YOUTH IS HELD IN CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF JERSEY COUPLE

Clifford Hayes, 19, Is in Jail
Charged With the Murder of the Rev. Hall and Choir Singer.

IS ARRESTED AFTER CHUM'S ACCUSATION

Accused Man Is Said to Have Stated He Thought
He Was Shooting at a Girl and Her Steppather.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 9. (By the Associated Press).—Clifford Hayes, a youth of 19, was held incommunicado in the Somerset county jail at Somerville tonight on a warrant charging him with first degree murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills on September 14.

But if the authorities who caused his arrest have any evidence which would show a logical motive for his alleged act, they have carefully withheld it.

The explanation of Raymond Schneider, 23, whose accusation caused Hayes' arrest, was that it was a case of mistaken identity, he said, thought he was shooting 15-year-old Pearl Bahmer and her stepfather, Nicholas Bahmer.

Only Motive Advanced.
But the only motive he advanced for the reckless crime was a sort of Quixotism on Hayes' part—a desire to right a supposed wrong done a friend, Schneider, who, although married, admits he is in love with Pearl.

Hayes' retort was that Schneider was "a damned liar." He admitted going with Schneider to the deserted Phillips farm, where the bodies were found, in search of Pearl and her stepfather.

Hayes heard shots and screaming, he said, and ran toward the crab apple tree whence the shots seemed to come, observing an automobile dash away as they ran.

Beneath the tree, he declared, they found the minister and the choir singer dead and he added—Schneider bent down and stole the minister's watch.

This Schneider hotly denied during the latest examination, which both youths were subjected. Schneider, in turn, accused Hayes of having committed the theft.

Glaring Discrepancy.
One of the most glaring discrepancies in Schneider's story is his assertion that neither he nor Hayes touched the bodies, except for the flicking of the watch—of which he accuses Hayes.

It has been established by a belated autopsy that Mrs. Mills' body was cut from car to car, and her head almost severed. Schneider could not explain this.

Neither could he explain how the bodies came to be laid out, carefully, side by side, as if for burial.

He was equally unsatisfactory as to how the love letters written by Mrs. Mills to the minister came to be scattered about the scene, or who placed one of the minister's cuffs against the sole of his shoe, as if to make sure of identification.

"Mistaken Identity."
His story does tally remarkably, however, with the first statement, which he made to the police, that the murders were discovered—that her theory of the double slaying was "mistaken identity." This statement later was repudiated by Miss Sally Decker, coronator.

Miss Hall, who said the rector's widow could imagine no motive, except possibly that of robbery, for the murders.

Although they openly expressed confidence that the case had been practically solved, the authorities were still hard at work tonight trying to reconcile all the tangle of evidence with Schneider's story—or to better his in order to further admissions which would make his story more plausible.

A part of Schneider's story—as much as she could have been expected to know—was corroborated by Pearl Bahmer.

On the night of September 14, she said, she was out with Schneider, remaining until about 9 o'clock. When she returned home, she continued, she found her stepfather on the porch, intoxicated, and consented to go with him while he attempted to "walk off" the effects of his drinking.

Girl Began to Cry.
They passed Schneider, Hayes and Leo Kaufman on a street corner and followed them. After they had walked some distance, she said, she became tired and wanted to return home, but her stepfather insisted she continue. She began to cry, she said, and the trio rushed up, Schneider doffing his coat and expressing his determination to beat Bahmer.

The encounter ended without blows, however, she said, and she

PREMIER CLAIMS ENGLAND HASN'T HELPED GREEKS

Lloyd George Denies That the British Government
Has Ever Given Them
Either Money or Arms.

London, Oct. 9. (By the Associated Press).—The government tonight issued a report on the conference which the labor deputations had with Premier Lloyd George on September 21, hitherto kept secret. The prime minister in replying to the deputations "stop the war" protests, the report indicates, devoted his speech mainly to protests that the government policy had been identical with that long advocated by the labor party, namely, maintenance of the freedom of the straits under control of the league of nations, and that the subject of population in Anatolia could not be left under the Turks. But he regretted that this policy became impossible because the United States, France and Italy were declining to undertake the necessary mandates in these regions.

Position of the Straits.
The prime minister argued that under the Ankara pact the position of the straits would be the same as it was in 1914, when the Turks closed the straits; therefore even control by the league of nations would be useless unless an adequate force was planned there by the league to see that the straits were kept neutralized. He contended that the Kemal government had given no undertaking to do anything more than proffer a check guarantee of the freedom of the straits, and declared:

"You cannot defend the straits by flaunting a covenant in the face of those trying to force them."

Mr. Lloyd George went on to refuse to refer the matter to the league of nations came from other nations, not England. Asked whether freedom of the straits meant freedom in the hands of some international body, the premier replied that that would be for the league to decide. He also admitted that there should be no interference with the straits either by Great Britain or any other nation. Otherwise, he added, "that is not internationalization."

Prevent War From Spreading.
On the general question, the premier related that the government policy was to prevent the war from spreading into Europe and he contended that the strong measures the government had already taken and intended to continue to take were the best holding for the straits. Mr. Lloyd George denied that the British government had ever given either money or arms to the Greeks; on the contrary it had warned them when they went to Smyrna that they were going "entirely on their own responsibility and at their own expense."

They would do also—"we cannot support you, or take the responsibility."

The prime minister said that all he was now doing was to treat the Turks and the Greeks alike in regard to the neutral zones which the British were holding for the allies, and it was imperative until a peace conference was held to prevent war from spreading to Europe.

His final remark to the deputations was:

"The one chance of stopping the war is for Kemal to know that we are not going to be unyielding to the straits. If he knows that he can go there, if he believes that our nation is divided and that he is getting encouragement to go on, he will be very likely to pursue a war-like policy."

First Pullman Sleeper Placed on Exhibition

Car Put Into Service on Sept. 1, 1859. Is Chief Feature of Historical Exhibit at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—The first Pullman sleeping car was placed on exhibition today at the La Salle street passenger station. It was an old passenger coach remodeled by the late George M. Pullman and put into service between Chicago and Bloomington, Ill., on September 1, 1859. The car is the chief feature of the historical exhibit in connection with the seventieth anniversary of the Rock Island railroad which will be observed tomorrow.

The car provided four lower and four upper berths. The seat backs were hinged so they could be dropped on a level with the seat itself, over which a mattress and blankets were placed. The upper berths were suspended by ropes and during the day were drawn up to the ceiling. Curtains were used to separate the berths. The car was lighted with candles.

J. L. Barnes of Channah, Kans., who 32 years ago and the conductor when the car made its original run, will be in charge. He will be assisted by James B. Newsome, a Pullman porter for 52 years, who for 46 years ran between Chicago and Denver, and now has a run between Chicago and Springfield, Ill.

George Ward, a porter for 59 years, also will be on the car.

The republican county convention, held yesterday in the Crystal theater, marked the final step in the reunion of the regulars and independents. Each of these factions which had been divided since the fall of 1920 and until shortly before the republican state convention, was given places on the county ticket through the terms of agreement. This program was carried out of the floor of the convention, with, however, restricting provisions for those who wished to aspire for nominations.

The convention ratified all past agreements between independents and regulars, and at its close it was stated that hereafter these terms would be used in connection with Bernalillo county republicanism, and would not appear in subsequent proceedings of the party.

The convention was largely attended. It was opened at 10 o'clock in the morning by the county chairman, Frank A. Hubbell, and after a prayer by Captain Richard Guest, the temporary officer, the convention proceeded to the election of delegates to the state convention.

EX-EMPRESS OF HUNGARY WANTS TO QUIT SPAIN

Poverty Compels Her "to Play the Poor Relation."
Has Been Compelled to Sell All Her Jewels.

Budapest, Oct. 9. (By the Associated Press).—Former Empress Zita is anxious to leave Spain where poverty compels her "to play the poor relation," according to Count Joseph Karolyi, the royalist leader, whose return from Spain recently inspired the royalists to bring her back to Hungary.

The former empress has sold all her jewels, according to the count. The income from her estates in Hungary is insufficient to meet her expenses because of Hungary's depreciated currency. She is willing to live with her children in the castle of Goedele, near Budapest, and will preside over the royalist politics, the royalist leader claims.

Count Albert Apponyi, former premier, says that the former empress unquestionably has the right to return, but that Premier Bethlen strongly opposes her re-entry into Hungary. It is understood the government has offered her a liberal income if she pledges herself to remain away from Hungary.

"King Otto has not been informed that Hungary has been mutilated," said Count Karolyi, speaking of the late King Charles' eldest son, who has been acclaimed by Hungarian royalists as their king. "He is a brave and noble man, but his spirit is unbroken. He firmly believes that better times will come for his family."

JUDGE WM. J. KERR OF IDAHO, AGED 75, DIES

Pocatello, Idaho, Oct. 9.—Judge William J. Kerr, 75, former prominent attorney of Pueblo, Colo., died here today at the home of his son. He has been an invalid for 13 years.

Judge Kerr was born in Ireland and located in Chicago in the early sixties. He was a reporter on a Chicago newspaper during the late sixties and early seventies, and was one of the newspaper men selected to report the extent of the disaster to the governor of Illinois.

He was admitted to practice law in Chicago in 1871 and in 1873 was admitted to the state bar of Illinois. He practiced law in Kansas and later moved to Pueblo, where he made his home for forty years.

WHOLESALE PRICES OF MEATS DECREASED

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Figures to show that wholesale prices of meat and other packers' products dropped from one to two-thirds in the last three years and an announcement that meat value levels are now stable at about the prices of 1913, were given by Thomas E. Wilson, president of the Institute of American meat packers at its seventeenth annual convention today.

Although exports decreased 44 per cent in quantity and 79 per cent in value from 1913 to 1921, he said, they are now considered normal when compared to the figures during the pre-war conditions of 1913 and 1914.

GOTHAM BOY, 17, ADMITS SETTING SEVERAL FIRES

When Asked by the Police
Why He Did It, He Replies, "Oh, Just for the Excitement." Is Held.

New York, Oct. 9.—With a six-story factory building in Brooklyn ablaze and 10 firemen trapped in an unexpected back draught, a 17-year-old youth within the police lines about the building today told Fire Marshal Brophy a tale of personal heroism.

"What fire?" asked the marshal. "Why this here fire," said Gold, displaying intense excitement. "I turned in the first alarm and I helped the firemen with their hose."

Marshall Brophy said that when he failed to show much sympathy for the assistance, Gold added that he had also started the fire. When the 10 firemen had been rescued and the blaze in the factory was out the Marshal took Gold to his office for further questioning.

Gold confessed he had started a half dozen fires in Brooklyn in the last two weeks.

Asked why he had started them, Gold said to have replied:

"Oh, just for the excitement, all except today's fire. Today was fire prevention day and I thought I ought to have some real action."

He was held on a charge of arson.

RESIGNATION OF GOVERNMENT IN ENGLAND ASKED

Council Representing Whole
Labor Party Expresses Lack of Confidence in British Regime.

London, Oct. 9. (By the Associated Press).—The government is still in a state of confusion, it is said, after the result of the Mudania conference and the result of orders issued by the Turkish government for the retirement of the Turkish troops from the neutral zones. The cabinet council today had little to do beyond hearing a report of Lord Curzon's mission to Paris and discussing purely provisional arrangements for a peace conference, should the Mudania meeting prove successful.

It is understood that some of the delay at Mudania arose through the difference in wording of the order of the instructions conveyed to the British and French delegates.

The national council, representing the whole labor party, met today to consider the Near Eastern situation and passed a resolution expressing lack of confidence in the government's policy and demanding the immediate resignation of the government and the election of a new parliament.

U. S. DREADNAUGHT IS ORDERED TO PROCEED AT ONCE TO NEAR EAST

London, Oct. 9.—A Central News dispatch from Gibraltar today says the admiral and officers of the United States dreadnaught Utah, who are touring Spanish cities, have been recalled to the warship which has been ordered to proceed immediately to the Near East.

A Gibraltar dispatch on October 3 reported the arrival there of the Utah, with Vice Admiral A. T. Long, commander in chief of the European station. It was stated he would await the arrival of the cruiser Pittsburgh, which sailed from Philadelphia October 2 and which would then become the flagship of the American naval forces in European waters, proceeding to the Near East, while the Utah would return to American waters.

SUPREME COURT CLEARS DOCKET OF ALL MOTIONS

Advances for Argument the Pennsylvania Anthracite,
Minnesota Iron Tax and Other Important Cases.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Although no opinions were delivered by the supreme court today, it cleared its docket of all motions for rehearing which had accumulated during the summer recess, and advanced for argument the Pennsylvania anthracite, the Minnesota iron tax, the New York telephone and a number of other important cases, besides issuing orders in other cases.

By denying rehearing in the cases decided during the closing days last term, the court made final its decisions in such important litigation as the Southern Pacific, the Colorado coal, the Emergency Fleet corporation, baseball and the Laramie river irrigation cases, the latter of vital importance to the state of Colorado.

The Colorado case resulted in the supreme court declaring that labor unions were liable to prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust laws. In applying the evidence in the case, however, the supreme court reversed the lower federal courts, and held that the United Mine Workers of America, district No. 21, the labor leaders and others involved in the strike, which resulted in the destruction of property, were not liable for treble damages under the Sherman law, because not actuated by an intent to restrain or monopolize interstate commerce.

The Investment Bankers' association has approached the "saturation point" as far as membership is concerned, according to the annual report submitted by its secretary, Frederick R. Fenton of Chicago.

"Practically all houses eligible and desirable are members," the report said. "We are able to use and dispose the greatest discrimination in electing members. With this increase in vigilance, the time is approaching rapidly when the association should take steps to

FATHER DROWNS CHILDREN, THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

Despondency Because of His Inability to Obtain Employment Responsible for the Crime, Belief.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The bodies of a father and his three children, a day lay side by side in an undertaking establishment here, victims of a tragedy last night. The children, Ethelyn, 5; Grace, 3, and Russell, 6 months, were drowned in both lake and their home by the father, William E. Wheeler, who then fired a bullet into his brain.

Despondency because of inability to obtain employment was responsible for the crime, police said. Mrs. Wheeler discovered the bodies after she returned home from church. A note found, read in part:

"Dear Mother: It had to come at last. I can see no other way out. Pay up every bill. That's what I did for. I'm taking the kiddies with me so you and no one else can say that I left them a burden on you. If I were to hang on longer it would only be the same old story."

VETOING BONUS BILL WAS RIGHT BANKER ASSERTS

President Harding Deserves
the Nation-Wide Commendation He Received for Honesty of Purpose.

Del Monte, Calif., Oct. 9.—President Harding "deserved the nation-wide commendation he received for the honesty of purpose and political courage he displayed in vetoing the bonus bill," Howard F. Beebe, New York, president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, told the association at the opening here today, of its eleventh annual convention. Delegates representing many millions of dollars in municipal and other investments are present from all parts of the country.

The convention will end Thursday with the election of officers and the consideration of invitations from cities desiring the 1922 convention.

Mr. Beebe charged that union labor had "refused to accept its share of the readjustment burden," and that the federal and state legislatures "rush forward with measures designed to control business, but seem to be very reluctant to insist that labor shall be properly organized and held to account for its actions."

Bonus Is Discussed
Discussing the bonus, Mr. Beebe said:

"Without attempting to express an opinion as to whether a bonus should be paid and if so, to whom, it is clear that the bill which was vetoed failed specifically to provide means of paying the obligations assumed. The bill as passed would have burdened the banks of the country to the detriment of regular business and would have increased the cost of money to the treasury department to arrange a comprehensive budget."

"The efforts of congress on the tariff have apparently been with little approval from men of sound business judgment and unprejudiced view," Mr. Beebe said. "Activities in this direction certainly points strongly to the advisability of a permanent tariff commission to handle the many vexing questions which have accumulated during the summer recess, and advanced for argument the Pennsylvania anthracite and the Minnesota iron tax, the New York telephone and a number of other important cases, besides issuing orders in other cases."

By denying rehearing in the cases decided during the closing days last term, the court made final its decisions in such important litigation as the Southern Pacific, the Colorado coal, the Emergency Fleet corporation, baseball and the Laramie river irrigation cases, the latter of vital importance to the state of Colorado.

WOMAN SAYS SHE DID NOT STRIKE BLOW THAT KILLED MRS. MEADOWS

Los Angeles, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Clara Phillips, awaiting trial October 20 for the murder of Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows, 26-year-old widow, who was beaten to death with a hammer July 12, has made a statement in which she first pointed-blank denial except when she pleaded in court, that she was guilty of the crime.

"I never struck the blow that killed Alberta Meadows," Mrs. Phillips was quoted. "Neither did I strike the first blow. It was—"

At that point she checked herself and refused to finish the sentence.

It is reported that it is Mrs. Phillips' determination not to plead insanity, which once was announced as her defense, that has caused her frequent changes of counsel.

PROPOSAL TO ADMIT WOMEN TO METHODIST MINISTRY OPPOSED

Toronto, Oct. 9.—Delegates to the Methodist general conference here today voted to leave the question of admitting women to the ministry open for consideration at the next quadrennial conference of the church.

Opposition to the proposal was vigorously led by the Rev. Dr. James Smythe of Wesleyan college, Montreal, who predicted that admittance of women to the ministry would split the church.

DAVIS DECLARES G.O.P. HAS MADE GREAT PROGRESS

In 18 Months It Has Brought About Foundation for Real Prosperity, Says Senate Candidate.

"The issue before the people of our state and nation is not whether one man or the other shall be elected to public office, but whether the republican or the democratic party shall control," said Stephen B. Davis, Jr., candidate for United States senator from New Mexico, in addressing the Bernalillo county republican convention at the Crystal theater yesterday morning.

"The fundamental difference between the two parties," Mr. Davis continued, "is that the republican party is a party of action, which has done and is doing things, while the democratic party is a party of criticism and not of construction."

Mr. Davis declared that nearly every measure proposed and every policy adopted, which resulted in the welfare of the American people had been originated and put into operation by republicans. He asserted that it is not necessary to go into the distant past to find republican achievements of note, but that a survey of the accomplishments of the Harding administration would be sufficiently illuminating.

Record of Achievement.
The tariff, limitation of naval armament, restriction of immigration and relief of farmers and stockmen through government loans, were some of the outstanding accomplishments of the republican administration, which Mr. Davis cited.

The speaker said he called as a witness to prove that the protective tariff is a good thing for the wool industry. A. A. Jones, democratic candidate for the senate from New Mexico, "who is asking the votes of the people of this state because he supports a republican tariff measure."

"For eight years the democratic party controlled congress," said Mr. Davis, "but not once in that time did one of the democrats arise in his seat and propose a measure for the protection of American products or American labor nor for wool, on which the prosperity of the people of this state so greatly depends."

Limitation of immigration also was an important step toward the protection of American labor, Mr. Davis stated.

Mr. Davis, as proof of his statement that the democratic party never has been able to promulgate a single principle or a course of action, of lasting good, called attention to the league of nations. He declared that Europe now is on the verge of war, yet so far as he could learn, the league had not taken any steps to prevent a continuation.

"In New Mexico one of our greatest needs is development of our resources," Mr. Davis stated. He called attention to the success of the great Elephant Butte irrigation system in the southern part of the state, and declared it had been conceived and carried to completion by a great republican, Theodore Roosevelt. "The idea of reclamation was a republican measure," he said.

measure, and put into a practical form by President Roosevelt," said Mr. Davis. "Here in the middle Rio Grande another great reclamation project is needed. To the republican party, that does things, the people of this state should turn to see that the project becomes a reality."

Delgado Speaks Briefly.
Hilario A. Delgado, candidate for state auditor, made a brief address. He said that he had seen the success of the Four Minute Men during the war, and had decided to follow their example by limiting his remarks to four minutes. Mr. Delgado praised Senator B. Davis for his assistance in his given ex-soldiers, and said that Mrs. Otero-Warren, candidate for representative in congress, took a prominent part in war work and would be an understanding helper to former service men when she takes her seat next March.

Iowa's Model Baby— Virginia Lou

It is no small honor to be selected from thousands of contestants as the finest, healthiest, most perfect baby in the whole state of Iowa. Virginia Lou Innes won the coveted honor, and a prize of $500 besides!

Mrs. Innes attributes her little girl's wonderful health to fresh air and the right food. For Virginia Lou has been fed on Borden's Eagle Brand Milk most of her life.

As Mrs. Innes says, "Better babies" is a thing our country needs. Eagle Brand has been the standard baby food for years. Many other mothers have found, like Mrs. Innes, that Eagle Brand makes strong, robust, vigorous children. Doctors recommend it for weak babies, because it is so easily digested.

Would you experiment with your baby, and give it foods of which you are not certain? Borden's Eagle Brand Milk is the natural food for babies, for it contains nothing but pure milk and pure sugar. It is always uniform and always available at your dealers.

J. Antonio Werner of Indian road was nominated for county clerk by acclamation.

The convention then adjourned at 6:15 o'clock, until 8 o'clock.

Dick Lewis For Sheriff.
At the evening session, Dick Lewis of Barabara was nominated for sheriff, receiving 152 1-3 votes to 61 1-2 for David Armijo. Mr. Lewis was deputy sheriff of Bernalillo county several years ago.

For assessor, J. Felipe Hubbell, incumbent and who was elected two years ago as an independent, was nominated by acclamation. Antonio Garcia y Sanchez was nominated for county treasurer, by acclamation. His home is in Bernalillo.

The shadow of a fight hung over the convention during the preliminaries to the nomination of a candidate for county school superintendent. Miss Irene Burke, the present superintendent, was placed before the convention by Ruppert and seconded by Manuel B. Otero. Max Gutierrez proposed the name of Mrs. A. A. Woodworth. Frank A. Hubbell said that it seemed at the close of the convention there was to be an effort to break the agreement to divide the offices between the independents and regulars. He made a plea for unity and harmony. Mr. Gutierrez declared he or any other candidate had the right to propose the name of any person they saw fit and have it recognized and voted upon. R. L. Young said all present were republicans, and it was their aim to get about independents and regulars.

Upon the vote, Miss Burke, the independent's candidate, was successful by a vote of 139 1-2 to 78. On Mrs. Woodworth's motion, the nomination was made unanimous.

James N. Gladding, former city manager and at present an architect, was nominated for county surveyor by acclamation. Mr. Gladding, it was stated, did not know that his name was to be presented.

Central Committee Re-elected.
The county central committee elected at the county convention in September which selected delegates to the state convention and ratified the agreement between the regulars and independents, was re-elected in toto.

Chairman Frank A. Hubbell, of the county committee, in announcing a meeting of the executive committee and the candidates at his office this morning, declared that the convention had been the final act in the reunion of the party in Bernalillo county, and that hereafter there would be no independents or regulars, but that all would be republicans in the full sense of the word. He predicted a majority for the state and county tickets in Bernalillo county of from 1,500 to 2,000 and perhaps 2,500.

The county executive committee is as follows: Frank A. Hubbell, chairman; F. M. Chacon, secretary; Mrs. T. P. Hansen, Jesus Romero, Colonel G. E. Breece, Judge R. P. Barnes, Manuel B. Otero, Jerro Haggard, Mrs. J. R. Salazar, and Mrs. A. Guedorf. A vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Al. Coleman, will be filled.

BURCH TRIAL DELAYED.
Los Angeles, Oct. 9.—The third trial of Arthur C. Burch indicted for the murder here in August, 1921, of J. Belton Kennedy, was delayed today when called for trial, because the court was engaged with other cases. The Burch trial was definitely set for next Monday.

YOUTH IS HELD IN CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF COUPLE

and her stepfather returned home. Schneider's story tallies with hers perfectly up to this point, except that Schneider said Pearl and Bahmer walked on toward the Phillips farm.

Kauffman left them then, he said, but he and Hayes determined to follow on, Hayes showing him a 32 calibre pistol and assuring him there was no danger.

Hayes Began to Fire.
Suddenly, he said, they saw a couple beneath the crab apple tree and Hayes whipped out his pistol and began to fire, exclaiming: "There they are—I'll fix them!"

After the struggles of the pair beneath the tree were stilled, he said, he stole forward, struck a match and cried to Hayes: "My God, men, you've made a terrible mistake!"

Hayes then snatched the minister's watch and they both fled, he declared.

Schneider was quoted as telling the authorities he had taken Pearl to the scene on Saturday—two days after the shooting—partly out of morbid curiosity and partly because he wanted to show her how nearly she had come to being slain. It was Schneider and Pearl who first "discovered" the bodies and notified the police.

Pearl's Version Different.
Pearl's version to reporters today was somewhat different.

"Raymond saw me Saturday and insisted that we take a walk," she said. "He took me up DeRussy's lane. It was the first time we had ever been up that way. We sat down in the grass near the apple tree to talk. I looked over and saw the bodies, and said to Raymond: 'There are two people lying down.'"

"Why don't you attend to your own business?" he replied.

"Then I walked over and saw they were all bloody and ran away frightened. Then we told a policeman."

The girl said Schneider had appeared worried ever since the shooting and on two occasions had asked her to go to Perth Amboy with him.

Then apprends nothing, she inquired: "Did you know Raymond had a pearl handled knife in his pocket that night?"

Shows Reporters a Note.
Pearl also showed reporters a note she said she had received from Schneider's young wife on the Monday following the finding of the bodies. It read:

"You will pardon my writing to you, but I want to tell you to keep away from my husband. When this case comes to trial I am going to beat you to it."

Pearl said she did not know whether Mrs. Schneider referred to the murder trial or a divorce suit between the Schneiders, which is pending.

Mrs. Schneider also visited her on the same day, she said, and asked to be taken to the spot where the bodies had been found. She complied with the request, she said. She thought Mrs. Schneider's interest was merely a morbid one.

The mothers of both Schneider and Hayes were prostrated in their homes today. Mrs. Schneider, it was said, had sat motionless in a chair since 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, refusing to eat or sleep. When she heard he had been held as a material witness, she fainted.

"While the organization employs counsel, it has never maintained a lobby in Washington nor in any of the states. Legislative work has been carried on through our committees."

Mr. Fenton thanked the press of the country "for bringing to light those people who are operating under the guise of investment bankers and who are annually swindling the people of the country out of hundreds of millions of dollars."

"Our municipalities, rural districts, public utilities industries and railroads will continue to have larger capital requirements and with the wealth of this country accumulating, the demand for investments will increase," he said.

"The opportunity is ours for assisting in building up the country's industries."

The crystallization of sound investment principles, through general education, will assist in the creation of further sound investment leadership, Lawrence Charnberlain, New York, chairman of the education committee of the association, said in his annual report.

"This would not only be leadership originating within the halls of learning but later through the press and the security market places."

Ailing Children Get Well on Syrup Pepsin

A small dose at bedtime brings relief and laughter by morning

HOSPITAL and doctor's records prove that 75 per cent of human illness has its origin in the intestinal canal, complicated with what is commonly called constipation. Realizing what that figure means, mothers should contrive methods of handling their children while they still control them that will prevent these future dangers. Teach children regularity of bowel movement, and be especially watchful of young girls. Insist on two passages a day until the age of 18, when one is usually sufficient. Give plenty of oranges and apples, plenty of butter because it lubricates the intestines, and encourage the drinking of water.

If you detect restlessness, belching, gas or wind on the stomach, examine the tongue and you will find it coated, accompanied by unpleasant breath. The child is bilious, constipated. According to age, give from one-half to a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which children never object to taking as they like the taste. By morning the youngster will be well again. Likewise if the nostrils are stuffed up or there is persistent sneezing, a dose of Syrup Pepsin will break up the fever and cold.

Mrs. Geo. N. Colson of Bernard, Me., keeps her family well in that way, and Mrs. Ida A. Burkett of Carroll, La., who has been using Syrup Pepsin for a dozen years, has raised her three children on it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The formula, however, is on every package. Druggists have sold it with satisfaction to their customers for over 30 years, and it is now the largest selling family laxative in the world. Buy a bottle today. It will last you for months, and the cost is only about a cent a dose.

INJUNCTION NOT INSTRUMENT OF EQUITY, CLAIMS

Protest as Used by the U.S. Federal Courts Is a Weapon of Oppression, Ohio Man Declares.

Canton, O., Oct. 9.—The injunction protest as used by the federal courts of the United States is not an instrument of equity, John Moore of Columbus declared here today in an address before the thirty-ninth annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor, of which he is president.

"Our country is no more a country of a government of and by the people. At least in labor disputes, it is a government of the judges, and by judges," Mr. Moore said.

He referred to the rail injunction issued by Federal Judge Wilkerson at Chicago as the most drastic ever issued in this country and declared that "while we may not have the right to interpret his decision, yet if one reads it carefully he is convinced that it strikes and labor disputes are almost a thing of the past, unless Judge Wilkerson's decision is reversed by the higher courts."

"Through the unwarranted use of the injunction, protest and flagrant abuses, the courts of equity have become the courts of the rich," Mr. Moore continued. "By this system of personal government, statutes enacted by our legislators have been swept aside and judge-made laws have taken their place."

CALOMEL GOOD BUT TREACHEROUS

Next Dose may Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones

You know what calomel is. It's mercury, quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crushes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money. Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No more sickness. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Adv.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calomel powder from any drug store—mix a little on a hot, sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin—pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores, and do not get them out after they become hard. The calomel powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

ALLEGED ROBBER OF AN OKLAHOMA BANK ARRESTED

Newt Cantrell Is Taken Into Custody at Las Vegas; Jack Brackley Believed to Have Stolen Auto.

Special to The Journal

Las Vegas, N. M., Oct. 9.—Newt Cantrell and Jack Brackley of Hammond, Okla., were arrested here today by Sheriff J. C. Trammell and Sheriff W. D. Hibben of Cheyenne, Okla. They are in the city jail tonight and have not yet expressed a willingness to return to Oklahoma without extradition papers. Cantrell is charged with having robbed a Hammond bank. The arresting officers claim that he is the man who dug through the wall of the bank vault and broke open many of the safety deposit boxes contained therein. They allege that he secured many thousands of dollars worth of jewelry, bonds, other securities and jewelry. The robbery occurred about thirty days ago. Brackley, who is a mere boy, disappeared shortly after the robbery and the officers suspect that he and Cantrell had left Hammond together. The boy is not accused of being connected with the bank robbery but it is alleged that he stole the automobile in which they fled. The Oklahoma officers suspected that they had come to New Mexico because Brackley, who had a boyish desire to become a famous rigger, had recently expressed a wish to come to the mountains. He was arrested on the streets here today while purchasing supplies. On Oct. 8, he was found at a cabin some twenty miles west of the city and guided the officers to the camp. So far none of the stolen securities have been recovered.

Q. Is the bull weevil as great a menace as the ravages of the insects which afflicted the Egyptians in the olden days? D. S.
A. Government authorities are convinced that the bull weevil is one of the most serious pests of any which afflicted the Egyptians. Some authorities claim that it has disturbed our economic situation more than any other single factor in our history.

Q. Which state leads in the number of camp sites for automobiles touring the country? W. E. L.
A. California has more camp sites for tourists than any other state.

Q. Is it proper to say "I reckon I will be there on Thursday?" A. H. D.
A. The verb reckon should not be used. It means to estimate or count up.

Q. Is Castile soap known by any other name? F. M. B.
A. It is also known as olive soap, Marselles soap, Spanish soap and Venetian soap. The name Castile records its Spanish origin, but Marselles, France is the chief modern place of its manufacture—in fact in Europe it is generally known as Marselles soap. If genuine and of the first quality it is made entirely of olive oil. The bulk of Castile soap of modern manufacture contains a considerable percentage of peanut, rape seed, and other similar vegetable oils.

Q. Where does the expression "A little bird told me" come from? C. P. G.
A. This is borrowed from Ecclesiastes 10:20 where it reads: "For a bird of the air shall carry the voice and that which hath wings shall tell the matter."

Q. What proportion of the earth's area was directly involved in the World War? R. D. R.
A. Of Europe's approximately 4,000,000 square miles of territory, seven-eighths was directly involved in the conflict. For Africa the fraction is larger, 32 out of 33 parts having been in belligerency. Asia with her 17,000,000 square miles, shows twenty-four twenty-fifths of her territory involved, while Australia was completely in the throes of war. In North America four-fifths of an area of nearly 10,000,000 square miles is occupied by two of the great countries that were in the struggle. Only about one-half of South America remained neutral. Therefore of the 52,000,000 square miles of the globe's area, exclusive of Antarctica, more than 45,000,000 square miles belong to the belligerent nations, and the remaining few million were more or less affected.

Q. What is a fitch of bacon? T. T.
A. This is the English name for a whole side of salt pork. The term is also applied to any large piece of side meat.

Q. Who was the wife of Thomas Jefferson? C. C. H.
A. Thomas Jefferson married Martha Skelton, widow of Bathurst Skelton and daughter of John Wayles.

Q. May one refer to her husband as "Mr. Smith"? C. K. W.
A. This form is correct in speaking to a servant, but should not be used in conversing with an equal.

Q. Who was called the Mother of the Brazilians? M. W. B.
A. Dona Theresa, daughter of Francis I, King of the two Sicilies, was known as Mother of the Brazilians.

PROSPERITY IN THE BAHAMAS ATTRIBUTED TO LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Montreal, Oct. 9.—Sir Harry Edward Spiller Cordeaux, governor and commander-in-chief of the Bahama Islands, said on his arrival here tonight to spend a two months' holiday in Canada, that the present healthy condition of the islands' finances was largely due to its liquor traffic.

He said that this condition was most strongly reflected in the recent 250,000 pounds expenditure for harbor improvements at Nassau. "It is a proper trade," Sir Harry said in speaking of the moral aspect of the question. "It is not as though we were dealing in deleterious matter, such as cocaine. Alcohol has a recognized value and a great many people regard it as being beneficial."

CLEANING UP OF JUAREZ BEGINS; OUST AMERICANS

Governor of Chihuahua Says the Number of Saloons Will Be Reduced; Cabarets to Be Regulated

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 9.—Tonight at 11 o'clock Juarez police began cleaning up undesirable Americans and deporting them to this side where they were promptly arrested for vagrancy. Several patrol loads of drug addicts and questionable women were expelled.

Governor Ignacio Enriquez, head of the Chihuahua state government, publicly announced tonight his tentative plans for a cleanup campaign of Juarez. 150 saloons now operating in the border city will be reduced to 75. Cabarets will be regulated. The vice district of Juarez, which now extends westward from within a block of the customs house, will be moved out beyond the "hippodrome" or race-track, where a building will be erected and operated under the eyes of the state government.

Governor Enriquez announced his plans to better conditions in Juarez at a banquet given tonight at Hotel Paso del Norte by Adolpo Schwart, president of the El Paso chamber of commerce. Eighteen guests were present. Governor Enriquez was the guest of honor.

"Frankly, we are ashamed of Juarez," said the chief executive. "Conditions there are a shame to the state and a shame to the nation. I have decided to take drastic methods to remedy those conditions."

"A number of saloons will be closed. Cabarets will be regulated so as to be run the same as restaurants and cafes. A district of tolerance will be built away from the city so as to take the vice and immorality out of the heart of the town."

"I want to see Juarez so that citizens of the United States and Mexico will not be afraid to go there with their friends and families for pleasure. I want them to feel free from any abuse or danger from the more vicious element and to enjoy themselves in an orderly way."

START CAMPAIGN TO STAMP OUT VICE IN ROCK ISLAND ILL.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 9.—While a coroner's jury tonight began the inquest into the feud slaying of J. C. Looney, Jr., city state and county officials united in a campaign against vice conditions. Assistant Attorney General Rodenburg arrived from Springfield during the day to help in the prosecution of Looney's slayers and the ministerial alliance issued a statement pledging its support to a public movement to "make Rock Island such a city as God can be justly asked to bless."

The coroner's inquest was begun while the county grand jury was investigating the tragedy and general vice conditions.

WOMAN NAMED MAYOR

3 SERVANTS HELD AS MATERIAL WITNESSES IN MYSTERY DEATHS

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 9.—Three servants employed in the summer home of Miss Caroline Stiles of Philadelphia, were held as material witnesses today while the police and district attorney S. Howard Donnell of Essex county pursued inquiry into the deaths of Stella Zoloff, a maid, and Harry Devine, a chauffeur, who are believed to have died from the effects of a poison last Saturday night. A complaint charging unknown persons with murder was prepared by the authorities.

The bodies were found in the kitchen early yesterday morning. A bottle of liquor, partly emptied was on a table in the room. Miss Zoloff and Devine had joined other servants in a party that took them away from the grounds Saturday evening. On their return, the police learned the group brought with them a bottle bought on the way. Later the maid and chauffeur were left alone in the kitchen. They were not seen alive.

Those held for examination were Bridget McGeehan, a housekeeper, Helen Gorman, a maid, and William Elkins, the gardener.

Police officials said their inquiry would await the results of an analysis of the stomachs.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES BEING ADVERTISED TO DETRIMENT OF U. S.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Oct. 9.—"Only those who have taken the trouble to investigate can realize how much the shipping board has cost the nation by advertising attractions in foreign countries and entirely forgetting that this is the greatest tourist country in the world," one Holme, managing secretary of the National Park-to-Park Highway association here today on the first step of a three thousand mile trip through the west, said. The association, which he represents, he said, decided at its last convention to encourage activities to offset this publicity.

2 GRANDCHILDREN OF 'GENE FIELD UNVEIL STATUE

Monument to the "Children's Poet" Is Erected in Lincoln Park, Chicago; Stone Delivers Eulogy.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—A monument to Eugene Field, the "children's poet," was unveiled today in Lincoln park, the gift of thousands of school children, who contributed their pennies, and of the Ferguson memorial fund.

Melville E. Stone, counselor and former general manager of the Associated Press, who brought Mr. Field to Chicago while Mr. Stone was editor of the Chicago Daily News and the Rev. William E. Barton spoke.

Jean Field Foster and Robert Eugene Field, grandchildren of the poet, unveiled the statue.

In his eulogy to the children's laureate, Mr. Stone said: "Tuning his lute to humanity's burden of care and grief, he sang the song of the helpless. He was notably the poet of sympathy. He was a many-sided character. He had a profound religious, even spiritual nature. The puritan strain of his ancestry frequently cropped out in his daily life. Yet, over all, there spread the warm, mellow rays of human sympathy which prompted some of the sweetest and most pathetic verse of our language. He sounded all the depths of tender emotion and voiced the agonized cry of bereaved motherhood and sisterhood and childhood with the tone and timbre and tempo of a master."

The monument depicts a brooding angel, bending over two sleeping children, dropping the flowers of poetry upon them.

AVIATORS TO HOP OFF WITHIN 72 HOURS ON COAST-TO-COAST TRIP

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 9.—Eager to make their proposed non-stop flight from San Diego to New York before the east and middle west are swept by winter storms, Lieutenant John A. MacReady and Oakley Kelly, who last week broke the sustained flight record here by staying up more than 23 hours, will hop off from Rockwell Field within the next 72 hours, if weather conditions are favorable. This decision was announced by the fleet today.

The aviators had planned to wait for the next full moon, November 4, but decided that a flight within the next few days would have better chances of success. At their request, Charles Mitchell, forecaster of the United States weather bureau at Washington, continued to send them national forecasts.

MILLER HUGGINS MAINTAINS AS YANKEES' PILOT

He Can Continue as Manager of the Club if He so Desires. President of the Club Announces.

New York, Oct. 9.—Miller Huggins will remain as manager of the New York American league baseball club next year if he so desires, according to a statement made today by Colonel Jacob Ruppert, president of the club. Colonel Ruppert made this statement in substance to the Associated Press, following a report circulated that Eddie Collins, star second baseman of the Chicago Americans, would be the Yankees' pilot in 1923. Reports were that Collins would come to New York in a deal involving Bob Meusel and Aaron Ward and a cash consideration. Rumors here included Babe Ruth in the transaction instead of Ward.

"Huggins will manage the team in 1923 if he wants to," Colonel Ruppert frankly declared. "Of course," he added, "we'll have to come to a financial agreement, but that shouldn't be difficult. The Yankees never decreased a man's salary—they increase it. I don't see how these reports originate."

"Any club would like to have Eddie Collins. He's a great ball player, but," and the colonel smiled broadly, "Miller Huggins can manage the Yankees if he wants to."

"Do you contemplate trading Babe Ruth?" he was asked.

"We'll trade any man if we can strengthen the club," the colonel repeated.

Asked if he thought that Huggins' reported impaired health would prevent him from continuing at the helm, the colonel answered in the negative.

From well-informed quarters the report is persistently repeated that Ruth is to be given stiff discipline. He was almost a total failure in the world's series, at least at the bat. Not only for his showing in the world's series, but for the constant tub of hot water in which he steeped himself all season, according to these reports.

Similar stories predict something dire for Bob Meusel. Some critics assert that Meusel was very indifferent throughout the world's series.

ORIOLES WIN 4TH GAME FROM SAINTS, 7 TO 3

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 9.—Baltimore won the fourth game of the "Little World's" series from St. Paul here this afternoon, 7 to 3. With the score tied in the ninth, three men on bases and one out, McAvoy, of the Orioles, broke up the game with a home-run into the right field bleachers. It was his second homer of the series.

This victory put Baltimore further in the lead, three games to one.

Groves and Benton, who started on the mound, were both knocked out. Parham went in for Baltimore in the sixth and held the Saints scoreless for the remainder of the game. Hall relieved Benton in the ninth.

GREATEST HERO OF ALL WORLD SERIES SAW 1922 CLASHES

CHRISTY MATHEWSON.

"Big Six" Mathewson, greatest pitcher of all time and the superstar of world's series history, watched this year's games in New York as a spectator and scribe—his first glimpse of a real game in three years. He retired from the game in 1919 to fight a bad case of tuberculosis. He won out.

TRIP TO ORIENT IS PLANNED BY DIAMOND STARS

At Least Three Members of the Giants and Three of the Yankees Will Participate in the Tour.

New York, Oct. 9. (by the Associated Press).—At least three members of the New York Giants, world's champions, and three of the New York Yankees, the losing team in the series that ended yesterday, will participate in the tour of the Orient that has been organized to further the growth of baseball beyond the Pacific.

While the official roster has not yet been completed for the party that will gather at Chicago next Sunday to sail from Vancouver, B. C., in time to reach Yokohama, October 21, it is known that George Kelly, who hit won yesterday's game for the Giants, Arthur Nehf, the only pitcher to win two games in the series, and Emil Meusel, the slugging outfielder, will go from the Giants' squad.

From the Yankees will be Joe Bush, who pitched two losing games for his team, including that of yesterday, Waite Hoyt, the sensational boy pitcher, and Fred Hoffman, second string catcher.

Other players billed to go are Tom Griffith, of the Brooklyn club; Joe Sewell and Stephenson, of the Cleveland Indians; Amos Strunk and Falk of the Chicago White Sox, and John Lavan, of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The men are selected not only for ability but for their gentlemanly conduct on and off the ball field, and their selection is subject to the approval of Commissioner Landis. Games will be played at Tokyo, Osaka and Kobe, Japan; Korea, Manchuria, China, Philippines and Hawaii, returning to the United States early in February.

BY NORMAN E. BROWN
Three Shutouts!
In one world's series!
That mark seems destined to stand for all time.

This great feat of Christy Mathewson, the leonine greater as pitchers strive and fail to equal that record in the fall classic each year.

Older fans will recall that memorable series of 1905 when "Big Six" whitewashed the Athletics three times—practically winning the series single handed. And they whom Matty opposed on the mound were no weaklings. Twice Chief Bender pitched the game for the Yankees, and the best team in the American league failed to shove across one lone run on Matty.

That Matty had the Indian sign on the Athletics was proved again six years later, when the teams met again and Big Six bested Chief Bender in the opening game. The next year, in the big series against the Red Sox Matty lost the toughest game of his series career.

He lost the game for Matty and the series for the Giants by his famous "30,000 muffs."

Altogether Matty's world's series work would form an interesting book in itself.

TAXATION LAWS ARE UNSOUND, IS VIEW OF EXPERT

Annual Cost to Taxpayers, Exclusive of Taxes Paid, of Complying With the Statutes, $150,000,000

Cleveland, O., Oct. 9 (by the Associated Press).—President Harding, in a letter read to the delegates of the twenty-fifth American Mining Congress which formally opened a six-day session here tonight, expressed his regret at being unable to accept an invitation to attend the congress, adding that all the "world nowadays is heard crying out for supplies of raw materials for its commerce and industries."

The president's letter in part follows:

"The riches of our American soil have been drawn upon in this connection, with a liberality that verges upon prodigality, and still the demand is for more and yet more. Our problem of wise liberality tempered by a proper purpose of conserving these great resources, should be always in our minds. It is not desirable that we should be either extravagant on one side or miserly on the other."

"Above all, it is vitally necessary that if we are to make the most of our rich endowment in this realm we must seek to develop it with a full regard for the human interests involved. Our natural resources will not in the end have served us their greatest purpose if we find that in their development we have exploited the great army of humanity which is dependent upon these industries."

R. F. Grant, chairman of the general Cleveland convention committee, presided at the formal opening tonight and read the president's letter.

Address of Welcome
The address of welcome was delivered by Newton D. Baker, president of the Cleveland chamber of commerce and former secretary of war.

An exhibit of mining machinery and mining safety appliances was also formally opened tonight.

A mine taxation conference to discuss the subject of federal taxation was held this afternoon. Paul Armitage of New York presiding.

and McKinley W. Krieger of Washington, chief of the tax division of the American Mining Congress, the principal speaker.

Mr. Krieger submitted evidence of faulty construction of the federal tax laws, declaring that the annual cost to the taxpayers, exclusive of taxes paid, of complying with the federal tax laws approximates $150,000,000, adding that the tax laws as now on the statute books, are economically unsound. He declared that it required 10 per cent of the taxes collected to administer the laws.

"The bureau of internal revenue in Washington holds approximately 35,000 conferences each year, to adjust tax returns," Mr. Krieger told the taxation conference delegates.

"The 1922 appropriation for the internal revenue service was $56,141,190. The total annual cost to the government of administering the internal revenue laws, plus the cost to the taxpayers is very close to $200,000,000, or nearly 10 per cent of the taxes collected."

"There should be some way of adjusting tax returns in the local collection district, in order to avoid this enormous cost to taxpayers, who are now forced to go to Washington to have these adjustments made."

Krieger pointed out that approximately 18,000 mining companies filed income and capital tax returns in 1921. The cost of making these returns and the accompanying schedules are not less than $2,000,000, he said. The annual cost of adjustment, including the preparation of evidence, conferences, attorneys' fees, etc., he said, is close to $25,000,000.

COLORADO RIVER PROJECT IS UP ON NOVEMBER 9

Commission to Meet for Hearing on Reclamation Project at Bishop's Lodge Near Santa Fe.

The final date for the New Mexico meeting of the Colorado River commission has been set, after several postponements, for the week of November 9. The meeting, to be attended by about 250 government and state officials, will be held at Bishop's lodge, north of Santa Fe, where elaborate preparations are being made for accommodating the delegates.

The hearings on the control and distribution of the waters of the Colorado river, one of the greatest irrigation projects in the country, will consume a week or ten days. The meeting will be attended by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, the director of the U. S. Reclamation service, and other officials of the service from Washington, D. C., the governors of seven western states and their staffs, and several newspaper representatives.

Special arrangements will be made at the lodge to accommodate the commission and to establish telegraph service for broadcasting the proceedings. Jack Vollmer, manager of Bishop's lodge, will make a trip east this week to arrange with officials at Washington about accommodations during the commission meeting.

DAY IS CONSUMED IN SELECTION OF JURY TO TRY FRED BROWN

Omaha, Oct. 9.—Selection of the jury that is to try Fred Brown, Benson "Chain Man," who on May 27 last, is alleged to have kidnapped two Omaha young women, taken them to his shack west of Omaha, chained them in a cave under the floor and there attacked them, consumed the whole of the first day of the trial.

Brown, was variously reported in the week following the alleged crime, to have appeared in many Nebraska towns and was ultimately sought for by the combined police forces of Omaha and Lincoln, together with the state sheriff and his deputies. He was shot and captured near Rawlins, Wyo., after abandoning an automobile said to have been stolen from a Rawlins physician.

BABE RUTH AND BOB MEUSEL TO START ON TOUR

Yankee Outfielders Leave Today for an Exhibition Trip, With Landis' Official Permission.

New York, Oct. 9.—(By the Associated Press).—Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, Yankee outfielders, who were suspended for the early part of the past season for engaging in an unsanctioned barnstorming trip, will leave tomorrow on an exhibition tour of the middle west, this time, with the official permission of baseball's highest official, Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Ruth, in announcing tonight the proposed trip, said he and Meusel had received unofficial sanction for the trip from Commissioner Landis, who handed out the suspensions to them last year after the two sluggers, together with pitcher Bill Piercy, defied the commissioner's ultimatum that they abandon their trip.

"Commissioner Landis treated us very fairly," Ruth declared. "Last year's affair had nothing to do with his decision granting us sanction for the tour this fall."

The Babe added that he and Meusel would be accompanied by no other members of the Yankees. They will start exhibitions in Nebraska and continue through October and November, as long as the weather permits.

Under the new rule affecting barnstorming by world's series players, they can engage in post-season exhibitions providing no more than three members of a championship club play together on a team.

Besides members of the Giants and Yankees who plan to join an exhibition tour of the Orient, Carl Mays and Wally Schang, star Yankee hurlers, will head another barnstorming party.

Rio Janeiro, Oct. 9.—A rumor was current here today that the Portuguese aviator, Captain Scudera Cabral, who, with Captain Coutinho, recently made a trans-Atlantic flight from Lisbon to Rio Janeiro, had been assassinated aboard the steamer Porto, now en route to Portugal. The Porto left Rio Janeiro October 4. The rumor could not be confirmed.

PREPARE FOR WINTER NOW

Don't let your vegetables go to waste. They may all be saved by the drying process. Don't let your fruit decay in the orchard. By evaporation its food value may be so locked up that you can release it to serve your purpose any day in the year.

You need not depend on the sunshine, need not expose materials to the rain. You can make for yourself a simple apparatus that will do the drying in your kitchen.

All the practical knowledge there is on the subject of drying is contained in a 60-page booklet issued by the department of agriculture. This is a free government publication and our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below, enclosing two cents in stamps for return postage. "SCHOOL DAYS" IS GREAT PICTURE, WITH A GREAT KID STAR, AT LYRIC

Wesley Barry, the freckle-faced screen luminary, whose latest picture is "School Days," a part of which was made in Albuquerque, will be shown at the Lyric theater for the next few days, starting today like most youngsters, was ambitious to be a great many things, but—

"Golly," said Wesley, "I used to think that I wanted to become a great detective and sneak around corners with whippersnappers. Then I thought I'd like to be an engineer and drive a Dixie Flyer or something. Now I don't know but what I guess I'll try and become a good actor. You know a feller never knows what he wants to be, but I guess it's acting I'll do in the future."

REMARKABLE FEAT BY WALLACE REID IN RACE "ACROSS THE CONTINENT"

An eighty-five mile per hour "bug" in this small car, perhaps the fastest for its size ever built, was especially constructed and equipped to hold the honor place in the transcontinental race which is the principal feature of Wallace Reid's new Paramount picture, "Across the Continent," to be presented at the "B" theater, commencing today.

The machine is about the size of a stripped-down Ford. It was equipped with all the features of the racing cars, however, including Delco ignition system, Miller racing carburetor and Perfecto two-speed axle.

The car was geared three-to-one and was capable of attaining a speed of eighty-five miles per hour, although, according to the star, it was hard to hold it to the road when it reached its maximum speed.

Eddie Heffernan, expert mechanic, who was forced to retire from the racing game because of injuries received in a speed contest, spent several weeks getting the car in shape and perfect running order, and then acted as "nurse" to the car during the making of the picture.

Early next year will be celebrated the centenary of the first performance in public, at Covent Garden Opera House, of that wonderful song, "Home, Sweet Home."

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, itching, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit, 15c and 30c.

FIRE HAZARD IN HOMES IS OFTEN OWNER

Washington, Oct. 9.—A new type of frame building construction which, without the use of any of the so-called fire-proofing materials at all, will cut in two the fire hazard to which wood dwelling houses are exposed, has been evolved by engineers employed by the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, of Washington, a scientific bureau devoted to the solution of problems affecting the industry which maintains it.

Not only will the new frame construction greatly add to the safety, financial and physical, of the future home-builders who adopt it, it is claimed, but the discovery will have a profound effect upon city building regulations. With some further refinements not deemed necessary in dwelling houses, the new construction has been adapted to factory and business buildings. These plans have been approved by the fire insurance underwriters, and as a result some of the largest cities in the country, New York among them, are considering readmitting frame construction into fire districts for years barred to wooden buildings of any sort.

The evolution of fire-resistant frame construction was incidental to a campaign inaugurated some years ago by the lumber industry to remove from wood the single disadvantage under which it competed for business in the building materials market. For many years—ever since the invention of fire-proof building construction, in fact—lumber has been subjected to the attacks of the makers of fire-proof materials. Nobody could gainsay the cheapness of wood, nor its beauty and comfort, nor even its durability, since many of the old colonial mansions still in existence are made of wood. But there has been no getting around the fact that wood will burn. If you built of wood—and three-fourths of all home-builders do use wood—you simply risked losing your building by fire. Many an owner of a beautiful and commodious frame house has wished regretfully that he could have afforded to build his home of fire-proof materials.

In ascertaining an undue fire hazard to frame construction, the producers of fire-proofing invented no new argument. They merely used what for years has been common belief, namely, that there is a direct relation between the extensive use of frame construction in the United States and the enormous annual fire losses to which this country is subjected. Three of every four buildings in American cities are made of wood throughout. The United States has the greatest annual fire loss of any country in the world. To assume that one of these facts results from the other seems to be only putting two and two together.

Science and Fire Hazards But, like some other American industries producing standard commodities which suffer from adverse popular opinion, the makers and sellers of wood have been turning the cool searchlight of science upon the alleged fire hazard resting upon frame construction. In this country not long ago it was shown how successfully the scientist has refuted the opinion that it is dangerous to eat canned food. Now another group of scientists has demonstrated beyond argument the surprising fact that frame buildings, even as they are constructed today, are not nearly so subject to fire as buildings of other sorts, including the steel-frame buildings which are known as fire-proof.

To make this demonstration, the scientists of the Technical and Research department of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association took the 1921 figures on fires in 83 of the largest American cities as compiled by the national board of Fire Underwriters. These figures, to be sure, show that over half the fires in these cities that year occurred in frame buildings, but the figure loses its apparent significance when it is set down beside the fact that three-fourths of all the buildings in the 83 cities are of frame construction. To every thousand frame buildings, there was a fraction in excess of 15 fires, but the fires in brick and stone buildings ran over 24 to the thousand and in all sorts of buildings other than frame, 25 to the thousand.

These figures bring out a point which observant fire chiefs have been emphasizing for a long time: the hazard from fire results not so much from the materials of which a building is constructed, but from what goes on inside the building. A building may be made entirely of steel and brick, but if it houses an automobile garage or a paint shop or a newspaper office, or any other fire-hazardous industry, a fire may break out and destroy the building totally.

Fires Result From Carelessness. The lesson in this is that he himself and his family constitute a large part of the fire hazard in his home. Nearly half the fires in dwelling houses result from carelessness. Family construction accounts for nearly all the rest of them. Fires communicated to dwelling houses from outside sources are so few in number as to be negligible. Even the shingle roof, that favorite scapegoat, is exonerated. The investigation is showing that when the cause of a dwelling-house fire is given "marks on record," the truth usually is that a defective chimney was the incendiary. Poor mortar, and an insufficient quantity of that, place. The flue in the chimney was unlined with tile. In time a brick drops out of the chimney, and the adjacent shingles catch fire at the first opportunity.

The new building plans developed by the National Lumber Manufacturers' association are designed to cut the frame-construction fire hazard in two, even conceding that the house occupants continue their carelessness. The principal features of the new type of construction are designed to make wooden buildings slow-burners. A slow-burning building is about all the householder can hope for, even if he builds of fireproof materials. The fact is that no buildings, excepting perhaps steel and stone, are as safe as the pyramids of Cheops, are absolutely fire-proof. The disastrous "Loop" fire in Chicago last year ate up a 16-story steel building, and there have been other instances of supposedly absolutely fire-proof buildings being totally destroyed by fire.

From the standpoint of fire, the chief defect in frame construction of the past has been that it left between walls and the ceiling of one room and the floor above drafty open spaces which serve as flues when the house catches on fire. A

To the Citizens of Bernalillo County

The democratic party of Bernalillo county, at its convention assembled, nominated me for the position of sheriff on the said party ticket.

In order that the citizens of this community who are not personally acquainted with me, may know who I am, I wish to state that I was born and reared in Bernalillo county and have lived here all my life; I received my education in the public schools of Albuquerque; when a young man I was clerk for several years in the business house of Spitz Brothers; after leaving their employment I devoted my time to farming my lands at Rancho de Albuquerque, and to stock raising, which business I still follow. I am familiar with the conditions in the city of Albuquerque and in the rural sections of our county; I am a firm believer in the principles of the democratic party but I fully appreciate that a public officer is not a public boss, and that said officer must serve all the people; have never held an office except that of jury commissioner of this county to which place I was appointed by the Honorable M. E. Hickey, our respected district judge; I have no axes to grind, no one to punish and no one to compensate; not tied up in any way with any man or set of men and if the voters of this county in their judgment decide that I am to be their sheriff for the next two years I assure you that I will do my duty and that I will be only a public servant.

AMERICAN AGENCIES IN CONSTANTINOPLE HAVE BEEN UNIFIED

Washington, Oct. 9.—All American agencies in Constantinople have been unified in emergency committees with a program approved by state department for dealing with the relief situation. Charles G. Vickery, general secretary of the Near East Relief was informed today in a cable message from H. C. Jacquith, managing director of Near East Relief in Constantinople. In addition to the regular personnel of the Near East Relief, it was added, American business men are co-operating in the work while Greek doctors, nurses, and business men who themselves were among the refugees, were giving their assistance.

A conference of principal organizations interested in relief work for Greek refugees in Constantinople, Mr. Jacquith reported, it was estimated there were 437,000 Greek refugees who had escaped from Asia Minor and were now under the Greek flag.

MYSTERY WOMAN SOUGHT FOR IN DERNIER MURDER

Is Supposed to Have Attended the Funeral of Slain Man at Phoenix, Sept. 12, Officials Learn.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 9.—A "mysterious woman," who is supposed to have attended the funeral here of Guy Dernier, today is being sought by the police and sheriff's deputies in connection with the murder of Dernier, September 12, when his body, clad only in a suit of athletic underwear, was found floating in the Arizona canal, eight miles north of Phoenix.

Information in the hands of the authorities concerning this "woman of mystery" is meager, but it is known that her name is "Thelma," that she has been a familiar figure around the big hotels of Los Angeles and that she is a striking beauty. This "Thelma," Sheriff Montgomery said today, is supposed to have been frequently in the company of Guy Dernier while he was living in Los Angeles.

Woman Clad in Black
At Dernier's funeral here there was a woman dressed in black and wearing a long, flowing, black veil that completely hid her features, whom nobody seemed to know. Immediately after the funeral this woman vanished. Where she went remains as much of a mystery as who she was. And it is this same woman, Sheriff Montgomery believes, whose connection with the Dernier case has added still another baffling complication to a problem that already had begun to look like it might never be solved.

Los Angeles, according to Deputy Sheriff Frank Bell, who returned Saturday from the coast city, this "Thelma" is no longer to be seen around her old haunts. What has become of her no one seems to know. The task of tracing her movements is doubly difficult because, in spite of the fact that she was a conspicuous figure wherever she went, she seemed to have few friends. Most of those persons who knew her, the officers say, can boast of nothing more than just a speaking acquaintance. She seemed to have had no intimacies unless the slain Dernier himself was one.

Sheriff John Montgomery left this afternoon for Phoenix, 35 miles west of here, where he went to investigate still another angle of the case, the nature of which he stated he could not divulge.

Probing Statements
V. T. Bledsoe, special investigator working out of the county attorney's office, and Deputy Sheriff Frank Bell were in Mesa today. It is said they are investigating statements made by some of those Phoenix men who have been brought under suspicion in connection with Dernier's death.

Still another distressing development in the enigma is reported in the alleged disappearance from Phoenix last night of one of those men whose name has been prominently in the foreground all through the affair of Dernier's death and the subsequent investigation. That this man really had vanished could not be established but it was reported to the sheriff's office that he was preparing to leave the city and since then all efforts to find him have proved fruitless.

AGENTS MAKE FIRST SEIZURE OF LIQUOR UNDER DRY RULING

New York, Oct. 9.—The first seizure of liquor aboard a United States shipping board vessel under Attorney General Daugherty's dry ruling was made today by agents who visited the freighter Winona, arrived from Smyrna after evacuating refugees from the ruined city. Four cases of whiskey and a number of loose bottles were taken from the vessel's hold. The vessel's officers said they could not account for the presence of the liquor and that it probably had been brought aboard by refugees.

JUST DRAGGED SO WEAKENED

Florida Lady Was In a Miserable Condition, But Says She Found Cardui Helpful, and Got Well.

Altha, Fla.—In explaining how she found Cardui so helpful during change of life, Mrs. Ella M. Bailey, of R. F. D. 2, this place, said:

"I became so weakened it was an effort for me to get around. I knew what was the matter, but I felt like I couldn't give up."

"I just dragged, and I certainly was nervous. I was so restless I could not sit down long—yet so weak I couldn't get about. It is a most miserable and such a helpless feeling."

"I would get depressed and out of heart."

"I began to feel, after awhile, there was no use to try to get well. This is all wrong, for it makes a person worse."

"I had heard of Cardui, and thought it might strengthen me. A neighbor had used it with good results."

"I took one bottle (of Cardui), then I saw I wasn't so nervous, so kept it up."

"Gradually the nervousness left me. I began to eat and sleep better. Was soon well, and all right."

"Cardui did wonders for me, and I certainly do recommend it."

Thousands of other women have written to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others.

Cardui has stood the test of extensive use, for more than forty years, in the treatment of troubles common to women.

Good druggists, everywhere, sell Cardui, the woman's tonic. Try it.—Adv.

DEMOCRATS PUT UP FULL TICKET IN SOCORRO CO.

Four of the Nominees Are Said to Have Been Affiliated With the Republican Party in the Past.

Special to The Journal.
Socorro, N. M., Oct. 9.—The democratic county convention which was held here today was not as harmonious as that party's gatherings usually are.

Some days ago when the republicans held their convention, there were two opposing delegations, known as the Sanchez faction and the Abeyta faction. The delegation headed by Sanchez was recognized by the convention and the Abeyta delegation was denied seats. The Abeyta wing of the party, it is said, then made overtures to the democrats for the purpose of bringing about fusion between that party and the Abeyta wing of the republican party.

When the democratic convention got under way today, a list of nominees for the convention to ratify, was read. This raised objections on the part of some of the delegates, including the secretary, and a number of the delegates walked out, whereupon the convention proceeded to nominate the following ticket:

Representatives—Floreto Ortega, San Juan, and Elicio Barreras, San Marcial.
Commissioner, district No. 1—Mauricio Baca, Limitar.
Commissioner, district No. 2—No nomination.
Commissioner, district No. 3—Julio Granjean, San Marcial.
Sheriff—J. S. Baca, Socorro.
County clerk—Valentine Torres, Socorro.

Probate Judge—Elias Spears, Socorro.
Treasurer—Stanislaus Melra, San Marcial.

School superintendent—Abran Abeyta, Socorro.
J. S. Baca, Mauricio Baca, Abran Abeyta and J. S. Spears have heretofore been affiliated with the republican party.

1922 HARVEST WILL BE LARGER THAN IN 1921, IS FORECAST

Washington, Oct. 9.—Crops generally suffered a loss in prospective production during September, but the harvests will be larger than they were last year except in the case of corn, buckwheat, sugar beets and peanuts.

Preliminary estimates and forecasts of production, announced today by the department, showed a decrease, compared with a month ago, with 25,000,000 bushels of oats, 21,000,000 bushels of corn, 8,000,000 bushels of spring wheat, 16,000,000 bushels of peanuts, 5,000,000 bushels of white potatoes, 2,800,000 bushels of sweet potatoes and 2,900,000 bushels of apples. There were increases, however, in the forecasts of tobacco, barley, buckwheat, rice and beans.

Nebraska's corn crop suffered most, showing a reduction of about 13,000,000 bushels from a month ago. The reduction in Illinois was about 12,000,000 bushels, in Missouri, 7,000,000 bushels and Kansas, 1,000,000 bushels.

RED CROSS HAS TAKEN STEPS TO HELP REFUGEES

Cables Are Dispatched to Athens and Paris Directing the Use of Funds to Purchase Supplies.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The American Red Cross in annual convention here took active steps tonight for the relief of refugees in the Near East.

Acting upon authorization by the organization's executive committee given in the day, Chairman John Barton Payne dispatched cables to Athens and Paris, directing the immediate use of funds for the purchase of supplies for the sufferers. Chairman Payne also announced that Dr. A. Ross Hill, vice chairman and director of foreign operations, will sail Friday to take charge of the expanded relief efforts.

The executive committee, it was announced at the opening of the convention, had placed in the chairman's hands all the organization's funds and facilities, advising him to use them as he deemed advisable. That action brought an expression of gratitude from President Harding who further informed the convention in a message of greeting, of his satisfaction at the willingness of the agency to co-operate in Near East relief and again extend a helping hand across the seas. Approval of the committee's action also was given by the convention through adoption of resolutions.

In signally expanding the agency's foreign relief operations, Chairman Payne called the American committee at Athens to draw on the relief fund to the extent of $100,000 immediately. The fund should be used, the cable directed, to purchase "urgent supplies" for the refugees in Greece. Instructions were also given that the committee obtain, if possible, a warehouse in Piraeus for the Red Cross.

To the Greek Red Cross at Athens, Chairman Payne sent a message stating that a commission would be on hand there soon to aid in the relief work.

The American Red Cross in Paris was instructed by the chairman to purchase $50,000 worth of canned milk and to hurry shipment to districts where most needed.

Gone Out of Business

THERE is an old Latin adage which says, "Caveat Emptor." Translated, it means, "Let the buyer beware."

It put the burden of seeing that one got his money's worth on the purchaser. It warned him to enter a shop with his eyes wide open, to have faith in no one, to keep his fingers crossed and then trust to Providence that he didn't lose his eye teeth in the bargain.

Advertising has put "Caveat Emptor" out of business. Today, merchants and manufacturers can't afford to risk the disappointment and disapproval of a dissatisfied customer. It is too easy for the customer to pick up a paper and find plenty of other places where real dollar value is given and where they practice the modern slogan, "We strive to please."

The good will of the buying public is the goal of the modern seller. Without it, his business cannot succeed. Every time he advertises he puts his good name in your hands. His products must make good. They must be as advertised.

That's why it pays to read the advertisements and to buy advertised goods.

The Call of the Farm

By WILLIS STEELL.

"No, I'm serious," said the commentator of conditions who was commiserating the metropolis. "Do you know that a proportion of the city's middle class seriously contemplates settling on farms?"

I had heard rumors of this craving of people for nature and simple living—everybody has heard them off and on as the moving spirit gets hold of us in the spring and fall—but a big migration to country life, scarcity of coal—these invariably set people to thinking again of how happy they might be if they lived off their own lands, cut wood from their own timbered lands, raised their own beef, pork, poultry; in a word, if they had what every mortal ardently desires—independence.

Then they write or call on the farm agency and pass in review what it offers. Sometimes they do this every year or so, and when the crisis comes they forget it until another crisis comes up.

country from Florida to the Canadian line.

"But while the farmer born and bred takes into consideration these and other things, while he is looking for a good farm stocked with animals and machinery, and with growing crops, for what we may term a 'civilized' piece of property, his city neighbor is likely to put too much stress on rumor of what others have done. He has heard that modest fortunes have been made out of a fruit orchard and out of an outlying part of Staten Island, took up a piece of unimproved land, without even a road leading to it, started a poultry farm and almost at once reaped big profits. He refused this fall $50,000 for his poultry farm which he started in 1914.

The appeal of the farm in these days is based on something more than sentiment. Farming is not a haphazard affair, for it is now done by clever agriculturists. To succeed in it demands modern business methods and scientific management. The farmer who applies these need not fear to be looked on patronizingly by the city man.

move from post to pillar and from pillar to post, and it's a wonder we have a stick of furniture at all, at all!" my mother has time and again complained. I like moving. It gives endless opportunity for "cabin hunting." That's what mother calls my favorite pastime of visiting neighbors. I can't see why she objects to this so furiously, for she surely misses a lot by being such a strictly "homebody." Each new neighborhood we move to in New York city is rich in adventure for me, and so when I see my big sister scanning the apartment to rent pages of the newspapers I sit tight and listen.

"Here's the very thing," she called out last Sunday. "Nine rooms, three baths (three chances for singing walrus, let's hope, in harmony), parquet floors, elevator service, view of the Hudson—"

"What's the tariff?" my father cuts short the vision.

"From $7,000 up," reads Sis. "I guess we'll stay here a while longer."

"Oh, and that wall paper in the parlor," sighs Sis. She is planning to have her bunch come up to the house very soon.

One of the irks that makes Sis doubt whether home sweet home is the place of places is the way the wall paper has of peeling and cracking up on the bias right over the piano, or the way the ceiling has of imitating the dried mud flats of a sun baked prairie, or the way rain spots stain just where visitors can't miss them when rolling their eyes to heaven at some crisis in the tale you are telling them for entertainment.

If you lived at the Plaza or any such hotel and the walls and ceiling took to acting in this trying manner you could call the manager, who would call the superintendent, who would call the buttons to call the decorator and give him a talking to and get him to mend matters immediately. But the owner of the apartment house is always sidetracking the redecoration of your walls because he has something of greater importance on his mind. And should he ever send a man to kalsomine the ceiling said barbarian splashes everything with mortar and you spend your time cleaning up his daubing instead of entertaining the bunch. While landlords are so very deaf in their redecoration ear fiction may seduce you by extolling the efficacy of maulage, flour paste, thumb tacks and chewing gum to keeping wandering wall covering in place; but fact has it that all these are utterly useless if the wall paper will crack, crack and peel. That's ours.

"As you make your bed you'll lie in it," is a saying which mother imported. She had it from her mother, who was raised on it too. "Whenever you are in the neighborhood come right up to our house," is the standing invitation to the world we move in, and to make it positive there is added, "the litch-string is always on the outside."

This really means you ring the bell down stairs and walk up three flights.

The larger the family the more hospitable you'll find it; for one, two or three more can always be tucked in by doubling up, slinging hammocks, pulling out cots or spreading the pallet thinner on the floor.

Fiction has it the magic pitcher was the reward of hospitality under difficulties. Fact would need to reward large families with a magic bed which would stretch and stretch and never lose its elastic softness.

I don't know where fiction would put family visitors. We usually have at least one staying with us. They sometimes spend their New York city vacation with us and then go back home and tell of the grandeur of the Biltmore or some place like that where they have had luncheon or tea. These I dislike immensely. They always get the beds and we get the floor. Fiction would chirp of sacrifice, of Grecian guest friendship. The condition actually makes for raw material, especially in the way of sore spots where the angles of the floor do not fit into the flats of your back. And in every large family you will find this true.

On the whole, though, I like visitors. I like our family when we have our company manners on.

"Please Paws the Glaws."

"The way that family pulls together is certainly edifying," my mother is wont to chide us when there is a tug of war on in our happy home. "One never sees any quarreling or bickering there, and they all seem to work for the common good."

It is true that the family under comment is remarkably minded. They seem sympathetic and their stories all jibe. That's more than our family can vouch for. You can never count on the support of the rest of the group, especially if you are given slightly to exaggeration of minor details in a story. It seems that we all exaggerate different details, so that I scarcely blame folks for not believing all they hear by way of entertaining narrative in our house. It might be well to hold a family council at which we might decide just what color to paint the yarn. But even at that it would be decidedly paid.

Mother's ambition, however, is to hold her brood together even if she has to "work her fingers to the bone" to do so. She utterly disagrees with the notion that it is best to hurl each member of the family out to face the world at the age of 18. So the railroad flat will hold us together probably as long as the oft quoted family referred to. They have married sons and daughters all at home.

Yet I visited, in my cabin hunting, the family mother praises, and I was so much at home that they must have mistaken me for one of the clan. The oldest son talked of one of the sons-in-law much as my brother talks of lounge lizards and coke guzzlers who help Big Sis with the dishes on Sunday nights. The fire reached the point of talk of Maxim silencers. I hurried home. We have no Maxim silencers at our house. And we don't usually quarrel before guests. Mother won't allow that, and so I think that most of the remarkable pulling together families indulge in is merely an outward show of company manners.

The Installment Man.

"Whenever I meet a particularly Judas-Isariot looking person on the walkup," says Big Sister, "I know he is an installment collector and that he is probably coming to dun for those wretched dining room chairs that are falling apart!"

I think it is only in the privacy of the family that one dares to own knowing so irksome a detail as installment furniture, although fiction does stress the dramatic scene of the removal of the piano on which payments are overdue. More grit and patience are required to live with furnishings procured in this fashion, my Sis asserts, than ever it would take to part with them, even by force. In fact she would relish flinging them into the arms of the scorned collector.

"Seems as if all families have some intermittent pest of a bill collector," relates Sis. "There is Irene. You'd never think that her folks would be bothered, but the other day when we were having a meeting on her porch (Irene lives in a cottage in The Bronx, 'way up), there came a nice enough looking Scotch-Irish man who stalked into our midst like Cleo on the hunt for Catline.

"Where's your mother?" he demanded of 'Rene.

"Oh, how do you do, Mr. Rogers," Rene cooed. "Mother's not at home. How are Mrs. Rogers and the baby? Irene made him feel like a guest. 'I'd like you to meet my friends. Here's More and Less and Shall and Will and Can and May and the rest of the troublesome verbs. And do have a bon bon.'"

"Irene surely did carry it off well."

I think I was the only one who might have guessed he was a creditor. I know the breed. Did he take any hint? Did he do the gracious stunt? He did not.

"You may keep your bong-bongs," he snapped. "And you may tell your mother that if that bill isn't paid by Saturday, we'll put it into the hands of our lawyers."

Fiction would have given this a different twist. "Rene's flapper dimples would have won the flinty heart of the old crank. The truth here is more touching than the version respectable fiction would afford."

Mystery in Sis's Tardiness.

In every large family you will find one son or daughter who lives under the impression that there is a gold mine secreted somewhere on the premises of even a railroad flat. My favorite sister is a little given this way. My big sister has no patience with her because she says that temperament is a kind of laziness. Well, as fiction has always made the most of suspense, our would-be artist put us through agony that Madame Butterfly's waiting and watching approached but never reached.

"If you don't get something to do to-day," my mother told her as she started out on a daily hunt for a position, a hunt that had for weeks resulted in coming home with nothing to do, but with many details of life in Greenwich Village, "you will just have to stay at home and make yourself useful about the house here instead of throwing away time and money." And Sis went gaily off.

Five o'clock came and laborers crowded home to their happy firesides. The subway gave forth their hard working men, women and also children of working paper age, and I stood with my nose pressed against the screen waiting for Sis. Six o'clock came, but no Sis. Seven o'clock and all the laborers would have finished their evening meal and their loving women folk would be doing the dishes and their frolicsome children, like steps of stairs, would be having a game of ringalevio on the sidewalk before being called up to bed. But no Sis.

Eight o'clock and the tired laborers would not go to the movies, but would call their children up and after a chapter in the Bible, maybe, would get them off to bed. Still no Sis.

Nine o'clock and workmen laborers would settle around the fireplace, devoted man and wife, to talk of the high cost of living and to smoke and mend respectively. And still no Sis. Ten o'clock and the laborer and his family would be sleeping (and what if snoring?) in home sweet home, and the careful policeman would be patrolling the street to ward off robbers who might want to steal the stocking containing the savings toward a rainy day. And still no Sis.

I was supposed to be in bed, having been sent off with the younger portion of the family. But I was at the parlor window watching. Where was she? Had she been lured into some den in Greenwich Village? Why didn't they tell the police to search down there for a bobbed haired, Russian blouse, overgrown, half baked but jolly favorite sister of mine? Were they going to let her go in this calloused manner? No, they couldn't. That wouldn't be fair to the self-sacrificing heroines who go looking for jobs in sub-sub-basements of department stores so as to earn enough for milk for the baby and rent for the family and shoes for the poor father who wore his others out begging bread.

Fiction at this point would have Sis stay away until the report of her having married the European prince who was visiting New York in quest of a wife would ease the feeling of the family.

But at 10 minutes past 10 Sis came home tired. She had lost her last nickel and had walked from Fifty-ninth street home.

25,000 families, tired of the struggle, consider an exit to the farm.

meaning practical farming life, was a new plant. It deserved looking into.

Investigation shows that more than 25,000 families, tired of the struggle for mere existence in a city whose meretricious glitter had palled on them, are seriously considering an exit by the farm route. Certain small merchants, clerks and other householders, who can't see that they are getting anywhere after toiling and passing out the wages of their toil for a decade or more, have eliminated from their hopes for the future every career except the farm. Only there do they see, or think they see, independence.

In this census the intending commuter isn't included. That class increases yearly. But wherever it goes, so long as it continues to earn its bread in the city, the commuting class remains city at heart. The people who are preparing to quit New York have a different purpose in view when they start to look for a farm. They say, and they probably mean it, that they don't care if they never foot asphalt again.

How They're Divided.

Information gleaned from land agencies, bureaus of population, trade compilers, railroad passenger agents and non-commercial sources shows that New Yorkers eager to quit the city for farm life are divided into the following classes:

The poetical, who like to see the wind ripple through fields of corn and who thrill when the thrushes sing.

(These persons, it may be said at once, would starve on a farm.)

The city clerk who is aware that he has reached the limit of salary he can earn and who despite years of service still fears a temperamental burst from his employer which might result in his losing his job.

(This class is aware that it knows nothing about farming or any speciality of country life, like poultry raising or fruit culture, but is willing to learn and is tempted to the experience by a natural desire to rid himself of fears and gain freedom. It may or may not succeed, but the emphasis falls on the "not.")

The citizens who were raised on a farm and who know one when they see it; who also know that a well chosen farm can easily be made to support a family if nothing more.

(These citizens have the country in their blood; they have ever cherished a desire to return to the land. Their wishes are modest, and if they fulfill their dream in nine cases out of ten they have no valid reason to repent.)

It has been said that thousands of New York residents are seriously seeking information in the farm market. This is not an exaggeration, at the moment, although a great proportion of them will doubtless change their minds or will postpone an exodus from the city until they find the very farm they want to own.

Cheap Farms Expensive.

Any impending economic difficulty and all existing interruptions of an easy life in town bring a monster mail to the agencies that deal in farm lands. Strikes on the transportation systems, increased rents and other costs of living, dread of a

Among these undecided farm seekers are often genuine farm breeds, but the latter differ from the frivolous kind, because it is almost certain that the day will come that will see them as actual purchasers. What they are waiting for is not a 'cheap' farm but one that will promise to be self-supporting. In other words, they know what they want and snap it up when it appears.

To them, as to the futile poets and others who leap before they look, the farm is a refuge from the cares that infest the city. The only difference is a big one—the born farmer wants his refuge to pay for itself and support himself and family afterward. Therefore he seeks a farm with ample acreage, stocked and equipped with machinery, one that has been wisely managed, for he knows that although he pays a high price at the start he is actually getting his home cheaper than if he bought for a great deal less money an impoverished and empty quarter section of land.

"Where do you want to go?" is almost the first question asked of a home seeker who has shown that he knows land in the real sense of potential income from it.

And the answer of such a farmer is almost invariably:

"Anywhere—Ohio, Idaho, Michigan; it matters not, so that I get a farm that deserves not to be wasted and that won't waste me."

But the "play" farmer has been attracted by an advertisement setting forth the attractiveness of a small farm with its fine old trees, its running brook, its views, &c.

Two-Thirds Play Farmers.

"There are twice as many inquirers of the latter class as of the former," said the farm agent who relieved himself of some of the wisdom concentrated above. "An inch advertisement of a small but picturesque property in Hudson county inserted in one newspaper once brought 650 inquiries; another of equal size telling of a genuine bargain in a real farm fully equipped and with grain in the field brought less than 200."

"At present there are evidences of a great unrest among city dwellers, and more than half of those who openly express it by the fact of their application here belong to the class that may be expected to fail on a farm."

"We can tell approximately whether our purchasers are likely to make a success of their venture, for it is dependent on their own willingness to work and in part on their judgment as to methods of work. Farming is a business, and like any other it has to be attended to."

"For eight to ten years there has been an increasing migration of city folk to the country. During the war, while it fell off noticeably, it still was strong. But then the high cost of farm labor detracted from the advantages of farm life. Sensible men hesitated to go back to the country when labor commanded such exorbitant wages. It is now back again to normal, that is, it is possible to get a good farm hand for about $20 a month."

"The proof of this is that there is reported a full contingent among the harvest hands who work in the a poultry run and asks himself if he hadn't as good a chance provided he puts his savings into such a thing.

Refuses $50,000 Offer.

"I don't say that he hasn't; nobody can minimize what real honest work may accomplish, but I do say there have been lots of failures in just such pseudo farms. On the other hand, I am acquainted with a man who went from Manhattan to disappointment that put him on the broad highway to ruin. And many another.

"But I chose to beg the world with your father, instead, for 'twas himself that had the takin' way with him, and Oh! the promise! he could do!"

Moments of Remorse.

In fact when they settled down in New York city in a boarding house for $10 a week and he procured work at $10 a week they used to take a walk every evening past the shops and he would point out to her all the things he'd buy for her if he had the money; and they were as happy as the evening was long. But when the slightest squall would come to upset their peaceful way of going she would sit and rock to and fro, wringing her little white hands and moaning to heaven to find out why she had ever left her home to come to this.

"I'm suppin' sorrow with the spoon of grief!" she'd sob, and my father's chivalrous heart would be touched. His salt tears would mingle with hers, for ever coaxing her to come to this country, where she was an exile from her life long friends and associations.

Something About Brother.

"The matter with him is that he has a private audience," my mother will often remark when one of our brothers acts as if the rest of us were thin air without our powers of perception. Home, sweet home, develops private audiences, as many and as varied as there are members in the family. In fact one's private audience is at times the only approving body in the house. You have to justify every thought, word and deed to every person in the real who comes upon you thinking or speaking or doing in the flesh. Private audiences understand."

Take the act of yodeling in the bathroom. Home, sweet home, is the only place on earth that allows this practice. When our hot water geyser and cold water freshest dash into the echoing cavern of a tin bathtub you can run the gamut of demi-semiquavers without much chance of hearing the barrage on the door. So my brother seems to think. The storm of noise he sends forth when he splashes about like a singing walrus is enough to drown the feeble pleadings of any fictionalized, gnarled knuckled mother saying, "Merciful heavens, what is it I'm listening to?"

Paternal Objection to Schedule K.

"I'm sure there's not such a pack of gyases in this whole town. We

Moreover, besides possible prosperity there are changes in farm life that render it far more attractive than it used to be. There is little need to list these changes, for everybody who has gone for his "two weeks" to the country within the last decade knows what they are. The automobile, the rural free delivery, the parcels post, the telephone, the movies, the phonograph and the radio have all contributed to making life on the farm not merely endurable but highly agreeable.

There are still to be had choice farms in the East that have been permitted to lie idle. These "abandoned" farms are getting better prices than were paid for them a few years ago, because the purchaser now has the intention of running it as a farm and not merely as a summer residence. There are a good many, however, in Connecticut and Massachusetts and in New York that may be had at a bargain whether the city purchaser buys for entire year service or summer retreat.

In the past year every agent for the sale of farm lands has been flooded with inquiries. One such received 250,000 in that period and more than one-half of them came from residents of New York city.

The Family Secrets

By the SMALLER SISTER.

New York, Saturday.

F ICTION is always representing Home, Sweet Home as a cozy little cottage with a blazing fireplace, a trundle bed, flickering candle light, an open Bible, work-worn husband, devoted wife, children like steps of stairs and the wind whistling 'round the corner.

Well, we fill the bill excepting for the cozy little cottage effect, with the blazing fireplace, trundle bed and flickering candle light accompaniment. We live in what is known as a railroad flat in an apartment house on the upper East Side of New York city, and, believe me, in this long drawn out ribbon of a home, partly dark hall, narrow, partially lighted bedrooms, billous looking airshafts, paralyzed radiators and temperamental janitor we have the little cottage beaten by several flights for possibilities of mystery, adventure, suspense and sob stuff. In fact, there's a human interest, realistic penny dreadful going a-begging on every floor, ours no exception. If there is a fiction artist on the hunt for a mine of raw material let him work a claim in our happy home. It will reward a grubstake.

On serious consideration of the members of our large family, individually and collectively, I have come to the conclusion that whatever sentimental tendencies have developed in our midst have been come by honestly. My mother's sayings have become a part of us.

Mother has a way of remarking that when she ran away from her happy home she left a pathway of broken hearts behind her. There was Tobias. He is now a millionaire even at the present rate of exchange, pounds, shillings and pence. He almost drowned himself when he learned that she had eloped to America, but he came up from another haircomb, as my big brother puts it when we play around in the fringes of the Atlantic Ocean at Coney Island, and he remained up to become the richest bachelor in that little town in Ireland. He never married. And there was a swain named MacGillchuddy or some such combination of sounds. I often wonder what kind of family we'd have been if he had got wind of mother's intentions to leave the River Shannon for America. And there was Pendergole, who, my father never fails to prompt, died in jail. It was

"You may keep your bong-bongs," he snapped.

INSURANCE MEN OF STATE FORM BIG FEDERATION

First Annual Gathering Results in Organization to Raise Standards of Insurance Profession.

The formation of a state organization of insurance men patterned after the national federation is resulting from the first annual gathering of insurance men of New Mexico which opened yesterday at the Elks' club. Nearly a hundred members of the profession are here at the call of H. R. McGibbon, state insurance commissioner.

A temporary organization headed by Ray McGibbon of Albuquerque as chairman and P. H. Cross of Santa Fe as secretary, heard the first day's program of pertinent talks on the insurance business and worked on the permanent organization which will be put through today. The session will begin at 9 o'clock. A committee to draw up a constitution and by-laws for the organization was appointed as follows: P. H. Cross, chairman; J. H. Coons, George Fleming, Charles W. Davis, B. F. Weisenborn, Frank W. Graham, H. H. Betts and E. W. Bowen.

The first session was opened by D. A. McGibbon. After a reading of the call the invocation was asked by the Dean William Allen. An address of welcome by Mayor William B. Walton was responded to by J. Frank Burns of Wagon Mound. Temporary committees were appointed before the noon recess.

Walter J. Kulp, assistant manager of the Mountain States Insurance bureau, of Denver, gave the principal talk of the morning session of "Fire Prevention." He outlined the leading contributory causes to fire loss and emphasized the new danger which the radio fan is bringing all over the country.

The address of the afternoon was given on the subject "Insurance, Its Public Relations" by Albert N. Wold of Detroit, Mich., assistant secretary of the Insurance Federation of America. Mr. Wold described in some detail the national organization and gave its purposes.

"Insurance is the backbone of American business," said Mr. Wold. "It is inseparably intertwined with the economic affairs of the entire country and touches almost every phase of life. All of you present are under the protection of some insurance. The assets of the life insurance companies alone in the United States reach eight billion dollars."

A discussion of this subject by Charles W. Davis of Gallup, followed. Mr. Davis urged that more be done to educate the public in the selection of their representatives and that some measure be taken by legitimate insurance men against unethical practice.

George A. Fleming of Las Vegas read a paper on "The Local Agent." He deplored the present standing of some local agents and charged

ARGENTINE FIGHTER DESIRES TO RETURN TO UNITED STATES

Buenos Aires, Oct. 9 (by the Associated Press).—Louis Angel Firpo, the big Argentine fighter, who on Sunday afternoon retained his title of heavyweight champion of South America, by knocking out Jim Tracey, of Australia, in the fourth round of what was to have been a 15-round bout, said today that he desired to return to the United States, but that he might take on several other heavyweights in Buenos Aires before making the voyage north.

Firpo's work in the ring yesterday came as a surprise to the sporting writers and the public. Writers in their article of today, dilate on the improvement the boxer showed, as compared to his skill prior to his visit to the United States.

ALLIED DEMANDS TO BE LAID BEFORE THE ASSEMBLY IN ANGORA

Mudania, Oct. 9 (by the Associated Press).—Ismet Pasha will lay the allied demands before the Angora assembly, and in the meantime the conference stands adjourned.

Lieutenant General Harrington and Generals Charpy and Mombelli have returned to Constantinople to await the reply of the Angora government.

The conference met at 3 o'clock this afternoon and the allies presented their three demands—with the neutral zones, limitation of the Turkish gendarmerie in Thrace and non-occupation of Thrace by the Turks until after the signature of the peace treaty. There was a long discussion of the question of evacuation and the various phases of the Thracian problem.

When it became evident that Ismet Pasha did not have the necessary power to decide definitely on these demands, the allied representatives made preparations for their departure.

CITY ENJOINED FROM REMOVING "U" WATER PIPE

Temporary Injunction to Be in Force Until October 19 When Hearing Will Be Held by Court.

Officials of the City of Albuquerque were temporarily enjoined from further attempts to remove the water main which connects the university with the reservoir by an order issued by the district court yesterday. The temporary injunction was issued upon application of the university regents, who alleged that the city officials were contemplating digging up the water main and that a gang of workmen are at work and have already exposed the pipe.

The complaint alleges that the entire fire prevention and fighting plans of the university are centered around a hydrant which it is believed the city intends to remove, so leaving the university without means of securing ample water in case of fire.

It is ordered in the temporary injunction that the hydrant be left in its place and that the pipe remain in the ground connected and in condition to furnish water to the university. The hearing on the injunction is set for October 19 at 9 o'clock in the morning.

It alleged in the complaint that the work was started in the absence of President David S. Hill and other executive officials of the institution.

Commenting upon the situation, City Manager Bert Calkins stated last night that the city had no intention of cutting off the university water supply and that it had been the purpose of the city officials to get ready to remove the old main and to connect the university with the new 10-inch main which is now being laid. According to Mr. Calkins, the workmen were only uncovering the pipe in order to be able to make a quick change when the time came.

The new arrangement will give the university much better water service," the city manager stated. "And when the plans are entirely worked out, there will be sufficient pressure under the new system to force water much higher than the highest building at the university, which is not now the case as there is only a small difference between the altitude of the present reservoir where the pipe is connected and the university grounds."

Mr. Ege has been managing editor of the Gazette for the last six years and for twelve years previous was business manager. Mr. Dodge has been publisher of the paper since 1904. One trial will prove it has more than the ordinary leavening strength—prove that it effects a big saving in cost, time and materials. It is always uniform—the last spoonful is as good as the first. The sale of Calumet is over 150% greater than that of any other baking powder in America—further proof of its superior merit.

ARGENTINE FIGHTER DESIRES TO RETURN TO UNITED STATES

Buenos Aires, Oct. 9 (by the Associated Press).—Louis Angel Firpo, the big Argentine fighter, who on Sunday afternoon retained his title of heavyweight champion of South America, by knocking out Jim Tracey, of Australia, in the fourth round of what was to have been a 15-round bout, said today that he desired to return to the United States, but that he might take on several other heavyweights in Buenos Aires before making the voyage north.

Firpo's work in the ring yesterday came as a surprise to the sporting writers and the public. Writers in their article of today, dilate on the improvement the boxer showed, as compared to his skill prior to his visit to the United States.

FARMINGTON BECOMES A TENT CITY SINCE RECENT BOOM IN OIL

Farmington is undergoing an oil boom, according to information reaching the office of the U. S. Indian Irrigation service here. Since the report spread over the valley that the Midwest company had struck oil at the Hogback the boom has started.

Real estate is changing hands rapidly, especially in Farmington, and some options and oil leases are being signed in the valley, it is reported. Residents of Farmington are sure that the boom has started and predict that the town will be a tent city within the next few weeks.

Big tanks are being shipped in as well as casings and casing caps such as are used for drilling under pressure. The report that oil had been struck was unverified in the information received here, but recent land deals give good indication that such is the case.

MARGARET MARRON IS LOST IN MOUNTAINS FOR SEVERAL HOURS

Getting separated from her picnic party and wandering alone in the mountains for six hours was the unpleasant experience of Margaret Marron, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Marron, on Sunday afternoon. The little girl, left alone by a party of hikers, decided to return to the picnic camp in Tejano canyon and lost her way. She was found about 8:30 o'clock in the evening by three campers who took her back to the Marron camp. Members of the picnic party organized a searching party and several men became lost in the darkness themselves. The child was uninjured.

LIBEL SUIT MAY GO TO THE JURY AT NOON TODAY

Legal Battle Over Admission of Evidence Features the Trial; Case Will Be Resumed at 9 o'clock.

Offering of testimony by both the plaintiff and the defendant was completed yesterday afternoon in the $50,000 libel suit which is being tried in the district court in which A. B. McMillen is plaintiff and Carl C. Magee, former editor of the Albuquerque Morning Journal, and The Journal Publishing company are defendants.

The case opened yesterday morning with Carl C. Magee on the witness stand and his attorneys attempting to introduce evidence through him tending to show mitigating circumstances in connection with the alleged libelous editorials, which are the basis of the suit, or to show his lack of malice in publishing them.

Argument on the question of the admissibility of this type of evidence consumed practically all morning and on account of its nature was continued in the judge's chambers, it being the type of argument which should not be heard by the jury.

It was the same type of legal battle which was waged on the same points of law Saturday when it was pointed out by attorneys for the plaintiff that in the present condition of the pleadings, upon which the trial is being based, the defendant is precluded from giving evidence tending to prove the truth of the assertions of lack of malice.

Arguing on this point, Francis E. Wood, attorney for the plaintiff, pointed out to the court in contending that this type of testimony should be excluded, that Mr. Magee had neither pleaded the truth of the alleged libelous statements nor facts in mitigation as his defenses in the case—and that for this reason he was not legally able to give evidence at this time in the case tending to prove these points.

"He did not plead the truth of the statements because he could not have proved such a plea and as a result, did not dare to plead such facts," Mr. Wood declared, in explaining his plea to the court as to why the defendant, Carl Magee, and not I, gave such a plea.

The rulings of the court were along the same lines as Saturday and precluded the defendant from actually offering evidence along this line.

Following the completion of the taking of evidence, the remainder of the afternoon was consumed by the court and the attorneys in preparing the instructions for the jury. The jury was excused at 4 o'clock and the case will be resumed this morning at 9 o'clock, at which time the jury will be instructed upon the legal phases of the case and will listen to the arguments of the attorneys. It is expected that the arguments will consume between three and four hours and that the case will go to the jury at about the noon hour.

44 PERSONS KNOWN TO HAVE PERISHED IN CANADIAN FIRES

Cobalt, Ont., Oct. 9.—The death toll in the forest fires which destroyed six mining towns in this district last week, reached 44 with the finding today of two unidentified bodies in Hilliard township, near Charlton. Officials expressed belief this total might be increased.

Dr. F. W. Routley, director of the Canadian Red Cross, said that 23 bodies have been found in New Liskeard and Charlton. The property loss is placed at $8,000,000 or more. It is now estimated that 1,000 homes were destroyed and 5,000 persons made homeless.

AIR ADVERTISING IS BEGUN IN PARIS BY UNITED STATES FIRM

Paris, Oct. 9.—"Writing in the sky" was put on a commercial basis today with the commencement of a campaign of air advertising by an American firm whose airplanes, equipped with smoke ejecting attachments, wrote advertisements for starting Parisians. The new system will be limited here, however, for airplanes are forbidden to fly low over Paris. There also are certain restrictions on newspaper publicity for such flights, which is thought to be essential to the success of the project.

DECISION TO SHEVLIN.—Boston, Oct. 9.—Eddie Shevlin, of Roxbury, tonight, was awarded the decision over Dave Shadle, of Portland, Oregon, after a fast ten-round bout here. Shevlin had the better of six rounds, three went to Shadle, while one was even. The men are welterweights.

SON-IN-LAW OF SCHUMANN-HEINK DIED ON SUNDAY

J. Hubert Guy Had Been in Albuquerque for About a Year; Body Is Taken to Denver for Burial.

J. Hubert Guy, son-in-law of Mme. Schumann-Heink, died here Sunday after an illness of four years. He was a native of Baltimore, Md., but had been in business in San Diego, Calif., before coming to Albuquerque. Mrs. Guy and their two children, Charlotte and Robert, Jr., were at his bedside.

Mr. Guy graduated from the University of Virginia, after which the west beckoned to him and he located in San Diego, where he met and married Marie Schumann-Heink, daughter of the famous opera singer.

He owned a large tire accessory shop in San Diego, and also became interested in raising purebred chickens. He came to Albuquerque about a year ago.

The body was taken to Denver yesterday morning, accompanied by the widow and her companion, Miss Bolton. It is understood that Mrs. Guy intends returning to Albuquerque to make her home, at least for the present.

MOTHER CONVICTED OF VIOLATING DRY LAW IS PAROLED BY HARDING

Muskegon, Mich., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Anna Hoxer was at home with her 11 children tonight, after serving three months of a half-year term for violating the liquor law. She was pardoned by President Harding.

Mrs. Hoxer's plea in the name of her 13-month old baby, who went to jail with her, and of the one expected soon, and which, had she not been released, would have been born behind bars, won the interest of the president.

Notice of the commutation of the sentence was received in a telegraphic order from Attorney General Daugherty.

Hunt's California Canned Fruit

A complete line of Hunt's Brand of California Canned Fruit is now available in this market. There is nothing packed in the can that is of better quality than this famous brand. Being an independent packer, the trade is assured of purchasing these goods from their grocymen at the right price.

Hunt's Hesperian Brand is the good old fashioned standard, within the reach of nearly everybody's pocketbook, and is what is termed a "Standard", and while the syrup is not as heavy nor the fruit as large as the higher grades, it is a good eatable fruit. Should you feel that the "Standard" is not quite good enough, their next brand above is the Staple Brand. This is an extra choice. Hunt's Staple Brand is equal to, if not better, than any of the well-known brands of canned fruits on the market. The syrup being heavier than the standard and the fruit larger. This brand would certainly suit the most fastidious. In addition to these two brands, Hunt's put up what is called a Supreme Brand. This brand is considered the last word in canned goods and is of exquisite quality. One is impressed on opening a can of the Supreme Brand, not only by the looks of the fruit, but by the exquisite flavor of the heavy syrup. Not many stores carry this brand, but it may be had if one desires it. In addition to the three brands mentioned, Hunt's also put up what is termed in canned goods language, a Second. The Cascade Brand which is quite popular, where one will look to price. The consuming public of Albuquerque in these four brands can find something to suit their individual pocketbooks and certainly will be pleased. Ask your grocymen when purchasing canned fruit for one of the following brands:

HUNT'S SUPREME BRAND EXTRAS.

HUNT'S STAPLE BRAND EXTRA CHOICE.

HUNT'S HESPERIAN BRAND STANDARD.

HUNT'S CASCADE BRAND SECOND.
