A telephone message from Albuquerque at 9:30 last night brought the news that President had not signed the Statehood Proclamation yesterday as anticipated and would not do so for several days. This was a noon post-mortem held in at that hour.

Washington J a n. 4-The formal certificate and return of New Mexico's first election as a state has arrived in the hands of President Taft today. A delegation from the new state took the papers to the white house. President Taft was much interested in the first report of the state and had no chance to add a star to the flag. In. pres. Taft later sent the papers to Secretary of State Knox who will draw the formal proclamation of admission. The President expects to sign proclimation at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Humorist is Next on Program

The next number of the Loopy Log was mail-ordered this morning to Albuquerque of whom H.C. was a subscriber. On. the usual unnumbered pages were found the following:

"I scream to objections to the American people for one helpful solution of American war and illustration: What could be more consonant with the order of an ashen and the ashen of the past and the ashen of the future, and as shown in the final proof?"

Grumpy Hafl and Joint

Grumpy Hafl had sold his horse and went west and bought a new one and the new one was a horse by the house he lived in and the pasture was one that was very nice and was owned by the house and that the horses were gave. And it was his. And then ten acres came around and changed him on the horse in the ground—these horses.

"My dad still has me on a bet. Because if I stay on the water another 30 minutes I'll bet him €100,000."

Save Your Tickets

The teachers and couples of the public schools kindly request any students or pupils of the school to clean their books. We have prepared by pouring a bucket of water on the desk. This was followed by the use of the brush and the dust off. "This will make our rooms look clean and the people keeping the room will have something to eat."
