JURISDICTION OF SUPREME COURT IS CHALLENGED

Has No Right to Consider the Appeals Brought in 'Dry' Ship Case, the Government Contends

Washington, Dec. 30.—Challenging the jurisdiction of the supreme court to consider the appeals brought by foreign steamship companies from the prohibition ruling of Judge Hand at New York, and insisting that the authority of congress extends to control over intoxicating liquors on American ships on the high seas, the federal government today filed with the court two briefs which will be used as the basis for its oral arguments next week, when the appeals are reached.

With regard to the proceedings instituted by the foreign lines, the government declared it had not consented to be sued and that suit against it could not be sustained without its consent. It also questioned the right of the foreign companies to bring appeals, or insisting that they had other remedies at law open to them and had not presented a cause for action.

The appeals of the American lines were not challenged on the ground of jurisdiction, but the government insisted that congress could prohibit American ships from including intoxicating liquor in their cargo, it could also prohibit them from having such liquor in their stowage for use by passengers while on the high seas. There is no distinction in law between the cargo and sea stores, the brief held, so far as exercise of jurisdiction by the United States is concerned.

In its brief dealing with foreign ships, the government declared that any difficulty the foreign steamship companies might encounter in obtaining adequate crews by the barring of intoxicating liquors in American ports could be readily obviated by the payment of higher wages.

It was insisted that the prohibition against bringing liquor within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States deprived the companies of no rights under existing treaties.

Clark for Smuggling

If the position of the foreign steamships was correct, the government asserted, it would mean that any ship could carry liquor within territorial waters of the United States. A large and profitable business has been carried on by vessels of foreign register bringing liquor in the country contrary to the prohibition laws.

The government asserted that the prohibition against bringing liquor within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States deprived the companies of no rights under existing treaties.

FREE FOR 8 IF THEY LEAVE UNITED STATES

President Offers to Commute Sentences of Former Members of I. W. W. if They Leave Country

Washington, Dec. 30.—Eight former members of the Industrial Workers of the World sentenced four years ago to varying terms at Leavenworth penitentiary for conspiracy and violation of war time legislation, were offered freedom today by President Harding on condition that they leave the United States. Sixty days were allowed for the prisoners to arrange their affairs preparatory to deportation, a bond being required during the interval which will ensure their embarkation for some foreign land.

The president's action was said both at the White House and at the department of justice to have been confined strictly to the cases acted upon and did not indicate any intention to exercise similar clemency toward the scores of other members of the same organization who are still imprisoned for failure to observe the espionage act and other emergency laws.

It was emphasized that the extension of clemency was strictly "provisional" and that the unexpired sentences would become immediately operative should any one of the eight return to the United States.

According to officials of the department of justice, the decision to commute the sentences of the eight was reached after a review of reports made to President Harding in scores of cases, the views of the prosecuting attorneys and the presiding judges being attached to each instance.

The entire soviet delegation delivered a New Year's sermon to the powers, taking as a text, "The power is unto the oppressed people." Teitelbach distributed to all the delegates at Lausanne a memorandum declaring that a solution of the Near East problem is probable by abandonment of the policy of conquest and intervention toward Turkey. Happily, the soviet advent to power in Russia had saved Turkey from total destruction. Unhappily, however, at Lausanne, according to the memorandum, the great powers continue their old policy of domination. Teitelbach urged the delegates to settle the straits problem so that it can be used as a basis of attack against the Black sea countries.

U. S. RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA APPEALED FOR

Russia Desires Universal Naval Disarmament, as Well as Disarmament on Land, Envoy Says

Lausanne, Dec. 30. (By the Associated Press.)—M. Teitelbach, the Russian soviet foreign minister, made an appeal for recognition of the soviet federation today in a statement to the Associated Press. "The soviet republic," he said, "earnestly hopes that the beginning of the new year will bring its into closer collaboration with the American people for productive work and for the opening of our natural resources to mankind."

His most earnest desire is universal naval disarmament, as well as disarmament on land, peace and productive work. The soviet republic is strongly anxious to reduce armaments, but we must regret that the scheme which has prevailed at Lausanne will compel us to arm and fortify our north coast and will divert us from our fundamental aim—production."

STOCK AND BOND PRICES HIGHER AT END OF 1922

Is Construed by New York Banking Interests as an Indication of Still Further Progress in 1922

New York, Dec. 30. (By the Associated Press.)—Stock and bond prices generally close the year at materially higher levels, which is not only a reflection of the marked improvement that has taken place in business and industry during the last twelve months but also construed by conservative New York banking interests as an indication of still further progress in the coming year.

The year closes with conditions favorable for a further appreciation of commodity and security prices in the opinion of the financial community.

The prediction of further business prosperity is based on several well known facts. Foremost among these is the business of the money market and the huge sums available for commercial credit. In addition, most stocks of merchandise are low, railroad traffic is close to record levels, exports are increasing, the principal European exchanges are heading back to par and the principal European economic situation shows signs of improvement; exports are increasing and unfilled orders for railroad equipment are the largest in years. Other favorable signs are seen in the fact that no big strikes are threatened or pending, a great amount of construction work is still in arrears despite a record breaking year of activity in the building industry, while gasoline consumption has been the highest in history and electric companies are doing a record business.

Total Sales of Stocks
Sales of stocks during the year totaled approximately 250,000,000 shares as compared with 171,000,000 last year, 223,000,000 in 1920 and 207,500,000 in the record breaking year of 1919 when post-war inflation was at its height. Bond sales this year reached the unprecedented total of approximately $4,155,000,000 as against $2,595,000,000 in 1921.

One of the features of the bond market was the return of United States government war bonds to par, the refunding of the Victory bonds, and the barring war loans not yet refunded, the record breaking volume of foreign government, corporate and municipal flotations which reached a total of $55,140,000 for the first ten months of 1922 as compared with $40,310,000 during the same period in 1921.

The widest fluctuations in the stock market took place in shares of the Atlantic Refining company, seldom dealt in, which ranged from a low of $900 to a high of $1,750.

The smallest fluctuation was in Alaska Gold Mines, which sold between 7-8 and 1-4 of $1.00.

Another interesting development in the stock market was the de-

TENNESSEE GIRL HEALTHIEST MISS

Miss Margaret Martin.

Miss Margaret Martin, Chattanooga, Tenn., has just been acclaimed the healthiest of America's millions of girls as the result of a national health contest held in Chicago recently. Miss Martin is fifteen and an all-around athlete.

While most industries showed substantial recovery from post-war inflation, the number of failures during the year was the largest on record and the volume of liabilities next to the largest ever recorded. Severe labor troubles, particularly the miners' and shopmen's strikes, also had disastrous effects.

For the first time on record there was a marked shortage of manual labor, due in part to the restriction of immigration, whereas in 1921 the number of unemployed was estimated as high as 4,000,000 or 5,000,000.

TREASURY BACKS CUPPER BILL TO ASSIST FARMERS

Secretary Mellon Comes Out in Support of the Kansas Measure, With Minor Modifications

Washington, Dec. 30.—The endorsement and support of the treasury department was given today to the Copper agricultural credits bill as against its principal rival, the Anderson-Lenroot credit measure, which recently was introduced into the senate and house with the backing of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and other government officials.

Secretary Mellon in testimony presented at closing hearings today of the senate banking committee on farm credits legislation and in a letter sent to Senator McLean of Connecticut, the committee chairman, came out in support of the Copper bill, with minor modifications and with an amendment to extend for nine months after next June 30 the farm loan powers of the war finance corporation.

Support was given the Anderson-Lenroot bill, on the other hand, by Secretaries Wallace and Hoover, also appearing before the committee behind closed doors. Secretary Wallace was understood to have urged the committee to report the Anderson-Lenroot bill on the ground that it was more nearly adequate to the needs of the farmer than the Copper bill. Mr. Hoover, whose testimony was said to have related more generally to the need of agricultural credits than to details of its enactment, appeared to favor the Anderson-Lenroot measure, which would set up farm credits departments in the existing federal land banks with an authorized government-furnished capitalization of $50,000,000 for the 12 banks.

To Draft Legislation
With the views of the three cabinet members before it, the committee prepared to draft legislation which will harmonize the widely conflicting opinions held by its members and by members of congress generally as to the form of aid to be extended the farmer and livestock growers of the country.

The Copper bill which was drafted with the assistance of Director Meyer of the war finance corporation, and presented with the endorsement of the American Livestock association, would provide for organization under supervision of the comptroller of the currency, of private credit and discount corporations with a minimum capitalization of $250,000 for extension of the period during which agricultural paper shall be eligible for re-discount from six to nine months, and for acceptance by federal reserve banks of paper of co-operative associations of agriculturalists for re-discount as agricultural paper.

Secretary Mellon in his letter and also in his testimony presented a number of objections to the Anderson-Lenroot bill, declaring that "it would place the government to a large extent in the commercial banking business... would make heavy drafts upon the treasury for the capital of the farm credits departments and would mean either more government borrowing or higher taxes on all the people and would provide for issuance of tax-exemption collateral trust bonds to raise additional necessary funds. Amplifying his last objection, Mr. Mellon said "it would come acceptance particularly had grace... for the federal government to authorize creation of a large volume of new tax exempt securities" at the time it was seeking such securities through amendment of the federal constitution.

Diversity of Opinion

Pointing to the diversity of opinion on the Anderson-Lenroot bill, Mr. Mellon in his letter added: "In view of the substantial objections to the bill already pointed out, I believe that the most helpful that can be pursued at this time is to adopt a substitute measure along the lines of the Copper bill, with the suggested extension of the life of the war finance corporation until March 31, 1924. This would adapt our present banking system to the needs of agriculture and include the best features of the various plans upon which there is virtual agreement."

"I would admit to discount on the federal reserve banks agricultural paper with a maturity up to nine months, secured by commodities in process of orderly marketing or by livestock which is being fattened for market. To this there can be no substantial objection. It is safe, and the testimony before your committee shows that it will be helpful.... A rural credit program like that embodied in the substance in the Copper bill, would draw capital and credit from available sources for use where needed by the agricultural and livestock industries and would accomplish this on a business basis, without depending on government money or tax exemptions. At the same time it would enlarge the facilities of the federal reserve system to provide further for agricultural discounts and I hope so as to encourage larger membership among eligible banks in the agricultural districts and would extend up to $25,000 the limit on loans by federal land banks. Altogether, it presents a comprehensive plan of permanent relief on practical lines."

TEXAS CONGRESSMEN NOT KLAN MEMBERS

Washington, Dec. 30.—Reading a published statement by Representative Gulliver, democrat, of Massachusetts, which he gave the intimation that Texas house members belong to the Ku Klux Klan, Representatives Blanton and Mansfield, democrats, of that state, denied in house today that they were members of the Klan. "I don't believe a single member of the Texas delegation is a member of the Klan," said Mr. Blanton. "I think the Klan going about the country that Texas is dominated by the order should be stopped."

If the Ku Kluxers had any real business sense they'd rent out the backs of those white costumes they wear for advertising purposes.—New York Tribune.

ANNIVERSARY OF DEATH OF WREN TO BE OBSERVED

Architects Planning Fitting Ceremonies in Memory of Famous Briton, Who Died 800 Years Ago

Chicago, Dec. 30.—American architects are preparing to observe next February the 800th anniversary of the death of Sir Christopher Wren, famous English astronomer and architect, who has left an indelible impression on American architecture.

Sir Christopher died in London February 25, 1723, and is buried in St. Paul's cathedral, which he planned.

The American observance will be consistent with the celebration in England, where the Royal Institute of British Architects has set aside the entire week beginning February 26, 1923, as commemoration week in honor of Wren. A procession will march from Mansion House to St. Paul's to hold memorial services in the cathedral, followed by a visit to the crypt, where the president of the Royal Institute will lay a wreath on Wren's tomb.

To Exhibit Treasures

Treasures of many learned societies will be exhibited during the week. In this country there is hardly a city that does not boast one or more Wren apries on its churches. The White House is distinctly Wren; the national capitol shows his influence; indeed, his palladium motif of one tall column flanked by square topped ones, is Wren. In Boston the state capitol, designed by Charles Bulfinch, who drew his inspiration from Wren, and the old South and North churches are among the notable Wren examples.

Christ church, Alexandria, Va., where Washington worshipped, is another Wren example, designed by James Wren, who was said to be a descendant of the man who overthrew the severe Gothic style with the lighter and more graceful French and Italian classic type. The records of Christ church show James Parsons originally contracted to build it for 600 pounds sterling, but threw up the contract, and it was finally completed by Col. John Campbell for an additional 220 pounds, making the total cost of the edifice less than $4,000.

Washington paid 35 pounds and 10 shillings for his pew, the only one in the church which remains in its original state. New York boasts one of the finest Wren apries in the country on St. Paul's chapel, which stands with its face turned away from Broadway. Other noted Wren apries are seen on Trinity church, Newport; the First Baptist church, Providence; Christ church, Philadelphia; the First Christian church, Hartford; Park street church, Boston; First Congregational church, Lyme, Conn.; and others. In Chicago the best example of the Wren type is St. Paul's, on the Midway. Here, however, the aprie has never been completed.

Colonial Architecture

Early colonial architecture in New England and the south was practically all Wren. The Virginia mansions, with their red brick, stone trimming and classical columns, followed closely the same motif Sir Christopher used in rebuilding Hamden Court, one time home of Cromwell when he was protector of the commonwealth.

Originally an astronomer, Sir Christopher Wren, born in 1632, received his opportunity as an architect when the great fire destroyed most of London in 1666. He designed the great fire monument known in England simply as "The Monument." It stands at the intersection of Pine Street and Pudding Lane, where the fire was supposed to have started.

Designed London Bridge
Besides St. Paul's cathedral, Wren was the designer of London Bridge, the western towers of Westminster Abbey, the libraries of Trinity college at Cambridge and Queen's college at Oxford, and many of the 52 churches of the old city of London. Eighty-six city churches were destroyed in the great fire, but many were not rebuilt. Others have been selected for demolition, because of the lack of congregations in the city and the immense value of the ground they occupy. The finest examples, however, are to be preserved.

Wren's inspiration for a classic revival came from another great architect, Inigo Jones. Wren's work shows more of a French influence, as compared to the pure Italian of Jones, partly due to the fact that Wren was present and studied the building of the Louvre in Paris, while he never visited Italy.

Was About to Undergo Operation

Camden, N. J., 2517 Polk Ave.
Mr. E. R. Page,
Dear Sir:—You will have to excuse me for not answering your letter before now, but I wanted to convince myself of the merit of your treatment before replying.
Now in regards to the treatment I cannot praise it too highly.
After 7 months of continual pain I was surprised how quickly your treatment worked.
I tried several different kinds of treatments and I found them all wanting.
I was on the verge of going to a doctor for an operation when I saw your advertisement.
It is due to me because to cure piles you have to know what causes them.
It is now 6 months since I have taken your treatment and I have not had any trouble since. I am taking my medicine regularly and feel sure I would have been dead if I hadn't gotten some relief. I was bleeding so, and Oh! the agony. I cannot find words to express my thanks to you. I am feeling fine and do not know I ever had the piles.
A sincere friend,

NO INDICATION OF ANY BOOM IN BUSINESS-GANN

Wall Street Economist Makes Predictions for the New Year; General Outlook Not Encouraging

W. D. Gann, Wall street economist and scientist, makes the following predictions for the New Year:

While there will be spurts of activity and some fairly good business during the spring and late summer, the general outlook is not encouraging and there is no indication of any boom in business this year.

The cost of labor will continue high and keen competition in many lines will cut down profits. Crops will be good, but prices will be on the decline. The crops in foreign countries will be poor, especially in England and France.

The foreign situation will play an important part in our business affairs this year and will cause lack of confidence and hesitancy on the part of business interests. Our government will have a lot of trouble on account of secret treaties in foreign countries. Treachery and deceit by some foreign power is shown, probably Japan. Turkey will not remain peaceful and there is a strong probability that they will start war again in the spring.

From April to June a serious falling off in business, financial troubles, business and bank failures are indicated. During April the laboring classes will be very much dissatisfied and strikes are threatened.

During the fall a serious business depression will set in and the general outlook become cloudy. November and December will be very unfavorable and general business conditions will be unsatisfactory. There will be business failures, declines in securities and a general state of unrest throughout the country.

January—The year starts with an unfavorable outlook. There is a strong possibility of war in Europe. Conditions will be unfavorable in Russia, Turkey and Spain. Germany will be threatened with revolution. These depressing foreign conditions will unsettle business in the United States. The latter part of the month there will be a hesitation in business and unfavorable reports in industrial lines.

February—Commercial failures will increase. There is possibility of an important bank failure. Germany, Austria, England and France will have serious financial troubles, which will depress business conditions here.

March—Strikes in foreign countries and labor unrest will affect business. Germany may declare herself insolvent or a revolution may start there. France and Italy will be in a state of unrest.

April—This is a war month for the United States and we are threatened with strikes and danger of war. Railroad earnings will be poor. A state of unrest and lack of confidence will be manifest among the people. Foreign countries will prove treacherous and grave misunderstandings are threatened, if not an open break. Japan will cause some trouble.

May—Business outlook somewhat improved, but strikes and war are threatened. Foreign affairs very much unsettled. There is a strong possibility of war in a foreign country. France will have serious troubles.

June—Some improvement in business and a better political outlook. Cold, rainy weather will cause damage to crops. Conditions will be bad in the eastern states and around New York city. Strikes and danger of war in foreign countries will still have a depressing influence on our business.

July—Storms, heavy rain and hail will cause damage to crops. France, Germany, Italy and Australia will be in a very unsettled state and strikes in this country are threatened.

August—Extreme heat and electrical storms will damage crops. There will be earthquakes in foreign countries which will do considerable damage. France and Germany will be in a great state of unrest and have serious financial troubles to face.

September—Some improvement in business, but it will not last. Bad weather will cause damage to crops and business will begin slowing up the latter part of the month. Financial outlook very unfavorable.

October—Business conditions very bad. Many business failures and conditions bordering on a panic throughout the country. Serious losses through fire and trouble on account of strikes is threatened. Some trouble with foreign countries will help to depress business.

November—This is a month of great excitement. Danger of strikes or war. Foreign conditions will be seriously disturbed. Australia, China, Spain, India, France and Germany will be in a very unsettled state. Loss of confidence on the part of investors will cause serious declines in stocks in Wall street.

December—Business conditions very unfavorable. Strikes and failures are indicated. Loss of confidence on the part of the public and dissatisfaction with the administration at Washington will cause a serious wave of pessimism to fall over the entire country.

In Sport History of Year 1922 Siki Stands Out as King of Goats

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

While Battling Siki, primitive Senegalese, cannot be ranked as one of the foremost stars of 1922, his meteoric rise and fall in the sport world made him probably the biggest sensation of the year—albeit no credit to the game.

Siki's spectacular victory over Georges Carpentier, idol of Europe and France's biggest sport hero, was but an incident in his career. The winning of the heavyweight championship of Europe was but a minor part. His fight ability played but a small part in his rise and fall.

It was a few sentences, uttered in a moment of anger, when the true Siki asserted itself, that he shook the sport of boxing to its very roots and threatened the existence of the game in Europe. Siki simply said that his battle with Carpentier was scheduled to be a frame-up. That he was to lie down to Carpentier in the fourth round.

Oh, man!

Siki, a native of Senegal, with the build of a gorilla, the speed of a panther, the simple but crafty mind of a native of the jungles and the love of a jungleman for the bright lights and colored beads had drawn attention in Paris the early part of 1922 by his wild escapades and his numerous challenges to Carpentier for a battle. No one took him seriously—except enterprising promoters. A match with Carpentier was "built up."

Critics generally called Siki a dainty setup for Carpentier, designed only to return to Carpentier some of the prestige he had lost.

Then, in just one second, Siki became the most talked of fighter of the year, if not of the present generation. Yards of "copy" was cabled to all parts of the world regarding the primitive man who had, by the brute strength and cunning of the forest roamer, annihilated France's idol and the man who had staged four rounds with Jack Dempsey. A Siki bout seemed imminent in the second which followed the ten which counted out dapper Georges.

That very day, September 24, however, Siki started a ride to oblivion that made fair to be as rapid as his rise. He took the gayer parts of Paris by storm. Wild women fell on his neck and fawned on him. He basked in the limelight and bought rare wines in taverns.

The world was his—in his mind. But his carryings-on, mingled with brawls with ring officials and a general state of confusion, led the public against him. They began to ignore him. Legal measures were taken to deprive him of his ring honors that he might not further disgrace the sport.

His money slipped away. With it the hero worship he loved. Then came the blow.

He announced publicly that his bout with Carpentier was framed. That it was arranged with the end in view that if he were still on his feet in the fourth round he was to "take the dive" for Carpentier. Siki told sweetly how his consciences hurt him when the fourth round came on, when he saw how weak Carpentier was and when he heard the public urging him (Siki) to victory. He resolved to fight his best and win, he said. The bout ended when he dropped Carpentier helpless to the mat in the sixth round.

A sorry mess, all.

In a way Siki stands out as the greatest tragedy of the year. Considering the chance he had to win fame and glory for himself, his native race, his adopted country—France—and for the boxing game in general, it is pathetic and more that he should have abused that chance.

On the other hand the public has only itself to blame. Its prones to "fall" for built-up matches, for "made" fighters and its tendency to hero-worship without sane reasoning brought this Siki affair and others of a similar nature about.

Place the blame where you care to. Suffice it to say, Siki stands out as the supreme comic, tragedy or sensation of 1922.

The Lyric theater today and tomorrow were taken aboard a millionaire's yacht which was hired for the purpose. The company which was making a tour of some rough weather and every one aboard, except Miss Griffith, was seasick—Miss Griffith added to their discomfort by eating candy during the entire trip.

When they were returning Miss Griffith heard a cry for help and directed the captain to back water. Investigation disclosed a youth hanging on a buoy. He was so cold that he was almost frozen. When he had been rescued and given an opportunity to recover he explained that he had been 12 hours in the water. The boat in which he was riding swamped and he had been forced to swim some distance before he was able to reach the buoy. Three ships had passed him but none of them heard his cry. His arms were so stiff that they could not be moved.

"Island Wives" is a story of the life of a white woman in the South Sea Islands. She is exhausted and cold that he was almost frozen and heat and long to be north where she might wear fine clothes and be fanned by cool breezes.

During a terrific electric storm she gets her wish and finds that there are things worse than the heat of the tropical sun. She returns to her husband contented to live on the island with him.

CHARLIE JONES IN A NEW FOX THRILLER AT THE PASTIME THEATER

Coming to the Pastime theater today is a new Fox picture, starring Charlie Jones. It is called "Chicago." Supporting Jones is the vivacious, winsome Renee Adoree, whose acting in Fox productions of late has been the subject of a great deal of very complimentary comment.

According to advance notices, this photoplay is filled with thrills. The action takes place near the Mexican border. To quote the producers:

"Startling scenes follow each other in rapid succession. A powerful sweep of dramatic strength carries the mind of the spectator right along to the end. Romance is deftly woven in the story, and there are many touches of comedy."

In previous photoplays Charlie Jones' acting has been particularly noteworthy. If all the other elements required to make a good motion picture are on a par with the work of this star, a night of real entertainment is assured theater-goers.

THE WOOLLEN INDUSTRY REPORTS THE FOLLOWING IN A WOOL CONSUMPTION IN THE UNITED STATES—FROM 1919 TO 1922, WHICH IS THE GREASE EQUIVALENT WEIGHT EXPRESSED IN POUNDS, FOR THE EIGHT MONTHS ENDING AUGUST 31, 1922, 508,440,000 lbs.; August 31, 1921, 284,200,000 lbs.; August 31, 1920, 481,600,000 lbs.; August 31, 1919, 273,000,000 lbs.

Increased activities in the woolen mills, the same conditions prevailing in practically all lines of industry, particularly in the east, greatly decreased unemployment throughout the country, with the purchasing power of the farmers gradually but surely improving, the future promises much for encouragement.

"B" Theater—Jesse L. Lasky presents Cecil B. DeMille's production, a Paramount picture, "Manslaughter," with Thomas Meighan, Leatrice Joy and Lois Wilson as the leading stars, also presenting the picture, "The Wolf," and a reel or two of "Current Events."

Lyric Theater—The popular film star, Corinne Griffith, is the leading character in "Island Wives," also showing "The Duck Hunters," a great Mack Sennett comedy of two reels.

Pastime Theater—Charlie (Buck) Jones, a favorite with the Pastime patrons, is starting in "West of Chicago," a picture full of thrills and romance; also showing the interesting "Fox News" and Harold Lloyd in a comedy.

DOWNFALL OF ROME IS FINELY PICTURED IN DEMILLE'S "MANSLAUGHTER"

There were no photographers to record the dress and customs of the day when the barbarians overthrew ancient Rome. Nevertheless, Cecil B. DeMille has produced an historically faithful reproduction of this for his latest Paramount picture, "Manslaughter," coming to the "B" theater today for a run of five days.

The episode in question is a historical outback, which vividly depicts the descent of the barbarian hordes upon Rome. Weeks of research work on the part of the director, scenarist and art director preceded the filming of the scenes.

Leatrice Joy, who is one of the principals of the modern portion of the story, is the hostess at a lavishly beautiful Roman banquet which is interrupted by Thomas Meighan in the role of the leader of the Goths. Lois Wilson, John Milner and Casson Ferguson are the other members of the notable cast who appear in this sequence.

A strikingly realistic gladiatorial combat is one of the many interesting features of the bacchanalian entertainment. Although this episode required more than a week to film and kept nearly 1,000 people employed, it will occupy the screen for only a few minutes. It is used to point a powerful lesson and serves to draw an interesting comparison between ancient Rome and modern America.

HOOPER FAVORS REORGANIZATION OF U.S. BUREAUS

Saving of at Least a Million Dollars Annually Is Estimated to Result From Such a Move

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington, Dec. 30.—Congress may not do as much as some people think it should. It may waste a lot of time. It may devote its energies and its talents largely to the less consequential things. It may put on the brakes when it should be going full-speed ahead. It may indulge in "great talk about it, and about," and even more come out the same door where it went. But if congress does lay itself open to criticism on any of these points it is not because it lacks ideas, suggestions and recommendations.

On the contrary, it is congress under the thumb of the things urged upon it or to take up an even smaller fraction of the subjects submitted for its consideration. It would find it hard to work 14 hours a day and 365 days a year. There is a manifest determination to keep congress busy.

Advice, prayers, petitions, demands, descend upon the capitol from every direction and from every conceivable source, and in addition to all that, congress must give ear to the messages of the president and the reports of ten cabinet members, to say nothing of the suggestions from numerous lesser government dignitaries and agencies.

In fact, congress would have its work cut out for it if it devoted itself to the recommendations of a single member of the president's official family. There is the annual report of the head of the department of commerce by way of illustration.

Herbert Hoover is known as a man who does things and is this year no exception. One of his most important suggestions is the reorganization of the various government agencies. He has done this with some success in the department of commerce, and he believes that these three groups should be established under the department of commerce, but he says that is secondary in importance to the grouping of itself which is essential as a measure of co-ordination, efficiency and economy.

Saving Promised
A saving of at least a million dollars annually in administration expense is estimated to result from such a reorganization. Overlapping and duplication of services would be eliminated and personnel could be reduced or used with greater benefit to the public. It is also estimated that for every dollar saved the country would get the value of many more dollars in the increased value of the service to trade and industry. These various agencies are now divided among seven different departments. Mr. Hoover points out, with the result that there is "inevitable overlap, duplication and lack of purpose."

This recommendation is patently so wise that it is difficult to see why it should not be carried into effect immediately. Any private business institution confronted with such a weakness in its organization would adopt the necessary reform without a day's unnecessary delay.

However, the public's big business establishment—the government—is not contented that way, or at least it hasn't been so conducted up to date. What will be said by the heads of the other departments from which Mr. Hoover expects to withdraw the various agencies he proposes to consolidate into three groups under his department? Unless they differ radically from all cabinet secretaries who have preceded them they will say "Nothing doing." "Never!" and a lot of emphatic words of similar import. Each secretary naturally wants his department to be the largest and most important in the government, and hence he will resist the removal of any of his bureau. Each secretary has his friends in congress to whom he will appeal to prevent the "outrage" as he characterizes it. That gets the fight well underway.

Then almost every individual government employee has a friend or sponsor in the house or senate. The words "consolidation" and "reorganization" mean fewer jobs to government workers, and they fight as if for their very lives when such proposals are advanced. They believe in efficiency and economy, but not if that involves making one job out of two, or two out of three.

LONG LIFE FOR SUN PREDICTED BY SCIENTISTS

It Can Keep on Shining at Its Present Rate for Another 86,000,000,000 Years, They Declare

Stockholm, Dec. 30.—"The sun can keep on shining at the present rate for another 86,000,000,000 years, and if human culture is to perish it will not be for lack of sunshine." This startling and whimsical statement was made in the course of a recent lecture by Dr. Svante Arrhenius, the Swedish authority on astrophysics, in which he explained certain theories and discoveries regarding solar conditions.

"Suppose the sun were a mass of coal," said Dr. Arrhenius in order to illustrate his problem. "Giving forth heat energy at the present rate, it would then have lasted only 1,000 years, or about half as long as the period of known human history. But since there were living things of some kind on earth at least 1,000,000,000 years ago, and since there has been half as long as the period of known human history, the duration of the sun during that period of time, any theory of the

VEGAS NORMAL INCREASES BY FORTY PER CENT

Growth in Enrollment During Past School Year Is Encouraging; Plant Is Improved

Special to The Journal
Las Vegas, N. M., Dec. 30.—Attendance records were broken during the past year by the New Mexico Normal University. The increase was more than 40 per cent over the preceding year. The total attendance in all departments, including the summer school for 1922, was 1,550. The total enrollment for the regular fall and winter terms was 750. The summer school of 1922 was the largest in the history of the school, having an enrollment of college students alone of over 700. This enrollment is to be included in the totals for the present school year, according to the system followed.

There are six schools maintained in the New Mexico Normal University, a kindergarten, a training school, a high school, a teachers' college, extension and correspondence schools. Following is a summary of the enrollment in these various departments during the past year:

Training school, 245; high school, 278; college and normal, 191; night classes (Americanization), 43; summer school 1922, 1668; total for the year, 1,822.

The main building of the Normal University was gutted by fire early last February, after which the school was maintained in private and public buildings loaned for the purpose. The building was completely remodeled and was occupied during the summer session, beginning in June, 1922. The Normal University has a group of 11 buildings, including its own printing establishment.

Have Pains?

Aches and pains seem to be the lot of the ordinary mortal. However, these should be taken simply as nature's warning signals that some part of the human machine is out of order. It is a mistake to resign one's self to physical torture when the cause can be removed.

ST. PAUL'S HAS YEAR OF GROWTH IN ALL LINES

Lutheran Congregation Increases in Membership, Subscriptions and Interest in Gospel Work

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Lutheran church, held at the church on Friday evening, marked the close of a very successful year. In a full report covering the year's activities, the pastor, the Rev. A. M. Knudsen, made special mention of a $500 gift from a local business man, the success of the summer Bible school, the entertainment of the Rocky Mountain synod, and several other features of the year's work. He reported an increase in the membership of the church, and made mention of the mid-week prayer meeting and the Boy Scout troop. An unusually large number of calls had been made on the sick and shut-in during the past year. As a tribute to those who had departed this life in the course of the year, the congregation stood in silence as the pastor read the names. The organizations of the church reported through their presidents and treasurers.

The financial reports showed a total of $1,000 received and expended by the church and its auxiliaries, about $900 of which was used for benevolent purposes at home and abroad. The gifts to foreign missions included Japan, India, Africa, Persia and South America. Contributions had likewise been made to Near East relief, and the Lutheran World Service campaign and an shipment of clothing sent to Russia. A comparative table covering the last five years indicated a steady increase in the membership and contributions of the church, and the fact that the church building, incurred when the structure was enlarged two years ago, has been reduced materially. In his report, the pastor presented in appreciation of Rev. Knudsen's ministry here, Rev. Knudsen's past year's work, which was his fifth year as pastor of St. Paul's church. The annual service will be held the first Sunday in January. A social hour followed the business meeting, at which refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation.

FAMOUS PRISON IN PARIS WILL BE DEMOLISHED

Saint Lazare Bastille for Women Has Been Ordered Demolished; Was Leger House in 1110

Paris, Dec. 30.—The Saint Lazare prison for women, which is both famous and notorious in the annals of French history, has been ordered torn down by the municipality of Paris. It was in this prison that during the general war certain well known women spies in the pay of Germany were detained, often previous to execution. Mata-Hara, the Red Dancer, spent her last days in the building.

Before the war the grey walls of this old convent held in bondage such women as Madame Calaux, who shot and killed M. Calmette, editor of the Figaro; Jeanne Weber, the strangler; Therese Humboldt, charged with one of the greatest swindles known to recent French history, and a long list of other women involved in the criminal annals of nineteenth century France.

When the walls of this prison have been replaced by a smiling garden there will have disappeared one of the most remarkable buildings of France, from the point of view of historic association.

Founded in 1110 as a "l'oper house, five centuries later it was taken in charge by the monks of the order of Saint Victor, who abolished the leper house feature, and used the building as a monastery. During this period of the building's history the great military and literary figures of France frequented the gardens.

Then, for a brief thirty years, it was used as a political prison, and with the coming of the French revolution, in July, 1789, during the famine, the place was broken into by the mob, looted for food and set afire.

Under the Terror, Saint Lazare again became a prison, mostly for the detention of men and women of prominence previous to their execution. Shortly after that time the building was converted into a woman's prison.

WOMEN RULE AN INDIAN TRIBE IN SOUTH AMERICA

Explorer, in a Lecture Before the Lowell Institute at Boston, Mass., Tells of His Experiences

Boston, Dec. 30.—An Indian tribe of South America ruled entirely by women was described recently by Dr. A. Hamilton Rice in a lecture before the Lowell Institute. The tribe lives on the Icana river, a branch of the upper Amazon where Dr. Rice went on a trip of exploration.

The women of the tribe appeared to be permanent residents of the village. Dr. Rice said, while the men who were there came mostly from tribes along the river Guiana. The ancient Amazonian legend, of a tribe of self-supportive women, visited from time to time by men of other tribes, came to the explorer's mind with his discovery.

He said, and indicated to him that he might have found the basis for the legend.

During his lecture, Dr. Rice was asked if he believed that former President Roosevelt's life had been shortened by the effects of his South African journey. He replied:

"Yes, he died from the effects of his journey to South Africa. There was not a doctor in New York knew what ailed him."

The object of Dr. Rice's exploration was mainly to determine the character of the country surrounding the Hilla, Mesaya and Inirida rivers, and to identify these rivers.

At San Martin he found 800 persons served by three priests who bore their last of knowledge of medicine. Many of the parishioners were suffering from disease. Dr. Rice's examinations developed that they carried the terribil form of malarial parasite and the epidemic skin disease known as pinta, a particularly disgusting form. Daily Dr. Rice was begged for relief by the sufferers.

The old La Sal-Calama trail across the Vega in the rainy season caused Dr. Rice a party much difficulty. For nearly 45 miles the trail crosses a chain of swamps and quagmires through which the natives of the party floundered naked, cursing and whipping the pack animals before them.

TRAMPS SET FIRE TO AN EMPTY CAR

Three tramps were arrested yesterday at Dominga by Santa Fe officers Murphy and Sinclair on a charge of setting fire to a box-car at that place. The tramps are said to have lighted a fire in the middle of the floor of an empty car in which they went to sleep. The fire burned a large hole in the car. The same men are said to have set fire to a car on a train they rode northward out of Albuquerque on Friday night. They were given 30 days in the Sandoval county jail at Bernalillo.

MAKE THE MOST OF IT

When a high government official is arrested on the public streets for drunkenness as a disturber of the peace; when a public official of this city so far forgets his dignity as to parade his drunkenness in public; when boys who are still attending school hold drunken orgies in public places; and when public officials sworn to enforce the law offer themselves as a shield for the protection of those who violate it, it is time to call a halt.

RESOLUTIONS

The cheerful custom of wishing one's friends a Happy New Year is a good old custom as far as it goes. The atmosphere of good will created by such hearty greetings is charged with possibilities of helpfulness and constructive co-operation. And those things help to make any year happy.

But well wishers and those for whom they wish may well remind themselves on New Year's Day that it is largely within their own power to make the new year a happy one for themselves and for the community in which they live. To do this simply requires taking thought and action to make the wish come true.

And here we come to what we call the good old New Year resolutions. According to the jokesmiths, the good resolutions of the first day of the year rarely survive the month. But supposing that only a few of them hold out for a good part of the year. If they have been made with a positive purpose to improve one's thought or habits or surroundings, rather than with a mere negative purpose not to repeat some of the mistakes of the past, they cannot help but avail something. And if resolutions do nothing more, at least they are a recognition of weakness and of the need of a new and constructive purpose. For example, imagine families who now find the struggle for existence a hard one resolving to establish a budget for the coming year. Would they not fare better? Imagine others resolving to take better care of their health by conforming to the simple laws of nature. And imagine still others looking their faults in the face and resolving to replace their chronic worries with wholesome and constructive thought. Is there any doubt that their lot would be far happier? Suppose a whole new group of persons—or nations—took to heart some of the practical suggestions in the Sermon on the Mount and resolved to be merciful, to be righteous, to make peace and to deal fairly with all men. Imagine them keeping their resolutions. Would it not be a happier new year?

NEAR-EASTERN ATROCITIES

A recent communication issued by the Turkish delegation at Lausanne accuses the Greeks of confiscating all the farms belonging to Moslems in Crete, and says that the Turkish residents in the hills, fearing massacre, have fled to the cities and are dying there of hunger.

All this sounds strangely familiar. It is natural to suspect the veracity of any statement from Turkish sources, yet it may be true. And true or false, it represents the Greeks as doing in Crete precisely what the Turks have done on a far bigger scale in Asia Minor and on numerous occasions in the Balkans. They were accused of massacring Turks when their army first entered Smyrna.

Sometimes an American reader wonders whether there is really much to choose between the hostile races in that whirlpool of human rivalry and hatred at the eastern end of the Mediterranean. It is natural to pity them all, distrust them all, and rejoice that we are far away.

TOO MUCH COAL

The United States is suffering from too much coal—in the ground. The federal coal commission finds that the mines now open, and ready for operation even if they are not operated, could produce a billion tons of coal a year instead of the half-billion tons actually produced. The commission, therefore, warns new capital away from soft coal mines. That is obviously a sensible warning. Yet how is it to be made effective? There is human nature to consider, as well as coal. When a farmer or lessee discovers what looks like a paying vein of coal, it is human to want to work it. It is natural for operators to want to open new fields and for investors, familiar with stories of fortunes made in coal, to want to put money into promising ventures. So new mines are opened right along, multiplying equipment and personnel and overhead cost, and the whole industry suffers from excessive power of production. Many lose money, but there are always new optimists coming along.

BY THE WAY

The Old World can do a lot for herself by replacing a few national aspirations with a lot of national perspiration. One-third of the persons in large cities suffer from eye-strain. One-third just about comprises the entire population over 20 years of age.

The imperial gizzard of the Ku Klux Klan says his pillow-case gang stands for "Americanism." There is an opinion already prevalent regarding the birds who proclaim their Americanism.

Of course we hope for a good year in 1923, but it must be admitted that having the Skjellerup comet running around loose in the sky complicates the outlook a little.

DUG OUT BY ROOT

Those who go down to the sea in ships, in this decadent, dissolute day, are seeking more often for spiritual nips than for sea air, the newspapers say.

Albuquerque Twenty Years Ago

The secretary of the treasury gives the following reasons for the erection of a federal building in Albuquerque:

"Albuquerque is the center of a large commercial territory and is the largest city in New Mexico, having a population of 6,238, according to the census of 1900. There has been a continued growth in the past of both the city and the postal business, with every promise of a larger growth in the near future. In the fifteen years from 1887 to 1902 there has been an increase in the postal business in the Albuquerque postoffice from $9,450 to $22,756. "It is believed that a three-story building should be provided covering an area of 4,800 square feet. The estimated cost of the building, including elevator, vaults, heating apparatus, etc., is about $200,000 exclusive of site."

New Year's social functions were given at the Commercial club, a dance; at the home of B. E. Roddy, where a party was given in honor of Master Shannon B. Roddy; the home of Miss Euphemia Nelson, a progressive euchre; the home of Mrs. Bernard Hild, where the fascinating game of "Liberty Cat" was played; at the home of George Campfield, where a surprise party was given for Miss Ada Campfield, attended by Misses Helen Roddy, Mabel Strong, Susie Dobson, Mildred Fox, Gladys Childers; Messrs. Raymond Stamm, Will Pratt, Frank Springer, Ralph Tascher and Lloyd Sturges; at the home of Willie Fraser, where a surprise party was given by Frank Lewis, Lonora Lewis, Edward Lewis, Clarence McSpadden, James Cole, George Mann, John McKinnis, Harry Fredericks, Gladys Hanley, George Hoogland.

THE NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTERS ARE BUSY

A LITTLE LAUGHTER

Started Something
Here is the original of all mother-in-law stories in the world: As Mr. Caveman was gnawing at a bone in his cave one morning, Mrs. Caveman rushed in and said, "Quick! Get your club! Oh, quick!" "What's the matter?" growled Mr. Caveman. "A saber-toothed tiger is chasing mother," gasped his wife. Mr. Caveman uttered an expression of annoyance. "And what the deuce," he asked, "do I care what happens to a saber-toothed tiger?" —Selected.

He Heard the Kitten Bawl
Bobby, aged four, was playing with his kitten before the fireplace when it began to purr contentedly. The boy's mother was surprised presently to see her son grasp his pet by the tail and drag it across the carpet to the accompaniment of agonized protests from the unfortunate animal. "Bobby," she cried reproachfully, "you must not hurt your kitty!" "I've got to get him away from this fire," replied Bobby excitedly. "He was beginning to boil!" —Everybody's Magazine.

Old Stuff
Jones—Stevenson said, "A man should learn a little and spend a little less." —Yes, and these days it seems to be the idea to earn a lot and spend a lot more.—New York Sun.

Right
"Ave a bit of ketchup with yer rossidge, Sam?" "Not for me, thanks. Gildin' the lily. I calls it."—Humorist, London.

Too Fast for Him
There was a half-dressed look on the face of the recently arrived Scandinavian as he slowly discussed the peculiarities of the new language he had just been trying to learn. "Ave tank," he said, "dis country have funny language. Wan get her here, my sister say she too fast she must 'fast'. I go store to buy cap, and the clerk he say the color in dis cap it ban 'fast'. A man tell me to tie my 'arse 'fast' but the man, Aye, bought him from he say he already ban very 'fast' horse!"—Exchange.

As the People View It

Albuquerque, Dec. 30. Editor Morning Journal: It seems like time is appropriate for a word of caution in the selection of a new secretary of Associated charities, or by whatever name this work is known in Albuquerque. Hastily the last thing to be used in that choice. The time has passed for a city that hopes to maintain its self respect in its relation to the indigent to select an untrained individual for this work.

Anyone can give away the people's money. But how many know how to spend sparingly yet aid generously? The outgoing secretary has been quoted as saying: "There is no constructive program in charity work." That means a policy of "hand outs" of money, food and old clothes and a consequent multiplicity of special appeals for "special" cases which a proper manipulation of the "indigent fund" should make unnecessary. We grant the always possible exception.

The secretary should be a woman with large sympathies and good common sense. A woman because she can enter into the inner problems of the girls and women who are the greatest sufferers from poverty, and the danger of blackmail is reduced to a minimum.

She ought to be trained for this special work. Not long since a woman was recommended for this position in a Colorado city because she had been poor, and so could sympathize with the poor. The administration of public "charities" has come to be a profession and should be so considered for the sake of economy and real justice to the deserving poor. There are institutions which train these workers in the practical as well as the theoretical phases of their work, and there are organizations, like the American Red Cross, which have a list of competent trained and experienced people available for this service. Go slowly, study the local needs carefully and choose the individual upon whom this responsibility is to be placed, only after his qualifications of training, experience and personality have been thoroughly investigated. —U.S. VILLARS.

Grain.
Chicago Board of Trade.
Chicago, Dec. 30.—Grain markets were greatly unsettled today, breaking to a new low for the week early, only to move back to recover the loss later. The unsettledness apparently was a result of year end evening up. At the finish wheat was 1 1/2 down to 1 1/2 up. Corn was 1/2 down to 1/2 up. July 1 1/2 to 1 1/2. Corn closed 1/2 to 1 1/2 higher, oats varied from 1/2 to 1/2 to 1/2 to 1/2 advance, and provisions ranged from 1/2 to 1/2 to 1/2 to 1/2.

Scattered liquidation was on in the wheat market with a continuation of pressure from eastern buyers at the start. The reaction carrying the market to above yesterday's finish, was caused chiefly by short covering.

Trade was on a broad scale and fluctuations were sharp. At one time wheat was off 6 1/2 from the high of Thursday and July was off 4 1/2. December was the most erratic in the early dealings, touching $1.22 1/2, a break in the early trading to $1.23. The changes were so frequent that at times there was a difference of 1/2 between trades. About 100,000 bushels of wheat business quieted down somewhat with local shorts more inclined to take profits and even up for the start of 1923.

Closing prices:

SLAYER OF POLISH PRESIDENT IS GIVEN THE DEATH SENTENCE

Warsaw, Dec. 30 (By the Associated Press).—Nieuwadowski was sentenced to death today for the assassination of President Narutowicz. The trial began this morning, just two weeks after the assassination.

Polish law inflicts capital punishment only when the country is under martial law, and the court which tried Nieuwadowski, an artist, 55 years old, resorted to a statute which governed the Germans, when they were in occupation of Poland, namely, that the death sentence might be given as the punishment for political murders. The German law has never been formally revoked.

Nieuwadowski has long been regarded by his associates as unbalanced mentally. His act was ascribed to his disordered mind, not to a definite plot against the life of the chief executive.

Mr. Narutowicz had been president only two days when, visiting an art exhibition, he was shot by Nieuwadowski.

BURGLARS BUSY; TURN 3 'TRICKS' WITHIN 36 HOURS

Mrs. Green, Who Wrote Arizona State Song, Reported a Victim; Grocery Robbed; Trunk Is Stolen

That burglars in Albuquerque are busier than usual is indicated in the fact three burglaries were reported to the police as having occurred within 36 hours. The first was reported to have occurred late Thursday night. The second is reported to have taken place early Friday morning and the third late Friday night.

Mrs. Green, author of the recognized official song for the state of Arizona, is reported among the victims. According to the report made to the police, the morning house at 220 1-2 West Gold avenue was robbed Friday evening. The report submitted to the police is that a case of jewelry, valued at $1,000 and four in money, was stolen from Mrs. Green.

Mrs. Green stated that she saw the man who committed the burglary. She reports that the man must have slipped in through the back door and that she and two other women were sitting in the front room and that when she went in the back room of the apartment she saw a man shaking out. She described him as a man who had evidently been riding freight trains because of the grime on his face and hands. She said he was about 25 years old and very dark. Mrs. Green said she would be able to identify the man if he is captured.

The police made a very effort Friday night and yesterday to apprehend a man answering the description given. Their efforts were unsuccessful up to a late hour last night.

The police received a report last night that the Viaduct grocery at 555 South Second street was burglarized some time between 7 p. m. Friday and 1 o'clock yesterday morning. According to the report the burglars obtained $5 in money and took a number of Christmas presents, including cigars and a pocket knife, while the owner was out. The amount of stock obtained by the burglars will not be known until inventory is taken.

The police also received a report from Samuel S. Van Wagner that his residence had been burglarized some time Thursday night. The residence is a 314 East Cromwell avenue.

Van Wagner reported that the burglars stole a trunk which belonged to Victor Chavez. The trunk contained school books, clothing for a girl 13 or 14 years old. All of the school books had the girl's name written in them.

ENGLAND'S FIGHT ON FLIES IS SUCCESSFUL

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The reduction of the number of house flies from 100 to 10 in a conservatory, few have been accomplished in England through sanitation and health propaganda, according to a statement by Dr. E. Halford Ross, medical assessor at the ministry of penguins.

Dr. Ross toured the British Isles last summer, and in those places where previously there had been thousands of flies, they were conspicuous by their absence, he declares. Some out of the way villages and farm houses still sheltered the grubs and insects, but these locations were not numerous.

There has been a very great decrease in the figures on infant mortality as compared to 1919, and the improvement is credited by Dr. Ross to the relative absence of flies.

We aren't surprised that California voted for dry enforcement. There's a reason.—Columbia Record.

HEART DISEASE RANKS HIGH AS CAUSE OF DEATH

Great Deal Is Being Done in Eastern States These Days Toward Its Prevention, Report Says

(By DR. O. C. WEST)

A great deal is being done in the eastern states these days toward the prevention of heart disease. Heart disease has always ranked high as a cause of death. Today it stands as one of the chief causes. Yet there is no other common disease, unless it be cancer, whose cause and mode of action has been less clearly understood and whose prevention has been so little practiced.

The prevention of heart disease depends primarily upon the elimination and control of those factors which tend to damage the heart muscle and its associated parts. Damage to the heart may take place by an increased tax on the heart muscle occasioned by diseased condition of the blood vessels, or from the continued use of stimulants, but by the greatest cause is from the result of infection.

Important Causes. Infectious diseases are essential to the most important cause of heart disease and they are to a great extent preventable. Diseases such as diphtheria, scarlet fever, pneumonia, and syphilis, which are the most common causes of heart disease, are the result of infection. The prevention of infectious diseases by education, and by immediate isolation of early cases, detection by careful school inspection and alertness on the part of parents can not be too highly emphasized.

In this day of health education, the poisonous product of any fever, especially those incapacitating fevers, should be recognized as a danger to the patient for any length of time, may so injure the heart as to leave permanent damage. Persons suffering from diphtheria, scarlet fever, pneumonia, and syphilis are urged to observe a period of recuperation so that rejuvenation of the heart and the muscular system will take place. Return to work prematurely following illness may predispose to serious involvement of the heart.

During convalescence from diphtheria, scarlet fever, pneumonia, and syphilis, the heart muscle is weakened and the muscular system is damaged. The heart muscle is weakened and the muscular system is damaged.

Many of the deaths from diphtheria as reported in this office show that the immediate cause of death was in reality a damaged heart muscle. Several cases have been noted where children, while sitting at the breakfast table and died in a few minutes. It is a hard problem to impress upon some families the danger of heart failure, to say nothing of heart failure, to say nothing of heart failure.

Very few of us think of asking the physician to make a thorough examination of the heart before discharging an infectious case as fully recovered, and even less of us think of having this examination followed up or repeated at the end of 30 or 60 days.

There is no condition known so pitiful as that of a leaky, damaged heart which has passed beyond the stage of compensation and for which medical science can offer but little relief. When we realize that at the onset these cases were many times insignificant, we can appreciate what a little knowledge of prevention might have accomplished.

Nature Can't Be Overruled. After an acute illness, insist on knowing the exact condition of your heart. Your heart muscle is just as weak and flabby as the muscles of your arms and legs. Don't get impatient and try to hurry nature. It can't be done safely.

THREE BASKET GAMES ON TOMORROW IN Y GYM

There will be "open house" at the Y. M. C. A. throughout the day tomorrow. In connection with this, three games of basketball will be played. Two of the games are to be played in the afternoon and the other will be staged at night.

The big affair will be the annual match between the "Bald Heads" and the "Youngsters." Each year a team of veterans, who back in the late 80's and early 90's played some sort of an affair which was probably the foundation of the present loop game, mingle with the youngsters. And the "Bald Heads" sometimes spring a surprise on the youngsters.

The "Baldheads" and youngsters will meet in one of the afternoon games. The other game on for the afternoon is between two teams of 70 pounds from the Junior Y. M. C. A. class. These are the smallest boys in the organization.

At night the fast Harwood Boys school will take on the Older boys of the Y. M. C. A. Harwood looks to have the edge in this game as several of the boys on the Y team are with the High school squad but are not quite fast enough for the first team.

MOTOR OFFICIAL VISITS EUROPE TO ATTEND SHOW

Claude Sauzedde, designing engineer of the Maxwell Motor Corporation, has returned to the local office of the company after a trip of two months to England, Belgium and Switzerland, during which time he attended the London automobile show and visited leading motor car manufacturing plants of England and the continent.

Mr. Sauzedde reports extensive recent activity among manufacturers of France, Belgium and Italy in developing chassis to a tendency on the part of English builders to give greater emphasis to fine coach work. In chassis design, England offers nothing particularly new, he asserts, while leading continental makers have adhered to a conservative policy of mechanical advancement, not dissimilar to the course pursued by those American manufacturers who have wished to keep their products thoroughly modern without resorting to frothy experiments that might prove costly to the car owner.

European roads, which have long been regarded as far superior to our own, can no longer lay claim to this distinction, according to Mr. Sauzedde. He states that the heavy truck traffic during the war has caused the deterioration of many of the highways, and most of the European countries have been unable to keep roads in repair. During the same period, American roads have been rapidly improved and are given constant maintenance care.

That improved roads here might mean changed design in certain features of motor car construction, is one possibility expressed by Mr. Sauzedde. He believes that only a few American manufacturers have shown in the design of their cars that full cognizance has been taken of the improved highway conditions which we now enjoy. In this respect much can be learned from European motor car builders who long ago adapted their products to take full advantage of improved road conditions.

MAC-DRY STORAGE BATTERIES NOT AN EXPERIMENT

The Mac-Dry automobile and radio storage batteries are not an experiment by any means. This particular type is a time tested and tried out storage battery. It is not a so-called "experiment" to be tried out at the expense of the motoring public. In California, where the Mac-Dry factory is located, motorists are reporting four and more years of continuous service without even having to recharge their batteries from outside sources. This battery has been on the market for nearly six years and during that time it has met with very few changes, while it has been subjected to many severe tests and tried out under severe working conditions—always proving its merits.

Within a period of six months or one year, Mac-Dry storage battery service will be obtainable in all large cities where owners will be assured of FIRST CLASS STORAGE BATTERY AND ELECTRICAL SERVICE.—Adv.

UNIFORM WARNING BY TRUCK SIGNALS IS STRONGLY ADVOCATED

C. S. Mott, vice president of General Motors is a strong advocate of uniform warning signals in connection with the operation of motor vehicles.

"With the increasing frequency of interstate truck operation," says Mr. Mott, "and the fact that passenger cars often make long tours, some exact standard in warning signals is absolutely imperative. It is hard to understand why there should be any great difficulty in unifying practice. The men in the freight yards at San Francisco can handle freight in New York and vice versa. A brakeman on a through freight does not have to learn local signals for every town, or even every state, that he passes through. The signals trouble and annoyance, and even for danger."

"Experience in driving, all over the country, convinces me that the system of signals in use on the Pacific coast is the most logical and reasonable one. There is no chance for misunderstanding and I should be glad to see them adopted as the standard for the entire country. As it is now, there are important differences in the form of automotive traffic control used in the different centers; this makes for trouble and confusion, and even for danger."

"It is of course out of the question to utilize the familiar safety devices used on the railroads to control the movement of traffic. Neither the highway nor the city street lends itself to the operation of block signals. What can be done, and what should be done as speedily as possible, is to secure uniformity of warning signals given by operators of motor vehicles, passenger and commercial, and uniformity of traffic direction and regulation by traffic officers the country over."

"General Motors is always deeply interested in anything that will lead to the greater safety of automobiles."

PRESIDENT HARDING PRESENTS DIPLOMAS TO CONTEST WINNERS

Sponsored by the Colorado congressional delegation, Mrs. Anne Rogers, a teacher of Sterling, Colo., was received at the White House recently and presented by President Harding with a diploma of honor in recognition of her success in having contributed the best safety lesson submitted in a teachers' contest conducted as part of the 1922 national safety campaign. At the same time J. Schuyler Loomis, 14 years old, Linerick, N. Y., winner in a safety essay contest, conducted by the National Grange, was presented to the president and received a certificate of merit. He was sponsored by members of the New York congressional delegation.

The presentation exercises culminated a week's entertainment in honor of Mrs. Rogers and the New York boy, provided by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce which gave Mrs. Rogers $500 in cash and the expenses of a trip to Washington, and Mr. Loomis a gold medal and a trip to Washington as tokens of their success.

Dr. John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, made a brief speech introducing to the president the winners and those accompanying them. Dr. Tigert is chairman of the Highway Education board, which conducted the contest, and is now concluding a second national safety campaign.

Mrs. Rogers was presented by Senator Lawrence C. Phillips and Representative Charles E. Timmerlake of Colorado. Mr. Loomis was presented to the president by Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and Representative Luther W. Mott of New York. The president congratulated the winners, and in behalf of the Highway Education board and the National Grange presented them with their diplomas.

THE COOPER MOTOR COMPANY MOVES TO LARGER QUARTERS

Sales and service for the famous line of Chevrolet cars after January 1st will be located at 211-213 North Fourth street, the old Southwest Motor Company stand.

The new location, larger and better equipped, and shop will enable the Cooper Motor company to even better serve their customers than heretofore. They cordially invite the public to visit them in their new home and to inspect the New Superior Model Chevrolets. It is surprising that even the Chevrolet Motor company, the world's largest manufacturer of standard quality automobiles, can produce so much automobile for so little money.

TELLS YOU

This is the seventh of a series of specially prepared and illustrated articles showing the ordinary automobile driver how to locate any engine trouble

How To Test Your Engine To Find Spark Plug and Valve Trouble

Last week you were shown how to test the Ignition System while the engine is running. We assume you have tested this, and found that it is all right, so now proceed to test the Plugs and Valves.

1. Take off all nuts from the tops of the Spark Plugs, but leave the wires resting on the Plugs. If you have quick detachable terminals on the Plugs this will not be necessary, so—

2. If you have a four or six cylinder engine, then lift off all Spark Plug wires BUT THE ONE ON THE PLUG IN THE CYLINDER NEXT TO THE RADIATOR, taking care to ground the end of each wire as you take it off by laying it in contact with the metal cylinder. As you take off each wire, you will notice that the engine slows down, so after you take it off, move the throttle lever up a notch to keep the engine running at a moderate speed. Now you have the engine running on No. 1 cylinder only. If No. 1 cylinder fires regularly, replace the wire on No. 2 Plug, THEN remove the wire from No. 2 Plug. If No. 2 cylinder fires regularly, replace the wire on No. 3 Plug THEN remove the wire from No. 2 Plug. If No. 3 cylinder fires regularly, replace the wire on No. 4 Plug, THEN remove the wire from No. 3. If No. 4 fires all right, then replace the wire on No. 5 Plug and remove the wire from No. 4 Plug. If No. 5 fires all right THEN replace the wire on No. 6 and remove the wire from No. 5. If the engine STOPS when the wire is left on ONE PARTICULAR PLUG, then replace ALL wires and start the engine again and continue until you have tested the other cylinders. If you have an eight or twelve cylinder engine, it will not usually run on one cylinder only, so test each cylinder separately by opening the Priming Cocks just a little, until you hear the sound of the explosion. Do not open the Cock wide open, as you are not able to test as well as you can by opening it just a little. If the cylinder is firing you will hear a good "crack" and if you look down will see a flame. After opening up a Cock, take a wooden handled screw driver, then short the Plug by connecting the top of the Plug and the Cylinder with the metal part of the screw driver. This will instantly show you the difference in sound between a cylinder that is firing and one that is not.

If the engine STOPS ONLY WHEN THE WIRE IS LEFT ON ONE PARTICULAR CYLINDER, OR MISSES AN EXPLOSION NOW AND AGAIN ON ONE PARTICULAR CYLINDER ONLY. See A.

If, however, the engine fires on EACH cylinder when tested separately or if it does not fire very regularly on ANY of the cylinders then—Get into the car and drive it along the road, noticing which of the following agrees with the way it performs—

If the engine misfires at LOW SPEEDS ONLY or if it WILL NOT RUN SLOWLY WHEN IDLING, yet runs alright at speeds of 15 miles an hour and over, see article eight next week.

If the engine misfires or hunts at MEDIUM or HIGH SPEEDS, or if it WILL NOT ACCELERATE or STOPS ALTOGETHER WHEN YOU TRY TO SPEED UP, then see article nine which will appear two weeks from today.

A

1. Take out the Spark Plug and see that it is clean and that the gap is correct. It should be just a trifle LESS than the thickness of a WORN dime. If the Plug is covered with an OILY, BLACK GUMMY deposit, and you have been keeping the oil in the crankcase at the proper level, and using the correct grade of oil, about the only cure is to have new Piston Rings fitted and the Valves ground in. If, however, the Plug is covered with a DRY BLACK deposit like SOOT, your Carburetor is adjusted too rich, have it cut down to run with a leaner mixture. If the Points are WET, you either have a leaking cylinder head gasket or a cracked cylinder, which allows water to creep into the cylinder.

One of the best ways to clean Spark Plugs, is to soak them in a mixture of alcohol and kerosene all night, then in the morning the carbon on the porcelain can be rubbed off with a piece of rag. NEVER use emery cloth or sandpaper to clean the porcelain. It has a highly glazed surface that is easily scratched. When the glass becomes roughened, it quickly oils up again. The points of the Plug and the metal parts can, of course, be cleaned with a piece of emery cloth.

Examine the porcelain carefully to see if it is cracked. If it is then fit new Plug.

If the Plug APPEARS to be all right, then screw out a Plug from a cylinder that you KNOW is firing regularly, and put it into the defective cylinder and test the cylinder again. If the engine now fires on the cylinder, it proves that the first plug, although it appeared to be all right, is defective and must be replaced. If, however, there is STILL no explosion then—

2. Examine the Valves in the defective cylinder to see that the clearance (as shown in Article Five, No. 8) is correct. If all right, then—

3. Start up the engine and watch the action of the Valves in the defective cylinder, to see if the bottom of the Valve Stem follows the top of the Valve Tappet. If the Tappet comes down and the Valve follows a little later, the stem is sticking in the guide, showing it has warped. If it is sticking try and free the Valve by squirting a little kerosene down the Valve Guide when the engine is running if possible. If, however, the Clearance is all right and the Valve shows no signs of sticking then—

4. Test tension of the Spring on the Valve to see that it is not too weak. To do this insert the blade of a screw driver between the coils of the spring while the engine is running. If this causes the engine to pick up speed, the spring is weak and should be replaced. If, however, it makes NO difference then—

5. If you have a detachable cylinder head on the motor, examine to see if the gasket is blown out at any point. If it is blown INSIDE the head it will affect the TWO cylinders between which it is blown.

TRUCKS GREAT FACTOR IN THE MOVING OF SNOW

According to the best authorities, snow from 12 to 26 inches, if not too heavy, can be moved by motor trucks, with plow attachments, with excellent results. Trucks should be run on opposite sides of the highway for return trips and should not be operated at more than four miles per hour. A few men should be carried to shovel away the wet snow that piles up in front of the blade. While it is impossible to estimate what snow removal on the highway costs per mile throughout the nation, as a general average, upon the particular section referred to, which is typical, under the most severe conditions the cost ranges from $75 to $250 per mile, while in a milder winter the cost was but from $10 to $50 per mile. Certainly this is a very small cost in comparison to the needs of the nation for adequate highway transportation all the year, apart from the usefulness of snow clearance in helping to maintain improved roads.

EFFICIENCY OF SNUBBERS

Spring check leaves are excellent things, particularly for country driving. They are, in reality, snubbers, preventing up-kick, yet not curtailing the downward motion of the body of the car. Practically speaking, they are half-length, almost flat leaves, placed on the top of the springs. When the rebound comes they hold the body in gentle check and are ideal for fast going over a rough road.

NINE STUDEBAKER VETERAN CARS SCORE RECORDS

A remarkable test of motor car economy and reliability in which nine veterans of motor-dom participated, was recently held on the Pacific coast. All nine cars were Studebaker Big Sixes. Prior to the contest, they had covered, in every-day service, a total of 1,353,463 miles—an average of 148,185 miles per car.

Before the run the two "patriarchs" among the nine contestants showed mileage records of 250,000 and 351,000 miles respectively. The minimum mileage showed on the speedometer of any of the cars was 62,007 miles. The contest stands as the first of its kind ever held, and proved a practical and convincing demonstration of motor car stamina, reliability and economy.

The course of the run was from Los Angeles to Big Bear valley and return, a distance of 239 miles, of which 90 miles were over steep, rough mountain roads that necessitated stamina in every part. Each of the veteran cars reached every checking station on time, and only two failed of perfect scores, one having died in the gasoline pipe and the other requiring a slight adjustment of the brakes.

The veteran cars were taken from every-day service to enter the contest and were returned to their owners immediately after the run.

Curiously enough, the two cars which had covered a mileage of 250,000 and 351,000 miles respectively had been subjected to perhaps the most severe service of any of the nine in the contest. These two cars make two round trips daily between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara. Both registered perfect scores in the contest of veterans.

The car with the 350,000 mile record took second honors in economy among the nine contestants. The highest economy record was scored by a Big Six which had 95,000 miles to its credit.

AUTO OPPORTUNITIES

NEW AUTO MODELS FOR LOCAL SHOW WILL BE HERE

Members of Albuquerque Automobile Dealers' Association Preparing for Big Show in February

Most of the members of the Albuquerque Automobile Dealers' association report that the new models they have ordered for the sixth annual Albuquerque automobile show which will be held in the national guard armory here February 8, 9 and 10, are already on the way. Each dealer will endeavor to display the particular models of his lines that have never before been shown here in addition to the standard 1923 number of his make. Only American cars will be displayed at the show.

"The sixth annual show will be entertaining as well as instructive," said Guy Lauderbaugh, president of the Dealers' association, yesterday. "There will be something new going on all the time. The entertainment will have to go some to be better than that of last year, but the committee in charge has promised that it will be."

He explained that a different program would be presented each afternoon and evening of the show, and that there would be dancing to the music of two orchestras each evening, something new for Albuquerque. The armory will be decorated by Dave Rittenhouse in the colors of the association.

Mr. Lauderbaugh stressed the point that although the entertainment feature would be the talk of the town for months to come, the real purpose of the show was to display every make of automobile sold in the state on the same floor so that the prospective purchaser could make comparisons that would lead him to select the car that best met his individual needs.

"There isn't a car sold in Albuquerque that isn't a good car," said a member of the association Saturday. "But every purchaser has certain driving conditions in mind when he picks his car. Some cars are better for certain jobs than others. Some are more economical under certain conditions than others. The auto show will enable the man in the market to determine by actual comparison exactly the car that best fills his requirements."

Photograph before the executive offices of the White House following presentation exercises of diplomas to Mrs. Rogers and Mr. Loomis by President Harding. Mrs. Rogers prepared the best lesson in a national safety campaign conducted by the Highway Education board. J. Schuyler Loomis wrote the best essay in a contest conducted by the National Grange. Prizes in both contests were given by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

SPECIAL HUPP MODELS ACHIEVE INSTANT SUCCESS

The reception accorded by the buying public to the specially equipped Hupmobile touring and roadster models announced in November has been so enthusiastic that it has already been found necessary to devote nearly 50 per cent of the Hupmobile open car output exclusively to these two models.

This announcement was made last week by O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car corporation. Owing to the rapid sales of both models, numerous distributors from various sections of the country have besieged the company at Detroit to increase their allotments at once.

Equipment on both cars includes nickel-plated radiator, radiator cap and bar, cowl lamps, barrel head lamps, aluminum scuff plates, disc wheels and a special imported Burbank top in dark brown. The roadster also carries the additional equipment of nickel-plated bars on the rear deck and a tilted tire carrier. Otherwise, both cars are the same as the standard Hupmobile models.

"Both cars," Mr. Hutchinson says, "have met a ready response from that increasing class of buyers which seeks the specially equipped models."

A SUGGESTION
When putting the car away for the night, back it into the private garage while the engine is warm. A car is hard to handle when cold and to back through a narrow driveway when leaving the garage is not an easy task. Drivers would find it worth while to do the job under the most suitable conditions.

TO ELIMINATE NOISES
Bothersome rattles may be quickly overcome by inserting pieces of rubber between the two vibrating or chafing surfaces. An old inner tube can be used for this purpose.

FEDERAL AID FOR GOOD HIGHWAYS TO BE CONTINUED

The National Motorists' association, which through its legislative board, has kept in close touch with the steps leading up to federal appropriations for good roads, is glad to report that there will be no lack of money or authority for the approval of highway projects during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924. The agricultural appropriation bill, as just reported to the house of representatives, makes provisions as follows:

For federal aid, $20,300,000; for forest roads and trails, $2,000,000; for the expenses of the bureau of public roads, $475,489; total, $22,775,489.

The federal aid road act authorized a total expenditure of $65,000,000 for federal aid purposes during the fiscal year in question. In appropriating but $20,300,000 of this amount the appropriations committee specifically authorized the secretary of agriculture to approve federal aid projects representing the balance of this sum, or $44,700,000.

The language of the bill in this connection reads: "The secretary of agriculture shall act upon projects submitted to him under his apportionment of this authorization, and his approval of any such project shall be deemed a contractual obligation of the federal government for the payment of its proportional contribution thereto."

The director of the budget, in the estimate submitted by him to congress, recommended an appropriation at this time of $30,000,000 for federal aid purposes, but the committee reduced this by $700,000. The amount provided for forest roads and trails is the same as estimated by the director of the budget.

This, according to N. M. A. good roads experts, will allow the various state highway departments to outline their 1923 state highway work with the assurance that federal aid projects can be completed as contemplated.

TIMELY TIRE TIPS
Use tire chalk.
Keep inflated to proper pressure.

Do not fasten chains too tight or to a spoke.
Repair all small cuts in tread as soon as they occur.
Protect spares by covering casings and folding and wrapping tubes.

Keep rims touched up with special rim paint or graphite and shellac.

Protect carefully from gasoline, oil, grease, kerosene, light and heat.
Carry portable vulcanizer, blow-out patch, tire sleeve, chain tool, jack, valve caps, insides, etc.
Avoid sudden strains, such as skidding, letting in clutch too suddenly, jamming brakes on too hard, etc.

THE MAXWELL TAKES OVER THE CHALMERS MOTOR CAR INTERESTS

Announcement is made from Detroit that the powerful Maxwell interests are now in full control of the Chalmers Motor Car company, having taken over the physical properties of the Chalmers. The business of the Chalmers company will go on as in the past. In other words, the production and sale of the Chalmers Six will be continued.

The plans of the new owners of the Chalmers properties are already well matured. They provide for a development of the Chalmers along the same sound lines that have been pursued in the Maxwell business during the last two years.

The purchase of the Chalmers means that it will now get the benefit of the experience, resources and vision of the same organization which has made the Maxwell such a success since the organization took over the Maxwell properties some two years ago.

Distributors and dealers, by wire and by mail, have expressed their enthusiasm to the Detroit executives, over the constructive outlook. Plans are for a greatly enlarged Chalmers production and the fullest possible use of the extensive Chalmers manufacturing facilities, which are said to be among the finest in the industry.

BUICK CARS FOR 1923 BUILT ON PREVIOUS RECORDS

One of the reasons why the 1923 Buick fours and sixes are such remarkable values is that in them Buick 20-year experience has borne fruit. Into the new cars have been incorporated the things that have contributed to Buick quality in other years along with the latest development of engineers and designers who for years have been devoted to the building of better cars. That Buick quality has been consistent over a long period of years is evidenced in these experiences of owners of various models.

IN RESISTANCE TO SKIDDING
When caught out on a wet highway without chains, it is advisable to let out a portion of the air to give the tire more traction and to give the time more traction surface, and in this way the tendency to skid will be lessened, although it will not eliminate the danger of skidding.

A SAFETY PRECAUTION
Before cleaning or washing the outside of the engine with kerosene or gasoline, disconnect the battery and be sure that all electrical contacts are dead. If this is not done a short circuit may occur and cause fire.

FRANKLIN CAR'S RECORD IN JAPAN

According to a cablegram just received at the factory of the Syracuse, N. Y., a Franklin car has just set up a new Japanese record, having negotiated the 130 miles from Tokyo to Myonoshita and return in the time of 41.6 miles per gallon of gasoline. The run was conducted by the Japan Advertiser, the principal American publication in Japan, the trophy consisting of a beautiful silver cup. The Franklin car was piloted by a representative of Fraser & company, Franklin representatives in Japan.

Miss Kametoko Kawamoto, a social worker in the service of the Tokio municipal government, has applied for membership in the newly organized Kakuhehin club, she being the first woman to apply for membership in a political organization.
