(Toose of Maryland)
By George H. Givan.

We're with the boys, the soldier boys
Far across the briny sea;
We're with the boys, the soldier boys
As they fight for Liberty.

We're with the boys when they depart,
We're for the boys with throbbing heart,
With all the help we can impart—
With the boys across the sea.

We're with the boys, the soldier boys
As they wave Old Glory dear;
We're with the boys, the soldier boys
As they charge without a fear.

We're with the boys when bullets pour,
We're for the boys when cannon roar.
If battles rage from shore to shore—
With the boys across the sea.

We're with the boys, the soldier boys
In the hardships they endure;
We're with the boys, the soldier boys
Endless freedom to secure.

We're with the boys to avenge the wrong,
We're for the boys to help the throng
To sing the world's redemption song—
With the boys across the sea.

COLLINS-LECK

Friday night, at the foot of the bride's parents, on North Grove street, at 8:45 P. M., occurred the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Leota Leck.

Rev. Reverend Sefford pronounced the marriage between the lady and man in the presence of only the two witnesses and the mayor of the town, who was present to perform the ceremony, which was witnessed by many of the residents.

These young people are both well known in Carlsbad, Miss Leck being a graduate of the high school with the class of 1910. A remarkable record of her school days is recorded at this time, as an attendance of twelve years at school, a record that is probably unequalled in the town.

Mrs. Leota Leck is a sister, industrious man, clerking in the Lock Grocery store at the present time. He may safely predict success for himself in the future, and is growing with an unusual number of those qualities which make a happy and useful married life.

May their lives be full of loving service to others, for only in so doing will they have found happiness.

Attention is called to the pretty and charming figure of two boys who expect to leave Monday for New York to attend school. The boys are very anxious to close the coming school term and are impatiently waiting for the next opportunity to be near the number of cars needed.

"Somewhere in France," the papers

Men are fighting night and day.

To defend the cause of the innocents.

To crush the tyrant and land

And give to the world a lasting peace.

Someone at home, many miles away.

Your love, your prayers, your good wishes.

And all the dangers and hardships of the front.

Beneath their burden, do not forget

Dark hope in their lives the races they wear,

For loved ones who perished "over there" do not forget

God will not to woman all the tears

Of grief and courage is but her tears.

Somewhere in Hell there is a place waiting and waiting and night and day.

For those who plucked the human flower.

Into this cruel and bloody fray

Who sought to drag all nations down.

To grant a deaconess grant

And Satan's mission will be complet.

When he sees them writhing at his feet.

(That has been read on the battlefield—No Man's Land.)

Ames, Texas July 29.—The question has been raised regarding the possibility of the country being invaded by enemies, against lines by fire during government control. General Order No. 24, issued by the Director General of Railroads, provides that the government will carry the risk. It is the present intention of the government to invest in the proposed contracts with railroads companies appropriate provisions for the protection of the line of the railroad in case of a war. This would include a contract by the government to enter into the contract with railroads companies.

The Little Dry Ranch. There is lots to do when you are on the ranch. And come in blue.

Because you have lost a cow.

But that's nothing to be worried about.

They are dying in their prime and the hens and cows are fed on the old home place. They are all raised by the farm family.

And our neighbors, R. R. Harkey, has lost his last hen and he is going to raise them again.

Even to the little horse.

The whelp is shipping out.

They are being sold to good homes.

And this year was too dry to raise the wheat.

But let us live and cheer.

How France Has Been Fed

"Before the war, a distinguished French Officer, General Maitrot, wrote a series of articles in the 'Echo de Paris' to warn France, that in case of war, the French meat industry would be unable to supply the French army in the field with fresh meat,—owing especially to the lack of modern refrigerating plants and of refrigerating transportation,—and too, owing to the deficiency in the national bard."

"Since the war began the French army has never been supplied with fresh meat, nor with fresh meat, owing especially to the lack of modern refrigerating plants and of refrigerating transportation,—and, too, owing to the deficiency in the national bard."

The foregoing statement was made by a representative of the Allies now in the United States.

Another representative of the Allies said recently:

"that the American packers have been of the greatest possible assistance to the Allies and have, by their efficient cooperation, contributed, in the utmost degree to the successful prosecution of the war."

"The mon stationed at Camp Sherman will be among the best shoe fighters in the entire world. An experienced test to find the average site and the length of the shoes used and the amount of leather consumed showed that by using a device known as the Sauce and distributing the shoes are made more comfortable for the men and leather is saved. Here is shown the device being put to practical use. Each man wore two pairs of wool socks when fitted for the shoes."
