising young man in the city.

Asking Too Much.

The farmer few, the crowd proclaimed. The show no good at all; And some there were who loudly blamed him "cause he did not fail."

Gave Himself Away.

Mrs. Sharpey (at a hotel)—That couple try to act as if they had been married for years, but I know they are on their wedding tour."

Mr. Sharpey—Guess not. Mrs. S.—Yes, they are. He gave her the tenderloin of the steak.—New York Weekly.

The Blessed One.

The unconscious stranger lay on the sidewalk breathing heavily and groaning. Two teeth were missing, his eyes were marked and his nose was bleeding.

"Who can he be?" said the crowd again and again.

"I guess he was some peacemaker," suggested the ambulance surgeon, surveying the wreckage.

Simple Economies Sometimes Overlooked
In her anxiety to set a good table, many a housewife often incurs needless expense. For example: in the making of pastry, butter will often be used, which, at its cheapest, is expensive and gives no better results than can be obtained by the use of Cottoleone—the vegetable-oil cooking fat; yet Cottoleone costs about the same as lard, and one-third less is required than either butter or lard. Lard is still more expensive because it contains hog fat and leads to indigestion. You can save on your doctor's bills, as well as on your cooking fat, by using Cottoleone in all your shortening and frying.

MISS PRESERVES

By M. DIBBELL

"Hurrah Mother! I've thought of a way to get the money for the interest," cried Cynthia Brannon, rushing into the big kitchen like a young hurricane, and as the face of the woman who was engaged in the prosaic task of peeling potatoes brightened, she continued triumphantly: "Just think of all the rows of sweet pickles and preserves and canned things, and the tumbler of jelly by the dozen that are packed away in the preserve closet, and then dare to say that we haven't anything we can sell!"

Mrs. Brannon asked doubtfully, "But, dear child, who is going to buy them? Everyone around here has just as large a supply as we have."

"Oh I shan't try to sell them here. I intend to pack the market wagon and go over to the shore. There are lots of people camping out this summer, and I know they will be glad to get some of your lovely preserves. I shall ask only twenty-five cents for the quart cans, and ten cents a tumbler for the jellies, and if I don't find a market for every solitary one of them I miss my guess."

She looked the picture of youthful enthusiasm as she described her plan for capturing the needed cash for the interest on the mortgage which hung like a dark cloud over these two women, and her mother had not the heart to discourage her.

"May good luck attend you, dear child—I am sure that a peddler who is so certain of the perfection of his wares as you are, ought to find victims in plenty."

That young woman at once proceeded to give her mother such a hearty hug and kiss that the pan of potatoes was scattered broadcast.

"Now I will finish my dusting, and then start to pack my van for to-morrow's venture," said the prospective peddler.

Next morning found Cynthia covering her five mile drive to the shore at Dobbin's best pace, and with a large supply of every sort of canned goods in the wagon.

As she was descending the long hill to the beach she saw coming toward her a band of youngsters clad in the uniform of the present day church cadets.

"That must be some of St. John's boys," thought Cynthia. "I suspect they are out foraging—why shouldn't they invest in some preserves?"

When she reached them, Cynthia halted the boys in true peddler fashion. "Can't I sell you some home-made preserves and jellies?" she inquired, and they flocked round her wagon.

It ended by their all turning about and escorting Cynthia down to their camping ground, for fear she should not be able to find it alone.

The smallest of the boys climbed up to the seat beside Cynthia, and commenced at once to tell her all about their affairs as the wagon moved along.

"I tell you it's a dandy camping out just like soldiers," he began. "And we have to do things by rule same as they do, too. Mother thought I was too little to go off alone, but Captain Morgan says my record is as good as the biggest of them—it's only by my size he knows I am small!"

He smiled proudly up into Cynthia's interested eyes.

"That is splendid. And do you boys have to cook and keep things tidy for yourselves?"

"You bet we do! Captain Morgan knows how to do everything and he shows us boys. He said before we started that this wasn't going to be any make-believe camp, with somebody to do the work for us. But it's lots of fun with Captain Morgan to help."

Evidently the captain was a veritable idol to his small follower, and Cynthia found herself wondering if this paragon would approve of a young woman who peddled home-made preserves.

"There's the captain—won't he think we've made a jolly find?" called one of the bigger cadets, racing off at top speed toward the camp.

As Cynthia stopped before the tent over which floated the stars and stripes, the captain stood waiting to welcome this vendor of pure foods for his company, while said company volubly explained to him what a splendid find they had made.

To her surprise Cynthia found herself gazing into the face of a man who seemed hardly more than a boy himself.

"My boys are sure they have found a treasure, and I quite agree with them. What are you asking for the entire load?" His frank smile won Cynthia's favor.

"I had not thought of everything going to one customer," she replied. "There are a great many jars on the wagon—and are you sure you will like the goods? It is always best to examine before purchasing you know."

But the looking over her collection only made the captain and his cadets more eager to possess them.

"It seems a lot, but the amount I must have is $25," Cynthia said, at last.

Instead of being shocked at her demand, Captain Morgan laughed and answered, "That is the cheapest I ever heard of selling such a stack of preserves at, but I will see that the jars and glasses are all returned to you in good shape."

"That will be good of you," Cynthia gratefully assured him. "I should never have had courage to ask such a favor."

cess, while not daring to believe it really feasible, was a delighted and thankful woman when, much sooner than she had thought possible, her daughter drove up to the door, waving a bunch of greenbacks triumphantly aloft.

"Now you must acknowledge that I am the business woman of the family," she cried.

Later on Cynthia said soberly, "Mother, I believe I have found the way for paying off the principal as well as interest. Just think of the quantity of fruit that goes to waste because there is no use for it. I mean to write Cousin Arnold and ask if some store in town would not sell preserves on commission, and I shall not let the shore people escape with only one load another year. We must put in the rest of the season preserving everything there is to preserve."

Mr. Thompson will trust us for sugar."

Her mother looked proudly upon her daughter and answered, "You are the business woman as you said, Cynthia, and I will do just what I am commanded to."

A week after her excursion to the shore, Cynthia was returning from a trip to the village. When driving through a deep pass where the ground rose steeply on both sides into hills crowned with stunted pines, she heard a voice calling loudly, "Miss Preserves! Miss Preserves!"

Looking up she beheld the smallest of the St. John cadets scrambling down the steep incline to the road.

At once she drew rein, and called back, "Am I Miss Preserves?"

"I didn't know what else to call you," panted the youngster as he reached the wagon. "Oh, Miss Preserves, won't you let us bring Johnnie Action down to you, and then drive him over to camp? He fell into a hole and sprained his ankle so he can't walk, and Captain Morgan sent me to watch the road for a wagon and I was just in time to catch you."

"Yes, indeed," answered Cynthia. "Bring Johnnie right along and I will get him to camp as fast as Dobbin can travel."

"I knew it was all right soon as I saw you," said the small cadet gratefully, and then hastened up the hill after his comrades.

Captain Morgan and one of the boys appeared soon, carrying the lame Johnnie between them, and followed by the whole flock.

"You seem to be our guardian angel," said the captain to Cynthia, as they gently deposited the disabled youngster on the seat beside her.

"We shall be more than grateful for your help today—and the boys have carefully packed away all the jars we have emptied so far," he added laughingly.

The captain and three of the smallest boys climbed into the rear of the wagon, leaving the rest to follow on foot.

The injured foot had been propped up as comfortably as possible, and its owner bore the pain bravely. Before the shore was reached her companions had learned Cynthia's name and where she lived, and the boys assured her that they intended to pay her a visit soon with an installment of the fruit jars.

When the captain lifted Johnnie Action down on reaching camp they all felt like old friends, and Cynthia was thanked effusively for her assistance.

At the end of another week the cadets and their captain paid the promised visit to Cynthia. In the dusk they returned home and after this, seldom a day passed which did not see some of the cadets and often their beloved captain, visiting at the Brannon homestead.

The weeks passed swiftly, and all too soon for any of them the time came for the cadets to break camp. The youngsters were enjoying a final game of baseball on one of their last afternoons, the grassy lot beside Mrs. Brannon's orchard furnishing their diamond, while Cynthia and Captain Morgan formed part of an admiring audience.

"What a fine lot of boys they are, and how lonely mother and I will feel without them," said Cynthia with a little sigh.

"They are the best boys in the world," answered their captain heartily, "but though you may miss them, I know of some one who will be a thousand times more lonely when leaving you."

Cynthia looked up in real surprise at his tone, for never a word of sentiment had passed Captain Morgan's lips before—they had been good comrades, that was all.

"The brave little girl who started out alone to sell her wares won't be heart the first time I saw her, and every meeting with our dear 'Miss Preserves' has made me long to become her prisoner for life. Won't you try to spare a little of your love for the boys to their underserving captain?"

And then Cynthia's heart was revealed to her, for suddenly she realized that it would make life very empty to have this big, kindly captain pass out of it.

"I think that possibly he has more than his share now," she answered slowly.

He Didn't Care

By WM. C. FREEMAN.

Abe Martin says: "The man who does not advertise may know his own business, but nobody else does."

I always think there is something wrong with a business if it does not make itself known in some way.

Common sense must be applied, however, as to how that business shall be made known.

In New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other large cities there are fifty times as many stores that do not advertise in newspapers as do advertise in them.

The reason is that these stores are mere neighborhood stores—doing a small business—depending wholly on the custom of perhaps a couple of hundred families.

Obviously, such stores cannot afford to advertise in the big newspapers. How, then, are they to advertise? There are only a few ways for them to do, viz:

Sending well-written letters to all of the families in the neighborhood telling about the goods they have for sale—using posters and signs in their neighborhood wherever they can get the space for them—displaying their merchandise in their windows—but better than all of these is advertising in the weekly neighborhood paper, if one is issued.

There must be advertising of some kind done, and if it is effective the business will grow, and the small shopkeeper may be able to acquire stores in different neighborhoods. Then he can branch out with his advertising program and buy space in the big newspapers, like so many others have done before him.

This applies only to the very large communities; in the smaller communities, where everybody knows everybody else, the one medium to use all of the time is the daily home newspaper.

You must realize that good advertising, of whatever nature, must have a basis of old-fashioned common sense and must be done in accordance with a shopkeeper's ability to pay for it.

Advertising is an original form of salesmanship that tends, in the long run, to make the cost of living more reasonable for the average human being.

SHEEP INDUSTRY NOT PROSPEROUS

Annual Loss to Growers of $50,000,000 on Account of Agitation

PROTECTIVE TARIFF ESSENTIAL

Convention and Exhibition is to Be Held at Omaha, Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 8.—"During the last eighteen months, the sheep industry has not been prosperous, for during this period, agitation as to the wool tariff has not been continuous resulting in the serious depreciation of wool prices. Not only have the prices been effected, but as necessarily follows, the prices of sheep have fallen from $1 to $1.50 a head throughout the country. This depreciation means an annual loss to the sheep-growers of the country of approximately $50,000,000." Such was the statement of Frank L. Gooding, of Gooding, Idaho, president of the National Wool Growers Association, which will hold its 45th annual convention in Omaha, on December 14 to 16.

Gooding's statement was prompted by a discussion of the proposed tariff revision on wool. The revision will be discussed in full at the annual meeting and the wool growers of the United States and Canada will unhesitatingly put themselves on record for a higher tariff according to Mr. Gooding.

"In the last session of Congress, we noticed an effort to remove the tariff of one and one-half cents a pound from all meats, thus laying down the bars to the cheap meats of South America and Australia. The effort to place our meats upon the free list was the most unfortunate and destructive blow ever aimed at the agriculture of the United States," continued Gooding. "It meant its destruction for when it is known that American interests already own and control a majority of the meat packing interests of every South American country and that any meat from these countries would necessarily pass through the hands which now control it, it meant that the consumer would not receive cheaper meats but that the American producer would be forced to sell at a much lower figure. Such would practically eliminate the producer, especially mutton producers, from doing business, save at a loss. The mutton producer has never received a fair price for his product."

"When the sheep men meet in their annual convention, these questions will be discussed and the members will speak right out in meeting. The interest in coming legislation will attract sheep men from all over the United States," said W. S. McClure, secretary of the National Association. "I anticipate 2,000 visitors to the meeting, which shows how vital the sheepmen are interested. The time has come for them to assert themselves and assert themselves they must. Sheepmen will be here from all western states, from Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Kentucky, and some from the farther eastern states."

The convention will extend over a period of three days. In addition, a mammoth sheep show, where more than 1,000 sheep of all kinds will be on exhibition, will be held. The sheep show will be the largest ever held in conjunction. Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois flockmen have sent in exhibitions, many of which will be exhibited at the international

Tells Consumptives How He Got Well

Tuberculosis is said to be curable by simply living in the open air and taking a abundance of fresh eggs and milk. Undoubtedly, some persons are benefited in this way; but the appropriate remedy for Consumption is Eckman's Alternative. Do all you possibly can to add to strength and increase weight, eat wholesome, nourishing food, and breathe the cleanest and purest air—then, to the sensible things of diet living, add the tonic and curative effects of Eckman's Alternative. Read what it did in this case:

600 West Street, Wilmington, Del.
"Gentlemen: In January, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. My physician, one of the leading practitioners, said that I was lung trouble. I took eggs and milk in quantities, but I got very weak, and I sent on working in the store. The doctors said I would not gain in weight as long as I stayed in the store, but I kept on working and gained each day that I might get well. I believe my prayers were answered, for Mr. C. A. Lippincott, my employer (Lippincott & Co., Department Store, 306 to 314 Market Street, Wilmington, Del.), had secured of a remedy called Eckman's Alternative that had done great good, and upon his recommendation I began taking it at once. This was about June, 1908. I continued faithfully, using up other remedies, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs, which appeared to be old clumps of blood coming up. I now have no trouble with my lungs. I firmly believe Eckman's Alternative saved my life. I sent my spit to the State Board of Health to be examined for tubercle bacilli, and were were found."

"My mother died from Consumption when I was about two years old. I make this statement so that others may learn of the wonderful merits of Eckman's Alternative. I regard my recovery as being miraculous."

A Bunch of Violets

HERE is the card?" cried Ruth Ashton as she opened a box containing a gorgeous bunch of violets.
"It's anonymous," she exclaimed joyously. "From some unknown admirer who cares so much that he's afraid to sign his name."
"Can't you guess who sent them?" questioned her sister Jane, anxiously. "Don't you think they're from Cousin Rob?"
"Cousin Rob! I should say not. Cousins are not apt to send those kind of bouquets all tied in chiffon ribbons."

"It may be from George Butler, who sings in our choir. That's just what it's from. Not long ago we were discussing our favorite flower and I remarked I just adored the modest violet. Talking is not much on his line, but the way he turns my music is a perfect education."

"Has he ever shown you any special devotion?" she was too positive; you may be mistaken," suggested practical Jane.
"No, I'm sure he's the Mr. Anonymous. When they're most devoted they're usually diffident to show it. It must have taken a whole week's salary to pay for that bouquet," added Ruth, who was prone to exaggeration.

Ruth was on the shady side of 20; very little happened to disturb the even tenor of her life. All her days she had craved for admiration from the opposite sex, but no one was the wiser. The last few years she had devoted her time to teaching in the settlements, joining in the activities of different women's clubs.

At the meeting of the Service club that afternoon when Ruth read her paper, the violets were pinned on her waist with their faces toward hers as if begging to be admired and loved. While reading her report on children's play groups she was fairly radiant, saying to herself, "I wonder if they all know I have a beau?" One of the committee said to her in the most natural way, "You must have a special friend," with a meaning glance at the corsage bouquet.

"I have, but don't mention it as yet," she answered quietly.

The news spread like wild fire, and there were many conjectures as to who the mysterious party was. All were happy in her happiness. At last Ruth was going to make a grand match, judging from the violets.

Returning from the club, Ruth met Mr. Butler as he turned the corner in his red car. Stopping his automobile he asked if he might not take her home. Ruth joyfully acquiesced, thinking this would be a good opportunity to acknowledge his gift.

George Butler was amazed during the short ride to find how different Ruth was. He had always found her cold and indifferent. Today she was a sweet, charming girl, sparkling, witty and interesting.

"May I call for you to go to church tomorrow evening?" he asked as they reached her home.
"Do come; I should be happy to go with you."

Her many references to the violets were caused him a jealous tinge. "I must get busy if I want to win that girl," he said to himself.

After an intimacy of a few weeks Ruth announced her engagement to her amazed family. Just as they were congratulating her, a letter came from Martin, the florist, containing a card with apologies from the firm, stating they had just found this card which should have been enclosed with a box of flowers sent three weeks previous. It was from the Ladies' Aid Society in recognition for the good work she had accomplished for the club.

"I thought it strange that George was so silent about those violets, but I don't care now," said Ruth as she tore up the card. "I'm engaged to the grandest fellow on earth, and the next time they send me a bunch of violets it will be addressed to Mrs. Butler."

Shrieks.
"I tell you," said Farmer Cornstossel, "bein' a sheriff around here is a mighty hard job."

"You never arrest anybody."
"No. But there is an awful lot of false alarms. Every time one of these summer girls sees a caterpillar you think there's murder bein' committed."

LIVE STOCK ON A DRY FARM

Homesteader Should Have Two Cows and One or Two Brood Mares—Also Brood Sow and Few Hens.

For some time after the homesteader locates on his dry farm, he is not going to keep much live stock for a time. His first effort will be centered, and rightly so, on the growing of grain. But in time that must change. Some live stock must be kept upon the dry farm.

In what form will it be kept? It will not be easy to answer that question, conditions vary so much. But something may be said on it. When the homesteader goes onto the dry farm, if he has a family, he should not fail to take with him his one cow, says the Dakota Farmer. Two will answer his purpose better. He will graze them on his own land. If there is no open range, he should have at least one or two brood mares in his outfit of horses, and these should be carrying foal. They can aid in doing his work and also in nursing the foals. He should bring with him half a dozen heifers and a brood sow. In this way a large part of the living for himself and his family will be furnished at but little cost. The first season he should grow enough food to carry these through the winter.

In most instances, the plan followed is quite different. The homesteader buys his living the first season. He pays famine prices for it. Such materials are always dear in a new country. Every effort, therefore, should be made to avoid purchasing as far as this may be practicable.

It should be remembered, however, that live stock cannot be kept on the dry farm in such numbers as on the farm of equal area in humid climates. This cannot be done for the reason that the production is less in the line of fodder and also in the line of pasture. The production in dry areas is peculiar. The straw is of a awfully cast, while the grain is usually abundant. The dry land farmer cannot be too careful not to overstock lest an unusually dry season should find him ill prepared to meet it.

PREVENT LOSS OF MOISTURE

One of Great Principles of Dry Farming is to Avoid Loss of Water by Evaporation.

A mulch is anything applied to the surface of the soil, primarily for the purpose of preventing evaporation and occasionally to keep down weeds and avoid winterkilling of plants, writes J. Freer in the New England Homesteader. There are two general kinds of mulches:

Foreign material, such as straw, leaves, sawdust, manure, stubble and sand applied to the surface.

Those composed of natural soil modified by tillage. One of this kind is called "dust mulch" or "dust blanket," and is simply a layer of soil which has been loosened up and dried out. Mulches of foreign material play a very small part in general farming, but are extensively used in horticulture in some localities.

The principle of the mulch is: Loose, dry material covering wet soil retards the movement of water to the surface, and keeps the dry, circulating air from contact with the moist soil, thereby greatly reducing the loss of water. The finer the mulch the looser it must be to give good results. Ordinary soil mulches two to three inches deep are usually most effective. When a mulch becomes wet its effectiveness is gone until it dries out.

A quantity of water retained by cultivation is of far greater value even where water is plentiful than the same amount applied to the soil. One of the great principles of dry farming is to keep a good mulch on the soil all the time to prevent loss of water by evaporation.

With Farming:
Sore teats will also cause some cows to switch their tails into the milker's face.

By using alfalfa judiciously even if it must be bought at $22.50, cows can be fed to earn money.

The good cow is the home builder, the soil saver, the rich man's luxury and the poor man's friend.

Watch the feeding of the calf, especially of the young heifer, so that no digestive disorders will occur.

Milk quickly takes up any kind of odor in the air if the temperature of the atmosphere is the temperature of the milk.

If cabbages are fed to dairy cows after milking, they will not taint the milk, as happens when they are fed before milking.

When a cow suffers from chronic bloat on feed that does not cause bloat in the other cows tuberculosis often is the cause.

It is feeding at a loss to supply the protein a cow needs entirely with wheat bran when it could be furnished in alfalfa at half the cost.

Be reasonable, don't expect your cow to give you a large mess of rich milk unless you furnish her material to make it of, as well as a comfortable place to do it.

Do not let the sire run in the pasture with the cows. It is unwise, as well as unsafe. There is nothing that recommends the practice and much that condemns it.

Live Literature Resented.

"You don't seem to care for any authors except those of a previous generation."

"Well," replied Mr. Cumrox, "I am kind of prejudiced in their favor. You see, there's no chance that mother and the girls will invite 'em to parties to act supercilious and superior."

No Offense Intended.

"Say, mother, hasn't the flamingo a nose exactly like Uncle Moritz?"
"You shouldn't say unkind things like that, Trudi."

"Why, mother, the flamingo can't hear."—Ulk.
