U. S. INVITED BY THE POWERS TO PARTICIPATE IN PARLEY ABROAD

Government Is Asked to Take Part in Negotiations to Establish Peace Between Turks and Allies.

DIPLOMATS' CALL IS FORMAL, VERY BRIEF

Representative in the Country Where the Conference
Is to Be Held May Be Chosen to Act.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Another request that the United States actively participate with the allied governments in the settlement of European difficulties, this time involving the establishment of peace between Turkey and the allies, and the status of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus straits, was received here today by the Washington government.

Its formal presentation by Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, Count de Chambrun, acting for France in the absence of Ambassador Jusserand, and Charge Rossi, who appeared for the United States, was followed by an authoritative statement from the state department that this government yesterday had instructed its ambassadors in London, Paris and Rome, to inform those governments that it could not officially participate in the Near East conference at Lausanne, Switzerland.

At the same time it was pointed out that there were important interests in the Near East in which this government was interested and treatment of these by Lausanne conference would be observed by American representatives. Regarding the decision not to be represented through delegates, it was said the United States had never been at war with Turkey and therefore did not believe it could appropriately take part in framing a treaty of peace with that nation in association with the allied conferees.

Call of the British, French and Italian diplomats at the state department was made with every formality and was brief, lasting precisely three minutes.

FORMER KAISER ASKS THAT NO PRESENTS BE GIVEN WHEN HE WEDS

Potsdam, Germany, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—Former Emperor William has especially requested that no presents be given on the occasion of his marriage to Princess Hermine of Reuss. The times are too earnest now for that, the fallen German monarch was quoted as saying.

About 20 guests will attend, the being limited almost entirely to the immediate family circle. It is uncertain whether the former crown prince will be there but the ex-kaisers other sons are expected to attend, as will the Kaiser's sisters, former Princesses Victoria and Margaret. The family of Princess Hermine will be represented by two members each from the houses of Reuss and Carolath. Count von Bentinck will be the best man at the civil ceremony, which will be performed by Baron Schimmel-Pennink, the burgomaster of Doorn.

PRINCE IS ARRESTED CHARGED WITH HAVING DISOBEYED ORDERS

Athens, Oct. 28.—Prince Andrew, brother of former King Constantine, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of having disobeyed orders of the general staff in the Greek campaign in Asia Minor was confined today to the apartment mansion of Prince George, another brother, and later taken to another Athenian mansion.

An official decree fixing a special court martial for all those arrested in connection with the Asia Minor campaign provides for a president, ten judges and a revolutionary commissar.

WILL PROBABLY BE CONTROLLED BY BOSSSES, HE SAYS

Republican Candidate for Governor Makes Strong
Replies to Two of the Charges Made by Foes.

Special to The Journal.
Morristown, N. M., Oct. 28.—Before an audience composed largely of democrats, C. L. Hill, republican candidate for governor, made strong replies to two of the charges being made by his opponent, Mr. Hinkle, in regard to the charge that he would be controlled by the republican bosses. Mr. Hill said coming from Mr. Hinkle this charge has a strange and unpleasant sound. "The principal complaint that Hinkle is registering all over the state is in regard to our high salaried officials," Mr. Hill said, "but he hasn't told you, has he, that the salary bill would have been passed if he himself had not at the suggestion of the republicans voted with them to pass the bill over Governor McDonald's veto. In other words, Mr. Hinkle's vote on a proposition which he is opposed to was dictated to him by an outside influence and if this isn't an actual example of yielding to bossism I do not know the meaning of the word. Of course, I am not discussing the merit of the salary bill. Mr. Hinkle voted for it and now says he is against it. What I am driving at is this: Mr. Hinkle has a political record which shows that he has in times past yielded to outside influences. I have no political record and consequently all the charges against me can be based on an inflated imagination. Personally I want to assure you all that I do not know the republican bosses. I don't want to know them and after I am your governor I am going to be ruled by the dictates of my own conscience, guided by carefully acquired information in regard to conditions in the state.

Referring to the democratic charges of waste and extravagance Mr. Hill said: "The best answer that I can make to these charges is to tell you that regardless of the continued repetition that has been given them, these charges are not believed by the people of New Mexico and here is the proof that these charges are not believed. The republican party has a normal majority in New Mexico and not in a good many years has this party been as solidly united and as harmonious as it is today. Would this condition of harmony and co-operation in the republican party exist if the people believed that our state administration is honeycombed with corruption and graft?"

Mr. Hill said: "I would like to know if, but that they are not true, is going to be proved on November 7 when the people of New Mexico register a real vote of confidence in the republican party."

The Hill-for-governor party held two meetings yesterday, one at Stanley in the afternoon and the other at the Elks club in the morning. In addition to Mr. Hill, Hugh Williams and ex-Lieutenant Governor Benjamin F. Pankey spoke on the campaign issues at both places.

TREATISE OF AN AMERICAN MAY ASSIST GREECE

Agronomist, Prior to His Death, Told the Inhabitants How They Could Increase Output of Food.

Urbana, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—The destiny of Greece, obliged by the evacuation of Mudania to evacuate Thrace, and her ability to recover from military reverses and to support her population to advantage within the confines of the territory remaining to her, may depend in some measure upon her use of suggestions offered by an Illinoisan. He was Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins, professor of agronomy at the University of Illinois, who died last night of pneumonia, and who was director of the University of Illinois Agricultural Station, and major and deputy commissioner of the American Red Cross commission to Greece.

Dr. Hopkins died at Chelari in 1915, while on his way home from Greece, but he left a treatise telling "How Greece Can Produce More Food," a translation of which has been brought out by the University of Illinois.

"Greece can easily double her production of food grains," he wrote in this treatise, "if the facts established (by experiments on Greek soil) about the use of limestone, phosphorus and potash are put into practice on the farms with as much intelligence as is commonly used by Greek farmers in dealing with other farm affairs."

"Every citizen of Greece should recognize that the primary basis of general prosperity is the soil, from which are produced, directly or indirectly, the principal supplies of food, clothing, and fuel required by most of the people. The great agricultural problem of Greece is to enrich the soil."

"The replenishment or enrichment of the soil is by far the most neglected factor in the agricultural practice of the country. In general, the Greek farmer, with his common plow and hoe, does a good job in the plowing and preparation of his fields. Expensive modern implements would be a human labor, but they would not make the soil produce much larger crops, and of course their use is impossible on much of the land now used for food grains."

NO SESSION OF BURCH TRIAL.

PANTER-SINGER TO WED WOMAN FOR THIRD TIME

Jerome Uhl Starts for Rome to Marry. His Twice-Shattered Romance Having Been Patched Up.

New York, Oct. 28.—Jerome Uhl, painter and opera singer, started for Rome on the Majestic today to wed for the third time the woman who first became his bride in 1903. His twice shattered romance having been patched up a few weeks ago at Greenwich, Conn., when the former Mrs. Uhl heard him sing in a hall, then a painter, married Miss Elizabeth Norris, daughter of Henry Lattimore Norris of Philadelphia, in 1903. She divorced him in 1914, alleging infidelity, and in 1919, however, she divorced him again, alleging that the addition of singing to his accomplishments made him pay less attention to her than ever. Besides getting married again Uhl said he intended to sing in Rome and Milan. He said he would be the first American singer to appear in Wagnerian roles in Italy, singing in Milan.

PRACTICABILITY OF HARNESSING POWER OF VOLCANO PROBED

Honolulu, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—Delegates to the Pan-Pacific commercial congress discussed fish today. The discussion ranged from the destruction of fish by man to the consumption of fish by man. Dr. C. McLean Fraser, professor of zoology at the University of British Columbia, said that man has been so intent on catching salmon, halibut and other species of fish that he has made such good eating. Salmon, particularly, have suffered and in many localities have been virtually wiped out. Turning from fish to volcanoes the delegates to the congress planned to leave today for Hilo, Island of Hawaii, to investigate the practicability of harnessing the power of the volcano Kilauea, thirty miles from that city.

PRODUCTION OF COAL INCREASED LAST WEEK

Washington, Oct. 28.—Expansion in coal production during the current week, the geological survey reported tonight, brought the rate of output to a point "approaching adequacy," but still failed to supply the needs of the country for coal. Preliminary railroad loading figures indicate a total output of 12,500,000 tons, of which 2,000,000 tons was anthracite and the balance bituminous. This total is greater than production in any week since the settlement of the national strike last summer.

Further reflected, the report said, improvement in the transportation situation.

ST. MARY'S DEFEATS NEW MEXICO AGGIES

San Francisco, Oct. 28.—St. Mary's College defeated the New Mexico State College football team here today, 19 to 6. Through the game St. Mary's held New Mexico at its mercy. The New Mexicans were able to score one touchdown by a finely executed forward pass from St. Mary's 40-yard line in the fourth period. St. Mary's used second string men most of the game.

BATTLESHIPS OF AMERICA AIDED SMYRNA VICTIMS

Helpful Part They Played
Has Been Favorably Commented Upon by the Greek Newspapers.

Athens, Greece, Oct. 28.—The helpful part played by American warships in succoring the victims of the burning of Smyrna by the Turks, has been favorably commented upon by Greek newspapers. The following extracts taken from papers published in Athens.

From the Daily Skrip: "While the fleets of powerful Europe stood idly before the butchery of Christians, America did all she could to save whatever was to be saved from destruction. Her ships did the strongest and the greatest American people manifest itself in a more benevolent way."

From the Kathimerini: "As soon as they landed in Piraeus, the poor Smyrna refugees knelt down and said 'God bless America and her citizens.' Along with these refugees the whole of Greece is grateful to America. During the terrible tragedy of Asia Minor, the only saviors of the innocent were the Americans."

From the Nea Himeria: "The Ionian refugees are full of emotion when they speak of the heroism of the American sailors. While the sailors of European warships stood idly by watching a spectacle taken from Dante's Inferno, the American sailors showed all the nobility of their nature and all that is best in human character. They did what they could, these Americans. Revolvers in hand, they made the superhuman efforts to snatch from the Turkish hands their helpless prey. They chiefly protected the women and children."

Country's Growing Prosperity Shown by Freight Yard Jams

Congestion of traffic in Chicago Rock Island freight yards.

Railroads are the arteries of the country and the first of all commercial enterprises to reflect depression or prosperity. Railroad freight traffic all over the country now is heavier than it has been at any time since the war ended. Railroads now are securing the country for workers to help handle the deluge of traffic. This scene was snapped on a dull day.

OVERTHROW OF PROHIBITION IN U. S. IS PLANNED

French Wine Interests
Pledge a Large Fund to Fight Dry Laws in America and Other Countries.

Paris, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—A large fund reaching many millions of francs has been pledged by the wine interests of Europe to "make a mercurial" campaign against prohibition in the United States and other countries. This fight will be waged through the newly organized International League Against Prohibition, with headquarters here.

The American campaign will be carried on in co-operation with the liquor forces of the United States, it was learned today. Organizers of the league say they have little to fear from the prohibition forces in Europe. Their chief concern is to give every possible assistance to American prohibitionists. "We will probably be politely but firmly ejected if we did, and rightly so. However, we believe our cause is just as legitimate as that of the American supporters of prohibition who have taken the liberty of sending their apostles to Europe. We believe that we have at least the right to offer our whole-hearted support to American wets, if they will accept. They will probably be backed financially and with a hundred million advocates back of it."

"We believe Americans are much impressed by scientific facts and investigations by unbiased professional men. Tests of the effect of the moderate use of wines and beers on the average human being are now being conducted by well known scientists and doctors. They will be completed in several months and will be passed on to America without comment."

"Further details of the American campaign naturally await the attitude of the American wets to ward our offer of co-operation."

Count Bertrand Demun, president of the new anti-prohibitionist international organization, is a former deputy and president of the largest champagne companies in France. He was formerly an extensive exporter to the United States.

SIX DROP KICKS ARE MADE BY COVINGTON

Danville, Ky., Oct. 28.—Herbert Covington, quarterback of the Centre College football team, in a game here today with the University of Louisville, made six drop kicks, one in the first period, three in the second and two in the third period. Figures on four of the kicks showed one from the 40-yard line, two from the 30-yard line and one from the 22-yard line.

Officials who presided at the game said the feat constituted a world's record and that five was the best previous performance in a single game.

WRESTLING BOUT A DRAW.

Sacramento, Calif., Oct. 28.—Renato Gardini of Italy and Jimmy London of Greece, heavyweights, wrestled two hours to a draw here last night. Gardini gained the first fall with a head chancery, following a series of punishing headlocks, in 1:07. London took the next fall with a front arm break, following a standing double wrist lock in 34 minutes.

HAWKEYE STEAM ROLLER CRUSHES PURDUE U., 56-0

Iowa Football Team Shows
12,000 Fans That It Is Still in the Running for the Championship.

Iowa City, Iowa, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—The University of Iowa displayed a flag attack, shared 12,000 football fans here this afternoon that it is still very much in the running for the western championship when it steamrolled over Purdue University, 56 to 0.

The Iowa offensive, swinging into action in the opening quarter, scored the first touchdown in the game at the beginning of the second half for the benefit of the Boilermakers as many first downs when Kadecky dashed in and intercepted their fourth aerial attempt and raced 26 yards for a touchdown. After that Iowa continued to score at will. Due to the intense heat both sides substituted. Leland Parkin, the Iowa who scored against Yale, was sent into the game at the beginning of the second half for the benefit of his parents from Waterloo who had come to the game to see him play. After he had made a touchdown following several brilliant passes, he was taken out of the game by a great game while he was at quarterback.

53,000 PERSONS SEE DARTMOUTH DEFEATED, 12-3

Harvard Sends the Visitors
Back to the Hills Beaten
After the First Contest in Ten Years.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—The team that Dartmouth brought to the Stadium to meet Harvard today after an absence of ten years, goes back to the hills defeated, 12 to 3, with 53,000 spectators witnessing an unrelenting fight and rushing power that flashed into its greatest strength too late.

A touchdown by Percy Jenkins, substitute end, made when he intercepted an awkwardly thrown pass from Harris to Mill and ran 55 yards to the goal, was half the Crimson scoring. A drop kick by Captain Buell in the second period, placed 15 yards, and a goal from placement kick by Owen made in the third period on the 32-yard line were the other scoring factors. They succeeded where other Crimson kicking attempts for goal failed.

Dartmouth in defeat lost nothing of promise for its later games. Its attack was not so strong as the Crimson's, but its defense was good enough to hold Harvard for downs twice, once on the two-yard line in the third period.

CANADIAN FARMER IS DEAD AT AGE OF 117

Saskatoon, Sask., Oct. 28.—News reached here today of the death of Henry Lorenz, a farmer in Pleasantdale, at the age of 117. According to family records he was born in Austria, May 9, 1805. Up to a year ago he was a heavy smoker but the increased cost of tobacco caused him to stop, he said. He did the chores on his farm until a few days before his death.

WHERE WILL THE DEMOCRATS CUT STATE'S TAXES?

Mrs. Warren Says They Should Be More Explicit:
Wagon Mound Turns Out
to Hear G. O. P. Speakers

Wagon Mound, N. M., Oct. 28.—"Require the democrats who are seeking your votes on the plea that they will reduce taxes to say exactly where they will cut and to make more definite statements about their program of service," was the warning given by Mrs. Adelina Otero-Warren, republican nominee for representative in congress to one of the largest and most attractive audiences that Wagon Mound has ever turned out last night.

Speaking first in English and then in Spanish, Mrs. Warren made a concise presentation of her views on the issues of the day. Discussing democratic statements that taxes are unreasonably high and their claims to be able to make reductions, Mrs. Warren explained that a large part of the increase has been due to growth and development. Describing the remarkable improvement in school buildings, she asked: "Do you want your schools reduced? Do you want to go back to the school conditions of 1910? It may be necessary to do this if you accept glimmering democratic promises at their face value and elect a democratic ticket."

"Before you re-elect a democratic senator on the ground that his seniority is a paramount issue, secure information as to what he has done to serve the people. It is service and service only that counts."

"Turning to the national question, Mrs. Warren described the protective tariff law as a measure which provides employment at a decent living wage for American workers, keeps the wheels of industry humming and keeps our dollar circulating freely here at home."

Judge S. B. Davis, Jr. nominee for United States senator spoke even more briefly than his customer. Dartmouth brought to the Stadium to meet Harvard today after an absence of ten years, goes back to the hills defeated, 12 to 3, with 53,000 spectators witnessing an unrelenting fight and rushing power that flashed into its greatest strength too late.

A touchdown by Percy Jenkins, substitute end, made when he intercepted an awkwardly thrown pass from Harris to Mill and ran 55 yards to the goal, was half the Crimson scoring. A drop kick by Captain Buell in the second period, placed 15 yards, and a goal from placement kick by Owen made in the third period on the 32-yard line were the other scoring factors. They succeeded where other Crimson kicking attempts for goal failed.

Dartmouth in defeat lost nothing of promise for its later games. Its attack was not so strong as the Crimson's, but its defense was good enough to hold Harvard for downs twice, once on the two-yard line in the third period.

9 MILLIONS TO BE EXPENDED ON EX-SERVICE MEN

Red Cross Program for Soldier Relief During Fiscal Year Is Announced by the National Body.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Approximately $9,000,000 will be expended by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending next June, for the relief of former service men disabled during the world war. Since the care of former soldiers and their dependents has the first call upon Red Cross services, the national body will spend $3,000,000 for such relief, and with every chapter practically adding to the relief, the total will reach the estimated figure. These funds will be used for services the Federal government is unable to furnish, and for which it has neither funds nor facilities.

An intricate problem. Care of the ex-service men and their families is regarded as a primary Red Cross responsibility, and that it should be neither indiscriminate nor rigidly requires patient study of an intricate problem and continual adjustments to situations as they exist and develop.

"The function of the Red Cross," said John Barton Payne, national chairman, in this year's annual report, "is not to usurp the government's responsibilities, but to supplement official activity, harmoniously co-operate with official plans and methods; and seek out the individual in the standardized mass and the Red Cross acquires to the men and their families; acquaints the U. S. Veterans' Bureau with the personal equation in individual cases; prepares and furnishes comforts, recreation and the many necessary services which the government, by its very nature, can procure only from voluntary assistance. These obligations and privileges fall primarily to the Red Cross chapters, whose volunteer members, day in and day out, are the official situation through liaison Red Cross officers attached to the District offices of the Veterans' Bureau."

On Armistice Day, November 11, when the American Red Cross opens its annual Roll Call for membership, there will be under treatment in government hospitals more than 25,000 veterans. In the opinion of the surgeon general of the army the peak of disabled men under reconstruction will not be reached until 1925.

Active in Relief Work. During the fiscal year chapters in all sections of the country were recorded active in the soldier relief work. During that year they reported 1,665,079 direct and indirect instances of services to such men and their dependents, at a cost estimated at more than $5,240,000. More than 1,000 persons, paid and volunteer, were engaged in Red Cross work in government hospitals and the Veterans' Bureau district offices. More than 27,000 compensation and insurance claims were handled, 24,560 allowance and allotment cases, and 3,700 miscellaneous claims. In 1919, when this service was established, it has disposed of 44,174 allotment checks payable to veterans which the post office reported undeliverable.

The basis of this stupendous work, the Red Cross is concentrated upon it to the end that the disabled service man may obtain all his rights under the law, and that his family may be rendered free from care and worry.

YALE FRESHMAN DIES

New Haven, Oct. 28.—Talbot Bates Chittenden, a Yale freshman, who came from Burlington, Iowa, died in the hospital late today after being injured by a fall down stairs after attendance at the University dance on the commons last night.

EYE WITNESS OF DOUBLE SLAYING IS THREATENED

Mrs. Gibson, Who Claims to Have Seen the Hall-
Mills Murder, Receives
Threatening Letters.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 28.—For several hours today the new death of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and the choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, stepped off the stage on which the drama is being played.

Dr. James Gibson, a farmer, an, and a raiser of pigs, who told of having seen the murder of the rector and the sexton's wife, disappeared from her barricaded home today. Then as mysteriously as she had left she reappeared but offered no explanation of where she had been.

Guards who had been thrown about the Gibson home were taken off. Dogs which prevented intrusion were tied. William Gibson, the son of the farmer woman, showed reporters through the house, but would not say where his mother had gone.

On her return it became known that the woman, in whose story Special Deputy Attorney General Mott is still inclined to place a degree of credence, has received threatening letters since telling of the scene she claims to have witnessed in DeLansy's lane, on September 14.

"Be careful; remember there is still one bullet left," was one sentence of the letters, Mrs. Gibson said.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH SHOOTING COUPLE IS CALM AFTER COLLAPSE

Mrs. Rosier Suffers No Distress From Valvular Heart Trouble With Which
She Is Afflicted.

BABY IS BANISHED BY COURT'S ORDER

Child's Noisy Laughter, Alternated With Ear-Piercing Yells, Compels Presiding Judge to Act.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—Examination of additional defense witnesses in the trial of Mrs. Catherine Rosier, charged with the slaying of Oscar Rosier, her husband, and his stenographer, Miss Mildred Geraldine Reckitt, will occupy all day Monday and part of Tuesday, the defense counsel announced today. A verdict in the present trial, which is on the indictment for murder of the girl, is therefore not expected before Wednesday.

The court had to banish the Rosier baby, Richard, today because of the child's noisy laughter, alternated with ear piercing yells, Richard, who had figured prominently in the trial, furnished another feature of the day. This was when Mrs. Ralph Chapelle, the defendant's aunt, who had been appointed Richard's custodian by the court, was called to the stand. She moved the platform with the child in her arms and Assistant District Attorney Snider immediately protested against such a course, maintaining vigorously that it was an attempt to influence the minds of the jury. Judge Barrator ordered the child transferred to other arms.

Despite her collapse yesterday, Mrs. Rosier entered the court early, apparently suffering no distress from the valvular heart trouble with which physicians announced she was afflicted. She is expected to take the stand in her own defense Monday.

PRINCESS WON'T STAY AT DOORN BUT A PART OF EACH YEAR, SAYS

London, Oct. 28.—Princess Hermine of Reuss, who is soon to become the bride of the former German emperor, seems to feel that while his secluded home at Doorn is a nice retreat and all that, she would not want to live there every day in the year. She is reported to have told William that she will be unable to stay at Doorn for more than four or five months each year.

The former Kaiser is worrying a good deal over complying with her wishes for certain alterations in his home, according to dispatches from the Daily News. Recently the princess gave him some rather comprehensive indications of her views as to how the place should be changed. Accordingly William is doing his utmost to make the residence as agreeable for her as possible.

The Daily News correspondent says the wish of the former Kaiser to have the bells of the neighboring countryside rung on his wedding day is not likely to be gratified.

DENVER U. DEFEATS U. OF C., 16 TO 0, IN A HARD-FOUGHT GAME

Denver, Oct. 28.—Using a short pass effectively and plugging through the Silver and Gold with headlong cut back, Denver University defeated the University of Colorado, 16 to 0, here this afternoon. The game was bitterly contested from the start, although Denver kept the pigskin in Colorado territory during the majority of the contest.

The first half was a punting duel, in which Helmer had a slight advantage over O'Donnell of Denver. After being turned back from a score on Colorado's one-yard line, Denver rallied, brought the ball to the 35-yard line and O'Donnell dropped a kick squarely between the goal posts.

In the second half McCauley carried the ball over for the first touchdown of the game. In the last few minutes of play Gibson intercepted a forward pass and raced 50 yards down the side line through the Colorado team for the final tally.

'BUYS' SPACE FOR A STAND ON A STREET CORNER IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 28.—Harry Friedman took his place today in the hall of fame beside the man who bought Brooklyn bridge from a stranger, and he who purchased the right to collect nickels at a subway station.

Abraham Seidman had sold him space for a stand on an East Side street corner for $1,553.33. He didn't learn until he tried to operate there that Seidman didn't own the corner. Seidman was arrested.

AVERAGE MAN'S GIRTH IS GAINING BUREAU REPORTS

Is Attributed to the Greater Amount of Food and Candy He Consumes in the Absence of Liquors.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The girth of the average American man is gaining due to the greater amount of food and candy he consumes in the absence of alcoholic beverages, according to conclusions drawn from a survey of health in the United States, made public today by the National Life Insurance company.

"Men who used to treat guests, friends and customers at bars, now entertain them at meals, buying food, pastries and sweets and other items that produce obesity," said a statement. "The result is that while prohibition has been beneficial in thrift, home-building and peacefulness, it materially has helped fat to become an enemy to human longevity."

"Because the heart is directly affected by fat, the survey shows an increasing mortality from disease of this organ. Except in the rarest instances, persons who live to ripe old age are thin. Fat usually taken as proof of good health is in reality a sign of short life."

"Exercise too often is taken too violently, or merely results in increased appetites and enlarged consumption of food, of setting the good results of athletics. Exercise to hold down obesity should be regular, not too strenuous and methodically pursued."

"The one way of stopping an increase in weight is to eat smaller amounts of food. 'Always leave the table hungry' is a good motto."

COLD CAUSE OF MANY DEATHS IN REFUGEE CAMPS

Thousands of People in Thrace Face Starvation and Disease; the Babies Are the Worst Sufferers.

Dedeagatch, Thrace, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—Exhausted by their slow and weary flight toward Macedonia, vast swarms of refugees who crowd the country roads now face starvation and disease. Thousands will perish in the next few weeks, it seems certain, in spite of all the relief workers can do.

Scurvy fever broke out today and cholera and typhoid threaten because of the utter lack of sanitation. The babies are the worst sufferers and the most pathetic. There is no milk. Many infants have been brought into the world without medical attention in the camps pitched along the roadsides. At Drama, at Kavala the roads are choked with weary refugees who face starvation, because they have no milk to grind their wheat.

Outside of Dedeagatch, 20,000 refugees are encamped in tents provided by the Greek army. Fifty thousand persons have been traveling afoot for ten days. Most of them have no food. The cold has caused many deaths.

SAYS WESTWARD TOURIST TRAVEL WILL BE HEAVY

Southern Pacific Official, Now in the East, Predicts Greatest Fall and Winter Volume in Years.

Special to The Journal.
San Francisco, Oct. 28.—Tourist travel to the Pacific coast this fall and winter will be the greatest in years, according to word received from Chas. S. Fee, passenger traffic manager for the Southern Pacific company, who is now on an extended trip throughout the east receiving first hand information on traffic conditions.

Mr. Fee's forecast is supported by reports received from Southern Pacific general agents throughout the United States and abroad all point to an unprecedented travel to the Pacific coast this winter.

"The Pacific coast states will entertain hundreds of thousands of tourists this fall and winter," said Fee. "Reports from our traffic representatives throughout the United States and Europe indicate a record tourist travel to the Pacific coast during the latter part of 1922 and the spring of 1923."

"Greatly improved business conditions all over the country, bumper crops in the middle west and Canada; and reduced fall and winter tourist fares to the Pacific coast are some of the important factors that have induced travelers to come to the Pacific coast for the winter."

The summer tourist season just over was one of the largest in years and reports from the Southern Pacific company show that during the 1922 summer tourist season 215,476 people came to the Pacific coast on summer tourist tickets over Southern Pacific lines alone. This number was an increase of 16,227 or 7.4 per cent over the 1921 summer tourist travel.

This increased number of summer tourists to the Pacific coast during the summer season of this year is in addition to the thousands of passengers who came on regular tickets.

Tourist travel from Canada to the Pacific coast is also expected to break all records, according to Fee, who is perhaps due to the reason that business conditions in Canada have undergone a big improvement. Canadian money has increased in value until it is now on a parity with United States money and the Canadian farmers are harvesting the greatest crop in years.

The Southern Pacific company is placing new locomotives and passenger equipment in service to take care of this augmented tourist travel to the Pacific coast states. Fifty giant new locomotives, recently manufactured for the Southern Pacific company in the east are now being placed in service over the Tehachapi and Elskiy mountains.

WOOD'S MESSAGE URGES ECONOMY IN PHILIPPINES

Absolute Retirement of the Government From Business Is Also Advocated; Investments Safe.

Manila, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—Governor General Wood in a message to the Philippine legislature yesterday urged the strictest governmental economy and the absolute retirement of the government from business. He declared that legitimate investments were safer in the Philippines than in many other countries.

The resolution also requested the United States government to fix a date for the summoning of a constitutional convention to frame a constitution upon which an independent Philippine republic would be founded.

The governor general congratulated the legislature on the enactment last session "of all important legislation necessary to place our finances on a sound basis."

He added that this legislation announced to the world the government's intention of maintaining a sound currency system and stabilizing Philippine credit both at home and abroad.

In reaffirming his opinion that the government should retire from business, Governor General Wood's message said:

"If experience in the world more clearly than another, it was that a government cannot successfully conduct business. The experience of the insular government confirmed this. Its efforts to engage in business, although entered into with a view of benefiting the people, a failing development, resulted in the loss of many millions of pesos."

Continuing, the message read: "Desires to Co-operate."

"It is my desire to co-operate"

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even brighter than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. government and 25 leading universities and found to be superior to 16 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, H. M. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—Adv.

with you to the best of my ability in obtaining substantial benefits for the people of the Philippines. While we may have honest differences of opinion, I am confident that inasmuch as we each have a common purpose, we shall be able to harmonize our views and combine our efforts for the people's good.

"In order to obtain the best results we should observe the distinctions between the legislative, judicial and executive branches of the government, and leave each free to discharge its proper functions given it under the organic act."

"If our commerce is to be built up and our development accelerated, the general policy of the government should be to encourage foreign and domestic capital in all legitimate business. As our own capital is limited and the demands upon it heavy, we should do what we can, properly, with due regard to the interests of the people, to make investments of foreign capital attractive."

"Conditions of legitimate investments here are safe, in fact safer than in many other older countries."

SHUN POLITICS BURSUM'S PLEA TO THE LEGION

Condemns Efforts to Capitalize Patriotism for Political Purposes in Soldier Bonus Matter.

United States Senator H. O. Bursum, in his address at the high school auditorium last night, condemned all efforts to capitalize the country's patriotism for political purposes, and recounted the achievements of the republican party during the Harding administration, chief among which he said were the passage of a fair tariff law, the extension of financial aid to the farmers and livestock men, restriction of immigration for the protection of American labor, provision of the best possible assistance for disabled ex-service men, reduction of annual governmental expenses by 14 billions of dollars between 1919 and 1922, creating of a commission for the apportionment of the waters of the Colorado river in the interests of reclamation and legislation for the protection of the agricultural and livestock producers from the manipulations of gamblers and speculators.

Non-Political Measure.
Senator Bursum said that the soldiers' bonus bill is a non-political measure and condemned Senator Jones and his friends for endeavoring to make political capital of the senator's vote for the measure.

"I, too, voted for the bonus measure both before and after the presidential vote," said Senator Bursum, "but I do not believe that anyone is justified in attempting to capitalize for political purposes what has done on a question of this kind. I would not do it, and I say shame on the man who would attempt to do so."

"Keep politics out of your organization," he said, speaking to the American legion men. The ex-service man is not an isolated element in our citizenship, but is first and foremost an American citizen. He must not judge of the general policies of our country from the standpoint of the whole citizenship.

Senator Bursum said the vote on the bonus question showed that the representatives of both parties in congress were divided in their opinion in this measure practically in proportion to their representation in the membership of the two houses.

Question of Seniority.
The question of seniority in the senate has had a too exaggerated importance placed upon it, the senator said. He declared that a member of the minority party, no matter how long his senate service, has little or no prestige or influence, particularly in committee reports. It is performance in that committee, he said, and for this reason the senator who is in accord with the administration is most valuable to his state.

Discusses the Tariff.
In discussing the tariff, Senator Bursum declared that Senator Jones, as a democrat, would have voted for the Underwood tariff bill, which gave no protection to wool, sheep, farm products, and beef and cattle. He declared that the new tariff law, which Mr. Jones declined to vote for, affords better protection to the wool growers of New Mexico than the emergency tariff or any other tariff the country has ever had, because it is the only one that permits only the importation of scoured wool. The present tariff of 31 cents for scoured wool is a greater means of protection, he said, than the old tariff of 15 cents on wool in the grease, and quoted figures to show the truth of his contention. In addition, the new tariff bill gives protection to the meat grower, through a duty of three cents on beef and two cents on live beef.

The tariff bill which Senator Jones disapproved met the approval of the Southern Tariff Association, Senator Bursum said, which is made up of republican and democratic producers and merchants of the southern states, and which thanked President Harding for signing the present tariff bill.

War Saved a Panic.
"Protection is a matter of principle," said Senator Bursum. "If it is good for New Mexico, it should be good for other states. He showed that under the Underwood tariff, the country was suffering from business depression, and only the European war saved the United States from a panic. "Yet," he said, "that is the measure that Senator Jones, as a democrat, would have supported. And it carried no protection on wool. Senator Jones now refuses to vote for a tariff bill because he says it does not afford sufficient protection for the wool grower, although his party is opposed to a protective tariff as a matter of principle. It appears to be an excuse—a subterfuge."

In his discussion of the Colorado river commission, Senator Bursum said that its purpose is to bring about an adjudication of the waters of the Colorado river among the claimant states, preliminary to extensive reclamation activities. If New Mexico is to become a great and prosperous state, he said, reclamation will bring about that happy result. He said that S. B. Davis, Jr., republican candidate for United States senator and a member of the Colorado river commission, is an authority on reclamation. In the United States senate, the speaker said, Mr. Davis can be of inestimable worth to New Mexico in bringing about the passage of the Smith-McNary reclamation bill, under which it is hoped to bring about the reclamation of hundreds of thousands of acres of land on the Rio Grande river between White Rock canyon and San Marcial. This is a project, he said, in which Albuquerque and the entire state are vitally interested. If New Mexico is interested in the development of the irrigable lands in the Rio Grande valley and in the San Juan basin, the best way to bring about it is to send Mr. Davis to the senate, Senator Bursum declared.

Predicts a Hard Fight.
"We will have a hard fight to get through," said the senator, "and you must show the men in congress that you really want it by sending to Washington men who are in harmony with President

British politicians, with general elections coming as a result of Lloyd George's resignation, are puzzled over the effect the women's votes will have on the outcome. will be a candidate for the house of commons and it is considered likely that at least a dozen other women will make the race, including the other three mentioned above. The women claim that if all the franchise rights of men were conferred on women the number of women voters would total 14,000,000, two million in excess of the number of male voters. As it is but 6,000,000 women are enfranchised.

TURKEYS TO BE SCARCER: PRICES WILL BE HIGHER

Difficulties of Raising Them Is Given as the Reason for the Production Decrease; Shrinkage Heavy

Washington, Oct. 28.—Forecastings of high-priced turkeys this year are seen in Agricultural Department announcements that despite a steady increase in the price of turkeys production has steadily decreased. The average price received during the four months October to January, 1915-1916 was 13 cents a pound. The average price received during a similar period of 1920-1921 was 32 cents per pound, according to the Department's figures. In 1900, the census figures showed 6,594,655 turkeys on farms in the United States, while in 1919 there were only 2,688,798 and in 1920, there were 2,627,928. During the last six years the price of turkeys has increased to the producer more than 100 per cent, while during the past 20 years the number of turkeys produced has decreased about 50 per cent, the Department states. The difficulties of raising turkeys is given as the reason for the production decrease. They are hard to raise, because of wandering propensities and a disease known as "blackhead" to which they are easy prey. It is very difficult to ship live turkeys to market and when shipped dressed there is a large amount of "shrinkage."

However, the raising of turkeys may be a very profitable occupation where there is an abundance of range, ample feed and reasonable freedom from predatory animals, the Department adds.

A hard question to answer perhaps.

But the woman who owns a Monarch Range can tell you. She expects to be using the same Monarch. She has good reason to expect it to last a lifetime. And she is perfectly satisfied to use it as long as it lasts because it bakes as well with the same small fuel requirements as it did when new.

If YOU want to be sure of having the same range fifteen years from now, — and to be so pleased with it that you never want to change, buy a Monarch Range now.

If you expect your new range to give this kind of service, be sure that it is built the Monarch way — unbreakable malleable iron and heavy steel plates riveted securely together.

PENNSY RALLIES IN 3RD PERIOD: BEATS MIDDIES

Captain Miller's Playing Is Largely Responsible for His Team's 13 to 7 Victory Over Navy.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—Outplayed and outmaneuvered by the midshipmen from Annapolis today in the first half of the game, the University of Pennsylvania football team pulled itself together in the third period, tied the score and won from the Navy in the final quarter, 13 to 7. Nearly 50,000 persons saw the battle.

Capt. "Pop" Miller, halfback of the Pennsylvania eleven, while showing a little advantage with its other members in the first half, had a reawakening in the third quarter and largely through his efforts Pennsylvania scored the tying touchdown and in the next period put across the score that won the game.

The great March of the Navy team, who was not permitted to start at the opening of the contest, was thrown into the game in the fourth period to turn the tide. The presence seemed to inspire the midshipmen, for they opened up on the fighting Quakers and for a time looked very threatening. The ball was carried close to the Pennsylvania line but a roused forward pass on the last down spoiled the chance at least to tie the score.

SANTA CLARA'S SPURT IN THE SECOND HALF BEATS THE WILDCATS

San Francisco, Oct. 28.—After being outplayed in the first half, Santa Clara turned the tables and nosed out the visiting team here today, 8 to 7.

Arizona showed particularly in the first half. The Wildcats' fullback, Captain Hobbs, scored for his team by a touchdown following a series of plays through left tackle.

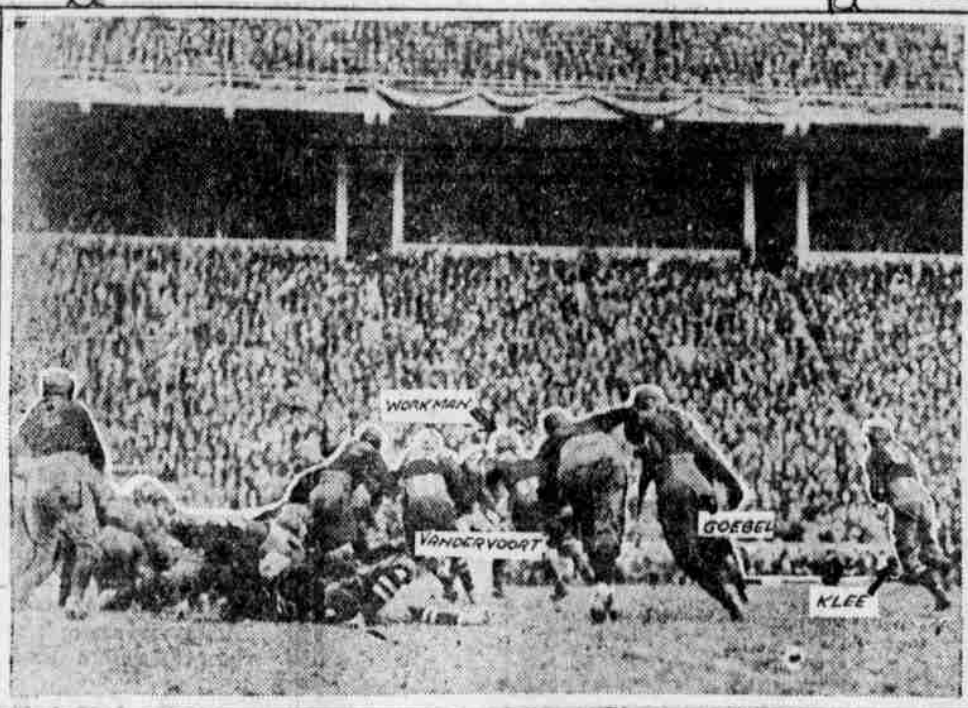

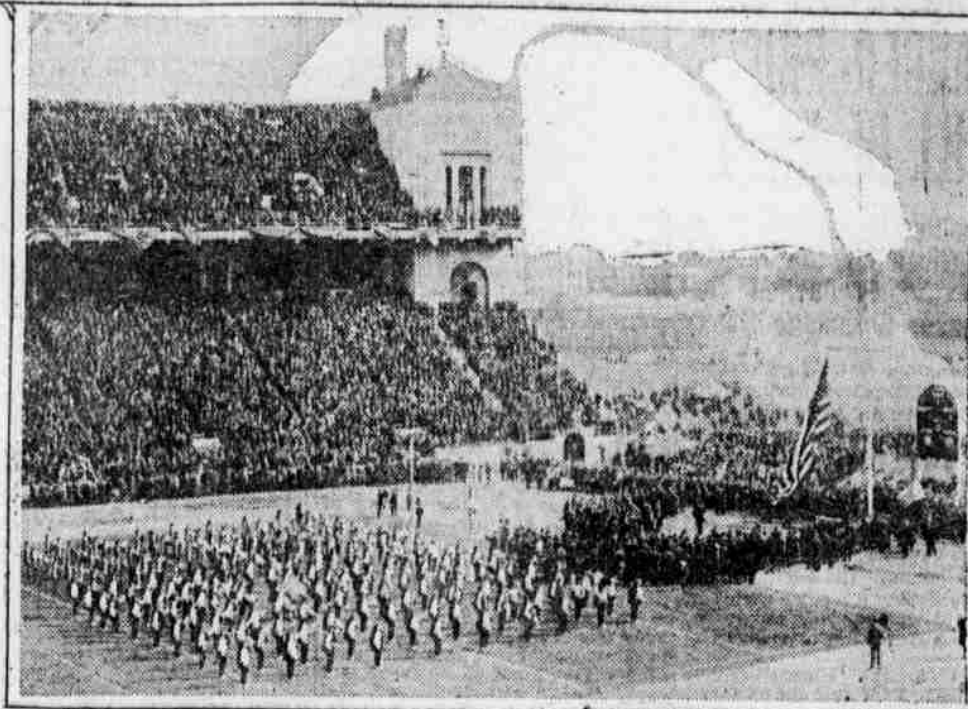

In the third quarter, Halloran, Santa Clara fullback, received a punt on Arizona's 35-yard line and dashed around right end for a touchdown. Noonan failed to kick the goal.

Santa Clara's second score was a safety in the last quarter. Santa Clara carried the ball 40 yards on line plunges to the shadow of the Arizona goal posts, where the visitors held the local team for downs.

McClellan, Arizona's left end, was forced to kick from behind his own goal line, but the ball was fumbled and Logan of Santa Clara fell on it, a safety resulting.

"IS THIS MICHIGAN'S YEAR?" ASK THOUSANDS WHO WATCHED YOST'S MEN MOW DOWN O. S. U. AT OPENING OF GIANT STADIUM

Above, view of small portion of 80,000 persons packed in new stadium and bands playing at raising of American flag. Note smoke drifting into stadium from guns of O. S. U. artillery corps firing 21-gun salute. Below, typical play by Goebel, Michigan captain. He and Vandervoort, Michigan tackle, have eluded O. S. U. defense and are ready to get O. S. U. runner (Klee) if he fakes forward pass.

Thousands of Michigan adherents who saw Yost's men administer that 19 to 0 defeat to Ohio State university at the opening of the Crisler's new stadium are wondering if "Hurricane" is set to give Michigan another one of the teams that made her famous years ago. The defensive play of Captain Goebel and Kirk at the ends and the all-around playing of Kipke, back field star, are the bright spots in the team which shows a powerful driving attack and a strong defensive line. Michigan beat O. S. U. 19 to 0. The stadium, officially dedicated with impressive ceremonies, was filled to capacity and thousands were turned away.

Michigan Beats Down the Stubborn Defense of Bob Zuppke's Men and Wins Second Game of Season.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—Eating down the stubborn defense of Bob Zuppke's men, Michigan won its second western conference football game of the season here today, defeating Illinois, 24 to 0.

Although balked at many stages in the game by the Illinois line, Yost's machine took advantage of every opportunity, carrying the battle into Illinois territory repeatedly during the second and third periods.

The visitors threatened the Michigan goal but once. That was in the first period when Zuppke's men smashed their way from midfield to within eighteen yards of the Wolverine goal on line plunges and end runs by Happeney and McElwain.

Here the Michigan defense held. In the opening period the Yost men were almost helpless before the Illinois, the Wolverine's revamped line not being able to clear the path for the backs.

Illinois failed to make a first down until the final period when six were registered. Michigan made eight first downs during the game.

ANIMAL CIRCUS OF U. S. WILL BE QUARTERED HERE

Biological Survey Hunters Seeking Live Specimens for Local Zoo and for Traveling Exhibits.

A wild animal circus to tour the southwest with all the year quarters at Albuquerque is being collected by the U. S. biological survey here. Survey hunters all over the state are keeping their eyes open for available live animals for the museum.

It is the desire of the survey to have a number of live predatory animals which may be taken about for exhibition purposes to the various fairs of the southwest. There are already two mountain lion cubs which have been taken about the state with exhibits and more animals are desired. It is particularly desired that animal families with young be taken during the summer in time for the fall exhibits.

"The two mountain lion cubs caught alive by Hunter Pickens and exhibited at the Santa Fe Fiesta and Raton fair created more interest among spectators than any feature of the bureau exhibit," said a recent report of the survey. "It is hoped that arrangements can be made with the hunters to secure during the next summer more live specimens of predatory animals for exhibit purposes at fairs and fiestas during the summer months."

It is planned to keep the animals at Albuquerque where they will be cared for by the city as a part of the city zoo but will still be available for touring with biological survey exhibits. The animals will remain the property of the survey but will be accommodated at the city's expense. It is planned to provide a home for the animals at the proposed river park.

Among the animals desired for the exhibit are coyotes, bobcats, lynx, wolves, badgers and porcupines. Live rodents such as rats, of which there are some dozens of species in New Mexico, and gophers are also desired. Mounted skins of some of the animals and reproduction in miniature of animals in their natural habitat and in the hands of hunters are also effective for exhibit purposes.

"The lion cubs are now being kept at the power house here as the nucleus for the circus. The cubs are growing rapidly and will soon be too large and fierce for easy transportation. They are tame and playful except when feeding."

PRINCETON WINS GRID GAME FROM CHICAGO, 21-18

Tigers Secure Sweet Revenge in One of the Most Spectacular Contests Ever Played in West.

Stagg Field, Chicago, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—Princeton secured sweet revenge today by defeating Chicago, 21 to 18, in what probably was the most spectacular football game ever staged in the middle west.

The Maroons, leading 18 to 7 at the start of the fourth period, were swept off their feet by a dazzling forward pass attack that enabled the Tigers to crash over with two touchdowns.

Chicago, fighting with the desperation of mad men, threatened to score in the final few seconds of the game, but the Princeton line withstood the shocks of Johnny Thomas, who previously had scored all of Chicago's three touchdowns. Zorn and Johnny Thomas smashed into the Princeton line with only a yard needed to bring victory but were hurled back without gaining an inch. Cleaves immediately punted out of danger and a few seconds later the game ended with Chicago starting a new march toward the Tiger goal.

The game broke up in a spectacular demonstration. Coach "Old man" Stagg came on to the field, his head bared, to cheer his defeated players who were grouped

In the center of the field. The Princeton rooters swarmed onto the field, a cheering mass.

Crum, the spectacular halfback of the Tigers, scored two of the easterners' three touchdowns. He battered his way over the Chicago goal line in the second quarter and then came back after being relieved to score for the second time. Gray, the Princeton left end, scored Princeton's third touchdown.

Stop Rheumatism!

S. S. S. Is the Great Builder of Red-Blood Cells and Rheumatism Must Go! Used Since 1826—Just Try It!

"Rheumatism? Me? No, indeed, blood which is minus sufficient red-cells leads to a long list of troubles. Rheumatism is one of them. S. S. S. is the great blood-cleanser, blood-builder, system strengthener, nerve invigorator. It stops skin eruptions, too, pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema. It builds up run-down, tired men and women, beautifies complexion, makes the flesh firmer. Charlie Battiste, Florence, Texas, writes: 'I take great pleasure in letting you know what S. S. S. has done for me. I have used four bottles of S. S. S. I am up so I can smile. The pain has left my leg. Before using S. S. S. I was in bed three months and could not walk. I will recommend S. S. S. to all who suffer with Rheumatism.' Start S. S. S. today. It is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical."

"Suffering has gone from your face, mother!"

"I have been young, I look at my hands and think of the twists and swellings they used to have. I used to wear a corset and the floor. I haven't been able to do that in many years. I can thank S. S. S. for it all! To me it was a rising sun of joy and liberty. Brothers and sisters in misery, do not close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. S. S. S. is waiting to help you. There is a reason why S. S. S. will help you. When you increase the number of your red-blood cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. Everything depends on blood-strength."

WHERE WILL HINKLE CUT?

Democratic headquarters have finally answered.

THEY SAY

Hinkle will cut taxes by reducing county levies.

WHICH MEANS

First, their admission that Hinkle's story of state extravagance is exploded.

Second, that Hinkle stands for depriving the people of local self government.

BECAUSE, if Mr. Hinkle will, as they say, use the state tax commissioner, and the state traveling mission, the state educational auditor, his appointees, to veto the wish of the people on how much local tax they want to spend for schools, roads and county purposes.

THEN

Mr. Hinkle should say frankly that he favors abolishing local boards of education and boards of county commissioners.

BECAUSE

He believes they are unfit to represent their people.

Do You Agree to the Program of Surrendering Your Local Government to a Few of Mr. Hinkle's Appointees at Santa Fe?

Democratic headquarters says that is Mr. Hinkle's answer to our question.

A STENOGRAPHER'S ROMANCE

BY JANE PHELPS

NELLIE SUGGESTS A WAY OUT.

Chapter 35

The girls were too tired to do anything but rest and talk. They had climbed so many stairs, it was a very warm day, that they were completely exhausted.

It was the 13th of the month, and Dugan said if they took the rooms they could have the rest of the month free. That would make the extra dollar a month all right. But the references worried them. They knew no one save the men for whom they worked, and one or two young fellows like William Dalton whose say so carried no weight.

"I'll go down very early and get a character reference from Miss McBride, and Mrs. Thompson will also give us one, I am sure," Gladys said.

"That's that!" Nellie said. She had heard Dorothy Fallon use the expression, and as usual when anything pleased her, had added it to her vocabulary.

"Now for the reference as to our honesty, and our ability to pay," Cora said. "If I had been in my place longer I would ask them to help us, but I hardly feel I can, especially as I am leaving."

"Say, girls! All fair in love and war! I'll get a reference," Nellie said, her eyes dancing.

"From whom?"

"I shan't tell until I see if I can get it."

"I'll meet at lunch and see if either of us have thought of a way to satisfy the owner," Cora said as they finished breakfast, and Gladys hurried away to see Miss McBride.

Gladys and Cora met for lunch, but Nellie did not appear. Gladys had a very nice reference as to their character from Miss McBride. She had also said they were perfectly able to take the apartment. She had approved the plan immediately. Saying:

"A home will make you all happier, give you an interest that will be good for you in every way. Were you all there as young as Nellie, I shouldn't approve, but with you and Cora it will be just the thing for her, as well as for you older girls. I hope you may succeed in taking it."

"They waited until the last minute, but no Nellie appeared. Neither did they see her until she came into the rooming house, nearly an hour later than usual."

"Well, girls, I said I'd get a reference, and I did! She said when they both asked at once where she had been, why she wasn't at lunch with them?"

"Who from?" Again they chorused.

"Mr. Fallon?"

"No, I haven't been long enough—I didn't quite dare, although I believe he would have given me one. I got it from Mr. Robinson, wrote it myself, made him sign it."

Gladys and Cora were speechless.

"Don't look at me like that! He was real decent. I didn't have to threaten him or anything—I would though if he hadn't done what I asked him to!"

"Tell us, Nellie," Gladys gasped.

"Yes, tell us," Cora added.

GIRLS OF Y. W. PLAN OF CAMP IN MOUNTAINS

A permanent camp house in the near-by mountains which will be readily available for all of the girls clubs of the Y. W. C. A. is the latest dream of the association. A campaign to raise funds for such a building will be undertaken in the near future by the Young Women's council, a board of the association representing all of the organized clubs.

The plan is for a rustic lodge, just within one of the near canyons, to be pleasantly furnished and equipped to accommodate camping parties of girls. The only other camp available for Y. W. C. A. use is too far from the city to be reached easily and acquires more "roughing it" than suits the feminine taste.

Such a camp as planned by the Y. W. C. A. would be in great demand for all summer camping parties of girls' clubs of the association, and for week-end use all the year around by business girls who wish to get away from the city for short vacations, it is believed.

The Young Women's council is arranging for a big benefit picture show to be given for the camp fund during the N. M. E. A. convention in November, if possible. All of the clubs in the council will participate in the ticket sale, which is expected to realize a considerable sum for the proposed camp house.

W. C. T. U. MEMBERSHIP IN STATE IS INCREASED 50 PER CENT IN YEAR

Reports of the local W. C. T. U. chapters recently visited by N. J. Strumquist, state president, show that the membership of the organization has more than doubled and probably will be trebled when the state convention reports are made at Raton next month. The Chamber of Commerce of Carlsbad is co-operating with the W. C. T. U. in arranging a "Carlsbad special" automobile to take seven or eight delegates from Carlsbad to the state convention.

The W. C. T. U. in Carlsbad have been conducting for three years an Americanization center for school and recreation for former residents of Old Mexico. Mrs. Strumquist organized the Spanish speaking women of this school into a W. C. T. U. chapter, and one of their delegates will attend the state convention.

At a meeting of the W. C. T. U. of Santa Fe Friday afternoon the following officers were elected: Mrs. C. O. Harrison, vice president; Mrs. Susan Sever, elected secretary; Mrs. Whittier, treasurer; Mrs. Gunter, corresponding secretary. The Santa Fe W. C. T. U. has the largest membership in the state.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Cream of Celery Soup—This is made from the green tops and tender stems of the celery, the tender portion being used at the table. Cut into small pieces the tops and tender portions of the celery and one onion. Put in cold water and cook until tender. Strain through a wire strainer. At lunch time put a good tablespoon of butter or oil into a saucepan, add one tablespoon of flour, mix smooth, and a pint of milk and the strained celery and onion, let come to a boil, season and serve. So many of these milk soups can be made at little expense and with the maximum of nourishment, and they make an ideal luncheon dish especially when there are children.

Presto Cake—Put on cup sugar, one and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder and half a teaspoon of salt in the flour sifter, sift. Put a tablespoon of melted butter or substitute in a cup, one egg on top of that, and fill the cup up with milk. Add to sifted flour and sugar, add flavoring, as desired, mix well and bake.

Chocolate Sauce—One cup sugar, one tablespoon of flour or cornstarch, one large tablespoon of cocoa or one square of melted chocolate. Cook it until smooth and serve over cake. One can make individual puddings by baking the cake in muffin tins.

CANDY MAKING A WINTER SPORT.

As the evenings lengthen and grow colder candy making becomes one of the popular indoor sports. The old fashioned molasses candy is always good and has the advantage of adding to the gaiety of the occasion by requiring to be pulled. Here is the recipe:

Molasses Candy—One cup molasses, one cup sugar, butter size of an egg, one tablespoon vinegar, boil but do not stir till it hardens when dropped into cold water. When done stir in a teaspoon of soda and beat well, pour into buttered pans, and when cool pull until white and cut into sticks. If any flavoring is desired put in before pouring out.

Another old fashioned favorite is butterscotch. One cup molasses, one cup sugar, butter size of an egg, one tablespoon vinegar, boil until it threads. Flavor with vanilla and pour on buttered pan.

Peanut Butter—Two cups brown sugar, three-quarters cup milk, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon vanilla, one egg, chopped nuts. Boil sugar and milk to the soft ball stage. Remove from the fire; add butter, flavoring and nuts. Beat till creamy and thickened; pour into a greased tin, and when firm cut in squares.

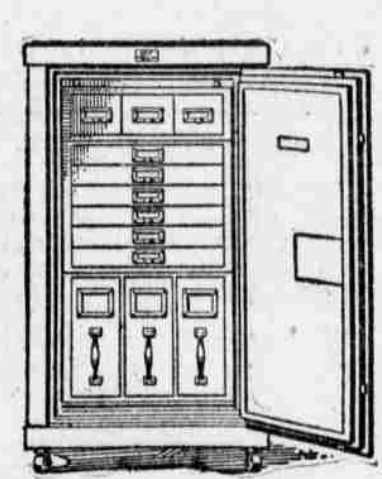

When belling fish, add a few drops of vinegar to the water; the fish will then be quite firm and very white.

SUGGESTS AUXILIARY TRUCKING SYSTEMS FOR THE RAILROADS

Washington, Oct. 28.—Railroads might well consider the advisability of establishing auxiliary motor trucking systems to supplement existing rail facilities in large cities, W. H. Lyford of Chicago, vice president of the Chicago and Eastern railroad, told delegates today at the closing session of the highway education conference.

"That sort of thing happens frequently in this country. But, on the other hand, in a few years more he more be back on a park bench."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

THE DRIVER'S PROGRESS.

When first a voter gets a car, how rapidly he learns! No rules or bylaws will he mar, he'll take no precious lives. He drives his seat along the sands, along the busy ways, he holds the wheel with rigid hands, and grinds his teeth into his prayers. "Twenty miles an hour," observes this man, "is fast enough. I won't; and he faster sends his hand should presently be shot." Old timers hear him and they shed their sad, denatured smiles; when they were fresh they also said, "The proper speed's ten miles." Behold the voter and his Liz when two brief months are sped; now twenty miles his limit is, he has not lost his head. He lectures all the village sports on safety in speed, and says that scorches in the courts should dig their chicks' heads. "Oh, twenty miles is fast enough for any man," he cries, "and he's a vandal and a tough who likes a comet flies." The weeks sail on, as weeks will sail, since time has many wiles, and now that voter is in jail for hitting sixty miles. "Life is too short," he tells the judge, "to move like mule-drawn drays"; the jurist mutters "Bunk!" and "Fudge!" and gives him sixty days.

Mary Brooks Picken

WITH FALL comes the second great change of the year, expressed by Nature in her colorful autumnal garb. Women, too, feel the same natural impulse revealing itself as an inheritance from countless generations who provided by heavier raiment against the rigors of impending winter—an impulse which is now finding expression in the changing modes.

To the woman now planning her fall clothes, Mrs. Mary Brooks Picken, vice-president of the Woman's Institute of Domestic Arts and Sciences, has offered the benefits of her experience in the accompanying chart, from her book, "The Secrets of Distinctive Dress."

Mrs. Picken regards dress as properly the subject of serious study. Her attitude is similar to that of the tailor of Louis XIV of France who observed, when the monarch appeared in a full outfit of English make, "You are covered, Sire, but you are not clothed."

"Women who count, whether of high or low station in life, try through their clothing to bring out that which is best in their appearance, and to express that individuality which is the vital force of life," Mrs. Picken said recently. "Styles for the fall offer splendid opportunity for this individual expression. Not for years have we enjoyed such variety, such freedom of choice."

"Skirts have again become the graceful garments which they were intended to be. The woman whose type demands long, sweeping lines again may have them, but whether may find her type expression in a length less formal and be no less correct. The autumn, with its vague tones enlivened by touches of high color, calls into being in dress the same motif."

"The new thoughts in dress present no difficulties to the home dressmaker of only moderate skill. Now, as always, the best dressed women will be simply dressed."

REPUBLICAN VICTORY SEEMS ASSURED.

With election day but a week off, there is every indication that Democratic misrepresentation has failed to blind the people to the facts. The Democrats have had ample opportunity for presenting their case, but instead of offering a single constructive alternative for the alleged ills of which they complain, their campaign has been one of destructive criticism from beginning to end. What has taken place in New Mexico is typical of the whole country. The Democrats have failed utterly to tear down the record of achievement of one of the most constructive administrations in the country's history. The Republican party stands upon that record.

From the time when it first came into control, the administration has devoted its efforts to solution of the nation's problems, foreign and domestic. Achievements under its brilliant and vigorous foreign policy are notable. Settlement of vexed Pacific questions and agreements on reduction of naval armament at the Washington conference, which carry back in credit to President Harding's initiative in calling that meeting, are impressive contributions to the progress of world peace and national welfare.

In dealing with domestic problems, the administration's efforts have met with equally conspicuous success. It found the nation laboring under depressed economic conditions and speedily set about relief. One of the first acts of the executive was the calling of congress in session for enactment of legislation necessary to the restoration of abnormal conditions to normal, with special reference to revision of taxation and tariff. Since that time the administration has never slackened in exertion of proper pressure to this end. It has consistently and persistently championed and urged legislation for rehabilitation of agriculture and other purposes of national import and promotive of the public good. And the long list of constructive and remedial congressional enactments bear testimony to the efficacy of such pressure. Retrenchments in governmental expenditure to be credited to the administration aggregate an enormous sum, which represents corresponding lightening of the burden on the taxpayers. Its inauguration of the budget system has marked the beginning of an era of business-like handling of public affairs that is destined to work incalculable benefit to the nation at large. The proof of a pudding is in the eating, and proof of the efficacy of the administration's dealing with economic problems is in the improvement of conditions. The increasing prosperity of the nation—which, in view of strike setbacks, is all the more notable—is convincing evidence of this.

Especially great has been the administration's service in effecting adjustment of differences between clashing elements in the industrial field, whose conflict threatened the nation with shortage of fuel and with impairment of transportation facilities. Never swerving from the course pointed by justice and unwavering in determination to protect and promote the public interest, the executive persistently and consistently pressed for settlement that would make resumption of production and restoration of railroads to effective operation possible. Settlements of coal and railroad controversies, completed and in process, are conspicuous items to be credited to the administration on this score. And especially worthy of credit is the manner in which it effected settlement, without resort to threats or intimidation or questionable exercise of power, and with strict regard for rights of all and with strict observance of constitutional limitations.

The American people have been given to see the administration in the exercise of governmental stewardship. They have seen it in action in their behalf against menacing conditions and have witnessed its effective dealing with difficult situations. They have seen it pursue the course that insured maximum service in their cause, regardless of antagonism that might mean loss of votes in certain quarters. And having seen all this, the people can be counted on to continue the support that they extended by their confidence, in the last election. The administration has proved itself wholly worthy of its continuance. Its claim to support is for services rendered and to be rendered. And such a claim has always carried with the American people.

BY THE WAY.

Someone in England suggests the publication of a Black Book for unprosecuted war profiteers, the complaint being that the Blue Book is already overcrowded with them.

Still, no matter how tough the situation looks, someone is going to refer to it fifty years from now as the good old days.

Are pants things of beauty?

Albuquerque Twenty Years Ago

The social season in Albuquerque will open tomorrow night when the Commercial club will give the first of its winter series of dances.

The republicans of Santa Fe county have nominated the following ticket: Amado Chaves, for legislative council; William Kilpatrick and R. L. Baca, for the house; A. L. Kendall and Nicholas Quintana, for the house; H. C. Kinell, sheriff; Marcus Castillo, probate judge; Celso Lopez, probate clerk; J. D. Hughes, treasurer and collector; assessor, Marcelino Ortiz; J. V. Conway, superintendent of schools; Arthur Griffin, surveyor.

Plans are under way in Albuquerque for the organization of a central labor union. Besides the railroad men, the following are organized: The printers, the cigar makers, barbers, carpenters, linemen, bricklayers and stone masons.

V. P. Edle of the wool scouring mills returned yesterday from Magdalena, where he purchased 8,000 lambs.

Tony Garcia, buyer for E. P. Garcia and Company, has returned from a tour of the western wool districts, where he purchased 150,000 pounds of fleeces.

Miss Jennie and Alma Rosenwald left yesterday for Trinidad, where they will be bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Moses of that city to Joseph Brockman of New York.

Mrs. Rose Berry has secured Odd Fellows hall for her class in dancing.

The engineers who are making the survey from Albuquerque to Farmington are cross sectioning as they go and paying their bills spot cash as contracted. It is questioned as to what railroad is back of the enterprise, but it is generally supposed it is the Rock Island.

TODAY'S BEST THOUGHT

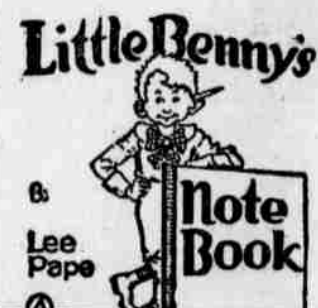

When over the fair fame of friend or foe,
The shadow of disgrace shall fall; instead
Of words of blame, or proof of so and so,
Let something good be said.

Forget that no fellow being yet
May fall so low but love may lift his head;
Even the cheek of shame with tears is wet,
If something good be said.

No generous heart may vainly turn aside
In ways of sympathy; no soul so dead
But may awaken strong and glorified,
If something good be said.

And so I charge ye, by the thorny crown,
And by the cross on which the Saviour bled,
And by your own soul's hope for fair renown,
Let something good be said.

THE GREAT POLITICAL UPHEAVAL OF 1922.

Saturday morning I was around at Smith's grocery store and I heard Mr. Smith talking on the telephone saying, 'I'll have it over as soon as possible, Mrs. Jennings, but I can't say for sure because my boy is sick this morning.' Giving me a deer how to make some money, and I said, 'Do you want anybody to deliver stuff for you today, Mr. Smith?' and he said, 'Why yes I do, that's just what I do want, how would you like to make a dollar?' All right, very much, I said, and he said, 'Then start in by taking this bag of lettuce and these soap greens around to Mrs. Jennings, that's the big house on Broad street with the iron fence around the yard, she wants it rite away, the lettuce she orders the quicker she wants it. Hurry back and by that time I'll have a lot of stuff ready to go out.' And he handed me a paper bag with stuff in it and I went to the big house with the iron fence and walked throo the iron gate and just then a dog ran from around the back of the house barking like anything. Being a little dog with a expression like a big one, me saying, 'Get away, get away, which I got nearer instead, barking like anything, and I quick dropped the paper bag and started to walk out backwards and the dog grabbed a hold of the bag and jumped all around shaking it as if it thawt it was one of its worst enemies, and the lettuce and the soap greens came all apart and went all over the yard, and some lady stuck her head out of the dining room window saying, 'Goodness gracious, look at my lettuce, look at my soap greens. Wait the matter, boy, that dog's only playing he wouldn't touch you, she said. Well he touched the lettuce all rite, I said still walking backwards, and she said, 'Has ruined it, I can't use that, go rite back and tell Mr. Smith to send me another head of lettuce and more soap greens immediately.' Maybe you better telephone, I'm going somewhere else, I said. Which I did, being around to my cousin Artie's for the rest of the day.

Jesus Christ was no time-server. He had a world vision and a world message, a message that was not for one age only, but for all ages; therefore His teachings are just as applicable to the problems of the twentieth century as to those of the first.—W. A. Guy, Broadway Christian Church.

Christ never rebuked those who were conscious of their sin; His severity was reserved for hypocrisy. EUROPE CAN PAY MAY INSTALL A WEATHER BUREAU AMERICA-HOOVER ON BAFFIN BAY

Secretary Is Opposed to Cancellation; No Reason for Despair if Peace Is Maintained Abroad.

(Editor's Note:—The following speech by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, with reference to repayment of European debts to the United States government, was delivered at Buffalo, N. Y., October 16.)

Proposals have been repeatedly made over the last three years that the loans from our government to foreign countries during the war should in part or in whole be cancelled, either for moral reasons or in the interest of economic stability. Less sweeping proposals have been made that the payments of interest and installments as required by congress should be further postponed. The question is one of the most complex and difficult in character that the American people have ever confronted. It greatly concerns American commerce and I feel that widespread discussion is of great value to the better understanding of the economic issues involved. I will understand that can be ascertained only by full and frank discussion.

No Need for Despair.
I have the feeling that many men in Europe are thinking of these things in their dreams due to their immediate difficulties. There is no need for despair in the future of Europe if it can maintain peace. Its hard-working population, its tremendous industry, its enormous productivity, and its magnificent intelligence, its fabulous development of skill and scientific knowledge, are vital forces that must win if they have half a chance.

These economic problems are problems that we must vision over and over again. They must not be obscured by fluctuation in exchange or by calculations of trade balances in terms of war and depression. Europe has made great economic progress since the armistice. Its troubles today are solely in the political and fiscal field. For social organization, her agriculture, industry, transportation, and commerce have found extraordinary recuperative powers from the depths of disorganization and famine.

These loans to twenty nations amounted to about $10,000,000,000 and were nearly all demand obligations. They now amount to $11,500,000,000 in principal and accrued interest. Interest has been practically suspended up to date. The terms of repayment were to be determined by congress and congress has laid down the conditions under which payment can be extended over a term of 25 years. It is the duty of the funding commission to see that these terms are carried out and of course no alteration would be possible except through action of congress.

There are certain phases of this discussion that seem to me to require emphasis.

Debts Owed Our Taxpayers.
First, these loans are often spoken of as debts to our government. They are, in fact, debts owed to our taxpayers. These loans were made at the urgent request of the acting president under their solemn assurances of repayment. The loans were individual to each nation. They have no relation to other nations or other debts. The American taxpayer did not participate in the negotiations and acquired no territory or any other benefits under the Treaty as did our debtors. There is no question as to the moral or contractual obligation. The repudiation of these loans would undermine the whole fabric of international good faith. I do not believe any public official, either of the United States or of any other country, could or should approve their cancellation. Certainly I do not.

Second, with the exception of some minor amounts, perhaps 5 per cent, I am convinced that these debts are not in some real, reasonable period of time without realization of the off-expressed undue strain on the debtor countries or the threat of a flood of goods from the debtor countries in such quantity as would endanger employment of the factories and workmen of the United States. I am convinced that in the arguments put forward by the debtor countries, there are very important contravening factors have not been given sufficient weight.

Third, the proposals for further postponement of payment of interest for a certain number of years arise from the belief that certain countries cannot physically make these payments at the present time without undermining, or that a postponement of interest would contribute to general economic stability and the more rapid recovery of these countries in which everyone would benefit. The British government has claimed for such assistance from us and are arranging their payments. This covers some $4,750,000,000 of the total debt and this clearly upsets nearly one-fourth of the debt. The proposition, therefore, narrows itself to debtors on the continent. Our annual payments from the whole of our continental debtors would amount to a total of about $350,000,000 per year for interest and amortization. All these things would assure the further recovery of Europe. All these things would assure the rapid recovery of Europe. We would also assure the ultimate payment of our loans, for the burden on Europe which these loans impose are trivial in comparison with the burden of destruction which would be eliminated by economic progress of the above forces.

Record of Helpfulness.
Fifth, America has dealt with Europe during the past few years in terms of idealism. We have always given; we have never received. No one can deny that we are capable of great sacrifices and of great generous charity. We want to take part in making a better world, but it must be clear that sacrifices and charity from America do not themselves bring about a cure for those evils which now gray at Europe's horizon. Comes. Our record to date has been one of helpfulness.

Recent Example.
A recent example of the sudden and unforeseen change occurred in a series of showers that ended the long country-wide drought that gripped the country during August, September and early October. Continued dryness was predicted for some days because conditions were sluggish and no changes were observed within the scope of the reporting stations. However, two sudden showers swept down from the uncharted waters, freshened up the entire Atlantic seaboard and the Southern states, quenched desperate forest fires in Canada and brought an end to the drought.

If there were more stations farther north, it was said, the change could have been foreseen far ahead of its actual arrival. In about two days or less, and farmers and others to whom weather conditions are important could have had longer warning to prepare.

Just as we must be explained that through general interchanges, the weather observations of nations are made available to all other countries having weather services, and to many other countries. Canadian stations therefore make observations which are as important to this country's weather service as though those stations were owned by the United States. The Baffin bay station would be financed and operated by the countries of the northern hemisphere to whom the data would be of value when reported by wireless.

DROWNS IN WINE VAT.
Napa, Calif., Oct. 28.—Max Tamai, rancher and grape grower, drowned in a vat of wine last night. Tamai's body was discovered at the bottom of a wine vat. It is thought he went in to stir the wine, which was in process of fermentation.

Europe. For economic stability requires that there must be such political and economic readjustment between the states of Europe as will bring about an atmosphere of peace in replacement of an atmosphere of war. There must be a rearrangement of economic boundaries of Europe that will give the hope of economic survival of states which can be saved by no financial operation of any kind. There must be a reduction of armament not only as a guarantee of peace but as a contribution to the balancing of budgets and the cessation of that. There must be a general effort to create good will and peaceful working together among the nations to their own reconstruction instead of constant recurrence of political crises which so narrowly escape war and so sadly disturb commerce. All these things would assure the further recovery of Europe. All these things would assure the rapid recovery of Europe. We would also assure the ultimate payment of our loans, for the burden on Europe which these loans impose are trivial in comparison with the burden of destruction which would be eliminated by economic progress of the above forces.

SANTA FE WILL REHIRE MEN WHO WENT ON STRIKE

May Return as New Employees if Their Conduct Has Been Such as Not to Make Them Undesirable.

While, according to President W. B. Storey, the strike of shopmen of the Santa Fe system is over and the company in most places has more men than before the trouble started July 1, strikers may return as new employees when there are vacancies for them, provided always that they have not been guilty of conduct that would make them undesirable as employees, according to a statement made by Mr. Storey. The statement follows:

"The charge made by the union leaders that the strike was the work of the railroad management is unqualifiedly false.

"We do not believe in strikes and we believe the strike weapon should not be used on the railroad, not because there is anything sacred about a railroad or the money invested in it, but because of its relation to the public and because of the fact that while the railroad and the strikers may suffer heavy losses the greatest loss must fall on the public.

"At no time has the Santa Fe precipitated a strike.

"The telegraphers' strike in 1900 was declared by the telegraphers on the Santa Fe proper two months after an agreement had been signed covering all points of difference and to run for one year and thereafter until changed in the usual manner. The committee of the Gulf Lines had been unable to agree on a schedule and as a consequence struck to enforce their demands. The organization on other parts of the system struck in sympathy with the Gulf employees. On being confronted with the agreement, we were told that everyone knew that an agreement of that kind was made to be broken under such circumstances. We answered that if an agreement could not be made that was binding we would make no more agreements with such a body. In two weeks the road was moving normally and thereafter we made no agreements with the Order of Railway Telegraphers until the road came under federal control and we were instructed from Washington to do so."

Strike of 1904.

"The next strike that disturbed the serenity of the Santa Fe family was the shopmen's strike of 1904. In that case The International Association of Machinists presented a proposed agreement and asked us to sign on the dotted line. We declined on the ground, among other reasons that it practically required a closed shop. It was bitterly fought and not declared off for several years.

"After that strike we lived in peace and harmony with our employees up to the time of the present strike, not counting the outlaw switchmen's strike of 1920.

"When the government took over the road in 1918 it made an agreement for us covering wages, rules and working conditions, and when the road came back to us after government control the decisions of the labor board required us to continue that agreement. We have tried to live up to it exactly in conformity with its letter and spirit. We believe there are certain things about the agreement that are unjust to us, but we are willing to leave the decision to the labor board and we will live up to it in all cases by its decisions because we believe its decisions are more apt in the main to do justice to all parties (which includes the public), than our own opinion, which would necessarily be influenced by necessities of the railroad.

Road's Predicament.

"When the railroad came back to us after federal control applications were made for increases in wages. The labor board, after due consideration, granted increases all along the line that ranged from 20 to 25 per cent. The railroad put these full rates into effect and then asked the interstate commerce commission to increase its freight and passenger rates to meet the new expense. Increases were granted based on a certain volume of business, but the expected increase in earnings did not come, due to the slump in business and the railroads were left with the higher wages and without sufficient increased revenue to meet the greatest cost.

"During 1921 the depression continued and gradually public opinion decided that this depression was due in part to high freight rates, and an insistent demand arose for lower rates. The cost of living had in the meantime fallen and the railroads asked the labor board to take off the increase in wages that had been granted in 1920. A cut was finally allowed of about one-half the amount requested. This decrease was acquiesced in by all parties, although some of the employees thought it unjustified.

Depression Continued.

"The depression in business continued and finally the interstate commerce commission granted a 10 per cent reduction in all freight rates, which meant that unless the cost of conducting transportation could be brought down bankruptcy for some roads was inevitable. The roads therefore renewed their request to the labor board for a further reduction. The strike followed.

"By the loyal assistance of the entire Santa Fe staff we have succeeded in carrying on transportation with credit to you and with justice to the public. We have done this under discouraging conditions, such as lack of protection from local peace officers. As a consequence our loyal employees have been subjected to violence, our new employees have been refused food and accommodations by the local people of the towns, and on the desert some of our train and engine men so far forgot their contracts as to join with the strikers for a time. Happily that is past and I think these very men are ashamed of the part they assumed. We are still compelled to keep guards about our plants and there is more or less violence. Within two weeks bombs have been exploded in houses of employees and dynamite has been found on locomotives.

Strike Is Over.

"But the strike is over. On most parts of the system we have more men than before the strike. They are a good class of workmen and they will be retained in their places as long as they can acceptably fill them. We have received petitions from townspeople at various points asking if it is not possible to settle the strike. To those the reply has been made that the men left our service of their own accord and they are free to come back at any time they desire provided there are vacancies, and provided, always, that they have not been guilty of conduct that would make them undesirable as employees.

"We recognize that many of them are good steady men—men of families and good citizens—but they have been misled by their leaders. We are sorry for such—sorry for their families—but they are men and they must assume the responsibility for their acts.

Attitude Toward Unions.

"And now I wish to say a few words as to the attitude of the Santa Fe toward the unions. We are not opposed to them as unions as is evidenced by our agreements extending over many years with the four train brotherhoods. Unfortunately all unions are not content alike, but I can definitely say that if the telegraphers' union in 1900 and the shopmen's union in 1904 had been governed by the same spirit that has actuated the Santa Fe toward the unions, they would have been no strikes on our road, and had the leaders of the shopmen recognized that economic laws must ultimately govern there would have been no shopmen's strike this year.

"Unfortunately men, and especially the younger men, lose sight of everything except the power they think they have by reason of being joined together. They have the feeling that if they only stick together they can compel any wage or any condition to be accepted by their employers—and some of them delude themselves into thinking they are really worth more than they are receiving and that any action they may take is justified to get it. But, in the long run, the question of ultimate cost must be taken into account.

"I wish to say further that the Santa Fe wants its employees to receive the highest wage possible, and it has always paid as high wages as its neighbors. Before the government control we paid out to our shopmen 10 per cent or more of our pay roll as bonuses for extra effort. We have always tried to treat our employees fairly, and we believe they have been reasonably happy and contented.

"As to the lessons to be learned from our experiences:

"First: Employees must always be treated with consideration. It should not take the pressure of unionism to make us recognize this. The feeling that he has no way of making his grievances known except through the union is responsible for many a good man adhering to them. Every employee should have access to his superior, not as a right to be enforced, but as a means for mutual benefit.

"Second: The Santa Fe will always live up to the spirit of its contractual agreements and will insist on the organizations with which it has such agreements doing the same. If a difference of opinion as to the meaning of the agreements arises, it is willing to leave the question to the labor board or any other properly constituted authority.

"Third: The promises of the Santa Fe to its employees, as in the matter of seniority rights to its faithful employees and as to its new employees, will be faithfully adhered to.

"Fourth: The Santa Fe will fight to the limit of its means if it is compelled to do so."

TWO WOMEN FIGHT "COLA COLA KING" AND SON

Fair women seem to be the nemesis of the wealthy Candler family of Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. G. Candler, known as the "cola king," is now in the lime-light because he recently called off his engagement to Mrs. Onexima de Bouchelle, right; below, Walter T. Candler, son of the "king."

commerce commission to increase its freight and passenger rates to meet the new expense. Increases were granted based on a certain volume of business, but the expected increase in earnings did not come, due to the slump in business and the railroads were left with the higher wages and without sufficient increased revenue to meet the greatest cost.

"During 1921 the depression continued and gradually public opinion decided that this depression was due in part to high freight rates, and an insistent demand arose for lower rates. The cost of living had in the meantime fallen and the railroads asked the labor board to take off the increase in wages that had been granted in 1920. A cut was finally allowed of about one-half the amount requested. This decrease was acquiesced in by all parties, although some of the employees thought it unjustified.

Depression Continued.

"The depression in business continued and finally the interstate commerce commission granted a 10 per cent reduction in all freight rates, which meant that unless the cost of conducting transportation could be brought down bankruptcy for some roads was inevitable. The roads therefore renewed their request to the labor board for a further reduction. The strike followed.

"By the loyal assistance of the entire Santa Fe staff we have succeeded in carrying on transportation with credit to you and with justice to the public. We have done this under discouraging conditions, such as lack of protection from local peace officers. As a consequence our loyal employees have been subjected to violence, our new employees have been refused food and accommodations by the local people of the towns, and on the desert some of our train and engine men so far forgot their contracts as to join with the strikers for a time. Happily that is past and I think these very men are ashamed of the part they assumed. We are still compelled to keep guards about our plants and there is more or less violence. Within two weeks bombs have been exploded in houses of employees and dynamite has been found on locomotives.

Strike Is Over.

"But the strike is over. On most parts of the system we have more men than before the strike. They are a good class of workmen and they will be retained in their places as long as they can acceptably fill them. We have received petitions from townspeople at various points asking if it is not possible to settle the strike. YALE AND ARMY CONTEST A TIE; 76,000 ATTEND

Final Score Is 7 to 7; Forward Passes After a Slow First Half Put Life Into Listless Game.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 28.—Forward passing as a means to touchdown by each side gave a touch of the spectacular to the Yale-Army 7-to-7 game here this afternoon, and brought to its feet the crowd of 76,000 spectators. It was these forward passes, executed after a slow half, which put life into a seemingly listless game.

After a kicking duel in which Wood of the Army battled more successfully than Neale of Yale, against a stiff north wind in the first two periods, both teams opened up and put across touchdowns. Although Yale made seven first downs to Army's five, Wood by his marvelous punting and receiving of forward passes, saved his team from defeat.

Neither team scored in the first half, although the Army brought the ball to the Yale nine-yard line before being stopped by the Ellis early in the second period. Only once did Yale bring the ball into the Army territory in this half when their march down the field was cut short by a 28-yard penalty for roughness.

Indiana U. Beats Michigan Aggies

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 28.—Indiana's season today when it defeated the Michigan Aggies, 14 to 6. Captain Hanny of the Crimson was a tower of strength and punted his team to safety frequently.

Indiana made her first touchdown near the opening of the game when a costly fumble of the Aggies left Indiana with the ball on the 13-yard line. The rest of the scoring was done in the last two periods, the Hoosiers taking their second touchdown thirty seconds before the end of the third quarter.

A brilliant pass, Richards to Hattman, netted the score for the Aggies when thirty-five yards were gained.

One of the results of the guaranty title for automobiles, the organization say, will be to stop the theft of cars, reduce automobile insurance and stabilize the credit risks of the automobile industry as most of the automobiles are sold on time.

St. Louis routers are unanimous in saying the fan who threw a bottle at "White" Witt made a mistake. Nobody with any sense, they claim, would try to injure a ball player by hitting him in the head.

"Pawnee" is the name of a new Selznick picture. The actors had no trouble, it is said, in getting into the spirit of the thing.

It is only a coincidence that "One Week of Love," the Selznick Picture, was made in Hollywood.

Cornhuskers Beat Oklahoma, 39 to 7

Norman, Okla., Oct. 28.—With the first period even, Nebraska opened her aerial offensive in the second quarter and thereafter ran over Oklahoma to a final score of 39 to 7 here today. The Sooners held the honors by one point until the middle of the second period. Both teams scored a touchdown in the first quarter but Nebraska failed to count the extra point.

Nebraska's touchdowns were scored, two on straight football, one on a 35-yard run and three on forward passes. The lone Sooner counter was after a 40-yard pass.

BURSUM'S BILL TO AID VETS IS HIGHLY PRAISED

Prominent Washington Lawyer Explains Provisions of Measure and Predicts It Will Be Law.

Captain John Murphy, a prominent lawyer and a democrat of Washington, and a world war veteran, who was very active in promoting the soldiers' adjusted compensation bill, writing to a friend here, says:

"There seems to me there is much misunderstanding concerning the soldiers' compensation bill and its status among the boys down in New Mexico, voted by the president, and which the senate did not enact over that veto. The unvarnished fact, as you ought to know, is that that particular soldiers' compensation bill is as dead as 'Imperious Caesar' and turned to clay." There is not a syllable or a numeral of it left for discussion, excepting perhaps a reference to the Congressional Record which shows who voted for it, who voted against it, and who was not present and did not vote—and who did not help because any senator here could have done so much for the bill than he possibly could by being in Europe, or some other place, on the theory that he has some little influence with his colleagues; or if not, he does not count for a great deal.

"The soldiers' adjusted compensation bill unfortunately was mislabeled the 'bonus' bill. The word 'bonus' associated with military service is always obnoxious. In this instance it was disastrous—fatal.

"The soldiers' compensation bill, with the contemplated cash award, as a whole, was not what the national officers and the national legislative committee of the American Legion desired, by any means; it was accepted as a makeshift.

"But with the going out of the so-called soldiers' compensation bill there came in a better measure—almost providential as I see it. I refer to the Bursum bill introduced by the senator before the soldiers' compensation bill was cold. It was presented to the senate on the 21st day of September, and immediately referred to the finance committee where it is very much alive today and will be kicking when the senate reconvenes. It provides there shall be returned to the veterans a sum equal to the allotments, insurance premiums and laundry charges they were compelled to pay; and, in addition thereto, every man who served in the world war between April 5, 1917, and July 1, 1919, shall receive twenty dollars a month for every month served in the war and for every fraction of a month served, over there, and here.

"This latter amount is fixed at twenty dollars the month because the civil service employees of the government were paid and are yet paid twenty dollars a month, on account of the high cost of living, still quite high enough, especially here in Washington. This bill by Senator Bursum is known as Senate 4026. If you haven't copied for goodness sake get some, and wake up. It is going to be the law of the land sure as the world goes round. There is no politics in it. You will find Senator Walsh of Massachusetts just as heartily for it as Senator Bursum is. I herculean work he has done in this position. I do not know how much you think of Senator Bursum down your way, but here at the capital no public man stands in higher esteem, and there is no more indefatigable worker in the senate. I heard a man from Michigan say one day: 'Whenever New Mexico gets tired of Senator Bursum, well take him.' For heaven's sake tell the comrades in New Mexico the American Legion has just begun to fight for what it believes is coming to it by right and equity; it doesn't want a bonus; a gift, something it has not earned; it wishes to be treated as children of the republic who were out fighting for the government, as well as those who stayed at home and had their three squares a day and never smelled gas."

NINETEEN WOMEN SEEK SEATS IN NATIONAL HOUSE

Four Are Candidates for the Senate and 15 Hope to Be Elected to the Lower Branch of Congress.

Special to The Journal.
Washington, Oct. 28.—Women are coming into their own in politics—national politics at least. This is the first year since the ratification of the nineteenth amendment that public interest is not concentrated on some great political problem of international importance. This "off year" affords the first real opportunity for women candidates to enter public life to get something like a fair and unbiased hearing before the electorate.

The result is that four women are seeking senate seats and that fifteen hope to be elected to places in the House of Representatives. Already one woman has been duly appointed a United States senator, but because congress is not in session has not been sworn in and seated. The members of the lower house already includes one woman representative, the beloved "Aunt Alice" Robertson of Oklahoma.

Political Washington never has taken kindly to the idea of women in politics. Nor has Washington itself, although it is without the privilege of the franchise under the constitution, welcomed the suffragists. It is not so long ago that the first suffrage parade in Washington was mobbed on the historic Pennsylvania avenue and the police did little or nothing to protect the women marchers for the cause of political equality. Unfranchised Washington citizens chortled when the pickets at the White House were sent to the workhouse of the District of Columbia at Occoquan. Probably not having the vote themselves they did not wish women to be granted a vote. Possibly because the city's residents are naturally conservative they did not wish the franchise extended and equal rights granted to women.

Washington Resentful.
No matter what the reason is, Washington has been consistently resentful of woman suffrage and is viewing with no little concern the possibility of several women gaining congress seats.

First of the women candidates to show her head in the courts was Mrs. Peter Olesen, democratic nominee for the senate in Minnesota. Feminism met a setback the moment she was named and she almost lost the nomination by a technicality. Like all women who have gone into politics she wished to retain her individuality and wanted to appear on the ticket as Mrs. Anna D. Olesen. The matter was carried to the courts (two women judges there) and it was decided that if she went before the electorate it would have to be as "Mrs. Peter Olesen." Mrs. Olesen is supposed to have a pretty fair chance against Senator "Trust Buster" Kellogg.

The neighboring state of Wisconsin furnishes another democratic woman ambitious to change her tailor-made suit for a senatorial toga. She is Mrs. Ben Hooper of Oshkosh and she has attempted the seemingly impossible task of defeating Senator Robert M. La Follette. Judging from the primary returns, Mrs. Hooper's battle is hopeless. Whether Mrs. Hooper runs officially as Mrs. Ben Hooper or as Jessie Jack Hooper is not known here.

Calder Seems to Be Safe.
In New York State the contest between the incumbent, Senator William M. Calder of Brooklyn and Dr. Royal S. Copeland is enlivened by the presence in the field of Mrs. Ella L. Boole. Her platform is better enforcement of the Volstead law and she has the backing of the W. C. T. U. and certain reform organizations. The women of the two old line parties, however, are unlikely to be drawn away from their allegiance because one of their own sex is running, and unless "Al" Smith polls such phenomenal vote that he literally will drag in Dr. Copeland as a winner, Senator Calder seems to be holding the three-cornered race safe.

Pennsylvania provides the fourth woman candidate for the senate in the person of Mrs. Rachel C. Robinson who is running as a prohibitionist for the seat once held by the late Philander C. Knox. Mrs. Ellen Duane Davis, of Philadelphia, had aspirations for this senate seat but her husband prevailed upon her not to undertake it, as a state wide campaign would be too much of a strain upon her strength. She was not to be daunted, however, and won the regular Democratic nomination for the House in the Second District. She is the great granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin and is widely known and popular in the district where she is running.

The following table indicates at a glance just where these progressive women are seeking national honors and shows which parties they hope to represent at the capitol:

| Senate | House |
|--------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|
| Minnesota, Mrs. Peter Olesen, democratic. | Arizona, Mrs. H. A. Guild, republican. |
| New York, Mrs. Ella L. Boole, prohibitionist. | California, Elvina S. Beale, socialist. |
| Pennsylvania, Mrs. Rachel C. Robinson, prohibitionist. | Illinois, Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, republican. |
| Wisconsin, Mrs. Ben Hooper, democratic. | Indiana, Esther Kathleen O'Keefe, democratic. |
| | Minnesota, Lillian Cox Gault, democratic. |

Interesting Side Lights.
The nomination of several of these women and their active campaigns for their seats furnish some very interesting political side lights. For instance, Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, who is the republican nominee for representative at large from Illinois, is the candidate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her father, Representative William E. Mason. It is considered practically certain that she will be elected. Her tenure of office, however, would be short because her father's term expires on March 4, next. Nevertheless, Mrs. Huck would be called to Washington on November 20, when President Harding summons congress to pass the ship subsidy bill, certain essential strike legislation and some new transportation laws, before the short session, which begins in December, attempts to keep the appropriation bills down to the budget limits.

Another Interesting Fight.
Another very interesting fight is in the Fifth North Carolina district, where Mrs. Patterson wants the seat in the house now held by Representative Steadman, who is the only Confederate soldier in congress. Mrs. Patterson is not only an active fighter for women's rights but is an aggressive one and has announced on the stump that if she is elected she will seek to make women eligible to appointments in the United States consular service. Her chance for election is said to be about fifty-fifty with that of her rival.

Mrs. Adelina Otero-Warren, of New Mexico, is the only woman congress candidate who beat in the primaries a present member of congress. He is Representative Nestor Montoya and he was only able to poll 99 1/2 votes in the nominating convention against 44 1/2 polled by his feminine rival. Mrs. Warren has been superintendent of schools in Santa Fe county for several years and as such insisted that English be the only language taught, although between sixty and seventy per cent of the residents of that county speak Spanish or a Mexican patois in their homes.

Suffragists here in Washington regret keenly that Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Georgia, will not be sworn in as a senator. She was appointed by Governor Hardwick to the vacancy created by the death of Senator Tom Watson, but it is an empty honor unless some extraordinary crisis arises that compels the President to call congress in special session before November 7. Walter F. George, former justice of the state supreme court has been overwhelmingly nominated for Senator Watson's seat, and in fact this is equivalent to an election, although the democratic convention did not meet until today (October 28), in Macon, to confirm the primary results.

How to Elect.
The appointment of Mrs. Felton as the first woman U. S. Senator (or Senator) was a particularly bitter blow to feminists of other states because she was appointed by Governor Hardwick to the vacancy created by the death of Senator Tom Watson, but it is an empty honor unless some extraordinary crisis arises that compels the President to call congress in special session before November 7. Walter F. George, former justice of the state supreme court has been overwhelmingly nominated for Senator Watson's seat, and in fact this is equivalent to an election, although the democratic convention did not meet until today (October 28), in Macon, to confirm the primary results.

Felton personally—she is 87 years old and has labored all her life to aid her fellow women—but because Georgia as a state fought woman suffrage to the very end. Mrs. Felton's appointment also started up a pretty fight between old line party women.

It seems Mrs. Catherine Livingston Eagan of New York, wrote to President Harding and asked him to call a special one-day session of the Senate prior to the November elections, so that Mrs. Felton might be sworn in. The President found out it would cost $45,000 in mileage fees, and refused the request. Mrs. Eagan, determined to have the senatorial honors for women an actual fact, suggested that the Senators forego their mileage and in another letter said that she felt sure that the republican members of the upper body would do so. In a mild way she expressed the fear that the southern democratic senators because of their known opposition to female suffrage would not pay their own mileage and this statement hurt the feelings of Mrs. Mary Wright Johnson.

Roasts Republicans.
Mrs. Johnson took pen in hand and proceeded to roast the republican party quite freely. The battle of letters continued and Mrs. Eagan got the last word by offering to produce in a theater in Washington a signed agreement from more republican senators to forego their mileage for a special session than Mrs. Johnson could produce from democratic senators. The penalty suggested by Mrs. Eagan was the contribution of $25 by the loser in this contest to the campaign fund of the other.

Only one woman is running for governor of a state. This is Miss Alice Lorraine Daly of South Dakota, candidate of the ultra radical non-partisan league. When she was nominated some months ago it was believed she had better than a fighting chance to win the office, but since then there has been noted change in sentiment in that state and her republican rival is more than likely to be successful. No mention need be made in this story of the hundreds of women who have been nominated for minor state, county and village elective positions throughout the United States. Their number is legion if one takes into account the school board elections, and their success in administration in the close-to-home political places promises an ever increasing number in office each year.

COUNTY BOARD IN COURT FOR APPOINTMENTS

Commissioners to Show Cause Monday for Republican Majority on Election Judge Board.

Defying public instructions of Judge M. E. Hickey in the district court to appoint a democratic majority on the precinct election boards, the county commissioners yesterday evening stuck by their decision to appoint republicans and will answer the subsequent alternate writ of mandamus which issued against them on Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

After a series of sessions of the board yesterday during which the court orders to change their appointments to a democratic majority were read, the original republican majority stands. "I have decided myself that we were right," said Max Gutierrez, chairman of the commission, addressing a called meeting of the board at 6 o'clock yesterday evening. "We will explain in court on Monday morning why we appointed two republicans on the board. If there is no other business the meeting is adjourned."

The appointment of two democrats on each board was declared necessary by Judge Hickey. It was said, since the commissioners had been elected to the board on the democratic ticket. He explained that it was not customary to give rulings in that manner and that he had already decided on the matter two years previous.

The board readjusted at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and appointed two republican judges on each precinct board and selected polling places in each precinct at the homes of republicans from a list submitted by Hubbell and Romero. The alternate writ of mandamus issued at 3 o'clock commanding the commissioners to appoint a democratic majority on the boards or to show cause in court on Monday morning. Decision to show cause was made at the final meeting yesterday evening.

A petition signed by 181 voters in the north part of Precinct No. 13, Old Town, asking for a polling place in the new additions north of the city to save them coming a distance to the court house to vote, was denied by the commissioners.

EXCAVATION IS BEGUN FOR NEW RESERVOIR
City teams, under the direction of City Engineer Frank Kimball, yesterday began excavating for the new reservoir, northeast of University Heights. About 7,000 cubic yards of earth will be removed, according to the city engineer. Plans have been made for proceeding with other portions of the construction work, City Manager B. H. Calkins said yesterday.

VARSITY LOBOS DEFEAT TEXANS; SCORE IS 13-0

Game Is a Scoreless Tie Until the Last Quarter, When New Mexico Forges Ahead and Wins Out.

The Lobos defeated the Texas Miners, 13 to 0, on Varsity field Saturday afternoon, in a game that appeared for three quarters as though it might end in a scoreless tie, the Lobos outplaying the fighting Miners most of the time, but lacking the necessary punch to score when the opportunity presented itself.

The Miners were on the defensive practically throughout the game, and relied a great deal on the kicking of McCormick to keep them out of danger. Several times the Lobos threatened the Ore Diggers goal, but each time were pushed back by the desperate Miners. The Miners made few first downs, while the Lobos made many more than the score would indicate.

A nasty wind, with gusts of rain, made the game a real struggle for both players and spectators, and prevented much aerial play on the part of either team.

In the last quarter, the Lobos opened up with something like a real offensive. Jones skirted left end for 40 yards, and planted the ball in the shadow of the Miners' goal, then carried it across for a touchdown, after Hernandez had made three yards on a line plunge. The second touchdown came two minutes and a half before the end of the game, when Jones passed to Harrington, 30 yards, and Harrington ran 40 yards for a touchdown. A 30-yard pass by Popejoy through the whole Miner team was another feature of the third quarter.

Varsity paid dearly for its victory with the loss of Pearce to Greenleaf, the former with a dislocated elbow, and the latter with a dislocated shoulder, both occurring in the first quarter. It is doubtful if these men will be able to play in the Arizona game, November 18.

Summary of Game.

Bennett hit right tackle for three yards, and the Miners lost five yards on a fumble, and were forced to punt. Harrington received the punt on Varsity's ten-yard line, and ran it back ten yards. ATTACK MADE ON NEW CABINET BY FORMER PREMIER Coalition Government Was Leading the Country Out of the Troubles Inflicted by the War, He Says.

London, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—The most important event of today's campaigning was the invasion of Scotland by Lloyd George. Supported by two of his cabinet colleagues, Lord Birkenhead and Sir Robert Stevenson, the former prime minister made speeches at Glasgow and Edinburgh, the two leading Scottish cities. There were great crowds at both places.
Mr. Lloyd George has not yet revealed any conservative program. The essence of his argument was the danger of swapping horses while crossing a stream. The understanding between the conservative and Lloyd George liberals is spreading, although it is the cause of much dissatisfaction among the extremists of both camps.
To his Glasgow supporters Mr. Lloyd George delivered a strong, although not bitter attack on the new cabinet. His argument was that the coalition government was slowly but surely leading the country out of the troubles inflicted upon it by the war.

3-RING CIRCUS? NO! LEGIONNAIRES

Members of Robert E. Bentley Post, of Cincy, and their flivver, have gay old time.

The press of business at the national convention of the American Legion in New Orleans couldn't keep the delegates from enjoying themselves by staging a little Mardi Gras of their own. The Robert E. Bentley Post of Cincinnati, O., started it.

HERE IS HAROLD LLOYD AS "GRANDMA'S BOY"

Coming to the Pastime Theater, Starting Wednesday

The boldest thing "grandma's boy" ever did was sing out loud in church. When his rival threatened to throw him if he didn't stay away from the girl, he ran home and hid. Then came a dark, stormy night, when every man in the village was sworn into the sheriff's posse to search for a desperate murderer. "Grandma's boy" was dragged out from under the bed and compelled to go along. And two minutes after he got started, things began to happen to him so fast and furious that you'll just about laugh yourself into convulsions. For five years Harold Lloyd has cherished a high ambition to make a certain new type of comedy. He showed indications of striving in that direction in "Never Weaken." In "A Sailor-Made Man" he showed still more promise of fulfillment. Now, in "Grandma's Boy," he has reached his goal. And if you will ask anyone who has been in Los Angeles in the last three months, they will tell you that since the world's premiere of this picture at the immense Symphony theater in that city, it has been the sensation of the town. Tourists talk of little else. The picture is booked to stay at the Symphony for one solid year. This great picture will open a run of four days at the Pastime theater and the Pastime's regular prices will prevail. Better come early, because the minute folks see this picture there is going to be a genuine stampede.

PIONEER FIRM CLOSES DOORS; 56 YEARS OLD

Grunsfeld Brothers Sell Entire Stock to Prominent Dry Goods Firm of Denver, Colorado.

Announcement was made yesterday of the sale of the stock of the pioneer wholesale firm of Grunsfeld Brothers, to the Golden Eagle Dry Goods company of Denver, Colo. The sale marks the passing of the oldest wholesale dry goods house in the southwest. The Golden Eagle Dry Goods company is one of the largest retail department store concerns in the west.
The foundation of the Grunsfeld business was laid in 1866, when Spiegelberg Brothers, who are said to have been the first men other than Spanish to engage in the mercantile business in New Mexico, came to Old Albuquerque and established a general merchandise store. Five years later they were joined by Alfred Grunsfeld, who became associated in business with them and in a few years succeeded to the proprietorship.
The business later was removed to the corner of Gold and First streets, where a building was erected for it. A few years later it became a wholesale dry goods business, and its trade extended from the Colorado line to the middle of Arizona. On the death of Albert Grunsfeld in 1903, the business was taken over by his two sons, Alfred Grunsfeld and Ivan Grunsfeld. Alfred Grunsfeld died some time ago, and it was decided to close out the business.
Ivan Grunsfeld will remove shortly to Chicago.
The large building occupied by the firm for many years has not been disposed of. The firm has employed as many as 20 persons.
The city of Milwaukee, Wisconsin is the only city in the United States with an official real estate agent.

New York, Oct. 28 (by the Associated Press).—The committee of forty-eight, functioning as a liberal party, announced today through J. A. H. Hopkins chairman of its national executive committee, that in seven states contests have already narrowed down to a two-party fight, "with the chances in favor of the progressives."
The states, he said, are Pennsylvania, South Dakota, North Dakota, Idaho, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Delaware.

HOOVER, WORLD FIGURE, COMING ON NOVEMBER 11

Secretary of Commerce to Be Principal Speaker at C. of C. Dinner; Tickets in Great Demand.

Herbert Hoover, the most conspicuous member of President Harding's cabinet, and the man who so conserved the foodstuffs of the United States as to enable the allies to win the world war, and who has been constantly directing the relief work in Asia and Europe, will speak in Albuquerque on the evening of November 11, at a Chamber of Commerce banquet in the armory.

This will be the first opportunity of the people of Albuquerque to see and hear Herbert Hoover, who is one of the world's outstanding figures. He will be the principal speaker. But also present at the banquet will be Thomas E. Campbell, governor of Arizona; Emmett D. Boyle, governor of Nevada; Oliver H. Shoup, governor of Colorado; Joseph M. Carey, governor of Wyoming; and Charles R. Mabey, governor of Utah. Of course, Merritt C. Mechem, governor of New Mexico, will also be one of the guests.

Among the other guests will be Senator A. A. Jones, Judge Stephen B. Davis, one of the commissioners of the Colorado river project and republican candidate for the United States senate, Congressman Montoya and the congressman—or woman-elect for New Mexico, and the governor-elect.

The tickets are one dollar, and about one-fourth of the number of plates have been already sold. The Chamber of Commerce warns the people who wish to attend, both of Albuquerque and other communities, that no tickets will be sold later than Monday, November 6. Reservations will not be made unless tickets are paid for. More people will want to attend the banquet than the armory will accommodate, therefore it is the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce to adopt the policy of first come first served.

Convenience will be so arranged from the stage that every speaker can be heard easily in any part of the armory. A good musical program will be arranged. The banquet will begin promptly at 6:30 p. m.

8 HOURS SLEEP IS NEEDED BY EVERY PERSON

Health Officer Says Those Who Rest Less Than That Amount Each 24 Hours
Suffer Injury.

BY DR. O. C. WEST, HEALTH OFFICER

If it were possible to enact an eight-hour sleeping law to balance the labor law of like title, there would be no doubt that it would be a great improvement in the health, well-being and efficiency of the community. Cheating the body of its natural period of rest and comfort to procure a little more entertainment in the wee hours in the morning is like driving a machine on a flat tire. It is absolutely impossible to maintain a good state of health if late hours are kept night after night, because the vital forces necessary to combat disease are reduced below par and the invading germs find a fertile field for their development.

Sleep is a part of the daily necessities of life. It is the restorer and regenerator of physical and mental strength. Just as the lull in battle is the time apportioned to the clearance of waste and the advance of new troops for a fresh and renewed onslaught, so sleep permits the elimination of fatigue products and re-accumulation of energy for the next day's work.

The greater part of the infant's life is spent in sleep, during which time the constructive forces are at work building up the tissues of the body and the process of development exceeds the destructive changes. In the adult, however, construction and destruction balance each other, and any tendency to increase the latter over the former results in a reduction of bodily strength. It is, therefore, essential that every adult sleep at least eight hours of each twenty-four in order to preserve his state of health.

Rest in Bed.

People of neurotic tendencies who are troubled with insomnia may be greatly improved by taking an occasional day off from their regular routine work and rest up in bed, thus permitting the elimination of the products of fatigue and nerve fire. The use of hypnotic drugs to induce sleep is to be condemned because of their habit forming nature; furthermore the sleep produced by hypnotic drugs is unnatural and much less effective than normal sleep.

Exercise in Air.

The tired, worn-out laborer finds little trouble in falling to sleep at night, while the mental worker may have great difficulty in securing the needed rest. This is explained by the fact that physical work is essential to bring about the desired effect of sleep. The office worker and the busy merchant will therefore find that systematic daily exercise may be a great help in warding off insomnia.

The normal, healthy person does not complain of great effort to rise in the morning, nor does he perspire a haggard tired look with bloodshot eyes and tired countenance. His appearance is fresh and bright, and the day is started with an air of happiness and good cheer. He has a kind word for his friends and the day's labor goes on without a mishap.

Just contrast this with the man who keeps late hours at night. He is aroused from his sleep with difficulty, eats but a scanty breakfast or none at all, and is usually late at the office. His day is long, and nothing seems to be accomplished satisfactorily.

We all recognize the importance of sufficient sleep, but it is not until the evil effects of inadequate rest become evident that effort is made to adjust the deficiency. Offenders of the eight-hour sleeping law should therefore try to make up the sleep lost through careless habits. There is no greater remedy than rest which normal sleep brings. It is a healer of all physical and mental troubles and is the physician's best friend in the treatment of disease. If every member of each household would abide by the eight-hour sleeping law, there would be less sickness, more happiness, more efficiency and general well being in this world.

Innocent, as Usual.

A Western exchange tells of a speed maniac who ran head-on into a seven-story office building and after retaining consciousness weakly murmured, "I blew my horn."—Boston Transcript.

ONE OF FAMOUS LANGHORNE GIRLS RETURNS TO U. S.

Miss Vita M. Langhorne.

Miss Vita M. Langhorne of Alameda, Cal., a member of the famous Langhorne family of Virginia, has just returned to the U. S. after an extended tour of Europe.

For the evening, brilliant metal brocades, and particularly those of Persian or East Indian coloring, are the smartest materials with which to be shod. For variety, however, these brocades are frequently combined with heels and straps of gold, silver, plain satin, or even, at times, velvet.

For informal evening wear, the strapped or sandal models worn with the somewhat shorter dancing frocks, rather than with the long brocade or velvet evening gowns, are made in shiny glaze kid in lovely colors, such as carmine, magenta, or purple. These kid slippers are a new and important note and one not to be overlooked by the young person in search of the novel footwear of the moment. Round rose stockings are worn with them.

DESCRIBES METHODS USED BY BOOTLEGGERS IN BERMUDAN WATERS

Hamilton, Bermuda, Oct. 28.—This is how some marine bootleggers are believed to operate in Bermudan waters. Such a man comes to Hamilton and engages a steamer of small dimensions or a motor boat. Then he buys whiskey ashore, and loads his ship to the rails with the product of the Scotch distillers. He clears for a Canadian port and puts to sea.

Within a day or so, sometimes within 24 hours, the vessel is back in Hamilton, but without her cargo. Were he pressed for an explanation the bootlegger doubtless would say, with a smile, that he was caught in a storm which washed away his deck load, and that he had even to throw over board the cases below decks to lighten the ship.

Ships entering American ports may not be permitted to carry liquor, but with this law the man with a local charter does not concern himself. His interest is limited to these waters. He has been known to talk of latter day pirates, but he does not seem particularly to fear them. A "pirate" with a desire to sell for $12.00 a bottle what he can lift at sea for nothing, perhaps, sails from an American port and heads for Bermuda. He lays off and on until he meets a victim in the shape of a small motor boat. He overhauls her, and with a display of force sufficient to warrant a recital on the docks when the motor boat gets back to Hamilton, he transfers the cargo he desires.

"One or dese safety razors," said Uncle Eben, "may be safer for shavin', but it ain't no perfection at a rough party."—Washington Star.

To free your skin from blemishes

ASK a skin specialist why it is that your skin is continually breaking out with disfiguring little blemishes.

He will almost certainly tell you that this condition comes from an outside infection.

Authorities on the skin now say that skin blemishes are generally caused by bacteria and parasites which are carried into the pores from outside, through the dust and soot in the air.

To free your skin from blemishes, use this simple treatment:

EACH night just before retiring, wash your face with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water, finishing with a dash of cold water, and dry carefully.

Now dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy, creamlike lather.

Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this and leave it on for ten minutes.

Rinse your face thoroughly, first with clear hot water, then with cold.

GET a cake of Woodbury's today. A 25-cent cake lasts for a month or six weeks.

Smart New Fashions in Women's Gowns, Coats and Suits

Achieving charm, originality, and distinction through the skillful use of smart lines and colorings, this apparel emphasizes these qualities still further by a pronounced beauty of workmanship.

The GOWNS May Be Paneled or Draped

Such a varied array from which to choose! There isn't a clever new idea in drapery, there isn't a graceful new treatment of panels—and panels are a synonym for slenderness—there isn't an engaging new neck-line nor a novel sleeve effect that isn't interpreted here.

The WRAPS and COATS

And winter wraps! Here one may well become enthusiastic, for not only have the designers excelled all previous efforts in beauty of line, but the fabrics, too, are richer, softer, and deeper—light in weight, but impenetrably warm in the bleakest weather.

Many of them are trimmed with deep collars and cuffs of fur; some have panels edged with fur, others still show wide fur borders. Sizes 34 to 54½.

The Suits feature two and three piece effects

So luxurious and soft in fabric, so smart in line, and so richly fur trimmed that you will be won immediately by their distinctive good looks, as well as by the appealingly moderate prices. Tailored, too, with minute perfection in every detail.

Two-Piece SUITS of duvet superior in box coat style. Large shawl collar and cuffs of caracul. Sizes 34 to 44. Three-Piece Costume SUITS developed in marleen, Delysia, and laurella. All are beautifully fur trimmed, and many of the frocks show hand embroidery on the blouse.

In black, navy, brown, and Sorrento. (One of the many models is illustrated). Sizes 34 to 44.

Frocks, coats, and suits for all the varied occasions of winter. And just as they are conspicuous for their high quality, so they are doubly conspicuous in their marked moderation of price.

Tailored frocks for street wear, soft crepes for afternoon hours, silks and velvets for dinner or evening gowns, in every lovely winter fabric and coloring are included. All have about them those important little touches which make a frock so gratifyingly different.

A variety of models which will smartly meet the needs of every occasion! In the favored colorings of Autumn. All are lined with silk and warmly interlined.

NEW AUTUMN MILLINERY

Ultra-modish hats indulging fashion's whim for the very large and dashing and for the very small and smart. Big hats achieve an air of bewitching softness; little hats achieve an air of inimitable chic. Stunning large black hats fairly bend under the weight of their one-sided trimmings. Hats turn up at the most unexpected and engaging angles—and thereby hangs their charm. Hats fit "close," assuming the line of the eyebrows; hats tilt saucily, or droop enchantingly. Black hats—Autumnal russets and deep wine-reds—soft greens—Smart tans and browns—glowing, vibrating blues. $7.50 and up.

WORLD W. C. T. U. CONVENTION TO MEET NOV. 11-16

Wearers of the White Ribbon Representing Every Nation Are Expected to Be in Attendance.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—Wearers of the white ribbon of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, representing nearly every nation in the world, will assemble here November 11-16 in the eleventh world convention of their organization. Two great objects of the convention are announced as follows: "The enlistment of every civilized country in the world in the anti-liquor cause, and the development of a determined offensive against the movement to modify or repeal the United States dry amendment and statutes."

A polystyrene prohibition petition which, when rolled up tight, fills seven huge packing cases, and which contains eight million signatures set down in more than 50 languages, will be unrolled and draped about the hall of assembly in the Philadelphia Academy of Music.

Delegates from abroad will come prepared to make a careful study of the methods used by American women to win the country to the prohibition cause and also those used for its enforcement now that the country is legally dry. The visitors from Finland and Scandinavian countries, where prohibition has been tried in modified form, will focus their attention on the enforcement phase of prohibition, that being the most troublesome part of their own laws.

W. C. T. U. representatives from China, Japan, Ceylon, South Africa, Burma, India, Australia, and New Zealand will be present prepared to discuss their own experiences of the experience of anti-liquor crusaders in different parts of the world, also to lay the tales of their own experiences before the convention for counsel and criticism. From Mexico, Cuba and South America generally will come a host of women, many of whom were present at the recent Pan-American Suffrage Conference.

Western Europe will be amply represented. Ireland will send its quota and Scotland, which in recent years has been a battleground of the prohibitionists and the supporters of John Barleycorn, will send its band of determined women.

At the opening of the convention the organization will lack but a few months of being 50 years in existence. Its white banner has been visible wherever war against liquor or cigarette smoking has been waged. The reports received at the convention are expected to furnish a barometer of the state of prohibition in every nation of the world.

Due to the death of Lady Carlisle, president of the world organization last year, Miss Anna A. Gordon, vice-president, will be chairman at the convention.

NEW USES FOR WASTED FRUITS ARE DEVELOPED

Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture Has Prepared a Circular on the Subject.

Washington, Oct. 28.—How to turn waste into profit, is the subject of a circular of the Agricultural Department, prepared by the Bureau of Chemistry to aid producers of oranges, grape fruit, lemons and lemons who yearly suffer great loss in bruised, undersized or oversized fruit.

The circular gives directions for the commercial manufacture of grape fruit juice, orange vinegar, citrate of lime, candied grape fruit and orange peel, marmalades of various kinds, jellies and butters, which can be obtained free from the Department.

Since vinegar made from oranges is quite as satisfactory as that made of apples, orange vinegar might well be substituted, it is shown, especially in regions where many cull oranges would otherwise be wasted.

Grapefruit juice is a favorite among the refreshing juices on the market. It is not so well suited to home manufacture as other citrus fruit by-products because of the necessary apparatus. However, it should be possible to prepare grapefruit juice on a small scale in the home if desired, by means of utensils usually available.

Citrate of lime is an article of commercial importance which can be made from cull lemons or limes.

Candied grapefruit and orange peel makes an excellent center for chocolates and also serves as a substitute for citron in baking. Candied orange peel may be mixed with icing for cakes or with dough for cookies. It may also replace shredded coconut in homemade candies, and fresh orange peel in marmalade. Many firms now use similar products instead of citron in making mince meat.

Orange butter, especially with a small amount of pineapple pulp added, may be a new product to many people. All the recipes have been tried out in the laboratory and have proven successful.

Wines that can be demounted in two minutes are the feature of a new French airplane.

ONE WOMAN AND ANOTHER

By J. A. WALDRON.

Illustration by Lawrence Fellows

"But your tone! And what a question!"

The Leylands occupied an elaborate suite in one of New York's noted hotels. Usually they had breakfasted together upstairs, but this morning Leyland had alone sought the hotel breakfast-room and was seated when Mrs. Leyland appeared. Apparently she was disturbed by his change of habit. He looked at her curiously with an uncongenial "Good morning" as she took a chair opposite.

Leyland, groomed for the morning, might have served as a model for tailoring, haberdashery, and all else that superficially denoted a man of fashion. His feline was a fair outside.

Mrs. Leyland, as lately had been her habit, was a bit frumpish in appearance. She had not enjoyed the full ministrations of her maid, apparently. Her hair needed attention, and were traces of cold cream. They had been married about a year.

"Good morning, dear," she responded to his salutation.

Leyland proceeded with his grapefruit, but was manifestly disturbed by her presence. "I wonder," he asked after a silent period, "if you would have permitted me to see you as you now are before we were married?" He looked about the room and added: "It's lucky there are few persons down yet."

Mrs. Leyland sat up, startled. "What do you mean, John?"

"Wasn't my question fair? You understood what I asked, I dare say."

"But your tone! And what a question! I found you were here, and hurried to have breakfast with you."

"I would rather you had taken time to be presentable. I'm tired of seeing you as you look now, and worse. I prefer to eat alone."

"Why, John?" And Mrs. Leyland became tearful as Leyland, without finishing his breakfast, rose and left her. And weeping, she went out after him, but he had gone.

In her own richly appointed and intimate room Mrs. Leyland telephoned her dear friend, Mrs. Burwick, who also lived at the hotel, to come to her at once, if possible.

A maid appeared at the door: "Shall I help you now, madam?" she asked.

A bell sounded. "Not yet, Agnes," said Mrs. Leyland. That is Mrs. Burwick. Please go to the door."

Mrs. Burwick was past middle age, but she was turned out so perfectly as to dress and otherwise that she might have been taken for thirty. "What's the matter, dear?" she asked. Making an overture which meant a kiss, she thought better of it. Mrs. Leyland was not kissable.

The weeping lady told what had happened.

"Of course you wouldn't have let him see you like this before you were married," said Mrs. Burwick. "He never would have married you if you had."

"You have no sympathy!" wailed Mrs. Leyland.

"Not an atom! Friendship means truth. Why don't you wake up? No man would put up with your careless habits. And you know your John is fastidious. I've warned you, dear, about this. You aren't thirty yet, and can be very attractive. Look at yourself in that mirror!"

"I know you are different, but—"

"Of course I'm different. I'm five years older than my William. I must keep myself in trim, or some other woman will get him. Even at breakfast I try to look as though I had slept in jeweler's cotton. I mix with young women and study their charm. If I had your natural physical harmony and youth, I could hold any man until I touched fifty years! Unless you change, you'll lose John."

Mrs. Leyland did change. Leyland was not at breakfast the next morning. She had risen two hours before her usual time, made her toilet with a girl's care, and found herself alone, but that did not discourage her, although it induced thought. When Leyland came to dinner she was looking her best, aside from a touch of nervousness. He complimented her on her appearance, but there was a note of difference in his manner.

When she joined him at breakfast the next morning, he scanned her carefully. She had risen early again, and was looking fine, yet she felt that he observed her with suspicion. He did think her reform was temporary—an expedient. The mischief had been done.

For a time they went along together apologetically. He was changed because he felt she would soon relapse, and she was changed because she was constantly apprehensive. It was not long before they were living apart.

Under the spur of Mrs. Burwick's admonition, however, Mrs. Leyland did not relax. She had a new pride in her possibilities. But the separation grew more definite, and after a time Leyland confessed that he was in love with another woman. A divorce was arranged. Even this did not discourage Mrs. Leyland. She had newly assessed her values.

Leyland's new flame was a young actress who promised to leave the stage. They were married and took up quarters in another hotel.

One evening, at a fashionable restaurant, Leyland and his new wife happened to dine at a table near which Mrs. Leyland number one and a man of ever greater consequence than Leyland were seated. Leyland was impressed by the perfection of his former wife's appearance. She had a poise new to her, and an air that charmed. Her companion's behavior was that of an ardent suitor.

A second honeymoon is rarely as vivid as a first. One morning, after a growing carelessness as to her toilet, Mrs. Leyland number two met Leyland at breakfast in their own suite, looking shockingly unkempt. Her hair, naturally luxuriant and beautiful, was knotted on top of her head. A soiled negligee, open at the neck—and in other circumstances it was a neck to be proud of—disclosed an unattractive, ribbened night-robe. Her feet held dingy mules insecurely. And all at once she seemed older than the years she had insisted upon.

"My dear," Leyland ventured, "I thought you were always careful of your looks—meticulously careful. I may say, 'You have a clever maid, you know.'"

She looked at him archly. "Why, John, dear! Aren't you foolishly exacting and unreasonable? I've caught the fish I angled for. Do you want me to go fishing again?"

Luckier Than He Knew.

A young man from the city got permission from a Maine farmer to hunt on his land, and during the day he got rather close to the home grounds. At dusk he met the farmer, who remarked, "Had pretty good luck, eh?"

"Well, no," said the young man hesitatingly. "I haven't had any luck at all."

"Oh, yes, you have," replied the farmer. "This morning you just missed my best cow." — Boston Transcript.

FRENCH HAMLETS IN THE UKRAINE THRIFTY, CLEAN

Houses Are Made of Mud Bricks, Tinted in Water Colors; Gardens Are Well Kept in Summer.

Kharkov, Oct. 28.—Lack of wood in the Ukraine has led French and German colonists to build houses of mud bricks held together by straw. These bricks are carefully pastered over with mud, and when dry the mud is tinted in water colors. One house will be a bright blue, another yellow, the next one pink or green, and the village as a whole makes a colorful picture. Plots upon which the houses stand are surrounded by low walls made of the same material and tinted to correspond with the house. Gardens are well kept in summer, and there is an abundance of fruit trees.

Harold H. Fisher, historian of the American Relief Administration, recently visited both the German and French colonies in the Ukraine. The German villages near the mouth of the Dniester, across from Bessarabia, he described as exceedingly picturesque and as sparkling and span as any along the Rhine.

"Protestants settle in 'one village, the Catholics in another,' said Mr. Fisher. 'One can recognize the prevailing religion of the village by the shape of the church spires. I also visited the French colonists in the Nicolay district. These people were brought to the Ukraine years ago to establish vineyards, and to promote the wine industry. They have made a success of their vine culture but this year their crop has been very small. They too have been hard hit by the famine.'

"The French and German colonists have been in Russia several generations, but have not as yet been sufficiently Russified to speak the language of the country, or to adopt its customs."

A 320 ton locomotive shipped to China is said to be the largest in the world outside the United States.

THE CULTIVATION OF RUBBER; METHODS OF PREPARING IT FOR THE MARKETS; NEW YORK IS CHIEF CONSUMERS' MARKET

The rapid growth in the production of rubber on plantations has made the work of buying crude rubber an altogether different kind of task from what it was when practically all rubber was "wild" and when scores of varieties were coming in from all parts of the tropics in all sorts of conditions.

Now, about nine-tenths of the crude rubber produced in the world is grown on plantations in the Far East under the direction of Europeans. One notable exception is the great plantations in Sumatra and Malaya. These are under the direction of Americans and it is not exaggerating to say that they lead all the plantations of the world in the scientific culture of the rubber tree.

The methods of preparing crude rubber on the plantations are such as trained business men would use, and the rubber reaches the market clean and in standard forms. So that about all a rubber merchant need know about rubber today is the various grades of ribbed and crepe rubber—the standard forms in which rubber comes from the plantations—and a few grades of Brazilian rubber. The latter, because of its high quality, still remains a factor in the market, while most of the other wild rubber has disappeared in competition with the plantation product.

When "wild rubber" dominated the market, a buyer had to be experienced and clever to a high degree to differentiate between the many varieties and forms and grades in which crude rubber was offered, and particularly to guard against being cheated out of his eye teeth in sharp trades. Buying rubber in those days was like the old business of swapping horses. All sorts of tricks were in vogue and only the shrewdest of merchants had any chance of avoiding the pitfalls. There grew up in those times a group of trained, careful buyers who could tell at sight every one of the varieties, their place of origin and their value when cleaned and dried.

Each rubber district had its own peculiar method of preparing the rubber for market, and the forms in which it was put up were in many cases almost grotesque. There were "niggers" from Soudan, Gambia and Sierra Leone, "virgins" from Matto Grosso, "twists" from Manoh and Lahou and "balls" from the Cameroon and Gaboon. Other forms were "nuts," "spindles," "thimbles," "sheets," "slabs," "marbles," "worms," "bleeds," "scraps," and "lumps."

In the earlier days a buyer had to give chief thought to getting full value for his money. Today, with a vast production and only a few varieties the buyers chief study is the condition of business throughout the world and the probable fluctuations in prices.

In the old days there used to be many important crude rubber markets: London and Liverpool in England; Para and Manaus in Brazil; Bordeaux for wild rubber from French Africa and Madagascar; Lisbon for Portuguese East Africa; and Antwerp for the Belgian Congo. Weekly auctions were held in Antwerp and Liverpool.

Even today no rubber center has a rubber exchange. Singapore, in the heart of the plantation section, has become the greatest primary market in the world, and London, through the fact that seventy-five per cent of the crude rubber is produced by British capital, is the largest secondary market. New York is the chief consumers' market. America consuming about seventy-five per cent of all the rubber produced, Singapore, Colombo and Amsterdam have weekly auctions where lots are offered in a variety of quantities and qualities. All the "wild rubber" markets have sunk into insignificance except Para and Manaus. In the primary markets in the plantation districts agents of the growers offer their goods to representatives of American and European rubber brokers and manufacturers. In the great secondary markets, such as London and New York, rubber is handled largely by brokers.

The manner in which crude rubber comes to market in Brazil is still very primitive. In spite of this fact there will probably always be a market for Brazilian rubber because of its high quality but the high cost of getting it out of the jungle will prevent its ever regaining a supreme position. With food scarce and expensive and labor high, Brazil can hardly hope ever again to become the first rubber nation of the world in competition with the Far East which has the inexpensive labor of China and India at its disposal.

In the vast forests which cover the valley of the Amazon and its tributaries are numberless scattered groups of wild rubber trees. In the important towns and cities it used to be the custom for rubber merchants to fit out collecting expeditions under men who gathered about them groups of Indian workers. The entire equipment for the expedition was furnished by the merchant, who literally "grub-staked" the expedition. Now there is much less of this outfitting by merchants, the heart of the expedition usually furnishing the equipment and supplies.

The expedition sets off into the jungle and spends months collecting the rubber from the scattered trees. At the points nearest to civilization the harvests of rubber are picked up by steamers which tie up along the river banks near the camps of the tappers. In more remote sections part of the men in the expedition work at rubber collecting, and the others make canoes and rafts from giant logs.

Each rubber district had its own peculiar method of preparing the rubber for market, and the forms in which it was put up were in many cases almost grotesque. There were "niggers" from Soudan, Gambia and Sierra Leone, "virgins" from Matto Grosso, "twists" from Manoh and Lahou and "balls" from the Cameroon and Gaboon. SMUGGLERS STOPPED AT MEXICAN BORDER, SPEEDING IN A CAR

It was a dark night on the Mexican border. The big car loomed up out of the blackness and sped by a swiftly moving shadow, disregarding the immigration officer's lusty summons to halt.

A shot rang out. Then another. Apparently the front tire was bullet-proof or the shots had missed their mark—the big car leaped forward with somebody's foot upon the accelerator.

The officer's gun flashed again. The big car swerved and slowed down, coming finally to a grinding stop, the rear tire flat, with the immigration men close at its heels.

"Hands up!" The officer's voice was not gentle, nor was the grip of the practiced hand on the six shooter that backed up the command.

A big darky, gun in hand, rose from the front seat. There were others in the back seat scarcely discernible in the darkness. The big fellow seemed to promise fight until one of the immigration men poked the muzzle of a shot gun dangerously close to his midriff.

"Doan you shoot, officer. Doan you shoot. Ah's yours," exclaimed the big man excitedly, releasing his hold on the gun and throwing his hands in the air.

In this manner several smugglers were captured on the border near Calexico a short while ago. The incident is related by Earl Gaskell, now of the superintendent's office at the plant of the Speckels "Savage" Tire company and formerly in the United States Immigration service on the border.

HIGH-GRADE LIGHT POWERED CAR IS EUROPEAN DEMAND

In answer to the European demand for a high-grade light-powered car of unusually low operating cost, there was announced a few weeks ago at the Seventeenth Annual Automobile Salon in Paris a new 16-20 horse power model. The new car, a six-cylinder chassis, is designed to meet the extraordinarily high price of petrol throughout Europe and the burdensome taxation based on horse power rating which is general on the Continent. Since its price in this country would be practically the same as that of the 40-50 horse power large car now being built in Springfield, the new car is not expected to develop an American vogue, especially since the larger car is notable for its low operating cost. The model exhibited in Paris was the product of the English plant at Derby. It is still in the trial and experimental stage, and will not in any measure interfere or interrupt the output of the standard 40-50 chassis.

FAST MOTORCYCLE MILE
The world's record for the mile on a half-mile track has been broken three times this year. Gene Walker riding at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., on Columbus Day made the two laps in 1:00 2-5. This breaks all existing records and it is the fastest time ever made in the history of cyclopedom for the mile on a half-mile dirt track.

Bats have a special touch-sense which prevents them from hitting things when flying at night.

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS COUPE

The approach of winter emphasizes the all-year usefulness of the car.

Wind and sleet beat in vain against the weather-stripped doors and windows. A floor radiator keeps the interior as warm as a room. The windows are readily adjusted for ventilation.

Underlying these seasonal comforts, is the satisfaction owners feel in the car's exceptional sturdiness.

The body proper is a hand-welded steel unit. It is now generally known that this novel construction has made possible Dodge Brothers enamel finish (instead of paint) which is baked at high temperature on the surface of the steel.

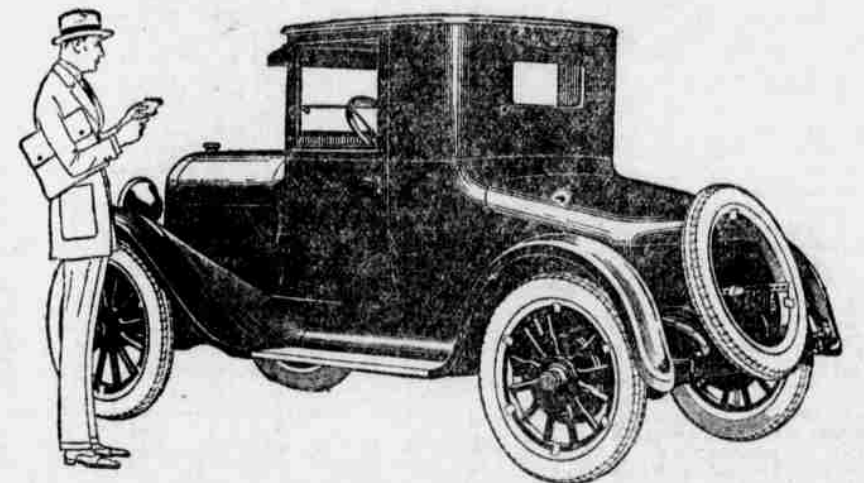

The trimness and grace of the body lines are enhanced by a non-rumble fabric top and rear quarters fashioned in the present attractive mode.

Genuine Spanish blue leather upholstery, wide snug-fitting doors and roomy luggage quarters heighten the impression you instantly get of the car's distinctive fitness for service, either business or social.

The price is $1,150 delivered, Albuquerque.

The Tire with the Wider and Thicker Tread

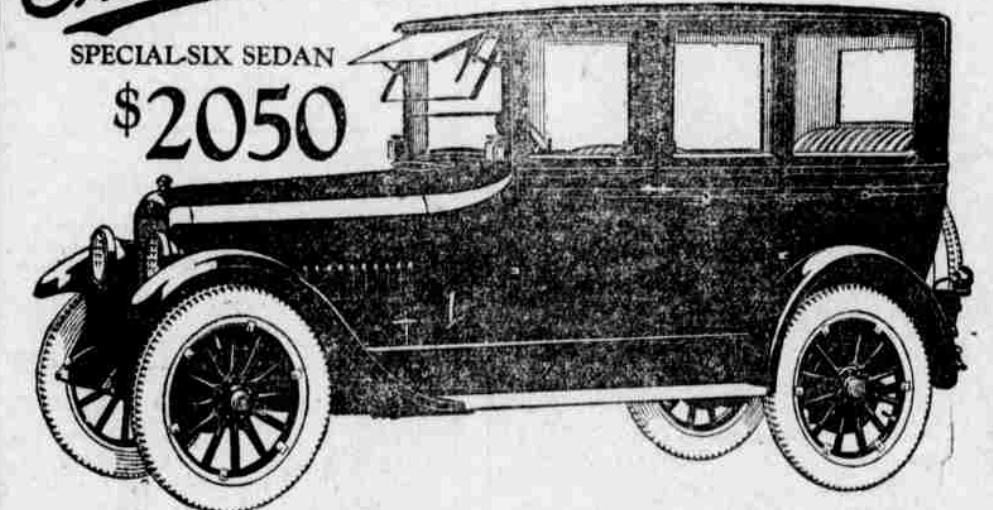

Aren't These Motorists Wise?—

Cord tires at nearly Fabric prices today offer a bargain of fully 50% more miles in the cord material. Of course the cords are all in the carcass of the tire and clearly, you must have a longer wearing tread on your cord tire if you want the extra miles out of the carcass. That's why more motorists every day are buying the cord tire with the wider and thicker tread. That's the Gates Super-Tread Cord.

HIGHWAY BOARD TO HELP HOMESEEKERS AND TO CONSIDER SUBURBAN PHASE OF MOTOR TRANSPORT; SIXTY CITIES SERVED

A nation-wide investigation into the uses to which the motor car is put by its purchasers, conducted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, discloses that in 125,000 instances in sixty cities throughout the country the motor car has been used as a vehicle of relief from high city rentals, the owners of this number of automobiles having moved from the city to the suburbs and depending solely upon their cars for transportation between their offices and homes.

The result of the Chamber's investigation was placed before the conference of the Highway Education Board at Washington, D. C. recently, on which the chamber was represented. The conference was called by John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, Chairman of the Board, to discuss all phases of highway construction, but primarily to continue steps, inaugurated two years ago to further the educational work of colleges and universities numbering highway engineering among their courses.

Thus far the investigation is incomplete. The sixty cities from which reports have been received include only three of the chief cities of the country, Baltimore, Detroit and Cleveland. The figures do not include New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco, St. Louis, Los Angeles or other cities of approximately their population. The combined population of the sixty reporting cities is less than 8,000,000.

If the same ratio is maintained throughout the rest of the United States, not less than 500,000 automobiles have been used during the past three years in the fight against high rents.

Baltimore and Detroit are tied for first place in the number of motor cars used primarily to carry workers to and from their work each day. In each case the number is approximately 25,000. Louisville is rated next, in returns compiled thus far, with 20,000. Oak Park, Ill., and Cleveland are rated at 5,999 cars each; Toledo at 3,599; Tampa, Fla., Dayton, Ohio, Pasadena, Calif., and Casper, Wyo., at 3,000; Winston-Salem, N. C., Tulsa, Okla., Houston, Tex., Richmond, Va., and Bellingham, Wash.—are reported to the Chamber as having 2000 cars each which have been devoted to this purpose.

HEAVIER GASOLINE GIVES BEST RESULTS FOR MOTOR FUEL

That gasoline considerably heavier and less volatile than the grade now in general use will produce practically the same automobile mileage per gallon, as shown by tests under government auspices to determine what is the best motor fuel for the average automobile.

Four typical automobiles, representing nearly 75 per cent of all passenger cars on the road, were selected for the tests, which were made by the Bureau of Standards at Washington, with the co-operation of the American Petroleum Institute, the Society of Automotive Engineers and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The schedule of tests represented as nearly as possible, all of the conditions of operation to which the average car is subjected in service.

It was demonstrated that in spite of the fact that the oil industry has been compelled to make increasingly heavy fuel in order to meet the demand, the lessened volatility of commercial gasoline has not only not affected the mileage per gallon, but that even heavier fuel will produce results just as satisfactory.

With the constantly increasing number of automobiles in use and the consequent growth of the demand for motor fuel, the necessity of obtaining an increased gasoline yield from crude petroleum will be appreciated especially when it is considered that the greater the yield, the lower the cost of production and therefore, the price to the consumer.

The tests are being continued to determine if the heavier grades of gasoline will produce the same results in winter and also whether the tendency of the heavier grades to dilute crank-case lubricants is too great to compensate for the more abundant supply of fuel.

In view of the results thus far achieved, however, it is believed that any such subsidiary problems as remain will be readily solved by the co-operative efforts of oil and automotive engineers.

LATEST STATISTICS ON 1922 PRODUCTION OF AUTOMOBILES

Latest automotive statistics indicate a 1922 production and sale in the United States of over 1,800,000 cars. This is in excess of even the most optimistic estimate made earlier in the year. In spite of the scrapping of 1,100,000 cars during the year, there will be a clear gain to the industry of over 600,000 cars. On this basis, replacement markets alone for the next five years will require more automobiles than were built during the past five years.

In the manufacture, sales, and service branches of the industry, and almost equally divided between them, are three-quarters of a mil-

WHY YOU SHOULD OWN AN AUTOMOBILE

Man's capital in the business of life is his time. His primary use of his capital is to buy space. From the primordial slime to this very hour, his life has been a matter of movement. Man must incessantly move himself and his goods from place to place. He must buy space with his time. The value of his time is measured in terms of space—miles per hour. His capital stock of time is limited to three score years and ten. With this limited capitalization, he must ever bargain for more and more space. He is ever trying to increase the working power of his limited capital.

For ages man bought his space with the horse, whose four feet had a greater purchasing power than his two. He bought space with the currents of rivers and with the winds. He bred the horse to go faster and faster, built faster sailing ships, and thus slowly and laboriously added a meager mile to his little store.

He discovered steam, and had his first big bargain at the space counter. His stock went soaring. He crowded steam faster and faster, gaining more and more of space, but it was qualified by rigid rails and vast expenditures of preliminary effort. His steam machine was master of the man. Man must still go with the machine on the machine's time. Even with the mile-a-minute locomotive, man's greatest movement was still with the horse at eight miles an hour.

Then came the automobile, and the price of space fell. As fast as the steam train, as mobile as the horse, the motor car increased man's capital of time manifold. Man is master of this machine to use it when and where he will. Man began to move voluntarily with slow feet. He was one of the slowest of the vertebrate. But now he darts about the earth faster than the fastest.

If one be disposed to ponder over the details of life to go back of the outward, immediate aspect of things, there is much more to an automobile show than an attractive marketing place.

Let any man look down at his two feet that can barely pace a yard at a time and when at these "seven league boots" that step by miles and let him consider how his time has been stretched and his space shortened.

They are all of them, from skimpy flivver to luxurious limousine, the evidence of man's victory over his limited capital of time.

They mark one of his greatest triumphs, the multiplication of his movements.

Which is but another way of saying that the automobile has lengthened his life.—Minneapolis Tribune

GOES TO EUROPE TO GET LINE ON SPEEDWAY ENTRIES

Carl G. Fisher, president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway company, announces that T. B. Myers, secretary and general manager of the Hoosier track sailed for Europe on the Aquitania on October 24. The Indianapolis Motor Speedway company is sending Mr. Myers to get a line on the prospects for European factory entries in the eleventh annual international 500-mile sweepstakes, on May 20, for 122 cubic inch cars.

European factories have raced the 122 cubic inch class this year in the French Grand Prix and the new Monza Speedway, at Milan, Italy. On the latter course which is Europe's first attempt to duplicate the Indianapolis course, the Europeans have also had success with the 91 cubic inch class. These classes in the European terms are known as the two and one and one-half liter divisions, being based on the cubic inch piston displacement of the engine.

Due to the number of European factories racing the small classes, Mr. Myers expects to have a greater number of European entries than ever before in the eleventh annual 500-mile event. On arriving in Europe he will be met by W. F. Bradley of Paris, the European representative of the Indianapolis Speedway, who will accompany him on his visits to the European factories. Mr. Myers plans to visit factories in England, France, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Italy and also to inspect the famous cement bowl at Brooklands and the new Monza track at Milan.

The Italians have permitted the German race teams to compete in their events and the Indianapolis Speedway has decided to accept entries from Germany and Austria for the coming race.

It is expected that Louis Coatalen will be back with a team of English Sunbeams; that Ernest Ballot will again put a Ballot team in the field and that Peugeot will come in. Much is expected of the Fiat team in 1923 and the Italians have been anxious to race at Indianapolis since 1917 but have never felt their cars could make the kind of a showing necessary to win at Indianapolis.

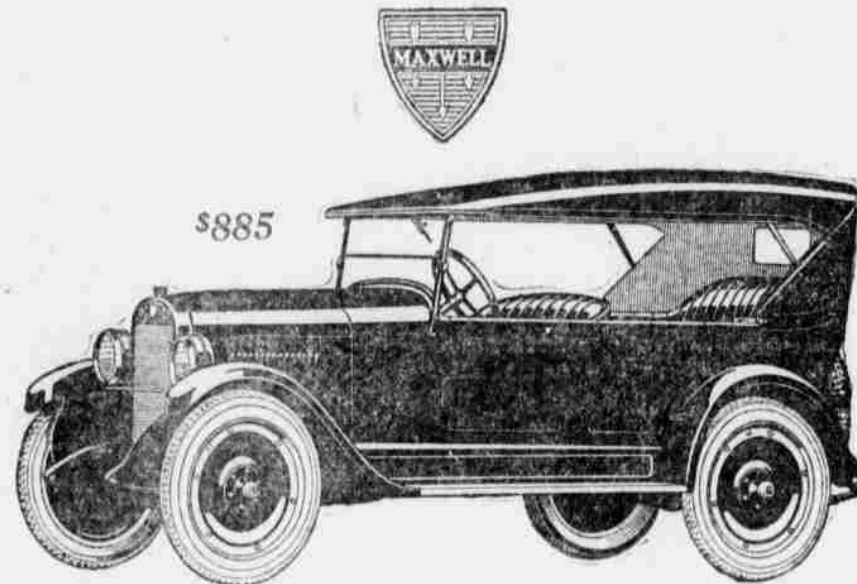

The decision to accept German entries should bring back the Mercedes flivvers which were prominent in the early 500-mile events and with which Ralph DePalma won the 1915 event. The Mercedes factory has had 2-liter cars since 1914.

The increased interest in Europe and the announcement recently that the Packard Motor Car company would be back in the game next season, augurs a record entry list for Indianapolis next May 30 in spite of the reduction of the piston displacement. Judging by the speeds made by the European cars in the race in France and Italy during the present season the speed next Memorial Day should equal that of last year when Jimmy Murphy shattered all marks by averaging 94.48 miles per hour for the five-century grind.

Mr. Myers was accompanied on his trip to Europe by Mrs. Myers.

The good Maxwell has demonstrated hill climbing ability never equalled by any car in any price class. In a laboratory test conducted by a leading scientific school, it actually negotiated a grade with a percentage of 12.3 in high gear. More than 100 much higher priced cars similarly tested failed to reach the Maxwell record. Only a most powerful engine, perfect car balance and easy rolling bearings enabled the good Maxwell to perform such an unparalleled feat.

POWER—CONOCO'S strongest point

WHEN you buy gasoline you want all the power you can get—uniform, dependable power—the kind that comes from instant ignition and complete combustion.

The strongest point about CONOCO is the POWER it delivers. But this is only one point in which it excels.

Positive start, quick pick-up, less carbon and greater mileage are all there, too.

And there is a good reason for this. CONOCO has been scientifically developed with a carefully determined range of boiling-points in just the right proportion.

Most any gasoline contains some sort of a range of boiling-points but it takes experience, resources and refining skill to get these nicely balanced—not too many low points at the sacrifice of the equally important higher ones, nor an uneven "jump" somewhere in between. It is this ideal proportion of the whole range that you will find in CONOCO. That is why we call it the balanced gasoline. That is why CONOCO does all the things you expect of a good motor fuel and does them well.

For all-round, year-round satisfaction you'll find CONOCO the best buy! Try it for a month and you'll use it the rest of the season.

No need for lubrication troubles. Use the proper consistency of POLARINE, The Perfect Motor Oil, and drain the crankcase every 400 to 500 miles.
