M. CLEMENCEAU REPLIES TO HIS CRITICS IN U. S.

French 'Tiger' Lashes Back at Senators Who Have Found Fault With What He Has Said in Speeches

Boston, Nov. 24 (by the Associated Press).—The Tiger of France lashed back at his senate critics Friday in his first American interview, replying particularly to the criticisms of Senators Hitchcock and Borah.

"Senator Hitchcock calls me a militarist," Clemenceau said. "Well, I am glad to tell Mr. Hitchcock he is wrong. I am not a militarist. I am a statesman. I am a statesman who has been in the senate to vote for only a few more days. When he is free, spare him to go to France and learn the facts."

Answering Senator Hitchcock's demand that he explain why France insisted on using black troops in her army of occupation, the Tiger declared that Hitchcock had been misled by German propaganda and that today there was not a single black soldier in German territory.

To Senator Borah's recent assertion that Clemenceau was primarily responsible for conditions in Europe because of his great influence in the drafting of the Versailles treaty, the aged statesman declared his situation was "particularly distressing" since in France he had been most bitterly criticized for having asked from the Germans less than he ought to.

Clemenceau received his interviewers in his room at the home of F. L. Higginson, Jr. He wore his usual gray cutaway suit, and his gray skull cap was perched on his bald head. Seated himself in a huge easy chair, he said:

"Now, put any questions you like and I will answer them."

The interviewers went at once to the subject of the Washington criticisms. Clemenceau smiled and shrugged.

"I had made it a point not to discuss with official people in America," he said, "but I have said I will answer all and so I must answer."

"I have suffered much" from 1871 to 1917 for not being a militarist. I turned militarist when the war broke out—because I had been a militarist to the extent of extending the length of military service in France.

"But that wasn't too bad, if it allowed us to oppose the German front until England and America appeared."

Asked to answer Hitchcock's question about black troops, the Tiger said "bon" and waded in.

"In the first place there are no black troops of occupation in the area of occupation of the enemy. In the second place I have seen black American troops at the front and they stood the fire with bravery, too."

"Of course this has nothing to do with the question of whether we are militarists or not. It is an attempt of German propaganda to oppose France and America and obscure what is really the great question."

Black Soldiers

"Now, those black soldiers were always more or less occupying towns in France and always not along perfectly with the white French people. Even, I should say their discipline is stricter than any white troops."

"So, I have seen papers of German propaganda which I suppose inspired Mr. Hitchcock's sayings and I can plainly say they are no more lies."

The reason black troops were sent into the occupation zone at first, Clemenceau said, was to provide a few months of home leave for the white troops, "that had stood the fire for years until America could come, and were rather exhausted."

Then the Tiger came to Senator Borah's statement that he, Clemenceau, was responsible for most of Europe's woes, because of the treaty of Versailles.

Declaring that the criticism was exactly the opposite in his own country, where he was assailed for not demanding enough he continued:

"Let those who say I asked too much go to Europe—let them bring their German friends and let us settle it there where it can be seen."

"Moreover, if too much was asked at Versailles which I do not believe, yet 75 per cent of it has been carried out without my assent and out of my power."

Reception in America

Ending the interview, Clemenceau declared his reception in America had been "greater than I was entitled to expect."

"I was received as a friend, as a son," he said. "Whatever happens in the end I never shall forget it."

"But while expressing my deep gratitude to all, I dare say I'd like to have a little more plain assent to some of my arguments."

NEWSPAPER MAN DIES

Prescott, Ariz., Nov. 24.—Charles E. Hughes, newspaper man of New York City and Los Angeles, died at a local sanitarium today after a long illness. Mr. Hughes came to Prescott two months ago.

STORE ROBBER SENTENCED IN 4-HOUR PERIOD

Quick Justice Is Meted Out at Roswell to Samuel Molina, Caught Stealing Three Shirts

Special to The Journal

Roswell, N. M., Nov. 24.—At 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Samuel Molina, a Mexican, was a free man. By 2:15 he was in the clutches of the law, and by 5 o'clock was sentenced to 15 months in the penitentiary, all because he took three shirts from a local clothing store while another Mexican seized the proprietor in an supposed business deal in the rear of the store.

The proprietor, when notified of the theft by a man who saw the Mexican leave the store, started after the two men and caught them less than a block from his store. In the fight that followed, Molina lost half a dozen teeth. He pleaded guilty to the charges brought against him.

District court recessed Saturday until Monday, November 27, after completing the criminal docket, during which only one conviction was made.

MINERS DECLINE TO ACCEPT ANY CUT IN WAGES

Any Move to Remove Favorable Working Conditions Will Also Be Resisted, Saries Declares

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Any move to lower wages of miners or remove any favorable working conditions granted them in recent years, will not be accepted by the miners, Ellis Saries, editor of the official publication of the United Mine Workers, declared in an address before the Business Senates club.

"Whether there will be another strike of coal miners next year is a question that no living man can answer today," he said.

"If there are any in this country who are anticipating lower wages for coal miners next year they may as well abandon that anticipation now and devote their spare time to other subjects. The miners are not making for any general universal increase in their wages in the bituminous industry, but miners in the anthracite region have asked, and are now asking, that they will continue to demand increased wages until their wage rates are brought to the level where they belong."

He pointed out the hazards of mining and declared those "who enjoy the benefits and the comforts that flow from the labor of those men ought to be humane and kind enough to give them a measure of compensation that will justify them in taking the awful risk."

SHOTS FIRED IN ROW BETWEEN A MARRIED COUPLE

Mrs. V. Birchfield of El Paso in Gallup Hospital; Is Plaintiff in Divorce Suit Now Pending

Gallup, N. M., Nov. 24.—Mrs. V. Birchfield of El Paso, Tex., is in a local hospital suffering with serious bruises to her face and about her body following an alleged encounter with her husband at the Gibson mining camp today.

Mrs. Birchfield is plaintiff in a divorce proceeding which is now pending in the district court here. She had come to Gallup late last night and stopped at one of the hotels. Today she went to Gibson for a conference with her husband. It was during her visit at the hotel where the quarrel took place.

Two shots were fired during the encounter, and conflicting stories are told as to who fired them. Each claims that the other fired the shots. It is said that Mr. Birchfield stated that he had rushed to his room in order to get possession of his revolver, which he had left there, fearing that his wife might get hold of it and use it. Powder burns on Mr. Birchfield's trousers leg would indicate that the weapon had been discharged during the struggle between the two.

SERVE SUBPOENAS ON PARISHONERS IN HALL-MILLS MYSTERY

New Brunswick, Nov. 24.—Subpoenas were served today upon a number of parishoners of the Rev. Edward Wheeler, Hall directing them to appear before the grand jury which is investigating the murder of the rector and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, a choir singer.

Among the more prominent members of the congregation who have been served are Ralph V. M. Gorsline, a vestryman; William H. Berman, secretary of the church and a cousin of Mrs. Hall; and Mrs. Minnie Clark, an intimate friend of the Hall family.

Pending the resumption of the investigation by the grand jury Monday officials are reticent concerning the developments of the case.

EXPLOSION KILLS TWO

Tarrytown, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Two men are dead and a third is expected to die as the result of the explosion of the locomotive boiler of a fast New York Central freight train as it entered Astor Tunnel, near here tonight. Pieces of the engine, blown nearly a mile, set fire to buildings on the Astor estate.

The question is whether the Turkish government will terminate or exterminate.—Manilla Bulletin.

COMPACT TO ALLOT COLORADO RIVER WATER IS SIGNED

drainage area of the Colorado river system which are now and shall hereafter be beneficially served by waters diverted from the system below Lee's Ferry.

"Article 2. Domestic use shall include the use of the water for household, stock, municipal, mining, milling, industrial and other like purposes, but shall exclude the generation of electrical power."

"Article 3. (A). There is hereby apportioned from the Colorado river system in perpetuity to the upper basin and to the lower basin, respectively, the exclusive beneficial consumptive use of 5,000,000 acre feet of water per annum, which shall include all water necessary for the supply of any rights which may now exist."

"(B). In addition to the apportionment in paragraph (A) the lower basin is hereby given the right to increase its beneficial consumptive use of such waters by 1,000,000 acre feet per annum."

International

"(C). If, as a matter of international comity, the United States of America shall hereafter recognize in the United States of Mexico any right to the use of any waters of the Colorado river system such waters shall be supplied, first, from the waters which are surplus over and above the aggregate of the quantities specified in paragraphs (A) and (B); and if such surplus shall prove insufficient for this purpose, then the burden of such deficiency shall be equally borne by the upper basin and the lower basin, and wherever necessary the division shall be determined by the states of the upper division shall deliver at Lee's Ferry water to supply one-half of the deficiency so recognized in addition to that provided in paragraph (D).

Flow of the River

"(D). The states of the upper division will not cause the flow of the river at Lee's Ferry to be depleted below an aggregate of 75,000,000 cubic feet of water per period of 10 consecutive years, beginning with the first day of October next succeeding the ratification of this compact."

"(E). The states of the upper division shall not withhold their water and the states of the lower division shall not require the delivery of their water for irrigation, to be applied to domestic and agricultural uses."

"(F). Further equitable apportionment of the beneficial uses of the waters of the Colorado river system unapportioned by paragraphs (A) (B) and (C), may be made in the matter provided in paragraph (G) at any time after October 1, 1929, if and when either basin shall have reached its total beneficial consumptive use as set out in paragraphs (A) and (B).

Further Apportionment

"(G). In the event of a desire for further apportionment as provided in paragraph (F) any two signatory states, acting through their governors may give joint notice to the governor of each of the other signatory states and to the president of the United States and it shall be the duty of the signatory states and of the president of the United States forthwith to appoint representatives whose duty it shall be to divide and apportion equitably between the upper basin and the lower basin the beneficial use of the unapportioned waters of the Colorado river system as mentioned in paragraph (F), subject to the legislative ratification of the signatory states and the congress of the United States of America."

"Article 4. (a) Inasmuch as the Colorado river has ceased to be navigable for commerce and its reservation of its water for navigation would seriously limit the development of its basin, the use of its waters for purposes of navigation shall be subordinate to the uses of such waters for domestic, agricultural and power purposes. If the congress shall not consent to this paragraph, the other provisions of this compact shall nevertheless remain binding."

Waters May Be Impounded

"(B). Subject to the provisions of this compact, water of the Colorado river system may be impounded and used for the generation of electrical power, but such impounding and use shall be subservient to the use and consumption of such water for agricultural and domestic purposes and shall not interfere with or prevent use for such dominant purposes."

"(C). The provisions of this article shall not be construed to interfere with the regulation and control by any state within its boundaries of the appropriation, use and distribution of water."

"Article 5. The chief official of each signatory state charged with the administration of water rights, together with the director of the United States reclamation service and the director of the United States geological survey shall cooperate ex-officio."

"(A). To promote the systematic determination and co-ordination of the facts as to flow, appropriation, consumption and use of the water in the Colorado river basin and the interchange of available information in such matters."

Annual Flow of River

"(B). To secure the ascertainment and publication of the annual flow of the Colorado river at Lee's Ferry."

"(C). To perform such other duties as may be assigned by mutual consent of the signatories from time to time."

"(D). Should any claim or controversy arise between any two or more of the signatory states, (a), with respect to the waters of the Colorado river basin not covered by the terms of this compact."

"(E). Over the meaning or performance of any of the terms of this compact."

Allocation of Burdens

"(C). As to the allocation of the burdens incident to the performance of any article of this compact or the delivery of the waters as herein provided."

"(D). As to construction or operation of works within the Colorado river basin to be situated in two or more states, or to be constructed in one state for the benefit of another state; or (E) as to the division of water in one state for the benefit of another state; the governors of the states affected, upon the request of one of them, shall forthwith appoint commissioners with power to consider and adjust such claims or controversy, subject to ratification by the legislatures of the states so affected."

"Nothing herein contained shall prevent the adjustment of any such claim or controversy by any present method or by direct future legislative action of the interested states."

"Article 7. Nothing in this compact shall be construed as affecting the obligations of the United States of America to Indian tribes."

Present Rights

"Article 8. Present perfected rights to the beneficial waters of the Colorado river system are unimpaired by this compact when ever storage capacity of 5,000,000 acre feet shall have been provided on the main Colorado river within or for the benefit of the lower basin. Then claims of such rights, if any, by appropriators or users of water in the upper basin shall attach to and be satisfied from water that may be stored not in conflict with article 2. All other rights to beneficial use of waters of the Colorado river system shall be satisfied solely from the water apportioned to that basin in which they are situated."

"Article 9. Nothing in this compact shall be construed to limit or prevent any state from instituting or maintaining any action or proceeding, legal or equitable, for the protection of any right under this compact or the enforcement of any of its provisions."

"Article 10. This compact may be terminated at any time by the unanimous agreement of the signatory states. In the event of such a termination, all rights established under it shall continue unimpaired."

When Compact Is Effective

"Article 11. This compact shall become binding and obligatory when it shall have been approved by the legislatures of each of the signatory states and by the congress of the United States. Notice of approval by the legislatures shall be given by the governor of each signatory state to the governors of the other signatory states and to the president of the United States. And the president of the United States is requested to give notice to the governors of the signatory states of approval by the congress of the United States."

"In witness hereof, the commissioners have signed this compact in a single original which shall be deposited in the archives of the department of state of the United States of America and of which a duly certified copy shall be forwarded to the governor of each of the signatory states."

Object of the Ceremonial Is to Give Thanks and to Supplicate for Good Crops in New Year

Special to The Journal

Gallup, N. M., Nov. 24.—The annual Zuni Indian Chaco dance will be held at the Zuni pueblo on Friday night, December 1. A large number of people from various parts of the country have announced that they will attend the chaco dance this year.

The chaco is a ceremony of dancing and great feasting as a thanksgiving for the blessings of the past year and a supplication for bounteous crops for the coming year. The dance ceremonies begin at about midnight and continue until the following morning.

The day is observed as a holiday and the Indians engage in sports in which they take most delight.

Nervous and Dizzy, Everything Seemed to Worry Me. How I Got Well

Larwill, Indiana.—"My back was so bad I could not do my washing. I was always tired out and had no ambition, was nervous and dizzy and everything seemed to worry me and I had awful pains in my right side. I felt badly about four years and could not do my work as I should have been done. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised so much and it did so many people good that I began to take it myself. I am feeling fine now and every one tells me they never saw me looking so well. I live on a farm, do all my work, and have three little girls to take care of. I am recommending this medicine to my friends and know it will help them if they use it like I do." —Mrs. HERBERT LONG, R. R. 3, Box 7, Larwill, Indiana.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort. They are always tired out and have no ambition. When you are in this condition give it prompt attention.

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it is especially adapted to correct such troubles.

OUTLET TO SEA CAUSE OF GLASH AT PEACE MEET

Bulgarian Prime Minister Wants the Port of Dedagatch; His Stand Is Opposed by Venizelos

Lausanne, Nov. 24 (by the Associated Press).—Elpherie Venizelos, former premier of Greece, and M. Stamboulisky, the Bulgarian prime minister, faced each other at today's session of the Near Eastern conference, when an effort was made to reach an agreement on Bulgaria's claim to an outlet into the Aegean sea.

Stamboulisky was holding out for the actual possession by Bulgaria of the port of Dedagatch, contending that in no other way could Bulgaria be guaranteed free commerce. Venizelos opposed this proposal in an impassioned speech, holding out for a free port at Dedagatch under the control of a mixed commission.

This clash did not give weight to the rumors of a Balkan entente, to include Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania and Jugoslavia, which rumors have been circulating in Lausanne for the last few days.

Bulgaria today made reservations on the decision to give her the use of Dedagatch as a free port and Turkey made reservations on the plan for demilitarizing the neutral zone along her western border without giving her any guarantee that neutrality would be respected.

Ismet Pasha today wanted a clear understanding in the treaty which the Lausanne conference frames that the powers will guarantee the neutrality of the zone which Turkey requests shall be created from the Black sea to the Aegean sea.

This fall it is particularly hard for Europe to understand why Turkey is a symbol for Thanksgiving.—Washington Post.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET AT 'Y' PROVES SUCCESS

Nearly Two Score Fathers and Sons Attend; Entertainment Offered in Connection With Meeting

Nearly two score fathers and their sons gathered about the festive board at the Y. M. C. A. last night. The occasion was the gathering of fathers and sons, the organization with nationwide membership.

Following the banquet an entertainment was given and talks made. District Judge M. E. Hickey acted as toastmaster and introduced the various speakers and entertainers.

The big hit of the evening came with the introduction by each son of his father. Pride of possession shone in the eyes of each and each introduced his father as "the best dad in America," with an air of challenge that none but a hardy son of one benefit of reason would have accepted.

The second greatest hit was scored by 6-year-old "Chief" Williams, Jr., who rendered a selection, "I've Got a Dad." His thin, piping voice, yet clear rendition, stripped every father and son present and brought a lump into the throat of even the roughest who were present in one capacity or another.

The McKean quartet, composed of McKean, Darrow, Thompson and Bond, opened the entertainment with several songs. McKean followed with a solo. The Valck violinist then offered several selections. Both quartet and soloist were well received. Community singing led by Johnson and Thompson, followed. The songs were "Us Boys" and "Dads and Dads."

Carl C. Mayes was the principal speaker of the evening. His subject was announced as "Bringing Up a Father." After dwelling on the proper relationship which should exist between father and son, he said:

"We should blame ourselves more and the boy less. If we give the boy the proper influence he will generally be all right. If we find more fault with ourselves and less with the boy, if we meet him on common ground and try to understand his wants and needs better we will find him the better for it."

WOOL MARKET QUIET; REVIVAL LOOKED FOR

Boston Nov. 24.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: "While the market generally has been quiet during the past week, the long-awaited opening at London has unquestionably encouraged the wool markets both here and abroad. A good attendance is reported at the colonial auctions and prices have opened at par on the morning of the market. Both in the cross breeds and fine combing, the demand is on a low and medium cross breeds, compared with the October sales. Bradford instantly responded to the demonstrated strength of the market both in London and in the colonies, where the markets are a bit higher."

COACH MOORE HAS TURNED TO MORNING WORK

With Holiday Declared for Teachers' Convention, High School Will Have Morning Practice Daily

There will be no more afternoon football practices for Albuquerque high school this year. Practice will be held at 9 o'clock this morning and will be held at the same hour next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. With the teachers' convention in session there will be no school until after Thanksgiving.

Coach Moore has decided to take advantage of the opportunity for morning practice.

With the passing of each day followers of the Duke City eleven view the "Thanksgiving game" with bated breath. A victory, they feel, that. Each day the team works prospects for victory grow brighter. And if Albuquerque does not commit the fatal blunder of being confident victory may well attend.

Two occurrences have tended to increase during the past two days the hopes for an Albuquerque victory. First of these is the return to form of Left Tackle Wilson. Wilson has either been out of the game or has been decidedly off form for the past few weeks. Both have been due to an injury received early in the season.

Wilson is, undoubtedly, the most powerful lineman Albuquerque has. Tipping the beam at a weight above 180, abnormal weight for a high school player, he possesses strength commensurate with his bulk, on top of which he has good speed for a big fellow and has been a considerable football player by Coach Moore.

With Wilson in form the left side of the Albuquerque line comes almost close to being what many fans are not—punching proof. And Wilson is now in top condition. Soreness following his old injury has been worked out and he is ready for a great battle. With Wilson ripe there must be the fear of the powerful but slow-moving Carter, ripping through for big El Paso gains. On the contrary, the war was the hurry when he is now charging. Indicates that Carter is going to bump into something next Thursday which he does not anticipate.

The second feature which is pleasing high school followers is the change in Center Moore's play on defense. Moore has been the greatest problem of his namesake, the coach. A rare passer and a good line player generally, Coach Moore has reached almost the point of despair as to teaching Center Moore the all important roving game on the defense.

But Thursday afternoon the coach again went over the essentials of the roving game of play. And after a season of missing the point, Center Moore in those two days has apparently found himself. He is roving the field and smashing into the point at which the play is made, breaking up forward passes, tackling after the fashion of Bruce Schuller.

Schuller, captain of the El Paso crew last year, is probably the greatest high school center ever turned out in the southwest. Certainly, no school has turned out his equal during recent years. Two years ago an all-star district team was selected in El Paso from among the army, club and high school players. Both the army and club teams had powerful players that year. Yet Schuller was given the call over all of them. The only other high school player selected was Goodwin Rensdale, then nicknamed for end and now stellar back field man of the Texas College of Mines team.

The development of Moore in roving play is far more important than many followers of high school realize. Playing close to the line, he formerly, Moore offered no protection against forward passes and could stop up only the hole at center. Roving he stops plays at all points along the line and breaks down the short forward passes.

And that shows forward pass is the pet play of El Paso. A play snapped just over the center of the line, after ends and back field men have come down to draw out the Pass City players out of their yardage. With Moore to break these passes up their sharpest weapon has been sheathed.

Both Coach Moore and Center Moore are to be congratulated for the development of the latter. The change may be the most important factor in bringing Albuquerque the longed-for victory.

9 MEXICAN FAMILIES REPORTED EVICTED

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 24.—Mormons in El Paso tonight could not verify a report that nine Mexican families residing on Colonia Diaz property in northwestern Chihuahua had been evicted under an order issued by Judge Gabriel Galindo of Ascension. Squatters took possession of the land after it had been abandoned in the Mormon exodus of 1912. They have refused to move and have threatened to fight to the death.

The past to give battle to any one who attempted to force them to leave.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

BETTER CONDITIONS IN THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY FORECAST

Washington, Nov. 24.—Approval of ten advances aggregating $141,000 for agricultural and livestock purposes was announced today by the war finance corporation. At the same time the corporation announced the receipt of repayments aggregating $8,000,000, making a total of $19,000,000 repaid to date on account of all loans.

Better conditions in the livestock industry during the coming months was predicted by the corporation.

"The abnormally large shipments of grass cattle," it stated, "due to drought conditions in parts of Texas and New Mexico, have not only affected the market for all western cattle, but have also depressed the market for fat cattle during the last few weeks. Shipments from distribution markets into corn belt feed lots have been larger by far than last year."

On the one hand, the war finance corporation has encouraged the buying of feeder stocks in the corn belt, and on the other it has aided in the movement of cattle from the drought-stricken territory to places where adequate supplies of grass and water are available."

Members of the Travelers Protective Aid society met last night and held an election of officers. W. F. Meyer was elected to the presidency. F. A. Fick was elected secretary and P. W. Roberts was elected to the office of hotel chairman.

The election last night was due to the resignation of M. E. Crumley, president, and T. M. Kottman, secretary. These two officers resigned because of the fact that the business with which they are associated is being transferred to another city and they will leave with the business.

Members of the organization, which is organized to protect travelers throughout the country, particularly regret the loss of President Crumley. The membership of the local body has doubled under his presidency.

FIREMAN IS KILLED IN WRECK ON T. & P.

Minneapolis, Nov. 24.—Charles Cox, fireman on the Texas and Pacific Sunshine Special train Number 2, was killed when the train was wrecked at Mackay, five miles from here, about 8 o'clock tonight. The engine turned completely over and the fireman was buried beneath it. No passengers were injured, according to reports.

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui and Got Well

Richmond, Ind.—"I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, of 311 Third street, this city.

"I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping."

"I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine."

"I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs. I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time."

"It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."

"If you are in a running physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you."

Cardui is a purely vegetable tonic medicine for women's ailments, found valuable in thousands of such cases as described above.

CUP TOURNAMENT AND "TURKEY SHOOT" GOLF AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

Drawings were made yesterday for the semi-finals of the State National bank cup tournament which is being conducted at the Country club links. The drawings resulted in M. Anna being paired with Mac Arthur and Swilum with Otero. They will even their play at about noon tomorrow.

These four are the only players remaining in the tournament which opened several weeks ago with a host of entrants who had qualified. Other players were gradually eliminated with each week's play. The two players successful in the semi-final round will play off for the final of the beautiful State National bank cup, one week from tomorrow.

In addition to those in this match play there will be a large number of golfers on the Country club links tomorrow. A match has been arranged with three turkeys to be given as prizes. First prize will go to the golfer with low score, second prize to the one with low score, less handicap, and third prize to second low score, less handicap.

All members of the Country club will be eligible for the golfing "turkey shoot." The players in the cup tournament will compete for the turkeys simultaneously with the competition for the cup. That is, they will be counted in the "turkey shoot."

POLICE ARREST TAXI DRIVER FOR GUN PLAY

R. W. Brooks, driver of a public service automobile, was placed under arrest just before midnight last night on a charge of disturbing the peace, after Brooks is alleged to have made a gun play in the alley in rear of Ringling Brothers billiard parlor. Police declare Brooks had threatened J. J. Parenti, another taxi driver, with a .32 automatic revolver.

According to Officer Fred Renfro, Parenti had driven his car into the alley and parked and a little later Brooks drove in and parked his car directly facing Parenti's car in such way as to block the alley. He says Parenti asked Brooks to move his car and that Brooks not only refused to do so but drew a knife and threatened to attack Parenti with it.

When Officer Renfro, called to the scene, arrived, he found Brooks with the automatic in his hand threatening Parenti. Renfro says that Brooks threatened to stop Parenti if the latter attempted to move his car and that the former stood with the revolver held in his hand and trigger cocked. Renfro added that it is the second time Brooks has threatened Parenti.

Brooks was released last night on his own recognizance.

2 CLASSICS ARE ON THE PIGSKIN PROGRAM TODAY

Harvard and Yale and the Army-Navy Will Hold Center of Stage for Football Fans in the East

New York, Nov. 24.—Final will be written tomorrow at the foot of most of the college football schedules in the east. The two outstanding contests are the classic clashes between Harvard and Yale and the Army and Navy.

Not in many years have the two games been played on the same afternoon. Regardless of the double bill, however, more than 100,000 ticket applications were refused for both the New Haven and the Philadelphia games.

The outcome of these two games, like many another this fall, appears to hinge upon the breaks of the play and the quickness with which opportunities to score are seen and grasped. In the case of the Yale-Harvard struggle, the Yale appears to be a trifle stronger in line and back field and to have a more powerful offense. To date this offensive has not been remarkable for brilliancy in handling and has several times slowed down to mediocre standards at the most crucial moments of advance.

Yale has a strong, powerful line with a particularly impressive center trio. It probably is stronger than the Harvard center and guards. The Crimson ends possibly hold sufficient superiority to counterbalance and thus equalize the lines. The Blue back field both in first and second string material is a better scoring combination than Harvard's but it is not likely to function with the same smoothness and deceptive power as the Crimson's, particularly if Buel is at quarterback for Harvard and plays through the game.

For Harvard both Quarterback Buel and Halfback Owen are essential to the Crimson's strongest offense. Neither is in perfect condition.

The Army-Navy battle on Franklin field at Philadelphia, with its traditionally colorful setting of notables in official and social life, promises to develop a keen contest between two powerful, veteran aggregations, with the best players conceded a slight edge in attacking strength. Both teams are expected to resort to an open game, but the cadets, with two brilliant receivers and passers in Quarterback Smythe and Fullback Wood, are thought better equipped than their service rivals in this department.

Wood, a consistent kicker and clever cannon field runner, is one of the leading triple-threat stars of the east, while Barchet, fully recovered from injuries, will give the Navy a brilliant plunging and running back.

Army's Chances
Army's chances, on the whole, loom brighter than usual, to break the victorious march of the Navy, which has won three straight games since the war, each time by the margin of a single touchdown.

Tomorrow's clash will be the twenty-fifth between the service rivals, the Navy having to its credit so far twelve victories and the Army eleven with one contest a tie.

The P. rimouth-Brown game at Boston, the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech tussle at Pittsburgh and the annual Lehigh-Lafayette contest at Easton, Pa., are other outstanding games.

Brown, especially on the strength of the 3-0 victory a week ago over Harvard, is favored to defeat Dartmouth, which lost to the Crimson, 12 to 2.

Carnegie Tech, with an unusually strong team, led by a brilliant field general in Quarterback Robertson, should give Notre Dame a stiff battle, while La Fayette, defeated but once this season, appears decidedly superior to Lehigh.

TEXAS AGGIES WIN CROSS COUNTRY RUN

Stillwater, Okla., Nov. 24.—Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college with 28 points won the cross-country run, which preceded the Oklahoma Aggie-Sooner football game here today. Texas university placed second with 37 points; Oklahoma Aggies third with 63 points; University of Oklahoma fourth with 78 and Southern Methodist university last with 91.

Thin? Run-down? Sure Way to Get Right Weight

Increase Your Red-Blood-Cells. That's the Sure Way! S. S. S. Builds Blood-Cells; This Means Strength!

Do you know why insurance companies refuse to insure a great many men because they are underweight? Simply because to be underweight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1829, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Hollow cheeks fill out. You stop being a canny-looking. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them. Ladies and gentlemen, a peaky, bony face doesn't make you look very important or pretty, does it? Take S. S. S. ## It's the Army Mule's Heels Against Navy Goat's Horns

Whenever the Army mule, with heels aloft, stands ready to meet an onrush of the Navy goat, thrills and pulse stimulators abound in countless numbers.

The Army mule, with rancor burning in his militaristic heart, will do his utmost to kick the Army mule mascot into Nirvana, by way of evening things up for the devastating buntings administered during the last four or five seasons.

"Fritz" Bredster, veteran guard and captain of the soldier team, is a mighty big guy and a renowned line buster. When "Fritz" steps onto the field it is only fair to admit that the rest of the boys are a little pressed for room, the gridiron is not as large as it might be and Bredster exerts the scales to figure in excess of 200 pounds. He's fast, however, and steps along with the best of them.

The Annapolis team possesses much bone crushing material this season. Steve Barchet is a gridiron hindu. He disappears before a tackle like bogus noblemen at a charity bazaar. He attacks quickly and full steam ahead, does an enviable "shimmy" out of the arms of flying opponent.

Vincent Conroy, captain and leader of the Navy's eleven, stands out prominently. He is a great player, a forward pass artist of undeniably skill and with the Navy super-dreadnaught line moving forward, one can depend on Conroy to make the most of any opportunity that presents itself.

Both the Army and the Navy teams are built to withstand a bruising game of football. Both are as intent on demolishing the opposition as scoring and such a clash should provide sensations enough to last any pigskin fan until Christmas is over and incoming bills produce the usual state of coma.

WISCONSIN GRID TEAM TO INVAD CHICAGO TODAY

Curtain Will Fall on the Football Season Today; Every Team in the 'Big Ten' to Be in Action

Chicago, Nov. 24.—With every team in the "Big Ten" in action and each meeting a conference opponent, the curtain will fall on the western conference football season tomorrow and indications are that the championship will be shared by the three undefeated leaders—Michigan, Iowa and Chicago.

Wisconsin will invade Chicago determined to "scrap" the Maroon's claim to a championship. Northwestern will meet at Iowa City; Michigan, who has been scored on but once this season, will play Minnesota at Minneapolis, and the Ohio-Illinois battle will be staged at Urbana. Purdue opposes Indiana at Lafayette to decide who will occupy the cellar berth in the championship race, although confident of victory. Chicago believes their game with Wisconsin tomorrow will be a more desperate fight than was waged against Ohio or Illinois. The running aerial attacks of the Badgers makes them dangerous at every stage of the game, but Coach Stagg of the Maroons, believes he has perfected an anti-aircraft defense.

For two weeks Coach Thistlewaite and his assistants at Northwestern have been perfecting new and trick plays to surprise Iowa. The Hawkeyes, however, after their close call at Columbus a week ago are reported to be on edge and plan to play a driving game from start and pile up a safe margin.

The Michigan-Minnesota clash will end the gridiron careers of several Wolverines, among them Captain Paul Goebel, who is regarded as one of the greatest ends in the conference. The Wolverines coming with confidence in their ability to register another victory, are conceded the edge, but the sophomores, with two weeks of practice are pointed for the game and promise to hold Yost's players to a close score.

For the first time in seven years, the Ohio-Illinois game at Urbana will not affect the championship situation. Both teams have been vanquished and are hopelessly out of the running.

Theaters Today

"B" Theater—Repeating today for the last time the Paramount picture, "Above All Law"; also repeating the comedy, "Pure and Simple," with Monty Banks as the leading star.

Lyric Theater—The management will show today a Playgoers' picture, "Through the Storm," with a good cast as the leading characters; also repeating the two-round comedy, "The Leather Pushers."

Pastime Theater—"Orphans of the Storm," the D. W. Griffith famous production, with the Gish sisters as the leading stars, is being repeated today for the last time; and remember at the evening show there will be a special orchestra.

NEW GRIFFITH PICTURE, "ORPHANS OF THE STORM," HISTORICALLY CORRECT.

In making the most costly and painstaking motion picture effort of his entire career, "Orphans of the Storm," an elaborated development of D'Ennery's famous play, "The Two Orphans," and which, under a United Artists corporation release, and which is being repeated today for the last time at the Pastime theater, D. W. Griffith worked night and day for more than one year, and gave the most painstaking care that costumes, setting, incidents and also their wear, these black and white costumes of the period. In this connection Mr. Griffith wishes to express his thanks for invaluable assistance to M. Louis Allard, professor French at Harvard university, and also to the Marquis de Toignac of Paris.

For his authorities as to the major historical details, Mr. Griffith depended upon Thaine, Guizot, Abbott and particularly Thomas Carlyle in his "History of the French Revolution."

Ambassador Harvey has been talking on the subject, "Have Women Souls." He didn't answer the question, which goes to show that as a diplomat he is improving.—Toledo Blade.

OPEN HOUSE

November 25th and 26th, 1922

Saturday night and all of Sunday we will hold an "OPEN HOUSE," at which we will show for your approval the new improved closed model HUDSON and ESSEX automobiles. These 1923 models are far superior to any being shown on the market today.

You and your friends are cordially invited to attend. If you are not an automobile prospect at this time, it is an opportunity to see the best in motor car value just the same.

Remember the time and place

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT
Breakfast
Cereal with Top Milk
Baked Potatoes
Poached Eggs on Toast
Coffee
Luncheon
Veal Gumbo with Rice
Lettuce and Cottage Cheese
Sandwiches
Chocolate Pudding
Dinner
Salmon Loaf
Parsley Potatoes
Cabbage Salad
Rolls and Marmalade
Hot Gingerbread with Hard Sauce

TODAY'S RECIPES
Salmon Loaf—One can salmon, drained. Mix with one well beaten egg, one-half cup rolled cracker crumbs, three tablespoons warm water, salt and pepper to taste. Form in loaf, brush top with bacon drippings. Bake three-quarter hour or till nicely browned. Serve with lemon and parsley garnish.

Cabbage Salad—Combine the following vegetables: Two cups cabbage, one-half cup cucumber, one-half cup celery, finely chopped, with salad dressing given below and serve on head lettuce. The addition of a small amount of green pepper or pimento chopped or in rings makes a more colorful salad.

Bolled Dressing—Mix the following dry ingredients: One and one-half tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon dry flour, one-half spoon salt, on teaspoon dry mustard. Add yolks of two eggs and one and one-half tablespoons melted butter. Then add three-quarter cup of milk and begin cooking over moderate flame. Add gradually one-quarter cup vinegar. Cook until thick. If these directions are followed the dressing will always be very smooth. In emergency you can make it without the egg yolks by increasing the flour to one tablespoon.

XMAS CANDIES
Molasses Popcorn Balls—Mix together one cup of New Orleans molasses, half a cup of water and a cup of light brown sugar. Boil to the hardball stage; that is, until a bit dropped in cold water forms a hard mass. Add two tablespoons of butter and boil to the crack, until a bit dropped in cold water cracks and immediately becomes brittle. Add half a teaspoon of soda and pour over freshly popped corn in a large bowl. Stir well. Dip the balls into very cold water and then into balls of your desired size.

Mint Jelly Bonbons—Cut six medium sized cooking apples in quarters and cook in two cups of water until soft. Strain them through a cloth. There should be one cup of juice. Boil this ten minutes and then add three-quarters of a cup of sugar. Boil five minutes and then add two tablespoons of gelatin that has been soaked in four tablespoons of cold water till soft. Stir until the gelatin is dissolved, remove from the fire and add a few drops of oil of peppermint and a little green coloring matter. Harmless coloring matters for candy may be bought, or you may use a little spinach water. The fresh leaves of spinach should be used for this, and a very little boiling water should be poured on them and the juice should be squeezed out and strained through a piece of gauze. Pour the candy mixture in a bread pan, and when it is cool cut it in squares. These mint bonbons may be dipped in chocolate if desired.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Easier to Open
If you will grease the cork of the mullage or glass bottle after it has been opened it will not stick.

Doughnuts and Crullers
Add a little cinnamon to the sugar in which the doughnuts or crullers are rolled. It improves the flavor.

Save the Dollars
It is a wise thought at this time to wrap the water pipes in the cellar with folded newspapers, with extra thicknesses where the pipes run close to the cellar wall. Then the cold weather may come without danger to the water pipes from freezing.

Baby's Bottle
One woman I know who has a baby to feed at night puts the bottle in the thermos bottle and when the baby wakes she puts the bottle containing the milk in a saucepan and pours the boiling water over it. It soon warms the milk to the right temperature.

To Renovate Furs at Home
The fur coat that looks a bit shabby after it is unpacked for a winter season can be brightened up wonderfully by making a mixture of hot sand and sawdust and rubbing it well into the fur. Beat it out again with a rattan beater and note the result.

DOG HILL PARAGRAPHS

By GEORGE BINGHAM

It has been generally known for some time that there are several leaks in the roof of the church building, and steps have been taken in the matter, by the appointment of a committee composed of Alvin Peck, who is to sit in various parts of the church every Sunday and ascertain just exactly where the leaks are situated, so that he can report the matter to the annual conference next June.

The Hog Ford Preacher last Sunday talked on the perils of over-dressing, and cited an instance where a man owned two handkerchiefs at one time.

A heavy frost fell in this community night before last and is reported to have bit Sidney Hock's green necktie.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

SANCHES—The funeral of Mrs. Teofila Sanches was held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence at 204 East Tijera avenue. Burial was at Santa Barbara cemetery. Crollitt was in charge.

LOPEZ—The funeral of Ramon Lopez, who died Thursday night at his residence on South John street, was held yesterday morning from the residence. Burial was at Santa Barbara cemetery. Crollitt was in charge.

PEREA—The funeral of J. F. Perea, who died Thursday night at a local hospital, will be held this morning at 10 o'clock from Crollitt's funeral chapel. Burial will be at Santa Barbara cemetery.

MAESTAS—Ramon Maestas, the man who was thrown from the Santa Fe train at the viaduct Thursday morning, died here yesterday. The body was shipped last night to his home in Belen. Strong Brothers were in charge.

GRIMMER—Funeral services for William E. Grimmer will be held at Strong Brothers' chapel this afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Charles R. McKean will officiate at the chapel and the Masonic lodge at the grave. An escort of uniformed Knights Templar will act as guard of honor at the chapel from 10 o'clock in the morning till the time of the funeral, during which time the body will be in state. The pall bearers will be W. C. Thaxton, John A. Reihl, J. P. Jacobson, Harry Braun Van O. Oleson and Bernard Wiles. Interment will be in the Masonic plot in Fairview cemetery.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of nineteen and have been married since the sixteenth of July, 1921. My husband seemed very devoted to me before we were married, and since my parents liked him very much and he seemed to know how to manage to take care of a wife if he had one I accepted him.

He was a man of twenty-eight, and I thought the way he acted before would be his way of acting all the time. But after we had been married a week he changed, and I was among strangers without money. Then I was forced to leave him because he was so cruel. I put up with it, taking beatings for seven weeks. He threatened to kill me. I was sick most of the time. When I left him I came home to my mother a nervous wreck.

Now he is wanting me to come back. I am afraid of him and don't want to go away from home with him. But we feel a great disgrace to be separated or divorced. Yet I feel I cannot live with him.

He is in the saloon every day. I have to give him a key to the door so he can get in. I don't want to go away from my friends and work so that I could get a divorce. I hate to go back and raise a family, but I am poor and must help myself for my parents are not able to.

Please advise me. PEZZLED.
Don't feel that divorce in your case is a disgrace. It would be a greater disgrace for you to live with such a man. Don't think for a minute that a man who would beat you as your husband has done would change permanently if you went back. Probably in a few weeks time he would be just as bad or worse than he was before.

By all means get work, and if it will make you happier to do so. Go somewhere where you can make new friends. I think you are wrong however in feeling that you cannot face your friends. You have done nothing wrong and therefore a feeling of shame is out of place. Hold up your head and know in

DRAKE AND GRINNELL TEAMS CLASH TODAY
Kansas City, Nov. 24.—The two leaders of the Missouri Valley conference go into action tomorrow to prove their right to a title for the 1923 football championship.

All indications point to the leading teams coming out victorious. Northwestern, Iowa State college of Ames at Lincoln and Drake faces Grinnell at Des Moines.

For Nebraska, the contest seems an assured victory. Drake, which has not been pitted against several of the larger schools of the conference, has a possibility of being eliminated, but the record of Grinnell would make this seem difficult.

The University of Oklahoma tied the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater today, 3 to 3. The other valley schools, preparing for the all important "B" football contests, have no games scheduled this week.

GRIFFIN CABINET RESIGNS
Athens, Nov. 24 (by the Associated Press).—The Griffin cabinet has resigned. The political situation is extremely complicated. The military authorities are taking an uncompromising attitude regarding the formation of ministers who are on trial charged with treason.

RIPPLING RHYMES

By WALT MASON.

ETERNAL VIGILANCE

For years my rusty car I've driven, through dingle, dell and dale, and no disaster have I given to female or to male, and undertakers have not thriven by following my trail. Since the beginning I've been schooling myself to needless care, and "Safety First" is still the ruling that guides me everywhere; an instant's lapse, a moment's fooling, and grief may be my share. I want to hear no tale of spilling from people in my wake, I won't be bothered while I'm wheeling along the rustic lane, I watch the highway and I'm feeling that I am safe and sane. The railway crossing finds me stopping my large ancestral dray, and from the front seat I go hopping to scan the right of way, and if no locomotive's popping I drive on, blithely and gay. "Oh, for her eye," my friends will seethe me, "hit up a decent gal!" From seats behind their railings reach me, but have no force or weight; I read the death lists, and they teach me that speed is charged with fate. Thus far I've misdeeds with and sorrow, my record's truly good; I have vain some drivers' horror I have so far withstood, but who knows I may chance tomorrow? And so I knock on wood.

SUBSCRIBERS TO HOTEL FUND ARE ORDERED TO PAY

Default Judgments Won by Company Against Five; Three Subscribers Confess Payments Due

Three hotel subscribers confessed payment, five received default judgments and eight asked for a continuance of their cases in the court of Justice W. W. McClellan yesterday. Suits were brought by the Albuquerque Hotel company against all for the collection of subscriptions which were made to the hotel company and on which payment was not completed.

The judgments granted the company from the five amounted to $360. The court waited an hour for the appearance of the defendants and then declared judgment by default. The five were alleged to be delinquent as follows: Earl Stephens, $50; Perfecto A. Baca, $90; C. Fernstrom, $90; Carl W. Horners, $40; J. J. Benkel, $55. Clarence Sweet, H. O. Cassidy and the Coyote Mineral Springs company confessed judgment to the amount of $30, $35 and $50 respectively. Those who asked for a continuance until December 1 were: Ralph Dunbar, H. L. Galles, Emcee Studio, W. J. Shampahan, W. J. Baker, Charles La Faber, W. M. Powers and J. F. Stubbs.

ACNE ON FACE CUTICURA HEALS

Hard, Large and Red Pimples, Itching Was Terrible.

"Had been troubled all my life with acne on my face. My forehead was a mass of pimples. They were hard, large and red, and the itching was most terrible. My face was disfigured. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using them got instant relief. I bought more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. G. S. Miller, Box 14, Marshall, Wash., Jan. 9, 1922.

Use Cuticura for every-day toilet purposes. Bathe with Soap, soothe with Ointment, dust with Talcum. Remarkably none of the occupants in the car was driving the car, is described as Albert. He is well known here and throughout the southwest because of his connection with the work of interpreter for the Keams Canyon office. But, oddly, no one here had been found who knows his last name.

Mr. Womack says the accident occurred as Albert had driven his small touring car up the first mesa in the Hopi country. Just at the top there is a precipice, with a sheer drop of 200 feet. It appears that the car got out of control and plunged over the precipice. Remarkably none of the occupants in the car was killed instantly. Albert's wife was cut about the head and received internal injuries which caused her death about an hour later. Though Albert and the three children were badly shaken up it is reported all will recover.

Sophie Travels First Cabin

By EMILY Z. FRIEDKIN.

"I WANT to go back—see my family—home," Sophie, our Polish maid, explained in her broken English her request for a two months vacation. Of course we were astounded. But the incident is not really unusual this year; it's all part of a post-war phenomena. Sophie just wanted to join the large number of "third class tourists"—a new bit of nomenclature in the argot of the steamship business. So I went to see Sophie off. She sailed on the Minnekahda, which is known variously as the de luxe liner, third class, and as the "ship of democracy." Sophie had the nice question to decide—whether she'd go third class on a first class ship or on a first class third class ship. But since Sophie's English is limited to what she has gathered and appropriated in just two years of America, I determined the matter for her—that it would be pleasanter for her to be, as it were, the head of the mouse rather than the tail of the lion.

Most of Sophie's fellow passengers were, like her, aliens or naturalized American citizens taking a trip to Europe; nine-tenths of them will be back within three or four months. Sophie came down to the pier with a steamer trunk and a taxi. There were many other trunks and taxis and—limousines. Of bon voyage baskets there seemed to be no end, and friends were there in furs and shiny satins and bearing bouquets.

The trunk disposed of, we went ahead and were met by a steward, who carried Sophie's hand luggage and guided us to the room reserved for her. A room with but two berths, an open port, running water in an individual wash basin, plenty of room and privacy and the promenade deck right outside—oh, Sophie didn't know whether she was dreaming or not! But two years ago she had sailed from Danzig and had been herded into an open dormitory with sixteen berths. That was before the rise of the "third class tourist," who, because he is fastidious, would refuse to book passage on the now obsolete "immigrant ships" with "steerage" space. Most of the ocean liners have been reconditioned to meet this demand; some have been converted into steamers with third class accommodation only, but the Minnekahda was built new for this purpose.

Well, Sophie gaped, and then we went on to explore further. Most of the other passengers did too. Nor was Sophie alone in feeling the white cloths on the dining tables and trying out the individual swivel chairs and marveling at the gold stripes on the desert dishes and the menu card! She wanted to read that. I knew it would take her about a half hour to decipher it, so I left her, industrious and happy, and went among the other passengers.

I wanted to see the woman and her daughter I had noticed boarding the ship. There they were before me, but now I hesitated approaching them. They might be—well, they might be first class cabin passengers on the Majestic, judging by their clothes. I learned that the mother was accompanying her daughter to place her in a school in Switzerland.

I questioned at random four Italians and asked their wealth and purpose; their capital aggregated $28,000, and, as it happened, they were all going back to Italy to buy olive farms to cultivate and live on. Another, a man of German descent living in St. Louis, told me that he was on his way with his family to spend the vacation in his six room villa in the Bavarian Alps which he had bought as a summer home last year for the number of marks then exchanged for $200.

I found an Italian family making itself comfortable in a large outside room containing six berths—for papa and mamma and the four little Italians. At least the head of the family thought they were that, but I am afraid that he will go through being a "greenhorn" all over again, and that his American born brood will be little foreigners in Italy. He would like to live in Italy, he told me, but he will doubtless come back, as did the Polish family who found they didn't fit "at home" any more. They realized, moreover, that there wasn't any running water for them there, and how could they do without sanitation?

Prosperous Laborers Return.

But most of these third class travelers are laborers to whom the way brought prosperity enough to take a vacation abroad. The third class tourist, in spite of the money he made during the war as munitions worker or laborer in a shipyard, is a peasant still. Now that the coveted trip to the homeland is at hand, he wouldn't think of traveling any other way than third class. This is especially true of the Scandinavians, the Germans, the Italians, the Poles and the Central Europeans generally, of whom there is a strong native sense of thrift and providence.

Often they make the trip in a tribe. Only the other day 250 Italians, who are now making more money in the vineyards of California since grape juice is legally preferred to wine, came to New York on a special train from the coast, accompanied by a special agent of the steamship company who will guide them the entire way. Because they want to get to convivial Italy quickly they sailed via Cherbourg, which port they reach in seven days, thence swiftly south. This is becoming the popular tourist route to Italy instead of the long southern voyage by way of the Mediterranean.

Confessedly, many of these take the trip that they may, legally and with pleasure, take a drink. Some of the steamship companies supply free wine for them, and I am told that 6,000 gallons of wine is the usual amount taken on in Italy for a round trip. But, all told, drink is a minor motive in sending these "melting" foreigners abroad.

Recently a party of 300 Finns, who had enjoyed a prosperous year in the wheat and timber districts in Minnesota and Michigan, went back home to attend the Finnish midsummer festival. Another party of about 150 Germans belonging to the saengerbunds of Brooklyn and Astoria and suburbs of the city went to Germany to visit the singing societies there and to hear the music festivals and opera as it is presented in Germany. On a recent trip the George Washington carried some 200 German members of the Master Bakers Association booked for Germany on third class passage, which in comfort and service is equal to the former second class cabins. Of course the price has gone up from the $12-$15 immigrant rate in pre-war years to $80-$110. For the higher figure you could travel first class "before the war." But the prosperity the war brought to many of these laborers discounts the inflation.

Most of them speak English fairly well, but to make their holiday complete they slip back into their easily articulated, if many gestured, mother tongue as soon as they're settled on board ship. It's quite a league of nations and an entirely cordial one, and if certain groups are clannish they have, at least, the virtue of minding their own concerns. It might be added here, as steamship officials noted to me, that there is practically no French traffic on the non-French lines, so that there is small opportunity for Franco-Prussian conflicts.

There are, though, plenty of Germans going back to their homeland, many of them to get the advantages of their "American dollar money." They are glad to taste some of that good, real Bavarian beer which is theirs at the bar, three miles out. And the Poles don't mind the same pleasure—though I am not referring particularly to Sophie.

Sophie and Food.

But to get back to Sophie. Well, she wasn't going to eat all that was typed on that nice card. As a Polish peasant one naturally ate, and ate, and ate—oh, all sorts of things, and had full blown, ruddy cheeks whose glisten was impervious to powder. But two years in America and dieting had changed that, and now Sophie's nose stuck to powder—or the other way round—as well as anybody's.

No, she isn't going to risk plumpness by indulging in such meals:

BREAKFAST.
Boiled Rice and Milk.
Fried Eggs. Grilled Bacon.
German Fried Potatoes.
Hot Rolls and Butter. Marmalade.
Coffee.

DINNER.
Vegetable Soup.
Stuffed Roast Veal; Spaghetti.
Carrots in Cream. Brown Potatoes.
White or Rye Bread and Butter.
Bread and Butter Pudding.
Ice Cream.

SUPPER.
Sardines.
Corned Pork and Boston Baked Beans.
Boiled Potatoes.
Onion and Beetroot Salad.
Bread and Butter. Fruit Jam.
Tea. Currant Buns. Coffee.
Fresh Fruit.

But with the cards she might order the things that would keep her thin. Oh, I have for a man to wear upon his head. But direct from the shop window, nobody can find companionship in its snobbish soul.

And to give up our present hat, an old friend who has stuck faithfully to us through thick and thin, who never scolds us, who never tries to borrow money from us, who never hopes that something or other will be a lesson to us, who never remarks about the weather when there is no weather to remark about, who never talks to us when we don't want to be talked to, who never asks us embarrassing questions, who never insists on buying us a drink when we don't want a drink and simulates sudden plety when we do, who is always waiting to go out with us—a friend who has stood faithfully between us and the burning sun, the beating rain and the biting sleet, a friend who knows all our little failings and loves us still—to dismiss this old veteran for one of these callow shop window youngsters seems to me to be one of the basest acts of which the human hand is capable.

I could not contemplate it, were there not three rows of hooks on the wall of my workroom provided for the accommodation of hats which have done their work and have won the right to a quiet and secure old age. They have stuck faithfully to me through thick and thin and I shall stick to them with, I hope, equal fidelity. I have them all there, seventeen of them, all the hats I ever bought and broke to wear and grew in time to love. Velours, pseudo-velours, soft felts with shorn brims and holes in them, battered cloth hats with wide, floppy brims, toques and slickers—three rows of them hung above the homely clutter of pipes and tobacco jars and ash littered papers on my desk. I love to idle time in idling and to live over again the old days which I lived with each of them in turn, the old days when I wore them by sunlight and pilowed my head in them by moonlight, the outdoor days whence one's richest memories spring. Whether one has been snow blinded in Alaska or sun blinded in Arizona, whether one has grazed the grave amid the deep sea loneliness or met the daily danger amid the driven crowds of cities, one's hats remain repositories of memories which are the very substance of life, reminders of the rich and full incoherence which is life itself.

But Damarilla is only vexed by them. Apparently she can never look upon them without observing in an icy tone that since I seem determined to keep the old junk (this is the way she refers to them: "old junk," indeed!) will I have the goodness to permit her to take them down and dust them off occasionally? I confess I do not understand women.

Take Damarilla, for instance. Excellent soul that she is, there are times when she seems to have but one aim in life, to burst into one's workroom with a passionate determination to dust something just at the moment when one is dallying with a particularly stubborn sentence, and to send sentence and typewriter and papers and all flying into pandemonium, all because of a trifle of supposed dust. And when I am again permitted to enter my humble quarters she informs me loftily that my sadly disordered workroom has at last been reduced to order and I am compelled to spend the next two hours in recovering things which have been mislaid in the newly restored order. As for cigarette ash, a veritable reign of terror exists in my humble flat. It has come to such a pass that one cannot accidentally drop a whiff of cigarette ash on one's own carpet. It has come to that. Thus far, however, I have succeeded in keeping her from my hats. What would happen to them if she actually did succeed in laying hands on them. I shrink from contemplating.

All morning my hat and I—the hat which was so soon to be graduated to the well earned company of its seventeen elders on my workroom wall—walked up and down Broadway gazing into the windows of Broadway's hat shops. And the sight depressed us both. We didn't have the nerve to enter any of them. We footed around until luncheon time and then turned sadly homeward. We unlocked the door

On Buying a Hat

By CLAIR PRICE.

New York, Saturday.

A LITTLE steamer came bobbing a howdydo through a short steep sea and, having spilled me onto the quay an hour ago, proceeded. A Turkish gentleman joined me here and we have been discussing the box fight for which M. Dempsey and M. Carpenter were recently paid the sum of 500,000 American pounds at New York (yes, yes, I know that the Dempsey-Carpenter incident is ancient history in New York, but in these out of the way corners of the world it is still news; we don't all live in an atmosphere of five star complete dual editions.)

My Turkish friend was disposed to think very highly of a town which could pay 500,000 pounds for one hour's box, and he named over to me a number of Americans whom he himself had had the honor and pleasure of meeting in Turkey; I wanted to put my hand on his shoulder and to tell him sympathetically, "Never mind," but I let it pass. He himself was in the way of being a violinist and it had occurred to him that if the great city of New York was in the habit of paying 500,000 pounds to see one bo's box, how much more would it be willing to pay him for the infinitely rarer and more refined pleasure of listening to his violin? The thought of it seemed to warm him. He said it would make him happy to play his violin, not for one hour, or for two hours, but for all afternoon, all day, all week, with payment at the rate of 500,000 American pounds an hour. I think he might even have accepted a slight reduction for a protracted engagement. Suddenly his fervor turned to his companion. There was I. Had I not come from New York? Might he make bold to inquire what my method of livelihood was in New York? I confessed the truth. I told him that I wrote articles for a living. Ah! A writer of articles. A journalist, n'est-ce pas? Ah! And did not the great editors of New York take at least an hour to read one of my articles? Alas, I feared, some of the great editors of New York took even less time than that—and I buried my head in my hands. But he turned upon me as if the very thought of it filled him with indignation. No, no! It could not be. If New York was in the habit of paying 500,000 American pounds for one hour's box, how much more ought it to pay for an hour's reading of one of my deathless masterpieces?

Whatever has come over Broadway's hat shops recently? Not until yesterday morning had I noted what giddy window displays they affect. What with a welter of orange and purple draperies, they look more like the windows of French pastry shops than of men's hat shops. They look as if one might safely enter any one of them for tea and emerge with a dainty charlotte russe about one's beaming brow.

All morning we lingered sadly before the windows of these Broadway hat shops, my hat and I. The straw hat, to which most of the windows appeared to be dedicated, we discarded at once as an impossibility; it would hardly be fair to any sober and conservative hat to replace it with a young whippersnapper of summer straw. The derby we also dismissed from consideration. It is a hypocritical hat for which no good thing may be said. The very appearance of the smug black brute on the human head is enough to make the kindest of onlookers run amuck. Indeed, I venture to say that if the subject were adequately investigated it would be discovered that the derby hat is itself the cause of half the crime in the United States. If the hotel keepers of some poor, struggling State in the Far West had their wits about them, they could make their fortunes by obtaining the enactment of a law making the derby hat a ground of divorce, with, of course, a suitable term of residence in the State required.

As for the soft hat, the very thought of it made us groan. Fresh from the shop, in all its stiff and callow newness, the soft hat is an unmitigated evil. To begin with, too long a period of display in the shop window is apt to give it an undue opinion of itself and even when taken from the window and placed upon the human head it spends so much of its time in thinking about itself and what a fine show it is making that nobody can get along with it.

The only way to break in a soft hat to the common, comfortable usages of daily wear is to take it from the hat shop window and douse it in the ash barrel at home for a week or two; taken from the ash barrel after the lapse of a suitable period it may be kicked about the house for a time and finally, when the dust and ashes of due repentance have been beaten out of it, it may safely be promoted to the humble but honest uses of a dish rag. Thus step by step, as it becomes evident that its callow bumpiness has been kicked out of it, it may be promoted in due time to the sartorial usages for which it was all along intended. It then becomes a mellow and mature friend, a suitable thing for a man to wear upon his head. But direct from the shop window, nobody can find companionship in its snobbish soul.

And to give up our present hat, an old friend who has stuck faithfully to us through thick and thin, who never scolds us, who never tries to borrow money from us, who never hopes that something or other will be a lesson to us, who never remarks about the weather when there is no weather to remark about, who never talks to us when we don't want to be talked to, who never asks us embarrassing questions, who never insists on buying us a drink when we don't want a drink and simulates sudden plety when we do, who is always waiting to go out with us—a friend who has stood faithfully between us and the burning sun, the beating rain and the biting sleet, a friend who knows all our little failings and loves us still—to dismiss this old veteran for one of these callow shop window youngsters seems to me to be one of the basest acts of which the human hand is capable.

WANT TO ENLIST IN ARMY, BOYS? HERE'S CHANCE

World War Veterans Are in Charge of Recruiting Office Here; Four Recruits Gotten Friday

The army recruiting office which Colonel King arranged for last week has been opened at the Armory. Jack J. Aumen and Sam R. Hunter, both sergeants in the Eighth United States Cavalry, with station at Fort Bliss, Texas, arrived in Albuquerque Thursday and opened the recruiting office and began activities yesterday.

Recruiting service is considered the choice detail in the army for this reason and because of the demands of the work, only the most desirable men are selected for it. Both Aumen and Hunter are the type of men who are bringing the army to the high repute it now enjoys and each enjoys a record which warranted his selection for the present detail.

Hunter is the best known of the two in army circles. He is the sort of young soldier introduced into the army during the world war, who after active service chose to cast his lot with the army for a little longer period.

Like many of these young men, Hunter is of the athletic type. It is partly because of his athletic ability that he has become known through the army. Possessing natural speed he has developed all around athletic ability through his development in the army. He has played with organization baseball, basketball and football teams and has been a star in each branch. In track athletics he has enjoyed even greater success.

In boxing Hunter has gained more than a little fame in El Paso. After defeating a number of good boxers Hunter was recently matched to meet one of the highest class men of El Paso. Reports of that match are that Hunter's jaw was cracked and he was practically "out" on his feet but stubbornly "stuck to his guns until his courage brought him through to win by a knockout of his opponent."

While his athletic prowess has brought him recognition, Hunter is best known because of his horsemanship. He went to France with the Second Division and saw action on all fronts with both infantry and machine gun organizations. Later, at a meet in Paris, he won a number of prizes for horsemanship. He has added to these prizes since that time.

Aumen is also a veteran of the world war. He also saw action throughout France and has, himself, gained considerable repute as a horseman. Aumen served 18 months in France.

Of the two, Aumen is the more experienced in recruiting work. After his return from France he enjoyed considerable experience in recruiting in the east. He was detailed on recruiting work in Allentown, York, Reading, Easton, Tazewell, Chambersburg and Gettysburg, all in Pennsylvania, and in other cities of the east. He is supply sergeant of Troop "C," Eighth Cavalry, while Hunter is duty sergeant in Troop "G" of the same regiment.

Hunter and Aumen have authority to enlist men for practically all branches of the army excepting Coast Artillery. The Division Training School is considered one of the most desirable units at Fort Bliss is open for enlistment for a short time. As this is an important branch the two recruiting sergeants will probably accept enlistments for this branch until it is filled up.

In their first day of activity, Hunter and Aumen gathered in four recruits. Although this is but a start, it is a better record for one day than headquarters at El Paso has showed for some time. One of the four recruits is Frank Madrid, who until yesterday was a member of Headquarters Troop, N. M. National Guard.

Arrangements have been made for the recruits enlisted here to travel in genuine "de luxe" style. A heavy reconnaissance car, of the type used in France for transportation principally by staff officers, will be used to transport the recruits to El Paso. These cars are of the touring type, but much heavier. They will carry 12 to 15 passengers.

Sergeant William Prinz, another World War veteran and one of the best auto mechanics in the army, will act as chauffeur for this car. He will make one trip a week to get recruits here and return with them to Fort Bliss. The trip from Fort Bliss to Albuquerque takes approximately 12 hours.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB TO INTEREST CITY IN MUSICAL SERIES

The Fortnightly club held its regular meeting, which has been postponed from Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. S. B. Miller on Marquette avenue, last night. At a business session preceding the musical program, the president, Mrs. Elizabeth Bradford, presided, and Mrs. Miller acted as secretary. Attention was called to the splendid series of musical entertainments to be given here during the winter by talented artists of national reputation, and plans were made for interesting the general public. A resolution of condolence was passed, extending to Mrs. Ray C. Bailey the sympathy of the club for her loss in the recent death of her father, William E. Grimmer. The plans for the year's work also were discussed.

Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Mercedes Stanton. A piano solo was given by Mrs. Marguerite Root. Accompaniments for the singers were played by Miss Helen Gurule, Miss Thompson and Mrs. Root.

NAVY DEFEATS CORNELL IN A CLOSE SERIES

First Game in Last Night's Bowling Match at the Y Results in Tie; Marsh Wins Thanksgiving Bird

The third meet in the Y. M. C. A. bowling tournament last night resulted in a victory for the Navy team, which beat the Cornell team two-out of three games. The first game resulted in a tie, and the Navy won the roll-off by 13 pins. March of the Navy rolled high score, 199, and had the high average for three games, 184. Wagner of Cornell made an average of 180. Marsh won the prize for the week's high score, a turkey given by the Western Meat company.

On Monday night Princeton and Yale will meet. The prize for the second week will be a Navajo pillow top.

Last night's scores:

Navy

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT UNCONSCIOUS FOR 20 HOURS BEFORE DEATH

Ramon Maestas, the young man who was injured in a fall from a Santa Fe train here Thursday morning, died yesterday morning in the Santa Fe hospital, without having regained consciousness. The body was sent last night to Belen, where the young man formerly lived, for burial. Maestas is survived by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Maestas; two brothers, Manuel and Jose Maestas; and a sister, Miss Margarita Maestas, all of Belen. It was said last night that no inquest would be held.

INDIAN PUPILS GIVE PROGRAM AT U ASSEMBLY

Nine Students From Government School Sing, Play, Dance and Tell Legends at Rodey Hall

A program of songs, instrumental numbers, legends and dances by Indian youths and maids from the government school was given before the university assembly yesterday morning under the direction of Mrs. Ida L. Harrington, a principal of the school.

The Indian students appeared in costume for the program. The five girls wore the Ojibwa dress of buckskin and beaded head bands, the classical Indian costume in which the Princess Tainia always appears. Mabel Hyl of Laguna described the Indian custom of the rabbit hunt and its significance.

The story of the Easter pudding was told quaintly by Rosenda Gaco. This pudding is made of specially prepared flour by every housekeeper in the pueblo of Laguna. She then invites all the children of her brothers and sisters to come to her house to eat the pudding with her at breakfast. If they are not invited to this feast they will turn into frogs, so the legend goes.

The two Laguna girls then sang an English religious song translated into Indian. Maggie Howard, a Navajo, played two excellent piano numbers. Irene Garcia of Laguna and Ethel John, a Seneca of New York, sang two duets. "By the Waters of Minnetonka" and "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" with accompaniments by Miss Howard.

Four Acema boys presented the Comanche dance. Crescencio Garcia in the Acema costume for this ceremonial, dancing and the others chanting to the tom-tom. Albert Paytiano was in charge of the dance, explaining it briefly and introducing the performer. Mrs. Harrington also made a few remarks.

CO-ORDINATION FOR STATE AND FEDERAL BOARDS

New Mexico Agricultural Federation, Which Meets Here Today, Has Plans for Effective Work

Co-ordination of state and federal agencies working in New Mexico is proposed by the New Mexico Agricultural federation which will hold a meeting this morning in the Chamber of Commerce. The United States biological service, the New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers' association, the sheepsmen's board, the cattle sanitary board, the extension department of the State Agricultural college, and the department of industrial training of the state educational system have been invited to have representatives present and to affiliate with the federation. Dr. R. P. Hare, chief statistician of the State Agricultural college, temporary chairman, and R. W. Ford, head of the agricultural division of the state industrial education department, temporary secretary, arrived in the city yesterday. Dr. Hare said he hoped the federation would grow into a state industrial congress, similar to that maintained in Arizona and other states.

A. M. Hove, representing the industrial department of the Santa Fe railway, is here to address the meeting.

Business Woman Feared She Had Heart Trouble

"Since Tainia has overcome a bad case of indigestion and nervousness of three or four years standing for me, my work here in the store is a pleasure, and I am certainly grateful for the good health it has given me," said Mrs. J. W. Pickins, of 516 E. 15th St., Los Angeles, who owns and operates the book store at 219 Mercantile Place.

"I was so run down that I felt miserable all the time. My sleep was broken and restless, I had no appetite, and the gas from undigested food caused my heart to palpitate so I thought I had heart trouble. For a time I had a swelling in my legs, too, and it was an effort for me to get about. It is wonderful how Tainia has given me such perfect relief from these troubles. I eat heartily now, sleep like a child at night, and just feel fine all the time."

Tainia is sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

DIRECT PRIMARY NOT A CURE-ALL

Now that the Democrats have been elected to power and will have an opportunity of demonstrating their administrative capacity, they will doubtless give to the people a direct primary law, to which they are pledged and we have no doubt that before Governor-elect Hinkle's term expires he will have signed such a measure.

Let it not be assumed that the direct primary law will put an end to all our political troubles or that it will make right everything that is now wrong or that it will operate automatically. It will not. The same force which operated to make the convention system at times ineffective, in that it usually represented an interested minority instead of the voters, may destroy the direct primary. As many grafters, job-hunters and self-seeking individuals will be found under a direct primary system as under any other.

The remedy for the shortcomings of our present system is to be found, not in the particular form which we may adopt, but the extent to which people apply themselves to the performance of their civic duties.

We must not forget that the so-called bosses had a way of selecting men who were peculiarly fitted for political service. If there was any reason why a man was not qualified for office they knew it. If there was any factor which was calculated to militate against his candidacy he was removed from any further consideration. The same methods were employed by both parties. The result was usually that no matter which party succeeded we had nothing to fear in the outcome.

Perhaps the greatest impediment to the efficacy of the direct primary in New Mexico will be the very large proportion of illiteracy which prevails among the voters. Until this defect is removed no election law will prove entirely satisfactory and until this subject is given serious consideration, not alone by our legislators, but by the people as a whole, no appreciable improvement need be looked for.

And the new administration will have to weigh this factor in formulating a direct primary law.

BEFOGGING THE ISSUE

Partisan elements of the press are playing up opposition to the administration's merchant marine program in the Republican ranks as threatening to impede its course through congress. This is at variance with the record so far available. Opponents of the measure who have sought to discredit it by applying the term "subsidy" are meeting with increasingly cool reception under the educational campaign that has enlightened the public as to the real meaning of the administration's plan—the need that it aims at meeting and the scope of its effect. The more the people realize the meaning of the merchant marine plan the more they realize its merit and the need for its enactment.

This is a measure that calls for support, regardless of party affiliations and sectional prejudice. The administration's program is directed along lines that assure benefits not only to shipping, but to the nation as a whole; not only to sea-board interests, but to the interior. The promotion of foreign trade via American shipping would be beneficial to all elements of the population, and the establishment of the merchant marine on the basis of a secondary defense in event of war would mean increased national protection. The fact that increasing support of the measure is being registered in Democratic strongholds of the south shows that it is non-partisan in appeal.

TODAY'S BEST THOUGHT

THE SONG OF THE UPPER-PECOS RIVER

I gather the daughters of mountain waters. And lead them towards the sea. And lovingly crown, as I go down My home with many a tree.

I nurse the trout, as I splash and spout Through canyons narrow and deep, And raise many flowers, in willow bowers, And sing them nightly to sleep.

On peaceful days, my wonted way is To leisurely roll along. My murmur and babbling, my playful dabbling Give harmony to my song.

But I roar aloud, if a bursting cloud Does swell me to a flood. Then I'm a giant, bold and defiant, And furiously wallow in mud.

Still I delight in my robe of white, In my garment crystal pure; And though man dreams, of lovelier streams My flame shall yet endure.

—VALENTINE KARL MERLIN.

Fred Fernot: I'll save him any way.

Provd. Hurray for the hero! Look at him climbing up the blazing ladder! Hurray for him!
Fred Fernot: Maybe you don't think this is his work? O boy! I'm glad I happened to have my gloves on. If there's anything I hate it is to get my hands full of rye. Ah! I guess this is the dog. Heer Ropert! He's a funny looking dog but I'll save him and I will.
Lady: O thank you, but how about my cat? Went you please go back and save my cat on the 3rd floor?
Fred Fernot: Holey smoke! My didn't you mention him before?
Lady: I would of but I was too excited about the dog.
Fred Fernot: Well, I'm all scorched from the first trip but I'll go up once more.
Crowd: O wizz the hero is going up again. He's all surrounded by flames! Hurray! Hurray! Hurray!
Fred Fernot: Good rite if I I saved it was not the first time you cat, lady? Heer pussy. Heers your cat, lady? I hope you satisfied.
Lady: My parrot, O my parrot on the 4th floor. Would it be too much to ask you to go back just once more?
Fred Fernot: I should say it would. I'm throo for the day.
Crowd: He's rite. We don't blame him.

The Markets

By the Associated Press.

FINANCIAL

Wall Street

New York, Nov. 24.—Prices in today's stock market were again irregularly lower.

Equipment, food, oil, textile and motor stocks rallied one to three points above yesterday's closing prices on the rebound, as did some of the seasonal dividend-paying stocks in which there were indications of investment buying. Consolidated Textile was one of the most active shares on the market, fluctuating within a two-point radius and closing at a slight fractional gain. Associated Dry Goods improved more than two points. Total, 729,000 shares.

Independent steel shares were again subjected to short pressure but they offered more stubborn resistance.

Standard Oil shares yielded more easily. Standard of New Jersey being down almost five points at one time, and closing at 19 1/2. Standard Oil of California was down 2 1/2 and General Asphalt 1 1/2. But Pacific Oil, California Petroleum and the Pan-American issues moved to higher ground.

Call money opened and renewed at 4 1/2 and advanced to 5, closing at that figure. Time money was more plentiful today, some 30-day loans being arranged on a 4 1/2 per cent basis.

Foreign exchange business was again quiet, prices fluctuating within narrow limits.

Silver exchanges were weak in reflection of the recent drop in silver prices.

Bradstreet's Review
New York, Nov. 24.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:
"Little change in the aggregate of activities, trade as a whole being satisfactory but a quite definite shifting of interest from primary lines of distribution to the jobbing and retail branches, is in evidence this week. For this cooler weather in many western districts, the growth in holiday buying and the advanced stage of the ordinary fall trade season are mainly responsible. Accompanying these developments have been some notable changes in movement of important staples growing out of a slight further easing of the car situation. Grain marketing, aided by best prices of the season, has increased, and coal loading last week was close to the year's record, but movement of other freight seems to have decreased, which fortified by the official car loading figures for the preceding week (November 11) would make it seem fairly certain, as intimated last week that car loadings as a whole touched their peak in the last week of October, falling slightly short then of reaching the high peak total set up in mid-October of 1920. Current loadings, however, exceed the past two years. Weekly market clearings, $7,255,746, 900.

Foreign Exchange
New York, Nov. 24.—Foreign exchange steady. Great Britain demand, $4.43 1/2; cables, $4.43 1/2; 60-day bills on banks, $4.47. France demand, 7.13; cables, 7.14. Italy demand, 4.71 1/2; cables, 4.72. Belgium demand, 6.62 1/2; cables, 6.64. Germany demand, 91.7-16; cables, 91.7. Holland demand, 39.36; cables, 39.40. Norway demand, 13.7. Sweden demand, 26.57. Denmark demand, 20.27. Switzerland demand, 13.62. Spain demand, 15.23. Greece demand, 1.60. Poland demand, 60.54. Czechoslovakia demand, 5.15. Argentine demand, 36.25. Brazil demand, 12.75. Montreal, $1.00.

New York Money
New York, Nov. 24.—Call money and high, closing bid and last loan, 5 per cent; low and ruling rate, 4 1/2 per cent; offered at 5 1/2 per cent.
Call loans against acceptances, 4 1/2 per cent.
Time loans—Firm. Mixed collateral, 60 and 90 days, 5 per cent; four and six months, 5 per cent.

Liberty Bonds
New York, Nov. 24.—Liberty bonds closed: 3 1/2, $109.18; second 4 1/2, $98.35; second 4 1/2, $97.74; third 4 1/2, $98.60; fourth 4 1/2, $98.08; Victory 4 1/2 (uncalled), $100.00; Victory 4 1/2 (called), $100.00; U. S. treasury 4 1/2, $98.44.

Grain
Chicago Board of Trade
Chicago, Nov. 24.—Wheat moved upward in price today largely by way of response to the course of values at Winnipeg and Liverpool. The close was unsettled, 4c to 1 1/2c net higher with May $1.17 1/2, to $1.17 1/2 and July $1.08 1/2. Corn finished unchanged to 1/4c up, oats 1/4c to 3/4c up and provisions varying from the same as yesterday's close to a rise of 20c.

It was an accepted explanation that the advance in the Winnipeg market was due to an attempt on the part of cash interests to get wheat to fill November contracts. Upturn at Liverpool were interpreted as the result of similar conditions there, and were also noted because of taking place despite declines in addition to outside of the Atlantic. Talk of liberal European buying at the season board tended also to favor the upside of the market. Besides 221,000 bushels of No. 2 hard were taken here for export.

Word that projected loan to Germany had apparently met with a flat failed to check the ascent of the wheat market, being offset by persistent gossip about other plans for financing European purchases of United States surplus food products. In addition, primary receipts were less liberal than of late. Minneapolis stocks decreased 20,000 bushels for the week, the first reduction in months.

Scarcity of rural offerings of corn, together with reports that western shippers and feeders were outbidding Chicago gave firmness to the market here for corn and oats.

Higher quotations on hogs gave life to provisions.
Closing prices:
Wheat—Dec., $1.15 1/2; May, $1.17 1/2; July, $1.08 1/2.

Oklahoma Expert to Be Judge of Poultry Show at Portales

Portales, N. M., Nov. 24.—William G. Tallant of Edmund, Okla., a poultry judge of fame, will judge the show of the Eastern New Mexico Poultry Association at Portales, N. M., December 18 and 19. The show will last four days, December 12 to 15 inclusive.

Breeders of all breeds of poultry in New Mexico and West Texas are urged to exhibit at this show. The advertising to be derived from so exhibiting is well worth consideration, for Roosevelt county, of which Portales is the county seat, is rapidly developing into a banner poultry community. During the past year interest has increased among the farmers of this section until flocks of several hundred are common. To accommodate breeders who wish to get their stock before the buying public, a sales department for the show has been created and sales will be undertaken for exhibitors. Officers of the association representing the birds will be well cared for during the period of their exhibition.

Premium lists and entry blanks may be obtained by writing to the secretary, Ralph R. Will of Portales. Entry blanks must be in by December 9.

E. M. OTERO IS SUED FOR $10,000 DAMAGES BY MIGUEL A. OTERO

Special to The Journal.
Santa Fe, Nov. 24.—Miguel A. Otero, through attorney J. C. Smith, has filed suit in the district court against E. M. Otero of Los Lunas, for $10,000, half for punitive damages and the other half for his costs on the alleged ground the defendant "did wrongfully, unlawfully, maliciously and wantonly assault, beat, bruise, maim and wound" him, the plaintiff, on November 13, in the Capital City bank here.

As the result of the alleged assault, the plaintiff claims he has suffered, is suffering, and will continue to suffer great bodily pain and mental anguish, and he says, he has been caused and will continue to be caused great expense, annoyance and mortification.

FORFEIT IS POSTED
New York, Nov. 24.—A forfeit of $2,500 binding a challenge by Frankie Generoso, New York fly weight, for a title match with Pancho Alatorre, champion, was posted today by the New York state athletic commission.

A LIEUTENANT IN THE REPUBLICAN ARMY EXECUTED

Erskine Childers, De Valera's Righthand Man Put to Death for Having Pistol in His Possession

Dublin, Nov. 24 (By the Associated Press).—Erskine Childers, chief lieutenant of Eamon de Valera, was executed here today.

The Irish army court-martial this morning for having had an automatic pistol in his possession, is announced in an official bulletin given out by the national army.

The Irish army court-martial has announced that Erskine Childers was tried by a military court at Porto Bello barracks, Dublin, November 17, charged with being in possession, without proper authority, of an automatic pistol which he had taken from a military force, November 10, at Annamoe house, county Wicklow. The accused, the report added, was found guilty and sentenced to death, the finding and sentence being duly confirmed, the execution was carried out.

While the method of execution was not officially described, it is believed it was by shooting.

The fate of Childers has been hanging in the balance for several days, when court actions were fought over his military trial, but with the adverse finding by the master of the rolls yesterday of a military tribunal in Dublin on November 17, on the charge that he had a pistol in his possession when arrested at Wicklow by Free State forces on November 10, the trial was over.

Childers, who was 52 years old, appealed through counsel for a writ of habeas corpus which was denied yesterday by the master of the rolls. He then appealed to the court of appeals for southern Ireland.

Childers was an ardent proponent of an Irish republic and strongly opposed ratification of the treaty setting up the Irish Free State on the ground that it meant absorption of Ireland in the British Empire and a detachment of the south in the elections for the south Irish parliament, receiving fewer votes than any other candidate in the whole election.

In the next month he was reported to be organizing a band of insurgents in the Dublin hills and later in the summer command of the band of insurgents, he cut the cable in Valentia harbor.

Childers was educated at Trinity college, Cambridge. He served in the European war as a lieutenant commander of the royal navy volunteer reserve between January and May, 1916, and won the distinguished service cross for his service with the anti-submarine forces.

Childers was the author of several books. Among them were "The Frame Work of Home Rule," volume V of the "Times History of the South African War," "The Banks of the C. I. V." and "German Influence on British Cavalry."

Childers was captured on November 10, at the home of a relative, Robert Barton, situated in a wooded and picturesque section of Wicklow.

Two columns of national troops surrounded the Barton house at dawn. One of the soldiers rapped on the door and was answered by a maid. The servant was thrust aside and a detachment of the expedition entered the house.

Childers was found in an upstairs bedroom. He attempted to draw a pistol but was overpowered. He was taken to Wicklow jail and later to Porto Bello barracks, Dublin.

Robert Barton, one of the signatories of the Anglo-Irish treaty later turned against it.
