55 MINERS ARE MISSING AFTER MINE BLAST IN KEYSTONE STATE

Twenty-Five Have Probably Been Killed; 14 Are Taken to a Hospital at Spangler Badly Injured.

WORKINGS ARE TORN DOWN BY EXPLOSION

Drizzling Rain Which Falls Throughout the Day Has No Effect Upon Crowd; Rescuers Suffer.

Spangler, Pa., Nov. 6.—More than 50 miners are believed to have lost their lives in an explosion in the Kelly mine of the Kelly Coal company, near here, this morning. Exploration of the workings by trained rescuers was being continued tonight. None of the dead had been brought to the surface at 10:30 o'clock.

Spangler, Pa., Nov. 6 (by the Associated Press).—Fifty-five of the 94 miners who went down into the Kelly mine of the Kelly Coal company here this morning, a few minutes before the workings were torn by an explosion, were unaccounted for when the rescue crews came up the shaft at 6 o'clock tonight. Twenty-five, they said, had probably been killed and fourteen had been taken to a hospital badly hurt.

The drizzling rain which fell throughout the day had no effect upon the crowd, which included the wives and children of many of the entombed miners. Some of the rubber boots were stuck in the mud and occasionally thinking they recognized the outlines of a familiar form. They were so close to the shaft that the bodies were so carefully covered that recognition was impossible. But it gave rise to the belief among the people that all of the closely wrapped forms were bodies of the missing men. Reports that no less than 25 of the dead had been recovered.

Ministers in the crowd were ministering to the grief-stricken families from all the churches of the town. Conspicuous were two Roman Catholic priests, Father James Paulding and Father J. D. Cochran, who, clad in raincoats, were seen to be comforting weeping women.

They were among the first to reach the mine after the explosion and in a short time were taken down the shaft to the bottom. Mike Whalen, a cager, was working with his couple, a lad named Cavendish, at the bottom of the shaft when the explosion occurred. Seizing the boy, Whalen put him on his back and started hand-over-hand on a water pipe for the surface. When almost half way up some one started the cage from the bottom and Whalen, who was clinging to the top of the cage and rode with the boy to safety.

Fan House Repaired.
J. J. Bourquin, in charge of the bureau of mines, took over the repair work on his arrival here this afternoon. The fan house, which had been wrecked by the explosion, was quickly repaired and the fans started to clear the workings of black damp. A large number of the distribution of quantities of lumber used in the building of brattices.

Many of the rescuers suffered from colds and flu. Some of these were brought to the surface where, after receiving first aid, they insisted on returning to the workings. Three of the Cambria Steel company's crew were among those who were brought to the surface. Mr. Darr, in command of the Cambria crew, said all would recover.

Spangler's Location
Spangler lies in the Allegheny mountains, about 23 miles north of Johnstown, and is the center of an important bituminous coal producing district. The Kelly mine was closed last summer by the strike, but resumed operations early in September. Normally it employs about 150 men, but Monday is usually what the miners term a slow day. There are many American-born miners in the working force, numbers of whom were caught in the explosion.

On "the Cot of Honor."
On the cot of honor at the hospital rests a youth of 22. His name is Abe Craig. His coolness saved at least a dozen lives. "There isn't much to tell," said Craig. "We went down at 7 o'clock and entered heading number 10 on the left. A few minutes later there was a crash. I told the boys that meant a cave-in, and we had better get out. Then there was a rush of gas. Luckily our door was open, or the explosion would have killed us."

MRS. GIBSON'S TALE OF MURDER IS FOUND TRUE

Story of Eye Witness of the Slaying of New Jersey Couple Is Corroborated, Authorities Say.

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 6 (by the Associated Press).—The story told by Mrs. James Gibson, the self-styled "eye witness" of the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills on September 14, last, has been definitely corroborated, authorities said tonight.

It also was unofficially reported that the grand jury would be asked to return indictments against a woman and two men. An attorney who has figured prominently in the investigation said that legal preparations already were being made to combat the indictment.

The corroborating witness of Mrs. Gibson's story that she saw the murder and the choir singer slain while she was searching for farm looters on the Phillips home, Special Detective James Mason announced, is Mrs. A. C. Pringle, who lives near the scene where the two bodies were found. Seymour Smith, grave digger, who boards at the Pringle house, has been questioned by state troopers and the substance of his testimony is being closely guarded. When approached by newspaper writers, Smith has declined to talk and has repeatedly declared that the detectives have warned him not to discuss the double murder.

OPPOSITE VIEWS ON PRESENT STATUS OF SHOPCRAFTS STRIKE

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Opposite views on the present status of the shopcrafts strike were presented today before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, counsel for the shopcrafts, contending that the strike no longer exists, while Assistant Solicitor General Blackburn Eastline, representing the government, filed affidavits that the conditions complained of when the bill was filed still exist.

Further hearing of the case was continued until Wednesday morning, when Attorney Eastline will resume his argument and denial of the points on which Donald R. Ritchie, attorney for the shopcrafts, sought dismissal of the temporary restraining order.

PRESIDENT BULKELEY OF THE AETNA LIFE INSURANCE CO. DIES

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 6.—Morton Gardner Bulkeley, president of the Aetna Life Insurance company since 1879, mayor of Hartford from 1889 to 1893, governor of Connecticut from 1893 to 1895, and United States senator from 1905 to 1911, died at his home here tonight after an illness of three weeks. He was born at East Haddam, December 26, 1837.

RANCHER'S WIFE GIVES UP AFTER SHOOTING A MAN

Mrs. J. F. Curliiss Shoots and Kills J. L. Todd, Near Ordway, Says She Shot in Self Defense.

Ordway, Colo., Nov. 6.—Mrs. J. F. Curliiss, a ranch woman, living 25 miles northwest of Ordway, shot and killed J. L. Todd, a neighbor, at the Curliiss ranch today and then with her husband and five children, drove to Ordway, where Mrs. Curliiss surrendered herself to the sheriff.

The woman told the sheriff she shot Todd, who is unmarried, in self-defense. "He tried to hit me with a hammer," she said.

Mrs. Curliiss claimed she fired "at least" two shots. Then she said she went into the house and reloaded her revolver, and returning, found Todd lying prostrate on the ground.

Her husband, unaware of Todd's presence until he heard the shots, was working on the ranch when the shooting occurred. Leaving the body of Todd where he fell, the Curliiss family left for Ordway. A neighbor in the meantime discovered Todd and summoned a physician. He died soon afterward, it was reported.

The shooting, according to authorities, grew out of livestock and fence disputes which had been brewing between Todd and the Curliiss family for several months. Last week, Mrs. Curliiss consulted an attorney, it was said, with a view to instituting court action.

Todd, who lived alone, had a brother and sister living in Denver and another brother in Pueblo. Mrs. Curliiss is the mother of five children, the oldest a boy of 13 years. Her mother resides in Topeka, Kans. She was advised of the shooting.

YOUTH FALLS FROM A WINDMILL; CROWBAR PENETRATES HIS SIDE

Livingston, N. M., Nov. 6.—Jodie Graham, son of J. H. Graham, fell from a windmill on the home ranch a few days ago and alighted on a crowbar, which penetrated his side an inch and one-half. The boy managed to get the crowbar dislodged, and ran and caught his horse, which was about to get away, and rode two miles to a neighbor's house. He was brought to Livingston for treatment and is reported getting along nicely.

LAST APPEAL OF THE CANDIDATES TO N.M. VOTERS

Hill, Hinkle and Davis Issue Statements on the Eve of Election, Giving Views of the Situation.

Stephen B. Davis, Jr., republican candidate for United States senator; Charles L. Hill, republican candidate for governor, and James F. Hinkle, democratic candidate for governor, last night sent the Morning Journal the following final statements:

STEPHEN B. DAVIS, JR.
"The republican party asks support because of its record of accomplishment in solving the problems left from the great war and its advance towards the establishment of sound economic conditions; because of its belief in a protective tariff because of its intention to deal fairly and justly in adjusting the compensation of executives and finally because it will act for the good of the entire American people irrespective of race, class, section or locality."

CHARLES L. HILL
Santa Fe, Nov. 6, 1922.
Speaking over the long distance telephone from his home in Dona Ana county, Charles L. Hill, republican candidate for Governor, said: "At the last minute I want to urge every republican voter in the state to go to the polls and vote the straight party ticket."

"We have waged a clean, constructive campaign; we have not indulged in misrepresentation or concealment; we have made out our case and we are entitled to a victory."

"If we do win, I am confident that we will, New Mexico is assured of two years more of a progressive administration."

JAMES F. HINKLE
"On the eve of the election I feel perfectly confident of the result and that the people, realizing the paramount issue of the election, will cast their ballots for the democratic candidates, all of whom are determined upon an administration of economy and good management, a reduction of taxation, and the elimination of waste."

AELINA OTERO-WARRICK
My candidacy is now up to the voters for their decision. I hope for a victory on Tuesday for the republicans. I am sure that it will be the best for our state. I hope that I may be elected because after eight weeks of campaigning in which I have traveled nearly 100 miles and have visited nearly every county in the state, I feel that I know far better than ever before the urgent need of New Mexico and that I am better prepared to do my part toward meeting those needs."

There are two outstanding necessities for development in New Mexico. One is for development of our natural resources, of irrefragable land, ranges and mines. Aid for this must come from without. The national government can and should help and I am sure that it will help if our claims and necessities are properly presented.

The other need for development is from within—an improvement in our social conditions that can come only through education—through the schools, better safeguarding of health, child welfare and home improvement. In this also the national government can and should help us, and in this also I am sure that if our needs are properly and persistently presented at Washington.

To these two ends my effort will be directed if I am elected to represent our state in Congress.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC FROM WEST DELAYED BY RECENT STORMS

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Passenger traffic from the far west was interrupted on a number of roads today because of recent heavy storms. Trains from California to the Northwestern were reported 24 hours late.

The delay was attributed to heavy snowfall and tornadoes, the one in the far west and the other in the middle west. The Rock Island line reported one train on its southern route five hours late. The Atchafalaya had no delays.

Damage to the Burlington tracks was reported to have caused a delay of from six to eight hours in the arrival of trains. Traffic from Portland, Ore., was held up 24 hours.

SENATOR M'CORMICK GOES TO VISIT HIS MOTHER IN EUROPE

Washington, Nov. 6.—Senator McCormick of Illinois announced tonight that he was leaving tomorrow to visit his mother in Europe.

"Inevitably," he said, "in Italy, Germany, France and Great Britain, I shall make inquiry as to economic conditions and as to American collaboration in the economic rehabilitation of Europe."

Senator McCormick, who is chairman of the republican senatorial committee, said he was voting by mail in tomorrow's election.

TOURING CAR STOLEN.

D. T. Kingsbury, 216 West Gold avenue, reported to the police that his small touring car had been stolen late Sunday night. The car had been parked in front of the Ellis club, at Fifth street and Gold avenue. The police notified officials of Las Vegas, Socorro, Belen and Santa Fe and asked them to be on the lookout for the car.

Refugees Flee Eastern Thrace as Turks Rush Into Territory

Refugees at docks in Rodosto, on the Sea of Marmora, waiting for ships to carry them to safety. Fifty thousand refugees are waiting for ships to carry them to safety. The ships are few and far between and as a result there is terrible suffering among the women and children.

BURSUM BILL IS OBJECTED TO BY PUEBLO INDIANS

Law Will Destroy Them as a People and Make Them Dependents of the Government, They Declare.

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 6.—United in action for the first time since they arose and drove out the Spaniards in 1848, nearly one hundred delegates traveling afoot and on horseback, and including eight governors, representing the eight thousand Pueblo Indians in nineteen pueblos in New Mexico, assembled at the pueblo of Santo Domingo on Sunday, adopted a memorial to the American people "for fair play and justice and the preservation of our pueblo life."

The appeal is the result of the passage by the United States senate of the bill known as the Bursum Indian bill, which purports to effect a final settlement of the century old controversy between the Pueblos and their non-Indian neighbors over the land and water rights of the Indians. Alleging that they have not been consulted, that official explanations have been refused, that the bill will destroy them as a people, that it will make them dependents of the government, that it will force them to go into courts to settle their rights, that the bill will destroy their homes, that it will rob them of everything they hold dear, our lands, our customs and our traditions. Are the American people willing to see this happen?

The memorial was adopted after an all night and all day session of the Pueblos in their council hall at Santo Domingo, following discussion of the bill in the councils of the various pueblos.

"The bill will destroy our Pueblo life," said one of the delegates. "It will rob us of everything we hold dear, our lands, our customs and our traditions. Are the American people willing to see this happen?"

CREEK IN ARKANSAS A ROARING FURNACE; CRUDE OIL BURNING

El Dorado, Ark., Nov. 6.—More than 1,500 barrels of crude oil in the Smackover field near here, which escaped from bursting storage tanks, are burning tonight and Smackover Creek, which flows through the section, is a roaring furnace for several miles, reports received here today.

The oil was stored in earth reservoirs, which burst during heavy rains early today, allowing the oil to escape into nearby streams. A number of flowing wells in the section have been abandoned and all efforts to control the flames have been unavailing.

RANCHMAN FALLS OFF CLIFF; IS FOUND BY A SEARCHING PARTY

Special to The Journal
Carlsbad, N. M., Nov. 6.—A. S. Knott, a ranchman of the Last Chance country, was severely injured when he fell from a cliff through the section is a roaring furnace for several miles, reports received here today.

TWO BURNED TO DEATH.

Ames, Iowa, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Margaret Hatfield was severely burned and two of her children, Billy, 5, and Martin, 3, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home here today.

KEITH'S NEW PALACE THEATER IS OPENED AT CLEVELAND, OHIO

Cleveland, Nov. 6.—Pronounced by art and dramatic critics who are here to attend the premiere performance, to be the finest in the United States, if not in the world, Keith's new Palace theater, in the new 22-story office building constructed at a cost of more than $5,000,000, was formally opened here tonight with several hundred prominent persons and theatrical managers.

Included among those present at tonight's performance were the governors of eight states.

The theater will seat more than 3,500.

C. L. TALLMADGE DIES SUDDENLY AT DENVER, COL.

Smallpox Contracted While on a Business Trip Is Fatal to Socorro, N. M., Man, 49 Years Old.

Denver, Nov. 6.—Chester L. Tallmadge, 49 years old, of Socorro, N. M., widely known attorney and business man at that state, died here today of smallpox, contracted while here on a business trip.

Mr. Tallmadge, in 1918 was a candidate for United States senator from New Mexico. He was a Shriner and thirty-second degree Mason. Born in Nebraska, he was graduated from the state university there and admitted to the bar. He came of a long line of American patriots. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, Mr. Tallmadge left Socorro to serve in Cuba.

Surviving him are his mother, Mary E. Tallmadge of Monmouth, Ill., three brothers, B. H. and E. R. Tallmadge of Chicago, and Floyd C. Tallmadge of Monmouth, and his son.

MAYFIELD WINS FIGHT TO HAVE NAME ON TICKET

Telegrams Are Dispatched to All Counties After a Decision of the Supreme Court in Texas.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 6.—The state supreme court this afternoon ruled the motion of Luther Nichols for leave to file mandamus application seeking to require the Dallas court of civil appeals to vacate its order of Sunday denying a motion for rehearing and its order dissolving the Groesbeck injunction suit.

Telegrams advising of the decision of the supreme court this afternoon and that the name of Earle B. Mayfield, democratic senatorial nominee, should be placed on the election ballots for tomorrow's general election were dispatched to all counties in the state by Chief Clerk C. W. Payne of the secretary of state's office this afternoon, following the court's decision on advice of the attorney general's department.

VOTES CAST BY 5 OFFICIALS OF ADMINISTRATION

Harding, Hughes, Weeks, Wallace and Daugherty Mark Ballots and Mail Them to Home Towns.

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Harding and four members of his official family, Secretaries Wallace, Hughes and Weeks and Attorney General Daugherty already have marked their ballots in tomorrow's election, mailing them to their home towns. Secretaries Denby, Fall and Davis, and Postmaster General W. C. Clegg will vote in person at their legal places of residence, but the other two cabinet officers, Secretaries Mellon and Hoover, will not vote. It was stated that they were unable to leave Washington because of the press of public business.

The president and Mrs. Harding sent their ballots to Marion, Okla., to be cast at the place where the executive has voted for years. Mrs. Harding marked her ballot while sitting up in her sick room.

Last reports on the progress of the campaign were received today and advanced in the past two weeks. Returns from the election will be received by the president tomorrow night in his study. They will be received at the executive offices over a special Associated Press wire and will be turned over to the executive over the telephone by Secretary Christian.

So far as was learned former President Wilson had made no special arrangements for getting his ballot to his home. He was expected to follow his usual custom of retiring comparatively early, relying upon the Wednesday newspapers to give him more detailed accounts of the results than it will be possible for him to obtain by telephone or from democratic leaders during the early evening.

Mr. Wilson also has voted by mail, sending his marked ballot to his old home in Princeton, which he was accustomed to visit regularly on election day before his illness. He is understood to have followed the progress of the campaign closely and has participated in it to some extent through the medium of letters to democratic organizations.

ELECTION RETURNS TO BE RECEIVED BY HARDING IN STUDY

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Harding will receive election returns tomorrow night in his study. The White House, arrangements having been completed at the executive offices for special service and for prompt transmission of the returns in bulletin form. The returns will come into the executive offices over several telegraph wires which will carry newspaper compilations and reports from republican leaders over the country. Secretary Christian will give the returns to the president by telephone.

Although no definite arrangements had been made, it was expected that a number of personal friends of the president would spend the evening with him. Most of the members of his cabinet, however, will be absent from the city, having gone home to vote.

LYNXES AND EAGLE KILL GOATS IN THE CARLSBAD COUNTRY

Special to The Journal
Carlsbad, N. M., Nov. 6.—Tallmadge Knott, who herds goats on his father's place in Last Chance canyon, recently trapped two lynxes that had been killing goats. On the same day, a large eagle caught and killed a yearling goat. The eagle got away.

CAMPBELL-HUNT CONTEST TO BE REOPENED TODAY

Since Arizona Became a State They Have Been the Only Two Governors; Heavy Vote Is Forecast.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 6.—Governor Thomas E. Campbell, republican, and former Governor George W. P. Hunt, democrat, re-open tomorrow what some of their followers term their "irrepressible conflict" for the gubernatorial chair of Arizona.

Since Arizona won its statehood in 1912, there have been but two governors at the capitol, Hunt and Campbell. Of the 11 years embraced in this period Hunt has occupied the chair approximately five years; Campbell approximately five years.

Monopoly of the historic contest of 1914-15, as a result of which each of the candidates held the title of chief executive during one year of the two year term, have added heat to the present campaign.

Campbell's Margin Narrow.
In the 1916 election Campbell was returned the winner by a margin of less than 100 votes as a result of the original count and was installed in the governor's office.

Hunt's supporters instigated a contest of the count in Maricopa county but after several months of investigations the official count was upheld by the state supreme court. The decision was appealed to the Arizona supreme court which reversed the lower court and sent Hunt but only after Campbell had served half of the two-year term.

In addition to the split term Hunt served between 1911 and 1916 and Governor Campbell has been in office since 1918 when he was elected by a decisive majority.

In the present campaign Governor Hunt has adopted the slogan "Political Progress" and has charged extravagance on the part of the republican administration.

Other State Campaigns.

Although the gubernatorial contest has held the center of the stage, strong campaigns have been waged for the state's senatorial and congressional seats. Governor Henry F. Ashurst and Congressman Carl Hayden, democratic incumbents, are opposed by James H. McClintock and Mrs. H. A. Guild, republicans.

Both parties expressed confidence of the eve of the election and with forecasts showing fair weather tomorrow a heavy vote is looked for.

COTTON BRINGS $100 AN ACRE NEAR ROSWELL

Chavez County Finds This Crop Is Admirable for Rental Farms as Well as Owned Lands.

Special to The Journal
Roswell, N. M., Nov. 6.—Roswell cotton gin began operations again Saturday after being idle for two weeks because of damage by fire which destroyed much of the machinery. The delay, however, has not been serious for the farmers, the dry weather has enabled them to continue picking, even where they did not have sheds for the cotton. Much of it has been picked and stacked in the field.

Incidentally, the price has steadily advanced in the past two weeks, so that some growers estimate that the delay has made them as much as $15 a bale.

The gin at Hagerman has been going at full speed for the past two days and is turning out about 20 bales a day. It is estimated that there will be from 1,500 to 1,800 bales in the county, more than half of this being in the Hagerman district.

This is the third year for cotton on a commercial basis in Chavez county, but it was not until this fall that the crop was definitely accepted as a sure money-maker for the farmers. This year's returns from Durango cotton will run as high as $100 an acre, and the success of this year's crop means that there will be 19,000 acres in the county next year. It has moreover resulted in bringing in many new farmers, some of whom are buying farms, while others are leasing.

Durango cotton will be the means of bringing back into the county many farms which have not been used for several years. These farms are owned by non-residents mostly, and cotton is the first all-around satisfactory crop which has been developed in the Pecos valley for the last few years. Farmers have learned many things about the crop this year which will enable them to obtain much heavier yields another year.

SUPPORTERS PREDICT LA FOLLETTE VICTORY IN WISCONSIN TODAY

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 6 (by the Associated Press).—The re-election of U. S. Senator Robert M. La Follette, following his big majority at the primary election, as well as the election of nine republican congressmen was predicted by his supporters at the close tonight of the quietest campaign in Wisconsin in many years.

Only two congressional districts, the fourth and fifth, from a party standpoint, were admitted to be in any doubt by republican leaders. In the fourth and fifth (Milwaukee) the socialists have put up a stiff campaign and claim that Victor Berger, twice elected on previous occasions, only to be re-elected this year, will pull through.

MAXIMUM WAGE LAW DENOUNCED IN A MAJORITY COURT OPINION

Tendency to Juggle With the Fundamental Questions of Free Government Will Lead to Revolt.

A PRECEDENT OF FAR REACHING IMPORTANCE

Power to Fix Wages Would Be the Greatest Calamity That Could Befall Country's Workers.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Declaring that the "modern tendency toward indiscriminate legislative and judicial juggling" with the great fundamental question of free government, if persisted in, would ultimately lead to "a new order and revolution," the District of Columbia court of appeals today held unconstitutional the minimum wage law effective in the capital. In holding the law invalid and therefore void, the court divided two to one on the dissenting opinion, rendered by Chief Justice Smythe, assailed the right of Associate Justice Van Orsdell and Robt. to hear the case, brought by a local hospital to enforce the wage board from enforcing the law.

The majority opinion, however, denounced the minimum wage law, which it declared, would take from every American citizen "the most sacred safeguard the constitution affords, the right to bargain and sell his labor for the highest wage his skill and efficiency affords."

The greater calamity would be the power to fix wages, "the power to have the legislative power to fix wages upheld. Take from the citizen this most sacred safeguard and the labor would be reduced to an automaton, a mere creature of the state. It is paternalism in the highest degree and the struggle of the centuries to establish the principle that the state exists for the citizen and not the citizen for the state, would be lost."

The opinion added that the act could not be vindicated as a proper exercise of the police power, nor could it be classed as a law to avert an emergency, on which around some wartime legislation has been upheld by the courts.

ADMIT IMMIGRANTS TO U. S. ON BOND, IS PLEA OF CHURCHMEN

New York, Nov. 6.—A protest against deportation of more than 1,500 Greeks and Armenian refugees, who have been held on vessels in this port since November 1 because the yearly immigration quota for the nation's shores have been filled, was sent to the department of labor at Washington today by the mission department of the National Episcopal Church Council.

The church urged that the immigrants, most of whom are women and children, be admitted on bond and their number charged off against next year's quotas, adding that "Christian America cannot afford to turn these refugees into miserable Constantinople and Smyrna or to poverty-stricken Greece."

JONES SPENT $8,050 IN STATE CAMPAIGN. HIS REPORT SHOWS

Washington, Nov. 6.—Among individual statements of campaign expenditures and contributions reported to the secretary of the senate today was one by Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, reporting contributions of $8,050. A supplemental statement filed by the national prohibition committee showed receipts of $555 since October 26 and expenditures since that date of $180.

MANY COUNTRY ROADS ARE BLOCKED BY SNOW

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 6.—Snow has blocked many country roads, particularly in the vicinity of Cheyenne and in the southern part of the state. The roads are distributed as to the effect this condition will have on the struggle for the United States senatorship in tomorrow's election. Advocates of Frank W. Mondell, democrat, and party members are distributing leaflets to the effect that the condition will not affect the chances of their candidate. Both the Mondell and Kendrick followers today were claiming victory for the candidate.

Political forecasters predict the weather condition will reduce the total number of votes cast in the state to below 60,000. Under normal weather conditions about 60,000 votes were expected to be cast.

VISIBLE SUPPLY OF GRAIN.

New York, Nov. 6.—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes. Wheat, decreased 25,000 bushels; corn, decreased 23,000 bushels; oats, decreased 1,255,000 bushels; barley, increased 1,771,000 bushels; rye, increased 127,000 bushels.

WEATHER

FORECAST.
Denver, Nov. 6.—New Mexico: Fair Tuesday, somewhat warmer north portion, Wednesday, generally clear.

Arizona: Fair south, partly cloudy north portion Tuesday, rising temperature north and west portions. Wednesday, generally fair south, unsettled north portion.

LOCAL REPORT.
Conditions for the twenty-four hours ended at 6 p. m. yesterday, recorded by the university:

CLOSE CONTESTS LOOKED FOR IN SEVERAL STATES

Confident Claims of Victory, However, Are Made in Both the Republican and Democratic Camps.

New York, Nov. 6.—Close contests were indicated tonight in several of the senatorial, congressional and state elections in eastern states tomorrow, notwithstanding confident claims of victory in both the republican and democratic camps.

In the senatorial fights, interest was centered on the lively campaigns in Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Maryland. New Hampshire does not hold a senatorial election this year and Maine had its election last September.

The fight in the Bay state has attracted widespread interest because the veteran, Senator Cabot Lodge, the republican leader in the senate, is candidate for re-election.

The contest in New Jersey, where Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen is a candidate for re-election against Governor Edward I. Edwards, has been continued because of the wet and dry issue, the governor favoring the wet.

Senator William M. Calder of New York has been through a spirited campaign with Royal S. Copeland, health commissioner of New York, with the tariff as the leading issue.

In Connecticut, George P. McLean, republican, has engaged in a strenuous tilt for re-election with Thomas J. Spillane and in Rhode Island, Senator P. G. Gerry, democrat, contested with Governor R. Livingston Beaman.

The seat of Senator Joseph I. Tanlac has done away with my troubles and built me up thirty pounds, and I'll certainly stand by this wonderful medicine from now on," declared F. M. Anderson, 3522 East 5th St., Los Angeles, Calif., well-known switchman for the Santa Fe railroad.

"For over twelve years, I suffered with a dull pain in my side, and then two years ago an attack of influenza left me in an awful run-down condition, and with this pain giving me more trouble than ever. I had no appetite, couldn't sleep, and was about to have an operation when a friend put me on to Tanlac.

"The very first bottle helped me more than everything else I had tried put together, and now I have a big appetite, eat anything I want without the least touch of indigestion, my strength has returned, and I am in fine shape."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

INDIANA WOMAN RUNS MAIL ORDER PACKAGE LIBRARY

Miss Mary P. Ott.

"Order your library by mail," is Miss Pratt's advice. At head of the bureau of public discussion of the extension division of the University of Indiana, Miss Pratt runs a mail order library service at the university. Any person in Indiana may send a mail order request for authentic articles on any present-day topic and an early mail will bring one of Miss Pratt's package libraries made up of bulletins, pamphlets and clippings from 100 leading periodicals.

France, republican, of Maryland, has been sought by William C. Bruce, in a vigorous campaign.

Pennsylvania will elect two senators, the republican incumbents, George Wharton Pepper and David A. Reed being candidates for re-election. Mr. Pepper is filling the unexpired term of the late Boies Penrose and Mr. Reed the unexpired term of the late Senator Crow.

The gubernatorial campaigns in New York and Pennsylvania have attracted national interest. In the former state, Governor Nathan L. Miller, republican, is a candidate for re-election, his opponent being former Governor Alfred E. Smith. This campaign has almost eclipsed all other contests in the point of popular interest in the state. In Pennsylvania, Gifford Pinchot, who focused attention by wresting the republican nomination from the regular organization, is opposed by John A. McSparran, active in the Keystone State grange.

"Close contests were indicated in many of the congressional elections, republicans and democrats alike claiming gains.

Notwithstanding a woman's fondness for bargains, nothing makes her madder than the suggestion that she is wearing one of them.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

LEADERS CLAIM EVERYTHING IN SIGHT AT POLLS

Campaign Managers Make Their Final Communiques So All Embracing as to Be of No Value.

Chicago, Nov. 6 (By the Associated Press).—Weather conditions throughout the middle west and Mississippi valley—with the exception of the two Dakotas—are reported tonight as favorable for tomorrow's election.

Rain on the prairies of the Dakotas and snow in the Black Hills have rendered roads in many sections impassable and threaten to cut down the country vote. Republicans and democrats in South Dakota both claim, as a result, they will have an advantage over the farmer members of the non-partisan league. The league candidate for governor is a woman, Miss Alice Lorraine Daly.

In Texas the supreme court, by an eleventh hour decision today, ordered the name of Earle B. Mayfield, the democratic candidate for U. S. senator, printed on the ballots. The court was asked by county clerks but some doubt exists whether all can comply in time. Injunctions by his political opponents had prevented the printing hereof. The name of his republican opponent, George E. Peck, had been stricken from the ballot because he was not nominated by a regular party convention.

Last minute meetings, speeches and the usual final hour claims of victory featured the closing campaigns throughout the middle western states. Following the old political maxim that it costs nothing to claim everything, most of the campaign managers made their final communiques so all-embracing as to be worthless in determining what they actually believe.

NO RELAXING OF ALLIED GRIP ON CONSTANTINOPLE

Constantinople, Nov. 6 (By the Associated Press).—Although the nationalist civil power is in control in Constantinople, the attitude does not intend for the present, at least, to lose its grip on the military authority. Great Britain and France are in accord on the point that the Turks must live up to the convention drawn up at Mudania and it is not doubted that the other interested countries will fall into line with this policy.

There is every desire, however, to meet Turkish aspirations within the limits of the treaty and the allied commissioners today issued the following statement:

"The inter-allied high commissioners are firmly resolved to observe strict impartiality with regard to events which concern the internal policy of Turkey. The allied generals will continue to apply the clauses of the Mudania convention and maintain order and security in the zones occupied by the allied armies."

Replying to the last communication from Ankara concerning the Lausanne conference, the commissioners, while renouncing the wish to interfere with Turkish policies, express the hope that there will be only one Turkish delegation to the conference.

TRAIN HITS AND KILLS A MAN; 2 OTHERS INJURED

Trinidad, Colo., Nov. 6.—Struck by a Colorado and Southern locomotive at the brick yard crossing in the edge of town late Sunday, Henry Hildebrandt, manual training instructor at the Primero, Colo., school, was instantly killed and C. C. Reeves, stable boss at the Colorado Fuel and Iron company mine, and his son, Sam Reeves, were injured, not seriously. The light car in which they were riding was hurled against a crossing post and demolished.

The place where the accident occurred is on a turn between high banks and those in the car did not see the approaching engine until the car reached the crossing. The engine was going to Ludlow to pick up a string of loaded coal cars. Hildebrandt and the two Reeves had spent the day at a nearby lake hunting and were driving into town. The dead man had been at Primero since last August and came from Berthoud, Colo. He was 45 years old and leaves a widow and one child. The older Reeves' injuries consist of bruises. The younger Reeves sustained cuts about the face and head.

55 MINERS MISSING AFTER MINE BLAST IN KEYSTONE STATE

tion would have knocked it down. I slammed it, and about 25 of us waited to see what would happen. "Outside there were yells, and one of our gang shouted to tell them there was fresh air in our place. I opened the door and saw three or four men staggered in. The boys rushed out and dragged in others. We revived them.

"Then I looked out again. All I could see was smoke. The after-damp was rolling through the heading. I jumped inside and closed the door. There was nothing to do but wait for rescuers.

stayed in the chamber. "From 7:50 until about 3 o'clock we stayed in the chamber. Older men were getting faint. Young fellows were holding out pretty well. Nobody had very much to say. Some of the boys were praying.

"Finally the afterdamp worked its way around and under the door. There was only one thing to do. I told them we would have to make a run for it. We opened the door, and ran down the heading. It was a tough dash, stumbling over bodies. We began to choke. Some of the boys fell, but those of us who had any fight left kept on.

"We ran into fallen rock between the seventh and ninth headings. That probably was where the explosion took place.

"I had a hunch that if we got to the sixth heading we would get fresh air, but you can believe me that the last 100 yards was coming awful. Coughing and strangling in the air. I was dizzy, but I screamed to the boys. Most of them who got to the sixth heading keeled over.

"Then I heard men coming, and I knew they were rescuers. They got us out. Only the young men made it. I am afraid all the older men lost their lives."

ARE DOING NOTHING TO BRING OUT THE DEAD

Spangler, Pa., Nov. 6.—"There are dead miners strewn all along the entries down there," said J. J. Bourquin, leader of the United States bureau of mines rescue crew, as he came from the shaft of the Kelly mine near here tonight. "We are doing nothing to bring out the dead," he continued. "We only stopped with them long enough to see that the spark of life had fled, and then moved on in search of the living. Quite a bit of mine remains to be explored, but I can say if there are any more live men in there it won't take us long to get to them."

Bourquin and his men spent the greater part of the afternoon in the workings. They were equipped with oxygen helmets and so eager to force their way through the gas that they made seven trips without pausing to have the gas tanks re-charged.

Behind a brattice, hastily constructed by the entombed miners to shut out the deadly after-damp from the heading where they had taken refuge, the rescuers found four men alive and one dead.

A little later they came across another brattice, made of mine cars and bearing the legend burned on with a miner's lamp, "There are 23 men behind this."

The air was so bad here that "gally," the bureau's pet canary bird, used in testing the air, died. The rescue crews, of which there were four, made up of five men each, tonight were hunting for Pat Flanagan, the fire boss. He went into the mine at 3:30 o'clock this morning and reported the mine was safe. He went down again at 6:40 o'clock and was not seen afterward.

Early in the evening mine rescue crews from the Maryland Coal and Coke company at St. Michael, Pa., and the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke company at Johnstown joined the federal rescuers and the Cambria Steel company crew. The second United States rescue car was expected here from New York state tomorrow morning.

KANSAN SURRENDERS TO DENVER POLICE

Denver, Nov. 6.—G. F. Brannon, 40 years old, of Colby, Kans., surrendered to the police here today as a fugitive from justice.

Brannon is wanted by the police of Colorado Springs on charges of passing fraudulent checks amounting to about $100, according to Captain of Detectives Washington A. Ringer. He is said to have used the name of Charles Thompson in that city.

Third Generation is Using Syrup Pepsin

No other Laxative can replace Dr. Caldwell's in the confidence of those who use it

THERE are thousands of healthy, robust young men and women who have never in all their lives taken any other laxative for constipation than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Parents were given it by their parents; the grandparents are using it today. It is the one laxative ideally suited to all the family, safe for the little ones, effective in grownups, so compounded that elderly people, who are constantly forced to take a laxative because the intestinal muscles are weakening, find increased dosage unnecessary. This wonderful constipation remedy has been used continuously for 30 years, and over 10 million bottles are now sold annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. The cost averages but a cent a dose. Every druggist sells it, and under a guarantee to do as claimed or your money will be refunded.

Millions of carefully conducted homes are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Mr. J. B. Belk of Shaw, Miss., relies on it entirely to keep his children in health, and Mrs. Catherine Connolly of Jersey City, N. J., declares that not only herself but all her neighbors and friends use it and tell others about it. There is scarcely a day that someone in a family does not need it for constipation, flatulence, auto-intoxication, biliousness, intestinal poisoning, headaches, colic and cramps, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientifically-balanced compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. The formula is on the package. As the popularity of this natural vegetable laxative increases, the public discards the harsher physics like calomel, coal-tar in candy form, salt waters and powders. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin empties the bowels more cleanly and without any danger.

While her Daddy was away in the War

LITTLE MAY JANETTE was a "war baby" born while her father was in the service. Mrs. Martin, finding it necessary to return to her work, started her baby on Borden's Eagle Brand Milk. As May Janette's five little cousins were brought up on Eagle Brand, naturally Mrs. Martin had great confidence in it. And with good reason. For May Janette—now three-and-a-half years old—"is strong, sturdy and full of life and energy," her mother says.

Don't experiment with war baby's food. Eagle Brand has been the standard infant food for many years. Countless mothers, like Mrs. Martin, have found that it made their babies strong and well. Thousands of physicians have recommended it for babies who were underweight and undernourished. For Eagle Brand is very easily digested.

Actually Borden's Eagle Brand Milk contains nothing but pure milk and pure sugar. It is the natural food if mother's milk is not available. It is always pure and uniform. You can get it anywhere.

BOTH DOMINANT PARTIES CLAIM BUCKEYE STATE

Voters in Ohio See the Close of One of the Most Strenuous Political Campaigns in Many Years.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 6.—As Ohio tonight saw the close of one of the most strenuous political campaigns in years, both major parties were claiming complete success for their tickets by large majorities. Democratic headquarters predicted that Senator Allen Pomerene, seeking re-election, would lead the ticket with one of the largest majorities ever given a candidate for that office and that A. V. Donahue would be elected governor by only a slightly less majority.

Republican headquarters authorized the statement that congressman S. D. Pess would defeat Senator Pomerene by more than 125,000 votes and that Carl A. Thompson, candidate for governor and the entire republican ticket would be elected as an endorsement of President Harding and the present state administration.

Secretary of State Smith tonight estimated tomorrow's vote at 4,600,000, compared with more than 2,000,000 two years ago.

BREAKS TRACK RECORD

Baltimore, Nov. 6.—Dominique, from the Allies, with stables, with Jockey Lyke, won the second record at Pimlico for six furlongs in the Equity handicap today, covering the distance in one minute, 11 seconds. The former mark was one fifth of a second slow, established by Exodius in 1920 and equaled last week by Knobbs. Dominique carried 128 pounds.

PEDDY PREDICTS HE WILL WIN IN RACE IN TEXAS

Nominee of Independent Democrats and Republicans Expresses Confidence He Will Be Elected

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 6.—George E. B. Peddy, nominated by independent democrats and the republican state executive committee for United States senator, tonight expressed confidence that he would be elected despite the fact that his name will not appear on the ballots as a result of action in Texas courts.

Peddy, avowed anti-Klux Klan candidate, made his closing campaign speech here tonight and also issued a statement.

"Texas will cast their ballots tomorrow under the most unusual circumstances that ever confronted the people of an American state," the statement began. The statement then traced the various legal actions by which Peddy's name was barred from the ballot and that of his democratic opponent, Earle B. Mayfield, finally was ordered on the ballots by the supreme court late today.

Statement continued that both decisions were based on technicalities.

"My name was barred from the republican ticket on a technicality," the statement concluded. "Mr. Mayfield's name may be on the ballot by virtue of an eleventh hour court ruling, in reckless disregard of a record of facts that must challenge a conscience of free citizens. I am content to leave the issue to the conscience of the voters of my state in full confidence that they will write a winning ballot tomorrow."

JACKSON WINS TWO 50-POINT BLOCKS IN BILLIARD TOURNEY

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6.—Clarence Jackson, of Detroit, won two 50-point blocks in the three cushion billiard tournament here today over Johnny Layton, the title holder.

Jackson's victories were won by sensational play, his high run of 11 equalling the tournament record. Layton's best run was five. Jackson was more successful than his opponent in extorting himself from the issue of difficult shots.

The afternoon score was 50 to 49 and the evening game ended 50 to 48 in 62 innings.

PRESIDENT OF MINE UNION IN OKLAHOMA WILL RESIGN NOV. 9

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 6.—John Wilkinson, president of district 21, United Mine Workers of America since 1916, announced tonight that he would formally resign from the post next Thursday. Wilkinson was a candidate for re-election in the balloting for district officers last week, the result of which has not been announced. The district comprises Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas.

A district board meeting will be held Thursday to act on the resignation. Wilkinson assigned his retirement to officers of better paying positions.

The state convention of the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor, which will be held here December 1 to 3, is described in the Christian Endeavor World, a Boston publication. The various C. E. societies of the city will have a dinner at the Christian church on November 17, as a preliminary get-together for the convention.

DECISION TO WHITE. Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—Charles White of Chicago won the popular decision over Bobby Barrett of Clifton Heights, Pa., in an eight-round lightweight bout here tonight. Considerable surprise was evinced over the fact that Barrett made a good showing and stayed the full eight rounds.

BASKET GIFTS TO NEEDY FAMILIES ON THANKSGIVING

Arrangements Completed to Distribute Baskets of Necessities to 25 Needy Families of City.

At least 25 of the most needy families in Albuquerque will receive a goodly supply of necessities on Thanksgiving Day. Baskets are to be distributed amongst this number of families on the last Thursday in this month.

The baskets are to be furnished by one of the local fraternal organizations. This organization has requested that it be permitted to make the basket gifts quietly, without being made to appear in the donation in any way. A decided departure from the usual seeking of publicity in philanthropy.

Distribution of the baskets will be made through "The Bureau of Charities, Captain Guest, secretary of the bureau, has compiled a list of the 25 needy families. Baskets loaded down with vegetables, milk, flour, fruit, sugar, coffee, meat and other necessities will be given each of the families. There will also be candy for the children.

In addition to the baskets each of the families will be furnished with a supply of coal. Coal will also be distributed to other needy families. Arrangements are being made to obtain a carload of coal for this purpose.

In addition to the baskets to be distributed to this manner many other needy families, in slightly less destitute circumstances, will be cared for. Separate gifts are customary on Thanksgiving Day and a number have already announced their intention of following out the custom.

200 ADULTS ENROLL AT NIGHT SCHOOL; CLASSES TOMORROW

About 200 adults enrolled at the public night school which opened at the Central school building last night. This number is larger than the first night registration last year and will probably increase as the schools classes get in operation.

The largest registration was observed in the millinery, Spanish and mechanical classes. Many adults eagerly seize the opportunity for free instruction, after a day's work is done. Technical courses. A group of women came to learn how to fashion their own hats under the direction of Mrs. Amy Hurt. Many adults enrolled for the elementary school work.

Class work at the night school will begin on Wednesday evening. Classes will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock each evening being divided into three periods. The courses will continue for 12 weeks. J. E. Bentley is principal of the night school.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED CHARGED WITH HAVING CAUSED BOY'S DEATH

New York, Nov. 6.—The police record of the death a month ago of 12-year-old Sara Fannalura was changed tonight from "accidental" to "one of homicide." Mrs. Catherine Smilex, who lives in the lower east side flat above the Fannalura family, was arrested on a charge of having caused the boy's death by pushing him from the roof of a five-story tenement.

Detectives said that through the examination of witnesses they learned that Mrs. Smilex had become angered when the Fannalura boy poured water on her two children while they were playing on the roof of the tenement. Mrs. Smilex, it is alleged, was seen in a scuffle with Sara a moment before he plunged from the edge of the roof.

PHI KAPPA PHI AT U. ELECTS MEMBERS

Phi Kappa Phi, the national scholarship fraternity at the university, has elected two new members for the first semester. They are Prof. Benjamin F. Haught of the faculty and Vernon Wilfong, an undergraduate.

The fraternity elects members from the senior class in the fall and may take at its discretion up to 25 per cent of the senior class in the spring. Elections are for general scholarship. From the 1922 class Miss Wilma Snyder, Miss Eleanor Cameron, Frank Ogg and Ralph Gould were chosen.

NEW YORK LIFE IS MAKING LOANS HERE

Heath Moore of Kansas City, Mo., mortgage loan representative for the New York Life Insurance company, is here to make several loans in New Mexico. Some of these loans likely will be made in Albuquerque. Mr. Moore has charge of the mortgage loan department of his company in several states. He has been in conference here with E. D. Sisk, state manager for the company.

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS ARE CONFIDENT ON EVE OF ELECTION BOTH CLAIM BERNALILLO COUNTY

Chairman Hubbell Says G. O. P. Majority Will Be 1,300; Expects Country Precincts to Give 1,800.

"The republican state and county ticket will carry Bernalillo county by at least 1,300 votes," said Chairman Frank A. Hubbell of the republican county central committee, at headquarters last night.

"The precincts outside the city will roll up a majority for the republican ticket of at least 1,800," Mr. Hubbell continued. "The city will not go democratic by more than 400, if that much, though the democrats are counting it by considerably over 1,000."

"The republican party in Bernalillo county was never stronger or more united. The reunion of the independent and regulars has been complete and there have been no divisions among republicans along any lines. Our effort in nominating a county ticket was to select people best fitted for the position and we have succeeded admirably that we will have the support of all persons who want efficient government."

"The democrats, realizing their inability to elect their candidates, have made an effort to concentrate their attacks upon the republican candidates for sheriff, school superintendent, and one of the county commissioners. This effort will be unsuccessful, as the candidates for those offices have proved their ability and are well known all over the city and county."

Republican headquarters yesterday and last night was thronged with workers, who were being assigned to their various tasks. Every precinct sent in workers for final inspection. Mr. Hubbell said an effort would be made to get every voter to the polls. He looks for the heaviest vote in the history of Bernalillo county.

A fleet of automobiles has been engaged for the entire day, and many republicans have volunteered the use of their cars with drivers. "I have never seen better cooperation," said Mr. Hubbell last night.

"We are going to put Bernalillo county in the republican column, where it rightfully belongs," said Mr. Hubbell in conclusion.

SUNDAY ROUNDUP IS OPPOSED BY DEMING MINISTERIAL BOARD

Special to The Journal
Deming, N. M., Nov. 6.—The Ministerial alliance of Deming has filed a protest against the holding of a Rodeo in that city on Sunday. The protest was filed with the city clerk, stating that holding the roundup on Sunday is "an insult to God Almighty."

They say that a meeting of over 300 persons recently voted unanimously against holding the show on Sunday. It is brought out that there is no legal barrier against the Sunday show, but that the reputation of the city will be hurt if it is held.

CATTLE SHIPMENTS BEING MADE TODAY FROM N. M. PORTS

Approximately 150 carloads of cattle will be shipped to market out of the Albuquerque district today. These shipments are being made from Gallup, Grants and Pecos. All varieties of cattle are included in the shipments.

The shipments today will be to both California and eastern markets. The largest shipments will probably be from Gallup. The Gallup State bank is the largest single shipper. All cattle in these shipments are reported to be in prime condition.

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

Chairman Coors Declares Democratic Majority in County Will Be 300 to 500 if City Vote Is Heavy as Expected.

Provided the vote of the city of Albuquerque is large, the democrats will carry Bernalillo county by a majority of from 300 to 500. This was the prediction made last night by Henry G. Coors, chairman of the democratic central committee, who has been active in the campaign for more than a month.

Mr. Coors personally gave instructions to a small army of workers at the democratic headquarters last night as to how the ballots should be marked. Enthusiasm was rife about the headquarters and the workers gave every indication of going into the battle of ballots today with vigor and determination.

"We have fought a clean fight in this county and have not indulged in personalities," declared Chairman Coors. "The opposition leaders, desperate in their attempt to elect at least one man on the republican ticket, have concentrated their attack on the sheriff's office. The charge has been made in the public press that Felipe Zamora, the democratic candidate, if elected, will go into office weighted with 'special interests' influence. This is a vicious campaign canard and will undoubtedly be rebuked at the polls today. Zamora is a farmer. He has never had anything to do with unionism or labor troubles in his life. Zamora believes in law and order and the enforcement of all laws. He is clean, upright, well-poised and dependable. The defeat of Tony Ortiz, Zamora's rival in the county convention, came from the votes of delegates in the outside precincts and not from the city, the home of the few union delegates who were in the convention."

As most folks know, brushing teeth in old ways proved most disappointing. Teeth still discolored, still decayed. Beautiful teeth were seen less often than today. Tooth troubles came to 49 in 50.

YOU CAN'T TRUST CALOMEL AT ALL

It's Quicksilver, Salivates, causes Rheumatism and Bone Decay

The next dose of calomel you take may salivate you. It may shock your liver or start bone necrosis. Calomel is dangerous. It is mercury, quicksilver. It crashes into your liver like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your drugstore and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than many calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It can't be trusted any more than a leopard or a wildcat. Take Dodson's Liver Tonic which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can't salivate.

THE MISTAKE

That millions have corrected

As most folks know, brushing teeth in old ways proved most disappointing. Teeth still discolored, still decayed. Beautiful teeth were seen less often than today. Tooth troubles came to 49 in 50.

Millions of people, nearly all the world over, have found a better method. The glistening teeth you see everywhere now show one of the results.

ALL DUE TO FILM

Most cloudy teeth and most tooth troubles are now traced to film. Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats film. So, despite all brushing, very few escaped those film-caused troubles.

Two new methods

Then dental science, after long research, found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved those methods efficient. Then leading dentists everywhere began to advise their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. Then these two film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

Pepsodent

THE NEW-DAY DENTIFRICE

Now advised by dentists the world over. All druggists supply the large tubes.

BITTER CAMPAIGN IS ENDED IN OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 6.—Oklahoma ended its most bitter political campaign tonight with virtually all interest centered in the contest for governor between J. C. Walton, democrat, and John Fields, republican.

With fair weather predicted for tomorrow, politicians and election officials predicted the vote would be the largest in the state's history, running around 500,000. Walton has the endorsement of the farmer-labor element of the state and Fields has made his campaign as a conservative.

LOBOS FACING TWO TOUGHEST GAMES ON LIST

Coach Johnson Pointing His Team for Hard Contests With Arizona and the Aggies.

With the first string backfield using some of Arizona's favorite plays, Coach Johnson began coaching his Lobos team last night on defense for the Arizona University game to be played at Tucson a week from Saturday. With no game scheduled for next Saturday, the Lobos have two weeks to prepare for their Arizona invasion, and if reports of Arizona's strength are true, the Lobos can use the two weeks to good advantage.

The fact that the New Mexico Aggies held the Arizona Wildcats to a 21 to 7 score last Saturday in a game in which the Wildcats got the breaks, and after the Aggies had made a trip to San Francisco, makes the Aggies from up as dangerous opponents for the Lobos in the Thanksgiving game at Las Cruces, so that Coach Johnson is now pointing his squad for two of the hardest games any Lobos eleven ever faced.

Marfa, Tex., Nov. 6.—W. T. (Bill) Harris of Marfa was murdered and his body thrown into the Rio Grande, according to E. M. Caulder, business partner of the slain man, who reached Marfa today from Glenn Springs in the lower Big Bend district.

Mr. Harris disappeared from his ranch near here on October 15 and at that time was thought to have been murdered.

His body was recovered from the Rio Grande near Glenn Springs by Mr. Caulder and will be buried in Marfa.

Mr. Caulder said that the body bore marks of violence and that the skull had been crushed by the murderers, apparently with a heavy rock.

MEET THE TRAIN HABIT PUTS US IN PUBLIC EYE

D. B. McKee of Chamber of Commerce Finds That Albuquerque Is Known for Its Hospitality.

Albuquerque is known and highly spoken of all over the country. The "meet the train habit" did it.

This discovery was made by D. B. McKee, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, while on a trip to Jackson, Miss., accompanied by Mrs. McKee.

"The Albuquerque habit of entertaining travelers on special trains with rides about the city has given Albuquerque nationwide notice," said Mr. McKee.

The Jackson, Miss., chamber of commerce, after consideration by its board of directors, has decided to adopt it. I met people at every stop I made and on every train I had heard about the reputation given to the Shermans, Rotarians, dentists, osteopaths and others who went through here on special trains last summer."

In a Hold-Up.

Mr. and Mrs. McKee were on the Frisco train that was held up in Missouri Thursday night by "Quail Hunter" Kennedy and his gang. They never knew of the holdup until the following morning. The train stopped for a long time, but the passengers did not know what was going on. Frontal officials had anticipated the robbers' moves and officers were stationed near the place where Kennedy and his gang left their car. In the gun fight that resulted, Kennedy and others were killed.

NEWEST CHAMPION IS STILL A NOVICE

Mickey Walker in workout togs.

It was to be expected that youth, with its aggressiveness and confidence, would some day spell the end for Jack Britton, waterweight champion, a brainy, clever, cunning boxer, but feeling the effects of twenty years at the strenuous game. But few persons outside of those who had seen Mickey Walker in action before the bout were aware that Britton's title was in grave danger when he met Mickey the other night. But Walker beat Jack to a frazzle in fifteen rounds and won the title.

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Five games lost in three years. That's an almost unbelievable achievement for a pitcher, but it is the outstanding feature in the career of Jack Bentley, Baltimore pitcher, purchased by Jawa McGraw of the Giants.

Bentley is a Baltimore product. Jack Lums of the Orioles, picked him off the lots in 1916 and gave him a trial. The following year Bentley's arm went a-floof and to give the wing a rest, Dun turned Bentley into a first baseman.

The next season he was drafted by the Red Sox as a first baseman—only to lose out through the presence of Red Einar and Dick Hoblitzel on the club.

Jack was returned to the Orioles, but went forthwith to war and did not resume playing until 1919. And since he joined them he has helped them win four consecutive International league pennants and come out victorious in minor league "world's series" played at the season's close.

In 1929 Bentley was beaten three times while winning sixteen games. The next season he lost one game while winning twelve. Last year thirty victories must have been an unlikely number, for he was beaten once—by Rochester.

And, boy! He slings a mean club. Bunting from the left side he has hit below 300 only once in six seasons. Two years ago he hit at a .412 pace and led the league. Last year he hit .349.

McGraw bought him as a pitcher, of course, but if the telephone goes bad again, John no doubt will find use for Bentley's hitting and ability as a fielder.

FRED CROLLOTT FOILS ANOTHER WEDDING EFFORT

Indian Lad of 18 Would Wed His Minnehaha, 16; County Clerk Refuses to Sanction the Attempt.

County Clerk Fred Crollott will soon attain the reputation of being a positive antidote for the darts of Cupid if he continues at his present pace. Saturday morning Crollott foiled the attempted marriage of a man 62 to a girl who claimed 18 and looked 15. Yesterday he interrupted a proposed nuptial combination between two Indian youngsters.

The Indian boy gave his name as Joe Hasher and claimed 18 as his age. Perhaps he is, though he looked to be short of 16. Crollott, however, was willing to take his word for it. It was the girl he was interested in—that is as regards her age.

The girl said her name is Rebecca Freestone. Her home, she said, is at Santa Fe, in Sandoval county. At first she claimed her age was 22. Questioned closely by Crollott, she dropped her age to 18. Finally, she admitted she is only 15 and had run away from home to be married.

Of course, when this information was elicited, Crollott refused to issue the license applied for. Then the boy broke in with a stream of protest. He had spent money. Hadn't he paid out fares and bought all the wedding garments? And wasn't he entitled to be wed? Hadn't he also arranged for the beautiful honeymoon?

Asked where they had proposed spending their honeymoon, the lad naively replied: "Why in the very best place in all the world. In Juarez."

The two left the court house when they found their pleas unavailing. They said they would go back up to Sandoval county, get the girl's mother, make her come with them, so obtain the license and be married. Then the honeymoon in Juarez!

PASSES HALTED STREET CAR; IS GIVEN $15 FINE

Woman Learns It Is Costly to Endanger Passengers; Other Police Court Cases Are Disposed Of.

Mrs. W. G. Wignall was arraigned before Police Judge Roddy yesterday afternoon on a charge of driving an auto without a city license and passing a standing street car while passengers were loading and unloading. She said she had come to Albuquerque only two weeks ago and was not familiar with city traffic ordinances.

On her promise of obtaining a city license before again driving a car, Judge Roddy waived that charge. However, he assessed a fine of $15 for the more serious offense of driving past the street car while passengers were unloading.

At the morning session, Daniel Selvege, arrested Saturday afternoon charged with attempting to pass a worthless check, was sentenced to 30 days in jail on a vagrancy charge. The check in question was for $350 and Selvege attempted to pass it on the Hobbs Motor company. The check charge was not pressed as it had not been accepted. Selvege claims to be a deserter from the army.

A fine of $50 each was assessed by Judge Roddy against Jack Caldwell and George Renwick. The former was charged with reckless driving and the latter with having been intoxicated. The two were arrested Saturday night following an auto accident on Central avenue.

It cost James Saras and Pete Kastravits $5 each for trying to stave a Dempsey-Siki affair. They were arrested Sunday night on a charge of disturbing the peace when they made threats of reviving the recent Turco-Greek war.

Chamber of Commerce Banquet to Give Secretary Hoover a Glimpse of Southwest's Traditions.

The Fountain Group, which grew famous at the recent Santa Fe fiesta, will be here Saturday night and provide entertainment at the Hoover dinner, to be given by the Chamber of Commerce. The Fountain Group consists of two sisters, a brother, and a niece, who wear the costumes, sing the songs and present the dances of the Old Spanish aristocracy that was in control in New Mexico before the American occupation in 1846.

The dinner will begin at 6:30 o'clock. Maurice Klein will lead in the singing of "America," and will sing "O Fair New Mexico." A special boosting song written by the employees of the wholesale houses, will be sung under the leadership of Jack Mackie.

The banquet at the armory will be entirely informal, according to Manager M. L. Fox. No one will be expected to appear in full dress, even the speakers themselves. Considerable inquiry has been made into the matter of dress, said Mr. Fox yesterday, many people anticipating a formal affair.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICES ARE HELD FOR EX-GOV. ADAMS

Pueblo, Colo., Nov. 6.—Impressive funeral services for the late Alva Adams, three times governor of Colorado, were held Monday afternoon. The service at the home was conducted by superintendent of schools, J. F. Keating, an old-time friend of the former governor. At Rose Lawn cemetery, the Southern Colorado Consistory No. 4 Scottish Rites Masons, conducted their service, held for the first time in southern Colorado. The service at the grave was conducted by Thomas G. Fitch, sovereign grand inspector-general supreme council Scottish Rite Masonry of Kansas, representing the grand commander of the order and the supreme council of Washington.

Public buildings and all banks of Pueblo were closed Monday afternoon as a mark of respect to former Governor Adams, and flags over the city flew at half mast. Men prominent in Masonic, financial and political circles from all over this part of the west, including former Governor Julius C. Guntter of Denver, were in attendance at the funeral service at the home and the grave.

Why? Pimple-Poison Goes When Red-Blood-Cells Increase! S. S. S. Builds These Red-Blood-Cells.

You can be sure of this, nature has no substitute for red-blood-cells. Pimple-poison can't live in the red blood of your blood as long as there are enough rich red-blood-cells in it. More red-blood-cells! That is what you need when you see pimples starting at you in the mirror. Blackheaded pimples are worse! Eczema is worse yet! You can try everything under the sun—you'll find only one answer, mere cell-power in your blood! The tremendous results produced by an increase in red-blood-cells is one of the A. B. C's of medical science. Red-cells mean clear, pure rich blood. They mean clear, ruddy, lovable complexions. They mean nerve power, because all your nerves are fed by your blood. They mean freedom forever from pimples, from the blackhead pest, from boils, from eczema and skin eruptions, from rheumatism, from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-blood-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S. S. S. will build them for you. S. S. ## A STENOGRAPHER'S ROMANCE

BY JANE PHELPS

CORA INSPECTS THE PROF- FERED ROOM.

Chapter 44.

Cora said nothing to Nellie of what Della Black had told her, but she talked it over with Gladys, and they decided to try to keep track of the foolish girl and see if they could do something to help her. "She's too pretty, like Nellie," Gladys said. "I have noticed that the men and boys all look at her yet so far as I know she never gives them any cause. I've watched her too. Poor girl—loving a married man."

"A man without principle," Cora returned, "and I'm afraid she's weak too. Yes, she's almost as pretty as Nellie, but she hasn't Nellie's ability to look out for herself. It seems strange that one girl will put aside temptation while another girl in the same position succumbs. I guess goodness is somehow ingrained in people—morality, I mean. At first I was so afraid for Nellie I couldn't sleep at night, but now I know her I don't believe there's a man living could tempt her to go wrong—no matter how much she loved him. I'd trust her as far as I'd trust myself."

"Nellie, you see, had become disgusted with the loose talk at that cheap boarding house where she lived, whereas Della Black came right from a home, from how studies, and knew nothing of men. She told me one day at luncheon a good deal of herself; the way she felt when she first went to work, but said nothing of what she told you, although I thought at the time something was worrying her. It must be terrible to care for a man as she seems to—a man who can be nothing to her."

"It is hard," Cora said in a sad tone, her thoughts flying to William Dalton, his honest love for her, hers for him, yet with no future for them—"must be," she added, "terribly hard when it is a painful love."

"Say, Miss Baker," Nellie teased, "haven't you played society lady long enough? Seems to me if you can get dinner and clean up our mansion you can go down and look at that room Mr. George said you could have."

"I am well enough, Nellie. But I have been afraid to make the start. I never felt timid before about my work, but it sort of frightens me to take rent on my shoulders."

"He, Mr. George mentioned it today, Cora," Nellie became serious. "He said he wished you were established, that he had several hours work to be done. I offered to stay and do it. But he wouldn't let me. You see I'm his father's stenographer, not his. Once in a while I do little things for him—if Mr. Fallon is away, or if he sends me into his office purposely. But I don't do anything regular for Mr. George."

"I'm glad of it," Gladys broke in. "You might fall in love with him, or he with you."

Nellie turned to hide the blush that swept her face.

"No danger of that," she carelessly replied. "You wouldn't think a stenographer had any chance if you could see the swell Miss Dorothy and I guess she likes him pretty well, if he is her cousin."

"I'll go down with you in the morning," Cora had heard little of the conversation, she was so occupied with her thoughts.

Timidly, Nellie rapped on George Fallon's office door the next day, always a bit self-conscious when she approached him. When he called "come," she and Cora entered. Nellie introduced Cora, and asked if she might look at the room he had spoken of.

The man had risen at their entrance and now he proceeded them to a door opening from his room into the small end room that he had proposed Cora might have.

"There is a good light, Miss Baker, and this door," he opened it, "leads into the hall, which would give you privacy by looking the other one leading to our offices. This furniture if in your way, can be removed." It consisted of two desks, some chairs, and a filing cabinet.

"What will the rent be, Mr. Fallon?" Cora asked, her cheeks burning, her eyes shining. "The furniture would have buying—if it could be left."

"Save annoyance to us too," he said as he named a sum so small that Cora almost felt he was making her an object of charity until he added: "Whatever you pay will be clear gain. We never have used the room, probably never would have used it—except for a sort of storage room for discarded furniture such as is now here."

"I'll take the room, Mr. Fallon, and thank you very much," Cora said gratefully, looking around for Nellie, but she had disappeared. Tomorrow—Cora Takes Possession of Her Office.

Styles

BY LENORE

FROM PARIS

Youthful simplicity is the keynote of this brown velvet frock with its interesting pocket arrangement and the newest idea in sleeves. The waistline is extremely low in the style favored by Lanvin. The slender little belt of self-material tying directly on the hip at the left side, the pockets flaring out slightly above this line.

For ornamentation, green and white beading may be used as in the original model, or dull gold metal thread or silk embroidery may be substituted. One of the new cashmere fabrics or silk crepe of a substantial weight may also be used for this design.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Dry Salt.

Keep the reserve supply of salt close to the warming closet of the range and it will always be dry and flow easily, even if your home is at the seashore.

Wash Day.

Time can be saved if the clothes are sorted as they are removed from the line, keeping handkerchiefs, towels, etc., together, ready to be sprinkled and folded.

In the Sick Room.

The ticking of a watch will often seriously disturb a patient and this can be avoided by inventing a glass tumbler over the watch. The time can be seen plainly through the glass, but the sound will be eliminated.

Good Pastry.

Have the shortening very cold. Roll lightly on a smooth surface. Use one-third as much shortening as you do flour.

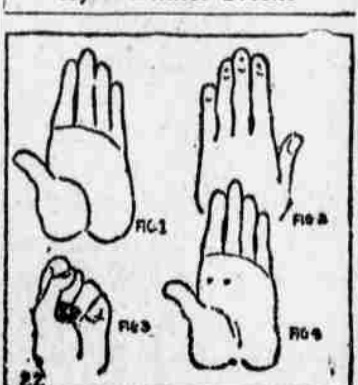

Add as little water as possible to make the pastry stick together. Thoroughly mix the shortening and flour before adding the water. Never add either shortening or flour after the water has been added and it will mean tough crust.

The marriage of Miss Grace Stortz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Stortz, and Raymond J. McCanna, son of Mrs. P. F. McCanna, will take place Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the church of the Immaculate Conception. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Father A. M. Mandanville.

Following the service a wedding breakfast will be served at the Alvarado hotel for the bridal party and about 50 friends. The young couple will leave at once for a honeymoon in New York and other eastern points. They will be at home after their return at 601 Luna boulevard.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 22—Three Erased Marks Restored

The palm of the left hand is shown empty, and the hand is placed beneath a table. Three marks are drawn on top of the table, with the end of a cigarette ash may be used. The right hand wipes away the marks; the left is withdrawn and the marks are found transferred to the center of the left palm.

Three similar marks were previously made on three of the left fingers. Thus the left palm was shown empty by merely clenching the fist beneath the table the marks were found on the palm.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young married woman and have only lived here two years. My husband got a position here and married me so that I could come with him. The position did not take all of his time and he had an agreement with his employer that he was to work on other jobs too. Through a friend of ours back in our home town we became acquainted with a man who seemed to be very much interested in us. He couldn't do enough to make things pleasant, entertained us in his home, took us automobile riding, introduced us to his friends, and then gave my husband a lot of work.

After the work was finished my husband began sending in bills for it. The man always made an excuse for not paying. Finally we gave up hope of getting anything for the hard work that my husband had done. At that time we made some new friends and they told us facts about the other man which were not to his favor, and they urged us to sue him.

It seems an awful thing to sue some one who has been a friend at one time. Still he owes us $200 and we need the money badly. What would you advise us to do?

MRS. W. G. F.

Sue for the money, because it is only right you should have it. The man was not a friend in reality or he would not have treated you so shamefully. Business is business and he had no right to hire your husband without paying him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I wish to ask your advice about a matter which has been troubling my conscience for some time. Nearly two years ago I fell in love with a girl who I thought at the time was the only girl for me. I dreamed I was a bit hasty, as I was only nineteen at the time.

For about a year I went with no

Old Wilhelm's story of his rein proves what I've always said, that he alone was sane and sane, and sound in heart and head; all other men were born in vain, mere strips of gingerbread. On useful labors he was bent throughout his long career, his mighty intellect was only hid for me. I dreamed I was a bit hasty, as I was only nineteen at the time.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

PRESIDENT AND LORD PREDICT A FURTHER SAVING

Government Expenditures Will Be Nearer $3,000,000,000 Than $3,500,000,000 as Estimated.

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Harding and Director Lord of the budget are both confident that government expenditures next year will be considerably nearer $3,000,000,000 than $3,500,000,000, as estimated by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Clifford, administration officials declared tonight.

Whether the deficit for the current year, originally estimated at about $697,000,000 will be entirely avoided, officials declared, will not be known until the government's books are balanced at the close of business on June 30, 1923, but there is every indication that an approximation of expenditures with receipts will be accomplished.

The original estimate of receipts for the year, officials said, was $3,973,253,311, but the results of the government efforts to increase collections of back taxes, the sale of surplus supplies, increasing customs duties and other items are expected to make a material advance in the total income. On the other hand, official asserted, economies in the various spending departments of the government instituted by the budget bureau expected to pare down the original estimate of expenditures for the present fiscal year of $4,771,253,542 to an approximation of the year's receipts.

MORE DEFINITE PROPOSALS ARE ALLIES' DEMAND

Reparations Commission Wants Germany to Outline Other Plans for Stabilization of the Mark.

Berlin, Nov. 6 (by the Associated Press).—The reparations commission today handed the German government another note, impressing upon Germany the necessity of making more definite proposals for the stabilization of the mark and reminding the government of its engagements under the last July with a card to the regulation of Germany's finances.

The commission requested a speedy reply to the note. Parliamentary and financial circles profess to see only hopeless confusion in the situation. They interpret the note as a polite reminder that the commission is completely out of sympathy with the manner in which Chancellor Wirth and Minister of Finance Hermes are conducting the poor business.

And Blotches. Lost Rest. Cuticura Healed.

"I was troubled with pimples and blotches on my face. The pimples were hard and red and quite large. They were scattered over my face and itched and burned so that I scratched and rubbed them. At night I lost my rest on account of the irritation. "I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a short time could see an improvement. I purchased more, which completely healed me in about a month." (Signed) Miss Rachel Riley, Kendrick, Idaho, Feb. 15, 1922.

Do Not Put Off For Two Years, What You Can Do Today!

YOU HAVE READ ABOUT A PRISONER IN THE STATE PENITENTIARY BEING SHOT DOWN IN COLD BLOOD! A NON-PARTISAN BOARD OF INQUIRY RECOMMENDED THE REMOVAL OF THE WARDEN. A REPUBLICAN GOVERNOR HAS SET HIS SEAL OF APPROVAL ON THE KILLING OF A HELPLESS PRISONER AND HAS REPUDIATED HIS OWN BOARD, BY FAILING TO REMOVE THE WARDEN. THIS RECORD IS A BLOT ON THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO!

VOTE YOUR DISAPPROVAL

YOU HAVE READ A LETTER WRITTEN BY THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC LANDS, NOW DEPUTY LAND COMMISSIONER, WHICH READS, IN PART,

"I wish you could have waited until after the election, then I can do as I want to, but I will try and get this for you anyway, I put it in some one else's name, so the old fool will not know who it is for, I will work it out somehow."

Do Not "Wait Until After the Election!" Vote Your Disapproval Now!

You have read that the Republican candidate for Governor says that taxes CAN'T BE CUT! ¶ Your vote for the Democratic ticket will prove that TAXES CAN AND WILL BE CUT! ¶ Vote your disapproval of Republican waste and extravagance and incompetence. By voting a straight DEMOCRATIC ticket. Just put a cross in the circle at the top of your ballot and you will put an end to Republican misrule.

To the Fathers and Mothers: Why You Should Defeat "Dick" Lewis!

People can only judge the future by the past.

On December 15, 1915, Jesus Romero, now candidate on the republican ticket for county commissioner, was sheriff of Bernalillo county. On the same day and for many months previous, "Dick" Lewis (Ricardo Lewis y Otero), the present candidate for sheriff on the republican ticket, was chief deputy sheriff serving under the then sheriff, Jesus Romero.

On December 15, 1915, The Albuquerque Morning Journal said editorially:

"TIME FOR LAW ABIDING PEOPLE TO ACT"

"When a gambler and dive keeper believes himself secure enough in his lawlessness to pursue one of his victims across the dead line from the underworld into a respectable business house and, with the aid of an officer of the law, tries to collect a gambling debt by strong arm methods, it is time for decent people to take measures for their own protection.

"The maintenance of a gambling house is in direct violation of the law. But we might as well carry the matter a bit further and ask something about the 'invisible government,' by which the gambler is protected in Bernalillo county.

"Saturday afternoon we had the spectacle of two gamblers and divekeepers, with a deputy sheriff, appearing in a business house for the collection of a gambling debt of $35 from a youthful employe who not only had spent all of his money at the gaming table, but had given a check for $35 to cover additional losses.

"The deputy sheriff, who had a warrant for the arrest of the boy on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, stated that he was there under orders, not from the court that issued the warrant, but of the gamblers, to make the arrest unless the $35 and costs were paid. If the gambler said to make the arrest, the officer was to make it, and if the gambler said not to make the arrest he was not to make it. When told that he was laying himself quite as liable to criminal prosecution as the gamblers, the deputy sheriff laughed to scorn the idea, that any punishment could come to him, and when payment was refused, on instructions from the gambler, he grabbed the boy by the arm, yanked him out of his seat and started with him to the lockup.

"Isn't it well for the people of Albuquerque, the people of Bernalillo county, the people of New Mexico, to inquire just how it comes that an officer of the law is at the beck and call of a gambler and a dive keeper? How is it that warrants are issued for the enforcement of gambling debts? Since when has some power arisen by which a man can be imprisoned, contrary to the constitutions of both state and nation, for any kind of debt, to say nothing of a debt incurred in an outlawed game of chance in a house maintained in violation of the laws of the state?"

We repeat: Jesus Romero, who was sheriff of this county on the day the above editorial was published in The Albuquerque Morning Journal, is now running on the republican ticket for county commissioner.

We repeat: The famous "Dick" Lewis (Ricardo Lewis y Otero), who was chief deputy under the then Sheriff Romero, on the day the above editorial was published, is now running for sheriff of this county.

We ask you to note: That gambling was wide open in Old Albuquerque, this county, on the date the editorial just quoted was written. Reference to The Albuquerque Morning Journal of the day previous to December 15, 1915, discloses that dives were permitted to run openly and in direct violation of the law.

The famous "Dick" Lewis (Ricardo Lewis y Otero) was chief deputy of this county then. He had ample power under the statutes to suppress gambling and vice. Did he use that power? If he did not use it then, will he use it now?

The people of this county today must choose between Felipe Zamora, the democratic candidate, a good, law abiding citizen, a farmer, by choice, and the Hon. "Dick" Lewis, a part of whose record you can read between the lines of the editorial quoted from The Morning Journal when Lewis and Romero were in power in this county.

Vote against Lewis—you decent people of this city and this community.

R. M. A. POSTS E. S. ROGERS AS DIV. PRESIDENT

Decide to Push Candidacy of Local Man in Division
8 of Railway Mail Association.

Edward S. Rogers will be next division president of Division No. 8, of the Railway Mail Association, if the efforts of the Albuquerque branch of the organization and the local Woman's Auxiliary of the same order can effect his election. This was the decision reached at a joint meeting of the Albuquerque council and Woman's Auxiliary of the R. M. A. held last night at the Y. M. C. A.

Division No. 8 of the R. M. A. includes San Francisco, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Salt Lake, Ogden and Albuquerque. With this array to move, the Albuquerque council will face a difficult task to place an Albuquerque man in the presidential chair. However, local members are confident of accomplishing the task they have set.

Rogers is popular throughout the organization and many votes are expected from the other councils. The next election of the order will be held in June, 1923, and the local council will have plenty of time to bring other councils into line for Rogers.

There were 30 members present at the joint gathering last night. It was the regular monthly meeting and banquet of the organization. Speeches were made by members. One republican member tried to show why the democratic candidate for senator, Jones, should be elected, while a democratic member tried to show why Davis, republican, should be given the office.

The republican endeavored to show that Jones has not accomplished anything in six years, although he has a solid democratic backing during that time. He maintained that Andrews, as a delegate during territorial days, without a vote in congress, accomplished more than Jones has in six years.

The republican showed how Jones has worked for the state primary law and speech of his efforts and accomplishments in other directions. He also stated that with one republican senator already in congress it is policy to also have a democratic representative.

COOLIDGE PREDICTS POSSIBLE INCREASE IN G. O. P. MAJORITY

Northampton, Mass., Nov. 6.—Vice President Coolidge, arriving here today from his western speaking tour, predicted a possible increased republican majority in the senate as a result of tomorrow's voting.

"I like it to be generally conceded that both houses will elect a substantial republican majority," Mr. Coolidge said. "I think the senate is more likely than not to increase its republican majority."

Mr. Coolidge will vote here with Mrs. Coolidge, who has been at their home here about two weeks.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat, tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

AZTEC LOOKING FOR OIL BOOM. DRILLS COMING

Pueblo, Kentucky, and Kansas Interests Arrange to Ship in Rigs; Indications Favorable.

Aztec, N. M., Nov. 6.—Experienced oil men are now turning their attention to the Aztec field, says the San Juan Review. Two new rigs have been ordered to be shipped to Aztec and will be run here when the railroad company commences to receive that class of freight. At present the railroad is receiving only livestock, fruit and produce shipments, but the bulk of this petroleum traffic will be moved by the truck-trailers of this month, and then other classes of freight will commence moving regularly.

In our issue of October 2 we pointed out that government geologists are authorized for the statement that "several broad, low anticlines cross the rim of the great Hogback at right angles over the north of the San Juan river, but are noticeable chiefly in the bulges they make in the outcrop lines of the formations." Since this information was made, public scouts have entered the field and it is said that six structures have been located east of the Las Animas river. Geologists are now combing the district lying west side of the Las Animas, which is practically one large monoclinical fold with evidences of interwoven terraced anticlines.

A former scout for the Empire oil company, and a man who is recognized by oil men as being a "field expert," has chosen the Aztec field as the most promising and his present financial supporters have ordered two rigs and drilling equipment shipped to this point. The operators have two more rigs which will be moved to Aztec providing suitable acreage can be secured.

Two years of field work in this section, including all the districts both north and south of the San Juan river, this expert field man has chosen the Aztec field as the logical one for prospecting. He is cognizant of the fact that the Midwest Refining company has opened a producing well on the Hogback structure to the west, but that structure is on the Navajo Indian reservation and logically will be controlled by the combined oil interests—by competitive bidding, if it becomes necessary—to the exclusion of the independent operator. He says this entire section is practically a net work of structures and the chances for oil are not confined to any one particular local district.

Pueblo Syndicate Will Drill. C. M. Patrick, political writer on the Pueblo Star-Journal, is in Aztec and has secured leases on five thousand acres of and six miles southwest of Aztec and has ordered the rig timbers from a Colorado mill while the tools, casing and other drilling equipment will be shipped from Pueblo. It is reported that the Thatcher people, big Colorado banking interests, are backing this venture.

A scout representing a Kentucky oil company has filed an application for an oil prospecting permit on 2,560 acres of land in the northeastern part of the Aztec field and is ready to move a rig onto the ground just as soon as the permit is granted.

A Kansas company, has been negotiating for leases on the Bloomfield mesa and are ready to move a rig and commence development just as soon as the acreage is blocked-up to suit them. They have ordered the rig timbers from Thos. H. Marshall, indicating delivery at Aztec or Ignacio, Colo. It is rumored that in the event they fail to block the Bloomfield acreage to suit them they will drill on the large acreage which has already been blocked according to specifications. Bloomfield is given the preference and should act favorably. Development is the important thing.

LOCAL ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel A. Towers departed on the limited Monday for their home in Washington, D. C., after a ten days' visit with their son, Lemuel, Towers and family, 215 North Second street. Mr. Towers, Sr., holds the position of private secretary to Chas. H. Burke, Commissioner of Indian Affairs at Washington, and has been in company with that official on an inspection tour of Indian reservations in Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas. Mr. Towers and his wife then visited the Grand Canyon, stopping off in Albuquerque to visit the son, who is a member of the clerical force of the local southern pueblo agency. Both enjoyed themselves very much, and returned to Albuquerque, and surprised at the progress she is making.

Col. W. B. Greeley, chief forester of the United States, and Assistant Chief Forester E. E. Carter stopped over in Albuquerque yesterday. They are en route to their headquarters, at Washington, D. C., after attendance at the forest management conference at Cooley, Ariz.

George Beckwith, of Albuquerque, formerly ranger on the Manzana forest and now of the Red Rock district as member of the Duffin force, is spending a few days in Albuquerque. He is accompanied by his mother. O. Fred Arthur, supervisor of the Lincoln forest, is stopping over in Albuquerque for a few days. He is returning to his headquarters at Alamogordo after having attended the recent forest management conference at Cooley, Ariz.

E. W. Reed, district forester, and R. M. Evans, assistant district forester, both of the eastern district which covers the Appalachian system, spent yesterday visiting old friends and reviewing records of this district.

Deputy Sheriff Nolasco and Gutierrez returned to Albuquerque yesterday. They had delivered three insane persons to the state hospital at Las Vegas and one convicted criminal to the state penitentiary, at Santa Fe.

Miss Florence Frazier, who has been visiting relatives and friends in Kansas and Denver, Colo., has returned to the city, and is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ball, 205 South Eighth street.

H. S. Miles, assistant extension director of the United States department of agriculture, is here in conference with County Agent Lee J. Reynolds.

United States Senator H. O. Bursum was here yesterday on his way to Socorro, where he will cast his vote today. Senator Bursum has been campaigning the state in the interest of the republican senatorial candidates.

Miss Lillian May, state secretary of the Baptist Woman's Missionary Union, and S. S. Russell, state Sunday school secretary, left last night for Tucuman, where they will attend the Baptist state convention.

Dr. J. W. Bruner, secretary of the Baptist state convention, will leave today to attend the sessions of the convention at Tucuman.

Miss Evelyn Shuler of Baton Rouge returned after spending several weeks here with her sister, Miss Winifred Shuler of Minneapolis-the-Moore.

Funeral services for Miss Alice Benham of Bland, formerly of this city, who died in Las Vegas on Friday, were held here on Sunday. Her mother, Mrs. Anna Benham, is here.

Judge Harry P. Owen of Las Lunas, J. D. Wilson and W. E. Nevis have gone to Grants and Abilene, where they will attend a conference with the university association.

Dr. O. D. Wescott, district medical officer of the U. S. Veterans' bureau, is in the city from Denver on a visit of inspection to the local bureau. He is accompanied by Dr. O. L. Lynch.

E. V. Berry, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will leave today for Atlantic City where he will attend the international convention of the Y. M. C. A. He will be absent about three weeks.

Dr. Clifford Lomax, dentist of the U. S. Veterans' bureau, has taken a patient of the bureau to the hospital at Fort McKenzle, Wyo. He will be out of the city for ten days.

Dr. Murray, Osteopath, Violet-ray treatments, Armijo Bldg. Ph. 741.

Factory wood, full truck load, five dollars. Hahn Coal company. Phone 91.—Adv.

8 SPECIAL DEPUTIES
IN ELECTION SERVICE

District Judge M. E. Hickey yesterday granted the application of Sheriff Tony Ortiz to appoint eight special deputy sheriffs to serve during the election today. For a time it was feared no extra deputies would be allowed as there are no appropriation funds available for payment. However, arrangements were made and they will probably be paid from court funds.

REPUBLICANS IN SOUTHLAND HAVE PUT UP A FIGHT

Has Been One of the Most Vigorous Campaigns Ever
Conducted by That Party;
Many Candidates.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 6 (by the Associated Press).—Tomorrow will see the outcome of one of the most vigorous campaigns the republicans ever have conducted in the south, when the voters of all parties go to the polls to name a full southern representation in the lower house of congress, select United States senators from Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and Virginia in addition to electing governors in Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and Tennessee.

The republicans have candidates in the field in all of the ten Virginia congressional districts, nine of North Carolina's ten and other districts scattered throughout the south. They have centered their fight largely in Tennessee, however, where a determined campaign has been conducted on pleas of endorsement of both state and national republican administrations with Governor A. A. Taylor, republican incumbent, seeking re-election over Austin Peay, democrat, and Newell Sanders, former republican United States senator, trying to overthrow K. B. McKellar, democrat.

In addition to electing congressmen and state officers, several states will pass on constitutional amendments. The voters of Arkansas will have before them an amendment to provide for the enactment or rejection by the people at the polls of legislative measures, laws and amendments to the constitution independent of the general assembly.

Woman Relied Upon Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Emporia, Kansas.—"I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines years ago when I was a girl. For several years I had severe menstrual periods, making me very weak and interfering with my regular duties. I tried several remedies, without obtaining relief. It was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and it restored me to normal health. I often have occasion and do recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to my own. You may use these facts as a testimonial."

Eva Adams, (218 Union St., Emporia, Kansas).

There are many women who first used our Vegetable Compound during their girlhood days. They found it a valuable help during trying periods. In later years they use it whenever they feel those annoying symptoms which women often have.

It is prepared carefully from medicinal plants, whose properties are especially adapted to correct the troubles women have.

THE VOTE IS UNANIMOUS

Although the women of Albuquerque are fairly well divided as to their politics, they are unanimous as women ever are in one vote they cast—their vote of approval of the values of the National Garment Company.

We have yet to find one woman who has inspected our stocks this season who expressed anything but real admiration for the garments we are showing AND THEIR PRICES.

There are a few women in Albuquerque who have never been in our store—we want them to come in—to make the vote 100 per cent.

STOCKS OF COAL
IN STORAGE ARE GREAT AS USUAL

Reserve Supply Is About the Same as in Normal Years in Spite of the Five Months' Strike.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Stocks of bituminous coal stored by commercial consumers and retailers in the United States on October 1, were approximately as great as in normal years in spite of the five months' coal strike of 1922, according to figures given out today by Federal Fuel Distributor Spens, gathered by a survey undertaken by the bureau of census and the geological survey.

The total in storage on October 1 was found to be 23,000,000 tons of soft coal, compared with 27,000,000 tons on the same date in 1919, with 23,000,000 tons in 1917 and 20,000,000 tons on the same date in 1915, with 23,000,000 tons in 1917 and 20,000,000 tons on June 1, 1920.

Mr. Spens indicated that 20,000,000 tons of coal in storage was the minimum on which the country could get along.

The supply varying from state to state, in part follows: Less than 20 days: California, Nevada, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa and Illinois.

Thirty days and over: Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

Dominack, Umpire Hater

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER.

He whirled the lariat twice and let fly. It missed the umpire by a fraction of an inch.

"THAT'S Dominack," said the Indian agent who showed us around the Shuswap Indian Reservation. "Dominack is the reservation's problem, not to mention Lake Windermere's. By all the rules of the parole system Dominack ought to be back in jail serving the rest of the six years he got for killing his father-in-law."

"But punishing Dominack is about as satisfactory as chastising an irresponsible child. Doesn't seem to do Dominack a bit of good. Doesn't seem to understand why he is being punished. Besides, it doesn't seem to make much difference to Dominack where he is—in jail or out. Quite a problem, Dominack."

Dominack was sprawled out on a blanket beneath a pine tree. There seemed to be nothing of great moment upon Dominack's mind, although he did seem somewhat concerned in some faulty technique in his lariat throwing. He was throwing his rawhide from a reclining position and his targets were small twigs, stones and even loose sticks. To the tenderfoot Dominack's ability to snake these objects out of their positions with his lariat seemed little short of marvelous. But Dominack wasn't satisfied.

"He's been peeved about his lariat work ever since that game of baseball," explained the agent.

Dominack is six feet of slovenly Shuswap. The reservation lies near Lake Windermere in southern British Columbia and great is Dominack's fame in the province. If baseball could stand another Sockalexis, Dominack might be enjoying fame in the big leagues, but probably it is just as well for baseball and Dominack, not forgetting the team that might have him under contract, that he lies there on the shores of Lake Windermere content to accept whatever may come to pass.

The great outside world means very little to the majority of the folk up in that part of British Columbia. Whenever excitement is needed to stir them out of too great a lethargy Dominack rears himself to his feet and goes forth hunting a bit of trouble. Usually, unless he is apprehended in the seeking, he finds it. And then there is plenty to talk about.

"Dominack he great man," volunteers a scrawny Shuswap youngster. "He great fighter, great baseball player. Greatest baseball player in the world."

"They say down in the States," we venture, "that Mr. Sieler is the greatest." "Seeler, bahl! You ever see Dominack?" "Then," we suggest, "there is Mr. Cobb and Mr. Hornsby and Mr. Ruth and Mr. Speaker."

"No good. Dominack best of all. Never heard of these men you say great. Everybody know Dominack."

To get the proper perspective on Dominack you must know something of his past. And his past seems to be dominated by the unfortunate incident that featured the taking off of his father-in-law. There are a number of colorful stories about it, but the most reliable (and the one that the court accepted as true) has it that Dominack and his father-in-law were engaged in ploughing in the latter's field.

Dominack was a trifle peevish that day. He showed it in his childish abuse of the old cayuse that had been teamed up with a mule to the plow. Came a particularly irritating incident and Dominack assailed the unfortunate beast with a club. Father-in-law objected, not so much from humanitarian motives as because the nag was a serviceable old brute and good for more work.

Whereupon Dominack brought the club down upon the old man's head with ruinous force. One blow did it. The old man died and Dominack, not at all concerned, was dragged into court. The Crown's prosecutors told the jury all about it and the jury scowled at the nonchalant Dominack, who couldn't somehow get interested. They decided to jail him for six years. It does seem minor punishment for murder, but the killing of Dominack's father-in-law did not strike the court as the most terrible offense that might be imagined. At any rate Dominack was thrown into jail, where he proceeded to sleep and eat and take life serenely. It made little difference to our hero.

A few weeks later the Shuswaps were invited to play a strong baseball team from somewhere or other down the province.

"We can't play," said the Shuswaps. "We have no pitcher. We would be terribly beaten by this team unless Dominack was with us to pitch."

They were quite right about it. The game was played and the visitors won. It was a fearful shock to local pride and it just about wrecked the morale of the Shuswaps. The Shuswaps always looked upon the diamond but on this occasion they never played as badly as they looked. They never wore uniforms anyway. Half the fun in going up to see them play of a Sunday afternoon was to see Dominack in the box with a brown derby on the back of his head. The first baseman wore a ragged jersey, a railroad brakeman's cap and a pair of denim overalls. He never wore shoes.

Charlie the shortstop scorned shoes also. The diamond was a bit lopsided. The bases were tree stumps hacked off close to the ground. It was almost twice as long from first to second as it was from home to first. The distance from second to third was twenty feet more than it should have been. You see they had to have the bases where the stumps were.

Dominack had not been in jail very long and the Shuswaps hadn't sustained many humiliating defeats before it was decided that it would be quite within the law were Dominack to be let out of his cell on Sunday afternoons and permitted to pitch for the home team. After the game, of course, he'd be locked up again.

So they'd march Dominack to the dimond, give him the ball and the Shuswaps began winning again. Great was the rejoicing among his brethren. His first appearance after going to jail was something of a plot. He knocked six or seven home runs, they say, and pitched the opposition to death. So wild did the Shuswaps become that the jail attendants were somewhat apprehensive lest there be a battle when they tried to take Dominack back to his cell.

But there was no trouble at all. Dominack went slinking back to prison with his brown derby hat on the back of his head and his dirty overalls trailing at his heels. There was nothing of the noble redskin about Dominack.

In time the authorities who have to do with paroling prisoners decided that it might be just as well if Dominack were released. He was fetched into court and told that he could go back to his cabin on the reservation and stay there as long as he behaved himself.

"All right," grunted Dominack. "But the minute you do anything wrong, back you go," they warned him.

"All right," repeated the big Shuswap. So Dominack shuffled back to his cabin and made a rather complete job of behaving until a few weeks ago when a team came up to the reservation for the usual Sunday game.

It develops now that this team had come up to win. It was composed of professionals and it was said that its pitcher and catcher had won renown in the Pacific Coast league. Much money was wagered on the result of the game and Dominack, coming as close as he ever has to being enthusiastic, jammed the old derby further down than ever and proceeded to pitch great baseball.

So, too, did the opposing pitcher. The white man was good. Even the mighty Dominack, the greatest baseball player in the world, struck out. Along about the fifth inning, neither side having scored, the contest had become pretty tight. Here and there arguments broke out and the Lake Windermere rooters began to realize that they were witnessing the makings of a nice free-for-all battle. While the Shuswaps were at bat Dominack was heard addressing his fellow warriors:

"White man ball players throw dust on umpire when no like him," he said. Dominack had laboriously spelled out newspaper accounts of big league heroes and was recalling them for the benefit of the team. "Sometimes white man hit umpire if no like what he say. Maybe knock him down and drag him down the street by the hair if he no good."

Dominack went to bat. He took off the derby, connected with a fast ball and sent it sailing over the trees beyond the outfield.

"Foul ball!" cried the umpire. And the riot was on.

Local police officials stepped in and prevented a massacre. To be entirely accurate, only a few blows were struck. Something like order was restored and Dominack was ordered back to the plate. Dominack hit one that the umpire had to call fair and he got as far as second base on it.

There followed two decisions by the umpire that were entirely too much for Dominack. The umpire had called two strikes that Dominack thought were either too high or too wide. Dominack decided it was time to act. From his shirt he drew a lariat. He circled it about his head twice and let fly. He missed the umpire by a fraction of an inch but raised a welt on that worthy's face. And that broke up the ball game.

Dominack went back to the reservation in disgrace. Really he was a hero to the youngsters, but in the opinion of the old braves whose word is law among the tribesmen Dominack was in deep disgrace. He had been paroled on condition that he would behave. Here he had tried to assault an umpire—a white man, too.

The trial took place the next morning. Bright and early all the Indians drove over to the little white wooden court house. Dominack dressed for the occasion. He wore a handkerchief of vivid blue silk tied gayly about his neck and three painted chicken feathers stuck from his worn-out hat. He was all by himself. The Indians were disgusted with him.

They went in twos and threes and fours. All the braves were there. But none of the squaws. The squaws haven't got as far as jury duty as yet.

The braves had had a pow-wow the evening before and had put their case before the Indian agent. They wanted Dominack put off the reservation. He was a disgrace to them and to the reservation and to the ball team.

But Dominack felt no shame. "Do nothing, do nothing," kept what white man do. All ball player—good ball player—in big city, they do same. Drag umpire down street by hair, pull him along so."

Dominack gesticulated more fully to explain that in his opinion all real baseball stars were much more ferocious with an umpire than he had been. He was disgusted with the magistrate and the court. They didn't know about baseball in the big places.

His imagination had made him firmly believe that he did. In his mind he could see a splendid baseball star dragging, without pity and without mercy, an unfair umpire along a city's streets, while the inhabitants looked on and applauded.

Dominack was fined five dollars. The Indians all went back to the reservation. They had had a delightful morning. It was wonderful to have an important engagement like that on the very day following the baseball game day. They had Dominack to thank for that much.

But he must be put off the reservation. They'd have to have lots of pow-wows about this. Here was a big problem.

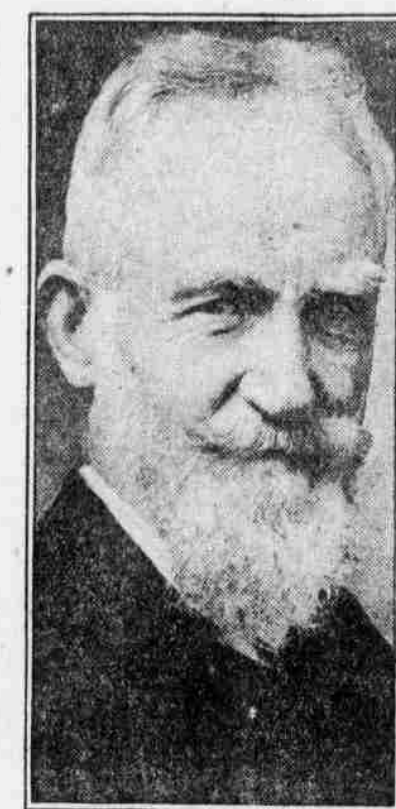

And Dominack now awaits decision as to whether he can smoke his pipe within his little whitewashed log hut or whether he must go to jail.

ternational affairs, they are not yet surfeited, lecture managers report, with men and women "who can come here and enlighten us and make us understand." That is the present principal phase of the lecture business, as some of the managers see it—a demand for authoritative treatment of international relations.

There is also a continuing interest in noted writers. Hugh Walpole, for example, feels justified in coming back this winter to lecture on "The English Novel of the Twentieth Century," "Novel Writing and Novel Reading," "Psychology and Fiction" and "Books and Friendship."

We independent Americans keep on getting excited about foreigners, even without titles, but the bureau managers say we are more exacting than formerly. It is getting so that we expect a lecturer not only to have a reputation and a "message" but to know how to deliver the message. In this respect audiences have been badly fooled in certain instances. Ordinarily the visiting celebrity has not been wholly to blame. He has been tempted beyond his strength and ascertained too late that a handsome contract, bountiful publicity and a luscious advance sale do not commonly correct defects of language, voice or manner overnight or change an ugly duckling into a swan.

There is also the type of lecturer who is capable enough but comes to grief through failure to take American crowds seriously. And occasionally there is one who fails through no fault of his own. A famous young Englishman was tortured while here by headaches. Unlike Dickens, who was ill throughout his tour but upon whom a public meeting had a tonic effect, so that he was always at his best at the reading desk, this young Englishman felt worse than ever when he faced an audience.

G. Bernard Shaw doesn't need the money, even if it is $2,500 a lecture, and therefore won't come.

According to the American custom the management always placed a pitcher of ice water within reach of the lecturer. As he talked he dipped in his fingers now and then, clutched a piece of ice and held it to his brow. Seeking further relief, he dipped one wrist and then the other in the pitcher, and on one occasion he absentmindedly—or maybe he didn't mind—poured himself a glass and drank of the water which had just contributed to his distinguished habitude.

The spectators were ignorant of the headaches, and the gallant young Englishman wouldn't permit them to be told. They thought the ice water business was all la-de-da mannerism. Though entertaining, it was not what they had paid for, and as it diverted attention from the substance of the lecture the celebrity felt short of the expected measure of success. He is still a first class fighting man with the typewriter, but as a lecturer he is not at present contemplating another visit to the United States.

Gambling as they have to do on the vagaries of public taste, managers of lecture bureaus must be good judges of human nature, as well as careful observers of what is going on in the world. The best of them confess that they can't always tell what the public wants and they have no way of asking the public. College boys on the bleachers can howl concertedly between football quarters "We want beer!" and it's safe to say they do want it, but no way has been discovered of getting the public to yell out its mental desires. Lee Keedick, who has brought many notable foreigners to America in recent years, says he gets lots of letters from patrons who express a wish to hear So-and-so, but he finds them not very helpful, for the reason that the average petitioner is anxious only to hear some lecturer in his own special field who might have nothing to say of general interest. Physicians want to listen to great physicians; clergymen to great clergymen, and so on.

"Americans are supposed to have an especially keen appetite for public lectures," Mr. Keedick says, "but so far as I can discover they do not differ in this regard from people the world over. Everywhere men and women like to sit and be entertained or enlightened by one speaking with authority. If we had a Mark Twain he would draw just as big audiences in Europe now as the greatest Europeans have drawn over here. Capt. Amundsen had a fine tour in this country in 1913, but when he went to Germany he did even better. Sir Rabindranath Tagore had a good reception here on his first trip, but the second time he unintentionally gave offense and was rather a failure. Yet when I was in Germany in 1919 they were making more of a fuss over him than we ever did. Peary had good audiences in Europe. The man who has achieved something worth while and has a happy way of telling about it is in demand everywhere."

Mr. Keedick sees no reason to revise his opinion, voiced some time ago, that the "war lecture" will find no market for several years to come. He thinks that when popular interest in the war revives, as it is bound to do eventually, the secret history of the conflict rather than stories of fighting will be sought after.

We have already referred to the fact that American gold is not always sufficient to entice foreign lecturers away from their native lands. For many years Charles Dickens was numbered with these. When he finally did come, in order to place his family beyond the reach of poverty, he had an experience the like of which has not been known in our day. Think of lines of ticket applicants stretching half a mile from the box office, of hundreds of persons lugging mattresses from their homes and sleeping on the pavements in order to be sure of getting an opportunity to listen to a man read stories which could have been bought for a dollar or two and enjoyed in comfort at home! We have seen something like this on the eve of world series baseball games, but never of lectures or any other kind of entertainment provided in public halls.

Tickets for the first readings in Boston were put on sale in November, 1867, at $2.

"Intending purchasers," wrote Dolby in his book, "Charles Dickens as I Knew Him," "sent their clerks, servants and others to take their places outside the store of Messrs. Ticknor & Fields, supplying each of them a straw mattress, blankets, food and in many cases with tobacco and creature comforts of an alcoholic description."

The receipts for the four readings in Music Hall were $14,000. Speculators, who were as rapacious then as they are now, got as much as $26 for a ticket. The scenes in New York when the sale was opened for readings in Steinway Hall were even livelier.

"My hotel was within fifty yards of the scene of action," Dolby reported, "and the shouting, shrieking and singing of the crowd suggested the night before an execution in Old Bailey."

Tickets for the first four New York readings brought more than $15,000. Speculators exacted enormous premiums. One of them got $50 and a brandy cocktail for two tickets for three readings.

Dickens's state of health was such that he had to decline nearly all offers of hospitality. He could not sleep at night and ate little. An egg beaten in sherry and taken every night between parts of the reading helped him to get through. He visited Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Syracuse, Rochester, Hartford, Providence, Worcester, Springfield and New Bedford, but gave up the idea of going to Chicago, and again cut down his schedule.

He sailed for England on April 22, 1868.

He gave a series of readings in England the following winter, further impaired his health by the nervous force he put into the murder scene from "Oliver Twist," and died of apoplexy on June 9, 1870. Dickens's "readings" were such only by the convenient use of that term. He acted all the parts and gave a first rate dramatic entertainment. Macready, the tragedian, hearing in his old age Dickens read "Nancy and Bill Sykes," entered the novelists' room, and leaning on the arm of Dolby and glaring at Dickens finally said, "All I have to say is: Two Macheys!"

Dickens's son, Alfred Tenyson Dickens, came from Australia to lecture in this country in 1912. On January 2, 1912, he died of heart disease at the Hotel Astor.

A Linguist

TO be able to hold a conversation in forty different languages seems to most persons a notable achievement, but a famous globe trotter recently declared that he saw no reason to boast because he had this linguistic accomplishment. Said he:

"As a matter of fact, if one acquires a working capital of from 8,000 to 10,000 words he can go around the world talking to all kinds of people and they will comprehend him. There are about forty languages spoken in the world, and many more, counting dialects. All that the man who dislikes to do is a 'dummy' anywhere on the earth's surface is to do is to learn about 250 words of each of these forty tongues."

"The 250 words are practically all that a traveler would be likely to hear and absolutely all he would need to speak. This is as true of the English tongue as it is of every other. In all a limited vocabulary serves the ordinary man's turn."

The Platform and the Box Office

By THOREAU CRONYN.

SIR HENRY M. STANLEY, lecturing in this country in the winter of 1890-91, talked to 110 audiences, who paid $287,070 to hear and see him. He took $287,070 to England and net profit of $110,000, or $1,000 a lecture. This was nineteen years after he found Livingstone, but he had just explored Africa a third time and great was his fame.

Charles Dickens came here in 1867 in some trepidation because of the fun he had had at our expense in "American Notes" and "Martin Chuzzlewit." He caught cold and endured the continuous discomfort of what he called "the true American catarrh," but he gave seventy-six readings, the gross receipts of which were $228,000 and the average was paid his personal net profit was $19,000, or $133,000 in our money, as a pound sterling was worth 47 at that time. His gain would have been larger if he had been willing to accept United States currency. Doubtful of it, he converted the currency into gold, then at a premium of 35 1/2 per cent.

These records, Stanley's and Dickens's, have never been equaled on the lecture platform, although among the lions that have come to roar upon our shores since then have been many of distinction. The foreign invasion has been steady and, we may assume, profitable, for most of the visitors, having once confronted American audiences and escaped with their lives and checked the count at the box offices, have been eager to return. But it is interesting to note that the really Barnumesque earnings are not of the gilded present, but of fifty-five years ago in the case of Dickens and thirty-two in the case of Stanley. It is easily possible that a few modern celebrities may have got more out of a single lecture or a short series than the two here mentioned, but none has come up to them as regards sustained performance and total winnings.

Popular taste, say those enterprising lecture agents who have to appraise it, runs in cycles. The successful manager has to be as good a judge and interpreter of shifting currents as a weather forecaster. James B. Pond, whose father, the Major, managed the tours of Henry Ward Beecher, Matthew Arnold, Mark Twain, Bill Nye and many others, recalls that before the war there was a long period in which explorers and travelers were uppermost. This was the era of Peary, Cook, Paul Rainey, Buffalo Jones, Amundsen and Commander Evans, who told the story of Scott's tragic effort to reach the South Pole. Concurrently there was, as Mr. Pond views it, a "literary cycle," with visits from Masfield, Alfred Noyes, William Butler Yeats, Lady Gregory and others. This still continues, but was most marked just before the war.

Before, during and since the war every lecture manager of large ambition has tried to lure George Bernard Shaw to the United States, and some of them haven't given up yet, although it is understood now that Shaw will never come any more than Rudyard Kipling will return. Of all the foreigners who could enrich themselves and their agents by merely dropping across the Atlantic and opening their mouths Shaw is regarded as the surest bet. We know of one specific offer made to him of $2,500 apiece for eighteen lectures, which he could easily give in a month if he chose, and probably he has received higher bids. Shaw says he can't see any reason why he should come to the United States. In addition he regards himself as too elderly and, more important, he doesn't need the money, which, no matter what one hears to the contrary, is what brings most of the gifted aliens here.

George Moore, after resisting American blandishments for half a lifetime, had agreed just before the war to come to America, but the submarines put him off, and as he is now 69 years old it is doubtful if we shall see him in the flesh. The war also stopped Maurice Hewlett from coming. On the other hand it was at least indirectly responsible for the return of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. His belief in the manifestation of life after death was quickened by messages attributed to his son, killed in the war, and he felt that the war had placed the people in a receptive mood for his message.

Another celebrity upon whom American beguilement has been wasted is Max Beerbohm. He sends word he is happier where he is and can't talk in public anyway.

Knut Hamsun, one time Milwaukee street car conductor, who won the Nobel prize for literature last year, also declines to cross the Atlantic. His reason is that he doesn't speak good English. Possibly he has in mind the unhappy experience of Maurice Maeterlinck, who thought he had phoneticized his French into the American language, but whom his audiences found so unintelligible that he folded his wings and flew back to Belgium.

The war interrupted a flow of poetry from writers thereof who found profit and sometimes pleasure in reading their verses to the multitude. The moment this stream was shut off the war lectures started. Ian Hay (Major Ian Hay Belth) was among the first of those to whose personal narratives of combat the public gladly listened. Then along came Arthur Guy Empey, Private Peat, Major W. A. Bishop, British flying ace; John Masfield, describing this time rather than reading, and a host of others. Among them came a group of strictly war poets, including Siegfried Sassoon and Robert Nichols. Next inevitably followed the prophets of reconstruction and the "new world" which was to be fashioned out of the wreckage, but which seems, like the good time comin' for Nicodemus the slave, to be long, long, long on the way. This wave lasted long enough for Sir Philip Gibbs, Coningsby Dawson, Blasco Ibanez, Gilbert K. Chesterton and others to have their say, and, in fact, has not yet subsided.

The war and post war problems having given Americans a new interest in in-

NEW MEXICO IS FAVORED FOR A BIG SANATORIUM

Masonic Commission Suggests This State Among Others; Albuquerque Will Make Bid for It.

Albuquerque seems certain to be the location for one of a number of tuberculosis sanatoriums to be founded throughout the country by the Masonic fraternity. The chamber of commerce and local Masonic bodies are at work on the project.

The special Masonic commission to make an investigation of tuberculosis among Masons yesterday released its report for publication, a copy of which is in the possession of M. L. Fox, manager of the chamber of commerce. The report recommends the provision of hospitalization facilities for caring for 5,000 patients. That number of Masons, from a total of 2,640,000, die every year of the disease, the report states.

The commission, which was appointed by the grand lodges of New Mexico, Arizona, and Texas, is composed of three representatives from each state. It has made a thorough investigation. The commission now recommends the formation of the National Masonic Tuberculosis Sanatoria association, a benevolent corporation. The formation of such an organization would require the participation of the Masonic grand lodges of the country.

The special commission was made up of: R. J. Newton, of San Antonio, Tex., chairman; Dr. R. C. Hoffman, of Deming, secretary; Morris Goldwater, of Prescott, Ariz., treasurer; Dr. Felix P. Miller, of El Paso; Benjamin J. Berkeley, of Alpine, Tex.; Dr. N. C. Bledsoe, of Bixbee, Ariz.; Fred O. Goodell, of Tucson, Ariz.; John W. Turner, of Silver City, and Dr. James A. Massie, of Santa Fe.

Among the localities recommended for sanatoria are New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, Colorado, Maine, North Carolina.

JONES' RECORD QUESTIONED BY EX-SERVICE MAN

Thomas Truder of Las Vegas Says Senator Could Have Shown Friendship for Men During War.

Las Vegas, Nov. 6.—Thomas V. Truder, an ex-serviceman and overseas veteran, today gave out an open letter to the ex-servicemen of New Mexico in behalf of the candidacy of S. B. Davis, Jr., of this city for the United States senate.

Mr. Truder declares that the republican party is doing everything within reason to help the former soldiers, and declares that Senator Jones, the democratic candidate, can do no more. He states that his letter is sent out to offer a letter to ex-servicemen, purported to have been written by a veteran who is a democrat. Mr. Truder's letter is as follows:

"Mr. Ex-Serviceman: The federal government, under a republican administration, is spending 438 million dollars this year for the ex-servicemen, and that the budget for 1923 is for 455 million dollars to be expended for the disabled buddies? Why should any ex-serviceman desire to support the democratic candidate, when a republican congress and a republican president are doing everything within reason to help us? Do you know that this amount of money is being given only to the disabled, and that those are the ones whom we, as ex-servicemen, want to see protected and helped first? Do you really feel that Mr. Jones can do anything more than that if elected? If you do, you are dead wrong."

"During the war, thousands of ex-servicemen made compulsory allotment, to which the government made an additional allotment. That amount was taken out of the soldiers' pay, and in many cases, privates only drew $5 and $6 per month. Now, if Mr. Jones was such a great friend of the soldier and was so influential with the financial committee, why did he not propose some legislation whereby a soldier could receive a small pension of $30 per month himself and have the government take care of his family?"

"Also, when we were discharged, the government handed us the fabulous sum of $80, which enabled us to purchase one suit, a pair of shoes, and a hat. Now, if Mr. Jones was such a friend of ours and was so much interested in the bonus, or adjusted compensation, why did he not put forth his efforts at that time and propose some legislation such as giving a larger amount, or, like was done in England, provide unemployment pay for a certain length of time?"

"As you know, I am an ex-serviceman. I have served in this country and on foreign soil, and I have the welfare of ex-servicemen at heart; that fact cannot even be challenged. I have given my time and energy to assist and help ex-servicemen upon every occasion, and furthermore, I expect to do continue until every ex-serviceman has his just reward and is given his proper place in our society, city, county, state and nation.

Favors Mr. Davis.

"My constitutional right permits me to accept the republican persuasion. It also privileges me as an ex-serviceman and a private citizen to become an exponent of any man whose political virtues are unquestionable, as are those of Hon. Stephen B. Davis, Jr. Therefore, according to the dictation of my own conscience, I have, of my own free will and volition, exercised my desire to offset, as much as possible for me to do in my own humble way, a letter purporting to have been written by an ex-serviceman of democratic faith. "This action was exercised with no ulterior motive in view or in the anticipation of any selfish, personal reward. As you well know, my position is not contingent upon the election of any of the candidates of either party who are to be voted on at the coming election, and I have no promises made me that will result in selfish gain of any kind whatsoever. I have always been opposed to the organization of a Davis or Jones club being formed by the ex-servicemen, and I have thus expressed myself to my party leaders. It is gratifying for me to learn that a number of my comrades of opposite political faith have concurred with me in my right to exercise personal privilege on the behalf of a man who will render valuable assistance to the ex-servicemen of this city, state and nation.

Truly yours, (Signed)

"THOMAS V. TRUDER."

VOTERS ARE ENTITLED TO CAST VOTES FOR THREE COMMISSIONERS

Representatives of both political parties called attention last night to the fact that each voter is entitled to vote for three county commissioners. They said that an impression had gotten abroad that the voter must cast his ballot only for the candidate representing the district in which he lives.

Those who vote mixed tickets are urged by both parties to remember that the candidates for commissioners in each district are running against each other, and not against the candidates in the other districts. Hence, it would be impossible to vote for two commissioners in any of the districts, though every voter is entitled to vote for three commissioners.

The situation in regard to the candidates for members of the legislature is directly the opposite, party leaders pointed out, as all candidates on one party ticket are running against all candidates on the other party ticket.

CHURCHES PLAN UNION SERVICE THANKSGIVING

Rev. C. R. McKean to Address Annual Gathering of Protestant Congregations Here.

Plans for the annual union Thanksgiving services of the Protestant churches of Albuquerque were made at a meeting of the Ministerial alliance at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday morning. The custom is one that has been observed in this city for many years. The union service will be held this year at the Central Avenue Methodist church. It was decided. The Thanksgiving sermon will be preached by the Rev. Charles R. McKean, assistant pastor of the Presbyterian church. There will be special music by selected singers from the choirs of the several churches joining in the service.

The offering which will be taken at the union services will be given as usual to the Thanksgiving charity work of the Salvation Army and the city bureau of charities. A large offering for this purpose is usually realized. Services will begin at 10:30 o'clock in the morning of Thanksgiving day.

A resolution expressing regret at the departure of the Rev. H. S. Davidson, Congregational minister who recently resigned his pulpit here, was passed by the alliance. Mr. Davidson was formerly president of the alliance, his place being taken by the Rev. A. M. Knudson, pastor of the English Lutheran church. The Rev. W. A. Guy is secretary.

FOREST MANAGEMENT CONFERENCE CLOSES

Every district of the United States Forest service was represented at the recent forest management conference held at Cooley, Ariz. There are seven districts of forestry in the United States and Alaska.

The conference this year was made up of the highest degree of scientific ability and technical skill of the forestry service. Col. W. B. Greeley, chief forester, presided at the conference. There were 45 special representatives in attendance.

District Forester F. C. W. Pooler, Chief of Maintenance, H. B. Hammond, Assistant District Forester, E. E. Marsh, and Landowners H. M. Lang and Quincy Randle, all out of the Albuquerque office, represented the southwest district. This district, officially known as District No. 3, includes New Mexico and Arizona.

The questions considered at the forest management conference covered the general scope of production and disposition of timber. Most of the discussion dealt with scientific methods of timber cutting, including questions concerning logging, marketing, and the general underlying principles of scientific management of the timber resources of the United States and territories.

RED CROSS TAG NEEDED TO GET BY ON SATURDAY

A Red Cross on the wind shield will be as necessary as a license tag under the fall light in Albuquerque on Saturday when the annual Armistice Day auto tag sale of the Red Cross will be conducted. While the officers of the law are looking out for drivers without licenses, over a hundred young girls will be looking out for the motrices not running under the sign of the Red Cross.

The motor tag sale will be conducted all day Saturday by a large corps of girls under Miss Berna Vergenson, chairman of the committee. A number of girls have volunteered for service and several clubs have offered their services. The university sororities will participate.

Among those who have already enlisted in the "motor corps" are: Mesdames Allen, Brisco, Leano, Putney, Gladys Abbott, Misses Charles Parsons, Lorena Burton, Julie Fleischer, Danahue Cobb, Mary Wood, Violet John, Grace Borradaile, Faye Boyd and Grace Campbell.

THREE MEN SENT TO EL PASO, TEX., FOR DEPORTATION

All Three Recently Released From State Penitentiary; One Is English, Two Are Mexicans.

Captain John F. Harn, United States immigration inspector, returned yesterday after having delivered three aliens at El Paso for deportation as undesirable aliens. All three have just completed serving terms in the penitentiary at Santa Fe.

Two of the men are Mexicans. These two are Catarino Soto and Jesus Soto. Immigration officials at El Paso will arrange to deport them to Mexico as undesirable aliens, neither having been naturalized.

The third was Aleck Greene. He is an English subject and will be deported to England. He is being held in El Paso to join a group which will later be sent to Ellis Island, N. Y., for deportation to various European countries.

AUTOMOBILE COLLISION.
A touring car driven by J. L. Gardner of the Sanitary Heating and Plumbing company, and a light truck, property of the Imperial Laundry company, collided at Sixth street and Central avenue yesterday afternoon. The touring car suffered a shattered headlight, while the rear fender of the truck was smashed.

SMALLPOX FATAL TO FIVE.
Denver, Nov. 6.—Five more deaths and fifteen new cases stemmed up developments in the smallpox situation here today.

COURT DENIES DAMAGES; HAD ASKED $5,570

Defendant Contends Plaintiffs Were Guilty of Contributory Negligence and Is Upheld.

Denial of damages was the verdict reached in the district court yesterday in the case of Esteban and Juan Sandoval vs. Ed Moore. Esteban Sandoval and his son, Juan, had filed suit for $5,570 for alleged damages, for which they claimed, Moore was responsible.

The plaintiffs alleged in their suit, filed March 1, 1922, that they had been injured when a wagon in which they were riding was struck by a car driven by Moore. According to the complaint, the accident occurred January 27, 1922, at the intersection of the Fourth street and Menaul road, north of the city.

In answer to the complaint the defendant filed as rebuttal the claim that the defendants had been guilty of contributory negligence in failing to take proper precautions in crossing the Fourth street road. It was advanced that if they had been attentive they could have seen the approaching car in time to avoid the collision. This contention was upheld by the court and the plaintiffs were denied damages.

Y. W. C. A. COMMITTEE INVESTIGATES ROOMS FOR TRANSIENT GIRLS

No girl is ever directed to a room by the Young Woman's Christian association until it has been personally visited and approved by a member of the room registry committee. This is not only a local practice, but a national one. The national board of the Y. W. C. A. has a secretary who devotes herself to directing this work.

Mrs. Alfred Nicolovius of New York, room registry secretary of the national board of the Y. W. C. A. is in the city to investigate methods of the Albuquerque association with its particular problem of the woman's "safety" room. She is traveling throughout the entire southwest to study and aid the work.

Organized registration of rooms for women began during the war, according to Mrs. Nicolovius. When thousands of girl war workers were precipitated in certain cities it became necessary to organize the hunt for rooms and to select only rooming houses approved in the organization. Since the war the work has continued, she says. Now all rooms are visited before they are listed and the landlady is queried as to the kind of a roomer she desires so that everybody is suited. A record is also kept of the girls who have been placed in rooms by the association.

ROBERTSON LEADS IN GRID SCORING AMONG TEAMS IN THE EAST

New York, Nov. 6.—Quarterback Jimmy Robertson of Carnegie Tech continues to lead individual gridiron scorers in the east, according to compilations today, with 73 points, composed of 12 touchdowns and one point from try after touchdown. "Boots" Brunner of La Fayette is close behind with 71, consisting of ten touchdowns and 11 points after touchdown, while Wilson and Palm of Penn State are next with 61 and 55, respectively.

Are you among these thousands?

THOUSANDS of people keep on trying, year after year, to build health from food that has been robbed of certain elements required for perfect nutrition.

If your food doesn't contain the mineral properties that go to build up nerve, tooth and bone structure, there is no other means by which you can get these vital elements.

This is one reason why so many well-informed people eat Grape-Nuts

THE PEOPLE'S OPPORTUNITY

Election day belongs to the people. It is to them a day of greater importance than any other day in the year and upon their decision will depend their political fortune in county, city, state, and, to a large extent, the nation.

A newspaper can at best only guide the voter in his or her selection of candidates by expressing its best judgment in the light of the facts and by a careful and honest presentation of all available information which may have any bearing on the qualifications of a candidate for public office.

The campaign in New Mexico has been conducted, with few exceptions, in such a way as to enable voters to make their selection solely upon the merits of the respective candidates of both parties. The issues have been clearly defined.

Senator Jones is opposed to a high protective tariff. Although he voted for the wool schedule which would have afforded protection to New Mexico's leading industry, he voted against the new tariff law as a whole on the ground that, in his opinion, the law was so designed as to afford an unreasonable high protection to the manufacturing interests of the East. If all the members of Congress held the same view this country would either have a sectional tariff law or none at all. In the last analysis, however, Senator Jones stands with his party on this issue. He is in favor of the immediate enactment of an adjusted compensation act for ex-service men. While Senator Jones was a staunch advocate and supporter of the bonus measure which was vetoed by President Harding, he has on several occasions voted against measures which were intended solely for the benefit of ex-soldiers and their dependents, such as the Hardwick amendment providing free postage for soldiers in France and various other amendments which provided increases in existing pension rates. Senator Jones is, therefore, to be judged mainly on his record.

His opponent, Stephen B. Davis, is in favor of a protective tariff without reservation. He is also a strong advocate of an adjusted compensation law which will not impose an additional tax burden upon an already tax-weary nation, but which will carry with it some means of meeting the obligation through indirect taxation. In addition to the constructive program which Judge Davis has presented to the people of New Mexico, his election to the U. S. Senate is highly desirable inasmuch as he is a Republican and to that extent will be in a position to co-operate with the President and the majority party in Congress.

Mrs. Otero-Warren, Republican candidate for Congress and the first woman in New Mexico to be nominated for that office, stands for a protective tariff and an adjusted compensation law. While she is strongly in favor of federal aid in education, she is equally opposed to federal control. As she is one of the foremost authorities in the state in educational matters she is especially qualified to speak on this subject. We believe that her election to Congress as New Mexico's representative will be a distinct benefit to this state. Her opponent, John Morrow, is opposed to a protective tariff and is in favor of an adjusted compensation law. Throughout his campaign he has offered nothing in the nature of a constructive program nor has he demonstrated in his campaign that he is capable of representing the people of New Mexico in Congress.

Charles Lee Hill, Republican candidate for Governor has pledged himself to a constructive and economical state administration and to a careful study of existing problems. He has pledged himself to a reduction of taxes wherever reduction is possible.

James F. Hinkle, the Democratic candidate for Governor, carries his case to the people upon the main issue of high taxes. He has promised wholesale tax reduction and the elimination of what he has termed useless jobs. Mr. Hinkle's charges of waste and extravagance have been effectively disproved, for the reason that his charges have been general and he has failed to point to any particular instance where he will effect any reduction, and has failed to specify any of the "useless offices" which he has promised to eliminate. The Republican campaign slogan "Where will Hinkle cut?" has not been answered. In other words, Mr. Hinkle has failed to prove his charges of waste and extravagance by failing to show where, in his judgment, they exist. In the case of Frederick Muller, Republican candidate for Commissioner of Public Lands, the Morning Journal has come to the conclusion, after a careful examination of the facts, that Capt. Muller is not entitled to election. In our judgment, the evidence in the case is overwhelmingly against him. He has failed to disprove the charge which has been made against him, of having written a letter which discredits him as a public official. His failure to examine the letter which he is alleged to have written and the complete collapse of his original defense confirms our opinion that Capt. Muller should be defeated for the important office of Land Commissioner. When we are asked to choose between dishonesty and inexperience in public office we prefer to choose inexperience.

As to the candidates for the legislature voters have very little choice. Both tickets, with one or two exceptions, may be said to be nearly on a par. The issue in Bernalillo county is Hubbellism and we believe that it should be destroyed. No one man should be permitted to hold any public office within the palm of his hand and when any individual arrogates to himself the division of public offices as a means of furthering his power he should be voted into political obscurity.

DUG OUT BY ROOT

(A Chapter on Auto Intoxication.)
There's something in that story about wood alcohol being hard on the eye sight. We had a gallon of the stuff put in our Ford Saturday evening, and on the way home, one of the lamps went out.

The prohibitionist friend we picked up gave us several interrogative glances, when the stuff in the radiator began to warm up, and looked as though he wanted to take a glance under the back seat.

The boys of Texas Christian University have sworn not to cut their beards until their college wins a football game. Judging by the way the season is going, they'll look like the twelve apostles by the time the bird of victory is ready to build its nest in their whiskers.

Albuquerque Twenty Years Ago

Miss Nina Otero, who has been the guest of Albuquerque friends for several days, has returned to her home in Santa Fe.

Teddy Strong, the bright young son of Harry Strong, left last night for Los Angeles, where he will visit his grand-parents.

M. Greenberger, Las Vegas merchant, is here on business.

The Albuquerque public is looking forward with much pleasure to the concert to be given Friday evening in Colombo hall by Miss Mary Menaul, the accomplished pianist, and several other musicians of the city.

The marriage of Miss Mary Tipton, daughter of Judge W. M. Tipton of Manila, formerly of Santa Fe, and Charles M. Spencer, timekeeper for the Colorado Fuel and Iron company of Denver, is announced.

The engagement is announced of Mr. Daniel Padilla, one of the courteous salesmen of S. Benjamin and Company, and Miss Beatrice Apodaca, a charming maiden of Barcelona. The marriage will be celebrated November 12.

Druggist B. Ruppe has taken a lease on the store room in the N. T. Armijo building formerly occupied by T. Muenstermann, the shoeman.

Mrs. Edward Corson has as her guest her father, Charles E. Evans, who is taking a short rest from his duties as foreman of the tin department of the Burlington railway shops at St. Joseph, Mo.

Elías M. García and Company have purchased 5,000 head of high grade breeding sheep for Frank A. Hubbell, who will place the animals on his ranch at Magdalena.

TODAY'S BEST THOUGHT

THE POOR VOTER ON ELECTION DAY.

The proudest now is but my peer.
The highest now is but my peer;
Today, of all the weary year,
A king of men am I.
Today alike are great and small,
The nameless and the known;
My palace is the people's hall,
The ballot-box my throne!

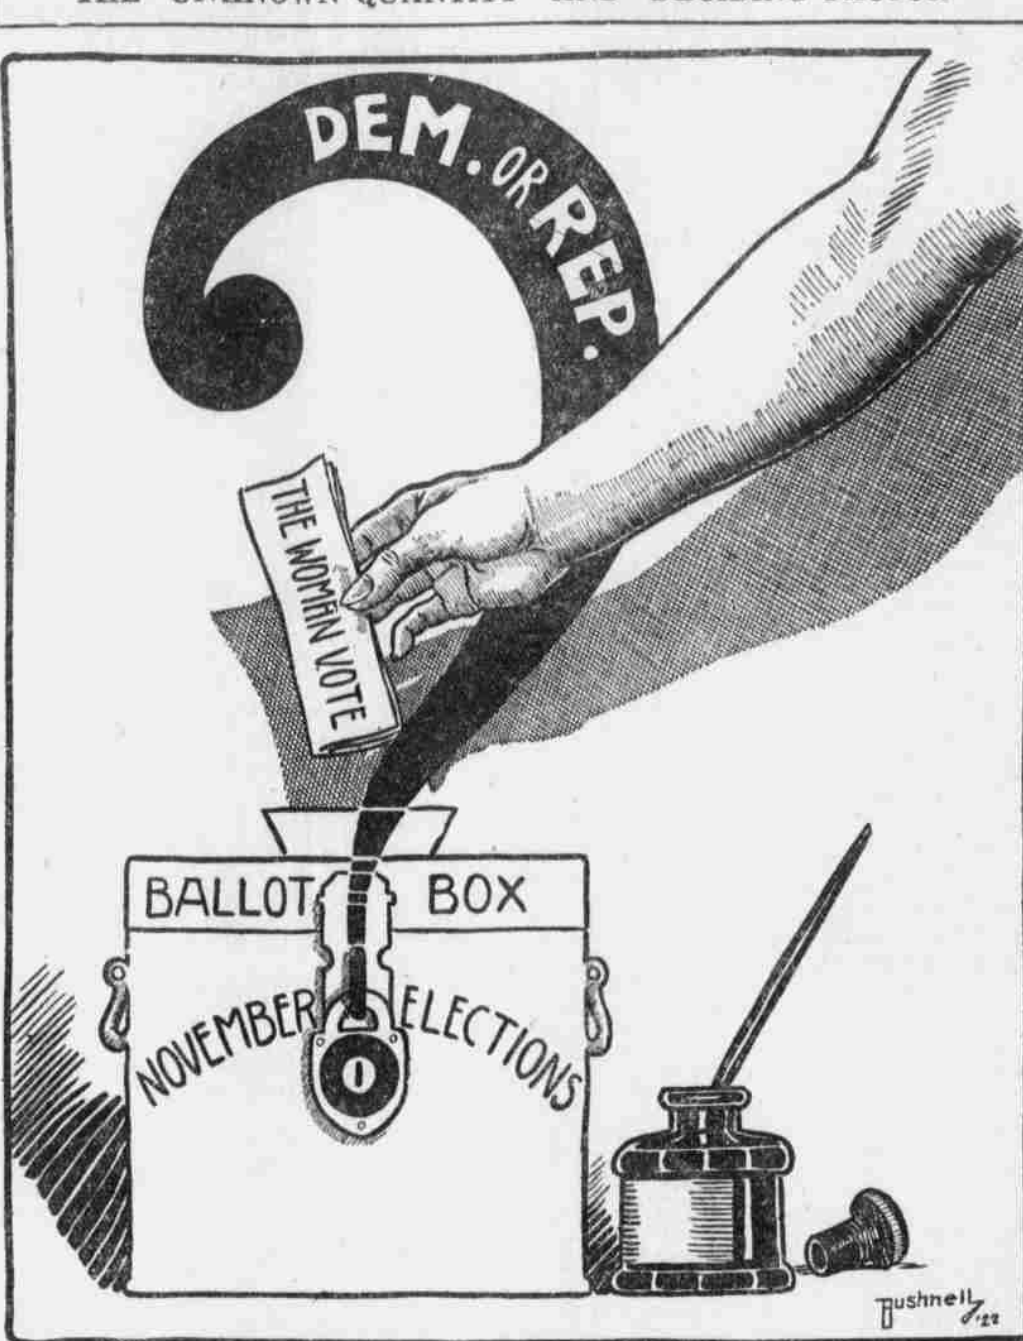

Who serves today upon the list
Beside the served shall stand;
Alike the brown and wrinkled fist,
The gloved and dainty hand!
The rich is level with the poor,
The weak is strong today;
And sleekest broadcloth counts no more
Than homespun frock of gray.

Today let pomp and vain pretence
My stubborn right abide;
I set a plain man's common sense
Against the pedant's pride.
Today shall simple manhood try
The strength of gold and land;
The wide world has not wealth to buy
The power in my right hand!

While there's a grief to seek redress,
Or balance to adjust,
Where weighs our living manhood less
Than Mammon's vilest dust,
While there's a right to need my vote,
A wrong to sweep away,
Up! clouted knee and ragged coat!
A man's a man today!

New York, Nov. 6.—Speculators for the decline, finding the stock market in a weakened technical position as a result of the rapid advance of last Thursday and Friday, took advantage of the unfavorable near Eastern news and the unwillingness of traders to carry stock over the holiday, forcing down prices one to three points.

Uncertainties regarding the outcome of tomorrow's elections and the dispositions of traders to await more definite developments in Turkey before extending their commitments resulted in considerably less activity, total sales aggregating only 704,000 shares, as against the million share average of the last week.

The reactionary movement extended over most of the list, but pressure was concentrated in the last hour on the Erie issues, as demand for a strike of employees of the Pennsylvania Coal company, one of its principal coal properties, Erie first preferred was the "arrested" dropping three points, the company yielding 2 1/2, and the second preferred 2 1/2. Other low-priced rails reacted in sympathy.

Announcement by the American Railway association that the demand for traffic facilities had caused the greatest car shortage in history failed to check the decline in the standard rail shares, losses of a point or more being sustained by several.

There were a few notable exceptions to the downward trend. Chain Store shares were bid up in spirited fashion on reports of better business and possible extra dividend disbursements. Woolworth crossed double bar, closing at 20 1/2, a net gain of 17 points on the day.

Copper shares were strong in early dealings, but they forfeited most of their gains in the final reaction. A slight stiffening of copper prices was noted as a result of the large volume of metal bought for domestic shipment in the last few days.

Profit taking and short selling in the oil shares caused some substantial recessions. Mexican Petroleum dropped nearly three points and losses of one to two being sustained by Standard Oil of New Jersey, Royal Dutch and General Asphalt. Steels offered better resistance to pressure, most of them yielding only fractionally.

Call money opened at five per cent and then advanced to 5 1/2. The time money rate held at five per cent with comparatively little demand.

Seriousness of the Near East situation was reflected in the heaviness of foreign exchange rates. French franc and German marks dropping to new low levels for the year. Demand sterling also reacted more than one cent to 44 1/2, a large volume of grain and cotton bills being contributing factors.

GRAIN

Chicago Board of Trade
Chicago, Nov. 6.—Disquieting reports of a new crisis in the Danubian brought a general advance today in the prices of wheat. The market closed unsettled, 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents net higher with December $1.16 to $1.16 1/2 and May $1.15 1/2 to $1.15 1/2. Corn gained 1/4 to 1/2 and oats 1/4 to 1/2. In provisions, the outcome varied from 2 to 2 1/2 to a rise of 15c.

The wheat market opened on the down grade in sympathy with Liverpool but news of aggressive actions by the Turks brought a sharp upturn, and after that the bear side was at a disadvantage. The weakness at Liverpool was explained as due to large North American exports and increased Argentine offerings.

Enlarged buying power which developed in wheat came to a considerable degree from houses with eastern connections.

Under such circumstances and with no particular selling pressure, the May delivery ascended to a new high price record for the season. Talk about chances of a post-election break caused a little setback at the close.

Corn and oats reflected the action of wheat despite reports that foreigners were out of the market for corn and that Argentina was under-selling the United States.

Closing prices:
Wheat—Dec., $1.16; May, $1.15 1/2; July, $1.05 1/2.
Corn—Dec., 65c; May, 69 1/2c; July, 69 1/2c.
Oats—Dec., 41 1/2c; May, 42 1/2c; July, 29 1/2c.
Lard—Jan., $9.52; May, $10.15.
Hibs—Jan., $9.87.

B THEATRE

5 DAYS--STARTING TODAY--

THE IMMORTAL DRAMA OF AMERICAN HEARTS!

The greatest of all emotion-dramas—the play that has drawn laughs and tears from a million American hearts—at last given a production worthy of its story. With the screen's greatest character actor, Theodore Roberts, in the role he was born for—"Uncle Josh."

A story made of the sorrows and joys of plain folks and a great love that weathered adversity. Reaching its climax in a mighty cyclone scene that dwarfs any storm ever shown on the screen before. For your heart's sake, come!
