ARIZONA FREAK LAW LIKELY TO CAUSE SERIOUS COMPLICATIONS

Great Britain and Italy Register Protests With State Department; Governor Hunt Postpones Action.

STATUTE CONFLICTS WITH TREATY RIGHTS

Secretary Bryan Has No Comment to Make on Situation and "Eighty Per Cent Act" Is Up in the Air.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
Washington, Dec. 5.—In the absence of official advice, Secretary Bryan refused to comment tonight on Governor Hunt's message announcing his decision to postpone the proclamation of Arizona's new anti-alien employment law pending further communications from the state department. Formal protests against the Arizona law were lodged with the department today by the British and Italian ambassadors and a message was sent to Governor Hunt asking if he had authority to postpone action. Mr. Bryan listened with interest to the text of the governor's reply as carried in Associated Press dispatches from Phoenix, but would not discuss the matter.

The British protest attacks the law as in violation of the Fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, which provides that no state shall deny to any person within its jurisdiction equal protection of the law.

The Italian protest cites the commercial treaty between Italy and the United States, ratified in 1871, which provides that citizens of each nation resident in the other shall have liberty "to carry on trade, wholesale and retail, to hire and occupy houses and warehouses, to employ agents of their own choice and generally to do anything incident or necessary for trade upon the same terms as natives of the country, submitting themselves to the laws there established."

England Wants to Know.
The note presented by the British ambassador sought information as to the exact status of British residents of Arizona under the law. It was stated that British consuls there had sent word that suits to test the legality of the act were contemplated by British residents.

In reply, the state department notified both embassies it had taken steps to obtain complete information as to the anti-alien act and expected soon to be able to furnish the desired information. As soon as the text of the Arizona law is available, it will be subjected to study by the department's legal advisers, who will also look into court decisions based on anti-alien enactments of other states, such as California, Oregon and New York.

PROCLAMATION HELD UP BY GOVERNOR HUNT

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 5.—Governor George W. P. Hunt telegraphed to the state department at Washington today that he was adverse to interfering with the operation of the Arizona "80 per cent law," which forbids the employment of more than one foreigner in every five employees in any business in the state.

The state department wired to the governor informing him that the ambassadors of Great Britain and Italy had protested against the law and asking him whether there were any means by which he could suspend the operation of the measure. The governor telegraphed the provisions of the law to the department and added: "I am directed to issue a proclamation declaring the measure a law forthwith, upon receipt from the secretary of state of a certificate from the election returns. Forthwith broadly interpreted means within the reasonable time required to prepare the proclamation. I am very much adverse to prolonging the period preceding the issuing of the proclamation, but I realize the international aspect given by the protest of the Italian and British embassies and will await further advice from the department."

AUSTRALIAN CRUISER IS REPORTED MISSING

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Berlin, Dec. 5 (by wireless telegraph to Sayville, L. I.).—Information given out to the press today by the German official press bureau says that according to a report by the Italian newspaper Corriere Della Sera, the Australian battle cruiser Australia, apparently is missing.

The Australia is a dreadnaught cruiser of 13,200 tons. She is 578 feet long, 79½ feet beam and has a mean draft of 27½ feet. She was built at Clydebank, in 1912, and is capable of traveling twenty-six knots an hour. The Australia carried eight 12-inch guns, sixteen 4-inch guns and three 21-inch torpedo tubes.

The Australia was last reported in Hawaiian waters last September when the Matson Navigation company steamer Wilhelmina picked up a wireless message from the dreadnaught that she was in full chase of the German cruiser Nuremberg.

FOREIGNERS IN KOREA MUST PAY CITY TAXES

(Associated Press Correspondence)
Tokyo, Nov. 5.—The abolition of foreign settlements in Korea which became effective on December 31, 1913, means that foreigners this year begin to pay a municipal tax upon their property. Hitherto foreigners were exempted from taxation. The budget of the government of Korea, or Chosen, for next year has been made up and will be placed before the cabinet in Tokyo. It has been framed upon the financial policy adopted by the governor general which is that of carrying out the independence of the finances of Chosen in five years.

Notwithstanding the increase of taxation there has been a diminution of revenue by $500,000 in the customs, railroads and posts and telegraphs, chiefly on account of the European war. Altogether a deficit of $1,250,000 must be made up, partly by economy in the expenses of various offices and partly by carrying forward to the future the redemption of some extraordinary loans.

In recognition of services rendered on the question of abolishing foreign settlements, the emperor of Japan has decorated the Russian, French, Belgian and Chinese consul-generals with the order of the Rising Sun. The American and British consuls who also helped in the work are not permitted by their governments to accept decorations.

YPRES WANT ONLY DESTROYED BY GERMAN SHELLS

When Plan of Capture Fails Invaders Concentrate Heavy Fire on Historic Buildings, British Say.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
London, Dec. 5 (8:25 p. m.).—The official "eye-witness" with the British army headquarters on the continent, in a narrative dated December 2, says that the destruction of the Belgian town of Ypres by the Germans suggests that it was "really the outcome of disappointment and exasperation at its resistance and at the failure of the much-advertised plans for its capture."

The writer points out that up to the end of October, the Germans had contented themselves with bombarding points where the British headquarters were believed to be situated and other places, such as the railway stations, where destruction would be of military value.

The shelling of the town itself began in earnest only on the night of November 3, since which date it was maintained intermittently. That the town escaped so long apparently was due to the fact that up to November 5, the Germans had counted on capturing it. Later the attacks were simply in the nature of forlorn hopes, the narrator says, which called for all the assistance that could be obtained by artillery co-operation even at the risk of the destruction of a historic place which might become German.

The last attack in force was delivered on November 17. Four days later the Germans commenced to pour a stream of shells into the central market place and whereas the Cloth hall and the cathedral both had escaped material damage till then, these two historic buildings were blazing before the day closed. In order to accomplish this, it is stated, the Germans brought up a train armed with heavy guns. After the Cloth hall and the cathedral were destroyed, the eyes were turned to the fire of the Germans no longer directed on them.

The writer states on good authority that the Germans remained ostentatiously in the town, and that the object of destroying German soldiers in the belief that Calais and Paris were in German hands.

A few minor local successes are recorded by the eye-witness. Both the French and British forces, he says, have advanced slightly and taken some German trenches.

SALAZAR HEADS NEW MOVEMENT FOR CONTROL OF WAR-TORN MEXICO

DENOUNCES CARRANZA AND GENERAL VILLA

Proclamation, Signed by Him and Campa, Is Received in El Paso; Orozco Is Also Again Active.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
El Paso, Tex., Dec. 5.—A new revolutionary movement has been started in Mexico, according to copies of a proclamation received here today and signed by Jose Inez Salazar and Emilio P. Campa, two former federal generals. They were reported at the head of troops in central Chihuahua and about to attack Casas Grandes, a strategic point southwest of Juarez and west of Chihuahua City.

The proclamation denounced both the Carranza constitutionalist government as established at Vera Cruz and the convention government, sustained by Villa. It was said that a convention form of government would be established by the new party, support in all parts of Mexico was claimed.

The document was dated at Vado de Piedra, Chihuahua, on November 25. This was a few days after General Salazar escaped from the jail at Albuquerque, N. M., where he was held on a charge of perjury. He previously had been detained at Fort Bliss, Texas, by the American military authorities.

Orozco Also Active.

Both he and Campa had been irregular chiefs under the Huerta government, together with General Pascual Orozco, who previously had headed a revolution against the Madero government. Orozco is reported in New York, conferring with agents of the former Huerta government, and it is asserted, attempting to purchase arms and ammunition. The new movement is denounced by both Villa and Carranza followers as a reactionary attempt.

The Villa commander at Casas Grandes, Colonel Manuel Ochoa, appeared today to the commander at Juarez for 500 troops to assist in defending the town, which contained a garrison of only 100 men. Juarez could not spare the reinforcements, and Ochoa was reported as preparing for evacuation. It was said that Salazar, with more than 500 men, was in the vicinity.

Villa Forces Depleted.

The Villa forces in northern Mexico have been depleted greatly by the movement of the convention troops into Mexico City, the garrisons left remaining, being only large enough to allow for police protection.

Together with the menace of the new revolt, Carranza agents assert that the Oregon and Gonzales troops are about to begin an aggressive movement along either coast and along the border. The Carranza element claims the seaports of Tampico, Vera Cruz and Guaymas, as well as all ports on the border east of Juarez. They expect to shut off communications into the interior and force the convention troops into their territory.

Shoots Self on Grave of Friend.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—At mourners turned from the grave of Richard R. Levin, buried at Oakwood cemetery today, Miss Maude M. Gregg, aged 29, shot herself and fell across the mound of freshly turned earth. She was carried to an automobile, which had been part of the funeral procession, and hurried to a hospital, where it was reported later she probably would die. Levin, who was 33 years old, and secretary of a roofing company, and a close friend of Miss Gregg.

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Chairman Ralph C. Ely of the republican state committee who was to have arrived in Santa Fe today, telegraphs that Mrs. Ely has been taken seriously ill and that therefore he could not come to the capital until next Saturday or later.

GREAT STORM RAGES OFF HAMPTON ROADS

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
Norfolk, Va., Dec. 5.—Hampton Roads was swept today by what was said to have been the severest north-east storm in twenty-eight years. A forty-two-mile gale lined the shores with small boats and a high tide flooded streets near the water front here and at Hampton.

Shipping suffered little damage. The passenger steamer Pennsylvania of the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk railroad fleet, crashed into the pier at Old Point Comfort and was slightly damaged. Two barges broke away from a tug at Lynnhaven inlet and one went ashore.

No loss of life has been reported.

FRENCH RECRUITS ARE NOW READY FOR ACTION

(Associated Press Correspondence)
Paris, Nov. 22.—The class of 1914 recruits called out two months in advance of its time, has now had three months of training and is reported by its commanding officers and instructors to be ready for action.

This, it is said, may seem a remarkably short time in which to whip into shape, discipline and accustom to the hard duties of a campaign, an army of 350,000 20-year-old men, but it is explained, however, that the material was excellent. Their fine physical condition is attributed largely to the development of sport. There are many indications that these young soldiers are now near the fighting line.

The recruits of 1915, called out one year before their time, have just passed the medical examination, but the year's difference in age does not show the anticipated difference in physical fitness. The proportion of accepted men will not fall far short of the proportion of the class of 1914. These soldiers will shortly leave to take the place of the preceding class in the instruction camps, and it is expected that they will be ready for active service by March.

SENT HOME FROM CLUB GIRL DRINKS POISON

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
Portland, Ore., Dec. 5.—Martha Fairman, a 16-year-old crack swimmer, drank poison and died in her room today after being sent home from the Multnomah club with instructions from the superintendent, Dow Walker, to bring her mother back to talk matters over.

This is the note she left:

"Mother Dearest: Don't take it hard. Go to Mr. Walker at the club. He will explain all. Yours, with lots of love to John, Papa, Bob and you, 'MARTHA'."

"John" and "Bob" were the girl's brothers.

Miss Fairman was an excellent swimmer and athlete. Last summer she won a marathon swim in a field of twelve, and she was popular among club members.

Complaints had been made at the club of thefts from lockers.

Carranza Makes No Move.

Vera Cruz, Dec. 5.—Gen. General Carranza reiterated his determination to protect the lives and property of foreigners in the territory which he dominates.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH BLACKMAIL BY MILLIONAIRE

Tables Turned on Supposed White Slave Victim When Accuser of Alexander Is Placed Under Arrest.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
Chicago, Dec. 5.—Miss Jessie E. Cope, accused of Colonel Charles Alexander, a Providence, R. I., millionaire, under the white slave act, was arrested here today charged with attempting to bribe government officials in Chicago to aid her in blackmail Alexander out of $50,000. Alexander, aged 45, and married, was arrested at Providence yesterday.

The public had its first view of the woman when she was arraigned before United States Commissioner Mason, who held her on the bribery charge and also as a witness against Alexander. She is 32 years old and a brunette, described by one of the government agents who related the bribe offer, as a "brilliant brunette beauty." She is of medium height and weight and as she appeared in court, was handsomely gowned.

Looking Into Motives.

Bench and bar, it was said, have been clamoring for a year or more for a more scrupulous consideration of motives behind complaints under the Mann act to discourage use of the law by unscrupulous women for blackmailing purposes. The district attorney's office, it was said, had held this object in mind in recent investigations. District Attorney Clynne is quoted as attaching great importance to the case because of Miss Cope, her reputed social prominence in California, where Alexander is alleged to have met her, and the wealth and prominence of the man in the case.

Mr. Clynne, Michael I. Igou, his first assistant; Milton G. Clabaugh, head of the local division of the department of justice and Lucien C. Wheeler, an agent working under Clabaugh, manifested studied reluctance when Miss Cope first brought her charges against Alexander before them.

Offers Generous Bribe.

In the end, according to a formal statement issued by Igou, she proposed, and formulated the proposition in a written agreement that if the government officials would assist her in extorting $50,000 from Alexander, she would give them half of it to be split among them. The other half of the sum she said she would keep, and out of it she would pay her attorney.

PREPARATIONS MAKING FOR ANOTHER GREAT BATTLE IN POLAND; LODZ BLOODIEST ENGAGEMENT OF THE WAR

GERMANS ARE FORMING NEW LINE FROM KUTNO TO CRACOW IN ORDER TO OPPOSE THE RUSSIAN ADVANCE

Kaiser's Forces Are Determined to Keep Hordes of Czar Out of Teutonic Country if Persistent Fighting Can Prevent Further Invasion; Struggle in France and Belgium Shows Little Change, Though Allies Claim to Have Made Some Gains; More Interest Now Centers in Lorraine and Upper Alsace Where French Are Pressing Home Assaults of Unusual Magnitude; Servians Receive Much-needed Assistance Against Austrian Advance.

Summary of War News of Yesterday

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
London, Dec. 5 (9:45 p. m.).—Although fighting has been renewed on both the eastern and western fronts, there have been no material changes in the positions of the belligerents during the last twenty-four hours. It would seem as though the vast armies have been engaged largely in making preparations for new battles.

Here and there heavy cannonades or infantry attacks have occurred, all of which, however, were more in the nature of feelers to try to find out the enemy's strength than a serious design in the way of an offensive or for the purpose of an advance.

In Poland the Germans, whose daring stroke to penetrate the Russian center apparently has ended in failure, with heavy losses, according to the latest reports from Petrograd, are forming a new line extending roughly from Kutno in the north to Cracow in the south.

The right, or southern wing of this army, which rests on Cracow, is commanded by General Dankl. He is supported on the bank of the Vistula by the army under General Hindenburg, which is based on Czenstochowa, while the new army which was sent from the west fills the gap between this force and General Mackensen's army which, after exhausting itself from the Russian meshes, is now in a new position extending from Kutno southward. The eighth East Prussian army presumably has taken up the northern part of the line.

Thus it will be seen that an entirely new battle is about to be fought, for the Germans are determined at all costs to keep the Russians out of their territory. The English correspondents are confining themselves to reports of the previous battle around Lodz, which is described as the most sanguinary of the war.

Interest Shifts to Lorraine.

On the western front interest tends to shift from Flanders to Lorraine and upper Alsace. There has been little fighting in that part of Belgium still held by the allies and the French have taken some old German trenches, which has given rise to the belief that the Germans have decided to fall back to new positions.

Operations of more serious import are taking place on the borders of Alsace Lorraine. In upper Alsace the French apparently have made considerable progress and they also are making desperate efforts to sever the communications of the German force which has been holding St. Mihiel, on the Meuse, for many weeks. Everywhere, however, since warfare prevails and for the most part the gains made extend hardly more than a hundred yards.

Bloodiest Battle of War.

Details of the Lodz fighting are beginning to filter through, and they easily prove it to have been the most bloody struggle of the entire war. The Germans are described as fighting their way through the Russian lines over the heaped-up bodies of their comrades. Berlin claims heavy captures of prisoners in this struggle, while from Kiev comes the announcement that the fortress there is crowded with German prisoners. Incidentally reports have been received that since the beginning of the war 130,000 soldiers and 2,500 officers have passed through Kiev as prisoners of war.

The Russians would appear not yet to have been diverted from their attacks on Galicia and the invasion of Hungary, but the fortresses of Przemyśl and Cracow still are intact and are likely to put up a stronger defense against the Russians than did the Belgian forts against the Germans.

An official report from Vienna admits that the advance of the Austrians had been prevented by violent attacks from strong hostile forces covering the Serbian retreat. No hint is given as to the identity of these forces, but the opinion is expressed in London that Russian aid has reached the sorely pressed Serbs.

operations in the eastern arena of the war has moved to the south of Lodz, in Russian Poland. The German effort centers at Bzeczow, twenty miles out of Piotrkow, with that town the objective. Heavy fighting is reported also along a line from Glogow, sixteen miles northeast of Lodz, to the Vistula river.

The strength of the German forces opposing the Russian left wing is estimated at five corps, each corps occupying a front from eight to ten miles in extent.

News dispatches from the front attribute the Russian success in crushing the German forces near Lodz chiefly to the magnificent endurance and tireless aggression of the Siberian troops.

Barzany to Kurpin, is described in the dispatches as a German graveyard. Here an unsupported Siberian battalion is reported to have charged a battery of heavy German artillery and to have bayoneted the guns. The dead and wounded in this district are reported to be so thick that the Russian hospital corps, after working three days, had not cleared the field. Most of the Germans treated, showed bayonet wounds.

The first blooded ruins of the village of Kurpin, dispatches from the front say, are packed with charred bodies of Germans who took refuge from Siberian bayonets in fall under the fire of a Russian battery.

Dispatches from Poland say that the German disaster, attending the march to reach the main German force from an isolated center, began with a charge of the Siberians at Bzeczow, a town six miles south of Lodz.

The Siberians, after a long march, entered prepared trenches and immediately asked permission to attack Bzeczow, where the Germans were entrenched in a slight rise of the ground. The Siberians deployed and attacked the German position from two sides. The unexpectedness of the Russian assault surprised the Germans and the first trenches were quickly taken, though the Germans soon recaptured them. In the next few hours these trenches were taken and retaken three times.

On being dislodged finally at Bzeczow, the Germans retreated northward, being pounded by the Russians until the main body of Germans was reached.

FRENCH OFFENSIVE IS CHECKED BY GERMANS

Washington, Dec. 5.—Offensive operations by the French garrison of Belfort and French counter-attacks were reported today from the French foreign office to the embassy here. The communication adds that destruction of German earthworks, mentioned in the war office statement of today, took place near Thann, a village which has been a disputed point since the beginning of the war.

The dispatch says in part: "In the region of the woods of Mirbach, the offensive taken by the partition of Belfort has been slightly driven back. They still hold the west bank of the small lake in that vicinity. Our artillery at this point has inflicted considerable loss upon the enemy."

LODZ SUBJECTED TO HEAVY BOMBARDMENT

Petrograd (via London, Dec. 5, 11:20 p. m.)—Lodz was subjected yesterday to a violent attack and bombardment. The heaviest fighting was for the possession of a Jewish cemetery on the outskirts of the city.

This position changed hands twice. As a result of many attacks and counter attacks, the German and Russian troops exhausted their ammunition, but continued fighting with bayonets and rifle butts.

The gas house in Lodz was damaged, the suburb of Bulut was burned and three other outlying villages partly destroyed by fire caused by exploding shells.

Thirty citizens were killed and 200 wounded. In Lodz fifty houses and a Catholic church were demolished.

FRENCH TROOPS KILLED BY GERMAN SHELLS

London, Dec. 6 (1:59 a. m.)—How 200 French troops were betrayed by a spy on Tuesday last is told in dispatches from Dunkirk. The French soldiers were sleeping in a church at Lampernisse. A spy in some way gained access to the bell tower and displayed lights which notified the German artillery of the presence of the troops. A bombardment immediately followed, and the exact range being known to the enemy, the sleeping men were cut to pieces by exploding shells, which also set fire to the straw on which they were sleeping.

DEATH SENTENCE IS TREATED AS GOOD JOKE

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE)
Butte, N. D., Dec. 5.—Joseph Milo, convicted murderer of J. N. Karst, smiled today when Judge A. G. Hurt, in district court, sentenced him to "hang by the neck until dead." Friday, August 13, 1913. The fact that Friday, the 13th, was the date selected for his execution seemed to amuse Milo, who made no effort to restrain a chuckle. It will be the first execution in North Dakota in ten years.

John Miller, Milo's companion in the murder of Karst and H. M. Seid, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Suffrage Campaign Expensive.
Washington, Dec. 5.—The last political campaign cost the congressional union for woman suffrage, $3,129, according to the organization's campaign report filed today with the house. The money was spent in Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Oregon, Utah and Washington.

CHICAGO COPS ARE INDICTED FOR CORRUPTION

Climax of Graft Investigation Reached When Prominent Policemen Are Held on Serious Charges.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE)
Chicago, Dec. 5.—State's Attorney Hoyne's crusade against alleged police corruption reached a climax here today when John J. Halpin, a captain of police and until recently head of the detective bureau; Lieut. John H. Tobin, a veteran of the department, and Walter O'Brien, a former detective with the rank of sergeant, were indicted on charges of bribery and operating confidence games.

Halpin, recently transferred to an outlying police station as captain, and Tobin, also recently transferred, were suspended by order of Mayor Harrison as soon as he learned of the indictments. Captains for their arrest, it is expected, will not be issued until Monday. The indictments charge Halpin with three bribery offenses and three offenses in connection with the operation of confidence games. Tobin and O'Brien are named with Halpin in the latter charges. A fourth policeman will be named later in the same charges.

The indictments were based largely on alleged confessions of "Barney" Bertche and the Ryan brothers, Frank and James. The Ryans for years conducted a string of chairvoyant parlors out of which, it is alleged, they fleeced victims out of tens of thousands of dollars. The indicted men are charged with protecting them in return for money considerations, ranging from two to four hundred dollars a week.

Confession Is Alleged.
Bertche is said by Hoyne to have confessed that he was the go-between who paid the Ryan money to Halpin. He was one of five men wounded in a pistol fight with Detectives Egan and Monaghan in the theater district a month ago and alleges that the police, fearing that he was about to divulge what he knew, were trying to remove him.

Bertche, it is said, was at first concerned only with the protection of pickpockets, burglars and confidence men, until his attention was called to the rich field around the fortune tellers. Money poured in on him after that, and was so plentiful with the Ryans that their books kept no account of sums under fifty dollars. Their parlors spread all over the city.

The police share is said to have been ten per cent or more. The bribery charges against Halpin, accuse him of accepting specific sums ranging from $200 to $1,000, and protecting the Ryans from arrest in connection with their alleged swindles.

He is alleged to have received $2,000 for protecting the Ryans and other persons from arrest in the wire-tapping scheme by which Dr. William T. Kirby, private banker, was swindled out of $20,000. The loss wrecked the bank and nearly lost Kirby his reason as well as his liberty. Tobin and O'Brien are alleged to have shared in the booty also. The trio are charged with further receiving a percentage of the $15,000 out of which the Ryans swindled Mrs. Hope L. McDowd of La Crosse, Wis., and the $12,250 accruing from the swindling of Mrs. Mary Rapp of Naperville, Ill.

New Name for Mosquito Bite.

Oxford, Eng., Nov. 23.—The death of one member of the light infantry recruited at Oxford is recorded from the rather unwelcome cause of "mosquito bite." The victim is Sergeant Geoffrey Cross. While still quartered at Oxford, he was stung on the lip, succumbing to the poisoning after a brief illness. The coroner's inquest recorded the characteristic British verdict of "Death by misadventure."

SUBMARINES ARE BUILDING FOR UNITED STATES

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE)
Washington, Dec. 5.—The probability that the United States navy would be in the market next year for a considerable number of submarine torpedo boats, is detaining American shipbuilders from seeking contracts among the belligerent nations for underwater fighters. E. J. Powell, president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company, one of the allied concerns of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, told Secretary Daniels today his firm did not intend to build submarines for any European power.

"We are just now busy," Mr. Powell said, "building submarines for the United States navy."

It is understood that the probability that Congress will appropriate for more than eight submarines and possibly for fifteen, has been taken into consideration by American builders.

A communication has been received by Secretary Bryan from Charles M. Schwab of the Steel corporation, in reply to the government's recent inquiry as to the extent to which the corporation planned to export materials for warship construction. Until he has had time to prepare a statement of the department's views on the neutrality questions involved, Mr. Bryan refused to disclose the contents of the letter.

YIELD PACIFIC. RATHER THAN GO TO WAR FOR IT

Dr. David Starr Jordan Makes Another of His Pleas for Peace at Any Price to United States.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE)
New York, Dec. 5.—Resolutions advocating the creation by congress of a council of national defenses were adopted today by the national civic federation after a discussion on naval preparedness against attack, that occupied much of the time of the last day of the federation's conference here.

The duties the conference recommended would be "to consider, decide and report to congress what legislation is necessary to provide for the national defense without waste or unnecessary expense."

Any recommendation of the proposed council should, in the language of the resolution, "aim to secure the efficiency of existing forces on land and sea and definite policy to insure peace."

The speakers included Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor of Leland Stanford university; Col. Robert M. Thompson, of the navy league of the United States; Franklin P. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, and Samuel Compers. Dr. Jordan protested against what he called "tirades against the so-called inefficiency of the army or the navy," and declared we should protest against an agitation for more armament "at a time when the nations of the earth are crumbling each other before their 'perfect equipment'."

"The lesson of this war is that preparedness for war brings war," he declared. "Now that the world is drunk it is not the time to lay in additional liquor."

He asserted that there need be no fear that Japan would attack the United States. As for the control of the Pacific, he said:

"I would rather give up the Pacific than see this country go to war with Japan."

HUNT CALLS FOR PROTECTION OF NACO CITIZENS

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE)
Naco, Ariz., Dec. 5.—F. M. Abrams refused today to answer a summons to testify in a land office hearing on account of the danger of being struck by bullets fired by snipers in the trenches of the Mexican combatants across the line. Special Agent Gibbs of the land office was compelled, therefore, to adjourn the hearing to Abrams' hotel.

E. A. Folsom, county coroner, announced he would empanel no more coroner's juries in the case of victims of Mexican snipers' bullets. It would be endangering the lives of men to summon them, he declared.

A message from Governor Hunt stated that he had wired to the state department at Washington today demanding more protection for the citizens of Naco and other border points.

FOUL CRIME IS PERPETRATED IN CHURCH TOWER

Mutilated Body of Little Girl Found in Basement Where It Had Been Taken After Death Occurred.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE)
Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 5.—Blood dripping on a church carpet from the belfry tower terrified a dozen little girls today into a panic-stricken search which revealed the body of their chum, Margaret Millings, just mutilated in the basement.

An alarm immediately brought the police, who took into custody David Fontaine, janitor of the church, in which the tragedy occurred. He was subjected to an examination which lasted late into the night.

The Millings girl agreed to meet the others at the church to make doll dresses, as a part of their Christmas activities. She arrived ahead of them. Aspects of the murder thus far revealed recalled those of Minnie Williams and Blanche Lamont in San Francisco in 1895, for which Theodore Dewart was hanged. The victims in this case, however, were adults.

Freed Because of Insanity.
San Diego, Calif., Dec. 5.—"Not guilty by reason of insanity" was the verdict of a jury which late today freed Mrs. Georgia Simmons-Barker, charged with sending poisoned candy through the mails. The Misses Anna and Ada Dagg, daughters of Mrs. William H. Dagg, of San Diego, were recipients of the candy, and Mrs. Barker was arrested in June at Point Richmond, Calif. An alleged confession was barred as evidence.

LITTLE CHILD SEES FATHER DIE ON THE STREET

"Papa Won't Move or Talk to Me," Sobs Six-Year-Old Martha McNitt, Bursting Into Home of Citizen.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL) Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Sobbing pitifully, her pretty face seamed with tears, six-year-old Martha McNitt burst into the home of W. H. Goebel on De Vargas street at 8 o'clock this evening.

"Papa's sitting out there in the street and will not move and won't talk to me," she cried.

Mr. and Mrs. Goebel followed the child and found G. F. McNitt lying in the dust still in death, the victim of a hemorrhage. McNitt was employed as bookkeeper in the Chemical pharmacy and it was noted that he had been especially cheerful all day. He had two tickets for the Killarney Glen concert tonight and had intended taking Martha with him when death struck him down just after crossing the Don Gaspar avenue bridge near the capitol on his way home to the child.

Parents Were Divorced.

Mrs. McNitt, who is a district court stenographer, is at Aztec, San Juan county, attending court. She had been recently divorced from McNitt but the child loved both parents dearly and was with her father frequently and he kept her whenever the mother was away. The companionship of the two was beautiful to behold and often was commented upon.

McNitt, who was 34 years old, had come to Santa Fe some ten years ago from Illinois, Wis., for his health. He had been an electrical engineer and well known Wisconsin physician. Two children preceded the deceased in death.

It was today just a week ago that the city was stirred by the tragic death of another well known Santa Fean, Maurice Gomez, who died on a Santa Fe Central train a few miles out of town while racing against death.

CAN ORDINARY SOAP BE CALLED A COSMETIC?

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL) Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—The internal revenue office is puzzled whether ordinary soap is liable for the war tax which places one-eighth of a cent tax on a 5-cent bar of cosmetics.

The ruling is that ordinary soap is not taxable, but under the proviso that it is not advertised as a cosmetic. As every soapmaker practically declares that his brand of soap does not spoil the complexion, it seems that only the old-fashioned kind that mother used to make, in the back yard, out of wood ashes and lye, escapes the tax, for nobody ever asserted that it is good for the complexion.

YOU OWE YOUR FACE A GOOD, CLEAR SKIN

And Stuart's Calcium Wafers in a Very Short Time Will Clear Up Your Complexion Naturally.

Just in a few days one may clear the skin of all manner of blemishes such as pimples, blotches, liver spots, etc. If one will use Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

Don't use pasty lotions and creams to fill up the pores when they are working constantly with the blood to throw off the impurities of your system.

"Before I had any of these pimples I was not thought to be pretty. But all the change I made was to clean my blood and skin."

Many a face is made with beautiful contour and artistically lined, but when the skin is discolored one cannot see the beauty of the face lines. One notices only the skin blemishes.

It's because pimples and eruptions come from the inside—from impure blood—and you can't cure them by rubbing stuff on the outside of the face. Purify the blood and the blemishes will disappear.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers will often clear the complexion in a few days time. That's the wonderful part of it—they act right off—in a hurry. That's because they're made of just the ingredients needed to drive all poisons and impurities from the blood. That's why doctors prescribe them so constantly.

You will speedily enjoy a beautiful complexion if you use these wonderful little Wafers. Your face will become as clear and pure as a rose. Nobody likes to have pimply-faced people around. With Stuart's Calcium Wafers you don't have to wait for months before getting results. Even boys have been cured in a few days' time with these remarkably effective blood cleansers. Your whole system will feel better in a marvelously short time, and, my, what a difference in your looks! You can get Stuart's Calcium Wafers of any druggist at 30 cents a box.

SELGMAN WOULD HAVE ROAD RULES TAUGHT CHILDREN

Chairman of Santa Fe County Road Board Believes Schools Should Instruct as to Highway Laws.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL) Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—The rule of the road ought to be taught in the schools, according to Chairman Arthur Selgman of the county road board. There is a statute in effect in New Mexico but the people who obey it are few. It would take only a few minutes' talk two or three times a year to impress it on the children so they would not forget it when they grow up and it would save the state and counties lots of money and at the same time keep the roads in much better shape, not to speak of the prevention of accidents.

At present, the majority of automobiles and wagons travel in the center of the road wearing down the crown and creating ruts that become rivers during a rain and destroy the road. If the vehicles all kept to the right, as they should, and would follow the rule of the road in turning out to let the other fellow pass, the crown would be kept intact. At present, the state in building roads, generally provides for a seven-inch crown and even a nine-inch crown is advisable on the wider highways. Pedestrians in the city, frequently and perversely cross streets diagonally at intersections, thus inviting accidents, and therefore it would be well spent to instruct the school children in the correct method in these fundamentals.

Big Traffic.

It is astounding how much traffic passes over some of the roads in Santa Fe county. A count kept last week of vehicles passing over the Santa Fe-Taos road showed daily traffic of from 82 to 165 vehicles, and this is only one of many roads into the capital. Next year, the exposition year, the increase will be enormous.

Important road work has just been completed by the county road board, including a model highway down the north slope of the Teanague divide and the old Santa Fe trail out of Santa Fe, Estes hill, near San Pedro, is to be graded and widened so that four-horse teams can negotiate the switchbacks without difficulty. A road gang will be kept steadily on El Camino Real all next year between Santa Fe and Albuquerque, and another gang between Santa Fe and Las Vegas, while work on the road to Taos is to be pushed until the trip can be made by automobile in three hours. More work will be done the next few months on La Bajada hill so that by the time the heavy traffic to the exposition sets in, El Camino Real will be in perfect condition.

TRAIL MAGAZINE IS UNUSUALLY ATTRACTIVE

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—The Santa Fe Trail magazine for November, just from press, is richer in New Mexico material than any preceding number and also has timely interest because of the completeness of the illustrated war articles that it prints. The operations of the Phelps-Dodge company in the Burros, which will eventually rival those of the Chino company at Santa Rita, are described and illustrated by F. W. Bush.

Frederick Greenberg of Three Rivers, contributes a notable poem: "El Dia." The story of "A Victory Over T. R.," written by a former patient at Mount, should be in the hands of everyone suffering from consumption, wherever English is read. "When Defeat Doesn't Count, or New Mexico in the Making," is a brisk story by Eddie Wheat, with a love motive in it. Samuel H. Mendenhall, formerly of Santa Fe, tells "A Boy Scout Story," having to do with the Santa Fe Trail. "A Brush With the Cheyennes on the Santa Fe Trail in 1863," is semi-historical. "Niger," by Lucile Duckworth McCarty, "Border Law," by Herbert Haskell and "At the Elbow Club," are western stories of much interest.

ENGINEER APPROVES WATER APPLICATIONS

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—State Engineer James A. French today approved the following applications for water rights:

T. E. Furr of Hazerman, Chavez county, for 12 second feet out of the Pecos river to irrigate 112 acres.

Harvey Senoff of Deming, 5.4 second feet out of a box draw in Luna county to irrigate 248 acres.

J. M. McAllister of Springer, 92 second feet out of Sweetwater creek to irrigate 65 acres.

E. A. Clemens of Magdalena for 1.7 second feet out of Patterson and Hop canyons to irrigate 120 acres.

Doctors Win Another Victory.

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—The medical board has won another victory in the conviction of Adolfo Bessen on the conviction of practicing medicine without a license at Roswell. Bessen at first pleaded not guilty but finally withdrew his plea and was given a sentence of ninety days and the costs. The sentence was suspended upon the condition that Bessen remain out of the district for five days and at the end of that period disappear from the state. Bessen pleaded that he was

ANOTHER EFFORT TO BE MADE TO SAVE RAILROAD

Plan to Pull New Mexico Central Out of Hole Is Said to Be Under Way; Andrews Figures in Deal.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL) Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Intimation now comes from the bondholders in Pittsburgh, Pa., that another plan is on foot to save the New Mexico Central railroad from closing down altogether. This plan is said to involve a change in the receivership of the road. Ex-Delegate to Congress W. H. Andrews is prominently mentioned in connection with the proposition. At present, the outlook for the road is very dubious unless there is some outside intervention, such as is indicated in the new plan, the bondholders may ask the court for permission to tear up the rails and sell them so as to meet the obligations incurred on receivership certificates and to relieve the bondholders of further responsibility for running the road. The bonds of the New Mexico Central, it is declared, indicate the folly of a 3 or 3-cent-a-mile rate law in a country where 6 cents a mile cannot keep a railroad above water.

The condition of the New Mexico Central is declared to be similar to that of the 30-mile Buffalo & Susquehanna road in New York, running through a much richer and more thickly populated territory than the New Mexico Central. Of this road, the Engineering News says:

"Undoubtedly the bondholders have the right to stop operating an unprofitable property and get what little salvage they can out of it by taking up the rails. This salvage will be small, however, for under present market conditions, relaying rails are salable only at a very low price."

How to Fairies.

"The abandonment of the road will be a serious matter to farming communities along it, which depend upon it for transportation. The roadbed and tracks are in good condition and represent an investment that could not be replaced, probably, short of $2,000,000."

"Residents along the line of the road appealed to the New York Public Service commission. Through the efforts of this body, the execution of the court's order has been postponed for one month. It is hoped that someone can be found willing to take over and operate the road."

"Of course, it is impossible to operate a road with this traffic, such as this line has, at any such low rates per passenger-mile and per ton-mile as prevail on roads that do a large business. It would be far better for farmers along the line to pay whatever rate is necessary to keep the road in operation, rather than have it stop operations entirely. More economical methods of operating the road could doubtless be introduced, such as substituting independent motor cars for regular steam locomotive train service."

"Such instances as this form a useful lesson as to the inevitable result where a railway is unable to earn enough to pay its operating expenses and make some return, at least, to those who furnished the money to build it."

"The railways are indeed public service corporations and as such obliged to render reasonable service to all alike, so long as they continue in operation. But when any railroad becomes unprofitable to its owners and they can see no hope for future profits, they have the undoubted right to stop operations, take up the rails and sell them for scrap."

State Ownership.

As the taking up of the rails of the New Mexico Central would be a serious calamity to Estancia, Moriarty and other points on the line, it is seriously proposed, that if all other negotiations fail, to have the state take it over for an experiment in state ownership of railroads and as an object lesson to legislatures and people that the operating of railroads at a profit under the increasing restrictive statutes and regulations as to rates, fellow servants statutes, full crew laws, is an impossibility. That the Santa Fe has no idea of taking over the New Mexico Central and to use its line from Kennedy to Santa Fe, in place of the Lamy branch, is evident from the fact that it is substituting at this very time, 35-pound rails for the old 52-pounders on the Lamy branch. It is understood, that the state might have the road for a nominal sum that would not necessitate a bond issue. The abandonment of the road, it is argued, would deter investors from building railroads in New Mexico for many years to come.

Christmas Tree Meeting Held.

PROTECTOGRAPH SWINDLER GOES TO PENITENTIARY

Plea of Guilty Entered by Man Arrested in Las Vegas for Crooked Work; Light Sentence Is Imposed.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL) East Las Vegas, N. M., Dec. 5.—J. L. Vantine, alias L. H. Putnam, who was arrested here yesterday afternoon on a charge of embezzlement, pleaded guilty today before Judge D. H. Leahy and was sentenced to serve a sentence of from twelve to fifteen months in the state penitentiary in Santa Fe. He was taken to the penitentiary tonight. Merchants and bankers in three New Mexico cities have been victimized by Vantine. Early in the week he appeared in Albuquerque representing himself as the agent of the manufacturers of a protectograph, or check-writing machine and obtained possession of machines for the ostensible purpose of repairing them. Later they were sold to unsuspecting parties. Leaving Albuquerque between two and three, he went to Santa Fe, where the same game was worked, and from Santa Fe came to Las Vegas. In the meantime, however, the Albuquerque police had sent out telegrams asking for his arrest, and when he attempted the swindle here he was taken into custody by local officers. Before he was apprehended, however, Vantine sold several of the machines which he had obtained in other cities to local merchants.

Chief McMillin learned yesterday that one of the protectographs found in Putnam's room belonged to County Treasurer Mike Mandell. He had sold Mandell one of the bank's machines.

INTERESTING HEIRLOOMS RECOVERED BY WAGNER

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Supt. J. H. Wagner of the public schools of this city, has just come into possession of interesting heirlooms that had passed out of his family but which he relocated in eastern Indiana, where they had been taken from Lancaster county, Pa. They include an old-fashioned walnut chest made over a hundred years ago, when each piece of furniture represented the work of an individual craftsman instead of being a mere collection of pieces made by machinery and assembled in a warehouse; a colonial walnut bureau and other pieces of furniture.

In one of the bureaus was found an old indenture of apprenticeship, binding out Mr. Wagner's grandfather as a millwright apprentice. Contrary to prevalent opinion, there were pronounced temperance ideas in those days, for the indenture bound the young Wagner to keep away from public houses and gambling places. These heirlooms were sold at public auction years ago but were recovered through the agency of friends. The walnut chest still has upon it shipping instructions via the old Erie and Maumee canals, in the days before the railroads.

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN MAKES EXAMPLE OF PROMINENT CITIZEN

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Determined to set an example, the deputy game warden in the Mogallon district has arrested Manager Hill of the Sycamore Power & Light Co., operating a power plant on Mineral creek, for failure to obey an order to place a fish well in Mineral creek.

Hill waived hearing and was bound over to the grand jury for Socorro county under $500 bond.

New Ads Please Santa Fe.

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—The capital is immensely pleased with the big advertisements the Santa Fe railroad is running in the eastern papers, featuring this city as the one great trump card of the railroad in its bid for the tourist traffic. The Cleveland Leader and other widely read dailies carry quarter-page advertisements telling of the attractions of Santa Fe as a tourist center from which to visit the cliff dwellings and the pueblos. This, in addition to the fact that the advertising department of the railroad is getting out a third edition of its superb "Santa Fe and Round About" folder, again demonstrates that the most widely advertised city in America is Santa Fe and that without a cent of cost to the people of the city.

All Sorts of Grievances.

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—It is not only corporation grievances that find their way to the state corporation commission. Today Corporation Commissioner Hugh H. Williams received a request to see to it that a bill of $170 be paid a claimant named Bush for rental on grounds occupied by the New Mexico National Guard during the recent maneuvers at Deming. Commissioner Williams chased up the trouble and found that Adjutant General Herring had made out a voucher alright and sent it to federal headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex., for approval, but that thus far it had not been returned and action it still awaits the pleasure of the war department.

SANTA FE TRAIL GETS ENTIRELY OFF THE TRAIL

Citizens of Capital All Worked Up Over Marking by O-to-O Highway People; Someone Has Blundered.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL) Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Who stole the Santa Fe trail?

College street awoke this morning to find itself robbed of its birthright. The historic fonda suddenly discovered itself shifted a block and a half from the terminus of the trail. There was red rage in the heart of the proprietor of the Transcontinental garage who considered the fact that his establishment was at the end of the scenic highway, part of his assets. The proprietors of the State Record were up in arms, for they had chosen as a site for its new building the southeast corner of the plaza because it was smack at the end of the trail; but this did not alter the fact that the Ocean-to-ocean highway markers were discovered strung out on Don Gaspar avenue instead of College street and missed their terminus at the Montezuma hotel instead of at the Fonda and the State Record building.

State Engineer French and his corps of assistants have started an investigation. The D. A. R., who marked the end of the trail, with a granite monument are in high dudgeon. Chairman Arthur Selgman of the county road board, will get out a search warrant. Mayor Sargent has put his police force to work to relocate the old trail. Meanwhile Sheriff Closson, who has just completed building the big garage in New Mexico on Don Gaspar avenue, and Nathan Salmon, whose Paris theater is not far from the new terminus, and C. L. Doran, proprietor of the Montezuma hotel, sit back and smile.

It isn't their fault that the Ocean-to-ocean fourteen-ton truck expedition this week on its way from Los Angeles has set up old trail markers on Don Gaspar avenue instead of College street.

To Push Scenic Railway.

Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—One of the important measures to come before the next session of congress is the completion of the scenic highway between Santa Fe and Las Vegas. A special appropriation is to be given the forest service to build the links still necessary both at the Santa Fe and the Las Vegas ends to the Pecos river. The state already has some $20,000 invested in this road and which would have been completed while H. O. Bursum was warden of the penitentiary had it not been for the interference of the forest service, which stopped the work when the road had reached the Dalton canyon a few miles from the Pecos. As the road was practically useless unless put through to a connection with the road on the Pecos, it has suffered much in the past few years. It is, however, the finest scenic highway in the west and would attract thousands of tourists if completed.

Mrs. O'Brien Visiting in Santa Fe. Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Mayme O'Brien, sister of ex-Governor M. A. Otero, arrived today to visit with her brother, ex-Game Warden Page B. Otero and his family. She was formerly at home at Denver, but for the past few years has been a resident of Paris and was one of the American refugees who went through the stress of the early days of the European war, finally reaching London and from there, New York.

November, the 30th, was BUICK day in Albuquerque, New Mexico. The above picture of Buick Reunion III, near the south end of High street, with the Buick family, the 35-horsepower Six, and the Models 27 and 25 on the summit, demonstrated this to the satisfaction of nearly one hundred spectators.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WINE)

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—Charles A. Bender, the Indian pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, today signed a Federal league contract and will play with either Brooklyn or Baltimore. The big chief is the second star pitcher of the former world's champions to jump to the Federals this week. Eddie Plank having signed a contract at Gettysburg, Pa., last Wednesday, to play with the St. Louis club.

Bender tonight confirmed the report that he had gone over to the Federals. He said he met Harry Goldsmith of the Baltimore club here today and lost no time in signing.

BOXING STATUTE
TO BE PRESENTED TO LEGISLATURE

Proposed Measure Will Resemble Ohio Law and Create Commission to Control Bouts Held in State.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—A statute to regulate boxing, modeled after the Ohio law, is to be submitted to the legislature this winter.

The proposed measure is stringent. Decisions will not be permitted. The latter provision the framers believe, will prevent gambling, although no decision regulations have not served this purpose in other states.

One of the features of the suggested bill that is not regarded as hostile to the best interests of the sport, is the provision for a commission which will have the power of appointing referees. The names of the officials are not to be announced until the participants of the bout are in the ring. The commission will be supported by a tax of 5 per cent, levied on the gross receipts of every bout.

Commission May Help.
The commission, provided its personnel is carefully selected with the interest of the sport at heart, might be a factor beneficial to the game and increase its popularity in the eyes of the public.

The commission will issue permits for each fight and a representative will be present at every bout to see that it is properly conducted.

There is no boxing statute in force in New Mexico at present. Governor McDonald, however, imposed a limit of ten rounds upon all bouts and his wishes have been deferred to by promoters throughout the state. While reports that an attempt was to be made in smaller towns to extend bouts beyond that limit have been spread from time to time, not one has gone beyond ten rounds.

Fined for Killing Husband.
St. Louis, Dec. 5.—A fine of $500 and costs was the punishment imposed here today upon Mrs. Ada Owsley, who last spring shot and killed her husband because he had boasted of his affairs with other women. As Mrs. Owsley was unable to pay the fine she was paroled.

Corbett Avows It Wouldn't Surprise Him if Governor-elect Whitman Recommended 20-round Bouts.

(By James J. Corbett, former heavy-weight champion of the world)
New York, Dec. 5.—Now that Governor-elect Whitman of New York is thought to be in favor of boxing exhibitions at conducted as the Frawley law stipulates, he is due to have a five young time listening to every Tom, Dick and Harry with an axe to grind. But I guess he can handle them all.

While Mr. Whitman has neither affirmed nor denied the reports circulated concerning his attitude in the matter, it is my belief, based on what I have heard from reliable people who are in position to know, that the governor-elect has practically decided to appoint an entirely new board of commissioners to supervise the sport in this state. And also it will not surprise me if Mr. Whitman even went further and recommended that the legislature pass a bill making it legal to conduct bouts over any distance up to twenty rounds—with decisions by regularly appointed referees.

This, of course, is not official—the governor may change his mind after the politicians have given him several ears full of their sides of the question. But from what I know of Mr. Whitman I will be very much surprised if he will allow anyone, or anything but his common sense, to influence him in the matter.

Here's hoping my information is correct. It is about time we had a man at the head of our state government with courage enough to recognize the manly and attractive qualities of boxing matches. No doubt the governor-to-be, judging from his conduct as district attorney, would be courageous enough, if the question was put up to him, even to admit that he enjoys a good contest now and then. And that takes considerable courage in a man accepting high office these days.

PRESENT COMMISSION IS A PARTIAL FAILURE, HE THINKS

The incumbent commissioners, in the opinion of a number of good judges, have fallen far short of expectations. Time and again cases have occurred where prompt action on their part would have helped to strengthen the cause of the sport as, for instance, in matches where one or more principals have failed to appear and the clubs have been permitted to fill in with cheap substitutes without first notifying the public that the bouts as scheduled would not go on.

Only last week, the Brooklyn Sporting club had killed a match between Al Reich and Colin Bell, the Australian heavyweight. It appears that the club had been notified early that Bell could not appear, but continued selling tickets and did not inform the crowd of Bell's error of omission until it was time for the contestants to enter the ring. The spectators were then informed that Jack McFarland would be substituted for Bell. No offer was made to refund the money to those who wished it, so I understand. Still the boxing commissioner did not see fit to investigate, although all the crowd got for their cash were several cheap preliminary bouts and a worse than one-sided exhibition between Reich and McFarland.

Boxing patrons have had little protection extended them by the present board, and no doubt Mr. Whitman, who since holding the office of district attorney has made it a point to become pretty well posted about things in general, has taken all this into consideration, hence the report circulated of the contemplated change in the personnel of the board.

EXODUS OF BOXERS LOOKED FOR FROM CALIFORNIA SOON

When the anti-boxing law goes into effect in California the middle of this month a number of young men who have been calling the Golden state home for a long time will copper Horace Greely's advice and hike towards the east. New York, New Orleans and Milwaukee will be asked to take care of the overflow of fistic talent which will be headed in this general direction shortly, as these cities practically will have a monopoly of important contests with San Francisco and Los Angeles out of the running.

In a way it will be a good thing for the game in the western cities. A new face now and then adds interest to boxing matches, and so far as New York goes an occasional strange "map" would indeed be welcome—provided the gent has anything in the way of reputation to back it up. Among those who are expected to take the "rattler" for this section immediately after the holidays are Willie Ritchie, Joe Rivers, Frankie Barnes and Harry Foley's latest discovery, Ralph Grunau, the Portland lightweight scrapper who is being promoted by many western writers as a very promising member of the fraternity. Jimmy Chubby, George Chip and Billy Murray will swell the list of eligible middleweights already here.

By the time the boys begin to ar-sions will be allowed in this city, and, if so, we may well look for a big boom in the sport. The fans don't take half the interest in a boxing match which promises to be merely an exhibition throughout than in a bout which is sure to be hotly contested because something more than a percentage of the gate receipts is at stake. With referees allowed to give decisions in boxing matches the sport would take a sharp jump in popularity—and after the last lean year or two promoters would relish something like that, I fancy.

UNCLE TOM MCCAREY MAY START CLUB IN NEW ORLEANS

I read recently where Tom McCarey was quoted to the effect that he would try to break into the boxing game in New Orleans, and that Dominick Tortorich, who has had a monopoly in this line for some time, advanced the opinion that Uncle Thomas had another thing coming. However, I will not be surprised if McCarey does open up in the Crescent city before long. I understand he has received invitations from several citizens to look over the ground, and it is likely he will accept.

The business men of New Orleans are not inclined to show favoritism towards the native son—they have found it does not pay, that a fair field and no favor is better for all concerned. Racing was stopped in the southern metropolis on account of attempts to stop outsiders from betting in. Had the newcomers been permitted to do along everything would have been lovely but the constant bickering and fighting between the rival associations attracted the attention of the reformers to the fact that gambling was going on, and once that agitation is started it is a case of curtains for the sport.

One can hardly blame Tortorich, however, for feeling a trifle peeved at the idea of McCarey coming into the field at this time—after he has carried the game along for years to spite of the handicap it was under. Now that there is a chance to put New Orleans on the map as pugilistically again Tortorich would like to gather all the grays for himself. However, McCarey is entitled to all he can get if he decides to open up there. While it is true that he had a monopoly of the game in Los Angeles, permitting no outsiders to butt in on him, that is nothing to his discredit. In fact, he is due considerable praise for the masterly manner he handled affairs there. It takes a good man to frame up a thing so that there can be no competition. Tortorich had the same opportunity in New Orleans, but I doubt if he can swing it. With New Orleans the only city in the country where championship bouts can be held there should be plenty of room for two big clubs. If not, it will be a case of the survival of the fittest.

CORBETT DOESN'T THINK MUCH OF CHAMPION WELSH

In view of the fact that Freddy Welsh has been ducking all offers to box where decisions are allowed, and has engaged in something like seven no-decision affairs in the last four or five weeks, what are we to think of him. It was not so very long ago that Fred and Manager Harry Pollock were bounding Ritchie for a match and trying to fatten on Willie the opprobrious title of "No-decision" Ritchie. They sent out teams of staff to sporting editors calling attention to Willie's penchant for the decisionless matches, when as a matter of fact Ritchie had only engaged in one affair of the kind up to that time. If one will care to investigate the record book he will learn that Ritchie has fought a vast majority of his ring engagements to decisions.

Furthermore, Welsh, or probably it was his press agent, took particular pains to condemn one Packer McFarland because that young man had the lightweight limit while he (Packer) came in at catchweight. According to Welsh, then only English champion, that was a crime which should have been attended to by the proper authorities. But now we have the spectacle of Welsh insisting on weighing whatever he pleases and compelling dangerous looking adversaries to make the so-called lightweight limit at ringside. He has tried to get away with this thing several times, and very likely has been successful, if the truth were known.

Ritchie never forced a challenger to make a weight which would give him undue advantage. McFarland has been accused of it a number of times. But Packer never held title to a championship, and had every right in the world to make matches at any weight he saw fit. But there is supposed to be a hard and fast rule covering matches in which a boxing title is at stake, and for which Welsh appeared to be a great attacker before he grabbed the honors himself.

In matter of strict sportsmanship Welsh falls considerably short of the standard set by Ritchie—who made every concession to secure the match with Welsh in order to prove that he was not trying to dodge the British champion, even consenting that the bout be held in England where he knew that he would not be shown any favors. Not that Referee Corri contemplated any wrong action, but Ritchie well knew that the strict observance of the rules and the method of calculating points were all against his chances. In spite of this handicap he consented to the bout with Welsh.

If Freddy has overlooked the matter we think it about time he offered a tardy apology to Ritchie about that "no-decision" tag he tried to pin on him. "No-decision" Freddy would come closer to the truth just now.

DODD & DENHOF
THIRD AND CENTRALSUPERB EXHIBIT IS SHOWN AT THE MUSEUM

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—A superb exhibit of Australian, numbering several hundred specimens, the gift of Mrs. Catherine P. Wallace of Toledo, Ohio, to the Museum of New Mexico, opened today in the reception room of the Palace of the Governors and will no doubt attract much attention because of its uniqueness and completeness. It was gathered by the late Territorial Secretary George H. Wallace while United States consul general at Melbourne, and kept intact by his widow, for a number of years a resident in the Palace of the Governors and now in Toledo. The Wallaces were related to Governor Lew Wallace who wrote part of "Ben Hur" in the palace.

The collection consists of magnificent photographs, costly de luxe volumes descriptive of Australia, its fauna, flora and ethnology, of native fabrics and artifacts, including beautiful specimens of cloth woven from the inner bark of mulberry trees by the FBI Islanders, mats woven by the aborigines of the Savage Islands and basketry that resembles strangely that of the Jicarilla and Mesquero Apaches. Altogether it makes an interesting geographical exhibit as has ever been shown in New Mexico.

He has just completed an inspection of the work for the El Paso Water Users' association of which he is the president. The dam is about 75 per cent completed he reports and work is being pushed night and day.

FRANCE TAKING CARE OF BELGIAN REFUGEES WELL

More Than Two Million Unfortunate Subjects of King Albert Are Being Looked After, Is Estimate.

(Associated Press Correspondence.) Paris, Nov. 22.—There are now more than 2,000,000 Belgian refugees in France. Monsieur Berard, secretary of the Franco-Belgian relief committee has informed the Associated Press.

"France has received them with the greatest consideration and generosity," he said, "the government allowing them the same amount as their own unemployed, 5 cents per day to each head of a family, plus 10 cents for each child. This, of course, is sufficient to keep them from starvation, but nearly all of them have other pressing needs as they fled in a majority of cases with insufficient clothing and lacking other necessities. We are doing all we can, aided by the French government to solve the problem of finding employment for such as are able to work, but France has her own stricken population in the northern departments to care for and Belgium is obliged to appeal to other generous nations for these people whose need, as the entire world knows, is not their fault. Monsieur Berard said Belgium would never forget what America has already done for Brussels, where the population was on the verge of starvation.

ZAPATA HAS NEW CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Friction Between Southern Leader and General Villa Is Reported From San Antonio Partisans.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADERS.)
San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 5.—(Re-) sponding to a conference with Villa leaders in Mexico City that Emiliano Vasquez Gomez was named provisional president for thirty days, says a news dispatch from Mexico City today.

apata contends that since the twenty days for which Eulalio Gutierrez was elected by the Amos Cienegas conference have expired, there is no longer any necessity for insisting on putting him into office. Considerable friction has developed between the Villa and apata factions over the naming of a provisional president, it is claimed.

Villa, through representatives who have been holding conferences with apata representatives at some point near the city, to arrange for the joint permanent occupation of the capital by the two forces, has agreed to all of the provisions of "the plan" of Ayala, except that he demands that the clause naming Gomez as provisional president be stricken out. The "plan of Ayala" was adopted by Zapata four years ago when he first took the field and has always expressly stipulated that Gomez be made president. Villa, it is said, has offered the name of a number of substitutes for Gutierrez. These, according to reports are disastrous to Zapata.

The Morelos leader, though still demanding that Gomez be named provisional president, has so far compromised as to agree to the naming of a fixed cabinet to be made up of an equal number of Villa and Zapata adherents.

Demurrer Is Overruled.
Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Federal Judge William H. Pope today overruled the demurrer of the defendant in the case of Evans, administrator, vs. the Victor-American Fuel company, setting an important precedent. The defense had set up that the widow, in consideration of $400, had signed a release as to damages for the death of her husband. The administrator contended that the release did not affect his right to sue for the estate. The court holds that the release can be pleaded only in mitigation of the damages to be awarded the widow by the jury and does not affect the rights of the children, that the mother could not sign a release for the estate unless designated administrator by the probate court, the content

GILDED PALACES OF AMUSEMENT IN PARIS DESERTED

Night Life of Gayest Capital in Europe Undergoes Pathetic Alteration With Coming of War.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL.)
Paris, Nov. 22.—(Montmartre) has been put to sleep by martial law. "Bette," from Bastille to Belleville, is plunged in gloom, and to the wretched spirits that still haunt the streets and boulevards it seems as if the light of the world had gone out. Flickers from thousands of bar fronts, until a clock strikes seven, to make a timid effort to resist, then go out as if it were no use. The contest with Gallieni is too unequal. Popular restaurants of the more serious minded order hold out longer, but the lights go out at half past nine. Then Montmartre fades into nothing.

The "Moulin Rouge" seems to have gone blind; the enormous wings of its windmill that for so many years have unceasingly revolved in a ruddy glow of electric temptation are motionless. The "Moulin de la Galette," possessed now by women of the upper crust grinds out a dull grist of soldiers' socks, but as soon as the evening shadows fall it stands like a ghost of past glories looking over the anaesthetized joy that lies at its feet.

The cabarets are closely hidden behind iron shutters as if to spare the passer-by the pain of regretful memories. "Hell" seems to have decided that it cannot compete with war. The gates of "Heaven" are shut until the end of it all makes it worth while opening and "Néant," quite invisible in the dark shadow of the boulevard, can only signify what Montmartre has become.

"The Rat Mort," "The Abbaye" and kindred institutions whose mission in life has been to turn night into day, have shrunk before the task of turning day into night and have retired like ground hogs into their winter holes.

"Green Hour" Is Gone.
If Montmartre is asleep, it is not absolutely deserted. Long columns of promenaders walk its streets, after having exhausted the last bit of patience of the military regulations, but they appear to have lost their way and not to know where they are going. It is a rather melancholy spectacle and perhaps the most bewildering of all the throng are the demimondaines—those that are left—for most of them have fled the rigors of Gallieni's regime.

The capital as a whole no longer enjoys the animated spectacle of the "green hour" between six and seven o'clock in the evening when every good Parisian before the war took his seat at an open-air table in front of his favorite cafe on the boulevards to drink his daily absinthe or other sharp appetizer.

The tables are still there, but the customers who remain are forced since the prohibition of the sale of absinthe to confine their libations to the simple glass of cherry, mineral water or highly colored syrup, sometimes varied by a log of light French beef, and there is no orchestra to while the time away.

Not far from the great central thoroughfares the "American bars" are almost deserted and many of them have closed their doors until the recurrence of better times. One well-known former American jockey has given up his bar for the present and is serving the Red Cross with his automobile.

Billiard Halls Unoccupied.
The billiard and pool rooms, are for the most part dark and unoccupied. Some which continue to keep open devote part of their receipts to the various relief funds.

The amusements most missed are the theaters and variety halls. For three months after the mobilization of the army the only houses where any performance was given were the "movies." This, however, is undergoing a change, for various associations of actors and public performers have succeeded in bringing the great distress among their members to the premier, who has consented to the reopening of the playhouses. Some of the more important will remain closed until the hours of service of the subway have been extended till later than half-past nine. Otherwise, in consequence of the paucity of transport, in the absence of the motor-buses and many cabs, the management would be forced to provide lodging accommodation for the performers.

SILVER CITY NORMAL MAKES FINE SHOWING

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL.)
Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Transforming what two years ago was a deficit of $2,855.99, and a deficit of $822.29 last year, into a surplus of $64,221, the management of the State Normal school at Silver City today reported to Governor McDonald receipts last year of $32,746.79 and disbursements of $32,860.29, while the year before receipts amounted to $30,238.51 and disbursements to $28,204.51.

The present enrollment is given at 303, this being the high water mark attained under the new president, E. L. Enloe. During the year there were enrolled 165 males, 423 females, as against 87 males and 423 females the year before, a gain of 68.

Fire Visits Roswell.
Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—A fire is reported from Roswell, the third in New Mexico this week, that destroyed the tailoring establishment of David Wolzinger and damaged the insurance office of French & Fisher and the art studio of Miss E. C. King. Wolzinger

BARREL TO RECEIVE CONTRIBUTIONS FOR BIG CHRISTMAS TREE

Arrangements have been made to place a barrel at the corner of Central avenue and Second street into which contributions for the municipal Christmas tree are to be dropped. The barrel will be placed in position today or tomorrow, and it is expected that a handsome sum will be raised in small contributions through this means.

The ladies having the movement in charge are greatly encouraged over the response that has been made to the appeal for support, and declare that the tree will be one of the biggest and best ever given in the country. The Women's club has ordered its building on West Gold avenue to those who wish to do the sewing of stockings or other similar work in connection with the enterprise.

Those having toys and Christmas tree ornaments suitable for the occasion are requested to send them to the residence of Miss Lou Lee at the corner of Ninth and Copper avenue. Miss Lee has tendered the use of her residence as a depot for all supplies in connection with the Christmas tree.

SALOONS NOT TO DRAW BLINDS ON SUNDAY--ORDER

Mayor Boartrigh yesterday instructed Chief McMillin to enforce strictly the ordinance of requiring blinds to be raised in saloons on Sunday so a person might see the bar from the outside.

The mayor did not state at what time the saloons were to begin their observance of the regulation. After midnight, however, the blinds were up, but that was because bars on Central avenue were still open. No order to close at midnight was issued, as far as could be learned.

Mayor Boartrigh is said to have been actuated in the blind order by the complaints of a woman's civic organization.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN EXEMPT FROM TAXES

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL.)
Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—That volunteer firemen are exempt from both poll and road taxes was the opinion handed down today by Assistant Attorney General Harry S. Clancy in a letter to Dr. J. F. Hutchinson, Springer, referring to sections 1761 and 1764 of the Compiled Laws of 1907.

The attorney general had previously rendered an opinion that the authorities have a right to collect road taxes due for previous years from individuals, but District Attorney Alexander Read has taken issue with him, ruling that unless road taxes are col-

Peruna Will Stop That Cough

"I have found Peruna to be an Excellent Tonic."

Do not stop a cough by taking depressants or opiates. A cough stopped that way will return. Stop a cough by taking a tonic, like Peruna. This rids the system of the irritation that caused the cough.

Cough is an effort on the part of nature to clear the bronchial tubes. It is a mistake to stop a cough, except by assisting nature in clearing the tubes. Opiates and depressants simply numb the nervous system and the cough stops, leaving the poisonous and irritating materials in the bronchial tubes. This will soon affect the lungs. Let us stop the cough with Peruna. Let us strengthen and build up and remove the irritation.

Catarrh of the Bronchial Tubes Chronic Cough

Mrs. Perry, of 819 15th Avenue N. E., Minneapolis, Minn., is the wife of Commander Freeman G. Perry and well known in G. A. R. and society circles. She is the author of "Minneapolis Laughing Water." She says: "I have tried Peruna and found it an excellent tonic and cure for catarrh. It is good for all catarrhal affections of the stomach, and all diseases leading to consumption. Also for bronchial troubles. I believe it to be one of the best medicines on the market. Thousands can testify to its cure with the same pleasure that I can."

I Had the Grip.
Mr. C. Happy, Hardin, Ray Co., Mo., writes: "I can safely recommend Peruna as a remedy that will cure all catarrhal troubles. It was of great benefit to me as it cured me of catarrh of the throat, and I took a very bad cold and had a gripe last February. It settled in my throat and lungs. I took three bottles of Peruna, and it cured me. I highly recommend it to all who are sick, and I am glad to add my endorsement to that of others."

Another Case of Grip.
Mrs. Jane Gift, R. F. D. 1, Athens, Ohio, writes: "I think I could have been dead long ago if I had not been for Peruna. Six years ago I had a gripe very bad. The doctor came to see me every day, but I gradually grew worse. I told my husband I thought I would surely die if I did not get relief soon."

"I told my husband I wanted to try Peruna. He went directly to the drug store and got a bottle of Peruna. I could see the improvement in a very short time, and was soon able to do my work. I continued using it until I was entirely cured."

lected for the year, they cannot be collected any subsequent year but lapse on the last day of the year.

More Elections to Come.
Santa Fe, Dec. 5.—Two more elections in rapid succession are on the boards in New Mexico. The election for mayordomos and ditch commissioners takes place on Monday, to be followed on January 11 by elections for justices of the peace and constables and later in the year by the election of rural school directors, while local option elections are to be conducted in between in various precincts.

MORE TESTIMONY ABOUT STRUGGLE IN STRIKE ZONE

Most of Hearing Devoted to Bringing Out Facts Regarding Publication Issued by Coal Mine Managers.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE)
Denver, Colo., Dec. 5.—Facts concerning the struggle in Colorado for industrial freedom, a pamphlet issued by the "coal mine managers," and which J. P. Welborn, president of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, said his corporation had had written by an unnamed writer, was investigated by the federal commission on industrial relations today. The committee probed both the responsibility for the publication of the pamphlet and the truth of the "facts" therein contained.

Mr. Welborn testified that the Colorado Fuel and Iron company published the document at an expense of $12,000 and distributed 40,000 copies to ministers, legislators, educators and the public. After assuming responsibility for the pamphlet, Mr. Welborn acknowledged that several paragraphs were qualified, that of the truth of others he had no evidence, and repudiated responsibility for still other statements.

Declines Same Author.
The witness declined to give the name of the author of the pamphlet, who, he said, came to Colorado to write the book after a conversation with an eastern director of the company. He did not know who was to pay the writer for his services—whether the bill would be met by the company or someone interested in the work of the company. The writer was not in Colorado now, he testified, and Mr. Welborn had not seen him since last August, but he was still in the employ of the company.

Recipe For The Tobacco Habit

Well Known Physician Gives Out a Simple Home Recipe for the Tobacco Habit to Be Given Secretly.

A well known physician, located in the Middle West, who has treated thousands of cases of tobacco habit, in a recent interview made the following statement: "The cost of drugs used to treat the tobacco habit in the high priced sanitariums amounts to very little. Here is a simple, inexpensive prescription that can be given secretly in coffee, tea, milk, water, or in the food, as it has no taste, color or smell: To 2 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Vicks Compound, 10 grains persin. Give in coffee or food a teaspoonful three times a day. This prescription is perfectly harmless, can be obtained at any drug store, and will be found very effective in the treatment of the tobacco habit in any form."

considerably less than that percentage remained at work.

Statement Not Verified.
Regarding a statement in the pamphlet to the effect that the company had investigated men hired for guards as to their former experience, habits and efficiency as police officers, Mr. Welborn said this investigation had been left to the head of the company through which the guards were employed.

Mr. Walsh called the attention of the witness to a table appearing in the pamphlet, giving the sums alleged to have been paid to national officers of the Mine Workers. According to this table sums paid out in the nine weeks were as follows:

Frank J. Hayes, $4,952, plus $1,667 for expenses.
John McLennan, $2,681, plus $1,469 for expenses.

John R. Lawson, $1,773,
Mary Jones, $2,659.

"Do you accept personal responsibility for this?" asked Walsh.
"For as much of the published statement as has not been denied," replied Welborn.

"If it is true that McLennan gets $4 a day will you correct it?"
"Just as soon as I believe it is wrong."

Never Saw Repudiation.
Mr. Welborn said the statement was published first in a newspaper. In response to questions by Mr. Walsh he said he had not seen certain details that were cited.

"Did you look for a repudiation?"
"No, I had a great deal else to do."

Mr. Welborn reiterated that the statement had been published on the authority of the newspapers in which it first appeared. "Of course, if the newspaper is incorrect, this statement is incorrect," he said.

Commissioner O'Donnell observed that the figures given were from the report of William Green, secretary of the United Mine Workers and covered total salary and expenses for one year, not nine weeks.

"Of course, I had not access to Mr. Green's report," said Welborn.

The author of the pamphlet Mr. Welborn described as a man "of large experience, recognized by large concerns in the east." In the main the matter to go into the bulletin was left to him as well as the distribution. He was not expected to secure data except from the records of the company.

"I saw him last in August," said Mr. Welborn. "When I went east I met him in Washington."

The author was engaged in publicity work for the company a month ago.

Revealing Employees' Deposits.
The pamphlet stated that of the $250,000 the employees of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company had on deposit with the company, only 20 per cent had been withdrawn.

Under cross-examination Mr. Welborn said that only $50,000 of this amount was in demand notes and of that sum only $30,000 was the property of wage earners in the fuel department—the miners. The rest of the money was deposited for interest bearing time notes which the company could refuse to pay before maturity, as was stated on the face of the notes.

N. E. STEVENS, PROMINENT LODGE OFFICER, IS DEAD

Secretary of I. O. O. F. Grand Lodge for Several Years;
Grand Officers to Come for Funeral.

Noel Eugene Stevens, secretary of the I. O. O. F. Grand Lodge of New Mexico, died at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 619 West Coal avenue, aged 48 years. He had been ill for several weeks and several days ago his condition became dangerous. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Mr. Stevens held the office of grand secretary for several years. He had been a member of the Odd Fellows for more than forty-five years, and instituted most of the lodges of the order in this state. He was a member of the Masonic order also. He was probably the oldest Odd Fellow in the state.

A native of Andover, Me., where he was born in 1846, Mr. Stevens came to Albuquerque twenty-eight years ago. He passed his sixty-eighth birthday last Tuesday.

The widow and two daughters survive. The daughters are Mrs. Mahel Stevens-Himes of this city, and Mrs. Al Frost of Los Angeles. Mrs. Frost was notified yesterday of the precarious condition of her father and started for Albuquerque at once.

Funeral arrangements had not been made last night. The grand lodge officers of the Odd Fellows are expected to come for the funeral. They were telegraphed of the death last night.

STYLES OF TWO DECADES AGO ARE STILL POPULAR

One-piece Frock and Separate Top Coat Give Evidence of Vogue of Fashions of an Earlier Day.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE)
New York, Dec. 5.—The styles of twenty years ago seem to hold a strong place in the minds of the people. This year, the one-piece frock and the separate, so-called "top-coat" being particular offshoots of the clothes of that day.

A practical innovation is the mode of dressing, which has taken the place of the suit in many cases. The dress may be dressed enough to wear to many things where a suit would be out of place and the top-coat, if care is taken in its selection, may be worn for evening as well as daytime.

The coat of the season is cut in a variety of ways, each of which has some particular style feature to make it practical or smart. One is cut much like the last winter's raglan coat, merely belted a little closer to the figure so that the curve of the waist may be more in evidence. Or this same coat may have a tiny round yoke with a collar and the full skirt rippling pressed into pleats, which open out at every movement of the figure.

Another type of coat is that which is semi-tight fitting at the shoulders and flares widely at the bottom. In the shape of a "cocolet" coat, another is distinctly of the Russian recent style, buttoning at the side and belted with a wide belt. Around the bottom of the skirt portion is a wide band of fur, also at wrists and around the neck. The heavy richness of this trimming is most effective.

Another coat is cut with the upper portion like a sacque, having straight lines under the arms and drooping down considerably in the back. A flaring circle is attached to the lower edge, cut in a circular piece so that it stands away from the figure almost, as though it were either heavily corded or wired. Rows of saffron trim the front and around the hips and the hem. Large buttons are used down the front. The skirt is rather narrow.

The kimono sleeve has had its day and most of the sleeves of coats are set into a regulation armhole, which is often outlined with a cording or piping.

The frocks which are made with kimono sleeves are easily brought up to the latest rulings by putting velvet sleeves in a cloth bodice, black lace sleeves into a faille or velvet frock. Taffeta sleeves are used in a serge gown.

In the illustration is a gown worthy of note. Hush, let no whisper in your ear, it is a made-over gown! In the stripes you see what was once gown and in the black another. The combination is one which is often sought in new fabrics and particularly by helpful when remodeling.

In the second gown is an extremely pretty one-piece model. Sand-colored broadcloth is used. The circular tunic is attached to a rather wide belt and the sides of belt, collar and cuffs, as well as the bottom of the tunic.

Rife With Suggestions for Remodeling an Old Frock Is This Smart Gown.

are bound with a harmonizing shawl of brown. On the edge of the closing, on waist belt and tunic is a cord which loops over small crocheted buttons for the fastening.

An absolutely plain waist of linen or white batiste, with possibly a few tucks front and back and long plain sleeves, which have turn-over cuffs, is worn a great deal this winter. The collar is usually high in the back and flaring in the front with a cravat of black.

Another waist for much more dressy hours is made of white satin with sleeves which have the tops extended to a strip which reaches the edge of the collar. The collar of this waist is trimmed with an ostrich fringe.

he washed without spoiling its luster. This fabric is being used for simple shirt waists and one smart young woman, who is noted for good style of whatever she wears, has ordered a half dozen of this material to be made just like man's negligee shirts.

The middie blouse is having a vogue of its own, since that is really what many of the popular jumpers really are. It is another excellent way of renovating a frock. For instance, a skirt of broadcloth or serge seems very new, indeed, with the addition of a velvet waist, which hangs in a straight line from shoulder to hips.

The hats are made in two extremes, the large and the small—there seems to be no "in between" hat. The high turban and the large sailor vie with each other for popularity and each seems to have variety enough in styles to make itself becoming to a variety of types of beauty.

The smartest thing in veils is one which is cut circular and hangs below the chin. This is worn with a small, close-fitting hat.

FOREST SERVICE TO COMBAT EROSION ON NATIONAL RESERVES

The district committee on forest investigations, which has been in session at the headquarters of the forest service since Tuesday, will continue its work during the first part of this week.

A comparatively new subject, which is being given serious consideration, is that of erosion. A preliminary study of this problem by Forest Assistant A. J. Janicke during the past summer shows that serious erosion is taking place in certain parts of several national forests. This damage is particularly serious in its effects upon reclamation projects. Steps will be taken to ascertain what preventive or remedial measures are feasible.

Lime Combats Tuberculosis

"It is difficult to escape the conviction that lime starvation and lime assimilation are the real issues behind the masks of vulnerability and resistance in tuberculosis," writes Dr. Van Gieson, M. D., in the May 11, 1912, issue of the New York "Medical Record," a journal of the highest standing in the world of medicine.

Dr. Van Gieson is eminent in his profession, and his assertion that lime assimilation is the "real issue" in resistance to tuberculosis bears the stamp of authority.

Ordinarily lime is not easily assimilated medicinally, but Eckman's Alternative is one preparation containing it in such form and combination as to facilitate assimilation by the average person.

This is one reason for the success of Eckman's Alternative in many cases of tuberculosis which apparently have yielded to it, and other cases which have been benefited through its use.

Our experienced-based faith in this remedy is shared by a large number of men and women who say they owe health, strength and life to it. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try.

If your druggist is out of it, he can get it, or you can order direct from us.

MARRIAGE CERTIFICATES NEED NOT BEAR STAMP

County Clerk Walker will not require new revenue stamps on marriage certificates returned to his office by ministers and justices. He at first thought the certificates were subject to the law, but learned yesterday that this was not the case. He has already received several stamped certificates owing to the announcement that they must contain the government's pasters before he recorded them.

BACK TO CARRIZOZO.
Take me back to Carrizozo as it was in the early days,
Ere the cowboy on the range had the moving picture craze;
Let me see the festive puncher, with his broncho on the run,
Coming into town and shooting up the landscape with his gun!
Let me see the chuckawalla and the lean coyote, too;
Of the mard'rous Mesquero let me see a fleeting view;
Let me see a frontier squabble as it was in days of yore;
When our bad man, Bill the Kid, waded in a sea of gore.
Take me back to Carrizozo and the plains of alkali;
On the cactus-covered mesa or the white sands let me lie;
Let me hear the rattler rattling as he crawls about the sand,
And the restive cattle bawling as they feel the red-hot brand;
Let me see the county sheriff make a gun-play in the street,
And a victim later buried with his boots upon his feet;
Take me back to Carrizozo; let me see a poker game;
As in the days when it was prudent not to ask a stranger's name.
Take me back to Carrizozo where they "sized" a fellow, not
By the noodle that he carried, but the skill with which he shot.
When the town was short on water but all-fired long on gin
And there never was much mourning when a fellowman "cashed-in."
Take me back among the grey wolves and the centipedes and such,
Where a brand-iron was suspected and a rustler hated much;
Take me back to Carrizozo when it lived a wild career,
And they had a man for breakfast every morning in the year.
Take me back to Carrizozo—Carrizozo rough and wild,
Where the days were dry and dusty and the whiskey wasn't mild,
Let me live again those stirring frontier days when all was new,
When the fero banks were frequent and the churches mighty few.
Let me join a sheriff's posse and set on a horse thief's track,
Where a hanging bee was likely if they brought the fellow back.
Take me back to Carrizozo in the rainy days I saw
When high foot-heelers were in fashion and a six-gun was the law.

WHAT SHE DOES.

She comes at early morning.
She comes at sunset's glow.
She sends no word of warning,
But what she wants we know;
For if you question squarely
Our knowledge sure we'll own
And speak her greeting fairly:
"Please, may I use your phone?"

Full long she'll sit there talking Pure bash—that point we press;
And all the while she's balking
Our family business.
She giggles and she chatters
Until we feebly groan,
But all to her that matters
Is that she holds the phone.

"Tartan Plaids"

THE POPULAR SUITS THIS SEASON

"Tartan Plaid" was the product of a particular Scottish clan, and its use was restricted to the people of that clan—"Tartan Plaid" instantly identified the wearer.

This plaid, in the genuine and its best copies, is made up of comparatively small, uniform squares—usually one-quarter to one-half inch—and in combinations of black, blue, green and brown, mostly in the darker shades. Some have a larger square of lines over the body-plaid—each square of the sur-plaid enclosing several of the smaller body-plaid squares. The sur-plaid has its own colors.

The body-plaid is generally formed by squares of a solid color with lines, slightly narrower than the squares and of a different color, enclosing them.

CITY LOSES SUIT FOR DAMAGES TO MUNICIPAL HALL

Alfredo Otero Will Get $1,400 Because of Injury of Property; Case Brought Seven Years Ago.

Judge Reynolds yesterday announced his decision in the Otero case against the city of Albuquerque which has been on the district court docket for seven years. The complaint was filed by Alfredo Otero in 1907.

Otero will recover $1,400 and interest at 6 per cent, according to the judgment to be entered in accordance with the judge's announcement. He prayed for $2,500 in his complaint, alleging that the old city hall had been damaged to that amount during the occupancy by the city officials.

The late Perfecto Armijo owned the old city hall at the time of its early occupancy by officials, but sold it to Otero.

COL. J. G. ALBRIGHT WINS IN HIS DAUGHTER'S SUIT

Judge Reynolds announced his findings in the Albright case yesterday, although judgment was not formally entered at the time. The court's decision is favorable to Col. J. G. Albright, defendant in the suit instituted by Miss Claude Albright, his daughter, for an accounting by her father as administrator of her mother's estate.

The court held that the property involved is community property, and the colonel retains possession. Miss Albright is now in Fort Worth, Tex., looking after valuable property interests which she inherited from her aunt, Mrs. S. L. Larimer.

Joseph M. Mahboub, special master, reported the sale of property involved in the case of Samuel Sabungy vs. George M. Etcho and E. Hakein under foreclosure to Charles Hoy & Co. for $250. The sale was confirmed.

WOMAN GETS CUSTODY OF FIVE CHILDREN WITH HER DIVORCE

Mrs. Lugarda G. de Valencia yesterday took a divorce and the court awarded her the custody of five children. They are Camilo, Andres, Maximiliano, Abelina and Juana. Her husband, Reyes Valencia, was found guilty of abandonment and non-support. They lived together more than thirteen years.

At the time of Valencia's desertion, in 1912, he was applicant for a homestead entry of 160 acres and the wife acquired the patent, which, however, was issued in his name. The woman was declared owner of this as well as some stock.

The State National bank was given judgment against W. S. Patterson, the plaintiff to recover $2,143.90. The action was brought by attachment which was levied on lots in the Perea and Eastern addition. The attachment was sustained.

MRS. COONS EXTENDS THANKS FOR DONATIONS

Mrs. E. E. Coons, who had in charge the distribution of Thanksgiving boxes to needy families in Albuquerque, has asked that an expression of appreciation from herself and from those who co-operated with her in the work be extended to all those who made donations of money, food, clothing and fuel on that occasion.

Nearly forty families were provided with Thanksgiving boxes and with various necessities, and a remarkable work was done in relief of suffering in the city.

BARELAS BRIDGE CASE SETTLED IN FEDERAL COURT

Missouri Valley Company Will Receive $4,775 From Bernalillo County for Repairs to Structure.

The Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron company's suit against Bernalillo county was settled yesterday in the United States district court. The company will recover from the county $4,775.40 by agreement of counsel.

The company asked for judgment amounting to $4,425 with interest in the complaint. The plaintiff alleged that the county owed that sum for the replacing of part of the Barelas bridge that washed out June 12, 1912, in the flood. The judgment includes interest.

FELL IN DITCH AT HURLEY; SUES CHINO FOR $20,000

The trial of Mary Bell Whitehall's $20,000 suit against the Chino Copper company and John M. Sully, of Grant county, has been commenced before Judge Pope and probably will be finished tomorrow.

A brief sketch of the founding and development of the town of Hurley, Grant county, is contained in the plaintiff's complaint, which originally was filed in the district court of Luna county, but transferred to federal jurisdiction. The town was laid out in 1910 by the Chino company, which donated the streets to the public use as thoroughfares, she says. The company built several hundred houses, stores and shops, a hotel and theater, and so promoted the growth of the town that January 4, 1913, the time of the accident, it had 2,000 population.

The plaintiff says that as she was going from a motion picture theater to the hotel the night of January 4 she fell into a ditch at the intersection of Carrasco avenue and First street, breaking her right leg just above the ankle. She alleges there were no lights or barriers there to warn pedestrians. She charges the Chino company and Sully with responsibility for the ditch having been excavated.

CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY IS DISMISSED AS TO HOLGUIN

Upon motion of United States District Attorney Summers Burkhart the charge of conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States was dismissed as to Faustino Holguin, of Columbus, N. M., and continued as to the other defendants until the next term. The other defendants are Ed M. Pridle, Charles C. Bourgeois and Philip Estes.

Holguin and Estes were found guilty last Friday night of receiving cattle smuggled into Luna county from Mexico. The jury in returning this verdict recommended that the court show clemency as to Holguin.

William H. King of Salt Lake City, Utah, was admitted to practice upon the recommendation of Col. R. E. Twitchell.

Pursuant to the direction of Judge Pope a decree was entered yesterday in favor of the government in the case of the United States vs. James M. Painter and the Alamogordo Lumber company. The decree cancels patent to land in Otero county.

W. R. Magness, United States commissioner, at King and Scott, was empowered to transact official business in an additional district in Chaves county.

been visiting Judge and Mrs. N. B. Laughlin and who are well known, an exhibit of his recent paintings and sketches at his studio, No. 1401 Alameda street, Los Angeles, which will close on Monday and which has given pleasure to hundreds of art lovers. One of Mr. Board's landscapes was recently exhibited in the Palace of the Governors, during a loan exhibit of the summer school.

The exhibit of Sheldon Parsons in the palace continues to delight scores of people. Mr. Parsons expects to leave shortly for the Grand Canyon to paint the two pictures for which he has received a commission by the Santa Fe railroad.

museum. It is hoped to have an exhibit by him at the palace in the near future.

S. G. Morley will on Tuesday evening lecture on Tiki, the prehistoric city of the Mayas. The address will be made at the monthly meeting of the Archaeological society in the Palace of the Governors and will tell about what is without doubt one of the most wonderful prehistoric ruins in the world, weird and mysterious in its grandeur and isolation.

"So you went to church last Sunday?" asked the doubtful one. "Then to prove it, what was the text?"

"The text was 'He Giveth His Beloved Sleep.'"

ROMANCE STILL LIVES.

The Palace of the Governors may become a Grotto Green now that the San Francisco couple has made the start of getting married under the most romantic surroundings imaginable. It was an unusual wedding, in more than one way. It was to have been a Thanksgiving affair but some inevitable circumstances prevented it. Then the contracting parties were Theophas, members of the Majestic Stock company. The groom was Claude Bernard Craig, a tall, blonde youth from San Francisco, and the bride, a petite, brown-haired, brown-eyed beauty, vivacious and her head tilted full of romance, although she was matter-of-fact enough to insist that the word "obey" be cut out of the marriage ritual. She gave her name as Olive Finney. The magistrate was David Gonzalez, justice of the peace in the Fourth ward. "And is he really a descendant of a noble Spanish family?" she queried, dreamily gazing at the superb mural paintings of the cliff dwellers that embellish the Ritz de los Frijoles room.

was assured that he was the lineal descendant of one of the brave conquistadores who built the palace. "And did the Wallace really visit Ben Hur in this room?" When assured that such was the gospel truth, she permitted the ceremony to proceed. The witnesses were C. Manville Holman of New York; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Lewis, the company's pet people, "Rags" and Mrs. C. M. Holman of San Francisco. Quite a little crowd of tourists from all ends of the earth and several of the museum attendants gathered about the couple. The groom planted a smacking kiss on the bride's lip but the justice of the peace made no move to follow the example. The bride with wide-eyed wonder, then listened to more stories of the stirring events that the palace had witnessed in its three hundred and more years of existence and went away fully satisfied that a wedding in such a place should assure happiness for at least a life time.

Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Holder of Hays, Kan., were a bride and groom who visited the palace the same day. Even if they did not get married in so romantic a place they spent part of their honeymoon there. The bride was a Montana girl, who was a parishioner of Rev. R. Z. McCallough of the First Presbyterian church, when he was pastor at Billings, Mont., and she persuaded the groom to visit old Santa Fe so that she might be a guest of her former pastor and his wife at the Mansie.

There is also much of romance in the announcement this week of the engagement of Miss Erin Morrison, granddaughter of Judge A. L. Morrison, to Louis A. Carpenter of Phoenix, Ariz. Miss Morrison made a host of friends during her visit to her grandfather's home on Palace avenue.

Santa Fe society will have a hearty greeting for Harold R. McGibbon and his bride, Mrs. Mary Helen Zane, whom he married at Philadelphia day before Thanksgiving. It is the culmination of a romance which had its inception several years ago, when Mrs. Zane and her daughter visited Mrs. Luckenbach, a relative and her daughter, now Mrs. H. H. Dorman, here in Santa Fe. Miss Zane achieved immediate popularity among the younger set and became an enthusiastic horse-back rider. It was natural that in Santa Fe canyons and forests, romance should blossom. Mrs. McGibbon's father is Anthony Morris Zane, a Philadelphia contractor, and as Mrs. McGibbon is the only daughter, there is hope that the Zanes will settle in Santa Fe. The young folks will be at home after January 27.

Forest Examiner J. W. O'Byrne has returned from a visit east, with a bride, formerly Mrs. Ethel M. Thomas of Albuquerque. The wedding took place at the bride's home in Connersville, Indiana. The bride's father is David W. McKee.

TALENTS.
If you feel too strong to work,
If you want to loaf and shirk,
Use the universal quirk,
Blame it on the war.

If it rains instead of shines,
If the tide to wait declines,
Act insensible to these lines,
Blame it on the war.

If a pony did you dirt,
If a kitty cost your shirt,
Tax the goat with all the hurt,
Blame it on the war.

SOCIAL CHRISTIANITY.

The church nowadays emphasizes the social side. It believes thoroughly in having a good time now as well as in the hereafter, although there may be some difference of opinion as to what really is a good time. However, the good time within church circles does not leave a dark brown taste for the next morning. Federal Judge W. H. Pope's fellowship class had another one of its monthly sociables this week. The members of the class were the guests of John K. S. Walter at his home on 405 East Palace avenue. At each meeting some man prominent in his profession gives a talk to the class. At the last meeting it was E. Dana Johnson who spoke on "Journalism." This time, it was Dr. James A. Rolfe who spoke on "Medicine as a Profession for Young Men to Enter." After the talk, games were played and refreshments served. The class now numbers some fifty young men of various denominations who meet every Sunday morning for the discussion of the Sunday school lesson.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church was the guest on Thursday evening of the Misses Fisher and had a merry time on the theory that to play is as essential to happiness as to pray, as long as humanity is constituted as it is. It was a poverty social that wound up an old-fashioned taffy pull. The costumes were as unique as they were simple and inexpensive.

The guild of the Church of the Holy Faith, Friday afternoon held its annual Christmas sale, at which dainty things made at home were disposed of from attractive booths and tables. For the youngsters, two games did a hand office business. They swallowed needles to the great enjoyment of the tots and had a present for each youngster. Tea, coffee and ice cream were served.

DINNER FOR ADJUTANT GENERAL.

Adjutant General and Mrs. Harry T. Herring were guests of honor at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Vachet at Roswell. The prettiest feature of the table decorations was a large cut glass bowl of glowing red geraniums, just as they grew so profusely in California. They were well set off by the bed of ferns in which they had been placed. Other decorations were tall vases of carnations matching the geraniums in color. Seated around the attractively appointed table were General and Mrs.

Herring, Mrs. G. T. Veal, Mrs. V. A. Vachet, Miss Nellie Vachet, J. M. McGinty, Louise Vachet, Paul Vachet, Bryan Vachet and Mr. Vachet. Besides the host and hostess.

IF THIS BE ALL.

If this be all, and when we die, we die. Then life is but a wanton, monstrous lie.

And of the hapless creatures, that draw breath,
We, who seem flower and crown, rank far below
The least of living things that does not know
The dread of loss, the certainty of death.

If pain and sorrow are without a scheme,
Dealt out by chance, then, like an evil dream
Of some dark fiend, this smiling, gracious earth,
If we that hunger never shall be filled,
The sooner that our empty hearts are stilled
The better for them and their aching death.

Yet close, I feel, there wraps us all around
Some mighty force, some mystery profound,
And, through my doubts and ignorance, I trust
The power that bound with laws the moon and tide,
And hung the stars in heavenly spaces wide,
Must, by their witness, be both wise and just.

CARDS.

Mrs. S. G. Morley entertained at bridge on Thursday evening. The guests were Mrs. Brookes, Mrs. March, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Cochran.

Mrs. McGilvray, Miss Kate Mueller and Miss May Spitz.

Mrs. Arthur Seligman was hostess to the Saturday club yesterday afternoon. On Tuesday afternoon she also entertained at cards, with her daughter, Mrs. John W. March, at the beautiful Seligman home on East Palace avenue. The party was in honor of Mrs. Martin Gardesky, who left this week for her home in Kansas City after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Spitz. Autumn flowers set off the many art treasures of the Seligman home. Besides the guest of honor, those present were Mesdames Wade, Wheeler, Morley, Dendahl, Pain, Sargent, Parker, Stupp, Brown, Chalmers, McConnell, Grimshaw, Wilson, McGilvray, Dorman, Gilmore, Small, Mera, Critton, Moore, Nuding, Creamer, Bowman, Jaffa and the Misses Spitz, Moore, Laughlin, Muller, Phelps and Boyle.

CONSTIPATION A PENALTY OF AGE

Nothing is so essential to health in advancing age as keeping the bowels open. It makes one feel younger, and fresher and forestalls colds, piles, fevers, and other dependent ills.

Cathartics and purgatives are violent and drastic in action and should be avoided. A mild, effective laxative-tonic, recommended by physicians and thousands who have used it, is the combination of simple herbs with pepsin sold by druggists everywhere under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The price is fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

The Sewing club was entertained on Saturday evening by Rosalind Owen at her home on Cerillos road.

PROGRESSIVE SOUTH AMERICA.

The first answer of Germany to the South American proposal to revise the international rules of neutrality to accord with the expansion of the scope of modern warfare, came informally and unofficially in an interview, published last Sunday in a number of the metropolitan newspapers, with Ambassador von Bernadotte. The opposition of Germany is as material as the reported acquiescence of the allies. Each is influenced by its situation in the war.

Rules of international law are not made in the heat of war, though they may grow out of the experiences of neutrals in it. The interesting thing about the proposal is the potent and enlightened initiative taken by a group of powers whose status in the family of nations has been more justly earned than is generally recognized.
The time is near when Europe must harken to the South American powers it has despised so long.

The essence of the proposal is that the zone of coastwise neutrality, in which trade is safe and war excluded, shall be expanded from the three miles, now the law of nations, to a width—perhaps of a hundred miles on continental shores—great enough to safeguard neutral commerce as it was safeguarded before the arrival of cables and wireless, swift steam warships and long range guns, and airships.

This new and arresting idea in international law comes, not only from the one continent at peace in a world at war, but from a group of nations that have only lately gained a hearing in the parliament of man. The South American republics have produced two writers on international law of the first world rank. They have carried far and may soon establish the Drago doctrine against the foreign collection of national debts, and the Calvo doctrine against forcible foreign collection of private debts.

The three great South American powers—the A. B. C. nations—stood aloof from the United States in the peaceful settlement of Mexican troubles. Now they come as the champions of the greatest step yet suggested to protect trade among the nations at peace along their own coasts from the eruption of war.

The United States doubtless will sympathize with the proposition, when the time comes for its formal consideration, and the new idea, whether accepted or not, is likely to claim a hearing in the next Hague conference, as the Drago and Calvo doctrines did in the last.

HEROIC BELGIUM.

However much we may excuse this or that nation for engaging in the unholy war raging in Europe, it is difficult for an American to see more than one side to the invasion of Belgium and the subsequent treatment of the Belgian people by the invaders.
For the starvation of the population, resulting in part, at least from the commandeering of their food supplies, Germany offers the excuse that there would be food enough were it not for the fact that the allies wickedly precipitated a war, therefore the Germans are not responsible in any way for the sufferings entailed thereby.

President Edwin A. Alderman of the University of Virginia, who was in Europe when the war broke out, and returned home a few weeks ago, delivered an address at Charlottesville in which he used the following language:

"How one wonders at and honors
the stark courage of her young ruler and his people in preferring ruin to a shameless bargain! Who of us knows that bright, smiling land, that green checker-board of prosperity and busy life, can realize how low and stricken she lies, her population beggars, her territory gone, but her soul her own.
But she has saved her life by losing it. The light that never was on land or sea shines again by her devasted fields and ruined gem-like cities.
It is difficult to remain blankly neutral with Belgium in mind, invaded, destroyed, assessed to reimburse the invaders."

Dr. Alderman spoke the sentiment of ninety-nine out of every hundred Americans when they think of Belgium, her sufferings, the injustices visited upon her and the spoliation unthinkable, to which she has been subjected. As Herbert Clark Hoover said in his interview in London, published in the Journal of yesterday,

"The clock has absolutely stopped in Belgium." But with Dr. Alderman we may well believe that Belgium's "soul is her own."

A NATIONAL SCANDAL.

Conditions at Naco, Ariz., are assuming the proportions of a national scandal. For weeks Governor Mayto-rena of Sonora has been besieging General Benjamin Hill, and thousands of shots have been fired across the boundary line, killing five on the American side and wounding forty-two others. Fourteen of the men hit were United States soldiers doing duty on the border.

Time after time, the combatants have been warned not to shoot toward the American side. Each time the warning has been followed by showers of bullets and not infrequently by shells from the Mexicans.
At no time have the American soldiers been permitted to return the fire or in any manner to make the "warning" other than a bluff.

No other nation in the world would permit such thing to occur more than one time. Any other nation would protect its own people in its own territory. It is a condition that cannot be ignored because the United States has the power whenever it sees fit to use it. It hasn't the power to bring the dead back to life.

The statement from Washington is that the people on the American side should keep out of danger's way. The citizens of Naco should be protected in the right to live in their own homes and conduct their own business, on the American side, in perfect security, so long as they obey the law of the land.

But, let us suppose that the Americans abandon their homes and shut up their business houses and retire to the hills for a few months, while the fighting is going on. What of the American soldiers who are ordered into the danger zone and then are not permitted to protect themselves from the fire of Mexicans just across the border?

For this condition there is not the slightest excuse. It is a policy too conspicuously to be tolerated longer.
The American people will not accept any "grape juice" explanation for a condition that is too weak to be explained, even to the Boston Peace society.

LET US TRY TO BE SENSIBLE.

Two newspapers in Santa Fe have raised the question of capital removal, presumably to Albuquerque. The Journal believes that it speaks the mind of Albuquerque when it says this city could not have the capital forced on it except by a peremptory writ of mandamus.

The state capital is a good thing for a town located as Santa Fe is,
but not for one like Albuquerque.
This is a business and commercial center, interested far more in development along those lines rather than in becoming a political center—an unavoidable incident of capital life in any state.

Things are located in New Mexico much as they should be. Albuquerque has the state university, which in time will become the center of the state's culture if it is not molested by politics. Las Vegas has the normal university, an institution that is doing much good, not only in its locality, but in the state at large. Las Cruces has the agricultural college, and should retain it, provided the people will get over the political squabbles there and their bank fights and allow the institution to grow into what such institutions are in the progressive states of the northwest, where they have doubled the production of corn and wheat, made fruit and truck growing profitable and have fought hog and cattle diseases to a finish and won. In proportion to population, the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts can do more for this state, if it is given a chance, than has been done for Iowa
by Ames. The Silver City Normal school is doing excellent service, yielding back to the state a thousand fold
what it costs to maintain it.

There has been talk of concentration of the state educational institutions. There is no doubt that a much bigger school than either of the institutions could be had for less money to the taxpayers, but the attendance of students at the one big school would not be one-half so many as would attend the four schools in the aggregate.

What New Mexico needs is not so much a big school as a big number of students in her schools. Just as the agricultural college, through county agents, now is carrying science to the farmer, higher education must be carried, by means of schools in central locations, to the people of every section of the state.

Let us have an end of all talk of capital removal and of concentration of the educational institutions of the state. And once for all, for the sake of New Mexico, let us have an end of politics in our school system. For the institutions of higher learning, it would be well to have one board of regents, paid fair salaries in addition to expenses, to supervise them. Let the monies of the institutions be deposited in the banks that furnish good security and bid the best rates of interest. The fairness of such plan could not be questioned.

Let us have politics in the election of national, state and county officers, but let us have no politics in the location of the capital, which will remain where it is, or in the administration of the educational affairs of New Mexico.

The New Mexico State University and Why It Should Have Loyal Support of All Public School Teachers

To the Journal:
I am enclosing herewith a stenographic report of the address delivered by Mr. M. L. Fox, in behalf of the University of New Mexico, at the session of the New Mexico Educational association, devoted to the institutions of higher education in the state.
It is such a clear statement of the functions of the state university, and of the relations that should exist between it and the other educational activities of the state that I believe it should have a much larger audience even than the one that greeted Mr. Fox when he made the address.
If you will kindly publish it, I am sure it will be very much appreciated by the friends of education in the state.
Very truly yours,
DAVID R. BOYD,
President University of New Mexico.

(Address of M. L. Fox, representing the state university on "Higher Institutions Day," in the New Mexico State Educational association.)

A Plea for the University.
If New Mexico is to take her place among the progressive commonwealths of the nation, she must have a great people educationally. There never has been a great people who did not have great institutions of learning backed by a comprehensive and efficient system of public schools. The difference between mankind of the twentieth century and mankind of the stone age is practically the work of the schoolmaster.

Those are those who are fond of saying that higher education excrates rather than energizes those who secure it. Because history contains the names of many distinguished people who never took a regular college course, it should not be understood that the knowledge they acquired was not so successfully was not the work of the college man who toiled and left records of what he did for the benefit of mankind.

Abraham Lincoln became the master of English composition by studying the books produced by the best scholars, and improving upon them.
Thomas A. Edison has taken the discoveries of the college man, Morse, and the college man, Bell, and applied to them his incomparable inventive genius. George F. Edmunds, one of the greatest constitutional lawyers of the world, was a student of the college man, and he was long enough to learn there is a difference between ten square miles and ten miles square, but he learned the law from the college men, Blackstone, Coke, Mansfield and a thousand others.

Best Agency Yet Devised.
I might pile up illustrations during the entire afternoon, but shall end this part of my subject with the statement that the college has shown itself to be the best agency that society has yet produced for the training of leaders. The college men administer the laws of the state, and they administer them in this nation, and it long has been said that the graduates of Oxford rule the British empire.

I want to lay all the emphasis possible on another point which I wish the teachers here to impress upon their pupils. The young man who expects to live in New Mexico should get his college education in New Mexico. During each year spent in the University of New Mexico each of them meets and makes close alliance of friendship with more than a hundred other young men who will become leaders of thought and action in the communities in which they live.
Let us imagine a young lawyer who is a graduate of the University of New Mexico. He not only will have the active co-operation of other young lawyers who have graduated during the time he was in college, but the assistance of the hundreds of those students who leave college before graduation. It is the kind of acquaintance that means the closest friendship, extending its mutual influence and assistance into every line of business.

As Good as Anywhere.
I speak advisedly when I say that the college student in the University of New Mexico can secure every wish as good education as he would likely find in any one of the big universities of the east. In many respects his opportunities in the University of New Mexico are better because he can have more time and individual attention from his teachers than is possible in the university schools of the east, imbued by thousands. James A.
Garfield said his idea of a university was a log with Mark Hopkins on one end, a student on the other, and a

With Scissors and Paste

THE RIGHT MAN, BUT FIFTY-ONE
(From the New York Globe.)

The municipal employment agency established by the city to assist the unemployed to find work, when it opens will not be in charge of the man who had been selected as superintendent. Walter L. Sears, for eight years head of the Massachusetts state employment agency, was picked as the most useful head of the agency, and the work of organizing it was carried on under his direction. It was discovered only on Saturday, however, that he is ineligible, as he is one year older than the age limit, which is 50 years.

It is unfortunate that the city should have to lose the services of Mr. Sears merely because he happens to be 51 years old instead of two scores and ten. Doubtless there are many men within the age limit who can ac-commodably fill the position, but of all those under discussion by the city authorities Mr. Sears was the first choice. But the civil service rules interfere, and if a way is not found to surmount the obstacle it will not be the first time they have been a hindrance to efficient and economical public administration.

This does not mean for a moment that civil service rules should be abolished, but only that some of their clinging details should be remodelled.
It is proper to set age limits, but in doing so we ought not to be blinded by that popular fallacy that a man in the neighborhood of 50 and in the prime of life has served his usefulness. Great Britain today, for instance, is in luck that a foolish civil service rule does not deprive her of the services of Kitchener, who can boast of 64 years.

FASHIONS MAKE THE WHEELS GO ROUND.

(Frances Frear in Leslie's.)

Textile manufacturers are not at the mercy of the fashion makers, but the latter have much to say as to what the factory output shall be. According to a fashion expert, last year's style of short and tight dresses reduced the amount of goods required in a dress by twenty-five to thirty-per cent, a factor which must have been directly productive of some of last season's loss. The double worth cared chiefly for his own verse, though Jeffrey pronounced that it would "never do." Dr. Johnson had no great opinion of Gray, nor did reverend Milton, who himself, we understand, thought more of "Paradise Regained" than of "Paradise Lost." William Morris looked coldly both on Milton and Wordsworth.

George Meredith sniffed at the reading of Meredith like "wading through glue." Tennyson's own "pet bantling" was "Maud," which the critics received with a chorus of scolding. His friend Edward Fitzgerald had the queerest quips of taste and repugnance. We know what scornful judgments Carlyle passed on the works of his contemporaries, as Harriet Martineau on their character. To de Quincey, Keats's poetry seemed mere "wax-work fillgree" and "glit gingerbread." Charlotte Bronte did not relish Jane Austen. Macaulay, an enthusiastic over-Jane Austen and Richardson, shut his eyes on the rising star of Dickens, and detested Carlyle's style, as his own has been denounced by later critics.
Goethe, himself a bore to some authors, was bored by Dante, and saw nothing great in Victor Hugo. Charles Lamb pooh-poohed "Faust" as a "disagreeable country tale of seduction." Sir H. Taylor found "Burns tedious." Tourgenief could not stand ten pages of Balzac. Tolstol thought little of Shakespeare, who has by many writers been judged "overrated"—by Wordsworth for one. If we can trust Lamb's report, but such presumptions criticism is usually kept unpublished from the public. W. S. Lander had no more admiration for Spenser than for Dryden, nor for such trash
as Werther and Wilhelm Meister.
More than one celebrated author indeed might have sat for Sir Fretful Plagiary, who could abide no books but his own.

HUMANITY.

(Whittier.)

Human life is the same everywhere.
If we could but get at the truth, we should find that all the tragedy and comedy of Shakespeare have been reproduced in this little village. God has made all of one blood; what is true of one man is in some sort true of another; manifestations may differ, but the essential elements and springs of action are the same.

MR. LOO'S HELLO GIRLS.

(Julian Street in Collier's.)

Those who knew San Francisco's Chinatown before the fire declare that its charm is gone, but my companion and I found interest in its shops, its printing offices and, most of all, in its telephone exchanges.
The San Francisco telephone directory has a section devoted to Chinatown, in which the names of Chinese subscribers are printed in both English and Chinese characters.

The operators are of course Chinese girls, and the exchange, which has over 1,000 subscribers, representing about a tenth of the population of the Chinese district, is under the management of Leo Kum Shu, who

Not only had no student from that section of the country ever taken a college degree before that school was taught, but no student from that community who was not in that nine-month term, taught more than twenty-five years ago, has ever taken a college degree since.

Any teacher here can do as well as that teacher did, in proportion to the number of pupils, if she only will try.
All she needs to do is to put her heart into her work to achieve results that it will be a pleasure to remember in after years.

I therefore beg of the teachers to impress upon their pupils the facts:
First, that New Mexico must have higher education if she is to be numbered among the progressive states.

Second, that a better education for a New Mexico youth can be secured in this state than in schools in other states.

Third, that you, as teachers, can inspire your pupils with ambition for higher education, and that you will not have done your duty by your pupils unless you utilize that opportunity for doing good.

try. The vogue of velvet hats during the middle and late summer gave velvet manufacturers the biggest summer they have had for years. Linen collars and cuffs, however, are invoking because of the new style calling for linen collars and cuffs for women's costumes, an innovation to which the laundryman offers not the slightest objection. Silk manufacturers in turn are made happy by the prevailing fashion, which makes silk and crepe the season's favorite underwear and lingerie fabric. Incidentally it should be noted that the manufacturers who have most to say in these fashion changes, and who reap the largest benefit from them, are those who, through judicious advertising, popularize their fabrics.

BARBIE'S SHYNESS.
(The Century.)

Propose of Barbie's shyness, Henry Drummond's advice to Ralph Connor as to the best method of finding Barrie at a crowded reception was: "Look around until you find a hole, look down the hole and you will see Barrie."

There exists a snapshot in Barbie's own words that gives a glimpse of him just as he looks and acts at the desk "by the window." It is my compensible weakness," he says to himself, "what if I say a character smiled vacuously, I must smile vacuously; if he frowns or looks, I frown or look.
If he is a coward or given to contortions, I cringe or twist my legs until I have to stop writing to undo the knot. I bow with him, eat with him and know my mustache with him. If the character be a lady with an exquisite laugh, I suddenly terrify you by laughing exquisitely. One reads of the astounding versatility of an actor who is stout and lean on the same evening, but what is he to the character who is a dozen persons within the hour?"

COMPENSATION.
The wind which stirs the fretting dust
Blows up the southern rain.
There is no evil all unjust
Nor any good all gain.

AUTHORS JUDGED BY AUTHORS.

(The Writer.)

The judgments of writers who assessed the role of critics of their fellows are cleverly put together by A.
R. Hope Monchell in his new volume,
"A Book About Authors." "Swimburne," he says, "so outspoken in his worth and abused Southey. Words-elaborately frescoed with dragons and other Chinese designs, while the woodwork is of ebony and gold. The charming.

HUMILITY OF KNOWLEDGE.

Firestone Smashes Another World's Record

300 MILES WITHOUT A STOP AT AN AVERAGE SPEED OF OVER 85½ MILES PER HOUR

THAT is the wonderful record of Barney Oldfield on Firestone Tires at the famous Corona, California, Race Thanksgiving Day.

It is by far the greatest no-stop record on any road or track in the history of motor car racing.
Think of the terrific heat—nearly four solid hours of the relentless grinding at this tortuous speed. Twenty cars were in the race, but Oldfield was the only driver who did not stop for tire changes.

Firestone TIRES

—less than three weeks previous to the Corona Victory—got the First, Second and Third honor in the Los Angeles-Phoenix
Race and First place in the El Paso-Phoenix Event. These two races, known as the "Cactus Derby," put tires to a grueling test of over 1200 miles of unfrequented, rough mountain trails and burning desert sands. Here all nature's wildest forces were encountered, but Firestone, already World Victorious, stood the test by winning these,
the greatest road races ever run.

This constant piling up of victory upon victory, year after year, is significant.

This wonderful strength is built into every Firestone Tire—the same heat resistance, the same fighting endurance.

The reason is in the making—in the abundance of good rubber and the strongest fabric—built into a staunch unit by the exclusive method of Firestone master workmen.

For your safety and saving, every day, you should demand Firestones.

BUSINESS MAKES GOOD PROGRESS
DURING WEEKTrading Demonstrates That a Substantial Demand Exists
at Prices Above Minimum Quotations.

THE MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL CREDIT WIRE, New York, Dec. 5.—Developments during the week indicated steady progress toward the resumption of normal conditions in security markets. The date for the final removal of all obstacles to free trading remained more or less obscure, however.

The trading of the week demonstrated that a substantial demand existed here at prices above the minimum fixed for the protection of collateral and bank loans.

The course of the money market with call loans down to 3½ per cent added to the cheerful outlook in the monetary situation, time loans and renewals showing proportionate ease.

Today's business in stocks, while not disclosed, was reported to show an increase for the two hours for the same period of the early days of the week.

Contrary to reports, the special committee in charge of the stock exchange today announced that plans to effect a resumption of open dealings in stocks had not yet gone beyond the tentative stage.

This week's bank statement was especially interesting in that it was the first full and complete exhibit made since the outbreak of the war and the first comprehensive report of its kind since the new federal reserve system became operative. Actual cash loss of $10,775,000 was much under general estimates, while the loan expansion of about $22,500,000 was ascribed to various syndicate operations.

The following are the closing prices issued by the stock exchange committee last night:

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Wheat rose in price here today, helped by advancing quotations at Liverpool and by reports that Italy was purchasing on a large scale in Argentina. The market closed firm, ½¢ to ¾¢ above last night. Corn finished unchanged to a sixteenth down; oats, unchanged to ½¢ up, and provisions at 2½¢ to 5¢ to 7¢ to 10¢ decline.

Reports of increased speculative buying at Liverpool, which was said to have accompanied a material upturn there in the price of wheat had a tendency to draw rather more attention than usual to the foreign outlook. Assertions in regard to the Italian government having contracted to take one-third of the estimated surplus of the Argentine crop added to bullish sentiment, although not by any means given full credence. On the contrary, a majority of traders here seemed to lean for the time being to the idea that high ocean freights and war risks would prove an effective barrier to heavy Argentine shipments and that the United States would not have any burdensome competition during the next two months.

Corn at first hardened with wheat and as a result of rain and active demand for feedings. The bulls were handicapped, though, by knowledge that receipts for the week had been about the largest on record at this time of the year. Oats kept to a narrow range.

Predictions of generous receipts of hogs next week more than wiped out early gains in the provision market. Packers led the selling.

Closing prices:
Wheat—Dec., $1.17; May, $1.21½.
Corn—Dec., 63½¢; May, 69¢.
Oats—Dec., 48½¢; May, 62½¢.
Pork—Jan., $18.10; May, $18.52.
Lard—Jan., $9.70; May, $9.95.
Ribs—Jan., $9.70; May, $10.05.

STATEMENT OF RESERVE BANKS.

Washington, Dec. 5.—The consolidated statement of the twelve federal reserve banks with the close of business December 4, made public today by the federal reserve board, shows little difference from that of a week ago. It follows:

Resources.
Gold coin and certificates, $230,912,000.
Legal tender notes, silver certificates and subsidiary coin, $32,020,000.
Total, $262,932,000.

Liabilities Discounted and Loans.
Maturities within thirty days, $7,724,000.
Maturities within sixty days, $1,025,000.
Other, $1,095,000.
Total, $9,844,000.

All other resources, $308,000.
Total resources, $273,084,000.

Liabilities.
Capital paid in, $18,047,000.
Reserve deposits, $251,067,000.
Federal reserve notes in circulation, (net amount) $2,970,000.
Total liabilities, $273,084,000.

Gold reserve against all liabilities, 90 per cent.
Cash reserve against all liabilities, 163 per cent.

Cash reserve against liabilities after setting aside 40 per cent gold reserve against federal reserve notes in circulation, 104 per cent.
