THE FIRST CHRISTMAS.

Matthew 2:1-12.
Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born king of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him. And when the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded of them where Christ should be born. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judaea, for thus it is written by the prophet, And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a governor, that shall rule over Israel. Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, inquired of them diligently what time the star appeared. And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child, and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also. When they had heard the king, they departed, and lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts, gold, frankincense, and myrrh. And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

The Journal wishes a merry Christmas to all of its readers, and to everybody everywhere. Never before has there been such manifestation of the Christmas spirit in the United States as this year. Municipal Christmas trees have featured a large percentage of the American cities; the order of Good Fellows, that organization of the heart, that operates without charter or by-law, with the one object of doing kindly deeds to those who need kindness, has seen to it that those who are destitute and in the blackness of despair have something of the holiday cheer, something to cause them to smile.

But the American Christmas spirit looked further than the borders of the United States. Sixty million Christmas presents were sent to the children of the nations at war who have lost parents or other dear ones on the battlefield or whose fathers or brothers are in the hospitals or in the trenches.

The presents were sent to the children of Germany, of France, of Great Britain, of Austria, of Serbia, of Belgium, of little Montenegro and to the farthest corners of vast Russia. Such thing never was done before, since the world began to revolve on its axis, and nothing occurring within the century has approximated the far-reaching influence of the Christmas spirit displayed by the people of the United States toward the suffering peoples of the belligerent countries. It will bind the peoples of the world closer together than war has discovered them, and millions of children will remember with a glow of gratitude the kindly deeds of the Americans, at peace when nearly all the rest of the world was engaged in war.

What the United States has done to relieve the sufferings of the hungry people of Holokau, what it has done in sending the Red Cross on missions of mercy to care for the sick and wounded, what it has done in the way of bringing Santa Claus to the children of the belligerent nations, is the highest exemplification of the spirit of Christ, as foretold in the highly poetic language of St. Luke:

"Through the tender mercy of our God, whereby the day-spring from on high hath visited us, to give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace."
Dimly, yet joyously, the people of the United States are celebrating the most stupendous event in the history of the human race—the birth of Jesus Christ, the Redeemer of the world. In that word Redeemer, there is an infinitude of meaning, of which the wonderful attitude of the people of this nation toward the needy of other countries is but one expression.

Instead of going to Florida or to California for the winter, the tourist should come to New Mexico where we have all sorts of winter weather on tap to suit the most fastidious taste. We have just had a Christmas snow storm that would be a credit to a Christmas in Chicago or New York; but tomorrow, the occasion for it having past, the weather will be like an ideal November day in any one of the eastern states.

RESOLVE TO WORK BETTER.

As the day approaches for new resolutions, the Journal would like to make a suggestion. Resolutions to stop doing things usually are worthless. What we need most is resolutions of the positive sort, not negative. Let us resolve to do things.

The gospel of this world is work—faithful, intelligent work, directed to a definite end. "Thank God every morning when you get up," wrote Charles Kingsley, "that you have something to do that day which must be done, whether you like it or not. Being forced to work, and forced to do your best, will breed in you temperance, self-control, strength of will, content and a hundred other virtues which the idle never know."

Nothing is more unfortunate than for people to believe that to earn one's living by the sweat of one's brow is a curse inflicted upon mankind for disobedience in the garden of Eden. The world owes no man a living until he has earned it by faithful service. A living got in any other way than by service is useless and worthless. If a man inherits a living, he has merely received his pay in advance, and his obligation to earn it is quite as imperative as though he were working for wages to be paid at the end of the day or the week or the month after the work was done. The father who strives to lay up a fortune for his children, in the hope they may not have to work as he worked, has a wrong idea of the duty he owes to his children. If he leaves them money, it should be with the understanding that they are simply being paid in advance for the work they are to do, and they should be trained for and impressed with the duty of earning what they have already received, and more.

At the age of forty-seven, Edison said: "Judged by the standard of the ordinary man's working day, I am much older than I look. The average working day is eight hours long. For twenty-one years I have worked an average of nineteen hours per day. That would make me eighty-two years old. I can continue to find my greatest pleasure, and so my reward, in the work that precedes what the world calls success."

If the man draws from his employer the same wages for eight hours work that he would get for twelve hours, he should insist upon the eight hours, and then devote four hours, or six, to work for another employer, perhaps himself, and the last paymaster will be more generous than the first.

There are two kinds of war poets, says the New York Times. Quite true, and then come the poets.

THE TREATY OF GHENT.

Arrangements were announced yesterday for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of peace between the English-speaking people of the world. One hundred years ago yesterday, the Treaty of Ghent was signed ending the war of 1812, though the fighting was not actually ended then, the battle of New Orleans occurring January 8, 1815. The transmission of news at that time was so slow that neither the British invaders nor the American defenders under Jackson had had time to learn that no war actually existed between the two countries.

Since that time all difficulties have been adjusted by diplomacy and along three thousand miles of border between the United States and the British North American possessions, there is not a single fort or armed camp and no war vessel troubles the waters of the Great Lakes.

The English-speaking people have been at peace for a century, and there is no reason why that peace should not last forever.

Turkey is getting out a colored book explaining why the enemy seized the ax.

Again, we say, A merry Christmas to everybody.

JOHN BASKERVILLE'S BOOKS.

What is it that makes the life and work of this middle-aged, vain and silly Birmingham Englishman interesting to us? Why do we collect his imprint, and why do we talk about him? I think it is because he had the true artistic vision and courage. He conceived the idea of a perfect book, and then a better one until at last he achieved the beautiful book. He conceived the book as an artist conceives a statue before he strikes a blow with his chisel into the marble. It was wonderful that he should have done so. He had grown up in a manufacturing and mercantile business, making paper work for sale and profiting by its sale. Most men never get out of the work and the ideas of the work which they do until they are 50 years of age. He did. Why was it? I think, as I have said, it was because he had an artistic perception and conceived the thing which he was to do and adhered to his conception. Everything shows that he wrought in the true artistic spirit; having conceived the thing to be done, he proceeded to do it. All his work was executed upon a hand press. His printing office was what we should call a private printing office in his house. He cut the type; he made his ink and improved the press; he devised the paper, and from the start to finish the work was his. Everybody who will do better work than anybody else must have the spirit and the conception of the work he purposes, and must adhere to it, or he will not produce perfect work. It is this that makes Baskerville interesting to us, and makes the productions of his little private press treasures in the world of art.

INVASION OF UNITED STATES.

(New York Evening Post.)

When a history of the great war, as it affected the United States, is written fifty years hence the hysteria of the organizers of safety leagues to prevent our being invaded by the victors in the European struggle will doubtless afford one of the most entertaining chapters.

No nation could possibly land 100,000 men here, save after weeks and months of preparation. Probably only England, with her great sea power, could accomplish this at all. It was shown by a prominent British writer in the war scare of 1909 that to move a force of 200,000 German soldiers to England, with all their guns, ammuni-

Peter Cooper Hewitt Invents Apparatus to Multiply the Wonders of the Wireless

(New York Times)

Peter Cooper Hewitt, inventor of the mercury vapor electric lamp, of the Cooper Hewitt mercury vapor rectifier, which cut to less than half the amount of apparatus required to change alternating current to direct for storage batteries, and of other practical electrical appliances that have found large use in industry, has been working later than usual in his laboratory in the Madison Square Garden tower for several months.

Last evening he told for the first time of the experiments which have been keeping him so closely to the five floors of the tower which he uses. He believed, he said, that he had above perfected a variation of the vacuum rectifier which would multiply the possibilities of wireless telegraphy and telephony. He has already perfected the receiving apparatus and is putting the final touches on the sending part which, he says, is producing excellent results even in its present imperfect state.

Aside from its commercial uses, Mr. Hewitt thinks the new wireless telephone appliances will be very valuable for military purposes. The apparatus is not cumbersome and could be easily transported. With it the inventor believes it will be possible to use atomic instruments that messages cannot be intercepted.

Would Give Invention to Allies.
Mr. Hewitt is a grandson of Peter Cooper and a son of the late Mayor Hewitt, but he explained, his ancestors were English and French, and as soon as the invention is perfected it will be offered to the allies for use in the war.

"The receiving apparatus has been in working condition for some time, but I am still adding improvements to it," he said, indicating a glass tube with the blue light in it on a table across the room. "The Marconi people recently tried it out at their Glace Bay station, for it is applicable to wireless telegraph or telephone, and expressed themselves as highly pleased."

Some of the main points of the vacuum wireless receiver are these: It is capable of catching waves either shorter or longer than are made by any wireless apparatus thus far constructed. The inventor believes it can catch waves of any length whatever. It is so highly sensitive that it will detect and magnify sufficiently for the human ear to grasp the weakest sort of electric current, making it possible to pick up messages which would be lost to the coarser apparatus in general use. Unlike the wireless apparatus now in use, the new receiver is not affected by electrical storms, but could continue to record messages even though the receiver were struck by lightning. The instrument can be tuned at will to catch varying wave lengths, and the alteration can be made quickly enough to prevent the missing of a word in a continuous message.

tion, horses, forage, transport wagons and food supplies for three weeks, would take every ship in the German merchant marine, including all those in service in Asian and Australian waters, and that the speed of this impossible fleet could not be much over twelve miles an hour. What such an undertaking would be across 3,000 miles of water, anyone can figure out from the weeks it took the Japanese to transport their army to Manchuria and for us to send a few thousand men to the Philippines.

RISE OF ENGLISH MILITARISM.

(A. G. Gardner in London Daily News.)

Already you may see how the hopes of the champions of the ancient barbarism are growing. There appeared this week a translation of a book by a French priest, the Abbe Dimmet. It contains the whole gospel of Treitschke as to the medicinal virtues of war, but throughout the main thought of the priest was, not external victory, but internal reaction. The fruit that is to be plucked from the defeat of Germany is the defeat of republicanism, France and the restoration of royalism and clericalism to power. War, in short, is to be the instrument for destroying democracy.

And so here, if you wish to understand the war of ideals which is being waged behind this war of the battlefield, read a paper like the Morning Post. I choose that because, unlike its rivals, it is honest and courageous. It is "a straight-spoken kind of critter and blurt right out wote's in its head." And what is in its head is very clear. It makes no pretense about fighting against militarism. It is fighting for militarism. It believes, like Treitschke, that war is an eternal condition of society, and, to quote Mr. Bigelow again—

That peace, to make it stick at all, must be drawn with bayonets.

It has no objection to Germany's gospel of the "matted fist," for it is its own gospel. "War," it says, "will endure as long as human nature," and then it bursts into an ecstasy on the virtues of war that Bernhardi might envy. It has no objection apparently even to the German chancellor's "scrap of paper" doctrine, for it gave prominence this week to a demand that this country should repudiate international law and "hack its way through" treaties in the German fashion, adding that if America does not like it, let her understand that she must drop her role as neutral and come out and fight like the rest. You will gather from this tricolored that things are going well in the field.

WHICH?
How to define a novel.
Where the author has paused, afraid.
On meeting a "situation."
To call a spade a spade,
So fills in the gap ensuing
With printer's stars all in a row:
Is it "risky" or asterisky?
Now, that's what I'd like to know!

SCHOOL FIGURES GIVEN BY WHITE ARE ELOQUENT

Educational Development of State Reflected in Report to Governor by Superintendent of Instruction.

Santa Fe, Dec. 24.—The following are some of the eloquent figures from the biennial report of State Superintendent of Public Schools Alvan N. White, filed with Governor McDonald, yesterday.

School districts, 1016, of which 983 are rural and 33 city. Of these districts 690 have one room, 125, two rooms, and 35 three rooms. These districts are taught by 1,503 teachers.

Enrollment, 72,736, of which 67,147 are in the public schools and 6,589 in other schools. Average attendance, 54,032, of which 49,823 are in the public schools. Percentage of enrollment to school census, 65.9 per cent, as against 61 per cent the year before. Percentage of attendance to enrollment, 74.2, as against 65.6 per cent the year before.

It is deplorable, however, that of the enrollment only 2,270 are in the eighth grade, 2,578 in the seventh, 3,750 in the sixth, 4,782 in the fifth, while in the fourth it is 6,032 in the third, 8,218, in the second, 10,691, and 19,872 in the first, while in the primary are 4,386.

Of the 1,893 teachers, 531 are men, 1,161 women. The average annual salary was $438.01, the men receiving $35.97, the women $438.94; monthly salary, $36.52, the men, $29.93, the women, $36.52. However, 333 teachers receive less than $200 a year; 605 receive less than $300, and only 259 receive more than $300. Life professional certificates were held by forty-eight teachers; three and five-year professional certificates were held by seventy-two; county first-grade certificates by 607; second-grade by 457, and third-grade by 359, while only forty-five held permits.

High School Statistics.

There are fourteen county high schools and one city high school, which is the only one of its kind in the state. The state extended $43,768.47 for state aid to the rural schools during the past two years to enable them to maintain a minimum term of 100 days and additional state aid amounting to $43,095.02 was granted for new school buildings. The districts having no school at all have been reduced in two years from eighty-six to none.

The past year, $1,400,907.51 was received for public schools of which $1,346,402.54 was expended. The balance on hand was $54,505.03, as against $50,897.42 the year before. For teachers' salaries, $825,639.83 were expended; janitors' wages, $35,129.23; books for indigent children, $578; new buildings and furniture, $204,355.40; interest on bonds, $88,278.97; school supplies, $28,331.98; fuel, $30,102.76. The sum of $5,490.98 of poll taxes; from a direct tax $784,027.93 was received; from liquor licenses, $84,755.14; apportionments, $228,611.13; sales of bonds, $50,870.88; state aid, $61,094.78; tuition, $1,628.34.

Denominational Schools.

There are in the state twenty Catholic schools with 142 teachers and 2,689 pupils; thirteen Presbyterian schools with forty-six teachers and 578 pupils; five Congregational schools with sixteen teachers and 316 pupils; three Methodist schools with twenty-one teachers and 213 pupils; one Christian reform school with thirty pupils; one Holiness college with fifty-eight pupils; one Seventh Day Adventist school with twenty-one pupils; five private schools with 284 pupils; twenty-six United States Indian schools with 141 teachers and 2,291 children enrolled.

IRREGULARITY OF PRICES ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Investment and Speculative Shares Remain at or Near Minimum Fixed by Rules of Governing Board.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)

New York, Dec. 24.—In its essentials, today's stock market continued to traverse the ground of the last few days. More minimum prices were registered in shares of investment and speculative values, the list including Canadian Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and the Southern Railway, while United States Steel and Southern Pacific repeated their established low quotations of the preceding session. More than a score of inactive and miscellaneous stock sold lower than before.

Opening prices reflected the same degree of irregularity so long prevalent, followed by rallies which carried the leaders one to two points above yesterday's close. The advance appeared to be the result of short covering more than anything else and when the demand from that quarter ceased stocks fell back from sheer inertia.

The local bond market was heavy on small turnover. The transactions, par value, aggregated $1,108,000. United States government bonds were unchanged on call.

len off despite Argentine advances favoring the bear side. "The market closed steady at a shade decline to 1/4% advance, compared with last night. Corn wound up with a gain of 1/4% and oats, of 1/4%. The outcome in provisions was unchanged to 10c higher.

Export houses promptly took off for wheat as soon as the market had undergone a setback. The down turn desired by the representatives of foreigners came early as a result of a decline of 2c at Buenos Aires.

On the other hand the bullish reaction here was accompanied by the announcement that export clearances from the United States during the last two days had amounted to as much as 2,500,000 bushels.

Friends of high prices were gratified over the fact that durum wheat today at Minneapolis touched $1.45 a bushel, overtaking all previous records. The American supply of this grade is said to be now virtually exhausted, the result of immediate purchases for Italy.

Predictions of unsettled weather helped to broaden the demand for corn.

Oats hardened with corn. The chief feature was the buying of May by cash houses.

In provisions the call from outside interests more than offset hedging sales by packers. Grain concerns led the buying.

Closing prices:

Wheat—Dec., $1.26; May, $1.29. Corn—Dec., 64 1/2c; May, 72 1/2c. Oats—Dec., 49 1/2c; May, 52 1/2c. Pork—Jan., $18.35; May, $18.95. Lard—Jan., $10.32; May, $10.55. Hides—Jan., $10.12; May, $10.47.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Cattle—Receipts 30,000. Market strong. Native steers, $5.40 to $6.00; western steers, $5.10 to $5.80; calves, $7.00 to $8.50. Sheep—Receipts, 10,000. Market firm. Sheep, $5.00 to $6.50; lambs, $6.50 to $8.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 8,000. Market lower. Bulk, $6.95 to $7.10; heavy, $7.05 to $7.15; pigs, $6.25 to $6.50.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

Boston, Dec. 24.—The Commercial Bulletin will say of the wool market Saturday:

There has been an increased volume of business in the market this week and prices for all medium to low grades are higher than they were. Sales have included considerable territory, fine and fine medium at firm rates while medium wools are fractionally higher. B Super wools are very keen and dearer.

The situation at the mills seems to be without material change, although the situation so far as military cloth is concerned is somewhat keener.

Scoured basis: Texas fine, twelve months, 56 1/2c; fine eight months, 55 1/2c.

California northern, 54 1/2c; mid-land country, 51 1/2c; southern, 48 1/2c. Oregon eastern No. 1 staple, 61 1/2c; eastern clothing, 56 1/2c; valley No. 1, 48 1/2c.

Territory fine staple, 62 1/2c; fine medium staple, 59 1/2c; fine clothing, 57 1/2c; fine medium clothing, 55 1/2c; half-blood combing, 60 1/2c. Pulled extra, 42 1/2c; AA, 53 1/2c; fine A, 56 1/2c; A supers 53 1/2c.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

New York, Dec. 24.—Dun's Review will say on Saturday:

The railroad rate decision, the continued big exports of wheat and other products and the cold weather, which stimulates retail distribution, exerted the most important influence in the markets this week. December is not usually a month for large developments in business activity but the recent progress in financial recuperation, the rapid establishment of a big balance of trade in favor of this country and the rate decision giving a large part of the relief asked for from the Interstate Commerce commission combine to create a favorable out the record-breaking reports in their statement.

When the last messenger had delivered his basket in Chicago tonight, it was estimated that a child in the city would be without a present tomorrow. The city's "official Santa Claus"—Assistant Postmaster John Hubbard—listed all the letters sent to St. Nick and each child who wrote was remembered. The army of the unemployed, numbering thousands this year, will be provided with special Christmas dinners at the municipal lodging houses and other refuges.

The work of charity was not confined to the cities alone. In Ohio, 1,700 convicts in the state's prison were given "home rule" as their Christmas gift. The fifteen thousand coal miners in the eastern Ohio coal fields were given food and clothing, while the miners' organizations and the mining companies united in Colorado to bring relief and comfort to those who had suffered in the Colorado coal strike.

The federal government joined in the celebration by giving a five-dollar gold piece to each of two hundred Comanche Indian school children at Lawton, Okla.

At Detroit, the celebration took on international tone, the mayors of Detroit and Windsor, Ontario, exchanging greetings and congratulations.

Kansas City even provided feasts for the horses with half a bushel of oats as the main course.

Boy scouts in various cities played the part of Santa Claus and distributed presents among the needy.

Throughout the central west clear and cold weather aided the celebration. A heavy blanket of snow covered most of this section of the country.

BOY SCOUTS PLAY SANTA CLAUS IN KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Dec. 24.—Five thousand persons, two thousand of them boy scouts, played Santa Claus in Kansas City's Christmas celebration tonight. They played Santa Claus for children, for grown persons, for European war sufferers, for Colorado strike sufferers and for animals.

The boy scouts working in troops, co-operated with a charitable organization known as the Good Fellows on the caring for the city's poor. They represented so far as they knew not a poverty stricken family had been neglected.

Boxes of clothing and food, collected under the direction of Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the federal commission in industrial relations, were sent to the Colorado strike sufferers. Tomorrow plans are being made to entertain 2,500 children in convention hall at the mayor's Christmas tree.

The horses of the city were given a Christmas dinner at Convention hall, every animal getting half a bushel of oats.

CHRISTMAS CANDLES SUPPORT
HOLLY AND MISTLETOE

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 24.—In thousands of windows here tonight candles were burning in commemoration of the birth of Christ child. The custom in vogue throughout several European countries, was widely adopted this year and to a degree supplanted the display of holly leaves and mistletoe boughs.

HOLY SUNDAY BREAKS UP CHRISTMAS IN DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 24.—Interest in the revival meeting of the Rev. W. A. Sunday, the baseball evangelist, which closed here last Sunday, was responsible for the lack of preparation for any special observance of Christmas tomorrow. Charitable organizations tonight finished distributing gifts.

INDOOR TREE IS OMAHA INNOVATION

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 24.—It is probable that Christmas was never before more generally observed in Omaha than the present year. The municipal Christmas tree, inaugurated last year, was repeated this evening in the Omaha auditorium instead of in the open air as before.

Christmas trade was reported by the merchants of the city about normal as to volume.

SEVENTY-FIVE TREES IN ST. LOUIS CELEBRATION

St. Louis, Dec. 24.—Christmas festivities here opened this evening with a municipal celebration around a great illuminated cedar tree which had been set up on Twelfth street plaza. Seventy-five smaller trees lined the plaza. A chorus of 250 sang Christmas carols around the tree after which they went to all parts of the city and sang in front of every window in which a lighted candle had been placed.

SOUTH AMERICA
PLANS METHODS OF NEUTRALITY

Propositions Considered Are Those of Chile and Peru,
With Another to Be Suggested by Argentina.

Washington, Dec. 24.—Committees to consider the plans already presented by various South American countries for the maintenance of neutrality by the republics of the western hemisphere were named at today's meeting of the special commission of the governing board of the Pan-American Union.

Three committees were named, one to consider the Peruvian plan; another the plan of Chile, and a third to give its attention to a plan which Argentina may present later.

The Peruvian plan would provide for enlarged neutral zones in both the Atlantic and Pacific, to be declared free from all activities of belligerent warships and wide-open to all neutral shipping. The Chilean plan provides that belligerent vessels in American ports should be given only enough coal to take them to the nearest port in the adjoining country, unless they agree to go direct to European ports. And that if any merchant ship violates Chile's rule of neutrality no coal shall be furnished in a Chilean port to any vessel belonging to the company owning the offending vessel.

GERMANS SOLVE
TRANSPORTATION

Servian troops in the Macva campaign. It was not necessary to make a demonstration with the warriors of Attila to get results. But the devoted cavalry for cavalry tactics and Austro-Hungarian army regulations. True to the instincts of the cowboy, he rides "up and at them," takes cover when ever necessary and does more work only when the chances for it are good.

At Mitrovic some 500 Servian infantrymen surrendered to a Hovved patrol of forty men. The Hovveds, it appears, had ridden around the Servs so many times that the latter believed themselves attacked by at least a division of these Magyar horsemen.

It is predicted that there will be little cavalry in Europe after this war, and that the governments will concentrate their efforts and means upon motor transportation for their foot troops. The operations of the Germans in Belgium and France have already demonstrated the great value of this, and the trench war now in progress leaves no sphere for the mounted man. It is true also of the hill fighting in Servia and the mud and swamp hampered operations in Galicia and Russian Poland.

In no other field of the war has the cavalry been a success since the first encounters. Ground is gained and lost not by miles, as heretofore, but by feet and yards, and in these fronts, measured by the hundreds of kilometers there is hardly such a flank which cavalry might back up or envelop.
