SAVED HIS LIFE.
"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H.
C. Christenson of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsel of food. Finally I was confined to my bed. Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all."

Editor Lynch of the Daily Post, Phil-Honey and Tar is the best thing of the kind I have ever used and I cannot say too much in praise of it." Fischer

Gold in the Black Hills.
The Burlington Route has recently issued a 48 page booklet bearing the title "Mining and the Black Hills." The book is one which should be read by every mining man in Colorado. It gives more information about the mines of the Black Hills than has ever before been placed between two covers. A copy will be mailed free on application to the undersigned.

The Black Hills need Colorado men and money. Several of the shrewdest men in this state have already invested heavily in the Hills. The results so far have been more than satisfactory. The completion of the Burlington's new line to the Northwest brings the Black Hills within a night's ride of Denver. You can leave Denver tonight and be in Deadwood or Lead City tomorrow afternoon.

An Interrupted Revenge

By JOHN GASTON

(Copyright, 1901, by Authors Syndicate.)

"WHO IS the distinguished looking man who came in then with Mr. Campbell?"
The person to whom the question was addressed glanced across the reception hall and replied:
"Robert Gordon. He is the fellow about whom the newspapers are saying so much—the lobbyist from New York who has succeeded in getting the Consolidated Telephone ordinances through the council. Handsome, isn't he?"

"Remarkably so. Still, on a closer view his expression is not entirely pleasant, and I should say that he bears marks of dissipation—not grossly, but there is something that suggests wine, women and song at unhappy hours—or am I mistaken? Is that pallor natural?"

A woman standing near bent a keen glance at the man as his name was mentioned, and the slightest suggestion of a flush appeared on her cheeks.
It was the first time she had laid eyes on him since the night she had jilted him for Frederick Markham. That was 19 years ago. They were both young —about 18—and had been sweethearts from childhood. He was still in college, a brilliant boy and a career predicted for him. But the career was a long way off and Gordon had little other than expectations.

Frederick Markham was rich and well-connected and ten years his senior. He offered her all the things so dear to the girl just budding into society, and she had accepted him and thrown Gordon over. She had not anticipated such a scene, however, as followed when she told him that she was to marry Markham. He accused her bitterly of heartlessness and of deliberately leading him on for the sake of amusement. He swore that she had ruined his life and for the wreck that would follow she was responsible by every law of God and of man. He told her that he would never again believe in the sincerity of a human creature.
He would live, he declared, solely to gratify his senses, and he wished her much joy in the sale she had made of herself. It was the speech of a hot-headed, high-spirited, disappointed boy. It all came up before her with nightmare years later with startling vividness as she looked at him across the reception hall.

And it had eventuated much as he had predicted. He had finished his college course and studied law, while plunging into extreme dissipation.
His great natural abilities had carried him through and he had settled in New York, where, instead of devoting himself to his profession, he had used his brilliant qualities to forward all sorts of questionable schemes. He had become a very successful lobbyist.

He had never visited the home city since his interview with the woman until this time, when he had come to force through the city council the most audacious and notorious measure that had ever been attempted in the city.
And he had succeeded and it was without that he had secured a small fortune for his work.

She was surprised at the great change in the man, and still more surprised at the unchanged resemblance to the ingenuous, enthusiastic youth she had known. He looked scarcely older, excepting for the premature gray hair, although the face had lost its roundness and the cheeks were white with pallor.

While all this flashed through her mind Robert Gordon and Mr. Campbell were surrounded by a merry party of ladies and gentlemen, to whom the former was being presented. When Mrs. Markham glanced toward the party, Gordon was being presented to her daughter, a tall, handsome, vivacious girl of 18. The mother noted the look of startled recognition in his eyes (the girl was a perfect prototype of her mother at the same age), and noted also the slight flush in his pale cheek.
The mask of indifference had vanished from his face and he entered at once into an animated conversation with the girl. An expression of anxiety came into the face of Mrs. Markham and the shadow of a great apprehension crossed her heart. Then she straightened herself haughtily and withdrew to herself.

"What an idea. I must be going into second childhood."

During the entire evening Gordon monopolized Miss Markham's attention, and at the close handed her to the carriage—all to the considerable discomfiture of her mother.

Robert Gordon did not return at once to New York as he had announced previously. The weeks faded into months and still he occupied the handsomest suite at the Royal and hung over the dainty hand of the young heiress of the Markham fortune. Mrs. Markham fretted and stewed, but her expostula-tions fell on unheeding ears. The girl felt the strong attraction toward the handsome man of the world ever felt by daughters toward the men who have been the unsuccessful suitors for their mothers' hands; and as for Markham, he was charmed by the dominant personality of the New Yorker.

The mother's apprehensions were not unfounded, however, and one day the father awoke to the situation and there was a most serious talk between Clara's parents. It was fully evident that the girl was madly in love with the brilliant lobbyist, and when the matter was talked over Frederick Markham saw at once that it was not a proper match for the daughter. Then there was a serious interview with the girl, who was told plainly the character of the man.

She resented it passionately, and the result was that a few days later Robert Gordon formally proposed to Markham for the hand of his daughter. In reply to the indignant refusal of the father Gordon coolly informed him that he already had the consent of the girl and proposed to marry her in any event—with the parental consent if possible, without it if necessary. Clara when consulted cast her lot with Gordon. All revelations concerning Gordon's carrier and record were without avail.
Then the mother in desperation went to Gordon's apartments at the Royal and made a pathetic appeal to him.

"There can be no happiness in such a match," she said. "When she awakens to the realities she will be heartbroken—as you well know. There is no happiness in such a marriage either for her or for you. I do not know what you are after. I will not insult you by intimating that you seek her money. If you do it shall be yours without a marriage. In any event I conjure you by a mother's love; by the memory of the old times when we were friends—more than friends, do not destroy my daughter's life."

Rising from his chair where he had sat nonchalant and unconcerned during the interview, Gordon advanced directly in front of the excited woman who stood with clasped hands and flushed face pouring out her heart, and said in a voice hoarse with emotion:

"It has been my dream for 19 years to see you in front of me pleading for something dear to your heart. I never dared to hope the dream would come true—certainly not in the manner it has. Let me tell you, I will give you your heart's desire just as you gave me mine 19 years ago. You chose deliberately to ruin my life. You were merciless—even scornful. What I am, I am as a result of your heartlessness.
What I am is the result of your faithlessness. All the reasons that make me in your estimation an unfit husband for your daughter are the result of your ambition and your advice. I was not a man of bad instincts in the old days. I was not void of ambition. All this you deliberately killed. You sapped all the good out of my nature and threw me aside, a mere husk. Now you appeal to the moral nature you destroyed. I never dreamed of so perfect a revenge until I saw the girl—your very second self, and then I saw the way to make you suffer even as I have suffered. And you must suffer to the end. I will not spare you. Go and tell the girl what I have said—and that I am your old lover, if you please. She will not believe it and I will deny it. It is your own to walk the floor now. I have done it for 19 years. Oh, I will lead your proud and sensitive girl a pretty dance, I promise you."

He caught her as she fainted, and after applying restoratives showed her to her carriage.

The wedding was a swell affair and the newly-wedded pair went abroad for a honeymoon tour.

It was ten months later at Venice, when the crisis came. They had lingered there for five weeks enjoying the soft languor of the Italian skies.
The months had been a revelation to Gordon. Never had he supposed earth held such joy as he had found in the golden weeks that had slipped by since his marriage. As he penetrated further and further into the nature of the woman who had married him despite warning and evil report, he sounded depths of tenderness that he never expected had existed. Far from carrying out his threat and intention to break her heart, he became inspired day by day with the deepest reverence for her. This soft evening in Venice the climax came.
He crossed over to where his wife sat and said:

"Clara, I have a confession to make. I cannot go on in this way with a lie in my heart. I did not marry you with a clean soul and from pure love. All they have said about me is true. Your mother knew me better than any living person, and she told you the truth. Since I have known you as wife I have come to learn somewhat of your real worth, and a great loathing of myself has taken possession of me until life seems only tolerable on the condition that I cease to act a lie and that you know me as I am. Forgive me? I was cruelly hurt by a woman once and I charged it to all womankind. I will make any amends you say. I will leave you if you will—it is anything, anything, no matter how hard so I stand at least honest in your sight."

With a broken sob she sank on one knee and buried his face in his hands.
In an instant she was beside him with both arms about his neck.

"I knew you better than you know yourself," she whispered.

Frederick H. Hastings.
It was on the beach at Southampton. A number of children were playing and digging in the sand in charge of two nurses and governesses. Two little fellows in immaculate white duck sailor suits had scrapped up an acquaintance. Neither of them was much over three years old.

"I live in New York," said one, with somewhat of an air of superiority, "and where do you live?" The other chap looked him over for a moment and then retorted: "I live at Tuxedo Park. How many houses does your father keep?"

This last was a crusher, but it showed the spirit of the rising moneyed generation.—N. Y. Times.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.
A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuge is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove.
DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition.
They stimulate the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or diarrhea. Safe pills. Ireland's Pharmacy.

If a woman is physically miserable and mentally unhappy, the child she bears will, in face and form, as well as in disposition, reflect her own condition. Every woman who anticipates motherhood ought to think of this and be a fairly good mother to her own child, endowing it with health, beauty, and a happy disposition.

The mental misery of the prospective mother is in general the result of her physical condition. She is nervous, her appetite fails, she cannot sleep. Restore her appetite, quiet her nerves and give her sleep and she becomes a new woman.

"It has made a new woman of me," is the constant testimony of women who have used Dr.
Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite, and induces refreshing sleep. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and cures female weakness.

"During the first month, when I looked forward to maternity, I could not keep anything from my mind," writes Mrs. H. C. Anderson, of South Britain, New Haven Co., Conn. "Was so weak that I went to bed on the 28th of June and never got up till the first of August. I tried different doctors, but with little benefit. I read about many being helped by using your medicine, so I thought I would give it a trial. I began to take your 'Favorite Prescription' in November, and I had a nice little baby girl in January. My baby weighed over eight pounds.
I was only ill for about one hour, and got along nicely during confinement. Was not dressed on the eighth day. I never had the doctor with me at all; just the nurse and one or two friends. I was sick a very short time. This makes my second child.
With the first one I did not take 'Favorite Prescription' until the first of August. I was sick two months, and she was sick all the time. This little baby is as plump and healthy as any mother could wish."

A GOOD COUGH MEDICINE.
From Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia.

I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. WICKHAM. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited, as was Mr. Wickham. This remedy is sold by all druggists.

It is just as easy to take a broad, sane, wholesome view of life as to take an ignoble one.

A NEW REMEDY.

The old friends of Chamberlain's that the manufacturers of that preparation have gotten out a new remedy called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and that it is meeting with much success in the treatment of constipation, biliousness, sick headache, impaired digestion and like disorders. These tablets are easier to take and more pleasant in effect than pills, then they not only move the bowrect any disorders of the stomach and liver. For sale by all druggists.

TO TEST THE BOARD OF HEALTH LAW

Dr. C. H. Conner Who Holds a Diploma from a Reputable Medical College Being Denied License Here Will Make the Fight.

Dr. C. H. Conner, who during the past week was refused a license to practice as a physician in the territory, has gone to Albuquerque to employ counsel to bring mandamus proceedings against the territorial board of health and to compel the board to grant him a license to practice in the territory. Dr. Conner states that he is a regular graduate of Marion Simms' medical college at St. Louis, a reputable medical school, and holds a diploma from it. He is also a graduate of the Kirksville school of osteopathy. He has been licensed and has practiced his profession under the Marion Simms' diploma in Missouri, in Kentucky and in Ohio. For the last few years he has practiced in Cincinnati, where he enjoyed a lucrative practice, but he is compelled to come to New Mexico on account of the condition of his wife's health which demands a high and dry altitude. It is understood that Dr. Conner passed a very creditable examination before the territorial board of health and he claims that he was unjustly denied a certificate and proposes to test the law creating the board of health passed by the 24th legislative assembly. He is a bright young man who evidently has a good knowledge of his profession and who has the pluck to make such a fight. The outcome will be watched with interest by many people who are of the opinion that the present board of health is going too far in its application of the law.

The Small of the Back

That is where some people feel weak all the time.
They are likely to be despondent and it is not unusual to find them borrowing trouble as if they hadn't enough already.

The fact is their kidneys are weak, either naturally or because of sickness, exposure, worry or other influences.

"I am thankful to say," writes J. L. Campbell, of Steamboat, Ill., "that Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me. For many years I was troubled with backache. At times I was so bad I had to be helped from the bed or chair. I am now well and strong and free from pain. What this great medicine did for him it has done for others."

Hood's Sarsaparilla Promises to cure and keeps the promise. Begin treatment with Hood's today.

The Electric Bath. THE ELECTRIC LIGHT BATH is found to be far superior to any mineral spring on earth. Indorsed by all the leading sanitarians in the United States and Europe. The Electric Light or ray bath is nature's own, giving a healthy glow and tan to the skin, that can be acquired in no other way except by exposure to the sun. The electric light is the only light on earth that will impart to plants the life giving qualities that the rays of the sun impart. A perfect delight to take, no trouble to administer. Can be had only while the electric light current is on. Try it and be convinced. The electric bath cures when mineral springs fail. Found in connection with Kerr's Shaving Parlors and bath rooms where everything will be found first class.
