ABOLITION OF THE U. S. ELECTORAL COLLEGE IS PLAN OF PROGRESSIVES

Senate Committee Also Proposes the Direct Election of the President and the Vice President, and Have the New Congress Meet Sooner After the Election

Washington, Dec. 5.—Members of the new progressive bloc in congress got into action today but at the very outset ran into White House opposition.

Led by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, bloc members, sitting on the senate agricultural committee, obtained a favorable report from that committee for a constitutional amendment providing for abolition of the electoral college and for direct election of the president and vice president, and for abolition of the long period of time usually elapsing between a congressional election and the regular meeting of the new congress. Such an amendment forms one of the planks in the plan adopted by the bloc at its organization meeting last week.

Opposition on the part of President Harding to any such change in the constitution was expressed by a White House spokesman soon after the senate agricultural committee resolution was laid by the senate and assigned to a place on the calendar of business. Some administration spokesmen also voiced their disapproval of the amendment and to-night it appeared that any efforts of the bloc to press the proposal might bring on action which would test the power of the progressive faction.

Gist of Amendment.
The proposed amendment would provide specifically that the choice of each state for president and vice president shall be determined in a general election of the qualified electors of such states, thus permitting voters to cast their ballots directly for president and vice president. The vote would be canvassed by the senate and house meeting in joint session, each state being given as many votes for this purpose as it has senators and representatives.

If such a canvass by states should disclose a lack of a majority, then the president would be chosen by a majority vote of the house. "From the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as president," the amendment would select that official between the two persons receiving the largest number of votes.

The committee in reporting the amendment through its chairman, Senator Norris, pointed out that the proposed system might result in the election of a president and vice president from different parts of the country, a matter of justice we ought to be protected by law in taking—should we desire to do it."

The amendment would further provide that terms of senators and representatives should begin the first Monday in January following the biennial congressional election and that congress should meet each year on the date of the inauguration of the president, thus wiping out the session in the congress after the biennial elections.

Date of Inauguration.
Another provision of the amendment is to change the date of inauguration of the president from March 4 to the third Monday in January.

White House officials, in pre-empting President Harding's views on the proposal, reported that the executive as feeling that constant changes in the constitution were unnecessary and in some cases regarded the procedure under the constitution whereby a new congress does not meet for more than a year after its election as one of the steps taken by the nation's founding fathers, as it allows passions to cool.

The agricultural committee, in its report, however, took an opposite position, declaring the "present constitution of affairs is not only unfair to the citizenship at large, who have expressed their will as to what legislation they desire but it is likewise unfair to their servants whom they have elected to carry out their will."

At the same time the agricultural committee was in session a subcommittee held an endorsement from William Lewis Putnam of Boston, representing the American Bar association, for the pending Ashurst resolution meaning the legislation so that the terms of president and congress should begin soon after the elections. No action was taken by the subcommittee on the resolution.

WIDE EXTENSION OF RECLAMATION POLICY FAVORED

Secretary of the Interior Urges the Making of New Homes and Increase of Food Production

Washington, Dec. 5.—Use and development of the country's natural resources under control of the interior department have contributed in great measure to national stabilization and prosperity, Secretary Fall declared today in his annual report. The secretary listed the more outstanding of these contributions as opportunities for home making upon public lands by returned soldiers and other citizens; the discovery of new oil lands; development of existing fields and increasing production of oil and its products; the exploitation of coal deposits, and the opening of mines in the Western States.

Incidentally, the interior secretary declared, these developments have resulted in very substantial cash returns to the federal treasury in the form of various taxes in which these mineral resources have been developed under leasing laws. The outstanding administrative accomplishment of the department during the fiscal year ended last June 30 was declared to be the reaching almost of current work in both the land office and the reclamation office. The examination of final homestead proofs is current in the former office, a situation which has not existed for many years, the secretary said. This, he added, has already resulted in placing in the hands of the people as many as 1,000,000 acres of land valued at more than $10,000,000 and has been done without increase in force of that office and in the face of greatly increasing work.

NEW PROJECT STARTED

Wider extension of the reclamation policy in former arid lands of the west was recommended in the report, which showed that while funds were restricted for that work the achievements of the reclamation service justified the continuation of the reclamation policy. One new irrigation project, which started despite lack of funds, and the total value of crops raised on reclaimed lands was estimated at more than $475,000,000. The benefits in the way of increasing food production, and addition to the national wealth by the reclamation of lands make that work of great value in return to prosperity, the report asserted.

Reclamation of lands, which falls to the lot of the interior department, has been greatly promoted. The attendance at Indian schools for the past year was a 300 percent increase over the year before. A special effort to provide greater health facilities to the Indians through more hospitals and more extensive nursing service was made.

MRS. HARVEY BETTER TRIAL BEGINS TODAY
Oxford, Miss., Dec. 5.—Demurrs overruled with the plaintiff scoring in the preliminary skirmish, actual trial will begin today in the suit for damages instituted by Miss Francis C. Birkhead, stenographer, against Lee M. Russell, United States district court here—the home of Mr. Russell and former residence of Miss Birkhead.

Legal preliminaries were cleared today with a ruling by Judge E. R. Holmes, setting aside a demurrer in which the defense attempted to delay the trial by claiming that the allegations as made in the declaration, were insufficient to warrant the suit.

Thirty-seven veniremen were on hand tonight. Whether a jury will be empaneled, and the number is considered problematical.

IMMIGRATION IS CONSIDERED AT CABINET MEET

It Is Indicated That This Will Be One of the Subjects Harding Will Deal With in His Message

Washington, Dec. 5.—The whole problem of immigration was discussed at length today by President Harding and his cabinet, and it was indicated afterwards that this could be one of the subjects with which the executive would deal in his forthcoming annual message to congress.

While it was stated at the white house that there had been no decision as to policy at the cabinet meeting, some administration officials were under the impression that Mr. Harding would propose continuation of the present restriction law with certain amendments designed by Secretary Davis and sponsored by Secretary Putnam of Boston, representing the American Bar association, for the pending Ashurst resolution meaning the legislation so that the terms of president and congress should begin soon after the elections. No action was taken by the subcommittee on the resolution.

HOSPITAL WILL BUILD ON A 10 ROOM ADDITION

Women's and Children's Institution to Increase Capacity; Department for Tuberculars Added

Improvements for the Women's and Children's hospital, some of which have been completed and some of which will be begun in the immediate future, will increase the capacity of the institution to 46 beds and will make its equipment complete in every department.

Architect E. H. Norris is working on plans for an addition to the main building, 615 East Central avenue, that will contain ten private rooms, an x-ray room, a laboratory and a modern elevator. The addition will be built on the east of the main structure and will be two stories in height. It will be so constructed that it can be built onto later with a large wing that is part of future contemplated improvements. The addition with its equipment will cost approximately $15,000.

The hospital recently purchased a large frame cottage on the lot east and near the rear of the main building which has been enlarged and equipped with communications for the use of the department. This building will be used exclusively for the accommodation of tubercular patients, who are not taken into the main building. It has a communication with the main building. Dr. Carl Mulky will have charge of this department. He is a specialist in the treatment of tuberculosis. The institution previously did not take tubercular patients.

A member of the medical staff of the hospital recently purchased $10,000 worth of radii, which will be used in the treatment of cancer and kidney diseases. This, with the x-ray equipment, the laboratory and the well equipped operating room, will enable the hospital to take care of any medical or surgical cases that desire treatment.

The hospital was opened in February 1920, and has been largely patronized.

WEEKLY 'HOPS' IN HIS CHURCH IS PROGRAM OF A SEATTLE MINISTER

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 5.—Weekly dances in his church is the answer of the Rev. Dr. Chauncey J. Hawkins of this city, after investigating dance halls permitted to open here by Mayor Edwin J. Brown to "get the money."

Dr. Hawkins and the Rev. George V. McClure gave their Sunday congregation some of the impressions they got by visits to the dance halls fostered by the mayor.

"The bouncers that the mayor says are stationed in the dance halls to keep order are chiefly old men," observed Dr. Hawkins. "These dance halls are one sixteenth of an inch nearer hell than any place I ever visited before," reported Rev. Mr. McClure.

The police announced that the Ku Klux Klan has turned in a list of "places needing attention" and has constituted each member an investigator.

BIRTH RATE IS ON THE DECLINE, BUREAU REPORTS

Increase Shown in the Number of Deaths, Based on Statistics Gathered From Registration Area

Washington, Dec. 5. (By the Associated Press).—A declining birth rate and an increasing death rate for 1922, as compared with 1921, were forecast today by the census bureau, which based its calculations on the statistics gathered from the registration area of the country, comprising about 82 percent of the total population of the United States.

The birth rate for the first six months of this year was 22.7 per 1,000 population, while for the same period of 1921 the rate was 24.8 and for the whole of last year, 24.3. North Carolina had the highest rate for the half year, it being 30, while Virginia was second with 27.5. Vermont had the lowest rate, 18.1.

The death rate for the six months ending June 30 this year was 12.6 per 1,000 population, while for the same period of 1921 the rate was 12 and for the whole of last year 11.6. Maine had the highest mortality rate for the half year, its rate being 15.1, with New Hampshire second with a rate of 13.5. Idaho had the lowest rate with 8.2.

Not all states are represented in the registration area.

WILDCATS MEET UTAH AGGIES ON CHRISTMAS DAY

Plans for the Construction of a Special Gridiron at Phoenix Fair Grounds Are Completed

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 5.—Plans for the construction of a special gridiron at the state fair grounds were completed this afternoon by a committee representing the Phoenix Junior chamber of commerce following the final acceptance of the University of Arizona and the Utah Aggies of an offer to play a post season football game here Christmas day.

Arizona athletic authorities gave their final sanction to the game today and a telegram of acceptance was received from the Utah school yesterday.

Work on the gridiron, which will overlap the race track in front of the grand stand, will begin at once, it was announced. The plans were approved by Coach Kale of Arizona, who was in Phoenix today.

The Christmas day game will be the first intercollegiate football game played in Phoenix since 1916 and it is expected to draw a record crowd.

Special trains will be run to Phoenix from nearby points on Christmas day if present plans go through.

The records of the contending eleven indicate they will be evenly matched when they take the field against each other.

JURY SWORN IN TO TRY DAY ON MURDER CHARGE

Deputy District Attorney O'Rourke Briefly Outlines What the State Expects to Prove at Trial

Durango, Colo., Dec. 5. (By the Associated Press).—Events in the murder trial of Rod S. Day, charged with having shot to death William L. Wood on the morning of April 24, moved forward rapidly here today.

In the afternoon a jury of 12 had been chosen and was sworn in.

In his opening for the state, Deputy District Attorney John H. O'Rourke stated briefly what the state expects to prove in its charge of first degree murder filed against Day.

Day, he said, is managing editor of the Durango Democrat, and is as such responsible for what appears in that paper, politically and editorially.

Wood, he asserted, was city editor for the Durango Herald, responsible for the news matter it published, but not for its editorial or political utterances or policies. "Wood was young," O'Rourke said, "rather new in newspaper work. For some time during the world war he was stationed on the Atlantic coast and married his second wife."

The controversy which led up to the shooting of Wood, O'Rourke told the jury, started after the publication in the Herald of a paragraph credited to the Montrose, Colo., Press.

The paragraph appeared in the Herald, April 20, and read, under the heading "Gloating Liar and Gossip Tied," was as follows: "Durango Democrat is about the only paper coming to our desk that is raising a howl about prohibition. It is publishing all sorts of fake matter purporting to show that prohibition is a failure and that booze is coming back. Better forget it—Montrose Daily Press."

O'Rourke said that Day replied through the Democrat in the paper's next issue and asked what the Herald's position was on the 13th amendment.

The Herald replied and in addition intimated that Day had been in a hospital for three months because of "too much drink."

In a subsequent issue, the Democrat said "Our shortcomings are our own," and suggested that Wood look into his own affairs and mentioned Wood's divorce from his first wife.

O'Rourke then related that on Monday, April 24, the day of the shooting, Wood was on the street looking for news items for his paper. That about 11 o'clock Wood and Day met and quarreled. Wood was wounded fatally by a revolver bullet. A revolver was taken from Day, showing that two shots had been fired.

O'Rourke asked that the jury return a verdict of guilty against the defendant.

B. B. Russell, of counsel for the defense, said in reply that the general issue was that had Day shot not when he did, that the jury "would be trying Wood instead of Day."

Wood was younger than Day, Russell asserted, bigger athletically more than a match for the defendant in a physical encounter. "Day was accustomed to carrying a revolver," he said, "and in a revolver fight he was a winner."

Day's paper, the Democrat, in today's story of the trial, pointed out that while Day is charged with first degree murder, the state's attorneys thus far have not asked the jury that the death penalty be inflicted should he be found guilty as charged.

HARDING BREAKS A PRECEDENT OF LONG STANDING

He Fails to Deliver His Annual Message to Congress When It Convenes in Regular Session

Washington, Dec. 5.—A precedent early in the history of the republic was broken by president Harding today when he failed to deliver his annual message to congress, which was convened in regular session today. It has been the custom of the chief executives to deliver their messages in person or in writing on either first or second day of a session, and according to officials at the capitol, the only time this practice has been broken heretofore was in 1915 when President Pierce deferred his message until the last day in December because of the inability of his house to organize. At the session it required 133 ballots for the house to elect its speaker.

Pressure of public business was believed to be in part responsible for the delay but there were also intimations that the president, because of recent official discussions felt it would be the part of wisdom to give a few more days to study certain questions.

There was a suggestion that among these questions there was a plan for legislation to aid the farmers. The president discussed the subject last week with Senator Watson of Indiana and a dozen other republican senators and it was believed possible that this program had not been worked out in its details and that more time would be required to put it in final form.

LAUSANNE MEET IS NOT YET ON THE ROCKS, SAY ALLIED ENVOYS

Treaty Makers Devote the Day to an Attempt to Harmonize the Divergent Views of Delegations

Lausanne, Dec. 5.—(By the Associated Press).—The treaty makers today devoted themselves to an attempt to harmonize the divergent views of the various delegations, everybody seemed to realize that a few more hectic sessions like that of yesterday would break down the conference and postpone near eastern peace indefinitely.

The allied leaders held long consultations to frame a common project for dealing with the Dardanelles and are reported to have succeeded in drafting a proposal pending until tomorrow, when the conference will start on the straits under international control.

The indications tonight are that the straits discussion will be resumed tomorrow, when the entente countries will fall in with the Turkish suggestion and set forth their wishes. The allies seem determined to ignore the Russian attempt to speak for Turkey, and are determined also to convince the Russian representatives that Bolshevism is not dominating the straits discussion.

The fact that Ismet Pasha conferred with the allied leaders helped to strengthen the impression that the conference is not yet on the rocks, at least is not yet on the rocks.

Another feature of the day was the pope's intervention in behalf of the Christians of Constantinople.

ERROR IN COUNT MAY GIVE HICKS A SEAT IN HOUSE

Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 5.—"Uncle John" Hicks, veteran cowman and partner of United States Senator A. A. Jones, was believed to have a chance of getting a seat in the lower house of congress from the territory from Guadalupe county when George H. Hunker, Democratic state chairman, and Carl A. Hatten today discovered what appeared to be an error in the returns from one precinct in Guadalupe county.

Previously John Faircloth, Republican candidate for representation from this county was thought to be elected by one vote. The vote previously given was Faircloth 1,532, Hicks 1,531. But Mr. Hunker today called attention to the fact that the returns made out by the election judges from the precinct showed Faircloth 1,116 and Hicks 84, while a check of the tabulation inside the poll book showed Faircloth 1,113 and Hicks 83.

Which, he said, makes the total vote, Faircloth 1,127, Hicks 1,530 and gave "Uncle John" a seat in the lower house by one vote.

If Hicks is seated, and in view of the discrepancy in the returns, it was believed to be some probability of a contest in the event Mr. Faircloth is given the certificate of election, the standing in the lower house then will be, Democrats 21, Republicans 12.

ALBUQUERQUE BOARD OF EDUCATION TRIAL BEGINS AT SANTA FE

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—The trial was begun in the United States district court here Tuesday afternoon in the suit of the American National bank of Oklahoma City, Okla., against the Albuquerque board of education to compel the return of $8,500, which accompanied the bank's bid on an issue of $450,000 of school bonds.

The bonds were awarded to this bank, which later declined to accept and pay for the bonds, on the bid of 95.5. The bonds were sold later to another party for 95, and the board of education filed a counter claim for damages, part of which is to cover the difference between the two prices. The trial probably will continue all day Wednesday.

RUSSIA KINDLED THE WAR, COUNT VON MOLTKE SAYS

Lieutenant General in His Memoirs Also Intimates That Germany Was Duped by Great Britain

Berlin, Dec. 5.—(By the Associated Press).—“Did England deliberately dupe Germany into delaying mobilization by tentatively indicating that she would observe neutrality in the event that Germany deduced from a naval attack on the north coast of France?” This impression is recorded by Lieutenant General Count von Moltke, in one of the critical chapters of his “memoirs” now issued by his widow, the appearance of which has been keenly awaited in view of the role he played in the early days of mobilization and in the German defeat on the Marne.

“On the day of mobilization,” says the memoirs, “a dispatch arrived from London in which it was stated that England had obligated herself to assume the defense of the French coast against possible German naval attacks. The Kaiser asked my opinion, whereupon I replied that I could have no scruples against guaranteeing that no such attack was contemplated, if England pledged herself to remain neutral.”

“It was my opinion that the war against France would be decided on land and that we could well dispense with naval operations if that was to be the price of English neutrality.”

“Delayed Mobilization.” Obviously this dispatch represents England’s first attempt to dupe us, at least to the extent of promising us to delay our mobilization.”

Von Moltke charges Russia with having enkindled the war, inasmuch as she well knew that Germany could not permit the destruction of her Austro-Hungarian ally. The German general staff, he asserts, had long since taken war on two fronts into its calculations. Plans evolved by Field Marshal von Schlieffen, chief of the general staff, provided for the invasion of Belgium as it was commonly agreed that a decision in open battle could not be forced without violating Belgian neutrality.

“Our information,” continues von Moltke, “was that France was determined to entrench herself in a strong defensive position which would force us to conduct a long and wearisome trench and position campaign against a strong frontal defense. Von Schlieffen even proposed to march the German right wing through Southern Holland, but rather than drive The Netherlands into the camp of our enemies, I decided to accept the greater tactical difficulties involved in forcing our right wing through the narrow section between Aix-La-Chapelle and the southern boundary of the province of Limbourg.”

“In order to accomplish this with the least possible delay, it was necessary to seize Liege immediately.”

English Intervention

Admitting that there was much to be said in opposition to an invasion of Belgium, von Moltke cites the early progress of the war in support of the German contention that France thereby was compelled to meet the Germans in open battle, although he admits the inability of the Germans to conquer the French quickly was solely due to English intervention. If the attack at Liege failed, the moral setback would have been a severe blow as it would have deprived the Germans of important railway connections at Aix-La-Chapelle and Liege and then on to Brussels.

Von Moltke does not spare von Bethmann-Hollweg for the chancellors optimism with respect to the eventual attitude of England as reflected in the statement of Sir Edward Grey, then British foreign secretary, to Prince Charles Lichnowsky, the German ambassador at London, which not only pleased the chancellor, but the German emperor, the minister of war and the other military leaders who were awaiting von Moltke at the palace on August 2.

All Seemed Elated

“All seemed elated over the prospects of a war along the eastern front only,” says von Moltke. “Now we have simply to mobilize our whole army along the eastern front,” the Kaiser stated; to which I replied that such a procedure was not quite so simple; it might involve a year of preparations, and once accomplished, could not be altered. None of those present seemed to contemplate the eventuality that France, which was then already mobilizing, would attack us on the west—possibility with which we were bound to reckon, for despite her alleged good will, how could England have prevented France from undertaking such an attack?”

“The feeling among those present constantly became more agitated and I seemed to stand wholly alone in my views. I finally succeeded in persuading his majesty as to the imperative need of carrying out our original plan of mobilization, which provided for the advance of strong forces against France and the dispatching of a weak defensive army against Russia. Any other procedure at that moment would produce disastrous confusion in our military dispositions.”

Reply to Grey’s Message

“I declared that if the mobilization plans which had been drafted were subjected to alteration I would be forced to decline to assume further responsibility. Thereupon, reply to Grey’s message was drafted in which it was stated that technical reasons made it impossible to halt the German operations along the French frontier, but that no attack on France would be undertaken provided France also remained inactive under directions from England.”

Von Moltke does not conceal his disgust with the English proposal and declares that he was convinced long before the outbreak of the war that the would never remain neutral in the event of hostilities between Germany and Russia and that the moment was between Germany and Russia broke out, it was imperative that Germany, no soon as the French attitude became suspicious, immediately declare war on France.

“I now demanded of the Kaiser and his immediate advisers a guarantee of French good will, temporary possession of the fortresses of Verdun and Toul,” continues the general. “This proposal was rejected on the ground that it indicated lack of confidence in England. The outcome of these four parleys plunged me in utmost despair, for I fully realized that these actions were working serious interference with our military plans and that they were likely to result in the gravest disaster to us nationally.”

LLOYD GEORGE MAKES HIS FIRST SPEECH IN THE NEW PARLIAMENT

London, Dec. 5.—David Lloyd George made his first speech in the new parliament today, speaking from the same seat whence, seventeen years ago, he was accustomed to inveigh against the government of the day.

Today he explained he was not there to criticize but only to make suggestions. He proceeded to support the amendment to the address, calling attention to the gravely unsatisfactory state of agriculture and permitting the government to open an inquiry with a view to finding remedies.

He also spoke on the unemployment question, which he treated as a temporary matter, that would to a large extent pass away with the world’s recovery from the effects of war.

SOCIAL CALL IS MADE BY ‘TIGER’ AT WHITE HOUSE

Clemenceau Talks for 40 Minutes With Harding; Serious Problems of State Are Not Discussed

Washington, Dec. 5 (By the Associated Press).—Georges Clemenceau visited the White House today and talked with President Harding for forty minutes. But the subject nearest his heart—American participation in European affairs—did not come up.

The visit was described at the White House as merely a social call of courtesy, which it was said serious problems of state were not discussed.

“Delightful Visit”

The Tiger said tonight it was a “delightful visit” during which he gave the president his views about European conditions in general. He emphasized that he did not ask the president for any assurance, pointing out that he was merely a private citizen of France, and asserting he had not gone to “preach to the president, but to pay my regards.”

If Clemenceau’s picture of conditions overseas had any effect on the administration’s foreign policies, it was not indicated in comment at the White House later. With respect to the Lausanne conference on the Near East, full participation in which has been suggested by Clemenceau, the president was said to feel that every proper influence of this government—and this influence was described as great—already was being exerted in a manner believed to be in harmony with the best judgment of the world statesmen who were fully in touch with the situation.

As to the question of American mandates over territory once a part of the Ottoman empire, the president was said to “rejoice” that the United States had not assumed such a responsibility. The executive was reported as feeling that America could not take upon its shoulders responsibility for directing the affairs of the world.

Clemenceau apparently enjoyed his talk with the president, which was the first event of a full day. He was smiling broadly when he emerged from the executive offices, where he had been, chatted so volubly with Jules J. Jusserand, the French ambassador, who had presented him, that he forgot his hat and had to return for it.

But his smile vanished when he saw the usual battery of motion picture cameras lined up. He posed for a moment with a frown and then muttering something to Ambassador Jusserand, turned away and entered his limousine, while several hundred persons who had collected to get a glimpse of him cheered.

Went Sightseeing

It had been expected that the French premier would drive to Woodrow Wilson’s home from the White House, but the visit was postponed until tomorrow afternoon to serve the former president’s convenience. So the Tiger went sightseeing.

Secretaries Hughes, Weeks, Mellon, Doolley and Major General Tasker H. Bliss, retired, met Clemenceau at luncheon at the White House. Then he started on a round of social calls, visiting Mrs. Robert W. Bliss, wife of the former assistant secretary of state and dropping in at the French embassy for tea.

Returning to the White residence again he gave an interview to the greatest array of newspaper men he has ever met in the United States. There were present nearly 100, representing the Washington corps of correspondents, many of whom had confronted the Tiger frequently at Paris during the peace conference.

Discussing with them his self-imposed mission to the United States—that of stirring up public opinion on certain matters—he declared that it was almost accomplished.

WIDE EXTENSION OF RECLAMATION POLICY FAVORED

formulation of a colonization plan. Governor Farrington of Hawaii, reported that during the twelve months ended last June the Pacific territory passed through one of the most critical financial periods in its history and that while general business conditions had improved the agricultural labor situation still was serious. One of the foremost of his recommendations was passage by congress of the Hawaii emergency labor reclamation or some similar legislation to provide workers and at the same time bring the racial population of the territory more nearly into balance.

Production of helium, the non-inflammable gas substitute for hydrogen in lighter-than-air craft, is under the jurisdiction of the interior department and under legislation notable progress has been made by the bureau of mines in perfecting methods of separating helium from natural gas, in which it occurs.

The most serious situation facing the department is the low scale of salaries, the secretary asserted. One of the bureaus of the department was organized in 1812 and another in 1932 and since those dates the salary schedule for employees has not been revised. Because employees can earn more in other departments and in outside industries, the loss and turnover has become demoralizing. Speedy legislation to increase salaries is sorely needed, he said.

ATKINSON WILL REPLACE MULLER IN LAND OFFICE

Roswell Man, Veteran in Stock Industry, to Be Chief Deputy to Commissioner Justiniano Baca

Justiniano Baca, state land commissioner-elect, who is in the city on a brief business visit, announced last night that he would appoint William H. Atkinson of Roswell to the position of deputy land commissioner to succeed Capt. Fred Muller. Mr. Atkinson for several years was a member of the state highway commission. He is a stockman and banker and has a wide acquaintance throughout the state. He is familiar with the land business, and is expected to be a valuable man in the state land office. He was county commissioner of Chaves county for many years. Mr. Baca said last night that he had no further announcement to make in regard to the land office, but that it is his intention to give the state the best administration possible of that important office.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO HONOR REQUEST FOR TEXAN'S ARREST

It was learned here yesterday that Governor M. C. Mechem has refused to honor a requisition of the governor of Texas for J. L. Zumwalt, now at Laguna, N. M. Zumwalt was wanted on a charge of embezzlement, which grew out of his purchase of a truck. When he left Texas, according to his attorney, Miss Helen Harburt of this city, he owed a small payment on the truck, and wrote the Armstrong Transfer and Storage company, from which it was purchased, that he would complete the payment soon. Then came a complaint against him. The governor refused to honor the requisition on the ground that the matter involved was civil and not criminal.

MINNESOTA ADMITS WRECKING A TRAIN

Anoka, Minn., Dec. 5.—Lester Foregren, son of a railroad section hand, living near the tracks of the Great Northern railway at Anoka, Minn., near here, today confessed, according to authorities, to having swung a switch just outside the station, causing the wreck of a freight train November 26, when the two trainmen were killed and a third seriously injured.

GODFREY WINS A KNOCKOUT

New York, Dec. 5.—George Godfrey, Chicago negro, tonight won a technical knockout when Jack Thompson of St. Joseph, Mo., also negro, broke his right arm in the fifth round of 10 round match. Each weighed 204 pounds. Godfrey is a protégé of Jack Johnson, one time heavyweight champion.

CORNELL WINS PAIR OF GAMES FROM HARVARD IN Y BOWLING LEAGUE

Cornell took two of the three games rolled in the match with Harvard last night on the Y. M. C. A. alleys. Through their victory the "Big Red" team took a firmer grip on second place in the Y. M. C. A. Bowling league. Yale shares this honor with Cornell at present. But Yale will have to win two of its games in the next match in order to remain on even terms. And Yale is to face the leading Navy quintet in the next game.

The Navy-Yale game is scheduled for play tomorrow night. However, an effort is being made to have it rolled tonight, as the Navy will be short some of its players if the schedule of tomorrow night is adhered to. The arrangement for change will probably be made.

Wagner, who won the pillow top for high single last week with a high score of 235, was again high last night. His 208 was the best for the week by 30 pins but he is ineligible for a singles prize. Berry, who was high Monday night, is also ineligible. This gives Smith high for the week, with a score of 172.

In the games Monday night the lowly Princetonians were again dragging in the dust of defeat. The Army team taking three straight games from them. Berry is now leading the Princeton team and he promises to bring his team home winner in at least one game before the season is over. Several cigars have been wagered on the likelihood of his accomplishing the task.

Listen, World!

WRITTEN AND ILLUSTRATED BY Elsie Robinson

The finest gift you can give the world is your personality—provided you have personality. Never has individuality been at such a high premium as at present, and never has it been so rare. We long to express ourselves—to be leaders—to stand out from the mob—to strike a unique note—to "be different." And, after going to infinite pains, we end "being funny" and "silly." For you can't learn a personality. You can't paste it on. You can't grow it on the outside. You must build it from the inside out. It must be an involuntary, almost unconscious reflection of the light that illumines the pathway of your own life.

There was more vital individuality in the old-fashioned wife who was an expert in all the crafts which went to home making—sewing, cooking, cleaning, nursing—than in a whole club full of fashionable women. This gives the individualist who can describe the "feeling" in a cubist painting or a "free" poem but who couldn't make a baking powder biscuit to save their lives. The individuality of the first woman is based on Power and it is at work even in her most unconscious moments—the individuality of the rest is based on Pretense and is futile at all times.

A set of freaky manners isn't a personality. Radical opinions cannot make you "different." Studied poses do not constitute individuality. Pompous self-assertion will not make you a leader. You can only acquire a personality by becoming a person instead of a parrot. Think things out for yourself, do things and believe things because they seem right and sane for you to do and believe—avoid all pose—cease all calculations as to the impression you are making. Stop trying to be different from others and start trying to be true to yourself. Give and express only that which springs sincerely and simply from your own conviction and desire.

If once you will fix upon and follow this program you will forthwith be original and impressive, daring and unique, forceful and magnetic. But you won't know you are. And that's the true test of Real Individuality.

LOCAL ITEMS

William Melendres, a business man of Silver City, N. M., is here on business and to visit friends. L. Heyman of the Kahn general store on North First street has been in Bernallillo, looking over the field for the purpose of establishing a Kahn branch store. Dave Crockett, C. L. Ebel, J. F. They obtained four bucks and seven wild turkeys on the trip. Farmers and stockmen of the Estancia valley and the Mountain region are looking forward to good crops next year. The outlook is much brighter than it has been for at least two years, because of the snowfall. There has been more moisture thus far this winter than there was all last winter.

W. W. Rodgers and his son, W. W. Rodgers, Jr., left yesterday for Chicago, where they propose to make their home. They have long been residents of Albuquerque. They decided upon the change because of business opportunity offered in Chicago. Rev. George J. Weber of York, Nebraska, is to offer an address at the Congregational church tonight. Refreshments are to be served to the congregation following the address. Dan Lighton shot a sharpshooting hawk just beyond the outskirts of Albuquerque, while on a hunting trip yesterday morning. He turned the bird over to the biological survey and it is to be mounted and placed on exhibition with the Cooper's hawk shot by Aldo Leopold.

M. U., arrived in the city yesterday. Byron O. Beall of Roswell, secretary of the democratic state central committee and prominently mentioned as a candidate for speaker of the house of the New Mexico legislature, was in the city yesterday on his way to Santa Fe. Residents of Rancho de Atrisco an inhuman biped is engaged in a systematic poisoning of dogs in that vicinity. According to this report four valuable dogs have been poisoned during the past two days. Three of them, including an exceptionally valuable Alreda belonging to E. S. Rodgers, have died as the result of the poisoning. The dog of F. T. Young was also poisoned but he saved the dog by giving him an emetic of tobacco juice. The sheriff's office has been notified of the affair. Strayhine was used in each of the poisonings.

WOMAN ESCAPES AFTER SAWING 3 PRISON BARS

Mrs. Clara Phillips, Under a Penitentiary Sentence at Los Angeles, Found Missing by Matron

Los Angeles, Dec. 5.—Armour L. Phillips, whose wife, Clara Phillips, convicted murderer, escaped from the Los Angeles county jail last night, appeared at the office of her attorney late today and sent word to the sheriff's office he was ready to be interviewed about the escape. Phillips later made a statement in which he said he knew nothing about the escape or where his wife had gone. He gave a detailed account of his movements for the past 24 hours.

Los Angeles, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Clara Phillips, a young woman under sentence to serve 10 years to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the murder of Mrs. Albert Mendez, early today escaped from the Los Angeles county jail. The escape was so well planned and quietly executed that it remained unknown for more than six hours.

Mrs. Phillips, after effecting her escape with the aid of three or four persons outside the jail, apparently went in an automobile, with those who aided her, and disappeared from sight.

Steel Bars Sawed
Three steel bars guarding the window in her cell were sawed through from the inside. Then a square of heavy mesh netting was cut out, and through the two foot opening thus formed, the young woman climbed out and made her way over adjacent roofs of other parts of the jail, down through a trap door, and out to where liberty and an automobile awaited her.

The sheriff dispatched deputies to points along the western part of the northern boundary of Mexico. He also caused the main roads out of Southern California to be guarded, placed guards at every depot to scrutinize outgoing passengers, telegraphed descriptions of the woman and her husband to nearby peace officers and personally led a search of those places to which it was believed the woman might have fled.

Investigation at the jail indicated that at least three persons had aided the woman. Her quarters were on the third floor of the old jail building and she occupied a tank cell overlooking a roof of an auxiliary structure a story lower. Footprints and other marks on this roof led the deputies who investigated that angle of the escape to announce that at least two persons aided her on the roof, and that one or two more awaited them in an automobile at the street level.

The Los Angeles county jail stands in the main business section of the city. It is within a block of the federal building, where postal activities are continuous. Street cars pass along one side, even in the quiet hours of the night; taxicabs and automobiles ply over the street. There are always jailers and matrons on duty and a glare of street lamps surrounds it.

The sheriff announced that a number of persons who were connected with the trial of Mrs. Phillips would be sought to throw light on the escape, and that Harry Karst, a defense witness, was the first to appear at the sheriff's office.

Karst told the officers that at the request of Armour Phillips, husband of Mrs. Phillips, he had picked the latter up yesterday at the home of Mrs. Phillips' sisters, and had brought him down town and left him at a garage. He said he had not seen Phillips since.

Visited Mrs. Phillips
Authorities were unable to locate Armour Phillips until tonight. The matron on duty at the time of the escape was Mrs. L. L. Fisher, long a member of the jail staff. She said she visited Mrs. Phillips in her cell at about 9:30 last night, found her in bed and complaining of illness. Mrs. Fisher said she then returned to the matron's quarters about 25 feet from the door of Mrs. Phillips' cell. She said during the night she heard nothing unusual.

Mrs. Fisher said she knocked on all the cell doors at 6:30 this morning and then awoke the women in the dormitory. Women assigned to cells have their breakfast in their cells. Mrs. Phillips' breakfast was put on a shelf in her door as usual. Later the cells were unlocked and when Mrs. Fisher noticed that Mrs. Phillips had not appeared, she asked other prisoners concerning her and they said she was "around here some place." Still unable to locate her, the matron resumed her routine work and then, she said, a woman who occupied a cell adjoining that of Mrs. Phillips told her that Mrs. Phillips had escaped. Cells in the women's wards have inside curtains. The curtain in Mrs. Phillips' cell was down and this delayed discovery of the escape.

A. L. Mattox of Las Vegas, field agent for the Montezuma Baptist college, was here yesterday on business connected with the institution. Mr. Mattox said the school has 80 students and is doing good work. A much larger attendance is expected next year, as the school's drawing power was hurt somewhat this year by the fact that the opening had been postponed in the two previous years, and the lack of a president to direct the advertising campaign. Mr. Mattox is a brother of the man chosen president late in the summer.

CITY OFFICIALS SEEKING PARLEY ON NEW VIADUCT

Persistent Efforts Are Being Made to Secure a Conference With Representatives of Santa Fe Road

Persistent efforts are being made by city officials to secure a conference with officials of the Santa Fe railroad in regard to the new viaduct. The city is desirous of obtaining this conference in order that the co-operation of the railroad officials may be secured.

It looks now as though these efforts are about to bear fruit. City officials have finally obtained a definite promise from the Santa Fe office that immediately upon the return of W. C. Reid, Santa Fe solicitor from New Mexico, from Washington, a conference will be arranged.

It is believed that this conference will be arranged within the next two weeks, as Mr. Reid is now winding up legal matters which have held him in Washington. However, until he has finished his duties at Washington it is considered inadvisable to set a definite date for a conference, as Santa Fe officials from Chicago will also attend the official gathering.

It is the general impression that the new viaduct will be started shortly after the conference is set, as it is believed once the officials are brought together it will take only a short time to complete arrangements for construction. It is believed the Santa Fe officials are quite willing to co-operate and that the delay has been due solely to the absence from the city of Mr. Reid. He is the only official here with authority to act in the premises and to set a date for conference with the Santa Fe officials of the Chicago office.

REQUISITION HONORED

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Requisition from the governor of Minnesota has been honored by Gov. M. C. McChesney for the extradition of Oscar Johnson, who is wanted in St. Paul to answer to the charge of grand larceny in the second degree. Johnson is reported to be in custody in Albuquerque. The officer here to take charge of the prisoner is Robert V. Johnson.

The first Spanish-speaking woman of the world to exercise the privilege of the ballot were those of the Mexican state of Yucatan.

LAWYERS WISH JUDGE TO HEAR CASES IN CITY

Their Club Asks That Change Be Made in Non-jury Hearings to Save Time of Clients, Counsel

Unanimous opinion of the Lawyers' club, expressed at its regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, is that the judge of the district court should open in the city of Albuquerque chambers for the hearing of cases tried without jury. A committee composed of John F. Simms, Francis E. Wood and Henry G. Coors was appointed to call on Judge M. E. Hickey and ask him to give his consent. Neil B. Field offered his library for the time being for use as chambers.

The attorneys expressed the opinion that clients annually lose thousands of dollars because of times their counsel waste in trips to and from the court house, over a mile away, to attend trials in chambers. It was stated that the only objection to the plan of having trial chambers in the city is the inconvenience to which the clerk might be put in getting papers and records. The opinion was expressed, however, that this objection is outweighed by the advantages of the plan.

J. A. Miller read a paper on "Crimes and Criminals," in which he dealt with the objects and purposes of criminal law and the punishment of offenders.

STRICTLY HOME PRODUCTS PUT UP IN PACKAGES BY FEE

New Mexico merchants are beginning to take advantage of the things New Mexico has to advertise.

John Fee of Fee's Candy store is the latest. Mr. Fee has put out a new line of chocolates, called the "Zuni chocolates." On the cover of the box is a finely lithographed reproduction of a Zuni pueblo home, that will prove attractive to customers and to the people of the state who desire to send something to friends that is typically New Mexican. In the candy he has incorporated chocolate covered pinon nuts, something never before attempted in this line.

In addition to this attractive package, Mr. Fee has another new one for shelled pinons. It has a scene from the Jemez mountains on the cover, a scene of a towering cliff. This package, he believes, will prove equally attractive to those desiring something typical of New Mexico.—Adv.

POLICE DRIVE IS ON TO ENFORCE PARKING LAWS

Violation of Ordinance Cost 36 Albuquerqueans $5 Each Yesterday; 15 More Cited for Today

There were exactly 36 Albuquerqueans yesterday who were made aware of the fact that the city ordinances in regard to traffic, and particularly those as regards parking, may no longer be considered as a huge joke. In the past the parking ordinance has been ignored and nothing has been done to enforce the law.

However, about a month ago the city commissioners authorized the addition of one police officer, particularly to enforce the parking ordinance. In order to give all drivers ample time to prepare for the enforcement the police set December 1, as the day enforcement would be started.

But it was made evident yesterday, because of the number who appeared before Judge George Roddy for this violation, that the notices were not taken very seriously. But 36 people who enriched the coffers of the city at $5 each, will treat the ordinance less lightly in future.

The parking ordinance prohibits either double parking or parking for a longer period than one hour on Central avenue, from First to Fourth streets, and on First and Second streets between Copper and Silver avenues.

In addition to many who appeared before Judge Roddy yesterday morning, the following "anted-up" the required five dollars at the evening session of the police court: J. W. Freeman, H. G. Burjes, American Coal company and S. Seligman. The list of contributors to the city exchequer shows that neither Judge Roddy nor the police are playing favorites. Every car found in violation of the ordinance is tagged and the owner required to pay the fine of five dollars, regardless of who owns the car.

Nor did the police stop with their drive of Monday. They continued the work yesterday and 12 were tagged for parking more than one hour. One was tagged for parking double, another for parking within a restricted zone and a third for parking with the rear wheel three feet from the curb. W. E. Zeiger was added to the traffic list for passing a street car while it was discharging passengers.

The police intend to include wide parking in their drive. The city ordinance prohibits parking within either front or rear wheels more than one foot from the curb. The police declare some park as much as six feet away from the curb.

Following were the cars tagged yesterday for parking more than one hour: Nickleson, 176 Taxi; Ohio license 668,401, New Mexico license: 37,290; 24,248; 19,754; 27,090; 25,781; 31,659; 44,999; 22,392; 4,325; 32,813. For driving rear wheel three feet from curb: 31,533. For parking in restricted zone: 28,492. And for double parking: 29,576.

ONLY TWO BIDS ARE SUBMITTED TO P. M. SPITZ

Only two bids were submitted to Postmaster Berthold Spitz for the proposed improvements for the federal building. Both bidders were local firms. The bids were opened by Postmaster Spitz at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the postoffice. Charles Pepper had low bid with $1,950. The only other bid submitted to Postmaster Spitz was one from A. S. Hah & Son. This firm made a proposal to furnish labor, material, etc., for $3,100, which was $1,150 in excess of Mr. Pepper's bid. Postmaster Spitz forwarded the two bids to the treasury department at Washington last night. He recommended that the bid of Mr. Pepper be accepted.

Mr. Spitz and the other officials who opened the bids expressed the opinion that other bids may have been forwarded direct to Washington. This opinion is based largely on the fact that the advance notices calling for bids—these notices sent out from Washington—were not quite clear.

In the event that other bids have been sent direct to Washington it is possible that a lower bid than that of Mr. Pepper has been submitted. In such case the contract will probably let to the lower bidder. However the bid submitted by Mr. Pepper is so low that it is deemed improbable that any lower ones will be offered.

ONE HUNDRED TABLES AT BENEFIT BRIDGE

One of the largest card parties of the season was the benefit bridge given at the Elks Tuesday night under the supervision of Mrs. Charles S. White and her associate committees. Bridge players for nearly a hundred tables filled the ball room of the Elks. A musical program was given during the evening, consisting of a solo by Mr. George Goetz, violin duet by Miss Eleanor Yoak and a solo by Frank Darrow. Refreshments of home-made cake and coffee were served at eleven o'clock, many non-bridge players coming in for after theatre coffee. Prizes were awarded at midnight, the two main prizes being a floor lamp and an ivory dressing table. Claretta girls, dressed in Spanish costumes, added gaiety and color to the evening. A JAUNTY SCHOOL DRESS WITH BLOOMERS.

Do mothers of small girls love frocks for them with a hand-made touch? Most assuredly they do, and while most mothers can't afford to buy such frocks ready-made the only alternative is to make them at home.

A charming little design with matching bloomers is shown which was originally made in linen of that new rust shade embroidered in brown, green and red.

Figuring linens at 50c per yard and batiste for the guimpe at the same price per yard, the completed garment would cost about $1.95. The pattern No. 1591, cuts in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 3 1/2 yards 36-inch material. Price 15c, stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Transfer Pattern No. 626—in blue only—15c extra.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

For That Best Hat

If you are the possessor of a hat, delicate in hue, pin a folded veil inside the crown and when an unexpected shower comes along you are prepared and your hat will not be ruined.

Stringless Beans

Every vestige of string can be removed from string beans if, after thoroughly washing, you will plunge them into boiling water for five minutes and then drain. Then see how readily the strings are removed.

For Variety's Sake

If you can't afford to buy anything new for the house and you are just a little disinterested, try changing the position of the furniture and see if that just difference will not take away that bored feeling.

The Useful Vegetable Brush

I have no doubt that every housewife in the country has been given a vegetable brush by some enterprising brush company during the last few months. If you should happen to have two of them, use one for scrubbing soiled neckbands, collars and cuffs of shirts. They get the stains out in no time and are so very much easier on the material than hard rubbing on a board.

MINISTERS, LAYMEN TO BE ENLISTED IN THE 1924 ELECTION

Chicago, Dec. 5.—A campaign to enlist 50,000 ministers and through them 400,000 church members to take an active part in the 1924 presidential election was announced today by the Rev. J. C. Clover Monahan, editor of the Ministers Monthly.

The plan, he said, will embrace organization of the Christian voters' league and the holding of a national convention here shortly before the presidential nominating conventions.

"If the party conventions keep on following the beaten path and refuse to consider candidates that stand for the things that churches uphold, a bolt will be suggested," his announcement continued. "With the churches organized, however, no party can afford to ignore the tremendous vote controlled by them."

BY JANE PHELPS

AN ATTEMPT TO HIDE UNHAPPINESS

Chapter 69

Miss Jones, by her handling of Nellie, had aroused her initiative. "There are times when an employer is away, or when business is brisk, that one has to use their own judgment to a certain extent," she told her. "The average business man may not expect look for it, may not expect it. But the big man, the man of big business and ideas, both expects and appreciates it in an employee close to himself."

Nellie had taken an interest in filling, and worked out many little improvements for the file clerk, rather a plodding sort of a girl. When Mr. Fallon found it out he was much pleased, although he pretended to scold, saying:

"You mustn't work too hard. We can't have you getting ill. 'I'm too tired to get sick.'"

Nellie had answered rather brusquely then turned away that he might not see the pleased look in her eyes. He had thought of her, feared she might become ill.

Acting upon Mrs. Robert's advice, Nellie had commenced taking books from the library, many books of a serious nature, as well as lighter reading. In one of the former she read:

"A girl who is in earnest, who is a sincere worker, bears in mind her work is not for today or tomorrow. That perhaps it is for life. She is not sure—she cannot be sure that she will meet any man for whom she will care enough to give up her freedom, her independent income. So she wisely shapes her course for a business career which will furnish her not only living wages, but an interesting occupation; one in which she is contented, and to which she gives the best she has. Equip yourselves in the line you have chosen as if you were going to spend your lives in it. If you do marry and have homes of your own the very effort you have made to raise yourself above the common herd will strengthen you, will make you a better wife and mother."

Nellie thought long of this passage. She would never marry—but she would try to do thoroughly equip herself that the firm could not afford to let her go; so they would let her spend her life with them—perhaps.

Donald Horne looked almost as miserable as did Nellie. He had thought he was making headway with his friendship for her. Indeed, he flattered himself it had gone beyond a simple liking. Now all suddenly she was almost as a stranger to him. He asked her to the theatre, she excused herself, but he knew she had no engagement, because when he came in later, she was in Mrs. Robert's room, the door ajar, and he heard her talking.

He sent her say little bunches of flowers, a box of candy. She thanked him sweetly, but with none of the old vivacity. She avoided him when she could, not because of anything he had done, but she was in no mood to talk to him or anyone, although it would have been good for her. His bright companionship would have taken her out of herself.

Finally he decided he must have done something to offend her and was playing her one night he asked if he had.

"Why not? Whatever made you think that?" she asked, surprised.

"You never avoid me, you refused to go out with me, even when I have had passes for orchestra seats," he said smiling a little, as he always did when referring to his free seats.

"Very well, I'll go!" she said impulsively. She might as well, it would help her to forget her love for Mr. Fallon was a hopeless one. And she must do as Core said, hide her unhappiness from the world.

"Thank you! I am sure you will enjoy it," was all Donald said. But once again his hopes arose. Perhaps he had imagined her coldness her avoidance of him. She said she was tired, and she was such a tiny little creature. Of course working every day as she did tired her. If he were only rich—only had more money, he would ask her to let him take care of her always.

Tomorrow—A New Interest in Life.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man in high school and would like what advice you can give me. I have a girl friend with whom I correspond. She likes me very much I suppose by the letters she writes, but with the truth she says as though she were ashamed of me. When we meet I always speak and sometimes she speaks and sometimes she doesn't. I have asked her not to be so shy with other boys, but she says she will do as she pleases. Do you suppose she likes me at all? I admire her greatly and yet she asks me as if I were her enemy. How can I gain her affection?

IGNORANT HERMAN O. HORTON.

Girls who are in high school are sometimes ashamed to admit even to themselves that they are growing up. They avoid anything that would give the appearance that they have passed out of childhood. This may seem strange, but I know for a fact that many girls do not speak to boys when they are with some one else, simply because they feel embarrassed. If the girl likes you, she will go to school parties with you, you may be sure she likes you. If she is shy, try to give up other boys, because she is too young to go with you and no one else.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-two years old and have been married fourteen months. We have a little baby girl four months old. My husband is very good to me, but he has a lot of hard luck since we have been married and so we have had to move home with mother. I have two sisters and a brother who are living at home. The house is small and crowded now, but we enjoy being together.

My husband's mother is a widow and lives all alone in a house she owns. She wants us to come and live with her. Before we were married she made it very evident that she did not like me and she did everything she could to stand in the way of our marriage. Since we have been married I have tried to forget the way she used to act and I have had her in my home and gone to hers, but even yet I can feel that she doesn't like me but has to put up with me because I am her daughter-in-law.

She thinks it is terrible for us to stay where we are so crowded when we could have plenty of room with her. She has convinced my husband of this, but he says I can do as I please and go or stay. I don't want to go, but do you think I ought to go for my husband's sake?

It would be a great mistake for you to go under the circumstances. You and your mother-in-law have lived on old scores and can get along amicably if you do not try living together. But I am afraid that once you lived in the home of your mother-in-law she would make you unhappy. Since you are

MANY FOWLS OF FINE PEDIGREE SOLD AT SHOW

Interest in Raising of Better Poultry Aroused by Annual Exhibit; 25 Join the Association

Interest in poultry raising has been greatly increased in this vicinity by the annual show of the Bernalillo County Poultry association, which is in progress at 215 West Central avenue. Over 25 persons have joined the association, and many purchased birds with a view to improving their flocks. Advertisements for membership in the association have come from Cleveland, O.; Plainview, Tex.; Phoenix, Ariz., and El Paso, Tex. A number of birds have been sold at $25 each. Several fine tom turkeys from Plainview, Tex., which were brought here for the show, have been sold at prices ranging from $15 to $25. As a result, more and better turkeys will be raised here than in the past.

The boys' and girls' poultry clubs of the county have been interested spectators at the show and have gained much valuable information about the judging and culling of poultry. H. M. Bardley, poultry expert from the state agricultural college, has been giving a series of lectures at the show and has been giving the benefit of his advice to owners of chickens throughout the country. The show will close tonight. The attendance has been highly satisfactory. Over 300 admissions were reported yesterday. The attendance prizes, a turkey and a purchased cockerel, were won yesterday by Nos. 1,893 and 1,769, respectively. The holders of these numbers are asked to call for the prizes. Two attendance prizes will be awarded tonight.

Special awards of cups, ribbons and prizes have been made as follows:

The 400 fowls on exhibition at the show are estimated to be worth more than $5,000.

FIRST BASKET BALL GAME OF SEASON ON TONIGHT AT "Y GYM"

The first basketball game of the season will be staged at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight, starting at 8 o'clock. The opposing teams will be the Bankers and the Sigma Chi fraternity team from the University of New Mexico. The Bankers were members of the Albuquerque City league last season. The Bankers are a strong unit and have the advantage of having enjoyed a full season together. Because of this the fans who are interested expect them to win tonight. However, the Sigma Chi crew is also a strong one and may beat the Bankers. In any event the game will not be taken very seriously, as far as outcome is concerned, as it is looked upon largely as a picnic affair.

The teams will probably line up for the opening whistle as follows:

Bankers—R. F. ... Gilbert Miller ... L. F. ... Pogue Benjamin ... C. ... White Stowell ... R. G. ... Cavanaugh Wagner ... L. G. ... Howell
