THE THIRD DAY

Largest Crowd in History of the Association Present Today.

A GORGEOUS STREET PARADE

Again Albuquerque's Base Ball Representatives Were Defeated by Gear's Team.

PROGRAM FOR THIS EVENING AND TOMORROW

This is a red letter day for the city of Albuquerque. The principal streets this morning saw a moving picture of humanity. The trades parade was witnessed by thousands of people from every part of the southwest, and was a credit to the city in every way. This afternoon the fair grounds are crowded with people, watching the best game of base ball ever played in the territory, and numerous races and other amusements. The festivities of the day will not close until midnight. Everybody is thoroughly enjoying the big fair.

THE GRAND PARADE.

Viewed by Several Thousand People Who Lined the Thoroughfare Along the March.

The trades display and parade of the twenty-second annual fair of the New Mexico Territorial Fair association was started promptly at 11 o'clock this morning, and will go down in history as the longest, best and most brilliant pageant ever seen in the territorial metropolis. Col. John Borradale was the grand marshal, and followed by a platoon of city policemen on foot, he, with A. J. E. Elder, led the big parade throughout the line of march in good order.

The first regiment band discoursed music for the fore part of the procession.

Then came the Grand Army of the Republic well represented by a large number of old veterans, who still were well ranked with the marching delegation of the grand parade. Isaac Jackson, a well known colored veteran, carried the tattered and torn grand old flag.

The Albuquerque guards preceded the Fourteenth United States cavalry and showed up prettily in their dress parade uniforms.

The Fourteenth cavalry, the bronzed soldiers of the plains, mounted on their fiery steeds, riding erect in the saddle, gave the spectators an opportunity of viewing the present cavalryman as he appears in the fort on the plains.

Montezuma has arrived and appeared in the parade, perched on a venerable bald eagle of immense proportions. The float was done in blended colors, shaded from brown to green. Although he wore gorgeous garments and a gilded crown, his identity was discovered. Thomas S. Hubbell, sheriff of Bernalillo county, fills the position of his majesty admirably. His court followed on horseback.

The stalwart, muscular warriors, rich and showy in their gaudy finery, the traditional war paint and feathers did justice to the brave as he appeared on the frontier in by-gone days. Civilized clothing and all its accompanying effects were discarded, that once again we might see the great warrior as he is pictured.

Miss Mabel Hunt, as Queen Tecolco, as she rode stately on a beautifully arranged float drove in pink and white and surrounded by a court of pretty young ladies, formed a very pretty picture. Queen Tecolco will receive in state at the Alvarado hall and reception this evening.

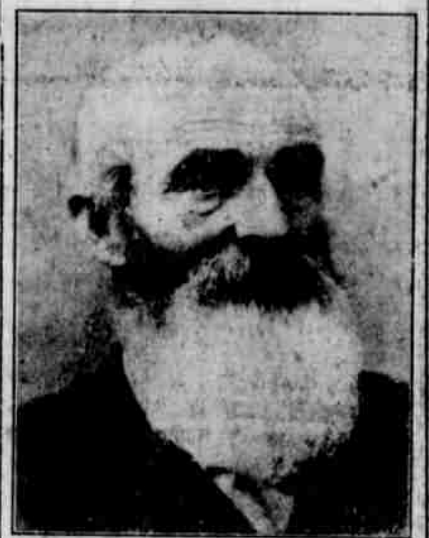

A very beautiful decorated carriage covered with white and purple flowers driven by Mrs. Judge Baker and Mrs. Solomon Luna occupied a prominent place among the carriages of prominent ladies.

Miss Hattie Kunz and three pretty maidens, neatly attired in snow white gowns, riding in a single turnout festooned with flowers of pale green and white, attracted the attention of the multitude that thronged the streets and viewed the procession.

Flowers of crimson and black covered the carriage occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barnett. The manner of the decorations showed that choice efforts had been employed in the decorations. D. Weiller & Co. had a very neat and attractive single turnout.

Mrs. C. A. Hudson, Mrs. B. E. Fillmore and two children appeared among the procession of carriages in a carriage of a striking and pleasing effect of white and pink roses.

E. L. Washburn and wife drove tandem in a very pretty and attractive single turnout, decorated with flowers of black and white. It was among the best decorated floats in the flower parade.

W. H. Hahn, the prominent coal dealer, accompanied by his wife, showed his spirit in the procession by a creation of white and purple flowers which decorated his carriage.

Mayor C. F. Myers and city officers rode in the procession in carriages, and were followed by the fire department.

The brave and congenial boys of the fire department spared no efforts in making their display one that the city has every reason to feel proud of. The hose wagon and two hook and ladder wagons, decorated with patriotic colors, gave them prominence.

The University of New Mexico was represented by a large wagon loaded to the guards with young men. It was neatly decorated in loyal colors, an emblem of old glory forming a center piece. The occupants of the wagon entertained the sightseers with college songs as the procession passed by.

The Albuquerque public schools were led by a Chinese float decorated with red, white and blue streamers, followed by hundreds of school children on foot who left the parade at the corner of Gold avenue and First street. Professor Stroup followed in the rear of the children looking after their welfare.

The next was the float from the Presbyterian mission school for boys. It was conspicuously decorated with loyal colors and was loaded with boys. Mr. Ross, superintendent of the school, did the driving.

This division of the parade marched to the music of the Italian band, who presented a pleasing appearance in their striking uniforms of blue striped in gold.

The Elks came next and did things up brown as they usually do. They had a beautiful float of purple and white. Two members of the noble herd, reared up as if by motion of magic, over an emblem that is a watch word, "11 o'clock lunch." On the white sides of the float in large purple letters was B. P. O. E.

The eagles soared high with their magnificent float of the world. An eagle was perched on the top, with its large wings spread for flying. This was drawn by four large, beautiful black horses, led by four Uncle Sam's banners representing justice, liberty, truth and faith, were held by four ladies dressed as goddesses. The float was complete and above criticism in every detail.

A big log with two axmen hewing its sides in an unnatural manner, represented the Woodmen of the World. It was quite appropriate.

The Hall & Leonard band, in costumes of white, gave the throng of spectators rare selections of music as they passed with the procession.

Then came the United Commercial Travelers in an old stage coach drawn by mules. Stone, the candy man, was on top.

Sol. Weiller made his appearance in the parade with a well decorated float. Lion coffee, gold coin flower and numerous other indispensable household articles sold by L. B. Putney, the wholesale groverman, decorated a handsome float which attracted considerable attention.

W. V. Futrell made a pretty display of carpets and rugs, a large float covered with rugs of brilliant colors, demonstrated that an artistic taste had been displayed in preparation.

The Southwestern Brewery & Ice company, with a line of beverages that are adapted to the tastes of the most exacting, occupied a prominent position among the leading industries of the city.

The display of Melini & Eakin came next, and "Yellowstone" occupied a most prominent position on the wagon.

The Imperial laundry was represented by three wagons, a new red wagon and two decorated wagons. They attracted considerable attention and showed enterprise.

A fine line of groceries were displayed on a large float of the Gross, Kelly company. The second float drawn by four yoke of oxen was loaded with large bales of wool. The float was decorated in a most artistic and striking manner.

The Wool Scouring Mills' float was one of the best floats in the parade. The sides of the float were covered with white wool, with the name of the mills neatly set in black wool. Inside rode about twenty girls employees of the institution.

J. F. Palmer, the dealer in groceries and feed, made an appearance representing to a good advantage his excellent line of goods.

Gust Gustafson, with a unique and up to date carpenter shop decorated with prominent colors made a pleasing display. This float was greatly appreciated by those who recognize skilled workmanship.

J. Korber & Co., the carriage manufacturers, were next in line with an excellent float representing the business it represents.

William Farr, the butcher, came next, being represented by several small boys riding burros, and having strings of bologna on the pomel of the saddles.

Norris & Rowe's dog show paraded with the grand parade, adding to its completeness and variety to the various displays.

The chariots drawn by Shetland ponies, dog police patrol fire department, elephants and the animals of every description was a most pleasing feature, and was enjoyed by the crowds who thronged the streets.

Indian curios, blankets and rugs, artistically displayed, formed a representative float for the Hyde Exploring Expedition. Thirty-five mounted plainsmen, also formed a part of their representation in the procession.

The Santa Fe exhibit of the carpenter department was an industrial department that had its attractions. A box car in course of construction on a large float, with two busy carpenters sawing and pounding a good representation of the Santa Fe's public spirit.

The San Juan delegation was next in line with twenty-three wagons and conveyances.

The Awards.

Immediately after the parade, the judges, Charles Savage, of El Paso; W. E. Martin, of Santa Fe, and H. M. Dougherty, of Socorro, met and awarded the prizes as follows:

For the best float and display, only one prize, to the Elks, $50.

For the best decorated private turnout, everything to be taken into consideration, first prize, $30, to Judge B. S. Baker; second prize, $20, to E. L. Washburn. The committee recommended for consideration the Eagles' float and the private turnout of Joe Barnett.

As announced elsewhere in today's Citizen, the great aggregation of "stars" representing Albuquerque

Captain Chance desires to redeem himself and associates in today's game and last night concluded to try the great Callahan, who did fine work for the Chicago American league team. Captain Gear has Gibson, the wonder, in the box for his aggregation, and the match promises to be a battle royal this afternoon.

EL PASO AGAIN.

Albuquerque Goes Down to Defeat in Second Game of the Series.

Wyatt Lee against Kid Nichols on the rubber promised to make things lively for the lovers of base ball who attended the ball game yesterday, and while each done his full duty, and just as well as was expected the former gets the credit for a game won, but by no means better work. Nichols pitched just as good ball, but the yellow, inexcusable errors behind him gave him the short end. In Tuesday's game Tinker, the short stop for the Albuquerque team, put up a magnificent game, but yesterday's exhibition would have been awful for corner lot ball players. He is credited with five errors out of seven chances. He is a star of the first water, but the "off day" fever struck him. Jimmy Williams also had an error that cost a run, as did center fielder Bay. Unless the Albuquerque boys take an unexpected brace El Paso will take away a bunch of easy money. The team work of El Paso is perfect and they are also hard and timely hitters. Every man knows what to do and when to do it, and what is more it is always done.

There were no particularly startling plays made yesterday with the exception of the hit that Farrell knocked down and then threw the batter out at first. He covers acres of ground.

The following is the tabulated score of the game:

FINE RACING.

Ed. Winship Wins Unfinished Trot—Roswell Horse Wins Running Race.

In the unfinished 2:13 trot, Ed Winship won the last and deciding heat, taking the last heat in 2:27 1-5; Nancy King second and Dudley Egmont third.

2:25 Pace—This brought out the following horses: Bonnie Treasure, Pay Day, Capt. Carey and Minnetonka, Fair Medium having been scratched just before the race. In the draw for positions Pay Day got the pole, but he was not a close competitor and in the third heat was badly distanced. The result of the race was as follows:

Minnetonka 1 1 1
Bonnie Treasure 2 2 2
Capt. Carey 3 3 3

Time—2:37 1-5, 2:27 1-5, 2:25 3-5.

Three-quarter Mile Dash—The entries were Lady O'Farrell, R. Q. Ban, Mistletoe and Gillespie. The latter horse had the pole, and although pressed by Mistletoe, Lady O'Farrell was in too fast company, and came very near being shut out. Time, 1:20. The winner, Gillespie, is a Roswell, and was driven across the plains several hundred miles, arriving here in time to enter in the running event of yesterday. To beat some of the crack gallopers from Colorado was indeed quite an honor. The "farmers," as the experts from Colorado called the Roswell owner of Gillespie and his associates, won quite a big pile of money on the Roswell racer.

3:00 Minute Trot and Pace (for New Mexico horses)—The entries were Milton S. McGinty, William T. and Dr. Gordon. In the draw for positions McGinty got the pole. The summary of this race was as follows:

Dr. Gordon 2 2 2
McGinty 3 3 3
William T. 4 4 4

Time—2:40 1-5, 2:41, 2:46.

A pony race, of no special interest, ended the horse racing of yesterday afternoon.

CAVALRY DRILL.

A Grand Exhibition by Troop F, of the Fourteenth Cavalry.

A fine exhibition of cavalry drill was witnessed yesterday afternoon by the hundreds of spectators who were so fortunate as to attend the fair.

The Fourteenth cavalry, under command of Captain Walker, commenced the drill with the extended order or skirmish line. After marching the entire length of the arena the troops dismounted and advanced on foot to the line of firing. Lying flat on their stomachs the command to fire was executed. The loading and firing of the men in this position was performed with rapidity and would have no doubt been effective had the real bullets been used.

It was amusing to see the crowds scattering at the first charge. Returning to the horses and mounting the troops executed the same command to the right and left. The quickness with which the troops dismounted, advanced to the firing line, returning, mounting and forming the line showed the result of thorough training in the art of cavalry drill.

The next feature of the drill under command of Lieutenant Reed was the Cossack riding, the troopers standing erect in their saddles with stirrups crossed. This was very interesting and extremely exciting. The spectators showed their appreciation of this skilled feat by spirited applause.

Roman riding, one man standing on two horses was a feat that brought admiration and exclamations of pleasure from the crowd. This exhibition was performed with the perfect athletic skill, the riding being very fast and in a circle. Each man mounting his own horse a wheel was formed, one-half of the troop facing the rear riding around a pivot.

Each successive command showed a feat that required more skill than the others.

Throwing the horses was an achievement in which the thorough training of the horses was demonstrated. Some difficulty was experienced in getting all the horses down at the same time, but every horse was made to lie down before the command to rise was given. The manner in which a horse is thrown is by placing a strap around the left foot, pulling it up until the horse makes up his mind to lay down. As the horse goes down the rider steps off. Every man was mounted when the horse rose to its feet.

The riding standing command was given again. The troops forming squads, and coming into line saluting the officer in command.

Notwithstanding that the men or horses had drilled for over two weeks, and that the nine days' march had produced a bad effect on the condition of the horses, all the commands were executed in a manner that showed skill in horsemanship and the thorough training of the horses.

The troop has been practicing bareback drilling and if another call is made upon them to give an exhibition drill during the fair, the people will no doubt be treated to some fine drilling of this kind.

NAVAJOES PLEASED.

Horse and Foot Racing on Railroad Avenue—Midway Attractions.

The city took on a lively scene last night. Large crowds visited the Midway and very few "rubbernecks" were present. The attractions did a good business. Little Egypt, pure and simple, and Little Egypt, "the only original," furnished amusement for the unmarried men. The "Hindoo Wonder" received due attention. Mont Pelee deserves notice. It is really the most interesting feature on the Midway, and is receiving due attention from the visitors. Music by the band.

The Indians appeared on the streets promptly at 8 o'clock, and amused the crowds for more than an hour. The dances were similar to those given last year but not as many red men participated. The foot race, 150 yards, in which about a dozen bucks participated, was all right, regardless of the fact that they did not get off in a bunch. "Ahead of His Horse" led the first bunch to the string and "Running Deer," a little buck with a stub nose, beat out the second bunch. The visiting ball players acted as judges, but had some trouble making the dinky plainmen understand their base ball gib. To make the race more interesting the base ballists took up a collection of $10 and donated it to the winner of the two leading bucks, who ran by themselves for the "ten." Grady and Kling held the string, Nance held the stakes and Bay told the winner how to divide the money so the chief wouldn't get 90 per cent of the proceeds. "Ahead of His Horse" won in the final, but would have been beaten had the other buck a longer nose.

Then came a contest without a name, between Indians afoot and Indians on horseback. The daredevil manner in which they ride and handle horses is a wonder. One red man bit the dust. He attached himself to the tail of a bronco going at full speed. But the horse was too fast, although he held on some little time. When he did let go, he was going so fast the road flew up and hit him. He was a brave buck and as there were a few squaws present and "Hit the Grit" picked himself up and again joined in the fun. The big dance will come off tonight.

WILL BE REPEATED.

Interesting Military Drill Again Saturday Afternoon.

An exhibition drill of the Fourteenth cavalry will be repeated at the fair grounds. As the maneuvers yesterday were only a small part of the skillful exercises, the people no doubt will have the opportunity of witnessing a performance of bare back riding which is very difficult and demonstrates the training in horsemanship and also the perfect training of the horses.

ELKS' DAY.

An Interesting Program of Events for Friday.

Friday, "Elks' Day," will be the day for fun. Although the crowd won't be as large as today, it will be considered one of the big days. The whole town will keep open house. At night ladies will be allowed to view the interiors of the gambling houses, learn the games and try their luck if they wish. The confetti battle, which will begin with the setting of the sun, will be sport for the boys and the girls and the old and young people who choose to join in the fun. A smoker will be given at Colombo hall and some of the best athletes of the country will be present.

The Midway attractions will open at 9 o'clock.

1:30 p. m.—Horse racing will begin at the fair grounds.

2 p. m.—Base ball game.

4 p. m.—Bronco busting. A nice lot of outlaw horses have been secured and the sport will be royal.

7:30 p. m.—Carnival night; Elks' parade, assisted by 200 Navajo Indians; confetti battle; everybody masks; town will be wide open to everybody; this is the night that everybody goes. Be sure and get your share.

9:30 p. m.—Mask ball at Colombo hall. (Mrs. Somers has 1,000 costumes here from Denver, which she will rent from 50 cents up for this occasion).

7:00 to 11:00 p. m.—Amusements on the Midway.

The confetti battle will be fierce and fast and rage into the middle of the night. Enjoy yourself.

Everything wide open, except your mouth. Confetti night, saloons and places of gambling will be open to the ladies who desire to accompany their husbands or escorts through the saloons or club rooms, but all will be under careful police surveillance.

The maskers and dancers will meet at Colombo hall at a seasonable hour.

POLICE COURT.

W. J. Meyers was before the police judge this morning charged with forging W. W. Strong's name to a check. He waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury.

L. S. Herran, a common drunk and nuisance, was given five days. He was only released yesterday.

Three vagrants who were begging on these streets were locked up for five days each.

Theodore Garcia, Jose Pasey and M. Duran were fined $3 each for celebrating too lively. They were unable to stay sober long enough to see all the show.

SETTLEMENT

Anthracite Coal Strike May Be Ended Soon.

PRESIDENT DOING GOOD WORK

Mitchell, Strike Leader, Recommends Settlement of Trouble.

FIERCE BATTLE IN VENEZUELA.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 15.—The information from Washington early this morning is that both parties to the controversy in the anthracite coal strike had reached an agreement to arbitrate and that the great conflict is about to close, was received throughout the entire hard coal region with the greatest satisfaction. When the information was received from the national capital about 1 o'clock this morning that an agreement had been reached by the representatives of both parties to the struggle, there was only a score of newspaper correspondents and a few stragglers at strike headquarters. District Presidents Duffy and Fahy were in the hotel, but could not be seen. President Mitchell arrived from Washington nearly half hour after the information was received and he had little to say on the outcome.

After a short conference with Secretary Treasurer Wilson, who met him at the railroad station, Mitchell retired, and was in his office again by 8:30 o'clock this morning. To a delegation of reporters who called upon him, he said he would have nothing to say until after the meeting of the district boards. He would not make a prediction as to what the three district boards would do.

Mitchell Issues Statement.
Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 15.—At 9:55 a. m. President Mitchell issued the following statement:

"Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 15.—Appreciating the anxiety and impatience of the public and mine workers for some authoritative statement from this office, I issue this bulletin to say that I was unalterably opposed to the acceptance or acquiescence in the form of settlement proposed by the coal operators because it rested with the president of the United States in making the selection of men who were to determine the questions involved in the coal strike. These restrictions having been removed and representation given to organized labor as well as to organized capital, I am now prepared to give my personal approval to a settlement of issues involved in this strike by the commission selected by the president and shall recommend to the executive officers of districts Nos. 1, 7 and 9, in their meeting today, that an immediate call be issued for a convention, whose authorization is necessary to declare the strike at an end.

"In the meantime, I trust the people of our country will be as patient as possible. We are moving as rapidly as the interests of our people will permit. (Signed)

"JOHN MITCHELL,
President United Mine Workers of America."

Fierce Battle in Venezuela.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Wednesday, Oct. 15.—The battle near La Victoria, Venezuela, between the army commanded by President Castro and the revolutionary forces, which began Monday morning and resulted in the retirement of President Castro to La Victoria Tuesday afternoon, was resumed again fiercely at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning. At that time the president had received reinforcements and had over 6,000 men engaged against 5,000 revolutionists.

TRAIN WRECKED.

The Las Vegas Excursionists in a Wreck on Giorietta Hill.

The Santa Fe excursion train reached Albuquerque at 11 o'clock this morning with several hundred people aboard, but the excursion train from Las Vegas is scheduled at the local depot to reach the city between 2 and 3 o'clock this afternoon. The cause of the delay is a wreck to the engine of the train on the Giorietta hill. The engine flew the rack and tumbled over. One report is to the effect that the engineer and fireman are both seriously injured, if not fatally, and another report is that they jumped just in time to save themselves. Passengers all safe. This delay will, no doubt, prove a great disappointment to the excursionists from Las Vegas, as they miss the big trades' display and parade, and a major part of the interesting events at the fair grounds.

SOUTHWESTERN Brewery and Ice Company

INCORPORATED 1885

The first brewery in Albuquerque was built by Ferdinand Selva, in 1885, and two years later the Southwestern Brewery & Ice company was organized and incorporated to succeed to the business. In 1889 and 1890, respectively, Jacob and Henry Loeb, formerly of the great breweries of St. Louis, came to Albuquerque and purchased the local brewery.

The plant was originally small, but its capacity was adequate to every demand, and it was not until after the Loeb became interested in the business that it grew to proportions demanding an expansion of facilities. In 1898, less than ten years after they purchased the original plant, the Loeb laid the foundations for their present imposing buildings, and the old brewery and ice plant were abandoned immediately upon completing and equipping the buildings.

As it stands today, the brewery is the finest in the southwest. It has a capacity of 40,000 barrels of beer per annum, and the ice plant has a capacity of thirty tons a day, besides refrigerating the company's cellars, etc. The buildings are handsome brick structures, resembling the great breweries of the east, and the equipment is modern throughout. A bottling plant is maintained in connection, and has a capacity of a thousand bottles per hour. A feature of this plant is the new automatic bottle washer, by means of which 30,000 bottles a day may be thoroughly cleansed. This machine washes sixteen bottles at a time, and was installed at a cost of $500.

The brewery and ice plant, with the grounds, cover more than half a block, and, being immediately on the railroad track, are advantageously situated for forwarding. The company receives patronage from all over New Mexico and Arizona, and the item of transfer salvage is an important consideration. Beer and ice are shipped as far as Kingman, Ariz., on the west, south to El Paso, Deming, Silver City and Tucson, and north into Colorado.

In view of the fact that many brewers, owing to the high price of malt, substitute inferior ingredients, it is well to state that the Southwestern Brewery & Ice company does use malt and rarely has less than 1,500 bushels on hand. No adulterants are used, and the result is apparent in the brew, which is of clear amber color, of superior flavor and of the highest grade of excellence.

The process of brewing is no less interesting than instructive, and, as the general public is not informed on the subject, it may be well to present an explanation herewith. The process begins in the brew house, which, in the instance of the Southwestern Brewery & Ice company, is a three-story structure. On the top floor is a mill for grinding the malt; immediately under this is the malt hopper, beside which is a hot water tank, and below these is the mash tub, which has a capacity of 126 barrels. The mash tub is on the ground floor, where are also the engine and a large kettle.

After the malt has been ground, the water in the hot water tank is heated and a certain portion turned into the mash tub. The mash machine is then started and the proper amount of ground malt is let in through the hopper, which communicates with the mash tub. After about a half an hour of stirring with the great steam rake, which is the feature of the mash machine, the mash is allowed to settle. After an hour more water, of a higher temperature than that first admitted, is let into the mash tub, and the mash machine is started again. This time it runs only a quarter of an hour, after which the mash is heated by steam to its final temperature. The mash machine is then put in motion for another twenty minutes, after which the mash has a rest of an hour. The malt "wort," or extract, is then pumped into the brew kettle, in which there is a steam coil, and after being boiled for two hours and a half, hops are added in three different portions. After the boiling is finished the mash tub is cleaned out, and the hop wort is drawn off into that receptacle, from which it is pumped up to the surface cooler, in an adjoining structure, and thence to what is known as a haudelot cooler.

From the coolers the liquid passes to the settling vat, which is on the fourth floor of the main structure. When it has thoroughly settled it is drawn off to the fermentation vats on the floor below, where the temperature is a few degrees lower than on the fourth floor, which is kept at about 44 degrees F. There are a great many vats in the fermentation room, filled with beer in the various stages of fermentation, and as rapidly as the liquid is thoroughly fermented it is drawn off to the Ruh vats on the second floor, where the temperature is still lower, for maturing. From this room the beer passes to immense vats in the cold storage room, on the ground floor, where the temperature is only a few degrees above freezing. These vats contain about 75,000 gallons of beer, and are the source from which the supply is drawn for the daily shipments and deliveries.

The entire process, from the brew-house to the cold storage cellars, requires about six months, practically all of which time is spent in the maturing vat. The quality of the brew is determined not only by the ingredients and the proportions in which they are mixed, but, as well, by the temperatures maintained during the various stages of the process.

The company brews three or four times a week and fully two-thirds of the output is shipped to points outside of Albuquerque. The leading commercial brand is "Pilsener," and it has a wide sale in Albuquerque, being handled by the Alvarado and other fine bars of the city, besides being sold extensively to the family trade; but the Bavarian and Bohemian beers brewed by the company are quite as popular among connoisseurs, and "Culmacher," a very dark beer, is extensively used as a tonic.

The new ice plant was built the present year. A fine "Vilter" compressor has been installed. Double distilled water is used for making the ice, and the blocks are frozen in deep cans of 400 pounds capacity. The cans are submerged in brine through which ammonia pipes are run, and a traveling crane is run over the cans to lift them when the blocks are solid. As above stated, the capacity is thirty tons a day besides the refrigeration of the company's cellars.

Jacob and Henry Loeb are natives of Bavaria, but have been in the United States since boyhood. They are experienced brewers and do their own brewing. In a few years, by industry and honorable dealing, they have built up a business that covers the entire southwest with its trade, and, beginning with a primitive plant, have erected a modern brewery and ice factory valued at upwards of $100,000.

WILLIAM FARR.

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Fresh and Salt Meats.

William Farr conducts the largest wholesale and retail meat business of any butcher in the southwest. He established his business in 1889, and since that time has built up a trade that demands the best of facilities. Accordingly, he has spared no expense in the equipment of his place, and there is not another establishment of the kind in the territory that compares to the shop and factory he conducts at 217 South Second street.

Some idea of the magnitude of Mr. Farr's business may be had from the fact that, to supply his trade requires the slaughter of eighty fat hogs, 150 sheep, 150 hogs and as many veal calves as he can buy every month. At the present season New Mexico range stock supplies the demand for cattle, but during the greater part of the year hogs are shipped in from other states. The sheep are all grown in this and adjoining counties. Hogs and calves are bought both locally and are shipped in from other places, in instances remote from Albuquerque.

Mr. Farr does his own slaughtering, and has a slaughterer situated on the outskirts of the city. It is provided with every appliance for handling the hogs, sheep, hogs, etc., and the utmost regard for cleanliness is observed from the time the animals are slaughtered until the meats hang in the refrigerators at the shop. After ten days in cold storage, meats are ready for the block, and the tenderest viands of prime beef, mutton, pork and veal are sold right in Mr. Farr's shop.

Besides the fresh meats above noted, Mr. Farr has venison, other game, poultry, fish and oysters in season, and carries all kinds of smoked and cured meats, sausage, etc. All smoked and cured meats sold are the product of his own smoke house and curing room, and he has a steam sausage factory of large capacity. He also makes his own lard, which is put up in tin buckets, bearing his name. He makes a specialty of this product, in which his business is so large that he maintains a box factory, where cans and buckets are boxed for shipment. His finer grades of lard are equal to the best brands of commerce. He will make a specialty of mince meat during the present fall and winter.

Mr. Farr's shop is exceptional in many respects. The average butcher shop has the odor of the meat, whether tainted or fresh, and if it is not offensive it is nevertheless pronounced. There is no odor to be detected in his shop. Everything is kept immaculately clean, and the effect is to remove all factory evidence of the meat shop. The refrigerator is both the finest and the largest in the territory. The forward section has a capacity for half a car of meat, the middle room accommodates twice that quantity, and the rear compartment will hold a half car of pork. All meats are brought in through the back and are placed in position in the refrigerator by being suspended on hooks attached to rollers on overhead rails and being pushed along until the desired spot is reached, where they are left.

William Farr is a native of Missouri, but lived nearly all his life until he came to Albuquerque, in California. He has been here for twenty years, and during that time has built up a trade that covers the entire territory and a portion of Arizona. He is a man of praiseworthy public spirit, and takes the initiative in all enterprises designed for the public weal.

MISS CLAUDE ALBRIGHT.

Albuquerque's Sweet Singer Delighted Her Friends Last Night.

A select and music loving crowd were in attendance at Miss Albright's concert last night. Miss Albright sang the beautiful ballad "Annie Laurie" in such a way that showed her voice was grand in its strength and rich in tone. Then Miss Albright sang "The Rosary," and it was pleasing even to the uneducated ear for music. Then came the encore and the hearty enthusiasm showed the appreciation of the audience and the singer was gracious. She sang "La Paloma" in the Spanish and threw into it all the spirit which rendered it sublime in its effect.

"La Favorita," from Domizetti, and Guonod's Serenade were sang by Miss Albright with the violin obligato. In the tambourine song from "Carmen," which she repeated at the request of a number who heard her in the concert given a few weeks ago the strength and sweetness of her magnificent voice was shown.

Miss Albright gives a convincing proof of the dramatic power of her voice.

Albuquerque has every reason to feel proud of this brilliant singer, and more so as her future unfolds.

Miss Albright was assisted last night by Mrs. John Douglas Walker, accompanist; Prof. Di Mauro, violin; Mr. John Douglas Walker, tenor, and Mr. Edward F. Thomas, basso.

"Spring's Awakening," by Dudley Buck, and a double number, the "Total Eclipse," from Handel's Somson, and "Without Thee," a song by Guy Del Hardelet were sung by Mr. Walker.

Mr. Walker appeared twice during the evening in solo, and each time was received with appreciable enthusiasm and he responded to encores.

A pleasing feature was the ensemble singing of Miss Albright, Mr. Thomas and Mr. Walker.

This musical event will remain a memory of a most pleasing evening to those who were so fortunate in attending.

The events being played today are four in number, all singles. Stamm, of Albuquerque, against Davis, of Las Vegas; Brooks, of Albuquerque against Raynolds, of Socorro. Newman will meet Hollister and Avery will play Rolls. The latter two are from Roswell.

Fine Copper Ore.

The Jerome copper mines have a fine display of pure copper ore on exhibition at the Floral hall. The mines are located six miles west of San Acacio, N. M. The specimens on exhibition are from 65 to 90 per cent copper, 3 ounces gold and 20 to 40 ounces silver. There is about 900 pounds of ore in one exhibit which is attracting much attention. Mining experts speak favorably of the prospects of the mine.

The owners of the mine, J. M. Wilson, M. Thomas and J. Johnson predict a large output of ore in the near future.

L. E. Carey, Proprietor.

There are at present about a dozen horses in the livery department, together with all the vehicles and paraphernalia necessary for their use, including road wagons, single buggies, phaetons, two-seaters, etc. Boarders are also kept by the day, week or month, at reasonable rates, and receive careful attention. Feed is sold and horses traded.

Mr. Cary came originally from Independence, Kan., where he was engaged in farming, and before opening the Silver Avenue stable, ran a livery establishment on Gold avenue. He is a thorough horseman, and keeps only good stock. He expects to enlarge his stable in the near future and add a number of horses and new rigs. FAIR NOTES.

Bearrup Brothers & Co., wool pullers, tanners and manufacturers of leather and fur goods, have a prettily arranged booth at Floral hall which is attracting considerable attention.

The articles exhibited by Bearrup Brothers are productions of one of Albuquerque's newest and most promising industries. They are showing leather articles of all kinds. Special attention is called to the ladies' capes and muffs displayed.

Swift & Co., the big wholesale meat house, has a very neat and attractive booth at the fair grounds. The decorations are yellow and black.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 people were handled by the Albuquerque street cars yesterday to and from the fair grounds in an admirable manner. The service, with the equipment, could not have been better. Those who walked did so from choice. Col. A. A. Trimble, the superintendent, knows his business.

The marshal and police force are handling the crowd in a way that is commendable. All the suspicious looking travelers and individuals who over-reach their capacity are put out of the way of the crowds who do not take advantage of the privilege granted them.

Commercial Club Dance.

The 1902 social season of the Albuquerque Commercial club was opened last night at their elegant club house with a brilliant ball. Seldom does it occur that such a large number of beautifully gowned ladies and handsome gentlemen in conventional attire meet at the social functions of the southwest.

The reception and floor committees were at their best. The reception and ball rooms were neatly arranged at every appointment. The music was the best to be had. Ping pong and billiards furnished some amusement.

The grand march was led by Governor M. A. and Mrs. Otero and the long train of dancers which followed was composed of some of the most distinguished people of the territory.

Refreshments were served by waiters in full dress.

Those present from out of town were: Governor and Mrs. M. A. Otero, territorial Secretary J. W. and Mrs. Reynolds, Major W. H. and Mrs. Whitman, of Santa Fe; Colonel Van Houten, of Raton, a member of the governor's staff; Major J. H. and Mrs. Van Doren, Mr. and Mrs. Keenan, of Rockaway, N. Y.; Attorney H. M. Dougherty, of Socorro; Division Superintendent I. L. Hibbard, of Winslow, and the visiting base ballists and their wives.

Alvarado Electric Fountain.

The beautiful silvery sprays falling at the Alvarado fountain was the center of attraction around the hotel last night.

It was a perfect golden stream in its effect. There are fifteen sprays in all, seven on the outside circle, eight on the inside and one center. The rays of light of eight powerful reflectors gave the fountain the appearance of a silvery stream.

Today the devices for throwing the colored lights and powerful reflectors will be put in place.

This evening the fountain, which was very attractive last night, will be a spectacular sight of rare beauty.

A special telegram from Pueblo, Colo., says: Wiley M. Weaver, while riding in from work on horseback last night was thrown to the ground and sustained a severe wrench and sprained his right wrist and forearm. No bones were broken.

William E. Martin, the crack shot from Santa Fe, gave an exhibition of his skill with a rifle in front of the crowded grand stand, after the cavalry drill yesterday afternoon. As per program his shooting was fancy. He used a 22 calibre rifle and shot at tin cans, small glass balls and objects not larger than quarters, which were thrown in the air.

Mr. Martin's skill with the shooting irons is very fine, and his exhibition of shooting powers was appreciated.

A Switchman Injured.

Wm. J. Joy, a switchman in the local yards, met with quite a severe accident while standing on the street in front of the Alvarado hotel watching the parade. One of the high floats caught in some of the electric light wires, which released one of the heavy iron lamps, which was suspended over the middle of the streets, and it swung back against Mr. Joy with great force, hitting him in the mouth, cutting it and the chin very badly. Fortunately Dr. Elder was standing near at the time and he took Mr. Joy into the Alvarado pharmacy and dressed the wounded man's cut and bruises, having to take several stitches in his upper lip. Several others were struck by the falling lamp but not severely injured.

A Correction.

Regardless of the fact that the Colorado Fuel and Iron company has raised the price of anthracite coal 50 cents a ton at their mine at Madrid, W. H. Hahn, proprietor of the Cerrillos coal yards and local agent for the anthracite coal, says that the raise in Albuquerque will only be 25 cents per ton. He states that he has secured an ample supply for the winter and that there is no danger of the $2 raise scare being realized.

GEORGE WRIGHT KILLED.

He Was a Resident of Santa Fe for Four Years, But Left for Alamosa.

A dispatch to the New Mexican announces that George Wright, formerly of Santa Fe, was shot and killed at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning in a saloon at Alamosa, Colo., where he was running a roulette wheel. Three robbers entered the saloon about that time and with cocked revolvers held up the fifteen men who were engaged in playing faro or roulette or were on-lookers. It seems that Wright knew two of the robbers and they shot and killed him instantly in order to prevent detection and upon the principle that dead men carry no tales. After committing this murder, taking the money on the gambling tables and robbing every man in the saloon the robbers mounted horses they had in readiness and departed from Alamosa. A posse is in pursuit.

Wright was well known here. He married a young woman named Francisca Rodriguez, a native of Santa Fe, and a member of a good family.

Wright came to Santa Fe from Keokuk, Iowa, and was a graduate of a law school. He left the capital last spring, after having been there about four years. He went to Antonito, and had only been in Alamosa eight days. His widow is in Alamosa.

The body of the deceased was taken to Santa Fe yesterday and was buried this morning.

"Deacon" Sanford Dead.

"Deacon" Josiah Sanford, an old time resident of El Paso, Texas, who was for ten or twelve years the steward at the Zeiger Cafe in this city, died Friday night at St. Luke's hospital in El Paso, of dropsy. He was a well known man about town, and had a great many friends. His age is thought to be about 65 years. He always was called by the pseudonym "Deacon," and hardly any of his acquaintances knew his real name. He was a native of the state of Connecticut.

Prof. Tom Kinsley, of Denver who appears at Colombo hall on Thursday night, October 16, at the Athletic club smoker, arrived Sunday night. He will finish his light work here and says that he was never in better condition in his life. Those going to the smoker will be royally entertained. Tickets on sale at Matson's book store. Admission $1, $1.50 and $2.

WHITE OAKS MINE.

That Portion of New Mexico is Doing
Well at Present.

The development of the mining resources of Lincoln county since the advent of the Rock Island has been little short of a revelation. Consolidation is now the order of the day. The famous Old Abe mine at White Oaks, the South Homestake, near the same place, the Helen Rae, at Nogal, and the big Parsons group, on the Bonita, have been secured by the wealthy Eagle Mining & Development company, made up of Chicago and Iowa capitalists. An immense electric plant is to be installed at White Oaks, and power and light for all the mines will be furnished. Work is being done by the company on the four properties, and in each case satisfactory returns are being produced.

Splendid results are now being secured from the American mine at Nogal. The miners are now at work in a large body of ore, which averages $100 to the ton. Wire gold occurs plentifully, and several pockets of almost pure gold have been found.

In the Jicarilla district great activity is shown, and in every mining district of the county new mines are being developed and old ones reopened. People are pouring into the railroad towns. No part of the territory is making as rapid a growth as this county.

Paralleling the line of the El Paso & Rock Island railroad for a score of miles is the largest body of gypsum in the world. It is in the form of powdered sand, of snowy whiteness, which shifts in dunes and valleys before the heavy winds of the region. The "White Sands," as they are called, have been much talked about, but no practical use has ever been made of the deposits. But with the coming of the Rock Island the wealth contained in the snowy hills is to be utilized. At the little station of Ancho an immense cement plant is now being installed. The product will be prepared for plaster, stucco, cement, plaster of paris and building material. The gypsum is also to be hauled to Kansas in large quantities, to be used as fertilizer for the big wheat fields.

ALVARADO.

The City's Greatest Ornament—Museum and Indian Collection Rooms

Albuquerque has every reason to feel proud of the Alvarado, with its antique Spanish architecture, constituting the most unique and thoroughly equipped hotel in the southwest. All credit is due the Santa Fe, who so generously made Albuquerque the possessor of an institution of this kind, and under the excellent management of Fred Harvey it is complete in all its appointments. But their ambition was higher than the building of a beautiful hotel, and in consequence a building containing an unrivalled Indian collection and museum, which any of our great cities would be proud of, were installed.

Fred Harvey is to be complimented in collecting with judicious care, articles of such great rarity and variety, most of which some of our national museums would consider splendid acquisitions.

The collection rooms are unique on account of the artistic arrangement of a great variety of rare and valuable articles. This beautiful and artistic effect undoubtedly could only be obtained through selection from a large and valuable stock.

The arrangement of the general display room appeals to the artistic sense of every visitor. Large blankets of the characteristic designs of the Indians are arranged in a striking manner on the floor; large tables are covered with pottery made by the different tribes; the walls are adorned with rare old blankets, baskets, beaded wearing apparel, etc., so arranged as to make this room a most beautiful sight.

The next room which is of particular interest in this locality is the Spanish room, which contains articles of great value from old Spanish missions, old tapestry, swords, Maximilian china and many other articles used by the Spanish in bygone days.

A room containing relics from Samoa, Maori, British New Guinea and other of the South Sea Islands is a great attraction for those who are more familiar with our own Indian production.

Large cupboards filled with a great variety of Navajo blankets intersected by cozy corners decorated with Indian war bonnets, beaded leggings, wampum bags and other articles which at some time adorned the great warriors and their squaws constitute the artistic arrangement of the modern blanket room.

The beautiful decorations of the room containing old blankets, pottery, etc., is about to be despoiled to make a place for the Indian blanket weavers, basket and pottery makers, silversmiths and other skilled Indian workmen, who are to become an important feature of this department.

In addition to this there is the ethnological and archaeological museum, which contains specimens relating to the life and customs of Western American Indians, past and present, and also the prehistoric pottery and other articles excavated from the ruins of the Chaco dwellers.

The collection in the museum cannot be purchased. All these articles were carefully selected by Dr. Dorsey, the noted collector of the Columbian museum. The work of classification is now under way and when this is completed a printed catalogue will be issued describing everything in detail. New features will be added constantly.

The name Albuquerque is becoming identified with Indian collections and curios. The tourists who make trips of sight seeing through the southwest, leave the city carrying with them the memory of having seen the greatest collection of this kind in the world.

There is a collection of animals in Albuquerque today that do every thing but talk. Norris & Rowe gave the people here the first treatment for the circus fever that smites the city good and hard with the coming of the kind of weather that makes the clown wear his pajamas under his flowing garments and open the chestnut burrs. Apropos to the latter in connection with the circus, there is much that is suggestive of axiom first; still it is the circus, and the people go.

The Norris & Rowe circus of trained animals is a departure in some respects from the usual tented show. The animals are the stars as well as the lesser lights, and the best that can be said of the present circus is that it comes very close to delivering the goods advertised. The performance is one of real merit and unusual. The animals are splendid specimens of the kind, and are probably as perfectly trained as any ever seen in this city. The street display this morning was witnessed by thousands of people and was accorded merited applause. The show management joined hands with the carnival company.

Especially worthy of mention are the trained seals and the trick pony, Roseberry. The latter not only performs with the others in his class, but acts as their captain, showing perfect training and accord with the situation. The circus is a splendid exhibition of the intelligence and training of which the animal kingdom is capable, and is well worth seeing.

Only one performance will be given in Albuquerque this evening at 8 o'clock. Tents located at Railroad avenue and Sixth street.
